The Florida Library Youth Program is an extension of the Florida Summer Library Program. Many libraries have wanted to provide programs for school-age children at times other than the traditional summer vacation, and this guide responds to their needs. The theme, "Once Upon a Tale," focuses on folklore, stories, and storytelling. The program is designed primarily for elementary school age children, and its purpose is to encourage library use for leisure and continued learning when school is not in session. The emphasis is recreational, and the focus is on reading and sharing, rather than on the number of books read. Sample public service promotional announcements and a school visit script are included. Stories are arranged in 10 sections, each with complementary activities and a bibliography. The story sections are: Family Tales, Fantastic Tales, Fractured Tales, Jump Tales, Knock Three Time, Naughty Tales, Perplexing Tales, Swallow Tales, Tall Tales, and Trickster Tales. A combined bibliography of 254 items repeats the titles in each section and gives price information as of 1994. A program evaluation form is included. (SLD)

Dear Youth Librarian:

Once again, the State Library of Florida is happy to administer and provide direction for the Florida Library Youth Program, formerly known as the Summer Library Program. This long-running program remains vigorous and progressive through your efforts and support.

We at the State Library of Florida are aware of the important role you play in developing a love of reading and books in the young people of our state. We can accomplish this goal, along with our more urgent goal of promoting literacy by our continued involvement in the Florida Library Youth Program. Without your dedication, this program, funded by the Library Services and Construction Act, would not be the success it is.

As we continue our second quarter century of service through this program, I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for your fine efforts to provide a varied, quality program of library service to the youth of the Sunshine State and to encourage you and your staff to participate fully in this year’s program. It is through your efforts that the State Library of Florida was awarded a John Cotton Dana Library Public Relations Award in June 1994 for "the successful completion of the Silver Summer Scrapbook summer reading program featuring colorful graphics and promotional materials that supported flexible programming at the community level."

Thank you again for your continued excellent work on behalf of the children of Florida.

Sincerely,

Barratt Wilkins
State Librarian

INTRODUCTION

Welcome to the 1995 Florida Library Youth Program. This Program is an extension of the highly successful and long running Florida Summer Library Program. Every year as we evaluate the past year’s program, we look towards the future and seek ways to make this Program responsive to the trends and developments that public libraries face in serving youth.

For the past several years, we have been hearing that youth librarians in many areas of the state were trying to respond to the need to provide programs for school-age children at times other than the traditional summer vacation. Many counties were experimenting with year-round schools and public libraries needed to be able to provide programs similar to the successful Summer Library Program at other times of the year. Thus, the idea of the Florida Library Youth Program was born.

While this is not really new, the Florida Library Youth Program, by removing the word “Summer” from the promotional materials, provides local libraries with the added flexibility of being able to use the promotional materials year round.

Our theme this year, Once Upon a Tale, focuses on folklore, stories, and storytelling. The Florida Library Youth Program Planning Committee and the children’s librarians in Collier County who have compiled this manual and will be presenting the staff development and training workshops that are an integral part of the Program, have created a flexible program that will allow each library to deliver the appropriate level of service for their patrons and clients.

BASIC PHILOSOPHY - Our basic philosophy and goals remain the same as in previous years. We want children to learn about the library and the services it offers, to understand that there is a wealth of information and fun waiting for them in a friendly, encouraging atmosphere. Especially during school breaks and vacation periods, we want the experience to be relaxing, pleasurable, and free of stress. For that reason, we downplay numbers of books read. "How many" is not nearly as important as "how good." No prizes should be given for number of books read unless it is an agreed upon contract between child and librarian. We want children to share books and stories in the company of others and discover the satisfaction of reading alone, or being read to. That’s why we have group programs and individual guidance.

AGE AND ABILITY LEVELS - The Florida Library Youth Program is designed primarily for elementary school age children. Its purpose is to encourage library use for leisure and continued learning during the weeks that school is not in session. The Program tends to be recreational rather than educational in nature. This is more a matter of emphasis rather than a true difference in content. The Florida Library Youth Program should allow children the freedom and time to follow personal interests and inclinations that may or may not be found in the school curriculum.
Although we realize that toddlers and preschoolers also have library needs, the primary thrust of the Florida Library Youth Program is not for that age group. This does not mean, of course, that preschool storytimes must be eliminated, only that the suggestions for programs, bibliographies, and materials supplied through the Florida Library Youth Program will be aimed at elementary school age children. Libraries are encouraged to adapt the ideas and materials provided through the Florida Library Youth Program for both their younger and older children -- if that is appropriate for your community.

