The 1993 Texas Reading Club theme is classic children's books, working from the premise that these are some books no childhood should be without. Each of the chapters focuses on a particular type of book. In each chapter, activities and handouts are presented for a toddler program, three storytimes, and two upper elementary school programs. At the end of every chapter is a list of additional books for family sharing. The title of each chapter is a quote from a children's classic. The chapters deal with the following topics: (1) an introduction to classics; (2) classic journeys; (3) animal classics; (4) fantasy classics; (5) informational classics; (6) folk/fairy tale classics; (7) toy classics; (8) mystery/adventure classics; (9) contemporary and realistic classics; and (10) multicultural classics. An annotated bibliography of 712 books is included, as well as a list of 31 media items. (SLD)
Lions, and Tigers, and Books...Oh My!

Program Guide for
The Texas Reading Club 1993

Written by Tim and Penny Wadham

Clip art by Felicia Bond

Sponsored by the Library Development Division
Texas State Library
1993
Wadham, Tim.
Lions, and tigers, and books-- oh my! : program guide for the Texas reading club 1993 / written by Tim and Penny Wadham ; clip art by Felicia Bond; sponsored by the Library Development Division, Texas
State Library. -- [Austin, Tex.]. -- The Division, 1993.
257, [32] p. : ill. ; 28 cm. -- (Texas reading club ; 1993)
Title on cover also in Spanish: Leones, y tigres, y libros-- ¡hurra!
Subtitle on cover: Texas reading club program manual.
Includes bibliographical references (p. 207-254).
Filmography: p. 255-256.

1. Children--Books and reading. 2. Libraries,
Children's. I. Wadham, Penny. II. Bond, Felicia.
III. Texas State Library. Library Development
Division. IV. Title. V. Title: Program guide for the Texas reading club 1993. VI. Leones, y tigres, y libros-- ¡hurra! VII. Texas reading cub program manual. VIII. Series.

©Tim Wadham and Penny Rae Wadham

The Texas State Library reserves the right to reproduce, publish, or otherwise use, and to authorize others to use, the work for government purposes.

The activity which is the subject of this report was supported in whole or in part by the U.S. Department of Education. However, the opinions expressed herein do not necessarily reflect the position or policy of the U.S. Department of Education and no official endorsement by the U.S. Department of Education should be inferred.

Although this manual was printed by the Texas State Library, the opinions expressed herein do not necessarily reflect official agency policy.

Austin Texas
1993
TABLE OF CONTENTS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Chapter</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>&quot;We're Off To See the Wizard&quot;</td>
<td>v</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Introduction</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1 &quot;Lions and Tigers and Books, Oh My!&quot;</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>An Introduction to Classics</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2 &quot;Follow the Yellow Brick Road&quot;</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Classic Journeys</td>
<td>2 9</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3 &quot;If I Were King of the Forest&quot;</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Animal Classics</td>
<td>4 5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4 &quot;We're Not In Kansas Anymore, Toto&quot;</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fantasy Classics</td>
<td>6 9</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5 &quot;My Pink Brains Are Beautiful, You Can See 'Em Work&quot;</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Informational Classics</td>
<td>8 9</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6 &quot;I Transformed Her...Into a Boy&quot;</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Folk/Fairy Tale Classics</td>
<td>1 0 5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7 &quot;The Best Stuffing There is Going&quot;</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Toy Classics</td>
<td>1 3 7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8 &quot;Beware of the Woozy&quot;</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mystery/Adventure Classics</td>
<td>1 5 3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9 &quot;And Oh, Aunt Em, I'm So Glad to Be Home Again&quot;</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Contemporary/Realistic Classics</td>
<td>1 7 3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>10 &quot;Strange Little Corners That Surprise You&quot;</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Multicultural Classics</td>
<td>1 8 3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bibliography</td>
<td>2 0 7</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

LIONS, and TIGERS, and BOOKS... OH MY!
We're Off To See the Wizard

Introduction

The 1993 Texas Reading Club Theme, Lions, and Tigers, and Books...Oh My!, is about classic children's books from L. Frank Baum's "Oz" books to Avi's The True Confessions of Charlotte Doyle. A "classic" can mean a book that has proven the test of time, or a new book that by virtue of its quality has the "feel" of a classic, and chances are that years from now it will still be popular. Each one of us also have a list of personal classics, those books which played an important role in our childhood. This year's manual is designed around the premise that there are some books that no childhood should be without, and that childhood experiences with books have a long-lasting impact. It provides a way to introduce children of all age levels to some of those books in a library setting. Many of the books in this manual were (and are) important to us as children. We encourage you to recall the favorites of your own childhood, and include those in your programming as well.

Each of the chapters of this manual focus on a particular type of book. In each chapter you will find a toddler time, three storytimes, and two upper elementary programs. At the end of each chapter there is a list of additional books for family sharing. Most every program in this manual has been tried and passed the "Kid Appeal" test.

When planning, it is a good idea to have a set routine for beginning and ending all of your programs. You can choose a fingerplay or action rhyme for the younger children, and a poem for the older groups. Repeat it at the beginning of every program for that group and, eventually, the children will know it and repeat it with you. You can use the same poem or rhyme to close, or perhaps have another routine such as ending with a song like "Happy Trails to You." We've provided several fingerplays and poems in the programs of the first chapter that you can use for this purpose. You can adapt them, or find some other way of regularly kicking off your programs. Another possibility for the younger groups is to use a puppet friend that the children can hug and love to introduce the program.

Toddler Time (18 months to 2 years)

Toddler times are perhaps the most challenging of any program to do. This is an exciting time for these children--they are now mobile, even though they are not very well coordinated with their large or small muscles. They are beginning to develop their language skills. Most children this age are very curious about the world around them, and enjoy playing with things, but they play next to others instead of with them. They have an attention span of only a few minutes, and move quickly from one thing to another. This is one program where a parent definitely needs to remain with the child, and in the programming we have provided, we have assumed that there will be an adult with each child. The adults may need to help with a project, or help their child move through the actions of fingerplays, but more often to offer encouragement and reassurance. When you start out with a new group, you'll probably experience a little culture shock, but don't let that dissuade you from working with a really great age group. Of all the ages, toddlers especially benefit from a sense of routine. It is a good idea to provide a seating arrangement where they can have an assigned place. One idea is to place carpet squares in a semi-circle and have the child sit on the square, with the parent seated behind them, or have the child sit in their parent's lap.
We've included three books with each toddler program, but the reality we've discovered is that if you're working with a new, young or inexperienced group, you'll probably want to use only one or two books, taking into account a toddler's short attention span. Especially with a new group, move from one thing to another, spending most of the time with active games and fingerplays. Toddlers enjoy language and moving their bodies, but they will probably have trouble at first, and some will only participate during a part of the activity, or not at all. Have the parents help them make the movements, and participating will become easier for them. Always leave time for parents and toddlers to look at books together. You might want to have some selected titles ready near the story area. If you have puzzles or toys, this is also a time to provide the toddler with some tactile experiences.

Storytime  (3 to 8 years)

The three to eight-year-old group is a delight. You'll know you've done well when you get a hug afterwards. These children are blunt and straightforward in their praise and criticism. You can as easily get an "I liked the story where..." as a "Those stories were stupid!" The younger children (3, 4, and 5 year olds) have discovered they are able to do things, and their large muscle coordination is improving. They love stories and will ask for their favorite one over and over again. The older children (6, 7, and 8 years old) have increased attention spans and love games and competition. This is the group where you can begin using longer stories and more complex activities. We've included five books with each individual program. Usually, along with the fingerplays and activities, three are enough to fill out a program.

Upper Elementary Programs  (9-12 years)

This age group is able to use imagination to become the characters they read about. Their friends are very important to them, and they want to belong. The first of the three programs for upper Elementary age children is a picture book program. We hope that nobody ever becomes too old for picture books. The ones we've selected for this age group are a bit longer, more thought-provoking, and sophisticated--some of them even touch on serious issues. We've included three books with each program, but as with the other age groups, feel free to adjust to the needs of your children.

The other two programs are booktalks. We've included activities as well as suggested chapters for reading aloud, so that if you wanted, you could turn the booktalk into a full-fledged program. An alternative to this, if you have a captive audience, is to read one or two chapters from a book each time the group meets. This works especially well if the books you choose are episodic (each chapter is a complete story) instead of cumulative (each chapter building on a previous chapter). Check the chapter books listed in "Books for Family Sharing" for other books you can use for booktalks or reading aloud.

Books For Family Sharing

There are many books that we would love to have included in storytimes, but we just couldn't fit them all. They are too good to miss, so we've included these on a sheet at the end of the chapter. Don't be fooled by the title, you can use these in your programs as well! You can use these for handouts as is, or you can personalize them using those books you have available in your library. We have provided templates of bookmarks that you can use for this purpose. You could hand these out at the end of your weekly programs. You could also use them as part of your requirements for the Texas
Reading Club, and/or display the suggested books with appropriate posters or as part of a bulletin board display highlighting that particular genre.

Notes on Program Elements

With each suggested program in each section you'll find books, poetry, activities, and ideas for variations that will include changes to make the program appropriate for an older or younger group. One of our main goals in writing this manual was to provide all the materials you would need to complete these programs. We didn't want you to be overwhelmed by detailed preparations, or not be able to complete programs because your library didn't have certain reference books. We tried to give you more information than you would need, so that as you went through, you could be "picky" about the things you wanted to try, and still have a complete program.

Program Titles/Themes

You'll notice that the titles of the individual program come from one of the recommended books. We've tried to select a quote that will make the theme obvious. We hope by doing this to focus a little attention on the books and their language. Don't forget to savor the delicious language in these classics; that's one of the great sources of their appeal. You might consider making publicity flyers that include program titles.

Books

With each type of program, we've included more than enough books for a standard 30 minute program. Hopefully, this will allow you to find suggested titles that you own, and to allow you to mix and match to suit your audience and needs.

With all storytimes, don't be afraid to challenge the children (and yourself) with books that you might feel at first glance might be slightly beyond their comprehension level. You'll be pleasantly surprised. Do everything you can to share the stories with enthusiasm, and if you feel it, the kids will feel it too.

With the new emphasis on whole language in the schools, more and more children's books are being used as an integral part of the curriculum. For public librarians, this means that it's more likely the children will have already heard some of the books that you might share. Taking this into account, we have attempted to include in the programs a balance between the immediately obvious classics and some books that might be less familiar.

Flannelboard Stories/Puppet Shows

There are several ways to come up with these. If you are so inclined, you can find a book on puppet making and make puppets from socks, clay, cloth, paper maché, or any other materials (get the children involved, and let them help you make them--then they could put on the puppet show). If you happen to have some already on hand, you can adapt the stories to fit the puppets you already have, or you can use any combination of different types of puppets. When you are weeding your collection, keep an eye out for picture books that are ready to be withdrawn. You can get extra life out of these books by cutting out the pictures and mounting them as described below, and turning the book into a puppet show or flannelboard story.

For those who are less "inclined," we have included patterns for the suggested flannelboard stories and puppet shows. For the puppets, copy the pattern, color (markers make bright puppets that are easy to see), mount on lightweight cardboard or posterboard, cut out, and glue a popsicle stick to the back. For flannelboard figures, copy and color, but instead of mounting on cardboard, glue a small square of felt or sandpaper to the back, and you're finished. For longevity, you might want to cover these with clear contact paper. You can make a flannelboard by covering a heavy piece of cardboard with flannel (or other "fuzzy" fabric). You could also use a "fuzzy" blanket draped over an easel. If you don't have any of these, and don't want to go to the bother of making them, another simple solution is to attach a small magnet (you can buy magnets in strips at most craft supply stores and cut off what you need--about 1/4-1/2 inch is enough for most figures--if it is very tall, you might want to place a magnet at the top and bottom of the pattern.) For your "board," use a metal (aluminum won't work) cookie sheet, filing cabinet, or desk front.

Poetry

Poetry is a part of the whole experience of literature, and rather than give it its own chapter, we've tried to spread poems throughout the programs. Not only are there fingerplays/games, but you'll also find Mother Goose rhymes (referred to as rhymes), and plain old poems (referred to as poems, for lack of a better term!). In the bibliography, you'll find a list of poetry that includes classic compilations, and some of the most important books by individual poets. Share poetry! A school librarian that Tim knew would bring children into the library on a weekly basis, and spend the first fifteen minutes doing choral reading of poems. Over the school year she noticed a marked increase in the language skills of the children, and all along they were just having fun.
Without a captive audience, it's a little harder to do this in a public library setting, but it's possible. If you have an easel and easel pad available, you can write out the rhymes in print large enough for a group to see, and add illustrations if you are so inclined. An alternative is to provide handouts with the poems, or put the poems in booklet form and let the children illustrate them. You might want to leave space for them to write in their own poetry. In any case, you'll be amazed at how children will get into the spirit of things.

Songs

We have suggested some songs that you can include in your programs. We have included the words, and have tried to include references for the music. Because most of the songs we selected are very common, you probably won't have to worry about this.
Don't worry about your musical ability--most children really don't care, and any mistakes will only endear you more to them. Most kids love to sing, and this is a good way to help them burn off extra energy before or during your programs.

Activities

We have tried to choose a variety of activities that relate directly to one or more of the suggested books. We wanted these to be simple to execute, and not require any great knowledge or skill to put together. With each suggested program, we've included two activities, in case you don't care for, or aren't able to implement one of them. It's also our hope that our ideas might spark your own adaptations, variations, or entirely new programs. We encourage you to make these programs your own, and to let your imagination go wild.

Be flexible so you are not upset if a program doesn't go exactly as you planned. Most of the younger children will be more interested in experimenting with the materials you have given them, than in finishing a project. As they get older, creating a finished product will be more important to them. You'll have a range of abilities in any group you work with, so allow for these differences. Encourage children to do their own work, and avoid giving them a model to copy. Be supportive of their attempts.
If library finances make it difficult to provide craft supplies, you might consider soliciting donations from local businesses, or through publicity asking parents to bring common things they might have around the house, such as egg cartons, cans, paper, glue, etc. You could also post a wish list in your library of supplies you need. No matter the cost, it is a good idea to ask before you buy anything—there's a good chance that there is someone willing to donate what you need. You really have nothing to lose, because the worst you can get is "no" for an answer and you are back where you started from. Some of the items that Tim has had donated to his library include: $50 from a bank to pay a performer, refreshments from bakeries and grocery stores, seed packets for a gardening program, and lumber to build a castle in the children's area. These are just a few ideas to get you started—look around your neighborhood and see what they have to offer.

Variations

In these sections, we listed books that would make the same program appropriate for younger or older groups, or perhaps alter the focus a little.

T*R*C or How I Run My Texas Reading Club Good

An initial step in the implementation of a Texas Reading Club program is to create a time table to help you coordinate all of its various aspects. Here's an example:

1993

TEXAS READING CLUB TIME TABLE

1993 manual arrives from Texas State Library

November 1992

Prepare ideas for printed publicity and program materials

December 1992

Prepare ideas for in-house TRC bulletin boards and artwork

January 1993

Begin preparing programs and contacting program presenters

March 1993

Finalize and print publicity and program materials

April 1993

State Library Materials arrive

April 1993

Publicize TRC in schools, PTA's and other community agencies

April/May 1993

TEXAS READING CLUB BEGINS

June 1993

TEXAS READING CLUB ENDS

August 1993

Crash/Take Vacation in Bahamas

Late August 1993

Send lists of participants to schools

September 1993
Your way of implementing the Texas Reading Club may already be well established, or this may be your first time. In any event, here are some ideas that might help.

Publicity

One of the best things a children's librarian can do is make a lot of noise. Sometimes you have to. Show your managers and administrators that you are making a real impact.

When you go to the schools, do something that will make the children (and teachers) remember you. One idea is to show a film based on a book that goes along with the theme. One year, Tim wrote a short play and had some children who came regularly to the library put it on in all the schools. It took some extra work, and a lot of arrangements to get the actors released from their own classes, but it was a good experience for everyone who was involved. The most important thing is to find something that you are excited about and do it!

Bulletin Boards

Here are several ideas to make bulletin boards to mark the progress of the children in your program.

1. Make a "yellow book" road. Give each child a piece of yellow construction paper, about the size of a book. Have them write their name on their book, then put the books together to form a road. As a child reads books, he can place a star or sticker on his book, and at the end of the summer, he can take his book home as an award.

2. Make a "yellow book" road as described above, but write titles on the "books." The children can write their name on a marker. Have the road begin where the house fell, then as the children read, they can move their marker along the road to pick up the Scarecrow, the Tinman, the Lion, then finally arrive at the Wizard.

3. Instead of picking up people, you could go to places in Oz. Start with the house again, then go to the cornfield, the forest, the poppy field, and end at the Emerald City.

4. Have the children move from one country to another. Start with the Munchkin Country, then Gilliken Country, Winkie Country, Quadling Country, and end at the Land of Oz.

5. Use the clip art from the back of the manual, and enlarge your favorites. Use these as posters, and have the children move from one poster to the next.

Contests

Having contests is something that you can do to create summer-long interest in your Summer Reading program. This year's theme is particularly conducive to contests that will involve families and great books. Some ideas are:

1. Have a poster (or banner) contest, using a theme or favorite books selected by the children. Provide a standard size paper for all entries (large sheets of manilla paper work well), and have them draw a poster. Display all the entries in your library, and have an award for the winner. (A paperback book the child picks is inexpensive and a good choice.)
2. Have a bookmark contest. Use the blank templates at the end of the book and have the children draw a bookmark. You can choose a theme from one of the programs, or use something generic like "Read." Judge all of the entries, and print the winner. Distribute the finished product through your library.

3. Have the children vote for their favorite book. Cut a hole in the top of a cardboard box and cover with tissue or contact paper. You can ask for nominations in advance and post a list of suggested books to be voted on or tally results from a one time election vote. Mount the poster found at the end of this chapter on a sturdy piece of cardboard and post near the box in the children's area. Provide ballots and pencils and have the children vote for their favorite titles. You could also provide a second box and invite parents to vote for the titles they liked best when they were children.

Year-Round Schools

If any of the schools you serve go year-round, look at this as an opportunity to bring the Texas Reading Club to more children than ever before. Schedule a meeting with the principal and/or librarian to get approval for implementing the Texas Reading Club in the school. Point out how the Reading Club can fit right in with their curriculum. Hand out materials to each class, and let the teachers help the children with their reading. As the end of the Reading Club nears, the teacher can gather up all the materials and you can deliver the incentives. Maybe the school can even have a party.
Kick Off Program: We're Off to See the Wizard

The following are some suggestions of elements for an opening day program. You might consider playing music from the soundtrack of the movie The Wizard of Oz as the children are coming in. Reading aloud from the "Oz" books may encourage a child to explore the series and will provide a good listening experience.

Chapters For Read-Aloud Sharing

"The Girl in the Chicken Coop." Ozma of Oz. Chapter 1.
"Tiktok the Machine Man." Ozma of Oz. Chapter 4.
"How They Matched the Fuddles." The Emerald City of Oz. Chapter 12.
"How Dorothy Visited Utensia." The Emerald City of Oz. Chapter 16.
"How They Came To Bunnybury." The Emerald City of Oz. Chapter 17.
"How They Encountered the Flutterbudgets." The Emerald City of Oz. Chapter 23.

Activities:

1. Show the filmstrip "The Real, the True, the Gen U ine Wizard of Oz."

2. Give children a copy of the map of the Land of Oz (see pattern). Have them color each country the appropriate color.

Creative Dramatization: There are a number of possibilities for presenting the following scene. If you have some "regulars," kids that come into your library consistently, you can get them together in early May and have them practice to be ready for kick-off day. You could also use the summertime to prepare and present it at some other time during the year. You might also consider asking kids from a high school drama class to come in to perform. You can make the costumes as simple (masks) or as complex as you like. Descriptions of the characters are found in The Land of Oz, or come up with your own conception. This could also be a puppet show.
I Do Not Understand You
(Taken from Chapter 7 of The Land of Oz.)

Characters:

Narrator
Soldier
Scarecrow
Jellia Jamb
Jack Pumpkinhead

Narrator: I'll bet you might not know that L. Frank Baum wrote a total of 14 books about Oz. In the second book, The Land of Oz, the Scarecrow is now ruler of Oz. And in the north part of Oz there is a boy named Tip who lives as a prisoner of the old Witch Mombi. Tip had built a wooden man with a pumpkin head to scare Mombi, but instead, she uses the pumpkin man to try out a new magic potion she has acquired, the Powder of Life. She uses it to bring the pumpkin-headed man to life. Later, Tip escapes with the man, who he's named Jack Pumpkinhead. They steal Mombi's powder and use it to bring a wooden sawhorse to life, and Jack rides the Sawhorse to the Emerald City with Tip at his side. As they near the Emerald City, Tip gives the Sawhorse the command to "Trot," which the Sawhorse remembers as a command to go as fast as he can, which he does, leaving poor Tip in the dust. Jack Pumpkinhead arrives in the Emerald City with the Sawhorse, and is immediately escorted into the presence of the Scarecrow.

(Scene: The Throne Room of the Emerald City)

Scarecrow: Where on earth did you come from, and how do you happen to be alive?
Jack: I beg your Majesty's pardon, but I do not understand you.
Scarecrow: What don't you understand?
Jack: Why, I don't understand your language. You see, I come from the country of the Gillikins, so I am a foreigner.
Scarecrow: Ah, to be sure. I myself speak the language of the Munchkins, which is also the language of the Emerald City. But you, I suppose, speak the language of the Pumpkinheads?
Jack: Exactly so, your majesty. So it will be impossible for us to understand one another.
Scarecrow: That is unfortunate, certainly we must have an interpreter.
Jack: What is an interpreter?
Scarecrow: A person who understands both my language and your own. When I say anything, the interpreter can tell you what I mean; and when you say anything, the interpreter can tell me what you mean. Or the interpreter can speak both languages as well as understand them.
Jack: That is certainly clever.
(Enter the Soldier with the Green Whiskers)

Scarecrow: Soldier, I command you to search among my people until you find one who understands the language of the Gillikins as well as the language of the Emerald City, and bring this person to me at once.

(Soldier bows and departs)

Scarecrow: (to Jack Pumpkinhead again) Won't you take a chair while you are waiting?

Jack: Your majesty forgets that I cannot understand you. If you wish for me to sit down, you must make a sign for me to do so.

(The Scarecrow looks puzzled. Not knowing what to do he goes over to Jack and pushes him into a sitting position)

Scarecrow: (politely) Did you understand that sign?

Jack: Perfectly.

(Jellia Jamb enters)

Scarecrow: Why, it's little Jellia Jamb! Do you understand the language of the Gillikins my dear?

Jellia Jamb: Yes, your Majesty, for I was born in the north country.

Scarecrow: Then you shall be my interpreter, and explain to this pumpkinhead all I say, and also explain to me all that he says. Is this arrangement satisfactory?

Jellia Jamb: Very satisfactory indeed.

Scarecrow: Then ask him to begin with what brought him to the Emerald City.

Jellia Jamb: (to Jack) You are certainly a wonderful creature. Who made you?

Jack: A boy named Tip.

Scarecrow: What did he say? My ears must have deceived me. What did he say?

Jellia Jamb: He says that your majesty's brains seem to have come loose.

Scarecrow: (sighing) What a fine thing it is to understand two different languages. Ask him, my dear, if he has any objection to being put in jail for insulting the ruler of the Emerald City.

Jack: I didn't insult you.

Scarecrow: Tut, tut! Wait until Jellia translates my speech. What have we got an interpreter for?

Jack: All right, I'll wait. Translate the speech, young woman.

Jellia Jamb: His majesty inquired if you are hungry.
Jack: Oh, not at all. It is impossible for me to eat.
Scarecrow: It is the same with me. What did he say, Jellia, my dear?
Jellia Jamb: He asked if you are aware that one of your eyes is painted larger than the other?
Jack: Don't believe her, your Majesty.
Scarecrow: Oh, I don't. (to Jellia) Are you quite certain you understand the languages of both the Gillikins and the Munchkins?
Jellia Jamb: Quite certain, your Majesty.
Scarecrow: Then how is it that I seem to understand them myself?
Jellia Jamb: Because they are one and the same! Does not your Majesty know that in all the land of Oz but one language is spoken?
Scarecrow: Is it indeed so? Then I might have easily been my own interpreter!
Jack: It is all my fault, your Majesty. I thought we must surely speak different languages since we came from different countries.
Scarecrow: Ah, as we have now resolved the matter, let us be friends.

(Jellia Jamb and Soldier are dismissed. When they are gone, Scarecrow takes his new friend by the arm and they exit.)
Books For Family Sharing
Books by L. Frank Baum

The Wonderful Wizard of Oz.
The Marvelous Land of Oz.
Ozma of Oz.
Dorothy and the Wizard in Oz.
The Road to Oz.
The Emerald City of Oz.
The Patchwork Girl of Oz.
Tik-Tok of Oz.
The Scarecrow of Oz.
The Lost Princess of Oz.
The Tin Woodman of Oz.
The Magic of Oz.
Glinda of Oz.
Little Wizard Stories of Oz.
John Dough and the Cherub.
The Life and Adventures of Santa Claus.
The Master Key: An Electrical Fairy Tale.
Mother Goose in Prose.
Queen Zixi of Ix, Or the Story of the Magic Cloak.
Sea Fairies.
Sky Island, Being the Further Exciting Adventures of Trot and Cap'n Bill After Their Visit to the Sea Fairies.
VOTE HERE FOR YOUR FAVORITE BOOKS
The Land of Oz

Deadly Desert

Impassable Desert

Gillikin Country
Purple

Emerald City
Green

Munchkin Country
Blue

Winkie Country
Yellow

Quedling Country
Red

Great Sandy Waste

Shifting Sands
Chapter 1

Lions, and Tigers, and Books...Oh My!

An Introduction to Classics

DOROTHY: Oh, I don’t like this forest! It’s dark and creepy.

SCARECROW: Of course, I don’t know, but I think it’ll get darker before it gets lighter.

DOROTHY: Do—do you suppose we’ll meet any wild animals?

TIN MAN: Mmm...we might.

DOROTHY: Oh--

SCARECROW: Animals that eat straw?

TIN MAN (nonchalyantly): Uh, some. But mostly lions and tigers and bears.

DOROTHY: Lions?

SCARECROW: And Tigers?

TIN MAN (nodding): And bears.

DOROTHY: Oh! Lions, and tigers, and bears... Oh my!

(They look around and slowly start to run.)

Toddler Time (18 months to 2 years)

Program: Funny Books...and Scary Books

Kimmel, Eric. I Took My Frog to the Library.

Ormerod, Jan. Reading.

Ingerplays: Ready for Storytime

Put your arms up high. (Stretch and reach up)

Put your arms down low. (Reach down, touch the ground)

Wave your arms to and fro. (Wave back and forth)

Now put your arms just so. (Children fold arms, sit down)

Variation: Have the children put their arms o’er and pretend that they are airplanes. Draw out the last line, and then have the children fold their arms very quickly.

--Wadham, Tim.
My Book
This is my book; it will open wide. (Put palms together)
To show the pictures that are inside. (Open like book)
This is my ball, so big and round. (Make circle with arms)
To toss in the air. (Pretend to throw ball up)
Or roll on the ground. (Pretend to roll ball on floor)
Here's my umbrella to keep me dry. (Hold pretend handle)
When the raindrops fall. (Fingers make rain)
From the cloudy sky.
This is my kitty; just hear her purr. (Cup hands)
When I'm gently stroking her
Soft, warm fur. (Pretend to pet cat)

Poems:

Books to the Ceiling
Books to the ceiling, books to the sky.
My piles of books are a mile high.
How I love them!
How I need them!
I'll have a long beard by the time I read them.

Read to Me
Read to me riddles
and read to me rhymes,
read to me stories of magical times.

Read to me tales about castles and kings, read to me stories of fabulous things.

Read to me pirates,
and read to me knights,
read to me dragons and dragon-back flights.

Read to me spaceships and cowboys and then when your are finished--
Read them again!

Activities:
1. Give a tour of your children's area. Show the children where the books, tapes, toys, etc. are, and let them have some time to play and look at books with their parent.
2. Have a selection of toddler books available, and have the parents share books with their children.
Storytime  (3 to 8 years)

Program 1:  ...And Away We Go!

Books:
- Crews, Donald. Flying.
- Levinson, Ricki. I Go With My Family to Grandma's.

Song:

The Wheels on the Bus

The wheels on the bus go round and round,
Round and round, round and round.
The wheels on the bus go round and round,
All through the town.

1. The door on the bus go open and shut, etc.
2. The people on the bus step in and out, etc.
3. The driver on the bus says "Move on back!", etc.
4. The windows on the bus slide up and down, etc.
5. The wipers on the bus go swish, swish, swish, etc.
6. The riders on the bus go bumpety-bump, etc.
7. The babies on the bus cry WAAHI WAAHI WAAHI, etc.
8. The parents on the bus go Shhl Shhl Shhl, etc.

Repeat all actions, then the first stanza again.

--Mockingbird Flight, p. 48.

Film:

Mike Mulligan and His Steam Shovel.

Activities:

1. Have the children make a truck out of two rectangles of construction paper and two circles. For each child you will need a 9" x 3" strip, a 5" x 3" strip, and two circles with a two inch diameter (cut the strips out of colors, and the wheels out of black). Have the children glue the short strip over the long strip for the door and cab. Glue on the two wheels. The children can use crayons, markers, or paper scraps to add lights, windows, detailing, people, etc.

2. Have the children color pictures of different types of vehicles. When they are done, they can carry their picture as they parade around the room. (see patterns)

Variations:

For a toddler time, you could use other Donald Crews' books such as School Bus, Harbor and Truck and let the children look at them by themselves or with their parent.
Program 2: But the Librarian Did Not Get Eaten

Books:
Bunting, Eve. Wednesday Surprise.
Daugherty, James. Andy and the Lion.
Freeman, Don. Quiet! There's a Canary in the Library.
Furtado, Jo. Sorry, Miss Folio!

Poems:
Keep a Poem In Your Pocket
Keep a poem in your pocket and a picture in your head and you'll never feel lonely
at night when you're in bed.
The little poem will sing to you the little picture bring to you a dozen dreams to dance to you at night when you're in bed.
So--
Keep a picture in you're pocket and a poem in your head and you'll never feel lonely
at night when you're in bed.

Summer Doings
Some at beaches
  Are sand-castling
Some are silly--
  Fighting, rasseling!
Some are swimming,
  Camping, hiking;
Some say stickball
  Is their liking.
Some on bikes are Gaily speeding;
Some are smarter--
  SUMMER READING!

Worlds I Know
I can read the picture by myself in the books that lie on the lowest shelf.
I know the place where the stories start and some I can even say by heart,
and I make up adventures and dreams and words for some of the pages
I've never heard.
But I like it best when Mother sits and reads to me
my favorites;
when Rapunzel pines
and the prince comes forth, or the snow queen sighs
in the bitter north;
when Rose Red snuggles against the bear, and I lean against Mother and feel her hair.
We look at stars in Hungary-- back of the North Wind-- over the sea--
the Nutcracker laughs;
the Erl King calls;
a wish comes true;
the beanstalk falls
the Western wind blows sweet and low,
and Mother gives words to worlds I know.

Films: Something Queer at the Library.
Rufus M., Try Again.

Activities:
1. Invite children to bring their stuffed animals to the library, and let them share books with their toy pets. You might lead a toy pet parade and award ribbons to every owner.

2. After reading Walter's Magic Wand, have the children make a magic wand like Walter's. Take a stick (from a tree branch is fine), and wrap strips of colored paper around it. Attach the paper with tape or glue.

Program 3: I Am Finding It Hard To Be Far From My House, and My Tree, and My Yard

Books:
Blos, Joan. Old Henry.
Bond, Felicia. Poinsetti & Her Family.
Rylant, Cynthia. When I Was Young in the Mountains.
Swope, Sam. The Araboolies of Liberty Street.
Fingerplays: Houses
This is a nest for Mr. Bluebird (Cup both hands together, palm up to form nest)
This is a hive for Mr. Bee (Close fist)
This is a hole for Bunny Rabbit (With fingers of both hands form circle.)
And this is a house for me! (Fingers form a peaked roof shape over head.)

--Nichols, Judy. Storytimes for Two Year Olds, p. 81.

I Shut the Door
I shut the door and locked it tight (Clap hands together)
And put the key out of sight. (Pretend to put the key in your pocket)
I found the key to open the door (Pull out key and hold out in front)
And turned, and turned and turned some more... (Make turning motions)
And then...I opened the door! ("Open" hands in front of body)

--Nichols, Judy. Storytimes for Two Year Olds, p. 75.

Activities:
1. Using the flannelboard, help children match animals to their houses. (see patterns)
2. Discuss different types of houses. Have the children draw a picture of their home. (Or, you could let them make a house out of construction paper with scraps for the windows, doors, etc.)

Variations:
For a toddler time, you could use Byron Barton’s Building a House. Mary Ann Hoberman’s A House is a House for Me could be used to put more focus on animal homes compared with human homes. You might also use any of the versions of the Mother Goose rhyme, “The House that Jack Built.” You could use the dramatization of “Three Blind Mice” from Nice New Neighbors by Franz Brandenberg. Have the children put it on, or use that story as the genesis for your own creative dramatization.

Upper Elementary Programs (9-12 years)

Program 1: Little Things Never Bothered Mr. B.
Books:
Gilchrist, Theo E... Halfway Up the Mountain.
Laurin, Anne. Little Things.
Lobel, Anita. A Treeful of Pigs.
Rose, Ann. As Right As Right Can Be.
Activities:

1. Make a squash pie with peaches. Let the children mash up some peaches and pour into a cooked pie shell. (If you are adventuresome, let them use their hands.) If you choose, top with ice cream or non-dairy topping and serve.

