A guide to designing a curriculum in English as a second language (ESL) for adult, preliterate, limited-English-speaking refugees gives some general suggestions for teaching this group and outlines curricula for three levels of proficiency. Each lesson lists specific objectives, functions, activities, topics, expressions, structures, resources, and methods or techniques to be used. Lesson topics include social exchanges, personal information, letters and words, numbers and computation, the calendar, time, classroom and household objects, health, weather, money, emergency assistance, family, occupations, shopping for food and clothing, maps and directions, timetables, reading and writing messages, the use of sequencing on the job, finding out about a job, small talk, telephone skills, interview skills, making mistakes on the job, following instructions and asking for clarification on the job, work policies, reporting problems on the job, safety, reading bills and writing checks, driving and directions, and literacy skills. A bibliography is included. (MSE)

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

In writing this curriculum, we drew not only upon our own experiences as classroom teachers, but also upon those experiences and techniques shared with us by our colleagues over the years. We wish to express our appreciation especially to: Rachel Hidaka, Sarah Hogan, and all the Adult Refugee Project ESL Faculty at Seattle Central Community College.

Introduction

Teaching preliterate non-native speakers of English is one of the most challenging areas of second language education today. This curriculum was designed to provide instructors guidance in preparing syllabi and lesson plans. Instructional plans developed from this curriculum will assist the students in acquiring the practical oral and written communication skills needed to begin to climb the ladder toward self-sufficiency.

The Adult Refugee Preliterate ESL Curriculum uses a communicative functional framework based on the level and benchmarks described in the Washington State Adult Refugee ESL Master Plan. In fact, the terminal competency objectives for each unit are the benchmarks. Along with the competency objectives, suggested functions, topics, structures, and expressions have been provided. These are only suggestions. Teachers do not need to cover all the topics or teach all of the structures within a unit. All functions, topics, structures, and expressions are recycled in different degrees throughout the curriculum.

Also, since texts and materials are extremely limited for these students, activities, resources, and methods/techniques have been added. Remember that in many cases this is their first formal educational experience. The key to success is getting the students totally involved, i.e., physically, emotionally, and mentally, in acquiring the language. To do this:

1. Provide the students with a variety of exercises: individual, pair, or group.

2. Keep the student moving, using combinations of seat work, blackboard work, mini-field trips (e.g., walking around the school looking at signs or going to the pay phones), role plays, and games.

3. Go beyond the suggested activities and materials, create your own materials which guarantee relevancy to your students' needs.
4. Use student-generated materials which guarantee their involvement (e.g., when teaching about fruits and vegetables, ask the students what they buy. When teaching about the family, use family members in the class or family photos. Whenever possible, use language experience stories.).

In creating materials, use the suggested texts primarily for ideas and a framework for your activities. Use pictures from magazines, simple drawings, personal photographs, realia such as food and medicine containers, clothes, dolls, kitchen utensils, or tools. (Students can provide these items, as well as you.) Further, design student worksheets based on what you know the students know.

Finally, in preparing the lessons, consider that this may be the students' first "classroom" experience. Students probably do not know your expectations, so communicate these ideas as clearly as possible. (If available, use a bilingual aide or a more experienced/higher level student.) Also, it is appropriate to teach standard classroom behaviors, e.g., being on time, focusing on classroom activities, and remaining for the whole period. Further, in designing an activity, break the task down into its simplest steps and do not be afraid to repeat and recycle the material often. You may be bored, but the students are still in the process of acquiring the information.
Social Exchanges

OBJECTIVES

O/A 1 Exchange simple, common expressions of greeting and leave-taking
O/A 17 Indicate lack of understanding or need for repetition

FUNCTIONS

Give and respond to simple greetings
Express lack of understanding
Ask someone to speak slowly
Ask someone to repeat
Repeat something when asked
Ask the meaning of something written in English
Give and respond to leave-takings

ACTIVITIES

Create need which requires students to respond: give a greeting as a student arrives or leaves; ask someone to repeat; give directions too fast
Create simple dialogs and/or role plays: greetings with a handshake, brief exchange (How are you?); and then farewell with a wave
Students stand in two rows facing each other. Each one greets and shakes hands with student he/she is facing. The line moves so each student shakes hands with every student.

