The information on two-way bilingual programs presented in this volume was gathered as the first phase of a study for the National Center for Research on Cultural Diversity and Second Language Learning. Two-way bilingual programs integrate language minority and language majority students and provide instruction in and through two languages. This volume updates and expands upon information identified by Lindholm in 1987. Profiles of 76 programs are provided, representing 124 schools in 13 states. The entries reflect the wide variability in descriptions of the implementation of two-way bilingual education, including two-way bilingual, developmental bilingual, bilingual immersion, double immersion, interlocking, and dual language programs. The contents of this volume are as follows: introductory narrative; list of programs by state; program descriptions by state (California, Colorado, Connecticut, District of Columbia, Florida, Illinois, Massachusetts, New York, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Texas, Virginia, and Wisconsin); index of programs by schools and school districts; and a list of abbreviations used. Preface

The information on two-way bilingual programs presented in this volume was gathered as part of a study on "Two-Way Bilingual Education: Students Learning through Two Languages" for the National Center for Research on Cultural Diversity and Second Language Learning. This Center was funded by the Office of Educational Research and Improvement of the U.S. Department of Education to conduct research on the education of language minority students in the United States. It is operated by the University of California, Santa Cruz, through the University of California's statewide Linguistic Minority Research Project, in collaboration with a number of other institutions nationwide, including the Center for Applied Linguistics.

The Center is committed to promoting the intellectual development, literacy, and thoughtful citizenship of language minority students, and to increasing appreciation of the cultural and linguistic diversity of the American people. Research projects deal with the relationship between first and second language learning; the relationship between cultural and linguistic factors in the achievement of literacy; teaching strategies to help children from diverse linguistic and cultural backgrounds gain access to content material; alternative models of assessment for language minority students; various instructional models for language minority children; and the effect of modifications in the social organization of schools on the academic performance of students from diverse backgrounds.

The directory of programs in this volume represents the first phase of the study of two-way bilingual education being undertaken. Annual updates of the directory are planned, to add new programs and document changes in the profiles of existing programs.
This study could not exist without the cooperation of the schools and school districts reported on here. In particular, we are grateful to the representatives of programs who provided us with large amounts of information and responded to our questions and requests when we called for clarification or to check on the accuracy of our presentation. We called on individuals who had far too much to do already to give their time and energy to this effort, and we appreciate their response. We hope that they will find the results useful.

We also benefited from the assistance and consultation of a number of our colleagues who helped us design the study, contact programs, and produce the finished work. We are particularly indebted to Kathryn Lindholm, whose original work served as a model for the current effort and who advised and assisted us in every phase. Our thanks go out as well to Jon Kaiser, Deborah Short and Dick Tucker, for their contributions and ongoing support for the project. Finally, we express our gratitude to those who took an active part in producing this volume and "getting it right": Dotti Kauffman, Sonia Kundert and Omar Shabka. Their attention to the details will, we are sure, make this document much more useable and useful.

Introduction

The best setting for educating linguistic minority pupils—and one of the best for educating any pupil—is a school in which two languages are used without apology and where becoming proficient in both is considered a significant intellectual and cultural achievement.

Charles L. Glenn, Principal Magazine, 1990

In a growing number of schools in the United States, students are learning together through two languages in programs which aim to develop dual language proficiency along with academic achievement. These two-way, or developmental, bilingual education programs are attracting attention as an effective way to meet the needs of language minority students who are in the process of learning English. At the same time, they provide a vehicle for English-speaking students to learn another language.

Lindholm (1987) identified 30 two-way bilingual programs in operation in 1987, from preschool through grade 12. In response to the growing interest in these programs, an update of Lindholm’s directory was undertaken, to investigate the status of those 30 programs, and to identify and describe other programs which are now in existence. The program profiles which follow represent the results of that effort: 76 programs contributed information, representing 124 schools in 13 states.

It is important to emphasize that the directory reflects only those programs that became known to us and that chose to contribute information. As a result, although there was an attempt to be comprehensive, this list is not exhaustive. There are other schools using a two-way bilingual education approach, and we would hope to be able to include more of them, as well as new programs, in the annual updates of this directory that are planned.
Two-Way Bilingual Education: The Approach

Core Features. As the entries in this directory will make very clear, there is a great deal of variability in the implementation of two-way bilingual education. Even the term used to refer to programs of this type varies widely: \textit{two-way bilingual}, \textit{developmental bilingual}, \textit{bilingual immersion}, \textit{double immersion}, \textit{interlocking}, \textit{dual language} are some of the labels found. A later section will comment on some of the major dimensions of difference in implementation. There are, however, certain core features which can be used to characterize, if not define, the approach.

Two-way bilingual programs integrate language minority and language majority students and provide instruction in, and through, two languages. One is the native language of the language minority students (called here the \textit{target} language), and the second is English. These programs provide content area instruction in the target language for a significant portion of the instructional time, and provide for language development in the second language for both groups of students. In order to achieve the full benefits of two-way bilingual education, balanced numbers of students from the two language backgrounds are sought, and students are integrated for most or all of their content instruction. These programs provide an environment that promotes positive attitudes toward both languages and cultures and is supportive of full bilingual proficiency for both native and non-native speakers of English.

Typical goals for two-way bilingual programs include language, academic, and affective dimensions:

students will develop high levels of proficiency in their first language and in a second language;

students will perform at or above grade level in academic areas in both languages;

students will demonstrate positive cross-cultural attitudes and behaviors, and high levels of self-esteem.

It is important to note that this educational approach does not emphasize language development over academic and social development; the goal is balanced development in all three areas.

Rationale. The rationale for two-way bilingual education has been discussed elsewhere (Lindholm, 1987, 1990; Tucker, 1990). The approach applies many of the recommendations that have emerged from recent research. These programs allow language minority students to develop native language skills and to progress academically while they learn English. There is considerable evidence that learning through the mother tongue for minority students has many advantages: it facilitates the development of both "basic" and
"advanced" literacy (Krashen, 1991); it allows students to gain important content knowledge, that in turn will make the English they encounter more comprehensible (Krashen, 1991); and it enhances cognitive and social development (Hakuta, 1986).

Two-way bilingual programs also give English speakers an opportunity to add a second (or additional) language. It has been demonstrated that speakers of the majority language benefit from an immersion experience for language learning and do not suffer academically when instruction is via a second language (Harley, Allen, Cummins, and Swain, 1990; Genesee, 1987). Researchers and policy-makers concerned with the lack of foreign language competence in the United States also point to the advisability of beginning language instruction at an early age and designing programs that aim at high levels of proficiency (Tucker, 1986).

