Helen Palmer has for the past 20 years directed CITI, a training center that unites psychological work with the agendas of sacred tradition. She has authored The Enneagram and The Enneagram in Love and Work. p. 18

Wendy Palmer is a fourth-degree black belt in Aikido and cofounder and teacher at Tamalpais Aikido Dojo in Mill Valley, California. She is the author of The Intuitive Body. p. 58

Audrey Nakamura was trained by Hwayo Takta, Dub Leigh, and Tanouye Tenshin-roshi. She has been a practitioner for eighteen years. p. 51, 53

John Nance was a daily news correspondent when he met the cave- dwelling Tasaday people, and his life changed. He is working on his fourth book about them. p. 46

Mudita Nisker directs Communication Options and has conducted communication trainings nationally since 1978. A clinical supervisor at the California Institute of Integral Studies, she has a private practice in Oakland, California. p. 17

Wes “Scoop” Nisker is considered the dean of new radio journalism and is editor of Inquiring Mind, a journal of the Vipassana Buddhist community. He is the author of Crazy Wisdom. p. 24

Gina Oguns is a licensed MFTC and the author of three books on women’s sexuality, including Women Who Love Sex. She is a recovering proper Bostonian. p. 11

Darlene Moore is a research associate at the Institute for Advanced Psychology in San Francisco. She has conducted special projects and taught extended perception workshops for the Institute throughout the U.S., Canada, and Europe. p. 40, 45

Beverly Kitaen Morse is a marriage and family counselor in private practice in Santa Monica and a senior instructor at the Rosenberg Rand Institute for Integrative Body Psychotherapy. p. 33

Caroline Mui has been a yoga practitioner for over 20 years. She is a Tantric Sex expert who specializes in sexual healing and awakening the goddess energy in women. p. 26

Heather Maycock Ogilvy, a psychologist in Menlo Park, California, has been in private practice for 18 years, working with adults and children. She is a longtime Esalen group leader. p. 16

Babatunde Olatunji, master percussionist from Nigeria, has performed internationally for over 30 years and is known for his album Drums of Passion. He is an authority on African religion. p. 28, 51, 54

Mary Orr has practiced vipassana meditation for ten years. Trained to teach by Jack Kornfield, she leads retreats throughout the U.S. p. 41

Kathleen O’Shaughnessy has an extensive background in Soto Zen, the major psychotherapies, movement therapy, nutritional healing, shamanic states, bodywork, and the practicalities of transpersonal crisis. p. 42

Carol Proudfoot-Edgar was a counseling psychologist at UCSC for 17 years. She leads workshops that focus on integrating shamanic methods and Native American teachings. She is a certified shamanic counselor and teacher for Michael Harner’s Foundation for Shamanic Studies. p. 15

Bill Puka researches ethics — nonjudgmental, inspirational, visionary ethics — evoked at Harvard’s Center for Moral Development. His Be Your Own Hero program promotes community service and worklife responsibility in the schools. p. 18

Johanna Putnol, has been teaching, performing, and studying the movement arts in the Bay Area since 1972. She is a senior teacher of Lomi Somatic Therapy and has a private practice in Menlo Park, CA. p. 45

Gustavo Rabin is a clinical psychologist who focuses on relationships, life’s transitions, and spiritual creativity. He has a private practice in Los Angeles. p. 17, 15, 46, 54

lobsang Raggy is a fully ordained Tibetan Buddhist monk, currently teaching as a clinical psychologist. He is a lecturer and consultant in depth psychology and Indo-Tibetan studies at Columbia University. p. 50

Paul Rebillot, a group leader at Esalen for eighteen years, combines gestalt methodology with theater and ritual. He divides his time between Europe and the U.S. p. 16, 35

Stephan Rechtschaflen, founder/president of Omega Institute, is a physician concerned with holistic approaches to wellness and longevity. He uses concepts of time as the focus for developing optimal health. p. 45

