This document comprises forms (and directions for their use) used in Oregon in conjunction with the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) for school-aged children. Forms are identified as either required or optional and are presented in a two-page format, with one page identifying the form, explaining its purposes, and providing directions for completing it and the other page containing a copy of the form. A flow chart shows the special education procedural process and identifies the required forms for each step. Forms include: referral for special education; parent notification of team referral; prior notice and consent for initial evaluation; statements of eligibility (for visual impairment, hearing impairment, speech/language impairment, orthopedic impairment, learning disability, serious emotional disturbance, mental retardation, autism, deaf/blind, other health impairment, and traumatic brain injury); physician's statement; prior notice and consent for initial placement in special education; notice of Individual Education Program meeting; Individual Education Program; prior notice of reevaluation and/or consent for intelligence or personality testing; prior notice of proposal or refusal to initiate a change; permission to obtain and release information; school officials having access to student records; and record of request for or disclosure of student records. Appendices answer questions concerning written prior notice and written parental consent and provide copies of forms ready for photocopying. (DB)

Annual Review
Introduction

The materials included in this document were developed in response to comments and requests from teachers, administrators and parents over the past two years. Generally, the field has expressed the desire for the Office of Special Education to develop a set of forms that meet the requirements of the Individuals with Disabilities Act (IDEA), that are written in everyday language, and that include an explanation of the purposes of the forms and directions for how to use them. In addition to these considerations, the Department developed forms and directions that meet the requirements for both school-aged programs and for Early Childhood Special Education (ECSE) programs for children ages three and four so those school districts who provide both ECSE and school age programs and services have a uniform, consistent set of forms with as little duplication as possible.

Department staff developed drafts of the forms during the fall and winter of 1991-92. Twenty-five district special education directors reviewed the drafts, evaluated their content and effectiveness, and suggested modifications. Ten of these districts conducted field tests of the forms during the spring of 1992. The drafts of the forms were revised during the summer of 1992 using the responses received from these districts.

The forms and directions included in this document will need to be revised in the future. Federal and state laws may change; the federal monitoring process to be conducted during 1992-93 may require modifications; and new ideas for formatting and directions may emerge as districts use this document. However, in deference to the needs expressed by people in the field, the Department is publishing this document now.

The forms presented in this document include ones that meet the IDEA requirements, and include optional forms for other special education procedures. However, a placement procedures form is not included here but is included in a technical assistance paper on placement and least restrictive environment (LRE) that will be published by the Department at a later date.

Using the Document

The forms and directions in this document are organized in chronological order from the referral of a student through the development of the student's IEP and, after LRE and placement decisions are made, through any changes to the student's evaluation, IEP and/or placement. Two identifiers are used for the forms:

- R# Forms identified with an "R" (required) and a number contain procedures and documentation that are required by federal and state law.

- O# Forms identified with an "O" (optional) and a number contain procedures and documentation for special education that, though not required specifically by law, have been requested from the field.

Each form follows a two-page format:

- Left-Facing Page This page contains the form number and name, an explanation of the purposes of the form including any legal authority reference, and directions for completing the form.

- Right-Facing Page This page contains a copy of the form. At the top of each right-facing page, there is a space to indicate the date that the form was completed.

The forms contained in this document are available on diskette for the IBM or Macintosh. Specific software will be required for districts to use the diskettes. For further information or to order a diskette, please call the Office of Special Education, 378-3598.

Instructions

Purpose

Page 2 of this 4-page form is used to:

• comply with 34 CFR 300.346, 34 CFR 300 Appendix C, and OAR 581-15-068 which mandate that the IEP shall include a statement of the student's present levels of educational performance with annual goals, short-term objectives including criteria, schedule and evaluation procedures. Date achieved is optional.

• meet the requirements of 34 CFR 300.18, 34 CFR 300.346, and ORS 343.195 regarding specifying a student's preferences, interests and needs regarding transition and including transition activities on the IEP.

Directions

1. Enter student's complete legal name; do not use a nickname.

2. Enter the name of the area addressed in the goal such as reading, math, study skills, behavior, or transition.

3. Enter the transition service for students 16 years and older and for students below age 16 whose need for transition services may include, but are not limited to postsecondary education, vocational training, integrated employment, continuing and adult education, adult services, independent living, or community participation. If this does not apply to a particular student, enter "NA."

4. Present Level of Educational Performance: Do not use test acronyms unless they are first explained. For example, write the name of the test followed by the abbreviation, such as the Wechsler Intelligence Scale for Children Revised (WISC-R) or Peabody Picture Vocabulary Test-Revised (PPVT-R). Present your findings in vocabulary that would be easily understood by a person not trained in the field of education.

5. Student's Preferences, Interests, Needs Regarding Transition: Indicate the student's preferences, interests and needs as they relate to transition. For example, if the student wants to enroll in community college and become a mechanic, list that here. If this does not apply to a particular student, enter "NA."

