This training manual deals with developing and implementing workforce education (workplace literacy) programs. It consists of three sections and an appendix. Discussed in the first section are the scope and purpose of workforce education, workforce education participants, types of basic skills problems and solutions, and the need for competency-based basic skills training. The second section covers program coordination, development of an action plan, as well as recruitment and provides a checklist for workplace literacy partnerships and a copy of the on-site workplace literacy agreement between the Polk County, Florida, school board and companies contracting for training services. The third section examines the following aspects of training program implementation: learner motivation, instructional techniques, supervisor's training, literacy audits, and student assessment. It includes a table of motivation techniques, a workshop outline and instruction materials for a supervisor's training workshop, sample employer questionnaires to assess training needs, guidelines for conducting a literacy audit, and task analysis worksheets. Appended are information on Test of Adult Basic Education (TABE) testing, financial support, program components, curriculum frameworks, the Grenellefe Task Analysis, and 26 references. (MN)

WHAT IS WORKFORCE EDUCATION?

Workplace literacy programs focus on the literacy and basic skills training workers need to gain new employment, retain present jobs, advance in their careers, or increase productivity. Curricula are developed by educators, working with employers and employee groups, who assemble written materials used on the job and who analyze specific jobs to determine what reading, computation, speaking, and reasoning skills are required to perform job tasks effectively. Successful efforts to institute workplace literacy programs require strong partnerships among educators, employers and employees.

Who Participates?

Workers may be identified for participation in programs by the employer or they may identify themselves as interested in basic skills training. Workers may participate in programs to upgrade basic skills in order to deal with new technology or to transfer to new positions as old jobs are phased out. Other workers may receive English as a Second Language training to increase productivity or make them eligible for promotion. Workers also may learn speaking, listening, and problem-solving skills to maximize efficiency and participate in team work. Workplace literacy programs may be used to train new hires or may be used to train pools of applicants who will be screened for hiring by employers.

Why Are Workplace Literacy Programs Needed?

Workplace literacy programs were first established by employers unable to locate workers with sufficient basic skills to handle entry level jobs, and by employers who needed to upgrade current employees' skills in response to new technology or market dislocations. A structural shift in the American economy from goods-producing to service-producing industries by the year 2000 will put most new jobs in management, sales, and service. The number of minorities and women will increase as a percentage of the workforce and these groups will need training to qualify for jobs requiring further education. In addition to upgrading their basic skills, workers will also need skills for team work, goal setting, problem solving, as well as participative management. Life cycles for products and processes have been shortened and future jobs may be restructured about every seven years. Continuous learning and reskilling will therefore be a top priority in order to develop qualified people for available jobs.

JOB-RELATED BASIC SKILLS

Although definitions of workplace literacy are much debated, many agree that the reading, writing, and analytical skills needed at work differ from those taught in schools or traditional literacy programs.

What Are These Skills and Why Are They So Important?

The concept of job-related basic skills goes beyond mere reading and writing. Carnevale, Gainer, and Meltzer (1989) organize these "skills employers want" into seven groups or levels that build upon the skills of the previous level:

1. Learning to learn
2. Reading, writing, and computation
3. Oral communication and listening
4. Creative thinking and problem solving
5. Personal management (self-esteem, goal setting, motivation, personal/career development)
6. Group effectiveness (interpersonal skills, negotiation, teamwork)
7. Organizational effectiveness and leadership

The importance of workplace literacy has been underscored by the undeniable link between basic skills and productivity. Daily reading is now a requirement of almost every job. Many jobs now require higher levels of education, a trend that is expected to continue. Now being recognized is the connection between basic skills and competitiveness--of the United States in the global market, of businesses, and of individuals seeking to improve their employment status.

Types of Basic Skills Problems and Solutions

Several levels of basic skills problems can be identified (Mikulecky 1989). First are extreme low-level literate persons, who need long-term intensive adult literacy programs, in which offerings range from basic functional survival skills to General Educational Development (GED) preparation. A second strand includes workers whose limited reading, math, computer or study skills hinder their ability to benefit from technical training. An approach that integrates basic skills instruction with job training or upgrading can improve job performance for these workers. The third level involves job-specific literacy programs designed to relate to actual job tasks. The intent often is to prevent job-related literacy mistakes that affect safety, productivity, or promotability. Short-term basic skills instruction is aimed at accomplishing specific tasks and immediate goals, for example, map reading or preparation for a certified test (Askov et al. 1989).
BASIC SKILLS TRAINING NEED

When people begin working in any job, managers typically assume they already possess certain basic skills that are acquired through formal education (schooling) and informal education (work experience, social relationships, and independent learning). For example, most managers and trainers assume that unskilled workers start work and begin their job training with abilities to

- Read simple job-related English.
- Compute simple job-related arithmetic problems.
- Write simple expository, job-related English with a minimum of grammatical and syntactical errors.