TOPICS

Employment: greeting a co-worker or supervisor;
School: greeting another student or teacher, asking for help on an assignment by indicating lack of understanding;
Health: asking for instructions or health information to be repeated

EXPRESSIONS

Greetings: Hello, hi, good morning, afternoon, evening; How are you?
Fine. Good bye. See you later.
Clarification: I don't understand. Please repeat. Please speak slowly. What's this?

STRUCTURES

Wh-Questions: what, how, where

Personal Information

OBJECTIVES

0/A 1 Make statements and ask questions related to personal and family information
0/A 23 Pronounce, spell, and recognize the oral spelling of personal and family name
L 4 Recognize and write basic personal and family information

FUNCTIONS

Ask and respond to basic questions regarding personal and family information
Indicate which of own names are first, middle, and last
Say and spell name of self and family members
Respond to spelling of name
Read and write personal and family information

ACTIVITIES

Teacher dictates letters and numbers. Students write at board.

Say and spell classmates' names orally for recognition.

Teacher spells names for roll call.

Break down names, address, and so on into smaller parts. Students unscramble these parts to correct sequence on sticky board.

Say and spell classmates' names orally for recognition.

Students and teachers bring photographs of families. Identify family members. Print their names on labels.

Students draw pictures of themselves and their families. Label pictures with family members' names.

Teacher takes photographs of students, writes up a language experience story for each student, including age, ethnic group, family members, and so on.

Students fill in simplified personal information forms.

Students give personal and family information orally, or show ID with personal information. (Make sure students carry ID, original or copy, at all times.)

Role play (You may want to use a student from a higher level, a volunteer, or an aide to ask the questions.)

TOPIC

Employment: during a job counseling appointment;
School: at registration, talking with other students;
Health: in a medical office filling out a health history (with bilingual assistance), giving basic personal and family information in a doctor's office at the hospital

Letters and Words

OBJECTIVES

0. A 4 Identify and state the names of the letters of the alphabet

L 2 Read, write, and sequence the letters of the alphabet in upper and lower cases

L 10 Produce the sound of the individual consonants when visually represented in initial, medial, and final positions

L 5 Names and print the letter commonly associated with the sound of a consonant (C) appearing in initial, medial, or final positions

L 11 Produce the sound of the short vowels (V) when visually represented in initial, medial, and final positions

L 9 Name and print the letter commonly associated with the sound of a short vowel (V) appearing in initial, medial, and final position

L 3 Read and explain basic sight words, sign words, and/or symbols

FUNCTIONS

Recognize, produce, and sequence the upper, lower cases of the alphabet
Recognize and produce in oral and written forms the correspondence between the sound consonants and the letters
Recognize and produce in oral and written forms the correspondence between the sound of the short vowels and the letters
Recognize and spell sight words related to Preliterate 1 objectives
Apply phonics to read phonetically spelled vocabulary related to P1 objectives

ACTIVITIES

Trace letters in air to practice correct letter formation
Trace-copy-write to practice of the letters. Begin at blackboard, then move to worksheets.
Introduce consonants one at a time with pictures of objects beginning with that letter
Pair short vowels with single consonant for phonics work
Stand up/sit down game to indicate sound recognition in words (i.e., After learning sound, the teacher gives words. Students stand if word doesn’t.)
Use flashcards to introduce sight words.

TOPICS

Employment, School, Community: Fill out simple forms

STRUCTURES
METHODS / TECHNIQUES

Trace-copy-write, Dictation, Flashcards, Worksheets, Blackboard Work, Games

Use alphabet cards for upper and lower case letters: letter recognition, matching, and sequencing

Alphabet bingo; Sight word bingo/concentration

Students practice spelling and writing their names using upper and lower case letters

Students practice reading and writing their addresses

EXPRESSIONS

Sight words: entrance, exit, open, closed, pull, push, slide, restrooms, men, women, walk, stop, don't walk, do not enter, no smoking, poison and related symbols; name, address, street, city, state, zip code, telephone number, social security number, and other vocabulary found on simple forms