Christopher Reed has been practicing meditation since 1970, teaching since 1981, and has received Dharma transmission as a teacher from Thich Nhat Hanh. He is cofounder and resident teacher at Ordinary Dharma and Manzanita Village Meditation Centers. p. 19

Tracey Rich has earned the title of “Yoga Acharya” and is the associate director of White Lotus Foundation. She trains teachers and students and leads seminars nationally. p. 42

David Richo has a doctorate in clinical psychology and has over 20 years experience in the field. He is the author of How To Be An Adult and teaches at UCSB and Berkeley Extension. p. 26

Erik van Ruiswold is a certified Leonard Energy Trainer (LET) and Integral Transformational Practice (ITP) teacher. He is a thirty-year practitioner of the martial arts and holds a second-degree black belt in aikido. p. 37
William Pennell Rock is founder/director of Origins, a workshop process for creating and performing contemporary myths. He has lectured, led workshops, and directed productions in Europe, Asia, and the U.S. p. 20

Anita Roddick is Founder and Chief Executive Officer of The Body Shop International, a company that incorporates transformational ideas, female thinking, love, and self-education into regular business practices. p. 54

William Roll is an internationally renowned parapsychologist who made his career studying apparitions, hauntings, and poltergeists. p. 51

Jack Rosenberg, a psychologist and director of the Rosenberg-Rand Institute of Integrative Body Psychotherapy in Venice, California, is the author of Body, Self, and Soul. p. 33

Rudy Rucker, novelist, scientist, iconoclast, and cult hero, has published eighteen books, including the seminal cyberpunk novels Software and Wereware. He currently teaches computer science at San Jose State, and is working on his next novel, Freware. p. 30

Douglas Rushkoff, author of four books and many computer programs and CD ROMs, is media editor for the Whole Earth Catalogue. He has taught film, media, and theory, and lectured on computers, media, and spirituality. p. 22

David Schiffman is a longtime group leader at Esalen. His primary interest is in facilitating people who are in transition toward a more heartfelt, unstrained existence. p. 24, 34, 44, 51

Laurie Schutz, longtime Esalen massage practitioner and teacher, incorporates varied approaches to allow for nurturing, balance, and integration of the body. She has led parent-infant workshops. p. 48

Will Schutz, founder of the Antioch holistic studies department, is the creator of the Human Element, a set of training materials for organizations. He is the author of Joy and Profound Simplicity. p. 42

Alan Schwartz, longtime Esalen group leader, is a retired psychotherapist and educator. He is nationally ranked Age-Group (60-64) Triathlete whose writing includes the book Life Force-Death Force. p. 12, 23

Suzanne Scurlock-Durana, a senior instructor for the Upleader Institute, teaches CranioSacral Therapy and SomatoEmotional Release nationwide. Her lifelong fascination with integrating the energetic, spiritual, and physical has led her to teach this as well. p. 46

Bill Sechrest, a past board member of Esalen, is Vice Chairman (U.S.) of the World Business Academy and president of CDAC, a Dallas-based charitable corporation that focuses on neighborhoods, communities, and cities as organic systems. p. 54

Charlotte Selver, student of Elsa Gindler, introduced sensory awareness in the U.S., and has been closely connected with Esalen and the San Francisco Zen Center since their beginnings. p. 32

Laura Sewall has a doctorate in visual psychology and teaches ecopsychology at Prescott College. She is writing a book titled Re-visioning Earth: Landscape Perception and Love. p. 34

Phyllis Shankman is a licensed counselor in Santa Monica who teaches at Ryokan College and is a group facilitator at AIDS Project Los Angeles. She has led workshops at Esalen for over fifteen years. p. 32

Francine Shapiro, originator of EMDR, is a Senior Research Fellow at Mental Research Institute in Palo Alto, CA. Her book, Eye Movement Desensitization and Reprocessing: Basic Principles, Protocols, and Procedures, will be published in late 1994. p. 31

Paula Shaw, a professional actress and acting teacher for over twenty years, conducts workshops in expanding self-expression, well-being, and creativity for non-actors across the United States and Canada. p. 20, 21

