This curriculum guide is designed as a resource for marketing education teachers in planning and teaching a course on sales fundamentals for students in grades 10-12 who are interested in a sales career. Internships, simulations, and co-op experiences may be used to expand practical application of the course. The student course objectives are to (1) make realistic decisions about their future in a sales career; (2) increase their sales competence through classroom instruction, individual projects, and other occupational experiences; (3) develop initiative and other desirable traits necessary to become a successful salesperson, and (4) develop their desire to further their education in their chosen marketing field.

This guide consists of the following units of instruction: (1) Overview of Sales Fundamentals; (2) Free Enterprise/Economics; (3) The Customer and the Merchandise; (4) Steps of a Sale; (5) Sales Supporting Activities; and (6) Career Planning. Each unit of instruction consists of the following sections: a table of contents; the competency goal statement and competency objectives; a content/teaching outline; student activities; evaluation measures; a key to the test items; and references. (NLL)
Activities and procedures within the Division of Vocational Education are governed by the philosophy of simple fairness to all. Therefore, the policy of the Division is that all operations will be performed without regard to race, sex, color, national origin, or handicap.
PREFACE

BACKGROUND

In 1987 the Program of Studies was revised with Sales Fundamentals identified as a Marketing Education course to be offered in grades ten through twelve. This curriculum guide was developed to be used as a resource in planning and teaching the course.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Sales Fundamentals is designed for students who are interested in a sales career. Internships, simulations, and co-op experiences may be used to expand practical application of the course content.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

The broad objectives for students enrolled in Sales Fundamentals are to:

A. Make realistic decisions about their future in a sales career.
B. Increase their sales competence through classroom instruction, individual projects and other occupational experiences.
C. Develop initiative and other desirable traits necessary to become a successful salesperson.
D. Develop their desire to further their education in their chosen marketing field.

GUIDE CONTENT/ORGANIZATION

This Sales Fundamentals guide consists of the following units of instruction:

A. Overview of Sales Fundamentals
B. Free Enterprise/Economics
C. The Customer and the Merchandise
D. Steps of A Sale
E. Sales Supporting Activities
F. Career Planning

These units were written for the course to be offered for a year. If the course is offered for only one semester, it is recommended that each unit be included, and the number of student activities used be reduced.
Each unit consists of the following sections:
* A table of contents
* The competency goal statement and competency objectives
* Student Activities (SA)
* Evaluation measures (CTIB)
* A key to the test items
* References (PR)

To the right of the outline are planning notes, indicating when the above items should be used, with space to add additional notes or references.

It is recommended that the introduction unit of the Marketing guide be used to begin the year or semester.

PURPOSE

Personal selling is needed to market all types of products and services, thus selling careers are vital to our market economy. Sales careers continue to top the charts for future opportunities. According to the Workforce 2000, marketing and sales occupations will have a growth rate of 39 percent between 1984 and 2000. To assist in supplying this labor demand with qualified employees, sales training is essential. This guide will provide initial sales fundamentals training to secondary education students.

STUDENT ACTIVITIES

OVERVIEW OF SALES FUNDAMENTALS

Show slide/tape presentation "Retail Salesmanship" (AV-1).

In Selling Helping Customers Buy (PR-1), read pages 3-10. Complete Activity A on page 11.

Ask students to identify people or businesses in their community involved in:
1. The production/manufacturing phase of our economy
2. The marketing phase of our economy
3. The consumption phase of our economy

Have a class discussion concerning the following questions:
1. Why is selling important to our economy?
2. How does selling create jobs in our community?
3. Why is selling important to the business in our community?
4. How can selling result in the development of new products?

Invite a representative from your local Chamber of Commerce to your class. Topics to discuss may include:
1. The total retail and wholesale dollar volume sales in community during the previous year.
2. The importance of those sales to the community.
3. The total number of people employed in retail and wholesale sales positions in the community.
4. The total dollar salaries paid to all of these salespeople.

