JUVENILE JUSTICE AND DELINQUENCY PREVENTION ACT
AMENDMENTS

NOVEMBER 26, 1985.—Ordered to be printed

Filed under authority of the order of the Senate of November 23 (legislative day, November 18), 1985

Mr. THURMOND, from the Committee on the Judiciary, submitted the following

REPORT

[To accompany S. 1174]

The Committee on the Judiciary, to which was referred the bill (S. 1174), to amend the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act of 1974 to provide States with assistance to establish or expand clearinghouses to locate missing children, having considered the same, reports favorably thereon with amendments and recommends that the bill (as amended) do pass.

PURPOSE

The bill, S. 1174, will authorize the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention to make grants to the States representing up to fifty percent of the cost of establishing (or expanding) and operating a missing children information clearinghouse. The bill requires that the clearinghouse be established within each State's department of justice or department of law enforcement, and requires the clearinghouses to work in cooperation with the National Center on Missing and Exploited Children.

HISTORY

The National Center for Missing and Exploited Children opened in Washington June 13, 1984. This not-for-profit organization serves as a vital link in the fight against the exploitation of children. After a year of operation, the National Center has demonstrated that resources of the kind it provides, and prompt access to them, are the keys to solving the problem of missing children. For all its good work, it is clear that there must be improvements in the communication between all levels of law enforcement, both National and State agencies, if governmental efforts are to be successful. Local and State law enforcement agencies need to be better equipped and trained so as to be effective in their efforts.

To remedy this problem, on May 21, 1985, Senator Mitch McConnell (R-Ky.) introduced S. 1174 which would grant to each State fifty percent of the cost of establishing and expanding a clearinghouse for the purpose of locating missing children. Senator McConnell said:

I am convinced that if our efforts to locate missing children are to be successful, information clearinghouses like those in Kentucky and Florida must be integral components of the national network. For that to happen—and happen now—a modest Federal program such as that proposed with this bill must be implemented.

[131 Congressional Record S6619 (Daily Ed. May 21, 1985) (Statement by Senator Mitch McConnell).]

On August 21, 1985, the Subcommittee on Juvenile Justice held a field hearing in Lexington, Kentucky. Senator McConnell acted as Chairman. The Subcommittee received testimony from Senator Wendell H. Ford (D-Ky.) and representatives of the Kentucky Alliance for Exploited and Missing Children, the Louisville and Jefferson County Exploited and Missing Child Unit, the Louisville, Kentucky YMCA Shelter House, and the Kentucky State Police Missing Child Information Center. The testimony received, which is available as a separate Senate document, confirmed the need for state clearinghouses on a nationwide basis.

STATEMENT

State and local law enforcement agencies serve as the initial contact for parents or guardians of a missing child. Their enhanced access to computers and data accumulated in missing children files will aid in the success of their efforts.

S. 1174 amends Title IV of the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act of 1974—the Missing Children's Assistance Act—and authorizes the allocation to the Administrator of $2,000,000 for fiscal year 1986 and $2,000,000 for fiscal year 1987. The Judiciary Committee does not intend that S. 1174 should authorize any additional budget authority for fiscal year 1986, other than that already available to the Federal agency affected by this legislation. For that reason, no budget waiver resolution that might otherwise have been called for by section 402(c) of the Budget and Impoundment Control Act of 1974 was reported. Rather, the Committee intends that any additional cost in fiscal year 1986 caused by S. 1174 will be absorbed from unobligated balances from the fiscal year 1985 appropriation to the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention.

COMMITTEE VOTE

On November 21, 1975, with a quorum present, by voice vote and without objection heard, the Committee ordered S. 1174 favorably reported with amendments.

COMMITTEE AMENDMENTS AND EXPLANATION

Senator McConnell offered technical and perfecting amendments in Committee. The changes in the bill were made in part in response to requests by the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children and the Office of Justice Programs.

The changes in the measure are as follows:

On page 4, line 24, after "Center" the following language was inserted: "by requiring local law enforcement agencies to enter promptly information on a missing child into the information systems of such Center and to expunge such information when the child is found or reaches the age of majority.";

On page 5, line 11, the words "private voluntary organizations," were inserted after the word "as".

On page 7, line 2, the word "appropriated" was stricken and the word "allocated" was inserted in lieu thereof.

On page 7, after line 8, the following language was added:

EFFECTIVE DATE

SEC. 2 This Act and the amendments made by this Act shall become effective on the date of enactment and shall be effective until the end of fiscal year 1987, at which time this Act and the amendments made by this Act shall be repealed.