Fred Shoemaker, an inner game teacher and golf professional, is founder of The School for Extraordinary Golf. He has taught seminars for the U.S., Canadian, and Japanese P.G.A.s, and often writes about the inner game. p. 39, 49

Cynthia Silverman has been an Advanced Rolfwer and teacher of bodywork for fifteen years. A longtime student of A Course in Miracles, she also teaches meditation and body awareness. p. 62

Julian Silverman, a former director and president of Esalen Institute, is a psychologist and educator. He has led group process and health care seminars throughout the U.S. and Europe. p. 21, 62

Gerald Smith is a licensed psychologist in private practice in Belmont, California. He has authored two books on relationships—Couple Therapy and Hidden Meanings—and has led workshops at Esalen for 28 years. p. 19

Elliot Solé is a writer, musician, and the author of Wild Heart Dancing. p. 40

Hazel Solk is a family systems therapist who specializes in working with creativity through art and play to facilitate emotional healing. p. 30, 56

Robert Solomon is a professor at the University of Texas and has been giving seminars at Esalen for eleven years. He is the author of many books, including The Passions and About Love. p. 16

Malidoma Somé is an initiated shaman of the Dagur tribe, West Africa, who teaches ritual, indigenous spirituality, and healing through ceremony. He has led gatherings with Robert Bly, Michael Meade, and James Hillman. p. 20

Sobonfu Somé was born and raised in the traditional context of the matrilineal tribe, the Dagur of West Africa. In her teaching, she creates and contains a ritual space in which Spirit is felt as an engaged participant. p. 20

Titos Sompa is a dancer, choreographer, and percussionist who specializes in the cultural arts of the Congo and Zaire. He is the Artistic Director of Mbongi Dance Theatre Project in Santa Cruz, and teaches and performs worldwide. p. 37

John Soper is a gestalt practitioner with a background in international business. He is deeply aware of the need to improve the environment. p. 62

Kathleen Riordan Speeth is a psychologist whose interests include Bach, existential philosophy, Wittgenstein, roots, and Flemish primitive painting. Although trained in Buddhist and Sufi methods, she emphasizes Western literature and ideas. She is author of The Garden Work. p. 37

Brother David Steindl-Rast, Benedictine monk, psychologist, and author, has lectured on five continents. He is concerned with the spiritual changes of our time. p. 17

Gail Stewart is a student and teacher of process-oriented bodywork. She teaches for the Trager Institute and directs reSource, a bodywork training program in Berkeley, CA. p. 43

Hal Stone, co-creator of Voice Dialogue with his wife Sidra, is a clinical psychologist who teaches internationally, focusing on the inner cast of characters that runs our lives. p. 40

Sidra Stone, a clinical psychologist, coauthored several books with her husband Hal, including Embracing Heaven and Earth; Embracing Our Selves; Embracing Each Other; and their newest, Embracing Your Inner Critic. p. 40

David Streeter, a certified sports massage practitioner at the Esalen massage staff, has taught yoga and anatomy and worked as an athletic trainer. Before joining the Esalen faculty, he lived as a Camaldolese monk. p. 16, 35, 62

Keiko Suga is a ceramic artist whose focus is on traditional pottery-making techniques using local clays. p. 46

Sara Szpektor is a clinical psychologist in private practice in Buenos Aires, Argentina. Working with couples and groups, she combines gestalt practices, strategic counseling, and spiritual development. p. 25

Yayo Tamakloe studied African dance, music, and literature at the University of Ghana and at UCLA. He dances with the Drums of Passion Dancers. p. 46

Richard Tarnas, former director of programs at Esalen, is professor of philosophy and psychology at the California Institute of Integral Studies, and author of The Passion of the Western Mind. p. 47

Jeremy Taylor has taught dream work for over 25 years. He is president of the Association for the Study of Dreams and author of Dream Work and Where People Fly and Water Runs Uphill. p. 48

