WORKPLACE SKILLS TRAINING PHILOSOPHY

A factory or service center creates a classroom that is very different from the one we are used to seeing in colleges and adult schools, so it only follows that our approach to teaching in the factory should also differ.

Our goal is to teach employees skills that they need in order to be functional and successful in their work environment, and encourage them to apply those skills on the job and at home. For example, we motivate students to do the following:

- work more efficiently and more safely
- make fewer mistakes
- solve problems working interactively
- take greater responsibility for their jobs
- recognize the interconnectedness of the various jobs in their workplace
- be better communicators in the workplace

Company needs are revealed through a needs assessment. At that time, we also determine the basic skills needs of the employees. We are learner centered, as the individual employee's needs are considered alongside those of the company.

Once we have determined those needs, we develop curricula that incorporate basic skills, using the workplace literature (e.g. forms, applications, codes, abbreviations, charts and tables, handbooks, regulations, procedures, policies, memos, letters) of the company. Because each company is different, the needs and literature are also different; hence, we develop new materials for every company in which we teach. By utilizing these workplace items, we help students transfer and apply their skills directly to their jobs.

We rely on the classroom techniques of problem solving, cooperative learning, and group discussion. Our overall approach is concept based, with the emphasis on application, such as in role plays, dialogues, and group work. Despite the specific course titles, we incorporate the elements of math, English, and communication skills into all of our sessions.

In terms of students evaluation, after initial testing we give a pre-test and post-test in order to determine comprehension. Students receive feedback throughout the course from the instructor, as well as from fellow students as we sincerely believe in the powerful positive reinforcement of peer critiques and cooperative exchanges.

In essence, we believe that although we make the materials for the students with which to work, it is the students who truly make the class.

STYLE AND TONE

Once you have established the purpose of your communication and thought very carefully about the person/people you will be addressing, then you must think about how you will say it. Your whole message is more than understanding the dictionary definitions of the words you use.

Communicating effectively conveys how you wish to relate to your audience and what you want your audience to feel in response. You must choose what style is appropriate for the occasion. Should you be personal or impersonal, simple and direct or more complex and colorful, forceful or passive?

Remember:

- ◇ Your style has an impact on your audience
- ◇ Style communicates almost as much as the content of a message
- ◇ Style cannot be isolated from a situation
- ◇ There is no general style to fit all situations

N.B. There can be some overlap in these styles. This is a guide to help you, but in the end, it is up to you to decide how you say what you want to say.

For a forceful style – appropriate where the writer has power to give orders or to say no, firmly but politely to a subordinate.

- use the active voice
- don't beat around the bush. Say it directly.
- Write most sentences in subject-verb-object order. Don't weaken sentences by relegating the action to a subordinate clause: "Mike was offered the job, although the competition was intense," not "Although Mike was offered the job, the competition was intense."
- be confident. Avoid words like possibly, maybe, perhaps, some might conclude that

STYLE AND TONE

For a passive style – appropriate in negative situations and where the writer is subordinate to the reader.

- avoid the imperative
- occasional use of the passive: "Valuable time is being wasted" instead of "You are wasting valuable time."
- use words like possibly, maybe, perhaps, some might conclude that

For a personal style – appropriate in good news and persuasive action/request situations.

- use the active voice
- use personal pronouns (particularly you and I) and people's names, instead of titles
- uses short sentences that give the rhythm of ordinary conversation
- direct questions to the reader
- add positive personal thoughts and references to reinforce that this is not some type of form letter, sent to lots of others

For an impersonal style – appropriate in negative and information conveying situations. (Also in technical and scientific writing)

- avoid using people's names and personal pronouns
- use the passive voice
- make some of your sentences complex and some paragraphs long.

For a colorful style – appropriate for the more persuasive writing of sales and advertising letters.

