The purpose of this inservice package is to meet the immediate, short-range need for training vocational educators to serve limited English proficient (LEP) students effectively. It is designed to be presented by professionals who provide inservice training as a 2-day workshop or as several shorter workshops. Introductory materials include responsibilities of the facilitator and a list of materials. The content of the workshop is divided into an introduction, five units, and closing. Components of each unit include total time, objective, list of handouts, list of other materials needed, list of resources, and activities. Units cover these topics: orientation to vocational education for LEP students; materials and resources; collaboration; assessment; and learning activities. All handouts are collected in one section. INTRODUCTION

The purpose of this inservice package is to meet the immediate, short-range need for training vocational educators to serve limited English-proficient (LEP) students effectively. The intended audience for the workshop includes vocational teachers, counselors, paraprofessionals, bilingual educators, ESL teachers, and administrators who currently work with LEP vocational students or who expect to be in the near future. This package, intended for professionals who provide the inservice training, is designed to be presented as a two-day workshop or as several shorter workshops.

Responsibilities of the Facilitator

Although presenting the workshop may seem like the most obvious and important responsibility, in reality, the most critical role the facilitator can play is to plan. Planning includes arranging well in advance for promoting the workshop; preparing and ordering materials and supplies; checking facilities, equipment, and refreshments; and rehearsing with co-facilitators. It is strongly recommended that the facilitator become very familiar with the contents of each of the selected resources listed at the back or engage a consultant who has expertise in bilingual vocational education.

Materials

Specific materials needed for individual activities are listed with that activity. However, you should also have the following general materials on hand:

- More than enough handouts for all participants
- A flip chart and newsprint
- Large felt-tip pens
- Masking tape
- Pens, pencils, paper
- Name tags
- Extra bulbs for projectors
- Scissors
- Chalk

For more information on conducting workshops, read the Workshop Workbook, Macomb, IL: Curriculum Publications Clearinghouse, Northern Illinois University, 1986.
WORKSHOP INTRODUCTION

Total Time: 40 minutes

Objective: To introduce the workshop

Handouts:
1. List of workshop objectives
2. Workshop agenda
3. Get-Acquainted Bingo

Other Materials:
1. Notes on accessing restrooms, water fountains, exits, beverage machines, a public telephone, and eating establishments.
2. A prize

A. Welcoming Remarks

Words of greeting usually come from between one and three persons. They may come from workshop sponsors (e.g., district-level administrators or project directors) or building administrators (i.e., a principal). They are an excellent opportunity for the person who organized the workshop to introduce his or her "boss." Presentations of welcome should, above all, be brief and uplifting.

B. Workshop Objectives and agenda

Distribute or refer to the list of objectives and agenda. Read the objectives aloud and show where each of the objectives will be addressed in the agenda. Ask if there are any questions about the objectives of the workshop or the schedule. Explain that time schedules will be strictly honored and that punctuality is very important.

C. Facilities

Tell participants where they can find restrooms, water fountains, smoking area, telephone, eating establishments and any other important facilities. Have this information prepared on a note card before the workshop begins.

D. Get Acquainted Bingo

Give each participant a Get-Acquainted Bingo sheet. Have them stand, go around the room and introduce themselves to each other by signing their names in a box in each other's sheets. Tell them that the first person who fills every box with participants' signatures should shout, "Bingo." That person will receive a prize. Encourage participants to stand, move around the room, and get involved.

A. Get Acquainted with Human Resources 20-30 minutes

Have participants pair up by choosing one of the persons in the room whom they know least well. Have members of pairs interview one another for 3-5 minutes (each) and find out the following kinds of information:

- Person's name
- The person's job and place of employment
- The kinds of LEP students the person works with
- The person's wildest dream

After the interviewing is finished, have participants introduce their new friends to the entire group. Introductions should take about 30 seconds each. After the activity is over, tell participants that each of their new friends is a potential source of expertise, a human resource, for helping them serve LEP students more effectively.

B. National Resources 30 minutes

Distribute or refer to the lists and briefly discuss each of the centers, associations, and companies on the lists. Distribute literature from each.

C. Local Resources 15 minutes

Distribute or refer to the list and describe and discuss local resources. If possible invite local representative(s) of these agencies to make brief presentations and distribute literature.

