This document summarizes proceedings of the 1995 Johnson-O'Malley (JOM) National Association Conference. The first section of the report overviews the history of the JOM program established through the Act of April 16, 1934. The goal of this legislation was to improve American Indian and Alaska Native education by increasing parental involvement. The act put JOM program funds into the general fund and local control of public school districts. However, in 1970 the Bureau of Indian Affairs phased out JOM from this funding source and converted the funding agreements to supplemental status. Since then JOM programs have experienced funding problems and lack of support from Congress. In 1994, the first JOM National Conference was held in Denver, Colorado, and the National Johnson-O'Malley Association was established, comprising representatives from tribal governments, tribal elders, Indian education committees, parents, students, educators, and administrators. The 1995 JOM conference held in Albuquerque, New Mexico, was attended by over 400 people. The remainder of the report highlights conference proceedings, including workshops and work sessions, program cochair's reports, resolution committee report, and a chronology of association activities during 1995. Appendices include 1995 JOM National Association Conference Planning Committee Board of Directors, JOM National Association Bylaws, a summary of 1994 JOM National Conference proceedings, 1996-97 JOM National Association Board of Directors, and minutes from the 1995 JOM National Planning Committee Meeting. U.S. Department of the Interior
Bureau of Indian Affairs - Office of Indian Education Programs
The Johnson-O'Malley Program

The Bureau was created in the War Department in 1824. It was not until 1849 that the Bureau was transferred to the Department of the Interior. The history and relationship between tribes and the United States government reveals that the mission of the Bureau was founded on a government to government relationship with a trust responsibility emanating from treaties and other agreements with Indians.

In response, Congress passed P.L. 95-561 ESEA (Elementary and Secondary Education Act) on November 1, 1978. BIA education programs were addressed in Part B. Section 1130, which established local control. The statutory mandate is: "It shall be the policy of the Bureau, in carrying out the functions of the Bureau, to facilitate Indian control of Indian affairs in all matters relating to education". Specifically, this statute made significant changes in the delivery of education services. Indian people, for the first time, became involved in the formulation of statutory language, regulations and procedures.

Presently, over half of all education programs funded by the Bureau are operated directly by tribes and tribal organizations through contracts and grants. This is a good example of tribal governments fully exercising tribal control in the education of their people. The Bureau must share the visions of tribes and work collaboratively to address tribal educational needs.

A Historical Perspective of the Johnson-O'Malley Program

One of the results of some studies of American Indians was the realization that Indian parents were not permitted any amount of participation in the education of their children. The Meriam Report (1928) convinced many Congressional leaders that something had to be done to involve parents

1Since the Bureau is an agent of the United States government, it is vital that the Bureau has a fundamental responsibility to American Indian tribes and Alaskan native groups. The 25 Code of Federal Regulations Part 32 - Indian Education Policies, details this in subpart 32.3 - Mission Statement, as follows:

Recognizing the special rights of Indian Tribes and Alaska Native entities and the unique government-to-government relationship of Indian Tribes and Alaska Native villages with the Federal Government as affirmed by the United States Constitution, U.S. Supreme Court decisions, treaties, Federal statutes, and Executive Orders, and as set out in the Congressional declaration in sections 2 and 3 of the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act (Pub. L. 93-638; 88 Stat. 2203; 25 U.S.C. 450 and 450a), it is the responsibility and goal of the Federal government to provide comprehensive education programs and services for Indians and Alaska Natives. As acknowledged in section 5 of the Indian Child Welfare Act of 1978 (Pub. L. 95-608; 92 Stat. 3069; 25 U.S.C. 1901), in the Federal Government's protection and preservation of Indian Tribes and Alaska Native villages and their resources, there is no resource more vital to such Tribes and villages than their young people and the Federal Government has a direct interest, as trustee, in protecting Indian and Alaska Native children, including their education. The mission of the Bureau of Indian Affairs, Office of Indian Education Programs, is to provide quality education opportunities from early childhood through life in accordance with the Tribes' needs for cultural and economic well-being in keeping with the wide diversity of Indian Tribes and Alaska villages as distinct cultural and governmental entities. The Bureau shall manifest consideration of the whole person, taking into account the spiritual, mental, physical and cultural aspects of the person within family and Tribal or Alaska Native village contexts. [25 CFR § 32.3] more. Thus, the Johnson-O'Malley program had its beginning with the passage of the Act of April 16, 1934, under the sponsorship of Senator Hiram Johnson of California and Congressman Thomas O'Malley of Wisconsin. The program got its name from this Act. Although people refer to this Act as the "Johnson-O'Malley Act", there is no legislation by that name, only the Act of April 16, 1934.

