This workbook accompanies a videotape (available from the same source) developed as part of a workplace English-as-a-Second-Language (ESL) literacy project. The project was an effort to integrate workplace rights and union issues into a literacy curriculum, and is intended primarily for intermediate to advanced ESL students. The curriculum consists of five units: (1) safety and health, (2) workers' compensation, (3) discrimination, (4) unions, and (5) workplace rights. In each unit, workplace issues are represented in the form of two or three short skits, each presenting a specific issue. The skits are transcribed in the workbook and accompanied by preparatory exercises, structured language activities, a guided questions that encourage students to move from the descriptive to an interpretive level. Because students may need additional facts to inform their responses at the interpretive level, a fact sheet for each unit is appended. An attempt is made to integrate listening, speaking, reading, and writing based on but not limited to the context of the issue. An introductory section in the workbook provides suggestions for use and adaptation of both the videotape and workbook. (MSE) (Adjunct ERIC Clearinghouse on Literacy Education)

From idea to product, WorkPlays was truly a collaborative process as part of the Workplace Education Project through the Labor Education Center. Acknowledgements for the production of the tape are listed at the end of the video itself.

Evie Frankl wrote the scripts, conducted research for and wrote the fact sheets, and directed all of us in acting the roles in WorkPlays.

Erica Bronstein, Claudia Couto, and Janet Isserlis provided editorial assistance and feedback on the WorkBook. Ellen Vaut brainstormed on format ideas and contributed the little WorkPlays.

In addition, valuable insights were given by the participants of the ESL in the Workplace Conference held at University of Massachusetts, Boston in February, 1988.

Elsa Auerbach's and Nina Wallerstein's ESL for Action has proved a valuable prototype for problem-posing on work related issues.

For the Instructor

WorkPlays was developed as part of a Workplace ESL/Literacy project sponsored through the Labor Education Center at Southeastern Massachusetts University, from 1986-1988. We designed the video, with generous support through Gateways Cities of New Bedford, in an attempt to integrate workplace rights and union issues into our curriculum. We feel that it is most suitable to intermediate or advanced ESL students and may certainly be suitable for ABE, citizenship, or other kinds of classes as well.

In order to ensure that we were indeed representing real-life community and workplace issues, we engaged in a research process prior to and during the actual design of the tape. This is what Deborah Barndt (English at Work, a Toolkit for Teachers) has called "scratching the surface." Interviews with students, teachers, community experts and others provided direction for the content of the video, from writing the skits to writing the fact sheets that accompany each unit.

Though designed with a particular audience in mind -- Portuguese speaking factory workers in Southeastern Massachusetts-- our experience with other groups of language minority working adults suggests that the themes and issues are relevant for a larger audience.

The video itself is a tool to help continue to probe and conduct needs assessment in the classroom. In Barndt's terminology, this is the "digging deeper" step. We hope that the tape helps serve this function in your program.

FORMAT

The tape

The tape is structured into five "units" or topics (Safety and Health, Workers' Compensation, Discrimination, Unions, and Know Your Workplace Rights) and takes a problem-posing approach. (For valuable background material on adapting Paulo Friere's work and problem posing to the ESL classroom, please see Wallerstein's Language and Culture in Conflict and Wallerstein and Auerbach's ESL t. Action.)

For each "unit," workplace issues are represented in the form of short skits. Each unit has 2 or 3 of these skits or "codes" in Friere's terminology. Each "code" makes concrete a particular issue or theme. With guided questions in the workbook, students are encouraged to respond to each of the codes, moving from a descriptive to an interpretive level.

At the interpretive level, students may find that they need facts to inform their response. For this reason, we have included a "fact sheet" with each unit. The fact sheet is read onscreen and included as part of the WorkBook text. We hope that the fact sheets are as useful to teachers as they are to students, providing technical and legal information about complex issues.

Because of the complexity of this information, we have the fact sheets available in Spanish and Portuguese.
The WorkBook

The WorkBook is intended as a guide to help implement the tapes. Each unit in the WorkBook accompanies the units of the tape and provides previewing, viewing, and reviewing activities. Structured language work (including context-based grammar) is combined with critical literacy. Questions that stimulate discussion are also included. There is an attempt to integrate listening, speaking, reading, and writing based on, but not limited to, the context of the video. Teachers are encouraged to find their own creative adaptations of the tape and not be limited by the few ideas that are described here.

Suggestions for adapting the video and tape

In order to get a sense of the scope of the tape and the nature of its narrative style, it's a good idea to preview WorkPlays all the way through. Certain episodes may seem particularly suitable for your students while others may not seem appropriate. At first viewing, you might wish to skim the factual information, going back to it more intensively as you implement the unit in the classroom.

Similarly, previewing the workbook will give you some suggestions for actually adapting the tape for use in language and literacy instruction.

Not all ideas for adaptation are reproduced for all units. Therefore, you may come across a suggestion in Unit 1 that is equally applicable to the material in Unit 3.

The following is an outline of some general strategies for implementing the skits.

I. Preview:

- View the skit without sound. Have students predict what is happening and have them give support for their speculations. Focus on facial expressions, gestures, setting, how the characters seem to be feeling, what they are saying, etc. Later you can compare predictions to the actual dialogue and situation presented.

- Set the context for viewing by discussing unfamiliar concepts and key vocabulary, linking to students' prior experience and knowledge whenever possible.

II. View (View as many times as you need to, each for a particular purpose)

- Watch the skit all the way through in order to get an overall sense or "main idea" of the situation presented.
- Watch again, selectively. Stop to clarify or emphasize certain points.
- Set a purpose for viewing: generate some questions of your own that you want students to actively look for as they watch.
III. Review

- Have students summarize/sequence events in the skit (orally, in writing, as a group)
- Use questions for discussion provided in WorkBook moving from literal comprehension to critical reflection
- Have students act out the skits, create alternative dialogue, create follow-up skits (orally or written)
- Put skits and fact sheets on audiotape, let students listen to the tape and follow the text of the skit. Create questions or use questions in WorkBook to guide listening follow up.

Other Reading/Writing Suggestions

- Leave out the names of the speakers and have students identify dialogue with speakers
- Cut skits into strips of dialogue. Have students resequence according to original order
- Create cloze exercises with the skits, have students fill in words that would make sense
- After viewing several of the skits, mix up chunks of dialogue, have students identify dialogue with skit
- Have students write short paragraphs taking and supporting a position or point of view on one of the issues raised from the skit
- Have students write memos or letters relating to events in one of the skits (Advice to a character, etc.)
- Have students look up names and addresses of community and state resources relating to workplace rights/safety, create a directory
- Have students interview experts on workplace rights safety/union reps, etc.

When to use?

Teachers in our project have implemented the tapes in two ways. One approach is to insert a particular unit as related issues arise in the classroom (or on break, after class, anywhere where issues are actually discussed.) For example, when a class discussion for a group of women garment workers moved into the area of sexual harrassment at work, the skit "Fatima's Dilemma" (in Unit III, Discrimination) was an appropriate choice for the next day's lesson.

Another approach is to introduce topics for discussion using the tapes as a catalyst to elicit responses and explore issues. For example, though not all students suffer from the same occupational illness as Maria in Maria's Wrist (Carpal Tunnel Syndrome), this skit may trigger discussions about other kinds of work-related illnesses.