William Irwin Thompson established the Lindisfarne Association in 1972 and still serves as its president. He is author of fifteen books, including works of fiction, poetry, history, cultural philosophy, and contemporary affairs. p. 25

Vicki Topp, faculty coordinator for the Esalen massage staff, teaches soft and sensitive use of pressure points and deep tissue massage combined with emotional and transpersonal body practices. p. 62

Michael Tracy has been an artistic director of Pilobolus Dance Theatre since 1974, and served as touring artistic director from 1981-1987. He has taught at many colleges and universities, most recently Trinity College and Yale University. p. 47
David Trickett, president of the World Business Academy, has worked in business, government, and education. He has degrees in history, ethics, and worldwide spiritual traditions, and a doctorate focusing on values in complex human systems. p. 54

Stuart Twemlow, physician, psychoanalyst, advanced karate black-belt, and Zen student, is clinical professor of psychiatry at the University of Kansas School of Medicine, and consultant on violence and peace to the government of Jamaica. p. 25

Steven Waldrip has been a senior instructor with the National Outdoor Leadership School. He is an associate with the Bay Area Counseling Alliance and is a student in the Ridhwan School. p. 40, 58

Robert Walter, Joseph Campbell's editor for a decade, is director of the Joseph Campbell Foundation and a poet/playwright with over 20 years of eclectic experience as a teacher, publisher, and theatrical producer/director/designer. p. 34

Ellen Watson practices and teaches at Esalen where she has studied since 1984. Her bodywork style reflects her training in yoga, dance, Reichian and holotropic breathwork, hypnosis, and spiritual healing. p. 21

Ganga White, internationally-known teacher and master of yoga, is author of Double Yoga and has received the titles "Yoga Acharya" and "Yogiraj" in India. p. 42

Patti (Lawrence) White is a Cortical Reeducation® and Feldenkrais® practitioner who employs hypnotherapy, craniosacral, kinesiology, and Somatic-Emotional Release® to harmonize body, mind, and spirit. p. 44

David Whyte, poet, storyteller, and world traveler, is the author of two books, Songs for Coming Home and Where Many Rivers Meet. He teaches throughout the U.S. and Britain. p. 22

Marianne Williamson is the author of A Return to Love, A Woman's Worth, and the soon-to-be-released Illuminata: Thoughts, Prayers, and Rites of Passage. She lectures internationally on spirituality and new thought. p. 39

Nancy Winston is a counselor in New York City who has studied with Milton Erickson and has taught and trained clinicians in the use of hypnosis and counseling. p. 38, 63

Anna Wise has been using EEGs to measure and train brainwaves for high performance and meditative states for the past 20 years. She has led workshops in the U.S., Europe, and Asia, and has a private practice in Marin County, California. p. 18, 47

Nina Wise is a performance artist who creates autobiographical and fictional pieces. Her multimedia works have been honored with seven Bay Area Critics' Circle awards and numerous grants and fellowships. p. 30, 62

Roger Woolger is a Jungian analyst who brings Buddhist meditation and body release work to his regression process and spiritual healing. Author of Other Lives, Other Selves, and The Goddess Within, he trains therapists in Europe and America. p. 38
This form is for your convenience in reserving a space in Esalen workshops. If you wish to make reservations for more than one person, please photocopy this form so that each registrant has his/her own form, unless you are registering as a couple with the same address and phone number. A nonrefundable deposit for each person registering and each workshop applied for must accompany this form. (Please see Reservation Information, page 4, under Fees and Reservations, Making Contact with Us, and Cancellation and Refund Policy.)

Name of Registrant

Sex: M ☐ F ☐ Couple ☐

Address

City __________________________ State __________________________ Zip __________

Home Phone: (___) ____________ Work Phone: (___) ____________

☐ Check if you have previously been to Esalen and this is a new address.

Occasionally there are unexpected situations that require us to contact you immediately before your stay here. If you will not be at the above numbers during the two weeks prior to the workshop, where may we reach you?

Please mark your first and second choices for housing after referring to page 4 for accommodation descriptions and rates. Total cost includes workshop fees, lodging, and meals.

