ABSTRACT

This book lists resources for materials and ideas for teaching about Japan. The resource listings are not intended to be encyclopedic and are not intended to be a comprehensive listing of every useful curriculum item. The attempt has been made to highlight especially those organizations that work with kindergarten through grade 12 teachers, understand their needs, respect their challenges, and design meaningful materials. Programs, materials, and groups are organized in 16 sections. The first section describes the National Precollegiate Japan Projects Network. Thirteen programs across the United States are included with address, telephone, and contact information. The section on outreach programs includes 31 entries connected with museums, educational organizations, and federally funded programs. The third section lists 19 related organizations that do not focus on Japan specifically but provide services and materials helpful to those teaching about Japanese culture. The section for audio-visual materials lists three sources to contact for comprehensive listings of these materials. The next four sections give addresses of the Japanese embassy, consulates general, and Japan information centers, Japan External Trade Organization (JETRO) offices, Japan National Tourist Organization (JNTO) offices, and Japanese chambers of commerce in the United States. Other sections list additional exchange programs not included in previous sections; Japan-America Societies; sister cities; resources for Japanese language instruction; publishers, distributors, and newsletters; and funding foundations. Information on the National Clearinghouse for United States-Japan Studies and the ERIC database is given. The section on ERIC resources includes instructions for obtaining listed materials, and a sampling of 32 items. (DK)

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Linda S. Wojtan is currently the Coordinator of the National Precollegiate Japan Projects Network. Ms. Wojtan has held positions at Indiana University, the University of Nebraska-Omaha, and the University of Maryland in the field of precollegiate outreach regarding East Asia during the past 15 years. Her teaching experience includes the junior and senior high school levels as well as university level professional development courses.

Professionally, she has served as chair of the Association for Asian Studies' Committee on Teaching about Asia (CTA), and as chair of the National Council for Social Studies' (NCSS) International Activities Committee, and on the NCSS Publications Board. In addition, she serves as a curriculum consultant for the Keizai Koho Center (KKC) Fellowships, sponsored by the KKC, Tokyo, in cooperation with NCSS. She currently chairs the NCSS Conference Committee and serves on the Executive Committee of the National Social Studies Supervisors' Association, the Advisory Board of the National Clearinghouse for United States-Japan Studies, and the Project Advisory Council for the Japanese Language Exchange (JALEX) project of the Laurasian Institution.

Recent publications include editor (with Donald Spence) of Internationalizing the U.S. Classroom: Japan as a Model (ERIC: Indiana University, Bloomington), the newly revised Introduction to Japan: A Workbook (Youth for Understanding: Washington, D.C.) and "Teaching Resources for Understanding the U.S.-Japanese Relationship" (Social Education, NCSS: Washington, DC). Each year, she conducts numerous workshops, including those involving distance learning technology, on teaching about Japan at the K-12 level.

PREFACE

This book is intended to replace two earlier works, Free Resources for Teaching about Japan (first issued in 1979 and last revised in 1987) and Guide to Recommended Curriculum and Audio-Visual Materials for Teaching about Japan (first issued in 1986 and last revised in 1988). The world, and certainly the influence of United States-Japan relations, has changed dramatically since 1979. At that time, trade across the Pacific had not yet surpassed Atlantic transactions, few educators had first-hand experience visiting Japan and only a small number of them had undertaken formal study of the language and/or culture.

The next decade, the 80s, witnessed a dramatic increase in trade relations with Japan, an ensuing period of bashing and an explosion of interest in Japan. Unfortunately, during this time many of the earlier stereotypes were soon replaced by new ones.

The present decade promises to be equally challenging. Continued global economic woes have led those on both sides of the Pacific to again lay blame and criticize each other's economic policies. Perhaps at no time has there been a greater need for both balanced curriculum materials as well as knowledgeable intercultural educators, in the effort to enhance mutual understanding. This volume is designed to provide teachers and curriculum developers with sources of accurate and up-to-date information about Japanese society and culture, and about United States - Japan relations.

Perhaps a few caveats are in order. Readers will not find this to be a comprehensive listing of every useful curriculum item. Nor will they find the resource listings encyclopedic. Rather, an attempt was made to highlight especially those organizations that work with K-12 teachers, understand their needs, respect their challenges, and design meaningful materials. No doubt, several useful organizations have been omitted. Although every attempt was made to list current and accurate data, especially regarding contact persons, addresses and telephone numbers, such information continues to change. Readers are urged to assist in the constant updating of this guide by sending corrections, additions and comments to:

Finally, special thanks to all my colleagues, especially members of the National Precollegiate Japan Projects Network, who assisted in the data collection for this new edition. In addition, I am grateful to Dr. John J. Patrick for his thoughtful advice, to C. Frederick Risinger for his helpful review of the manuscript, and to Vickie J. Schlene for her careful editing.

