This document consists of an annotated bibliography of publications, audio visual materials, and other items available through Yale University's East Asian Resource and Education Program. The document begins with a discussion of the program, its goals and objectives, teacher and school projects, publications, and special events. There is also a description of the East Asian Education Resource Center and Library. The paper describes materials available through the program, which appear under the major headings "China," "Japan," "Korea," "Asia," "Asian Americans," and "International/Global." A discussion of "Organizations at or Affiliated with Yale" subdivides topics into descriptions of libraries, galleries and collections, and organizations and associations. Subject and title indexes conclude the document. (SG)

THE EAST ASIAN RESOURCE AND EDUCATION PROGRAM AT YALE UNIVERSITY

GOALS AND OBJECTIVES

The East Asian Resource and Education Program at Yale seeks to promote increased understanding of the countries of East Asia—China, Japan and Korea—through educational and cultural programming. The services offered by the East Asian Resource and Education Program are available to educators, businesses, community organizations and the general public on a national basis.

In addition to the services and facilities outlined in its catalogue, the East Asian Resource and Education Program at Yale offers a variety of programs and events designed to enhance the appreciation and understanding of East Asia.
PROGRAMS FOR TEACHERS

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT IN EAST ASIAN STUDIES FOR TEACHERS

The professional staff of the East Asian Resource and Education Program at Yale will conduct on-site professional development programs for teachers of grades K-12. Professional development programs are available on a wide range of topics and can be designed to meet the needs of the staff for which the program is being planned. The professional development programs of the East Asian Resource and Education Program are conducted within the guidelines of and meet the requirements of the State of Connecticut Department of Education.

The East Asian Resource and Education Program has presented programs throughout Connecticut, New England, and across the U.S. Among the professional development workshop programs the E.A.R.E.P. has presented are:

- Internationalizing the Secondary Curriculum
- Global Perspectives in the Elementary School Curriculum
- Central Themes and Key Resources for the Teaching of East Asia
- Chinese and Japanese Art - Content and Resources
- Teaching about China: themes and resources (elementary or secondary)
- Teaching about Japan: themes and resources (elementary or secondary)
- Teaching about Korea: themes and resources (elementary or secondary)
- The Geography of East Asia
- Chinese and Japanese Literature In the Classroom
- Chinese Folk Art and Folklore

For information on arranging a professional development workshop program in your school or district, please call our office at (203) 432-3429.

SUMMER INSTITUTE IN EAST ASIAN STUDIES

Each summer the East Asian Resource and Education Program offers an intensive institute on a topic in East Asian Studies. The institute is designed for teachers who teach at the secondary or community college level who wish to pursue the study of East Asia beyond what is possible at one or two-day professional development workshops. The institute is usually a two-week program conducted by Yale faculty, visiting faculty from other institutions, and the professional staff of the East Asian Resource and Education Program at Yale. C.E.U.'s or C.E.U. equivalents are awarded to successful participants of each institute. In the past, the East Asian Studies Summer Institute has been offered through the Connecticut State Department of Education's Institutes for Teaching and Learning (I.T.L.) which has paid all costs for Connecticut teachers and has awarded C.E.U.'s directly to the participants. Out-of-state teachers are welcome to apply for and to, upon acceptance, attend the summer institutes. On and off-campus accommodations are available to all participants.

Information and application materials for each summer's institute are available in February. Contact the East Asian Resource and Education Program in writing.
PROGRAMS AT YALE

In addition to on-site professional development programs, the East Asian Resource and Education Program sponsors occasional lectures, workshops, seminars, and conferences for educators at Yale. These programs are announced in the Yale Weekly Bulletin and Calendar, the local press, through special mailings, or in the Yale East Asia Newsletter.

C.E.U.'s

Yale is an authorized C.E.U. provider. The E.A.R.E.P. offers C.E.U.'s for participation in the programs at Yale.