Further, managers and trainers usually assume that people start work and begin their training with appropriate attitudes about the importance of

- Familiarizing themselves with the organization's "work rules" and abiding by them.
- Attending work regularly and arriving at work on time.
- Cooperating with other people in the work setting.
- Respecting the authority of an immediate supervisor and acting according to supervisory direction.

A basic skills training need is defined as a gap between:

- what people already know or can do when they start a job and
- what they should know or do to succeed in job-specific training and subsequently perform the job completely as technological and other changes affect their job duties.

It is perhaps best understood as a prerequisite to job training which individuals must possess if they are to learn the job successfully.
A competency-based approach is defined as a "performance-based process leading to a demonstrated mastery of basic and life skills necessary for the individual to function proficiently in society. The instructional content focuses on the application of basic skills to life skill/role competencies as determined by an assessment of the learner's needs, goals, and abilities." (Mainstream English Language Training Resource Package, Health and Human Services, 1985). This approach combines the needs of the learners with the needs of the workplace, providing a functional context for learning of the basic skills, evaluated learning in terms of application to the job and a system for program accountability. It is a method in which the participants learn a particular skill, language function, or concept by completing actual worksite tasks.

For example, in learning the skill of giving directions within a worksite, employees study the worksite's actual building plan. After understanding this "map", the employees practice a dialogue in which they give authentic directions to a "visitor". Such structured activities require the employee to perform the task, to demonstrate mastery of the task, and to use the new skill at the worksite.

An important component of curriculum is cooperative learning techniques. Effectively executed, these techniques foster excellent classroom management, respect for "classmates", and team cohesiveness. Cooperative learning techniques are well-suited to any worksite class, even those which include participants with a wide range of educational backgrounds or work skills. The instructor considers the goals of the managers and supervisor, then designs activities which encourage the employees to work in some groups which require their leadership in demonstrating a particular strength and other groups in which they might improve on a weakness by interacting with co-workers who are strong in that skill.

PROGRAM CONSIDERATIONS FOR EMPLOYEES

1. What are your program goals? Consider those which help your business and those which benefit the employees.

2. What specific worksite English skills or basic skills do your employees need to learn?

3. What incentives are you prepared to offer participating employees?
   - Release time
   - Reduced workload on class days
   - A bonus after completing the program
   - A day off for a certain number of completed class hours
   - A pay increase
   - A letter in the personnel file
   - A display of participants' photos or work on the employee bulletin board

4. What time of the day and week are best for scheduling to attend class?

5. What recruitment criteria do you prefer? You will want to recruit every potential participant. (There is a stigma attached to the word "literacy.") Be sure not to discourage people by the name you give to your program. You may wish to use "skills training" or another neutral term.

6. How will you publicize the program?
   - An announcement letter in the payroll envelope
   - A video
   - A supervisor's presentation
   - An announcement at a staff or department meeting
   - An announcement on the employee bulletin board
   - Educational counselor speaks at employee meeting
7. What space and equipment contributions are you able to make?

The more care taken in creating a comfortable learning environment, the more the employees see the program as a management priority.

Characteristics of a good site include...permanence, attractiveness, safety and comfort, adaptability, accessibility, and flexibility.

8. Who will serve as the liaison to the education partner? This person does a variety of tasks such as scheduling rooms for classes, assuring that the "classroom" is set up each meeting day, making appointments with worksite managers and supervisors for the educational coordinator and teachers.

Use a placing team approach to identify the specific tasks performed in each job and the minimum level of basic skills needed. Employees familiar with jobs are an excellent resource, as well as training and human resource personnel, department heads, plant managers, union representatives, and company librarian. Strong and visible support by executive management is essential.

9. What evaluation procedure is best for your partnership? All partners will want to measure employee progress, but you may wish to have your employees evaluate the class. At the same time, your education partner may wish to have an outside evaluator critique the entire program. Consider your needs for pre-/post-testing, periodic progress reports completed by the instructor, employee self-evaluations, supervisors' evaluation of employee progress, instructors' self-evaluations, employee evaluations of the class, and a total program evaluation.