I. NATIONAL PRECOLLEGIATE JAPAN PROJECTS NETWORK

In the early 1980s, the United States - Japan Foundation began funding a series of regional centers to facilitate teaching about Japan in the K-12 curriculum. Over the past decade, regional centers have been established in every major geographic division of the country. The focus of each of these centers has been varied but the major thrust of each has been to address one or several persistent problems such as lack of available resource materials, a shortage of teachers experienced in a second culture, and a dearth of research in intercultural program development and teacher education. In addition to functioning as resource distribution centers, these centers have provided professional development experiences for teachers in both the United States and Japan, served as centers for materials and program development, and facilitated networking opportunities in the United States and Japan. Currently the centers are exploring intercultural leadership development and precollegiate Japanese language training.

Personnel from the various regional centers began to meet informally at professional meetings, such as the National Council for the Social Studies and the Association for Asian Studies. Those informal meetings provided a valuable opportunity for sharing lessons learned and for identifying future goals for collaborative efforts. Those involved decided to institutionalize the collaboration and the group became known as the National Precollegiate Japan Projects Network. The group has recently published a book, Internationalizing the U.S. Classroom: Japan as a Model, which is available from the National Clearinghouse for United States-Japan Studies. In addition, they collaborated on "Special Section: 50 Years of United States-Japanese Foreign Relations" which was published in the November/December 1991 issue of Social Education.

Although several of the regional projects are no longer receiving funding, or have devolved their efforts to other outreach organizations, the majority of regional centers are thriving and offer a wealth of materials and programs. Since it would be impossible to be encyclopedic, each listing for these centers contains only one or two highlights.

Readers are encouraged to contact each center directly to be placed on their mailing list for newsletters and announcements as well as an update regarding current opportunities, services and materials.

V. EMBASSY of JAPAN and CONSULATES GENERAL

A number of useful resources are available from the Embassy of Japan, Consulates General of Japan and their affiliated Japan Information Centers. Available print materials include posters, maps, and general information booklets as well as pamphlets on specific topics. A diverse collection of videos and films is also available. Selections range from animated folktales to historical topics to current issues. As with all educational materials, educators are encouraged to preview the materials, with the understanding that some topics, especially those focusing on trade friction, will present the official Japanese government's point of view.

Embassy of Japan & Japan Information and Culture Center

In general, public programming and the distribution of materials in Washington, D.C. are handled by the Japan Information and Culture Center (JICC) of the Embassy of Japan. Educators in the Washington, D.C. area should contact the JICC for details regarding their print materials and free-loan, audio-visual resources. In addition, educators throughout the United States can receive a free subscription to JICC's newsletter, JAPAN NOW. This monthly publication carries articles on current topics in United States-Japan relations, and aspects of Japanese culture, including seasonal celebrations.

XV. NATIONAL CLEARINGHOUSE FOR UNITED STATES-JAPAN STUDIES

The National Clearinghouse for United States-Japan Studies provides a variety of services and products to elementary and secondary teachers, administrators, policy makers, and others interested in teaching and learning about Japanese culture and society, and about United States-Japan interrelationships. The Clearinghouse is funded by the Japan Foundation Center for Global Partnership and the United States-Japan Foundation of New York. The primary audience for the clearinghouse includes K-12 teachers, and services are also available for college-level faculty and citizen groups working to expand public knowledge about Japan. The foundation for all clearinghouse activities is a computer-searchable database of curriculum materials, journal articles, research reports, and other materials that could be useful to classroom teachers and curriculum planners.

The National Clearinghouse for United States-Japan Studies publishes ERIC Digests, short, concise discussions of current topics of interest to anyone interested in teaching and/or learning about Japan and Japanese culture. These Digests are sent complimentary to anyone who asks and have no copyright restrictions, so they may be duplicated for classes and workshops. Recent Digest titles include The Growing Role of Japan in International Politics and Economics, Japanese Education, Japanese-U.S. Economic Relations, Japan's Relations with Its Asian Neighbors, and Rice: It's More than Food in Japan.

The National Clearinghouse for United States-Japan Studies publishes an annual, complimentary newsletter, SHINBUN-USA. To be placed on this mailing list, call or write the clearinghouse.