The Act of April 16, 1934, put JOM program funds into the general fund of public school districts, and were allowed expenditure on anything the school board desired. This was standard procedure since the Bureau was providing funds to districts "in lieu of taxes" for basic support. Since P.L. 81-874 and JOM both provided basic support funding, the BIA phased out JOM from this funding in 1970. Funding agreements were converted to supplemental status after that.

In the early 1970's, some tribes began contracting for the Johnson-O'Malley supplemental funds directly from the BIA. The statutory authority for this is found in the 1936 amendments which included private corporations as eligible contractors. This was a harsh wake up call to school districts that had previously enjoyed total control of the JOM funds.

In 1976, after several Congressional reports on the condition of Indian education, one of which was the Kennedy Report, Congress authorized a study to identify ways that would improve the delivery of education services to American Indian tribes and Alaskan natives. Not only were local school administrators, faculty and staff interviewed, but tribal leaders, advisory school board members, parents and federal officials were also interviewed.

The Congressional study group found many impediments and barriers:
- Lack of Indian involvement and participation
- Need of increased dollars to meet higher costs of Indian education
- Lack of Congressional direction for a coordinated BIA education system
- Absence of standards for education programs and dormitories
- Lack of adequate funding to meet special needs of Indian students
- Non-educators having control over education programs
- Lack of centralized information system
- Absence of standardized policies and procedures for accountability
- Lack of information on school construction needs
- A personnel system which caused delays and vacancies in education positions
- Failure to distribute funds equitably.

More tribes exercised self-determination and tribal control in the education of their members. The BIA's role and control diminished over the years. The need for adequate funding is a perennial problem for the JOM program. Although the Bureau supports the Johnson-O'Malley program, it isn't considered a priority for educational funding. The Bureau's priority is with K-12 instructional programs in BIA schools.

Funding priority is ironic since 90% of Indian children attend public schools. P.L. 95-561, Section 1123, as amended by P.L. 100-297, Section 5106, incorporates 25 CFR § 32 in its entirety and requires the advocacy of the BIA toward students attending non-Bureau operated schools.

The lack of funding for the JOM program is evident year after year. Tribes and Alaskan natives are forced to seek congressional support in order to maintain the JOM funding levels or increase appropriations for this worthwhile program.

During fiscal year 1986, the Bureau attempted to move the Johnson-O'Malley program from the U.S. Department of the Interior to the U.S. Department of Education. Ultimately, this move would have terminated the Johnson-O'Malley program. The JOM program was destined to be combined with the Title V (formerly Title IV) program. Tribes and Alaskan Natives joined forces to stop this initiative. The proposed move by the Bureau to combine JOM with Title V in fiscal year 1986 is one example of many attempts to phase out the Johnson-O'Malley program.

Another escalating problem is the increasing numbers of eligible students without a concurrent increase in funding. This causes programs to experience financial shortfalls.

Genesis of An Association

In 1992, Phil Baird, NIEA Secretary, listened to JOM program advocates and realized the importance and need for a forum to discuss Johnson-O'Malley issues. Even though a space and time slot for a Johnson-O'Malley forum wasn't on the 1992 NIEA Convention agenda at Albuquerque, New Mexico, Phil Baird was instrumental in providing a space and a time slot for a JOM forum. The response to inclusion of a JOM forum at the Convention was so overwhelming it was moved to the much larger Kiva Auditorium at the Albuquerque Convention Center. The JOM forum was facilitated by Marilyn Oshie-Dorr and Alvin Schuster.

Over 200 Johnson-O'Malley program staff, Indian Education Committee members and educators participated in the forum. Forum participants formed a consensus to establish a unified voice for funding and programmatic issues, service delivery, recognition of valuable program services, understanding of regulatory and statutory authorities and the establishment of a communications network.

Through the efforts of Phil Baird and Mary Jo Cole, a JOM forum and workshop were held at the 1993 NIEA Convention Agenda at Mobile, Alabama. A discussion panel consisting of Mary Jo Cole, Dr. Paul R. Platero, Grace Bunner, Alvin Schuster, and Marilyn Oshie-Dorr, lead to a three point initiative to bring JOM students, their parents, and school officials together. The workshop was split into three subsections: national conference, vision statement, and national association.

The "Johnson-O'Malley Issues and Networking Forum" at the 1993 NIEA Convention resulted in discussion about a "first" JOM National Conference, development of a JOM vision statement and formation of a JOM National Association. Formal action plans were developed through the efforts of Grace Bunner of Muscogee "Creek" Nation; Mary Jo Cole of the Cherokee Nation; and Dr. Paul Platero of the Navajo Nation. The result was a framework for a JOM National Conference. These individuals took the lead and responsibility for the strategic development of a core group of people to plan a JOM National Conference.