2. After reading Squash Pie, have the children draw corn with "ears," potatoes with "eyes," and trees with "bark." Have them come up with their own ideas.

Variations:

These stories work especially well as tales for telling without the book.

Program 2: Wilder, Laura Ingalls. The Little House in the Big Woods.

Booktalk:

This is the first in a series of books by Laura Ingalls Wilder that tell the story of her life as a little girl on the American frontier. Her books became more well known as the basis of a television show, Little House on the Prairie. Laura Ingalls Wilder was a girl in a time when most of the United States west of the Mississippi river was not settled, it was full of woods, wolves and wonder. In this book you'll see exactly what it was like to live in those times. There were no stores, and Pa had to go hunting to find food for the family. When he came home, Pa would play his fiddle, and then tell Laura and her sister Mary stories.

(At this point read one of these "stand alone" stories that Pa tells.)

Chapter 2 "The Story of Grandpa and the Panther"
Chapter 3 "The Story of Pa and the Voice in the Woods"
Chapter 5 "The Story of Grandpa's Sled and the Pig"
Chapter 6 "The Story of Pa and the Bear in the Way"

Activities:

1. In Chapter 2, they make butter. Give each child a small jar about 1/3 to 1/2 full of heavy whipping cream. Have them shake it until butter forms. This takes a little while. If you want, you can divide them in groups of two or three and give each group a jar so they can take turns doing the shaking. Drain liquid, add a little salt, serve on crackers or bread. (Laura's mother uses carrot juice to color the butter. If you want to try this, follow her directions.) You could also use The Little House Cookbook for other ideas to try.

2. Talk about the way people lived when Laura was young. Give each child a log cabin outline. Have them cut it out, then design one side to look like the inside of a cabin, and the other side to look like the outside. (see patterns)
Program 3: DeFelice, Cynthia. Weasel.

Booktalk: Imagine that you and your sister are alone in a cabin in the middle of the woods late at night. You mother is dead, your father has been away, and there is a knock at the door.

(Read Chapter 1)

So, you have a total stranger at the door, and he's holding your mother's locket. Nathan Fowler and his younger sister, Molly, go with Ezra, the speechless man whose tongue has been cut out by a man called Weasel. Ezra takes them to their father, and they find out more about Weasel. Nathan realizes that he'll have to confront this man.

Activities:

1. Make cornmeal mush like Ezra does in Chapter 5. Boil about 2 quarts of water. Stir the boiling water while you sprinkle in about 1 cup of cornmeal. Turn down the heat and stir frequently for about an hour. It should be the consistency of oatmeal. You can serve with molasses or syrup.

2. Give children a piece of paper about 6" x 4." Fold in half with short ends together. Trace the doll pattern, and cut out (do not cut the fold.) Have children use crayons, fabric or paper scraps to dress one doll like they would dress, and one doll like Nathan or Molly would dress. (see patterns)

---

Image of a bear holding a book
Books For Family Sharing
\[ \text{An Introduction to Classics} \]

Picture Books

Ackerman, Karen. Song and Dance Man.
Embery, Barbara. Drummer Hoff.
Hall, Donald. Ox-Cart Man.
Johnston, Tony. Quilt Story.
Konigsburg, E. L. Amy Elizabeth Explores Bloomingdales.
McCloskey, Robert. Blueberries for Sal.
  --. One Morning in Maine.
  --. Time of Wonder.
Montgomery, Michael. 'Night, America.
Sauer, Julia. Mike's House.
Turkle, Brinton. Thy Friend, Obadiah.

Chapter Books

Alcott, Louisa May. Little Women.
Blos, Joan. A Gathering of Days.
Brink, Carol Ryrie. Caddie Woodlawn.
  --. Ida Early Comes Over the Mountain.
  --. Queenie Peavy.
Cleaver, Vera and Bill. Where the Lilies Bloom.
  --. The Saturdays.
  --. Spiderweb for Two: A Melendy Maze.
  --. Then There Were Five.
Estes, Eleanor. The Middle Moffat.
  --. The Moffats.
  --. Rufus M.
Fitzgerald, John D. The Great Brain.
Gates, Doris. Blue Willow.
Hunt, Irene. No Promises in the Wind.
McCloskey, Robert. Centerburg Tales.
  --. Homer Price.
McLachlan, Patricia. Sarah, Plain and Tall.
Merrill, Jean. The Pushcart War.
Robertson, Keith. Henry Reed, Inc.
Seredy, Kate. The Chestry Oak.
  --. The Gold Cadillac.
  --. Roll of Thunder, Hear My Cry.
Car
Animals and Their Homes
Log Cabin
Doll Pattern
Chapter 2

Follow the Yellow Brick Road

Classic Journeys

DOROTHY: But how do I start for the Emerald City?

GLINDA: It's always best to start at the beginning. And all you do is follow the Yellow Brick Road.

Toddler Time (18 months to 2 years)

Program: I'm Too Young to be Doing This. I Need A Mommy.

Books: Flack, Marjorie. Ask Mr. Bear.
Guarino, Deborah. Is Your Mama a Llama?
Tafuri, Nancy. Have You Seen My Duckling?

Fingerplay: My Family

Here is my pretty mother. (Point to index finger)
Here is my father tall. (Point to middle finger)
Here is my older brother. (Point to ring finger)
And that isn't all.
Here is my baby brother, (Point to little finger)
As small as small can be.
Who is this other person? (Point to thumb)
Of course you know its me.
One, two, three, four, five, you see, (Tough each finger as you count)
Make a very nice family!

--Anonymous.

Rhymes: Mother, may I go out to swim?

Yes, my darling daughter.

Hang your clothes on a hickory limb
And don't go near the water.

There was an old woman who lived in a shoe,
She had so many children she didn't know what to do;
She gave them some broth without any bread;
She spanked them all soundly and put them to bed.

Rock-a-bye, baby, on the treetop,
When the wind blows the cradle will rock;
When the bough breaks the cradle will fall,
Down will come baby, cradle, and all.
Activities:
1. Have children create a picture for their mother using fingerpaint. Wipe a damp sponge over a sheet of nonabsorbent paper. Spoon on some paint, and let the children paint with their hands. To make fingerpaint, mix one cup flour with one cup sugar. Stir in six cups cold water, and cook on low heat, stirring constantly until thickened. Cool. Add food coloring.
2. Give each child a sticker. You say, "Put the sticker on the _____," using different body parts such as nose, ear, chin, elbow, hand, etc, and the children put the sticker on their mom (or parent).

Variations: Janet and Allen Ahlberg's Bye, Bye Baby is a delight for this age group, as well. For an older storytime you could add P.D. Eastman's Are You My Mother? or The Tale of Peter Rabbit by Beatrix Potter.

Storytime (3 to 8 years)

Program 1: Nighttime Sure Is Busy, Mom.

Fingerplays: Peter Hammers

(Do this with children sitting on the floor)

Peter hammers with one hammer, (Hammer with one arm)

One hammer, one hammer.

Peter hammers with one hammer

All day long.

Peter hammers with two hammers, (Hammer with both arms)

Two hammers, two hammers.

Peter hammers with two hammers

All day long

Peter hammers with three hammers (Hammer with both arms, one leg)

Three hammers, three hammers.

Peter hammers with three hammers

All day long.

Peter hammers with four hammers, (Hammer with both arms, both legs)

Four hammers, four hammers.

Peter hammers with four hammers

All day long.
Peter hammers with five hammers, (Hammer with both arms, both legs, head)

Five hammers, five hammers.
Peter hammers with five hammers
All day long.

Peter's going to sleep now, (Place head on hands that are clasped together)

Sleep now, sleep now.
Peter's going to sleep now
All day long.

PETER'S WIDE AWAKE NOW, (Go crazy)
AWAKE NOW, AWAKE NOW.
PETER'S WIDE AWAKE NOW
ALL DAY LONG.

Songs:

Bye Baby Bunting

Bye Baby Bunting
Daddy's gone a hunting
To catch a little rabbit skin
To put his Baby Bunting in.

Hush Little Baby (You can use Aliki's book.)

Hush little baby, don't say a word
Papa's gonna buy you a mockingbird.
And if that mockingbird don't sing
Papa's gonna buy you a diamond ring.
If that diamond ring turns brass,
Papa's gonna buy you a looking glass.
If that looking glass gets broke,
Papa's gonna buy you a billy goat.
If that billy goat won't pull,
Papa's gonna buy you a cart and bull.
If that cart and bull turn over,
Papa's gonna buy you a dog named Rover.
If that dog named Rover don't bark,
Papa's gonna buy you a horse and cart.
If that horse and cart fall down,
You'll still be the sweetest little baby in town.

---Singing Bee, p. 12.

Activities:

1. Have children wear pajamas and have a pajama parade. You could also have them bring favorite blankets and pillows.

2. After reading Moon Jumpers have the children color the picture of the moon and draw something jumping over it. (see patterns)
Variations: There are many good night stories that you might use as alternatives to the ones listed above, and this storytime can also be adapted well for use with toddlers. Some other clever Good Night classics are Michael Montgomery's 'Night, America; Sandra Boynton's Good Night, Good Night; Cheli Duran Ryan's Hildilid's Night; or Aliki's Aunt Nina Good Night.

Program 2: The Little Train is Going on a Journey...

Books:
Burton, Virginia Lee. Choo Choo.
Lenski, Lois. The Little Train.
Peet, Bill. The Caboose that Got Loose.
Piper, Watty. The Little Engine that Could.
Potter, Marian. The Little Red Caboose.

Fingerplays:
Here Is the Engine
(Count train cars on fingers or toes as you say the rhyme)
Here is the engine on the track. (Thumb)
Here is the coal car, just in back. (Pointer)
Here is the boxcar to carry the freight. (Middle finger)
Here is the mail car. Don't be late! (Ring finger)
Way back here at the end of the train Rides the caboose through the sun and rain. (Pinky)
--Anonymous.

Here Comes the Choo-Choo Train
Here comes the choo-choo train (Elbows against sides, arms make forward circles)
Puffing down the track.
Now it's going forward...
Now it's going back. (Reverse circles)
Hear the bell a-ringing. (One hand above head, make bell ringing motion)
Ding...Ding...Ding...Ding
Hear the whistle blow. (Cup hands around mouth)
Whooooo-Whooooo!
Chug, chug, chug, chug (Make side circles slowly, then pick up speed) ch...ch...ch...ch...ch...ch...
Shhhhhhh...(Fold hands in lap)
Everywhere it goes.

Poem:
Toot! Toot!
A peanut sat on a railroad track,
His heart was all a-flutter;
The five-fifteen came rushing by Toot! Toot! Peanut butter!
--Anonymous.
Activities:

1. Have children color the train, or use torn bits of construction paper to fill in the shapes. (see patterns)

2. Let the children help you make this train cake:

   Materials: 2 large jelly roll cakes, chocolate butter icing, 3 long strips of licorice, 5 small jelly rolls, 1 large marshmallow, 1 package of M&Ms, 1 pkg. of licorice Nibs.

   Lay down two flat strips of licorice to represent rails. Glue them down with a bit of icing. Cut the other strip in pieces to lay across the rails. Cover the large jelly roll with icing, and smooth it out. Place two of the small jelly rolls across the track to represent wheels. Place the large jelly roll on top of these. The wheels should be in a little from either end. Place the third small jelly roll on the front of the engine as a smokestack and the marshmallow as the engine dome.

   Cut off about one fourth of your second large jelly roll. Position this, cut side down, to form the cab and cover with some of the remaining chocolate icing. Place the M&Ms in a circle around the front of the engine. Using a little icing, place one M&M in the center of the jelly roll wheels to make a hub. Put bands of M&Ms around the engine as decoration.

   Place the last two small jelly rolls on the track behind the engine. Take the remaining large piece of jelly roll and cut a rectangular piece from the center to form a coal car. Cover this with the remaining chocolate icing and place it on its wheels. Fill it with licorice Nibs to represent coal. For a coupling, attach a piece of licorice from the back of the engine to the coal car. Remember to put another M&M hub on the wheels of this section.

   Chocolate Butter Cream Icing:

   Cream 1/2 cup butter and 1/2 cup shortening with an electric mixer. Add 1 tsp. vanilla. Gradually add 4 cups sifted confectioners sugar and 3/4 cup cocoa, one cup at a time, beating well on medium speed. Scrape sides and bottom of bowl often. When all sugar has been mixed in, icing will appear dry. Add 3-4 tbsp. milk and beat at a medium speed until light and fluffy. Keep icing covered with a damp cloth until ready to use. For best results keep icing bowl in refrigerator when not in use.

Variations: For a toddler time, use Watty Piper's The Little Engine that Could with Donald Crews' Freight Train.
Program 3:  The Boy Would Sail Out...

Books:
Ardizzone, Edward. Little Tim and the Brave Sea Captain.
Sheldon, Dyan. The Whale’s Song.

Note: If you choose to read Robert McCloskey’s or Edward Ardizzone’s books, and still do an activity, you will probably only want to read one book for this program.

Fingerplays: Ocean Shell
I found a great big shell one day. (Hold hands cupped as if holding a large shell.)
Upon the ocean floor.
I held it close up to my ear. (Raise hands to ear.)
I heard the ocean roar!
I found a tiny little shell one day. (One hand cupped as if holding little shell.)
Upon the ocean sand.
The waves had worn it nice and smooth. (Pretend to roll shell between palms.)
It felt nice in my hand.
--Ring a Ring O’ Roses, p. 6.

Five Little Fishes
(Hold up five fingers. Starting with thumb, bend down one at a time as verse progresses.)
Five little fish were swimming near the shore.
One took a dive, then there were four.
Four little fishes were swimming out to sea.
One went for food and then there were three.
Three little fishes said:
"Now what shall we do?"
One swam away, and then there were two.
Two little fishes were having great fun.
But one took a plunge,
Then there was one.
One little fish said:
"I like the warm sun."
Away he went and then there were none. (Put hand behind back.)
--Ring a Ring O’ Roses, p. 5.

Song: Row, Row, Row Your Boat
Row, row, row your boat,
Gently down the stream.
Merrily, merrily, merrily, merrily,
Life is but a dream.
--Singing Beel, p. 135.
Activities:

1. Make paper boats. (see patterns)

2. Have children bring toy boats and have a contest. Give prizes for biggest, smallest, prettiest, oldest, etc. If you have somewhere to float them, have a race. Portable plastic swimming pools loaned by parents work just fine.

Upper Elementary Programs  (9-12 years)

Program 1: That Afternoon They Rode the Seven Seas.

Books:
- Lester, Alison. The Journey Home.
- Weisner, David. Hurricane.

Activities:

1. After reading The Journey Home, have the children act out fairy tale characters. Have one child act and the others guess. (They can choose their own character or draw out of a hat. Suggestions are: Jack and the Beanstalk, Sleeping Beauty, Cinderella, Pinocchio, Red Hen, Little Red Riding Hood, etc.)

2. After reading The Pirates of Bedford Street, take the children outside and let them draw chalk pictures on the sidewalks. (You can use regular or colored chalk, but the best is large sidewalk chalk because it doesn't get used up as fast.) If you can't take the children outside, put up mural paper for drawing.

Variations:
- Anthony Browne's Through the Magic Mirror is a surreal journey. If you have a small group that can gather around a book, Ann Jonas' The Trek is a good book to show--let the children find the hidden animals.

Program 2: Alexander, Lloyd. *The Jedera Adventure.

Booktalk:
- Vesper Holly has a library book that was checked out by her father, a scholar and adventurer like Indiana Jones, who's now dead. He checked it out from the Bel Saaba Library in the Northern Africa country of Jedera, and it's 15 years overdue. Vesper is determined to return it, even though Bel Saaba lies beyond a notoriously rugged mountain range and across a disagreeable stretch of desert. In Jedera, Vesper gets more adventure than she bargained for. There are warring tribes, rough terrain and slave trades. Worst of all is the evil Dr. Helvetius.

This is just one of a series of five Vesper Holly books.

Activities:

1. Show the filmstrip Lloyd Alexander from the "Meet the Newbery Author" series.

2. Divide the children up into teams and give each team a list of books that are in your library. *(It is important that the books be on the shelves the day of your program and not checked out to
The first team back with all the books on the list wins a prize. You can select books about biplanes, Arabia, Persia, adventurers, encyclopedias, etc. You can have both teams use the same list of books if you have multiple copies, or you can make up a different list for each team. It is a good idea to give an overview of how to find books in the library before beginning this activity.

Program 3: Konigsburg, E. L. From The Mixed-Up Files of Mrs. Basil E. Frankweiler.

Booktalk: Claudia Kincaid decides to run away, and she doesn't want to do it the old-fashioned way "...in the heat of anger with a knapsack on her back." No, Claudia plans very carefully, and convinces her brother, James, to come along since he has money. They live in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, where they have a lot of close scrapes. As they stay, they become involved in the mystery of a statue that may have been sculpted by Michaelangelo.

(Read from the middle of Chapter 5 where it begins, "Jamie entered the men's room," and end where Claudia says, "They moved the statue.")

Activities:

1. Make copies of the museum map in Chapter 4, and have the children find places that were important in the story. Some suggestions are: the check room where they stashed their things the first day; the restaurant with the fountain where they bathed; Italian Renaissance hall where they first found the statue; the Great Hall where the statue was moved to; and the restrooms where they hid at closing time.

2. Make the following playdough recipe. Have children to make their own sculpture or statue. Let them air dry. Have the children write a description and their name on a notecard, and have a display at the library.

   Playdough

   4 cups flour
   2 cups salt
   4 tablespoons cream of tartar
   4 cups water
   2 tablespoons oil
   food color (optional)

   Mix all ingredients together in a pot. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until stiff. Let cool and knead. Store in a covered container in the refrigerator.
Books For Family Sharing
Classic Journeys

Picture Books
Anno. Anno's Journey.
Baylor, Byrd. Your Own Best Secret Place.
Berger, Barbara Helen. Grandfather Twilight.
Boylston, Sandra. Good Night, Good Night.
Brown, Margaret Wise. Goodnight Moon.
Burningham, John. Come Away From the Water, Shirley.
Cooney, Barbara. Miss Rumphius.
Dragonwagon, Crescent. Katie in the Morning.
Ginsburg, Mirra. Asleep, Asleep.
---. The Quilt.
McKie, Roy and P. D. Eastman. Snow.
Ryan, Cheli Duran. Hiildilid's Night.
Spier, Peter. Rain.
Tresselt, Alvin. How Far is Far?
Van Allsburg, Chris. The Polar Express.
Wells, Rosemary. First Tomato. (Voyage to the Bunny Planet.)
---. The Island Light. (Voyage to the Bunny Planet.)
---. Moss Pillows. (Voyage to the Bunny Planet.)
Zolotow, Charlotte. Mr. Rabbit and the Lovely Present.
---. The White Marble.

Chapter Books

Brooks, Walter R. Freddy Goes to Florida.
Byars, Betsy. Midnight Fox.
Feelings, Tom. Black Pilgrimage.
George, Jean Craighead. My Side of the Mountain.
Haugard, Eric. Little Fishes.
Holm, Ann. North to Freedom.
Holman, Felice. Slake's Limbo.
Konigsburg, E. L. From the Mixed-Up Files of Mrs. Basil E. Frankweiler.
O'Dell, Scott. Island of the Blue Dolphins.
---. Journey to Jericho.
---. The King's Fifth.
Sperry, Armstrong. Call it Courage.
Steig, William. Abel's Island.
---. Dominic.
Moon
1. Begin with a rectangle (a piece of typing paper is a good size). Fold in half lengthwise and unfold, then fold in half crosswise.

2. Fold corners A and B so they meet at the center crease line.

3. Fold bottom flap up so that the crease is along corners A and B. Turn paper over and repeat.

4. Open up the boat and fold on the diagonal. Fold up corner C about 2 inches. Turn paper over and repeat with corner D.

5. Gently pull corners C and D away from each other, turning up the sides of the boat.
If I Were King of the Forest

Animal Classics

"If I were king of the forest, not queen, not duke, not prince; My regal robes of the forest would be satin, not cotton, not chintz. I'd command each thing, be it fish or fowl, with a woof and a woof and a royal growl. As I'd click my heels, all the trees would kneel, and the mountains bow and the bulls cowtow, and the sparrows would take wing if I, I were king." --Cowardly Lion

Toddler Time (18 months to 2 years)

Program: We See A Brown Bear...

Poem: Bear Parade

I can hear the sound of their marching feet
And a great drumroll and a rat-atat beat
As the bears come marching down my street,
Singing Hip Hooray for Bears!

There's a bear in red with a great big stick,
And a teddy bear with a honey lick,
And a hundred more who are stepping quick,
Singing Hip Hooray for Bears!

There's a bear with a bunch of bright balloons,
And a pair of bears playing big bassoons,
And they're shouting out their favorite tunes,
Singing Hip Hooray for Bears!

Now you may prefer being out on the sea,
Or in the front of a roaring fire with your tea,
But the bear's parade is the place for me,
Singing Hip Hooray for Bears!

--Yolen, Jane. The Three Bears Rhyme Book, pp. 16-17.
Fingerplays:

Bears, Bears, Everywhere

Bears, bears, everywhere! (Point)
Climbing stairs (Make climbing motion)
Sitting on chairs (Crouch like sitting on a chair)
Collecting fares (Drop money from one hand to the other)
Painting squares (Draw square in the air)
Bears, bears, everywhere! (Point)

--Anonymous.

Teddy Bear

Teddy Bear, Teddy Bear, turn around, (Turn around)
Teddy Bear, Teddy Bear, touch the ground, (Touch the floor)
Teddy Bear, Teddy Bear, show your shoe, (Hold up your foot)
Teddy Bear, Teddy Bear, that will do! (Bow)
Teddy Bear, Teddy Bear, go upstairs, (Make climbing motion)
Teddy Bear, Teddy Bear, say your prayers, (Hold hands together)
Teddy Bear, Teddy Bear, turn off the light, (Pull down chain)
Teddy Bear, Teddy Bear, say good-night. (Close eyes, use hands for pillow)

--Anonymous.

Activities:

1. Act out the bear hunt. (If you have it, you can read Michael Rosen's We're Going on a Bear Hunt. ) Ask the children to follow your actions, and repeat each line after you say it. Note: The parents will need to help with the actions and be the echo. Most of the children won't repeat the words, but they love the rhythm and action of this story. An alternative is to create an obstacle course and have the children walk across a board for the bridge, jump over a piece of blue cloth for the river, go under a table with a blanket for the cave, etc.

   (Slap your knees one at a time, like walking. Use this rhythm through the entire game except when doing actions.)

   Going on a bear hunt.
   I'm not afraid. (Point to yourself.)
   Going to catch a big one. (Stretch arms wide, then resume rhythm.)
   Uh, oh, here's a bridge.
   Can't go over it.
   Can't go under it.
   Can't go around it.
   Have to go across it. (Slap hands on chest, then resume rhythm.)

   Uh, oh, here's a river.
   Can't go over it.
   Can't go under it.
   Can't go around it.
   Have to go through it. (Make swimming motions with your arms, then resume rhythm.)
Uh, oh, here's a tree.
Can't go over it.
Can't go under it.
Can't go around it.
Have to go up it. (Pretend to shimmy up the tree, down the other side, then resume rhythm.)

Uh, oh, here's a field.
Can't go over it.
Can't go under it.
Can't go around it.
Have to go through it. (Rub hands back and forth in front of you, making a swishing sound, then resume rhythm.)

Uh, oh, here's a cave.
Can't go over it.
Can't go under it.
Can't go around it.
Have to go in it. (Close your eyes, reach out arms like you can't see.)

It's dark in here.
I feel something. (If you want, you can reach out and touch one of the children on the head.)
It's furry. It has big teeth.
I think it's a bear.
IT IS!
(Tell this part as fast as you can, making the same motions you did before.)

Out of the cave,
Through the field, (Swishing motions.)
Up the tree, down the tree, (Climbing motions.)
Through the river, (Swimming motions.)
Across the bridge, (Slap chest.)
Run home, (Close door.)
We're safe. (Breath a sigh of relief.)

2. Have each child bring their Teddy Bear and have a Teddy Bear Parade. Get the music for the "Teddy Bear's Picnic" and march around the library with the children.

Variations: To use with older children, include Lynd Ward's The Biggest Bear.

Storytime (3-8 years)

Program 1: One By One the Insects Climbed Out...

Books:
Kimmel, Eric A. Anansi and the Moss-Covered Rock.
Lionni, Leo. Inch By Inch.
Van Allsburg, Chris. Two Bad Ants.
Fingerplays: Itsy Bitsy Spider

Itsy bitsy spider went up the water spout; (Use hand as spider and climb up)
Down came the rain and washed the spider out. (Fingers on both hands fall as rain)
Out came the sun and dried up all the rain, (Make a big circle with your arms over your head)
And the itsy bitsy spider went up the spout again. (Spider climbs up again)

--Anonymous.

Beehive

Here is the beehive, (Cup left hand downward)
Where are the bees?
Hidden away where nobody sees. (Hide fingers of right hand under left)
Soon they will come creeping
Out of the hive: (Fingers creep out one at a time as the children count)
One, two, three, four, five, Buzzzzz.

--Anonymous.

Rhyme: Little Miss Muffet

Little Miss Muffet
Sat on a tuffet
Eating her curds and whey;
There came a big spider,
Who sat down beside her
And frightened Miss Muffet away.

Song: Bumble Bee

I'm bringing home a baby bumble bee
Won't my mommy be so proud of me
I'm bringing home a baby bumble bee
OUCH! He stung me.

--MacDonald, Margaret Read. Booksharing: 101 Programs to Use With Preschoolers, appendix.

Activities:

1. Make a salad out of all the fruits the Very Hungry Caterpillar eats through. These include apples, pears, strawberries, oranges and plums. (Have fruits already cut and children can help put it together.)

2. Help children act out Little Miss Muffet. Plastic spider rings are cheap and available from most craft supply stores.

Variations: Sam's Sandwich by David Pelham is a great pop-up book to use. As you read it, unfold the "sandwich" and let the children fill in the names of the bugs Sam puts in. After reading it, you can let children make caterpillars or spiders out of pom-poms. Add wiggly eyes and use pipe cleaners for legs and antennae.
Another idea is to give out plastic bugs, or edible creepy crawlies as a prize or a treat. For older children, use Paul Fleischman's Joyful Noise. Have the children pair up and try reciting some of the poems. It will take a little bit of practice because part of the poems are taking turns, and part is in unison.

Program 2:
"We Think That Pig is the Best in the World."

Books:
- Lobel, Arnold. Small Pig.

Poem:
There was a shy pig by a wall
Who was frightened when guests came to call.
At the sound of their chatter
His shape became flatter,
Until he was not there at all.

--Lobel, Arnold. Whiskers and Rhymes, p. 27.

Flannelboard:
The Woman and Her Pig (see patterns)

I went to market and bought me a Pig. (Put up woman and pig)
But Pig wouldn't goo;
Pig has four legs, I had but two:
'Tis almost midnight, what shall I do?

I went a little further, and found me a Dog. (Put up dog)
Dog wouldn't bite Pig, Pig wouldn't goo;
'Tis almost midnight, what shall I do?

I went a little further and found me a Stick. (Put up stick)
Stick wouldn't beat Dog, Dog wouldn't bite Pig,
Pig wouldn't goo;
'Tis almost midnight, what shall I do?

I went a little further and found me a Fire. (Put up fire)
Fire wouldn't burn Stick, Stick wouldn't beat Dog,
Dog wouldn't bite Pig, Pig wouldn't goo;
'Tis almost midnight, what shall I do?

I went a little further and found me some Water. (Put up water)
Water wouldn't quench Fire, Fire wouldn't burn Stick,
Stick wouldn't beat Dog, Dog wouldn't bite Pig,
Pig wouldn't goo;
'Tis almost midnight, what shall I do?

I went a little further, and found me an Ox. (Put up ox)
Ox wouldn't drink Water, Water wouldn't quench Fire,
Fire wouldn't burn Stick, Stick wouldn't beat Dog,
Dog wouldn't bite Pig, Pig wouldn't goo;
'Tis almost midnight, what shall I do?
I went a little further and found me a Butcher. (Put up butcher)
Butcher wouldn't kill Ox, Ox wouldn't drink Water
Water wouldn't quench Fire, Fire wouldn't burn Stick.
Stick wouldn't beat Dog, Dog wouldn't bite Pig,
Pig wouldn't go;
'Tis almost midnight, what shall I do?

I went a little further and found me a Rope. (Put up rope)
Rope wouldn't hang Butcher, Butcher wouldn't kill Ox,
Ox wouldn't drink Water, Water wouldn't quench Fire,
Fire wouldn't burn Stick, Stick wouldn't beat Dog,
Dog wouldn't bite Pig, Pig wouldn't go;
'Tis almost midnight, what shall I do?

I went a little further and found me a Rat. (Put up rat)
Rat wouldn't gnaw Rope, Rope wouldn't hang Butcher,
Butcher wouldn't kill Ox, Ox wouldn't drink Water,
Water wouldn't quench Fire, Fire wouldn't burn Stick,
Stick wouldn't beat Dog, Dog wouldn't bite Pig,
Pig wouldn't go;
'Tis almost midnight, what shall I do?

I went a little further and found me a Cat. (Put up cat)
Cat said, "Say PLEASE!"
So THEN---
The Cat began to kill the Rat, (Take down cat)
The Rat began to gnaw the Rope, (Take down rat)
The Rope began to hang the Butcher, (Take down rope)
The Butcher began to kill the Ox, (Take down butcher)
The Ox began to drink the Water, (Take down ox)
The Water began to quench the Fire, (Take down water)
The Fire began to burn the Stick, (Take down fire)
The Stick began to beat the Dog, (Take down stick)
The Dog began to bite the Pig, (Take down dog)
The Pig began to go: (Take down pig)
So it's all over now and I'm happy.

Rhymes:

Granfa Grigg had a pig
In a field of clover;
Piggie died,
Granfa cried
And all the fun was over.

To market, to market, to buy a fat pig,
Home again, home again, jiggety jig.
To market, to market, to buy a fat hog,
Home again, home again, jiggety jog.

This little pig went to market,
This little pig stayed home.
This little pig had roast beef,
And this little pig had none.
And this little pig cried "Wee, wee, weel" all the way home.
Activities:

1. Emily Pig from Yummers loves chocolate eclairs. After reading the story, let the children frost some eclairs, or have them all ready made and let them eat them. Ask a local bakery or grocery for donations.

2. Make paper plate pigs. Either copy pattern pieces and have children color them, or make cardboard patterns and have children trace on construction paper. Cut out pieces, glue onto paper plate. Wrap half a pipe cleaner around a pencil to make the tail. Slide it off, and attach to the back of the plate.

Program 3: They Were Not Fancy Songs, But They Were His.

Books:

- Hurd, Thacher. Mama Don't Allow.
- Maxner, Joyce. Nicholas Cricket.
- Shannon, George. Lizard's Song.

Action Rhyme: Rumpitty Tumpitty

Rumpitty Tumpitty, Rumpitty Tum, Buntington Bunny is beating the drum. (Beat an imaginary drum)
He doesn't look up and he doesn't look down, (Look up, look down)
All through the Rumpitty Tumpitty town.
He twitches his nose as he tramps through the street, (Twitch your nose)
Stamping his rumpity, tumpity feet. (Stamp your feet)
Rumpity Tumpitty, Rumpity Tum,
Buntington Bunny is beating the drum. (Beat your drum)

Six Little Ducks
Six little ducks that I once knew,
Fat ones, skinny ones, fair ones too.
But the one little duck with the feather on his back,
He led the others with a "Quack! Quack! Quack!
Quack! Quack! Quack! Quack! Quack! Quack!
He led the others with a "Quack! Quack! Quack!"

Down to the river they would go,
Wibble wobble, wibble wobble, ho hum ho,
But the one little duck with the feather on his back,
He led the others with a "Quack! Quack! Quack!
Quack! Quack! Quack! Quack! Quack! Quack!
He led the others with a "Quack! Quack! Quack!"

Home from the river they would come,
Wibble wobble, wibble wobble, ho hum hum,
But the one little duck with the feather on his back,
He led the others with a "Quack! Quack! Quack!
Quack! Quack! Quack! Quack! Quack! Quack!
He led the others with a "Quack! Quack! Quack!"

--Conover, Chris. Six Little Ducks.

Old MacDonald Had A Farm
Old MacDonald had a farm, EIEIO!
And on his farm he had some chicks, EIEIO!
With a chick chick here and a chick chick there,
Here a chick, there a chick, everywhere a chick chick,
Old MacDonald had a farm, EIEIO!

(Let the children add verses about other animals they know such as ducks, turkeys, sheep, cows, or pigs. You can make the song cumulative by repeating lines 3 and 4 for as many animals as have been introduced.)

--Singing Beel, p. 118.
The Farmer in the Dell

The farmer in the dell,
The farmer in the dell,
Heigh-ho the derry-o,
The farmer in the dell.
2. The farmer takes a wife, etc.
3. The wife takes the child, etc.
4. The child takes the nurse, etc.
5. The nurse takes the dog, etc.
6. The dog takes the cat, etc.
7. The cat takes the rat, etc.
8. The rat takes the cheese, etc.
9. The cheese stands alone, etc.

Films:
The Band Concert.
Peter and the Wolf.