D. Break 15 minutes

I. Evaluating and Modifying Materials 60 minutes

Refer to the Evaluation Checklist in Chapter Three of Instructional Materials for Bilingual Vocational Education and follow these steps:

1. Conduct a brief large-group discussion of what you first must know about your LEP students before you can evaluate and modify materials for them. If participants have a copy of the evaluation checklist, have them take notes in the small box, "Brief description of students." (About 5 minutes.)
2. Review items 1-5 (language) on the checklist but tell participants you will discuss the suggested modifications later. (About 1 minute.)

3. Review items 6-9 (bias). Have participants informally brainstorm suggested modifications to eliminate bias (and take notes in the appropriate box if they have a copy of the checklist). (About 5 minutes.)

4. Review items 10-18 (content) and have participants brainstorm suggested modifications. (About 5 minutes.)

5. Review items 19-20 (physical appearance) and have participants brainstorm suggested modifications. (About 4 minutes.)

6. Return to "Suggested Modifications in Language." Refer to the sample modifications also provided in Chapter Three of Instructional Materials for Bilingual Vocational Education. First review the example modifications that use the native language. Next, refer to the example modifications that simplify English. Distribute or refer to the handout Modifying Materials in English and have participants complete it. Review the correct answers and emphasize the fact that any of the modifications on the list would have been appropriate. Correct answers are: 2, 3, 4, 5, 7, 8, and 10. (About 15 minutes.)

7. Have participants work in small groups. Make sure each small group has access to the evaluation checklist. Give each group a vocational textbook to evaluate. Allow them about 15 minutes to evaluate the book. Have a group leader (for each small group) prepare a one-minute oral report on the four aspects of the textbook that were evaluated (language, bias, content, physical appearance). Have the leader for each group present the report. (About 25 minutes.)
UNIT THREE
COLLABORATION
COLLABORATION

Total Time: 2 hours and 15 minutes

Objective:
1. Explain the importance of and steps to collaboration between VESL and vocational teachers.
2. Describe at least 3 things you can do to help assure successful collaboration with a VESL (or vocational) teacher.
3. Participate in a joint lesson planning meeting with a VESL (or vocational) teacher.

Handouts:
1. Get Acquainted Bingo #2
2. Collaboration: VESL
3. Initial Collaborating Conference Questionnaire
4. Sample planning sheet
5. Planning sheet
6. Ten steps to collaboration

Other Materials: From The Handbook for Vocational ESL:
*1. Steps in Collaborating (pp. 29-30)
*2. Samples A-E (pp. 34-37)
*3. Operation Sheet (p. 39)
4. A prize

Resources:

*For permission to reproduce these, contact the publisher.

A. Get Acquainted Bingo #2 15 minutes

Distribute or refer to the Get Acquainted Bingo #2 sheet. Have participants get up, go around the room, and look for persons who can meet the characteristics in the bingo boxes. Participants may sign each other's sheets only once. The first participant to have every box signed shouts, "Bingo," and wins the prize. After participants are seated, read each characteristic from the sheet and have all participants who could have signed, raise their hands.

B. Why Collaborate? 15 minutes

Have students take out a piece of paper. Give them exactly two minutes to brainstorm and write down all the things that a vocational teacher can offer a ESL teacher to help the ESL teacher work more effectively with vocational students. After two minutes, have participants informally verbalize the items on their list while you write all of them on a chalkboard or on newsprint.
Next, repeat this activity but this time, have participants write down all the things a VESL teacher can offer a vocational teacher to help him or her work more effectively with LEP students.

C. Steps to Collaborating 15 minutes

Refer to pp. 29-30 of A Handbook for Vocational ESL and have participants read it silently. Then refer participants to samples A, B, and C (pp. 34-37) and explain that these are examples of the notes an ESL made on vocational materials in order to plan the VESL lesson. Next, refer participants to the operation sheet on p. 39 and the handout Collaboration: VESL. Give them about 5 minutes to do the activity on the handout.

Possible answers are: 1, 3, 5, 7, 8.

D. The Collaborating Conference 45 minutes

Explain to participants that in order for the BVT Model to work, V/ESL and vocational teachers must work collaboratively. This activity will address the interpersonal aspect of having a positive and successful collaborative relationship. (About 5 minutes.)

Next, break participants into small groups and distribute or refer to the handout The Initial Collaborating Conference. Have the small group leaders help the groups address the three questions on the handout and record all the answers either on the sheet or on a large piece of newsprint to be taped on the wall. (About 20 minutes.)

Have each leader give a group report. (About 15 minutes.)