Soon after the 1993 NIEA Convention, the Navajo Nation JOM Program, under the leadership of Dr. Paul Platero, initiated a process by which to secure funds and sponsorship for a JOM National Conference. There was immediate indication by the BIA, Office of Indian Education Programs Director Dr. John Tippeconic, Dr. Dennis Fox, and Harvey Jacobs to support the formation of a national conference and the ultimate JOM National Association. Following a brief time of informational telephone calls and letters, the BIA-OIEP office confirmed that an initial, small grant would be made to plan and convene the first JOM National Conference.

In February 1994, individuals who had signed up at the 1993 NIEA Convention to work on the national conference and others were invited to meet and officially began planning the conference. Leadership for this conference was provided by Dr. Platero, Mary Jo Cole, and Jill Fletcher. This gathering in Las Vegas, Nevada, included Dr. Dennis Fox and Harvey Jacobs of the BIA. This newly-formed group became known as the "JOM National Conference Planning Committee" and set June 1-3, 1994, as the dates of the first national conference in Denver, Colorado. They set up committees with chairs to oversee the planning of the various components of the conference. With only minor changes, the planning committee has remained to become the interim board of directors following the Albuquerque, New Mexico, 1995 JOM National Conference when the conferees voted to launch the JOM National Association.
While efforts were underway to plan the national conference, Dr. Platero was assisted by some members of the 1995 NIEA Convention (Tucson, AZ) planning committee who were in the process of establishing an Arizona statewide education association. They, in turn, had an attorney draft corporate papers and bylaws for the Arizona Indian Education Association. This document later became the basis for the drafting of the first JOM National Association bylaws for presentation and discussion at the first conference in Denver, June 1994.

The beginning of the National Johnson-O'Malley Association was marked June 1-3, 1994, at the first JOM National Conference held at the Holiday Inn-Denver International Airport, Denver, Colorado.

JOM National Conference conferees voted to establish a JOM National Association. The new Association would include representation from tribal governments, tribal elders, Indian Education Committees, parents, students, educators and administrators. It was the intent of the National JOM Conference conferees to form an alliance through a unified effort to preserve the JOM program service delivery. A need to increase funding through collective and collaborative efforts was identified. The formation of a JOM National Association would advocate, express concerns and make recommendations for the improvement of the JOM program.

At the Denver Conference, the proposed JOM National Association bylaws were presented in their entirety in one of the workshops. There, conferees discussed and made changes to the language of the draft. Due to mechanical problems with the revision and duplication, there were only a few copies made available at the conference. When the proposed bylaws were presented, it was tabled.

The period between the Denver conference and the next conference in Albuquerque in 1995, the proposed bylaws were given wide circulation for comments and suggestions. At the Albuquerque conference, the proposed bylaws were again presented. It was voted upon and adopted with some changes. The substantive changes were related to regional representatives on the Association Board of Directors. By close of this historic meeting, the JOM National Association was launched with the planning committee acting as the new Board of Directors, while plans were being developed for elections procedures.

Activities of the proposed JOM National Association would include: facilitation of an awareness about the JOM program's educational and cultural services and to promote cohesiveness among JOM programs nationwide through a communication network which would enhance the JOM program through sharing of new policies, proposed changes and funding information. The network would dramatically increase the response time of programs to critical issues involving the JOM program.

The JOM National Association would promote the program's unique educational and cultural services. Protection and promotion of the educational rights of American Indian and Alaskan Native children is a critical function of the Association. As positions on current and vital issues develop they will be introduced to the general membership of the JOM National Association for discussion, debate and/or approval.
1995 JOM National Conference

Johnson-O'Malley: One Purpose - One Voice "EDUCATION"

The conference was well-attended by over 400 people representing educators, students, parents and tribal leaders. This was the second time a large turnout attended, a time when most educators and students are on summer vacation.

President Albert Hale, Navajo Nation, delivered the Opening Keynote Address at the Conference's First General Assembly. Welcoming remarks were given by Governor Alvino Lucero, Pueblo of Isleta and Vivian Montoya, Miss Indian New Mexico.

Dr. John Tippeconic III, BIA-OIEP Director and Lorena Zah-Bahe, President NIEA were the second general assembly keynote speakers. Lisa Tiger spoke at the third general assembly about "Student and Parent Awareness of HIV/AIDS".

