Developed to address the needs of the apparel industry, this fashion merchandising curriculum guide is designed to assist marketing educators in effective instructional delivery. Introductory materials include the following: a course blueprint that illustrates units of instruction, core competencies in each unit, and specific objectives for each competency; recommended sequence of the units and competencies, weight or relative importance of the objective within the course or unit, and recommended number of hours to be devoted to each; and a course outline. Each of the eight units provides these components for each competency: unit outline with overview of competencies, objectives, and indicators; content/teaching outline; activity outline; and handouts or visual aids. Units cover these topics: course orientation, overview of fashion, evolution and movement of fashion, human resource foundations—career development, selling, risk management, promotion, and fashion show production. The final unit on fashion show production provides information on a course capstone activity, including instructions on the organization, implementation, and evaluation of a fashion show. (YLB)

FOREWORD

As fashions change, so does the need for updating instructors and students in merchandising, marketing and management. Fashion merchandising is a sophisticated, complex operation, requiring planning in many marketing facets.

The Fashion Merchandising curriculum guide has been developed to address the needs of the apparel industry. It is designed solely as a guide to assist Marketing Educators in effective instructional delivery. The trained Marketing Education professional should use this guide as a foundation for instruction.

Using this Fashion Merchandising Guide.

This Fashion Merchandising Guide is simply that, a guide to serve as a catalyst for effective, critical instruction toward competency attainment. The guide is organized as follows:

1. Unit Outline: The entire unit is summarized to furnish an overview of competencies, objectives, and indicators.

2. Activity Outline: Each unit is divided into objectives. To achieve these objectives, resources, references, and self-contained activities are included to provide direction in student instruction.

3. Fashion Show Production: As a course capstone activity, many Fashion Merchandising instructors organize a fashion show. To make this huge undertaking more manageable, we have included instructions on the organization, implementation and evaluation of a fashion show.

By properly using each of the guide parts as instructional foundations, coupled with the Vocational Competency Achievement Tracking System, students will achieve a substantive level of competence. We wish you much success.

VoCATS Course Blueprint

A course blueprint is a document laying out the scope of the curriculum for a given course/program. Shown on the blueprint are the units of instruction, the core competencies in each unit, and the specific objectives for each competency. The blueprint illustrates the recommended sequence of the units and competencies, the weight or relative importance of the objective within the course or unit, and the recommended number of hours to be devoted to each. The blueprint is intended to be used by teachers in planning the course of work for the year, preparing daily lesson plans, and constructing instructionally valid tests.

The material that appears in this blueprint replaces the contents of the Teacher Handbook developed in 1985. For additional information about this blueprint, contact program area staff. DECA: AN ASSOCIATION OF MARKETING STUDENTS

GENERAL INFORMATION

In order to understand the Marketing Education program, you need to have a clear understanding of DECA and the opportunities DECA provides. You need to be familiar with the purposes of DECA and the growth DECA has enjoyed.

GENERAL INFORMATION

1. DECA is the only youth organization operating through the public schools of the nation to attract young people to careers in marketing.

2. DECA encourages the understanding of free enterprise and economic awareness, through individual instruction, chapter projects, competency-based competitive events, exposure to successful business leaders and by practical experience in marketing.

3. DECA encourages civic responsibility through professional conferences, chapter activities, school service projects and support of community activities.

4. DECA maintains a series of district, state, and national competitive events, all designed to stimulate and motivate classroom instruction, career awareness and vocational competence.

5. DECA believes in competition and offers awards and recognition to student members for outstanding accomplishment.

6. DECA maintains its own scholarship program to assist and encourage its members toward higher education. North Carolina DECA provides scholarships through the T. Carl Brown Scholarship Fund.
DECA: AN ASSOCIATION OF MARKETING STUDENTS

7. DECA is supported by membership dues, contributions from businesses, and royalties on sales projects. The North Carolina DECA staff, however, is not paid through these DECA funds.

8. All contributed funds are used directly for student benefit through a program of youth activity:

- Awards and Recognition
- Career Development Conferences
- Leadership Conferences
- Program Development
- Public Information
- Leadership Training
- Scholarships

9. Support of DECA will help in developing leaders in marketing, management, and entrepreneurship.

10. DECA is one of three integral parts of the Marketing Education program. The other two components are class instruction and on-the-job training.
PURPOSES OF DECA

* TO DEVELOP LEADERSHIP IN THE FIELD OF MARKETING THAT IS COMPETENT, ASSERTIVE, SELF-RELIANT AND COOPERATIVE

DECA CONFERENCES

OBJECTIVE

The purpose of all DECA conferences is to provide worthwhile activities to assist students in career development as they prepare to be marketing leaders of tomorrow.

GOALS

1. To provide all DECA divisions an opportunity to conduct necessary business
2. To provide a forum for the competitive event program
3. To provide delegates and advisors an opportunity to obtain information regarding occupational, educational and career opportunities
4. To provide an opportunity for delegates to assist in the growth and development of DECA
5. To provide delegates an opportunity to develop poise and human relations abilities by participation in scheduled social and educational activities

MARKETING LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE (MLC)

The MLC is held at a location determined by district chapter advisors. Election of district officers and leadership training are usually conducted at this time. Career-related workshops are held for DECA members. Attendance is open to all chapter members provided:

1. State and national dues have been paid
2. Written approval of the coordinator and parent or guardian is secured
3. The student meets local policies regarding grades

SOUTHERN REGION CONFERENCE (SRC)

The purpose of the SRC is to provide leadership development for local chapter officers and selected members who will benefit from participation in leadership training activities.

The location of SRC is on a rotating basis among the states in the Southern Region of DECA. It is held at the beginning of the school year. Business overviews, workshops and leadership training are conducted.

Registration forms, dates, locations and other information will be distributed by the NC-DECA advisor. The host state will determine the number of participants each state is allowed based on their DECA membership.

DISTRICT OFFICER TRAINING (DOT)

The purpose of DOT is to provide leadership development for newly elected district officers. DOT is held in November after all districts have elected their officers for the year. The location is selected by the state DECA advisor.

Only district officers may attend DOT in addition to state officers. Individual district officers may pay their own expenses unless their district or chapter pays them.

LOCAL OFFICER TRAINING (LOT)

LOT provides leadership development for newly elected local officers. LOT is held after district officers have attended DOT and all chapters have elected their local officers. The location is selected by district advisors. Expenses are paid by local chapters or the local officers.

MARKETING COMPETITIVE EVENTS CONFERENCE (MCEC)

The purpose of MCEC is to select district competitive event participants to the State Career Development Conference.

MCEC is held at least one month before State Career Development Conference at a site determined by the district chapter advisors.

Attendance at MCEC is limited to competitive event participants who:
1. have paid state and national dues
2. have written approval of the coordinator and parents or guardians

STATE CAREER DEVELOPMENT CONFERENCE (CDC)

State CDC is a statewide conference held during the spring at a location determined by the state Marketing Education staff. At this time state finalists in all competitive events are determined along with election of state officers. Finalists may represent North Carolina DECA in competitive events at the National Career Development Conference. General business meetings are also held.

Attendance, registration and housing information will be distributed by NC DECA.

Attendance at State CDC may be limited to:
1. Official chapter voting delegates
2. District and state officers
3. National officers
4. All proficiency winners in district competency based competitive events
5. All participants in competency based series not held on the district level
6. Individual written event/chapter project participants
7. One chapter ambassador as approved by the North Carolina DECA Advisor
8. Marketing Education professional personnel

National CDC brings together DECA members from all over the country at the end of each school year. Sites are rotated among various regions. Student members participate in national level competition in all DECA competitive events, national recognition, election of regional vice-presidents and a national president, and workshops.

Information regarding attendance, conference registration, and housing is distributed by the state advisor.

Attendance at the National CDC is based on a percentage of the total NC DECA membership allotted by the national association. Those attending from North Carolina include:

1. all state officers
2. state winners/finalists in competitive events held at the national level
3. other participants representing North Carolina with approval of the State DECA Advisor and the local school system
COMPETENCY BASED COMPETITIVE EVENTS

There are several levels of competence in marketing occupations. There are certain competencies needed by entry-level employees (master employee level) and far more needed by those planning to advance into managerial positions (supervisory level). Therefore, DECA competitive events are offered at these two levels in specific occupational areas.

Whether or not both areas are offered will vary according to the occupational area. For example, it is conceivable that high school students can acquire supervisory skills applicable to the apparel and accessories occupational area and enter full-time employment at this level upon graduation, if not before. Therefore, two levels of competition are offered in the occupational area. In the case of advertising and visual merchandising, the competencies identified for supervisory level positions cannot be realistically taught and acquired at the high school level, therefore, DECA does not offer supervisory level competition in advertising and visual merchandising.

Currently, DECA is offering series competition in nine occupational areas. Broad descriptions of the occupational areas and representative positions at the master employee level and supervisory level are provided. Competencies which are used to develop all events in each series may be purchased from DECA RELATED MATERIALS.

A. ADVERTISING AND VISUAL MERCHANDISING

Advertising and visual merchandising is a highly competitive, fast paced and rapidly changing field in which workers must continually sharpen their skills to perform effectively. Workers in this field are involved in planning, development, implementation and evaluation tasks, and in demand creation and sales promotion activities in various enterprises, such as advertising agencies, display houses, retail and wholesale establishments and print and broadcast media.

MASTER EMPLOYEE LEVEL competition is designed around those competencies needed for beginning employment which individuals normally assume when they enter this occupational area. Representative job titles at this level include: display assistant, advertising assistant, copywriter, layout person, media salesperson and advertising solicitor.

B. APPAREL AND ACCESSORIES

Apparel and Accessories marketing is fiercely competitive and continually changing: workers buy stock, advertise, display and sell clothing and accessories. It is part of the broader field of fashion merchandising, which includes the design and production of ready-to-wear, the distribution of merchandise and the selling of fashion apparel/accessories to the consumer.

MASTER EMPLOYEE LEVEL competition is designed around those competencies needed for beginning employment which individuals normally assume when they enter this occupational area. Representative job titles at this level include: salesperson, counterperson, customer service clerk, cashier, stockperson, display assistant and receiving clerk.

SUPERVISORY LEVEL competition is designed around those competencies needed for that range of employment which includes the management group responsible for the interpretation and execution of policies and procedures for the successful operation of units, departments, or divisions. Representative job titles at this level include: assistant department manager, assistant buyer, special events director, training manager and assistant fashion coordinator.

Course Orientation
A 59
C. FINANCE AND CREDIT

The field of finance and credit is characterized by its prestige, its excitement, and its service to people in all walks of life. Finance and credit occupations may be found in such institutions as banks, savings and loan associations, consumer finance companies, credit unions, and credit departments of retail, wholesale and service businesses.

MASTER EMPLOYEE LEVEL competition is designed around those competencies needed for beginning employment which individuals normally assume when they enter this occupational area. Representative job titles at this level include: teller, credit clerk, safe deposit clerk, telephone collector, credit interviewer and runner.

D. FOOD MARKETING

The retail food industry represents one of the largest single retail industries in the United States in terms of both volume of sales and number of persons employed. Workers in this field are involved in various marketing functions and tasks in retail and wholesale establishments primarily dealing with food products for home preparation and consumption or for commercial and institutional use in their places of food service.

MASTER EMPLOYEE LEVEL competition is designed around those competencies needed for beginning employment which individuals normally assume when they enter this occupational area. Representative job titles at this level include: cashier, produce clerk, stock clerk, bagger, bakery clerk and receiving clerk.

SUPERVISORY LEVEL competition is designed around those competencies needed for that range of employment which includes the management group responsible for the interpretation and execution of policies and procedures for the successful operation of units, departments or divisions. Representative job titles include: assistant store manager, front end supervisor, assistant department manager, head cashier and manager trainee.

E. FULL SERVICE RESTAURANT MANAGEMENT

Restaurant marketing and management is a rapidly growing field that offers unlimited opportunity to qualified people. Workers in this field are involved in various marketing functions and tasks performed in establishments serving prepared food and beverages for consumption on their premises or at a place designated by a customer. Competition in this area is related to full-service restaurants.

This level of competition is designed around those competencies needed for that range of employment which is needed for beginning employment and includes competencies needed for supervisory and management personnel. Representative job titles at this level include: cashier, waiter/waitress and assistant manager.

F. QUICK SERVE RESTAURANT MANAGEMENT

Quick serve restaurants are a rapidly growing segment of the restaurant marketing and management field. Workers in this field are involved in various marketing functions and tasks performed in establishments serving prepared food and beverages for consumption on their premises or at a place designated by a customer. Competition in this area is related to fast-food restaurant establishments.

This area of competition is designed around those competencies needed for that range of employment which is needed for beginning employment and includes competencies needed for supervisory and management personnel. Representative job titles at this level include: counter crew, counter supervisor and assistant manager.
G. RETAIL MERCHANDISING

Retail merchandising covers department stores, discount stores, variety stores and multi-line drugstores. Workers in this field are involved in performing routine and complex tasks in relation to merchandising practices and concepts of mass merchandising, rather than in-depth knowledge of a single-line product or service. Occupational mobility in this field involves multiple experiences in different marketing functions and merchandise lines and service areas.

MASTER EMPLOYEE LEVEL competition is designed around those competencies needed for beginning employment which individuals normally assume when they enter this occupational area. Representative job titles at this level include: salesclerk, salesperson, demonstrator, cashier, stock clerk, receiving clerk, shipping clerk and marking clerk.

SUPERVISORY LEVEL competition is designed around those competencies needed for that range of employment which includes the management group. Representative job titles at this level include: section manager, floor supervisor, stock supervisor, assistant department manager, customer services manager and manager trainee.

H. VEHICLES AND PETROLEUM MARKETING

Vehicles and petroleum marketing covers both the marketing of petroleum products and vehicles/automotive parts. Workers in this field are involved in performing various marketing functions and tasks in the distribution of vehicles and petroleum products. Competition for this occupational level is limited to retail distribution. Representative job titles for this area include: salesperson, counter clerk, station attendant and shift manager.

I. GENERAL MARKETING

General Marketing covers a variety of marketing functions and tasks performed by workers in various marketing occupations in a comprehensive rather than strictly in-depth approach regarding knowledge of product or service lines.

MASTER EMPLOYEE LEVEL competition is designed around those competencies needed for beginning employment which individuals would normally assume when they enter this area. Representative job titles include: salesperson and customer service clerk.

SUPERVISORY LEVEL competition is designed around those competencies needed for that range of employment which includes the management group. Representative job titles include: section manager, customer service manager, sales manager and department manager.

J. HOSPITALITY AND TOURISM MARKETING

The field of hospitality and tourism is a dynamic, growing area. Hospitality and Tourism covers those tasks performed in travel agencies, hotels/motels, meeting planning and special events coordination. Representative job titles include: travel agent, meeting planner, front desk clerk, front desk supervisor, concierge, sales representative and special events coordinator.

A. OCCUPATIONAL WRITTEN EVENTS

Currently DECA is offering competency based written events in the following occupational areas:

1. Business, Personal and Financial Services Marketing
2. Food Marketing
3. General Marketing
4. Hospitality and Recreation Marketing
5. Specialty Store Retailing
6. Entrepreneurship

The current guidelines for these events are available through The DECA Guide. These activities were developed because it was felt that specialized activities should be developed for those DECA members who wished to compete but were uninterested in participatory-type competition. The events are competency based and developed within an occupational category. During competition, all participants are scheduled for an oral presentation and/or defense of the written content.

Competency based written events provide an opportunity for a student to develop and demonstrate essential competencies as they apply to their occupational area. The written event for the occupational area consists of two major parts: the written document and the student interview. The first step in preparing for the event is to read carefully the objectives and description of the event including the format outline to be followed. The outline lists the topics which must be included in the written entry, and the competency list provides specific content to be included. Students then develop in-depth explanation and analysis in solving the marketing challenge or problems. The event is completed in report form, using strict guidelines. Students present their justification of ideas in front of judges who evaluate the merit of the project.

B. INDIVIDUAL FREE ENTERPRISE PROJECT

DECA, in cooperation with the Phillips Petroleum Company, provides an opportunity for individual members to learn and tell others about America's free enterprise system through the Free Enterprise Project. As a service to the membership, Phillips produces and distributes a teaching manual on economic concepts. Additional copies of this student workbook can be purchased through DECA Related Materials.

The Individual Free Enterprise Project will be judged on the following: an essay of 500 words or less, presentations before civic groups, preparation of a bulletin board, display or exhibit or completion of The Jeans Factory computer simulation, one additional outstanding activity informing others about free enterprise, and an interview to demonstrate the student's understanding of free enterprise. More information is contained in the DECA Guide.

C. ENTREPRENEURSHIP PARTICIPATING EVENT

The Entrepreneurship Participating Event involves the student development of a plan for a new business or enterprise. The plan is presented in three parts of no more than three typed pages each (double spaced). No points are awarded for the written part of the entry. An interview before judges is the method used to evaluate student performance, where the student's concept and practical execution of his/her ideas are reviewed.
D. ENTREPRENEURSHIP WRITTEN EVENT

The Entrepreneurship Written Event involves the development of a proposal to start a new business, a self analysis, an analysis of the business situation, a description of the way the business will operate and detailed financial plans for the first 5 years of operation. Any type of business may be used.

Students will prepare the written event document accounting for a certain number of points and be interviewed regarding that document for points. Guidelines are available in the DECA GUIDE.

E. FASHION MERCHANDISING PROMOTION PLAN

The Fashion Merchandising Promotion Plan involves the preparation of a seasonal, one-to-four-week sales promotion campaign based on research of local market conditions, customers, media and fashion merchandising trends in apparel and accessories.

Students, assuming the role of a management trainee, assemble the appropriate information, prepare fact sheets (maximum of nine pages) for the manager, and present and defend their proposals in an interview. Guidelines are available in the DECA GUIDE.
DECA CHAPTER EVENTS

A. CHAPTER FREE ENTERPRISE PROJECT

DECA, in cooperation with the Phillips Petroleum Company, provides an opportunity for chapters to learn about and tell others about America's free enterprise system through the Chapter Free Enterprise Project. This project seeks to encourage all DECA members in a chapter to have a better understanding of the American free enterprise system, to recognize what it means to their future, and to communicate this understanding to others.

Chapter entries will be judged on the following: essays of 500 words or less by all members; panel discussion and/or bulletin boards, displays, or exhibits by all chapter members; and an additional outstanding activity informing others about free enterprise.