10. When and where will the education partner administer pre-/post-tests?

What procedure will cause the least interruption to the workday?
11. What special activities would you like the first day of class? (A brief motivational presentation by the manager, supervisor, or liaison person? A breakfast/luncheon?)

12. Will supervisors and managers make an effort to visit a few class sessions? Such visits are appreciated by the employees and may result in increased loyalty to the company. Furthermore, supervisors may gain an insight into how hard the employees work with the minimal skills they have. Instructors often wish to involve the visitor by asking them to supervise a group activity or demonstrate a task.

13. How will you reward employees who finish the worksite program?
   - A recognition breakfast or luncheon
   - Recognition at a staff meeting
   - Certificates of completion
   - Certificates for good or perfect attendance
   - Pins designed by the partners

14. Will you support alternative education when the on-site training ends? The on-site training will give your employees confidence in themselves and in their ability to learn. However, they may need a boost in making the transition from the workplace to the formal classroom.
   - Pay for the employees' tuition for a first course in adult education or at the community college?
   - Offer a bonus to employees who complete a designated number of hours at an adult learning center?
RECRUITMENT OF STUDENTS

Recruiting employees requires sensitivity and respect. When participation is voluntary or mandatory:

1. Assure employees their jobs are not threatened; program is being offered because the company values them.
2. Avoid methods, language, or attitudes which expose their problems needlessly.
3. Observe confidentiality.
4. Provide concrete incentives for participation.
5. On-site instruction has far greater appeal.

While the educational partner develops the curriculum, teaches the course, and coordinates evaluation of the course and the program, you will carry out the responsibility you agreed to take on during the discussion stage.

REMEMBER

- Hold your educational partner to its commitment to keep you and your supervisors apprised of content material and participant progress.

- Use a third partner well if you have chosen to have one. The Chamber of Commerce, Private Industry Council, or local planning agency may have brought you and your educational institution together. It can also be invaluable in helping you find funding sources and in publicizing and/or marketing your program. Use it.

- Publicize your workplace program in your business and in your organization. You are contributing to a national initiative to improve basic skills in the workplace.

- Consider a recognition for those employees who complete your program and/or have good attendance. The publicity from such an event may attract candidates for future employment.
Conducting workplace literacy programs assures better service to your customers and higher morale in your workplace. Your employees will reward you by increasing productivity, making fewer mistakes, becoming eligible for promotion, and representing your company with confidence.

RECRUITING

Initial recruitment takes place at periodic training meetings. In a 10 minute presentation, the recruiter makes the following information available:

1. Explanation of ABE, ESOL, GED Prep, and any other classes being offered.
2. Why take part?
   - Invest in yourself
   - Learn skills that you use in your home with your children, on the job and in the community
   - Prepare for the future for a better job
3. Costs and who pays:
   - Employer is providing classes as a benefit.
4. Sign up process

The recruitment process continues through the course of the training. The site coordinator and employer contact should be involved during all stages to increase program visibility and continually encourage workers to enroll. Employers inform newly-hired employees about the program during their orientation. Supervisors and training and personnel staff are trained in recruiting methods to approach each worker individually.

The employer includes articles in each newsletter highlighting workplace instruction.

In our experience, these methods proved successful:
A. Recruitment
B. Company newsletter articles
C. Student recommendations
D. Training employer management to recruit workers
E. Letters to employees or notices in paychecks.
CHECKLIST FOR WORKPLACE LITERACY PARTNERSHIP

1. Instructor
   ___ Knows Adult Education rules
   ___ Knows how adults learn/special needs
   ___ Has experience with Adult Education
   ___ Knows how to motivate adults
   ___ Good counselor
   ___ Can handle many tasks or students at one time
   ___ Can spot special needs people, i.e., dyslexia
   ___ Participates in plant tour, introduction to workplace management, attends training session conducted by training department
   ___ Evaluated by School Board regularly to see if standards are being met ___ Gets interest and motivation right away at first meeting by explaining:
      ___ Program (ABE, ESOL, GED prep)
      ___ What people can expect to get out of program
      ___ Share success and failure stories
      ___ Answer questions about program
      ___ Allow for student interaction
      ___ Administers TABE
      ___ Sets short and long term goals with student
      ___ Conducts regular review of goals to determine progress

2. School Board Coordinator
   ___ Reviews program monthly with literacy team
   ___ Sits in on sessions
   ___ Evaluates teacher's effectiveness
   ___ Makes resources available
   ___ Facilitates interaction with other workplace literacy instructors
   ___ Conducts supervisor training