- use adjectives and adverbs
- if appropriate, use metaphors – our new product is a miracle of modern design; or similes – our new cleaner works like magic to remove stains

COMMUNICATING EFFECTIVELY
IN A BUSINESS SETTING ◆ SESSION 2*OBJECTIVES:

In order to communicate more effectively, at the end of this session students will be able to do the following:

- identify different verb tenses
- use verb tenses correctly
- use present, past and past participle parts of irregular verbs
- identify and use different styles and tones for different introductions

TOPICS:

- verb tenses
- irregular verbs
- introductions

METHODS:

- group discussion
- individual completion of exercises
- role plays

EVALUATION:

- teacher correction of worksheets
- self evaluation of how and with whom they communicate

MATERIALS:

- handouts – Verb Tense Review
Irregular Verbs
Using Irregular Verbs
Role Plays

TEACHER TIPS ◆ SESSION 2

- ◆ Verb tenses and working with irregular verbs
Assess needs and vary material accordingly

- ◆ Introductions –
brainstorm and make lists of different expressions and idioms for greeting formally and informally. Then have them write dialogues.

- ◆ Role plays –
(using verb tenses correctly) in pairs, introducing self to someone else:
  - ⇒ to a peer, colleague
  - ⇒ to a superior
  - ⇒ to a subordinate, new employee

- ◆ Group discussion is probably needed to break the ice. The more senior the people, the less comfortable they feel with role play.

USING IRREGULAR VERBS

In the paragraphs below, write in the correct form of the verb in the space provided.

The director considered which of the two assemblers he should use. John (can)_____ work on his own whenever he was (give)_____ the opportunity. Ann (be)_____ with the company for ten years, and (be) _____ therefore more eligible because of seniority. He (think)_____ he (will)_____ consider the matter further.

Each (come)_____ with his own advantages and disadvantages. John, for example, (has)_____ a series of unexplained absences last spring when he (say)_____ one thing to his supervisor and (tell)_____ his co-workers something else. However, he (show)_____ that he (know)_____ the meaning of hard work when he (meet) _____ the deadlines during the pre-Christmas rush.

Ann, on the other hand, (have) _____ different good and bad points. She (be)_____ extremely loyal and (driven)_____ to the airport on several occasions and (write) _____ letters on his behalf when he (go)_____ for his promotion last year. Unfortunately, she (can) _____ not work well on her own and always (spend)_____ to much time asking for his help and advice.

He (come)_____ to the conclusion that the only solution (be)_____ to toss a coin.

ROLE PLAYS

Working in pairs, introduce yourself to your partner.

What information do you need to get across?
What information would you like to get across? If you are the person listening, what clues can you pick up on, and how do you choose to respond? Remembering the different styles you might use, imagine first that you are peers/colleagues. Then think about how you would change your style if you were being introduced to a prospective new manager/director and lastly, a new subordinate employee.

ROLE PLAY

The Situation:

You are meeting a client for the first time. You need to introduce yourself, the company and the service/services you offer.

First, brainstorm as a group using information from Session 1. Think about your audience, your purpose and the style and tone you should use. What information do you need to get across? What other messages do you want to convey? Are there any words, technical terms that should be explained to the client? How are you going to organize your thoughts?

Once you have prepared what you are going to say, pair off with a colleague and practice!

Hindering and Helping Behaviors
Clueing in to Different Non-Verbal Messages
Conversational Style
Guidelines For Active Listening

TEACHER TIPS ◆ SESSION 4

- ◆ The discussion involved in this session is probably the most important in this course. Students should be encouraged to talk about their cultural differences and how they perceive others, as misunderstanding is so often the reason for communication breakdown.
- ◆ Discussion and Role play: Have students come up with real life situations, for example “How long do you hold onto someone’s hand when you shake hands?”

UNSPOKEN MESSAGES

Based on your observations, think of some common nonverbal signals associated with each spoken message shown below.

Example:

Spoken message: "I'm confused" or "I disagree."