B. H. NAYLOR FITZHUGH LEARN AND EARN PROJECT

DECA provides an opportunity for chapters to learn about business operations through any type of fundraising activity. The project offers an educational, practical way to augment a DECA chapter's treasury. The basic purpose of the Learn and Earn Project is educational. It uses fundraising as the opportunity for hands-on learning experiences to benefit chapter members for years to come.

Learn and Earn Project entries should be reports and not manuals. Basically, the chapter's report should communicate what was learned and earned through the project; how it was conducted; and how the project results might be improved. The DECA Guide has more details.

C. SEVEN UP/MDA CIVIC CONSCIOUSNESS PROJECT

DECA, in cooperation with the Seven-Up Company and the Muscular Dystrophy Association, provides an opportunity for chapters to (1) develop a better understanding of civic consciousness efforts, (2) make a contribution to a needed community service, and (3) learn and apply the principles of numerous components of marketing management. The Civic Consciousness Project is designed to allow members within a DECA chapter to develop leadership characteristics, self-confidence and/or self acceptance, high ethical standards in personal and business relationships, effective interpersonal relationships, greater proficiency in communications and social and business etiquette.

The Civic Consciousness Project is also designed to allow DECA members to study curriculum areas during classroom instruction and apply the principles, goals, objectives and concepts of these units to conducting a community service project. The units of instruction are marketing, operations, public relations, marketing research, selling, sales promotion and financial planning. Members will be given an overview of marketing management and exposure to the practices in operating a business.

This project has DECA chapter members develop a manual on the procedures of conducting their service project, how it is to be accomplished, and how the project benefits a cause or community, and the understanding of civic consciousness by chapter members. Copies of the criteria for the project are mailed from National DECA to each chapter in early fall, and are explained in the DECA Guide.
DECA CHAPTER COMPETITIVE EVENTS

D. CREATIVE MARKETING PROJECT

DECA, in cooperation with the Sales and Marketing Executives, International, provides an opportunity for DECA chapters to (1) develop an analytical and creative approach to the marketing process and (2) actively engage members in a marketing activity in their community.

The project must offer actual or potential improvement-economic or social- of a specific business, the community, the state or the nation. Sample topics would include finding new markets for local products, promoting the community's resources, or increasing customer services. Criteria for this project are available through the DECA Guide published yearly by National DECA.

E. CHAPTER PUBLIC RELATIONS PROJECT

The Chapter Public Relations Project provides an opportunity for participants to (1) develop and/or identify a theme for a public relations campaign, (2) plan and organize a public relations campaign in their local community, (3) implement a public relations campaign, and (4) evaluate the planning and implementation process.

The Chapter Public Relations Project involves the planning, organizing, implementation and evaluation of a single public relations campaign conducted by the chapter. The campaign may focus on any topic or subject of interest to the chapter and should involve the majority of the chapter members. An evaluation of the campaign's planning, organization and implementation must be included in the report. Look for more details in the DECA Guide.

F. CHAPTER ACTIVITIES AWARD PROJECT

NCDECA provides an opportunity for local chapters in the state to plan a yearly program of work. Awards are presented to DECA chapters in three categories-one star, two star and three star awards, with the three star being the highest. Points are awarded based on the number and quality of projects completed by the chapter. Projects are completed in relation to points of the DECA Diamond.

Criteria for this activity are distributed at the beginning of the school year by the NC DECA Advisor. A chapter sends in verification forms for projects completed during a specified period. Awards are presented at the State CDC. Refer to the NC DECA Handbook for details of this project.
Committee: In business, a group formed to deal with special problems or tasks.

There is no sure road to becoming an "overnight" sensation in the fashion world. Even those who have made a name for themselves designing for a company have been known to strike out when they've designed under their own names. But then there is Donna Karan.

For about 10 years, Donna Karan was chief designer for Anne Klein & Co., a job she stepped into after Anne Klein's death in 1974. An unquestionable success in that position, Karan received two coveted Coty Awards; but with time, she felt she wanted something different and took the giant step of leaving Anne Klein to launch her own company.

Karan unveiled her premiere collection under her own name in May 1985—and was immediately hailed as the hit of the season. In less than a year, the Karan line had caught on so completely with consumers that the prestigious department stores carrying it were selling out of the clothing faster than with any other designer line. Plus, at Bergdorf Goodman, the collection was producing the highest sales per square foot of any American designer space in the store.

What was the key to Karan's spontaneous success? As many saw it, her designs struck a responsive note; they fit the times. Or put another way, as an executive woman herself, Karan knew what executive women wanted—in fact, she said, "I will design only clothes and accessories that I myself would wear."

In essence, what Karan designs is a "no-fuss" collection of separates, consisting of easy, flowing skirts, form-fitting bodysuits, dusters, and pants, all in styles and fabrications that can be wrapped, draped, tied, and mixed and matched, using just a few basic essentials. The look created by the apparel is then topped off by a full line of Donna Karan accessories, including jewelry, stockings, handbags, belts, and gloves.

While Karan states that she is designing for a working woman, her clothes are very different from the more traditional "office" looks of a Liz Claiborne or Calvin Klein. Rather, she says she designs her clothing for the top professional woman, the woman who is so sure of herself and her career that she can enjoy wearing sophisticated, curvy, almost sexy clothing even at work.\(^5\)

Of course, not all Donna Karan customers are top executives and some probably do not work at all, but what they all have in common, besides their taste for this designer's line, is money to spend on their wardrobe—since the clothing is among the most expensive produced by an American designer. Most of her outfits can be assembled for around $1,000, although another $1,000 would have to be spent to accessorize them as Karan intends.

The result of that spending for consumers, though, is a look that more than a few fashionable women have found comfortable and flattering to wear; the result for Donna Karan's company is projections of between $200 and $250 million of retail business a year.\(^6\) And that does not include new directions Karan has been pursuing for her name, such as a fragrance, eyewear, watches, and underwear.

One of the newest directions is her DKNY line, which debuted in 1988 just three years after her start on her own. The DKNY label cost approximately one-half the price of the Karan collection and is a "bridge line" devoted to a total lifestyle.\(^7\)

Street-smart Karan literally went to the street for her DKNY inspiration. "I always loved the sound of NYPD [New York Police Department]. DKNY has the same energy."\(^8\) She describes her DKNY line of apparel and accessories as "the other side of me—the fun and spirited side."\(^9\)

In addition, she plans to open her own retail shops offering their entire collection of apparel and accessories. That's a major accomplishment in a relatively short time—but what else could one expect from an overnight sensation?

KEY MARKETING FUNCTIONS

Marketing is a big business in America and getting bigger. Approximately one-third of the labor force is engaged in performing marketing functions and about 50 percent of every buyer's dollar goes for marketing costs. The persons employed in marketing perform a wide range of functions.

Product Planning

One of the key marketing functions is product planning; that is, developing products in response to market opportunities. At The Gap, the design staff devotes its time to selecting the exact quality, styles, and colors of their private-label merchandise, including such labels as Gap Sport and Gap (Private label merchandise has met specific standards identified by a retail organization. It is merchandise which belongs exclusively to the retailer who developed it.) Retailers develop private label merchandise to ensure consistent quality of product, meet price competition, provide customers with unique items that no other store has, and increase the store's profit margin.

Buying and Pricing

Two of the key marketing functions, buying and pricing, are performed by retail buyers. At The Gap, buyers determine how many units (or items) to purchase and send to the more than 700 retail stores. Due to the large volume of clothing and accessories purchased, The Gap usually gets the best possible price. In addition to obtaining merchandise for resale, Gap buyers determine the price that consumers will pay for their sweaters, jeans, sweats, and other items in the merchandise assortment. Customers must perceive the price charged as fair, or they will not buy. The price charged must also provide the company with a profit.

Distribution

Distribution includes those activities associated with the physical movement or transfer of ownership of products from producer to consumer. Some of The Gap's merchandise is manufactured outside the United States where labor costs are less expensive. This merchandise is transported to the United States by ship and then by truck to its two distribution centers in California and Kentucky. Other merchandise, such as the Levi products sold by The Gap, are manufactured in the United States and sent to the east and west coast distribution centers by truck. At both distribution centers, the shipments are quickly processed and sent to the individual stores, where the merchandise is made ready for sale.

The Gap keeps select merchandise in storage at a warehouse. This stored merchandise consists of basic stock items, such as The Gap jeans or sweats. Basic stock items are automatically reordered through the computerized point-of-sale system, in which the cash registers are actually computer terminals linked together. The goods are sent to the store by truck with the next shipment of fashion items. Because The Gap specializes in fashion goods that have a limited selling period, storing merchandise is not common.

After merchandise has been on the selling floor for awhile, The Gap consolidates the remaining styles, colors, and sizes to select stores. Specific stores are instructed to transfer their "broken assortment" to other Gap stores. Consolidating and transferring merchandise are two other distribution activities performed by multiunit clothing and accessory stores.}

Promotion

The Gap uses a variety of promotion methods to communicate information about its products, services, and image. For example, it places advertisements in fashion magazines such as Glamour. It designs the stores in bright colors with attractive fixtures that place the focus on the merchandise. And the company requires employees to follow specific folding guidelines to keep the merchandise displayed on the tables looking fresh and appealing.

Selling

Selling, another key marketing function, means responding to consumer needs and wants through planned personalized communications. The purpose of selling is to influence purchase decisions and ensure customer satisfaction. The Gap staffs each store with salespeople to personally help customers coordinate fashion looks. It schedules its employees so that the most salespeople are working during the store's busiest customer periods. It provides product training to increase the staff's knowledge of how to coordinate and care for the merchandise.

Financing

When The Gap purchases merchandise from its suppliers, it does not pay the bill immediately. In fact, the bill may not be paid for 30 or more days. Likewise, customers may use their MasterCard, Visa, or American Express credit card when purchasing clothing and delay payment. In both instances, The Gap is involved in the financing of goods through the extension of credit. Financing is another important marketing function.

Risk Management

Risk management means being prepared for the possible losses a business may sustain, including theft of merchandise by customers or employees, markdowns due to poor buying decisions, and bad checks and credit card losses. The Gap has a series of procedures that are designed to minimize the losses it may incur, such as plans for handling shoplifting, check acceptance, and markdowns.

Marketing Information Management

The continuous gathering, analyzing, and disseminating of information that is needed when making marketing decisions is called marketing information management, or market research. Accurate, timely marketing information greatly increases the probability that the company will deliver products that customers want, when they want them, and at a price they are willing to pay. Market research will be discussed in more detail later in this chapter.

Evolution and Movement of Fashion
C. EVOLUTION AND MOVEMENT OF FASHION

COMPETENCY: 3.00. Explain the evolution and movement of fashion in our economy.

OBJECTIVE: 3.01. Explain the history of fashion and how it relates to today's fashions

A. Explain the chronological development/advancement of fashion over time (Identify styles, costume components and details)
   1. In France, royalty and aristocracy were the only two elements which could afford to be fashionable. Royalty would start a fashion, aristocrats would follow their lead to impress the royal family.
   2. The court of Louis XIV became the fashion leaders, with very intricate styles, requiring elaborate detailing. The dressmaker-"couturier" (male), and "couturiere" (female) became important; clothes were custom-made. Clothes were not quite functional or comfortable; they were worn for adornment.
   3. After Napoleon III abdicated, the couturier became the reliable trendsetter for fashion. Some designers were business people as well as dressmakers, opening well-organized "couture houses," and had tailors and seamstresses on staff.
   4. Parisian fashion went international. Miniature gowns, dressed on fashion dolls, would help to publicize the fashions abroad. Only the wealthy could afford the couture clothes, but many copied them to some degree.
   5. Fashions consistently have reflected the "mood" of the particular era. The way a culture is thinking, the values, and activities of the population at any given time help to dictate fashion. To illustrate:
      A. 1900-1909:
         1. Paris was still the center of the fashion world. Clothing and hairstyles were elaborate. Hats were lavish on top of high hairdos. Women wore corsets.
         2. Men wore basic, standardized cuts in sober colors.
         3. Modesty was on the way out with new styles of swimsuits.
         4. The first ready to wear fashions were mass produced.
         5. The "Gibson girl" and "Gibson man" were born-the personification of the ideal middle class American.
      B. 1910-1919:
         1. Women looking for the vote and equal rights, shortened their skirts and simplified their styles
         2. The "hobble" dress was introduced - a high-waisted skirt, closely fitted to the hips, with the foot of the skirt caught in a straight band; helped to make the corset obsolete.
         3. World War I closed most fashion houses. Women were looking for more comfort and convenience.
COMPETENCY: 3.00. Explain the evolution and movement of fashion in our economy.

OBJECTIVE: 3.01. Explain the history of fashion and how it relates to today's fashions

4. More women working outside the home led to a shortening of skirts, low-cut shoes and silk, rather than cotton hosiery.
5. Men were clean cut and smooth shaven

C. 1920-1929:
1. The Roaring Twenties, with more people making decent incomes, were living the good life and spending time and money on sports and leisure.
2. Women began wearing chemise dresses (sack dresses), which are straight-line dresses with no waistline.
3. Jean Patou created the Flapper, strengthening a straight silhouette, and making shorter skirts with uneven hemlines.
4. Men's clothing changed little, still with the basic business or union suit.
5. Accessories became more commonplace with costume jewelry, such as strands of beads.
6. Cosmetics began to become popular.

D. 1930-1939:
1. After the stock market crash of 1929 and the Depression to follow, "frugality" was the operative word of the era. Fashions became functional.
2. First real time of the "Hollywood influence."
3. Rayon and acetate fabrics are created and quickly become popular.
4. Women are back to soft looks and loose light fabrics.
5. The housedress is popularized.
6. Accessories include big hats with big brims and fox, fur collared coats
7. Men's fashions are better coordinated.

E. 1940-1949:
1. World War II forced fashion into an "eclipse." The Wartime Production Board limited everything produced (Law 1-85).
2. Two-piece swimsuits were introduced, followed by the bikini in 1947.
3. Also in 1947, Christian Dior introduced the "New Look," stressing femininity with soft shoulders, round bosoms, cinched waists, padded hips, and midcalf skirts. Women of all heights measured their hems twelve inches from the ground.
COMPETENCY: 3.00. Explain the evolution and movement of fashion in our economy.

OBJECTIVE: 3.01. Explain the history of fashion and how it relates to today's fashions

4. Shoes became important with Capezio ballet slippers, the Norwegian mocassin, wedge pumps and platforms.

F. 1950-1959:
1. World War II had ended-the birth rate and housing starts boomed and shopping centers were built everywhere.
2. Women were making more of an impact with Grace Kelly, Claire Booth Luce, Brigitte Bardot and Audrey Hepburn.
3. The "baby doll" look was popularized, as was the "sack" or chemise.
4. Men began to be truly fashion conscious with the "Ivy League" look of sweater vests, argyle socks and corduroy fashions. Other men's fashions included narrow lapels, ties and belts.
5. Sportswear was extremely important toward the end of the 1950's.
6. Claire McCardell was the number one American designer for her concepts of separates and casual fashions.
7. The "costume" dress, a simple straight dress with its own jacket, was very big at the end of the decade.
8. Women on college campuses started wearing blue jeans and Dad's old shirt.

G. 1960-1969:
1. When John F. Kennedy took office in 1960, the "Jackie" look quickly became the rage. Dresses were simple; hemlines continued to rise.
2. Considered an era of and for youth.
3. Vinyl was introduced in a big way in sportswear, coats, bags and shoes.
4. Minis and mods arrive, and women wear hose of all designs and colors.
5. Real and fake furs take a strong hold on fashion.
6. Wrinkle free, soil resistant fibers are introduced.
7. Men are into the fashion scene with turtlenecks, too many gold chains, tight pants, Edwardian suits and Nehru collars (but not for very long)

H. 1970-1979:
1. Pants and pant suits became accepted and popular fashion items.
2. Women rejected the midi-skirt.
COMPETENCY: 3.00. Explain the evolution and movement of fashion in our economy.

OBJECTIVE: 3.01. Explain the history of fashion and how it relates to today's fashions

3. T-Shirt dresses and wrap skirts grew in popularity.
4. People became very weight and diet conscious, and began exercising socially as well as for health. Sportswear fashions are important again.
5. Swimwear continued to shrink-the string bikini is introduced.
6. Jeans change and become accepted as casual clothing.
7. Ethnic looks began to rise with fashions from Africa, China, India, Greece and Guatemala

I. 1980-1989:
1. "Dress for Success" originated here with everything designer being impressive, from Halston dresses to Gucci shoes to Rolex watches to Calvin Klein jeans. Although the look started in the late 70's, the designer or "preppy" look was a wave in the early '80's.
2. Middle aged and older adults are recognized for their enormous buying potential; marketing is beginning to gear itself for a population over 40.
3. Giorgio Armani leads the entry of the Italian designers, with business suits for women.
4. Liz Claiborne is successful in making fashions more affordable to the general population.
5. Discount stores begin to give traditional stores major competition. (i.e., Jaclyn Smith, K Mart)
7. Major fads with "punk" styles and torn clothes
8. The mini-skirt makes a major comeback.
9. The baby boomer is revered as a major economical influence with the short-lived period of the "yuppie" (young urban professional), and "DINK" (double income, no kids).

J. 1990-Present:
1. Mini-skirts find more acceptance at the workplace.
2. Women become major players in the workforce.
3. Continue to encourage healthful living and exercise with dieting and designer-type warm-up suits and exercise equipment.
C. EVOLUTION AND MOVEMENT OF FASHION

COMPETENCY: 3.00. Explain the evolution and movement of fashion in our economy.

OBJECTIVE: 3.01. Explain the history of fashion and how it relates to today's fashions

4. Economic worries incredibly affect the sale of ties; tie fashion explodes for men who want to accessorize current suits instead of making new suit purchases.
5. The "thong" bikini is introduced.
6. In 1993, the midi-skirt was once again introduced in Europe, with fashion designers stating that this time the public was ready for it.
7. Advancements with cotton increase its use in fashion; treatments make cotton easy-care.
8. "Off-price" and "one-price" stores increase in popularity, as do subspecialty stores.

You will notice from the preceding history that many fashions reoccur, with adaptations to suit the times. Designers many times borrow ideas from the past, "reinterpreting" it for current times. Examples include:
1. "T-shirts": introduced in France during World War I as underwear, American soldiers found them comfortable. They made a comeback as shirts for golfing and other sports in the 1940's, were adopted by women in the 1960's, and now make statements about products, tastes, preferences, beliefs, etc.
2. The padded shoulder was big in the 1940's, and was reintroduced in the 1980's. Changes in fabrics, colors and details made the look unique to the 1980's.