For both groups of students, language development is approached through content.
Lambert and Tucker (1972) have suggested that a second language is best acquired by means of a content-based curriculum rather than as the object of classroom instruction. Research in English as a Second Language (ESL) instruction/learning has led to a similar conclusion-- namely, ESL is best developed in a content-based curriculum (Mohan, 1986; Brinton, Snow and Wesche, 1989). In two-way bilingual programs, since academic content instruction is provided through both languages, second language development can be facilitated for all students in a content-based environment. One teacher commented: "We don't say that we teach Spanish--we say that we teach math in English and Spanish" (reported in Corral, 1991,
p. 17).

From a sociocultural perspective, the role of social interaction in language development has been documented. Both first and second language acquisition are facilitated by interaction between the learners and "experts" (fluent speakers of the language). In second language learning in particular, such interaction is also central to gaining access to the culture in which the language is embedded. By integrating students from two language groups in a classroom, two-way bilingual programs can offer the advantages of such interaction. From an institutional perspective, they provide an additive bilingual environment (Lambert, 1987) in the program design and classroom organization; from an interpersonal perspective, they offer opportunities for meaningful interactions with fluent speakers of the languages being learned and close contact with members of diverse cultural groups.

Criteria for Success. Dolson (1991) suggests:

> Soundly structured bilingual immersion contains a number of fundamental elements, the most important of which are (1) a significant role for a language other than English; (2) a balanced student enrollment; and (3) status enhancement among students. (p. 1)

Based on an examination of research on bilingual and immersion education, Lindholm (1990) identifies a set of factors which are essential for successful two-way bilingual education. Briefly, they include the following (see Lindholm, 1990, p. 96-101 for the full set and research references):

1. Programs should provide a minimum of four to six years of bilingual instruction to participating students;

2. The focus of instruction should be the same core academic curriculum that students in other programs experience;

3. Optimal language input (input that is comprehensible, interesting, and of sufficient quantity) as well as opportunities for output should be provided to students, including quality language arts instruction in both languages;

4. The target (non-English) language should be used for instruction a minimum of 50% of the time (to a maximum of 90% in the early grades) and English should be used at least 10% of the time;

5. The program should provide an additive bilingual environment where all students have the opportunity to learn a second language while continuing to develop their native language proficiency;

6. Classrooms should include a balance of students from the target language and English backgrounds who participate in instructional activities together;

7. Positive interactions among students should be facilitated by the use of strategies such as cooperative learning; and

8. Characteristics of effective schools should be incorporated into programs, such as qualified personnel and home-school collaboration.

Programs vary in the degree to which they exhibit these features for a variety of reasons (both practical and philosophical). However, research suggests that each attribute bears a relationship to the goals of two-way bilingual education and influences the likelihood that they will be realized.

Information Collection and Compilation

Identification. The first step in collecting information was locating programs that use a two-way bilingual education approach. All means of reaching such programs were tapped, including listings in the earlier directory, federal government developmental bilingual education grant recipients, newsletter announcements, and so on. In most cases, suggestions of possible qualifying programs were followed up with preliminary screening phone calls to introduce the project, discuss the use of the two-way bilingual approach, and determine if there was a willingness, in principle, to participate in this project. As a result of this effort, requests were made to 114 programs to submit information in writing.

Information Collection. Information was received from 92 respondents (representing 76 programs—in some cases schools within programs responded separately). Of the 22 others who were sent requests for information, 8 were not actually using a two-way bilingual education approach, 3 had previously had such a program, but it was no longer operating, and there was no response from the remaining 11. Since participation was completely voluntary, we were not able to collect the information needed without the program’s cooperation.

Information was requested from each program in the following categories:

* location and contact information;
* background: languages used, grade levels, objectives, funding, student recruitment, screening criteria (if any);
* program/student demographics;
* instructional approach/design: amount of time target language used in instruction, content areas taught in each language, student grouping practices, language of initial reading instruction, use of computers;
* program staff characteristics/staff development;
* evaluation procedures (program and student);
* additional commentary.
As written responses were received, they were reviewed and, if areas were unclear, a clarification was requested (usually by phone). A database was created to store the information about each program by category.

Preparation of Profiles. In order to condense the data received into a document of manageable size, we extracted a subset of the information about each program. These extracts form the basis for the program profiles which follow. Except for minor editing, the information provided by programs was reproduced verbatim. An attempt was made to capture the features of each program which would be of wider interest and use, especially for other programs. However, all of the data remain in the database for future amplification and analysis. In each case, the profile was sent to the participating program for verification of accuracy, to ensure that the transformation of the information into this format had not introduced any misrepresentations.

Program Implementation Characteristics

Overview of Programs. The profiles of programs in this listing reflect the characteristics of two-way bilingual education as practiced in the United States, both in their commonalities and their variability. There is no need to itemize the features here, since many of the details follow. However, it may be interesting to look across programs briefly on selected parameters, by way of summary and comparison.

Table 1 presents a summary of the programs identified that participated in the study. Table 2 breaks these programs down by grade level; Table 3 by languages of instruction. These figures show that New York and California have the highest numbers of schools involved in two-way bilingual education. Nationwide, most schools with two-way bilingual programs are providing instruction in Spanish and English at the elementary school level.

Program Design Issues. Although most programs share similar goals, as outlined above, the design choices made vary considerably. One area of difference is type of program. Some programs are neighborhood-based and only enroll students from the local neighborhood. Others are magnet schools and have open enrollment for students throughout the district. Some programs operate under a combination of these conditions; for example, they might give preference to neighborhood students, but fill openings in the program with applicants from other areas of the district. In nearly all cases, participation is voluntary and parents choose to enroll their children in the program.

The distribution of the two languages of instruction also varies from program to program. The languages are typically kept separate in one of three ways (or a combination of them):

* by content area—e.g., social studies and math are taught in Spanish, while science, art and music are taught in English;

* by time—e.g., instruction is in each language on alternate days;

* by person—e.g., one teacher uses only Cantonese and another uses only English.

Another interesting design issue is found in the amount of target (non-English) language used for instruction (a feature which interacts closely with the way in which languages are distributed). There appear to be two major patterns followed in the elementary schools (where the bulk of programs are). In one, the target language is used in the early years for nearly all of the instruction (80-90%) and English is introduced and is gradually increased as a medium of instruction until in the upper elementary grades the proportion of English instruction is roughly 50%. In these programs, the majority students have an immersion experience in the second language, while the minority students receive native language instruction with a gradual introduction of English and English-medium instruction.

According to the second pattern, the percentage of instruction in each language is roughly equal from the beginning. In other words, both English and the target language are used about 50% of the time. Many programs have English as a Second Language (ESL) and Spanish as a Second Language (SSL) or other target language instruction as well.