CONFERENCE AND PROFESSIONAL MEETINGS

The Professional staff of the East Asian Education and Curriculum Program also presents workshops at state, regional, and national meeting of professional organizations such as the National Council on the Social Studies, the Association for Asian Studies, the American Forum, etc.
SCHOOL PROGRAMS

HIGH SCHOOL LANGUAGE PROGRAM

The Resource and Education Programs in International and Area Studies at Yale offer non-credit, after school language classes in uncommonly-taught languages for area high school students. The East Asian Resource and Education Program assists in offering classes in Chinese, Japanese and Korean. While class availability is subject to demand, the Resource and Education Program will also attempt to match a language student with a private tutor.

SPECIAL PROGRAMS IN SCHOOLS

The East Asian Resource and Education Program staff will assist any school in planning any in-depth or school-wide program on East Asia.

The East Asian Resource and Education Program will consult with any school system or school district in implementing a long-term East Asian studies or language curriculum. The East Asian Resource and Education Program is currently working with the New Haven, CT School District in running the New Haven-Yale International Studies Center, a language-intensive academic magnet program.

For school-wide programs, the East Asian Resource and Education Program can assist in identifying appropriate and unifying themes, arranging for speakers and presenters from Yale, arranging film screenings, and in identifying and booking performers. The staff will also work with the faculty in planning curriculum to compliment such a program. The East Asian Resource and Education Program at Yale has assisted schools in planning and implementing such programs as a school-wide CHINA WEEK for high schools and elementary schools.
PUBLICATIONS

CURRICULUM MATERIALS

The Resource and Education Program periodically produces curriculum materials for use in the pre-collegiate classroom. These materials, usually in the form of classroom units, are available for loan from the Resource Center Library (see next section) or may be ordered for a minimal fee to cover printing and postage. Please see the form in the back of this catalogue and watch the newsletter for information on new units.

BIBLIOGRAPHIES

The East Asian Resource and Education Program researches and produces bibliographies for teachers of Asian Studies which it makes available to educators for a minimum postage and printing fee. A list of the bibliographies currently available is found in the back of this catalogue.

Yale University East Asia Newsletter

The Resource and Education Program publishes an occasional newsletter. Each issue includes information on upcoming workshops, seminars, lectures, film series, cultural events, conferences, and resource materials for teachers.

SPECIAL EVENTS

Performing arts demonstrations, film series, lectures and other cultural events are sponsored by the Yale East Asian Resource and Education Program throughout the year. See the Yale Weekly Bulletin and Calendar or the Yale University East Asia Newsletter for details.
THE EAST ASIA A.V. RESOURCE CENTER & LIBRARY

The East Asian Resource and Education Resource Center, an integral component of the East Asian Resource and Education Program at Yale consists of a lending library of resource books, periodicals, curriculum units, resource guides, reference materials and a file of materials written by and for teachers, and an extensive collection of films, video-cassettes, multimedia units, records, tapes, artifacts kits, posters, maps, and pamphlets. The materials held by the East Asian Resource and Education Resource Center are available for loan to teachers, community group leaders or anyone who is planning an educational, cultural or business program on East Asia.

THIS CATALOGUE LISTS ONLY THE AUDIO-VISUAL ITEMS.

LIBRARY

The library currently holds 3000 catalogued items (books, curriculum units, lesson plans, textbooks, resource guides, etc.) in addition to journals, magazines, newsletters, and maps on East Asia. Print materials in the lending library, except for reference materials, are available for free, two-week loan. Resource Center users are asked to complete a "User Information Card" which is kept on file in the Resource Center, and to sign and date the library cards found in each item. Materials may be renewed by phone, provided they are not needed by another user. Although every effort is made to ensure that the office is open during hours convenient to teachers, it is best to call and make an appointment in advance.

AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS

Audio-visual materials are available for one week loan and artifact kits may be borrowed for two weeks. Because the materials are national resources and are in demand across the country, it is advisable to reserve them well in advance.

Materials may be picked up in person or will be shipped to the user, via UPS the week before the week reserved whenever possible.