All children, regardless of ability or disability, are encouraged to participate in the Florida Library Youth Program at their local public library. Libraries need to offer adaptations, such as sign language interpreters, assistive listening devices, or visual adaptations to be in compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act. Local libraries are encouraged to request deposit collections through the Bureau of Braille and Talking Book Services for children with limited vision or physical disabilities that prevent them from using traditional print materials. Contact the Regional Library at (904) 239-6000 or 1-800-226-6075. For detailed information on working with children with disabilities, see the 1992 Summer Library Program Manual. Additional information about working with children with disabilities can be found in Programming for Serving Children with Special Needs (American Library Association, 1994), an Association for Library Service to Children Program Support Publication.

MATERIALS AND INCENTIVES - Art for this year's full color poster and bookmark has been designed by children's book illustrator and Florida resident Loreen Leedy. Our mascot character this year is "Flyp," a Florida panther. The art has been adapted for our logo sheets, coloring sheet, and the reproducible reading logs. This year we are also supplying a reproducible "Read To Me" log.

Posters - Space is provided for you to include additional information. If you need more space than provided, mount the poster on a larger sheet of poster board or foam core.

Bookmarks - These are your first form of publicity. Use them freely during your school and community visits.

Repro Pack - While not every library uses every item in the repro pack, we try to provide a variety of materials so that there is something for everyone. Use what you can and adapt the rest for your individual library's needs.

This year the repro pack will include 8 pages:

- logo sheet
- doorknob hanger
- reading log (cover and inside)
- read to me log (cover and inside)
- certificate
- coloring sheet
The logo sheet contains line drawings of Flyp adapted from the poster and the bookmark as well as the program slogan in several type sizes. Use the logo sheet to create program fliers for your series of programs. Add the mascot to your press releases to garner attention.

Since it met with such success last year, the repro pack this year will again include a doorknob hanger. If possible, reproduce this on card stock. Have children use crayons, markers, or colored pencils to brighten this "Do not disturb! I'm reading!" sign before it is cut out. To make these privacy signs last longer, have clear contact available so your young readers may laminate the doorknob hanger after they have decorated them. Encourage children (and their care-givers) to set aside a special place and time each day to read.

Two sheets in the repro pack have been designed to be run back to back to create a two-sided reading log. There is a cover sheet with the program logo and space for the reader to place his or her name on the front. The inside provides places which will allow the reader to track books read and library activities in which they have participated.

In addition to the reading log, there will be a "Read To Me" Log. This log will be very similar to the reading log, except that it will be simplified. The outside cover will note that "This Read To Me Log Belongs To ____________." The inside will be wide lines which will allow the reader/listener to track the books that someone has read to him or her, or that he or she has read independently.

No matter which log you use, customize it for the children in your service area. Interchange the insides. Number the lines if you desire. Add categories if you wish. Or have your readers keep track of how many pages or minutes they read as well as the titles.

Rubber Stamp - Evaluation of the materials provided last year again showed that there are still many libraries that use the rubber stamp. Libraries were again given the option of ordering a stamp this year. The stamp will be approximately 1" by 1" in size. Use this as a hand stamp when children attend programs, to validate reading logs, or in any creative manner you and your patrons desire. The stamp will be adapted from the artwork designed by Loreen Leedy.

Incentives - This year, libraries will again be receiving reading incentives. At the time this manual is being prepared, we are still not sure what exactly they will be. Whatever they are, they will enhance our theme.

The Florida Library Youth Program does not give prizes to children in competition with each other to see who can read the most books. It is not a competitive program in which one child is the winner and all others are losers. Rather, in as many ways as possible, local libraries need to devise methods to make every child feel a sense of achievement and pride in accomplishment. This is where we walk the thin line between incentives and competition. Rewards for completing individual contracts, rewards and recognition for number of pages read or number of minutes read, for coming to specific programs, or for teamwork should be handled in such a way that there are no losers. Exactly how this is done varies with the children you serve and requires judgement on the part of the librarian.

_Evaluation Form_ - Please read the Evaluation Form, found elsewhere in this manual, _now_, so you will know what figures and records you need to keep. We have kept the same basic form from the past several years. Program attendance figures are important because it is a concrete measure of the impact of the Florida Library Youth Program. Your comments on the theme and materials are used in planning future Programs. Please make certain that evaluations are returned to the State Library of Florida by September 1, 1995.