These two patterns are by far the most prevalent ways in which two-way bilingual programs frame the instructional program by language, at least at the elementary level. There are a variety of program designs above the elementary school, but programs at the higher grade levels are relatively few overall (see above).

There are many other interesting areas of variation across two-way bilingual programs participating in this study. A next step is to look across programs at the consequences of choices in all of these areas of variability, and to consider the choices in conjunction with other features such as student population characteristics, community attitudes, school district demographics, and available resources.

Overview of the Directory

Following these introductory comments, the directory begins with a complete listing of schools included in the program profiles, grouped by school district, city, and state. This listing gives a quick overview of the programs included here, with grade levels served and target language used in each. The full profiles of programs/schools which provided information on their implementation of two-way bilingual education follow this list. They are presented alphabetically in sections by state, and within states, the profiles are grouped by city and school district. Each profile is formatted the same, for ease of comparison by category across entries. Categories were omitted in cases where no program information was available at this time. Following the profiles is an index, where references by page number can be found for any school or school district included in the directory.

Finally, a list of abbreviations used is provided. In order to condense the presentation of information in the profiles, certain frequently occurring terms were abbreviated. In addition, many programs reported information using locally recognized abbreviations. These abbreviations are explained in the last section.

*Three schools in two different school districts (Long Beach Unified School District and ABC Unified School District) are involved in the Los Angeles County Bilingual Immersion Consortium. Each school has a separate entry.
Program objectives:

- After one year, 90% of LEP and FEP students will score at least 19 in Spanish (SOLOM)
- At the end of the third year, 90% of EO students will demonstrate communication skills in Spanish and 90% of initially identified LEP students will demonstrate communication skills in English
- By the end of the fifth grade, with at least three years in the program, 50% of initially identified LEP, FEP, and EO students will function at/above 50th percentile in reading and math in Spanish and English
- By the end of the third year, all project students will have instruction via computers and access to other technologies in their instruction
- By the end of their second year, and each year thereafter, at least 75% of the students will score at/above the mean in self-esteem
- By the end of their second year, and each year thereafter, at least 75% of the students will (as measured by observation guides) choose classmates for selected classroom and playground activities without regard to ethnic or linguistic background and show behaviors characterized as helping or cooperative
- At least 90% of the parents of project students will be contacted by program staff and given positive information about their children's progress; at least 50% of project parents will attend conversational and/or literacy classes, cross-cultural activities, workshops, and other school activities

COMMUNITY SUPPORT AND VIEWPOINT

Parent involvement:
- Parent Councils, school visits, classroom assistance, language classes
- Parent Council meets regularly as advisory council to Project Director and staff
- Parents frequently visit to view the program in operation—most of these are the EO parents
- Parent volunteers are used on a regular basis to assist teachers and aides

Community responses to the program:
- The community has been very supportive
- English only parents want their children to learn Spanish

School Board’s view of the program:
- Unanimous support of the program

Advice to start-up programs:
- Keep the pre-service portion of the year
- Enroll English only students at the lowest grades

Most important features of the program:
- Cross-age tutoring and cooperative learning
- Computer assisted instruction
- Integrated thematic instruction
- All of the strategies in our project dovetail so well that the most important feature would be the linking of all three methods: computer technology, cooperative learning, and thematic instruction in a cross-cultural/multi-graded environment

COMMUNITY SUPPORT AND VIEWPOINT

Parent involvement:
- English-speaking parents offer support at home for the program as well as out-of-school activities
- We are developing the support of the Spanish-speaking parents

Community responses to the program:
- Very positive
- It is a very small school district and is in an area in which language learning is esteemed

School Board’s view of the program:
- Advocates for Language Learning originated here and the originator was recently elected to the School Board
- Very supportive

Advice to start-up programs:
- Have a population which is eligible for participation in the program in sixth grade

Most important features of the program:
- Excellent curriculum and excellent teachers
- Curriculum specialist and counselor
- Labor intensive program

COMMUNITY SUPPORT AND VIEWPOINT

Parent involvement:
- Parent Councils, school visits, and classroom assistance

Community responses to the program:
- Program began in 1982 as a K-1 Spanish Immersion program for English speakers. Initially, 28 children were enrolled. Currently there are 15 classes with a K-6 enrollment of 440.

School Board's view of the program:
- Bilingual Office of Education fully funds and supports the program. It has indicated that the program will grow as per demand.

Advice to start-up programs:
- Know the current research
- Conduct many community forums
- Continually educate the parents and induce regular program teachers as well as immersion teachers

Most important features of the program:
- Staff and parent commitment
- The program has emerged into a two-way program by including Spanish speakers. The transition has been a challenge for teachers previously in a strict Spanish Immersion program.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

Languages used in the program:
Spanish/English

Year program began:
1975-76

Ethnic/racial breakdown of school:
30% Hispanic; 70% White

Criteria for selecting and accepting students:

Spanish speakers:
If students are considered limited English speakers, they are automatically enrolled in the bilingual program.

English speakers:
We suggest that students who are having difficulties in academic areas in English not enroll in the program.

Recruitment procedures:
By encouraging English speakers to learn Spanish through promotional and positive experiences

Program objectives:

- To assist Spanish speakers in their transition to the English language while learning basic concepts in their primary language
- To assist English only speakers with learning the Spanish language
- Students will maintain academic achievement commensurate with intellectual abilities in the primary language while acquiring English or Spanish as a second language
- Students will gain awareness and appreciation of their own culture as well as other cultures

INSTRUCTIONAL DESIGN AND PROGRAM STAFFING

Percent of time Spanish is used for instruction:

- 4th grade: 60%
- 5th-6th grade: 40%

Method of separating languages for instruction:

In fourth grade, the languages are separated primarily by teacher. In fifth and sixth grades, they are separated by subject.

Languages used for content area subjects and electives:

4—Spanish instruction:
- Social Studies, Math, Science, Reading,
- Computers, Language, Spelling, Art, P.E., Music

4—English instruction:
- Math, Computers, Art, P.E., Music

5-6—Spanish instruction:
- Social Studies, Science, Math, Reading,
- Computers, Language, Spelling, Art, P.E., Music

5—English instruction:
- Social Studies, Science, Math, Computers, Art,
- P.E., Music

6—English instruction:
- Science, Math, Computers, Art, P.E., Music

Language of initial reading instruction:

Spanish speakers:
- Spanish

English speakers:
- English

Instructional grouping:

Students are grouped for instruction for part of the day. Non-English speakers and some limited English speakers are grouped for Spanish language arts or transitional English language arts. They are also grouped for science and social studies instruction. Hence, students are separated for language arts instruction, and in some cases, for social studies and science.