Women went to work in business during World War I, and they fought for equal rights. Their attire became less restrictive to accommodate their more active lifestyles. Colors and styles were subdued during wartime, but fashion picked up after the war. The flared skirt which had lasted throughout the war was replaced by the barrel line, which created a tubular effect. Automobile production reached 1,000,000, and special attire was worn by both men and women to protect them from cold and dust when riding in open cars. An informal look became popular for men: straw hats, checks, and butterfly ties were often worn. This informal trend became more noticeable after the war.
During the 1920s women won the right to vote. They asserted their independence and newly won equality. They bobbed their hair, flattened their bustlines, shortened their skirts, and put on trousers. Helena Rubinstein and Elizabeth Arden opened cosmetic businesses, and cosmetics became an important fashion accessory. Charles Lindbergh made his solo flight to Paris. As a result, scarves (as worn by the famous pilot) became a popular fashion item and were worn with all types of clothes. Men's wear progressed toward informality. Baggy knickerbockers, known as plus-fours, were very popular.
The Great Depression put millions of people out of work. With women no longer active in business, styles became more feminine again. They were also designed to be versatile, because money was tight and wardrobes were limited. King Edward of England became a romantic hero by giving up the throne to marry Wallis Simpson. Brocades, royal purple, and large fox collars (all suggestive of royalty) became popular. Nylon was produced and nylon stockings became available. Men's fashions were coordinated, but not necessarily matched - another sign of the informality that began after World War I.
Great Depression
(Began 1929, continued through 1930's)

When the depression hit in the early 1930s, the scarcity of jobs forced most women out of the business world and back into the home, where they adopted more feminine clothing. Because of the lack of money, wardrobes were limited. One garment had to serve for a number of occasions, so styles during this time were based on versatility.
World War II created a worker shortage, and women went back into the world of business and industry. They took on many traditionally masculine jobs; this called for greater freedom of dress. Also, fashion showed a military influence with looks such as squared shoulders and straight, narrow skirts. Men's fashion was at a stand-still because most men were in uniform.

Standard WWII Attire
World War II was fought, and wartime control and rationing resulted in restrictions on yardage for clothing. Synthetic fibers were greatly improved as a result of the war effort. Fashion reflected the influence of the war: narrow skirts showed the yardage restrictions: square, padded shoulders had a military look. Trousers for women became increasingly popular as many women went to work in jobs previously held by the men now in the service. Most men were in uniform. Undergarments made of synthetics, especially nylon, became popular. After the war, the French made a determined effort to reassert themselves as fashion leaders. These designers had a big influence on American fashions.

"New Look" by Dior (1947)
This was a decade of postwar prosperity. As if in reaction to the war's end (and the end of restrictions and rationing), skirts became fuller and dropped to below-knee and mid-calf in length. With prosperity came an emphasis on leisure time, and sportswear became an important fashion look. Bermuda shorts, pedal pushers, and halter dresses were popular. The political mood was basically conservative, and the “in” Ivy League look reflected this conservative trend. Ivy League men’s wear included narrow ties, narrow lapels, argyle socks, and corduroy fabric. In the late 1950s, the short, straight styles of the 1920s again became popular.
With the election of J. F. Kennedy to the presidency, a new fashion look was born. "The Jackie Look", as it became known, included the pillbox hat, short A-line skirt, and the Chanel jacket. In the 1960s hemlines became the shortest ever. Musicians from England became popular in America, and British clothing styles set the fashion for the young. Civil unrest and the Vietnam war led to rebellion among many young people. This was reflected in their clothing styles – the braless look, thrift-shop clothing, and unisex apparel, for example.
John F. Kennedy's Presidency
(1960 - 1963)

The election of John Kennedy to the Presidency in 1960 had an impact on styles because it brought Jackie Kennedy to the forefront of fashion. As First Lady, she was a most important influence on women's fashion, and she remained so throughout the 1960s. Styles (pillbox hats, large sunglasses, above-the-knee A-line skirts) worn by Jackie were copied by women all over the country.
In the 1960s, when the music of the Beatles and other British rock groups became enormously popular in America, their "mod" fashion look was widely adopted.
A period of unrest, the 1970s were plagued by inflation and recession. The Watergate break-in resulted in President Nixon's resignation. Fashion became daring with see-through clothes, radically brief swimsuits, and micro-mini skirts. Then as events and fashion seemed to be getting out of control, there was a move toward the conservative and traditional. The "Preppy" (Ivy League) look became fashionable again. Men adopted three-piece suits and shirts with button-down collars. Women's hemlines dropped.
Fashion Decades

Since fashion moves in cycles, you are to research one major period of fashion history, as assigned, and report to the class. Gather as much information regarding fashions of the period assigned and teach the class about this period as creatively as possible.

Working in a pair or in a group, you must present a complete "picture" of the assigned fashion era, and explain how the fashions of this era might influence fashions of today. Your presentation could take the form of a fashion show, written report/class presentation, slide show/discussion, segments from old movies with class presentations, collages or bulletin boards . . . or an idea you have to teach the class about your era. Be creative . . . just make sure the class understands the fashion, mood and significance of your decade.

You will be evaluated on the following:

1. your individual contribution to the overall group effort
2. product creativity
3. project completeness
4. your ability to communicate/teach the information

Make sure your work is comprehensive and imaginative. Get to work!!!
C. EVOLUTION AND MOVEMENT OF FASHION

COMPETENCY: 3.00. Explain the evolution and movement of fashion in our economy.

OBJECTIVE: 3.02. Explain the concept of the fashion cycle

Evolution and Movement of Fashion
A INTRODUCTION: Fashion innovators purchase from "high-priced" retailers who "lead" fashion.

B RISE: Fashion leaders purchase from traditional retailers in their "better" departments.

C ACCELERATION: Fashion followers purchase from traditional retailers in moderate-priced" departments.

D MASS ACCEPTANCE: Fashion followers purchase from mass merchants.

E DECLINE: Fashion followers may purchase a few items at greatly reduced prices from mass merchants.

F OBsolescence: No one is buying! "You can't give it away!"
Where Are They?

People in the public eye, as well as apparel and accessories, go through a sort of "fashion cycle" where they rise to popularity and then may decline or virtually become obsolete. For each person/character listed, decide at which stage of the "fashion cycle" they are. Use the key below. If someone has gone through the cycle and is having a comeback, note this by marking "C". Evolution and Movement of Fashion
Forecasting: Luck or Savvy

In order to meet the demands of the consumer, we need to be able to predict the consumer's needs and wants. In fashion, we need to determine the direction in which styles are changing, otherwise called the fashion trend.

You will examine various sources of information to determine the trend of the topic assigned. You will examine trade magazines, newspapers, educational / entertaining television shows, fashion shows, fashion magazines, and/or any source available to you. The more resources you use, the easier it will be to predict what direction in which your trend topic is moving.

After analyzing the different resources, you will:

1. Summarize current trends - what's "trendy" now, how products are being marketed

2. Predict future trends - Seeing what is currently happening, what can you predict consumers will be looking for?

C. EVOLUTION AND MOVEMENT OF FASHION

COMPETENCY: 3.00. Explain the evolution and movement of fashion in our economy.

OBJECTIVE: 3.05. Explain the theories of fashion adoption.

A. Explain Downward Flow Theory (Traditional)
Also called "trickle-down theory"; in order to be identified as a true fashion, a style must first be adopted at the top of the social pyramid
* fashions are only accepted by the masses if first accepted by the upper class
* upper class will reject a fashion once accepted by a lower class

B. Explain Horizontal-Flow Theory (Mass dissemination)
Also called "mass-market theory"; fashions move horizontally between groups on similar social levels, rather than vertically from one level to another
* mass communications introduce fashions to all classes concurrently
* there are separate, distinct groups which make up the fashion public; for example, society people, suburbanites, college students, office workers, etc.

C. Explain Upward-Flow Theory (Reverse adoption)
The young, particularly those of low-income families and higher income groups, who adopt low-income lifestyles, are quicker than any other social groups to create or adopt new and different fashions.
* adoption begins with young, lower-income groups
* fashion comes from the street and adopted by the couture

C. EVOLUTION AND MOVEMENT OF FASHION

COMPETENCY: 3.00. Explain the evolution and movement of fashion in our economy.

OBJECTIVE: 3.06. Explain the concept of supply and demand in the fashion industry.

A. Define Supply And Demand

1. Supply may be defined as the quantity of a good or service that sellers are able and willing to offer for sale at a specified price in a given time period.
2. Demand may be defined as the quantity of a good or service that buyers are ready to buy at a given price at a particular time. For demand to exist, there must be three conditions:
   a. A desire for the good or service
   b. The potential consumer must have the buying power to pay for the good or service
   c. The potential consumer must be willing to give up some buying power in exchange for the desired product.

B. Explain The Laws of Supply and Demand

1. The Law of Supply is the economic principle which states that the quantity of a good or service to be offered for sale varies in direct relation to its price
2. The Law of Demand is the economic principle which states that the quantity of a good or service people will buy varies inversely with the price of the good or service
3. The Law of Supply and Demand is the economic principle which states that the supply of a good or service will increase when demand is great and decrease when demand is low.

C. Explain Factors Affecting Supply and Demand

1. Factors affecting supply include:
   a. Cost of production
   b. Inventions and advanced technology
   c. Number of producers
   d. Prices of other goods
   e. Disasters and other events
   f. Government regulations and policies
   g. Labor union demands

2. Factors affecting demand include:
   a. Utility
   b. Tastes and preferences
   c. Consumer buying power
   d. Number of consumers
   e. Expectations
   f. Price of complementary goods
   g. Price of substitute goods
   h. Standard of living
   i. Promotion
   j. Personal selling

Leading U. S. Market Centers

Atlanta
Regional market serving the southeastern part of the country.

Baltimore
Has a stable apparel market, particularly devoted to the production of men's and boy's wear.

Boston
Has become famous for its rainwear in the men's apparel market.

Charlotte
Growing as a regional fashion center for women's, children's, men's and boy's, and western wear with the Charlotte Center and Charlotte Merchandise Mart.

Chicago
The "Windy City" holds a prominent position as a major marketing center for thousands of retailers in the Midwest and south-central areas.

Cincinnati
Has been a specialist in "tailor-to-the-trade" clothing business.

Cleveland
Is the home of several large tailored-clothing houses, as well as a large producer of women's sportswear.

Dallas
One of the fastest growing apparel markets in the country.

Kansas City
A center for the manufacture of work clothes, boys' wear, and women's dozen-priced dresses.

Los Angeles - Long Beach
Ranks third in terms of dollar value by manufacturer.

Miami
Has multiple houses which specialize in summer and cruisewear lines for women.

Minneapolis
Manufactures a wide range of apparel, including coats, suits and dresses for misses, women's half-sizes; maternity dresses; sportswear for the entire family; lingerie; children's and infant clothes; millinery; and outer wear for the whole family.

New York City
Overwhelmingly the capital of the apparel market in the U. S.

Philadelphia
A long-established center for the manufacture of men's, women's and children's apparel.

Rochester
Traditionally strong in men's clothing, is the home of a handful of very large menswear producers.

St. Louis
Epitomized by the "junior" market.
ELASTIC AND INELASTIC DEMAND

Changes in price influence changes in demand for goods and services. Elasticity is a term that describes how much a change in price affects the quantity of a good or service demanded. When there is a small change in price that corresponds to a relatively large change in demand, demand is said to be elastic. Demand for certain goods and services will change, with small changes in the price of the product. For example, goods that are not essential for human survival usually have elastic demand. Elastic goods might include such items as steak, soft drinks, video cassette recorders, and the latest compact disc. Take steak, for example. When the price of steak is lowered, people tend to eat more of it. If the price of steak is increased, people eat less.

Another factor that results in elastic demand is the availability of substitute goods. If there are substitute products available that consumers can purchase, the product will probably have elastic demand. In the steak example, if the price of steak increases, consumers could quite easily buy another type of meat.

When the demand for an item is inelastic, a change in price will have a relatively small effect on the quantity demanded. The demand for some goods and services will be inelastic for one or more of the following reasons:

1. They are necessities.
2. It is difficult to find substitutes - there are few substitutes for milk
3. They are relatively inexpensive - if the price of an item were to double from 20 cents to 40 cents, it would have less of an effect on demand than if the price had gone from $200 to $400.
4. It is difficult to delay a purchase - when your car is running out of gas, it is not always possible to shop for the best deal.
Elastic or Inelastic

For the following items, place an "E" in the space provided if a product has relatively elastic demand and "I" if demand is relatively inelastic. Justify your response in the column to the right.

COMPETENCY: 3.00. Explain the evolution and movement of fashion in our economy.

OBJECTIVE: 3.07. Explain the concept of utility in the fashion industry.

A. Define Utility
   The ability of a product or service to satisfy consumer needs and/or wants; usefulness

B. Explain The Types Of Utilities
   1. Form: usefulness created by altering or changing the form or shape of a good to make it more useful to the consumer.
      * especially important in fashion; styles, colors, fabrics, and sizes must be in demand and available ex: having panty hose in different sizes makes them more useful to consumers

   2. Place: usefulness created by making sure goods and services are available at the place where they are needed or wanted by the consumer.
      * an incredible number of manufacturers compete for apparel sales; manufacturers and retailers need to make products as convenient as possible for the consumer to purchase ex: selling visors in beachfront boutiques

   3. Time: usefulness created when products are available at the time they are needed and wanted by the consumers.
      * apparel marketers need to offer products long before seasons actually begin

   4. Possession: usefulness created when ownership of a product is transferred from the seller to the user.
      * business and consumer credit, and layaways increase the ability to purchase products/services

   5. Information: usefulness created when the customer has the right information to making purchasing decisions.
      * communication provided by salespeople, displays, packaging, advertising help to educate the consumer about features/benefits and choice

C. EVOLUTION AND MOVEMENT OF FASHION

COMPETENCY: 3.00. Explain the evolution and movement of fashion in our economy.

OBJECTIVE: 3.08. Explain the types of fashion retailers

   1. French word meaning a small retail shop with unusual clothing and atmosphere
   2. Usually carry very new or "extreme" styling

B. Explain Catalog Showroom:
   1. A retail store where customers look at merchandise on display or in catalogs
   2. Orders are filled from a stockroom on the premises

C. Explain Chain Store Organization:
   1. A group of 12 or more centrally-owned stores
   2. Merchandised and controlled by a central headquarters office
   3. All offer similar goods.

D. Explain Department Store:
   1. A store which generally employs 25 or more employees
   2. Sells general lines of merchandise in three categories:
      a. home furnishings / furniture
      b. household linens and dry goods
      c. apparel and accessories for the entire family

E. Explain Discount Store:
   1. A departmentalized retail operation that sells merchandise at discount rates, with reduced customer services
   2. Usually use self-service merchandising techniques
   3. Usually operate at low profit margin with annual dollar of at least $500,000
   4. Usually at least 10,000 square feet in size

F. Explain Direct Marketing:
   1. Method of marketing where various advertising media interact with consumers, generally calling for a direct response
   2. Major types of Direct Marketing:
      a. catalog - selling through catalogs, usually mailed to a select list of customers or made available at stores
      b. direct mail - single mailings that include letters, samples, foldouts sent to prospects on mailing lists
      c. electronic retailing - a "catalog" available on a computer data bank, customers can see video pictures of products and order through the computer

USING PROPER GRAMMAR AND VOCABULARY

Business persons must know how to communicate. The salesperson, for example, can have an outstanding personality and be able to give an impressive sales demonstration but without the knowledge of words and how to use them, the salesperson will lose his/her effectiveness. The ability to use speech vocabulary in an effective manner is one of the keys to being a successful business person.

Instructions to Students: Place an "X" to the left of the number of any sentences below which are grammatically correct. In the space below each sentence, rewrite those which are incorrect.

1. She did not go to work because she did not feel well.
2. I do not know nothing about this department.
3. These shirts are less expensive than those.
4. Them coffee pots are on sale.
5. Sally learned John how to fill out a job application.
6. Displays are important to a store's appearance.
7. How come you done that?
8. I seen the shoplifter put the watch in his pocket.
9. Merchandise information should be studied by salespeople.
10. I rung that sell on the cash register.

Instructions to Students: Underline and correct any poor grammar in the following paragraph.

David seen a help-wanted sign in the store window. He decided to apply for the job. David never had no job before he got this one. The personnel manager was pleased with David's enthusiasm and interest. The instructor learned David how to operate the cash register. David ringed the cash register incorrectly only once on his first day of work.

INTRODUCTION TO THE USE OF THE TELEPHONE

Modern business could not exist without the telephone; in fact, both American business and social life are dominated by the use of the telephone.

When you answer or place a telephone call in a business office, YOU ARE THE COMPANY to the person at the other end of the line. The telephone is an extension of your business and frequently a phone conversation is as important as any face-to-face contact you have to convey your personality and the personality of your company.

Naturally, the person with whom you are speaking can't see your smile or your expressions. You must rely entirely on your voice and telephone personality to demonstrate that your company is friendly and a pleasant place to do business.

Therefore, it is vital that each of us develops and understands the powers of effective telephone communications. For if your voice sounds warm and interested, you win friends and customers for your company. This is highly important to your company, and equally important to your personal business success.
PROPER TELEPHONE USAGE

FUNDAMENTAL PROCEDURES FOR TELEPHONE USE

1. Hold the mouthpiece so that you speak directly into it.
2. Replace the receiver quietly when the call is finished.
3. Wait a few seconds between calls to allow the equipment to disconnect.

PLACING A BUSINESS CALL

1. Be certain of reaching the correct telephone number.
   * When in doubt, look up the number and write it down.
   * Wait for the dial tone before you begin.
   * Carefully dial or press each number.
   * If dialing, move the dial all the way to the finger stop, then release it.
   * Do not confuse the letter "I" with the number "one" and the letter "O" with the number "zero."
   * Allow the telephone to ring at least ten times to give your party plenty of time to answer.