Show slide/tape presentation "Communications: Essential to Success" (AV-2).

In Business Principles and Management (PR-4), read pages 350-354.

In Retail Marketing For Employees, Managers, and Entrepreneurs (PR-5), read pages 173-176.

Have a class discussion on the following:
1. Can an emotion such as anger in your voice block the message from the sender to the receiver?
2. Can speaking to someone who you do not feel is in authority cause a problem in the communication process?
3. Can your "attitude" that you do not trust car salesmen place a barrier that may cause a breakdown in communication?
4. Can a positive attitude help cut through all of these barriers?
5. Can nonverbal clues such as looking away when someone is talking to you cause a breakdown in the communication process?
6. Can the communication process be complete if the sender does not receive any feedback?

In Retailing Principles and Practices (PR-7), read pages 98-104.

To demonstrate the importance of effective communication, have students get into teams of two and sit back-to-back. Both students should have identical objects (blocks, puzzles, or pen and paper). One student should be instructed to create something. Next, that student will give instructions to the second student on how to create the same thing. The second student is not allowed to ask questions. The second student will not be able to create the project as instructed. At this time, point out to the students that there has been a breakdown in the communication process (no feedback and no nonverbal communication). Repeat this activity but the second student may now ask questions. The second student should come closer this time. Stress that feedback improved the communication process.

Have students pass around (from ear-to-ear) a sentence or a phrase. It is interesting to see how it comes out when the last person hears it. Stress how communication can break down in business when a message passes through several people.

Examples:
1. I went to the store for my mother.
2. Three tough tops on thirty thousand thermos bottles turned topsy-turvy.
3. Fred fed Ted breakfast, and Ted said thanks Fred.

For someone to receive your message, they must be sable to understand it. Good pronunciation habits will enable you to be a better communicator. Listed below are examples of poor pronunciation.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Correct</th>
<th>Incorrect</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>What did you have in mind?</td>
<td>Wadjuhavnmind?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Where did you see it?</td>
<td>Werjasit?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>When will you know?</td>
<td>Wunukno?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Would you like it sent?</td>
<td>Jalikitsent?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>It's a good brand.</td>
<td>Sajudbran.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Ask students if they understand the following “trade jargon” sentences.

1. Call me if you have a problem getting the “bugs” out of the system. (Computer language for an error in the program).
2. Did you sell any “rags” today? (Clothing sales language for dresses).
3. That sure is a “dog!” (Retail language for slow-moving merchandise).
4. This “software” will increase my production. (Computer language for a computer program).

List several words on the board and ask students how many different meanings they can think of for each word. Point out that the receiver may not always understand “our” meaning and this can cause a breakdown in communication. (You can use a dictionary to point out all of the different definitions of each word). Examples: set, play run, drive, low, hot, and best.

Read the following statements to the class and have them point out any grammatical errors.

1. We don’t got none of those blue shoes in stock.
2. Me an’ him went to the movies.
3. Our team works harder than them.
4. We ain’t going to do it no more.
5. I is going to the store.

Show slide/tape presentation “Nonverbal Communication” (AV-3).

In Retail Marketing for Employees, Managers, and Entrepreneurs (PR-5), read pages 178-180.

(1) As you are talking to your class about non-verbal communication, stand within 12 inches of a student. Do not make eye contact with the student and continue to talk for several minutes. Stop your discussion and ask the student how he/she felt when you stood that close. (Most people would feel uncomfortable.) Point out that violating someone’s personal space is one of the best ways to quickly cut off communication.

(2) Ask students why the back of a classroom or auditorium fills up first? The public zone is 12-50 feet.

Review several magazines and choose several pictures of people dressed in many different ways. Have the students examine each picture. Let the students tell you about the person in the picture by the way they project themselves nonverbally. Notice the “objects” they are wearing or their surroundings. Talk about their hair style, make-up, and clothing. What are they saying without speaking?
Demonstrate several nonverbal gestures to your class. Have the students evaluate each one to see if they receive your message.