Numbers and Computation

OBJECTIVES

O/A 3 Identify and state the names of cardinal numbers from 0-100
L 1 Read, write, and sequence the cardinal numbers from 0-100
L 12 Compute up to two-digit addition and subtraction problems

FUNCTIONS

Identify and name the cardinal numbers from 0-100
Recognize digital representations
Read and state address, telephone number, social security number, age, alien number, page numbers
Write address, telephone number, social security numbers, age, alien number
Add and subtract in one and two digit problems (prerequisite to giving change and handling money)

ACTIVITIES

Practice counting classroom objects and other nouns already learned (lima beans can also be used)
Use number cards to learn number recognition
On board or dittos, students circle numbers to show recognition
In small groups or pairs practice sequencing numbers on sticky boards or using flashcards
Class oral counting exercises: first student "1", second "2" up to 100
Trace-copy-write to practice numbers; begin at blackboard, then on worksheets
Practice using numbers with student information: address, phone, social security number, and so on Team relay at board. Teacher dictates.
Number bingo
Students have flashcards with numbers. Teacher calls out number. Student holds up card, then passes it to another student
Worksheets with one and two digit addition and subtraction problems

EXPRESSIONS

Add, plus (+), subtract, minus (-), equals (=); cardinal numbers 0-100

Name the days
Read the days and their abbreviations
Write the names and abbreviations of the days
Ask and answer questions about days

ACTIVITIES
Use flashcards to learn word recognition
Practice writing at blackboard, then use worksheets
Use sticky board with alphabet cards to practice spelling
Use sticky board to sequence days, match with abbreviations
With blank calendar, students write in days of the week
Blackboard dictation
Students stand in correct order holding flashcards
Students give days orally in correct one day per student
Students discuss daily activities -- using days of the week

TOPICS

FUNCTIONS
Ask and answer basic questions about time
Read and write digital time on hour, half hour, and quarter hour (6:15)
Read any digital time (9:38)
Write digital times

TOPICS
Employment: schedule for work, beginning and ending shifts, lunch and coffee breaks; School: being on time to class, taking breaks; Health: setting appointment times, getting to appointment on time

ACTIVITIES
Dictations to practice writing time: Students dictate to each other.
Teach relay at board; Teacher dictates. Students write.

Discuss daily routine using time.

Students complete simple schedule of daily activities using time. Use pictures for activities, students write times next to pictures (Get bus: 5:30; Start School: 6:00)

Make clock worksheets for students to practice with

Teacher or student uses digital clocks to review time. (Most digital clock—radios have a button that enables you to change times quickly and easily.) Students work in small groups with one clock per group.

OBJECTIVES

0/A 18 Identify and inquire about classroom objects
* Identify and inquire about household objects
* Identify and name rooms in a house
0/A 10 Identify and name basic colors
0/A 11 Identify and name basic sizes
0/A 22 Identify and name basic shapes
0/A 5 Follow one-step directions and commands

* These objectives do not appear in the Washington State Adult Refugee Project ESL Master Plan (September, 1985).

FUNCTIONS

Identify and ask about common household furniture, appliances, rooms
Identify and ask about classroom furniture and equipment
Ask and answer questions using colors, size and shape
Follow one-step directions or commands

TOPICS

House: describe house or apartment; describe item stolen (burglary)
Shopping: choose furniture, school supplies, household objects
School: identify classroom objects

ACTIVITIES

Manipulation of objects: listen and repeat
Total Physical Response with realia to practice directions and commands
Do coloring exercise worksheets to practice directions, colors, and identifications
Color/Shape Bingo
Student 1 leaves room, others decide on an object. Student asks questions to identify object.
“Simon says” using commands: teacher or student leads.
Students draw shapes on blackboard or on paper following teacher's directions. (e.g., "Draw a long line. Write the number 2 under the line.")
Students draw rooms of their own house or apartment. Teacher helps to label.
Language Experience Story: Have students describe shape and furniture of home in native country as well as in the U.S. Write story on board or ditto for reading practice.
METHODS / TECHNIQUES

Total Physical Response, Coloring, Audio Lingual Method, Language Experience, Games

Mystery Grab Bag: Put objects in bag. Student puts hand in, tries to describe, and identify without seeing the object.