Activities:
1. Play "Farmer in the Dell." A child is chosen to be the farmer. All of the other children hold hands in a circle around him. The children forming the circle walk or skip around the farmer while singing the first verse. In each verse an additional person is chosen to come into the center. At the end, all the children from the center join the circle, except the cheese, who usually becomes the farmer for the next game.

2. On a large piece of butcher paper have the children make a mural of the animals from one (or more) of the stories.

Upper Elementary Programs  (9-12 years)

Program 1: Moral: All the Miles of a Hard Road Are Worth One Moment of True Happiness.

Books:
Lobel, Arnold. Fables.
Lobel, Arnold. Whiskers and Rhymes.
Aesop. Fables.

Films:
Aesop's Fables.
The Tortoise and the Hare.

Filmstrip:
Fables.

Activities:
1. Have props ready and act out some of the fables. For example, in "The Bear and the Crow" from Lobel's Fables, a bear is dressed in his finest hat, coat, vest and shiny shoes to go to town. He meets a crow who tells him that the gentlemen in town are wearing frying pans on their heads, bedsheets wrapped around them, and paper bags on their feet. The bear is very eager to be in fashion, so he changes before going into town where everyone laughs at him. He goes back to the crow who tells him, "I told you many things, but never once did I tell you that I was telling the truth." The moral of the story is, "When the need is strong, there are those who will believe anything." For props use dress shoes, a sheet, two paper bags and a frying pan. (Other favorites are "The Bad Kangaroo," "The Pelican and the Crane," "The Hippopotamus at Dinner," or "The Mouse at the Seashore.")

2. Have the children draw a moral from a hat and read it. Tell some fables (without telling the morals) and have the children try to guess which fable matches their moral. The best known Aesop fables for this are:

"Androcles and the Lion" (Gratitude is the sign of noble souls.)
"The Ant and the Grasshopper" (It is best to prepare for the days of necessity.)
"The Dog in the Manger" (Ah, people often grudge others what they cannot enjoy themselves.)
"The Fox and the Grapes" (It is easy to despise what you cannot get.)
"The Hare and the Tortoise" (Slow but steady wins the race.)
"The Lion and the Mouse" (Little friends may prove great friends.)
"The Shepherd's Boy" (A liar will not be believed, even when he speaks the truth.)
"The Wolf in Sheep's Clothing" (Appearances are deceptive.)
"The Town Mouse and the Country Mouse" (Better beans and bacon in peace than cakes and ale in fear.)

Variation: Note that several of these stories have been adapted as picture books, notably The Town Mouse and the Country Mouse. James Daugherty's Andy and the Lion, mentioned in the first chapter, is a modern retelling of Androcles and the Lion. One of the best Aesop fables for creative dramatization is The Hare and the Tortoise. You can stage the race in an auditorium, or even around the library. You could also have the children try writing their own fable and/or illustrate a fable.

Booktalk:
Fern's father leaves the house one morning with an axe, and of course Fern wants to know where he is going. During the night some pigs were born, and her father was going to kill the runt of the litter. Fern can't bear to see the little pig killed, so she agrees to take care of it. Fern names him Wilbur, and loves him more than anything in the world. After five weeks, she has to sell Wilbur to her Uncle who lives on a farm down the road. (Read Chapters 4 and 5.)

This book is all about how Charlotte proves to be a loyal and true friend as she saves Wilbur from a terrible fate.
Activities:

1. Place character names (Fern, Wilbur, Charlotte, Mr. Zuckerman, Mrs. Zuckerman, Lurvy, Mr. Arable, Mrs. Arable, Avery, Old Sheep, Goose, Ms. Fussy, Henry Fussy, Templeton, etc.) on the back of a child. Play 20 questions. A child tries to guess who he is. Rubber stamps of some of the characters are available from companies listed in the back of the manual.

2. Have children weave a web with black yarn on a piece of construction paper. Start with a cross dividing the paper into quarters, and then go from corner to corner to form an X, then between each spoke. Use white glue to anchor yarn behind the paper, and in the center. Children start at the center and weave yarn in a circular pattern, alternating yarn over and under base threads. (You can also let the children weave words like Charlotte did.) You can also use glue for the lines of the web and sprinkle glitter on the glue for a jazzy-looking web. You can have the children make spiders out of a pom pom with wiggle eyes and pipe cleaner legs. Put them on the web.

Variation: You (or the children) can make this on a bulletin board and use the area to display art. Make sure these base lines are taunt. Use staples instead of glue to attach yarn. Place a border up to cover the staples and yarn ends.

Booktalk: Billy Coleman wants a dog. He sees an ad in a catalog for hunting dogs. It takes two years, but he is finally able to save enough money to buy two coon-hound pups. His Grandpa helps him contact the kennel, and when the dogs finally come, Billy walks to a town several miles away to pick them up.

*(Read Chapter 5 from the beginning to "...not every boy owns two good hounds."

Billy names the dogs Old Dan and Little Ann and they become inseparable. Old Dan and Little Ann are the best coon hunting dogs in the county. But there's more to the story, because tragedy strikes, and you'll learn the true meaning of the red fern.
Activities:

1. Have the children look through old catalogs, and make a collage of things they would like to send off for.

2. Make coon tail hats. Cut a strip of paper 3" wide, and long enough to go around the child's head. Fit to the head and staple together. Place this band on another piece of paper and trace around the outside. This circle will be the top of the hat. Cut about 1/2" from the line you just drew all around the circle. When you are done, make small cuts all around the circle, stopping at the line you drew. Fold on the line all around the top of the hat. Slide it up inside the band, and use glue to fasten. Cut out the tail pattern, and attach to the back of the hat. (see patterns)
Books For Family Sharing
Animal Classics

Picture Books

Barrett, Ron and Judi. Animals Should Definitely Not Wear Clothing.
Burningham, John. Cannonball Simp.
Carlstrom, Nancy. Jesse Bear, What Will You Wear?
Duvoisin, Roger. Petunia.
Eastman, P. D. Go, Dog. Go!
Flack, Marjorie. The Story About Ping.
Fleischman, Paul. Joyful Noise.
Freeman, Don. Hattie, the Backstage Bat.
Hoban, Russell. A Bargain for Frances.
---. Bedtime for Frances.
---. Best Friends for Frances.
---. A Birthday for Frances.
---. Bread and Jam for Frances.
Hutchins, Pat. Rosie's Walk.
Lionni, Leo. Fish is Fish.
---. Frederick.
Lobel, Arnold. Frog and Toad Together.
---. Martha the Movie Mouse.
---. Old Mother Hubbard and Her Dog.
Martin, Bill. Polar Bear, Polar Bear, What Do You Hear?
Noble, Trinka Hakes. The Day Jimmy's Boa Ate the Wash.
Nordset, Joan L.. Who Took the Farmer's Hat?
Provensen, Alice and Martin. The Year at Maple Hill Farm.
Rey, H. A. Curious George.
Seuss, Dr. The Cat in the Hat.
---. Horton Hatches the Egg.
---. If I Ran the Zoo.
Spier, Peter. Noah's Ark.
Steig, William. Caleb and Kate.
---. Doctor DeSoto.
---. Roland, the Minstrel Pig.
---. Solomon the Rusty Nail.
---. Sylvester and the Magic Pebble.
Turkle, Brinton. Deep in the Forest.
---. Thy Friend, Obadiah.
Wells, Rosemary. Timothy Goes to School.
Zion, Gene. Harry the Dirty Dog.
Chapter Books

Atwater, Richard and Florence. Mr. Popper's Penguins.
Henry, Marguerite. King of the Wind.
--. Misty of Chincoteague.
Rawlings, Marjorie Kinan. The Yearling.
Sewell, Anna. Black Beauty.
The Woman and Her Pig
The Woman and Her Pig 3
Books For Family Sharing
Mystery/Adventure Classics

Picture Books

Brandenberg, Franz. A Robber! A Robber!
MaCauley, David. Why the Chicken Crossed the Road.
Stevenson, James. Rolling Rose.
Van Allsburg, Chris. The Mysteries of Harris Burdick.
Wells, Rosemary. Noisy Nora.

Chapter Books

Aiken, Joan. Go Saddle the Sea.
--. Bridle the Wind.
--. The Teeth of the Gale.
--. Midnight is a Place.
--. The Wolves of Willoughby Chase.
--. The Kestrel.
--. The Beggar Queen.
Alfred Hitchcock's Solve-Them-Yourself Mysteries.
Arthur, Robert. The Secret of Terror Castle.
Babbit, Natalie. Goody Hall.
Bellairs, John. The House With a Clock in its Walls.
--. The Figure in the Shadows.
--. The Letter, the Witch and the Ring.
Bennett, Jay. The Dangling Witness.
Bishop, Claire Hutchet. Twenty and Ten.
Clapp, Patricia. Jane-Emily.
Corbett, Scott. The Case of the Fugitive Firebug.
Cormier, Robert. I Am the Cheese.
Dicks, Terrance. The Baker Street Irregulars in the Case of the Cinema Swindle.
DuBois, William Pené. The Twenty-One Balloons.
Gardiner, John Reynolds. Stone Fox.
--. Smith.
Levy, Elizabeth. Something Queer at the Library.
--. Something Queer is Going On.
McSwigan, Marie. Snow Treasure.
Mazer, Norma Fox. Taking Terry Mueller.
Newman, Robert. The Case of the Baker Street Irregulars.
Nixon, Joan Lowery. The Kidnapping of Christina Lattimore.
Pullman, Phillip. The Ruby in the Smoke.
--. The Shadow in the North.
--. The Tiger in the Well.
Raskin, Ellen. The Westing Game.
Roberts, Willo Davis. The View from the Cherry Tree.
Shemin, Margaretha. Little Riders.
  --. Surprise Island.
  --. The Yellow House Mystery.
  --. Mystery Ranch.
  --. Mike's Mystery.
  --. Blue Bay Mystery.
  --. The Woodshed Mystery.
  --. The Lighthouse Mystery.
  --. Mountain Top Mystery.
Nautical Word Search

FLYPSRTURALMLMNKRMAINSAILKALMNEBOUNS
OLKSONOANEHCOWSAEFNNPSASWRSKHSHGSALWH
RAYSETNEMETWHTINULNETEAKFYUAIUDMEWR
ERGONRANCORETESSECRETGRDANTNIONTEPSRO
KMNABOUDAPERSTPRAECHEVCHWSBUEWATIFU
XUCATHEADTESMTMERSWOISTEHXASQD
YUARCBONSAAILTOPSMSTKNOABCFDARGSOS
RMOWNIWSGDSDABDRSTNOYSMBEWONKLPNGOR
NYTHRATINWGTADNEDYTAERWILLENUWEEK
PKVIALISAGOODESTATXCPATINEVRWINANN
AMEOURATALLKIDTAUNPIMSNNSNKCAREDOSFL
CNSCQARNYBTIMEHTDNTMKEITDOHOMENITA
DARSEPTFOREMAMUSTURSUMMERBTYRTSPBUISD
ETCHLUNPKCSPREBABHREMRLTNJOHRINTHA
PSOLTDPEERNSTKCEDRETEQKNTSPOQUJUNEM
EPADDOMERSABKLNOTHULLRSLWSEMAGEELR
TACAAROMESUNGDSOWNOWNETHETOPMCNASTS
PCANMTOEENTLMKCEDRETRAUNQONTBIDIST
ERNSUDOKIDOGNTMRLTNJOYHWLADERYSANR
NTACADEBTIDOWJMOPOTSTISANDCKTULPTWP
YRSLKIALPERWAIRBOWSPRITSIONSIIFNIDC
MTOPMASTOVEBNRIBIBREHARREYDEANFADMISR
EUNTLUHBTGETBOTAINTHNUSSTRATSOTWSATELU
FOREKEDTFRYUTOSLTMINTWYRSDLEDRTNCO
HTAREDCOLOROROAWHILLEIPROECOMEFORTW
JNPSDTIDYUNWWMATETITNTHNHEPGTCOFWAN
ORCHINPLSESIDIDNETAWIHDSHKNTIKTCHOT
YBACKSTETOPHKNOPAWRREDALANTNMPANTS
LBCTINPAEDEBOATNPSRECNOKPLACNRTAEUA
IACALOTORFBOGSTFFAUMBIESLEEPSTPRNPM
ABRNPIGKNSTHISSADDKPOTOJKYNUMUSBJININ
SSGKDFNORSALSRSFIGUREHEADSTAORYLLOJI
YLLLDEMEANPECAPNRABCLNRQNBOIMIPKNIA
RAKIALISKNOHWTODQCADSTRSMQUITFIM
TONSEPORKCABEFRNUZTEHJQSUALTFETERTHC

Find these words:

Mainsail  Shrouds  Bowsprit
Lower Mast  Cathead  Bow
Trysail  Flying Jib  Jib Boom
Ratlines  Ladder  Backropes
Stern  Anchor  Quarterdeck
Deck  Gun Whale  Figurehead
Main Mast  Capstan  Stays
Foremast  Topmast  Jollyboats

Answer Key to Nautical Word Search Sailor Hats

1. Begin with a rectangle (a sheet of newspaper makes a good hat). Fold in half lengthwise and unfold, then fold in half crosswise.

2. Fold corners A and B so they meet at the center crease line.

3. Fold bottom flap up so that the crease is along corners A and B. Turn paper over and repeat.
Paper Plate Pig
Raccoon Tall Hat
Chapter 4

Toto, I've A Feeling We're Not in Kansas Anymore

Fantasy Classics

DOROTHY: Toto, I've a feeling that we're not in Kansas anymore...We must be over the rainbow!

Toddler Time (18 months to 2 years)

Program: "May We Come Too?": Animals All Crowd In.

Burningham, John. Mr. Gumpy's Outing.
Lillegard, Dee. Sitting in My Box.

Fingerplay: Meet the Boats

Toot, toot, toot, (Pretend to blow whistle)
chug, chug, chug, (Arms push and pull in piston motion)
I am a tug...boat.

Row, row, row, (Make rowing motion)
to and fro,
I am a row...boat.

Wind puffs, (Blow into cupped hands)
blows a gale,
I am a sail...boat.

Drive fast, (Pretend to steer)
brrr, brrr,
I am a speed...boat.

Back and forth, (Hands move back and forth in front of body)
people I carry,
I am a ferry...boat.

Under water, (Hands over head like surface of water)
blub, blub, blub,
I am a sub...marine.

--Adapted from Judy Nichols Storytimes for Two-Year-Olds, p. 33.
Song: Row, Row, Row Your Boat
Row, row, row your boat
Gently down the stream
Merrily, merrily, merrily, merrily
Life is but a dream.
--Singing Beel, p. 135.

Activities:
1. Before the program, cut out the sails (see patterns) and glue or tape it to a round toothpick, then cut celery into sticks about 4 inches long. Let the children fill celery with cheese spread or peanut butter. Have the children stick the sail in the celery to finish their boat.
   (Careful supervision is needed with the toothpicks. A knife, even a plastic one, can be awkward for young children to use, we suggest that you let the children use their fingers. You can put a small amount of whatever filling you chose on a paper plate for each child. They can spread it with their fingers. When they are finished, have plenty of towelettes, papertowels, or washclothes handy.)

2. Have a pan of water and several objects. Have the children place the objects in the water and see which ones float and which ones sink.

Storytime (3-8 years)
Program 1: The King Said "Hello," and the Queen Said "Wheee!"

Books:
DePaola, Tomie. Helga's Dowry.
De Regniers, Beatrice. May I Bring A Friend?
Kahl, Virginia. The Duchess Bakes a Cake.
Shulevitz, Uri. One Monday Morning.
Wood, Audrey and Don. King Bidgood's in the Bathtub.

Rhymes:
Sing a Song of Sixpence
Sing a song of sixpence,
A pocket full of rye.
Four and twenty blackbirds,
Baked in a pie.
When the pie was opened,
The birds began to sing.
Now wasn't that a dainty dish to set before the king?

Old King Cole
Old King Cole was a merry old soul,
And a merry old soul was he;
He called for his pipe,
And he called for his bowl,
And he called for his fiddlers three.
Every fiddler he had a fiddle,
And a very fine fiddle had he;
Oh, there's none so rare,
As can compare,
With King Cole and his fiddlers three.

Action Rhyme: The Grand Old Duke of York

Oh, the grand old Duke of York, (Squat)
He had ten thousand men;
He marched them up to the top of the hill, (Stand)
And he marched them down again. (Squat)
And when you're up, you're up; (Stand)
And when you're down, you're down. (Squat)
But when you're only halfway up, (Stand up part way)
You're neither up nor down.

--Anonymous.

Activities:

1. Have each child make a crown. You will need a piece of paper about 6" x 18" for each child. Make a pattern (see patterns) by copying the crown on a piece of light cardboard or posterboard, extend each end beyond the pattern so it will be long enough to go around the child's head. Children trace the pattern on their paper, cut it out, then decorate with markers, stickers, buttons, glitter, or scraps of fabric or paper. Staple to fit child. (For preschool children, you may want to have the crowns precut and let them decorate.)

2. Have each child make a scepter. Cover an empty paper towel holder with construction paper (or have the children paint them). Take a piece of tissue paper about 12" x 6" and cut streamers about every 1/2" or so, cut to about 1" from the end of the paper. (Depending on the direction you cut your streamers, when you wrap them around the tube, you will have one row of 11" streamers, or two rows of 5" streamers. Decide which you like better before you cut them.) Tape or staple the tissue paper around the end of the tube.

Variations:

If you use Helga's Dowry, have the children find the Troll King who is hiding in almost all of the pictures watching what Helga is doing. You can use Ed Emberly's book Klippity Klop as an audience participation story; simply have the children make the sounds along with you as indicated in the story. The video adaptation of King Bidgood's in the Bathtub is staged as an operetta, and is an absolute delight.

Program 2: "Let's Frighten Somebody."

Books:

Ahlberg, Janet and Allan. Funnybones.
Bright, Robert. Georgie to the Rescue.
Calhoun, Mary. The Witch of Hissing Hill.
Devlin, Wende and Harry. Old Black Witch.
Thayer, Jane. Gus Was A Friendly Ghost.
Action Rhyme: Boo!

See my great big scary eyes (Hold fingers around eyes)
Look out now for a big surprise.
Oo-oo-ooo (Walk like a ghost)
I'm looking right at you. (Point at someone)
BOOT (Everyone)

--Anonymous.

Poems:

A-Ha!

Whatever is inside that sheet,
Just gave a dreadful shout.
A-ha, but what about those feet,
That I see sticking out?
They help me guess who's hiding there,
Whose eyes are peeking through:
And how could anyone be scared of YOU!

--Anonymous.

Three Little Ghostesses

Three little ghostesses
Sitting on postesses
Eating buttered toastesses
Greasing their fistesses
Up to their wristesses
Oh, what beastesses
To make such feastesses!

There Was An Old Woman

There was an old woman all skin and bones
Oooh, oooh, oooh, ooh, ooh.
She went to the graveyard all alone
Oooh, oooh, oooh, ooh, ooh.
She looked up and she looked down
Oooh, oooh, oooh, ooh, ooh.
Rotting corpses all around
Oooh, oooh, oooh, ooh, ooh.
And the worms crawled here, and the worms crawled there.
Oooh, oooh, oooh, ooh, ooh.
A putrid smell filled the air
Oooh, oooh, oooh, ooh, ooh.
She went to the Sexton and to the Sexton she said:
Oooh, oooh, oooh, ooh, ooh.
"Will I look like that when I am dead?"
Oooh, oooh, oooh, ooh, ooh.
And the Sexton to the woman said: "AAAArrrghhhhh!"

--Anonymous.
Joke: What kind of a pet does a ghost have?
Answer: A scaredy cat.

For more riddles, look in Spooky Riddles by Marc Brown.

Activities:
1. Make a witch. Make copies (see patterns) and have the children color it, or make stiff patterns and have the children trace them on construction paper (black hat and brim, orange hair, green face, etc.) Have them draw a face, cut out the pieces and glue them together.

2. Make a ghost from a round sucker (tootsie pop or dumdum). Put a white tissue over the sucker, and tie around the "neck" with a piece of string or heavy thread. Use a marker to make black eyes.

Variations: There's a recipe for blueberry pancakes on the back cover of Old Black Witch that comes complete with magic words to say while stirring the mixture. You might consider this as an activity. For older children, tell the story "Smelly Sneakers" from Judith Gorog's In a Messy, Messy Room and Other Stories.

Program 3: A Monster is Coming! A Monster is Coming!

Books:
- Heide, Florence Parry and Roxanne Heide. A Monster is Coming! A Monster is Coming!
- Seymour, Peter. What's in the Cave?

Action Rhyme: The Monster Stomp
If you want to be a monster, now's your chance
'Cause everybody's doing the monster dance. (Dance)
You just stamp your feet, (Stamp your feet)
Wave your arms around, (Wave your arms)
Stretch 'em up, stretch 'em up, (Stretch up)
Then put them on the ground, (Touch the ground)
'Cause you're doing the monster stomp, (Stamp your feet)
That's right, you're doing the monster stomp.
Ooh-Ah-Ooh-Ah-Ooh-Ah-Ooh-Ah! (March like a monster would)
Ooh-Ah-Ooh-Ah-Ooh-Ah-Ooh-Ah!

Poem: Come See The Thing
Come see the thing that Dad has caught--
Oh yuck! Don't even bother.
It's not as dead as Dad thought,
And we are minus father.

Films:
There's a Nightmare in My Closet.
There's an Alligator Under My Bed.
There's Something in My Attic.

Activities:
1. Draw a monster. You'll need 3-4 ft. long sheets of butcher paper and boxes of crayons or markers, as well as newspapers to be placed underneath the butcher paper. Assemble three stations with some of each item. Read the first rhyme with the underlined word left out. The first person on each team responds by filling in the rhyming word and then adds that part to the monster drawing. Continue using the same procedure until all rhymes and parts have been completed. After you've completed your monster, you may want to ask the children to help make up a name for him.

When you draw a monster, it is said,
You always begin with his head.
He'll be able to see when he flies,
If we draw two bright eyes.
To tell which way the cold wind blows,
Our monster will need a great big nose.
Look to the North and look to the South,
Now we can give our monster a mouth.
Some up above and some beneath,
Our monster has lots of teeth.
Now under his chin, let's just check,
That's where we should put his neck.
So he won't be tipsy-toddy,
Let's give him a body.
If he really, really begs,
I guess we could give him some legs.
Now to make our monster nice and neat,
We'll have to teach him to wipe his feet.
A notice sent by Air Mail!
We can't forget the monster's tail.
Now this may seem a little weird,
But on his chin let's draw a beard.
He isn't fierce. He isn't hairy,
But don't you think he's a little scary?

--Idea from Brenda Robinson, formerly with the Dallas Public Library.
2. Make Monster Repellent. You need a bottle of "smelly stuff." Use old perfume, or any extract such as mint, lemon, vanilla, etc. Label your bottle as "Monster Repellent Concentrate." Provide, or have the children bring, small spray bottles. Put about a teaspoon of perfume in the spray bottles and fill with water. You will need to adjust this according to what you are using for your "concentrate," and the size of the spray bottles. The final product is mostly water and should only have a faint scent. Help label the child's bottle as Monster Repellent. Their parents can spray it in their room before they go to bed, and it will keep away monsters, or tigers, or anything else that might frighten the child.

Variations: The best monster folktale, besides The Gunniwolf, is probably Paul Galdone's Tailypo. Either of these stories are great for telling. For extra-scary storytimes add some poems from Nightmares: Poems to Trouble Your Sleep, or The Headless Horseman Rides Tonight: More Poems to Trouble Your Sleep, both by Jack Prelutsky. One of the scariest is "The Zombie" from The Headless Horseman. For a more humorous touch you could read a section on an individual monster from How to Care for Your Monster by Norman Bridwell.

Upper Elementary Programs (9-12 years)

Program 1: Fe Fi Fo Fum, I Smell the Blood of an Englishman!

Books: Gaeddert, Louann. Gustav, the Gourmet Giant.
Kellogg, Steven. Jack and the Beanstalk.
Kroll, Steven. Big Jeremy.

Rhyme: The Giant Jim, great giant grim,
Wears a hat without a brim,
Weighs a ton and wears a blouse,
And trembles when he meets a mouse.

Poem: The Towering Giant
In a darksome dominion remorseless and cold stands a towering giant grotesque to behold.
He hulks like a mountain,
his head in the sky,
and all who approach him will certainly die.
The towering giant
by stretching his hand turns trees into sawdust
and rocks in the sand.
One stamp of his foot and the mountaintop shakes and the winds turn to tempests with each breath he takes.
Should you land in his clutches he'll grind you to crumbs, or crush you to powder
beneath his great thumbs.
The towering giant
a thousand feet tall
will reduce you to nothing... to nothing at all.

Activities:

1. Make a beanstalk. Take a few sheets of paper (newspaper or construction paper--any size). Lay one sheet down. Lay the next sheet down next to the first sheet with only about 2 inches overlapping the first. Continue until all of the paper is laid out. (The more paper you use, the higher your beanstalk will be.) Begin with the first sheet, and begin rolling towards the other sheets you put down. Tape the side. Tear or cut from the top to about one third the way down four times. Reach inside and gently pull the center out. For more directions, look in How to Make Flibbers, Etc. by Robert Lobshire, pp. 8-9.

2. Have the children make a golden egg out of paper maché. (This activity will take two programs to complete, or the children will have to paint them at home.) Just before the program, mix equal parts of flour and water for your paste. (This will dry out if made too soon. If it's too thick, add more water; too thin, add more flour.) Each child needs a small round balloon, part of a newspaper, and access to a bowl of paste. Have them blow up the balloons and tie a knot in the end. They tear off a small strip of newspaper, which they dip in the paste. They wipe the excess paste off, and smooth it over the balloon. They continue until all the balloon is covered with two or three layers of newspaper. It takes several hours to dry (depending on how much paste was left on the newspaper). When they are dry (or the next day, or the next week), paint with gold paint. (If you can't find any, use yellow tempera paint and sprinkle with glitter while still wet.)
Program 2:  Cooper, Susan.  The Dark is Rising.

Booktalk:

(Read first 12 paragraphs of Chapter 2.)

Will Stanton is not just an ordinary kid. When he wakes up on this Christmas morning, he is about to find out that he is the last of the Old Ones. The Old Ones are a group of people that have a special mission—that of defeating the forces of evil in the world. To accomplish this, they must find some ancient objects that will give them the needed power. Will's mission is to find the six signs—these are a Celtic symbol of a circle quartered by a cross, each one made out of one of the primary elements: wood, bronze, fire, water, stone, and iron.

Will tries to find these signs while learning of his new found powers as an Old One.

Activities:

1. Show the filmstrip Susan Cooper from the "Meet the Newbery Author" series.

2. Have the children make a circle of signs like the one Will made. (see patterns) Have the children trace the pattern and cut out six signs. You can use a different color of paper to represent each element (wood, bronze, fire, water, stone, and iron), or trace them all on white paper, and color them to look like the different elements. Each child needs to cut 6 strips of paper about 1" x 4", preferably from a gray paper (representing metal). Slip the strip of paper through the sides of two signs and glue. (This is kind of like a Christmas chain, except you will be using the chain part to attach two signs together.) Continue until you have joined all of the signs together into a circle.

Booktalk:

Meg Murray's father has disappeared. He was working on a secret government project dealing with something called the Tesseract. Meg, her friend, Calvin O'Keefe, and her precocious younger brother Charles Wallace, want to find him, and get help from Mrs. Whatsit, Mrs. Who, and Mrs. Which, three unusual ladies that Charles Wallace first met in the "old shingled house back in the woods that the kids won't go near because they say it's haunted." These three weird ladies take Meg, Calvin, and Charles Wallace to a planet near where their father is. They explain that their father has been transported to a dark planet taken over by an evil force called simply "It." They explain that it is through the Tesseract that their father traveled there, and it is how they got where they are.

(Read the explanation of "tesseract" in Chapter 5, beginning with "If a very small insect..." through "That is how we travel." Rather than reading it, you could visually explain it, using a chalkboard or other visual aid.)

Meg, Calvin, and Charles Wallace have to rescue Mr. Murray from this dark planet called Camazotz. When they arrive on the planet itself, they quickly begin to realize just how much the evil force has taken over.

(Read from Chapter 6 just after the three asterisks beginning with "Below them the town was laid out in harsh, angular patterns." through "The doors clicked shut behind them.")

Activities:

1. Show the video Madeleine L'Engle: Stargazer.

2. Use a long piece of paper to make a time line of events that happened in the story.
Picture Books

Bridwell, Norman. How to Care For Your Monster.
Browne, Anthony. The Tunnel.
Elkin, Benjamin. The King's Wish and Other Stories.
Gurney, Nancy and Ed. The King, the Mice and the Cheese.
Lobel, Arnold. Giant John.
--. Prince Bertram the Bad.
Park, Barbara. When the Wind Changed.
Sendak, Maurice. Where the Wild Things Are.
Small, David. Imogene's Antlers.
Steig, William. Shrek!
Weisner, David. Tuesday.
--. Free Fall.
Wood, Audrey and Don. Heckedy Peg.
Yorinks, Arthur. Hey, All
Zemach, Harve and Margot. The Judge.

Chapter Books

--. The Black Cauldron.
--. The Castle of Llyr.
--. Taran Wanderer.
--. The High King.
Babbit, Natalie. The Devil's Storybook.
--. The Devil's Other Storybook.
--. The Search for Delicious.
--. Tuck Everlasting.
--. Poo! of Fire.
--. City of Gold and Lead.
--. The Guardians.
--. The Lotus Caves.
Cooper, Susan. Over Sea, Under Stone.
--. The Dark is Rising.
--. Greenwitch.
--. The Gray King.
--. Silver on the Tree.
--. Charlie and the Great Glass Elevator.
--. The BFG.
--. The Twits.
--. The Witches.
Duane, Diane. So You Want to Be A Wizard.
--. Deep Wizardry.
--. High Wizardry.
Engdahl, Sylvia. Enchantress from the Stars.
--. The Far Side of Evil.
Garner, Alan. The Moon of Gomrath.
--. The Weirdstone of Brisengamen.
Graham, Kenneth. The Wind in the Willows.
Juster, Norton. The Phantom Tollbooth.
Key, Alexander. The Forgotten Door.
--. A Wind in the Door.
--. A Swiftly Tilting Planet.
--. Many Waters.
Lewis, C. S. The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe.
--. Prince Caspian.
--. The Voyage of the Dawn Treader.
--. The Silver Chair.
--. The Horse and His Boy.
--. The Magician's Nephew.
--. The Last Battle.
Lively, Penelope. The Ghost of Thomas Kempe.
--. The Wild Hunt of the Ghost Hounds.
McKillip, Priscilla. The Forgotten Beasts of Eld.
--. The Riddlemaster of Hed.
Mayne, William. Earthfasts.
O'Brien, Robert C. Mrs. Frisby and the Rats of NIMH.
--. Z for Zachariah.
Pearce, Philippa. Tom's Midnight Garden.
Pierce, Meredith Ann. The Darkangel.
--. A Gathering of Gargoyles.
--. The Pearl of the Soul of the World.
Sauer, Julia. Fog Magic.
Seidler, Tor. A Rat's Tale.
Selden, George. The Cricket In Times Square.
--. The Genie of Sutton Place.
Snyder, Zilpha Keatly. Below the Root.
--. And All Between.
--. Until the Celebration.
Tolkien, J. R. R. The Hobbit.
Sails for Celery Boats
Circle of Signs
Chapter 5

My Pink Brains Are Beautiful, You Can See 'Em Work

Informational Classics

"I'm going with Scraps and Ojo," announced the Glass Cat.
"You can't," said the Magician.
"Why not?"
"You'd get broken in no time, and you couldn't be a bit of use to the boy and the Patchwork Girl."
"I beg to differ with you," retorted the cat in a haughty tone. "Three heads are better than two, and my pink brains are beautiful. You can see 'em work."

Baum, L. Frank. The Patchwork Girl. p. 65.

Toddler Time  (18 months to 2 years)

Program:  I Love My Tree.

Ehlert, Lois. Read Leaf, Yellow Leaf.
Udry, Janice May. A Tree is Nice.

Fingerplays:  The Apple Tree

Way up high in the apple tree,  (Hold your arms up, as if they are branches)
I saw two apples looking at me.  (Hold up two fingers)
I shook that tree as hard as I could...  (Pretend to shake a tree)
Down came the apples,  (Pretend to eat an apple)
Mmmmm, they were good.  (Rub stomach)
(If you like, the apple could have a worm in it, as in: Yecchhhhh! A Worm!--you could stick out your tongue and make a face.)

--Anonymous.

This is the tree  (Hold your arms up, as if they are branches) with leaves so green
Here are the apples  (Put your palms together like you are holding an apple) that hang in between
When the wind blows  (Put your arms up again, and sway like you are being blown) the apples will fall
Here is the basket to gather them all.  (Make a big circle in front of you with your arms)

--Yamaguchi, Marianne. Finger Plays.
Activities:

1. Have a discovery lesson with apples. Have a couple of different types of apples. Let the children tell you what they know about apples. Cut one apple in half crosswise, and let the children see the star pattern made by the seeds. Cut one of the other apples from top to bottom, and let them see the difference. Give each child a piece of apple to eat—if you have more than one kind ask which they like better. This activity works especially well with just a few children in a group, and it is easy to carry out. If you have things ready, parents can help you with very little advance preparation.

2. Use the bird seed craft suggested in Ehlert's book: "Use a cookie cutter to cut a heart shape out of a slice of bread. Poke a hole in the top with a pencil or crayon. Brush an egg white onto the bread and press birdseed on top. Let it dry. Then thread a piece of ribbon or yarn through the hole and tie it to a tree branch as a treat for the birds." Make sure you provide wipes to clean the egg white from any child's hand. Uncooked egg whites are not good to ingest.