Searches of the clearinghouse database are complimentary. The clearinghouse staff will personalize a search to match your needs exactly.

XVI. ERIC RESOURCES FOR TEACHING ABOUT JAPAN

The resources on teaching about Japan in this annotated bibliography of curriculum materials and journal articles were taken from the ERIC database. These items can be recognized by the ED and EJ numbers that are printed at the end of the abstracts and annotations in the bibliography.

ERIC (Educational Resources Information Center) is a nationwide educational information system operated by the Office of Educational Research and Improvement of the U.S. Department of Education. ERIC is a nationwide network of sixteen clearinghouses, each one specializing in a particular subject area. Each clearinghouse in the ERIC system has responsibility for acquiring, processing, and reporting about the significant educational literature in its subject field. The ERIC Clearinghouse for Social Studies/Social Science Education (ERIC/ChESS) at the Social Studies Development Center of Indiana University monitors trends and issues about the teaching and learning of history, geography, civics, economics, and other subjects in the social studies/social sciences.

ERIC documents are abstracted monthly in ERIC's RIE (Resources in Education) index. RIE indexes are available in more than 850 libraries throughout the country. These libraries may also have a complete collection of ERIC documents on microfiche for viewing and photocopying.

ERIC documents may be purchased from the ERIC Document Reproduction Service (EDRS), 7420 Fullerton Road, Suite 110, Springfield, VA 22153-2852, in microfiche (MF). Some documents may also be available in paper copy (PC). The telephone numbers are (703) 404 1400 or (800) 443 3742. The FAX number is (703) 440 1408. When ordering by mail, be sure to include the ED number, specify either MF or PC, if available, and enclose a check or money order.

The ERIC documents and articles included in this publication are merely a few of the many curriculum materials, background papers, and articles that can be found in the ERIC database on teaching about Japan. These items exemplify the large pool of documents on this topic that can be obtained through ERIC.

These were selected because of their relevance to social studies teachers in elementary and secondary schools. Some of these papers were presented at meetings of major professional associations. Other materials on this list were developed through projects of universities, state-level departments of education, and foreign organizations interested in educating the world about Japan.

The journal article annotations appear in Current Index to Journals in Education (CIJE), which is also published on a monthly basis and is available at libraries throughout the country. As with the RIE abstracts, the CIJE annotations aim to briefly introduce the article. The reader should locate the article in a local library or order it through Interlibrary Loan. Reprints of the articles may also be obtained from University Microfilms International (UMI), 300 N. Zeeb Road, Ann Arbor, Michigan, 48106 or by calling (800) 732 0616.

Readers are encouraged to conduct their own searches of the ERIC database to discover the most recent materials. Over 2600 new records are being added to the database monthly. Educators will find these materials a valuable resource for fostering understanding about Japan.

Backler, Alan L. GLOBAL GEOGRAPHY. A TEACHER'S GUIDE. Bloomington, IN: Agency for Instructional Technology, 1988. EDRS Price: MF01/PC03, plus postage. ED 316 491. This video series is a set of ten 15-minute video programs that help students think their way through important issues and increase their understanding of world geography. Each of the lessons contains a summary of the conceptual and thematic foundations of the video program, a summary of what appears on the screen, a glossary of key terms, and suggestions for activities before and during the program to help students understand the issues that have been introduced.

Barker, Bruce, and Duane Christian, comps. A COLLECTION OF TEACHING UNITS ABOUT JAPAN FOR SECONDARY SOCIAL STUDIES TEACHERS. Lubbock, TX: Texas Tech University, College of Education, 1988. EDRS Price: MF01/PC06, plus postage. ED 296 935. This document contains a collection of eight selected secondary level units of study about Japan. Individual units were planned and written by teachers who participated in the first Southwest Program for Teaching about Japan study-tour to that country during 1987.

BASIC FACTS AND FIGURES ABOUT THE EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM IN JAPAN. Tokyo, Japan: National Institute for Education Research, 1990. EDRS Price: MF01/PC05, plus postage. ED 341 596. Tables, charts, and graphs convey supporting data that accompany text on various aspects of the Japanese educational system in this booklet.

Bernson, Mary Hammond, and Betsy Goolian. MODERN JAPAN: AN IDEA BOOK FOR K-12 TEACHERS. Bloomington, IN: National Clearinghouse for United States-Japan Studies, 1992. ED number will be assigned. Updated from the 1984 edition, this book of supplementary lessons about Japan is self-contained or based on readily available resources; useable by teachers who have not had first-hand Japan experience; and brief enough to fit into a few class sessions.