It is assumed that the particular learning community of the class will determine how the tapes should be used. We certainly don't suggest that you follow this curriculum from beginning to end, though this is one possibility for structuring a workplace curriculum.
"Since feeling is first..."

The tapes provide a context for discussion and analysis. They provide factual information. They also deal, implicitly and explicitly, with feelings about issues, events, and situations. Incorporating the affective aspect of language learning can help adult learners, particularly refugees and immigrants, to rehearse strategies for dealing with stressful life situations. As such, problem-posing with the use of videos like WorkPlays can provide a context for what psychologists call primary prevention or preventive mental health. For an informative and helpful book on this subject, teachers are directed to Primary Prevention in the ESL Classroom, M. Paul, ed.

"No pedagogy is neutral "...(Friere)

We’re not trying to impose "correct" answers to complex questions through the use of WorkPlays, but rather to present some dramatizations about real life issues as a basis for learning language and literacy. We hope the tape leads to some lively discussions, debates, student-based research and many digressions, providing a rich source of possible content for teaching language.

Making Your Own Tapes

Though we had the luxury of working for a year with professional writing and directing, we think that lower budget, student-based videos can be produced within the framework of the classroom. For suggestions in adapting video to the ESL classroom, see Alan, M., Teaching English with Video. Harlow, Essex, England: Longman Publishing Company, 1985.

A Note About the Fact Sheets

Information relating to state law in the fact sheets is limited to Massachusetts. Anyone outside of Massachusetts should contact local sources to find appropriate information relevant to that state.

ALL OF THE FACT SHEETS ARE LOCATED AT THE END OF THE WORKBOOK.
For the Student

In WorkPlays you will watch some short "skits" about different people. They talk a lot about work. They talk about some problems and feelings.

You will also hear some information about your rights as a worker and about some laws that protect you.

Some new words:

When we talk about movies, books, poems, or plays sometimes we use special words. Here are some that you will use as you watch WorkPlays and read about it.

skit: A skit is like a short play where people act out stories.

title: A title is the name of a skit, play, book, story, or movie.

characters: Characters are people in skits, plays, books or movies.

setting: The setting is where the story happens. (For example, at work, in a kitchen, or in a cafeteria.)

dialogue: A dialogue is talk between two characters.
Unit I - Health and Safety and Your Rights

Maria's Wrist

Working Too Hard, Working Too Fast?

The Petition
Read about the characters in Maria's Wrist:

Maria: Maria works in a factory. She is forty-five years old. She is a stitcher. She is married.

João: João is Maria's husband. He is thirty eight years old. He works in a factory, too. He is a machine operator.

Carlos: Carlos is Maria's and João's son. He is seventeen years old. He is a student.

What is Maria's job?
What is João's job?
Where do they work?
What is your job?
Where do you work?
Imagine:

Suggestion: Have the students imagine the characters and describe them with as much detail as they can. Students can use the space below to record new descriptive language or phrases. Later, they can redescribe the characters and compare their original predictions.

What does Maria look like?

What does João look like?

What does Carlos look like?

What country are they from?

Where do they live?

The title of the first skit is Maria's Wrist. What do you think this will be about? Why do you think so?

Words to describe people:
Pre-view (without sound)
Suggestion: You may want to divide this into two segments - before João enters then after João enters Watch Maria's Wrist with no sound.

Look at how they act. Watch their faces and other expressions. Then try to answer these questions:

--What is happening?
--What is Maria saying to Carlos?
--What is Carlos saying to Maria?
--How does Maria feel?
--What do Maria and João say to each other?
--How do they feel?

Suggestion: Students' predictions of dialogue could be used as a basis to discuss non-linguistic aspects of communication - facial expressions, body movements, etc.

Write:

Write what you think is happening in the skit. Tell why you think so.
View 1

Watch the skit all the way through, once. Don't worry if you miss some words. Try to understand what is happening.

Here are some new words.

Suggestion: Again, you might want to divide into two segments.

View 2

Now watch Maria's Wrist again. Ask the teacher to stop the tape at places where you do not understand, or where you want to listen again.

New Words:

driving me crazy: making me feel tense, irritable
how come: why
crybaby: someone who complains a lot
swollen: puffed up

Other new words:
Review - Discuss

Why does Maria ask Carlos to open the window? What does Maria mean by "I'm on another bad job?"

What does she mean by "On these rates, I have to work too fast?"

How does Maria feel? How does her husband feel? Do you think they get along with each other? Why?

What does her husband tell her to do? What do you think Maria should do?

Why do you think the company doctor tells Maria there is nothing wrong?

Do you have health problems from work? What are they? What can you do about them?

Suggestions:

1. Discuss body parts, using total physical response, charts from other ESL texts or other charts. Keep words for body parts on wall.
2. Discuss vocabulary for illness and health. Have students practice identifying symptoms using substitution drills:
I have a headache/he has a headache. I'm tired/he's tired.
3. Introduce feeling words: worried, anxious, calm, excited, bored, etc. Use the words to identify how the characters in the skit are feeling.
Read

Now read the skit on the next page. Discuss the new words and phrases with your teacher and with each other. Write down the new words in the spaces.
Maria's Wrist

Setting - Maria's kitchen
Characters: Maria
            João, her husband
            Carlos, her son

Maria: Carlos, please close the window.

Carlos: But Mom, I'm washing the dishes. My hands are all soapy.

Maria: The trucks outside are driving me crazy. I can't close it because my wrist hurts. Close the window!

Carlos: O.K., O.K. How come you're so upset?

Maria: I'm sorry. I'm on another bad job. I can't work fast enough to make any money because of my wrist.

Carlos: Did you go to the doctor? You said you should make an appointment.

Maria: I went to the company doctor. He said there was nothing wrong.

Carlos: How could he say that? That wrist has been bothering you for months.

Maria: Everyone has problems. I'm no crybaby!

Enter João
(Maria's Wrist, continued)

João: Is supper ready yet?

Maria: No.

João: I'm hungry. When are we eating?

Maria: It's taking a long time. I have a headache again and my wrist hurts, so it's slow opening the cans.

João: Then take some aspirin. And let Carlos open the cans.

Maria: I did. It didn't help. But I just can't take aspirin all the time. The problem is the job.

João: You have to work. We need the money.

Maria: I know we do. But on these rates, I have to work too fast. My eyes hurt all the time and now my wrist has been swollen for weeks.

João: We need the money.

Maria: I heard you. I heard you.
Review-Write
Work with a partner. Write down the story as you remember it. You might want to practice words like first, then, next.

Suggestion: For editing practice, have students put their writing on newsprint using thick markers. Tape the newsprint sheets on the board or wall. Other students can edit the writing, checking for accuracy of detail in content and one or two grammatical features (spelling, end punctuation, capitalization.) Students can keep their own list of spelling words from exercises like this. This exercise can be adapted to other pieces of writing.
Grammar Work
Possessives:

Suggestion: You might want to bring in some other grammar work about possessives if it seems appropriate to add to the suggestions here.

To show ownership, add 's to something for the singular (one person or thing). Add s' for the plural (more than one person or thing.)

Example: Carlos is Maria's son.

Fill in these examples:

1. Maria is ____________wife.

2. João is ____________husband.

3. Carlos is ____________son.

4. ___________wrist is swollen.