As an alternative you can tie a string to a pine cone and have the children cover the pine cone with peanut butter (let them use their fingers). There are a couple of ways to cover it with bird seed. You can put the bird seed on a plate, and let the children roll their pine cone in it, or you can put the bird seed in a bag, and let the children drop their pine cone in and shake it until it is covered. Put their feeder in a plastic bag, and let them take it home and hang it in a tree.

Variations:

In using the Ehlert book, Eating the Alphabet, you can point out the fruits depicted that grow on trees, and see if the children recognize them, or if possible, bring in some of the different fruits.

Storytime (3-8 years)

Program 1: Dinosaurs Lived Millions of Years Ago.

Books:
Aliki. Digging Up Dinosaurs.
Aliki. Dinosaurs are Different.
Aliki. My Visit to the Dinosaurs.
Barton, Byron. Bones, Bones, Dinosaur Bones.
Gibbons, Gail. Dinosaurs.
Poems:

Something Big Has Been Here

Something big has been here,
what it was, I do not know,
for I did not see it coming,
and I did not see it go,
but I hope I never meet it,
if I do, I'm in a fix,
for it left behind its footprints,
they are size nine-fifty-six.

I Saw a Brontosaurus

I saw a brontosaurus
saunter through my neighborhood, this struck me as peculiar,
as I'd heard they'd gone for good,
its proportions were imposing,
it was long and tall and wide,
I ran home to fetch a ladder,
then ascended for a ride.

It was hard to sit astride it,
for its hide was rather rough and I had to ride it bareback, there's no saddle big enough,
it turned into the sunset and we started heading west,
my parents seemed uneasy,
but the neighbors looked impressed.

We squeezed between the buildings as we thundered out of town,
the beast became rambunctious,
and it bounded up and down,
it ignored my agitation and my frequent shouts of "Whoa!"
and I almost bounced to pieces as we crossed a wide plateau.

That brontosaurus tossed me in the middle of a plain,
I landed in a wheat field,
where I fell against the grain,
though I treasure my adventure,
I won't do it anymore,
for that bucking brontosaurus made my bottom brontosore!

What If...
What if...
You opened a book
About Dinosaurs
And one stumbled out
And another and another
And more and more pour
Until the whole place
Is bumbling and rumbling
And groaning and moaning
And snoring and roaring
And dinosauring?
What if...
You tried to push them
Back inside
But they kept tromping
Off the pages instead?
Would you close the covers?

Activities:
1. Give each child a dinosaur egg pattern and let them decorate it the way they think a dinosaur egg would look. (see patterns)
2. Play pin the tail on the dinosaur. Use any poster with a dinosaur picture. You can cut the dinosaur out, and actually cut off the tail, or you can make another tail to match from construction paper. Another option is to enlarge a picture from a book using the opaque projector.

Program 2: Look Again.
Books:
Hoban, Tana. Look Again.
Hoban, Tana. Look Up, Look Down.
Hoban, Tana. Take Another Look.
Hoban, Tana. Shadows and Reflections.

Activity:
1. Have each child draw a picture that fills most of a sheet of paper. Cut a square out of a piece of construction paper. Put the square over the picture so the children see only part of the picture, and have the children guess what the picture is. Young children may need to make a picture from old magazines, so it will be recognizable.
2. Discuss the different perspectives that Tana Hoban uses in her books—looking up or down, finding shadows, etc. Have a camera ready with film, and let the children take pictures around the library using these perspectives. *(For this activity you can use a regular camera, one of the new disposable cameras, or an instant camera, in which case, you won't have to have a second session for this program.) When the film is developed, have the children arrange the photographs into a book. They can mount them on paper and bind them together, or you can obtain a small photo album that holds one picture on each page, and slip them in. This is also an excellent activity for families to do together--after your program, you could suggest that parents and children make their own photo books at home.

Program 3: A MILLION DOLLARS!

Books:
- Anno, Mitsumasa. Anno's Counting House.
- Schwartz, David M. How Much is a Million?
- Schwartz, David M. If You Made a Million.

Poem:

from Arithmetic

Arithmetic is where numbers fly like pigeons in and out of your head.
Arithmetic tells you how many you lose or win if you know how many you had before you lost or won.
Arithmetic is seven eleven all good children go to heaven--or five six bundle of sticks.
Arithmetic is numbers you squeeze from your head to your hand to your pencil to your paper till you get the right answer...
If you have two animal crackers, one good and one bad, and you eat one and a striped zebra with streaks all over him eats the other, how many animal crackers will you have if somebody offers you five six seven and you say No no no and you say Nay nay nay and you say Nix nix nix?
If you ask your mother for one fried egg for breakfast and she gives you two fried eggs and you eat both of them, who is better in arithmetic, you or your mother?

--Sandburg, Carl. Sing a Song of Popcorn, p. 93.

Activities:

1. Either use the recipes in the back of Eating Fractions, or use fruits like apples and bananas and help the children cut them in halves, thirds, and fourths.

2. Before the program, have the children draw what they think a million looks like. Then read the books.
Upper Elementary Programs  (9-12 years)

Program 1:  Belt Loops Are a Great Invention, But Two of Them Would Have Been Enough.

Books:
- Bender, Lionel. Invention. (Eyewitness Books)
- Konigsburg, E. L. Samuel Todd's Book of Great Inventions.

Poem:  Invention

I've done it, I've done it!
Guess what I've done!
Invented a light that plugs into the sun.
The sun is bright enough,
The bulb is strong enough,
But, oh, there's only one thing wrong...
The cord ain't long enough.

Activities:
1. Show the children the two page spread, "Cinema," on pages 50 and 51 of Lionel Bender's "Eyewitness" book Invention. Read the explanation and point out some of the things shown there. To explain the more technical aspects of movie making, share "Movie Camera," and "Movie Projector" on pages 218 and 219 from David Macaulay's The Way Things Work.

Introduce animation by making a flip book. Staple several small pieces (about 4" x 5" is plenty large) of paper together. In order to make the picture move, you draw the same picture with only a slight change on each page. When you "flip" the pages, the figure seems to move. An easy one for you to do to get the idea is a bouncing ball. Draw a round circle at the top of the page, on the next page draw it a little lower, etc. until it hits the floor, then start it "bouncing" up. If you have a collection of rubber stamps, some children may prefer to use those to make pictures. The stamps can be placed on slightly different places on each page to create movement and variation.

2. Have the children design and draw their own inventions. They could add scraps of foil, buttons, sticks, etc., to their drawings. Make sure they note on their invention what it will do. You could make a display of these for the library. (If you have space, you could bring in some "junk" such as an old bike, cardboard boxes, hand beaters, nuts, paper, etc., and let the children work together to come up with one invention. You could also suggest that they make one at home and then bring them into the library to display.)

Booktalk: (Show some of Bill Peet's books.)

You may have seen some of Bill Peet's books before, but there may be a couple of things you don't know about him. The first thing is that all his books are drawn with crayons. The second thing you might not know is that Mr. Peet drew pictures and created stories for many of the best-loved Walt Disney cartoon's including Snow White, Pinnochio, and Dumbo.

(Read about his Donald Duck tantrum beginning with "Like a drawing robot..." on page 89 through page 94.)

Activities:
1. Show the video Bill Peet in His Studio. For more information and activities involving Peet's books, use the "Capsule Author Unit" in An Author A Month (for Pennies) by Sharron McElmeel.
2. Show the children how a storyboard is used to plan out cartoons. Give each child a large sheet of paper, and let them make a storyboard for their own cartoon.

Booktalk: Sadako Sasaki was a real girl who lived in Japan from 1943 to 1955. She was only twelve years old when she died. She was two years old when the atom bomb was dropped on Hiroshima where she lived at the end of World War II. She died as a result of the radiation from that bomb. In Japan, many people like to fold objects out of paper, an art that is called origami. There is an old story in Japan that if you fold a thousand paper cranes, the gods will grant your wish. Sadako's wish was to be well, and she began to try to fold a thousand paper cranes. This book is about the courage of a young girl.

Activities:
1. Follow the directions (see patterns) to fold a paper crane. When the children have mastered cranes, let them try other items included in the book Fun Time Paper Folding.
2. Have the children write a haiku that they would give to Sadako, or a child from another country to promote peace. (Haiku poetry has 5 syllables in the first line, 7 syllables in the second line, and 5 syllables in the last line.) For samples of haiku poetry, look at Rebecca Caudill's Come Along!, In a Spring Garden edited by Richard Lewis, or Red Dragonfly on My Shoulder translated by Sylvia Cassedy and Kunihiro Suetake.
Books For Family Sharing
Informational Classics

Picture Books

--. The Magic School Bus at the Waterworks.
--. The Magic School Bus Inside the Human Body.
--. The Magic School Bus on the Ocean Floor.
Lopshire, Robert. How to Make Flibbers.
Spier, Peter. We the People.
--. Tin Lizzie.
--. The Star Spangled Banner.
--. The Story of New Amsterdam.

Chapter Books

Ashabranner, Brent. Children of the Maya.
Blumberg, Rhoda. Commodore Perry in the Land of the Shogun.
Fritz, Jean. Homesick.
--. China Homecoming.
--. Stonewall.
Greenfield, Eloise. Childtimes.
Lasky, Kathryn. Sugaring Time.
Lauber, Patricia. Volcano.
Meltzer, Milton. The Hispanic Americans.
--. Never to Forget: Jews of the Holocaust.
Reed, Jonathan. Do Armadillos Come in Houses?
Schwartz, Alvin. Gold and Silver, Silver and Gold.
Simon, Seymour. The Long View from Space.
--. Animal Fact, Animal Fable.
Vink, Herman. The Short Life of Sophie Scholl.
Zhensun, Zheng and Alice Low. A Young Painter: The Life and Paintings of Wang Yani—China's Extraordinary Young Artist.
Dinosaur Egg
Start with a square piece of paper. Guide letters are given in order from top to bottom, for example, C,B,A means that corner C is on top, B is in the middle, and A is on the bottom.

1. Bring corner A to B and crease the fold.

2. Bring corner C to D and crease fold.

3. Pick up corner C. Open slightly, bring down to meet A. Be sure corner A and C meet exactly. Crease fold.

4. Turn paper over. Lift corner D and open slightly. Bring down to meet other corners. Match corners carefully and crease.

5. Pick up top layer of G, bring it to the center crease line, press fold. Now bring the top layer of corner H to meet G.
6. Pick up the top corner D and fold it up and back. Corners G and H will straighten and meet in the middle. Turn paper over.

7. Fold in corners J and K. Now repeat the last step with corner C, pulling it up and back to meet corner D.

8. Fold top layers of M and N to meet center line.

9. Turn the paper over. Fold corners O and P to meet center line.

10. Open point B slightly and fold back on the dotted line, turning it inside out. Point B is now between the layers. Open point B and fold, turning inside out to form head. Points C and D are the wings. Pull away from each other until the crane's body forms.
Chapter 6

I Transformed Her...Into a Boy

Folk and Fairy Tale Classics

"What did you do with the girl?" asked Glinda; and at this question everyone bent forward and listened eagerly for the reply.

"I enchanted her," answered Mombi.
"In what way?"
"I transformed her into--into..."
"Into what?" demanded Ozma as the Witch hesitated.
"Into a boy!" said Mombi, in a low tone.
"A boy!" echoed every voice...

Baum, L. Frank. The Land of Oz. p. 264.

Toddler Time (18 months to 2 years)

Program: Trip Trap; Meow; Huff Puff.

Galdone, Paul. The Three Little Kittens.
Galdone, Paul. The Three Little Pigs.

Rhyme: Pussy Cat, Pussy Cat
Pussy cat, pussy cat,
Where have you been?
I've been to London
To look at the Queen.
Pussy cat, pussy cat,
What did you there?
I frightened a little mouse
Under her chair.

Activities: 1. After reading The Three Little Kittens, have the children color the mittens (see patterns). For variety, you could let them use q-tips that they dip in paint to make polka dots on their mittens.

2. Use appliance boxes to make a simple straw house, stick house, and brick house. After telling The Three Little Pigs, let the children play in the houses.

Variations: Any of the classic fairy tales in simple editions can be introduced at this point, James Marshall's are certainly among the choicest and funniest of the newer adaptations for slightly older children. His The Three Bears adds some amusing touches to the basic story. His Little Red Riding Hood is also nice. For a storytime for older children you could pair well known familiar fairy tales with multicultural variants, or compare and contrast the two versions. The best examples are Ed Young’s Yeh Shen: A Cinderella Story from China and the Caldecott winner Lon Po Po: A Red Riding Hood Story from China.

Storytime  (3-8 years)

Program 1: The Sky is Falling, The Sky is Falling!

Books:
- Cooney, Barbara. Chanticleer and the Fox.
- Galdone, Paul. Henny Penny.
- Kellogg, Steven. Chicken Little.

Rhymes:

```
Hickety, pickety, my black hen,
She lays eggs for gentlemen;
Gentlemen come every day
To see what my black hen doth lay.

Cock a doodle doo!
My dame has lost her shoe,
My master's lost his fiddling stick
And knows not what to do.

Cock a doodle doo!
What is my dame to do?
Till master finds his fiddling stick
She'll dance without her shoe.

Cock a doodle doo!
My dame has found her shoe,
And master's found his fiddling stick
Sing doodle doodle doo.

Cock a doodle doo!
My dame will dance with you,
While master fiddles his fiddling stick
For dame and doodle doo.

The cock's on the roof top
Blowing his horn,
The bull's in the barn
A-threshing the corn,
The maids in the meadow
Are making the hay,
The ducks in the river
Are swimming away.
```
Activities:

1. After reading The Little Red Hen, let the children help you make some bread. For quick easy bread, follow the directions on the back of a hot roll mix. If you prefer, use your own recipe, but there won't be enough time for it to rise and cook, so have some already made. If you do not have cooking facilities, bring several different types of bread for the children to taste. Ask a local bakery or grocery store to donate supplies. Bring in wheat grains to show the children.

2. Before reading Chicken Little or Henny Penny, let the children use a marker to draw a face on an acorn. As you tell the story, let the children hold the acorn in their hand, and when the acorn falls in the story, they put it in the air, and "drop" it on the top of their head. (They leave it in their hand and just touch their head with it.)

Program 2: She Ate It All!

Books:
- Bonne, Rose. I Know an Old Lady.
- Bowden, Joan Chase. The Bean Boy.
- Domanska, Janina. The Turnip.
- Ness, Evaline. Mr. Miacca.

Rhymes:
- Jack Sprat would eat no fat,
- His wife would eat no lean,
- And so between them both, you see
- They licked the platter clean.

- Little Tommy Tucker
  Sings for his supper:
  What shall we give him?
  White bread and butter.
  How shall he cut it
  Without e'er a knife?
  How will he be married
  Without e'er a wife?

Poems:

Boa Constrictor

Oh, I'm being eaten
By a boa constrictor,
A boa constrictor,
A boa constrictor,
I'm being eaten by a boa constrictor,
And I don't like it--one bit.
Well, what do you know?
It's nibblin' my toe.
Oh, gee,
It's up to my knee.
Oh, my,
It's up to my thigh.
Oh, fiddle,
It's up to my middle.
Oh, heck,
It's up to my neck.
Oh, dread,
It's upmmmmmmmmfffffff...

--Silverstein, Shel. Where the Sidewalk Ends, p. 44.

I Must Remember
I must remember...
Turkey on thanksgiving,
Pudding on Christmas,
Eggs or Easter,
Chicken on Sunday,
Fish on Friday,
Leftovers, Monday.
But ah, me--I'm such a dunce.
I went and ate them all at once.

Activities:
1. After reading The Turnip, have the children help you dramatize the story.
2. After reading I Know an Old Lady, have the children draw a picture of all of the animals inside the old lady.

Variations: Mother, Mother I Feel Sick by Remy Charlip and Burton Supree could be used as a creative dramatization or shadow play. Basic to either one, is a box of ordinary junk under a table. A sheet in front of the table hides the box. The child is sick, so the mother takes him to the doctor. The doctor puts him on the table and operates. He pulls things out of the box, but it looks like they are coming out of the boy.

To do the shadow play, set up the same way except hang the bed sheet in front of a table, and place a very strong lamp behind the table and actors. The audience, seated in the dark on the other side of the sheet will see only the shadows.

You can make up things to say based on what sort of junk you have in the box.

There are two other storytimes that you could do if you want to do variations on this theme with books that are not folktales. The first is to expand on the idea of The Turnip to create an "Enormous Foods" storyline. Books you can use are David Weisner's June 29, 1999; The Enormous Vegetable Garden by Nadine Bernard Westcott; and Cloudy With A Chance of Meatballs by Judi and Ron Barrett.

The other option is to add Aliki's Keep Your Mouth Closed, Dear to The Fat Cat and I Know an Old Lady. Or, you can gear them more toward good manners in eating and use Dinner at Alberta's by Russell Hoban.
Program 3: We Mice Are the Greatest of All.

Books:
- Ivimey, John W. Complete Story of the Three Blind Mice.
- Steptoe, John. The Story of Jumping Mouse.
- Stevens, Janet. The Town Mouse and the Country Mouse.
- Young, Ed. Seven Blind Mice.

Rhymes:
- Pretty John Watts,
  We are troubled with rats;
  Will you drive them out of the house?
- We have mice too in plenty
  That feast in the pantry,
  But let them stay
  And nibble away;
  What harm is a little brown mouse?

  Six little mice sat down to spin;
  Pussy passed by and she peeped in.
  What are you doing, my little men?
  Weaving coats for gentlemen.
  Shall I come in and cut off your threads?
  No, no, Mistress Pussy, you'd bite off our heads.
  Oh, no, I'll not; I'll help you to spin.
  That may be so, but you can't come in.

Activities:
1. After reading Seven Blind Mice, blindfold several children. Bring in an object, and let each of them feel a different part of it, and guess what it is, based on the part they felt. Do this with several objects so that all the children have a turn. Could they guess by only touching one part? Note: Many young children do not like to be blindfolded, instead put the objects in a pillowcase and ask the children to reach into the bag, feel an object, and describe it.

2. Put on the puppet show The Greatest of All, or use it as the script and put on a play.
Puppet Show

The Greatest of All
Based on a Japanese folk tale. (see patterns)

Characters:
Father Mouse
Daughter
Emperor
Sun
Cloud
Wind
Wall
Field Mouse

Father Mouse: Oh, most honorable audience, I welcome you. This is the Emperor's palace where I live with my family. I dine off crumbs from the emperors table, I dress in silk from the emperors wardrobe. I am the most splendid of mice!

(Enter Father Mouse's daughter)

Daughter: Father, I met a handsome field mouse today. He asked me to marry him, but he is too shy to ask your permission. Please say yes, I like him very much.

Father Mouse: My daughter marry a mouse? A humble field mouse! That will never be! You deserve the best. Your husband must be the greatest of all.

Daughter: Who is the greatest of all?

Father Mouse: You will see.

(Daughter and Father Mouse leave. The Emperor rises up with appropriate fanfare. Father Mouse enters and approaches him with appropriate humility.)

Father Mouse: Oh, most humble emperor. My daughter wishes to marry. She can have only the best for her husband. We have chosen you, because you are the greatest of all.

Emperor: I am sorry, Father Mouse. I cannot marry your daughter. There is one who is greater than I.

Father Mouse: Who is that?

Emperor: The sun. When the sun beats hot at noon, even an emperor must seek shade.

Father Mouse: Thank you for telling me. I will go to the sun.

(Father Mouse and the Emperor leave. The sun arises. Father Mouse reappears and approaches it.)

Father Mouse: Sun, I bring good news. My daughter wishes to marry. She can have only the best for her husband. We have chosen you because you are the greatest of all.
Sun: I am sorry, Father mouse, I cannot marry your daughter. There is one who is greater than I. His name is Cloud. When Cloud covers the sky, even the sun must hide his face.

Father Mouse: Thank you for telling me. I will go to the cloud.

(Father Mouse and the Sun leave. The cloud drifts in from the side of the stage. Father mouse reappears and approaches him.)

Father Mouse: Cloud, I bring good news. My daughter wishes to marry. She can have only the best for her husband. We have chosen you because you are the greatest of all.

Cloud: I am sorry, Father Mouse, I cannot marry your daughter. There is one who is greater than I. His name is Wind. When wind blows, clouds scatter.

Father Mouse: Thank you for telling me. I will go to the wind.

(Father Mouse and the Cloud leave. The wind blows in, and Father Mouse approaches, trying to keep himself from being blown away.)

Father Mouse: Wind, I bring good news. My daughter wishes to marry. She can have only the best for her husband. We have chosen you because you are the greatest of all.

Wind: I am sorry, Father Mouse, I cannot marry your daughter. There is one who is greater than I. His name is Wall. Wall stands firm I cannot blow him down, no matter how hard I try.

Father Mouse: Thank you for telling me, I will go to the wall.

(Father Mouse and Wind leave. The wall rises up. Father Mouse approaches it.)

Father Mouse: Wall, I bring good news. My daughter wishes to marry. My wife and I want only the best for her husband. We have chosen you because you are the greatest of all.

Wall: I am sorry, Father Mouse, I cannot marry your daughter. There is one who is greater than I. He is a humble field mouse. He tunnels inside me, here and there. I can do nothing to stop him. One day he will bring me down.

Father Mouse: I did not know that. Thank you for telling me.

(The wall disappears. The field mouse appears.)

Fieldmouse: Father Mouse!

Father Mouse: So you are the famous field mouse. I came to tell you that I have made up my mind. Our daughter shall marry a mouse. You may marry my daughter. I should have known it all along. We mice are the greatest of all.
Upper Elementary Programs (9-12 years)

Program 1: "You're A Texan Just Like Me."

   Kellogg, Steven. Pecos Bill.

Activities: 1. Have the children draw a map of Texas, and add the symbols of Texas: flag, pecan tree, mockingbird, and bluebonnets.
2. Tell tall tales. Have everyone sit in a circle, you start telling the story, the next person starts where you ended. Continue until all the children have had a turn telling part of the story, the last child tells the end. Another option is to use adding machine tape (or other narrow paper) and give each child as much as they would like. They write a "tall" tale on their paper.

Booktalk: Did you know that Cinderella is one of the most popular stories in the world? Almost every country has a version of it. In this version of the story you find out that Cinderella's real name was Ella. (Her stepsisters added the "Cinder" part.) Unlike the Disney cartoon, where Cinderella had mice to help her, in this version Cinderella gets help from a talking grandfather clock and a talking broom. You'll love the scene at the ball, as Cinderella enters and is announced as "The Princess at Nowhere." This book tells the whole story.

Activities: 1. Show a couple of different versions of the Cinderella story. Have the children write a modern version. What would the palace look like? What would Cinderella wear to the ball? How would she get there?
2. Have the children bring a pair of tennis shoes, and let them use glitter, markers, fabric paint, sequins, buttons, etc. to design "magic slippers."

Program 3: McKinley, Robyn. Beauty.

Booktalk: You probably have heard the story of Beauty and the Beast. This book, like The Glass Slipper, gives you the whole story. Beauty did not have that name at first. Her mother named her Honor. (Her two older sisters were named Grace and Hope). When she was five her father tried to explain to her what her name meant, but he couldn't make her understand. She said "Huh, I'd rather be Beauty," and the name stuck.

Beauty is different from her sisters, she's the smartest and certainly very bookish. Her father is a wealthy merchant, and when the family's fortunes are ruined when his ships are sunk at sea, the family is forced into poverty. Where once they lived in a grand house with maids and servants, they now have to auction off all their belongings to pay off debts, and move to a cottage near a forest with Gervain, who marries one of Beauty's sister. They learn how to care for the house themselves, and go on as best they can, but Beauty gets restless.

(Read Chapter 3 from the beginning through the first three asterisks--"Tell your sisters I'll be in in a minute.")

Of course, Beauty does go into the woods, and finds out the true nature of the beast who lives there.

Activities:
1. Show different versions of Beauty and the Beast and note the different ways the beast has been depicted. Have the children draw a picture of the way they think the beast should look.
2. Have the children design their own castle. What would it look like? How many rooms would it have? What would the servants do? How many would there be? Would it be a modern castle, or an old one?
Books For Family Sharing
Folk/Fairy Tale Classics

Anansi
McDermott, Gerald. Ananse the Spider: A Tale from the Ashanti.

Beauty and the Beast

The Bremen Town Musicians

Chicken Little/Henny Penny
Kellogg, Steven. Chicken Little.

Cinderella
Brown, Marcia. Cinderella.

The Devil With the Three Golden Hairs
Hogrogian, Nonny. The Devil With the Three Golden Hairs.

East of the Sun, West of the Moon
Mayer, Mercer. East of the Sun, West of the Moon.

The Enormous Turnip
Domanska, Janina. The Turnip.
Parkinson, Kathy. The Enormous Turnip.

The Fat Cat
Kent, Jack. The Fat Cat.

The Gingerbread Boy

Goldilocks
Brett, Jan. Goldilocks and the Three Bears.
Galdone, Paul. The Three Bears.

The Gunniwolf

Hansel and Gretel
Jack and the Beanstalk
Kellogg, Steven. Jack and the Beanstalk.

John Henry

The Legend of the Bluebonnet

The Little Red Hen

Little Red Riding Hood
Hyman, Trina Schart. Little Red Riding Hood.

Pecos Bill
Kellogg, Steven. Pecos Bill.

Puss in Boots

Rapunzel

Rumpelstiltskin
Zelinsky, Paul O. Rumpelstiltskin.
Zemach, Harve. Duffy and the Devil.

Sleeping Beauty
LeCain, Errol. The Thorn Rose.

Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs

The Three Billy Goats Gruff

The Three Little Pigs
Mittens
The Greatest of All
Father Mouse
The Greatest of All 2
Daughter
The Greatest of All 3
Emperor
(Extend the robes as far as your puppet stage is high, so it gives the illusion of legs.)
The Greatest of All 4
Sun
The Greatest of All 5
Cloud
The Greatest of All

Wind
The Greatest of All 7

Wall
The Greatest of All 8
Field Mouse
Chapter 7

The Best Stuffing There is Going

Toy Classics

"Oh, I'm stuffed with cotton," said Scraps. "It never bunches, but it's inclined to pack down and make me sag."

"But cotton is a high-grade stuffing. I may say it is even more stylish, not to say aristocratic, than straw," said the Scarecrow politely. "Still, it is but proper that one so entrancingly lovely should have the best stuffing there is going."

Toddler Time  (18 months to 2 years)

Program: My Ball, My Boat, My Doll.

Books: Jonas, Ann. Now We Can Go.
Tafuri, Nancy. The Ball Bounced.

Fingerplays: Here's a ball for baby
Big and soft and round (Hold hands together like holding a ball)
Here's is baby's hammer--
Oh, how he can pound. (Make pounding motions)
Here is baby's music
Clapping, clapping so! (Clap hands softly)
Here are baby's soldiers
Standing in a row! (Hold up 4 fingers on each hand)
Here is baby's trumpet
Toot-toot-toot! Too-tool (Pretend to play a trumpet)
Here's the way the baby
Plays at "Peek-a-bool" (Cover your eyes and uncover them)
Here's a big umbrella
Keeping baby dry! (Hold your arms in a circle over your head, to form the umbrella)
Here is baby's cradle
Rock-a-baby byel (Rock a pretend baby in your arms)

--Anonymous.
Let's Make a Ball

A little ball, (Put your hands together and hold a little pretend ball in your hands)
A bigger ball, (Now you pull your hands apart so you can hold a larger ball)
A great big ball I see. (Now you use your whole arms and make a big ball)
Now let's count the balls we've made
1, 2, 3. (Hold up fingers as you count)
--Anonymous.

Activities:
1. You will need empty, plastic soda bottles that have been washed out, and some balls. Show the children how to stand up the pop bottles, then move back and roll the ball at them to knock them over. You might want to have enough bottles and balls so you can split up into small groups of three or four children so that no one has to wait a long time for his turn.
2. Use the recipe on page 16 to make playdough. Divide it into plastic bags, and give each child his own. Provide pieces of dowels to use as rolling pins, and a variety of items such as lids, animals, toys, etc. that the children can use to make patterns in the clay.

Storytime (3-8 years)

Program 1: I've Always Wanted a Friend

Books:
Freeman, Don. Corduroy.
Freeman, Don. A Pocket for Corduroy.
Hissey, Jane. Old Bear.
Wahl, Jan. Humphrey's Bear.
Wells, Rosemary. Peabody.

Poems:
When a Bear Gets Mad

When a bear gets mad
He gives a roar
And shows his teeth
And slams the door
And jumps in bed
And hides his eyes
And sometimes (Very softly) cries.
But after, when
The mad is done,
A bear is ready
For some fun
And doesn’t want
To think some more
About the teeth
And growl and roar,
But needs a hug
And wants a smile,
Which all will happen...
In a while.

Three Bears Walking

Three bears walking down the lane, down the lane.
Three bears talking,
"Do you think it’s going to rain?"
Three bears walking
to the wood, to the wood.
Three bears talking,
"Pretty day!" "Pretty good!"
Three bears walking
under trees, under trees.
Three bears talking,
"Do you know where there are bees?"
Three bears walking
by a stream, by a stream.
Three bears talking,
"Pass the berries." "Pass the cream."
Three bears walking
to their den, to their den.
Three bears talking,
"Great to be back home again."

Film:

* A Pocket for Corduroy.

Activities:

1. Make copies of Corduroy for each child (see patterns). Use the patterns to cut overalls and pockets from scraps of fabric (Corduroy wears green corduroy, but if you don’t have that, use a different type or color.). Let the children color the bear, then glue on his overalls, a pocket, and two buttons. Younger children will need precut patterns, but older children can do their own cutting.

2. Old Bear from Jane Hissey’s story has to parachute out of the attic. Provide each child with a small plastic figure (animals, cowboys, etc.—they need to have a little bit of weight to them) or have them bring their own. Take a string about 2’ long and tie the figure securely in the middle of the string. Tie each end of the string to one handle of a plastic grocery sack. Have the kids wad up the bag and toy and throw it into the air, and the toy will parachute down. You can save plastic grocery bags, or pick some up at a grocery store that recycles. A local store may be able to donate the plastic animals.

Program 2: Why Can't I Be A Wind-Up Mouse?

Books:
- Babbit, Natalie. Nellie: A Cat on Her Own.
- Ets, Marie Hall. Gilberto and the Wind.
- Hughes, Shirley. David and Dog.
- Lionni, Leo. Alexander and the Wind-Up Mouse.
- Riddell, Chris. The Trouble With Elephants.

Poems:

Block City

What are you able to build with your blocks?
Castle and palaces, temples and docks.
Rain may keep raining, and others go roam,
but I can be happy and building at home.

Let the sofa be mountains, the carpet be sea,
There I'll establish a city for me:
A kirk and a mill and a palace beside,
And a harbor as well where my vessels may ride

Great is the palace with pillar and wall,
A sort of tower on the top of it all,
And steps coming down in an orderly way
To where my toy vessels lie safe in the bay.

This one is sailing and that one is moored:
Hark to the song of the sailors on board!
And see on the steps of my palace, the kings
Coming and going with presents and things!

Now I have done with it, down let it go!
All in a moment the town is laid low.
Block upon block lying scattered and free,
What is there left of my town by the sea?

Yet as I say it, I see it again,
The kirk and the palace, the ships and the men,
And as long as I live, and where'er I may be,
I'll always remember my town by the sea.

The Land of Counterpane

When I was sick and lay abed,
I had two pillows at my head,
And all my toys beside me lay
To keep me happy all the day.

And sometimes for an hour or so,
I watched my leaden soldiers go,
With different uniforms and drills,
Among the bedclothes, through the hills;
And sometimes sent my ships in fleets
All up and down among the sheets
Or brought my trees and houses out,
And planted cities all about.

I was the giant great and still
That sits upon the pillow-hill,
And sees before him, dale and plain,
The pleasant land of counterpanne.

Film:
Changes, Changes.

Activities:
1. Have the children bring a favorite toy. Let them show it and tell the group about it.

2. After reading Gilberto and the Wind have the children make a toy pinwheel. Take a square piece of paper (about 8 1/2" x 8 1/2" is a good size.) Fold the top left corner to the bottom right corner. Crease and then unfold. Fold the top right corner to the bottom left corner. Crease and unfold again. Make a dot in the center with a pencil. Cut on the fold line from each corner, stopping about about 1" from the center mark. Pick up the left corner of a side and stick a straight pin through it, then stick the pin through the left corner of the next side, until you have four corners on the pin. (You will have eight corners, and you will pick up every other one.) Stick the pin through the pencil mark in the center, and into the eraser of a pencil.

Program 3: You Can Do Your Own Picture With Your Own Crayons

Books:
Johnson/ Crotchet. Harold and the Purple Crayon.
Lobel/Arnold. The Great Blueness and Other Predicaments.
Spier, Peter. Oh, Were They Every Happy!

Poems:
The Secret Place

It was my secret place-- down at the foot of my bed--
der under the covers.

It was very white.

I went there
with a book, a flashlight, and the special pencil that my grandfather gave me.
To read—
    and to draw pictures on all that white.

It was my secret place
for about a week—

Until my mother came to change the sheets.

Crayons

I've colored a picture with crayons.
    I'm not very pleased with the sun.
I'd like it much stronger and brighter
    And more like the actual one.
I've tried with the crayon that's yellow,
    I've tried with the crayon that's red.
But none of it looks like the sunlight
    I carry around in my head.