The second day of the conference included a panel discussion on legislation affecting Indian education programs in general and JOM specifically. Federal, state, and tribal legislative issues on Compacts and Self-Governance, Goals 2000, BIA Reorganization, etc. were suggested topics for discussion. Scheduled panel members included: Ken Whitehorn, BIA (Washington, D.C.); Lorena Zah-Bahe, NIEA President; Roger Madalena, NM H.R.; Regis Pecos, NM Indian Affairs Office; Leonard Tsoosie, NM State Senator; Grace Bunner, Muscogee (Creek) Chief; Jim Kohlmoos, USDOE (Washington, D.C.); Jim Baker, Education Director, BIA Oklahoma Area Education office.

A panel discussion on "Indian Education Committee Training" was conducted by members of the JOM National Conference Planning Committee members: Darrell Watchman, Dr. Paul Platero, Marilyn Oshie-Dorr, Martha Wind, and Grace Bunner on the second day after the luncheon.

NACIE (National Advisory Council on Indian Education) conducted a Hearing in conjunction with the JOM National Conference. NACIE welcomed written and/or oral testimony from Indian people, especially parents, relative to their concerns about their personal involvement and activity with their children's schooling. NACIE was especially interested in parents' wishes on tribal languages in schools, parent participation in common or core curriculum. The council encouraged parents' ideas/comments on what is working in their children's education. Because the NACIE Hearing was held on-site in conjunction with the JOM National Conference, it was well-attended and participation by conferees was high.

Workshops/Working Sessions:

Anita Tsinnajinnie, Division of Dine Education (DODE) Executive Director; Elmer Guy, Deputy Director (DODE); and Angela Barney-Nez, (DODE and NASBA) presented "Department of Education for Tribes - T'aa Dine Education".

The BIA Albuquerque Area Law and Investigation Dept., Albuquerque Police Dept. and New Mexico State Police made a presentation on "Gangs".

"WoLakota - Lakota Parenting", implemented through the Rosebud Sioux Tribe's Local Indian Education, Inc. and their Home Start Program, was presented by Mary Lour Luke and Phyllis Hannigan.

The Navajo Nation Head Start Eastern Agency's presentation: "Head Start Year Round Program - It Works" was conducted by Agency staff and Director, Caleb Roanhorse.
Charmaine Shutiva presented "Native American Students: Learning styles (do's and don'ts), taboos.

Lohoma Roebuck of the Albuquerque Indian Health Service (IHS) made a presentation on "Child Abuse".

The Navajo Nation JOM Central office staff presented on "PL93-638 Amendments (McCain Bill)".

Laura Garcia of the Teacher-Gifted Education Program, Sky City Community School, Acoma Pueblo (NM) presented "Parenting - A Rewarding Challenge".

"JOM Alliances" and "JOM National Association" were informal discussions conducted by the JOM National Conference planning committee members.

Judy Martin of Southwest Indian Education Technical Assistance Center IV, Phoenix (AZ), presented "Parent Involvement In A New Era".

Program Co-Chair's Report
by Darrell Watchman

The Albuquerque conference was successful, accomplishing all the goals and objectives of the JOM National Conference Planning committee. The overall agenda was a harmonious balance between informational workshops, discussion about national Indian education issues and parental involvement, Native American language and cultural activities, local bus tours of Acoma pueblo, shopping at the Coronado Mall and after hours transportation to local tribally-owned casinos.

Dr. Tippeconnic, BIA-OIEP Director, explained how the JOM program has been affected through the Tribal Consultation process, publishing in the Federal Register and finally it's implementation as law or federal regulation. During 1994, the BIA Reorganization Task Force recommended that the JOM program be put under TPA (Tribal Priority Allocation) with a "flexibility" clause. Many parents, tribes and JOM programs opposed the move. Despite large numbers opposing the movement of JOM under TPA, it became law. The federal government placed emphasis on listening to tribal leaders, rather than the people, when it came to political decision-making. There is a government-to-government concept of communication between the federal and tribal governments, not government-to-individuals/organizations communication. Dr. Tippeconnic said "...it was a blessing in disguise" that JOM was moved under TPA. The JOM program was "saved" in the federal budgeting process because it was in the TPA account.

As a followup to his opening remarks, Dr. Tippeconnic advised the conferees to choose only between Method A or Method B² distribution of JOM funding. He cautioned against proposing

²Explanation of Method A: The following steps would be initiated for purposes of implementing this method:

1. Identify the number of JOM students by tribal enrollment in Federally recognized tribes.
2. Divide the total amount JOM funds by the number of FY 1995 students to arrive at an equal share per student.
3. Distribute the JOM funds by tribal enrollment times equal share.
4. Establish the base for each tribe under the TPA.

creative options not presented as part of the Bureau's plan. Introducing creative options to proposed methods is a waste of time and effort because the comments aren't counted.