5. ___________hands are all soapy.

6. ___________eyes hurt.

Working Too Hard, Working Too Fast?

Pre-view

Read about the characters in Working Too Hard, Working Too Fast?

Suggestion: If the students have already been introduced to the characters in the previous scene, you might want to have the students reintroduce the characters before they read.

Maria: Maria works in a factory. She works piece-work. Her wrist hurts. She thinks it is from the job.

Theresa: Theresa is Maria's friend. She works in the same factory as Maria.

Ana: Ana works in the same factory as Maria and Theresa.

Imagine:
The title of this skit is Working Too Hard, Working Too Fast? Maria, Theresa, and Ana are in the cafeteria on their break. What do you think it will be about?
Discuss:

Do you get breaks at work? When?
Who do you sit with?
What do you talk about?

View 1

Watch the video through with no sound.
Discuss these questions:

What are the women doing?
What is Ana doing?
What is Theresa doing?
What are they eating?
What do you think they are talking about?

_________________________________________________________

Write:

Write some sentences about what the women are doing.
Suggestion: This might be useful for practice with present continuous. Students can add their own examples.

Example: They are talking.

Ana is __________________________________________ Maria is __________________________________________

Watch the video again with sound. Ask the teacher to stop if you don't understand something or if you want to watch it again.

Suggestion: It might be useful to stop the tape when Theresa says "That's great" and Ana says "Keep dreaming" to discuss sarcasm, tone, irony, and other interpretive features of dialogue.

New Words:

jittery: nervous

guards: parts of a machine that protect the worker from getting hurt.

union: an organization of workers that acts to protect workers' rights.

rights: laws that protect you. Workplace rights are laws that protect you at work.

Other New Words:
Discuss:

What does Maria tell Theresa?
What does Theresa tell Maria?

Do you think this is just Maria's problem, or do other workers have this problem, too?

What does Ana do to make more money?
Does Theresa think it is a good idea?
Do you think it's a good idea? Why?

Do you have a machine at work?
Do you have guards on the machine?
Do you use the guards?
Why? Why not?

What does Theresa think they need?
Does Ana agree with her?
Do you agree with her?

What does Theresa mean when she says "This is America. We're supposed to have some rights?"
What rights do you have at work?

What does Maria mean when she says: "If I don't get some rest, I don't know what I'll do?"

What can Maria do? What do you think she should do?
What would you do?
Review: Read

Read the skit all the way through. Try to understand what is happening. Then discuss the words and phrases you do not understand. Write down the new words.
Working Too Hard, Working Too Fast?

Setting: Cafeteria at work
Characters: Maria, Theresa, Ana

Theresa: You look tired, Maria.

Maria: I am. I can't sleep these days. I'm always jittery and lately my wrist hurts all night long.

Theresa: My mother had a bad wrist, too. My shoulder hurts sometimes. It must be the machines.

Maria: I'm so tired sometimes I think I might fall asleep at the machine.

Theresa: Be careful. You could get hurt that way.

Maria: I know, but what can I do? I'm sleepy, but I still have to work fast if I'm going to make any money.

Ana: I take my guards off. You can work faster that way.

Theresa: That's great! Then you'll have an accident and miss a whole week's work. What we need are some changes. Better machines and better rates.

Ana: Keep dreaming! This company will never change.

Theresa: Maybe we should talk to the union. This is America. We're supposed to have some rights.

Maria: I don't like to make trouble. But if I don't get some sleep, I don't know what I'll do.
Grammar Practice:

Contractions:

In contractions, we leave out some letters and use an apostrophe.

Example:

I cannot sleep.
I can't sleep.

Write the contractions for the following. Find them in Working Too Hard, Working Too Fast. Circle them.

I am

I can not

That is

Do not

I will Write:

Give some advice to Maria. Write her a short letter. Tell her what you think.

Example:

Dear Maria,

Sincerely,

your name here

Suggestion: The "Letter to Maria" might be used as a context for teaching the conventions of letter writing. Once again, students could edit each other's work off newsprint drafts.
The Petition

Pre-view: Read and Discuss:

Read about the characters in The Petition

Maria: Maria works in a factory. She is forty five years old. She is a stitcher. She has trouble with her wrist.

Theresa: Theresa is Maria's friend. She is a stitcher, too. She works in the same factory as Maria.

Manny: Manny is Theresa's husband. He is a shipper. He works in the same factory as Maria and Theresa.

Ernesto: Ernesto is Maria's and Theresa's supervisor.
Pre-view - Discuss

-What is a petition?
-Why do people have petitions?
-Did you ever sign a petition? Why?

Pre-view (Without Sound)

Watch The Petition without sound. Try to answer the questions

What is happening?
Who is the supervisor?
Who is Manny?
How can you tell?

View 1

Watch The Petition all the way through with sound. Try to get the main idea.
View 2
Watch The Petition again. Ask your teacher to stop at places you do not understand or want to see again.

New Words:

- petition: A paper that many people sign to show that they want something changed.
- committee: A group of people who work together on a problem or issue.
- country club: A fancy, expensive club where people go to relax, swim, eat, and visit with other people.
- OSHA: Occupational Safety and Health Act (See fact sheet #1)

Read

Read the skit on the next page. Write down any new words or phrases.
The Petition

Setting: Shipping area at work
Characters: Maria, Theresa, Manny (Theresa's husband), Ernesto (supervisor)

Maria: Will you sign this petition?

Manny: I'm not signing anything. I need this job.

Maria: But Manny, you told me your shoulder has been bothering you for months.

Manny: You and your health committee. You're going to make trouble for the company. Next thing we'll all be out of work.

Ernesto: Maria, why aren't you at your machine?

Maria: (folding the paper) I was just showing Manny a letter from our uncle.

Ernesto: Well, show him on your break. What do you think this is? A country club?

Theresa: Some country club.

Manny: You want things too easy. They know what they're doing here. You have to work hard if you want to get ahead.

Maria: You think things will get better if we keep our mouths shut? Pretty soon you won't be able to work anymore, like Ricardo.

Manny: My shoulder isn't that bad.

Maria: No, but it will be.

Theresa: Let me see that. I'll sign. It's about time we had an OSHA inspection anyway. This place is unhealthy.
REVIEW - DISCUSS
Suggestion: If students watched Working Too Hard, Working Too Fast, go back to the end when Maria says "I don't know what I'll do." Use this as a lead in to Maria's decision to circulate the petition.

What does Maria want Manny to do? Why does Maria want him to do this? Does Manny want to sign? Why?

What is a health committee? Do you have one at work? What does it do?

Manny says: "They know what they're doing here. You have to work hard if you want to get ahead." What does he mean? Do you agree?
Fact Sheet #1 - Safety and Health and Your Rights
Discuss these words. Then match the words with their meanings. Put the letter of the meaning next to the word.