Borries, Richard. "HANDS ON" JAPAN. Evansville, IN: Evansville-Vanderburgh School Corp, 1989. EDRS Price: MF01/PC02, plus postage. ED 327 426. Cultural learning kits were compiled to provide information about Japan to community organizations and students.

DeCoker, Gary, and Mercedes Ballou. "Evaluating K-3 Non-Fiction Books on Other Cultures: Analyzing Two Books About Japan." SOCIAL STUDIES AND THE YOUNG LEARNER 2 (January-February 1990): 13-15. EJ 420 702. This article demonstrates a procedure for teachers to use when evaluating multicultural books by reviewing two primary-level nonfiction books about Japan and also analyzes the use of photographs and the representation of the culture. It points out that, although nonfiction is valuable when teaching about other cultures, teachers should critically examine such books.

DEVELOPMENT OF THE "STANDARD EDUCATIONAL MATERIALS LIST." AUDIOVISUAL INSTRUCTIONAL MATERIALS. AVE IN JAPAN NO. 30. Tokyo, Japan: Japan Audio-Visual Education Association, 1991. EDRS Price: MF01/PC02, plus postage. ED 344 567. This manual provides information about the newly revised standards for educational materials to be provided in schools. The new list outlines the standard types and quantities of educational and instructional materials deemed necessary in effecting the new course of study at the compulsory education level. It presents these goals and serves as a guide for each school to follow.

Ellington, Lucien, and James Muntean. "Economics Teachers' Attitudes About and Treatment of Japan." THEORY AND RESEARCH IN SOCIAL EDUCATION 19 (Winter 1991): 69-82. EJ 433 686. This article discusses research into high school economics teachers' attitudes about U.S.-Japan trade policy and teaching about Japan. It compares teachers' and general public's responses to a Harris poll on U.S.-Japan trade relations and reports that, although 91 percent of teachers believe they should teach about Japan, only 53 percent spend 2-5 class periods on Japan. It also reports teachers more strongly favor free trade policies.

Fujioka, Nobukatsu. "The Current Situation on Teaching About World War II in Japanese Classrooms." INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL OF SOCIAL EDUCATION 6 (Winter 1991-1992): 20-40. EJ 453 678. This article presents results of a questionnaire asking Japanese teachers how and what they teach about World War II. It reports that the survey included broad and narrow questions on the war in Asia, Europe, and the Pacific and concludes that Japan's postwar peace education has been a success but that more emphasis needs to be placed on cause and effect in history.

GLOBAL STUDIES. GRADE 9. EAST ASIA-JAPAN UNIT. Brooklyn, NY: New York City Board of Education, 1988. EDRS Price: MF01, plus postage. PC not available from EDRS. ED 308 127. This curriculum guide is designed to assist teachers and supervisors in the implementation of the New York State Global Studies syllabus. The materials presented in the guide represent suggested approaches for teaching the unit on East Asia-Japan. Each theme begins with a rationale and performance objectives, and includes several teaching strategies and related worksheets.

- Gluck, Carol, and others. JAPAN IN A WORK CULTURES SOCIAL STUDIES CURRICULUM: A GUIDE FOR TEACHERS. New York: New York, East Asian Institute, 1989. EDRS Price: MF01, plus postage. PC not available from EDRS. ED 332 937. This document on Japan is designed for the ninth grade and is based on a 4-week unit of 15 to 20 class lessons focusing on several themes, including cultural borrowing and Japan and the world.
- Heinz, A. Elgin. "Teaching About Japan 1941-1991: A Personal Retrospective." SOCIAL EDUCATION 55 (November-December 1991): 50-54. EJ 445 151. This article discusses a teacher's view of changes in education about and attitudes toward Japan as it shifted from a military to an economic power. It describes pre-World War II views of Japan and the evolution of U.S. public opinion over time and includes information on university outreach programs, private cooperative groups, resource centers, and teacher travel and exchange programs.
- Holmes, Stanley, T. AMERICAN FOCUS ON WORLD CONSTITUTIONS. TEACHER'S GUIDE. Salt Lake City, UT: Utah Endowment for the Humanities, 1988. EDRS Price: MF01/PC02, plus postage. ED 329 507. This curriculum project was designed to familiarize high school students with their own constitutional roots while gaining a better understanding of governmental systems developed by other nations. The project uses the U.S. Constitution as a baseline for analyzing the constitutions of other nations, including Japan.
- Jaquith, Paul, ed. CONTENT-BASED LANGUAGE TEACHING. Odawara, Japan: Language Institute of Japan, 1991. EDRS Price: MF01/PC05, plus postage. ED 350 879. This special theme issue of the journal, CROSS CURRENTS is devoted to the topic of "content-based language teaching" and contains nine lessons dealing with this topic.
- Joyal, Lloyd H., and Miriam B. Hansen. CLASSROOM ACTIVITIES IN JAPANESE CULTURE AND SOCIETY. BULLETIN NO. 0340. Madison, WI: Wisconsin State Department of Public Instruction, 1990. EDRS Price: MF01/PC08, plus postage. ED 324 262. Background material on the history, geography, culture, government, educational system, and everyday life of the Japanese people is presented in this curriculum guide, which is intended as a source book for teachers and administrators who would like to improve their curricular offerings and understandings regarding Japan.
- Kishimoto, Toshiko. TEACHING BUSINESS JAPANESE AND CULTURE USING AUTHENTIC MATERIALS: A POPULAR TELEVISION DRAMA. Paper presented at the Annual Eastern Michigan University Conferences on Languages and Communication for World Business and the Professions, Ypsilanti, Michigan, March 26-28, 1992. EDRS Price: MF01/PC01, plus postage. ED 348 867. This report delves into the use of Japanese television drama as a tool to help students understand the style of Japanese communication and improve their communicative ability.

