This learning activity packet is designed to help students to acquire a competency, namely: how to use knowledge of careers in the fashion industry to gain information about their career choices. The unit consists of the competency, three objectives, suggested learning activities, transparency masters, handout materials for activities, and a pretest/posttest with answer keys. Activities include presentations of unit material to a group, keeping a student notebook, role-playing, mathematics skill development, comparison shopping, and writing advertising copy. (KC)

CIMCO
Careers in Fashion

Developed by the Curriculum and Instructional Materials Center for the division of Marketing Education Oklahoma Department of Vocational and Technical Education
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The CIMC would like to extend a great appreciation to the writer of this development, Ms. Jana Hawley. Without her expertise in the field of Fashion Merchandising, this development would not have been possible. For his constant support and influential drive in this project, a strong appreciation is extended to Mr. Gene Warner, State Supervisor for Marketing Education. For their continuous support and effort, a strong appreciation is extended to Mr. Greg Pierce, CIMC Coordinator, and Ms. Sheila Stone, Development Coordinator.

In addition, a very generous thank-you goes to the Word Processing Center and the Art Department for their efforts in the completion of this project. Also, thanks are extended to Dr. Gayle Kearns, Curriculum Development Specialist, for her assistance with the coordination and facilitation of this entire project.
Competency: How to use knowledge of careers in the fashion industry to gain information about your own career choices.

OBJECTIVES
A. Understand the skills and education requirements for careers in the fashion industry.
B. Identify a career area of interest to you.
C. Understand the major career fields in the fashion industry.

I. GROUP LEARNING ACTIVITIES FOR OBJECTIVES A, B, AND C

The lesson should begin with group presentation of all the key topics covered in this LAP. The transparencies are provided to help you with the presentation. Other activities are included to assist the students in understanding the fashion industry and their own personal skills and traits.

Transparency Number Message
A. 1 The clothing and textile industry is one of the largest in the nation. By supplying jobs and paying taxes, this industry has contributed greatly to the national economy. Less than a century ago, Americans wore clothing that was made at home. Today the majority of people wear clothing that is ready made.

2 To succeed in any area of the fashion business you need certain basic skills. Those skills include communication skills, social skills, people skills, mathematics skills, and product knowledge.

B. 3 Fashion careers involve working in a fast-paced, dynamic environment. It's fun and exciting—but can also be stressful. To prepare yourself for your career consider the following tips:

*Look for part-time work as a stock boy/girl, cashier, or salesclerk.

*Take basic courses in business, math, and art.

*Study fashions on the people and in the stores around you.
Every garment made in America passes through stages of design, manufacturing, and distribution. This chart may help you to understand those stages and the career opportunities at each level.

II. ADDITIONAL ACTIVITIES

A. 1. As assignments, ask each student to start a loose-leaf notebook titled FASHION INDUSTRY CAREER FACTS. Supply each student with enough forms to adequately summarize each occupational field in the fashion industry. The form can be found on page 13.

2. Have each student complete the "Is it Right For You" survey. The survey is provided on page 15.

B. 3. In order to help students understand the importance of human relations, distribute the activity found on page 17. Have them take a few minutes to complete the form then use their ideas as discussion stimulation.

4. To develop communication skills, have the students role-play a selling situation. Have one student assume that he works in a clothing store called Red Dress Salon. When helping a customer, he finds that he has the style and size that a customer needs, but the color is wrong. Ask another student to play the part of another salesperson at the Blue Dress Salon on the other side of town. Pick a particular outfit that someone else in the room is wearing. Via play telephone, have the Red Dress Salon salesperson describe the outfit to the salesperson at Blue Dress Salon. After he has described it, see if the salesperson from the Blue Dress Salon can identify it. Repeat the process giving all of the students an opportunity to practice their communication skills.

5. Math skills are important in the fashion business. Have the students make out sales receipts including items sold, 10% discount for coupon, tax, and total.

C. 6. Have the student choose two clothing stores where they buy clothing. Have them write the names of the stores, clothing items, brands, and styles on a separate sheet of paper. Then have them visit the stores to find out the prices of the items. If the prices are the same or very close, they should write an explanation as to why they think the merchandise is priced that way. If one store sells items for a higher price, have the students explain that.

7. Have each student try their skill at writing creative copy for the following items:

Women's black crepe dress, low back, beaded shoulders, long sleeves. $89.00. Sizes 4-14.
Girl's pink play suit. Elasticized sleeve, appliqued, zip front. $8.99. Sizes 18 months to 2 years.
