This guide, quite specific to one institution, was developed as a companion document to the University of Alabama Libraries Tenure Document. It interprets and supplements the University of Alabama "Faculty Handbook" requirements for promotion. Some of the differences in performance and effectiveness between regular teaching faculty and librarians are addressed. Appropriate research, publication, creative activity, and scholarly achievement are outlined in detail for each rank. General remarks suggest appropriate timing for application for promotion to a potential candidate. The "Timeline for Promotion and Tenure" was prepared to more adequately reflect the time needed for the process of promotion and its calendar overlap with the tenure process. "Documentation for Promotion" serves as a checklist for the promotion dossier. An appropriate format to use in requesting letters of support for a promotion candidate is suggested in the document "Request for Promotion Support Letters." Promotion Guidelines for Academic Librarians at the University of Alabama: Criteria and Procedures

Donna R. Hogan

Criteria and Standards for Promotion was developed as a companion document to the University of Alabama Libraries Tenure Document. It interprets and supplements the University of Alabama Faculty Handbook requirements for promotion and is approved by the libraries faculty, dean, and provost of the university.

This document addresses some of the differences in performance and effectiveness between regular teaching faculty and librarians. Appropriate research, publication, creative activity, and scholarly achievement are outlined in detail for each rank. General remarks suggest appropriate timing for application for promotion to a potential candidate.

The dossier, including supporting documents, represents the candidate for promotion. Its importance cannot be overemphasized. The dossier must be clear, complete, well-documented, and well-organized. Documentation for Promotion serves as a checklist for the promotion dossier. Here, the candidate is provided with appropriate sections of the Faculty Handbook, and an explanation of each of the items listed in the contents of the dossier. Where possible, the appropriate procedures and responsibilities are specified in order to clarify the process.

Timeline for Promotion and Tenure was prepared to more adequately reflect the time needed for the process of promotion and its calendar overlap of the tenure process. This document is specific to the Libraries and agrees with the Timeline published in the Faculty Handbook.

The fourth document, Request for Promotion Support Letters, suggests an appropriate format to use in requesting letters of support for a candidate for promotion. The type of request, with the enclosures indicated, will both assist the requestor and elicit a timely response from the references.

The University of Alabama Libraries Faculty Organization Promotion Committee is defined in its Bylaws. Suggested Promotion Committee Procedures is an outline of the process and timeline of the promotion committee, which is initiated when the personnel officer receives a promotion candidate's dossier. The document reflects current practice and is subject to adjustment, depending upon the number and rank of the candidates for promotion.

Criteria and Standards for Promotion

A faculty member usually completes at least four years in rank before being considered for promotion from Assistant Professor to Associate Professor or from Associate Professor to Professor; consequently, candidates normally do not apply for promotion before their fifth year in rank. Many librarians enter the university at the instructor level, however. If appropriate academic credentials and performance can be demonstrated, the librarian at the instructor rank is encouraged to apply for promotion sooner than the fifth year.

A. Promotion from Instructor to Assistant Professor

To merit promotion to the rank of Assistant Professor, candidates must possess a strong record of performance at the Instructor rank.

1. A successful candidate must present convincing evidence of good performance and effectiveness as a librarian; each candidate’s record must be judged sufficient in quality to demonstrate continuing and substantial progress toward an outstanding level of performance.

   The candidate should be a fully contributing member of the department.

2. A successful candidate must present a record of research, publication, creative activity, and scholarly achievement appropriate to his/her discipline and fields of specialization; this record must be sufficient in both quantity and quality to demonstrate the potential for progress toward an outstanding level of performance.

   The Faculty Handbook provides many examples of appropriate types of scholarly and professional contributions (p. 21). Contributions at this rank may be made at the local, state, regional or national levels. The candidate should provide evidence of beginning a record in one or more of the following, or a combination:

   a. Presentation of papers at conferences, workshops, etc.

   b. Service as a contributing member of an appropriate professional or scholarly association.

   c. Publication of articles in appropriate journals or newsletters.

Note: The term "local" does not include programs, organizations, or publications sponsored by the University of Alabama Libraries; these contributions usually are regarded as citizenship.
3. Each successful candidate must show evidence of a continuing record of responsible academic citizenship appropriate to the candidate’s area.

B. Promotion from Assistant Professor to Associate Professor

To merit promotion to the rank of Associate Professor, candidates must possess a strong record of performance at the Assistant Professor rank.

1. A successful candidate must present convincing evidence of good performance and effectiveness as a librarian; each candidate’s record must be judged sufficient in quality to demonstrate continuing and substantial progress toward an outstanding level of performance.

   The candidate should provide evidence of leadership in strengthening or improving library service. Examples include, but are not limited to, developing new policy or procedures, introducing or adapting information technologies to enhance access to information, initiating new types of service.

2. A successful candidate must present a strong, continuing record of productive research, publication, creative activity, and scholarly achievement appropriate to his/her discipline and fields of specialization; this record must be sufficient in both quantity and quality to demonstrate substantial progress toward an outstanding level of performance.