Materials must be returned to our office in person or via UPS, Federal Express or a similar courier service INSURED for the FULL AMOUNT specified on the shipping notice, by the due date. A late fee of $15.00 per item will be assessed for items returned late. Materials may NOT be returned by U.S. Mail. The late fee will automatically be assessed for each item returned by any form of U.S. Mail (including U.S. "express" or "priority" mail). Persons who do not comply with this rule may be prohibited from borrowing additional materials from the Center and will be held personally responsible for the full replacement value of materials lost or damaged in the U.S. Mail.

Fees for maintaining, handling, insuring, and shipping our materials vary depending upon the materials and upon whether the request is prepaid or a purchase order is used. Each item in this catalogue has an inventory number. The letter following the hyphen indicates the shipping category. A small letter "e" following that letter indicates that the material comes in separate segments and that the shipping fees apply to each separate part.
For example:

CF001-A The Ancient Chinese: An Introduction

is shipping category "A". The shipping fee would be $15.00 within Connecticut and $18.00 out-of-state.

CM022-Fe Taiwan, Republic of China in Slide and Sound Series

is shipping category "F" for EACH unit of the series.

There is no charge for materials picked up in person and returned at the user's expense.

The Pacific Century is a series of programs which premiers on PBS beginning in early Fall 1992. The series of ten one-hour video programs provides students with vivid portrayals of the history, geography, politics, and culture of nine Asian states and nations. The videos form a riveting and practical resource for teachers and students studying history, geography, literature, and studio and performing arts in the context of U.S. as well as world studies. (Copies of the Resource Book, Pacific Century: The Emergence of Modern Asia, the teachers guide, and the study guide are available for loan through the East Asia Resource Center library).

As portrayed in The Pacific Century the history of the last 150 years of the Pacific Basin is a saga of vast changes, from colonialism to the emergence of the independent nations of Indonesia and Vietnam, from agricultural economies to the industrialization of Japan and Singapore, from ancient empires to the nascent democracies of South Korea and Taiwan.

THE VIDEOS

CV151-B The Two Coasts of China: Asia and the Challenge of the West
The Pacific Basin Institute, 1992.
1/2" VHS, 57 min.
Audience: secondary, adult.

East and West collide as Western merchants and military become increasingly active in the Pacific in the early 19th century.

JV152-B Meiji: Asia's Response to the West
The Pacific Basin Institute, 1992.
1/2" VHS, 57 min.
Audience: secondary, adult.

Japan is the first of the Asian nations to modernize and gain power on its own. China, beset by internal division and external challenges, cannot change quickly and loses its power and influence.
The lives of Indonesian leader Sukarno and Vietnamese revolutionary Ho Chi Minh reflect the nationalist movements in those former colonies of Western powers.

Profiles of Chinese writer Lu Xun and Japanese radical philosophers Kita Ikki reveal intellectuals who faced unflinchingly the traditional strengths and weaknesses of their countries.

The region is transformed in the wake of World War II as the United States and Japan cooperate and argue about Japan's future.

Japan's post-war economic miracle is defined in terms of Japanese political and industrial characteristics.

Cultural factors are used to explain the rapid Industrialization and prosperity of South Korea, Taiwan, and Singapore.

The rising expectations among Asian people for greater political freedom and self-determination are exemplified by the Republic of Korea.
United States involvement with the Philippines and China reflects paradoxical attitudes toward Asia.

New forms of interdependence in the region focus on the United States as a Pacific Nation.

The Pacific Century was produced by The Pacific Basin Institute in cooperation with KCTS-9/Seattle and NHK/Japan. Major funding was provided by the Annenberg/CPB Project. Additional funding comes from the Ford Foundation, the National Endowment for the Humanities, and the Henry M. Jackson Foundation. A generous contribution of published material was provided by The Asia Society and the East-West Center.

FILMS AND VIDEOS

♦ history

CF001-A The Ancient Chinese: An Introduction

International Films, Inc.
16 mm. color film, 25 minutes.
Audience: intermediate, secondary, and adult.

CV090-B The Ancient Chinese: An Introduction (video version)

International Films, Inc.
1/2" VHS, 25 minutes.

An introduction to China’s history and traditions. China’s earliest civilizations, the origins and legends of the Shang, Chou, Han, T’ang and Sung dynasties and crucial events in the lives of Confucious, Huang Ti, Marco Polo and the Mongol conquerors are included.