Ultimately, Method B was chosen as the new method for distribution of JOM funds nationwide. This fixed based funding concept correlates to the federal government's desire to block grant federal Indian money in a consistent manner, year-after-year without regards to student population growth or growing needs of tribal communities. The freezing of funds in current dollars, essentially validates the federal government's view of it's treaty obligations as adequate or acceptable to Indian nations.

Although there were many other conferences scheduled at or about the same time as the JOM National Conference, the conference was well-attended.

Program Co-Chair's Report
by Lloyd Tortalita

The 2nd Annual JOM National Conference was a success. Both verbal and written comments were positive by the conferees. The banquet and entertainment received excellent comments. The overall evaluation of the conference by the conferees was good to excellent.

The following workshop and presenters were rated as excellent:
- "Indian Parenting" - Charmaine Shutiva
- "HIV" - Lisa Tiger
- "Parent Effectiveness" - Laura Garcia
- "Impact of Culture in Education" - Carole Ann Heart
- "Keeping Your Staff Motivated" - Virginia "Juanita" Thomas

The following workshop rated the poorest:
- "BIA Reorganization/Washington Presentation" - Bill Whitehorn

Comments that stood out:
- "Planning committee members were always late to workshop or general assembly."
- "Be on time and start early (Indians rise early)."
- "Need more educational booths, limit arts & crafts booths."
- "Do not raise registration fee."
- "People at registration were not friendly."
- "Indian Education Committee training was not given enough time."

Explanation of Method B: The following steps would be initiated for purposes of implementing this method:

1. Identify the number of JOM students served by all JOM contractors.
2. Using the FY 1995 distribution method, identify the amount of JOM funds each tribal JOM contractor receives to establish a base for each tribe.
3. Identify the amount of JOM funds each non-tribal JOM contractor (State and Public School District) receives.
4. Add another Line Item in budget, Special Programs and Pooled Overhead category entitled "Non-Tribal JOM Contractors".
5. Place the proportionate share of JOM funds that are provided to tribes, as tribal JOM contractors, for all JOM students served into each tribe's line item under TPA.
6. Place the proportionate share of JOM funds that are provided to States and public school districts, as JOM contractors, for all JOM students served into the Non-Tribal JOM contractor line item under the TPA category.

Workshops suggested for next year's conference:
- "Indian Education Committee Training"
- "Child Abuse/Neglect"
- "Parent Involvement"

Recommendation for Planning Committee:
1. Schedule a meeting for committee chairpersons two weeks before the start of the conferences to finalize agenda and presenters and to discuss final conference details.
2. Incentive or a special gift for presenters.
3. Need to schedule committee members as monitors for every event or workshop on the agenda.
4. Need for specific roles and responsibilities for committee members during the planning and during the conference.
5. Each committee member to submit a final report of the conference.

Resolutions Committee Report
by Marilyn Oshie-Dorr

A resolution is defined as "A formal expression, intent, belief or position of the Association, adopted by the voting membership, generally at a designated annual conference, and which provides the direction in which the Association shall be moving". Resolutions must express the scope of the goals of the Association. Resolutions of a more permanent nature are continuing resolutions. Resolutions of immediate concern are annual resolutions.

It is critical that the JOM National Association promote the program's unique educational and cultural services to Indian children. We must continue to protect and promote the educational rights of American Indian/Alaskan Native people. As positions on current and vital issues develop, they need to be brought to the general membership for discussion, debate and/or approval. Thus, the JOM National Association provides a forum through which members are allowed to voice opinions and vote for or against issues.

Either an individual or group of members may present a substantive issue for approval at the JOM National Association business meeting throughout the year. This process must continue to require that all formal position must be done in the form of a resolution, rather than a motion. This must be adhered to as many of the positions require action on complex issues. Further, this allows the presenter of the resolution to provide background and a clear and concise presentation of the issue, concern and statement of action.

The JOM National Association's Resolution Committee reviews all resolutions for consideration to ensure that they meet the established criteria for consideration. The committee further reserves the right to correct the grammar and revise the resolution to the JOM National Association format. Annually, resolution abstracts will be provided to the conference.

All conference members were provided step-by-step instructions on the preparation of resolutions. This included a sample resolution formation. Resolution Committee members were available throughout the conference and provided technical assistance.

Prior to the 1995 resolutions being presented to the membership, Marilyn Oshie-Dorr, Resolutions Chair, provided a detailed update on 1994's resolution status and action taken throughout the year on adopted resolutions.