Rhino's Purple, Hippos Green

My sister says
    I shouldn't color
Rhinos purple,
    Hippos green.
She says
    I shouldn't be so stupid;
Those are things
    She's never seen.
But I don't care
    What my sister says,
I don't care
    What my sister's seen.
I will color
    What I want to—
Rhinos purple,
    Hippos green.

Film:

Rainbow War.

Activities:

1. Have the children make a drawing using crayons. You can buy fabric crayons, then when they are finished, you can transfer their drawings to a t-shirt or other fabric. (Remember that when you iron it on, the picture will be reversed, so if there are names or words, make sure they are written backwards.)
2. Make a melted crayon picture. The easiest way to make crayon shavings is to sharpen the crayons with a small manual pencil or crayon sharpener—don't use your regular pencil sharpener or it will get jammed up with crayons. Have the children arrange the shavings between two pieces of wax paper. Cut off the bottom and down one side of a brown grocery bag to make a sleeve (this will keep wax and crayons off your iron). Carefully place the wax paper inside the sleeve, and iron on a low heat until the crayons are melted and the wax paper is sealed. Please monitor older children carefully. For younger children, let them do the design, and you iron it. When it is finished, let it cool, then trim it if desired. Recruit volunteer parents to monitor the irons and place the ironing equipment away from your main activity area. You might show the film in another section or room while the ironing takes place. Be sure to put the child's name on their artwork so it won't get mixed up with someone else's when ironing.

Variations:

You could also use Pat Cummings' book Talking With Artists. Choose a couple of artists included in the book. Display some of their books, read from the biographical sketches, and share the responses to Pat's questions that each artist answered.

---

Upper Elementary Programs (9-12 years)

Program 1: "We Should Fix Ourselves Up as New Toys, the Kind Kids Like."

Books:

Lyon, David. The Runaway Duck.

Activities:

1. Have a toy exchange. Have all the children bring an old toy they don't want anymore (with parent's permission, of course,) and have them trade for a different one. Ask the children to bring toys in good working order and cleaned up. Set up tables around the library or programming room. Designate tables for games, stuffed animals, musical instruments, blocks, vehicles, etc. As children enter, give them a ticket in exchange for their toy. A volunteer can then put the donated toy on the appropriate table, while the child explores the tables for a toy to take home.

2. Cut a square out of the front of a cardboard box for a TV screen. Draw knobs with markers. After reading The Night After Christmas have the children take turns putting the "TV" over their head and doing TV commercials. Get the children to brainstorm ideas for commercials, write the ideas on a large sheet of paper on the wall, and then ask them to develop a commercial. You might ask someone in advertising or marketing in your community to talk to the children about marketing and selling a specific product.
Program 2: Cassidy, Sylvia. Behind the Attic Wall.

Booktalk: Maggie has been thrown out of more boarding schools than you can imagine, and is finally dispatched to live with her Uncle Morris. When she arrives at his house, she thinks it looks like all the other institutions and schools she's been in and out of. Maggie is not amused. She doesn't eat, she just plays with her food and makes terrible, yucky messes. Uncle Morris says, "I think you are the right one after all." What does he mean by that? Maggie remains obstinate, not wanting to play with any toys when her aunts are around. When she is alone, she talks with five imaginary friends she calls "The Backwoods Girls"--all poorer, uglier, dirtier, and dumber than herself. As time passes, she begins to realize that she and her aunts and uncle are not alone in the house.

(Read Chapter 12)

This is a suspenseful novel that doesn't resolve itself until the very last sentence of the book.

Activities:
1. Have a party like the anniversary party Maggie has in Chapter 29. Serve cupcakes, and play blindman's bluff. One person is blindfolded, and tries to catch someone else.
2. Have the children draw the kind of imaginary friend they would like to have.

Program 3: Banks, Lynne Reid. The Indian in the Cupboard.

Booktalk: Omri is not terribly pleased when his brother, Patrick, gives him a second hand, plastic Indian for his birthday--he already has lots of plastic figures. He also gets a present from Gillon, his other brother. It is "a small white metal cupboard with a mirror in the door," that Gillon had found out with the trash in the alleyway. Omri finds a key that will make the cabinet lock. It's one of his mother's, that she got from her mother and that fit a jewelry box. Omri puts the Indian in the box, and as he drifts off to sleep that night, he hears a noise.

(Read in Chapter 1 from the break where it begins, "In the morning there was no doubt about it..." through the end of the chapter.)

So what do you do with a tiny live Indian? How do you keep it a secret? What do you do when you realize that the Indian has to be treated like a human being? That's what this book is all about.

Activities:
1. Make an Indian vest. Take a brown paper grocery sack, and cut up the sack seam for the center front, and cut a neck opening at the top. Cut an arm hole at each side. Turn inside out if needed to hide store names. Cut fringe along the lower edge, and use markers or crayons to decorate.
2. Make an Indian diorama in a shoe box. (The bottom of the box will be the back, the side will be the bottom.) Cut a piece of paper to fit the bottom of the box. Draw a background and glue it in. Draw pictures of Indians, homes, animals, rivers, etc., and cut them out, leaving about 1/2" on the bottom. Fold this piece back, and use it to glue to the side of the box. If needed, make a brace by cutting a small strip of paper, and gluing one end to the back of the figure, and an end to the box behind the figure. If desired, you can use plastic figures, and add sticks, cotton, fabric, etc.
Books For Family Sharing
Toy Classics

Picture Books

Bang, Molly. Yellow Ball.
Dale, Penny. The Elephant Tree.
Dunbar, Joyce. The Raggy Taggy Toys.
Fenton, Edward. The Big Yellow Balloon.
Fleischman, Paul. Shadow Play.
Freeman, Don. Corduroy.
Hissey, Jane. Best Friends: Old Bear Tales.
--. Jolly Snow.
--. Jolly Tall.
--. Little Bear Lost.
--. Little Bear's Trousers.
--. Old Bear Tales.
--. Little Bear Lost.
Politi, Leo. Mr. Fong's Toy Shop.
Sis, Peter. Beach Ball.
Spier, Peter. Bored, Nothing to Do.
Titus, Eve. Anatole and the Toy Shop.
Vincent, Gabrielle. Ernest and Celestine.
Yardley, Joanna. The Red Ball.

Chapter Books

Bailey, Carolyn Sherwin. Miss Hickory.
Clarke, Pauline. The Return of the Twelves.
Field, Rachel. Hitty: The First Hundred Years.
Godden, Rumer. Four Dolls.
Kennedy, Richard. Amy's Eyes.
Milne, A. A. The House at Pooh Corner.
--. Winnie the Pooh.
Williams, Margery. The Velveteen Rabbit.
Corduroy
Overalls/Pocket

pocket overalls

Chapter 8

Beware of the Woozy
Mystery / Adventure Classics

They had traveled some distance when suddenly they faced a high fence which barred any further progress straight ahead. It ran directly across the road and enclosed a small forest of tall trees set close together. When the group of adventurers peered through the bars of the fence they thought this forest looked more gloomy and forbidding than any they had ever seen before.

They soon discovered that the path they had been following now made a bend and passed around the enclosure, but what made Ojo stop and look thoughtful was a sign painted on the fence which read:

"BEWARE OF THE WOOZY!"

"That means," he said "that there's a Woozy inside that fence, and the woozy must be a dangerous animal or they wouldn't tell people to beware of it."

Baum, L. Frank. The Patchwork Girl of Oz. p. 100

Toddler Time (18 months to 2 years)

Program: I Have to Find It!

Rhyme: Lucy Locket lost her pocket Kitty Fishers found it; Not a penny was there in it, Only ribbon round it.

Poem: Hide and Seek

When I am alone, and quite alone, I play a game, and it's all my own. I hide myself Behind myself, And then I try to find myself. I hide in the closet, Where no one can see; Then I start looking Around for me.
I hide myself
And look for myself;
there once was a shadow
I took for myself
I hide in a corner;
I hide in the bed;
And when I come near me
I pull in my head!

--Shiffrin, A. B. Read-Aloud Rhymes for the Very Young, p. 8.

Activities:
1. Play "Peek a Boo." Invite the parents to play it with their child.
2. Put out four or five items that the children are familiar with. Have the children name each object and tell you what they know about it. Have them close their eyes and remove one of the objects. When the children open their eyes, ask them what is missing. Continue until all the objects are removed.

Storytime (3-8 years)

Program 1: Arrest A Red Carpet! It's Running Away!

Hoban, Russell. A Baby Sister for Frances.
Sawyer, Ruth. Journey Cake, Hol
Parkin, Rex. The Red Carpet.

Poems: The Runaway
I made peanut butter sandwiches.
I didn't leave a mess.
I packed my shell collection and my velvet party dress, the locket Grandma gave me
and two pairs of extra socks, my brother's boy scout flashlight and some magic wishing rocks.
Oh, they'll be so sorry,
Oh, they'll be so sad,
when they start to realize what a nifty kid they had.
I'd really like to be here
when they wring their hands and say,
"We drove the poor child to it.
She finally ran away."
If I peeked through the window
I'd see them dressed in black, and hear them sob and softly sigh,
"Come back, dear child! Come back!"
The house will be so quiet.
My room will be so clean.
And they'll be oh so sorry that they were oh so mean.

Runaway
I think today
I'll run away.
My heart is filled with sorrow.
I'll disappear
For one whole year,
Or else, come back tomorrow.

Activities:
1. Make gingerbread boys. Make or purchase the cookies, and let the children decorate them with candies, raisins, and frosting.

2. Bring a suitcase to storytime and ask the children to help you decide what to pack if you should decide to run away. Or, you could pack your suitcase in advance with all kinds of silly things and get the children to guess how you'd use the items. Be creative and have fun with the children!

Program 2: "Since Artie Won't Describe Him, He Remains a Mystery."

Books:
Allard, Harry. Miss Nelson is Missing.
Allard, Harry. Miss Nelson is Back.
Cummings, Pat. Jimmy Lee Did It.
Hennessey, B. G. The Missing Tarts.

Note: If you choose to use The 13th Clue, have the children figure out the clues.

Rhymes:
Tom, Tom, the piper's son,
Stole a pig and away did run;
The pig was eat, and Tom was beat,
Then Tom went crying down the street.
Taffy Was a Welshman

Taffy was a Welshman
Taffy was a thief,
Taffy came to my house
And stole a piece of beef.

I went to Taffy's house,
Taffy wasn't in,
I jumped upon his Sunday hat
And poked it with a pin.

Taffy was a Welshman,
Taffy was a sham,
Taffy came to my house
And stole a piece of beef.

I went to Taffy's house,
Taffy was not there,
I hung his coat and trousers
To roast before a fire.

Taffy was a Welshman,
Taffy was a cheat,
Taffy came to my house
And stole a piece of meat.

I went to Taffy's house,
Taffy wasn't home;
Taffy came to my house
And stole a marrow bone.

The Queen of Hearts

The Queen of Hearts
She made some tarts,
All on a summer's day;
The Knave of hearts,
He stole those tarts,
And took them clean away.

The King of Hearts
Called for the tarts,
And beat the knave full sore;
The Knave of hearts,
Brought back the tarts,
And vowed he'd steal no more.
Poem: Something Big Has Been Here

Something big has been here,
what it was, I do not know,
for I did not see it coming,
and I did not see it go.
but I hope I never met it,
if I do, I'm in a fix,
for it left behind it's footprints,
they are size nine-fifty-six.

--Prelutsky, Jack. Something Big Has Been Here, p. 7.

Filmstrip: Pinkerton, Behave!

Video: The Three Robbers.

Activities:

1. Create a robbery mystery during this storytime. If you know a parent and/or child bring them in on the secret ahead of time. Here's the plan. You need to get some clue spray. This is invisible to the naked eye, but can be seen as a green stain with ultraviolet light. You can get an ultraviolet light from most hardware stores. This spray is available through "spy supply" stores, but check with your police departments and large companies in your area to see if they use it, and if they would help you. (Some companies spray money so that they can catch burglars or dishonest employees "green handed" as it were.) Before the program, spray a book with this compound. As children come into the story area, have your accomplice take one of the books, and put it in a prearranged hiding place. It is best to do this when there is a lot of chaos. When you get to a prearranged point in your storytime, look for the book, and tell the children that the next book has been stolen. Then say you had prepared for just such an event. Explain what you did, turn out the lights, and search hands with the ultraviolet light. The culprit will be revealed, they can lead you to the book, and the storytime can proceed.

2. Play "Who Stole the Cookie From the Cookie Jar." Begin by saying, "____ (name one of the children in your group) stole the cookies from the cookie jar."
   The child asks, "Who me?"
   You reply, "Yes you."
   The child answers, "Couldn't be."
   You ask, "Then who?"
   The child says the name of one of the other children, "Mary stole the cookies from the cookie jar."
   Mary asks, "Who me?" and the game continues.

(Everything is said in a very "sing-song" manner, and it's important to keep the rhythm. As the children get better, speed up the rhythm. If not everyone in your group knows each other, it might be a good idea to give out nametags, and/or play a simple introduction game first.)
Program 3: "The Impenetrable Jungle."

Books:
Mahy, Margaret. 17 Kings and 42 Elephants.
Tafuri, Nancy. Junglewalk.
Taylor, Mark. Henry Explores the Jungle.
Van Allsburg, Chris. Jumanji.

Poems:

Dangerous

When we're Hunting
We explore Squares upon the kitchen floor;
We must Get from Here to there
Without touching
Anywhere;
For this Square is Safe for us.
But that one is Dangerous.

Wild Beasts

I will be a lion
    And you shall be a bear
And each of us will have a den
    Beneath a nursery chair;
And you must growl and growl and growl,
    And I will roar and roar,
And then-- why, then— you'll growl again,
    And I will roar some more!

I Can Be a Tiger

I can't go walking
When they say no,
And I can't go riding
Unless they go.
I can't splash puddles
In my shiny new shoes,
But I can be a tiger
Whenever I choose.
I can't eat peanuts
And I can't eat cake,
I have to go to bed
When they stay awake.
I can't bang windows,
And I musn't tease,
But I can be an elephant
As often as I please.

Activities:
1. After reading Jumanji, have the children play board games such as "Candyland" or "Chutes and Ladders." Make sure you have enough game boards so that every child can be playing a game.

2. Draw a jungle scene, then add animals cut from old magazines. You can go on a "Tiger Hunt" and include animals and obstacles you would encounter in the jungle. There is a version of a "Lion Hunt" in Virginia Tasjian's Juba This and Juba That based, of course, on the familiar bear hunt activity.

Variations: Junglewalk by Nancy Tafuri is a wordless book you can show the children and have them describe what's happening.

Upper Elementary Programs (9-12 years)

Program 1: Sometimes One Must Travel Far To Discover What is Near.

Books: Carrick, Carol. Aladdin and the Wonderful Lamp.
Shulevitz, Uri. The Treasure.
Sobol, Donald J. "The Case of Black Jack's Treasure" from Encyclopedia Brown and the Case of the Disgusting Sneakers.

Film: Encyclopedia Brown and the Case of the Missing Time Capsule.

Activities:
1. Tell the children about buried treasure, then have them hunt for hidden treasure in the library. Before the children come to the library program, make a map of your library with the "treasure" marked. "Age" it by wadding it up, tearing it a little, burning the edges, and soaking in tea. For the treasure, you could have treats, or you could actually hide the book, The Treasure and explain how books are treasures. If you don't want to make a treasure map, you can send the children on a treasure hunt in the library, you can use clues to send them to different places or books in your library.

2. Read the Encyclopedia Brown story and have the children guess the solution, then divide up into teams and have a contest to see who can solve other Encyclopedia Brown mysteries. You might want to prepare a scenario from several books in the series and photocopy to give to each group. This could be a timed contest with rewards for the quickest ones and treats for all.

Program 2: Ankarsvärd, Karin. The Mysterious Schoolmaster.

Booktalk: Michael and Cecelia live in the town of Nordvik, Sweden. It's the kind of small, peaceful town on the seashore where you'd think nothing much ever happens. One night though, Cecelia realizes she's left a package at school. She has to get the janitor to let her back in to pick it up. In the dark, empty school, Cecelia hears footsteps. She hides and sees that it is the new physics teacher walking down the hall. The more she thinks about this, the more suspicious she gets. She and Michael begin to get even more curious when there is a flood in the physics lab, and the teacher, Mr. Engman, orders Michael out, calls in a plumber he knows, and doesn't allow the school janitor to help. What Michael did see, in his few moments in the lab, was that the broken pipes that had caused the flood seemed to have been screwed apart (perhaps deliberately?). Other things seem weird as well, like the fact that Mr. Engman wasn't in the lab when the accident happened, and that he couldn't have seen the water from where Michael and Cecelia had seen him standing, and yet he went for help. What's going on? Michael and Cecelia become even more determined to find out.

Activities: 1. Use the printed codes (see patterns) or have the children make up their own codes and write secret messages.

2. When Michael is bound and gagged in the basement, he taps out the rhythm of a song on the pipes, Cecelia hears it and is able to get help. Tap out the rhythm of several songs and have the children guess the titles, then let the children take turns thinking of songs to tap out.
Program 3: Avl. The True Confessions of Charlotte Doyle.

Booktalk: "Not every thirteen-year-old girl is accused of murder, brought to trial, and found guilty. But I was just such a girl, and my story is worth relating even if it did happen years ago." That is the way this book begins. It takes place in 1832 as Charlotte Doyle prepares to leave England to rejoin her family in America. She thinks that she'll be accompanied by a couple of families with children her own age. When she arrives to board the ship, she finds that both families have been unable to come, and she is forced to board the ship as the only woman, amongst a scrongy crew of men. Immediately she sees that all is not right. There are rumblings of mutiny against the captain, and Zachariah the cook, gives her a dagger.

(Read the last 7 paragraphs of Chapter 6, beginning with "So engrossed was I...")

Activities:
1. Have the children find the nautical terms in the word search (see patterns).
2. Have the children make sailor hats (see patterns).
Chapter 9

And...Oh, Auntie Em, There's No Place Like Home!

Contemporary Realistic Classics

DOROTHY: Oh, but anyway, Toto, we're home—home! And this is my room—and you all are here—and I'm not going to leave here ever again, because I love you all! And...oh, Auntie Em, there's no place like home!

Langley, Noel. The Wizard of Oz: The Screenplay. p. 132

Toddler Time (18 months to 2 years)

Program: I Hear a Story. I Laugh.

Fingerplays: Head, Shoulders, Knees, and Toes
(Touch each body part as you say it)
Head, shoulders, knees, and toes
Knees and toes, knees and toes,
Head, shoulders, knees, and toes
Eyes, ears, mouth, and nose.
--Anonymous.

Ten Little Fingers
I have ten little fingers, (Hold up your fingers)
And they all belong to me.
I can make them do things,
Would you like to see?
I can open them wide. (Spread fingers out)
I can shut them up tight. (Make two fists)
I can put them together, (Hold hands together)
Or make them all hide. (Put your hands behind your back)
I can make them go high, (Put your hands in the air)
I can make them go low. (Put your hands on the floor)
I can hold them quietly,
Or fold them just so. (Fold your hands in your lap)
--Anonymous.
Riddle, Riddle, Riddle Ree
(Do the actions that the rhyme indicates)
Riddle, riddle, riddle ree,
Do what I do after me.
Touch your nose, touch your toes;
Round in a circle each one goes.
Bow twice, bow nice.
Bend down low and plant some rice.
Lift your hands up to the sky.
Shake them out as moonbeams die.
Clap your hands. Stamp your feet.
Cymbal clash, that's complete.
--Anonymous.

Hands on Shoulders
(Do the actions that the rhyme indicates)
Hands on shoulders, hands on knees,
Hands behind you, if you please.
Touch your shoulders, now your nose,
Now your hair, and now your toes.
Hands up high in the air,
Down at your sides and touch your hair.
Hands up high as before;
Now clap your hands, one, two, three, four.
--Anonymous.

Action Rhyme: Storytime Closing
Reach for the ceiling, (Stretch up)
Touch the floor, (Touch the floor)
Stand up again, (Stand up)
Let's do it some more.
Touch your head, (Touch your head)
Then your knees, (Touch your knees)
Up to your shoulders, (Touch your shoulders)
Like this, you see.
Reach for the ceiling, (Stretch up)
Touch the floor, (Touch the floor)
That's all there is,
There is no more.
--Anonymous.

Activities:
1. Have each child lie down on a large piece of paper, and have a parent trace the outline, then the child can color it.
2. Have a variety of items that make sounds (a rattle, squeaky toys, sticks, pan lids, bells, etc.) and things that can be felt (fuzzy toys, sandpaper, ball, slime, etc.). Let the children take turns listening and feeling the different items.
Storytime (3-8 years)

Program 1: ...And His Big Brother Said "It Won't Come Up."

Hutchins, Pat. Titch.
Kraus, Ruth. The Carrot Seed.
Rylant, Cynthia. This Year's Garden.
Titherington, Jeanne. Pumpkin. Pumpkin.

Fingerplays: I Dig, Dig, Dig
I dig, dig, dig, (Pretend to dig)
And I plant some seeds. (Stoop down and plant seeds)
I rake, rake, rake, (Pretend to rake)
And I pull some weeds (Pull up weeds)
I wait and watch (Stoop down and watch ground intently)
And soon I know (Nod head.)
My garden sprouts (Raise hands from ground as if sprouting)
And starts to grow.
--Anonymous.

Seeds Are Buried Deep
Seeds are buried deep. (Tuck index finger of right hand inside left hand)
In the soil they sleep.
Yellow sunshine bright, (Arms over head make circle)
Raindrops fall so light (Fingers move down)
Gentle breezes blow.
--Anonymous.

Poem: Something About Me
There's something about me
That I'm knowing.
There's something about me
That isn't showing.
I'm growing!
--Anonymous.

Activities: 1. Plant a garden! There are several options. If you have a space around your library that is somewhat out of the way (you don't want your produce to "walk" away) or an enclosed patio, then claim a piece of the "landscape." If you have space, but no soil, a solution is to take an old wading pool and fill with dirt, compost, peat, etc. (If you are concerned about drainage, you can cut a few holes in the bottom.) Let the children help you plant some seeds, then let them take care of the plants when they come to the library throughout the summer. You want the children to be successful, so plant things that are fairly easy, and produce well—squash, tomatoes, and onions are a few ideas. (Onions are especially easy, and if you plant sets, they can take home a green onion in a couple of weeks, or let them grow until the tops dry up, and take home a large one—depending on how much time you want to dedicate to this.) If you don't have the space, or don't want to go to the bother, you can have each child plant a vegetable or flower seed in a paper cup to take home with him.

2. Have children use permanent markers to draw a face on a small plastic cup (it works best if the cup is a solid color). Let them fill the cup with dirt, then plant grass seeds in the cup. Tell them to water and place in a sunny place, and the grass seeds will grow "hair" that they can trim all summer.

Program 2: Wanted—One Best Friend.

Books:
- Cohen, Miriam. Will I Have a Friend?
- Keats, Ezra Jack. A Letter to Amy.
- Udry, Janice May. Let's Be Enemies.
- Winthrop, Elizabeth. Lizzie and Harold.

Poems:

Question

Do you love me
Or do you not?
You told me once
But I forgot.

I love you, I love you
I love you divine,
Please give me your bubble gum,
You're sitting on mine.

The New Kid on the Block

There's a new kid on the block, and boy, that kid is tough,
that new kid punches hard,
that new kid plays real rough,
that new kid's big and strong,
with muscles everywhere,
that new kid tweaked my arm,
that new kid pulled my hair.
That new kid likes to fight,
and picks on all the guys,
that new kid scares me some,
(that new kid's twice my size),
that new kid stomped my toes,
that new kid swiped my ball,
that new kid's really bad,
I don't care for her at all.

Activities:

1. After reading Lizzie and Harold, teach the children to do cat's cradle. The directions follow, but the easiest way to learn, is to ask someone who knows to teach you.

   Cat's Cradle

   You need a piece of string about 5'-6' long, that has been tied to form a circle. Start with the string around the back of your hands, then loop the string around four fingers of each hand. Now the string runs around each hand. With your middle finger, pick up the string that runs across your palms on the opposite hands. This is the cradle. To form the mattress, a partner takes the crosses of the cradle between his fingers and thumbs and lifts them out and over the straight strings and brings them up through the middle. To form candles, you take the crosses of the mattress between fingers and thumbs and lift them over the straight strings and up through the middle again. To make the manger, your partner picks up each of the inside strings with a little finger and crosses them over the outside strings, then bring your index fingers and thumbs up through the middle. You might check The Story Vine: A Source Book of Unusual and Easy-to-Tell Stories from Around the World by Anne Pellowski for more ideas and stories to accompany the string patterns.

2. After reading The Best Friends Club, play running bases. You set up two bases about 20 feet from each other. You need one catcher at each base and a ball. The rest of the children are runners. The catchers throw the ball to each other three times, then the runners try to get to a base without being tagged by a catcher with the ball. After three tags, a runner trades places with the runner who made the last tag, and the game starts over.

Program 2: Where Are My Plants?...Where Are My Pants?: Solving Problems.

Books:

Cummings, Pat. Clean Your Room, Harvey Moon!
Freeman, Don. Mop Top.
Hazen, Barbara Shook. Tight Times.
Zion, Gene. The Plant Sitter.
Rhyme:
Higglety, pigglety, Pop!
Higglety, pigglety, pop!
The dog has eaten the mop;
    The pig's in a hurry,
    The cat's in a flurry,
Higglety, pigglety, pop!
--Goodrich, Samuel. Read-Aloud Rhymes for the Very Young, p. 5.

Poem:
Mummy Slept Late and Daddy Fixed Breakfast
Daddy fixed the breakfast.
He made us each a waffle.
It looked like gravel pudding.
It tasted something awful.
"Ha, ha," he said, "I'll try again.
This time I'll get it right."
But what I got was in between Bituminous and anthracite.
"A little too well done? Oh well,
I'll have to start all over."
That time what landed on my plate
Looked like a manhole cover.
I tried to cut it with a fork:
The fork gave off a spark.
I tried a knife and twisted it
Into a question mark.
I tried it with a hack-saw.
I tried it with a torch.
It didn't even make a dent.
It didn't even scorch.
The next time dad gets breakfast
When Mommy's sleeping late,
I think I'll skip the waffles.
I'd sooner eat the plate!

Activities:
1. After reading Mop Top, have the children draw a face on a paper plate. Glue long strands of yarn on for the hair, then let the children give their face a haircut.

2. After reading Tight Times, have the children make a picture using lima beans.
Upper Elementary Programs (9-12 years)

Program 1: Now You Are Both Nana Upstairs: Loving and Loss.

DePaola, Tomie. First One Foot, then the Other.
Fox, Mem. Wilfred Gordon McDonald Partridge.

Poem: Poem
I loved my friend.
He went away from me.
There's nothing more to say.
The poem ends,
Soft as it began--
I loved my friend.

Activities: 1. Have the children invite their grandparents, or you can invite some elderly people you know. Have them share stories of the way things were when they were young. You might choose a specific theme, such as birthdays or a holiday, and ask the older participants to share a special one. This would be a good program for using BiFolkal Kits, a multisensory memory stimulation package, available from some Library System Offices.

2. Have the children bring an item that makes them remember something that happened when they were younger. After reading Wilfred Gordon McDonald Partridge, have them show the item and tell what it reminds them of.

Booktalk: Lois Lowry divides her time between a country house and an apartment on what is called Beacon Hill in Boston. If you were to go to her apartment, you'd have to stand outside and buzz the buzzer with her name on it. She'd talk to you over the intercom and tell you to wait at the elevator. Then, you'd hear a buzz and the front door would open by itself. You'd walk in and wait at the elevator. You'd probably wonder why you had to wait, why can't you just walk up to her floor? You'd get your answer after you got on the elevator with Lois Lowry and went up. When the elevator stops and the doors open, you are in her living room. She doesn't have a front door, just the elevator. You'd sit down and talk, and she'd probably tell you about some of the characters from her books. Lois Lowry's most famous character is Anastasia Krupnik. There are now eight books about Anastasia. I'd like to introduce her to you from the first book Anastasia Krupnik.

(Read Chapter 1.)
Activities:

1. Give the children a sheet of notebook paper, and have them make a list of things they like and things they hate like Anastasia puts at the beginning of each chapter. Put up a large sheet of paper labeled "Things We Like" and one labeled "Things We Hate." Ask the children to share things from their list, and list them on the paper, or each child could choose one thing to draw on each sheet. (This program gives children a chance to see how similar and different they are from peers.)

2. Have the children write a free form poem like Anastasia does in Chapter 1. If they would like to, let them share it with the group, or record it for listening to at the library.

Program 3: Clearly, Beverly. Ramona and Her Father.

Booktalk: Ramona's father loses his job. Everyone is very concerned, but especially Ramona. She doesn't like the way her father has gotten so grumpy, and so she dreams of acting in television commercials so she can earn a million dollars. She also goes on a campaign to help her father quit smoking so they can save money that way. (Chapter 4, "Ramona to the Rescue," makes a good read aloud.) When Beezus, Ramona's sister, is given a creative writing assignment to interview an older person, she visits Mrs. Swink with Ramona.

(Read Chapter 5 from "Mrs. Swink saw the sisters coming..." through "She had shoved a lot of old school artwork and several pairs of dirty socks under the bed." You can also introduce the other Ramona books and other titles by Cleary.)

Activities:

1. Make tin-can stilts like Ramona does in Chapter 5. Take two empty metal cans that are the same size. Turn them upside down and punch two holes opposite each other in what is now the top. Poke four feet of heavy twine through each pair of holes and tie to make a loop. Stand on the cans, holding the twine. To walk you need to pull up on the string when you pick up your feet.

2. Let the children act out their favorite TV commercials. If you are able, videotape them and show them later.
Books For Family Sharing

Contemporary/Realistic Classics

Picture Books

Alki. Feelings.
— The Two of Them.
Baylor, Byrd. Your Own Best Secret Place.
Bjork, Christina. Linnea in Monet's Garden.
Bradfield, Roger. Hello Rock.
Bunting, Eve. Fly Away Home.
— Ghost's Hour Spook's Hour.
— The Wall.
Calhoun, Mary. Cross Country Cat.
Coats, Laura Jane. Goodyear the City Cat.
Cooney, Barbara. Island Boy.
— Miss Rumphius.
Ehrlich, Amy. Everyday Train.
Hill, Elizabeth Star. Evan's Corner.
Hoffman, Mary. Amazing Grace.
Hughes, Shirley. Alfie Gets In First.
Isadora, Rachel. Ben's Trumpet.
Keats, Ezra Jack. Goggles.
Ness, Evaline. Sam, Bangs and Moonshine.
Laughlin, Florence. Four to Get Ready.
Locker, Thomas. Family Farm.
— The Mare on the Hill.
— Sailing With the Wind.
— Where the River Begins.
Rylant, Cynthia. The Relatives Came.
Schwartz, Amy. Annabelle Swift, Kindergartener.
Sharmat, Marjorie Weinman. Gila Monsters Meet You at the Airport.
Stanley, Diane. Captain Whiz Bang.
Stephie, John. Baby Says.
— The Tenth Good Thing About Barney.
Welch, Martha. Saucy.
Wilhelm, Hans. I'll Always Love You.
Chapter Books

Brooks, Bruce. The Moves Make the Man.
Cleary, Beverly. Beezus and Ramona.
--. Ramona and Her Mother.
--. Ramona Forever.
--. Ramona Quimby, Age 8.
--. Ramona the Brave.
--. Ramona the Pest.
Crutcher, Chris. Stotan.
Fitzhugh, Louise. Harriet the Spy.
Hinton, S. E. The Outsiders.
Hunt, Irene. The Lottery Rose.
--. Some Things Are Scary.
Jukes, Mavis. No One is Going to Nashville.
Kerr, M. E. Dinky Hocker Shoots Smack.
Little, Jean. Hey, World, Here I Am.
Lowry, Lois. The One-Hundreth Thing About Caroline.
--. Rabble Starkey.
--. Switcharound.
--. Taking Care of Teriffic.
--. Your Move, J. P.
Myers, Walter Dean. Motown and Didi.
Paterson, Katherine. Bridge to Terabithia.
--. The Great Gilly Hopkins.
Rylant, Cynthia. A Fine White Dust.
Sachs, Marilyn. The Bear's House.
Shusterman, Neal. The Shadow Club.
Spinelli, Jerry. Maniac Magee.
Voight, Cynthia. Dicey's Song.
--. Homecoming.
Chapter 10

Strange Little Corners That Surprise You

Multicultural Classics

"If the mountain is under Ozma's rule, why doesn't she know about the Hoppers and the Horners?" Ojo asked.

"Why, it's a fairyland," explained Dorothy, "and lots of people live in places so tucked away that those in the Emerald City never even hear of 'em. In the middle of the country it's different, but when you get around the edges you're sure to run into strange little corners that surprise you. I know, for I've traveled in Oz a good deal, and so has the Scarecrow."

The Emerald City of Oz. p. 269.

Toddler Time (18 months to 2 years)

Program: Peter Woke Up and Looked Out the Window.

Books: Keats, Ezra Jack. Peter's Chair.

Rhyme: Oh, where, oh where has my little dog gone?
Oh, where, oh, where can he be?
With his ears cut short and his tail cut long,
Oh, where, oh where is he?

Poems: First Snow

Snow makes whiteness where it falls.
The bushes look like popcorn-balls.
The places where I always play
Look like somewhere else today.

--Allen, Mary Louise. Sing a Song of Popcorn, p. 25.

