Much of the heritage of the United States has been preserved in folk music and folklore. The recordings presented in this list have been instrumental in preserving this heritage and serve as valuable resources for students, teachers, and libraries. These recordings were selected by a panel of experts in the fields of folklore and ethnomusicology. Criteria for the selections were: (1) the recording was released in 1986; (2) the recording featured cultural traditions found in the United States; (3) the recording emphasized "root traditions"; (4) the recording was available to U.S. purchasers; and (5) the recording was well annotated with liner notes or accompanying booklets for classroom use. Each of the recordings is described. Representative selections include the fields of country, western, gospel, folk ballads, string-bands, bluegrass, and ethnic music. A list of the publishing companies is included. (SM)

1987
Since 1928 the Archive of Folk Culture at the Library of Congress has been helping to preserve America's cultural heritage by collecting sound recordings of folk music and folklore. In addition, over the last four decades the Library has released a series of LPs which provide highlights from the Archive's holdings. Since 1983 the Library's American Folklife Center has published A Selected List in order to help promote the best recordings of American folk music and folklore issued by various companies and organizations the previous year.

Small companies and organizations produce the bulk of traditional music on recordings. Such recordings elude the regular distribution networks and seldom appear in record shops and catalogs. The recordings released by these companies have been instrumental in preserving our folk heritage and encouraging those performers who are active in folk communities. For this reason, these recordings are valuable resources for students, teachers, and libraries. We hope with the publication of A Selected List to foster an increased awareness of such recordings.

Each year a panel of experts active in the fields of folklore and ethnomusicology meets to select a group of outstanding recordings from the approximately two hundred records and tapes submitted for consideration by producers and manufacturers or suggested by various folklorists, ethnomusicologists, and the Center staff. The list is not comprehensive but is intended to make important recent sound recordings more readily available to libraries, educators, and others. To be eligible for consideration a recording must:

—be released in 1986,

—feature cultural traditions found within the United States,

—emphasize "root traditions" over popular adaptations of traditional materials,

—be conveniently available to American purchasers,

—be well annotated with liner notes or accompanying booklets relating the recordings to the performers, their communities, genres, styles, or other pertinent information.
The American Folklore Center hopes that the continuing publication of this list will encourage the production of new high-quality documentary folk recordings, which in turn will help those performers who preserve our country’s rich folk heritage. We also hope that the list will stimulate record companies to include sufficient documentation with each recording so it can stand on its own merits as an educational tool. The increase in the quality of recordings submitted for consideration makes us believe that progress is being made towards this goal.

The recordings in the following annotated listings are produced by the companies and organizations listed at the rear of the booklet. None of the recordings listed is manufactured, distributed, or offered for sale by the Library of Congress. The booklet also lists other publications that review folk music and folklore recordings, and major mail-order distributors of folk recordings. We have included Library of Congress catalog card numbers for the convenience of librarians, they should not be used when ordering these recordings from the applicable company.

To suggest suitable 1987 recordings for next year’s panel or to receive additional copies of the list please write to Selected List, American Folklore Center, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C. 20540.

La Baronessa di Carini: Sicilian Traditional Songs and Music. Global Village Music GVM 676/677 Two-LP set/Two-cassette set. Social and ceremonial music of Sicilian-Americans recorded in northwestern New York and Southern Ontario as part of a survey of Italian folk arts (for further description see notes for Chesta e la Voci ca Canuscite). Featured are the Sicilian styles of song known as canzuna and artigiano, which were important as work songs, for social gatherings, and in courthship in small Sicilian villages. For many of these immigrants the difference in life styles in the United States has all but made these rituals disappear, especially among the young. Includes packet notes and a 28-page booklet with essays, photographs, song notes, Sicilian text transcriptions, and English translations. LCCN 87-743049

Chesta e la Voci ca Canuscite—This is the Voice You Know: Southern Italian Mountain Music from Calabria, Campania, Basilicata and Abruzzi. Global Village Music GVM #675 LP/cassette. Recordings of social and ceremonial music of Italian-Americans in the Buffalo area of New York and Southern Ontario. The Southern Italian music is characterized by the bagpipe, the organetto (button-accordion), and a high-pitched throaty vocal style. Also prominent in many of the songs is the use of the friction drum as accompaniment. The work was sponsored by the Italian Folk Arts Federation of America, the Institute for Italian-American Studies, the National Italian American Foundation, and the Western New York Society for the Preservation of Italian Folklore. It was recorded and produced by Anna L. Chaaretakis, Domenico Carbone, Marguerite Collesano, and Philip Rigio with assistance from Nora Migliaccio. A 20-page booklet contains an essay, song notes, photographs, text transcriptions, and English translations of many lyrics. LCCN 87-743048
Powwow Songs: Music of the Plains Indians. New World NW 343 LP
Ceremonial and social music of Native Americans of the Great Plains. Side one consists of intertribal singing of the Southern Plains Indians, and side two is from the Northern Plains. Much of the LP was recorded in August, 1975 at the sixth annual Kihekah Steh Powwow in Skiatook, Oklahoma. The LP reproduces the ceremonies and dances that take place during a "powwow" or general gathering. Includes dance contest songs, war dance songs, and grass dance songs. Recorded by Charlotte Heth and Michael Moore. Jacket notes by Heth include descriptions of the songs and a selected bibliography and discography. LCCN 86-743039

Nathan Abshire: A Cajun Legend: the Best of Nathan Abshire. Swallow 6061 LP/cassette
Louisiana "Cajun" accordionist and vocalist Nathan Abshire (1915-1981), a major figure in the music of French Louisiana during his lifetime, is showcased in this collection. Features what has now become a Louisiana standard, the song "Pine Grove Blues." Consists of original songs, waltzes, and two-steps, with Abshire accompanied by the Balfa Brothers on many selections. Comes with a 4-page pamphlet compiled by Barry Jean Ancelet with complete French lyrics and English translations. LCCN 87-743039

Flaco Jimenez: Ay te Dejo en San Antonio. Arhoolie 3021 LP Musica Norteña. Mexican-American conjunto music performed by Leonardo "Flaco" Jimenez (1939-). Consists of polkas and rancheras performed on accordion, with Toby Torres on bajo sexto (a type of twelve-string guitar), Henry "Big Red" Ojeda on bass, and Isaac Garcia on drums. The Jimenez family has been active in Tex-Mex border music for generations. Jacket notes by Chris Strachwitz. LCCN 87-743039
Augie Meyers Presents
San Antonio Saturday Night. Sonet SN1F 933 LP Four Mexican-American conjuntos (bands) from San Antonio, Texas. San Antonio has almost become synonymous with this style of dance music. The LP shows the great variety of styles utilized by working Tex-Mex dance bands. Selections range from the 1950s style accordion-based music of Leonardo "Flaco" Jimenez and the 1980s style synthesizer-based music of Los Formales. Also included are Los Paisanos and Los Hermanos Barron. Jacket notes by Samuel Charters describe the nature of the people and the music. LCCN 87-740955