The membership were provided copies of all resolutions being considered. All registered persons were allowed to vote on adoption or rejection of all resolutions. Parliamentary procedure and Robert's Rules of Order were strictly adhered to in conducting all resolution business. As such, the resolution was read by the maker with a second coming from the floor. A count of support and position were conducted on every resolution presented.
The basic purpose of the Resolution Committee was to receive, screen and determine the applicability of the resolution to the national issue and scope. The Resolution Committee received 15 resolutions from individual members, local Indian Education Committee, state caucuses and organizations. Of the 15 resolutions received, point of interest the bylaws resolution that was tabled at the 1994 JOM National Conference was acted upon and adopted. Ten (10) were adopted three (3) were withdrawn and 2 weren't accepted by the JOM national planning committee because they were not received by the designated time frame for submittal.

National Johnson-O'Malley Association Resolution #95-70:

This resolution was approved by the JOM National Association Board of Directors at a duly constituted meeting on November 11, 1995, in Tucson, Arizona (NIEA Convention).

Title: Transfer of JOM National Conference funds from the Navajo Nation to the JOM National Association.

Now Therefore it be Resolved: that the Navajo Nation transfer all remaining FY'94 and FY'95 JOM National Association funds to the JOM National Association central office in Wewoka, Oklahoma no later than December 15, 1995.

Due to closeout dates of the Navajo Nation Finance system, the funds mentioned in JOM National Association Resolution #95-70 were not transferred by December 15, 1995. The funds went into "carryover" status within the Navajo Nation Finance system. In the spring of 1996, the JOM National Funds were awarded, under separate line item, back to the Navajo Nation Johnson-O'Malley program. Approximately $9,880.00 was made available for use by the Association to plan a JOM National Conference. All funds are to be expended before the end of the Navajo Nation JOM program's fiscal year (January 1, 1996 to December 31, 1996). Closeout dates in early in December 1996 must be taken into account.

Conclusion by Marilyn Oshie-Dorr

If we are to be effective in providing optimum educational services to our tribal children, we must provide a collaborative approach that allows the provision of effective and efficient delivery of services. This will allow our JOM programs to be cost effective. This approach also provides consistent information on the delivery of services to students.

We must provide holistic educational approaches which provide reinforcement of a strong system for students and parents. We must provide models for our students to emulate in order to effectively impact the educational needs and positive educational experiences of our tribal children. This can be done effectively with the inclusion of parents and elders.

The reinforcement of our tribal children's culture is an integral part of achieving equitable access. Oftentimes, it is difficult for our tribal children to simultaneously sort through two different value systems. The recognition of the child's culture and most importantly, the value systems will promote the development of positive self-esteem. This will in turn impact the child's educational development.

Effective JOM programs will have active, local Indian Education Committees that are empowered with clear and concise decision-making skills. This will provide compatible learning environments and qualifiable educational opportunities which provide our tribal children with positive educational experiences.

Collectively, tribal people have come together from Alaska, the northwest, northeast, southeast, southwest and midwest for the betterment of our children and future generations. The road ahead is not an easy road to travel. We will face many barriers along the way. It is important we remain focused and forge ahead. There will be many battles to be fought for our children. Now, we will face the battle in a unified voice.

WE WILL BE HEARD
Respectfully Submitted,
Nee Gon Nee Gahbowic (Marilyn Oshie-Dorr)

APPENDIX C

1994 Johnson-O'Malley National Conference

THEME: "Johnson-O'Malley: Sixty Years -- Past, Present and Future Focusing on the Needs of Our Students"

The Johnson-O'Malley program delivered educational services to American Indian and Alaskan natives for the past sixty years. The JOM National Conference was the first time a national conference convened to focus solely on the critical issues affecting the JOM program services. Over 400 educators, parents, tribal officials and students attended the conference. A feeling of cohesiveness among the participants was present throughout the conference.

During 1994, 450 JOM programs nationwide provided services to 259,499 eligible Indian students. There were 324 tribally contracted programs.

Keynote speakers at the Conference included: Dr. John Tippeconnic III, Director of Bureau of Indian Affairs - Office of Indian Education Programs; gaiashkibos, President of the National Congress of American Indians (NCAI); David Lester, Executive Director of the Council for Energy Resource Tribes (CERT); Lavonna Weller, Caddo Tribe and Bureau of Indian Affairs; and Mistie Wind of the Seminole, Creek and Cherokee Tribes. Jim Baker, Education Programs Administrator - Oklahoma Area Office and E. Betty Walker, Education Programs Administrator - Minneapolis Area Office, received plaques at the Conference banquet in recognition of their service to Indian children.

An array of workshops and seminars was offered by excellent presenters. Some of the outstanding topics were: "Developing a Vision Statement"; "Organizing the National Association"; "Problems Associated with the Joint BIA/DOI/Tribal Task Force; discussion of the proposed JOM bylaws, presentation of exemplary JOM programs, and many more.