3. Workplace Responsibilities

- Provide location, copier service, audio/visual aids
- Pay Instructor mileage
- Provide liaison to facilitate communications between Instructor, School Board, and Company
- Provide advertising (motivation and incentives), as needed, for program
- Pay for class materials that are used in GED Prep program
- Monitor program progress
- Participate in Instructor selection
- Give feedback to Instructor and School Board
- Pay for 20 hours of planning and development time for instructor @ $13.00/hour
- Reimburse employees for successful completion of $25.00
- Highlight program in Company literature
ON SITE WORKPLACE LITERACY AGREEMENT

This agreement executed by _______________ and the School Board of Polk County documents the responsibilities of the two agencies for the development, conduction, and maintenance of on-site Adult Education.

Program I
Adult Basic Education, A.B.E.
This program will be designed and conducted to educate adults lacking basic or functional literacy skills.

Program II
G.E.D.
This program will be designed and conducted to educate adults to the level necessary to earn a General Equivalency Diploma.

Program III
ESOL
This program will give employees the conversational, reading, and writing skills necessary to improve their job performances.

Adult Coordinator Responsibilities

1. Instructor responsibilities:
   ___ Understands the objectives of assigned Adult Education program
   ___ Knows the special needs and learning characteristics of adults
   ___ Demonstrates ability to motivate, counsel, and provide feedback to students on progress
   ___ Has experience or background necessary to conduct programs successfully
   ___ Is capable of handling several tasks or students at one time
   ___ Can identify resources for special needs students, dyslexia, tutors
   ___ Will set short and long term goals with each student
   ___ Will meet weekly with the company's Coordinator to provide regular program status and receive job related information for incorporation into classwork
   ___ Submit adult school paperwork at assigned times

2. Meet monthly to evaluate objectives, class attendance (monthly), and progress.
Company Responsibilities

___ Provide a suitable location for class meetings.

___ Provide a liaison who will facilitate communications between the Instructor, Polk County Adult and Community Education, and the Company

___ Provide motivation/incentive advertising for the program in conjunction with the instructor

___ Pay for GED text books @ $14.00 each

___ Reimburse employees for successful passing of GED test Amount: __________

___ Monitor feedback and share with Instructor

___ Assist in Instructor selection

___ Meet monthly with Coordinator, and meet weekly with instructor to provide job related materials for classwork

___ Pay the Instructor's mileage

3. Participate in a company orientation meeting for each program for the purpose of:
   ___ Staff introductions
   ___ Explaining the programs
   ___ Answering questions
   ___ Gaining middle management support
   ___ Explaining what students can expect to get out of the program
   ___ Sharing success and failure stories
   ___ Introducing the Instructor and School Board Personnel

4. Make appropriate materials and resources available to the Instructor to facilitate the program objectives.
___ Introduce Instructor at workplace, provide job related materials, provide job shadowing experience, give tour of facility

___ Provide incentive program for students using participation in classes

___ Pay for 20 hours of planning and development time for instructor @ $13.00 per hour

___ Reimburse Polk County Adult and Community Education at a rate of $2.45 per hour for each contact hour of attendance below the minimum required (8 - ABE / 15 - GED)

<td>Lecture</td>
<td>A presentation, usually given to a group of learners, by an &quot;expert.&quot;</td>

</tr>
<tr>
<td>Role-play</td>
<td>Learners are asked to &quot;play act&quot; a situation resembling one that may be encountered in real life.</td>
<td>Use this technique selectively for illustrating certain skills, such as interpersonal skills, or giving learners a chance to apply what they have learned.</td>

SUPERVISOR'S TRAINING

Purpose
To help supervisors recognize employees' job-related basic skills problems and counsel them on how to address those problems.

Instructional Objectives
Upon completion of this half-day workshop, participants should be able to:

1. Explain the importance of employees' basic skills problems
2. Recognize symptoms of basic skills problems
3. Distinguish problems stemming from basic skills deficiencies
4. Explain the importance of the supervisor's role in providing counseling on basic skills problems to employees
5. Demonstrate effective methods of counseling employees about basic skills problems

Workshop Pre-Reading
Before the workshop, participants will be asked to read several short articles on the cause, effects, and solutions for basic skills deficiencies.

Intended Participants
This workshop is appropriate for supervisors and training and personnel staff members.