E. Break 15 minutes

F. Collaborating Activity 30 minutes

Distribute or refer to the sample joint planning sheet. Review this with participants carefully. Discuss with participants the differences between vocational and ESL teaching and evaluation methods.

Distribute or refer to the blank joint planning sheet and the handout Ten Steps to Collaboration.

Have participants choose a task (or assign them one) and fill out the planning sheet in small groups by following the ten steps. Be sure that each group has at least one ESL and one vocational instructor.
UNIT FOUR
ASSESSMENT

ASSESSMENT

Total Time: 45 minutes

Objective:
1. Identify at least 2 commercially available assessment instruments appropriate for LEP vocational students.
2. Conduct at least 2 informal English proficiency tests.

Handouts:
1. Testing LEP Vocational Students
2. Two simple ways to rate oral proficiency in English
3. The Cloze Technique

Other Materials:
1. A dictation drill in a foreign language prepared on note cards
2. Sample assessment instruments
3. Tape of an oral interview with an LEP student
4. Tape player

Resources:

A. Dictation Exercise
20 minutes

Prepare a brief dictation in a language that will be unknown to participants. Ask participants to take out paper and prepare to write. Read them the following instructions:

This is a test of your ability to comprehend and write down orally presented material. It is a dictation task. You will hear a passage read aloud three (3) times. The first time it will be read at a conversational speed. Just listen and try to understand as much as you can. The second time, the passage will be read with pauses, for you to write down what you hear. The third time you will hear the same passage without pauses while you check what you have written down. You should write exactly what you hear.

Next, read them your brief dictation according to the instructions.

After the dictation is over, ask participants how they felt. While some participants find this dictation an enjoyable challenge, others may find it silly, frustrating, or even irritating. Thus, there will be a variety of reactions and responses. Remind participants how LEP students must feel when they cannot understand the language of the classroom.
Next, explain the benefits of dictation and how to administer and score a dictation exercise:

Dictation is an excellent way to measure how well students understand spoken English (or Russian).

- In fact scores on dictation tests correlate highly with scores on full-length overall English proficiency tests.
- They are very easy to administer.
- They are easy to score.
- Not only do they assess general ability to comprehend, but they are an excellent diagnostic tool.
- They can easily be job-related.
- They should be 50-100 words long.
- Give 1 point for each correct word.
- Read 3 times—no repeating.
- Spelling errors are rarely counted.
- Pronunciation errors are not counted.
- Only errors that show a lack of understanding.

B. Assessing Vocational Interest and Aptitude

Refer participants to the handout Testing LEP Vocational Students. Review the information related to vocational interest and aptitude and, if possible, distribute sample instruments.

C. Assessing Language Proficiency

Refer participants to the handout Testing LEP Vocational Students. Follow these steps:

1. Review information on English language proficiency. When discussing examples of listening/speaking, distribute or show sample instruments.

2. Refer participants to the handout Two Simple Ways to Rate Oral Proficiency in English. Review the first rating scale. Play a tape of an oral interview with an LEP person. Have the participants rate the proficiency level of the person on the tape.

3. Review reading and writing tests. Distribute or show samples. Refer participants to the handout The Cloze Technique. Have participants fill out the handout.

4. Review information on the rest of the handout Testing LEP Vocational Students.
UNIT FIVE
LEARNING ACTIVITIES
UNIT FIVE
LEARNING ACTIVITIES

Total Time: 1 hour

Objective: Conduct at least three new learning activities that you can use with LEP students.

Handouts: 1. Micro-ESL
2. How to Make a Crossword Puzzle
3. The refrigerant cycle crossword

Other Materials: *1. From A Handbook for Vocational ESLs,
   a. Structured Learning Activities (pp. 45-50)

3. A Language Master and sample cards.
4. Five large index cards with a task step written on each.

Resources:

*For permission to reproduce these, contact the publisher.

A. Structured Learning Activities 5 minutes

Refer participants to pp. 45-50 of A Handbook for Vocational ESL. Briefly review the structured activities on these four pages. Explain to participants that these as well as the activities that follow could be used by both vocational and V/ESL teachers.

B. Micro-ESL 15 minutes

Explain that micro-ESL is a structured way to use role-playing in the classroom. Ask 2 participants to volunteer to role-play a scene from an employment interview. Ask the participant who is playing the part of the applicant to play the part "wrong" and to convey that he or she is not listening. Instruct the rest of the participants to take note of all behavior that conveys that the applicant is not listening.