The changes on page 4 ensure continued cooperation and communication between State and Federal agencies involved in the efforts to locate missing children. The Federal Bureau of Investigation's National Crime Information Center Missing Person File is presently open to law enforcement officers across the country who may access, enter, and delete information as needed. This amendment requires local and State agencies to make prompt contact with the National Crime Information Center and to enter or delete information as needed. It is not the Committee's intent with this provision to impede the Federal Bureau of Investigation's ability to cross-reference entries in connection with its unidentified dead file by requiring State or local law enforcement agencies to expunge records from the NCIC system before the subject has been found.

The change on page 5 simply brings the bill into line with the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention's emphasis on private sector involvement in juvenile issues.

The change on page 7, line 2, makes it clear that it is not the intent of the Committee with this bill to appropriate new funds for fiscal year 1986 and fiscal year 1987.

The change on page 7, after line 8, provides a "sunset" clause and ensures that this bill will not need to be funded beyond fiscal year 1987.

SECTION-BY-SECTION ANALYSIS

Section 421. Section 421 expresses the Congressional findings regarding the need for State clearinghouses on a nationwide basis. The section notes that State and local law enforcement agencies are vitally important in the safe and prompt return of missing children, and that, among other things, such agencies have access to computers that can aid in locating a missing child, have at their disposal an advanced telecommunications system for working with other law enforcement agencies, and can work directly with the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children in the effort to return missing children to their homes.

In addition, Section 421 notes that State clearinghouses will aid in the dissemination of information regarding the prompt recovery of missing children, and that Federal assistance is needed to help initiate State clearinghouses.

Section 422. Section 422 establishes a program of matching grants, providing up to fifty percent of the cost of establishing and operating, or operating and expanding, a missing children information clearinghouse. The maximum amount of a grant to a State in any fiscal year is established at $75,000. The section further provides that grants shall be made under such terms and conditions as the Administrator of the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention (the "Administrator") may prescribe.

Section 423. Section 423(a) requires each State which desires to receive a grant for a fiscal year to submit an application to the Administrator. The Administrator is permitted to require, as a condition of receiving a grant, such information and assurances as he may deem necessary, but is required to approve an application if the application satisfies the criteria set forth in Section 423(b).

Section 423(b) requires that any State that seeks a grant shall:

(1) agree to provide for the establishment and operation, or operation and expansion, of a missing children information clearinghouse within its department of justice or department of law enforcement,

(2) determine the cost of the establishment and operation, or operation and expansion, of its clearinghouse, and provide assurances that the State will pay at least fifty percent of the cost, in cash or in kind, of the clearinghouse, and

(3) agree to submit to the Administrator, within six months after receipt of a grant, a status report on the State's clearinghouse.

This section requires that the clearinghouse established, or expanded and operated with a grant will: work in conjunction with the National Crime Information Center; educate parents, children and various agencies in ways to prevent the abduction and exploitation of children; provide public information to assist in locating and returning missing children; publish a directory of other organizations that assist in locating missing children; establish a toll-free telephone line to assist in locating and returning missing children; cooperate with public and private organizations; and, work with the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children.

Section 424. Section 424 permits the Administrator to prescribe such rules as he considers necessary or appropriate to carry out the purposes of the bill. It also requires that he allocate such staff and agency resources as are adequate to properly carry out the Administrator's responsibilities under the bill.

The Administrator is permitted to withhold payments to any State under Section 423, if, after reasonable notice and an opportunity for a hearing, he finds that the State has failed to comply substantially with the requirements of Section 423.

The Comptroller General of the United States is granted access to the books and records of any State receiving assistance under the program established by the bill, for the purpose of auditing and examining the records to determine compliance with the requirements of the law.

Section 425. Section 425 makes it clear that no new appropriations are anticipated by the Committee with respect to this act. The section declares that there are authorized to be allocated for grants under section 422 $2,000,000 in both fiscal year 1986 and 1987. The Committee intends that such allocations will be made out of currently available funds from unobligated balances of appropriations to the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention for fiscal year 1985.

Section 426. Section 426 declares that for purposes of the bill, the term "state" shall mean any State of the United States, the District of Columbia, and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

COST OF LEGISLATION

In compliance with paragraph 11(a), Rule XXVI of the Standing Rules of the Senate, the Committee estimates that enactment of this legislation will involve direct additional expenditure to the Federal Government. The Committee notes the following letter from the Congressional Budget Office:

U.S. CONGRESS,
CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE,
Washington, DC, November 22, 1985.