Percent of program teachers proficient in both languages:

85%

Percent of program staff proficient in both languages:

80%

Additional program staff:

- 2 full time resource teachers
- 2 bilingual aides

Computer use:

Materials in both languages are used in the computer lab.

Curriculum/materials development:

The district committee has developed curricula for the two-way classrooms. We are developing a Bilingual Master Plan.

COMMUNITY SUPPORT AND VIEWPOINT

Parent involvement:
- Parent Councils, school visits, and classroom assistance
- The Bilingual Parent Advisory Committee meets four times a year to receive information about the program, give input about the program, and assist in planning activities

Community responses to the program:
- Some people are very supportive, but many are not well informed about the program and are critical of it

School Board's view of the program:
- Supportive

Advice to start-up programs:
- Do a lot of public relations work to get started and keep it functioning

Most important feature of the program:

COMMUNITY SUPPORT AND VIEWPOINT

Parent involvement:
- Parent Councils, school visits, classroom assistance, and language classes
- English-speaking parents are extremely active in the school, classroom, and Advocates for Language Learning
- Spanish-speaking parents participate in Project Even Start—Literacy Classes, parent advisory meetings, and the home-study program

Community responses to the program:
- Mixed—those who favor second language acquisition and immersion structure love it; those who don’t are negative

School Board’s view of the program:
Cautious—have supported program strongly and are waiting for final outcomes at end of grade 6

Advice to start-up programs:
- Much communication and groundwork must be done prior to starting, including the non-bilingual staff and a wide parent base
- Long-term planning for staffing must be in place before starting
- Continuous communication and efforts to integrate immersion into overall school configuration

Most important features of the program:
- Excellent teachers and strong parent support
- Team teaching
- Integrated, heterogeneous instruction

*Three schools in two different school districts (Long Beach Unified School District and ABC Unified School District) are involved in the Los Angeles County Bilingual Immersion Consortium. Each school has a separate entry.
Program objectives:

- After one year, 90% of LEP and FEP students will score at least 19 in Spanish (SOLOM)

- At the end of the third year, 90% of EO students will demonstrate communication skills in Spanish and 90% of initially identified LEP students will demonstrate communication skills in English

- By the end of the fifth grade, with at least three years in the program, 50% of initially identified LEP, FEP, and EO students will function at/above 50th percentile in reading and math in Spanish and English

- By the end of the third year, all project students will have instruction via computers and access to other technologies in their instruction

- By the end of their second year, and each year thereafter, at least 75% of the students will score at/above the mean in self-esteem

- By the end of their second year, and each year thereafter, at least 75% of the students will (as measured by observation guides) choose classmates for selected classroom and playground activities without regard to ethnic or linguistic background and show behaviors characterized as helping or cooperative

- At least 90% of the parents of project students will be contacted by program staff and given positive information about their children's progress; at least 50% of project parents will attend conversational and/or literacy classes, cross-cultural activities, workshops, and other school activities

Parent involvement:
- Parent Councils, school visits, classroom assistance, and language classes
- Parents are involved in fundraising and in every aspect of the school

Community responses to the program:
- Excellent
- Both communities in which the school has been located have expressed/displayed interest in applying and enrolling their children in the program

School Board's view of the program:
- Mixed

Advice to start-up programs:
- Go slow
- Difficult to staff and train

Most important features of the program:
- Parents are encouraged to participate in all capacities
- Program has grown dramatically in past six years, and although the program initially shared a building with another program, the Buena Vista Bilingual Immersion Program is the sole occupant of our present school site
- Integrated curriculum is a unique aspect of the program: music, dance, drama, and reading are integrated with science, math, and social studies

COMMUNITY SUPPORT AND VIEWPOINT

Parent involvement:
• Parent Advisory Committee, school visits, classroom assistance, Booster Club

Community responses to the program:
• Very positive
• The program is being supported by the families in the neighborhood as well as throughout the district, since it is a magnet program
• Attracts students from outside the district

School Board's view of the program:
• Supportive, one of the few programs meeting desegregation's goals of integration and high academic success
• The superintendent is a former foreign language teacher
• The Board has seen the program grow and flourish due to excellent teaching, strong program design and parental commitment
• The program has received awards and recognition at the city, county, and state levels

Advice to start-up programs:
• Start gradually and small, perhaps at just the kindergarten level and increase a grade level each year
• Be sure to lay the ground work first in providing in-service training for staff involved and at the site where the program will be located

Most important features of the program:
• Commitment of parents and teachers to the program and the program design
• Staff training which ensures that immersion and other important teaching techniques are employed
• A feeling of teamwork, group-based decisions and working together toward the same goals
• The real learning comes from the students learning from one another. The school is a truly integrated school and provides an environment where all students can learn and all students can succeed

- Parents assist in the Recruitment Program

Community responses to the program:
- Very positive and supportive. We recruit English-speaking children from the community

School Board's view of the program:
- They are highly committed to the program through high school

Advice to start-up programs:
- Recruit qualified teachers
- Provide staff development in philosophy, teaching strategies, and management strategies for a two-way immersion program
- Select and prepare appropriate materials for student use

Most important features of the program:
- Teacher commitment
- Challenge of the language
- Parent support
- The need to recruit English only speakers
- Commitment of the Board of Education and the community
- This program should be replicated nationwide. This is a "natural way" to learn a language

Method of separating languages for instruction:
It varies from grade level to grade level and classroom to classroom. Generally speaking it is separated by subject, but there are some teams that separate by teacher. What makes our program different from other immersion programs is that English only students have instruction in their primary language for language arts and math. The content areas then use an alternate approach for language of instruction.

Languages used for content area subjects and electives:
K-6—Spanish instruction:
Reading, Readiness, Math, Social Studies, Art, Science, P.E., Music
K-6—English instruction:
Reading, Readiness, Math, Social Studies, Art, Science, P.E., Music

Percent of program staff proficient in both languages: 40%

Additional program staff:
- 1 full time resource teacher
- 20 part time bilingual aides
- 2 full time community liaisons
- 1 part time bilingual speech/language specialist
- 1 bilingual counselor for middle school

Computer use:
- Computer use in both languages

Curriculum/materials development:
Teachers have developed some core literature units and some thematic units.