Examples:
- Frown: Negative
- Smile: Positive
- Point a finger at a person: Negative
- Open arms (palms showing): Positive
- Crossed arms: Negative
- Eye contact: Positive
- No eye contact: Negative
- Crossed legs: Negative

Have students complete the Listening Survey on page A-15 & A-16.

Draft a formal business letter based on the following facts:
1. Letter is being sent to Mr. Jonathan Jones, Buyer, Jones Sporting Goods, 3467 Simpson Street, Jeffersonville, Indiana 47130.
2. You are sending him a brochure and swatches for your line of Aspen Ski Apparel.
3. Stress the following facts:
   a. Down-filled for extra warmth
   b. Fashion colors
   c. Matching accessories
   d. Aspen Ski Apparel is a well-known brand name
   e. Advertising campaign planned in Sports Illustrated and Ski magazines
4. Sales representative will be in town on June 19 and will call to set up an appointment
5. Letter is sent by Larry Montague, Sales Representative for Aspen Ski Apparel

Draw an organization chart based on the following facts:

1. The owner/manager of the business is J. R. Montague.
2. The business, Montague's Classic Clothing, carries both men's and ladies quality apparel.
3. The business consists of four major departments: ladies' clothing, men's clothing, the advertising department, and the receiving department.
4. Mary Beth Jones is the buyer for the ladies' department. Mrs. Jones has three assistant buyers, Mrs. Ruth Hodges, Mrs. Annette Holbrook, and Ms. Sara Phillips.
5. Mrs. Jack Speers is the buyer for the men's department. Mr. Speers supervises two assistant buyers, Mrs. Ralph Shell and Mr. Keith Leonard.
6. Mary Butler is the Advertising Director. Mrs. Butler supervises two employees, Mrs. Karen Shelley is the illustrator and Ms. Lauren Rae is the copywriter.
7. Mr. Bobby Franks is the receiving room supervisor. Mr. Franks supervises four employees, Mr. Ray Smith and Mr. Jerry Hendricks, who are responsible for marking all merchandise. Mrs. Tracey Mays and Mrs. Mildred Tatlock are responsible for all invoices.

Have a class discussion on informal forms of communication—"The Grapevine."

1. Ask students if their place of employment has a "grapevine."
2. If so, is it a reliable form of communications?
3. Do the students believe an employer should depend upon the "grapevine"?

   a. One or two
   b. Two or three
   c. Three or four
   d. At least five
INSTRUCTIONS TO STUDENTS: Read the following case situation. Prepare a written response.

Ms. Day is shopping for an antique curio cabinet for her daughter's birthday. You show her a solid walnut cabinet with curved glass doors, antique-brass hardware, and newly installed interior lighting. Although she agrees it is beautiful and has been kept clean, she is argumentative about the price, pointing out, "After all, it is used furniture."

Explain how you would deal with Ms. Day. Include the three steps of effective communication.
COMPETENCY OBJECTIVE 3.02: Explain customer buying decisions.

TEST ITEM 003-3.02-01

INSTRUCTIONS TO STUDENTS: Once a want or need is established, five other buying decisions must be made. List the five buying decisions.

4. List the classifications of basic buying motives.
5. When using buying motives in the sales presentation, list the four steps in determining the customer’s motives.

TEST ITEM 003-3.03-02

NOTE TO TEACHER: Instruct students playing the role of customer to develop their buying motives prior to the roleplay situation. At this point, the students are not evaluated on other steps in the sales process—approach, handling objections, closing techniques, suggestion selling, etc. (Evaluation form follows).

INSTRUCTIONS TO STUDENTS: (Roleplay) Bring a product to class which can be used in a roleplay situation in which you will attempt to determine the customer’s buying motives. Be sure to study your product prior to your presentation so you are well-prepared with merchandise information. Your customer (a fellow student or someone chosen by the teacher) will approach you and indicate an interest in your merchandise. Use the proper techniques for determining the customers needs and buying motives. The teacher will evaluate you during your presentation using a rating form.