6. Annual Goal: There should be a direct relationship between the annual goal and present levels of performance. There should also be a relationship between the goal and the findings in the evaluation or goals in the last IEP, if this is an annual review. Use one page for each goal.

7. Short-term objectives, criteria, evaluation procedures, schedule for review, date achieved: Write more than one short-term objective for each goal to show how the goal will be accomplished. Use a numbering system to separate short-term objectives. Use more than one page if space does not allow you to write as many short-term objectives as are needed. Short-term objectives must contain a schedule for review. A short-term objective will also include the behavior and the criteria and may include the condition. Evaluation procedures should be listed for each short-term objective. You can use this form for data collection by indicating the date the objective was achieved (optional).

Individual Education Program
Modifications and Accommodations
(Supplementary Aids and Services)
Form R16c (Page 3 of 4)

Instructions

Purpose

The top part of Page 3 of this 4-page form is used to:

- document compliance with 34 CFR 300 Appendix C, question 48, which mandates that when an eligible student with a disability is placed in a regular class program, modifications and adaptations shall be made and described within the IEP, so that the pupil has a genuine opportunity to benefit from regular class placement. They shall be made in as many areas as needed, including instructional time, evaluation procedures, curriculum and materials adaptation, and other areas. Accommodations are required to be carried out and should be carefully considered.

Directions

1. Enter student's complete legal name; do not use a nickname.

2. Describe the modifications and adaptations that will be necessary to ensure this student's successful participation in a regular class program. If a child will be in a program with nondisabled peers, this section probably will be very important to his/her success. You may use a printed checklist of accommodations under this heading.

Purpose

The bottom part of page 3 of this 4-page form is optional and is used to:

- assist teachers and consultants in the description and documentation of services provided.

Directions

3. Describe the characteristics of services provided. This is especially helpful if the student is placed in regular education class 100 percent of the time, but still requires some consultation or indirect services.

- Consultation services are defined as teacher-to-specialist consultation. Examples include:

  consultation with staff to make program refinements;
  consultation with parents;
  technical assistance and training for team members;
  assisting with development, implementation and monitoring of an augmentative communication system; and assisting in finding funding sources for equipment.

- Direct services are described in terms of nature and scope. Nature refers to the subject or skill area. Scope refers to the type or kind of service, condition, extent or range of service (i.e., individualized instruction, small group, large group, peer or volunteer assistance).

- Indirect services are described as preparation of materials, building equipment, seeking services, and perhaps clerical. Examples of tasks might be obtaining books on tape, checking a student's grades, or enlarging the print on worksheets. Also, assessment of student progress, demonstrations, checking of equipment such as hearing aids or communication devices can be considered indirect services.

This form is continued on pages 46 and 47.

Form R17

Instructions

Purpose

This form is used to:

- meet requirements of 34 CFR 300.504(a), 34 CFR 300.505 and OAR 581-15-075 which mandate that the district provide the parent with an explanation regarding why it plans to reevaluate, what options were considered and why any of the options were rejected; and

- meet the requirements of OAR 581-21-030(2)(a) which mandates that before administering individual intelligence tests or personality tests, districts shall inform parents and get consent in writing.

NOTE: Form R18 can be used as the prior notice form rather than this form. Both forms meet the regulations. However, if Form R18 is used, consent must be granted on a separate form if intelligence or personality testing are planned.

Directions

1. Check the box or boxes that apply. You may end up checking both if you want to do intelligence and/or personality testing in your reevaluation. Prior notice must always be given. Consent is only needed on this form if the district plans to conduct an individual intelligence test or personality tests as part of the three-year evaluation.

2. Enter student’s complete legal name; do not use a nickname.

3. Indicate reasons for the reevaluation by checking a box next to the explanation which best describes the reason for this reevaluation.

4. If this is a required three-year reevaluation, provide this as the reason why no other options were considered prior to conducting this reevaluation. If the multidisciplinary team is considering a significant change in programming/placement, explain what program/placement options have been tried and/or those that do not seem feasible.

5. If this is a required three-year reevaluation, explain that no options will be considered until the results of the reevaluation are reviewed. If you are considering a significant change in program/placement, provide a description of any options that were considered and reasons why those options were rejected before it was decided that a significant change of placement must be considered.

6. Add any other relevant information here.

7. This section meets the requirements for 34 CFR 300.505 and OAR 581-15-075. The law requires a description of each evaluation, procedure, test record or report used as a basis of a proposed evaluation. Indicate the areas to be tested from the list below. You must name and describe each test used. Acronyms must be explained.