☐ Check for standard accommodations, if available.
☐ Check for bunk bed room, if available.
☐ Check for sleeping bag space, if available.
☐ Check if you wish to room as a couple.

Write here the name(s) of any person(s) with whom you wish to room.

Workshop Date  Leader’s Name  Fee

All workshop reservations require a nonrefundable deposit. Balance is due at time of check-in. (See page 4.)

Workshop Deposits Enclosed: __________

Tax-deductible contribution to Esalen (Optional): __________

$5 Catalog Contribution (Optional): __________

Subtotal: __________

Total Amount Enclosed: __________

☐ Check here for $10 prepay discount (see page 5).
☐ Check here if this is your first visit to Esalen.
☐ Check here if you need directions to Esalen.
☐ Check here if you are a senior.

Passenger Van Service:
I want transportation from (check one):
☐ Monterey Greyhound Bus Stop at approximately 3:45 PM
1042 Del Monte Avenue (corner of Aquito)
☐ Monterey Airport at approximately 4:00 PM on
(date of arrival, Fridays and Sundays only).

The $30 per person charge (subject to change) is payable on arrival at Esalen. If your plans for use of the passenger van service change after you have made your reservation, please notify us. The only departing van service from Esalen is on Fridays and Sundays at approximately 5:30 PM. Passenger van service is not available at any other time.

Other Notes:
All of our rooms are non-smoking. If you smoke, please plan to do so outside.

No pets allowed.

We are unable to act as a banking service for our guests. Please bring adequate funds for your stay.

☐ We occasionally make our mailing list available to other organizations who have services, information, or events that might be of interest to our subscribers. Please check here if you prefer that your name be used for Esalen mailings only.

☐ Check here if we may give your phone number out for ride-sharing.

Please make checks payable to Esalen Institute, in U.S. currency only. (There will be a $15 fee for returned checks.) Overseas residents must pay by checks drawn on U.S. banks or with one of the charge cards below. Checks or credit card information must accompany the reservations form. Or, you may fax this form to us at 408-667-2724. If you do so, you must include payment via one of the credit cards below.

Your reservation can be charged to:
☐ MasterCard  ☐ Visa  ☐ American Express

Card No. __________

Expiration Date __________

Thank you for your reservation. As soon as it is processed you will receive by return mail a receipt for your deposit and a notice of confirmation. Please review your confirmation for accuracy.
Esalen Institute is a center to encourage work in the humanities and sciences that promotes human values and potentials. Its activities consist of public seminars, residential work-study programs, invitational conferences, research, and semi-autonomous projects.
Esalen Institute is a center to explore work in the humanities and sciences that promotes human values and potentials. Its activities consist of public seminars, residential work-study programs, invitational conferences, research, and semi-autonomous projects.

We exist to sponsor, encourage, synthesize, and attempt evaluation of work in these areas, both inside and outside our own organizational framework. Since we are a center for experimental education, we ask that persons come to our programs out of an educational interest.

We ask that no one come whose interest is "cure." We point out here, as we have in workshops and seminars, that some people, particularly those with a history of psychiatric problems, may find some programs difficult, trying, or potentially risky. We recommend that in case of any doubt, a physician or trusted counselor be consulted.
CONTENTS

Volume XXXIV, Number 2

Audio Recordings ............................................ 65
Biographical Information .................................... 66
Catalog Subscription Information ......................... at right
Continuing Education for Nurses ............................... 60
Esalen Notes .................................................. 6
Esalen Seminars ................................................ 11
Future Programs .............................................. 59
Friends of Esalen ............................................. 6
Gazebo School Park Early Childhood Program ............. 5
General Information ......................................... 3
Guide to Workshops ......................................... 7
Invitational Conferences .................................... 59
Reservation Form ............................................. 72
Reservation Information .................................... 4
Scholarship Information ..................................... 5
Special Programs ............................................ 56
Wilderness Programs ........................................ 58
Work Study Program and Application ............... 62-64