Evaluation
The effectiveness of the instructor will be evaluated by a participant questionnaire administered at the end of the workshop. The effectiveness of participant learning will be evaluated by a pretest administered at the beginning of the training session and a videotaped supervisory counseling session conducted after the workshop.
SUPERVISOR'S TRAINING

Workshop Outline

I. Workshop Introduction
   a. Purpose of the workshop (Why are we here?)
   b. Objectives of the workshop (What should you be able to do at the time you leave?)
   c. Participant Objectives (What do you hope to learn in the workshop, if different from the stated objectives?)
   d. Organization of the workshop (How is the workshop organized?)
   e. Administration of Pretest

II. What is a Basic Skills Problem?
    a. Brief definition
    b. Recognition
    c. Causes
    d. Effects

III. How are Employees Counseled on Basic Skills Problems?
    a. What is the organization's policy on employee training and education?
       1. Overview
       2. Employee counseling by supervisor
       3. Employee counseling by Personnel Department
          a. When employees should be referred to Personnel
          b. When employees should be counseled by the supervisor
    b. How Do Supervisors Counsel Effectively?
       1. Description of counseling
       2. Steps in counseling
       3. Videotape segment
       4. Role-playing segment.

The following 10 trends have already achieved the magnitude and momentum to constitute, together, a "megatrend" of the 1990s.

1 - We will learn throughout our lives.

2 - We will learn in a rich array of organizations, institutions, and associations.

3 - We will focus learning on our real needs.

4 - We will learn with our whole brains.

5 - We will learn together.

6 - We will learn via multiple media, technologies, formats, and styles.

7 - We will direct our own learning.

8 - We will learn by teaching.

9 - We will learn from new kinds of teachers.

10 - We will learn how to learn.
Reasons for a Basic Skills Training Program

1. Contribute to the community's economic development
2. Contribute to the social/personal well-being of individual employees
3. Improve customer relations
4. Improve organizational competitiveness
5. Improve the organization's ability to respond to technological change
6. Increase work output of employees
7. Increase the pool of promotable employees
8. Practice organizational social responsibility
9. Reduce likelihood of accidents and safety problems
10. Reduce production time
11. Reduce training time
Interview Questions About Basic Skills

Please share the following perceptions about your employees and the kind of work they do so that I can determine what skills are expected of them at the time they start work.

1. How do you typically orient new workers to their jobs?

2. What problems do you most commonly face with new employees that you feel you might not face if they were better educated? (Please elaborate on your answer.)

3. What are the most common problems you notice with the abilities of employees to
   A. Read?
   B. Write?
   C. Compute arithmetic?
   D. Interact cooperatively with others?
   E. Conform to work rules?
   F. Perform in any other area of their work?

LITERACY AUDIT

Performing the Literacy Audit

1. Observe employees to determine the basic skills they must use in order to perform their jobs effectively.
   - Watch the employee(s) throughout a workday to be sure all tasks are observed. Continue this observation periodically rather than daily.
   - Record each time the worker reads, writes, or does an arithmetic calculation.
   - Note the setting in which these basic skills activities take place.
   - Note the materials used by the employee to perform the tasks involving basic skills activities.
   - Determine the purpose of those tasks.
   - Be aware of whether the tasks are performed individually or in groups.

2. Collect all materials that are written and read on the job to determine the degree of skills proficiency an employee must have to do the job well.
   - Include memoranda, telephone messages, manuals, bills of sale, and forms such as inventory lists, balance sheets, and requisition slips.
   - Examine the materials to determine reading levels, necessary vocabulary, and style.
   - Analyze the content of these materials to determine their function.

3. Interview employees and their supervisors to determine their perceptions of the basic skills needed to do their jobs.

- Note the skills that the top-performing employees say are most important. Then ask them which skills they use most and how they use them.
- Ask the supervisors which skills are needed for job performance, identifying those deemed critical.
- Examine discrepancies, if they exist, between the employees' and the supervisors' perceptions of skills needed. One particularly good technique suggested by Mikulecky is to ask both supervisors and top-performing employees how they would break in a new employee, step by step. Questions such as "How do you decide what to do first? "How do you decide what to do next?" clarify the mental processes underlying good job performance and present a fuller picture than a simple listing of tasks.

4. Determine whether the employees have the basic skills needed to do their jobs well.

- Combine the information gathered from observing the employees, collecting the materials they use, and the interviews. Then write up a description of each of the audited jobs in terms of the reading, writing, and computation skills needed to perform them well.
- Return to the work setting to observe how or whether the tasks requiring these basic skills are performed.
- Discuss observations informally with employees and supervisors when problems are observed, to pinpoint specific areas of difficulty and concern.