2. Points to consider when planning business calls.
   * Purpose - The reason for making the call.
   * Whom to call - follow specific instructions or use good judgement.
   * Information to be given - descriptions, directions, dates, prices, etc.
   * Questions to be asked - what procedures to follow, what arrangements, etc. (ask questions tactfully)
   * Necessary materials - paper, pencil, calendar, appointment schedule, files, notes on topic.
   * Type of call - local or long distance; appropriate service - station-to-station, person-to-person, etc.
   * When to call - business hours, avoid meal time, be aware of time zones.
   * Correct telephone number - list of frequently called numbers, personal directory, telephone directories, information operator.

3. What to do if you reach a wrong number.
   * Local calls - apologize for the error, hang up, verify the number, dial again.
   * Long distance - apologize, hang up, dial the operator to report your error, verify the number, dial again.

4. If you expect someone to call you back.
   * Remain near your telephone and be ready to answer the call.
   * If this is not possible, leave word with someone about where you may be reached or when you will return.

ANSWERING A BUSINESS CALL

1. Why businesses attempt to answer telephones promptly.
   * Indicates an alert, efficient operation.
   * Expresses a desire to be of service.
   * Avoids wasting the caller's time.
   * Avoids disturbing others in the business.

2. Giving identification when answering a business telephone.
   * Make it clear to the caller what location has been reached.
   * Use appropriate identifying phrase.
   * Factors which affect the choice of identification:
     + Whether there is a private switchboard operator.
     + Whether it is your own extension, a department or another person's extension.
     + The established practice of the business.
   * Examples of answering phrases.
     - "Thompson"
     - "Marking Room, Mr. Kennedy"
     - "Lowe's Food Store, Mr. Petty"
     - "Mr. Brewer's office, Miss Jones"
     - "Produce department, Johnson"

3. Indicating that another person will be called to the phone.
   * "If you will wait a moment, I will call Mrs. Barnes to the telephone."
   * "Certainly, Mr. Rodriquez, Mrs. Hadley has been expecting your call."

4. Asking callers to wait.
   * What to say if the called person is unable to come to the telephone.
     + "Mr. Day is talking on another line. May I help you?"
     + "Mr. Smith is on another line. Do you wish to wait or may he call you back?"
     + "I'm sorry, Miss Walker is not here right now. Do you wish to leave a message?"
   * Why the caller should be given a choice of waiting or being called back.
     + The caller may be very busy and unable to wait.
     + The caller may prefer to wait if away from his/her office and unable to be reached by telephone.
   * Reasons for not keeping callers waiting for long periods.
     + It is courteous and saves their time.
     + It releases the telephone for incoming calls.
     + Time seems to pass slowly while "on hold".
     + If someone is waiting, be sure to check back frequently to see if they wish to continue holding and to let them know you have not forgotten them.

TAKING A MESSAGE

1. To whom - name of the person called.
2. From whom - name of the caller and their company name.
3. Where - caller's telephone number and extension.
5. Why - the action requested and the action promised.
6. How - the number and city of any long distance operator.
7. By whom - name of the person who recorded the message.
8. When - the date and hour of the call.

INTERRUPTING A CALL TO OBTAIN INFORMATION

1. Inform the caller that you have to get information - "I have the information ready; will you excuse me while I get it?"
2. Indicate the length of the delay; the caller's time is valuable.
3. Offer caller choice of waiting or being called back - "Do you wish to wait or may I call you back with the information?"
4. Try to set the telephone down on a soft surface or softly on a hard surface; avoid any loud or unpleasant banging noise in the caller's ear.
5. If the telephone is equipped with a "hold" button, it should be depressed.
   * Permits conversation with others in the office without the caller being able to hear what is said.
   * Do not leave the person holding for a long period; it only takes seconds to feel neglected.
ADDRESSING PEOPLE IN A BUSINESSLIKE MANNER

You will be given five minutes to read and study the information below. You will then be tested on this information (orally and visually) through several true/false and identification questions.

PRESENTATION

It is quite common in the United States for people to be friendly and informal in their business relationships. Often this means being too quick to use first names. Care should be taken to use Ms., Miss, Mrs., and Mr. when speaking to persons who are older, employers, supervisors or customers. Permission should be obtained before calling any of these persons by their first names.

Since the use of “sir” still maintains an air of respect, it may be substituted for a man’s name. However, “ma’am” is not as acceptable when used in place of a woman’s name. When using “yes” and “no”, the name of the person you are addressing should follow and if appropriate a brief friendly statement, i.e. “Yes, Mrs. Jones. I’ll be glad to unpack the box.”

Sometimes people feel uncomfortable about who should speak first when meeting these business people at the beginning of the day or on the street. It really makes no difference. Anyone who works with other people should always say “good morning” or “hello” to establish a friendly working relationship. However, this should be done with dignity and without familiarity.

QUESTIONS

Based upon your reading, respond to the following questions.

A. Circle T if the statement is true and F if it is false.

1. T F It is not permissible to substitute a man's name with "sir".
2. T F You should use the name of the person you are addressing when using "yes" or "no".
3. T F Mr. George Weber, your supervisor, has asked you to call him by his first name. You should call him George.
4. T F When speaking to your customer, Mrs. Fritz, it is best to say "Yes ma'am".
5. T F The real problem is not who should say "good morning" first.
6. T F Persons older than you should always be called by Mr., Miss, Ms., Mrs.
7. T F People in the United States are very formal in their business relationships.
8. T F Both "sir" and "ma'am" denote an air of dignity.
9. T F Never say "good morning" first to your employer.
10. T F You may call a person older than you or any employer by their first name if you have received permission to do so.

B. From the situations below, check those which use businesslike addresses.

   _1. Ali tells her customer, "Sir, your alterations are ready."_
   _2. Jeff says, "Honey, those sweaters are washable."_
   _3. Steve says, "Mr. Miller, I will special order your suit."_
   _4. Sarah, while waiting on a customer says to her manager, "Karen, can we hold these curtains until Friday?"
   _5. Larry explains, "Ma'am, the greeting cards are located in the stationery department."_
   _6. Julie calls to her employer while her customer is close by, "Mr. Fields, this lady wants to know if these shoes will stretch."_

BASIC RULES OF LISTENING

Anyone can train to be a better listener. Perhaps the greatest barrier to better listening is the attitude of the listener. Most people consider themselves good listeners, and frequently are. However, even the best listeners could be still better if they are willing to admit there is room for improvement. Active listening is a skill: it involves the mind. There are certain techniques to be learned and practiced until they become automatic. Listed below are some basic rules to help a listener get the most out of any spoken communication.

Prepare to listen: Get ready to listen both physically and mentally. Physical conditions can affect the effectiveness of listening. Be in the best possible physical position to hear and concentrate. Mental preparation begins when one concentrates on the subject discussed.

Have an open mind: Prejudice is a major block to effective listening. Prejudice is an automatic reaction either strongly for or against the subject that is not based on reason or logic. If the listener lets his own opinion "tune out" what the speaker is saying, important information may be missed which could remove this bias. How a speaker looks and sounds can also create prejudice in the listener's mind, blocking communication.

Listen carefully: Most speeches are based on some kind of outline. To get the full meaning of what is said, the listener should recreate that outline through notes and in the mind. The listener should note each major point. Do not jump to conclusions which a speaker has not made, instead, follow the discussion and description keeping in mind the point the speaker is making now.

Listen with empathy: A listener should have a certain amount of empathy for the speaker. Empathy is a sympathetic understanding of another person's feelings. A degree of empathy allows a listener to hear what is being discussed from the speaker's point of view.
EVALUATE YOUR LISTENING HABITS

Good listening habits are expected in business. The checklist below will help you evaluate your listening habits. Try to answer each question objectively.

(Answer: U - USUALLY, S - SOMETIMES, OR N - NOT OFTEN)

DO YOU?

1. Prepare yourself physically by facing the speaker and making sure you can hear.________

2. Watch the speaker while listening.________

3. Keep your mind on what the speaker is saying.________

4. Evaluate your own bias.________

5. Listen for facts, ideas, feelings.________

6. Decide from the speaker's appearance and delivery whether or not what he/she has to say is worthwhile.________

7. Interrupt immediately if you hear an incorrect statement.____

8. Make sure before answering that you have taken in the other person's point of view.________

9. Try to have the last word.________

10. Make a conscious effort to evaluate the logic and credibility of what you hear.________

SCORING: QUESTIONS 1,2,3,4,8,10:

TOTAL BELOW 70 = YOU HAVE SOME BAD LISTENING HABITS.
TOTAL 70 - 85 = AVERAGE LISTENING HABITS.
TOTAL 90 OR ABOVE = YOU ARE AN EXCELLENT LISTENER!
You are an employee of Kleindale's Department Store working in the women's sportswear department, which is made up of the swim shop, maternity shop, junior shop, and the misses shop. In this department you carry swim wear, slacks, knit tops and sweaters. You have just completed your annual inventory on Tuesday, January 25. Ms. Watson, your department manager, has just given you the following instructions so you can prepare the sportswear department for the new spring season. The instructions are as follows: Empty 10 feet of sweaters from the center back wall of the swim shop for the swim wear display. The swim wear color theme will be kelly green and white. Assist the display girl, Sandra, in choosing the proper coordinating outfits for the display. These should include junior bikinis and tank suits, misses 2 piece swimsuits and matching cover-ups. To the left of the display is the swim wear, to the right the basic sweaters. Work those basic sweaters back into the misses shop and fill the remaining wall space with summer goods such as tank tops, sleeveless knit tops and shorts.

While you were completing your assignment, Mrs. Stevenson, a customer, returned a short sleeved acrylic knit sweater. You recognized the style, but you only carried the long sleeved version during Christmas. It was a Christmas gift to Mrs. Stevenson. You explained to the customer that you did not have that specific style, but you could check downstairs in Mr. Watson's office for the correct price. However, in checking the price list, there was only the long sleeved style listed. The long sleeved sweater retailed for $10.00. Ms. Watson was out to lunch. But in checking similar styles you found the short sleeved normally sold for $2.00 less so you have decided to inform the customer that the short sleeved style was $8.00. You exchanged her short sleeved sweater for a $7.00 tank top and refunded her the $1.00 difference.

Madison, WI 53050

Dear Mr. Wood:

As a recent graduate of the College of Madison Fashion Merchandising Course, I am very interested in applying at your store as a fashion copywriter and have enclosed my resume for your review.

I have always been interested in developing and writing fashion copy and feel I would make a promising addition to your advertising staff because of my creative writing talents. These talents have been enhanced by my application and study in the Fashion Writing class of my Fashion Merchandising course. I am well-organized, highly-motivated professional, with a flair for fashion, good writing and grammar skills, and a keen desire to write fashion copy — especially for McGuire's.

I would enjoy sharing my portfolio of writing samples with you or your representative, and I'll call you in a few days to arrange an interview.

Thank you very much. I look forward to our meeting.

Sincerely,

Penny Ashton

READING THE WANT ADS IN THE PAPER

1. Have you ever wondered how you would go about applying for a job? What would be the first thing you would do?

2. Maybe the following activities will help you decide!

   Obtain the want-ads section of a newspaper. Look through the want-ads for a few minutes and decide for which job you would like to apply if you were looking for a job.

   Cut out the ad and tape it in the space below.

3. Look at the ad you taped to your paper. Answer the following questions about the ad.

   1. What type of job is advertised?
   2. What company or person is advertising the job?
   3. Is the salary mentioned? If so, what is it?
   4. Are any benefits mentioned? If so, what are they?
   5. Is any experience required for this job?

4. Turn in your completed sheet to your teacher.

McGuire's
8700 Manchester Street
Madison, WI  53050

Dear Mr. Wood:

Thank you for taking time from your busy schedule to chat with me about the possibility of my coming to work for the McGuire stores in the advertising department.

I am particularly interested in the many career opportunities that the stores have to offer, which you outlined in our discussion. I feel I would fit in nicely with your operation and do a proficient job, especially in the advertising/promotion/PR department for which my talents are designed.

I hope I have a job with McGuire's and look forward to hearing from you with an invitation to join your staff.

Thanks again for your considering my qualifications and work samples.

Sincerely,

Penny Ashton

ARRANGING FOR AN INTERVIEW

Generally there are three ways to arrange for an interview.

1. By telephone
2. By personal visit
3. By letter

If you arrange for an interview by telephone:
1. Make your call businesslike and courteous.
2. Speak distinctly and with confidence.
3. Give your name clearly.
4. Know the name of the person who is to interview you and how to pronounce it correctly, if possible.
5. Make a written note of time, place and name of the person to whom you are to report.
6. As soon as your appointment is made, thank the person and bring your conversation to a close.

If you arrange for an interview in person:
1. Dress in a businesslike manner.
2. Make certain you are in the right place.
3. Approach the person with confidence and sincerity.
4. Introduce yourself and state briefly that you would like to set up an appointment for a job interview.
5. Make a written note of time, place and name of the person to whom you are to report.
6. As soon as your appointment is made, thank the person and bring your conversation to a close.

If you arrange for an interview by letter:
1. Have it well prepared and properly written.
2. Type the letter unless a handwritten letter is requested.
3. Use short, concise sentences.
4. The letter should not be more than one page in length.
THE INTERVIEW: GUIDELINES TO FOLLOW

"Most employers hire people because they like them." Discuss with the class or another class member why you agree or disagree with this statement. If the opening statement is true, and most people agree it is, then the job interview is the most vital step in your search for a job. Be certain you recognize the importance of the interview.

Remember FIRST IMPRESSIONS ARE LASTING IMPRESSIONS to an interviewer. But equally important is the way you conduct yourself during the interview -- HOW YOU SPEAK, WHAT YOU SAY, YOUR POSTURE, THE CONFIDENCE YOU DISPLAY. Each of these items has a bearing on the interviewer's evaluation of you as a prospective employee. Be confident, alert and enthusiastic throughout the interview.

Your interviewer understands that it is normal to be nervous and will make allowances. Show you have faith in your ability and consider yourself worth hiring. If you don't believe this, there is no reason the interviewer should believe it. Don't beg for a job, but sell your services. Be friendly, relax and be natural.

GUIDELINES TO FOLLOW

1. Appearance is important. Be neat, clean and wear conservative attire.
2. Be on time! Plan to arrive 5 to 10 minutes early.
3. Remember the receptionist judges you too.
   a. sit properly
   b. be polite, introduce yourself, state why you are there and who you are to see.
   c. don't fidget while waiting
4. Never go with anyone -- not your best buddy, not your boyfriend or girlfriend, and not your parents or guardians. Getting a job is your business, and yours alone.
5. Look directly at the interviewer when introducing yourself. Be ready to shake hands, but do not offer your hand first.
6. Know the interviewer's name before you go in to the interview.
7. Remain standing until you are offered a seat.
8. Use good posture. Don't slouch, slump, wind your legs around the chair, etc. Hold your hands in your lap and keep them as still as possible.
9. Use good eye contact. Don't look at the floor, your hands or the ceiling. Have someone talk to you while they look at these areas and see how it makes you feel.
10. Show self-confidence (without arrogance). Never underrate yourself.
11. Be a good listener and talker, but let the interviewer take the lead.
12. Sell yourself. Your answers should be businesslike and concise. You should not be overly aggressive, but in the course of the interview, you should stress your qualifications. You must believe you can and will be an asset to the company.
14. Be interested in advancement. Let the interviewer know you want to work up in your job. Have career goals.
THE INTERVIEW: GUIDELINES TO FOLLOW (CONTINUED)

15. Always tell the truth! Most employers are more willing to take a chance on someone who has made a mistake, than someone who lies.

16. Be prepared to answer questions.

17. Be prepared to ask questions.

18. Emphasize past experience if you have any.

19. Don't criticize other employers, chew gum, smoke, apply for "any job open", mention personal information or use slang.

20. Recognize when the interview is over.

21. Thank the interviewer for his/her time and the opportunity to discuss the job.

Do not be discouraged if the job is not offered immediately. Frequently, an employer needs time to consider an applicant's qualifications, or the employer may want to interview other applicants.

It is always a good idea to follow up the interview with a thank-you note. This shows your consideration for the interviewer's time and keeps your name actively before the interviewer. If you have not heard from the interviewer in about a week, you may call to check on the status of your application. This lets the interviewer know you are really interested in the job.
QUESTIONS YOU SHOULD BE PREPARED TO ANSWER

1. Tell me a little bit about yourself.
2. Tell me about your family.
3. Describe your personality. What kind of person are you?
4. What about yourself would you like to improve?
5. What have you done to improve in these areas?
6. Why do you wish to work for this company?
7. What do you have to offer this company?
8. What are your career goals?
9. What are your hobbies?
10. What do people criticize you about?
12. What did you like best about your previous jobs? Why?
13. Why do you think you would like this particular type of job?
14. Are you particularly interested in making money?
15. What extra-curricular activities are you involved in?
16. What are your major strengths? Weaknesses?
17. Are you willing to travel?
18. What do you do in your spare time?
19. What irritates or displeases you most in other people?
20. What qualities do you admire in other people?
21. What do you know about fashion?
22. Do you have any fashion-related experience?
23. What do you know about our company?
24. Why should I hire you?

QUESTIONS YOU CAN ASK IN A JOB INTERVIEW

1. Exactly what is expected of a person in this position?
2. What responsibilities would I have in this position?
3. What opportunities will I have to learn other jobs?
4. How would my progress be rated?
5. Are promotions usually made from within the company?
6. Does the company have a training program? Is there a resource library?
7. What kind of fringe benefits does the company have?
8. What is the company policy on raises?
9. Who would my supervisor be?
10. What would my hours be?

COLOR BASICS

PRIMARY COLORS are yellow, blue and red. All other colors are derived from the three primary colors.

SECONDARY COLORS are green, purple (violet) and orange. They are made by mixing two primary colors.

TERTIARY COLORS are yellow-green, blue-green, blue-violet, red-violet, red-orange and yellow-orange. They are made by mixing one primary color plus one secondary color.

THE COLOR WHEEL is the arrangement of the above twelve colors in a particular order. It is the basic tool for creating effective color arrangements.

LABEL the primary, secondary and tertiary colors on the wheel below.

COLOR'S INFLUENCE ON FASHION

When choosing the best colors for an individual you have colors to start with... their skin color tone, their hair color, and their eye color. You must also consider their figure and personality type, and even the occasion for which the outfit is to be worn.

Because skin tone is responsive to coloring placed next to it, selections of becoming colors should be made for specific complexion types. When an agreeable choice of colors is made in an outfit, the skin tone comes alive and the individual has a healthy glow which is necessary for an attractive appearance. On the other hand, a bad choice of colors results in a faded-out or subdued skin tone. Highlighting the hair and eyes can be done with the choice of the proper colors, as long as they are also right with the skin tone. When ever there is a conflict between skin tone and/or eye and hair color, always complement skin tone.

