These three Information Alerts provide annotated bibliographies of documents covering the education of Asian and Pacific Americans. They cover the following topics, among others: (1) nondiscriminatory educational practices; (2) multilingual education; (3) special needs of the population; (4) parent participation; (5) injecting Asian culture into various curricula; and (6) demographic information on the different Asian ethnic groups in the United States. (VM)
ASIAN/PACIFIC AMERICAN EDUCATION:

BRIEF BIBLIOGRAPHIES

ERIC INFORMATION ALERTS NUMBERS 2-4
INFORMATION ALERT #2

CULTURAL DIVERSITY and the EDUCATION of ASIAN/PACIFIC AMERICANS

These current documents and journal articles on Asian and Pacific American education have been entered into the ERIC information system. Journal articles can usually be read at any library. Using the six-digit ED number assigned, you can locate and read documents at any library or information center that has an ERIC microfiche collection. You can also purchase microfiche or paper copies of the documents from the ERIC Document Reproduction Service, 3900 Wheeler Avenue, Alexandria, VA 22304, 800/457-6799.

Filipino Immigrants in Hawaii: A Profile of Recent Arrivals. 1985. 15p. ED 273 714. Focusing on Ilokano immigrants on Oahu, describes some essential facts about recent immigrants from the Philippines to Hawaii; provides information on reasons for coming to Hawaii, and on economic and emotional adjustment.

Hendricks, Glenn L.; and others (eds.). The Hmong in Transition. 1986. 460p. ED 270 509. 24 papers organized around four central themes: Hmong culture and change, adaptation to a new society, language and literacy, and health care issues.

Wehrly, Bea; Nelson, William. The Assimilation and Acculturation of Indochinese Refugees into Illinois Schools. 1986. 88p. ED 278 741. Assessment by State school districts of problems in, and suggestions for, improvement of Indochinese refugee education; focuses on cultural integration and conflict as well as academic achievement.

Yao, Esther Lee. The Extrinsic Cultural Traits of Chinese Immigrants as Compared with Chinese in Taiwan and Other Non-Chinese in the U.S.A. Conference paper delivered 1986. 16p. ED 269 514. Examines attitudes on social interaction, English proficiency, American lifestyle, and future prospects. The only cultural commonality found to be shared by all three groups was an interest in the availability of desirable clothing styles.
ASIAN/PACIFIC AMERICANS and HIGHER EDUCATION

These current documents and journal articles on Asian and Pacific American education have been entered into the ERIC information system. Journal articles can usually be read at any library. Using the six-digit ED number assigned, you can locate and read the documents at any library or information center that has an ERIC microfiche collection. You can also purchase microfiche or paper copies of the documents from the ERIC Document Reproduction Service, 3900 Wheeler Avenue, Alexandria, VA 22304, 800/457-6799.

Biemiller, Lawrence. Asian Students Fear Top Colleges; Use
Quota Systems. Chronicle of Higher Education, v33 n12, p34-36 November 19, 1986. Charges that some elite colleges may be purposefully limiting the admission of persons of Asian descent have been difficult to substantiate. The interest of Asian students in science make competition for admission in that area more difficult.

Bunzel, John H.; Au, Jeffrey K. D.
Diversity or Discrimination? Asian Americans in College. Public Interest, n87, p46-62, Spring 1987. Reports on undergraduate admissions processes at four elite universities show that the Asian American admission rate is below the overall admission rate.
Reasons for lower rates are discussed.

Hassan, Thomas E. Asian-American Admissions: Debating Discrimination. College Board
Review, n142, p18-21, 42-45, Winter 1987. Asian Americans charge that the nation's most prestigious colleges are limiting their access with informal quotas. Admissions offices must discard stereotypes and must take steps to guarantee a more sensitive assessment of Asian American applicants.

(Over)
Mordkowitz, Eliott R.; Ginsburg, Herbert P. The Academic Socialization of Successful Asian-American College Students. 1986. 13p. ED 273 219. The family backgrounds of successful Chinese, Japanese, and Korean youth are examined to generate testable hypotheses about the socialization of exemplary school achievement of these students. Several social/cultural factors believed to play a major role in academic achievement are identified.