READING RAINBOW and STORyTIME - Local libraries are again encouraged to form partnerships with their local PBS outlet to promote _Reading Rainbow_, the highly acclaimed educational television program, and _Storytime_, both aired on local Public Broadcasting Stations around the state. Contact the educational and community outreach department at your local PBS outlet.

The State Library owns most of the videos from the _Reading Rainbow_ series. While these are not included in the film and video listing in this manual, libraries are encouraged to use these in their programming as appropriate. Please contact the Statewide Audio Visual Service to obtain a current list of _Reading Rainbow_ titles in our collection and to arrange for booking for your library.

PROJECT ADMINISTRATION - Administrative support for this Library Services and Construction Act Program is again being provided by the Florida Library Association. Libraries who ordered program materials will be receiving them no later than March 1, 1995. If your local branch library has not received the materials by that date, check with your local Florida Library Youth Program coordinator (usually the children’s coordinator or the system administrator). If your local Florida Library Youth Program coordinator needs to check on the status of your materials order, have them check with Mr. Phil Pyster, Florida Library Association, (407) 647-8839, FAX (407) 629-2502.

Family Literacy

What is Family Literacy?

Parents and children learning together is the essence of family literacy. Family literacy reflects the belief that the parent is the child’s first and most important teacher. Research supports a high correlation between the successful acquisition of learning skills of children and the active role a parent plays in this process. A child is already at a major disadvantage if the parent is undereducated or lacks literacy and life skills.

There are many children whose parent or parents either do not read themselves, lack confidence in their parenting skills, or feel that teaching begins and ends in the schools. Sometimes, all three of these situations exist. The children who live in this environment do not acquire the same reading skills as their peers for whom reading is an integral part of their home life. Thus, one of the most promising methods for breaking this cycle of undereducation is the family literacy approach, where parents and children learn together. With family literacy, parents are supported and encouraged to influence the learning of their children. They are provided with academic and vocational skills to make that support possible. Equal attention is paid to the education of both parents and their children. As parents identify their strengths and develop their own literacy skills, essential messages about the importance of education are successfully passed on to their children. These parents and children soon develop as partners in learning and, hopefully, become partners for success.

Family literacy is not limited to the development of reading, language, computational and critical thinking skills. It also helps provide techniques that encourage feeling of confidence, perseverance and personal responsibility in a parent’s education and in the education of their children. A successful family literacy program can result in improved parenting styles, improvement in the child’s home learning environment, the development in the child’s home learning environment, and the development of positive attitudes and skills for both generations.

The Library and Family Literacy

Today, many public libraries are involved in an increasing number of family literacy activities in order to break the cycle of illiteracy from parent to child. Libraries are targeting undereducated or non-reading parents in an effort to encourage them to read to and with their children. As librarians working with children and young adults, we already know this approach has multiple effects: children are one of the best incentives for parents to want to read or improve their skills; children will be tremendously enriched by having parents who value reading and can help them read; families can form stronger bonds through reading as a shared experience; and the cycle of illiteracy or the disregard for reading can be broken.

Children's and youth services librarians are in a unique position to contribute a great deal to family literacy efforts. After all, we have a specialized knowledge and expertise - a knowledge of the varied literature available for today's children and an expertise in techniques for making this literature a vital part of children's lives. Who knows children's materials - book, films and videos, songs, recordings, games and rhymes - better than the children's librarian? Who else has the opportunity to order, read, review and recommend such a large percentage of the best books published for children each year? Who else knows the most successful ones to use with different groups of children - the best to use with toddlers, with four-year-olds, with beginning readers? And who knows best how to extend the literary experience with songs, music, puppets, creative dramatics, story boards, and reader's theater?

Children's librarians know children's materials and how to give children memorable and exiting experiences that entice them to become readers. Children must want to read before they will make the effort to learn to read.

Unfortunately, children rarely discover the delights of books on their own. Instead, they need an adult to bring books into their lives and help them discover and understand the joy, importance and fun in books and reading. The adult is the vital link between children and the wonderful world of books and reading - and a major influence on children's success in and regard for reading. It is the children's librarian, then, who can and does function as a vital link between parents who don't read and/or do not value reading.

In family literacy efforts, children's librarians share their expertise with parents, particularly those parents who do not use the library, do not read or do not value reading. By extending our traditional children's programming to include these adults and focusing our outreach programs and materials on ways to encourage these parents to bring their children and books together, we are taking the first steps toward family literacy and breaking the cycle of illiteracy passed from one generation to another.