Joint Tribal/BIA/DOI Advisory Task Force on Bureau of Indian Affairs Reorganization Recommendations

The Joint Tribal/BIA/DOI Advisory Task Force on Bureau of Indian Affairs Reorganization was the focus of much discussion. Dr. Kenneth Ross, BIA/Albuquerque Area Office; E. Betty Walker, Education Programs Administrator, BIA/Minneapolis Area Office; Daniel Tso, Navajo Nation Representative; Don Creamer, Task Force Technical Advisor; and Jim Sizemore, Task Force Technical Advisor, facilitated the discussion and presentation at the 1994 JOM National Conference. This was a major topic arranged by the planning committee.

According to the Joint Tribal/BIA/DOI Advisory Task Force on Bureau of Indian Affairs Reorganization (hereafter the Task Force) Report, Congress has been actively pursuing efforts since 1976 to direct the Department of the Interior, Bureau of Indian Affairs and tribal governments to restructure the BIA. The Task Force has actively consulted with tribal governments on the development of a comprehensive plan to ensure maximum efficiency for providing quality education services while decentralizing functions and authorities to the lowest possible level of the bureaucratic hierarchy.

Since the enactment of P.L. 95-561, and its subsequent amendments, the BIA/Office of Indian Education Programs (OIEP) pursued internal restructuring toward accomplishment of this overall goal. P.L. 95-561 provided for the control of education programs by educators and removed non-educators from the line of authority. It required agency education offices to provide technical assistance in both programmatic and administrative matters and authorized the transfer of administrative services to the BIA/OIEP.

Full implementation of Congressionally mandated authorities were delayed or thwarted by non-receptive offices and individuals within the Bureau. Task Force actions broke down some of provincial protectionism of various Bureau offices in arriving at their recommendations.

The Task Force took note of recommendations by the White House Conference on Indian Education. Task Force recommendations included a realization that the BIA/OIEP and Indian education in general are evolving as systems and structures change, thus they must remain dynamic entities and serve as agents for change and that all BIA/OIEP offices must become active advocates for all Indian education programs, supporting tribes in meeting their educational needs and priorities.
A concept introduced during the term of the Task Force was that of a comprehensive budget category for all BIA education programs to be established as part of the Tribal Budget System (TBS). It would allow tribes to adjust education funds among education programs to meet their tribal priorities. Obviously, much study and analysis is needed before this concept is implemented. Analysis must be carefully designed and implemented to assure that institutional or other biases do not influence results. A concept called "Standard Assessment Methodology" (SAM) was introduced by the Task Force to provide a quantitative analysis of tribal needs. However, possibilities exist for misuse of the system. For example, the Bureau may be directed to assure that no additional funding will be recommended.

If such a concept is adopted after careful analysis, consideration could be given to moving all federal Indian education funding into the Tribal Budget System (TBS) category, including those from the Department of Education and Indian Health Service (Substance Abuse Prevention) funds.

The BIA must assist tribes as they seek alternative funding sources to meet needs, as well as press for increased funding within the Bureau and the Department of Interior. The BIA/OIEP, with guidance from tribal constituencies, shall continue to redesign the BIA/OIEP structure as systems designs evolve or are developed. Additionally, they shall ensure that Bureau offices "downsize" as program responsibilities are assumed by tribes by contract or grant.

The Task Force recommended the movement of the JOM program to the Tribal Priority Allocation (TPA) budgeting system for 1996. The 1994 JOM National Conference focused on this recommendation. The Task Force has been in existence for four years. The conferees were concerned about the lack information provided to JOM contractors about the TPA initiative. Although, there was sufficient representation on the Task Force, there was no communication of any of the recommendations to tribal education programs.

It appears that TPA budget principles support the framework of Indian Self-Determination for tribes. Tribes, under TPA, control the delivery of JOM services to their members. This would include flexibility in the use of resources to support equity in funding distribution.

Conference attendees were concerned about current inadequate funding levels to provide the level of service delivery desired by tribes. During the Task Force presentation, it was eluded to that since education reform provides that budget resources are limited, tribal revenues should provide financial support for education programs.

Currently, the JOM program funding is based on recurring programs. JOM is a formula driven program. The BIA and Office of Management and Budget (OMB) determine the funding level and prioritize funding. Any current reprogramming of funds is restricted. During the presentation, some Task Force members tried to convince conferees that the TPA budget system would provide for more tribal control. This aspect of the TPA budget system was a tough concept to understand by the audience.

The TPA budget system is based on the premise that tribes will prioritize and determine funding levels. However, the financial resources are still determined by the Office of Management and Budget and the Bureau of Indian Affairs. It is difficult to understand how tribes will benefit since most tribes exercise tribal control of service delivery to their tribal members. The only change would be that tribes will be able to reprogram funds. JOM conferees overwhelmingly supported the inclusion of a "protection clause" which would exempt the JOM program from any reprogramming.