Nonverbal communication: shrugging shoulders, shaking head from side to side, glancing away, squinting eyes, wrinkling forehead

1. Spoken message: "I'm going to be late."

HINDERING AND HELPING BEHAVIORS

HINDERING BEHAVIORS

HELPING BEHAVIORS

Lean away with hands clenched, arms crossed and legs crossed.	Lean forward with hands open, arms uncrossed and legs uncrossed.
Look at the other person for less than 50% of the time.	Look at the other person for approximately 60% of the time.
Listen silently with no continuity noises and/or interrupt before the other person has had their say.	When listening nod and make "I'm listening" noises such as "um" "yes" "really?"
Have a blank expression.	Smile.
Sit opposite the other person.	Sit beside the other or if this isn't possible, at a 90° angle to them.
Don't use the other person's name or use it artificially so that it jars.	Use the other person's name early on in the transaction.
Don't ask questions or ask closed questions.	Ask the other person open questions.
Offer no summaries and don't check your understanding.	Summarize back to the other person what you think they have said.
Stick rigidly to saying things that are routine and standard.	Say things that refer back to what the other person has said.
Don't acknowledge the other person's expressed feelings or point of view.	Show empathy by saying you understand how the other person feels and can see things from their point of view.
Acquiesce or never explicitly agree with the other person.	When in agreement with the other person, openly say so and say why.
Pick holes in the other person's ideas.	Build on the other person's ideas.
Criticize the other person.	Be non-judgmental towards the other person.
Disagree first then say why.	If you have to disagree with the other person, give the reason first then say you disagree.
Be defensive and never admit to any inadequacy.	Admit it when you don't know the answer or have made a mistake.
Be secretive and withhold information from the other person even though it affects them.	Openly explain what you are doing, or intending to do, for the other person.
Have visual and verbal behaviors out of step with each other.	Be genuine, with visual and verbal behaviors telling the same story.
Don't give the other person anything.	Give the other person something even if it is only a name card, or piece of paper with notes on it.

Remember the choice is yours and, so far as other people are concerned,
you are your behavior.

ROLE PLAYS

The Situations:

- * A colleague comes in to chat about a movie he saw last night. You need to finish a report for a meeting this afternoon.

- * You notice that your secretary was crying when she came into work today.

- * You disagree with the figures that were put together by your research department.

- * Your colleagues present you with a birthday card and a bottle of wine on your birthday.

CLUEING IN TO DIFFERENT NON-VERBAL MESSAGES

Different cultures give different meanings to expressions, gestures and other non-verbal signals. Being unaware of these can lead to misunderstandings. For example, in North America, eye contact is seen as a sign of honesty. In other countries, dropping the eyes is a sign of appropriate deference and respect to a superior.

What are other signals that might be confusing?

(Some clues might be: smiling, controlling emotion, personal space, touch.)

- In the United Kingdom, there is a tendency to make understatements:
"It will be quite nice to be able to work together."
- In the U.S.A., we tend to overstate:
"It's impossible, but we can do it."

What are different cultures' styles regarding compliments or silences?

CONVERSATIONAL STYLE

Not only do different countries communicate differently, but there are many variations by individuals within those countries. The important thing to remember is to try to understand and then to tolerate those differences.

- ? Do you see interruption as rude?

- ? Do you say things while others are still talking to show that you're interested and to encourage them to say more?

- ? Do you show interest by asking lots of questions?

- ? Do you see questions as intrusive and wait for people to volunteer whatever they have to say?

- ? Do you ask direct questions or indirect questions?

GUIDELINES FOR ACTIVE LISTENING

- ⊙ Focus your attention
avoid distraction and daydreaming

- ⊙ Identify the topic
what does the speaker want you to know or do?

