This handout is a guide to library resources in the J. Murrey Atkins Library at the University of North Carolina-Charlotte in the field of children's and adolescent literature. The guide enables the reader to find biographical and critical information about an individual author or illustrator, or to research a literary style or period. The guide's sections are as follows: (1) Reference Books (sources for background information, biographical information, excerpts of criticism, and reference books on illustrators); (2) Books (dealing with Library of Congress subject headings and ALADDIN--online catalog); (3) Periodical Indexes (dealing with locating book reviews and with InfoTrac); (4) PASL (Periodicals and Serials List); (5) Collections of Essays; and (6) Historical Children's Books Collection. If you are looking for information about an author and are not sure where to begin, or if you need some basic information about a type or genre of literature, the following is a good source.

The Oxford Companion to Children's Literature

This encyclopedia-like volume deals with English, American and foreign language children's books and authors, including illustrators, characters, etc. Entries of varying length, mostly short. Illustrated. Published in 1984.

CLEARY, BEVERLY (BUNN) (1916- ). Author of the HENRY HUGGINS and RAMONA books. She spent her childhood in McMinnville, Oregon; she worked as a children's librarian before her marriage. She has also written PICTURE BOOKS and TEENAGE novels, among them the very popular FIFTEEN (1956).

With the exception of the last two novels, which are respectively a comic mystery story and an account of a mother's attempts to put her daughter on the stage, Zindel's work may be described as typical post-Salinger American writing for adolescents. Parents are portrayed as aggressively crazy, to be despised or pitied rather than respected, yet the teenagers themselves inherit much of the parental craziness and are caught in absurd and pathetic psychological dilemmas.
BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION

Note: The sources listed in this section contain the greatest amount of information available on children's authors. For some authors there is very little biographical information. If you don't find your author in one of these sources, try another. If after trying all of these sources, you still can't find information on your author you will need to use Children's Author's and Illustrators: An Index to Biographical Dictionaries (see page 5 of this booklet). If you are still having trouble after this, you can use book reviews (see pages 16-19 of this booklet). Ask a librarian if you need additional help.

Start with the following sources for biographical information:

Beverly Cleary

Born 12 April 1916 in McMinnville, Oregon, to Chester Lloyd and Mable Atlee Bunn. Cleary spent her early years on a farm in Yamhill. Although the town had no library, her mother possessed over a collection of books sent out at intervals from the State Library in Eugene. After her family moved to Portland when she was six, Cleary had her first real contact with a public library, though she remembers not being able to find exactly what she wanted—humorous books about ordinary children similar to herself and the boys and girls in her own neighborhood.

Cleary was educated at the University of California at Berkeley, graduating in 1938. Her interest in children's books led her, quite naturally, into children's library work, and she took a second B.A., in librarianship, at the University of Washington in 1939. As a children's librarian in Yakima, Washington, she had many experiences with children who wanted to read books about children like themselves in situations they could understand, furthering her ambition to become a writer herself. In 1940 she married Clarence T. Cleary, and they moved to California. During World War II, she served as post librarian at the Oakland Army Hospital. It was not until 1950 and a move to a new house in Berkeley that she sat down and began the story of a boy, a dog, and a bus which was to become Henry Huggins. The world of Henry, his family, and his neighbors (some of whom appear in other books) is set in Portland, Oregon, and is partly based on actual places such as Kilbourn and Tillamook Streets.

In the first book, eight-year-old Henry finds a stray dog on the drags and gets to keep him after managing to smuggle him onto a bus. Rudge, as he names the dog, becomes Henry's constant companion in all his later adventures. Henry also learns about the prolific habits of guppies and how to catch night-crawlers. He has problems with the Christmas tree, a girl named Ramona, and, in the final chapter, he has to prove that Rudge is really him in a showdown with the dog's first owner.

EXCERPTS OF CRITICISM

Children's Literature Review

Use this first when searching for critical material on books or stories. It includes "... excerpts of recent reviews of both fiction and nonfiction for children and young people..." This ongoing series currently has 17 volumes. Use the cumulative index to authors in the latest volume for full coverage of an author. Note: there is no duplication when the author is included in more than one volume. There is also a title index by the name of the book or story.

This series is part of the Gale Library of Literary Criticism. The index will cross reference to other titles in the Gale series including Something About the Author, and Dictionary of Literary Biography, as well as Contemporary Authors, Contemporary Literary Criticism, and Twentieth Century Literature Criticism.

Here is the index entry from Children's Literature Review on Maurice Sendak and Paul Zindel:

Example

SENDAK, Maurice 1928-
Maurice Sendak, an American author and illustrator who received the Caldecott Medal (1964) for Where the Wild Things Are and the Hans Christian Andersen Illustrator's medal (1970), is widely known for his distinctive, compelling illustrations and for his controversial Where the Wild Things Are and In the Night Kitchen. (See also Contemporary Authors, Vols. 5-8, rev. ed., and Something About the Author, Vol. 1.)