Write simple dialogs for shopping.

Roleplay: simple shopping trips

EXPRESSIONS

Prepositions: in, on

METHODS/TECHNIQUES

Oral drills, total physical response, dictation, pair work

ACTIVITIES

Circle drill: each student names one month in sequence, continue around class.

Students sequence month flash cards (individuals, pairs, or small groups).

Teacher selects one student to represent each month. Student stand in correct sequence and name months. Seated students can also name months. Students can be grouped into seasons (e.g., March + April + May = Spring).

Match months with abbreviations on sticky board.

Fill in calendar of current month with date (practice ordinal numbers). Tell students to “Circle May 5th. Underline May 15th.”

Associate numbers with months (1 = Jan.). Write dates using number, e.g., 5-15-85.

Learn dates of traditional American holidays and students’ ethnic or country holidays.

Talk about seasons and weather in homeland and different parts of the U.S.

Concentration: months and abbreviations or months and numbers

OBJECTIVES
0/A 1 Identify situation where apologies and thanks are appropriate and provide appropriate responses
0/A 5 Ask and respond to "or" questions indicating "likes" or "dislikes"

FUNCTIONS
Ask for assistance and express appreciation
Extend apologies
Ask and respond to Or-Questions
State likes and dislikes

TOPICS
Employment or School: asking for help finishing an assignment, fixing a machine; apologizing for being late or absent or not doing an assignment correctly; House: liking or disliking food, breaking an object or a machine; Shopping: accidentally bumping someone, not liking furniture, clothes, price

STRUCTURES
Wh-Questions

Tense: simple present, present continuous

METHODS/TECHNIQUES
Dialog, role play

ACTIVITIES
With pictures, elicit dialogs offering thanks, apologizing, or telling likes and dislikes

Students look through magazines and find pictures of things they like. Teacher provides vocabulary when necessary.

Students make picture dictionary using pictures they have selected

Teacher uses apologies and thanks whenever appropriate in classroom. Point out situations where students need to apologize or express thanks. (For example, have students apologize if they are late to class, thank other students who give them things.)

Role play situations where apologies and thanks are appropriate (bumping into someone on the bus, accepting a cup of tea.)

ACTIVITIES
Elicit names of jobs that students have had in the past or hope to have in the future.
20 Questions: asking about occupations
Charades: Students act out occupation; others guess.
Use flashcards with pictures of people in various jobs using different tools
Students draw pictures of themselves doing current or past jobs: discuss and label jobs and tools
Students draw pictures of occupations in native countries: discuss and label jobs and tools
TPR with tools: Give me the hammer. Measure the table. Thread the needle.

0/A 12 Make statements and ask questions about clothing
0/A 16 Identify and use common measurements of weight and volume
L 12 Read and write common abbreviations for measurements of weight and volume

FUNCTIONS

State basic food needs
Ask for price of food
Ask for food using common weights and measures
State basic clothing needs
Ask for price of clothing
Request size and color in simple terms
Differentiate between sizes and weights by reading labels and tags
Identify abbreviations for measurements

ACTIVITIES

Students buy and sell in play store
Students make lemonade to practice measurements
Total Physical Response activity with real clothing: "Put on the jacket. Give me the blue shirt."
Take students on field trips to nearby supermarket, department store, open market. Identify food items, look at prices and measurements (weigh vegetables, point out a quart, a gallon, a dozen....) Ask students to locate and price particular items of clothing, find appropriate sizes, look at contents and care labels. Depending on class abilities give them exercise sheets to fill out with prices, locations, and so on of certain merchandise.

Teachers and students discuss questions: What do you find in different sections of grocery store (e.g., carrots in produce, milk in dairy, and so on)

Students make grocery lists.

Set up sample stores: role play parts of customer and clerk: make purchases, exchange items, incorrect change.

Review: Where can you buy a/an _ (dryer, jacket, and so on)?
Practice weight and volume measurements in class with a borrowed commercial scale (not a bathroom scale) and empty containers.

Practice measurements: by making/baking a dish (rice pudding, cookies).