Well chosen vivid colors can enrich the facial tone. Vivid hues are most becoming to the slender, well proportioned figure. Stout people should avoid intense bright colors, especially in the advancing hues (they may wear warm, subdued tones). Vivid hues tend to increase size, and make the figure lines more noticeable. A very slender figure, by means of garment style, may conceal the angularity of body line, and appear slightly larger in bright hues without over-accenting the silhouette. Vivid hues are usually warm, aggressive, and advancing. They should be selected with care by even those for whom they are most becoming (the darker skin tones, with darker hair and eye color). Vivid tones are appropriate for the outgoing, vivacious personality... never lose individuality and personality with a poor color selection.

Cool colors flatter almost all figures. Cool colors are receding and make forms appear smaller. They not only affect figure proportions, but soften the figure silhouette. Heavy individuals are much less self-conscious dressed in pleasing hues for their figure type in values from cool hues. The demure person is usually more comfortable in cool tones.

Light values (by means of reflective qualities) tend to lighten, animate and increase the natural face coloring. Light color values in garments appear to increase the figure size. Therefore, they are a better choice for the slender person rather than the heavy one.

Dark values are opposite in effect from light values. They absorb the light rays, appear to drain the natural colors from the face, and are especially good for those individuals who have a high, vivid facial coloring. The too slender figure should avoid dark values, because they are slenderizing. At times a small amount of dark coloring in an accessory may repeat eye or hair tone and provide the proper emphasis for some individuals in their choices of wearing light, bright or neutral tones.

An individual should have vivid facial coloring, if he/she chooses to wear black near the face, as it drains the color from the face. Colorful blonds successfully wear black as do brunettes with a fair of glowing complexion. Black skins should avoid black because there is little complexion. Black skins should avoid black because...

there is little contrast, hence interest, in the total look. Black should not be worn by persons with a pale or yellowish skin tone. Black appears to decrease size, so is good for the large figure (but because of qualities mentioned above, it is usually best to place a lighter color around the face).

White, of all light tones, reflects sunlight to the greatest degree. Therefore, it helps in illuminating the face and is quite flattering to most skin tones. Persons with ruddy coloring as well as a very dark skin do not wear white successfully because of too much contrast. White appears to increase the figure proportion, and should be avoided by the person with a large frame. White appears cool and refreshing, and is especially appealing in the summer months.

Finally, remember the rules of the color wheel and color schemes. Complementary colors intensify each other. Therefore red hair is flattered by green, and blonds appear more blond when wearing lavender. By the same rule, ruddy skin tones are intensified by wearing green, and sallow complexions are further "yellowed" by purple, and the person with blue undertones in their skin should avoid orange.

The challenging part of choosing the best color for an individual is the interplay of the following parts:

1. Figure type
2. Skin color
3. Hair color
4. Eye color
5. Personality
6. Occasion

The best color choice for the person with dark hair and skin tone might not be best when the figure is heavy or the personality demure. The dark, small-framed person who works in a bank also has opposing color choices to consider. Accept the challenge, however, and you will have the satisfaction of achieving a well-planned, flattering total fashion color "look".
COLOR AND THE FIGURE

Some colors grow on you—literally. White and all the pale pastels catch and reflect light, making the areas they cover look larger. Black and all the dark colors appear to recede, because they absorb light. Therefore they appear to reduce size. Cool colors also appear to reduce size usually, while warm colors seem to increase size. Contrasting colors shorten while solids appear to add length. Therefore, judicious use of color can help de-emphasize figure problems.

Circle the letter of the outfits below that you think are right for the figure type mentioned.

1. A top-heavy girl should wear:
   a. a green shift with a white yoke and short sleeves.
   b. a navy sweater, red plaid skirt.
   c. an orange checked shirt and brown jeans.

2. A “hippy” girl should wear:
   a. a yellow turtleneck sweater and a gray A-line skirt.
   b. a red sheath, with a red plaid belt.
   c. a navy and white striped tee shirt and white pants.

3. A heavy male should wear:
   a. a light blue leather jacket, white shirt and light blue pants.
   b. red plaid shirt and red jeans.
   c. a single breasted brass buttoned navy sports coat, dark grey trousers.

4. A bony, featherweight girl should wear:
   a. a white blazer, navy pleated skirt.
   b. a clingy, black sheath dress.
   c. a bronze corduroy pantsuit with chocolate shirt.

5. A short male, wishing to appear taller should wear:
   a. brown and beige plaid pants and vest, beige sport coat, yellow tie.
   b. grey suit with vest, white shirt, maroon paisley print tie.
   c. light blue pants, white shirt, navy blazer.
LINE IN CLOTHING

Lines can be used in garments to make a person look taller, shorter, heavier or thinner. Lines, and the illusions they create, can make hips look large or small, shoulders broad or narrow and waists look thick or thin. The effects that lines produce are related to other factors such as:

- the shape of the body
- color and texture
- degree of contrast (so that lines are noticed)
- comparison of adjacent shapes
- the effect the viewer expects

There are two kinds of lines -- straight and curved. Straight lines have three directions -- vertical, horizontal, or diagonal. Curved lines may be restrained (soft, flattering) or full.

Straight lines result in more formal and more tailored clothes, often with a masculine feel. The single vertical line usually lengthens the body and makes it appear more narrow, because the line leads the eye up and down the body. However, when vertical lines are repeated in quantity, the eye begins to measure width (which adds width to the body) unless the multiple vertical lines are small and spaced closely together. Horizontal lines usually add width and shorten the body, because they carry the eye across. Just as repeated vertical lines add width, some horizontal line spacing produces the illusion of length when the space between lines is increased. Diagonal lines assume the characteristic of the vertical or horizontal line as the degree of slant approaches each extreme. The use of the diagonal line is usually very pleasing in clothing, and is one of the best lines to use when trying to camouflage poorly proportioned parts of the body. It is usually considered slimming since the vertical diagonal is most often used.

Curved lines follow the contour of the body and are usually flattering to the feminine figure. They are informal and soft. As the curved line becomes exaggerated, it may be easily overdone in a design. The restrained curve will usually flatter a plump figure, while extreme curves will add the illusion of even more fullness.

Lines are emphasized by both repetition and contrast (such as piping along the waist line in a contrasting color). Not all internal structural lines are noticeable, because of lack of contrast or emphasis. Internal lines may not be seen on printed or very dark fabrics. On the other hand, line is emphasized by hue or value contrast. Emphasis of line in a garment is important, because the lines emphasized are the lines that determine which illusion is created.

B. Explain the influence on the principles of design in selecting apparel
   1. Proportion--how one object relates to another
      Ex. Narrow ties with narrow lapels or large purses carried by a large woman
   2. Balance--distribution of weight from a central point
      a. Vertical balance--relationship of top to bottom (a poorly balanced outfit may appear top-heavy)
      b. Symmetrical balance--the same on both sides (a pocket on each side of a shirt)
      c. Asymmetrical balance--visually balanced, but not the same on both sides (a blouse which buttons off center)
   3. Repetition--repeating lines, shapes, or colors
      a. Rhythm--sense of movement (rows of trim or repeated pleats)
         (1) Uniform rhythm--regular repetition
         (2) Unequal rhythm--not in a regular order
      b. Progression or graduation--gradual increasing or decreasing of space divisions (ties in a gathered skirt)
      c. Continuous line movement--has no distracting break (a drape of folds from shoulder to the knee)
      d. Radiation--lines originate from a central point (least used principle in clothing design)
   4. Emphasis--focal point
      Ex. the tie worn with a man's suit
   5. Harmony--all elements and principles work together successfully

22. Nicole purchased leather jackets for her parents for their wedding anniversary. She paid a 20% down payment on the $550 purchase. The store will charge her tax of 6% and a delivery charge of $15. How much does she still owe for the jackets?

23. The Kleb Department Store charges $2.25 to wrap purchases in gift paper with a large bow. Robin bought a gift valued at $52.50 for her sister. What will she pay for the gift including 6% sales tax and gift wrapping charges?

24. Substitute values in the following algebraic equations to find (a) gross profit and (b) net profit if selling price is $595, cost is $300, and related expenses equal $176.
   a. \( GP = SP - C \)
   b. \( NP = GP - E \)

25. Using the algebraic equation below, determine the markup rate (%) being charged on merchandise with a retail price of $595 and a cost price of $300. (Round to tenths)
   \[ \frac{MU}{100} = \frac{R}{100} \]

THE ROLE OF TAXES, DISCOUNTS
MISCELLANEOUS CHARGES, CHARTS AND GRAPHS

Businesses are required by law to calculate, collect, and submit certain taxes to the appropriate government agencies. Examples include sales taxes (state, county, local) and payroll taxes (federal income tax, state income tax, social security tax). Sales taxes are calculated on the value of the goods purchased by the customer. Payroll taxes are based on the gross earnings of the employee. Tables are often provided for determining taxes to be charged; however, taxes can also be calculated by multiplying the current percentage rates (converted to decimal form) times the base figure (gross earnings, total sale, etc.)

Discounts on purchases may be allowed for a variety of reasons including (1) to attract new customers, (2) to reduce current inventory, (3) to stimulate sales, (4) to encourage prompt payment, and (5) as a fringe benefit to employees. Discounts are most often stated as a percentage rate to be multiplied by the stated price to determine the amount of the discount to be subtracted. Discounts are figured before adding sales tax. Examples of common discounts on retail sales are employee discounts, seasonal discounts, cash discounts, and quantity discounts. Vendors may also provide promotional and trade discounts off the list price to retailers.

A variety of other charges may also occur in sales. These miscellaneous charges are added after sales tax has been calculated. (i.e., no sales tax is charged on these amounts.) Possible miscellaneous charges might include alterations fees, delivery charges, shipping charges, gift wrapping charge, layaway charges, COD charges, service contract costs, and fees charged to special order merchandise.

Charts and graphs are often used in fashion to present mathematical information in a way that is easy to read and use and to simplify business activities. Cashiers routinely use sales tax tables, payroll clerks use payroll tax tables, and shipping clerks use tables for postal and freight charges. Pie charts and various types of graphs are used to organize information and to share information with others as in sales presentations and advertising. They are also used in inventory control systems, to rank vendors by gross margin, and to analyze past sales & colors and sizes.
CALCULATING TAX, DISCOUNTS AND MISCELLANEOUS CHARGES

1. A customer made a purchase worth $23.60 from Gimbel's. Compute the sales tax at 6%.

2. A customer made a purchase from Sears worth $11.32. After adding sales tax of 6%, how much would you charge the customer?

3. A customer purchased the following items:
   - Show cleaner ............. $0.89
   - 1 pair stockings .......... $1.09
   - 1 pair earrings .......... $1.89
   - 2 pair earrings .......... $1.59 each
   How much sales tax will be charged the customer if the sales tax rate is 7%?

4. You made a purchase of $50 value in the store where you work. Employees are allowed a 20% discount on purchases. Compute the amount of the discount.

5. Your employee ID card entitles you to a 15% discount at the store where you work. How much will you pay (excluding any tax) to purchase two pair of earrings at $3.00 each?

6. A pair of designer jeans regularly priced at $44.98 is on sale at a 25% discount. What is the sale price of the jeans?

7. During an end-of-season sale at Fleet Street, ski equipment is reduced 33%. A customer purchased a set of skis originally priced $329, ski poles originally $39.95. NOT including sales tax, what is the value of the purchase?

8. Liz Claiborne offers a cash discount of 2% on invoices paid within ten days. On an invoice of $320, what would be the amount of the discount if taken?

9. U. S. A. Sports offers a trade discount of 40%. On a purchase of $2700, how much would the net cost to your business be?

10. A customer purchases several items valued at $175.75 from Retail Express and asks you to ship them to her home in Virginia. The items weigh 6 lbs.
   a. At a shipping rate of $3.48 per pound, how much will you charge her for shipping?
   b. What will be the total of her purchase including tax of 6% and the shipping charge?

11. A customer purchases two skirts for $54.95 each which she requests you have hemmed. The Alterations Department charges $1.50 to hem a straight skirt. The current sales tax rate if 6%. Figure the total purchase made by the customer.

4. Based on the line graph for The Limited, as illustrated, answer the following questions:
   a. What are the estimated sales for January?
   b. Which month shows the largest sales increase?
   c. Which month shows the largest decline in sales?

5. The Ladies' Supply Store classifies stock items as:
   A -- Jewelry (earrings, classrings, etc.)
   B -- Clothing items (sweaters, leather jackets)
   C -- Undergarments
   D -- Miscellaneous other items

   Refer to the pie chart below to answer these questions about sales in the store:
   a. Approximately what percentage of the sales are for jewelry?
   b. What merchandise classification generates the largest percentage of sales?
   c. If total sales in the store for the time covered by the chart was $1253.00, what was the dollar value of clothing sales?
1. Answers are not provided since the tax rate may change and teachers should be using the CURRENT tax rate chart in their locality.

2. Answers are not provided since the tax rates change. Teachers should secure the CURRENT tax rate booklets. (A local accountant, or your school system payroll person can provide this.)

ACCEPTING CHECKS

Problems Frequently Encountered in Accepting Checks

A. Checks having errors
   1. Written and numerical amounts differ
   2. Two-party check not endorsed or improperly endorsed.
   3. Improper payee
   4. Unauthorized signature
   5. Check not signed
   6. Incorrect date
   7. Insufficient funds in customer's account

B. Fraudulent checks or altered checks
   1. Altered payee or amount
   2. Customer has no bank account
   3. Stolen checks
   4. Forged signature
   5. Insufficient funds (intentional)

Precautions in Accepting Checks

1. Require proper identification. Check to be sure the identification is valid and has not been altered. Compare the signature on the ID with the signature on the check. Proper identification might include a driver's license, passport, company ID, school or organization showing a photograph. Social security cards and business cards are poor identification documents. Credit cards bearing signatures and photos may also be used as additional identification.

2. Address and telephone number should be recorded on the check if it is not a part of the printed information on the face of the check. If the address is a rural one, many companies require information about the nearest major highway.

3. Get management approval for checks written on banks outside your immediate geographical area.

4. Initial all checks that you accept.

5. Stamp all incoming checks with "For Deposit Only" if required by your employer.

6. Be aware that most faulty checks result from carelessness rather than dishonesty. Do not accuse your customers of dishonesty. Be polite and tactful and express regret if you must refuse to accept a check in payment of a purchase.

7. Always follow the policies established by your company for accepting checks.

OBJECTIVE: 5.13 Explain the process of customer services such as packing and wrapping, mail and telephone services, delivery systems, and alterations in fashion merchandising

A. Define each customer service

1. Packing - enclosing products in protective material to prevent damage and to improve their appearance
2. Wrapping - adding an outer covering to the purchase
3. Mail - customer service which involves using U. S. Postal and private commercial mail/shipping services for receiving customer orders/requests, for returning the desired merchandise/information to the customer, and for notifying customers about special events related to the store and its merchandise.
4. Telephone - Customer service which provides the customer the opportunity to get information, discuss a problem, order merchandise, etc. by telephoning the business prior to or instead of visiting the business in person.
5. Delivery - customer service in which the business arranges to have the customer's purchase delivered to a designated destination, either free or for a fee.
6. Alteration - changes made in the size, length, or style of a garment

B. Explain the benefits of each customer service

1. Packing and wrapping
   a. Protects the merchandise
   b. Improves the appearance of the purchase
   c. Serves as a security measure
2. Mail and telephone
   a. Makes shopping quick, convenient, economical, productive and flexible for the customer
   b. Provides the opportunity for an extended market area and added sales volume for the business
3. Delivery
   a. Saves the customer time, effort, travel
   b. Allows for purchases by customers confined to home or who, for whatever reason, cannot come to the store to pick up merchandise items that would be inconvenient/impossible for them to carry for themselves
4. Alterations
   a. Makes garments fit better
   b. Increases value of garment when done properly
   c. Makes garment look nicer

TELEPHONE SELLING

The use of the telephone in retail selling is increasing, and the salesperson is often called upon to sell by telephone. More and more customers are finding it convenient to do their shopping by telephone, especially for items advertised in the newspaper or in a mail-order catalog. When a customer finds it difficult to go to the store, he/she can make purchases by telephone. Many stores find it profitable to telephone regular customers when new goods are received or when interesting sales offers are available.

Alert retailers realize the potential of telephone selling for increasing their sales and profits. Many advertise this customer service and provide telephone order departments to handle the orders. A store that caters to telephone selling must also make arrangements for delivery, offer customer credit in most cases, and provide intelligent and helpful telephone salespeople.

Telephone selling may be even more important for the wholesaler than for the retailer, since the wholesaler's salespeople must usually take the initiative in contacting potential buyers. The telephone may be used to present an offer quickly and compellingly so that the buyer will feel it is worth giving the salesperson an appointment.

When you use the business telephone, you are the voice of the business. In each conversation, you are creating impressions. What you say and how you say it determine the mental image formed by those you come in contact with by telephone.

GIFT WRAPPING

In today's fashion retail business, economical moves are being taken in many ways. The cost of labor and material has steadily increased. Management has taken a closer look at gift wrapping and has made changes to reduce costs for "free" gift wrapping. Many stores have adopted a minimum purchase level for a free box and/or free wrap. Some stores have discontinued their low prices on standard wrap and offer only "paid for" wraps priced from moderate to expensive.

GIFT BOXES:

Establishing minimum purchase requirements for use of gift boxes is one method of economizing on gift boxes. A store may adopt a policy of a minimum purchase of $5 or more for a free box.

Gift box charges are made in many different ways. One method is to charge a flat price for a box of any size. A second method is to offer a range of prices based on the size of the box. The flat charge recovers some of the cost of the gift boxes.

GIFT WRAPS:

Many stores offer only one basic type of wrap. Some charge for wrapping an item below a minimum purchase price level. Others have no restrictions on their gift wrap.

Some stores offer elaborate gift wraps, if only during special seasons such as Christmas. The prices for this service vary depending on the item, the wrap selected and the ribbon selected.
WRAPPING CUSTOMERS' PURCHASES

Choice of Wrapping Materials

All stores provide some type of bags or boxes for customers to carry their purchases home. A neat, attractive package has an important publicity/image value, and many stores use colorful store bags.