- Klaus, Luhmer. "Moral Education in Japan." JOURNAL OF MORAL EDUCATION 19 (October 1990): 172-81. EJ 426 395. This article explores how religion is a pervasive influence in moral education in both the home and school in Japan, despite an official secular policy. It also points out that after 1945 nationalism was replaced by secular social studies and finds western thought included with Buddhism and Confucianism in government decrees on the curriculum. It places newly reemerging patriotism in context.
- Martin, Roberta, ed., and others. CONTEMPORARY JAPAN: A TEACHING WORKBOOK. THIRD EDITION REVISED. New York: New York, East Asian Institute, 1988. EDRS Price: MF01, plus postage. PC not available from EDRS. ED 332 932. Designed to supplement and enliven standard textbook presentations of Japan, this workbook, through student readings and exercises, seeks to answer some of the most common questions U.S. student have about Japan and its people.
- Martin, Roberta, and Elizabeth P. Tsunoda, eds. ELEMENTARY LEVEL RESOURCES ON JAPAN. New York: New York, East Asian Institute, 1989. EDRS Price: MF01, plus postage. PC not available from EDRS. ED 332 938. The East Asian Curriculum Project of Columbia University is a national project whose goal is to support education on Asia at the secondary and elementary levels. Packets of information contain brief resource lists along with the locations and names of resource centers dealing with Japan.
- Ottenheimer, Laurence. JAPAN: LAND OF SAMURAI AND ROBOTS. YOUNG DISCOVERY SERIES: 11. Ossining, NY: Young Discovery Library, 1988. EDRS Price: MF01, plus postage. PC not available from EDRS. ED 320 823. This volume talks about Japanese culture, modern life style, geography, music, arts, sports, and traditions. It is designed for children ages 5 to 10. Japanese hot baths, school books, the Japanese flag and money, and the manner in which the Japanese eat are shown through pictures.
- Parisi, Lynn S. THE CONSTITUTION AND INDIVIDUAL RIGHTS IN JAPAN: LESSONS FOR MIDDLE AND HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS. Bloomington, IN: ERIC Clearinghouse for Social Studies/Social Science Education and the National Clearinghouse for United States-Japan Studies, 1992. ED number will be assigned. This activity book is designed to assist middle and secondary teachers in integrating a cross-cultural perspective into the study of constitutional government. Introductory essays focus on the cultural and historical context of constitutionalism and individual rights in Japan, with a comparison to the United States.
- Patterson, Rune, and others. THE USE OF VERBO-BISUAL INFORMATION IN THE TEACHING OF GEOGRAPHY—VIEWS FROM TEACHERS. Paper presented at the Annual Meeting of the International Visual Literacy Association, Washington, DC, October 9-13, 1991. EDRS Price: MF01/PC01, plus postage. ED 342 047. A study examined teacher's actual use of media and pictures in their teaching of geography in the secondary schools of five countries, including Japan. Findings suggest that geography teaching is still very much an oral activity with very little media support.