METHODS/TECHNIQUES

Information gapping, total physical response, dictation

ACTIVITIES

Discuss maps and show directions

Information gapping: Students work in pairs; both have maps which cannot be seen by the other. Student 1's map is detailed; Student 2's map is missing information. Student 1 provides the information to fill in Student 2's map.

Using real city maps, students learn what colors and lines mean, sections of the city, compass directions important landmarks, and so on.

Students follow directions given by teacher by tracing route on map with finger or pencil.

Total Physical Response: Go straight. Turn Right......

Draw simple street maps on board, students follow using chalk. Other students can follow on paper at their seats.

Written activities: Teacher instructs students at blackboard. "Draw a circle. Write a number 1 inside the circle. Write a number 2 below the circle," and so on. (Reinforce with individual work on paper.)

Measure things in classroom with yardstick or tape measure. Measure students' height.

Follow instructions for taking medication

*These objectives are an extension of P 1: O/A 8. They do not appear in the Washington State Adult Refugee Project ESL Master Plan (September, 1985).

FUNCTIONS

Ask for and give information about health history or illness
Ask and respond to questions about health problems/illness
Describe symptoms
Ask what the doctor, the nurse, or the dentist is doing
Read generic names of common non-necessary prescription drugs

ACTIVITIES

Role play giving health information in emergency or doctor or dentist's office
Role play a visit to the doctor's office. Have teacher, aide, or higher level student play doctor or nurse. Use script/short dialog if Total Physical Response: Students follow simple instructions during a medical exam (i.e. Open your mouth). Use a doll for instructions that are not appropriate in class.
Total Physical Response: Students follow instructions on medication
Students work with fake pills (raisins, bread, and so on) to demonstrate understanding of oral directions, given by teacher.

Tenses: simple present, simple past, future (going to)
Possessive adjectives
Coordinating conjunctions: and, but
Prepositions: destination, position, time

METHODS / TECHNIQUES
Written dialogs, language experience, cloze passages, substitution drills, scrambled stories, journal's, role play

ACTIVITIES
Use stories students can read (e.g., student generated material or books such as The New Arrival (Alemany Press) or Personal Stories (Linmore Publishing).

Students complete simple cloze passages, substitution drills, scrambled sentences, etc.) in order to write sentences about themselves

Students copy down notices they see in their environment and bring in for discussion

Bring in notices from school. Have students identify key phrases: permission, field trip, call, appointment, and so on.

Role play situations where students need to write simple notices at work (Out to Lunch. Back in 5 minutes)

Role play taking simple telephone messages. One student calls another who listens to message for student 3 and writes down basic information (Call Karen back. John called at 1:00) Put examples on board for discussion.

Students keep journals in English with whatever they want to write. Teacher reads and writes back.

On the Job: Sequencing

OBJECTIVES:
L 3 Sequence and sort alphabetically and numerically.
L 11 Obtain information from directories (e.g., yellow, white, and/or blue pages).

FUNCTIONS
Determine how to sequence: alphabetically or numerically
State reason for sequencing:
  a. letters: names, city, zip code
  b. product parts: coding
  c. telephone numbers on bills
  d. phone book: names or services
Sort and sequence mail
Find information in a phone book

ACTIVITIES
Work in small groups: put own names in alphabetical order
Work in small groups: put list of unfamiliar names in order (teacher provided list)
Students given envelopes or files told to sort by name, address, or number
Students asked to locate information in the telephone book (This activity should be simplified to accommodate the level of the students, i.e., show students emergency number listings, use one page of the telephone book to find services or names)
Use a book for a scavenger exercise: have students find pages, titles, or pictures. Use index.

TOPICS

L 1 Read and write simple sentences

FUNCTIONS
Initiate and respond to small talk
Exchange greetings
Ask and respond to questions about weather, sports, weekend activities, or family
Give a compliment or make a criticism
Respond to a compliment or criticism
Close conversation

ACTIVITIES
Short dialog on board using vocabulary that the students have mastered (e.g., Hi, how are you? Do you like this rain?) Students read, verbally respond, and copy. Eventually students write their own short dialogs on blackboard.