Once again, we must also revisit the recommendation of the Standard Assessment Methodology (SAM) initiative. Through this methodology each tribe would receive funding based on their actual need. This will allow tribes to deliver quality/quantity services. Tribes will also have control of service and delivery standards, program cost factors, individual tribal information and calculated tribal budget needs.

The conferees agreed conceptually with SAM, however, strong recommendations are needed to ensure that safeguards are built in for accountability and appropriate delivery of services.

It is also the recommendation of the JOM conferees that the BIA establish a technical assistance work group from among JOM program educators who attended the JOM National Conference. The work group would study and assist in the formulation of strategic planning for implementation of Tribal Priority Allocation budget and Standard Assessment Methodology for JOM. In addition, it was recommended that an Oversight Hearing be conducted by the Senate Committee on Indian Affairs.

Tribes and JOM programs will be given the opportunity to comment on the "Establishment of a Methodology for the Calculation and Distribution of tribal base funding levels under the Tribal Priority Allocation (TPA) budget activity" during the October Tribal Consultation hearings to be conducted nationwide. scheduled for October 17, 1994, at the National Indian Education Association (NIEA) Convention in Saint Paul, Minnesota. All concerned tribal representatives, educators, parents, students and local Indian Education Committee members are encouraged to attend and comment.

It was the intent of the JOM National Conference Planning Committee to provide sessions which generated participant information, discussion and the development of action plans. The action plans are the instruments for continued dialogue.

It was the overwhelming consensus of the JOM National conferees to establish a National JOM Association. The association will include representation from tribal governments, elders, Indian Education Committees, parents, students, educators, and administrators. It is the intent to form this alliance as a unified effort to preserve JOM program service delivery. The need exists to increase funding through collective and collaborative efforts, to advocate, express concerns and make recommendations for the improvement of the JOM program.

This will further involve awareness of the program's educational and cultural services, developing a cohesiveness through a communication network that will enhance the JOM program, and the sharing of new policy, proposed changes or funding information with JOM programs nationwide. The network will dramatically increase the response time of programs to critical issues.

It is critical that the JOM National Association promote the program's unique educational and cultural services. We must continue to protect and promote the educational rights of American Indian and Alaskan native children. As positions on current and vital issues develop, they need to be brought to the general membership for discussion, debate and/or approval.

The time is now to invest in our children -- the future leaders of our Indian Nations. It is of paramount importance that we promote the uniqueness of the Johnson-O'Malley educational and cultural services. We must protect the birthright of our tribal children.

JOM Forums at the 1994 NIEA Convention

The JOM National Conference Planning Committee conducted two forums at the 25th Anniversary NIEA Convention, October 15-19, 1994, at Minneapolis/Saint Paul, Minnesota. The forums were entitled and facilitated as follows:

1. JOM National Association Vision Statement

   Mary Jo Cole, Cherokee Nation; Grace Bunner, Muscogee (Creek) Nation; and Marilyn Oshie-Dorr, Minnesota Chippewa Tribe

   The JOM National Conference authorized the establishment of a National JOM Association. This association was established because of a limited voice for the funding of the JOM programs nationwide. This lack of funding results in the lack of a mechanism to collectively lobby, advocate, express concerns and make recommendations. This will also enhance P.L. 93-638 Indian Self-Determination contracting.

   The vision statement included development of a comprehensive plan for the next five, ten and twenty years for the education of our children. Although Indian education has improved in the past years, there is still much to accomplish in order to achieve parity in educational service delivery. We must continue to strive for equitable access to educational opportunities, culturally appropriate curriculum, empowerment of parents and local Indian Education Committees, positive Indian role models and compatible learning environments.

2. Joint Tribal/BIA Reorganization Task Force Recommendations and Implications for JOM

   Panel Presentation: Lloyd Tortalita; Alvin Schuster; Rodney Bordeaux; Patric Nelson, Navajo Nation JOM Program; E. Betty Walker, BIA/Minneapolis Area Office; Karen Bates, BIA Reorganization Task Force member; and Bernie Teba, BIA Albuquerque Area Director.

   The Task Force has recommended the movement of the JOM program to the Tribal Priority Allocation budget for 1996. The JOM National Conference focused on this issue.

   It appears that the Tribal Priority Allocation budget principles support the framework of Indian Self-Determination for tribes. Tribes would control the delivery of services to their tribal members. This would include flexibility in use of resources to support equity in funding distribution.

   It was the recommendation of the JOM National conferees that the BIA establish a work group to increase awareness concerning the needs of JOM programs. Also, an Oversight Hearing should be conducted by the Senate Committee on Indian Affairs on this issue.