GENERAL COMMENTARY

[Maurice Sendak's] pictures are in the best tradition: wry, gentle, witty, subtle. As an original creator, his work, disguised in fantasy, springs from his earliest self, from the vagrant child that lurks in the heart of all of us. His illustrations are a corrective to the many published sins of adulthood against childhood—the sins, the cozy insuls, the condescensions. He knows that children live in wonder, a state that opens them nakedly to joy, desire and a world full of sudden and fearful possibilities.

Contemporary Literary Criticism

CLC "presents significant passages from published criticism of works by today's creative authors." A full citation is given for each excerpt. Entries are several pages long. There is no duplication when an author is included in more than one volume in this ongoing series (there are currently more than 50 volumes). Use the "Cumulative Index to Authors" at the end of the last volume for fullest coverage of the author. This index has cross references to the other titles in the Gail Literary Criticism Series.

Here is the entry on Paul Zindel from the index:

Zindel, Paul 1936-........... CLC 6, 26
See also CLR 3
See also CA 73-76
See also SATA 16
See also DLB 7, 52

Twentieth-Century Literary Criticism

TCLC is arranged like CLC but covers authors who died between 1900 and 1960 while the latter covers authors who are, for the most part, still living. Excerpts of criticism with full citations. Entries are long (20 to 30 pages). In the case of multiple inclusions of an author, criticism is taken from different sources. The index has cross references to other titles in the Gail Literary Criticism Series.

This volume is not limited to illustrators for children, but does contain information on a few major artists. The contents of this beautifully produced reference work include biographies, historical essays, "A Selective Catalog of Illustrators and Illustrated Books" (in chronological order). Indexed.
Locating books about children's literature involves using either the online catalog (ALADDIN), or the card catalog. The majority of Atkins library's records are now only in ALADDIN, so it is recommended that you start there. However, to see complete holdings on a subject you will need to use both catalogs.

Books about a subject:

Each catalog can be accessed by author, title or subject. Subject searches require the use of controlled subject terms called subject headings. These have been chosen as "preferred" or "authorized" for use in library catalogs by the Library of Congress. To find the correct term for your subject you can look in Library of Congress Subject Headings—the large red books kept near the terminals and at the reference desk. If you have trouble finding your term ask a librarian to help you.

Symbols used in Library of Congress Subject Headings:

- BOLD PRINT authorized term
- UF used for, the terms under UF are not used, USE gives the preferred term
- BT broader term
- RT related term
- NT narrower term
- SA see also
  - subheading to be added to the main term
  -- 2nd subheading which may be added to the 1st subheading

Books about an author:

Although proper names for people and places, etc. are not included in Library of Congress Subject Headings, they can be used as subjects in ALADDIN or the card catalog. Therefore, if you are looking for books about an author or about one of his or her works, go directly to ALADDIN. Example: a book about Maurice Sendak would be found using "s/sendak m."

INDEXES TO CRITICISM IN PERIODICALS

Atkins Library has several indexes which may be used to locate articles on authors or literary topics. These normally are arranged in alphabetical order by subject (including personal names); relevant citations follow each heading. The citation includes:

Author(s) of journal article
Title of journal article
Journal title (usually abbreviated—a list of abbreviations is located in the front of the index volume)
Volume number, and if available, issue number of the journal
Pages on which the article appears
Date of the journal

S.G.R.
Criticism in journal articles can be located by using indexes. There are several indexes which may be used for children's literature topics.

An index devoted specifically to Children's literature is:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>INDEX</th>
<th>Children's Literature Abstracts</th>

<tr>
<td>Z</td>
<td>Index to journal articles on children's books, illustrations, publishing, authors, illustrators, etc. International in origin, therefore, some entries are to non-English language articles. Each entry contains a full citation and a brief summary of the article. There is a cumulated index by author and subject for every four years of abstracts at the back of the bound volumes. For recent issues (to which there is no cumulated index) look under the author section, which is arranged alphabetically. This index will require some patience, but is the only one devoted exclusively to scholarly articles on children's literature.</td>

Cleary, Beverly

84/6*3  CLEARY, Beverly
The winner of the Newbery Medal 1984 describes how she became a writer, why she writes the books that she does, and the responses she receives from children. Special reference is made to the prize-winning book Dear Mr. Henshaw.

84/6*9  REUTHER, David
Briefly outlines Beverly Cleary's career and assesses her writing for children. Her books are as popular as they were in the 50s and 60s.
Humanities Index

An index to English language periodicals dealing with humanities topics including literature, performing arts, etc. Author and subject entries are in one alphabet. While this does not cover a large number of children's authors, it may be useful, especially if you are working with a rather well known author. Quarterly, with yearly cumulations.

Education Index

A subject index to English language periodicals in the field of education. Indexes articles about children's authors and literature as they relate to education.