   The Faculty Handbook provides many examples of appropriate types of scholarly and professional contributions (p. 21). Contributions at this rank should be at the regional or national level. The candidate should provide evidence of a strong, continuing record in one or more of the following, or a combination:

   a. Presentation of papers at conferences, workshops, etc.

   b. Service as a contributing member, committee chair, or officer of an appropriate professional or scholarly association.

   c. Publication of articles in appropriate journals.

3. Each successful candidate must show evidence of a continuing record of responsible academic citizenship appropriate to the candidate’s area.
C. Promotion from Associate Professor to Professor

To merit promotion to the rank of Professor, candidates must possess a strong record of performance at the rank of Associate Professor.

1. A successful candidate must present convincing evidence of outstanding performance and effectiveness as a librarian; each candidate's record must be judged sufficiently consistent in quality to warrant the expectation of continued performance at this level.

   The candidate should provide evidence of setting a standard for excellence in librarianship.

2. A successful candidate must present an outstanding record of productive research, publication, creative activity, and scholarly achievement appropriate to his/her discipline and fields of specialization; this record must be sufficiently consistent in both quantity and quality to warrant the expectation of continued performance at this level.

   The Faculty Handbook provides many examples of appropriate types of scholarly and professional contributions (p. 24). Contributions at this rank should be at the national or international level. The candidate should provide evidence of an outstanding record in one or more of the following, or a combination:

   a. Presentation of papers at conferences, workshops, etc.

   b. Service as a contributing member, committee chair, or officer of an appropriate professional or scholarly association.

   c. Publication of articles in appropriate journals.

DOCUMENTATION FOR PROMOTION

It is extremely important that each candidate for promotion prepare and present for evaluation a complete, well-organized, well-documented, and clear application file (dossier). A binder and dividers will be provided by the Libraries' personnel officer, together with the "Recommendation for Promotion" form. All work referred to in the dossier should be available upon request. Review Section VI. Preparation of Dossiers; Subsequent Additions, pp.30-31, Faculty Handbook.

Contents

1. Letter of Transmittal
   The letter of transmittal states that the dossier is provided by the candidate. It serves as a letter of permission by the candidate for the promotion committee and others to review the dossier.

2. Completed "Recommendation for Promotion" form.
   This is an application form provided by the University. Items 1-8 and 19 should be completed. Items 9-18 may be completed by stating "see curriculum vitae attached." Signatures will be added later in the process.

3. Dean's Promotion Recommendation
   Dean will add last, prior to sending dossier to Academic Affairs.

4. Assistant/Associate Dean's Promotion Recommendation (where applicable).
   In the case of promotion of a department head, submit promotion dossier to the assistant/associate dean. The letter from the assistant/associate dean will be submitted before the Promotion Committee considers the dossier. Otherwise, the recommendation is added after the Promotion Committee reviews the dossier.

5. Promotion Committee's Recommendation
   No other documentation may be added to the dossier after the committee has reviewed it.

6. Department Head's Promotion Recommendation (where applicable)

7. Unit Head's Promotion Recommendation (where applicable)

8. Current curriculum vitae
   The arrangement and format of the vitae (resume) is an individual decision. However, information should be arranged in a manner which allows the reader to assess the candidate's qualifications for promotion according to the U of A Faculty Handbook and the Libraries' guidelines. The reader should be able to distinguish between publications which are invited, refereed, or non-refereed.

9. Promotion Support Correspondence
Letters from colleagues/evaluators should be requested. The letters serve as evidence of contributions in any of the areas in the promotion guidelines. Letters for candidates for promotion to Assistant Professor may be internal or external. Letters for other candidates should be primarily from outside the University community and should reflect national and regional involvement of the candidate. The number of letters is determined in part by the nature of the activities cited by the candidate. The request for these letters is initiated by the department head and should be returned to the department head for inclusion in the dossier. The department head is invited to use the form letter for requesting promotion support letters. A copy of the candidate's vitae should be enclosed with the request, together with a copy of the promotion guidelines. The evaluation letters are treated as confidential and will be added to the dossier without the candidate seeing them.

10. Summary Activity Report (OPTIONAL)
The report should include important professional milestones and may show the progression of responsibility, leadership, etc. since the last promotion.

11. Support Documentation
This section includes a representative sample of work drawn from publications since the last promotion. Include a copy of the title page and front matter of each monograph and a copy of each article. In the case of a presentation or other creative activity, provide appropriate pages from the program to show the scope and nature of the activity, if available. Other documentation may be included at the discretion of the candidate.

12. Letter of Appointment/Subsequent Promotion Recommendations
Specific salary information should be deleted. If the candidate has moved through the ranks at UA, a copy of formal promotion notification(s) should be included.

Those statements shall be retained in the Personnel Office.

12. It is suggested that a signature line be prepared for each participating faculty member. If for some reason the faculty member is unavailable to sign the letter, the phrase "signature not available" shall be printed on the signature line.

13. When all signatures have been obtained, but no later than the due date stated in the timeline, the letter shall be turned over to the personnel officer who shall add the original to the dossier and send a copy to the candidate.

14. The chair shall notify committee members of any rebuttal letter received within three days, a copy of which may be read in the Personnel Office. The committee should meet to review the rebuttal, formulate a response and inform the candidate in writing (see Faculty Handbook).
