This curriculum module contains materials for conducting a course designed to build oral and written English skills for nonnative speakers. The course focuses on increasing vocabulary, improving listening/speaking skills, extracting information from various written texts (such as memos, notes, business forms, manuals, letters), and developing writing skills, and learning to communicate on self-directed teams and with supervisors. The following materials are included: course rationale, list of preliminary goals and objectives, instrument to assess participants' needs for training in oral communication skills, list of job-related idioms, information on cross-cultural dialogues in the workplace, 36 lesson plans, learning activities, and self-evaluation and peer review checklists. Each lesson plan contains a statement of the grammar, social, job-related language and literacy, and/or cross-cultural skills covered in the lesson and detailed instructions for conducting journal entry, cross-cultural, ice-breaker, and other types of oral and written activities. Most lesson plans also call for introducing an idiom of the day and completing an evaluation form. (MN)

INTRODUCTION

The Workplace Classroom is a set of 11 curriculum modules created by workplace educators from Pikes Peak Community College in collaboration and partnership with employees of Current, Inc., a large greeting card company in Colorado Springs, Colorado. The partnership was formed through an 18-month federal workplace research and development grant from the United States Department of Education awarded to the Colorado Community College and Occupational Education System. Teachers in the project designed, developed and field-tested curricula and materials for the 11 basic skills courses through the process of identifying and understanding the culture of the workplace and the learning needs of the individuals working within it.

The Pikes Peak staff chose not to rely on ready-made materials or programmed texts with which to teach classes. Instead, teachers and curriculum specialists interviewed employees, created job profiles, developed customized assessments, and invited student participation in the development of class content. The result is a unique set of curriculum modules in learning to learn, reading, writing, communication, problem solving, English as a second language, math and algebra that reflect learning needs of real people in a large printing/manufacturing environment. These modules were designed as six week, two hour classes, but the learning rationale and intentions could easily be modified to accommodate longer or shorter sessions.

The idea of following a design process involving the active and continuous commitment and participation of the employee and the employer provides a fresh look at the development of curricula and instruction. The goal of this process is to develop a curriculum product that enhances the basic literacy skills of adults and increases critical thinking and problem solving skills that are easily transferred to occupational improvement. The Pikes Peak staff felt that the best way to reach this goal was to involve employees and employers in the many levels of curriculum development and design.

We believe that these curriculum products are genuine reflections of sound adult learning theory that says adults must have relevant learning experiences that build on prior knowledge and in some way advance positive change in their daily work lives. These modules were built through the active participation and assessment of the adult students for whom they were designed. Those of us who developed these products encourage other workplace educators to use them in part or as complete modules, keeping in mind that their very design welcomes the change and diversity that other workplace environments are sure to lend to them. We feel that the authenticity of our curricula will provide ideas and incentive to other teachers and curriculum specialists who are beginning new programs or are looking for ways of improving existing curricula.

Best of luck with any or all of the Workplace Literacy Modules.

DEVELOPING COMMUNICATION IN THE WORKPLACE FOR NON-NATIVE ENGLISH SPEAKERS

INTRODUCTION

This curriculum module was designed to accommodate the identified learning needs of the non-native English-speaking employees of our business partner. Goals and Objectives were initially created to target objectives identified in the task analyses done by management at our business partner. Additional objectives were added to meet the learners' expressed needs and expectations. This curriculum was presented in one ongoing 30-week course which was divided into five 6-week sessions. It can be easily adapted to Beginning and Intermediate levels.

Supplementary materials and resources were adapted from the texts listed in the Bibliography and created by the instructor on an as-needed basis. Lesson Plans cite the texts used for a particular lesson.

EFFECTIVE COMMUNICATION
IN THE WORKPLACE
FOR NON-NATIVE SPEAKERS

RATIONALE:

It was the initial intent of this class to offer to the participants a program of ESL instruction driven by a basic academic curriculum and sensitive to job-related language/literacy needs. Affective instruction in interpersonal/social skills and Cross-Cultural sensitivity was interwoven when relevant to the curriculum and feedback of the participants. Writing and pronunciation practice were a regular part of each class period on a planned and "as-needed" basis.

Although goals and objectives were established for this 30-week ESL program and incorporated in the lesson plans, the course of the program soon took on a life of its own and fostered an interesting set of dynamics among the participants. This quickly led to the initial goals and objectives being evaluated and redefined, or, on occasion, ignored. In the first session, I continually revised the lesson plans to not only shape, but to fit the actual development of a particular class period. As the sessions continued, it seemed pointless to keep writing more lesson plans but to use those initially developed for a particular session and to continue with that lesson plan through successive class periods until accomplished. The evaluations of each class period reflect this procedure. Therefore, there will not necessarily be a separate lesson plan for each class period.