Library Literature

Index to library journals and periodicals. This may be especially useful in the area of censorship of children's books, and will give references to reviews.
For some authors, book reviews may be the only source of criticism you will be able to find. For other authors, book reviews will be excellent supplements to the information in the reference sources discussed in the preceding pages.

The following is devoted exclusively to children's authors:

INDEX

Childr.'s Book Review Index

- An index to reviews of books for young children (ten years old and under). Entries are arranged by author, and then by book title. Citations to reviews from 1964-1985 are in a Master Cumulation (in five volumes), after that, they are arranged year by year. If the book you are researching was published in 1986, for example, try looking in both 1986 and 1987. An explanation of codes to "Publications Indexed" is on the end papers.

Another source for book reviews is:

INDEX

Book Review Digest

- "Book Review Digest provides excerpts and citations to reviews of current fiction and non-fiction in the English language. Arranged by author and then by book title. Use the index for the year your book was first published and the following year's index. This is a better source for reviews of young adult fiction than Children's Book Review Index.

Infotrac

Infotrac is a computerized index which includes about five years of references to articles in both newspapers (National Newspaper Index) and magazines/journals (General Periodicals Index). Several Infotrac terminals are located across from the reference desk.

The newspaper portion of the database includes entries from the Christian Science Monitor, the New York Times, the Wall Street Journal, the Washington Post, and the Los Angeles Times. This is the most current source for newspaper articles (including book reviews). It does not give abstracts.

The citation includes: the title of the article, the author, abbreviations such as "il" (illustrated), the length of the article expressed in "col in" (column inches), the volume number (v), title of the newspaper, date, section page. Note: for the New York Times it gives the page numbers for the Late (L) and National (N) editions. Atkins Library takes the Late edition. For the Wall Street Journal it gives the pages for the Eastern (E) and Western (W) editions. The library takes the Eastern edition.

The General Periodicals portion of the database contains references to articles in approximately 1100 journals. Both databases are updated monthly and are the most current of the periodical indexes. Most references will be to book reviews or "newsy" events involving the author.

Here is an example from the General Periodicals Index:

P.A.S.L. (Periodicals and Serials List)

P.A.S.L. is a computer printout listing all periodicals and serials owned by Atkins Library. Look here to see if the library has the periodical you need.

There are two versions of P.A.S.L. The large blue covered P.A.S.L. was last printed in the spring of 1990. It will never be updated. It is easier to understand than the new green covered version and is also more complete. The green version will be updated and has titles and cataloging information for titles which have been recently added to the library's collection. Start with the blue one.

Periodicals are listed alphabetically by title or by issuing organization. Each entry gives information on the volumes and years of a journal owned by the library, the format in which it appears, and the call number. P.A.S.L. copies are located on the first floor near the indexes and also on the 2nd in the periodicals collection area.

Periodicals are also listed in ALADDIN, but it is quite complicated to use. If you can't find your title in any of these three sources--Atkins Library does not own it.

Example:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Title of Journal</th>
<th>Format</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>HORN BOOK MAGAZINE</td>
<td>CURR/HO PER/MIC</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1-45, 1924-69 (MICROFILM) 46-1970-</td>
<td>21037.ATK 15</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

CURR: CURRENT year issues of the periodical

BD PER: Older issues which are in BOUND PERIODICAL format

Current and bound periodicals are shelved together by their call numbers on the 2nd floor of Old Atkins (behind where the reserve desk used to be). See the library map--available at the reference desk.

MIC: MICROFICHE or MICROFILM volumes of a periodical. These are arranged by call number in metal cabinets in the periodicals collection area on the second floor (see map).
COLLECTIONS OF CRITICAL ESSAYS IN BOOKS

Essay and General Literature Index

This is an important bibliographical index to collections of essays in books. The emphasis is on the humanities and the social sciences. Material on an author is arranged as follows:
1. Author's works; 2. works about the author (biographical or discussions of his/her work); 3. criticism. Semi-annual with a permanent cumulation every five years.

Atkins library purchases all of the books indexed by this bibliography thus making it a particularly useful source. Call numbers are written in the "List of Books Indexed," which is arranged by title in the back of each volume.

HISTORICAL CHILDREN'S BOOK COLLECTION

The Rare Book Collection, located on the tenth floor of the Dalton Tower, contains approximately 1000 books written for the amusement and instruction of children and published in the United States and Great Britain from about 1780 to about 1930. The collection includes books by such well known authors and illustrators as Louisa May Alcott, Andrew Lang, Joel Chandler Harris, Anna Letitia Barbauld, Randolph Caldecott, and Kate Greenaway. It also includes some of the better 19th century magazines, e.g., PARLEY'S, OUR YOUNG FOLKS, ST. NICHOLAS, and YOUTH'S COMPANION.

The collection contains a large number of early 19th century American publications and early 20th century series books for boys. Many of these works have little intrinsic value, but they provide a rich source for researchers to use in analyzing social and religious attitudes, educational theories, and sexual stereotyping.