QUESTIONING

INSTRUCTIONS TO TEACHER: Secure a variety of grocery items. Allow 5-10 minutes for students to select an item and prepare a roleplay sales situation in which they will demonstrate their questioning skill. You (or another student) may play the customer role. Use the Evaluation Form provided.

INSTRUCTIONS TO STUDENTS: Your role is a salesperson. An undecided customer has entered your business. Use your prep time of 5-10 minutes to select an item with which you are familiar, study the merchandise, and plan your questions for the customer. Then demonstrate in a role-play situation your skill at questioning in order to help the customer decide to buy the item.

FEATURE-BENEFIT SELLING

You are a salesperson in the automotive department of a major chain store. The local high school principal comes in and expresses interest in new tires.

1. Prepare a feature-benefit chart to help you with the selling situation. Use the information below.

Roadhandler Tires
* 45,000 mile warranty * Made by Michelin; backed by Sears
* Designed and built by Michelin, the foremost maker of radial tires in the world
* The RoadHandler 45 features a unique modern block all-season tread designed for superb traction under most road conditions * Steel belts provide excellent impact resistance and long wear * Radial construction * Tubeless * Whitewall with black outline letters
* Save 30% to 35% — Low as $39.99 for 13-inch; $59.99 for 14-inch; $69.99 each for 15-inch

2. Write a script for the situation. Use the feature-benefit chart. Your teacher will use a feature-benefit evaluation form to check your work. (This activity can be performed as a role play situation rather than a written script.)

   Type of approach: Opening Statement:

2. A lady enters your shoe department briskly at 12:30 pm.
   Type of approach: Opening Statement:

3. A regular customer, Mrs. Moore, has just returned from a Caribbean cruise and is looking at newly arrived designed dresses.
   Type of approach: Opening Statement:

4. You are helping a customer with a coat for her son and Mrs. Stewart approaches and pauses to look at ski jackets.
   Type of approach: Opening Statement:

5. A customer whom you don’t know enters your department and smiles when you walk toward him.
   Type of approach: Opening Statement:
INSTRUCTIONS TO STUDENTS: Assume the role of salesperson in a local bookstore. A customer approaches a shelf and begins looking at a couple of novels. During your presentation with this person, another customer enters and approaches the area you are in.

Write a brief script to explain how you would open the sale, including the five procedures for opening a sale in Selling—LAP 101.

(Note to Teacher: You may choose to have students roleplay rather than using a written script. Use the Opening the Sale Evaluation Form on the next page for either method.)

COMPETENCY OBJECTIVE 4.02: Question/Probe for information.

TEST ITEM 004-4.02-01

INSTRUCTIONS TO STUDENTS: Answer the following questions.

1. Why should the number of questions be limited?

2. Name the three appropriate types of information for initial questions.

3. Name two inappropriate question topics.

4. What are the purposes in questioning the customer?

5. Why should customers be encouraged to ask questions?

TEST ITEM 004-4.02-02

Note to Teacher: Secure a variety of items sold by businesses in which your students work or have career interests. Allow students 5-10 minutes to select an item and prepare for a roleplay sales situation in which they will demonstrate their questioning skill. You or another student may play the customer role. Use the Questioning Evaluation Form on the next page.

INSTRUCTIONS TO STUDENTS: Your role is a salesperson. An undecided customer has entered your business. In a roleplay situation, demonstrate your skill at questioning in order to help the customer decide to buy an item. You will have 5-10 minutes of prep time in which to select items with which you are familiar, study the merchandise, and plan your questions.

COMPETENCY OBJECTIVE 4.03: Use Feature-benefit selling.

TEST ITEM 004-4.03-01

INSTRUCTIONS TO STUDENTS: To demonstrate your skill in using feature-benefit selling, prepare a feature-benefit chart for Visions Rangetop Cookware 1 1/2-quart covered saucepan (V-1 1/2-N).