Example:
1. pain____e
   a. A feeling when you are sad, tired, and have no energy
2. tingling____
   b. When somebody looks something over
3. numbness____
   c. A feeling when you get mad quickly or lose patience
4. disability____
   d. A feeling of pain in the head
5. headache_____
   e. A feeling of hurt or suffering
6. insomnia____
   f. When you cannot feel anything
7. high blood pressure _____
   g. When you cannot use a part of the body
8. irritable____
   h. Occupational Safety and Health Act
9. depressed____
   i. A feeling like needles and pins
10. cancer_____
   j. When you cannot sleep
11. OSHA_____
   k. A disease that sometimes causes death
12. inspection_____
   l. A disease caused by too much stress and worry
13. inflammation_____
   m. When part of the body becomes swollen and sore
Reading for a purpose

Suggestion: The concept of a paragraph might be introduced here. Identify paragraphs in the fact sheet. Have students identify paragraphs from any available printed materials, circling them and paying attention to indentation or spacing between.

Divide into four groups. Each group should follow the directions below. One person in each group should write down the answer. Then that person can tell the whole class what the group found in the reading.

Group 1: Read paragraphs 2, 3, 4. Answer the following questions:

1. What is Carpal Tunnel Syndrome?

2. How can you get it?

3. What causes it?

4. How can you prevent it?

5. Do you know anybody who has Carpal Tunnel Syndrome? What can that person do?
Group 2: Read paragraph 5. Answer the questions

1. What is stress?

2. What do people sometimes do about stress?

3. What else can people do about stress?

4. Do you ever feel nervous, irritable, or depressed at work? Why?

Group 3: Read paragraphs 6, 7, and 8. Answer the following questions:

1. What are toxic chemicals?

2. What problems do toxic chemicals cause?

3. Can you see toxic chemicals?

4. What is the best way to stay healthy?
5. Do you have any toxic chemicals in your workplace? How can you find out?

Group 4: Read paragraphs 9 and 10. Answer the questions.

1. What does the Occupational Safety and Health Act say?

2. What is the agency that makes sure the act is carried out?

3. What is the name of the local committee in Massachusetts? What is the phone number?

4. What is the name of the local committee in your state, if you do not live in Massachusetts? Look up the phone number.

5. When might you call OSHA or the local committee in your state?
All groups: Read the conclusion, then discuss the questions as a whole class.

1. Do you have any unsafe conditions at work? What are they?

2. What can workers do about unsafe working conditions?

3. What can you do if you are a union member?

4. Do you have toxic chemicals at work? What are they?

Discuss:

Now that you have read about workplace safety and health, what do you think Maria can do about her health problems?
Suggestions for follow up:
1. If students are union members, have them get a copy of their contract and look up sections on safety and health.
2. Invite a union representative in to class to discuss safety and health conditions that students may have identified as problem issues.
3. Invite a representative from OSHA, MasssCOSH, or a state agency to discuss safety and health conditions.

Maria's News

Preview: Read, Discuss, Write:

Characters: If you have already seen Maria and João, try to remember as much as you can about them.

Maria: She is ________________________________________________
   She ________________________________________________
   She ________________________________________________
   She ________________________________________________

Suggestion: Review possessives.

João: He is ________________________________________________
   He ________________________________________________
   He ________________________________________________
   He ________________________________________________

Preview: New words:
Suggestion: Explanation in the native language would be helpful in explaining some of the technical information.

workers' compensation: Insurance your company pays for to cover you if you get sick or hurt at work.

permanently disabled: You cannot get better from an illness or injury.

"get by": Be able to pay bills like groceries, rent, utilities.
Preview - Read

Read the skit Maria's News on the next page. Then act it out. Someone should act as Maria. Someone should act as João. The class should coach the actors in how to best act out Maria and João. Answer these questions before you act it out.

Where is the setting?
What do you think Maria is doing?
What do you think João is doing?
How will Maria sound? (happy? unhappy?)
How will João sound?

Act it out:

Suggestion: have students act out the skit before viewing and record it on audio tape to compare to skit.

View I:

Watch the skit. Compare how you acted with how Maria and João acted.

Suggestions: Generate list of words to describe feelings. Keep on newsprint and add to them. Apply them to characters throughout rest of skits.

View II:

View again. Stop the tape at places you do not understand.

Maria's News

setting: Maria's kitchen
Characters: Maria, João

João: Hey, is supper ready yet?

Maria: Sit down. I want to tell you something.

João: Don't rush me. I'll sit down when I'm ready.

Maria: O.K., then stand.

João: I don't want to stand. I'm tired. (He sits)

Maria: I went to a doctor about my hand. He said I should stay out of work for a month.

João: (Stands. Lights a cigarette)

Maria: Did you hear me?

João: Everyone has problems from the machines. That's just how it is.

Maria: I talked to the union. They say I can get workers compensation.

João: The union. Did the union tell you Manny has been waiting months for workers compensation?

Maria: No.

João: Did they tell you who would pay the bills while you're waiting?

Maria: Do you want me to be permanently disabled?

João: No, but we can't get by on one check.

Maria: I'll get a check. That's why we have workers compensation.

João: Hey, Manny, wake up, it's time for our game.

Manny: Ow, don't do that. My back is killing me.

João: What happened?

Manny: I hurt it at work.

Theresa: Did you file an accident report?

Manny: No, it was my own fault. I picked up a box the wrong way.

Theresa: You should report it anyway. Then maybe you can collect if you have to stay out.

Manny: I told you. It was my fault.

João: He won't have to stay out. It's just a little backache. Right? (slaps him again)

Manny: Ow.

2 months later

Lawyer: Have a seat.

Theresa: Thank you.

Manny: I'd rather stand.

Lawyer: Mr. Texiera, can you prove that you hurt your back at work?

Manny: I was lifting a box and I felt a sharp pain.

Lawyer: Did you report it at the time?

Theresa: No, he didn't. (They glare at each other)
a few days later

Manny: Ana, do you remember the day I hurt my back?

Ana: How could I forget? It was the last time I saw you stand up straight.

Venulda: Put that magazine away and do something useful. Pick up a pen and sign this union card.

Ricardo: Don't start on me. I already told that union organizer I'm not going to sign. I don't want to get involved.

Venulda: But Ricardo, you are involved. You work here.

Ricardo: And I want to keep working here. Can you lower your voice, please?

Venulda: I don't care if someone hears me. I want to keep working here, too. But I want some of the respect that's due me.

Venulda: Look, as long as you do your job right, nobody bothers you...

Venulda: Since when?

Ricardo: This country has laws to protect us.

Venulda: What about the time they suspended your sister for 2 days for leaving early because she left to pick up her sick kid?

Venulda: They've got to have rules, don't they?

Venulda: Fair ones. What about the time the foreman's brother got promoted over your father?

Ricardo: But what guarantee do we have with a union? We might have to pay our dues and get nothing.

Ana: I've got to go home. Put supper on the table. Then I've got to clean the kitchen, do the wash, make the kids' lunch for tomorrow...

Mark: OK. OK, I don't need your whole week's schedule. I just think you should come to vote in the union officer election.

Ana: Steward? I don't need any steward. Just one more big shot to tell me what to do.

Mark: But Ana, what if you have a problem. Who's gonna help you?

Ana: I don't need any help. I've got four bosses here, and a boyfriend, and three sons at home. That's about all the help I can stand.

Mark: You don't understand, do you? A union's not like that. Nobody wants to boss you. It's a chance for everyone to say what they think.

Ana: I understand. If the union cares so much what everyone thinks, how come they just post the notices in English?

Mark: You're just full of excuses. If people don't participate, the union can't be strong.

Joan: Come on, Ana. Mark is right. The kids can eat sandwiches for one night. We know the union isn't perfect, but if you saw this place before the union, you'd realize how important it is.