CF002-A The Forbidden City

Produced by Lucy Jarvis for NBC TV, 1973.
16 mm. color film, 43 minutes.
Audience: intermediate, high school, college, and adult.

A beautifully photographed tour of the Gu Gung, the palace of China’s emperors from 1411 to 1911 and now a unique museum of history and culture open to all the Chinese people. The film follows a Chinese family on a visit as they walk through the palace, personal chambers, gardens, and treasure house. The family’s tour is used as a vehicle for exploring Chinese history and attitudes towards the past. This was the first American documentary to be filmed in China after 1948.

THE GENIUS THAT WAS CHINA (series of four)

CV047-B Rise of the Dragon: The Genius That Was China

Nova Production, Coronet Film & Video, 1990.
1/2" VHS, 52 minutes, study guide.
Audience: secondary to adult.

China by the fourteenth century was the richest, most powerful, most technologically advanced civilization on earth. This program examines why ancient China was so far ahead of the Western World and why it lost its lead toward the end of the Song dynasty (960-1260 A.D.).
From the fifteenth to the eighteenth centuries, Europe underwent an extraordinary transformation propelled by a revolution in science and technology. European missionaries, followed by merchants, went to China but failed to persuade the Chinese of the superiority of the newly developing Western culture and technology.

In marked contrast to China, Japan was quick to embrace Western technology in the eighteenth century (and earlier). How did Japan adopt and adapt Western technology? This program examines the emergence of Japan as a world power, Japan's military incursions into China during the first half of this century, and Japan's leading economic role in the world today.
CV050-B Will The Dragon Rise Again: The Genius That Was China

Nova Production, Coronet Film & Video, 1990.
1/2" VHS, 52 minutes, study guide.
Audience: secondary to adult.

This program explores China’s latest attempt to regain its lost position as a technological civilization of the first rank and asks how the reemergence of political and intellectual controls since the Beijing massacre affect that possibility.

CHiNA IN REVOLUTION (series of two)

CV031-B Battle for Survival 1911-1936

Ambrica Productions, 1989
1/2" VHS, 58 minutes.
Audience: intermediate, secondary, adult

CV032-B Fighting for the Future 1936 - 1949

Ambrica Productions, 1989
1/2" VHS, 58 minutes.
Audience: intermediate, secondary, adult

Using rare, archival footage, stills, and live interviews with participants, these two films document the series of revolutions, wars, political and social upheavals which define the first half of the 20th century for China. The films were produced with the assistance and advice of such well-known scholars of China as Jonathan Spence and provide an excellent supplement to the study of contemporary China.

CV033-B Tragedy at Tiananmen

Nightline Special Report, 1989
1/2" VHS, 57 minutes.
Audience: intermediate, secondary, adult

Narrated by Ted Koppel, this film goes behind the scenes and documents the beginnings of the student demonstrations of the spring of 1989 which ended in the massacre of civilian residents of Beijing by People’s Liberation Army troops in early June.

CV087-B China After Tiananmen

1/2" VHS, 60 minutes.
Audience: Secondary, adult

The Frontline episode examines what has happened in China since the 1989 massacre at Tiananmen Square through interviews and visits in cities, back streets, and rural villages.
JV107-B Power in the Pacific 1: Dreams of China

PBS Video, 1990
1/2" VHS, 58 minutes
Audience: Secondary, adult

After World War II, the old Asian order was gone forever and the U.S. emerged as a predominant force in the Pacific arena. The U.S. placed its hopes on rebuilding China as a capitalist ally, but the rise to power of Mao Tse-tung and the Chinese Communist Party led to a series of U.S. policy decisions that have defined the present power structure in Asia.

CV034-B CHINA: The Long March

1/2" VHS, 48 minutes.
Audience: Intermediate, secondary, adult.

This film documents the historic 1934 retreat of the Red Army using rare documentary footage and contemporary explorations of the route. In addition to exploring the political and historical impact of the Long March, the film dramatically conveys the vastness of China.