The More it Snows

The more it
SNOWS-tiddely-pom,
The more it
GOES-tiddely-pom
The more it
GOES-tiddely-pom
Oh
Snowing.

And nobody
KNOWS-tiddely-pom,
How cold my
TOES-tiddely-pom
How cold my
TOES-tiddely-pom
Are Growing.
--Milne, A. A. Read-Aloud Rhymes for the Very Young, p. 74.

Dogs
The dogs I know
have many shapes.
For some are big and tall,
    And some are long,
    And some are th.'n,
And some are fat and small.
And some are little bits of fluff
And have no shape at all.
--Chute, Marchette. Sing a Song of Popcorn, p. 68.

I've Got a Dog
I've got a dog as thin as a rail,
He's got fleas all over his tail;
Every time his tail goes flop,
The fleas on the bottom all hop to the top.
--Anonymous.

Activities:
1. Give the children a blue piece of paper, and let them draw snow with chalk or white tempera paint.
2. Have the children color Peter's chair. (see patterns)

Storytime (3-8 years)

Program 1: The Smallest One Was Madeline

Books:
Bemelmans, Ludwig. Madeline and the Bad Hat.

Rhyme:
I do not like thee, Doctor Fell.
The reason why I cannot tell;
But this I know, and know full well.
I do not like thee, Doctor Fell.
Poem:

There Was a Little Girl

There was a little girl, who had a little curl
Right in the middle of her forehead,
And when she was good, she was very, very good,
But when she was bad she was horrid.

Film:

Madeline: The Musical.

Activities:

1. Have the children color the picture of Madeline (see patterns). If you want, have a coloring contest.
2. Give each child a copy of the Madeline maze (see patterns).

Program 2:

Long Ago, In Asia

Books:

- Bishop, Claire Hutchet. The Five Chinese Brothers.
- Mahy, Margaret. The Seven Chinese Brothers.
- Mosel, Arlene. Tikki Tikki Tembo.

Poems:

- Little eyes see pretty things;
- Little nose smells something good;
- Little ears hear someone sing;
- Little mouth takes lucious food.

- A wee little boy has opened up a store
  For serving up food, at his front door.
  There's a wee little table, a wee little chair,
  Some ebony chopsticks, and a wee bowl to share.

- This little fellow
  A naughty trick did play
  So they sent him to a melon patch,
  Far, far away!

Riddle:

- It has eyes and a nose,
  But has not breathed since birth.
  It cannot go to heaven,
  And will not stay on earth
  What is it? A dragon kite.

Activities:

1. Have the children make Japanese lanterns. Take a sheet of construction paper 12" x 18" and cut off a 1 inch strip from a short side (this will be the handle). Fold your paper in half lengthwise. Draw a line 2 inches from the open end of your paper (not on the fold). Use a ruler and pencil to draw cutting lines about one inch apart from the fold to the pencil line you just drew. Cut slits across the fold to the line you drew. Unfold the lantern, and form a cylinder. Staple the ends together, and the handle to the top. If you want, you can put a yellow, red, or orange piece of crushed tissue to simulate candle light.

2. Make rice krispy treats. Let the children mold them into a ball or a shape.

   Rice Krispy Treats

   1/4 cup margarine
   1 10-ounce package of regular marshmallows or 4 cups of miniature marshmallows
   6 cups crisp rice cereal

   Melt the margarine in a large saucepan over low heat. Add the marshmallows and stir until completely melted; remove from heat. Add the cereal, stirring until well coated. Let cool slightly, then use buttered hands to mold, or press into a buttered 13" x 9" pan.

   (Or you can use peanut butter and rice crispies and make simple rice balls.)

Program 3: A Long Time Ago In A Certain Place in Africa.

Books:
- Aardema, Verna. Bimwili and the Zimwi.
- Aardema, Verna. Bringing the Rain to Kapiti Plain.
- Aardema, Verna. Who's in Rabbit's House?

Poem:

   My People

   The night is beautiful
   So are the faces of my people.

   The stars are beautiful,
   So are the eyes of my people.

   Beautiful, also, is the sun.
   Beautiful, also, are the souls of my people.

Activities:

1. Make African masks from paper bags. Use pictures from encyclopedias to show the children what the masks look like that many tribes still use in ceremonies. Each child needs a large brown grocery bag. Have him put it on his head, and trace where his shoulders are, and where his eyes, nose and mouth are. Take off the bag, and cut a large semi-circle out for his arm and shoulder. Cut holes for eyes and nose so he can see and breathe. Use any scraps of fabric, paper, yarn, grass, etc. to decorate your mask. You can use these masks to act out Who's in Rabbit's House?

2. Play Cat and Rat, a game from Africa.

Cat and Rat

One player is chosen to be the cat and one is chosen to be the rat. All other players form parallel lines, all facing the same direction. You want as close to a square as you can get, so if you have 9 children, have 3 rows of 3 children, if you have 16 children, have 4 rows of 4 children, etc. If you have 11 children, have 2 rows of 4 children, and 1 row of 3 children. (To help the children stay in a block, it is a good idea to place tape on the floor where they will stand. The lines should be spaced just far enough that the children can hold hands in either direction.

The players all join hands and form lines. The cat chases the rat up and down the rows. At any time, the rat may call, "The rat stops." The players drop hands, make one quarter turn to the right and join hands with their new line. The former rat becomes the cat and the cat becomes the rat. This may happen many times. When the rat is caught, a new rat and cat are chosen.

Upper Elementary Programs (9-12 years)

Program 1: The Next Thing You Know, You're Flying Among the Stars.

       Isadore, Rachel. At the Crossroads.

Poems: When my Daddy comes in from work at night he always say "Hey, man, gimme five" and I lay it on him and he smiles.

My daddy sure is a cool dude.

--Fufuka, Karama. My Daddy is a Cool Dude.
Activities:

1. Have the children draw a picture and tell a story about their family.
2. Have the children fill in the information on a family tree. (see patterns)

Variation:
Tell "The People Could Fly" from Virginia Hamilton's book of the same name. You could begin any of the above storytimes with Peter Spier's People.

Program 2: Cohen, Barbara and Bahija Lovejoy. Seven Daughters and Seven Sons.

Booktalk:
This book is a retelling of a traditional Arabic folktale. Buran, the girl who tells this story, is the fourth of seven daughters born to her father who is shamed for being the "Father of Daughters." Her uncle has seven sons and takes every opportunity to remind her father of this fact. As the story begins, her uncle is preparing to send his oldest sons to distant lands to set up shop and expand his business. Buran's father suggests that his daughters be married to the Uncle's sons. The Uncle rejects them because they are so poor.

Buran comes up with a plan to save the family's honor and get wedding money for her and her sisters. She determines to disguise herself as a man, join a caravan, and go set up a shop where she can make money. Her parents object at first, but realize it is their only hope.

Activities:

1. Show the Arabic alphabet from Leonard Everett Fisher's book Alphabet Art. Let the children try to draw some of the different letters. Let them experiment with words (remember that the Arabic alphabet is not the same as ours, and there are not equivalents for all of our letters).
2. Play "Alice the Camel." Everyone stands in a line, and sings the song. Start the song with the same number of humps as people. At the end of each verse one person sits down and there is one less hump the next time through.

Alice the Camel
(Tune: "leg bone connected to the hip bone...")

Alice the camel has ____ humps,
Alice the camel has ____ humps,
Alice the camel has ____ humps,
So go, Alice, go.
Boom, boom, boom

Alice the camel has no humps,
Alice the camel has no humps,
Alice the camel has no humps,
So Alice is a horse.
Program 3: Lowry, Lois. Number the Stars.

Booktalk: During World War II, many Christians protected Jews from Hitler and his Nazi soldiers. This book is about one such Danish family. Annamarie is Christian, and her best friend, Ellen is a Jew.

Annamarie's family takes in Ellen as the German's are searching for Jews and pretend that she's a member of the family. One night the Nazi's come to their house.

(Read in Chapter 5 just after the break where it begins, "Annamarie eased her bedroom door open quietly..." to the end of the chapter)

This is a story of real courage and bravery as the Johnsons help to smuggle Ellen and her family to safety in Sweden.

Activities:
1. Show the video Meet Lois Lowry.
2. Have the children go on a scavenger hunt for all the information they can find about Denmark. Give a prize to the person or team who found the most items.

Spanish/Bilingual Storytimes

Toddler Time (18 months to 2 years)

Program: Comiendo.

Fingerplays: Simón bribón

(Children pretend they're eating a melon)

Simón bribón
comió me melón
y luego me dijo ¡Que calveron!

--Anónimo.

Eeny, Meny, Miny, Moe

--Este pide pan
--Este dice: no lo hay
--Este dice: Que haremos?
--Este dice: ¡Lo robaremos!
--Este dice: ¡No, no, que nos castigará nuestro mamá!

--Anónimo.
Eeny, Meny, Miny, Moe
Este niños halló un huevo;
Este lo coció;
Este lo peló;
Este le hechó la sal;
Y este gordo gordito se lo comió todo
--Anónimo.

Chocolate
Uno, dos, tres, cho--  (Cuente con los dedos)
Uno, dos, tres, -co-
Uno, dos, tres, -la-
Uno, dos, tres, -te-
Bate, bate chocolate.  (Frote las manos como usa un molinillo en una choclatera)

--Anónimo.

Rhymes:

Tortillitas
Tortillitas para Mamá
Tortillitas para Papá
Las quemaditas para Mamá
Las bonitas para Papá

--Anónimo.

Jack be Nimble
(Let children jump over an object.)
Tengo una vela en un candalero
la pongo en el suelo
y la brinco ligero

--Anónimo.

Song:

Three Blind Mice
Un ratón, un ratón
Corriendo por aquí, corriendo por allí
Comiendo queso, comiendo pan
Al fin los gatos lo agarrarán, al ratoncito se comerán
¡Qué caray! ¡Qué caray!

--Anónimo.
Storytime (3-8 years)

Program 1: Animales.

Hader, Bert and Elmer. The Story of Pancho and the Bull With the Crooked Tail.
Leaf, Munro. The Story of Ferdinand/El Cuento de Ferdinand.
Lionni, Leo. Suimi.
Robles Boza, Eduardo. Cuatro Letras Se Escaparon.

Fingerplays: La Gallinita Napolitana
(Count on your fingers.)

La gallinita napolitana
Pone un huevo cada semana pone dos,
pone tres,
pone cuatro,
pone cinco,
pone seis,
¡Pone siete a la semana!
pone ocho,
pone nueve,
pone diez,
la gallinita, ya lo ves,
quiere que escondas tus pies.
--Anónimo.

Los Pescaditos
Los pescaditos anda en el agua nadán, nadan, nadan (Pretend to swim)
Vuelan, vuelan, vuelan (Pretend to fly)
Son chicquititos, son chiquititos (Make yourself little)
Vuelan, vuelan, vuelan (Pretend to fly)
Nadan, nadan, nadan (Pretend to swim)
--Anónimo.

Poems: Doña Pata

Detrás de doña Pata corren los patitos por allá, por allá, cuá, cuá, cuá.
Detrás de doña Pata siguen los patitos por allá, por allá, plió, plió, pa
Detras de doña Cabra van los cabritos por allá, por allá, baa, baa, ba.
--Anónimo.
Ranita Soy Yo
La ranita soy yo glo, glo, glo
El sapito eres tú
glu, glu, glu
Cantemos así gli, gli, gli
Que la lluvia se fue
gle, gle, gle
Y la ronda se vá gla, gla, gla
--Anónimo.

Los Diez Perritos
Yo tenía diez perritos, y uno se cayó en la nieve, yo no más me quedan nueve, nueve, nueve, nueve.
De los nueve que tenía, uno se comió un bizchoco, yo no más me quedan ocho, ocho, ocho, ocho.
De los ocho que tenía, uno se golpeó su frente, ya no más me quedan siete, siete, siete, siete.
De los siete que tenía, uno se quemó sus pies, yo no más me quedan seis, seis, seis, seis, seis.
De los seis que tenía, uno se escapó de un brinco, yo no más me quedan cinco, cinco, cinco, cinco.
De los cinco que tenía, uno se metió en un teatro, yo no más me quedan cuatro, cuatro, cuatro, cuatro
De los cuatro que tenía, uno se cayó al revés, yo no más me quedan tres, tres, tres, tres.
De los tres que tenía, uno sufrió de un tos, yo no más me quedan dos, dos, dos, dos.
De los dos que tenía, uno se murió de ayuno, yo no más me queda uno, uno, uno, uno.

A Frog Story

Synopsis: A long time ago there lived Mr. and Mrs. Frog. Mr. Frog liked to stay out late with his friends, and would not come home for dinner which made Mrs. Frog angry.

One day he arrives home, expecting food, but finds a note from Mrs. Frog saying "I've already eaten and left. Don't wait up." He goes out to find something to eat and doesn't come home till even later than usual. He finds Mrs. Frog knitting in the living room.
She asks him where dinner is. Mr. Frog replies that he's the one who's hungry. Mrs.
Frog, of course, just wants to get his goat and has already eaten, so she replies:
"I'm not."
"I am," replies Mr. Frog.
"I'm not."
"I am."

They go back and forth like that all night long and into the morning. Their racket catches the attention of Noah, who tries to get them to shut up without success. (This was, you see, just after all the animals had descended from the ark.) Noah enlists the aid of St. Peter and together they decide to punish the frogs, so that from then on they would only be able to say those two stupid words. And that is why to this day, frogs say "Ribbit, Ribbit."

Un Cuento de Sapos

Resulta que hace muchos años vivía un matrimonio de sapos que se querían grandemente y lo pasaban bien a la orilla de una charca. Las casa era de dos pisos, con terraza y todo, y en el verano salían de excursión en un bote hecho con una table y un pedazo de lona vieja. Y eran muy felices con sus trajes de seda verde y sus pecheras blancas y sus ojos que parecían bolitas negras que se les fueran a salir de la cara.

Por la única cosa que a veces peleaban era porque al señor Sapo le gustaba quedarse conversando con sus amigos de la gran ciudad Anfibia, y llegaba a almorzar a las mil y tantas, y entonces la señora Sapa se enojaba mucho y discutían mucho más aún, y a veces las cosas se ponían harto feas.

Un día llegó el señor Sapo con las manos metidas en los bolsillos del chaleco, silbando: una canción de moda, muy contento. Y ya habían dado las tres de la tarde. ¡En verdad, no era hora para llegar a almorzar!

Como nadie saliera a recibirllo, en señor Sapo dijo, llamando:
--Sapita Cuacua....Sapita Cuacua...

Pero la señora Sapita Cuacua no apareció. Volvió a llamarla y volvió a obtener el silencio por respuesta. La fue a buscar el comedor, al salón, al dormitorio, al baño, a la cocina, al repostero. Hasta se asomó a la terraza. Pero en ninguna parte estaba su mujercita vestida de verde.

De repente, el señor Sapo vio sobre una mesa del salón un papel que decía: ALMORCE Y SAL. NO ME ESPERES EN TODA LA TARDE.

Al señor Sapo le pareció pésima la noticia, ya que no tendría que esperar a sirvirla el almuerzo. Se fue entonces a la concina; pero vio que las ollas estaban todas vacías, limías y colgando de sus soportes. Se fue al repostero y encontró todos los cajones y estantes con llave.

El señor sapo comprendió que todo aquello lo había hecho la señora Sapita Cuacua para darle una lección. Y sin mayores aspavientos, se lovo que ir a donde la señora Rana, que tenía un despacho cerca del sauce de la esquina, a comprarle un pedazo de arrollado y unos pequeños para matar el hambre.

Pero como este señor Sapo era muy porfiado y no entendía lecciones, en ve de llegar esa noche a comer a las nueve, como era lo habitual, llegó nada menos que un cuarto para las diez.

La señora Sapita Cuacua estaba tejendo en el salón, y sin saludarlo siquiera, le dijo de muy mal modo:
--No hay comida.
--Tengo hambre--contestó el señor Sapo de igual mal humor.
--Yo, no.
--Yo, sí
--Yo, no.
--Yo, sí.

Y como eran un par de porfiados y ninguno de ellos quería dar su brazo a torcer--como vulgarmente se dice--, a medianoche estaban todavía repitiendo:
--Yo, no.
--Yo, sí.
--Yo, no.
--Yo, sí.

Y cuando apareció el sol por sobre las montes, el matrimonio de los señores Sapos seguía empecinado, diciendo:

--Yo, no.
--Yo, sí.
--Yo, no.
--Yo, sí.

Y todo eso pasó poco después que Noe echó a los animales del Arca, porque el diluvio había terminado. Ese día Noe había salido muy temprano a ver sus viñedos, y al pasar cerca de la charca oyó la discusión y movió la cabeza en señal de disgusto, porque le gustaba muy poco que los animales se pelearan. Y cuando por tarde pasó de regreso a su casa, le llegaron de nuevo las mismas palabras:

--Yo, no.
--Yo, sí.
--Yo, no.
--Yo, sí.

A Noe ya le dio un poco de fastidio, y acercándose a la puerta de la casa de los señores Sapos, les dijo:

--¿Quieren hacer el favor de callarse?

Pero los señores Sapos, sin oírla, siguieron diciendo:

--Yo, no.
--Yo, sí.
--Yo, no.
--Yo, sí.

Entonces a Noe le dio rabia de veras, y les gritó, enojado:

--¿Se quieren callar los bochincheros?

Y San Pedro—que estaba asomado a una de las ventanas del cielo tomando el aire—le dijo a Noe, también medio enojado, porque hasta allá arriba llegaban las voces de los discutidores porfiados.

--Los vamos a castigar, y desde ahora, cuando quieran hablar, sólo podrán decir esas dos palabras estúpidas.

Y ya saben ustedes, mis queridos niños, por qué los Sapos de todas las charcas del mundo sólo pueden decir a toda hora y a propósito de toda cosa:

--Yo, no.
--Yo, sí.
--Yo, no.
--Yo, sí.

--Brunet, Marta. Historia y Antología de la Leteratura Infantil Iberoamericana.

pp. 185-7.
Upper Elementary Programs (9-12 years)

Program: Cuentos Folklórico.

Hayes, Joe. El Terrible Tragadabas/The Terrible Tragadabas.

Activities:
1. After reading The Terrible Tragadabas, have the children draw a picture of him.
2. After reading The Legend of El Dorado, have the children make a list of the things they would buy if they found the lake and were able to retrieve the gold.

LEONES, Y TIGRES, Y LIBROS... ¡HURRA!
Books For Family Sharing
Multicultural Classics

Picture Books

Allen, Thomas. Where Children Live.
Asch, Frank and Vladimir Vagin. Here Comes the Cat.
Anno, Mitsumasa, et al. All in a Day.
Spier, Peter. People.
Winter, Jeanette. Diego.

Chapter Books

Cameron, Ann. The Most Beautiful Place in the World.
Eskridge, Robert. Umi.
Macourek, Milos. Max and Sally and the Phenomenal Phone
Oz, Amos. Soumchi.
Soto, Gary. Baseball in April and Other Stories.
Tarlton, Gillian Leigh. The Two Worlds of Coral Harper.
Watkins, Yoko Kawashima. So Far From the Bamboo Grove.
Wojciechowska, Malia. Shadow of a Bull.
Peter's Chair
Madeline

From "Madeline Party Kit," Viking.
From "Madeline Party Kit," Viking.
Bibliography

Aardema, Verna
Bimwili gets captured by the Zimwi who carries her around from village to village in a drum, which becomes a "magical" singing drum.

A cumulative tale that tells how the young shepherd boy Ki-pat shot an arrow that brought the rain to Kapiti Plain.

A lazy boy learns a lesson about lying.

Rabbit wants to go inside, but the "long one" is there. Illustrated as a play performed by actors in masks.

Iguana stops up his ears when Mosquito tells him a big fib, which sets off a chain reaction of events.

Ackerman, Karen
A grandpa acts out his days on the vaudeville stage for his grandchildren.

Adams, Richard
A group of rabbits must leave their warren when it is destroyed by developers, and find a new home.

Aesop
Familiar and unfamiliar Fables are retold. Many editions of the fables are available.

Ahlberg, Janet and Alan
A baby goes in search of his mother, and ends up not only finding her, but a father as well.

Skeletons who live in a dark, dark house, go cavorting at night.

Aiken, Joan
A boy living in Spain wants to escape his cruel grandfather, and find missing relatives in England. He has considerable adventures getting to England, but when he gets there he decides to turn around and go back home because his relatives aren't what he expected.

Sequels are:
Bridle the Wind
Teeth of the Gale

Midnight is a Place. New York: Viking, 1974.
The children living at Midnight Court experience Dickens-like adventures in this Victorian-style novel. The girl gets involved in a hideous carpet factory, and the boy goes "Toshing"--searching for usable goods out of the sewers.

A Victorian-style novel about two girls who have to endure a wicked schoolmistress, and who skate on an iced-over river where the wolves roam.
Alcott, Louisa May
   The lives and loves of four New England sisters during the Civil War.

Alexander, Lloyd
   Taran, the assistant pig-keeper, runs away from his master, the Wizard Dalben, in this first of the five-book Prydain Cycle, based on Welsh myth, distinguished by many memorable characters.
   Sequels are:
      The Black Cauldron.
      The Castle of Llyr.
      Taran Wanderer.
      The High King.

   The fourth in the series in which Vesper Holly attempts to return a book her father checked out from the Bel Saaba library, and ends up flying a machine invented by Dr. Helvitius.
   Others in the series are:
      The Illyrian Adventure.
      The El Dorado Adventure.
      The Drackenberg Adventure.
      The Philadelphia Adventure.

   The first book of the Westmark Trilogy. The central theme of these books is the tragedy of war. In this first, Theo, a printer's devil, accidentally kills someone. He escapes with the help of the outrageous Count Las Bombas. They meet Mickle, a girl disguised as a boy, who turns out to be a deposed princess.
   Sequels are:
      The Kestrel.
      The Boggar Queen.

Alfred Hitchcock's Solve-Them-Yourself Mysteries
   A collection of stories with interpolations from Mr. Hitchcock that give clues to allow young sleuths to solve their own mysteries.

Shows the different ways children live in countries around the world.

The classic story of the one-legged tin soldier and the ballerina he adores from afar.

Michael and Cecelia, two young schoolchildren in Nordvik, Sweden, become suspicious about the new physics teacher at their school.

Children learn basic principles of math through looking at the pictures of houses with children and other objects.

A wordless account of a man's journey through towns and villages with many surprises hidden in the pictures.

A sequel is:  "Anno's U.S.A."

Anno introduces the concept of factorials through a folktale-like story.

Children's illustrators from all over the world show what the world is like during a day--some kids are sleeping while others are playing.

Dandy, Kate, and Tiny Teddy are three old stuffed toys, who, when discarded, find a toy engine to help them find a new home.

Little Tim wants to be a sailor so he stows away aboard a ship. When the ship begins sinking in a storm Tim becomes a bit of a hero. Other books in the series include Tim All Alone and Tim to the Rescue (Oxford University Press).

A sad, powerful novel about an African-American boy whose father is taken away to a hard labor camp after stealing some meat for his dirt-poor family.

This is the first title in the Three Investigators mystery series, originally called Alfred Hitchcock and the Three Investigators until the death of the famed director. It tells the story of three teen sleuths who have a headquarters in Jupiter Jones' Uncle's junk yard. They investigate anything, and in this one they check out a house that's supposedly haunted.

The three billy goats in succession, cross a bridge with an evil troll underneath.

Asch, Frank and Vladimir Vagin  "Here Comes the Cat." New York: Scholastic, 1989.

A town of mice are afraid of the impending arrival of a cat, until they find out, he is friendly.
Ashabranner, Brent
A chilling portrait of immigration necessitated by government raids on Guatemalan farmers to keep them from sympathizing with the rebels.

Atwater, Richard
Mr. Popper's Penguins. Boston: Little Brown, 1938.
Admiral Byrd sends Mr. Popper, an armchair explorer, a penguin. Another comes when the first gets lonely, babies result, and what's left but to go on the stage?

Avi
Charlotte Doyle gets more than she bargained for when she finds herself the only woman aboard a ship with a mutinous crew.

Babbitt, Natalie
Stories about the devil and his dealings with mortals.
Sequel is:
The Devil's Other Storybook

Geneva Reade goes to a beach house to care for her Grandmother. Grandmother gets her to comb the beach for a sign from her Grandfather who was lost at sea 30 years earlier.

Hercules Feltwright, an itinerant actor who is always garbling Shakespeare quotations, comes to Goody Hall to tutor a young boy named Willet Goody. Willet believes that his father is not dead, and Hercules helps him solve the mystery.

Egan wants to solve the mystery of the strange thing that is said to live atop Knee-Knock Rise.

Nellie is a marionette, and when the woman who made her leaves, she thinks her dancing is over forever until Big Tom takes her to a hill where real cats gather and magic occurs.

The king has ordered a dictionary, but when the court reaches "Delicious is..." they cannot agree as to what is the most delicious food. The boy, Gaylen, is sent to poll the kingdom to settle the dispute.

One of the truly great books. The Tucks discover a spring of water that makes them immortal.

Bailey, Carolyn Sherwin
Miss Hickory's body is an apple wood twig and her head is a hickory nut. This is the story of her adventures with the animals on the farm where she lives until she follows nature's course.

Bang, Molly
A count down to a little girl's bedtime.

A poor orphan girl acquires a magic brush which makes the things she paints come alive. Everyone tries to cash in on her ability, but Tye May paints a boat, has the wicked emperor board it, then paints a storm that sinks it.
Wiley tries to fool the hairy man in this adaptation of an old American folk tale.

A yellow ball forgotten by the edge of the beach drifts through a storm to a new beach and a new owner.

Barrett, Ron and Judi
Animals would definitely look silly if they wore the clothes depicted in this book.

Barton, Byron
Archaeologists dig for Dinosaur bones.

Shows the process of carpenters building a house.

Baum, L. Frank
Dorothy gets carried by a cyclone from Kansas to Oz and meets the Scarecrow, Tin Man, and Cowardly Lion on her journey down the Yellow Brick Road to the Emerald City. All are on their way to meet the Wizard of Oz, who is the only one who can help Dorothy find her way back home.

Tip escapes from the evil Witch Mombi, and finds his way with a Sawhorse and Jack Pumpkinhead to the Emerald City, now ruled by the Scarecrow. The Emerald City is conquered by General Jinjur and her army, and in reclaiming it, a remarkable discovery is made about Tip's real identity. The other Oz books by Baum are:
Ozma of Oz
Dorothy and the Wizard in Oz

The Road to Oz
The Emerald City of Oz
The Patchwork Girl of Oz
Tik-Tok of Oz
The Scarecrow of Oz
The Lost Princess of Oz
The Tin Woodman of Oz
The Magic of Oz
Glinda of Oz

Short stories about the Oz characters.

John Dough, a human-sized gingerbread man, and Chick the Cherub travel from the Island of Phreex to the Palace of Romance and finally end up in the kingdom of Hilo. You are never sure if the Cherub is a boy or a girl.

Relates the story of Santa Claus' life, and how he became a giver of gifts.

Rob conjures up the Demon of Electricity, who takes him on incredible adventures.

Baum cleverly explains the stories behind many of the most popular Mother Goose rhymes.

Considered by many to be Baum's best book, this tells the story of a magic cloak created by fairies and craved by the evil Queen Zixi. It also relates the tale of the humble ferryman's son, Bud, who is on the way to the castle the day the King of Noland dies.

Trot and Cap'n Bill, who appear in some of the Oz books, have adventures after finding themselves at the bottom of the ocean in the Kingdom of the Mermaids.

With the help of a magic umbrella, Trot and Cap'n Bill travel to the Sky Kingdom.

Baylor, Byrd

A girl stumbles on a hollow in a tree that was a secret place for a young boy. She knows this because he has left notes ...ere. The text is addressed to him, and she reflects on other secret places that children have.

Bellairs, John

When Lewis becomes orphaned he goes to live with his Uncle who happens to be a wizard, and who happens to live next door to a witch. Hidden in the house is a clock ticking off the seconds until doomsday.

Sequels are:
The Figure in the Shadows
The Letter, the Witch and the Ring

Belpre, Pura

A Puerto Rican folk tale about Martina, a cockroach, who marries the frog, Señor Perez.

Bemelmans, Ludwig

Madeline gets her appendix out, when the other little girls want theirs out too.

A dog rescues Madeline, and comes to live in the school, but the board tries to throw the dog out. Finally the dog returns, has puppies, and there is "enough hound to go around."

Other books in the series are:
Madeline and the Bad Hat
Madeline and the Gypsies
Madeline in London

Bender, Lionel

Describes a vast array of inventions with excellent photographs.

Bennett, Jay

Matthew Garth is the only witness to a murder. He has to make a choice between revealing what he knows to the police, or just keeping quiet. His dilemma is further complicated by a developing friendship with the murdered man.

Berger, Barbara Helen

Grandfather Twilight brings the night. He takes a pearl with him and it grows large, and he puts it up into the sky and it becomes the moon.

Bishop, Claire Hutchet and Kurt Wiese

Each of the five Chinese brothers, who look alike, has a special talent that allows them to escape execution by all possible means.

Bishop, Claire Hutchet

Twenty French children, who are sent to the country during World War II, have to hide ten Jewish children.

Bjork, Christina

Linnea goes with her upstairs neighbor, Mr. Bloom, to France to see Monet's garden.
When she visits with Mr. Bloom she's always been fascinated with his book of Claude Monet paintings, so naturally she's thrilled to be able to see the actual sights.

Blos, Joan

A beautiful, well-researched diary of a Colonial American girl.

A story in rhyme about Henry, who lets his grass grow and annoys his neighbors.

Blumberg, Rhoda

The story of how Commodore Perry came to Japan, and the conflict between two cultures.

Bond, Felicia

Poinsettia thinks her house would be great without all the noisy brothers and sisters, but changes her mind after she's alone.

Bonne, Rose

Much to her detriment, the old lady tries to solve the problem of eating one thing by eating another...and another.

Bowden, Joan Chase

A cumulative tale in which an old lady carves a boy from a bean. The bean is then eaten by a rooster, who is then eaten by a cat, etc.

Boynton, Sandra

A boatload of animals get ready for bed.

Brandenburg, Aliki

When Aunt Nina's nephews and nieces visit, they have a really hard time going to bed.

Brandenburg, Franz

The field mice children learn to make friends after they move into a new house by putting on a play of "Three Blind Mice" and involving everyone.

Edward and Elizabeth think a robber is in the house. It turns out to be an Aunt and Uncle, who arrived late at night.

Branley, Franklyn M. and Eleanor K. Vaughn

Mickey learns how a magnet works.

Brett, Jan

Brett interprets the tale with a Russian-style setting.

Bridwell, Norman

A common sense guide to the everyday care of monsters in the home. Let Frankenstein run your vacuum cleaner, for example.

Briggs, Raymond

In this wordless book a boy builds a snowman, the snowman comes alive and the boy shows him his world, and then the snowman takes the boy flying and shows the boy his world.
Bright, Robert

  Georgie the Ghost rescues his friend Miss Owler when they go with the Whitakers to the city.

Brink, Carol Ryrie

  Caddie's experiences on the American frontier.

Brooks, Bruce

  The relationship between two boys, one black and one white, their friendship is forged by a mutual love for basketball. This novel explores how sometimes in life we fake it to get by.

Brooks, Walter R.

  A group of animals have adventures as they migrate south for the winter.

Brown, Marc

- Spooky Riddles.
  Riddles featuring vampires, ghosts, and other ghouls.

Brown, Margaret Wise

  A child says good night to absolutely everything in the room.

  A bunny contemplates running away from home, and realizes that perhaps it's not the best thing to do.

Brown, Ruth

  Shows words for each letter of the alphabet in English, Spanish, French and German.

Browne, Anthony

  A young gorilla loves all sorts of books

  A surreal adventure through a mirror to a place where among other things, choirboys fly.

  A brother and sister learn to understand each other better after they go through a tunnel into a fairy tale world.

Brunet, Marta

  Mr. and Mrs. Frog get into an argument about who is hungry after Mr. Frog gets angry about Mrs. Frog not having his dinner ready. Tells how frogs have come to say what they say today.

Bunting, Eve

  A homeless boy who lives with his father in an airport terminal feels hopeful after he sees a trapped bird find its freedom.

  A boy gets up at night and is scared by natural things that look different in the dark.

  A boy and his father visit the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington D.C. and try to find the name of the boy's grandfather.

  When everyone things Grandma is teaching Anna to read, it is really the other way around.
Burch, Robert
An Appalachian Mary Poppins comes to help a family who has recently lost their mother. Sequel is:
Christmas With Ida Early.

Queenie is teased by all the kids because her father is in the penitentiary.

Burningham, John
A fat, ugly dog ends up a circus star.

At the beach, Shirley imagines herself on a pirate adventure.

Mr. Gumpy invites a lot of animals to come along with him on a boat trip, as long as they don't mess around. They do anyway.

Burton, Virginia Lee
A train runs away to see the world, but decides home is better.

The little house starts out in the country, but then a city is built around her. She is then taken back to the country where she is happy again.

Mike Mulligan and his Steam Shovel, Mary Ann, prove their worth by building the cellar for the new Poppersville Town Hall in just one day.

Byars, Betsy
Bingo pines for his girlfriend Melissa who has moved away. His life is complicated by the fact that another girl, Melissa's former neighbor, is also in love with him, as well as by the fact that his Mom finds out that she's pregnant.

A boy has to go to his uncle's farm for the summer. He's not happy about it, but then he sees the midnight fox and that changes everything.