With this in mind, we have included a few tips and ideas for finding new library users, a list of community contacts, hints for parents, resources for librarians. We have also include a list of additional agencies that can supply you or your library with information or family literacy materials that can be distributed to your target audience. To many of you, these ideas will not be new; you may be currently implementing a number of them. For this, we applaud you.

Let our hints be a gentle reminder that your efforts can and do make a difference in the lives of many parents and children. For those of you who are not yet attempting to reach the parent who lacks reading skills and/or disregards the value of reading, we encourage you to become familiar with your own library's literacy efforts and the literacy activities in your community.
Begin slowly by targeting parents outside of the traditional library setting and you will soon find that the marriage between children's librarians and family literacy is a truly natural union!

Tips for Libraries

How can we make sure that our efforts to keep children reading and using books during school breaks and vacations work? What can we do to ensure that the Florida Library Youth Program (FLYP) materials are being used? Lifelong attitudes about books are most often fostered by parents and other family members, so it makes sense to draw the family into our efforts to make those attitudes positive ones. Included below are suggestions for reaching both parents and children, especially those who are not already library users.

Finding New Users

- Include adult services staff in planning programs.
- Include media specialists and teachers in your planning.
- Offer programs that will encourage attendance by parents, on topics such as child development, choosing books for children, children's literature, how to effectively read to your children, etc.
- Get out of the library and go where the parents and children are: parks, swimming pools, recreations centers, etc.
- Display books on reading to children in the adult area of the library.
- Put booklists in locations such as social service agencies, clinics, shelters, recreation centers, well baby clinics, Head Start centers, etc.
- Include children's books with adult book displays on a topic.
- Hold workshops on topics relating to children and invite outside speakers.
- Make use of newspapers, radio, and TV to talk about reading to children. Specifically mention the FLYP materials and how families can use the reading log together. (See sample Public Service Announcements at end of this section).
- For a coalition of local organizations who are advocates of reading and publicize with bumper stickers, billboards, store marquees, city buses, etc.
- Celebrate birthdays in the library. Once per month invite participation by those whose birthday falls within the month. Friends of the Library groups may be willing to supply a birthday cake.
• Attract people of all ages by inviting local craftspeople to set up tables displaying their wares. Patrons can go from booth to booth asking questions and getting the historical background of the craft. Candlemaking, breadmaking, butter making and so make great hands on demonstrations.
• Contact your local newspaper about printing a supplement with games, coupons, booklists and reading tips and use the FLYP theme and artwork.
• Organize “Family Reading Panels” who read a particular book, then discuss it in a panel-type group.
• Offer programs at times that will encourage families to attend, i.e., in the evening.

Community Contacts to Keep in Mind

• Child care centers
• Vocational and technical schools
• Doctor’s offices
• Clinics
• Social service agencies
• Food cooperatives
• La Leche League
• Lamaze classes
• Parents Without Partners groups
• Hospital programs for children
• Community health nurses
• Youth groups such as YMCA, YMHA, 4H, Scouts, Boys/Girls Clubs
• Head Start programs
• Chapter One coordinators
• Foster grandparent programs
• AARP
• Red Cross
• Church and synagogue youth groups
What Can Parents Do?

- Make lots of lists and have your child participate in the decision making and writing.
- Remember that cookbooks, homework, the phone book, store catalogs, and even cereal boxes are sources of reading material.
- Let your child go through supermarket ads and clip coupons.
- Subscribe to a newspaper and magazines.
- Have maps and a globe at home if possible. Look them over and talk about places you’d like to visit.
- Let your child see you reading regularly!!!! When you read something funny or interesting, share it with the whole family by reading it aloud.
- Give your child the ‘junk’ mail you receive. S/he will have fun looking through it.
- If your child doesn’t like to read, try allowing him to stay up 15 minutes later if the time is spent reading in bed.
- Make bedtime stories a regular family event -- everyone can take turns.
- Set up a home library.
- Tell stories to each other.
- Let your child play with books, don’t keep them out of reach.
- Label everything in the house - like they do in Head Start and preschool classes.
- Schedule time to visit the library - and keep to the schedule.
Family Reading Checklist

✓ Go to the library together often.
✓ With your child's help, make lists of things to do and things to buy.
✓ Clip coupons and ads together and give your child the "junk" mail to read.
✓ Have maps and a globe at home, if possible, and talk about places you'd like to visit.
✓ Have lots of books and magazines at home.
✓ Tell stories to each other.
✓ Make bedtime stories a regular event.
✓ Let your child play with books! Don't keep them out of reach.
✓ Visit the library together often.
✓ Let your child see YOU reading regularly.
✓ Label everything in the house--like they do in Head Start.