TOPICS
Employment: talking to co-worker or supervisor about weather, weekend, family, sports; School: talking to classmate or teacher about weather, weekend, family or sports

ACTIVITIES
Set up situations in which students will need to make an exchange (i.e. on the job, in the classroom)

ACTIVITIES

Discuss situations when students are asked to give information over the phone

Class dictates dialog between - prospective employee and employer. Teacher writes it on the board and then class discusses appropriateness of exchanges. Can be done with other appointments (i.e. doctor).

Students work in pairs, construct, and practice dialogs. Students can role play dialogs for class.

Role play: Teacher, as an employer or secretary, calls to leave appointment information. Student writes down important information. Teacher checks for accuracy. (If available, use teletrainers or toy phones.)

Teacher brings in tape recorded messages about jobs. Students listen and extract job data.

Students telephone employment or other agencies which have taped messages. Students take notes and report back to class with details.

EXPRESSIONS

Making an appointment: I would like to talk to.... I would like to make an appointment with.... May I talk to.... Could / May I leave a message for...? General: Hold, please. I appreciate it. Excuse me.

FUNCTIONS

Request help when stuck or a mistake has been made
Explain mistakes
Clarify directions from supervisor

TOPICS

Employment: mistake on the job;
School: mistake or problem with class work or training program;
Community: error at case service office

ACTIVITIES

Complete a list of mistakes that students have had at work. Choose a few to work on in class.

Simulate situations where an employee makes a mistake. Students watch and discuss language used to ask for help or explain a mistake. Notice supervisor reactions and employee expressions

Use Cuisenaire rods to practice comparison adjectives or adverbs

Three to five students stand in front of class. Other students compare: Karen is taller than Becky. He is older than she is.

Role play making mistakes, asking for help, and/or explaining why the mistakes were made

EXPRESSIONS

It should be ___-er. It's ___-er than that. It's more difficult.
Repeat that more carefully. Should it be ___-er? Is this ___-er now?

ACTIVITIES
Teach: first, second, next, then, etc. with an activity (i.e., making a sandwich)

Teach and practice a 5-step task with the whole class. Then class dictates it as teacher writes. Go over directions in written form. Next day, give them variations of the task in written form and ask them to perform new tasks.

Simulate situation (tape, role play) where one person gives instructions to another. Demonstrate questions used to clarify instructions.

Use pictures that illustrate a 3-5 step sequence. Go over verbally. Next go over in written form with pictures. Finally, go over with only written directions.

Match one row of a 3 to 5 step procedure in pictures to another row in written form.

To practice questions of clarification have students listen and write a series of 3 to 5 telephone numbers. Teacher deliberately mumbles to speak too fast to elicit questions such as, "Did you say...? Can you repeat that? Again, please."
EXPRESSIONS

On the Job: Work Policies

OBJECTIVES
L 7 Read and interpret work schedules and simple rules

FUNCTIONS
Read and interpret schedules and simple rules
Identify schedules and rules
Identify important information (time, date, place, king of rule: safety, health, policy)

TOPICS
Employment: work schedules, personnel policies (i.e. calling in sick), safety rules;
School: class schedules, fire safety rules;
Transportation: bus schedules;
Community: movie schedules

STRUCTURES
Imperatives: affirmative, negative
Adverbs: frequency (never, always)

METHODS / TECHNIQUES
Dialogs, role plays, total physical response, language experience approach

ACTIVITIES
Make simple work schedule that resemble those of the students.
Discuss. Ask questions of clarification

Use language experience approach: Have student explain work schedule
Write in schedule form on board. Use as basis for lesson.

Ask students to copy list of rules posted at school, workplace, and so on. Use list to teach specific rules as they apply or choose more general ones from the lists.

Compare different kinds of schedules (day, swing, night).

Role Play: Post a list of simple rules and ask some students to break them. Other students need to notice this and ask them to obey the rules by telling them what they are doing wrong.

OBJECTIVES

0/A 4 Explain a simple problem

0/A 12 Use the present perfect tense to report that something has happened: job progress or an accident

0/A 13 Express dissatisfaction using appropriate channels at work.

FUNCTIONS

Inform proper authorities of an incident or problem
Give descriptive report
Express feelings, if appropriate

ACTIVITIES

Elicit list of accidents or problems that occur on the job
Generate necessary vocabulary.
Set up practice situations.