- intelligence, hearing, personality/emotional/behavior, physical/occupational therapy, adaptive PE,
- academic achievement, speech/language, adaptive behavior, vocational, medical/health, observations,
- vision, other

8. This box is checked only if notice is required. Parent signature is not required for reevaluation unless the district conducts an individual intelligence test or personality tests as part of the reevaluation.

9. Check this box if consent is required because an individual intelligence or personality testing is needed.

10. This section must be signed and dated by the parent/guardian/surrogate parent/adult student before an intelligence or personality test is given.

11. Place a copy of this form in the student’s file.

Form O3

1. School Year

Following is a current list of the names and positions of those school officials (including teachers) in the district who, because of their legitimate educational interest, may have access to personally identifiable information without consent from the parent, legal guardian, or eligible student. As required by the Buckley Amendment (45 CFR Part 99.5), the school district student records policy specifies the criteria for determining which parties are "school officials" and what the district considers to be "a legitimate educational interest."

NOTE: The requirement to maintain a record of parties requesting or gaining access to a student's records does not apply to the following persons.

Appendix A
Written Prior Notice
Questions and Answers

1. Is written prior notice required when the school conducts screening with all children in a school, grade or class?

No. Such screening includes basic tests administered to or procedures used with all children in a school, grade, or class and does not require written prior notice.

2. Is written prior notice required when a school promotes a student from one grade to another?

No.

3. Is it necessary to provide written prior notice for assessing student progress for purposes of annual review of the IEP?

No. You are merely assessing progress toward meeting goals and objectives and you are using testing data for the purposes of setting new goals and objectives.

4. Is it necessary to send all written prior notices by certified or registered mail or to deliver them in person?

No, only in contested cases. See the Attorney General’s Model Rules of Procedures under the Administrative Procedures Act, ORS 183.030(4).

5. Is there a requirement to provide written prior notice for the IEP meeting?

No. The requirement for written prior notice describing the proposed action and informing parents of their legal rights does not apply to IEP meetings. However, the district is required to notify the parents in writing of the (1) purpose, (2) time, (3) place of the meeting, and (4) who will attend (OAR 581-15-067).

6. Is it necessary to provide written prior notice when conducting the reevaluation as is required every three years?

Yes, written prior notice is required. You are again determining whether a child has a disability as well as the nature and extent of special education services required. (Written parental consent is not required unless individual intelligence or personality testing is proposed according to OAR 581-21-030.)

7. Is written prior notice required when changing the special education services (placement) which are specified on the child’s IEP (e.g., physical therapy, resource room help, adaptive physical education, self-contained classroom)?

Yes. These changes will be developed with the parents in an IEP meeting, and written prior notice is required before implementing them. (Written parental consent is not required.)

8. Is written prior notice required for a change in a child’s long-term goals and/or short-term objectives?

Yes. OAR 581-15-075 requires that written prior notice be given to parents prior to changing a student’s IEP.

9. Is written prior notice required when terminating a child from special education services?

Yes. Termination constitutes a change in placement. (Written parental consent is not required.)

10. What does “proposes to initiate or change Identification of the child” mean?

This means that the district is proposing to determine whether the child has a disability according to minimum criteria outlined in OAR 581-15-051 or to determine that the child is not in need of special education services.
11. What would satisfy the requirement for written prior notice when a district “proposes to initiate or change the identification of a child”?

Written prior notice for evaluation, or reevaluation to establish the child’s identification as disabled, or not disabled, can satisfy the requirement.

12. What are the most typical circumstances under which written prior notice is required?

- Before initial evaluation.
- Before reevaluation—as required every three years or more frequently if conditions warrant or if the child’s parent(s) or teacher requests an evaluation.
- Before initially placing a child in any program of special education services.
- Before making a change in placement (e.g., services specified in the IEP such as adaptive P.E., speech therapy, resource room).
- When proposing to initiate or change the identification of a child.
- Before terminating a child from special education services.
- When refusing a parental request to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, or placement of a child.
- Before a change in the student’s long-term goals and/or short-term objectives. NOTE: Under the requirements of PL 94-142, written notice and consent are required for both placement evaluation and initial placement. However, only written notice is required for reevaluations, changes in placement, or any other action which the agency proposes or refuses to take with respect to the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child, or the provision of a free appropriate public education to the child.

13. As related to the requirements for prior notice, what are some examples of “a description of any options the school district considered and the reasons why those options were rejected”?

- The district considered Chapter I placement but felt that the child’s needs could not be fully met in that program, and that the student should be evaluated for eligibility to receive special education services.
- The district considered a change in placement or an IEP change (in lieu of reevaluation) but decided that the student’s needs should be re-assessed.
- The district considered termination instead of a change in placement but decided that the student needed the support of itinerant services.

14. Should the Children’s Services Division (CSD) be provided with written prior notice for children under their guardianship?