TIME: 20 SECONDS

The ____________ Public Library System reminds parents to read to their children. No child is too young to be read to. In fact, research has shown that children who are exposed to reading and other cultural experiences before they attend school become better readers.

For more information about reading to your child, contact _________ at the _______ Public Library System. (904) 555-5555.

TIME: 30 SECONDS

Parents, have you read to your child today? It takes only ten minutes of your time to provide an experience for your son or daughter that will last a lifetime. You are your child’s first teacher and you set the tone for his or her first experiences in reading. If those experiences are enjoyable, your child will be eager to learn all the skills necessary for becoming a good reader. If you would like more information about how to read effectively to your children, contact ________________ at the ___________ Library System, (904) 555-5555.
Quiet Please!

I'm reading!
Welcome to the 1995 Florida Library Youth Program, Once Upon a Tale. This year's theme provides a great opportunity to highlight all the wonderful folk tales on your 398 shelves. With such an abundance of material to choose from, the pickings were very fine indeed for this year's manual. The editors limited titles selected for each section to only ten for the sake of space and balance. This is not meant to be a comprehensive list of tales you would find under any of these categories. You will certainly find many other jewels in your own collections that would add brilliantly to those contained here. We included newer books whenever possible. We did include a few out of print titles that we thought were too good to miss, but most of our titles were in print at the time of we compiled this manual. Please note that we also included prices in our final bibliography. These prices were taken from the 1994 Children's Books in Print.

We have included the following subsections within the ten major theme sections.

The part of each section outlined in the box is the part that will be presented at the workshops, the rest of each section is meant to complement this area.

Telling the Tale. Stories we will present. Stories we felt most comfortable with and want to share with you.

Ice Breaker. Every section has an icebreaker. This is an activity of some sort for you to do with the children when they first arrive to set the tone of the program.

Informational Books. Not included in every section, but useful in some. These are the nonfiction books children might want to read for extra enjoyment.

Poetry Break. (With a grateful nod to Caroline Feller Bauer who suggested this idea at one of her workshops.) These poems are meant to be read by someone else (an interloper) who suddenly appears in the middle of your program, announces "POETRY BREAK!" presents the poem as dramatically as possible, and leaves.

Community Resources. People and organizations you can contact to present a related program.
Activities. We included crafts, games, reader’s theater, and anything else that has your group of kids up and doing things.

Helpful Hints. Included in some of the sections. This could be anything from the address of a prize supplier to an alternate way to present a story.

Other Tellable Tales. Tales we think would work well told to your group, but we have decided for one reason or another not to present at the workshop.

Other Poems. Use as Poetry Breaks or as part of your programs.

Take Alongs. Books that may or may not work as read alouds. We suggest you book-talk or display these for the children to check out and read at home.

We had a great time looking at all the books and putting this manual together. We hope that you will have an equally good time with this magical theme this year.

The Manual Editors would like to thank

Carol D. Fiore, Library Program Specialist for all the encouragement and support.

The 1995 Florida Library Youth Program Committee members:
Jana Fine, Laurel Solomon, Susan Oliver, Barbara Neaton, Vickie Pagliai, Sandra Pierce, June Level and Linda Luke for all the great books and ideas that made this manual a joy to put together!

Jeni Bassett who provided the art for the posters, bookmark and cover.

The Florida Library Association for their continued support year after year.

John Jones, Director, and Marilyn Matthes, Central Services Librarian, for their tolerance and support.

The Headquarters (and especially Children’s Department) staff of the Collier County Public Library, who were very tolerant and helpful.

If you can’t tell it in tandem, use two puppets, or one puppet and yourself!
Family Tales
Ice Breaker

Grandma’s Story Bag

Kids place mementos or objects from home into the story bag (a large tote bag works well). They tell the story or “memory” about the object when it is drawn from the bag.

Activities

Coat of arms in Steven Caney’s Kids’ America (p. 34-35)
by Steven Caney, Workman Pub., 1978
Provide construction paper cut into shields. Have a selection of pictures representing admirable traits

Post Card Map
Kids make postcards (use rubber stamps, stickers, drawings, cutouts or pictures of the kids to decorate). They send back “picture postcards” to library when they go on vacation. Keep large map handy to show where pictures came from. Could also do this around town with large town map or have children send from “mystery location” even if they didn’t visit anywhere. Look up facts about the place.