Woman #2- DES employee
Alda
Woman in line
Others in line

Woman # 1: Next!

Alda:
(inner voice): What do I say? (in English and Portuguese)
(Outer voice): I want to get unemployment.

Woman: Is this your first time here?

Alda: Yes.

Woman: You have to go to the next window to open a claim. This is for reopened claims.

Alda:
(inner): What is she talking about? What's a claim? Why do I have to go to another line?
(Outer voice): Thank you.

Woman 2: Can I help you?

Alda: Thank you. I want to get unemployment.

Woman: Is this to open a claim or to reopen a claim or just to collect?

Alda:
(Inner) What does she mean?
(Outer): This is my first time here.

Woman# 2: Here. Fill out these forms. Then have a seat and we'll call you.
Alda:
(inner): Oh my God. How can I fill these out? I need some help with this. I should just go home.
(outer): Thank you. (Starts to walk away, turns back)

Alda: Excuse me, does someone here speak Portuguese that could help me?

Woman: I'm sorry, we're really busy. We don't have anyone that can translate for you.

Rachel: I speak Portuguese. I could help you read the form if you want.

Alda: Oh, yes. Thank you. Obrigada!
Act Out:

List some places where you feel nervous to go. Maybe some of these places are on the list:

- doctor's office
- bank

Act out a skit in one of these places. For example, if it is in the doctor's office, one person is the receptionist or doctor, one person is the patient. Do one skit with the outer voice. Then do another skit with the inner voice.

Suggestion: Break students into pairs. Have each pair develop a skit at a different location. Have students write out the inner voice on a piece of cardboard. While they are talking using the outer voice, they can hold up the inner voice for the class to read.

Note: Inner/outer voice was suggested in Elizabeth Mueller's Good Days/Bad Days, developed by the New Jersey State Office of Adult Education.

Practice:

- Excuse me, I'd like to
- Can you please tell me
- Excuse me, can you tell me
- I'm sorry, I didn't understand. Can you Grammar I: List the countries where students come from. Then list the adjective to describe their nationalities.

Example:

Cambodia-Cambodian
China - Chinese

Suggestion: Keep this list on newsprint. Base some grammar exercises around the information. Example: I am from _______
I am _______He is from ________He is _________.

Grammar II:

Suggestion: Collect forms students are likely to come in contact with, and ask students to bring in forms they need to fill out. Practice filling them out as a class. (Ex: bank forms, insurance forms, etc.) Have students look for similarities among all the forms, so they will be able to transfer their abilities to any new forms they will encounter. Try to integrate the structure of forms in classroom exercises so that will practice and reinforce the strategies.

Lydia: It's freezing in here.

Venulda: I know. I've had a cold for weeks.

Lydia: Can't they turn up the heat?

Venulda: They say it's too hard to heat this place because it's so cid and big. But I bet they could if they wanted to.

Lydia: Well, this isn't good. My hands are so cold I can't work fast enough.

Venulda: Go talk to the boss.

Lydia: No way. He already thinks I'm a loudmouth.

Venulda: How about if we go together?

Lydia: OK. let's do it on break.

Fact Sheet # 1 - Work Plays: You and Your Rights on the Job
Labor Education Center, Southeastern Massachusetts University

Safety and Health at Work

Work can be hazardous to your safety and health. You have a right as a worker to know how your workplace affects you. Here are a few of the safety and health problems which may be caused by your job.

Carpal Tunnel Syndrome

Do you have pain, tingling, or numbness in your hand, wrist, arm, or shoulder? Does it get worse at night and better if you don't work for a week? You may have Carpal Tunnel Syndrome. Carpal Tunnel Syndrome is an inflammation of your wrist that damages your nerves. It is caused by repeating the same hand movements over and over again -- especially hand movements that bend your wrist or put pressure on your fingers and hands.

Carpal Tunnel Syndrome is very serious. It can cause permanent disability. But if you catch it in time, a doctor can treat you successfully. The best treatment is to wear a wrist splint so you can rest your wrist. If all else fails, a doctor may recommend drugs or an operation.

The best way to deal with Carpal Tunnel Syndrome is to prevent it. Carpal Tunnel Syndrome could be prevented if your machine had a different design or if the movements of your job were changed so there is less stress on your body.

Stress

Do you have headaches, insomnia, high blood pressure? Do you feel irritable or depressed? You may suffer from stress. Stress is not just a personal problem. Stress can be caused by things at work like noise, boredom, pressure to work fast, low wages, and other things. Sometimes people treat stress with medicine -- they take aspirin, tranquilizers, blood pressure medication. But the only way to reduce stress is to change the conditions that cause it.

Safety and Health -2-

Toxic Chemicals

Toxic (or poisonous) chemicals are another health hazard found in many workplaces. They are especially dangerous because you can’t see them. Some problems caused by toxic chemicals are breathing problems, lung disease, and cancer.

Formaldehyde is one toxic chemical that may be found in your workplace. It is found in most fabric and is released into the air as fumes. Other chemicals, such as polyvinyl chloride (PVC) also create toxic fumes. These fumes are dangerous. Good ventilation helps. However, the best way to stay healthy is to ask for safe conditions and safe materials at work.

You have the right to know what toxic chemicals you work with and how they affect you. This is the law.

Occupational Safety and Health Act

The Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970 covers all the problems just described. The act says that all workers in this country have the right to a safe and healthy workplace. The agency that carries out this act is called OSHA. All workers have the right to call OSHA and ask for an inspection of their workplace. They can also ask that their names be kept secret. If OSHA decides there is a serious problem, they can require the company to correct the problem.

Sometimes there is a local committee on occupational safety and health that can advise you about health and safety at work. In Massachusetts, there is an organization called MassCOSH -- Massachusetts Coalition for Occupational Safety and Health.

Conclusion

Any group of workers also has the right, on its own, to petition or to protest against unsafe working conditions.

If you are a union member, your union contract may contain safety and health language that can be enforced through the grievance procedure.

You are entitled to a safe and healthy workplace. You can help to make sure you have one.

Workers' Compensation Benefits

If you get sick or hurt at work, and you lose time at your job, you can still get an income. You are eligible for Workers' Compensation benefits. Workers' Compensation is insurance coverage that your employer must have in case you get sick or hurt at work. Workers' Compensation Benefits include pay for lost work time and medical costs.

What Can You Collect?

I. LOST WAGES

a. Totally Disabled - If you cannot work at all, you are called totally disabled. If you are totally disabled, you can collect 2/3 of your average weekly salary. For example, if your weekly salary is 300.00, you can collect $200.00 a week under Workers' Compensation.

b. Partially Disabled - If you have to work fewer hours or on a different, lower paying job (because of a work injury or illness) you are called partially disabled. If you are partially disabled, you can collect 2/3 of your lost earning capacity. Lost earning capacity is the difference between what you made before you got hurt or sick and what you made after. For example, if you made $400.00 a week before you got hurt, and $100.00 a week after, you are losing $300.00 a week. That is your lost earning capacity. You can collect 2/3 of that $300.00, or $200.00 a week.

2. Medical Expenses - You can collect doctor's and hospital bills, prescriptions, braces, and travel to and from the doctor.