Peters, Richard. OUR COMMON HOME: EARTH, JAPAN (A CULTURE STUDY UNIT). 1989. EDRS Price: MF01/PC02, plus postage. ED 312 173. Designed to provide students and teachers with opportunities to investigate the social, cultural, and historical traits of Japan, this study unit can be adapted to the needs of any group within the social studies curriculum.

Phillips, Douglas A., and Rebecca Bowers Sipe. ALASKA AND JAPAN: A TEACHER'S RESOURCE GUIDE. Reno, Nevada: Nevada Project LEAD Network, 1990. EDRS Price: MF01/PC06, plus postage. ED 329 469. This collection of teaching materials about Japan is designed to educate the youth of Alaska about various aspects of the country that is Alaska's largest trading partner. The guide is interdisciplinary in nature and is intended for skills development and knowledge base improvement in reading, writing, speaking, listening, and cultural understanding.

Phillips, Douglas A., and Rebecca Bowers Sipe. ALASKA, JAPAN, AND THE PACIFIC RIM: A TEACHER'S RESOURCE GUIDE FOR SECONDARY EDUCATORS. Reno, Nevada: Nevada Project LEAD Network, 1990. EDRS Price: MF01/PC07, plus postage. ED 331 774. Japan and other countries of the Pacific Rim are Alaska's largest trading partners. This guide was designed to prepare Alaskan secondary students to understand past, present, and potential linkages between their state and the Pacific region.

Stevenson, Harold W. "Japanese Elementary School Education." ELEMENTARY SCHOOL JOURNAL 92 (September 1991): 109-20. EJ 436 449. This article discusses the development of Japanese elementary education in the context of three periods of its history. It considers salient characteristics of Japanese elementary schools and teaching procedures; these include curriculum, social and moral education; classroom environment; teachers; afterschool classes; college entrance examinations; the kyoiku mama, or "educational mother"; and academic achievement.

Turkovich, Marilyn, and others. OMIYAGE. 1990 REVISED EDITION. Wellesley, MA: World Eagle, Inc., 1990. EDRS Price: MF01, plus postage. PC not available from EDRS. ED 332 926. This is a workbook for learning about Japan, its people, and its culture through a broad exploration of the Japanese language. The aim of the book is not to teach the student to speak Japanese; language is used primarily as a vehicle for teaching about Japanese culture.

White, Caryn, and Bruce Levine. EAST ASIA: THE YALE OUTREACH CATALOGUE, 1988. New Haven, CT: Council on East Asian Studies, 1988. EDRS Price: MF01/PC04, plus postage. ED 303 414. This catalog presents sources of print and nonprint resource materials for elementary, secondary, and postsecondary students on the East Asian countries of China, Japan, and Korea.

- Whittaker, Lynn Page. CURRENT ISSUES: CRITICAL ISSUES CONFRONTING THE NATION AND THE WORLD [AND] CURRENT ISSUES TEACHER'S GUIDE. Arlington, VA: Close Up Foundation, 1991. EDRS Price: MF03, plus postage. PC not available from EDRS. ED 348 260. This annual publication contains reading materials designed to help students understand the complexities of the domestic and foreign policy issues facing the United States. Foreign policy issues are addressed that include Japan. The lesson plans use instructional strategies that help students develop a variety of citizenship skills.
- Wojtan, Linda S., and Donald Spence, eds. INTERNATIONALIZING THE U.S. CLASSROOM: JAPAN AS A MODEL. Bloomington, IN: ERIC Clearinghouse for Social Studies/Social Science Education, 1992. EDRS Price: MF01/PC08, plus postage. ED 343 842. This collection of essays presents a rationale for incorporating teaching about Japan in the K-12 curriculum. The volume provides practical examples and guidelines on how to achieve this goal. The essays are organized into three main categories: professional development, curriculum design and enhancement, and exchange.
- Wojtan, Linda S. "Teaching Resources for Understanding the U.S.-Japanese Relationship." SOCIAL EDUCATION 55 (November-December 1991): 455-56. EJ 445 152. This article provides a sampling of available resources about U.S. interactions with Japan over the past 50 years and lists specific curriculum materials such as lesson plans, activity books and units, films, slides, and videos. It also includes materials on Japanese Americans, international trade, Japanese culture, and World War II.
- Zeni, Claire M. "Japanese Heraldry: Who Am I?" SOCIAL STUDIES TEXAN 6 (Winter 1991): 61-63. EJ 429 302. This article uses Japanese family crests to motivate students to construct a family history and includes background information on Japanese history and culture. It also provides an outline for the student research project and supplies a list of Japanese emblems and their symbolism.