Writing/Talking About Family Events
Children finish one of the sentences: “Do you remember the time...”, “I’ll never forget the first time I went to the beach (or fishing, a trip, to the doctor’s, etc.), “When I was in first grade...”, “The first time I came up to bat at a little league game...”, “My first piano recital...”

What’s in a name? in Steven Caney’s Kids” America (p. 30-34)
(see annotation above)
Use books and list in Caney’s book to discover meaning of first and last names. Have children make name tags with their name meaning (e.g. Glen Moore -- Small Valley)
Community Resources

Have someone from your local Genealogy Club come to your program to discuss how to trace a family tree.

Invite residents from a local nursing home to visit the library. Have "grandparents" read stories to small groups of children, followed by a discussion of games or going to school stressing how different it was when they were younger. Use BiFolkal kits to help with discussions (see note in Helpful Hints).

Bi Folkal Kits

BiFolkal Productions, Inc. produces multi-sensory kits (including realia, slides, and program ideas) on various themes, intended to be used with older adults to help them remember their past. These make excellent inter-generational programming resources.

Use the first letter of each picture to fill in the missing letters and you will have the first seven words of the most famous document in America and, according to at least one source, "one of the greatest documents in human history."

These seven words begin the Preamble of the document, and continues, "...it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature’s God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation."

Huffin' and a Puffin'
(A Puppet Play in One Act)

Characters needed:
2 wolves
Troll
Giant
Wicked Queen
Dragon

Props:
Bridge
Beanstalk
Mirror
House

Mama Wolf and Junior Wolf are onstage

MAMA WOLF: Repeat after me, Junior. I’ll huff and I’ll puff.
JUNIOR: I’ll huff and I’ll puff.
MAMA WOLF: And I’ll blow your house in.
JUNIOR: And I’ll blow your house in.
MAMA WOLF: Now put it all together. Nice and loud.
JUNIOR: (loudly) I’ll huff and I’ll puff and I’ll blow your house in.
MAMA WOLF: Good! Now go out and get those three pigs.

(Mama exits)
(Place bridge on stage - Junior walks across bridge)

TROLL (offstage) - Who’s that tramping over my bridge?
JUNIOR: (trembling, startled) What???? Who’s that?
TROLL (offstage) - Who’s that tramping over my bridge?
JUNIOR: (still trembling) It’s just me, Junior Wolf.
TROLL (appearing onstage) Well, I’m coming to gobble you up!

Once Upon a Tale
Florida Library Youth Program 1995
JUNIOR: No, don’t eat me! I’m just Junior Wolf. You might want my brother! He’s much bigger.

TROLL: Very well, be off with you then.

(Troll and bridge disappear)

JUNIOR: Wow! That was close. Okay. What was it Mama told me? Who’s that tramping over my bridge? That’s right! Who’s that tramping over my bridge!

(Place beanstalk on stage)

GIANT: (looking down - head upside down from beanstalk) Fee Fi Fo Fum! I smell the blood of an Englishman!

JUNIOR: (startled again) Englishman! I’m not an Englishman! I’m just a wolf.

GIANT: I thought you were Jack. Are you su-u-u-re you’re not Jack?

JUNIOR: Not me, man, I’m Junior Wolf.

GIANT: Okay then. Grrrrrr. (mutters) Fee Fi Fo Fum (voice fades as he climbs beanstalk) I smell the blood of an Englishman.

JUNIOR: Wow! That was close. Now what was I supposed to say? Oh yeah! Fee Fi Fo Fum. I smell the blood of an Englishman.

(Wicked Queen appears at edge of stage)

WICKED QUEEN: Mirror, Mirror in my hand, Who’s the fairest...

(Wolf bumps into Wicked Queen who is staring at herself in mirror)

WICKED QUEEN: OUCH! Watch where you’re going wolf!

JUNIOR: Oooh. Duh! I’m sorry.
WICKED QUEEN: Well, watch where you're going. Now then... Mirror, Mirror in my hand. Who's the fairest in the land. (walks away still talking)

(Place dragon on edge of stage)

DRAGON: Huff! Puff! Huff! Puff!

JUNIOR: (looks at Dragon). Uh...what are you doing?

DRAGON: I've been huffing...and...puffing...and...huffing...and...puffing and I can't burn this house down.

JUNIOR: Huff and puff? That's it! I'll huff and I'll puff and I'll blow that house down. I've got it! I'll huff and I'll puff and I'll blow that house down. Now where are those three little pigs?

(Exits, repeating "I'll huff and I'll puff and I'll blow that house down..")