Next, review the 8 steps of Micro-ESL and refer participants to the handout.
C. Listening for Comprehension

Review the five steps on this activity:

1. Review vocabulary related to the passage
2. Review grammar related to the passage
3. Present comprehension questions
4. Play the passage
5. Review the answers to the questions

You may use a recorded passage such as a lecturette, song, news report, or conversation or a live passage (i.e., sing a song, make a speech, etc.).

D. Crossword Puzzles

Refer to the handout How to Make a Crossword Puzzle. Briefly review the steps. Mention the availability of commercially available computer software that makes crossword puzzles. Refer to the handout The Refrigerant Cycle as an example of a crossword puzzle that was made by a computer and based on the vocational instruction sheet used in the Collaboration Unit (Sample B, p. 35, The Handbook for Vocational ESL). If time permits, refer to the instruction sheet and demonstrate the point that this puzzle was designed by an ESL teacher who was unfamiliar with the refrigeration trade. Allow participants to answer the puzzle by using information from the instruction sheet.

E. Language Master

Demonstrate the two uses for the Language Master: to listen and then repeat in English or to listen in English and hear a translation. Invite one or two volunteers to try out the Language Master in front of the group.

F. Task Step Sequencing

Give out five index cards with a task step on each to five participants. Ask the five "volunteers" to stand, compare their cards, and put themselves in correct sequence. Have participants read their steps to the group one at a time, in correct order.

TWO SIMPLE WAYS TO RATE ORAL PROFICIENCY IN ENGLISH

1. Speech is so halting and fragmentary as to make conversation virtually impossible.

2. Usually hesitant; often forced into silence by language limitations.

3. Speed and fluency are rather strongly affected by language problems.

4. Speed of speech seems to be slightly affected by language problems.

5. Speech as fluent and effortless as that of a native speaker.

THE CLOZE TECHNIQUE

The cloze technique was developed by John Bormuth and is described in the article "The CLOZE readability procedure" (Elementary English, April, 1968: 429-436). Later you will learn to use other, more formal methods of determining the readability of printed material. However, the cloze technique will more than serve as a very method of estimating whether you can read the printed material you intend to use the instructional process. In , what is presented here a modification of the cloze technique which makes it easier for you to reasonable estimates of readability technical training.

The Modified Technique

Select a representative passage the printed material you to use. The passage be about 250 words.

1. Leave the first sentence the selected passage as.
2. Delete every fifth word the remainder of the passage.
3. Place a blank line the space where each word is deleted.
4. Have student the passage and fill the blanks.
5. If students successfully fill in 80% the blanks with appropriate , it is reasonable to that they understand what are reading.
MICRO-ESL, AN ADAPTATION OF MICROCOUNSELING*

1. Micro-ESL. Micro-ESL is an adaptation of the micro-counseling format (Ivey and Authier, 1978). Microcounseling is, essentially a systematic approach to role playing. By using this approach, ESL students can practice behaving in a variety of situations where effective interpersonal behavior is essential.

There are eight steps to a micro-ESL exercise. The topic for the example below is "An Employment Interview," and the interpersonal skill to be emphasized is "being a good listener."

Step 1: Vocabulary Practice. The teacher analyzes the situation to be practiced (a job interview) and identifies the vocabulary and idioms necessary to carry out an adequate conversation. These are presented to the students.

Examples: Application, interview, employer, employee, personnel, qualifications, hired, fired, laid off, resume, references, position, opening, salary, overtime, union dues a month, an hour wage to earn, to make sick leave, to bring home after taxes.

Step 2: Grammatical Structure Practice. The teacher again analyzes the situation to be practiced and identifies the major grammatical structures necessary to comprehend and converse in a job-interview situation. For example, an employer would commonly ask questions like:
"Have you ever been a cook before?"
"Where else have you been a cook?"
"How long have you been a cook?"
The teacher then knows that the students should have a good aural comprehension of yes/no and wh-questions in the present perfect. For other examples, the employee would probably respond with:
"Yes, I have," or "No, I haven't."
"I've cooked in several restaurants" or
"I've been a cook for two years" or
"I was a cook in Cuba for two years."
Again, the teacher knows that it would be important for students to be able to orally produce the present perfect (affirmative and negative) and the simple past. Other structures the teacher may wish to review are:

Simple future (e.g., "Will I work weekends? "You will make $600 a month.")