Have students watch/listen to a tape of an accident report.
Then have students describe accident and determine fault.
Have students role play report to supervisor.

Elicit list of complaints from students' lives. Talk about proper channels to address for each complaint. Select for class work a few of the problems.

Simulate a situation in which an employee complains to another co-worker or the supervisor.
Demonstrate language, facial expressions, and other body language. Provide students with and role play opportunities

Use videos or audio tapes which demonstrate how to bring up a problem. Practice body language, key phrases, intonation.

Give situations in which students can create dialogs and role plays to practice making and responding to complaints and/or explaining a problem.

TOPICS

Employment: accident or emergency, complaint about job or co-worker;
School: accident, complaint about teacher, text, lack of homework, classroom size (too many students/too small);
Community: problem with caseworker
House: long overdue repairs

STRUCTURES

Tense: present perfect, simple past
Conjunctions: but

METHODS / TECHNIQUES

Dialogs, role plays, use videos for observation and discussion, especially body language.
EXPRESSIONS

Warn other people
Read and explain warning, if necessary and respond to directions

TOPICS

Employment: hair/hand in machine, restricted area, something is going to fall;
House: overloaded socket, misplaced heater, child too near stairs or stove;
School: misplaced chair, trip on objects on floor.

STRUCTURES

Imperatives: affirmative, negatives
Tenses: present, present continuous, present perfect, past

ACTIVITIES

One student leaves classroom and is blindfolded. Simulate hazardous environment in situations give classroom (e.g., bucket of water, rearrange desks and chairs, eggs on floor, boxes stacked precariously). Blindfolded student returns. Other students direct him/her using warnings.

Role play dangerous situations (e.g., warn someone who is standing in water and plugging in electrical appliance; who is entering a restricted area; who has overloaded an electrical socket; who is going to get burned)

Use pictures of safety problems.
Have students create a story with the teacher writing it on the blackboard. Then use the story for practice.

Use warning sign flash cards or pictures from books to teach words and meanings. Teacher acts out the meaning through simple demonstrations in class. Students practice remembering warnings and acting out meanings in small groups.
Review frequently with flashcards.

Match row of pictures of accidents or hazardous situations with row of warning signs. Students match up and then discuss choice of signs.

Picture of people breaking rules on job or at home. Students select appropriate warning sign or safety instruction and hold it up as they explain the meaning.
Methods / Techniques

Dialogs, role plays, total physical response, language experience, field trips

ACTIVITIES

Discuss situations students or over their friends and family have been in which required calling an emergency number. Talk about the sequence of events, response of emergency personnel and results.
Discuss what kinds of situations warrant calling an emergency number and which don’t.

Role play calling the police, fire department, or an ambulance using a real or toy phone

Role play calling doctor’s office to make an appointment or to ask for treatment clarification

Teacher dictates basic appointment data to students. Or, students dictate to each other. Teacher checks for accuracy.

Have students bring in medicine labels from home and locate information on them.

One student reads label. Other student performs actions. Or, student reads written directions on medicine labels and performs actions in order.

Reading bills and writing checks

OBJECTIVES
L 2 Read household bills (e.g., date due, balance)
L 5 Write and endorse checks and money orders

FUNCTIONS
Identify type of bill and purpose
Locate date of bill, due date, amount due, account number, address of utility
Complete check or money orders
Write date, amount, payee; then endorse

TOPICS
Employment: endorsing a paycheck;
House: paying utility bills (telephone, gas, water, electricity, and so on)

STRUCTURES

METHODS / TECHNIQUES
Blackboard work, worksheets, dictations, small group work

ACTIVITIES
Show students copies of actual local utility bills. Have students circle or underline due date, total amount due and so on.

Use actual check and money orders to explain how to use them. Have students practice filling in the correct information.

Have students bring in utility bills from home and locate information on them.

Distribute various bills and blank checks. In groups, students pay bills, address envelopes, and so on. Discuss.

Teach spelling of numbers with flashcards, worksheets (match, circle, underline, copy, fill in the blanks).