Wrapping materials represent considerable expense to the store. It is important that a salesperson choose the appropriate type of bag, wrapping or box for the items purchased.

Protection of Merchandise

The primary reason for wrapping purchases is to protect them until the customer can get them home. If the merchandise is to go in a bag, choose the correct bag. Thin, flat bags are used for soft goods and light weight items. Thick, expanding bags are best for heavy items.

No matter how strong the wrapping, it is imperative that the goods be carefully placed inside to protect them. The employee has a chance to give the item a last check for flaws or damage before the customer takes it home. The employee should take special precautions with fragile and expensive items. If the goods need extra cushioning, they may be wrapped in tissue before bagging or may be packed in boxes with appropriate materials. The use of tissue paper when folding clothing helps to prevent wrinkling. Put twine around packages in enough places to give maximum support.

Considerations for wrappers

Speed, economy and attractiveness are important in wrapping customers' purchases. Speed is necessary to avoid keeping the customer waiting unnecessarily as well as for efficient use of the employee's time. Use good judgement in choosing wrappings and do not waste expensive materials. Get the right size the first time. Do not use bags/boxes that are too big for the item. Not only does this waste more expensive, large bags/boxes, but larger wrappings will not protect an article which is rattling around inside. Wasting wrapping paper, even in small amounts, can add up to considerable expense over time. The appearance of the package after wrapping reflects on the store as well as on the person doing the wrapping. Neat, attractive packages project a positive image.

TYPES OF DELIVERY SYSTEMS

Delivery Policies

The policy of a particular store with regard to deliveries may be any of the following:

1. No delivery service provided
2. Free delivery on purchases above a stated $ value
3. Delivery of small, inexpensive items for a fee; free delivery on expensive, bulky items
4. Delivery in emergencies only
5. Free delivery locally

Types of Delivery Systems

1. Store owned and operated delivery
2. Private contract with an agency such as UPS for deliveries
3. Delivery service shared as a cooperative arrangement by a group of stores
4. Delivery service provided by a commercial express or transport company as a sideline
5. Delivery through the U. S. Postal System

DELIVERY SYSTEMS CASE PROBLEM

A new store manager in the general merchandise store where you work has announced that, effective next week, delivery of all items will be discontinued. His reason for discontinuing this service is that, "Delivery services do not affect the customer's attitude toward the store."

As operations manager of the store, you have been asked to present a "position paper" concerning your feelings about the forthcoming change.

Write a short paper stating your feelings and submit it to the teacher for review.
WRAPPING PRINCIPLES

Appropriateness
a. Carefully assemble articles to be wrapped in one package, making sure heavy articles are on the bottom.
b. Select the kind of wrap suited to the package (bag, box, square-sheet wrap, cornerwise sheet-wrap, inner wrap).
c. Select suitable materials (paper, bags, boxes of the right weight and size).
d. Make the bundle no larger than necessary.
e. Be sure the articles are fully covered to avoid embarrassment to the shopper.
f. Make flat packages when possible.
g. Use appropriate binding (gummed tape, scotch tape, twine or ribbon) in sufficient quantity and strength for carrying packages.
h. Use square tie for large boxes, corner tie for small boxes.

Durability
a. Use paper and twine strong enough for the goods being wrapped. Use double paper if necessary.
b. Prepare the merchandise carefully before wrapping.
c. Fold edges and ends well to make a stronger package.
d. Put twine around package in enough places to give maximum support without waste.

Appearance
a. Use the correct amount of paper and binder.
b. Fold in all edges and ends neatly.
c. Bags should not be left open. Fold the top securely.

Economy
a. Wrap the parcel correctly the first time.
b. Put as much as you can in one package -- use good judgement.

Speed
a. Work for accuracy in the beginning. Speed will follow with experience.
b. Take time to judge the kind and amount of wrapping material needed.
c. Arrange articles to be wrapped so you won't need to start over.
d. Keep wrapping materials and tools conveniently at hand to avoid wasted motion.
e. Keep the wrapping area clear so there is space to work.
f. Perfect your skill at tearing paper from a roller, tape from a dispenser, etc.
TELEPHONE USAGE

A. Follow procedures in answering and placing business calls

1. Answering calls
   a. Answer promptly
   b. Identify the company and then yourself
   c. Write down the details of the call carefully
   d. Repeat information to check accuracy
   e. Allow the caller to end the call

2. Placing calls
   a. Plan the call
   b. Check the number to be called
   c. Allow time for the person called to answer
   d. Identify yourself and your company
   e. Ask for the person you are calling

3. General procedures for all calls
   a. Hold the receiver properly, not by the mouthpiece
   b. Speak directly into the mouthpiece
   c. Enunciate words clearly
   d. Speak in a friendly tone of voice, and neither too loudly nor too softly
   e. Avoid technical terminology
   f. Avoid speaking too rapidly
   g. End calls courteously
   h. Replace the receiver gently

B. Take accurate messages

1. Listen carefully

2. Do not interrupt the person speaking

3. Write the information down
   a. Name of person called
   b. Caller's name and company
   c. Date and time of the call
   d. Caller's telephone number
   e. The message
   f. Action requested and action promised
   g. Name of the person recording the message

4. Repeat the information to check for accuracy
Role play the following telephone call situation:

Jean Franklin of Fran and Company calls to speak with the buyer of The Classic Lady. The buyer, Anne Reynolds, is out to lunch at the time the call comes in. You are the salesperson who answers the call. Ms. Franklin says that the sweaters ordered from Fran and Company will be sent air freight and are due to arrive at The Classic Lady in five days. As a salesperson you know that these sweaters were originally scheduled to arrive day-after-tomorrow. What should you do? What information should you obtain from Ms. Franklin?

STORE ACCIDENTS

The most common accidents are falling, bumping into objects or people, and injuring hands and fingers in the handling of merchandise. Therefore, one should follow these rules regarding safety:

1. Know where to get first aid in case of an accident.
2. Know how to apply first aid for simple cuts, bruises and wounds.
3. Follow simple safety procedures in working areas where trips and falls are likely to occur.
4. Practice safety everywhere!
5. Make yourself safety conscious. Accidents usually happen when least thought about or expected.

One should also know the following about reporting accidents:

Accidents Involving Yourself and Fellow Employees

1. Always report any accident to yourself or other employees.
2. Always treat any cut or burn regardless of how slight. Infection can be serious later on.
3. Insurance companies require reports on all accidents.
4. If a store nurse or accident station is available, always go there for inspection of an injury.
5. Use regular accident reporting blanks supplied by the store.

Accidents Involving Customers:

1. Immediately report, and if possible, treat simple cuts and burns of customers.
2. If a customer falls or faints or is unconscious, do not move him or her but summon aid quickly.
3. Heat strokes, heart attacks, or shock may be aggravated by moving the person.
4. If the injury is serious, keep the customer quiet and summon aid immediately.
5. Make a full report of an accident if you witnessed it; otherwise, ask a customer for details.
6. Never blame the business or equipment for an accident. Such testimony may prove damaging in case of a lawsuit.
7. Follow business rules where damage is done to automobile or clothing or personal property. Usually this is handled by the manager, owner or supervisor.
8. Do not volunteer personal opinions concerning the cause of an accident. Report the facts as you saw them and/or as the customer told you.
9. If there are other witnesses to the accident, get their testimonies on the proper accident form.

F 25
In cases involving serious injury, accident, or illness from unknown causes, the employee should immediately:

1. Summon aid, nurse, doctor, first aid kit or supervisor.
2. Keep the customer quiet, warm, free from curious onlookers and crowding.
3. Get all the details and facts that are immediately apparent, especially from any witnesses.
4. Prevent moving the person until competent aid is summoned.
5. Direct customer traffic around and away from the scene of the accident.

PREVENTION OF STORE ACCIDENTS

DIRECTIONS: Read the following statements describing various situations which may occur in a store, and indicate how the situation could have been alleviated. After you have finished the activity, check with the instructor to obtain a score.

1. A small fire started in the stock room which could have been extinguished by a standard fire extinguisher located nearby. Tom, who has worked in the stock room for five months, knew the location of the fire extinguisher but was unable to operate it efficiently.

2. A fire started in the rear of a store during the rush hour of the day. A conscientious employee noticed the fire but was not sure of the proper procedures to follow, so he pulled the alarm and ran through the store yelling, "Fire!". The result was a panic by the customers and other employees which resulted in injuries.

3. Sue was on a break near a stock room and decided to take advantage of the stock room for a cigarette. Upon discarding her cigarette, a fire was started because of combustible materials stored in the stock room.

4. A department store manager instructed his subordinate to store a pile of soiled rags in a container. The rags had been used with combustible fluids. Several days later, spontaneous combustion caused a small fire in the stock room.

5. As Chad came into the store today, he noticed a few holes in the walls where someone had removed a display case. The paint around these holes was starting to peel. Display materials had been left lying on the floor and a counter glass was behind a counter. Somehow, during the dismantling of the case, a hole had been gouged into the floor. Chad decided he'd better get busy cleaning up and fixing this mess. He went downstairs to get a ladder, but the ladder was not where it belonged. Chad did find a stool, however. As he carried it upstairs, he stumbled over several boxes of merchandise on the stairs. When Chad got back upstairs to the "mess," he decided to get the glass from behind the counter. As he bent down, he steadied himself by using the handle on the counter and the handle fell off in his hand. Chad decided this just wasn't his day!
STORE ACCIDENT PREVENTION
Answer Guide

DIRECTIONS: Read the following statements describing various situations which may occur in a store, and indicate how the situation could have been alleviated. After you have finished the activity, check with the instructor to obtain a score.

Correct Response:

Student response to each of the situations should emphasize the importance of providing the employees of a store with information concerning fire regulations and safety procedures.

Note: The solutions need not be stated in any specific manner. However, the students' answers should indicate an awareness of the responsibility of the store to provide the employees with the proper information.
F. RISK MANAGEMENT
GLOSSARY

Blockers--Obstruct the vision of store personnel while they or a partner shoplift.

Boosters--Shoplifters who shove merchandise into concealed areas of parcels and/or clothing.

Carriers--Walk in, pick up a large piece of merchandise, remove the tags, affix a fake sales slip, and walk out.

Diverters--Members of a team of shoplifters who attempt to divert the attention of the store's personnel while a partner shoplifts.

Embezzlement--to take money or property for one's own use in violation of a trust given by an employer.

Fashion Tag--Used for high-value merchandise, the tag is extremely lightweight, very thin, and available with graphics that might include the store's name or logo.

Inktag--Can be used alone or in conjunction with an electronic surveillance system. Housed inside of a tough shell, vials of permanent ink stand ready to spill out on the merchandise whenever tag is forcefully removed.

Internal theft--the act of stealing from the place of employment.

Kleptomaniac--a person who has an uncontrollable urge to steal, especially when there is no personal need or desire for the things stolen. This condition requires medical treatment.

Larceny--the crime of stealing; theft by an employee.

Price changers--Pay for the merchandise, but only after taking a shoplifters' reduction by altering the store's price tag, switching store price tags, or removing the store's price tag and substituting realistic fakes.

Securtag--Tag secured to merchandise that works in conjunction with an alarm system that alerts personnel to individuals who are trying to leave premises with merchandise not paid for.

Self-wrappers--Use their own wrapping paper to wrap store merchandise before removing it from the store.

Shoplifting--a form of theft done by people who conceal merchandise in purses, shopping bags, clothing, or through other means.
Signature tag--Serves the purpose of merchandise protection while at the same time being a vehicle for price tags. Has a versatile pouch which can receive merchandise tags, indicate such items as price, size, style number, and color. It can be customized with the store's logo.

Surveillance--being closely observed or followed through the use of mirrors, cameras, or security personnel to deter shoplifting or embezzlement.

Sweeper--Brush merchandise off the counter into a shopping bag or some other type of container.

Tempo Tag--Similar to securtag but much smaller and lighter in weight and is used in the protection of delicate fabrics or in cases where more discreet protection is desired.

Ultra Max--an acoustic and magnetic tag that produces no false alarms and can be reactivated if a customer returns a product to the store.

Walkers--Have perfected the technique of walking naturally while carrying concealed merchandise between their legs.

Planning a Promotional Mix

Description of the Project:

In this activity, you will be working in small groups to develop a promotional mix for The Mark of Fashion. Below are specific instructions to guide you in developing the mix. Note that each of the instructions also represents a section to be included in your group's final report.

Instructions

1. Create and provide a general description of The Mark of Fashion for which the promotional mix is being designed. Include an explanation of the type of business, its size, its location and the types of goods and services it sells.

2. Describe the nature of the market served by the business. This information may be hypothetical but should include the number and types of customers, their location and a brief description of competition in the market from other businesses.

3. Set the promotional goals or objectives. These may be to promote either the company's image or the sale of its goods and/or services.

4. Identify the major forms of promotion to be used (advertising, personal selling, publicity, and/or sales promotion). Explain your reasons for selecting the method or combination of methods to be used.

5. Describe the specific activities to be carried out for each of the promotional methods chosen. In addition to describing the activities, provide drawings, sketches, and posters. Use examples whenever possible (especially appropriate for displays, advertisements and sales promotional devices).

6. By researching in the library, contacting local radio and television stations and/or local newspapers and magazine offices, etc., attempt to find out as much as possible about the costs of your promotional mixes. Include in your report a description of the projected costs of your activities (general estimates are acceptable).

7. Briefly discuss your opinions as to the likelihood of the promotional mix's achieving the stated goals or objectives of your company. In other words, discuss the mix's chances for success.

8. Submit a final group report to the class.

ADVANTAGES / DISADVANTAGES OF MEDIA

PRINT MEDIA

Newspaper

Advantages
- Flexibility
- Timeliness
- Frequency of exposure
- High reader interest
- High believability
- Low cost

Disadvantages
- Short life
- Poor reproduction quality
- Small "pass-along" rates
- High waste circulation
- Competitive environments

Magazine

Advantages
- Audience selectivity
- Credibility/prestige
- High-quality reproduction
- Long life

Disadvantages
- Lack of penetration
- Inflexibility
- Lack of immediacy
- High cost

BROADCAST MEDIA

Radio

Advantages
- Low cost
- Selectivity
- Flexibility
- Local personalities

Disadvantages
- Lack of prestige
- Short life
- Shared audience attention
- Audio-only presentation

Television

Advantages
- Large audience
- Attention-grabbing ability
- Sensory appeal
- Low cost per exposure
- Personal appeal
- Flexibility

Disadvantages
- High absolute cost
- High degree of clutter
- Short message life
- Time limitations
- Low audience selectivity
- Ignored messages

DIRECT MAIL

Advantages
- Audience selectivity
- Flexibility
- Personalization
- Easily measured performance

Disadvantages
- Potentially high cost
- Lack of editor matter
- Negative image

OUT-OF-HOME MEDIA

Outdoor

Advantages
Flexibility
High repeat exposure
Low cost per exposure
Ability to reach people on-the-go
Closeness to point-of-purchase

Disadvantages
Brevity of exposure
Limited message length
Limited selectivity
Tends to attract criticism

Transit

Advantages
Low cost
Geographic flexibility
Large and captive audience Message length

Disadvantages
Limited target
COMPONENTS / ELEMENTS OF EACH TYPE OF MEDIUM

1. Print Media
   Includes newspapers and magazines, direct mail pieces, signs and billboards. Print media advertisements are done in written form. They are among the oldest types of advertising and are still among the most effective.

2. Broadcast Media
   Includes radio and television.

3. Direct Mail
   As the name suggests, this form of media is sent directly to prospective customers.

4. Out-of-Home Media
   Includes billboards, outdoor signs, posters and marquees.

5. Other Media
   Specialty advertising, directory advertising, and motion picture advertising.

CREATING DISPLAY THEMES

The purpose of display is to sell merchandise. Once the merchandise to be displayed has been selected, an idea on how best to present that merchandise must be created. After a display idea has been developed, it may be described in a phrase referred to as the "theme" of the display. The theme, like the idea it describes, must be clear, concise, creative, and attention-getting. The following are examples of themes which may be used to describe display ideas.

"Splash Into Summer" a display for swimwear
"Put Your Best Foot Forward" a display for shoes
"How The West Is Worn" a display of western inspired fashions
"Diamonds Are A Girls Best Friend" a jewelry display
"Winnie The Pooh And You" a display for the children's department

Merchandise to be displayed is given in the left-hand column. For each kind of merchandise, indicate a display idea and a possible theme for the sign.

UNIT G: PROMOTION
GLOSSARY

ADVERTISING: Any paid form of non-personal presentation of ideas, goods or services.

ADVERTISING AGENCY: A business that plans an advertising campaign for a product or service, could include such things as creating a logo or symbol, a jingle, copy, and commercials.

ARCHITECTURAL DISPLAY: Consists of model rooms that allows customers to see how merchandise might look in their homes.

BAIT & SWITCH: A business advertises a product at a very attractive price in order to entice the consumer into the store and then through high-pressure selling techniques, tries to persuade the customer to buy a higher priced item.

BROADCAST MEDIA: Includes radio and television.

CLOSED-BACK DISPLAY: An encased display which allows customers to see but not handle merchandise.

CORNER DISPLAY: Allows two-sided exposure.

DEMONSTRATION: Showing how to use or wear a product.

DESIGNER/MANUFACTURERS’ TRUNK SHOWING: exclusive designer or vendor representative shows customers samples of the new line.

DIRECT MAIL: Sent by businesses directly to prospective customers.

DISPLAY: Visual presentation of merchandise.

FORMAL FASHION SHOW: Most glamorous form of sales promotion. Full scale production with choreography, sound, scenery and commentator. This show has a theme which links the whole show together.

FUTURISTIC HUMAN FORM: Mannequins that retain a resemblance to the human body but their proportions, finishes, and hair might be quite different. These mannequins might have, for example, a red finish for an ultra modern look.

GUEST APPEARANCE: Celebrity or well-known personality makes an appearance at a store or mall to promote a product bearing his/her name or to add to the excitement of a special event.

INFORMAL FASHION SHOW: Loosely put together collection of styles, where music and choreography are very low key. This is the type of fashion show done at a luncheon or in a department of a store.

INTERIOR DISPLAY: Encourages customers to buy when they are in the store; they generate one out of every four sales. There are five types of interior displays...closed, open, architectural, point-of-purchase, and store decorations.
UNIT G: PROMOTION

ISLAND DISPLAY: Similar to platforms except that they are stationary and are planned in the preliminary layout of the store. They are most often located near escalators, elevators, the entrances to important shops, and other high-traffic areas. The island area relates to the seasonal trim and theme.