PL 94-142 does not require that anyone other than the parent or surrogate parent, be provided with written prior notice. However, since CSD often has a need to be involved when a child under their guardianship is physically moved from one placement to another (e.g., from one building to another or to an alternative school placement), it would be appropriate to inform CSD when such changes are being proposed. This is a matter of keeping CSD informed of changes which might affect their responsibility for the care and maintenance of the child. Notification, which need not be a formal notice, should be made to the local CSD office branch manager.

15. What does “changing or refusing to change the provision of a free appropriate public education” mean?

It means changing or refusing to change the child’s special education and related services which:

a. are provided at public expense, under public supervision and direction, and without charge;
be. meet the standards of the Oregon Department of Education (i.e., OAR 581-15-005 through 581-15-500);
c. include elementary and secondary school education; and
d. are provided in conformity with an IEP.
Appendix B
Written Parental Consent
Questions and Answers

1. Is it necessary to have separate prior notice and parental consent forms?

   No. These forms may be combined. The three circumstances requiring parental consent (pre-placement evaluation, initial placement, and administration of an individual intelligence test or test of personality) also require prior notice. It may be more efficient administratively to combine the two into a single form.

2. Should a copy of the prior notice and parental consent be kept?

   It is suggested that these be kept as a means to document that procedural safeguards of notice and consent have been followed.

3. Is it required that specific tests be listed by name on the parental consent form for evaluation?

   Yes. Under PL 94-142, a parent must be "fully informed of all information relevant to the activity for which consent is sought . . ." Thus, in obtaining consent for pre-placement evaluation if the agency plans to give a particular test to a child, the parents must be fully informed about that test. In cases where the actual tests to be given to a child are not known in advance of the testing situation, the agency must give parents a description of the general kinds of tests that will be used (e.g., an individually administered test of general intelligence, such as the Wechsler Intelligence Scale for Children or the Stanford-Binet Intelligence Scale).

4. What happens if a parent refuses to grant written consent for pre-placement evaluation or Initial placement?

   The district could initiate a hearing under OAR 581-15-081. Or, the district could abide by the parent's wishes, but it is suggested that the district document the parent's refusal in a statement signed by the parent outlining the services which were recommended and refused. NOTE: When parental refusal is encountered, it would be a matter of best practice for district representatives to meet with the parent to thoroughly discuss the proposed action and possible alternative action to avoid refusal on the basis of parental misunderstanding.

5. Are there any circumstances under which a district may conduct a pre-placement evaluation or initially place a child without written parental consent?

   Yes, if as a result of a hearing, a final order under OAR 581-15-088 has been issued determining that the evaluation or placement is appropriate, then written parental consent is not necessary.

6. Is it necessary to obtain written parental consent when conducting the reevaluation as is required every three years?

   Consent is not required unless an individual intelligence test or test of personality is administered in which case written consent is required under OAR 581-21-030. (Written prior notice is always required for reevaluation.)

7. Is written parental consent required when changing the child's special education placement (i.e., the special education services which are specified on the child's IEP such as physical therapy, resource room help, adaptive physical education, self-contained classroom)?

   No. Written parental consent is not required for any changes occurring after the child is once receiving any special education services. (Written prior notice is required.)

8. Is written parental consent required when evaluating a child to determine eligibility to receive services under an additional disabling condition (e.g., a child who is receiving services as Educable Mentally Retarded and who the district wants to evaluate for a physical handicap)?
No. The only evaluation requiring written parental consent is the pre-placement evaluation which means the evaluation preceding the child's first placement in any program of special education services. However, written parental consent must always be obtained whenever the child is given an individual intelligence test or a test of personality.

NOTE: After written parental consent is obtained for a child to be evaluated for the first time (pre-placement evaluation) and is again obtained for the child to receive any special education service for the first time (initial placement), consent is not required again for any change in program services or placement, or for any future evaluation unless the child is later to be given an intelligence test or a test of personality which always requires written parental consent.

It appears that when the law was written, it was assumed that once the child was identified as disabled, a smooth progression would follow: annual review of the IEP with the parents, prior written notice for any changes in services developed in the IEP meeting, and reevaluation with prior written notice every three years.

There are, however, other circumstances which might occur and the law does not seem to provide adequately for them. Districts may, therefore, wish to obtain written parental consent for circumstances which do not fit the smooth progression assumed in the law. For instance, a child may be terminated from special education services and later referred for evaluation for another disability. Although the law suggests that written parental consent is not required for evaluation or placement, the district might choose to obtain it. In fact, districts might choose to obtain written parental consent any time a child is evaluated for an additional disability even though the law does not require it.

☐ The multidisciplinary team has determined that the above-named student is not eligible for special education in the category of deaf/blind.

☐ The multidisciplinary team has determined that the above-named student is eligible for and needs special education in the category of deaf/blind. The determination is based upon one or more of the following eligibility requirements:
