ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Oakland University administrators continue to support the services provided by the Adult Career Counseling Center. Special recognition is given to University President Gary Russi, Brian Goslin, Acting Dean of Graduate Study, School of Education and Human Services (SEHS), Dean Mary Otto (SEHS) and Vicky Hunt, Assistant to the Dean, for their continued encouragement and support.

The Counseling Department faculty, staff, and Chair Luellen Ramey, have greatly aided our operation. Gloria Anderson, Counseling Department Administrative Secretary, is especially thanked for always being available to assist our staff. We also add special thanks to Jean Williams, ACCC Supervisor/Practicum Counseling Center Coordinator for her guidance and support. Her assistant, Regina Markowski's, computer skills and knowledge of university operations have been invaluable.

The installation and operation of a new computer system would not have been possible without the assistance of the Office of Training & User Support staff. In particular, Ken Gould, Computer Operations Supervisor, Stephen Glowacki, Training/Network Support Coordinator, and James Van Dusen are recognized for the excellent customer service they have provided to us during the past year.

Dr. Howard Splete, recently retired Director of the ACCC, and Dr. Jane Goodman, newly appointed Director of the ACCC, worked together to make the change in leadership a smooth and seemingly effortless transition.

The graduate candidates in counseling who served as career advisors in the Center should also be recognized for the quality of service they provided during the past year. The career advisors included: Lisa Argenta, Cyndee Farlin, Maureen Selfon, Kim Schultz, Helen Wruck, and Mary Highberger who completed her field work in the ACCC.

Finally, the staff and career advisors of the Center would like to acknowledge the members of the ACCC Advisory Board and thank them for their support and commitment to the efforts of this Center. Advisory Board members during 1996-1997 included:

Mr. Patrick Bennett	Academic Advisor, Engineering & Computer Science, Oakland University

DEDICATION

by Cyndee Farlin

Dr. Howard Splete has been an integral part of the counseling program at Oakland University since 1978. In 1983 his efforts helped to establish the Adult Career Counseling Center, and he has guided its growth into an important community resource.

Although the rooms that house the ACCC have changed and graduate students have come and gone, one constant has remained -- Howard Splete's dedication to making sure the ACCC provides a high quality experience for both the clients served and the graduate students working in the Center. While Dr. Splete has retired from full-time teaching, we know he will never truly retire. He now holds the title of Professor Emeritus and has turned the direction of the ACCC over to Dr. Jane Goodman.

As one of the last graduate students to have the pleasure of working under the tutelage of Dr. Splete, may I say with great love and respect -- thank you, Dr. Splete, for the opportunity to work with and learn from you. This edition of the Adult Career Counseling Center Annual Report is dedicated to you.

RECENT DEVELOPMENTS AND HISTORY OF THE ADULT CAREER COUNSELING CENTER

Recent Developments

The fourteenth year of service by the Adult Career Counseling Center can be described as a period of change. The year began with the retirement of Dr. Howard Splete, founding Director of the ACCC, and the hiring of Dr. Jane Goodman, recent recipient of the Michigan Counseling Association's Distinguished Professional Service Award.

Under the direction of Dr. Jane Goodman a number of enhancements in the operation of the ACCC were made including the following:

1. Implementation of a new computer system which allows for networking various software packages.
2. The creation and implementation of a computerized system for maintaining ACCC client records and usage statistics.
3. The development of an ACCC Policy and Procedures Manual to provide continuity and guidance for new ACCC advisors.
4. The provision of a more comprehensive service which resulted in a substantial increase in the number of per client visits.
5. The development of a Disclosure Statement to foster better client understanding of our services (see Appendix A).
6. A redesign of in-service training for Practicum students that will involve group sessions beginning Fall, 1997.

These changes have resulted in a more efficient provision of services to the members of our community.

History

Over the course of fourteen years of service the Adult Career Counseling Center has served more than 10,200 clients. The clients we serve, at no charge, are community adults. Our clients have ranged in age from as young as 15 years old to over 60 years old, and represent a culturally diverse population.

The development of the ACCC benefited greatly from the suggestions and support of Gerald Pine, former Dean of the School of Education and Human Services at Oakland University. His concept of the Center as being a place for service, training, and research was transformed into our productive Center.

The impetus for these programs of public service came from the Oakland University's President, Joseph Champagne, in the Spring of 1982. Financial support was provided by a portion of a state line item allocation for the broad purpose of promoting economic development and retraining unemployed workers in this geographic area.

Under the direction of Provost Keith Kleckner, a university-wide committee was established to review possible computer-assisted career guidance systems and related counseling programs that could be used to aid adults in this area. Upon recommendation of this committee, the university purchased five DISCOVER II computer-assisted guidance systems and one SIGI (System of Interactive Guidance and Information) computer-assisted guidance system in the Summer of 1982.

Two systems (DISCOVER II and SIGI) were assigned to the Office of Academic Advising and General Studies to aid adults of this geographic area who were looking for assistance in reviewing education and training possibilities. Four DISCOVER II systems were allocated to the School of Education and Human Services to be utilized by the Counseling area and the Continuum Center in providing services to the adult population in this area.

During the Fall of 1982, committee members - Tom Atkinson (Provost's Office), Elaine Chapman-Moore (Student Services), Robert Fink (Psychology Clinic), Jane Goodman (Continuum Center), Ronald Kevern (Placement Office), Pamela Marin (Office of the President), David Meyer (Human Resources and Development Area), and Howard Splete (Counseling Department and Committee Chair) planned for the implementation of these programs and the coordination of career counseling and information services across campus.

With the support of Gerald Pine, Dean of the School of Education and Human Services, the Adult Career Counseling Center (ACCC) was established in Room 147 of O'Dowd Hall. After the first computers were programmed, in-service training was provided for 135 persons, including interested faculty, staff, and student assistants.

Since opening in 1982, computer programs used at the ACCC have continually been updated to ensure that clients benefit from the most current career counseling tools available. In 1985, a new computer-assisted guidance system, DISCOVER for Adult Learners, was added to meet the unique needs of adults in transition. In 1986 a second DISCOVER for Adult Learners replaced our DISCOVER II systems because its use was more appropriate for ACCC clients. In 1987, a new software program, SIGI PLUS was added to provide another approach to career exploration for ACCC clients. Also, a computer-assisted version of the Michigan Occupational Information System (MOIS) was obtained as an additional resource for ACCC clients seeking more local information. From time to time the Center has tested other software programs such as OPTIM (Occupational Projections and Training for Information for Michigan), the Resume Kit, Harris Selectory and Resume Writer. Only those programs that best meet the needs of the clients of the ACCC have been retained.

During the past few years Internet resources have also been explored. Computer generated information as well as the continued development of a collection of monographs and other print materials allows for a more comprehensive service to be offered to our clients.

The rooms housing the ACCC have also changed during our fourteen year history. In 1993-94, the ACCC was relocated from two large rooms to four private offices and a reception area to provide more efficient services and privacy for clients. During the academic year 1996-97 our office environment changed again. The ACCC consists of an office adjoining that of the Practicum Supervisor, Jean Williams, one large meeting room, and two smaller private meeting area. Once again our offices will be relocated before the beginning of our fifteenth year of service, resulting in an office and three small meeting rooms.

An important focus of the ACCC has always been on the research conducted by our graduate assistants. A description of the latest research project in progress is included in this report. Over the years, many of our assistants have been published in career development journals and have presented at state conferences hosted by professional associations.

DESCRIPTION OF THE ADULT CAREER COUNSELING CENTER

Services Provided

The Adult Career Counseling Center (ACCC) provides advising services at no charge for adults who are seeking guidance with career-related issues. The ACCC services include exploring occupational information, facilitating self-awareness, assisting in resume preparation, developing interviewing skills, and offering referral information. Four graduate assistants, students in the Oakland University Master of Arts in Counseling program, render these services. Mary Highberger, a graduate candidate in Counseling working towards a specialization in advanced career counseling, also worked in the ACCC during the Spring semester to fulfill her field work requirement. In the future, the ACCC plans to offer an internship opportunity to interested graduate candidates in Counseling. This will allow the ACCC to supplement its staff, and at the same time provide experience to those individuals interested in specializing in career counseling.

Clients are typically seen between 3 to 5 times by ACCC advisors to thoroughly explore the computerized career guidance programs and discuss possible action plans for the future. The demand for services during the operating year, 1996-1997, was so great that the ACCC often had a waiting list of up to three weeks.

The computer-assisted career guidance programs used in the ACCC are DISCOVER for Adults and Colleges, SIGI Plus, and MOIS. These systems aid adults in learning how their interests, abilities, life experiences, and values are related to possible occupations and/or educational and training opportunities. In-service training on these programs is also provided each semester to students in CNS 640 and CNS 664.

Depending on the needs of the client, other assessment instruments may be used. These include the Myers-Briggs Type Indicator (MBTI), The Strong Interest Inventory, and the Career Beliefs Inventory. The ACCC also has available a collection of print materials to supplement the services provided.

The Advising Process

A Client schedules an initial two-hour appointment to meet with an ACCC advisor.

The ACCC advisor gathers background data during an intake interview to identify the client's purpose for using the Center.

The client is provided with an overview of the computer programs and services available at the ACCC and through other departments offering counseling services on the Oakland University campus. The client is given a copy of the recently developed ACCC Disclosure statement (see Appendix A) which describes the responsibilities of a career advisor and the rights of the client. Referrals to the Practicum Counseling Center or other university and community resources may be made dependent on the specific needs of the client.

Clients are scheduled for subsequent appointments that are typically 1-2 hours in length.

Based on the client's specific needs, the ACCC advisor determines which computer-assisted career guidance program would be most appropriate and facilitates the use of these systems.

The ACCC advisor provides assistance and an explanation of the results obtained from the computer-assisted career guidance program.

To more fully explore the client's career issue(s), the ACCC advisor may use other career exploration instruments such as paper-and-pencil assessments or card sorts.

The outcome of any additional career guidance instruments are interpreted, in conjunction with the computer-based career guidance data obtained, to provide the client with information necessary to facilitate the decision-making process.

Prior to the termination of the counseling relationship, the ACCC advisor and client discuss the next steps the client may want to take to investigate such areas as training, further education, or job opportunities.

At the completion of the counseling process the client is asked to complete a short exit survey to evaluate the services provided by the Center.

ACCC COORDINATION WITH PRACTICUM COUNSELING CENTER

For a number of years the Practicum Counseling Center (PCC) and the Adult Career Counseling Center (ACCC) have had a mutually beneficial partnership. The dual role Jean Williams assumes as Coordinator of the PCC and Supervisor of the ACCC further serves to foster this relationship. It is a common practice for clients who have utilized the services of the ACCC to be referred to the PCC for their more comprehensive array of services. A referral may be made to the PCC because the client needs more in-depth exploration of a career issue, or he (she) may have additional issues or concerns that require personal counseling.

PCC counselors are also in-serviced by the ACCC advisors (Please refer to section entitled, "In-service training".) This training is essential because the majority of PCC career clients are taken through the ACCC for exploration on one of the computer-assisted career guidance programs. The PCC counselor works with the client on these systems acting as coach and sounding board.

Having the ACCC in such close proximity, and serving such a supportive role to the PCC, enriches the services PCC counselors can deliver to their clients. At the same time, the PCC offers ACCC clients the option of continued in-depth counseling free-of-charge. The partnership of these two centers allows for the provision of quality counseling services to members of the community.

DESCRIPTION OF THE COMPUTER-ASSISTED CAREER GUIDANCE SYSTEMS AND COMPUTER HARDWARE UPGRADES

DISCOVER for Colleges and Adults

The Adult Career Counseling Center offers the annually updated DISCOVER for Colleges and Adults, a computer-based career planning and information system. In an effort to better utilize this program, permission was obtained from the vendor to network the software, therefore allowing for multiple usage at any given time.

DISCOVER is a carefully designed career planning program that provides clients with information about themselves, occupations, schools, and programs of study to aid in mature decision-making. Clients benefit most when using DISCOVER for Colleges and Adults in conjunction with counselor assistance.

There are two ways to use DISCOVER - the "information only" approach or the "guidance plus information" approach. The guidance plus information approach is a comprehensive, integrated career planning process that can be learned and used many times in one's life. The information only approach allows the client to bypass the guidance features of the program and quickly obtain specific information about occupations or educational programs. With the guidance plus approach, a user record is created as the client progresses through the modules. A paper copy of the text on the computer screen can be printed at any time. The guidance plus modules are described in Appendix B.

SIGI Plus (System of Interactive Guidance & Information Plus)

SIGI Plus is an advanced career guidance system that covers major aspects of career decision-making and planning. The system is composed of eight separate but interrelated sections. The use of SIGI PLUS often acts as a supplement to DISCOVER allowing for more in-depth exploration of the self. The 1996 version includes updated job outlook information for all occupations. The eight sections of SIGI Plus are described in Appendix B.

MOIS (Michigan Occupational Information System)

The MOIS program is updated on an annual basis. It is an easy-to-use system of occupational and educational information specifically designed for the state of Michigan. Individuals who may benefit from MOIS include:

- * Persons wanting detailed information on occupations and training in Michigan.
- * Individuals undecided about their future.
- * Homemakers re-entering the workforce.
- * Young adults investigating college programs and career options.
- * Individuals considering starting their own business.

For undecided clients, a structured search will suggest occupations based on several areas:

- * Interests
- * Areas of work
- * Physical capabilities
- * Working conditions
- * Education
- * Temperament

The system evaluates client input and provides a list of job titles that are most applicable to the client's data. The client may then explore MOISCRIPTS (occupational descriptions) for the occupations in which they are most interested. Individuals with a specific occupation in mind can bypass the structured search and go directly to the MOISCRIPTS for career information. MOISCRIPTS cover areas such as:

- * Specific job duties
- * Working conditions
- * Methods of occupational entry
- * Salaries and wages
- * Employment outlook
- * Educational requirements
- * Tips for finding additional information

Other segments included in MOIS give information on many different areas such as:

- * Military training opportunities
- * Financial aid considerations
- * Decision-making matrix (compares up to three careers of the user's choice)
- * Successful interview package (for a specific career of the user's choice)
- * How to start a small business
(This section includes over 50 pages of information for clients to consider before venturing into their own business. Some of the topics covered include: how to develop a business plan, cash flow and bookkeeping considerations, home-based and franchised businesses, and even a sample business loan application.)

The Internet

To keep abreast of the plethora of career information accessible on the Internet, the staff of the ACCC, along with Dr. Jane Goodman and Jean Williams, attended an Internet training session conducted by Kristine Condic, Associate Professor, Kresge Library. The training session focused on locating counseling resources on the Internet and included an overview of the use of NETSCAPE. At the suggestion of Ms. Condic, a list of websites relating to career information is being compiled for use by the ACCC advisors and as suggested sites for our clients.

Technological Updates in the ACCC

During the past year several technological updates have been made within the ACCC. These updates have provided the Center and the advisors with the capability to offer clients more services and to increase the efficiency of the Center.

While the individual counseling rooms of the ACCC had networking capability, the computers within the Center did not. A decision was made to upgrade the computers, thus allowing three of the four counseling rooms to be networked. However, before this could be done new equipment had to be installed. With the help of the computer personnel from OTUS, a new Gateway computer, laser printer and server were purchased and networked for the Center.

Once the hardware was in place, the Center had to consider the software and how we would best utilize our new capabilities. DISCOVER networking version replaced the old stand alone software and was loaded on three of the systems within the Center. MOIS software always had a networking capability and it was now very easy to load this software onto the new system. But, to accomplish all of this Windows 95 had to be installed and new memory upgrades had to be completed on two of the older computers that were to remain on the system.

With all of this completed, the Center is now capable of seeing more than one client at a time. Three of the four rooms of the ACCC have most of the computer-assisted career software loaded and if a client is seen in one room today and returns next week the advisor doesn't necessarily have to see that client in the same room. With the new server, networking and upgraded memory and software the client can be seen in any one of the three rooms. Additionally, advisors with clients can be using the same software simultaneously and get the same excellent service and output.

With the next year several more upgrades are planned: first, sound cards and speakers will be installed on two of the computers. This will allow clients to work interactively with the software. Secondly, further investigation will be made for upgraded or possibly new software that has more occupational information for the client.

The Center is proud of their leap into new technology and foresees better, faster, more efficient and user-friendly service to our clients.

CLIENT DEMOGRAPHICS

During the academic year 1996-97, 331 community clients were seen by the career advisors of the ACCC. Additionally 161 clients were either Practicum or Careers Class counseling students. In total, 492 clients utilized the services of the Adult Career Counseling Center.

This total number of clients is lower than in previous years, however there is a significant contributing factor associated with this number. This year, the number of visits per client increased substantially. In the previous year 92% of the clients utilizing the services of the ACCC were one-time clients. However, during this academic year this figure dropped to 66.4%. This indicates that 33.6% of the clients returned to the Center for two plus visits. This fact would appear to indicate that clients utilizing the Center received more in-depth career counseling.

Clients coming to the Center complete an in-depth intake form. This year, the Center computerized the client demographic information into database format. This allowed the advisors to electronically track and evaluate the client demographic information. As always, this information is strictly confidential and access is only available to the career advisors. Much of the same information as previous years was tracked. Entering and storing the information on a computerized database allowed easier manipulation and reporting than was previously available.

On the following pages graphs are provided to depict the totals of the information that was captured on the computerized database during the year. The following graphs provide a percentage breakdown of the client population by:

- * Purpose for using the Center
- * Number of visits
- * Referral Source
- * Gender
- * Age
- * Ethnicity
- * Geographic distribution
- * Educational level
- * Employment status
- * Marital status
- * Household annual income

Those percentages that total more than 100% indicate items where the client was able to respond to more than one choice to a particular question.

NUMBER OF VISITS

- During this reporting year, the number of visits per client increased significantly. There was a 23.8% increase in the number of clients who returned for more than one visit. This increase in client visits is a clear indicator of the increased level of service provided by the Career Advisors of the Adult Career Counseling Center.

ANALYSIS OF CLIENTS' RESPONSES TO ACCC EXIT SURVEY

At the end of the last visit of each client they are requested to complete an exit survey. This survey allows the ACCC to evaluate many areas, including, how the client views the services they have received, the quality of the services, the effectiveness of their career advisor and the overall environment of the ACCC. This provides the Center with an opportunity to improve and grow based on the needs of our clients. The following information is based on completed exit surveys during the period of September, 1996 through June, 1997.

Respondents found the computer information to be:

EXTREMELY HELPFUL	74%
HELPFUL	22%
SOMEWHAT HELPFUL	4%

Respondents rated the computer guidance programs using the following scale:

4=Very Helpful      3=Helpful      2=Somewhat Helpful      1=Not Helpful

DISCOVER	=	3.8
SIGI PLUS	=	3.9
MOIS	=	3.5

Respondents also rate other resources used in the ACCC, using the same scale as above. They rated other resources as follows:

MBTI	=	3.0
Card Sorts	=	3.5
Strong Interest Inventory	=	4.0
Career Beliefs Inventory	=	4.0

Respondents rated the advice/guidance obtained from the advisor to be:

EXTREMELY HELPFUL	=	87%
HELPFUL	=	13%

Clients' suggestions for improvement at the ACCC included:

1. Improve parking conditions.
2. Investigate software that offered more job listings for some of the newer hi-tech occupations.
3. Offer job placement services.

Clients' general comments included:

"Many people do not know about this wonderful, free service. You should advertise more."

"My advisor was very knowledgeable and seemed to genuinely care about me and my job search."

TYPICAL CASE STUDIES

Clients come to the Adult Career Counseling Center seeking assistance in resolving a variety of career issues. The following is just a sample of some of the career-related issues presented during this past year:

- Female client, 28 years old, feeling drained by the demands of her job.
- Male client, 62 years old, interested in exploring career options in the second phase of his life.
- Female client, 33 years old, expressing dissatisfaction in current position.
- Female client, 38 years old, "stay-at-home mom" interested in entering the workforce.
- Female client, 30 years old, unfulfilled and unhappy with chosen career.
- Male client, 55 years old, unsure about transition into retirement.
- Male client, 41 years old, interested in making a career change but wants to explore financial implications and impact on family.

MARKETING AND PUBLIC RELATIONS

A number of efforts have been made during the 1996-97 academic year to increase public awareness of the services offered by the ACCC. Word-of-mouth still continues to be the most effective means of marketing. Client referrals, as well as other marketing efforts described below, resulted in a waiting list for our services of up to three weeks.

1996-97 Marketing and Public Relations Efforts

- * The ACCC Annual Open House was held in November, National Career Development Month. This event is held to inform university personnel about our services. It was attended by 46 individuals.
- * A public service announcement was created and broadcast via Oakland University's cable station. A number of our clients indicated they learned about our services through this cable message.
- * A press release was created and sent to Oakland University's Media Relations Department and The Oakland Press. An article appeared in this publication spotlighting the services of our sister organization, the Pontiac Adult Career Counseling Center (PACCC).
- * Photographs of the ACCC, administrators and staff were taken to be used in marketing and promotions efforts.
- * A bulletin board was created at O'Dowd Hall on campus to promote the concept of "Career Check-ups". The intent was to increase awareness of career counseling services in general and the services of the ACCC specifically.
- * ACCC advisors, Cyndee Farlin and Maureen Selfon attended a day long career awareness fair sponsored by Sinai Hospital for its employees. ### Visitors to the ACCC

The reputation the ACCC has developed in the professional community as a model university-sponsored career guidance service has led to a number of requests to visit our facilities. Visitors to the ACCC during the 1996-1997 academic year came from as far as Australia and included the following individuals:

Trisha Wilson, Career Counselor, Auckland College of Education, New Zealand and Mark Straney from Australia visited the ACCC to gain a better understanding of the operation of a career guidance service at an American University.

Mary McDougall, Director, Education Services, and Greg Vasquez, Employment Specialist, both from Operation ABLE, a nonprofit employment and training organization committed to serving the needs of the older adult, visited our facility to obtain a better understanding of computer-assisted career guidance systems.

As part of a training program for career development practitioners, 28 individuals from the National Career Development Training Institute received an overview of our services and toured our facilities.

Martha Jack, Assistant to the Dean of the College of Education, Eastern Michigan University, James Berry, Chair of the Department of Leadership and Counseling and a team of architects visited the ACCC and Practicum Center to gain a clearer view of the physical set-up.

ACCC ADVISOR ACTIVITIES

The ACCC advisors' commitment to the Center involves a number of responsibilities and activities. In addition to working with clients, three additional activities should be highlighted: in-service training, research, and conference participation.

In-service Training

Each year the Adult Career Counseling Center provides in-service training to students, faculty and various other area counselors who utilize computer-assisted career guidance programs. This in-service allows students in Practicum and Career classes to use the computer-assisted programs within the Adult Career Counseling Center with their own career clients during the semester. Additionally, on occasion, local area counselors with a career client may request the opportunity to utilize the computer-assisted software within the ACCC. Every effort is made to accommodate this request, however, this will occur only if the Center does not have its own clients to counsel at the time requested.

Among those who received in-service training during the 1996-97 academic year were students in:

Undergraduate course	HRD 364: Career Development
Graduate Counseling course	CNS 640: Career Development Theory and Practice -- 3 sections
Graduate Counseling course	CNS 664: Counseling Practicum -- 7 sections
Graduate specialization course	CNS 675: Advanced Career Counseling

In total, 161 people received in-service training at the ACCC from September 1996 through June, 1997.

Research

The third goal of the ACCC is to, "support research efforts for a better understanding of the career development sphere, ultimately promoting better career guidance practices for adults." ACCC advisors have fulfilled this goal since the inception of the Center in 1982 by conducting research in the field of career development under the on-going Life Career Patterns Project. The research findings of two former ACCC advisors, Jackie Gilroy and Kathy Hoffman, were recently published in the Spring issue of the Journal of the Michigan Counseling Association. Following is a brief description of an ongoing research project and a proposal for the upcoming 1997-98 academic year:

Ongoing Research:

A MULTI-FACETED APPROACH TO THE ISSUE OF CAREER DECISIVENESS

Cynthia Farlin and Maureen Selfon

The research project proposed to show that individuals who came to the Adult Career Counseling Center voluntarily to identify career path options available to them would be more decisive in the career decision-making process after they used computer-based guidance software programs, had a battery of assessments, and the results from both of these activities interpreted through personal intervention by a career counselor, than would those individuals who used computer-based guidance software only.

In an effort to test this hypotheses, we sought 30 participants between the ages of 23 and 42 years old with at least a high school education and three or more years of work experience. At the time the Fourteenth Annual Report of the ACCC was printed, this research project remained ongoing in an attempt to reach the total number of participants who meet the criteria originally cited in the research proposal. While data has been collected on the participants involved to date, we are not able to draw any conclusions at this time.

Proposed Research:

THE IMPORTANCE OF VALUES IDENTIFICATION IN CAREER DECISION MAKING

Kim Schultz and Helen Wruck

In response to observations made working with clients at the ACCC, and the paucity of empirical evidence in published research studies, a proposal was developed to conduct a study to examine the relationship between values identification and career decidedness in adults utilizing the services of the ACCC. We hypothesize that self-referring clients of the ACCC, who identify their values through completion of a values assessment instrument, will have higher scores on a career decidedness scale than clients who do not identify their values in the counseling process.

We intend to recruit 30 adults between the ages of 23 and 65 who have self-referred to the ACCC between September and December, 1997.

In addition to the computer-assisted career guidance program, DISCOVER, which is used in a standard counseling session the following assessment tools will be used in our research study:

The Values Scale, Second Edition. The Values Scale is a 106 item instrument designed to "measure intrinsic and extrinsic life-career values."

Career Decision Scale. This 19-item self-report instrument was developed to "provide an estimate of career indecision."

Conference Participation

ACCC advisors are encouraged to attend conferences sponsored by professional associations. Conference attendance provides the opportunity for skill development, networking, and increased awareness of alternative and innovative approaches to career counseling. The conferences attended by the ACCC advisors include the following:

During your visit to the ACCC, the career advisor will most likely do many of the following:

- Conduct an individual intake session to discuss your history, current situation, and career/life goals.
- Use computerized career planning systems and occupational information systems to help you better understand the world of work.
- Administer and interpret assessments and inventories which may be indicated to identify abilities, interests, and other factors relevant to career options.
- Encourage your self-exploration exercises through worksheets and homework assignments.
- Provide opportunities for improving your decision-making skills.
- Assist you in developing a career plan.
- Discuss job hunting strategies, interviewing techniques, and assist in the development of your resume, if needed.

WHAT TRAINING AND SUPERVISION DO THE CAREER ADVISORS HAVE?

Career advisors at the ACCC are graduate students in the Master of Arts in Counseling program. They are supervised in the center by a counselor in practice who has earned the designations of Licensed Professional Counselor (L.P.C.) and Nationally Certified Counselor (N.C.C.).

ETHICAL PRACTICES

Career advisors at the ACCC are in the process of completing requirements for a Master of Arts in Counseling degree. They are expected to follow the ethical guidelines of the National Career Development Association and the American Counseling Association.

CONSUMER RIGHTS

Based on the guidelines of the National Board for Certified Counselors and Chi Sigma Iota, an honorary counseling society, the ACCC has adopted the following guidelines. The client has the right to:

- Be informed of the qualifications of your advisor which includes education and relevant experience.
- Receive an explanation of services offered, your time commitments, rights and responsibilities.
- Have all that you say treated confidentially and be informed of any state laws placing limitations on confidentiality in the counseling relationship.
- Ask questions about the techniques, strategies, and assessments used by the advisor and decide not to proceed with these at any time.
- Participate in goal setting and evaluating progress toward meeting them.

APPENDIX C
AUXILIARY GRANT-SUPPORTED SERVICES

ACADEMIC SERVICES AND GENERAL STUDIES CAREER RESOURCE CENTER

The Career Resource Center (CRC) has been housed in the Department of Academic Services and General Studies since March, 1983. The development of the Center has been greatly enhanced since that time by the purchase of additional resources and furniture. In addition, the Center was relocated in the Fall of 1995 to have greater visibility and accessibility for the students.

The CRC provides a wide variety of career information for students who are undecided about a career and/or major. The computer-assisted career guidance programs SIGI Plus and DISCOVER for Adults have been in operation in the Center from the beginning, and the program FOCUS II was added in recent years. To help address the personality component of career development, PLEASE UNDERSTAND ME, is also available on computer. Other resources include a video library of career information and many updated books and materials. Consistent usage of the Career Resource Center and the positive response from students indicate that the services are fulfilling students' needs.

The CRC and the computer-assisted career guidance systems are comprehensively advertised through regular publications, brochures, referral sources, classes, and numerous outreach presentations. There are also a number of regular publications that carry a segment highlighting the CRC including: the Career Counseling and Information Resources (Pillars) brochure, the University catalog, the schedule of classes, and a career planning brochure sent to new freshmen from the Vice President's office. Additionally, letters to special populations such as undecided students, re-admitted students, and probationary students are sent out fall and winter semesters. These letters list a variety of support services and special career exploration programs available in the CRC and campus-wide.

Presentations regarding career development and the CRC are made to groups of high school seniors, students in residence halls, freshman seminars, student life scholars, as well as new students in orientations. In addition, presentations are made to certain classes each semester as to the development and usage of the Center. These classes may have assignments that require in-depth usage and evaluation of the Center's resources including the computer-aided systems. The courses that consistently utilize the Center's services are listed below:

COM 101	Collegiate Communications
RHT 160	Composition II for Undecided Students
HRD 364	Career Development
CNS 640	Career Development Theory and Practice

Usage of the CRC and the computer-assisted career guidance programs continues to grow at a moderate rate. A week-by-week evaluation reflects the ebb and flow of the academic calendar. Semester breaks, finals, and the beginnings and ends of semesters alter the number of students who use the systems. Peak usage occurs during the months of October, November, February, and March. During the spring and summer sessions usage drops by half, as these sessions are not full semesters and most Oakland University students do not attend.

During the 1996-97 academic year, coverage of the CRC was provided by undergraduate students completing their fieldwork and internship in the Human Resource Development program and by student assistants hired under work-study. These students certainly contribute to the operation by providing valuable peer assistance that can be reassuring to the student using the system for the first time. A graduate intern from the Counseling program also was important in the operation of the CRC during the 1996-97 year.

In general, user response has been overwhelmingly positive. Students maintain that the systems are fun and easy to use, provide useful and abundant information, provide options, and give suggestions on where to go for further information. Appointments are strongly recommended and generally available within a week to ten days.

A special opportunity, adjunct to the CRC, was available during the 1996-97 academic year to students (especially freshmen) who were undecided about their major. As part of a research project being conducted by a faculty member in the Counseling Department, the undecided students took the Myers-Briggs Type Indicator (MBTI). Interpretations were given in person as well as through use of a video interpretation. Students were also taught how to incorporate the information into their decisions about majors and careers.

CONTINUUM CENTER AND THE ACCC

The Continuum Center has been greatly appreciative of the services provided by the Adult Career Counseling Center. We have referred some of our individual career counseling clients to the Center to use the Michigan Occupational Information System, SIGI Plus and DISCOVER for Colleges and Adults. Participants in our corporate career planning programs have also been referred to the Center and some of them taken advantage of that opportunity.

The Continuum Center has been a multi-faceted adult counseling and training center for over 30 years. For the past ten years we have provided career assessment, career development and job search training to adults within their work site.

During the 1996-97 year, The Continuum Center was absorbed into the office of Professional Development and Education Outreach. As part of the Professional Development and Education Outreach, our plans for the future include continuing as a partner in the national Career Development Training Institute which provides training and training materials to career development practitioners.

We will also continue to provide career development services to employees of businesses and other organizations and will refer clients to the Adult Career Counseling Center as appropriate.

BRIEF REPORT OF THE PONTIAC ADULT CAREER
COUNSELING CENTER

PONTIAC ADULT CAREER COUNSELING CENTER

The Pontiac Adult Career Counseling Center (PACCC) opened its doors in February 1991 after three years of planning. PACCC is well into the seventh full year of servicing Pontiac area clientele seeking career planning and counseling. PACCC is a joint venture between Oakland University (OU) and Oakland Community College (OCC). Counselors are provided to PACCC through the Auburn Hills OCC counseling office and updated software as well as a graduate student are provided by OU. PACCC operates under the co-direction of Karen Pagenette (OCC), Dr. Jane Goodman (OU), and for the last year, Dr. Howard Splete (OU). PACCC also works with a community advisory board with membership consisting of individuals representing various community agencies.