COMMUNITY SUPPORT AND VIEWPOINT

Parent involvement:

* Parent Councils, classroom assistance, and language classes
* A Family Learning Program has begun in the evenings for both target language speakers and English language speakers

Community responses to the program:

* Very positive and supportive, although the immigration patterns have impacted the classroom balance, which has raised some concerns

School Board's view of the program:

* They have adopted a policy that states that bilingualism is desirable and attainable

Advice to start-up programs:

* Look to the future in planning your program. Some two-way programs do not lend themselves to late entry students (either English only or limited English proficient)

Most important features of the program:

* Staff commitment and expertise
* Administrative support
* Equal language status

COMMUNITY SUPPORT AND VIEWPOINT

Parent involvement:
- Parent Council, Site Council, PTA, school visits, classroom assistance, and language classes
- Participation in Advocates for Language Learning and the Bilingual Advisory Committee
- Parenting classes, home visits, informational meetings, fund raisers, School Board newsletters
- Programs and activities such as dances, pot lucks, and picnics

Community responses to the program:
- Mixed response. In general they are supportive of the program, but are not willing to make allowances for the program being different and having special needs

School Board’s view of the program:
- Very supportive

Advice to start-up programs:
- Networking is very important
- We produced a video and manual with all of our advice

Most important features of the program:
- Strong teachers
- Instructional strategies (whole language, cooperative learning)

COMMUNITY SUPPORT AND VIEWPOINT

Parent involvement:
- Parent Councils, school visits, and classroom assistance
- Fundraising

Community responses to the program:
- Our immediate community is extremely supportive of the bilingual program at Oyster
- We have an extensive waiting list of students in the area who would like to enter Oyster

School Board’s view of the program:
- Supportive
- The program has been financed through local funds since day one

Advice to start-up programs:
- Community support from English speakers and Spanish speakers is essential
- Equal status for the two languages is also critical to the success of the program
- Extensive staff training
- Qualified teachers and materials that reflect current trends in education

Most important feature of the program:
- The teachers’ and principal’s commitment to a quality education in two languages

Program objectives:

- Sixty percent of the students will demonstrate five months of progress in reading, math, and language arts in the English language as measured by the CTBS, in the Spanish language as measured by the SABE, and PRE-LAS in English and Spanish for kindergarten.

- To provide opportunities for the participating students to be exposed to multicultural and global education activities in order to promote cultural understanding.

- To provide opportunities for limited English proficient Hispanic and American parents to be actively involved in multicultural events and other related school activities designed to gain knowledge of their children’s education process.

- To train prospective staff and other related school district personnel in the use of dual language curriculum, multicultural and global education, and ESOL methodologies.

- To provide thorough evaluative activities in order to document:

a) project participants’ progress against the norm for standardized instruments.

b) reliable use of evaluation instruments that are appropriate for age, grade, language, degree of language proficiency, and background of participants.

c) objective measures of educational progress related to tests of academic achievement in reading and math, as well as grade retention, drop-out, absenteeism, and referrals to special education or gifted programs.

d) academic achievement of current participants.

e) the amount of time students received instructional services in the project and in another institutional setting.

f) the educational background, needs, and competencies of project students.

g) special education activities undertaken and pedagogical materials, methods, and techniques used in the programs.

h) educational and professional qualifications of staff, including language competencies.

i) activities to improve pre-referral evaluation and programs for the handicapped or gifted and talented students.

COMMUNITY SUPPORT AND VIEWPOINT

Parent involvement:
• Parent Councils, school visits, classroom assistance, and language classes
• Parents are invited to participate in special activities and to volunteer whenever possible

Community responses to the program:
• The community has shown great interest in and support for the program

School Board’s view of the program:
• The Board believes that the program will enhance the curriculum and improve multicultural relations

Advice to start-up programs:
• Identify which subject area and/or skills will be taught in each language before students are identified

Most important features of the program:
• Administrative support
• Parent cooperation
• Teacher enthusiasm
• The program has proven a great success in a relatively short amount of time
• Cultural acculturation of both linguistic communities with an appreciation for important components of South Florida’s growing minority population

Criteria for selecting and accepting students:
Students are chosen by a Board run lottery—for desegregation purposes—based on ethnic group and gender. The lottery also generates the waiting list.

Other non-native English speakers in the program:
Urdu, Hindi, German

Recruitment procedures:
Word of mouth. In the past, notices have been sent to preschools, day care, local (neighborhood) newspapers, etc., particularly in Spanish-speaking neighborhoods. There is no need to do this anymore, since we have hundreds of students on our waiting list.

• Limited English proficient, limited Spanish proficient, and bilingual speakers will develop and maintain fluency and literacy skills in English and Spanish

• Students will affirm the values of their own cultural heritage while acquiring an understanding, appreciation, and acceptance of other cultures

• A model bilingual curriculum will be developed and implemented following the scope and sequence of the curriculum of the Chicago Public Schools, integrating into all subject areas the history, contributions, and cultures of the peoples of the Americas

• In order to achieve their fullest potential, Inter-American students will be provided with a well-balanced curriculum, including studies reflecting the technological and scientific advances of our society

COMMUNITY SUPPORT AND VIEWPOINT

Parent involvement:
- Parent Councils, school visits, classroom assistance, and language classes
- Parents are involved in fundraisers, tutoring, the after school social center, and the local school council
- Parents can hire and fire the principal

Community responses to the program:
- Favorable—we now have a good reputation
- We are becoming known in Chicago as an effective, desirable program
- We now have middle and upper middle class parents interested
- We have many visitors, educators, and others interested in the program

School Board’s view of the program:
- They view our school as a successful model, worthy of emulation. At the same time though, we have to constantly struggle with the "system" to maintain what we have—staff, funding, etc.—and to justify why we are different

Advice to start-up programs:
- Have faith!
- Be convinced of your goals
- You need to have a supportive administration
- Parent involvement, understanding, and cooperation are essential
- It works and it is better for both groups!

Most important feature of the program:
- We are not static—we constantly self-evaluate and have new "blood"—new teachers and families who keep us on our toes

Language Arts
5-8—English instruction:
Language Arts, Social Studies, Science, Math, Music, Gym, Library

Language of initial reading instruction:
Spanish speakers: Spanish
English speakers: English

Instructional grouping:
Students are grouped heterogeneously by ability. In some cases there are two grade levels in the same class. Students are separated for language arts instruction with Spanish speakers receiving their language arts instruction in that language while English speakers receive English instruction.

Percent of program teachers proficient in both languages: 80%

Percent of program staff proficient in both languages: 95%

Additional program staff:
- 3 full time resource teachers
- 6 bilingual aides

Computer use:
Computer use in English

Curriculum/materials development:
Classroom and resource teachers have developed curricula. In order to provide for discussion about literary works in both English and Spanish, a reading list is being developed to enrich our two-way program.

COMMUNITY SUPPORT AND VIEWPOINT

Parent involvement:
- School visits and classroom assistance

Community responses to the program:
- They love it! Before the developmental bilingual education program was introduced, there was a gap between Spanish-dominant and English-dominant parents. That gap is now narrowing because of the program.