CV014-B It's Right to Rebel

Films for the Humanities, Inc. 1986
1/2" VHS color videocassette, 20 minutes.
Audience: secondary, adult

A short documentary of the beginning of China's Cultural Revolution, this film consists entirely of news reel footage taken in China in 1966 by British journalists.

CV004-B-1 REMEMBERING see entry for The Heart of the Dragon, below.

1/2" VHS, 57 minutes.
Audience: secondary, college, adult.

Examines the significance of several great rulers in Chinese history.

CV025-B China and the Forbidden City

1/2" VHS, 60 mins.
Audience:secondary, adult.

A unique blend of journalism and film making by the first Westerner to film inside Communist China, providing a special insider's look at one of mankind's greatest treasures, the city of Peking and its civilization. (See description on The Forbidden City under FILMS, above).
CV005-B  China: A Class by Itself

NBC Ne...s/Murray Hill, 1979.
1/2" VHS color videocassette, 52 minutes.
Audience: Secondary and adult.

An overview of some of the changes which have taken place in China since Mao's death and Deng Xiaoping's rise to power.

CV006-B  China: Changes From Within

3/4" black and white videocassette, 25 minutes. Teacher's guide.
Audience: Secondary and adult.

Focuses on the social, economic, and political changes which have taken place in China since the death of Mao Zedong.

† geography

CV079-B Great Journeys: The Silk Road

Ambrose Video
1/2" VHS, 59 minutes
Audience: Secondary, adult

Leaving behind the image of rice fields and Communism, the writer Colin Thubron, discovers a people who are not native (Han) Chinese, but Muslim Turcomen - farmers and traders whose culture is almost Middle Eastern. It was these people who made the Silk Road work. From Xi'an to the Pamir Mountains and the Russian Border, Thubron uncovers the uneasy alliance between the Chinese and the Turcomen, whose cultures are worlds apart.

CV080-B Great Journeys: The Burma Road

Ambrose Video
1/2" VHS, 59 minutes
Audience: Secondary, adult

Author and journalist Miles Kington set out to find the old road that links Burma to China across a tortuous mountain route. Instead, he found the Burmese keen to deny its existence and the Chinese almost unaware of its presence. From Rangoon, Kington struck out by steamer to Mandalay. Along the way, he happened upon a temple Pwe - a half opera, half comedy show - the only show allowed in Burma's unique Buddhist socialist regime. Over the Chinese border, Kington finds an old village, bypassed by time itself.
CV077-B  Mongolia: On The Edge Of The Gobi

Films Incorporated Video, 1991
1/2" VHS, 52 minutes
Audience: Secondary, adult

Mongolia is a country the size of Western Europe with a population of only 1,500,000. On the great plains, the ancient skills of the Mongol horsemen contrast with the new methods of socialist revolution, which brought collective farming to the steppes.

CV076-B  Mongolia: The City On The Steppes

Films Incorporated Video, 1991
1/2" VHS, 52 minutes
Audience: Secondary, adult

Ulan Bator is Mongolia's capital city and the home of a quarter of its population. In this program, the city celebrates the 53rd anniversary of the revolution with parades, festivals, wrestling and archery contests, and one of the most remarkable horse races in the world.

THE SILK ROAD SERIES (series of six)

CV061-B  The Silk Road: Glories of Ancient Chang-an

Central Park Media, 1990
1/2" VHS, 55 minutes
Audience: Secondary, adult

The first of the series of six documenting a tour of the world's most inaccessible locations, this video takes the viewer to modern day Xi'an, the starting point of the Silk Road and the world's largest city during the Tang dynasty (7th c. A.D.). The first major co-production between China and the outside world, this series was ten years in the making.