Calhoun, Mary
Henry the cat is inadvertently left behind at his family's mountain cabin. With his talent to walk on his hind legs and his makeshift skis, he is able to make it back to them.

A witch raises black cats to sell, but all of a sudden one of them is born yellow. It's an outrage.

Cameron, Ann
A little Guatemalan boy and his mother are abandoned by their father. They go to live with grandmother, who takes in family members experiencing tough times. Mother finds a new man, but one who doesn't want the boy, so he stays with Grandma.

Carle, Eric
Although the farm animals try to distract her, the very busy spider spins a beautiful and useful web. Children can feel as well as see the pictures.
A caterpillar eats its way through all sorts of fruit.

Told in delightful rhyme, this tells the story of Jesse Bear's day.

Alladin discovers a Genie in a magical lamp when he is trapped in a treasure cave by an evil magician.

Glenda Feathers' big mouth gets her in trouble with Lola Dog, and a captive of diamond robbers. She redeems herself, and recovers stolen diamonds through quick thinking.

The England of 2025 is divided into two sections: The urban industrialized Conurbs and the rural bucolic County. Rob Randall escapes the oppression of the Conurbs, only to find a far more sinister evil in the County.

Two boys who live in a moon colonization bubble, sneak out on a moon crawler and discover beneath the moon's surface, "The Plant," which offers immortality and everything you could ever want.

A group of freedom fighters fight against Tripods who cap people with a metal cap at an early age to control their thinking. Sequels are:

- Pool of Fire
- City of Gold and Lead

A very chilling mystery about Emily who is dead, but seems to be alive.

Max finds twelve wooden soldiers who could be the same ones who once belonged to the famous Brontë children.

Ramona's father loses his job, and Ramona tries to put things right.
Other books about Ramona are:

- Beezus and Ramona
- Ramona and Her Mother
- Ramona Forever
- Ramona Quimby, Age 8
- Ramona the Brave
- Ramona the Pest

Cleaver, Vera and Bill
Mary Call Luther narrates this story of how she, her brother and two sisters survive in the Appalachian mountains after their father dies.

Clifton, Lucille
Shows the stages of grieving through which Everett Anderson passes after his father dies.

Coats, Laura Jane
A cat gets a yen for adventure and goes on a journey through the city. He returns the same way and ends up safe at home in the warm lap of his owner.

Coerr, Eleanor
A heartbreaking true tale of a little girl who gets leukemia in the aftermath of the bombings of Hiroshima. She tries to fold a thousand paper cranes, believing a story that says if she does this she will get well.

Cohen, Barbara and Bahija Lovejoy
Buran sets out disguised as a man to save her family from shame and disgrace in this retelling of an old Arabic tale.

Cohen, Miriam
Jim finds a friend on the first day of nursery school.

Cole, Brock
Alpha cleans up to get rid of two devil's imps that have taken the form of her mother and father.

A powerful searing story about two kids at a summer camp who, separately, are stripped and abandoned on an island. They are "goats," the awkward gawky kids who get picked on. They form a friendship as they escape the situation.

Jessie doesn't want to take a bath and runs away from home. She consults several animals and finds out that their way of bathing doesn't suit her.

Cole, Joanna
The first in a series that teaches science in a delightfully wacky way with Ms. Frizzle, the appropriately named and outrageously dressed teacher. Others include:
- The Magic School Bus at the Waterworks
- The Magic School Bus Inside the Human Body
- The Magic School Bus Lost in the Solar System
- The Magic School Bus on the Ocean Floor

Collington, Peter
A wordless book about two tiny toys that come alive at night and save their little girl owner's piggy bank from being stolen by pirates.

Conover, Chris
The song expanded and illustrated with new verses. The music is included at the end.
Cooney, Barbara
   An adaptation of a story from Chaucer’s Canterbury Tales. A fox outwits a hen who thinks she’s smart.

   A story that spans generations about a family that lives on an island.

   Alice wants, like her grandfather, to go to far away places and live by the sea when she grows old. Grandfather tells her that she must also do something to make the world more beautiful.

Cooper, Susan
   Will Stanton must find the six signs of power to drive back the forces of the Dark.
   The other books in the series are:
   □Over Sea, Under Stone (Harcourt)
   □Greenwitch
   □The Grey King
   □Silver on the Tree

   A group of playmates weather the storm of the Nazi blitz on London, amidst rival gangs and the tragedy of war.

Corbett, Scott
   Roger “Inspector” Tearle has a tree house protected by a burglar alarm, and solves any mystery that comes along, especially when the police can’t.

Cormier, Robert
   A young boy pedals his way on his bicycle to an uncertain destination, while in a separate thread of story he is interrogated in some sort of institution. These threads are woven together to produce a shocking mystery.

Crews, Donald.
   An airplane takes off, flies over varied terrain, and lands again.

   A train with different colored cars, goes faster and faster until it’s out of sight.

   Shows all sorts of boats in the harbor.

   Buses pick up kids and take them to school and return them home at the end of the day. The buses then go to their own home.

   A wordless book about a truck’s journey to deliver tricycles.

Crutcher, Chris
   A high school swim coach puts his team through an incredibly strenuous workout to teach them some lessons about life.

Cummings, Pat
   Harvey Moon has to clean his room, about which are strewn all sorts of grody things. He puts them all on his bed, under his quilt.

   A story in verse about the mischief of Jimmy Lee, who always seems to follow the narrator’s brother around, and leave destruction in his wake. The mystery is “Who is Jimmy Lee?”

   Cummings compiled and edited these comments from children’s book artists about their childhoods and how they became artists. Includes an example of their art as children.
Dabcovich, Lydla.
A bear hibernates, and wakes up when it's spring again.

Dahl, Roald
The Big Friendly Giant is just what his name says, and he helps Sophie get rid of the evil variety of giant.

Charlie Bucket gets a golden ticket that lets him be among the select children who get to tour Willy Wonka's chocolate factory. He has an advantage: The other children are brats. Sequel is:
Charlie and the Great Glass Elevator.

The Twits are a monster couple who are always doing horrid things to each other.

A little boy is turned into a mouse by Witches holding a convention at a seaside resort where he and his Grandmother are visiting.

Dale, Penny
A little girl is looking for a tree for her stuffed elephants to picnic under, but finds all other sorts of trees, including the bear trees.

Dalgleish, Alice.
Sara goes with her father to cook for him while he builds a new house for their family in the woods. He leaves her with Indians while he returns to fetch the family.

Daugherty, James.
While walking to school one day, Andy removes a thorn from a lion's paw. Later on, the favor is repaid.

Day, Alexandra
Mother leaves the baby in Carl the dog's care. They play together and make all sorts of messes, but when Mother gets home baby is safe asleep in her crib.

DeFelice, Cynthia
A frontier boy has to make some moral choices as he faces the evil Weasel, who has terrorized not only his own family, but also the whole countryside.

De la Mare, Walter
A longer, more literary adaptation of the tale.

DePaola, Tomie
Tommy wants to draw his own kind of picture with big crayons, not the same thing all the other kids are drawing.

A grandpa helps his grandson learn to walk. Later on, the Grandpa has a stroke, and the boy, now older, teaches his Grandpa how to walk again.

Helga tries to get a dowry to win the heart of Rich Sven, who has dumped her for Plain Inge. Her trolley gains the attention of the Troll King.

She-Who-Is-Alone sacrifices the doll which is most precious to her to bring a boon to her people.

A boy learns to deal with death when his "Nana Upstairs" dies. Later, when he is old, the boy's "Nana Downstairs" dies as well.

Big Anthony forgets the spell to stop Strega Nona's magic pasta pot. The pasta goes everywhere, and as a punishment, Big Anthony has to eat it all.

The Hopkins are rabbits who find out there might be too many of them when they try to plant vegetables on their Farm.

De Regniers, Beatrice

The king and the queen tell a boy that any friend of his is a friend of theirs. He brings all his animal friends over for lunch.

Gorey's line drawings add a spooky quality to this version of the story.

Devlin, Wende and Harry

Old Black Witch first hinders then helps with Nicky and his mother's plans to have a tearoom in an old New England house.

Diamond, Donna

Diamond's luminescent black and white pictures are particularly effective in portraying the title character.

Dixon, Paige

An 18 year old boy contracts Lou Gerig's disease.

Domanska, Janina

Everyone has to help pull the enormous turnip out of the ground.

Dorros, Arthur

Rosalba imagines what it would be like if she and her grandmother could fly. "She likes adventures," Rosalba says. Abuela is Spanish for grandmother.

Dragonwagon, Crescent

A girl takes a walk in the early morning and experiences the glories of nature. When she returns home her family doesn't understand.

Drescher, Henrik

Simon uses the aid of some friendly drawing pens to flee from a monster.

Duane, Diane

In her local library Nita finds a book just for her that teaches her how to be a wizard. She meets another kid wizard named Kit, and together they try to find a book that will help hold the universe together. Sequels are: Deep Wizardry, High Wizardry

DuBois, William Pené

The world of exploration is set on edge when Professor Sherman is found floating in the ocean with remains of balloons. He tells his remarkable story, primarily of his stay on an island called Krakatoa which he discovers and has to leave along with the other inhabitants when a volcano erupts.

Dunbar, Joyce

About a Mom who learns to be a child again. She gets taken down a long flight of stairs and finds herself a child again. She learns to understand why her daughter likes her stuffed toys so much.
Duvoisin, Roger
Petunia feels that if she carries a book around she will be known as wise. It's not until she nearly blows up all the farm animals she realizes that you have to read the book, too.

Eager, Edward
A group of children encounter a magic charm that grants you only half of what you wish, so you have to wish for twice as much as you want!

Eastman, P.D.
A bird, just hatched out of his egg, goes in search of his mother.

Ehlerdt, Lois
Shows myriad fruits and vegetables alphabetically.

Shows how to plant flowers.

Describes the growth of a sapling maple tree through the seasons.

Ehrlich, Amy
A story of how a little girl goes out each day to watch a train. She plays a game with herself, trying to guess whether the boxcar will be red or green.

Elkin, Benjamin
A King wants to have time to go fishing and leaves his sons in charge. He returns to find a fire.

Emberly, Barbara
Everyone had a part in getting the cannon ready to fire, but Drummer Hoff fired it off.

Emberly, Ed
Adaptation of "We're Going on a Bear Hunt" about a prince who goes into a cave and finds a dragon and quickly rushes home.

Enghdahl, Sylvia
A group from a high-tech culture come to a planet with a primitive culture. The natives see them in terms we would associate with fairy tales. Sequel is:
"The Far Side of Evil"

Enright, Elizabeth
The Melendy kids decide to pool their allowances so they can each have a Saturday on their own. Sequels are:
"The Four-Story Mistake" (Peter Smith)
"Then There Were Five" (Dell)
"Spiderweb for Two: A Melendy Maze" (Dell)

Eskridge, Robert
"Umi." Winston, 1936.
Umi doesn't know that he is the son of a Hawaiian prince, and lives the life of a commoner.

Estes, Eleanor
Episodic story of the Moffats who live on New Dollar Street. Their house is put up for sale, and at the end of the book, they move.
Sequels are:
The Middle Moffat
Rufus M.
The Moffat Museum

Ets, Marie Hall

Gilberto plays with the wind. The wind blows his balloon away, but lets him sail his toy boat in a pond, spins a pinwheel, and carries his soap bubbles into the air.

Farjeon, Eleanor

A retelling of the Cinderella story in the spirit of the British pantomime tradition.

Farley, Walter

A boy is shipwrecked and meets a beautiful black stallion which he brings back to civilization and which becomes a race horse.

Feelings, Tom

Feelings describes growing up in Brooklyn, and a later pilgrimage to Africa.

Fenton, Edward

Roger's balloon eventually fools a thief.

Field, Rachel

The memoirs of the first hundred years of a doll's life. She is no ordinary doll and has many great adventures.

Fisher, Leonard Everett

A father and son sail to a deserted island, and nearly become stranded when their boat floats away.

Fitzgerald, John D.

First in the series of books where J.D. tells the adventures of his brother Tom, the Great Brain. Other books in the series are:
°More Adventures of the Great Brain
°Me and My Little Brain
°The Great Brain at the Academy
°The Great Brain Reforms
°Return of the Great Brain
°The Great Brain Does it Again

Fitzhugh, Louise

Harriet goes around writing exactly what she thinks about her friends in her spy notebook, then they find the notebook.

Flack, Marjorie

A boy goes to several animals asking for suggestions for presents for his mother's birthday. He is finally told to ask Mr. Bear, who suggests an entirely appropriate present (from a bear's point of view).

Ping follows his brothers and sisters each day up a ladder into a boat. One day he is late and gets separated from his family. Among other things, he nearly gets eaten before he and his family are reunited.

Fleischman, Paul

A group of children at a carnival go to a shadow play of Beauty and the Beast and get more than they expected.

Fleischman, Sid

A delightful tale about a prince and his whipping boy, who escape from the castle and have myriad adventures encountering bandits.
Flora, James
Grandpa tells his grandson some outlandish Ghost stories, including one in which he is abducted to a Ghosts home and watches ghost TV with shows like "Feeding Phantom Faces."

Folsom, Michael
Children going on a trip have to pay attention to what is going on around them.

Fox, Mem
A young boy gives presents to an old lady that, in turn, bring back her memory.

Freedman, Russell
A readable biography of the president that humanizes him with special detail in the text and also with the photographs.

Freeman, Don
Corduroy gets lost in a laundromat while searching for a pocket.

Corduroy always wanted a friend and a home. He gets them both.

Hattie makes quite a scene when she flies into the spotlight during a mystery play.

Shaggy-haired Marty is mistaken for a mop, which convinces him to get a hair cut before his birthday.

A girl in the library, Cary, imagines what she would do if she were the librarian. She'd have a day in which only animals could come in and browse.

Fritz, Jean
Fritz's own story, although published as fiction. Born in China to missionary parents she has a longing for America, even though she's never seen it. Sequel is:
China Homecoming.

A biography of the Civil War general.

Furtado, Jo
A young boy has a bit of trouble returning his book to the library.

Gaeddert, Louann
Gustav can't get enough of good food. When he sees a small boy's lamb, he wants it, but the boy won't let him have it. The boy decides to play a trick on the giant and convinces Gustav that eating boy is better.

Gag, Wanda
A man goes out to get a cat for his wife, and comes back home with millions of them.

Gage, Wilson
Someone is stealing the farmer's squash. The thief turns out to be his wife, who took the squash because she didn't think squash pie would taste good.

Galdone, Joanna
An old man eats the tail he cuts of of a creature that scurries through his cabin in the woods, and has to pay a terrible price.
Galdone, Paul
A gingerbread boy, fresh out of the oven, runs away from everyone but the fox.

The sky is falling! The sky is falling!

No one wants to help the Little Red Hen bake the cake, but they all want to eat it.

Puss helps his master gain his fortune.

A funny little man will take the queen's child unless she guesses his name.

You'd be shocked, too, if you came home and found somebody lying in your special bed.

The three little kittens lose their mittens.

The first two should have run while they had the chance.

Gardiner, John Reynolds
A touching story about a boy who enters a dog-sled race so that he can pay the taxes on his farm and bring life back to his grandfather.

Garfield, Leon
Benjamin Partridge hates his master, Mister Corbett, the apothecary, and wishes him dead. Sent on an eerie errand one night by the tyrant, he gets his wish.

A young London pickpocket is accused of murder after being given a home by a blind magistrate.

Garner, Alan
Colin and Susan come to Alderly to stay with a relative named Growther Mossack. Susan soon discovers that she possesses the "firestone" which the forces of evil are trying to obtain. It is stolen, and the quest to get it back takes Colin and Susan into some deep abandoned mines where they meet dwarfs. A sequel is:
  ◊ The Moon of Gormrath

Gates, Doris
◊ Blue Willow. New York: Viking, 1940.
A migrant farm working family goes west.

George, Jean Craighead
Sam Gribley spends a year surviving on his own in a house he's built on the side of the mountain. Sequel is:
  ◊ The Far Side of the Mountain

Gibbons, Gall
A simple introduction to dinosaurs.

Gilchrist, Theo E.
An old man with a blind wife gets tired of the way she cooks beef every day. She shows him that they could be a lot worse things when she inadvertently scares away Bloodcoe the bandit.

Gillstrap, Robert
Texas folklore.

Ginsberg, Mirra
All the animals are asleep as night falls.
Godden, Rumer

A story about a doll who wishes for a girl and a girl who wishes for a doll.

Gomi, Taro

Children have to guess which animals ate certain foods.

Gorog, Judith
In a Messy Messy Room and Other Strange Stories. New York: Philomel, 1990.

Includes the title story about an evil chameleon who hides in a messy room, and a story about the boy who wanted the smelliest sneakers in the world.

Graham, Kenneth

The bucolic tale of Rat, Mole, and of course, the irrepressible Mr. Toad. Available in many editions.

Gramatky, Hardie

Little Toot the tugboat saves the day when the larger boats can't.

Gray, Nigel

The story of two boys, one who lives in Africa, and the other a typical Western boy. The text is the same.

Greenfield, Eloise and Lessie Jones

Three generations of an African-American family tell their stories.

Gross, Ruth Belov

A group of animals set off to be musicians in Bremen Town, and have an adventure with robbers.

Should they have used Reese's Pieces to mark the trail?

Guarino, Deborah

A little llama tries to find out if other animals' mothers are llamas in this rhymed story.

Gurney, Nancy and Eric

A king tries to get rid of mice, and is then forced to find ways to rid himself of each succeeding eradicator: cats, dogs, etc.

Hader, Berta and Elmer

A Mexican boy is able to capture a bull that none of his elders has been able to capture.

Hale, Lucretia

The Peterkins are hilariously dimwitted turn-of-the-century forerunners of Allard/Marshall's Stupids.
Hall, Donald
   A farmer goes to town to sell the things he and his family have raised and made, and trades them for other things they will need.

Hamanaka, Sheila
   Searing account of the imprisonment of Japanese-Americans during the Second World War. It shows the racism and unfairness inherent in this act.

Hamilton, Virginia
   A collection of Black American folktales.

Harper, Wilhemina
   A girl is told by her mother to never, NEVER go off into the woods. She does anyway to buy beautiful flowers, and meets the Gunniwolf.

Haugaard, Eric
   Two children try to journey to safety in Italy during World War II.

Hayes, Joe
   A grandmother sends each of her three granddaughters to the store, and each are scared up into a tree by the terrible Tragadabas.

Hazen, Barbara Shook
   A little boy wants a dog but his dad says he can't have one because of tight times. He ends up finding a cat which he calls "Dog."

Heide, Florence Parry and Roxanne Heide
   One sibling tries to warn another about an impending monster attack, but is too late.

Heide, Florence Parry
   A list of things that are scary, like holding onto someone's hand that isn't your mother's when you thought it was.

Heins, Paul, Trans.
   Randall Jarrell's version notwithstanding, this is probably the most usable and literate version of the story.

Hennessey, J. G.
   Nursery Rhyme characters help the Queen of Hearts find her missing tarts.

Henry, Marguerite
   Classic horse story about the horse who is the father of most of today's thoroughbred racers.

   Misty, a Colt, and her Mother are wild horses on the Virginia Island of Chincoteague who are coveted by Paul and Maureen.

Hill, Elizabeth Star
   A boy wants a place of his own so his mother gives him a corner. But something is always missing. He makes the corner his own, but then he helps his brother make a corner.
Hill, Eric
   Spot’s mother searches for her puppy.

Hinton, S. E.
   Ponyboy narrates a story of the clash between the “Jocks” and the “Socs” in an Oklahoma High School.

Hissey, Jane.
   A group of stuffed animals try to figure out how they can get Old Bear down from the attic. Sequels are:
   Little Bear Lost
   Little Bear’s Trousers
   Old Bear Tales
   Best Friends: Old Bear Tales
   Jolly Snow

Hoban, Russell.
   Frances runs away to under the dining room table when she feels jealousy for her new baby sister.

   Frances has trouble going to sleep, thinking that there are monsters in her room.

   Frances wants to be friends with Albert, but he doesn’t think that she can do boy things.

   Frances is jealous that her little sister is having a birthday.

   Frances learns to like foods other than bread and jam.

   A crocodile has to learn manners.

Hoban, Tana
   Children have to look through a cutout shape and guess the subject of the photograph on the succeeding page.

   Same concept as Look Again.

   Photographs taken either from the vantage point of looking up at something, or looking down.

   Same concept as Look Again and Take Another Look.

   Stunning photographs creatively explore the shadows and reflections created by various objects.

Hoberman, Mary Ann
   A verse about different kinds of houses.

Hoffman, Mary
   Grace loves stories, and loves to act them out. When she wants to play Peter Pan in the school play, she has to overcome the disadvantages of being a girl, and being black.
Hogrogian, Nonny
A singing cat journeys along trading one thing for another until he ends up with a mandolin. Sequel is:
◊The Cats Midsummer Jamboree
A boy born to poor parents is promised in marriage to the king's daughter because he was born with a caul that signified he would be lucky. He outwits the wicked king to make the prophecy come true, but then has to obtain three golden hairs from the head of the Devil to keep his bride.

Holabird, Katharine
Angelina looks out for her Cousin Henry when they take parts in a theater production, and helps him get out of a potentially embarrassing scrape.

Holling, Holling Clancy
A boy puts a little carved Indian in a boat which he sets off down the river. The story tells their journey to the sea.

Holm, Ann
A boy born in a concentration camp escapes the only life he's ever known.

Holman, Felice
The story of a boy who lives for 121 days in a New York subway without seeing daylight; how he makes a home and is helped by a sympathetic waitress.

Houghton, Eric
Walter uses his magic wand to make books come to life in the library, much to the consternation of the librarian.

Howe, Deborah
A teddy bear looks through his scrapbook with a special friend and reflects on his life and adventures.

Howe, James
A boy worries that there might be a monster, perhaps several terrible monsters, under his bed.

Hughes, Shirley
Alfie locks his mother outside. All sorts of adults come to try and get the door open, but Alfie bravely goes and gets a chair and opens the door himself, just as the big people are using a ladder on the other side.

David looseis his stuffed dog. He finds it again for sale at a school fair. Another little girl buys it before he can, but his sister saves the day.

Hunt, Irene
Georgie Burgess has been scared by abuse and goes to a home for boys. He wins a rosebush in a lottery that helps him get back to a point where he can give love again.

Two brothers during the depression leave their home when it becomes apparent their family doesn't have enough to feed them.

Hurd, Thatcher
Miles and his swamp band play for the Alligator ball, and then realize they are on the menu.

Ralph is a short order cook who’s favorite Opera singer, Eduardo, is kidnapped by Big Al and his gang of Rats. Ralph, with a little help from Eduardo’s singing, saves the day.

Hush Little Baby

Aliki’s illustrations adorn this classic folk lullaby.

Hutchins, Pat

Rosie the chicken narrowly avoids disaster when she is followed by a fox.

Titch grows a seed. His brother and sister can do big kid stuff, but growing a seed isn’t so bad either.

Hyman, Trina Schart

What I want to know is why couldn’t she tell it was a wolf instead of Grandma?

A solid, standard edition of this story.

I Know an Old Lady Who Swallowed a Fly

A cumulative folksong in which an old lady eventually dies from eating an array of animals.

Isadora, Rachel

A group of South African children wait for their fathers to come home from the mines.

Ben sits by the jazz club, loving the music and pretending to play the trumpet. Finally a trumpeter invites him to begin learning on the real thing.

Things that baby hears.

Things that baby sees.

Things baby can touch and feel.

Joey loves to draw, and after he and his friends see a pirate movie, he draws the pirate adventures all over the steps and the sidewalk.

Ivimey, John W.

The full story of just how those mice went blind and lost their tales.

Jarrell, Randall

A stunning edition of the classic.

Johnson, Crockett

Harold takes his purple crayon with him on a walk in the moonlight, and uses it to draw whatever he needs, whether it be the moon itself, or his own comfortable bed.

Johnston, Tony

A tale of two generations. Two girls, one in pioneer times, the other in our day, move to new homes, but find comfort in an old quilt.
Jonas, Ann
A young boy has to put all his toys in a bag before he can go.

A little girl takes a dream journey at night underneath her quilt.

A round-trip journey in full color. When you get to the end you turn it upside down and go back home again.

The story of a family trip is told with stunning black and white illustrations that transform themselves when you turn the book upside down.

A girl follows clues that lead her to a sunny spot in the woods where her friends are waiting to celebrate her birthday.

Two girls pretend that their trip to school is a trek through the jungle.

Shows an older child what they couldn't do when they were smaller.

A child looks for a lost blanket.

Joyce, William
George wakes up and finds that he has shrunk to the size of a mouse. His parents have left him with a list of things to do, which he does despite his newly miniscule stature.

Jukes, Mavis
A little girl's stepmother intercedes when she wants to keep a dog. Dad is not happy about it, and they are on the verge of giving it away.

Juster, Norton
Milo is bored stiff until he finds a Tollbooth in his room. He drives through it into the Lands Beyond and gets caught up with extraordinary characters in a search for the missing princesses, Rhyme and Reason.

Kahl, Virginia
A clever rhymed story about a Duchess who bakes a cake that keeps growing and growing, and carries her up with it.

Karlin, Barbara
Marshall's illustrations add a delightfully humorous touch in this retelling of the story.

Karlin, Bernie and Mati
A family takes a night drive and sees all sorts of interesting things.

Keats, Ezra Jack
Peter, another boy, and their dog, Willy, successfully save their newly-found motorcycle goggles from some big, tough kids.

John Henry was born with a hammer in his hand, and later performs an amazing feat digging a tunnel for the railroad.

Peter nearly loses his letter to Amy when he takes it out in the rain to mail it.
Peter is jealous that the new baby is going to get the things that were his.

Peter goes for a walk in the snow.

Peter tries to learn how to whistle.

Kellogg, Steven
This is a really funny variation on the Henny Penny story. The fox disguises himself as a policeman, and herds the fowl into a paddy wagon. Later, the fleeing fox is flattened by Sgt. Hippo Hetty.

Kellogg's illustrations grace a traditional retelling of this favorite tale.

Kennedy, Jimmy
The Teddy Bears are having a picnic, and you'd better not go alone, because every teddy bear will be there.

Kennedy, Richard
After her Captain doll turns into a real man, Amy turns into a doll who follows him on adventures at sea. She loses her button eyes which are the only way a sunken treasure can be found.

Kent, Jack
A cumulative Dutch folktale about a cat that eats everything that comes across its path.

Kerr, M. E.
Kerr's story centers around four bizarre characters, one of whom is Dinky (really Susan) who is overweight and whose Mom runs encounter groups.

Kesselman, Wendy
A true story of a German lady, Emma, who moves to Paris. She is lonely, so her family gives her a picture of the village where she grew up. That's not how she remembers it, so she paints her own and keeps on painting.

Key, Alexander
Classic sci-fi about an alien boy who falls to earth through a forgotten door in his planet.

Kimmel, Eric
Anansi discovers a rock that knocks you senseless when you say "Isn't that a strange moss-covered rock?" He uses this secret to trick the other animals of the forest out of their stashes of food.

A mouse couple feels that only the very best is good enough for their daughter.

A girl takes various animals into the library. They create chaos, so she leaves them at home and the elephant reads to them.

Konigsburg, E. L.
Amy Elizabeth's Aunt manages to take her everywhere but Bloomingdale's when Amy visits New York.

Claudia and Jamie run away to the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City, and become involved in a mystery surrounding a statue from the collection of Mrs. Basil E. Frankweiler.

Samuel Todd talks about the inventions that are really great, not televisions or telephones, but things like belt loops and velcro.

Kraus, Ruth

Everyone tells a little boy that his carrot seed won’t grow. But it does grow, just as he always knew it would.

Kroll, Steven

The lovable giant Jeremy helps his friends, the Terisons until the day of the fire. Jeremy blows it out, and literally blows the Terisons away. It takes a few heartaches before he can set things right.

Kuskin, Karla

Shows members of the Philharmonic getting dressed for a concert. Beautifully evokes the beauty of the music they play.

Lasky, Kathryn.

Shows how maple syrup is made in a time-honored process.

Lauber, Patricia.

Stunning color photographs detail the eruption of this volcano.

Laughlin, Florence

A group of kids are outside playing. The smallest one is making mud pies, but when it comes time for Grandpa to visit, she finds it hard to get ready. When Grandpa comes he reminds her that it’s okay to be slow.

Laurin, Anne

Mrs. B. keeps knitting a blanket that gets larger and larger, but little things like that don’t bother Mr. B. NOT!

Lawson, Robert

The animals on Rabbit Hill are unsure if the new folks coming to a house will be sympathetic to them.

Leaf, Munro

Spanish translation of The Story of Ferdinand.

While the Matadors are expecting him to be as ferocious as he was when he was accidentally stung by a bee, all Ferdinand really wants to do is lie around and smell the flowers.

LeCain, Errol

An elegant take on the story of Sleeping Beauty.

Leedy, Loreen

Bunnies put on a production of “Little Red Riding Hood.”
L'Engle, Madeleine
Meg, her brother Charles Wallace and her boyfriend Calvin search for Meg and Charles' father. Sequels are:
A Wind in the Door
A Swiftly Tilting Planet
Many Waters

Lemko, Lois
Engineer small and others take the little train from the station house on a journey.

Lesser, Rika
Zelinsky's traditional oil paintings make this one of the best versions.

Lester, Allison
Wild and Wooly journey home, meeting a number of fairy tale characters.

Levinson, Ricki
Turn-of-the-century children and their families use a variety of different means of transportation to get to Grandma's.

Levy, Elizabeth
Gwen and Jill try to solve the mystery of the pictures that have been cut out of library books.

Fletcher, the dog, is abducted by a dog food commercial producer who wants a dog who will lie still.

Pete, Edward and Lucy find their way separately through a wardrobe in an English country home into the land of Narnia, where at first everything is in a state of perpetual winter, because of the evil rule of the White Witch. They meet the kindly Lion, Aslan, who is the true ruler. The sequels in this series called "The Chronicles of Narnia" are:
Prince Caspian
The Voyage of the Dawn Treader
The Silver Chair
The Horse and His Boy
The Magician's Nephew
The Last Battle

Leydner, Robert
A snake named Harold goes off to seek his fortune, and ends up eating animals along the way, and his body becomes the shape of those animals.

Lillegard, Dee
The box in which the little boy and all the animals are sitting gets more and more crowded until a hungry flea arrives on the scene.

Lionni, Leo
Alexander has a lizard-wizard turn his wind-up friend into a real mouse.

○Fish is Fish. New York: Pantheon, 1970.
A fish is friends with a tadpole. Then the tadpole becomes a frog and goes out on land. When the frog returns he tells the fish about the wonders of the world, which the fish imagines in "fish" terms.

While all the other mice store up food for the winter, Frederick stores up colors and smells. When the food runs low, Frederick cheers up everyone with what he has saved.
When the inch-worm measures a song, it goes on and on and on, inch by inch.

Scissors and pencil each make their own rabbit, then carrots for the rabbits to eat. They wake from a nap, are hungry, but this time the pencil doesn't come. They discover that they've become real.

Swimmy is the only black fish in a school of red fish. He's also the only escapee when the red fish are devoured. He discovers the wonders of the sea, then finds a new school of red fish. He teaches them to swim in formation like a large fish, to scare away others.

A Spanish translation of Lionnii's Swimmy. There is another, more recently available, translation by Ana Maria Matute with the title Nadarín, published by Barcelona-based Editorial Lumen in 1986. I have a special fondness for the older translation, however.

Little, Jean
Kate Bloomfield expresses her thoughts in essays and poetry.

Lively, Penelope
A ghost found in an old house makes life miserable for a young boy.

A girl becomes involved in an ancient myth of Herne the Hunter and his hounds.

Lobel, Arnold
Lobel's pièce de résistance written in his typically dry witty style. The animals predicaments are wonderful commentaries on human foibles.

The best of the Frog and Toad series. Includes "The Dream" and "Cookies."

Giant John goes out to make money because he and his mother are very poor. He ends up working for the king and queen.

The people of a village realize that it is not pleasant when things are just one color.

A rooster scares away robbers.

Martha lives in a movie theater. She loves the movies, and her friend, the projectionist Dan. One day she becomes the entertainment she loves as she sits on the stage and sings to the audience of her "sad life past."

Ming Lo has a problem. His house is close to a mountain, and rolling rocks fall through the roof. He consults a wise man for advice on moving the mountain.

Prince Bertram is so bad that a witch turns him into a dragon. He turns the tables when, as a dragon, he saves the witch's life.
Small Pig leaves his farm for the city, and ends up getting stuck in wet cement which he mistakes for mud.

A farmer's wife has to be very creative to get her lazy husband out of bed.

Locke, Thomas
A girl relates how her family nearly loses their farm, until they diversify into pumpkins and flowers.

The drama of a wild horse and two boys who love it.

A young girl goes sailing with her favorite uncle.

Josh and Aaron go on a camping trip with their grandfather who takes them to the source of the river that flows by their farm.

Lopshire, Robert
A collection of ingeniously-named craft projects for children.

Louie, Al-Ling
One of the most ancient versions of the Cinderella story with magic fish bones instead of a Fairy Godmother.

Lowry, Lois
The first of the Anastasia books that detail her life with her father, Myron a Harvard Literature Professor, mother, Katherine an artist, and younger brother, Sam, all-around precocious kid. In this first book, Anastasia loses a Grandmother and gains Sam. Sequels are:

Anastasia Again!
Anastasia At Your Service
Anastasia, Ask Your Analyst
Anastasia On Her Own
Anastasia Has the Answers
Anastasia's Chosen Career
Anastasia at This Address

A Danish Christian family helps smuggle a Jewish family to Sweden during World War II.