School Board's view of the program:
- Under local school control and school reform, local schools may opt for this program.
- The Department of Language and Cultural Education offers technical assistance and instructional support.

Advice to start-up programs:
- Begin the program with everything and everyone in place.
- Kindergartens should have a minimum of two persons who are proficient in both languages.

Most important features of the program:
- Students are taught to respect that which is different.
- Students are acquainted with that which is different.

COMMUNITY SUPPORT AND VIEWPOINT

Parent involvement:
- School visits and classroom assistance
- One-on-one instruction, homework assistance
- Classroom volunteers

Community responses to the program:
- Very positive; interest and questions have come up on expansion of the program

School Board's view of the program:
- Under local school control and school reform, local schools may opt for this program
- The Department of Language and Cultural Education offers technical assistance and instructional support

Advice to start-up programs:
- Allow plenty of time for teachers to meet prior to start up
- Teachers need to be able to conceptualize the program and develop curriculum

Most important features of the program:
- Teachers and administrators are very involved in making the program successful
- Teachers meet on a regular basis to plan lessons and work cooperatively
- Long range plans are to develop Spanish classes for English-speaking parents. We already have a literacy program for Spanish parents. We are also thinking of developing parent evaluation forms for the program. We would like to develop the school's own evaluation form for the program

COMMUNITY SUPPORT AND VIEWPOINT

Parent involvement:
• Town Council and classroom assistance
• Parents, teachers, and students meet in a “Town Meeting” at the beginning of the year and elect a Town Council. This Council sets policy for the school.

Community responses to the program:
• The first year of the program, the school attracted a lot of national attention. This caused resentment in some segments of the community. This year, the second year, the program staff is overcoming this feeling. Many of the teachers currently in the program are experienced teachers with as many as eighteen to twenty years of teaching. While many of these teachers rejected the idea of the program initially, they are now very pleased with it and as “converts,” they have been able to provide a lot of credibility.

School Board’s view of the program:
• Eighty percent of the Board supports the program, even though there is a move against bilingual education in the area.

Advice to start-up programs:
• Take time to implement the program, especially if it is to be a middle school program where there is no elementary program.

Most important features of the program:
• Respect for and celebration of the culture and the language
• An environment in which the target language is respected and celebrated
• The use of the Arts as a medium for second language learning

Program objectives:

- To develop fluency and literacy in both Spanish and English
- To promote academic achievement commensurate with the students' ability at grade level in all areas
- To promote creativity, flexibility, originality, and problem-solving
- To encourage understanding and appreciation of both linguistic and cultural groups while nurturing pride in one's own heritage
- To foster independence, motivation, and love of knowledge about themselves and the world

Method of separating languages for instruction:
By teacher and classroom

Languages used for content area subjects and electives:
Curriculum is interdisciplinary in nature. All subjects are taught in both languages to all students at some point in the continuum of the program.

Language of initial reading instruction:

- Spanish speaker:
  - Spanish
- English speakers:
  - English

Instructional grouping:
Students are not grouped for instruction, but they are integrated heterogeneously and divided into two groups. Whole language techniques are used with both groups in both languages. Students are integrated for content instruction, but L2 instruction (Spanish for English speakers; English for Spanish speakers) is specifically geared to introductory lessons in target language for each group.

Percent of program teachers proficient in both languages:
50%

Percent of program staff proficient in both languages:
More than 50%

Additional program staff:
- 2 part time resource teachers
- 10 bilingual aides
- 1 English monolingual aide
- 1 full time Parent Outreach (Spanish) grant funded
- 1 full time Parent Outreach (English) grant funded

Computer use:
IBM Writing to Read, IBM Vale. In second grade the IBM program in the target language is used for both groups of students.

Curriculum/materials development:
Program staff members have developed extensive curricula in both languages based on thematic units and have presented these statewide.

PROGRAM EVALUATION

Evaluator:
Federal Street School
160 Federal Street
Salem, MA 01970
Evaluation components and procedures:

Items under assessment
- Spanish proficiency
- English proficiency
- Academic achievement in Spanish
- Academic achievement in English
- Self-esteem/competence
- Kindergarten screening
- Special education evaluation

Procedures/Instruments
- LAS, Pre-LAS
- CTBS, LAS
- SABE
- CTBS
- AGS Social Skills Rating Scale
- ESI (English, Spanish) (Meisels, Univ. of Michigan), LAS, Pre-LAS
- Special education evaluation and referrals as per state and local guidelines

COMMUNITY SUPPORT AND VIEWPOINT

Parent involvement:
- Parent Councils, school visits, classroom assistance, and language classes
- Involvement of parents at all levels of the program

Community responses to the program:
- Excellent
- Support has been consistent despite fiscal crisis in the city and state

School Board’s view of the program:
- Very favorable
- Programs are highly regarded

Advice to start-up programs:
- Research and gather curriculum materials
- Ongoing public relations is crucial
- Being seen as "selective" enhances program standing—parents are "convinced" that they are enlightened to choose such a program for their child

Most important features of the program:
- Our programs are taught by highly competent and motivated professionals in developmentally appropriate classrooms which are print rich, exciting, and active learning environments
- Program quality is determinate of academic success, especially in such a challenging program
- While it has been a challenge to begin as a pilot and then expand each year, it has been a lesson in how a vision can become a reality despite severe fiscal constraint
- The program fosters true integration and builds the self-esteem of both groups of children as well as prepares them well academically

Method of separating languages for instruction:
Language arts and content areas are integrated using a thematic approach. Consequently, languages are separated in terms of time as indicated above. Each classroom is staffed with bilingual assistants in order to meet this goal. In grades 3-4, languages are separated according to a team teaching approach with a monolingual teacher and a bilingual teacher each working with an integrated group of students.

Languages used for content area subjects and electives:
K-4—Spanish instruction:
- Social Studies
- Math
- Science

K-4—English instruction:
- Gym
- Music
- Art
- Library
- Cooperative Culture

Additional program staff:
- 1 full time resource teacher
- 4 full time bilingual assistants
- 1 half time bilingual assistant

Computer use:
Computer use in both languages

Curriculum/materials development:
Teachers have developed thematic units based on New York state syllabi integrating language arts and content areas.

