The lesson plan was designed for students in Montana schools. The objectives for this culture unit are having:

1. Students recognize the similarities between their home state of Montana and the Mexican state of Chihuahua;
2. Students learn about features unique to Chihuahua;
3. Students create an advertising brochure marketing Chihuahua to tourists.

There is a list of materials needed for this lesson, as well as an evaluation procedure based upon completion of the brochure. (EH)

OBJECTIVES:
Students will
--recognize similarities between their home state of Montana and the Mexican state of Chihuahua.
--learn about features unique to Chihuahua.
--create an advertising brochure marketing Chihuahua to tourists.

Strategies:
A) Pre-lesson strategies (set-up):
Have students brainstorm around the dominant industries in Montana, past and present. Questions and discussion should include the following areas.
1. Native Americans and related history and their current situation.
2. the mining heritage (Butte and Red Lodge, extractive industry).
3. the agricultural development of Montana.
4. the ranching tradition.
5. tourism: Cook City Pass, Going to the Sun Highway, National Parks, and recreational features. List historical sites/buildings. Discuss time period the state history covers.
6. Discuss the physical features and related weather patterns influencing local industries.

B) Lesson:
1. Have students brainstorm for general impressions of Mexico.
2. Pass out a map of Mexico highlighting the state of Chihuahua.
3. Have them outline the state of Chihuahua on the map. Using the map, have them make assumptions about Chihuahua.
4. Pass out a set of questions relating to Chihuahua that they can answer from the map and from watching a video about Chihuahua.
5. Have them compare and fill in information on questions.
6. Have them evaluate their assumptions—were they correct or not and on which points?
7. Have them compare and fill in information in small groups. Let them create a brochure advertising Chihuahua and its attractions in Spanish.
8. Have them share this with the 1st year Spanish class.
Materials:
List of questions to be answered while viewing video.
A map of Mexico from any recent Atlas
Video: Chihuahua: Grandeza de Mexico (1993). Video Communication: Chih., Chih., Mexico.
Paper/Pens for Brochures

Evaluation:
Each group should have completed a brochure with relevant information and visuals. Changes and corrections should be made at this point. Grades assigned when completed.

Publication:
Set up a display to be shared with other classes.