As the course developed, new activities were included as the needs and skills of the participants warranted: idioms, resume development, correction of journal entries, and dictations.

The success of this program lies not in the carefully laid out goals and objectives or the tailored lesson plans, but in the unwavering eagerness of the participants to learn and the unique class dynamics as they bonded with one another and generated their own peer-tutoring style. Additionally, the success of this program is simply measured by the strong desire of the participants for its continuation.

   2. Read a work schedule.
   3. Handle work schedule problems.

H. Demonstrate competency in workplace problem solving.
   1. Apologize and give explanation for a mistake.
   2. Demonstrate proper procedure for reporting accidents.
   3. Give and accept constructive criticism.

I. Present brief speeches on job-related topics.

J. Demonstrate correct form for writing peer reviews.

III. Students will demonstrate oral and written competency in basic English grammatical structures.

By the end of the course, students will:

A. Use the simple present, present progressive, simple past, past progressive, and future tenses correctly.

B. Ask and respond to yes/no and information questions in the tenses studied.

C. Correctly use prepositions of time and place.

D. Use the comparative form of adjectives and adverbs.

E. Use nouns, determiners, subject/object pronouns, and possessive pronouns, and modals appropriately in sentences.

F. Correctly use negative forms of tenses under study.
G. Write simple sentences and paragraphs.
H. Participate in guided and free discussions incorporating new vocabulary and grammatical structures under study.

IV. Students will develop an awareness of and a sensitivity to cross-cultural assumptions and expectations that effect workplace communication.

By the end of this course, students will:

A. Develop basic knowledge about dialectical differences and listen to them for greater understanding.
B. Demonstrate appropriate interactions with supervisors and coworkers relative to cross-cultural expectations and assumptions.
C. Recognize appropriate interactions between male and female coworkers specifically regarding physical proximity and contact.
D. Demonstrate acceptable ways of making suggestions and clarifying misunderstandings.
E. Identify when, how, and of whom to ask questions.
F. Demonstrate appropriate ways of giving and receiving feedback.
G. Interpret and appropriately respond to anger or displeasure.
H. Demonstrate acceptable ways of taking initiative.
I. Develop basic knowledge and use of job-related idioms and proverbs.
My name is _______ and I teach English as a Second Language at Pikes Peak Community College. I will be teaching an English as a Second Language course for non-native speakers employed at Current, Inc. I would like to ask you some questions to help determine your language needs and design an appropriate English language course. Answering these questions is voluntary. If you feel uncomfortable answering a question, please let me know. Your answers will be confidential.

1. What is your name?
2. What country were you born in?
3. What is your first language?
4. How long have you been in the US?
5. What was the highest level of education you completed in your country?
   _____ None _____ Elementary School _____ High School _____ College (1 2 3 4)
6. Describe any formal English instruction you had in your country before you came to the US.
7. Please describe any English as a Second Language instruction you've had since you came to the US? (private tutoring, formal schooling, community education ESL classes, workplace training, etc)
8. What is your job area? ________________ Describe your specific job.
9. According to your interest form, you have indicated that you would like to gain skills in ________________. What is it specifically that you want to improve in these areas?
10. How will improvement in these areas affect your job performance?
11. Please describe any job or career goals that you have which would need higher English skills.

12. M/W 1:30-3:00; 4:00-5:30 T/Th 1:30-3:00; 4:00-5:30

EVALUATION:

____ Employee understood questions and articulated appropriate answers using correct grammar and was easily understood by interviewer.

____ Employee understood questions with occasional need for rephrasing; articulated answers with some pronunciation/grammatical mistakes which did not impede communication.

____ Employee had difficulty in understanding questions; required much rephrasing and guidance from interviewer; answers somewhat incomplete and difficult to understand (pronunciation/grammar).

____ Employee was not able to understand or sufficiently answer questions; interview was a strain for both interviewer and interviewee.

CROSS-CULTURAL DIALOGUES FROM THE WORKPLACE
(Cross-Cultural Dialogues, by Craig Storti)

22, 39  Cultural differences in taking risks
23  Singling out the individual from the group for recognition
21, 24, 43  Personal substance vs. technical know-how
25, 42  Task-at-hand vs. "The Family"
26, 27, 33, 35, 40, 45, 47  Respect for "one's place"; status of supervisor/subordinate
28  Honoring dedication over lack of productivity
29  Thinking vs. production
30, 37  "Doing" vs. "Being"; Promotions/Progress seen differently
20, 31, 38, 48  Saving "Face" and missing cultural cues
32  Performance evaluation and its perception
34  Subordinates

Use these to facilitate discussion about inherent cultural differences and those similar situations which have appeared in workplace experience. Draw as much information and conjecture from Ss as possible without telling them what the obvious differences are until they seem stymied. Teach them to look for clues and to be sensitive to cultural cues.