5. Build tests that ask questions relating specifically to the employees' job or job group.
   - Use job-related language and style.
   - Use situations and formats in which the basic skills being tested will actually occur.
   - Ask employees to perform the tasks that simulate what they encounter on the job.

Mr. James P. Booth, Director
Adult and Community Education
Post Office Box 391
1915 South Floral Avenue
Bartow, Florida 33830

Dear Mr. Booth:

This is in response to your August 22nd letter requesting approval to test adults in the workplace on the skill area specifically designed for instruction. This waiver would enable the instructor to administer only the portion of the test that is applicable to the need of the workplace and/or workforce. I hereby grant permission for administration of the TABE to be administered proportionate to the needs of the student in the workplace literacy instructional program and request that all records be maintained in an accountable manner and as prescribed by applicable statutes.

If I can be of further assistance, please let me know.

Sincerely,

John E. Lawrence

MEMORANDUM

TO: Coordinators of Adult & Community Education

FROM: James P. Booth, Director
Adult & Community Education

DATE: June 4, 1990

SUBJECT: Adult Education Financial Support

In establishing classes as a partnership with business and industry, we should be able to provide a service that reflects a departure from what has been traditionally practiced. Above all, we must continue to provide the best instructors and curriculum offerings possible within a cost effective program. Some vendors have experienced a lower than usual attendance and/or membership in these classes and therefore concerns as to how we can continue to provide instruction through Adult Education have developed.

Representatives of business as well as educators are interested in providing an ongoing service to their employees once a class has been offered. As we heard in the workshop with Tony Hayes, our public educational system is uniquely different from the profit making educational organizations offering packaged deals at a much higher cost than what we can offer.

In order for Adult & Community Education to be able to hold the market and to expand services, which translates directly into additional FTE's and an impact on each center's staffing formula, we need to provide the individual business organization a way to subsidize an ongoing program through adult education.

Hopefully, we can design a plan that will give business an up front cost as to what we can provide in the form of a customize curriculum dealing with the individual needs of the organization and their employees that will be in place for the length of a term.

Until the complete program is developed each coordinator may continue a class for each session with less attendance required if the following conditions exist:

AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER
The industry is interested and willing to make a donation to your center to make up the cost difference for each term. The donation to the School Board of Polk County is to be made at $2.45 for each contact hour of attendance below the minimum required. For instance, a basic education class must have 6 in attendance to be solvent. You are recording a membership of 15 but an average of 5 individuals are attending an eight week term of two days a week. You would calculate this as: $2.45 \times (8-5) \times 15 \times 2 = 220.50. This donation is sent to the district office where it is deposited each session or term into the district's payroll account.

I feel that this option will strengthen the Adult & Community Education Schools.

02.44 capitalize proper nouns and proper adjectives which name languages, institutions, companies, historical periods, a deity, important personal titles and holidays.

After successfully completing this course, the student will be able to:

03. Demonstrate the ability to compute and to use mathematical concepts to solve problems encountered in daily living.

The student will read and write numerals.

03.01 identify numerals zero to hundred.
03.02 count the number of objects in a set of less than 100 objects.
03.03 read and write the numerals for any given whole number less than 100.
03.04 read and write names for whole numbers less than 100.
03.05 count the number of objects in a set of less than 1000 objects.
03.06 read and write the numerals for any given whole number less than 10,000.
03.07 read and write names for numerals for any given whole number less than 10,000.
03.08 read and write, in numeral, money values through five dollars.
03.09 read and write the numeral representing any whole number less than ten million.
03.10 read and write the fractions having denominators of 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 8, 10, 20, 25, 50, or 100.
03.11 read and write money values through $1,000.
03.12 read and write names for 3-digit whole numbers.

The student will round numbers.
03.13 round a whole number less than 100 to the nearest 10.
03.14 round a whole number less than 10,000 to any designated place.
03.15 round a number less than 10 with no more than two decimal places to the nearest whole number.
03.16 estimate by first rounding to the nearest ten, hundred or thousand.

The student will put numbers in order.
03.17 identify the smaller or larger or any two given whole numbers less than 20.
03.18 write the numeral that comes just before, just after, or between given whole numbers less than 100.
03.19 using a reference point, identify the ordinal position of any object in a set or no more than 10 objects.
03.20 put in order three whole numbers less than 1,000.
03.21 using a reference point, identify the ordinal position of any object in a set of less than 100 objects.
03.22 put in order three whole numbers less than 10,000.