- ⊙ Think about the background knowledge you already have

- ⊙ Grasp the main ideas
identify the key points of the message

- ⊙ Tune in to the feeling behind the word

- ⊙ Try to identify precisely what the feeling is about

- ⊙ Try to clarify exactly why the person feels so strongly about it

- ⊙ Check your understanding summarize/restate in your own words

- ⊙ Take notes if necessary to help you understand and remember

COMMUNICATING EFFECTIVELY
IN A BUSINESS SETTING ◆ SESSION 5 & 6*OBJECTIVES:

In order to communicate more effectively, at the end of this session students will be able to do the following:

- identify and use different methods to present their ideas
- organize thoughts for impromptu speaking, using PREP formula
- use the Point/Counterpoint technique
- prepare for question and answer sessions

TOPICS:

- verbal vs. written communication
- formal vs. informal communication
- impromptu speaking using the PREP formula
- Point/Counterpoint
- question and answer sessions

METHODS:

- group discussion
- individual presentations

EVALUATION:

- self assessment
- peer critiques of presentations
- comparison between first role-play (Session 2 and final presentation)

MATERIALS:

- handouts – PREP Formula
Point/Counterpoint
Question and Answer Sessions
How to answer questions

TEACHER TIPS ◆ SESSION 5 & 6

- ◆ discussion on the best way to present your point of view in different situations
  - ⇒ verbal/written
  - ⇒ formal/informal

- ◆ How to organize and present ideas
  - ⇒ PREP Formula
  - ⇒ Point/Counterpoint

- ◆ Extend to reporting information for final assessment – e.g. report the state of a project you have been working on.
  - ⇒ Conduct Q&A sessions

- ◆ Discussion on class content

PREP FORMULA FOR IMPROMPTU SPEAKING

To encourage clear and organized thinking as an aid for clear speaking, use the PREP formula.

PREP

P----- Point

R----- Reason

E----- Example

P----- Point

I like the people I work with.

Point

Because they show concern for each other.

Reason

For example, when Joe was in the hospital, they all chipped in and bought him a fruit basket.

Example

Therefore, I really look forward to coming to work.

Point

PRACTICE WITH THE PREP FORMULA

You can enlarge on this formula to suit your needs. However remember to organize what you want to say in your mind before you actually say it. Now, using PREP, give a quick status report on a project that you are working on at present.

POINT / COUNTERPOINT

This technique shows active listening skills, that you understand the other person's point of view.

Point	State a position
Counterpoint	State the opposing position
Argument	Present your case supporting your view, attacking the opposing view, or both
Conclusion	Sum up your position as a proven proposition, and ask for action

Example:

Point	Some people think that everybody should have an MBA.
Counterpoint	Others say it is an overrated degree.
Argument	In practice, many companies when hiring will look at a person's experience in the field over his/her theoretical knowledge.
Conclusion	So, before you commit yourself to further studies, you might want to consider expanding your job experience.

General Tips

- ? Anticipate the most likely questions and prepare suitable responses
- ? Jot down statistics, dates, and other specific information
- ? Don't interrupt a question
- ? Repeat the question in your own words so that the audience can hear it and you have time to think about your answer
- ? If you are challenged, try "Yes, but . . ." to agree with a minor aspect of the question, but then go on to refute the questioner's position
If the questioner persists, don't get into an argument – suggest discussion after the session
- ? Spread questions around the room to avoid any one person dominating
- ? If questions aren't forthcoming, try posing a few yourself and answering them

1 Prepare:

anticipate
practice

2 Repeat the question:

buy time
let everyone hear it make sure you understand the question concentrate on the concept of the question

3 Maintain the same style:

Don't suddenly shift into jargon or incomprehensible language
Don't become more nervous when you ad lib
Don't be afraid to say "I don't Know" – but try to get back to that person at a later date

4 Involve the whole audience:

Keep 20% of eye contact on the person who asked the question and 80% to the rest of the audience

5 Don't rate or judge the question:

Don't say, "What a good question," or "Weren't you paying attention?"

HOW TO ANSWER QUESTIONS

6 Neutralize negative questions

Turn negative comments or questions into positive answers

e.g.: "I think your product stinks!"

"Oh, so you're asking about the quality of our product? Yes, independent testing shows that . . ."

7 Bring the Q/A session to a close

Say, "Time for three more questions" or "We have a few more minutes"

Rephrase your summary