Justification for these dialogues: will sharpen recognition of our own culture's values about work, progress, time, family, etc. Until these are clearly understood as they are juxtaposed to other cultural responses in similar situations, those other cultural responses will not be anticipated, acknowledged, or tolerated.
EFFECTIVE COMMUNICATION IN THE WORKPLACE
FOR NON-NATIVE SPEAKERS

OBJECTIVES FOR SESSION I

At the BEGINNING of the Session: Please circle where you think you are in your understanding and use of these objectives in the workplace. At the END of the Session: Please put an "X" where you think you are in your use of these objectives in the workplace.

1 = "I don't understand at all and I cannot do/use"
10 = "I completely understand and easily do/use correctly"

I. Social Skills and Interpersonal Communication
- Introduce yourself and others in informal settings
- Describe your current occupation
- Express your lack of understanding or you desire for clarification
- Interact with co-workers using appropriate "small-talk" topics

II. Job-related language and literacy
- Describe your educational background
- Know the difference between education, work experience, and work attitude.
- Respond to personal questions in a job interview

III. Basic English grammatical structures
- Understand and correctly use Simple Present Tense
- Understand and correctly use Present Continuous Tense
- Understand and correctly use Simple Past Tense
- Understand and correctly use negative forms of these three tenses
- Write simple sentences
- Participate in discussions using the above grammatical structures

IV. Cross-cultural sensitivity
- Identify when, how, and of whom to ask questions
- Interpret and correctly respond to anger or displeasure
- Understand and correctly use job-related idioms

LESSON #1

Grammar: Simple Present Tense 1st person
Interpersonal/Social Skills: Learning about one another and giving personal information
Job-related Language and Literacy: Talking about one another's job; use of "Current Word Search" game
Cross-Cultural:

I. Introductions and overview of course

II. Do "Current" Word Search while filling out IIP's and reviewing what has already been filled in

III. Explain PPCC's portfolio policy and use
     Explain journal entries and form
     Explain evaluation form and procedure
     Fill out Participant Data Sheets
     Fill out 4 x 6 information cards

IV. Ice-Breaker/M&M Game

Objective: Ss will use Simple Present Tense by making factual statements about themselves in complete sentences relative to M&M color-prompted categories

Method: Ss will take a handful of M&M's from a bag. Per the number and colors of M&M's in hand, Ss will generate information statements relative to the color-coded categories listed below:

Red: age, children, or anything else personal
Green: native language, anything about your country
Orange: something you do everyday
Yellow: something about your job
Lt. Brown: hobbies, what you do for fun and recreation
Dark Brown: opinions about anything

Grammar: Review Simple Present: Routine, Facts, Opinions, General Statements
          Yes/No Question formation with verb "To Be"
Job-Related language and literacy: Description of tasks
Interpersonal and Social Skills: Small Talk about one another’s jobs
Cross-Cultural:

I. Journal Entry: Write some sentences repeating what you said in the last lesson about yourself—personal information.

II. Review Simple Present Tense: Verb "To Be", other verbs
   A. Yes/No question formation with verb "To Be"
   B. Review contractions with verb "To Be"/Don’t, Doesn’t
   C. Review use of Simple Present, 3rd person/singular
      1. Yes/No question formation with "do/does"

III. Working In English Chapter 2, pg. 14-17—practice and review Simple Present /question formation
     A. Ss ask and answer questions about jobs at Current.
     B. Ss stress Simple Present’s use with Routine, Opinions, General Statements, and

LESSON #5

Grammar: Present Continuous
Interpersonal/Social Skills: Small Talk with someone you don't know
Job-Related Language/Literacy: Small Talk "on the job"/idiom
Cross-Cultural: Declining to answer personal questions/communication: repair

I. Journal Entry: Choose 5 adjectives of emotion and use the following patterns:
"I'm __________ when I (SPT) _____________________."
"I feel __________ when I (SPT) _____________________."

II. Personal Questions

A. In pairs, go through 3 sets of dialogue in WIE, pp. 9-10

B. Ss find someone to interview in a similar fashion that they don't know—
Pretend your partner is sitting at a table in the cafeteria at work
1. Put possible "small talk" topics on the board: weather, job, workplace project, food in cafeteria, etc.
2. Cross-Cultural: Read Cross-cultural info in Active Listening, pp36-37; "What are appropriate topics?" "What aren't?"

C. If questions are too personal: "I don't feel comfortable answering that."
   "I'd prefer not answering that."
   "That's too personal."
   Repair: "OK!"
   "Oh, excuse me."
   "I'm sorry.