3. Re-training and Rehabilitation: If you cannot return to your old job because of injury or illness, you may be entitled to payments for re-training. That is, you can get trained for another job or career.

4. Payments for scars, amputations, and loss of function. That means, you can get a one-time payment for these injuries.

continued
Who is Eligible?

You are eligible (that is, you can collect Workers' Compensation benefits) if you can prove:

1. Your accident happened at work or on company grounds during work time.
   For example, you fell in the company parking lot because it was covered with ice or you cut your finger on a machine.

   OR

2. Your illness or injury is caused by conditions on your job. For example, Carpal Tunnel Syndrome, back problems, or even some cancers.

   OR

3. Your injury or illness is from an old health problem that gets worse because of your job. For example, you had allergies or back problems that got worse because of your job.

Proving Your Case

You must be able to prove that your illness or injury is work-related. Because of this it is very important to:

1. Fill out an accident report as soon as an accident happens and make sure your employer fills one out and sends it to its insurance company. They have to send you a copy too. If you do not get a copy in the mail of your employer's report of injury, you should contact the insurance company directly.

2. Go to the hospital, health office or to a doctor for treatment and make sure there is a record of your injury.

3. Write down the names of witnesses. A witness is someone who saw an accident or can say that you got sick from work.
Workers' Compensation -3-

You should let your employer know as soon as an accident happens. You should also let the company know as soon as you realize that you have a work-related illness or injury. If you wait too long, you might lose your right to apply for Workers' Compensation Benefits.

How Long Does it Take?

You are eligible for benefits as soon as you have been out of work for 5 calendar days. Your employer should tell the insurance company right away. You should check to make sure your employer does this. Within 2 or 3 weeks you should get an answer. Remember, if you do not get a copy of your employer's report of injury, you should contact the insurance company directly. The insurance company will either give you a check or say they will not pay. If they refuse to pay, you should file a claim at the Industrial Accident Board. Also, you may want to talk to a lawyer. You may have to go to a hearing. When the benefits come through, you will get paid from the first day you were out of work. This is called retroactive benefits.

Conclusion

You are entitled to Workers' Compensation by law, no matter whose fault the injury is. Even if you were careless, or an old medical problem got worse because of your job, you can still get Workers' Compensation. Remember that Workers' Compensation is insurance to protect you at work. Workers' Compensation is a right. But it is important to know your rights to get your rights. Ask your union officials or your teacher for more information about workers' compensation.
Discrimination

Have you been refused a job because of the color of your skin? Have you been denied a promotion because you're a woman? Do you get the lowest paid jobs because you're from another country and speak a different language? If so, you are probably a victim of employment discrimination. Employment discrimination is when you are treated unfairly on the job simply because of:

- Your race
- Your color
- Your national origin
- Your religion
- Your age
- Your sex
- A physical or mental disability

Employment discrimination is illegal.

Discrimination can take many forms. Sometimes discrimination is easy to notice. For example, when an employer says to you: "I will not hire you for this job because you're a woman",
or
"We don't promote Blacks to supervisor"
or
"I'm sorry, but you're too old for this training program."

This type of discrimination is easy to prove because the employer has admitted the reason.

More often discrimination is not that obvious. A company may have a record of not promoting Blacks to management. If you ask for the reason they will say it is because the individuals were not qualified. Or a company may pay a man more than a woman doing basically the same job. If questioned they may explain some very minor differences in the jobs. Many companies use excuses like these. But if you see a pattern of unfair treatment toward certain groups, it is probably discrimination.

Sexual Harassment

Sexual harassment is another form of discrimination. Sexual harassment is any unwanted sexual attention directed toward you on your job. You are a victim of sexual harassment if:

Your supervisor says he will promote you if you go out with him.

The man at the machine next to you puts pornographic pictures on your machine.
Discrimination -2-

Your boss pinches you when he walks by, or other things like that.

If you have felt pressured into going along with the harassment, don't worry. The harassment is still illegal. You are not to blame.

All of the above forms of discrimination are illegal. If you think you are a victim of employment discrimination, you can file a complaint.

What can you do?

1. Talk to your union. Your contract probably protects you against discrimination.

2. Report the complaint to the MCAD. The MCAD (Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination) is the Massachusetts agency that enforces laws against discrimination. Most states have similar agencies. Most workers should file their complaints with those agencies. There is also a federal agency called EEOC - Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. Federal employees should file complaints there.

In most cases you have six months to file a complaint. But it is best to file as soon as you are aware that you have been discriminated against. It is illegal for an employer to fire you or discipline you for filing a complaint.

You can also choose to remove your complaint from MCAD any time after you file it.

Once you file a complaint, the agency will assign an investigator to the case. The investigator will talk to you and others to figure out if discrimination has really taken place. If the investigator thinks you have been discriminated against, he or she will try to work out a solution between you and your employer. If you cannot agree on a solution, the agency will hold a hearing.

If they decide at the hearing that discrimination has taken place, they will order the company to change the situation. This might mean the company must change their rules, giving you back pay, promoting you etc. If you or the company are unhappy with the decision the next step is to go to court.

The MCAD may take a long time to complete all of these steps.

3. You can talk to a private lawyer about your case.

Conclusion

Remember, only the groups mentioned are protected by laws. Not all forms of unfair treatment are illegal. For example, most states do not protect homosexuals. If a boss gives his nephew a job instead of you, you are not protected by law. On the other hand, you may be protected by your union contract. Ask your union for more information about discrimination.
Unions

Are you in a union? Do you have friends or relatives who are in unions? Have you seen stories about unions on TV? Most people who work for a living have heard about unions. But not everyone knows what a union is. How did your union start? How does a union work? What is a union contract? What is the grievance procedure? Who makes decisions? If you are a worker, it is important to know the answers to these questions.

What is a Union?

A labor union is an organization of workers who join together to obtain decent wages, decent working conditions and respect. About twenty million workers in this country belong to unions. A union is many workers speaking together with one voice.

How Does a Workplace Become Unionized?

Labor unions do not just appear at workplaces. They must be voted in by the workers. The workers vote by secret ballot for or against the union. Before the election, people discuss and argue. They spend a lot of time talking about whether a union is good to have or not good to have. This period of time is called the organizing drive. During the organizing drive you may be asked to sign a union card to ask for a union election. Sometimes people are worried about signing a union card. There are laws that protect people who participate in unions from being fired. This includes signing a union card. When 31% of the workers have signed cards, they can file for an election. A government agency called the NLRB (National Labor Relations Board) will give you a date for an election. They will also run the election to make sure it is fair.

The Contract

If the union wins, the next step is to negotiate a union contract. A contract is a document, signed by the union and the employer, that guarantees certain wages, certain benefits, and certain rights. Many people think that workers' rights in this country are guaranteed by law. A few are. Most rights, however, are only guaranteed by a good contract.
Unions -2-

For example, you may have health insurance in a non-union workplace, but employers can take it away any time they want. Job security, also, is only guaranteed by a contract. In a non-union workplace, you can be fired any time the employer thinks that you work too slowly, talk too much, wear your hair long, etc. A contract has the weight of law and the employer must follow it.