PACCC services mainly Oakland County residents who are seeking assistance with career transition, planning, or examining career options. PACCC is not a job placement service. Counselors may assist clientele with resume writing, interviewing techniques, and world-of-work networking capabilities. Clients are serviced free-of-charge for an average of two to four sessions. Many clients follow the DISCOVER and MOIS track. Clients may spend one to three sessions working one-on-one with a PACCC counselor on the DISCOVER and MOIS computer systems.

PACCC counselors also work closely with the Lake Orion Work First program. In this job club program, PACCC counselors administer several different tests within the four week program. These tests include the Myers-Briggs Type Indicator, the Test of Adult Basic Education (TABE), and the Self-Directed Search. Individual Service Strategies are also conducted individually with each Work First client to set goals, get an employment and education history, and to facilitate an action plan to gain employment.

Outreach efforts continue at the PACCC in order to meet the needs of the Pontiac surrounding communities that were originally intended to be target populations. PACCC hopes to obtain several bilingual assessment tools, as well as release a bilingual brochure and employ other marketing strategies in order to reach inner city bilingual populations.

PACCC continues to keep pace with a growing technological world. PACCC now has Internet capabilities in order to provide another service for clients. Clients now have the option of learning how to submit a resume on-line or access career sites that may be of interest. Career assessments may also be accessed as they become available.

PACCC continues to diversify in outreach activities as well as grow as a unique counseling center which offers valuable career exploration services to area residents free-of-charge.

Career Counseling and Information Resources

Oakland University sponsors many career counseling and information programs for the citizens of the community and students it serves. These programs are designed to complement one another and, taken together, they respond to most of the occupational and career issues that concern students and community members. Each of these services offers a unique emphasis, such as job hunting skills preparation, assessment of interests and abilities or information about different kinds of jobs.

These programs present a rich offering of professional assistance for the person struggling with career decisions or confusion about future plans. However, this variety of services means that you, as a prospective client, must be careful to choose the service that will best meet your needs. This brochure is intended to help you in this selection process. Read it carefully and be certain to note the kind of services each setting provides, whom these programs are directed toward (community members, students, alumni), what fees are involved and when these services are available. This kind of thoughtful reading will help you to narrow your choice. If you are still unsure, get in touch with the service that seems most appropriate and explain to the staff person what you are looking for. That person will direct you to the proper setting.

Oakland University desires to enhance the quality of life for people of the community by sharing its educational resources and services with them. The professional services described here are one expression of this commitment.

ACADEMIC DEPARTMENTS

Individual departments often offer students a good source of information on careers associated with their majors. Each department has an individual who serves as chief advisor. Generally, this person or his/her designated associate focuses as a source of information on career training and employment opportunities. This is particularly true in instances where advanced training is involved.

In some instances, departments maintain information on careers directly related to their specific major. Students may contact those departments in which they have a particular interest in order to identify an advisor or simply to discuss options.

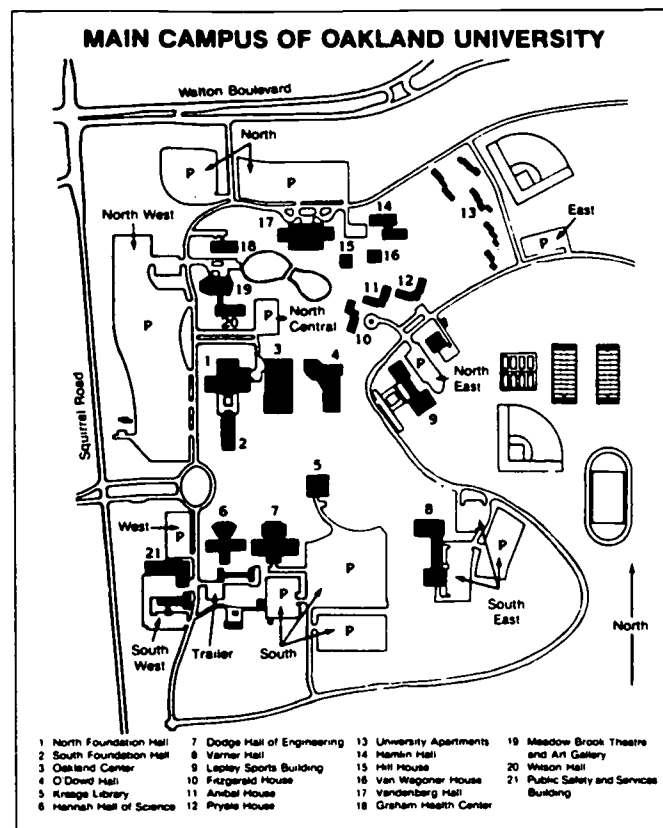

To locate a particular department, please call the university's general information number 370-2100.