CV062-B  The Silk Road: A Thousand Kilometers Beyond the Yellow River

Central Park Media, 1990
1/2" VHS, 55 minutes
Audience: Secondary, adult

In this, the second video in the panoramic series, the travellers leave Xi'an and travel across the Yellow River, through the He-xi corridor, skirt the Gobi and move on through Mongol country to Anxi (An-hsi).
CV063-B The Silk Road: The Art Gallery in the Desert

Central Park Media, 1990
1/2" VHS, 55 minutes
Audience: Secondary, adult

In this third segment of the six-part series, the viewer will tour the famous caves at Dun-Huang - 500 caves more than 30 miles in length with 3,000 Buddhist statues and murals. Dating from 366 A.D., and encompassing the art styles of Ancient Greece and India, these caves are a record of the migration of Buddhism into China.

CV064-B The Silk Road: The Dark Castle

Central Park Media, 1990

The second half focuses upon the diplomatic and economic pressure placed upon Japan prior to the attack on Pearl Harbor.

JV123-B To Die, To Live: The Survivors of Hiroshima

Films Incorporated, BBC 1982
1/2" VHS, 63 minutes
Audience: Secondary, adult

The dropping of the first atomic bomb on Hiroshima was one of the greatest single catastrophes human beings have ever inflicted on other human beings. This deeply moving program expresses the thoughts and feelings of the survivors of that tragedy, their guilt over being alive when their friends and families are dead, and the still-remaining danger of radiation effects.

JV125-B Hiroshima and Nagasaki: Was Truman's Decision to Use the Bomb Justified?

1/2" VHS, 20 minutes; teacher's guide
Audience: Intermediate, Secondary, adult

The study of the decision to drop the Atom Bomb on Hiroshima and Nagasaki provides a vehicle for students to learn many things about modern international relations. Political, scientific, economic, and oral issues are intertwined in such a way as to provide the student with many insights about how historical decisions are made.
After World War II, the old Asian order was gone forever and the U.S. emerged as a predominant force in the Pacific arena. The U.S. placed its hopes on rebuilding China as a capitalist ally, but the rise to power of Mao Tse-tung and the Chinese Communist Party led to a series of U.S. policy decisions that have defined the present power structure in Asia.

When the Allies dismantled the Japanese empire in 1945, the U.S. was determined to turn the resource-poor island nation into a western-style democracy, and later, as a bulwark against communism.

After Pearl Harbor, the U.S. vowed never again to be vulnerable to surprise attack. The entire Pacific defense was organized as Cinpac under the naval commander-in-chief. In the '50's and '60's, Cinpac was concerned with the containment of Communism, especially the events in China.

During the 1980's, the U.S.'s peacetime military spending soared while Japan concentrated on expanding its export empire. The U.S. first became concerned about Japan's economic muscle when the U.S. trade deficit with Japan reached 4 billion per month.

ARTIFACT KITS

GA001-X Ba Fa Ba Fa

Game with pieces and instructions.
Audience: upper secondary to adult.

A cross cultural simulation game that helps participants to understand the most effective ways to interact with other cultures. Players belong to one of two cultures, the alpha or beta, and each player visits and interacts with the other culture.

GA002-X Ra Fa Ra Fa

Game with pieces and instruction.
Audience: intermediate to lower secondary.

A cross cultural simulation game similar to Ba Fa Ba Fa, but designed for younger students.
GA004-X Star Power

Game with pieces and instruction.
Audience: intermediate to adult.

A powerful simulation in which students are introduced to the concept of unequal distribution of resources and power. May be used with the "Debriefing Star Power: China" guide by S.P.I.C.E. to teach about class distinctions in pre-revolutionary China. Also may be used to introduce the concept of developed and developing countries, or even separation of powers within the U.S. government.

GA003-X Where in the World: A World Awareness Game

Aristoplay, 1986.
Game with board, pieces, and instructions.
Audience: intermediate to adult.

A geography game with different levels of difficulty to increase the awareness of students about not only the names of countries, but also natural resources, languages, religions, and current events around the world.

GA005-X WORLD

Interact, 1975.
Teacher's guide, set of student booklets.
Audience: secondary

A simulation of how nations develop and become involved in power struggles.

GA006-H Youth for Understanding - Culture: Yours & Theirs (simulation activity kit)

Youth for Understanding & EAREP
11 student handouts, 24 plastic yellow lenses, 24 plastic blue lenses
Audience: Intermediate, secondary

An activity developed by Youth for Understanding introduces a "fable" about intercultural communication with a lesson on perceptions of other cultures and our own ingrained assumptions. An excellent introduction to the study of ANY other culture.