FULL TEN YEAR WARRANTY
VISIONS® COOKWARE
Corning promises to replace any VISIONS cookware bowl that breaks from hot or cold temperatures within ten years from date of purchase.

FULL TWO YEAR WARRANTY
GLASS COVERS
In addition, Corning promises to replace any glass cover accompanying your VISIONS cookware that breaks from heat within two years from date of purchase.

FULL ONE YEAR WARRANTY
DEFECTIVE PARTS
Any part with a manufacturing defect will be replaced, without charge within one year from date of purchase.

For these warranties to apply, the owner must follow the use and care instructions provided at the time of purchase.

For service, contact Crown Services, Consumer Service for Corning Glass Works, P.O. Box C, Waynesboro, Virginia 22980

These warranties give you specific legal rights, and you may also have other rights which vary from state to state.

RANGETOP COOKING WITH YOUR VISIONS SAUCEPAN
1. Once the contents have started to cook or boil, turn the heat DOWN to a gentle simmer. (It's easy to see the cooking action!)
2. VISIONS cookware retains heat. The contents will continue to cook several minutes after you have turned off the heat. The retained heat keeps food warm for serving.
3. With foods that require a short cooking time such as sauces, once you've reached cooking temperature, TURN THE HEAT OFF.
4. Bring covered rangetop saucepan to cooking temperature on medium-high or medium, then lower the heat to maintain a gentle simmer.

VISIONS® RANGETOP COOKWARE
USE & CARE

COOKING WITH VISIONS COOKWARE IS VISIBLY SUPERIOR YET VISIBLY DIFFERENT
VISIONS cookware is extremely versatile. It can be taken straight from the freezer to the top of your gas or electric range, and then immediately be put to soak. It's ideal for microwave too!

The material in VISIONS cookware is different! Once heated to a high temperature, the material will stay hot, cooling slowly even after the heat is lowered. This ability to retain heat means you can turn the heat off before the contents are cooked — the cooking process will continue, saving valuable energy. Since the unique properties of VISIONS cookware represent an entirely new cooking concept, it may be necessary to make some adjustments in the way you use your cookware. Here are some hints for successful cooking with beautiful VISIONS cookware.

INSTRUCTIONS TO STUDENTS: From the products listed below, select one with which you are familiar. Answer the following questions.

- Swatch watch
- Reebok shoes
- Solar calculator
- Fishing rod and reel
- Music box
- Small kitchen appliance (your choice)

1. List three questions to ask the customer in order to determine which product features to demonstrate.

2. List three ways you can demonstrate the product's features.

3. List two ways the customer can be involved in the product demonstration.

4. Prepare a feature-benefit chart listing at least three features and a benefit for each feature.

5. How would you handle an interruption by another customer approaching during your presentation?

TEST ITEM 004-4.04-02

INSTRUCTIONS TO STUDENTS: Using the information you listed in Test Item 004-4.04-01, write a script of (or roleplay) your product demonstration. If the roleplay method is used, use the actual product in your demonstration. Your teacher will use a Product Demonstration Evaluation Form to check your work.

Note to Teacher: You may choose to have the student roleplay the product demonstration with another student rather than preparing a written script. You, or a student, should interrupt in the role of another customer, someone calling the salesperson to the telephone, a fussing child, etc. Actual merchandise should be used if possible. TEST ITEM 004-4.06-02

INSTRUCTIONS TO STUDENTS: You are to demonstrate your skill at closing a sale in a role-play situation. To do this, prepare a sales presentation for a product/service of your choice. Prepare a complete sales presentation since the close can come at any time during the presentation. However, your evaluation will center around the close rather than other steps of a sale. At the conclusion of your presentation, identify the closing technique(s) used in the presentation.

Note to Teacher: Roleplay situation—or ask the students to write a script of the sales presentation/close. Use Closing the Sale Evaluation Form on next page.