The student will add whole numbers.
03.23 add two 1-digit numbers (basic facts) given in vertical and horizontal notation.
03.24 add three 1-digit numbers, sums through 18 given in vertical and horizontal notation.
03.25 add a 2-digit number to a 2-digit number, without regrouping, given in vertical and horizontal notation.
03.26 add a 1-digit number to a 2-digit number, without regrouping.
03.27 add three of four 3-digit numbers, given in vertical and horizontal notation, without regrouping.
03.28 add a 1, 2, or 3-digit number to a 3-digit number.
03.29 add four 3-digit numbers, given in vertical and horizontal notation, with regrouping.
03.30 add three 4-digit numbers.
The student will subtract whole numbers.

03.31 subtract basic facts, sums through 18, given in vertical and horizontal notation.
03.32 subtract a 1-digit number from a 2-digit number, with and without regrouping, given in vertical and horizontal notation.
03.33 subtract two 2-digit numbers, with and without regrouping, given in vertical and horizontal notation.
03.34 subtract two 3-digit numbers, given in vertical and horizontal notation, with only one regrouping.
03.35 subtract two 4-digit numbers, given in vertical and horizontal notation, without regrouping.
03.36 subtract two 4-digit numbers, given in vertical and horizontal notation, with only one regrouping.
03.37 subtract two 5-digit numbers.

The student will multiply whole numbers.

03.38 determine the total number of objects when given sets of equal amounts, total not exceeding 12.
03.39 write basic multiplication facts, given in vertical and horizontal notation, products through 81.
03.40 multiply a 1-digit and a 2- or 3-digit number, given in vertical and horizontal notation.
03.41 multiply a 2-digit number and a 3-digit number.

The student will divide whole numbers.

03.42 group twelve or fewer objects into sets of equal amounts (no remainders).
03.43 write basic division facts, products through 81, using both symbols.
03.44 divide a 2- or 3-digit number by a 1-digit number with remainder zero, without regrouping, using regrouping.
03.45 divide a 5-digit number by a 1-digit number, with and without regrouping.
03.46 divide a 3-digit number by a 2-digit number including multiples of 10.

The student will demonstrate an understanding of fractions, decimals, and percents.

03.47 identify one-half, one-third, or one-fourth of a given region.
03.48 identify equivalent fractional parts of regions that have been separated into halves, fourths, fifths, eighths, or tenths.
03.49 identify one-half, one-third, or one-fourth of a set having no more than 12 objects, with no remainder.
03.50 add proper fractions (with like denominators without simplification).
03.51 add two proper fractions having unlike denominators of 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 8, or 10.
03.52 subtract proper fractions (with like denominators without simplification).
03.53 subtract two proper fractions having unlike denominators of 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 8, or 10.
03.54 multiply two proper fractions.
03.55 multiply a proper fraction with denominator of 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 8, or 10 by a whole number such that the product is a whole number.
03.56 add three numbers, each having no more than two decimal places.
03.57 subtract two numbers, each having no more than two decimal places.
03.58 multiply a whole number and a number having no more than two decimal places.
03.59 multiply two decimal fractions, both named in tenths or in hundredths.
03.60 divide a decimal name in tenths or hundredths by a 2-digit whole number, such that quotient is a number named in hundredths with remainder zero.
03.61 identifying a decimal or percent that is equivalent to a proper fraction having a denominator of 10 or 100.

The student will measure time, temperature, distance, capacity, and mass/weight.

03.62 state the days of the week in consecutive order.
03.63 state the number of the year in consecutive order.
03.64 state the date by month, day, and year using a calendar.
03.65 select a clock which matches a given hour or half-hour time.
03.66 tell time on the hour, half-hour, quarter-hour, and in minutes.
03.67 determine the temperature using Fahrenheit or Celsius thermometers.
03.68 using a given unit measurement (inch, centimeter, non-standard), determine the length of an object in whole units.
03.69 determine the length, width, or height by measuring objects in centimeters, meters, inches, feet, or yards.
03.70 determine capacity by measuring quantities in teaspoons, tablespoons, cups, pints, quarts, gallons, metric cups, and liters.
03.71 determine mass/weight by measuring to the nearest gram, kilogram, ounce, and pound.
The student will solve money problems.