Mordkowitz, Elliott R. Ginsburg, Herbert P. Early Academic Socialization of Successful Asian-American College Students. 1986. 20p. ED 280 927. This study of the home background of successful Asian-Americans finds that specific aspects of home socialization can exert a positive effect on school adjustment and achievement.

Myers, Judy. Balance Without Bias. Currents, v13 n4, p34-42, April 1987. Before an institution can decide how to recruit minorities, it must know why it wants them. Racial balance as a valid goal and the question of number goals and quotas in minority recruitment are discussed.

Okutsu, James K. Asian American Students: A Look at San Francisco State. 1986. 19p. ED 283 432. Attitudes of American Asian students at San Francisco State University toward their education are studied. Sample group includes students of various Asian and Pacific Islander backgrounds. The study reveals student attitudes toward academic as well as non-aspects.

Sue, Stanley; Zane, Nolan W.S. Academic Achievement and Socioemotional Adjustment among Chinese University Students. Journal of Counseling Psychology, v32 n4, p570-79, October 1985. Examines academic performance, majors, study habits, and socioemotional adjustment of Chinese university students. The image of the high-achieving, well-adjusted Chinese student is tempered when examining criteria other than grade point average.

Washington, Michael; and others. Academic Success and the College Minority Student. A Guidebook for College Survival. 1985. 114p. ED 285 473.* Success in college for the minority student requires both an individual and collective approach, including developing a more positive self-image and an attitude of success, effective use of time and college resources, participation in student organizations, and effective support networking systems. -Not available from ERIC; order from: Ginn Press, 191 Spring Street, Lexington, MA 02173.
FAMILY INVOLVEMENT in ASIAN/PACIFIC AMERICAN EDUCATION

These current documents on Asian and Pacific American education have been entered into the ERIC information system. Using the six-digit ED number assigned, you can locate and read documents at any library or information center that has an ERIC microfiche collection. You can also purchase microfiche or paper copies of documents from the ERIC Document Reproduction Service, 3900 Wheeler Avenue, Alexandria, VA 22304, 800/457-6799.

Dao, Mai; Grossman, Herbert. Identifying, Instructing and Rehabilitating South East Asian Students with Special Needs and Counseling Their Parents. 105 p. ED 273 068.* Report of a meeting held at the annual conference of the National Association for South East Asian Students with Special Needs (San Francisco, CA, March 13, 1985) and a Workshop (June 9-12, 1985). *Best available copy from: Herbert Grossman, Div. of Special Ed. & Rehabilitative Services, San Jose State University, One Washington Sq., San Jose, CA 95192 ($8.00).

A Handbook on California Education for Language Minority Parents--Laotian/English Edition. 1986. 70p. ED 279 748. A bilingual handbook that is part of the technical assistance effort of the State Department of Education to clarify the operations of schools to language minority parents so they might better support the education of their children. Other language editions include: Cambodian, Chinese, Hmong, Korean, and Vietnamese.
Leung, Brian. Cultural Considerations in Working with Asian Parents. 1987. 6 p. ED 285 359. Examines cultural variables that providers of educational services should be aware of when working with Asian American parents. Culturally related considerations are noted, including the tendency to misinterpret the interactional patterns of Asians with professionals.

Moore, Caroline; and others (Eds.). Reaching Out: Proceedings from a Special Education Symposium on Cultural Differences and Parent Programs (Phoenix, AZ, May 2-3, 1986.) 112p. ED 284 408. Contains ten summaries related to cultural differences and parent programs with emphasis on regions in the Pacific and western United States. A final summary lists ten recommendations for reaching out to families of other cultures.

Mordkowitz, Eliott R.; Ginsburg, Herbert P. The Academic Socialization of Successful Asian-American College Students. 1986. 13p. ED 273 219. Examines the family backgrounds of successful Chinese, Japanese, and Korean youth to generate testable hypotheses about the socialization of these students. Several social/cultural factors believed to play a major role in academic achievement are identified.

Mordkowitz, Eliott R. Ginsburg, Herbert P. Early Academic Socialization of Successful Asian-American College Students. 1986. 20p. ED 280 927. Finds that specific aspects of home socialization can exert a positive effect on school adjustment and achievement.