Community Support and Viewpoint

Parent involvement:
- Parent Councils, school visits, classroom assistance, and language classes
- In addition to participating in the PTA which offers its information in Spanish and English, parents observe classes as well as assist in them
- ESL and SSL classes are also offered

Community responses to the program:
- Increasingly positive, as indicated by the interest in the kindergarten, especially by English proficient parents

School Board’s view of the program:
- The School Board sees the program as an economic advantage since the grant provides $165,000.00 of services per year

Advice to start-up programs:
- Involve the entire school and the community in its planning

Most important features of the program
- A developmental, child-centered, linguistically sensitive philosophy
- The involvement of parents
- Multicultural emphasis in the program

- Provide staff development

INSTRUCTIONAL DESIGN AND PROGRAM STAFFING

Percent of time Spanish is used for instruction:
K-1: It varies from day to day. Some part of the day is spent in target language instruction - anywhere from 10% to 50%. This will increase as the year progresses.

Method of separating languages for instruction:
By subject and by teacher. In kindergarten, the language used is very flexible because instruction is fluid.

Languages used for content area subjects and electives:
Math, Science, and Social Studies are taught in the native language. As concepts are learned, related activities are provided in the second language.

Language of initial reading instruction:
Spanish speakers: Spanish
English speakers: English

Instructional grouping:
Kindergarten contains both LEP students and EP students. In the first grade classes, students are in two rooms by language and then move to centers where Spanish is used for instruction.

Percent of program teachers proficient in both languages: 95%
Percent of program staff proficient in both languages: 70%

Additional program staff:
- 1 full time resource teacher
- 2 family workers

Curriculum/materials development:

COMMUNITY SUPPORT AND VIEWPOINT

Parent involvement:
• Parent Councils, school visits, classroom assistance, and language classes
• Parents are invited to a PTA conference at the beginning of the school year where the program's objectives and goals are explained
• Parents are invited to participate in all classroom activities, to become school volunteers and to enroll in the ESL/GED Parent Program

Community responses to the program:
• The immediate community and parents have demonstrated a very positive response

School Board's view of the program:
• The School Board has established a bilingual policy

Most important features of the program:
• The leveling component allows children of both language groups to participate in a non-graded reading program and to learn at their own pace
• The program encourages a strong multicultural component

COMMUNITY SUPPORT AND VIEWPOINT

Parent involvement:

* Parent Councils and school visits
* Consultation committees

School Board's view of the program:

Community School District 17, encompassing the Crown Heights and East Flatbush neighborhoods of Brooklyn, is committed to providing quality bilingual and English as a Second Language programs to all limited English proficient students. The district is further committed to extending the benefits of bilingual and bicultural education to our monolingual population through dual language education. It is these initiatives that will bring African-American, Caribbean, Haitian, Hispanic, Asian, Lubavitch, and other cultures of our community together.

Method of separating languages for instruction:

- By teacher—students receive content area instruction from the native language teacher and the second language teacher.

Languages used for content area subjects and electives:

K (LEP)—Spanish instruction:
Native Language Arts

1-2 (LEP)—Spanish instruction:
Reading, Math, Social Studies, Science

1-2 (EP)—Spanish instruction:
At least 15% of SSL instruction is given in content area

K (EP)—English instruction:
Native Language Arts

1-2 (EP)—English instruction:
Reading, Math, Social Studies, Science

1-2 (LEP)—English instruction:
At least 15% of ESL instruction is given in content area

Language of initial reading instruction:

- Spanish speakers: Spanish
- English speakers: English

Instructional grouping:

Students are grouped according to language dominance. LEP and EP students are integrated for culminating unit activities in all subject areas. These activities may include assembly programs, trips, and music activities.

Percent of program teachers proficient in both languages:

50%

Percent of program staff proficient in both languages:

66%

Additional program staff:

- 2 full time bilingual aides
- 1 full time (English) monolingual aide

Computer use:

Children participate in the Writing to Read Program and its Spanish counterpart, VALE.

Curriculum/materials development:

All program components are required to follow New York State and New York City Bilingual Core Curriculum Essential Learning Outcomes in the major subject areas. Syllabus for second language learning adheres to NYS Checkpoint A: Spanish.

COMMUNITY SUPPORT AND VIEWPOINT

Parent involvement:
- Classroom assistance and language classes
- The program has an extensive parental component
- Parents participate in classroom activities and in second language classes
- Workshops in parenting skills are also offered

Community responses to the program:
- This program is viewed as a very positive part of the district's bilingual program in that it promotes integration of LEP students and increases parent participation

School Board's view of the program:
- This program is viewed city-wide and state-wide as a quality educational program

Advice to start-up programs:
- Starting projects should view alternative models so that they might find the one which is most suitable for their population

Most important feature of the program:
- The emphasis on enrichment rather than the remedial and the involvement of parents

COMMUNITY SUPPORT AND VIEWPOINT

Parent involvement:
- School visits, classroom assistance, and language classes (ESL and SSL)
- Discussion on supporting students at home
- Orientation meeting for parents
- Weekly workshops for parents
- Parent Association activities

Community responses to the program:
- The community responses to the program have been extremely positive
- A large number of parents have participated in the bicultural activities prepared for the program staff
- Parents have also been participating in the ESL and SSL lessons offered by the program coordinator

School Board’s view of the program:
- Members of the School Board have visited our program
- The program has received a lot of feedback, and they hope that the program will continue

Advice to start-up programs:
- Project staff should meet at least once a month for staff development and project coordination purposes
- Project staff should develop a newsletter for project and district parents
- Highly visible cultural activities planned by staff, students, and parents to strengthen project spirit and identity
- Second language acquisition component for EP students must be emphasized

Most important feature of the program:
- The program is the first in New York City to have a full day pre-K two-way bilingual program in collaboration with Superstart, a New York City comprehensive pre-K program

COMMUNITY SUPPORT AND VIEWPOINT

Parent involvement:
- Parent Councils, school visits, and language classes (ESL, SSL)
- Parents attend workshops held by the site resource teacher
- Parents have also attended trips to the United Nations, museums, and health fairs
- Presentations during parent workshops have been planned to help parents become aware of the role they play in the education of their children

Community responses to the program:
- Community responses have been favorable
- The strongest advocates for second language learning have been the parents who recognize that learning Spanish is an enrichment for their children

School Board's view of the program:
- The School Board's view of the program has been favorable
- Some members have been supportive and have shared this with others

Advice to start-up programs:
- When planning such a program, have the teachers and principals who will be implementing the project as participants of the planning team

Most important feature of the program:
- This type of program has made it possible for bilingual education to be seen as an enrichment type of program by people who in the past thought it to be only a remedial program

COMMUNITY SUPPORT AND VIEWPOINT

Parent involvement:
* School visits
* Project BESTWAY produces a Parents' Newsletter which is mailed to parents of students in the program

Community responses to the program:
* Positive article in Noticias del Mundo, a widely circulated Spanish language newspaper, highlighted two years at Brandeis High School
* Article by program director featured in the New York City Writing Project Newsletter.
* Parents feel the program is very good and important