03.72 identify coins and currency of different value.
03.73 identify sets of coins equivalent in value to a set of coins, valued 25¢ or less.
03.74 determine equivalent amounts of up to five dollars using coins and paper currency.
03.75 determine change from one dollar.
03.76 read and write numerals for money (values through five dollars).
03.77 determine equivalent amounts up to twenty dollars using coins and paper currency.
03.78 use addition, without regrouping, to solve real problems involving two purchases no more than 50¢.
03.79 solve real-world problems involving purchases with change from a twenty dollar bill.
03.80 solve real-world problems involving comparison shopping for purchases less than ten dollars.

The student will interpret graphs, tables, and maps.

03.81 read and determine relationships described by pictographs or bar graphs expressed in whole units.
03.82 read and determine relationships described by bar graphs or pictographs.
03.83 using a table of metric measures, convert within the metric system using the following units: mm, cm, km, mL, L, mg, g, and kg.
03.84 locate a point on a highway map.
03.85 measure distance on a map, using a scale.

The student will solve real-world problems involving whole numbers.

03.86 solve real-world problems involving addition of two 1-digit or two 2-digit numbers, without regrouping.
03.87 solve real-world problems involving subtraction of two 1-digit or two 2-digit numbers, without regrouping.
03.88 solve real-world problems involving addition of three 3-digit numbers, with no more than one regrouping.
03.89 solve real-world problems involving subtraction of two 3-digit numbers, with no more than one regrouping.
03.90 solve one step real-world problems involving multiplication of a 1-digit number and a 2- or 3-digit number.
03.91 solve real-world problems involving addition or subtraction of 4-digit numbers.
03.92 solve real-world problems involving multiplication of a 2-digit number and a 3-digit number.
03.93 translate a one-step real-world problem into the appropriate number sentence.
The student will solve real-world problems involving fractions, decimals, and percents.

03.94  solve real-world problems involving multiplication of a proper fraction and a proper fraction and a whole number.
03.95  solve real-world problems involving addition and subtraction of decimals.
03.96  the student will identify geometric figures and shapes, identify a circle, square, triangle, cube, cylinder, cone, sphere, and an angle.

The student will solve measurement problems.

03.97  determine the elapsed time between two events stated in days, months, or years with regrouping.
03.98  determine the perimeter of triangles, squares, and rectangles with whole number dimensions.
03.99  solve linear measurement problems with centimeters, meters, inches, feet, or yards, using addition or subtraction, with no conversion.
03.100 solve capacity problems with liters, cups, pints, or quarts, using addition or subtraction, with no conversion.
Component 1: Outreach

1. Program coordinator conducts outreach activities with business and industry in the community, including awareness information about the program and interviews with company representatives to discuss the program and the company's employee training needs.

Component 2: Needs Assessment

1. Company representatives complete assessment giving general information about employees and specific training needs relating to company policies and requirements, social language interactions on the job, and cultural coping factors.

2. Program coordinator conducts on-site job shadowing to gather a) general information on the company setting and b) specific information on job processes, materials, and equipment; spoken and written language requirements, cross-cultural interferences, safety problems and work settings.

1. Business and industry representatives contact the program coordinator.

2. Trained outreach recruiters conduct outreach activities in a coordinated effort under the direction of the program coordinator.

1. Program coordinator completes assessment with assistance from company representatives giving general information about employees and specific training needs related to company policies and procedures, work-related language requirements, social language interactions on the job, and cultural coping factors.

2. Curriculum writer conducts on-site job shadowing to gather a) general information on the company setting and b) specific information on job processes, materials and equipment; spoken and written language requirements, cross-cultural interferences, safety problems, and work settings.

1. No outreach activities are conducted with business and industry in the community, including the awareness information about the program and/or the company's employee training needs.

1. No assessment is completed.

2. No on-site job shadowing is conducted.
Component 3: Curriculum Development

1. Utilizing the information gathered during the needs assessment, the curriculum writer creates a job-specific curriculum appropriate for student learning needs.

Component 4: Teacher Training

1. The program coordinator trains the teacher(s) in the skills necessary for conducting the instruction using the curriculum developed for these students at the specific job-site.

2. A consultant trains the teacher(s) in the skills necessary for conducting the instruction using the curriculum developed for these students at the specific job-site.

Component 5: Instructional Activities

1. The teacher, with input from the program coordinator and curriculum writer, conducts classes utilizing a variety of teaching techniques designed to address the learning styles and cultural backgrounds of the students.