Workers participate in getting a good contract in several ways. First, they choose a negotiating committee. The negotiating committee sits down with the company to discuss or argue about what to put into the contract. For some workers, higher wages might be the most important thing; for others, it might be a health and safety committee to make sure that workers don’t get hurt or killed on the job. The negotiating committee will try to hold out for the best contract they can get. When they think they have a reasonable offer from the company, they will bring it to a membership meeting. Here all the members can vote whether to accept or reject the contract. If they reject it, the negotiating committee goes back to the bargaining table to try to get a better contract.

If the company does not offer a fair contract, the majority of the workers may vote to strike. Strikes are sometimes used to pressure the employer to give the workers what they feel they deserve. However, both the union and the employer like to avoid strikes because they cause a lot of hardship. Strikes occur in only about 1% of all contract negotiations. If the membership votes to accept the contract, they start working with new protections, wages, and benefits.

The Grievance Procedure

One of the most important items in your contract is the grievance procedure. The grievance procedure gives every worker the right to make sure the contract is followed. For example, suppose the contract says that overtime must be given out by seniority. Suppose your supervisor has a favorite and always gives the work to that person instead. If you have been passed over you can speak to your shop steward. Your shop steward is someone you elect or someone who is chosen to represent you. Your shop steward will speak to the supervisor and try to resolve the situation. If talking doesn’t work, the steward may file a grievance. If that doesn’t work, the complaint may go to arbitration. At arbitration, the union argues your case, the company argues its case, and a neutral person decides if the contract is being followed. However, most grievances are resolved at the early stages.
Unions -3-

Union Democracy

A union is democratic. This means that decisions are made by voting. You vote for the union. You vote to ratify your contract. You vote for your officers. You vote for your shop stewards. Everyone has the right to voice opinions at union meetings. You are the union, not the officers or the steward. You elect them to represent you. Everyone is entitled to a copy of the union contract, so you can stand up for your rights.

In a union, as in any group, sometimes people disagree or get angry about how things are done. If you participate in your union, you can help make things the way YOU want them to be.
Know Your Workplace Rights

Have you ever wondered if you have to work overtime? If you can be fired without a warning? If your workplace must be a certain temperature?

There are some laws that protect workers on the job. Other areas are totally unprotected by law.

Unemployment Insurance

All workers who are laid-off are entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. You are also entitled to unemployment insurance in many cases if you quit or if you are fired.

You should file a claim at your nearest DES office as soon as you stop working. DES stands for Division of Employment Security. This is the agency that enforces and administers the unemployment laws. If you are laid-off, your claim will generally be processed quickly. If you quit or are fired it may take longer.

Your benefits - when you get them - will be 1/2 your average weekly wage. For example: If your weekly wage is $300.00, your weekly benefits will be $150.00.

Sometimes you can collect if you are fired. You cannot collect if you are fired for "deliberate misconduct." Deliberate misconduct means that you did something on purpose that was against the rules or hurt the company in some way. For example, you cannot collect if you are lazy and are always tooling around on the job. That is deliberate misconduct. You cannot collect unemployment insurance.

If you work as hard as you can but cannot keep up with the work, that is not deliberate misconduct. You can collect unemployment benefits.

If you quit

It is harder to collect unemployment if you quit. But it is sometimes possible. If you resign for "good cause" or for "urgent, necessary, and compelling" personal reasons, you can collect. For example, you can collect if you quit because:

- You are being sexually harassed.
- Your plant moves too far away.
- Your working conditions are very bad--poor ventilation, too hot, etc.
- Your working conditions are unsafe.
- You aren't paid on time, or
- Your spouse is transferred and you have to move far away, etc.

continued
Workplace Rights

If you apply for unemployment insurance and are denied, you can appeal. You have the right to a hearing. About 1/3 of the people who appeal win their cases.

Concerted Activity (Workers Acting Together)

The National Labor Relations Act gives workers the right to engage in concerted activities. This means you can protest unfair or unsafe conditions, unfair discipline, and other things as long as more than one person protests. You can go to talk to the boss, circulate petitions, even picket the entrance, if you do it with two or more people. This means it is safer to talk to the boss or to try to make changes when you do it with other workers. You are not protected if you complain or try to make changes all by yourself.

Other Laws

These are some other laws that protect you on the job.

- You must get time and a half for all hours over 40 in one week.
- All women can get at least 8 weeks unpaid maternity leave.
- Factories must be at least 60°. (But there is no upper temperature law).
- You must be allowed to sit, unless it keeps you from doing your job.
- You must get a 30 minute break if you work 6 hours.
- You must have 6 bathrooms for 150 employees.
- Most employers cannot ask you about your criminal record on an employment application.

To see who enforces these laws, look at the list at the end of your fact sheet.

Conclusion:

Labor laws protect you only up to a certain point. Many things you may think should be protected are not. For example:

- If the foreman’s brother is promoted instead of you and you've been there longer. NO PROTECTION

- If the company suddenly cut your pay form $6.00/hr to $4.00/hr. NO PROTECTION

Very often the only protection you have is to join together with other workers to protest or to form a union.

Union contracts can provide many protections that laws do not provide.
One more point

Labor laws are different from other laws. The police are watching to make sure you do not drive over the speed limit. But no one is watching to see if your employer is following the labor laws - except you. This is why it is so important to know your rights.

Discrimination

Have you been refused a job because of the color of your skin? Have you been denied a promotion because you're a woman? Do you get the lowest paid jobs because you're from another country and speak a different language? If so, you are probably a victim of employment discrimination. Employment discrimination is when you are treated unfairly on the job simply because of:

- Your race
- Your color
- Your national origin
- Your religion
- Your age
- Your sex
- A physical or mental disability

Employment discrimination is illegal.

Discrimination can take many forms. Sometimes discrimination is easy to notice. For example, when an employer says to you:

or

"We don't promote Blacks to supervisor."

or

"I'm sorry, but you're too old for this training program."

Sexual harassment is another form of discrimination. Sexual harassment is any unwanted sexual attention directed toward you on your job. You are a victim of sexual harassment if:

Your supervisor says he will promote you if you go out with him.

The man at the machine next to you puts pornographic pictures on your machine.
Discrimination -2-

Your boss pinches you when he walks by, or other things like that.

If you have felt pressed into going along with the harassment, don't worry. The harassment is still illegal. You are not to blame.

All of the above forms of discrimination are illegal. If you think you are a victim of employment discrimination, you can file a complaint.

What can you do?

1. Talk to your union. Your contract probably protects you against discrimination.

2. Report the complaint to the MCAD. The MCAD (Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination) is the Massachusetts agency that enforces laws against odiscrimination. Most states have similar agencies. Most workers should file their complaints with those agencies. There is also a federal agency called EEOC- Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. Federal employees should file complaints there.

In most cases you have six months to file a complaint. But it is best to file as soon as you are aware that you have been discriminated against. It is illegal for an employer to tire you or discipline you for filing a complaint.

You can also choose to remove your complaint from MCAD any time after you file it.

Once you file a complaint, the agency will assign an investigator to the case. The investigator will talk to you and others to figure out if discrimination has really taken place. If the investigator thinks you have been discriminated against, he or she will try to work out a solution between you and your employer. If you cannot agree on a solution, the agency will hold a hearing.

If they decide at the hearing that discrimination has taken place, they will order the company to change the situation. This might mean the company must change their rules, giving you back pay, promoting you etc. If you or the company are unhappy with the decision the next step is to go to court.

The MCAD may take a long time to complete all of these steps.