III. Introduction of Present Continuous Tense

A. Be + ing; used for NOW activities or any currently on-going activities over a period of time that includes the present
B. Use of "Present continuous" pictures from picture file or magazine; ask Ss, "What is/are _________ doing?"
   1. Ss answer using contracted form of "Be"
   2. ?'s can also be contracted, "What's he/she doing?"; "What're they..."

IV. Idiom

V. Evaluation Form
Grammar: Contrast Present Continuous Tense with Simple Present Tense
Interpersonal/Social Skills: Classroom clarification strategies (AL, p.3)
Job-Related Language/Literacy: Identify when, how, and of whom to ask questions
Cross-Cultural:

I. Journal Entry: Pretend you're in the lunch room at work right now. What are you doing? (PCT), What do you see? (SPT), What can you hear? (SPT), What can you smell? (SPT), What are other people doing? (PCT)

II. Clarification strategies in the classroom: AL, p.3 (copy attached)
   A. Discuss statements on p. 3 and appropriate answers
   B. Ss answer questions in "Culture Corner"

III. Contrast Simple Present Tense with Present Continuous Tense
   A. WIE, p. 35
   B. Verbs that do not appear with Present Continuous Tense:
      hear (vs "listen to")      see (vs "look at")

LESSON #7

Grammar: Negative Contractions
Contrast Simple Present w/ Present Continuous Tense using "Wh" questions (do/does and is/are)

Interpersonal/Social Skills:
Job-Related Language/Literacy: Identify managerial terms used in workplace
Cross-Cultural: Identify when, how, and of whom to ask questions

I. Journal Entry: What are the questions you would like to ask the President of your company?

II. Cross-Cultural—examples
   A. Voluntary sharing of journal questions.
      1. Would you really be able to ask these questions of the President?
      2. What are the kinds of questions that culture keeps us from asking certain people?

III. When, how, and of whom to ask questions—"chain of command"
   A. You're checking your time card. Something is wrong with your pay. To whom do you go?
   B. You're having a problem with your supervisor. To whom do you take the problem.
   C. Workplace "Chain of Command": President, Vice President, Department Heads, Team Managers, Area Facilitator/Coordinator, Leads (Supervisor, Boss, Manager, Crew chief, etc.)
      1. Elicit "Wh" questions while discussing what each of these do
      2. Contrast SPY with PCT in question formation using "Who", "What", "Where" and "When"

IV. Review of Contractions/Introduction of Negative contractions
   A. Simple Present Tense/Negative
   B. Simple Past Tense/Negative
   C. Oral review of negative contractions. Questions which elicit short answers using negative contractions.

V. Idiom

VI. Evaluation
Grammar: Using "time words and phrases", elicit Simple Present, Simple Past, and Present Continuous Tenses from Ss
Interpersonal/Social Skills:
Job-Related Language/Literacy:
Cross-Cultural:

I. Journal Entry: Using any of the tenses we've studied so far, write anything you want.

II. Introduce time expressions: yesterday, now, today, last evening, last month, last year, last Thursday, this morning, this month, this year, in the morning, in the evening, in the afternoon, at night, etc.

LESSON PLAN #18

Grammar: Difference between "different from" and "the same as"
   Introduce Present Perfect Tense; use of since, for, and ago

Interpersonal/Social Skills:

Job-Related Language/Literacy: Describe similarities and differences in jobs and supervisors/coworkers

Cross-Cultural: appropriate descriptions for people (AL "Culture Corner", p.31)

I. Journal Entry: Using at least 5 of the time expressions on the board, write a paragraph about anything that you want. Use the correct tenses. The sentences must relate to one another.

II. Introduction of Present Perfect Tense
   A. Contrast with Simple Past Tense—completed action
   B. Used for activity begun in the past and continued into present
      1. with since—indicates a specific point in time
      2. with for—indicates a period of time
      3. contrast with ago
   C. Answers question "How long?"
   D. Read WIE, p. 170
      1. Do "Practice" WIE pg. 171

II. Cross-Cultural: The way we describe people is sometimes based on culture. For example, in Thailand, when you tell a middle-aged man, "You look a little fat," it has a good meaning. It means, "You must be doing well and have a lot of food." In the United States and Canada, the meaning is bad: "You are eating too much and not taking care of yourself." What kind of descriptions have good meanings in your culture? Bad meanings?

III. Introduction of "_________ is different from_________"; "_________ is the same as_________". Add "because". Add a reason.
   A. Use Active Listening, pp 30, 32-33: Work in pairs and identify the similarities and differences
      1. "The writing on this Tee shirt is different from the writing on this Tee shirt because the letters are changed."