Future progressive (e.g., "Will I be working week ends?" "You'll be bringing home about $480 a month.")
The number of structures to be covered within one lesson would depend upon how advanced the students were and on whether the grammatical structures being presented were new to them or a review.

Step 3: Culture Training. The teacher identifies the appropriate behavior in a job-interview situation. It is important not to overwhelm the students with information, since they already have linguistic skills to worry about. Since it has been deemed important in our culture to demonstrate attending behavior during a job interview, the students are explicitly told how to show to an employer that they are listening. The teacher may find it useful to contrast any behavioral differences between the United States and the students' home cultures. The teacher may also wish to use the students' native language here, since the focus now is on culture information and not language.

Example:

Appropriate Attending Behavior
Sitting with relaxed but attentive posture
Head facing interviewer
Looking in employer's eyes occasionally
Sticking to the topic, recognizing cues to respond

Inappropriate Attending Behavior
Slouching, bending over, or sitting too rigidly
Head down, away, or toward ceiling
Never/always looking in employers eyes
Topic jumping, interrupting

Step 4: Introduction. The teacher explains to the students that they are going to practice participating in a job interview and that it is important for them to convey to the interviewer that they are listening. This introduction may be carried out in English or in the students' home language. The teacher may wish to quickly review some of the characteristics of appropriate attending behavior.

Step 5: Training. The teacher selects volunteers to role-play an employment interview. The student playing the part of the applicant is told to play his or her role as inappropriately as possible. The class is divided into small groups. After observing the role-playing session for 3 to 5 minutes, each group is to come up with a list of everything the job applicant "did wrong." The students should be encouraged to listen for content and previously identified kinesic behavior, not grammatical perfection.

Step 6: Reinforcement. The teacher presents a brief review of the key points of listening as demonstrated and discussed in the role-playing session above (e.g., eye contact, posture and verbal following). Although use of English should be strongly encouraged, the teacher may wish to use the students' native language on occasion to make a point clear.

Step 7: Develop the Model. Another role play is held in which the job applicant performs correctly. The other students observe and note the differences between the two sessions. Although this microcounseling exercise is intended to be carried out orally, if the teacher wanted to add a reading component, a language-experience approach could be used based on the dialogue used in the second role-play session.
Step 8: Practice. Students are told to practice this exercise in pairs within their groups so that the concept of attending behavior is experientially learned. Students may practice in threesomes with the third party acting as observed/evaluator. Perhaps the third person would be someone who lacked the linguistic skills or confidence to participate orally in the beginning.

Micro-ESL can be used with an endless number of prevocational and vocational situations. Note the examples below:

Prevocational Situations
- Opening a bank account
- Calling a physician
- Chatting with co-workers

Vocational Situations
- Greeting a patron (cosmetology)
- Taking an order (waitress/waiter)
- Discussing a problem (mechanic)

Besides providing ESL students with the appropriate words to say in given situations, micro-ESL also teaches students about the interpersonal skills needed to survive in these situations. These skills include being a good listener, encouraging others to talk, paraphrasing someone else's thoughts, clarifying someone else's feelings, etc.
How To Make A Crossword Puzzle

Crossword puzzles are excellent teaching aids. Students enjoy reviewing vocabulary and structures (sentence patterns), or developing reading comprehension while solving puzzles. Best of all, Crossword puzzles are easy to make, so you can make them to fit the individual learning needs of your students.

MATERIALS

1/4" Graph paper
Semi-transparent paper
List of words to be used
Clues to help solve the puzzle

PROCEDURE:

1. Start with one of the longest words in the word list and place it, one letter to a square, horizontally or vertically, near the middle of the graph paper (Figure 1).

2. Add any other word from the list by intersecting it with the first word using a common letter (Figure 2).

 Taken from Instructional Garnishes (2nd ed.) by C. Bradley and J. E. Friedenberg
3. Add other words horizontally or vertically until all words in the list have been included (Figure 3).

4. Fasten the transparent paper on top of the graph paper (using paper clips) so the words and lines on graph paper are visible through the transparent paper. Now, draw lines (using ruler and pencil) above, below, and between each letter (Figure 4).
5. Place a number at the beginning of each word, both horizontally and vertically, starting with the first square at the top left (Figure 5).

6. Place clues at the bottom or side of the page and number them to correspond with the appropriate words in the puzzle (Figure 5).

7. Make copies of the puzzle (Figure 5) and share with your students.