The libraries contain some Chinese medical journals and house the Peter Parker Collection of paintings by the mid-nineteenth century Cantonese artist, Lam Qua. The collection consists of 86 paintings of pathological clinical subjects. Lam Qua was an uncle of one of Parker's assistants who offered, without charge, the services of his studies to record many of Parker's more interesting cases.

Access to this collection is by special permission only.
The Divinity School's Day Mission Library is one of the largest collections of missions-related materials in the world. Numerous monographs, periodicals, reports, and pamphlets document the history and current activities of Christianity in Asia. Documentation related to China is most extensive, with printed materials being supplemented by the manuscript collection of the China Records Project. The China Records Project collections contain over 700 linear feet of materials dating from the 1830s to the present. Correspondence, diaries, minutes, writings, printed materials, photographs and artifacts document the work of over 250 missionaries and numerous educational institutions. The collections are described in detailed registers. The Library’s Archives and Manuscripts department also houses extensive microform collections documenting the work of organizations active in mission work throughout Asia.

Reference service is available Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. - 5:00 p.m. Photocopying machines are available. Reproduction of slides and photographs is available on a fee basis. The Library has primarily open stacks.

YALE UNIVERSITY LIBRARY PRIVILEGES

The University has developed a set of regulations governing the use of Yale libraries by Individuals not connected with Yale.

1. Library privileges are personal and individual. They may not be transferred to, or used on behalf of, other individuals. Application for privileges must be made in the Circulation Office of Sterling Memorial Library on Monday through Friday between 8:30 a.m. and 4:45 p.m.

2. Any adult who is not a student at another institution may use library materials within the building when they are not available in public libraries. There is no charge for this service, which is available through the Circulation Desk, Monday through Friday between 8:30 a.m. and 4:45 p.m.

3. Specific items may be made available to non-Yale undergraduate students for temporary use in the Reading Room when requested in writing by the student’s own college or university librarian. Books on reserve are not available.

4. Graduate students from other educational institutions may be granted the Reading Room privilege for one week each year without charge.

5. Stack privileges will be granted without charge to faculty members from other educational institutions outside a radius of 100 miles from New Haven who take up temporary residence in the Greater New Haven area for the specific purpose of using the Sterling Memorial Library. This privilege is limited to three months in any year.

Many categories of visitors are eligible to purchase library privileges. To discuss privileges, contact the Circulation Office, Sterling Memorial Library (432-1853).

International Studies Outreach Library Fellowship Program

The International Studies Outreach program at Yale offers a limited number fellowships which provide free use of the Yale Library system to educators and other professionals who work to enhance the awareness and understanding of international issues. Fellows may consult holdings dealing with international relations and area studies as well as enlist the assistance of Yale’s special librarians. Suitable projects include research leading to the development of teaching materials for students and/or other teachers or research leading to publication in topics such as international security, trade, human rights, environmental, and public health issues. For information, contact the International Studies Outreach at (203) 432-9713.
GALLERIES AND COLLECTIONS
The Art Gallery collections include medieval and Renaissance art, European and American art of the 17th and 18th centuries, American painting, sculpture, and decorative art, modern art, African and Pre-Columbian art, and East Asian Art.

EAST ASIAN ART COLLECTION
Fourth Floor
(203) 432-0629

Mary Gardner Neill, Curator
Edward Douglas, Curatorial Assistant

Yale University Art Gallery's Chinese collection is composed of outstanding ceramics, bronzes, jades, sculptures and paintings from the late Neolithic (3rd millennium B.C) to the Qing (Ch'ing) dynasty (1644-1912). An excellent group of several hundred woodblock cuts are the strength of the Japanese collection; these are supplemented by a choice selection of paintings, ceramics, and sculpture. Also notable is the textile collection which includes regal Chinese imperial garments, sumptuously decorated Japanese No robes, and fine floral shawls and saris from India.