3. You can talk to a private lawyer about your case.

Conclusion

Remember, only the groups mentioned are protected by laws. Not all forms of unfair treatment are illegal. For example, most states do not protect homosexuals. If a boss gives his nephew a job instead of you, you are not protected by law. On the other hand, you may be protected by your union contract. Ask your union for more information about discrimination.
Unions

Are you in a union? Do you have friends or relatives who are in unions? Have you seen stories about unions on TV? Most people who work for a living have heard about unions. But not everyone knows what a union is. How did your union start? How does a union work? What is a union contract? What is the grievance procedure? Who makes decisions? If you are a worker, it is important to know the answers to these questions.

What is a Union?

A labor union is an organization of workers who join together to obtain decent wages, decent working conditions and respect. About twenty million workers in this country belong to unions. A union is many workers speaking together with one voice.

How Does a Workplace Become Unionized?

Labor unions do not just appear at workplaces. They must be voted in by the workers. The workers vote by secret ballot for or against the union. Before the election, people discuss and argue. They spend a lot of time talking about whether a union is good to have or not good to have. This period of time is called the organizing drive. During the organizing drive you may be asked to sign a union card to ask for a union election. Sometimes people are worried about signing a union card. There are laws that protect people who participate in unions from being fired. This includes signing a union card. When 31% of the workers have signed cards, they can file for an election. A government agency called the NLRB (National Labor Relations Board) will give you a date for an election. They will also run the election to make sure it is fair.

The Contract

If the union wins, the next step is to negotiate a union contract. A contract is a document, signed by the union and the employer, that guarantees certain wages, certain benefits, and certain rights. Many people think that workers' rights in this country are guaranteed by law. A few are. Most rights, however, are only guaranteed by a good contract.
Unions -2-

For example, you may have health insurance in a non-union workplace, but employers can take it away any time they want. Job security, also, is only guaranteed by a contract. In a non-union workplace, you can be fired any time the employer thinks that you work too slowly, talk too much, wear your hair long, etc. A contract has the weight of law and the employer must follow it.

Workers participate in getting a good contract in several ways. First, they choose a negotiating committee. The negotiating committee sits down with the company to discuss or argue about what to put into the contract. For some workers, higher wages might be the most important thing; for others, it might be a health and safety committee to make sure that workers don't get hurt or killed on the job. The negotiating committee will try to hold out for the best contract they can get. When they think they have a reasonable offer from the company, they will bring it to a membership meeting. Here all the members can vote whether to accept or reject the contract. If they reject it, the negotiating committee goes back to the bargaining table to try to get a better contract.

If the company does not offer a fair contract, the majority of the workers may vote to strike. Strikes are sometimes used to pressure the employer to give the workers what they feel they deserve. However, both the union and the employer like to avoid strikes because they cause a lot of hardship. Strikes occur in only about 1% of all contract negotiations. If the membership votes to accept the contract, they start working with new protections, wages, and benefits.

The Grievance Procedure

One of the most important items in your contract is the grievance procedure. The grievance procedure gives every worker the right to make sure the contract is followed. For example, suppose the contract says that overtime must be given out by seniority. Suppose your supervisor has a favorite and always gives the work to that person instead. If you have been passed over you can speak to your shop steward. Your shop steward is someone you elect or someone who is chosen to represent you. Your shop steward will speak to the supervisor and try to resolve the situation. If talking doesn't work, the steward may file a grievance. If that doesn't work, the complaint may go to arbitration. At arbitration, the union argues your case, the company argues its case, and a neutral person decides if the contract is being followed. However, most grievances are resolved at the early stages.
Union Democracy

A union is democratic. This means that decisions are made by voting. You vote for the union. You vote to ratify your contract. You vote for your officers. You vote for your shop stewards. Everyone has the right to voice opinions at union meetings. You are the union, not the officers or the steward. You elect them to represent you. Everyone is entitled to a copy of the union contract, so you can stand up for your rights.

In a union, as in any group, sometimes people disagree or get angry about how things are done. If you participate in your union, you can help make things the way YOU want them to be.
Know Your Workplace Rights

Have you ever wondered if you have to work overtime? If you can be fired without a warning? If your workplace must be a certain temperature?

There are some laws that protect workers on the job. Other areas are totally unprotected by law.

Unemployment Insurance

All workers who are laid-off are entitled to unemployment insurance benefits. You are also entitled to unemployment insurance in many cases if you quit or if you are fired.

You should file a claim at your nearest DES office as soon as you stop working. DES stands for Division of Employment Security. This is the agency that enforces and administers the unemployment laws. If you are laid-off, your claim will generally be processed quickly. If you quit or are fired it may take longer.

Your benefits - when you get them - will be 1/2 your average weekly wage. For example: If your weekly wage is $300.00, your weekly benefits will be $150.00.

Sometimes you can collect if you are fired. You cannot collect if you are fired for "deliberate misconduct." Deliberate misconduct means that you did something on purpose that was against the rules or hurt the company in some way. For example, you cannot collect if you are lazy and are always fooling around on the job. That is deliberate misconduct. You cannot collect unemployment insurance.

If you work as hard as you can but cannot keep up with the work, that is not deliberate misconduct. You can collect unemployment benefits.

If you quit

It is harder to collect unemployment if you quit. But it is sometimes possible. If you resign for "good cause" or for "urgent, necessary, and compelling" personal reasons, you can collect. For example, you can collect if you quit because:

- You are being sexually harassed.
- Your plant moves too far away.
- Your working conditions are very bad--poor ventilation, too hot, etc.
- Your working conditions are unsafe.
- You aren’t paid on time, or
- Your spouse is transferred and you have to move far away, etc.

Workplace Rights - 2-

If you apply for unemployment insurance and are denied, you can appeal. You have the right to a hearing. About 1/3 of the people who appeal win their cases.

Concerted Activity (Workers Acting Together)

The National Labor Relations Act gives workers the right to engage in concerted activities. This means you can protest unfair or unsafe conditions, unfair discipline, and other things as long as more than one person protests. You can go to talk to the boss, circulate petitions, even picket the entrance, if you do it with two or more people. This means it is safer to talk to the boss or to try to make changes when you do it with other workers. You are not protected if you complain or try to make changes all by yourself.

Other Laws

These are some other laws that protect you on the job.

- You must get time and a half for all hours over 40 in one week.
- All women can get at least 8 weeks unpaid maternity leave.
- Factories must be at least 60°. (But there is no upper temperature law).
- You must be allowed to sit, unless it keeps you from doing your job.
- You must get a 30 minute break if you work 6 hours.
- You must have 6 bathrooms for 150 employees.
- Most employers cannot ask you about your criminal record on an employment application.

To see who enforces these laws, look at the list at the end of your fact sheet.

Conclusion:

Labor laws protect you only up to a certain point. Many things you may think should be protected are not. For example:

- If the foreman's brother is promoted instead of you and you've been there longer. NO PROTECTION
- If the company suddenly cut your pay from $6.00/hr to $4.00/hr. NO PROTECTION

Very often the only protection you have is to join together with other workers to protest or to form a union.

Union contracts can provide many protections that laws do not provide.
One more point

Labor laws are different from other laws. The police are watching to make sure you do not drive over the speed limit. But no one is watching to see if your employer is following the labor laws - except you. This is why it is so important to know your rights.