Have students practice signatures from teacher’s model, if necessary

EXPRESSIONS
Utilities: telephone, electric, gas, garbage, sewage, combined utility bill, Written forms of numbers;
Banks/Bills: account, check, money order, payable to..., payee, date of bill, due date, total amount due, amount paid.

FUNCTIONS

Respond to directions with physical actions
Read and interpret road and safety signs
Explain what signs mean (Stop, No Left Turn, Merging)
Extract information from city street maps or simplified maps
Give and follow directions on a map
Identify compass directions
Identify streets, buildings (schools, hospitals), parks

ACTIVITIES

Do a Total Physical Response drill giving road commands, i.e. turn left, stop, slow. Student could show hand signals or if pretending to drive a car, what to do

Do a Total Physical Response drill using the road signs instead of oral commands

Role play taking the road test

Groups work together finding cities, streets, bodies of water

Make information gap maps: two students each having partial information must give directions to other in order to complete each map

Students push toy cars around maps or simplified diagrams following teacher or student given directions

Set up "driving" course in the classroom. Use road signs as guides.

TOPICS

Transportation: taking road test; using a map to locate places

STRUCTURES

Imperatives: affirmative, negative
Wh-Questions: where, which way
Adverbs: place
Prepositions: location, position

METHODS / TECHNIQUES

Role plays, total physical response, information gap exercise, map reading

EXPRESSIONS

Stop when I tell you to. Don't _____ until I tell you. Make a _____ turn. Turn ____. Go straight. Signal.
Change lanes. Slow down. U-turn.
Back up. Park. Directions: left, right, north, south, NE, SW

Literacy Skills

OBJECTIVES

L 14 Name and print letters commonly associated with diphthongs (au, ow, oi, ou)
L 15 Produce sound of each diphthong when visually presented in initial, medial, and final position
L 16 Name and print letters associated with the sound of consonant clusters in initial, medial, and final positions
L 17 Produce sound of consonant cluster when visually presented

FUNCTIONS

Recognize, reproduce graphically, produce sound of diphthongs in initial, medial, and final positions
Recognize, reproduce graphically, and produce sound of consonant clusters in appropriate positions

TOPICS

Use with all topics as appropriate.

STRUCTURES

METHODS/TECHNIQUES

Spelling procedure outlined in activities; Fidel charts (Silent Way), pictures, dictations, vocabulary lists, alphabet cards, blackboard work, worksheets, games

ACTIVITIES

Use vocabulary elicited from and demonstrate clusters: "What words do you know that start with this sound?" Copy the list to use for presentation and practice

Write short stories using clusters and/or diphthong words students just gave. Use for oral reading practice.

Use clusters to build phonetic combinations by adding vowels and final consonants.

Introduce spelling and sound of each diphthong/cluster with one word. For example, using "now", ask "If this is 'now', how do you spell 'cow'?" Build the students' vocabulary list using this procedure.

After word list is complete, choose words at random for dictation. Students may look at list and find word to write.

Distribute alphabet cards (extra vowels) in groups. Students spell what you recite: "Spell town."

Use pictures that would elicit words with the specific sounds (e.g., a picture of a boy and a plow and a brown cow).

Make a bingo game for consonant clusters/diphthongs.
EXPRESSIONS

Examples: OW: cow, plow, now, brown, crowded, towel, down; OY: toy, boy, joy; OI: oil, boil, broil, soil, spoil, noise, point, voice, choice; STR: street, string, strip, strap; SPR: spring, spray, sprout; SPL: splash, splish, split, splat, splendid; SCR: scrape, scrap, scream, screech, screw; THR: through, throw, threw, three

Bibliography
BIBLIOGRAPHY

To date, few books are written addressing the needs of the preliterate student. The books listed in this bibliography are primarily resources from which the teacher can draw ideas and use in daily lesson plans. As a guide, the materials have been divided into four categories: Oral/Pronunciation, Literacy Skills, Visuals, and Reference.

Oral/Pronunciation

Basic Adult Survival English (BASE), Bks. 1 & 2. R. E. Walsh. Prentice-Hall.

English for Adult Competency, Bks. 1 & 2. A. Keltner. Prentice-Hall.