Caroline and J.P. Tate think that the neighbor in the upstairs apartment is going to kill them. Their single-parent mother threatens to send them to Des Moines to live with their father—horrible, horrible, horrible.
Sequels are:

Switcharound
Your Move, J.P.

The story is narrated by 12 year old Rabble, whose real name is Parable Ann. Her family works as housekeepers for the Bigelows. This is a story about families and the way they fit together.

Enid gets more than she bargained for when she starts taking care of a kid who calls himself Terrific.

Lyon, David
Sebastian Willowfrost's toy wooden duck on wheels goes on a journey that leads it to a deserted isle and then France, after accidently being left tied to the car bumper.
Macaulay, David

Shows how all manner of machines and technology work, from the wedge and inclined plane, to supercomputers.

A chain of events involving a train, cows, and a robber is set off when the chicken crosses the road.

Mahy, Margaret

Similar to Bishop's Five Chinese Brothers, just a couple more brothers.

The kings and the elephants romp through the jungle on an alliterative adventure in the wild wet night.

Marcourek, Milos

Two Czech children get a magic phone with which they are able to, among other things, get small so they can attack a friend's germs.

Marshall, James

Irrepressible Spud and Joe get in all sorts of trouble.

The two friends deal with misunderstandings over a present, and turn the table on each other both when George asks Martha to imagine an ocean voyage, and then gives her an unwelcome surprise shower with the water hose.

A funny version of the classic tale in which Papa Bear is not amused when he finds his bed's been slept in.

Marshall's illustrations grace a traditional version of the tale with his typical humor thrown in.

Red does not heed warnings before she goes off to Grandmother's house.

The classic mother goose rhyme illustrated with Marshall's typical wit.

Portly is worried that his party won't go over well.

Pigs done in Marshall style.

Emily Pig feels that it's important to sample new products, and she just can't seem to control herself whenever there's food around. Sequel is:

Yummers Too: The Second Course

Martin, Bill

Children see animals of different colors.

Children hear all sorts of animal sounds.
Maxner, Joyce
  Nicholas Cricket leads his band and the forest creatures in a musical celebration.

Mayer, Marianna
  The illustrations in this version link the Beast with men-animals of Egyptian mythology.

Mayer, Mercer
  A young maiden must journey East of the Sun and West of the Moon with the help of the Moon, Father Forest, Great Fish of the Sea, and the North Wind, in order to save her beloved from the clutches of an evil troll queen.

Mayne, William
  Two British country boys discover a young drummer boy who seems to have come out of a cave and carries a candle that won't go out.

Mazer, Norma Fox
  Terry Mueller discovers that she has a mother, and that her father abducted her and this is why they move so often.

McClosky, Robert
  Sal and her mother go blueberry picking, and Sal gets inadvertently mixed up with a bear cub and its mother.

  Genuine Americana that begins with the new-fangled "Hide-a-Ride" invention and ends with the destruction of a public library.

  Stories about Homer Price and the other denizens of Centerburg, that include the doughnut machine gone awry, a Pied Piper, and prefab houses.

Lentil. New York: Viking, 1940.
  Lentil loves to play the harmonica, and finds out that it's a useful skill when Old Snoop's lemon sucking puckers up the town band trying to play for the return of their favorite son.

  A duckling family tries to find a proper home, and ends up needing a policeman to help them navigate Boston's Beacon Hill on their way to the Botanical Gardens.

  Sal loses a tooth, gets to take a trip to the mainland by boat to buy groceries, and gets clam chowder for lunch.

  The joy of simple living on the Maine seacoast is explored, climaxed by a terrible storm.

McDermott, Gerald
  Anansi's six sons help him out of a tough scrape, but then the sons cannot agree who is most responsible.

McKie, Roy and P. D. Eastman
  Two children enjoy playing in the snow.

McKillop, Patricia
  Sybel is a wizard who has at her command a bevy of magical beasts, with whom she journeys across Eldwold.

  Morgan, a simple farmer well-versed in riddles journeys to seek the High One in the Erlenstar Mountains to try to unravel the riddle of the three stars on his forehead.

McKinley, Robyn

McKinley tells the story of Beauty from her point of view, expanding greatly on the traditional fairy tale.

McLachlan, Patricia

A mail order bride comes to a widower and his children in the midwest.

MacMillan, Bruce

Explains fractions through the use of food. Recipes included.

Jason's parents throw his tricycle away because it's too worn out. The tricycle thinks otherwise, and propels itself back home from the dump.

McSwigan, Marie
Snow Treasure New York: Dutton, 1942.

Based on a true story of Norwegian children slipping their country's gold past the Nazis during World War II.

Meltzer, Milton

Stories of immigrants to the United States from Latin America.

This is a moving history of Hitler's holocaust during the Second World War.

Merrill, Jean

A "historical" account of how pushcart owners fight back against evil truckers in New York City.

Milne, A. A.

Further adventures of Pooh.

Pooh Bear gets in all sorts of scrapes, including getting his head stuck in Rabbit's hole.

Montgomery, Michael

A child says good night to all things American, including the President and the Chicago Cubs.

Morimoto, Junko

A mouse couple searches for the best and mightiest husband in the world for their daughter.

Mosel, Arlene

The funny little woman follows her rice ball down a hole and meets the wicked Oni.

Tikki Tikki Tembo No Sa Rembo Chari Barl Ruchi Pip Peri Pembo has such a long name that it becomes a hindrance when he falls down a well.

Myers, Walter Dean

A love story about a ghetto kid who falls for a girl who has prospects and wants to go to college.

Ness, Evaline

Mr. Miacca steals a young boy who walks around the corner. He is going to cut his leg off to use for a stew, but the boy hides under his couch, holds out a wooden couch leg which Mr. Miacca mistakes for the real thing, and then the boy escapes.
Sam (Samantha) doesn't know the difference between real and moonshine until she experiences a near tragedy.

Newman, Robert
Andrew comes to London and becomes one of Sherlock Holmes' Baker Street Irregulars. The first in a series.

Nixon, Joan Lowery
Christina gets kidnapped and her kidnappers make it appear as if she had arranged it herself to get her grandmother's money. She has to prove her innocence.

Noble, Trinka Hakes
Jimmy's boa royally disrupts a class trip to the farm.

Nodset, Joan L.
The farmer finds that his hat has been appropriated by a bird for a nest.

O'Brien, Robert C.
Rats are made intelligent through experiments at the National Institute of Mental Health. A family of field mice become involved with them.

After a nuclear holocaust, Ann Borden thinks that she may be the only one left alive.

O'Dell, Scott
Karana gets left on an island with her brother as hunters take everyone else away.
When her brother dies she is forced to survive on her own.

A boy's father goes to California for work, then sends for him. The boy carries a jar of pickles all the way with him to California to remind him of home.

This is about a young map maker who accompanies a Spanish expedition to find legendary golden cities. Upon his return he is jailed for not bringing back the King's fifth of the spoils.

Ormerod, Jan
A baby climbs up into his father's lap to read what his father is reading.

Oz, Amos
A young Jewish boy in Jerusalem gets a bike as a present from an eccentric uncle. He exchanges the bike with a friend for some cars, and then for an electric train set.

Park, Ruth
Based on the premise that when the wind changes your face remains in whatever contorted shape you had it in.

Parkin, Rex
A runaway red carpet is rolled out the door of the Bellvue hotel and just keeps on rolling.

Parkinson, Kathy
Animals help Grandpa, Grandma and their Grandson pull an enormous turnip out of the ground. In this version, it is only when a beetle gets on the end of the line that they can pull it out.
Paterson, Katherine

Jess is the fastest runner in school until Leslie comes along, and she's a girl. They become friends, and create a secret place in the woods called Terabithia.

Foster child, Gilly, wreaks havoc in her foster homes.

Perrault, Charles

Brown’s Caldecott award-winning illustrations grace this version of the tale.

Marcellino’s illustrations make this one of the best versions of the tale.

Pierce, Meredith Ann

A maiden redeems a vampire who takes wives to his lair and sucks out their souls and keeps them in vials around his neck. Sequels are:

A Gathering of Gargoyles
The Pearl of the Soul of the World

Piper, Watty

A little train tries valiantly to get a load of dolls and toys to the children on the other side of the hill.

Politi, Leo
Mr. Fong’s Toy Shop. New York: Scribner’s, 1978.

Mr. Fong sells toys in a shop in Chinatown. In this story, he helps a group of children make shadow puppets for the moon festival.

Potter, Beatrix.
The Tale of Peter Rabbit. New York: Frederick Warne, 1903.

Peter Rabbit disobeys and goes searching for vegetables in Mr. McGregor’s forbidden garden. He learns his lesson when Mr. McGregor comes after him.

Potter, Marian

The Caboose thinks it’s not important until it saves a train that can’t make it up a hill.
Prishvin, M.
Children go exploring in the woods beyond their Russian village.

Provensen, Alice and Martin
A picture book biography of a man who was fascinated by flying and built an airplane which he used to cross the English Channel.

The story of the evolution of a street, and how the government comes in and evicts everybody because a reservoir is to be built.

Chronicles the lives of the animals on Maple Hill Farm through the course of a year.

Pullman, Phillip
A mystery set in Victorian-era London about Sally Lockhart. After her father dies, she is soon embroiled with all types of characters who are trying to kill her.
Sequels are:
The Shadow in the North
The Tiger in the Well

Raskin, Ellen
A bunch of people are after the fortune of Samuel Westing, but they have to play the game he's invented in order to get it.

Rawlings, Marjorie Kinnan
Young Jody grows up, and has life-changing experiences when he must free a young deer.

Rawls, Wilson
Billy Coleman gets his deepest wish, which is to have two hunting dogs, Old Dan and Little Ann; who become his closest companions and the best hunting dogs in the county.

Reed, Jonathon
Entertainingly addresses fears and questions children have.

Reid Banks, Lynne.
Omri's plastic Indian comes to life.
Sequels are:
The Return of the Indian
Secret of the Indian

Rey, H.A.
The man with the yellow hat catches Curious George and takes him back to civilization. George's curiosity causes him to accidently call the Fire Department, and take a ride with a bunch of balloons.

Rice, Eve
A family goes for a walk in the bright lights of the city night.

Riddell, Chris
Elephants can be a lot of trouble, but ultimately the biggest trouble is that you just have to love them.

Ringgold, Faith
Tar Beach is the rooftop of a Harlem apartment building, where Cassie dreams she can fly over whatever she wants and own it.
Roberts, Willo Davis
A tremendously suspenseful story about a boy who witnesses a murder, and nobody believes that someone is trying to kill him because of it. The family is all involved in the oldest daughter's wedding, which makes for delightful chaos.

Robertson, Keith.
Henry Harris Reed's private journal of a summer spent with an Aunt and Uncle in New Jersey during which he meets Midge Glass, who becomes a partner in his pure and applied research firm. Sequels are:
- Henry Reed's Journey
- Henry Reed's Babysitting Service
- Henry Reed's Big Show
- Henry Reed's Think Tank

Robles Boza, Eduardo
Four letters escape from a book, and try to form different words.

Rockwell, Ann and Harlow
A child with his mother takes the thruway on a trip to the zoo.

Rogasky, Barbara
Rapunzel lets down her hair, the witch climbs up, and so does the Prince. The witch finds out. She is not pleased. The prince loses his eyesight, but it is restored when Rapunzel finds him.

Rose, Anne
Ron Ronson ends up getting a new outfit piece by piece to match his new shoelaces. He ends up also getting a large house for his newly grand wife.

Rosen, Michael.
An illustrated version of the finger game in which a family goes on a lighthearted hunt for bears.

Ryan, Chell Duran
Hildilid hates the night and tries to get rid of it in all manner of silly ways.

Ryland, Lee
Gordon tries all sorts of instruments, but he plays them so badly that his parents can't stand it. Finally he gets a glockenspiel, and is a success.

Rylant, Cynthia
A Fine White Dust. New York: Bradbury, 1986
A boy gets carried away by a preacher's promises to take him away with him.

Relatives come for a visit and life becomes filled with games and family faces.

Shows the process of planting, caring for, and harvesting a garden.

Reminiscences of a rural mountain childhood enhanced by soft pastel illustrations.

Sachar, Louis
A touching story about misfit Bradley Chalkers who gets turned around by a misfit counselor.
Sachs, Marilyn
Fran's family is on welfare, and she escapes into an imaginary world of the Three Bears in her dollhouse. Sequel is:
Fran Ellen's House

Sauer, Julia
Greta travels through time as she goes into the fog to a secret village over the mountain.

When a boy gets lost, the only home he knows is "Mike's House," meaning the library where the book Mike Mulligan and His Steam Shovel is.

Sawyer, Ruth
Johnny is sent out of the house when his parents no longer have the wherewithal to feed him. They give him a journey cake to eat along the way, which falls out of his pack and starts racing along a la The Gingerbread Boy.

Tells of Lucinda's year in the 1890's as she skates about New York City.

Schwartz, Alvin
A book about haunted treasure, cursed treasure, and all other manner of treasure.

Schwartz, Amy
Annabelle's sister teaches her "Kindergarten 101" and she triumphs when she is the only one in the class who can count the milk money.

Schwartz, David M.
@How Much is a Million. New York: Lothrop, Lee and Shepard, 1985.
Tries to get children to picture just how immense the concept of one million is.

@If You Made a Million. New York: Lothrop, Lee and Shepard, 1989.
Dramatically illustrates the concept of a million dollars.

Seeger, Pete and Charles Seeger
A farmer is inspired by a frog's leap across a brook to write a song, that everyone enjoys so much that they forget everything else and end up singing together at the corner store.

Seidler, Tor
A story about Montague Mad Rat who, because he lives in the sewers, is shunned by the more sophisticated wharf rats. But he is able to save ratdom from being poisoned, and becomes a hero.

Selden, George
A young boy who sells newspapers with his family in Times Square, finds a cricket that can truly sing.

A boy conjures a genie out of a rug, using a spell he finds in his father's Egyptology books.

Sendak, Maurice
Max is a wild thing and gets sent off to bed without any supper. His room becomes a jungle, and he voyages to the land of the Wild Things.
Seredy, Kate
A poetically beautiful story of a Hungarian boy prince, who takes an acorn to the U.S. to plant after the family tree and the entire valley, are destroyed during World War II.

Seuss, Dr.
The Cat in the Hat enlivens the day of two children who are bored because of rain.

Horton faithfully sits on an egg after it is abandoned by the lazy bird, Mayze.

A boy contemplates how it would be if he could be in charge of a zoo.

Sewell, Anna
The horse, Black Beauty, recounts his own experiences with good and bad masters in 19th Century England.

Seymour, Peter
A lift the flap pop-up book that shows different things in a cave, then ends with a monster.

Sharmat, Marjorie Weinman
A boy who is moving from New York City to Arizona, is scared about all the things he's heard about the West.

Sheldon, Dyan
A little girl goes out to the beach to listen to the whales sing.

Shemin, Margaretha
An American girl living in Holland during World War II, helps to protect the figures of the "Little Riders" in the town's ancient clock tower.

Shulevitz, Uri
A boy living in the inner city, is visited each day of the week by fantasy characters from a pack of cards. But each day he is not home, he is out somewhere in the dreary city. Finally on Sunday he is home, and the royal procession drops in to say hello.

After having a dream, a man goes in search of the treasure it showed him, and learns that it was at home all the time.

Shusterman, Neal
A hard-hitting story about a group of kids who are all second best. They form a club that meets in a secret place in the woods. They play pranks against the popular kids that seem harmless, but mysteriously turn ugly.

Simon, Seymour
Debunks commonly held myths about animals.
   A real journey from the Earth in space, to galaxies that "can barely be photographed even through the largest telescopes."

Sis, Peter
◊Beach Ball. New York: Greenwillc., 1990.
   Mary hunts for her beach ball which has been blown away in this book of colors, numbers, and shapes.

Slobodkina, Esphyr
◊Caps for Sale. Reading, Massachusetts: Young Scott, 1942.
   A peddler goes to sleep under a tree and wakes up to discover that a bunch of monkeys has stolen his caps.

Small, David
   Imogene wakes up one morning to discover that she has grown antlers. There are more than a few difficulties involved in making the transition.

Snyder, Zilpha Keatly
   Raamo finds out what really lies below the roots of the trees that are part of his world of Green-sky, which is contrary to what the leaders have always passed off as the truth. Sequels are:
   And All Between
   Until the Celebration

Sobol, Donald
   One in a long series of books about Encyclopedia Brown who solves mysteries to which readers are encouraged to ponder solutions before they go to the back of the book to read the author's solutions.

Soto, Gary
   A series of short stories about growing up Hispanic in east L.A.

Speare, Elizabeth George
   Kit is suspected of being a witch during the time of the Salem Witch Trials.

Sperry, Armstrong
Call it Courage. New York: Macmillan, 1940.
   Mafatu, whose name means "Stout heart" is not really brave at all. He's an embarrassment to his father, the chief, and so he decides that he must prove himself by journeying to an island on his own.

Spinelli, Jerry
   A modern day tall tale about the mythic figure of Maniac Magee who brings the black and white sides of town together.

Sorensen, Virginia
   Marty finds miracles all around her when her family moves to a small farmhouse on Maple hill; not only that of the sap rising, but of a family coming together.

Spier, Peter
   Bored kids make a flying machine from junk.

   A nearly wordless portrayal of the biblical story, notable for its realism, especially in showing how messy the ark would have gotten.

   A group of children paint their house in psychedelic colors while the parents are away.
Shows the diversity of the world's people.

Two children play in the rain in this wordless picture book.

Our national anthem illustrated.

A loving history of a Model T is presented.

Our Constitution illustrated.

Stanley, Diane
Captain Whiz Bang is a cat named after a comic strip. The girl who cared for him gets married. When she brings her children back to her parents' home, they see an old lazy Captain Whiz Bang. The mother talks to them about the passage of time.

Staples, Suzanne Fisher
Phulan has to marry someone she despises to save her family's honor in this tale set in modern-day Pakistan.

Steel, Flora Annie
Tattercoats is a poor maiden who spends her days as companion to a crippled gooseherd, in this variation of the Cinderella story.

Steig, William
Abel, a mouse, gets shipwrecked on an island, and after much travail, makes it home to his wife.

Pearl the Pig finds a talking bone which helps her out of numerous predicaments, including being the main course of a ravenous fox.

Caleb and Kate's marriage is threatened when Caleb turns into a dog.

Doctor DeSoto, a mouse dentist, with his wife, outfox a fox who wants to eat them after they've fixed his teeth. Sequel is:
Doctor DeSoto Goes to Africa

Dominic is a dog who goes out to seek his fortune.

Roland, the Minstrel Pig. New York: Windmill Books/Dutton, 1968.
Roland sets off to be a minstrel pig, and ends up singing for the King.

Shrek is so repulsive that no one can stand the sight of him, until he meets his true love.

Solomon is a rabbit who turns into a rusty nail.

Sylvester finds a magic pebble that grants any wish, and accidentally wishes that he were a rock.

Leonard goes searching for his parents in a jungle full of strange creatures and plants.
Steptoe, John

Baby tries to get big brother's attention.

Mufaro has two daughters he sends to the king who is choosing a wife. One, Maynara, is always bad tempered. The other, Nyasha, is very kind.

Jumping Mouse gives away precious things, such as his sight and sense of smell, to other animals that need it as he journeys.

Stevens, Janet

The country mouse learns to appreciate his environs after a harrowing trip to the city.

Stevenson, James

An old doll and Teddy Bear, discarded on Christmas in favor of new toys, meet up with a dog who helps them to find new homes.

Rose, a baby in a high chair, just rolls away one day, and lots of other babies follow her example.

Stevenson, Robert Louis

The classic story of a boy who ends up with a treasure map on a pirate ship commanded by the dreaded Long John Silver.

Swope, Sam

The Araboolies are bizarre people who move into a suburban neighborhood where a stern military man and his wife don't want anyone who's different.

Tafuri, Nancy

A baby throws a ball which goes on a mini-journey.

A mother duck searches for her lost duckling.

A wordless story in which a child goes on an imaginary journey into the jungle.

Tarlton, Gillian Leigh

The story of a brilliant teen pianist in New Zealand.

Taylor, Mark

Henry wants to go exploring the impenetrable jungle and ends up finding a real tiger escaped from the zoo.

Taylor, Mildred

Grandpa's friendship with the white store owner is betrayed.

Dad brings home a gold Cadillac, and the family drives south with it, where Dad is arrested by bigoted police.

Roll of Thunder, Hear My Cry. New York: Dial, 1976

In one turbulent year, Cassie Logan's world is turned upside down as she learns to survive racial prejudice. Sequels are:
Let the Circle Be Unbroken
The Road to Memphis
Thayer, Janet
When Gus the Ghost's family goes away for the winter, he makes friends with a mouse. When the family returns he has to keep them from killing him.

A group of neighbors finally decide to have a common back yard and share the dog that has been frequenting their residences.

Titherington, Jeanne
Baby flies away to sleep on a boat.

A boy plants a pumpkin and it grows.

Titus, Eve
Anatole's children are caught by a toy shop owner, and become popular when he makes them ride bicycles in the shop window. Anatole rescues them using, of all things, cats!

Tolkien, J. R. R.
Bilbo Baggins helps trolls rescue their treasure from the dragon Smaug, even though Hobbits like himself are wont to enjoy the easy life smoking their pipes. A prelude to Tolkien's monumental trilogy, The Lord of the Rings

Tresselt, Alvin
A poetic consideration of imponderables.

Turkel, Brinton.
A wordless reversal of the Goldilocks story. This time it's a bear who breaks into the human cottage.

Obadiah is followed around by a seagull. He finally gets a chance to help it when a hook gets wrapped around its beak.

Udry, Janice May
Two boys hate each other, then make up.

Children journey out to play in the night.

A look at the different ways that trees are nice to have around.

Van Allsburg, Chris
A boy follows his dog into the mysterious garden of the magician Abdul Gasazi, where Gasazi leads him to believe that he has turned the dog into a duck.

Peter and Judy find a jungle adventure board game that comes to life in their living room.

A series of mysterious pictures with only a title and caption to explain them. You have to make up the rest.

A young boy who truly believes is taken by the Polar Express one Christmas Eve to the north pole where Santa gives him his hearts desire--a bell from his sleigh.
Two ants decide to stay behind after their colony has raided a sugar bowl in a house. Told from their point of view, they have horrifying encounters with household things.

A witch crash-lands in a field, is tended by a kind old widow and disappears the next morning, leaving her broom behind. The broom, it turns out can, among other things, both clean the house and play the piano.

A boy hears a mysterious tale from a sailor about a boat that could fly.

Sailors find a strange glowing rock on an island that turns them all into apes.

VanLann, Nancy
Relates the legend of the king gilded in gold who bathed in a lake. The fabled existence of this golden lake drove the Spanish conquistadores.

Varvasovsky, Laszlo
Henry journeys into a strange world where everything is a shadow.

Vincent, Gabrielle
Celestine is upset over the loss of her toy bird Gideon.

Vinke, Herman
The story of a young German girl who helped form a resistance group against the Nazis during World War II called "The White Rose." She was executed.

Viorst, Judith
Alexander has a typical child's bad day where he doesn't like what he has to eat, etc. He wishes he were in Australia, but even there they have bad days.

Through mishaps, Alexander loses all his money, much of it in payment for mistakes.

A very sensitive story about death. A boy's cat dies, and he tries to think of ten good things to say about his cat at the funeral.

Volght, Cynthia
After being abandoned by their mother in a mall parking lot, Dicey leads her brothers and sisters on a long walk where they eventually reach their grandmother's home.

Dicey and her siblings learn how to get along with grandma, and the fate of their mother is revealed.

VonTscharner, Renate
Shows how a fictional New England downtown changes from the 1800's to 1987. A wonderful way of making history come alive.

Waber, Bernard
Lyle, the crocodile, lives with a family in a New York brownstone.

Ira is embarrassed to take his teddy bear to a sleepover with a friend, until he learns that his friend has a teddy bear also.

Wahl, Jan

Humphrey journeys with his Teddy Bear in his dreams. His father comes into the room and tells him that he used to go with him as well.

Walker, Barbara M.

Recipes for foods mentioned in the Little House books.

Wangerin, Walter

Farm animals, led by a rooster, fight an evil power.

Ward, Lynd

A boy can't bring himself to shoot the bear that he has brought up from a cub who has destroyed all the neighbor's food. The bear ends up in a zoo.

Welsh, Martha

The first in a series of mysteries about the Alden family, who we first meet living in a Boxcar on their own. Sequels are:

Surprise Island
The Yellow House Mystery
Mystery Ranch
Mike's Mystery
Blue Bay Mystery
The Woodshed Mystery
The Lighthouse Mystery
Mountain Top Mystery

Watkins, Yoko Kawashima

Harrowing tale of a Japanese family in Korea in World War II. They escape from the Korean communist army.

Wells, Rosemary

Felix gets sick in front of the whole class and needs a visit to the bunny planet.

Max has lots of toys, but what he really wants is his sister Ruby's doll, Emily.
Roberts visit to his Aunt and Uncle is a disaster, so he visits the bunny planet.

Nora runs away when she doesn't feel that enough attention is being paid to her. Annie loves her Teddy Bear, Peabody, until a new talking doll arrives.

Timothy goes to school and each day Claude tells him he shouldn't be wearing what he's wearing, and Claude never makes mistakes.

The residents of a town grow a garden of vegetables big enough to serve as houses.

The little old lady swallows one thing too many.

Charlotte the spider saves Wilber the runt pig from certain death by writing words in her web.

Lizzie and Harold discover they are really best friends, even if Harold is a boy.

A young boy, the son of a famous bullfighter, is bothered by expectations that he should be a bullfighter as well. He is unsure that he has the courage.

A mother with seven children named after the days of the week leaves home. While she's gone, a witch comes to the house, turns the children into food, and takes them home to eat. Mom journeys to the witch's house and breaks the spell by correctly identifying the food that each has been turned into.

   No one can get King Bidgood out of his bath, not his wife, not the court. Finally, the page pulls the plug.

   A cumulative tale in which everyone ends up on top of the sleeping Grandma

Yardley, Joanna
   Joanna's dog snatches her red ball and takes it up into the attic. In the attic she finds a box of old photographs. She sees the ball in one of the pictures, and as she tries to get it back, she finds herself inside the picture.

Yorinks, Arthur
   A janitor and his dog think that life is pretty rotten. An exotic bird takes them to an island paradise in the sky. But once there, they start to turn into birds. They go back home finding that 'Paradise lost is sometimes heaven found.'

Young, Ed
   It's Grandma that leaves the house in this version, and there are three sisters who thwart a very frightening-looking wolf.

   Each of the Seven Blind Mice mistake an elephant they are examining for something else, because they can only feel part of it.

Zelinsky, Paul
   The song adapted as a pop-up book by Zelinsky, with the music on the back.

Zemach, Harve
   A Cornish retelling of Rumplestiltskin.

   A judge does not heed various prisoner's warnings that a terrible thing is coming their way until it is too late.

Zemach, Margot
   The Little Red Hen couldn't get anyone to help her with the bread until it was ready to eat.

Zhensun, Zheng and Alice Low
   Examines the life and paintings of a young Chinese prodigy, who began painting when she was three years old.

Zindel, Paul
   A terrific, scary, funny story about two friends, a boy and a girl, who live in a high-rise apartment and suspect their neighbor, who is an undertaker, of killing his wife.

Zion, Gene
   After escaping a bath at home, Harry goes on a fling through every dirty place he can find, and changes from a white dog with black spots, to a black dog with white spots.

   A boy becomes a plant sitter during summer vacation, and dreams that he gets so many plants and they grow so well that it breaks the house apart.
Zolotow, Charlotte
Mr. Rabbit helps a girl search for a suitable present for her mother.

Two children find friendship in a park on a summer night; the adults don't understand.

Poetry and Songs

Brown, Marc

Cassedy, Silvia and Kunihiro Suetake

DePaola, Tomie
Tomie DePaola's Book of Poems.

Fleischman, Paul

Fufuka, Karama

Hayes, Sara

Hopkins, Lee Bennett

Hughes, Langston

Lobel, Arnold

Nash, Ogden

Ople, Iona

Prelutsky, Jack

Sequel is:
The Headless Horseman Rides Tonight: More Poems to Trouble Your Sleep

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Author/Title</th>
<th>Publisher/Notes</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Ring a Ring O' Roses</td>
<td>Flint Public Library, 1971.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Professional Materials

- MacDonald, Margaret Read

- Massoglia, Elinor Tripato

- Miller, Karen

- Nichols, Judy

- Pellowski, Anne
Media

Videocassettes

Bill Peet explains his way of creating picture books.

Two wooden dolls rearrange a set of wooden blocks as problems occur around them. Also available in 16 mm format.

An animated adaptation of William Steig's book. Also available in 16 mm and filmstrip format.

Encyclopedia Brown and his friend solve the case of a missing time capsule scheduled to be opened by the mayor.

Includes animated adaptations of:
Frederick
Cornellus
It's Mine!
Fish is Fish
Swimmy

The Wood's picture book is presented as an Operetta.

A portrait of the Newbery Award-winning author.

Madeline: The Musical. Hi Tops Video. 30 min.
A musical adaptation of Ludwig Bemelman's picture book.

Mike Mulligan and His Steam Shovel and Other Stories. Children's Circle. 30 min.
Includes iconographic adaptations:
Mike Mulligan and His Steam Shovel
Burt Dow, Deep Water Man
Moon Man.

A live action adaptation of the Don Freeman picture book.

Three different kingdoms, one yellow, one red, and one blue, go to war with each other after a young boy from the yellow kingdom discovers the secret of transportation from one kingdom to another. They fight each other with paint, but as it mixes they realize that there are other colors.

A live action adaptation of Mayer's picture book. Also available in 16 mm format.

A live action adaptation that is quite close to Mayer's picture book. Also available in 16 mm format.

Also includes:
Leopold, the See-Through Crumbpicker
The Island of the Skog
Fourteen Rats and a Rat Catcher

Lois Lowry explains her writing methods.

The classic film with Judy Garland as Dorothy.
16 MM Films

Aesop's Fables. Films Incorporated, 1975. 27 min.
Bill Cosby narrates these dramatizations of Aesop's Fables.

The Band Concert. Walt Disney Educational Media, 1978. 9 min.
Mickey leads the band, but is interrupted by Donald Duck.

Granpa. Weston Woods, 1990. 27 min.
A musical adaptation of the John Burningham picture book.

Harry Comes Home. Barr, 1991. 25 min.
The Carnegie medal film about the Dobson family who takes in Harry the Dirty Dog from the pound. Harry is tormented by the evil cat owned by the equally conniving lady next door.

Peter and the Wolf. Walt Disney Educational Media, 1964. 14 min.
The Disney animated adaptation of Prokofief's musical story.

The Remarkable Riderless Runaway Tricycle. Phoenix, 1982. 11 min.
A live action adaptation of the Bruce McMillan picture book.

The Tortoise and the Hare. Walt Disney Educational Media, 1984. 8 min.
Academy Award-winning short subject dramatizing the famous race.

Filmstrips

Fables. Random House, 1981. 135 Frames.
Some of the fables from Lobel's Caldecott Award-winning book are dramatized.

Lloyd Alexander: Meet the Newbery Author. Miller Brody, 1974.
Lloyd Alexander explains some of the influences on his work.

Noisy Nora. Weston Woods, 1975. 26 Frames.
An adaptation of the Rosemary Wells picture book, done as a song.

Pinkerton, Behave! Weston Woods, 1982. 33 Frames.
An adaptation of the Steven Kellogg picture book.

The Real, the True, the Gen U ine Wizard of Oz. Random House, 1987. 123 Frames.
Reviews the life and career of the man who wrote The Wizard of Oz.

Susan Cooper: Meet the Newbery Author. Miller Brody, 1977.
Susan Cooper recounts some of the influences on her The Dark is Rising books.

Audiotapes

I Know an Old Lady. Weston Woods, 1961.
This is sung so you can learn the tune.
Clip Art

by

Felicia Bond
LIONS, and TIGERS, and BOOKS... OH MY!
WILD READER

WILD 'N' CRAZY FOR READING!!

I CHECKED IT OUT!

WILDEST READER

WILD READER

WILD 'N' CRAZY FOR READING!!

I CHECKED IT OUT!
WILD 'N' CRAZY FOR READING!!

WILDEST READER

WILD READER

CHECK IT OUT!

CHECK IT OUT!

CHECK IT OUT!
Button designs on the following page fit standard button making machines. Cut on dotted line for correct size.
Buttons
LEÓNES, Y TIGRES, Y LIBROS... ¡HURRA!
TIME LOG
Read around the clock.
Make every minute count!

Name ________________________________
Address ______________________________
City __________________ Zip __________
Phone ________________________________
School __________________ Grade ______

TOTAL

LIONS, and TIGERS, and BOOKS

OH MY!

Texas Reading Club * 1993
Tee shirt transfers are on the next page.
Certificate of Appreciation

Presented to:

SUPER VOLUNTEER for
Texas Reading Club
The Texas State Library

Library
Date

Certificate of Appreciation

Presented to:

SUPER VOLUNTEER for
Texas Reading Club
The Texas State Library

Library
Date
Certificate of Appreciation

Presented to:

SUPER VOLUNTEER for
Texas Reading Club 1993
The Texas State Library
WILDEST READER

recommends a GOOD READ
with

I CHECKED IT OUT!

WILDEST READER

recommends a GOOD READ
with

I CHECKED IT OUT!