LEDGES: Display area recessed into the wall above a set of shelves. Also, the display area on the top of a center unit in a selling area.

MARQUEE: A sign that is used to display the store's name.

MEDIA: Forms of communication to consumers, includes broadcast, print, etc.

MODELS' PARADE: A chance for the audience to see the entire cast of models who were in a fashion show.

OPEN-BACK DISPLAY: Retailers use these for two reasons: 1. The entire store can be visible to the consumer from the outside and 2. Answers the need to feature conventional window displays. Drawbacks...open backs sometimes "invite" customers to handle the merchandise on display and can become unkempt and, on occasion, merchants have found children romping through such windows, knocking over fixtures and merchandise and causing damage.

OUT-OF-HOME MEDIA: Includes billboards, outdoors signs, posters and marquees as well as transit advertising.

PERSONAL SELLING: A planned, personalized communication which is used to influence purchases.

PLATFORMS: Used to distinguish a display from the normal floor of a department store. They are usually elevated, either rectangular or round, and are used to highlight merchandise in different areas of the store.

POINT-OF-PURCHASE DISPLAY: Open displays designed primarily to promote impulse purchases. They are usually supplied by a product manufacturer for use at or near the point of sale (cashiers, cash registers, etc.) Examples of items are candy and gum, panty hose, etc.

PRINT MEDIA: Newspapers, magazines, mail pieces, and signs.

PROMOTION: The communicating of information about products and services, images, and ideas to influence purchase behavior.

PROMOTIONAL MIX: Combining different promotional methods to increase the likelihood that customers will stop, shop and buy.

PUBLICITY: Free and voluntary mention of a company, product, or service by newspapers, radio, television and sometimes magazines.

QUAD MERCHANDISER: Four-sided fixture used to display coordinates; each arm should hold one color or style.

REPRESENTATIONAL FORM: A mannequin that does not represent the human form; the figures are often suitable for unisex usage. Unique materials such as steel piping and plexiglas are used.

ROUND RACKS: Circular rack holding one type of merchandise. The merchandise is usually arranged by color in a counterclockwise direction and is sized small to large.

SALES PROMOTION: Promotional activities other than advertising, personal selling and publicity which stimulate purchases.

SELF-SELECTION DISPLAY: These displays include the shelves, tables, counters, and fixtures inside a store that hold the merchandise selection. These displays are designed to allow customers to handle the merchandise.

SHADOWBOX: Small, glass enclosed case built into the wall; usually located in high traffic areas so merchandise featured receives maximum customer exposure.

SPECIAL EVENTS: Any activity that enhances crowd attraction, customer loyalty, and adds to the excitement of the selling day.

STORE LAYOUT: Refers to the way floor space is allocated to facilitate sales and serve the customer. There are four different types of space. 1. Selling space is assigned for interior displays, sales demonstrations and sales transactions. 2. Merchandise space is allocated to items that are kept in inventory. 3. Personnel space is assigned to store employees for lockers, lunch breaks, and restrooms. 4. Customer space is assigned for the comfort and convenience of the customer. Such space may include a restaurant, dressing rooms, and lounges.

STYLIZED HUMAN FORMS: Mannequins that follow traditional lines but offer a change of pace.
Examples: A skintone finish other than human flesh, a brush stroke body surface, or hair that is sculpted to give a clay-like feeling and sleek appearance.

TRADITIONAL HUMAN FORMS: Regular mannequins that are serviceable for many types of attire. Through the use of different wigs, makeup, arm and leg positions, these mannequins can be transformed to create many different impressions from business to sportswear.

VISUAL MERCHANDISING: Includes all the parts of a store that customers see: the store's interior and exterior design, its fixtures, paint and wall coverings, carpet, lighting, mirrors, merchandise displays and department layout.

WINDOW DISPLAY: Designed to capture the attention of people passing on the street or inside the mall and persuade them to come into the store. Some of the types of window displays include: Parallel-to-sidewalk, corner, open-back, angled, and arcade.
PROMOTION UNIT PROJECT

Your group is responsible for designing a promotion plan for one of the products listed below. Acting as the ad agency, you will submit the written plan and will present the plan to the company Board of Directors. During this project, you will be exposed to the following competencies and skills: allocating time, money and materials, working on teams, teaching others, understanding social systems, designing or improving systems, applying technology to specific tasks, reading, writing, speaking, thinking creatively, making decisions, solving problems, seeing things in the mind's eye, reasoning, individual responsibility, sociability, and self-management.

1. SIMPLICITY- A new fresh and natural fragrance for the modern woman

2. GUY- A new brand of denim jeans

3. MOURNING SKY- A new athletic shoe for Hornets player Alonzo Mourning

4. FANTASTIC FINALES- A new line of formals/bridal gowns

5. LAVISH- A new line of cosmetics

UNIT H

FASHION SHOW PRODUCTION
FASHION SHOW PRODUCTION
FASHION SHOW PRODUCTION

PROJECT DESCRIPTION: A fashion show may be a highlight of the year for many DECA members. Since several students are employed or have career interests in fashion merchandising, they can relate personally to the preparation for a fashion show. Attendance at this activity may be limited to DECA members or it may be open to the school or the entire community. It may be a fund raising effort, or you may offer free admission. And the event may be held in the classroom, the school auditorium, a local clothing store, or the center court in a shopping mall.

PROJECT PRESENTATION: In the fashion merchandising courses, little introduction is needed for a fashion show because it relates so closely to what the students are studying. In the marketing courses many of the competencies are very closely related to those needed to present a fashion show, and your of the cooperative education students are likely employed in apparel and accessories occupations. When teaching the marketing subjects, you can use apparel and accessory items and fashion terminology when giving examples, doing role-playing, or discussing various situations. Whenever possible, relate the competency introduction to the steps in planning and conducting a fashion show.

When planning a fashion show, you must make several decisions such as: When will the event be held? Where will it be held? What type of audience will be involved? What types of clothes will we show? Who will serve as models? Who will prepare the script? What background and props will we need? Do we need music as the models are presented? Core competencies in marketing fundamentals and promotion can assist in answering these and many other questions.

National DECA-Related Materials and several fashion merchandising textbook companies have excellent resources for fashion show development. Some of these include slide-tape presentations in which you might want to substitute slides from your own show if you so choose. Future students may relate easier to situations with persons they know personally.

Regardless of the part each person plays, it is important that all students participate in the fashion show. Some might be actively involved in the planning and choose not to be a model, while others may be more interested in modeling several outfits than planning. The committee approach is useful in accomplishing all the tasks involved-publicity/promotion, equipment/decorations, script, set-up/clean-up, music/entertainment, welcoming committee, etc.

PROJECT EVALUATION: A fashion show allows students to master many core competencies as they also gain a great deal of program promotion. This event can enhance the program image within the school, in the community, and in the business world. A large fashion show, using models of all ages and sizes and clothes of many different styles, may be a successful fund raiser if admission is charged.
Core competencies may be evaluated by curriculum guide test items, or you may choose to develop special evaluation instruments based on the fashion show itself. Evaluate students as they work toward the fashion show and as they perform during the event. They should be held responsible for the care of the fashions during the show and through the time of return to the store if clothes are on loan. In addition to the learning outcomes of this project, students may receive a discount on the items they model. Some students may develop a genuine career interest in the fashion field or experience an increase in their concern for clothing and their general appearance.

FASHION SHOW PRODUCTION

HOW TO GET STARTED
by Kathy Wilson
Marketing Education Coordinator
Hunter Huss High School

Where to begin? What to do first? HELP!! These will be common emotions of any Marketing/Fashion Merchandise instructor who works with teenagers in a fashion show production. My school fashion show is always held in April; I begin in late November and December trying to pick up on the coming trends for spring and summer. WWD is an excellent source for this. As I find out the trends, I determine which ones will most likely be big in my area. Once we have determined what is going to be "in", I can start planning. The first announcement I make to my students concerning fashion show production is making decisions about what type of clothing we will show. I listen to twelve trends on the board and have a vote. Being normal teenagers and indecisive, you might have to have another vote to narrow the selections down. Choosing the clothing will often lend itself to helping with theme selection. After this, you are ready for the fun part!

Model Selection: Have students who wish to model sign a preliminary sheet for the scenes they want to be in. I suggest two scenes, three maximum, although there will be some exceptions to this. Who will model? I have always allowed students who are enrolled in the course to participate if that is their desire and they are cooperative and well behaved. Attendance or discipline problems will prohibit them from participating. After all, you need students who are reliable. Some coordinators might wish to have a committee (teachers or former marketing/fashion students) to select students who audition. However, this will take a good deal of time. Outsiders might be more inclined to pick students who are tall and slim, etc. and have more of the look of a model. I believe my shows have been successful because I have used models who are short, stout, average looking, etc.; I think people in the audience can identify with this.

Publicity: Students who choose to take care of this important task are responsible for contacting the local newspapers and providing them with the fashion show theme, date, time, place, and sponsors to be placed in the community and school calendar. They should also try and schedule the local newspapers for a captioned picture closer to the show date. Do not forget the school newspaper; check with the sponsor or a reporter to do a feature story prior to the show. Flashing sign at a community bank? Contact the bank about a fashion show notice. Local convenience stores with portable signs are another good publicity source. Have your computer teacher to make computer banners to put up in the school lobby and cafeteria. Put posters up around the high school and be sure to send or take posters to the feeder junior highs and send posters to the other Marketing instructors in your area. Committee members should also take posters to merchants at the mall or strip centers, recreation centers and even churches. This committee is responsible for preparing the message about the fashion show for morning and afternoon announcements. Their main responsibility: Get the word out!
FASHION SHOW PRODUCTION

Choreography/stage layout: All students can help with this detailed activity. Divide students into smaller groups and assign them certain scene(s) on which to work. This will involve making decisions on model compositions, entrances, what the models should do on the stage and ramp, and where the models should exit. Instructions for model sequence and stage layout should be written out. Sketches/diagrams of the stage may be made. This information needs to be run off and passed out to the students well before the show. This information should also be posted in each dressing room. This committee makes signs for the dressing rooms and behind the scenes area like...QUIET! ...TIPTOE!...SMILE!...BREAK A LEG!, etc. An efficient group of students can make dressing room assignments. How do you do that? Look at each individual model's exits and count up how many times he/she goes stage left or right. For example if a model exits stage left three times and stage right only once, it makes good sense to assign that model to a dressing room on stage left. It is also a wise idea if you know that students may have a personality conflict, then put them in opposite dressing rooms. The choreography/staging students need to work closely with the music committee.

Set Design: Hopefully, you will have some artistic/creative students who will be able to develop ideas for interesting stage properties. Who will build and paint sets - Art students, technical theatre students, construction classes and your students. I suggest keeping sets simple. A list of supplies and materials needed will have to be made. Set design can be expensive; some companies will donate. The choreography group will have to work with the set design so they will know what is going to be placed on the stage. The set design students will need to write instructions on stage properties being used in which scene and how/where they are to be placed.

Music: Choose students who are "in the know" about music. Instrumentals are better than vocals, and it is better to vary music styles for the different scenes. This committee should keep in mind the audience makeup will vary in age. Rap/rock throughout a show might leave grandmother's dentures rattled. Music right off the top chart might not be a good choice either because by show time everyone is tired of the song. Any vocal used should not have offensive language. All music must be approved by the show coordinator. I generally compromise with my students. I let them choose one selection and all others I have to like. This committee estimates/times the length of music needed for a scene. They purchase blank tapes and arrange for the recording of the music. They make arrangements for a sound person and assistant and for the use of the sound system. This group also writes the music cues. The music and choreography groups will need to work with each other.

Script: All students will prepare a sample script for one scene. After checking this exercise over, the instructor will use the best writers to help with the final script. This group will issue an invitation for a mistress of ceremonies. This committee will make extra copies of the script for the MC, technical director, cue persons, etc.
FASHION SHOW PRODUCTION

Logo: Talented art students will sketch and submit designs to be used on posters, programs, and T-shirts. Students will vote on the best logo to reflect the fashion show theme. This committee will get the design ready for the printer. Another responsibility is checking with local screen printing companies for the best price on T-shirts. They will make a master list of students wishing to order a shirt, write down the size and collect the money before placing the order. When the T-shirts are ready, they will pick them up, check to make sure that all sizes are correct and distribute them to students.

Program/Ticket Sales: I use students who are not modeling in the show to do all the activities lumped together in this committee. Some of the activities are: make a master list of all models, choose the scene titles, list the technical workers for the show, list the stores that gave a discount, get ticket information to the printer, pick up tickets, recount them, distribute tickets to students and collect money for advance sales. They also distribute models’ passes (free tickets) and special family price tickets. This group also sets up two tables at the door, one for advance tickets and one that sells that evening. The advance table group also checks off special guests. Another responsibility is to give out programs and welcome folks to the show and thank them for coming. I also use students from this group to be my general assistants and help with those odd and end types of activities which need to be done.

Entertainment: This committee makes posters/announcements concerning entertainment applications. They set a tryout date and serve as judges for choosing talent numbers. I have them choose a maximum of three talent acts for a six scene show. Remember, this is a fashion show, not a talent show. This committee decides which talent number will appear at what time, and will find out what the person or group will wear, the exact title of the act, and get other pertinent information to be used in the script to introduce the act. Again, please caution students that the talent acts need to be varied and in good taste.

Security/Cleanup: Members of this group are responsible for making arrangements with the administration about one or two security officers being present at the fashion show. They will call the local police department to schedule a police officers the evening. I suggest you hire the police to arrive one half to forty-five minutes before the show (or right before you open the door to the public) and remain for at least one half hour after the show. Sizeable marketing students will make good security staff at the models' auditorium entrance. I only allow models and technical people working with the show behind stage. . .no parents, no friends, no boyfriends or girlfriends. Security will remain at the stage doors until all models are gone. They will also stay with me until we do some basic tasks like locking up the sound system before we go home. Cleanup begins the next day as we pick up programs, etc., left on the auditorium floor. We pick up what was left behind in the dressing rooms. Sets are either torn down or stored. Items that were borrowed are returned, etc.

Videotaping: Students who are good with a camcorder will plan to videotape the show from two or three different positions so you will have different views of the action on stage. They should also contact a professional videotape technician who will make copies of the show for the students. Taking videotape orders, collecting the money, and distributing the tapes are also this groups duties.

How To Get Show Themes

Inspiration for show themes can come from many sources...popular music, catchy phrases, special events, etc. I try to start picking up on the coming spring and summer trends as soon as possible...sometimes that's the inspiration. I keep a folder where I write down ideas, clip pictures and set changes that might inspire fashion show ideas. The theme is all-important; it's what holds the entire show together. Once you have a theme, you'll find other parts of fashion show production will begin to come together.

Spring, 1992
"DIRECTIONS"

Spring, 1991
"THE BODY SHOP"

Spring, 1990
"ELECTRIC YOUTH"

Spring, 1989
"FASHIONATION"

Spring, 1988
"A SYMPHONY IN STYLE"

Spring, 1987
"C'EST LA VIE" (That's Life)

Spring, 1986
"HOT OFF THE PRESS"

Spring, 1985
"CARIBBEAN CRUISE"

Spring, 1984
"UPTOWN GIRLS AND GUYS"

Four of the fashion show themes have been inspired by song titles.
FASHION SHOW THEME IDEAS

Brainstorm with two other classmates. Decide on three themes that could be suitable for our fashion show. You must also come up with three names for scenes to follow your themes.

Fashion Show Rehearsal

Each student should be given a copy of the after school rehearsal schedule as soon as possible. I give out a copy in February for March and April. I ask students to carefully make note of the particular rehearsals they need to attend, and not schedule doctor's appointments, hair appointments, shopping excursions, etc., on those days. I have also learned it is easier to do a show scene by scene, rather than having the whole cast there each time. I use a blank calendar month and write in the rehearsals. Rehearsal is scheduled to begin at 3:00 p.m. and will end at 5:00 p.m. Exceptions to this are the technical rehearsal and dress rehearsal. The technical rehearsal is devoted solely to curtain cues, music cues, scenery changes, spotlight, special effects, etc. Dress rehearsal is a chance to see how everything looks on each model. By the time dress rehearsal rolls around, I've seen most of the clothing because the students bring it in to school as they purchase it to see if it is appropriate for the scene.

GUIDELINES for USING the AUDITORIUM

Be in the auditorium on time and in a seat.

Do not go onto the stage area or ramp before being told to do so.

Do not sit on the ramp.

While in the auditorium, talking should be kept to a minimum and done very quietly. When I am speaking, remain completely quiet.

No "horsing" around on stage.

Do not dance when music is put on to be used in a scene.

Keep your hands off the stage curtains.

When practicing, stay off the stage area until it is time for you to make an appearance.

Keep your hands off the lighting board, it is dangerous. Do not bother any scenery, props, etc. that may be around the stage area unless asked to do so.

Be happy to help if asked to assist in moving items, setting up, etc.

Don't touch the piano.

Do not leave any personal belongings in the auditorium...the management is not responsible.

Absolutely...No FOOD PRODUCTS or SOFT DRINKS in the auditorium at any time!! That goes for CANDY and GUM, too!

After-school rehearsals are closed...that means no outsiders except cast members.

Transportation arrangements should be made prior to rehearsal time.

Have a serious attitude about doing your best. I do not have time to work with people who don't want to make this show an incredible success...we're working with a deadline!

HOW TO GET A DISCOUNT

In my area of the state, with the large number of students participating in the Marketing/Fashion Merchandising program, I have learned that it is wiser and less stressful to ask local retailers for a discount on clothing for the fashion show rather than asking for the clothing on loan. Most stores at the mall have a policy of not loaning clothes unless they are to be used in a presentation at center court. I do obtain the male models’ tuxedos from a formal wear shop. I use the same basic form letter each year, updating it with the current fashion show theme, date and the clothing we want to feature.

Dear Merchant,

The Fashion Merchandise classes of Hunter Huss High School are in the planning stages for our 1992 spring fashion show. "THE BODY SHOP" is slated for April 18 at 7:30 p.m. in the Hunter Huss auditorium.

Student models are required to provide their own complete outfits including accessories and shoes. As this does cause some financial strain, I am looking for ways to help ease the monetary stress. I am hoping you will be one of the area merchants to allow a discount (15-25 % suggested) on clothing purchased to wear in the show. Students who will be participating would bring an identification card signed by me.