School Board's view of the program:
* District superintendent is supportive of the program

Advice to start-up programs:
* Be aware that programs may need to change to fit changing circumstances
* Try to restructure the program to fit the students' needs—the traditional models may not be appropriate

Most important features of the program:
* Recognize, validate, and appreciate cultural diversity of participants as well as linguistic differences and how they enhance each student's academic achievement
* Good rapport with students and staff
* Open to change, committed to change, and willing to try new things

COMMUNITY SUPPORT AND VIEWPOINT

Parent involvement:
- Parent Councils, school visits, classroom assistance and language classes
- Parents invited into classrooms to observe demonstration lessons
- Parents participate in BOCES Education Center/Bilingual Education Technical Assistance Center workshops
- Parents attend after-school ESL course
- Parents help in planning BETAC sponsored County Conference
- Parent/child/faculty Bilingual Banquet and other social events

Community responses to the program:
- Since this is the eighth year that our school has had a two-way program, the program is widely known, acknowledged as successful, and, in general, is seen as beneficial to both types of students
- Parents request children to participate

School Board's view of the program:
- After a period of "waiting to see results," the program is now considered educationally sound, beneficial to school success, and is seen as meeting the needs of LEP students and enriching EP students with a second language

Advice to start-up programs:
- Give sufficient time to educate teachers, community, and the School Board about the concept

Most important feature of the program:
- The students are finding themselves successful in school and they have developed a sense of "comradery" with another group of students

Ethnic/racial breakdown of school:
19.36% Hispanic; 45.85% Black; 33.19% White;
1.59% Other

Criteria for selecting and accepting students:
Spanish speakers:
The Placement and Language Assessment Center assesses students in Spanish and determines their level of Spanish dominance.

English speakers:
Pre-kindergarten screening is done at the building
level by a speech and language pathologist.

Recruitment procedures:
School newsletters, parent orientations, parent word-of-mouth, and the district magnet school bulletin—it is a city-wide magnet program. Special emphasis is placed on recruiting students during the school's registration effort—if any additional EP slots are available, they are advertised during the open enrollment period, which allows for a district-wide draw.

Grade level(s) of the program:
K-5

Grade level increases planned:
The program has expanded to capacity. The building houses kindergarten through grade 5.

Program objectives:

- To promote Spanish/English functional bilingualism for all program participants
- To provide an academic enrichment program for all participants
- To foster the creation of a multicultural and multiethnic school community
- To promote equal access to quality academic programs for both language groups
- To promote academic excellence with a bilingual program which focuses not only on language and language use, but on academics and multicultural literacy

Percent of time Spanish is used for instruction:

COMMUNITY SUPPORT AND VIEWPOINT

Parent involvement:
• Parent Councils, school visits, and classroom assistance
• Parents are involved in the instructional program to reinforce children's native language development and to communicate high expectations about academic achievement
• Parents are provided with comprehensive workshops in the areas of reading and math
• The project "Family Math" involves providing math classes to parents and children together

Community responses to the program:
• Community responses to the program have been extremely positive
• Most significant has been the long waiting list for our program through open enrollment and the increasing high regard toward bilinguals, as well as bilingualism

School Board's view of the program:
• The School Board views the program as exemplary and believes the advantage of integrating EP and LEP students gives them the opportunity to acquire a second language from native speakers of their own age

Advice to start-up programs:
• Students recruited should be performing at a high level of language proficiency in their native language, as this will facilitate second language acquisition
• English as a Second Language should be an integral part of the program

Most important features of the program:
• Home-school collaboration
• Teacher innovations of teaming and developing curriculum congruency that will develop students' critical thinking skills and linguistic development
• Teachers are competent bilinguals

- To help children develop and maintain pride in their ethnic origins through the history of Puerto Rico and recognition of Puerto Rican customs and culture, and the history and culture of Afro-American students.

INSTRUCTIONAL DESIGN AND PROGRAM STAFFING

Percent of time Spanish is used for instruction:
Pre-K-5: This is determined by policy by language proficiency level not by grade level, with the exception of Pre-K and K.

Method of separating languages for instruction:
By teacher, by subject, and by component (Spanish/English dominance)

Languages used for content area subjects and electives:
English Language Arts—All Anglo and English dominant Latino students
Spanish Language Arts—All Spanish dominant and Latino students who are no longer considered LEP
Spanish as a Second Language—All Anglo and English dominant Latino students
All other content is taught in the dominant language of the students.
All LEP students receive ESOL as part of the bilingual program. Extra ESOL support is provided by ESOL teachers on a pull out basis.

Language of initial reading instruction:
Spanish speakers:
Spanish
English speakers:
English

Instructional grouping:
Students are grouped according to their language ability. Students are integrated for content instruction occasionally by teams of teachers.

Per cent of program teachers proficient in both languages: 90%

Percent of program staff proficient in both languages: 80%

Additional program staff:
- 8 full time resource teachers

- 1 full time English monolingual classroom assistant
- 7 part time bilingual reading assistants
- 1 full time bilingual community coordinator
- 2 full time bilingual counselors
- 1 full time English monolingual community coordinator

Computer use:
Program uses computers for improvement of language and math skills in Spanish and English.

Curriculum/materials development:
Initially, the curriculum was developed for the program by a Curriculum Committee. The curriculum materials were developed for Spanish as a second language, social studies, culture, etc. Teachers contributed activities they developed for their classes. The school also uses commercially developed materials.

COMMUNITY SUPPORT AND VIEWPOINT

Parent involvement:
- Parent Councils, school visits, and classroom assistance
- Parents serve as volunteers in the classrooms
- Parents participate in workshops related to curriculum and cultural areas

Community responses to the program:
- Excellent

School Board’s view of the program:
- The Board of Education has been very supportive of the school and its philosophy of bilingual education. The School District has continued to fund most of the projects originally funded by Title VII. At the present time, the only sources of funding are local school district’s operating budget and Chapter I, School Wide Projects

Advice to start-up programs:
- Must stress the importance of learning in two languages and secure parental understanding and meaningful involvement

Most important feature of the program:
- The program includes both Anglo and Latino students and is not a remedial program

• Parents are involved in the classrooms by assisting the teachers
• Evening ESL classes are offered for adults on our campus

Community responses to the program:
• Very positive
• Because of an overwhelming response from parents who want their children to learn Spanish, we have had to put students who wish to enter the dual language program on a waiting list

School Board’s view of the program:
• The School Board has given its approval as necessary to provide funding for teacher training and materials

Advice to start-up programs:
• It can be done! It requires someone with a vision who can mobilize central administration, teachers, parents, and students
• It is definitely a collaborative effort on the part of all of these groups