Hon. STROM THURMOND,
Chairman, Committee on the Judiciary, U.S. Senate, 224 Dirksen Senate Office Building, Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: The Congressional Budget Office has prepared the attached cost estimate for S. 1174, a bill to amend the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act of 1974 to provide states with assistance to establish or expand clearinghouses to locate missing children.

If you wish further details on this estimate, we will be pleased to provide them.

With best wishes,
Sincerely,

RUDOLPH G. PENNER, Director.

CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE—COST ESTIMATE

NOVEMBER 22, 1985.

1. Bill number: S. 1174.

2. Bill title: A bill to amend the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act of 1974 to provide states with assistance to establish or expand clearinghouses to locate missing children.

3. Bill status: As ordered reported by the Senate Committee on the Judiciary, November 21, 1985.

4. Bill purpose: This bill directs the Administrator of the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Protection (OJJDP) to make grants to states for the purpose of establishing and operating clearinghouses for missing children information.

5. Estimated cost to the Federal Government:

[By fiscal years, in millions of dollars]

	1986	1987	1988	1989	1990
Estimated authorization level
Estimated outlays	(1)	2
	(1)	2

<sup>1</sup> The bill provides for $2 million in grants to states to be made available in fiscal year 1986, but the bill does not authorize any additional appropriations for that purpose. There are funds already appropriated to the OJJDP that could be used for this program in 1986, and the committee has indicated that that is its intent.

The costs of this bill fall within budget function 750.

Basis of Estimate: This bill authorizes the allocation of $2 million in each of the fiscal years 1986 and 1987 for grants to states. For fiscal 1986, it is assumed that these funds will come from monies previously appropriated to the OJJDP. For fiscal year 1987, there are no existing appropriations and it is assumed that the appropriations for that year would encompass this grant program.

6. Estimated cost to State and local governments: The bill specifies that the maximum amount of a grant to any state in each fiscal year will be 50 percent of the total cost of the state of establishing and operating a missing children information clearinghouse, but in no event more than $75,000. Thus, in each of the years 1986 and 1987 the total state matching share would be at least $2 million, if states make use of all the grant funds.

7. Estimate comparison: None.

8. Previous CBO estimate: None.

9. Estimate prepared by: Debra Goldberg.

10. Estimate approved by: C.G. Nuckols, for James L. Blum, Assistant Director (for Budget Analysis).

REGULATORY IMPACT

In compliance with paragraph 11(b), rule XXVI of the Standing Rules of the Senate, the Committee has concluded that this legislation does not create any new regulations with which the public must comply.

CHANGES IN EXISTING LAW

In compliance with paragraph 12, rule XXVI of the Standing Rules of the Senate, changes in the existing law made by S. 1174, as reported, are shown as follows (new matter is printed in italic, existing law in which no change is shown in roman, and material to be deleted is shown in brackets).

"DEFINITIONS

SEC. [403] 402. For the purpose of this title—

(1) the term 'missing child' means any individual less than 18 years of age whose whereabouts are unknown to such individual's legal custodian if—

"(A) the circumstances surrounding such individual's disappearance indicate that such individual may possibly have been removed by another from the control of such individual's legal custodian without such custodian's consent; or

"(B) the circumstances of the case strongly indicate that such individual is likely to be abused or sexually exploited; and

"(2) the term 'Administrator' means the Administrator of the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention.

"(7) on frequent occasions, law enforcement authorities quickly exhaust all leads in missing children cases, and require assistance from distant communities where the child may be located; and

"(8) Federal assistance is urgently needed to coordinate and assist in this interstate problem.

"(1) establish and operate a national toll-free telephone line by which individuals may report information regarding the location of any missing child, or other child 13 years of age or younger whose whereabouts are unknown to such child's legal custodian, and request information pertaining to procedures necessary to reunite such child with such child's legal custodian;

"(2) establish and operate a national resource center and clearinghouse designed—

"(A) to provide technical assistance to local and State governments, public and private nonprofit agencies, and individuals in locating and recovering missing children;

"(C) to disseminate nationally information about innovative and model missing childrens' programs, services, and legislation; and

"(D) to provide technical assistance to law enforcement agencies, State and local governments, elements of the criminal justice system, public and private nonprofit agencies, and individuals in the prevention, investigation, prosecution, and treatment of the missing and exploited child case; and