For your discount participation, you will receive publicity in the printed fashion show program and also public acknowledgment. Perhaps, even more beneficial to you, is the goodwill and store loyalty you will be building with these teenage consumers, who are such an important segment of the retail market.

This year’s show will feature an opening scene of dresses and sportswear (a mixture of Bermudas, casual slacks, knits, decorated denim, etc.) We will also feature swimwear and formal wear. In another scene, we are going to bloom where we are planted as our models depict some of spring’s brightest floral styles. Our final scene will feature one of the all time favorite color combinations...red, white, and blue!

I do hope you will be able to participate. If not, perhaps you will consider it at another time, since our fashion show is an annual event. I am enclosing an addressed envelope for your response.

Thank you so much for your help and consideration.

* I suggest sending out your letters approximately two months prior to your show. Our fashion show is always in April so I send my letters in early February.
FASHION SHOW PRODUCTION

DISCOUNT IDENTIFICATION

You may use two ways to identify students who are participating in the fashion show. One is to send a typed list of models to the participating stores. Another is to make a discount card. This card contains the student's name and my signature. I laminate the card and I ask the students to take along their driver's license or permit.

EMPLOYER LETTER

Since a large number of the Marketing/Fashion Merchandising students work, it is helpful to both the employer and the student if there is some communication about the fashion show. Employers are very reasonable when they discover the fashion show is a school activity, are agreeable on juggling schedules.

The following is a basic form letter that can be changed with theme and date.

Dear Employer,

___________ is participating in a fashion show production at Hunter Huss High School on Thursday, April 18. This is a course-related activity, and is a part of the student’s grade. This production will require some after-school rehearsal so the four Fashion Merchandising classes can work together. Most of the after-school rehearsals will end at 5:00 p.m. If you would like a copy of the rehearsal schedule, please ask the student to bring you one. Please work with this student on his/her work schedule. Thank you so much for your help and cooperation.

RULES OF WALKING

1. Smaller steps - Classically, your steps should be no longer than the size of your foot. The taller you are, the longer your step should be.

2. Straight feet - Concentrate on pointing the toes straight ahead.

3. Knees flexed - Locking the knees as you walk prohibits good posture and helps to make the hip move from side to side. Always walk and stand with your knees flexed.

4. Classical Walk - In fashion shows, most professional models walk with one foot in front of the other, because of the graceful impression it creates. It is wise to practice this on a straight line as it will make our everyday walk more graceful.

   Sports Walk - The sports walk is more casual, with the feet on two parallel lines, rather than one in front of the other. The weight is gradually and lightly transferred from heel to toe.

5. Weight on the ball of the foot - For a smooth walk and a light step, walk with the weight on the ball of the foot.

6. Buttocks Tucked Under - While you keep your rear end tucked, your stomach should be tighter and knees flexed.

7. Diaphragm Up - Important so that your chest will not be collapsed into your waist, or your shoulders slumped.

8. Chin Parallel To The Floor - Looking down makes us seem timid and insecure; looking up makes us seem untouchable and haughty, so keep your head level.

9. Keep Your Weight Centered - Instead of transferring your weight from foot to toe, imagine yourself to be flowing along. Do not let your hips move from side to side. Move from the diaphragm rather than the waist.

10. Arms Brush Sides - Save the walk with arms away from the body for football players and gorillas, not for ladies. Always let the heel of your hand brush the side of your thigh as you walk.

11. Arms Swing In Proportion To The Size of Steps - Your arms should swing straight back and forth, not out or flopping at your sides.

12. Hands Swing In Profile - Your hands should be swinging with either the palm or the back of the hands primarily showing; but in profile (from front view this would be the thumb and index finger).
13. Fingers Elongated and Relaxed - Hands are always the giveaway of a nervous or self-conscious person. You should neither ball up nor over-stretch your fingers, but have them gracefulty separated and relaxed.

14. Shoulders Should Be Relaxed - Never hold your shoulders back. Always hold them in a relaxed position.

15. Look at the Audience and Smile - This goes for a high fashion runway or Main Street, USA. A self-confident person does not look down, away or straight in front; she looks at those around him/her and smiles. Nothing is more winning.

MALE MODEL AUDITIONS

In fashion show production, you will always have plenty of female models. You might find some willing volunteers in the marketing classes. You may even be surprised to find that there are numerous young men who wish to participate. If this is the case, I have learned that auditions make it easier to choose. I inform the gentlemen of the date, time, dress code, that they are to provide their own taped music and any hand props. I let the young men know on what basis they will be judged. I select several students from each class to help me with the auditions. We select male models based on the points they accumulate in the following areas:

COORDINATION

OVERALL APPEARANCE

For each category, use a scale of 1-10; the maximum number of points is 50.

SCENERY IDEAS

"THE BODY SHOP"
Sketch, illustrate, or describe your scenery ideas for the show scenes. Keep in mind ideas of things that deal with shopping.

Example: The opening number features ladies only in fresh spring dresses (and possibly hats). A scenery idea would be to feature our models as mannequins in a display window.

FASHION SHOW SELECTION
MUSIC for the SHOW

Music for the show needs to be appropriate for the type of clothing being shown and for the scene concept. Most importantly, since this is a school-related function, the music needs to be appropriate and proper for listening. Do not suggest music that has vulgar lyrics, sexual references, or anything else that might be offensive. Although our audience will largely be comprised of teenagers, you need to keep in mind your parents and grandparents will be attending and you should include some music they will enjoy. Instrumentals are better than vocals. Music for the fashion show doesn't have to be from the Top 40 chart; you can use some from the past.

MODELS' STAGE DIRECTIONS,
TRAFFIC PATTERNS and MODEL SEQUENCE

It is important to put into writing exactly what you want your models to do on stage, how to enter, where to go, what to do and how to exit. It is also important that the models have information about their stage sequence. The models can study them prior to show time. I also suggest posting a copy of each scene in the dressing rooms. I personally sketch out a diagram of the stage with the set design, scene title, music, etc. The following are the instructions that were used in the 1991 production "THE BODY SHOP".

Scene I Opening Number... Models will portray store mannequins that have come "alive" after the store's closing hours. Models should step up onto the platform gracefully and in slow motion. While on the platform, change your positions slowly. Try to change at least three times. When it is your turn to model, walk angularly towards the ramp. Freestyle model. As you begin to exit from the ramp, go angularly towards the side from which you will exit. Do not forget, as you exit, to freeze...pose...freeze...pose, etc. Odd numbered models enter and exit from stage right. Even numbered models enter and exit from stage left. *Remember to do your final posing away from the platform so you will not block other models. Brandy will be carried on by two technical theatre helpers who will be acting like display workers. When they leave, Brandy should look mischievous. When Wynde models and leaves the ramp, she should look like she is trying to get back on the platform before store opening time.

Scene II Sportswear. As the curtains open, Group 1 will already be in position. This scene has a more relaxed spirit to it than scene one. Sportswear groups are comprised of two, three, or four people. If there are two in a group, one will enter from either side of the stage. Three in a group enter together from the same side. Four in a group-two come in from either side of the stage. Each group should decide what the models will do on the stage within the basic modeling routine. At the end of "the routine, the group should pose again before leaving. Exit the same side from which you entered. As you exit, don't stop looking towards the audience until you are all the way through the curtains. Groups enter the stage area as the previous group heads towards the ramp.

Props: Sportsbags, waistpacks, sportscaps, etc.

SMILE!!!

Everyone enters on curtain 3 and exits on curtain 2.

9. Ashlye and Becky
10. Akivia, Kyndall, Leslie

Ending group...Be sure to hold your pose until the curtains are completely closed.

Scene III Formal Wear... Pose in the picture frame as if you are having your picture made. Be elegant. Couples should try to center themselves within the frame. As the curtains open, the first couple will be in place. The couple or single model should be out on the ramp before the next person steps into the frame. Guys who are escorting girls, remember the girl is featured on the outside, closest to the audience as you are leaving. Girls who are by themselves, don't forget to exit dramatically. Everyone, please remember to look back at the audience as you are leaving.

Girls should do the formal wear turn so the audience can see the details of your dress. Line by numbers back behind the travelers and at the stage wings. Be careful so your feet will not be noticed under the traveler. If you are an odd numbered couple, the girl should be on the guy's left side and arm; if you are even numbered, the girl will be on the fellow's right.

*Props: Balloons, single flower, fan, wrist corsage, etc. BE ELEGANT!

Scene IV Swimwear... Remember in swimsuits that odd numbered models will be on stage left and even numbers on stage right; exit the same side of the stage from which you entered. As the curtains open, the stage will be clear of models. The first focus will be on the painted body forms. Cheryl will start this routine out for us. As the previous model is on the ramp, the next model comes on and poses. Use the traditional swimwear pose frequently. Models will freestyle model on the ramp. *Entrances are made diagonally from curtain number four...stage right and left. Exits are on curtain number three, stage right or left. Remember to spend some time on the ramp; "flaunt" those cute swimsuits, but do nothing vulgar, like sliding your hand on your thigh. If you have the confidence to come out in a swimsuit, at least look like you are happy about it.

SMILE!

Props: Sunglasses, sunvisor, towel, etc. Don't forget to put a light glaze of lotion or baby oil on, but do not overdo it.

 When Erin leaves, the guys come on from both sides of the stage and give us a masculine pose. Hold the pose until the curtains close gentlemen! (Jeff, Brian, Mark and Marques)

Scene V Floral... Ladies, this can be one of the loveliest and breath-taking scenes if you will put your emphasis on being feminine. I want southern charm, grace, coyness and sashaying in this. Overdo the flower bit...a flower in your hair, a garland, a basket, a posy, carry a hat decorated with flowers and ribbons...you get the idea. All entrances will be made from the traveler. Stay in the wings so your feet don't show. Smile on stage. You are beautiful when you smile! Look carefully at page two of this scene layout. (All exits are made through the traveler)

MODEL NUMBERS

1. Marinda 2. Kriz 3. Lennie 4. Wynde (First four are on stage together; when Lennie & Wynde exit, then 5 and 6 appear.)

5. Anastasia 6. Michelle;
   as they exit, then 7 and 8 appear

7. Tina 8. Sonya;
   as they exit 9 comes on...then 10 and 11

   as 9 exits, 12 and 13 appear.

    as 12 and 13 exit, 14 comes on followed by 15 and 16

    when 14 exits, 17 and 18 appear, then 19 and 20

    when 19 and 20 exit, then 21 comes in to the middle. She will be joined by 22 and 23.

    These three girls end this scene. Hold your pose until the curtains close.

Scene VI Red, White and Blue... The dynamic impact of this scene is going to be that you folks are going to look like you are in suspended animation-caught in a time warp-frozen in action. In other words, we are using mannequin (freeze) modeling. You must hold your pose until it is time for you to model. This scene also calls for the models to look like they are at the mall so some of you should use props. Suggestions: shopping bags, gift wrapped package, etc. When it is time for a model(s) to take a spot and he or she or a couple are coming from the wings, stroll on slowly so you will not be going into frozen positions abruptly. When you model, you should act and be happy. This is an upbeat number. Be sure to know your model stage position.

WRITING COMMENTARY

Commentary for a formal fashion show production needs to be brief but informative. I have students to choose one scene of the fashion show and write commentary. I make copies of one or two scenes from past shows to pass out so they will have an idea of how commentary should sound. Here is a sample from 1990 "ELECTRIC YOUTH" and the formal wear scene which was titled "Nite Light".

Starry, starry nights ahead-prom time is on the glow. So spark it up with dynamite dressing. For young ladies, formal wear is following two trends...either long and glittery or short and sassy. Especially hot colors are black, royal, and purple.

The young men will be electrifying in their tuxedos with coordinating accessories.

The Hunter Huss prom is on May 12 at the Adam's Mark Hotel in Charlotte. It will be your night to shine at "Elegant Illusions"!

COMMENTARY EXERCISE

Directions: Select one scene from this year's fashion show and write comments the MC could use to introduce the scene.

FASHION SHOW SCRIPT

Commentary for a school fashion show needs to be catchy and just a brief description of what the audience will see in the scene. The following is the exact script used for "THE BODY SHOP"

Introduction of MC

Scene 1 Mannequin Shenanigans

MC: "Before we begin tonight's show, we would like to remind you that a lot of hard work, effort and time has gone into this production. Please refrain from calling out a model's name and save your comments for later. However, we do appreciate your applause!" (pause for effect).

"Shift. Sheath. Chemise. A-line. Swing. Trapeze. Tent. The shapes are myriad. The message is clear. The dress is back in strength. It is the dominant trend for spring and summer!"

Scene 2 Shop Talk

MC: "Maybe you could live without going to the movies or survive without going to another concert. But on the fashion Richter scale, going to the mall is a must. So, to help you make it through your next mall marathon, we've shopped the malls for the latest spring trends and bagged the newest looks for '91 NOW!"

Scene 3 Gift Wrapped

MC: "A picture is worth 10,000 words," says a Chinese proverb. I call your attention to our models, who have donned their most elegant apparel and within the borders of a frame, create the most beautiful of pictures.

Scene 4 The Fitting Room

MC: "If you can get past the curves, you will notice that most swimwear is more covered than in years past. Inspiration comes mostly from the 40's, a glamorous decade in fashion. Here are our confessions from the fitting room!"

Scene 5 Bloomingdolls

MC: "Call it the greenhouse effect. Spring clothes are garden-centered. The styles are many, the colors brilliant, the arrangements fresh. Pick a few!"

Scene 6 Made IN The USA

MC: "This season, The Great American Way means creating a pulled together look from relaxed but distinctive pieces. Our last scene tonight is a tribute to the ever popular combination of red, white and blue which says it is made and worn in the USA!"

SET CHANGES

It is important if you are going to have scenery changes, that you put it in writing. Otherwise, a piece of scenery will be placed in the wrong area, or out on the wrong scene and will possibly confuse the models. The following are the set changes for "THE BODY SHOP".

Scene I  One platform turned horizontally between the traveler curtains. One tall and one shorter white column on either side of the platform.

Scene II  Sportswear-Black flat, "NOW 92" in middle of the stage and placed back approximately 3 feet from the 3rd curtain wings. Main front curtains are left about 7 feet closed.

Scene III  Formal Wear-Platform paced vertically between the travelers with bigger than life picture frame placed at the back. Be sure to center the frame.

Scene V  Floral- Two sets of decorated lattice work set in the middle of stage even with the traveler. Large decorated baskets placed at bottom of lattice work. Keep traveler open enough on either side to allow two models to stand on each side.

Scene VI  Red, White & Blue- Star-decorated red, white, and blue boxes towards back part of stage.

TECHNICAL CUES for "THE BODY SHOP"

Be sure to put into writing when, what and how you need technical assistance. The following is a list of instructions that were given to the curtain person, sound technician, stage manager and grips.

Prior to showtime play 10-15 minutes of extra music like jazz or some sort of music but nothing that "excites" the crowd.

Showtime: Spotlight on podium; WELCOME by Kathy Wilson and introduction of commentator.

Commentator: Spotlight on podium; introduce first scene.

Scene I: Curtains open all the way. Two teckies will carry on the mannequin, Brandy Humphries, and pose her. They leave. Begin music "Funk Boutique." Wynde Abernathy is the last model...she will "sneak" back to the platform. Teckie enters and acts puzzled. Fade music as curtains close. Spotlight is on each model as she is on the ramp. Commentator: Spotlight on podium; introduces second scene.

Scene II: Sportswear. Curtains open. Start music "Around The Way Girl". Put spotlight on groups when they are on the ramp. Three girls are the last to model...Akivia, Lisa, and Kyndall...rather than leaving the stage, they will go back to the flat and pose. Fade music as curtains close.

Commentator: Spotlight on podium; introduction of talent act

Commentator: spotlight on podium; introduce Scene III

Scene III: Formal Wear: curtains open. Start music..."My, My, My". Put spotlight on couples on the ramp. Last couple is Reggie and Rhonda who will go back and pose in the frame. Fade music as curtains close.

Commentator: Spotlight on podium; introduce Scene IV

Scene IV: Swimsuits. Curtains open as music "Keep On" begins. This scene will end as 4 or 5 boys come out and pose...fade music as curtains close. Spotlight on models as they are on the ramp.

Commentator: Spotlight on podium; introduce talent act.

Talent Act: Spotlight on Naomi as she sings.
Commentator: Spotlight on podium; introduce Scene V

Scene V: Music "Georgia" starts as curtains are opening. Put spotlight on girls when they are on the ramp.

Commentator: Spotlight on podium; introduce Scene VI

Scene VI: Red, white, and Blue. Let curtains open all the way so audience can get the impact of the models frozen in action. Begin "Headed for the Future." Wynde and Heather are the last two to model. As they exit, fade music.

Hit "Living In America." When James Brown sings, "I Feel Good", curtains close. Put on mood music as audience leaves.

FASHION SHOW GLOSSARY

Basic Stance: The pose assumed by models during pauses in their walking. A foot and leg position is called a stance. The basic stance leaves one leg free and ready for action. You can learn basic stance by making three lines on the floor with chalk or masking tape.
1. Line in the direction you are facing
2. Line at 90 degree angle to this line
3. Line at 45 degree angle on left, between lines 1 and 2.

Blocking: A term used to "block out" where, when, and how a model, dancer or other performer will move.

Changing Scarf: A 36 inch square cloth of a see-through fabric, placed over the model’s head to protect clothes from makeup stains.

"Cheating": A particular way of walking that turns the model’s body toward the audience; glancing over the shoulder, so it looks like you are making eye contact with the audience.

Commentary: The spoken description of the clothes; brief information about what is going to be seen in a scene.

Compositions: Interesting "pictures" created by models working together to form an artistic arrangement with their poses.

Conduct: This word means to conduct.

Cosmetologist: One who gives beauty treatments to the skin and hair.

Dior Pivot: A modeling turn, sometimes called an all-the-way-around turn.

Dress Rehearsal: A full rehearsal in costume and with stage properties shortly before the first performance.

Dressing Room: A room in an auditorium / theatre for changing costumes and makeup-or a room anywhere so used.

Dressing Room Workers: People in the dressing room who have assigned tasks as helping the models change, make-up, etc.

Dry Run-Through: A trial run-through, usually done without putting on the clothes, and without the music, lights, etc.

Fashion Show: General term used for both informal fashion showings without staging, and for formal shows that are produced with music, lights and staging.
