Preface

The intent of this publication is to provide adult education instructors with information on the numerous tests and measurement instruments which are currently available.

In determining the tests which are placed in this book we attempted to be quite thorough. Communication was initiated with approximately 350 adult education teachers in Pennsylvania and others throughout the country. We ask that they make suggestions of tests which they felt were useful and effective in their respective instructional settings. This produced a list of tests which were then sent to all the state directors of adult education and various other state and federal agencies with a request that they make additional recommendations. After receiving their response we corresponded with the publishers and suppliers of the test instruments. Some of the tests recommended were no longer in print or were unavailable from the distributors. Some publishers did not respond to our request and some tests are currently under revision. This is not intended to be a complete listing of all adult education tests but represents a conscientious effort to be comprehensive.

The resulting information represents a summary of information of many tests. For most of the tests we give the following information: test title, purpose of test, test description, type of test, grade level range, subject area, time for administration, number of items, number of forms, scoring, date of publication, cost of materials and publisher's name address and phone number.

We feel that our booklet will provide the adult education practitioner with a good base of information which will enable them to efficiently determine and select the appropriate instrument for their specific situation.

The table of contents displays the tests by type of test. In cases where a test might fall in more than one category we have placed a description of that test in each area. The index lists all of the tests in an alphabetical fashion.

We hope that our booklet will become a useful and helpful tool of the adult education community.