East Asian Art exhibition catalogues are available for sale at the Sales Desk on the First Floor.

EDUCATION DEPARTMENT
(203) 432-0620

Janet S. Dickson, Curator of Education
Janet Gordon, Assistant Curator of Education

The Education Department encourages groups to visit the Gallery often. Groups may request talks on subjects represented in the Gallery's permanent collections or on materials shown in Special Exhibitions, which are held frequently. (continued next page)
The Gallery is able to offer a number of special tours using the materials in the East Asian Collection or related special exhibitions. Talks can be given for groups of eight or more persons. One lecturer can take no more than twenty-five people, and the Gallery can manage a maximum of seventy-five people at the same hour. Talks may be arranged on Tuesday through Friday from 9:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. A fee of twenty-five dollars is requested for each lecturer. New Haven public schools are free.

The Education Department loans out slide sets, sets of mounted photographs, and filmstrips, all of Asian art. Most plates are in color and explanations are attached. Slides of Chinese ceramics are also available. Please call the Education Department (432-0620) to make arrangements for borrowing any of the loan materials or for scheduling gallery visits.

Collection of Musical Instruments
15 Hillhouse Avenue
New Haven, CT 06520
(203) 432-0822

Richard Rephann, Director
Nicholas Renouf, Associate Curator
Susan Thompson, Assistant Curator

The Yale Collection of Musical Instruments is considered one of the world’s most important organological resources with respect to the history of Western European art music. Recently, the Collection has been enriched by development in its holdings of Asiatic, African and American instruments.

At present, the Yale collection comprises over 800 instruments, of which the great majority document Western European music tradition, especially the period from 1550 to 1850.

The collection has mounted exhibits featuring instruments from China and Japan and includes East Asian examples from the Robyna Neilson Collection of Bells. (The Ketchum Collection is composed primarily of non-European bells.)

The Musical Instruments Collection maintains permanent exhibits, sponsors a series of concerts, mounts special exhibits, and provides lecture/demonstrations and guided tours by appointment.

HOURS:
Tuesday - Thursday 1:00 p.m. - 4:00 p.m.

Closed during August and for holidays. Private tours are available by appointment and for a fee.
The Herbarium contains specialized collections of many native and foreign plants. Asian plants are not segregated per se, except insofar as they might fall together through evolution in Asia of certain phylogenetic groups. Similarly, the Botanical Garden has in its greenhouses a number of Asian plants, but they are not separated on that basis and individual inquiry would have to be made.

Neither facility is suitable for school tours, except when special exhibits are advertised. Staff would be happy to consider any special interests, and for that reason, visits are best made by advance appointment.
Activities at Yale

In its New Haven office, located on the Yale University campus, the Association maintains a small library of periodical literature on and from the PRC, which is available on a non-circulating basis, to Yale faculty, students and Association members. The President of the Association serves concurrently as a lecturer in the Department of Political Science, offering a seminar each year on contemporary Chinese politics and serving as a faculty adviser to majors in political science and East Asian studies.

The Association assists the university in receiving the more than one hundred students and scholars from the People’s Republic of China currently working at Yale. English language tutorials and counselling are arranged for those who need them. Counselling services are also provided for Yale students planning to study abroad in Hong Kong, Taiwan or the People’s Republic of China.
The Association of Chinese Students and Scholars at Yale (ACSSY) is a non-profit, service-oriented organization. ACSSY has more than two hundred members for the 89-90 academic year, most of them are from the People's Republic of China, and currently studying at Yale University. Special membership is also available to the Yale - New Haven community.

There is no membership fee charged. ACSSY is operated based on volunteer service and donation campaigns. The Administrative Board, which is re-elected by ACSSY General Assembly in every May, consists of one President, one Vice-President, and a number of committee members. ACSSY also invites individuals and organizations to its Advisory Board.

The biweekly "An Evening of Chinese Arts" featuring Chinese movie and video screening highlights the regular activities that ACSSY has been organizing. There are clubs of soccer ball, volleyball, and biomedical sciences, etc. ACSSY also provides lectures and seminars on China to local high schools and other communities.