Esalen Institute
Highway 1
Big Sur, California 93920-9616
Catalog Requests: 408-644-8476

Esalen Board of Trustees:
Mary Ellen Klee
Bokara Legendre
George Leonard
Michael Murphy
Dean Ornish
Jeremy Tarcher

President and CEO:
Sharon Thom

Director of Programming:
Nancy Kaye Lunney

Operations Managers:
Mary Mooney
David Price

Esalen Catalog Staff:
Editors:
Margaret Livingston
Peter Friedberg
Administrative Liaison:
Patricia Lewine
Design & Production:
Terry McGrath

The Esalen Catalog is published triannually by the Esalen Institute,
Big Sur, California 93920-9616.
Printed on recycled paper.
©1995 Esalen Institute.
All rights reserved.

Subscription Information:
Subscription cost for one year is $15 for the United States, $17 for Canada and Mexico, $22 for Europe and South America, and $25 for all other countries.

Although we're delighted to provide you with this issue of the catalog, if you are not currently a subscriber we would appreciate a $5 contribution to defray postage and production costs.
EAST ENLIES 300 MILES NORTH OF LOS ANGELES AND 175 MILES SOUTH OF SAN FRANCISCO, SITUATED DIRECTLY OVER THE PACIFIC WITH THE SANTA LUCIA RANGE RISING SHARPLY BEHIND. THE PROPERTY, BLESSED WITH NATURAL HOT SPRINGS, WAS ONCE THE HOME OF A NATIVE AMERICAN TRIBE KNOWN AS ESALEN.

We are a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on Coast Route 1. From the south, we are 30 miles north of San Simeon. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute, By Reservation Only.

There are various ways to experience Esalen, ranging from an overnight visit to a long-term stay as a seminarian. The weekend and five-day workshops described throughout the catalog are the standard route for coming to Esalen and learning the methods of personal growth available here. The "Experiencing Esalen" workshops, scheduled periodically, offer an introduction to practices such as gestalt, massage, sensory awareness, and meditation. From such a sampling, participants can then choose those approaches they are most attracted to and pursue them in subsequent seminars.

Another way of being at Esalen which allows a much greater involvement at a lower expense is the Work Study Program, an intensive twenty-eight day work-oriented program for individuals who want to make a directed, personal commitment to self-exploration and growth and a contribution to the Esalen community. Participants may enroll in the general interest track, which gives an overview of several disciplines, or choose a more specific course of study from the focused track, such as gestalt, meditation, Reichian work, or massage.

Information regarding special interest sections may be obtained by writing Bette Dingman, c/o Esalen. For a full description of the Work Study Program, please turn to page 62.

For those who wish an extended stay of a month or more, there are frequent long-term workshops which involve didactic seminars or professional trainings as well as experiential workshops. Please see Special Programs.

Finally, there are other events that enrich life at Esalen. There are occasional forums in which writers and thinkers, both visiting and resident, share their ideas with the community. On Wednesday nights there may be lectures, films, dance performances, or other forms of entertainment. Bodywork of various kinds is available by appointment with individual practitioners. There is also a community event schedule offered. Please check the bulletin board for details when you arrive.

Catalog Subscriptions

If you would like to receive the Esalen Catalog, please refer to page 2 for subscription rates and send your check or money order (U.S. currency) in the enclosed subscription envelope, or mail it to: Subscriptions, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920 (see Income Tax Regulation 1.162-5).

The Hot Springs at Esalen

We would like those people who are planning their first visit to Esalen to know that swimming suits are optional, and nudity common. In the hot springs, massage area, and swimming pool. We encourage each individual to choose what is most comfortable, either wearing a swimsuit or not, and emphasize that the environment we strive for at Esalen is one of personal sanctuary and respect for the human body.

Accreditation

Many formal educational institutions recognize the time spent at Esalen as being worthy of credit in their own curricula; check with your university or college for further information. We would be glad to supply information to your school regarding any of our programs or series of programs. Please submit a written request to the office supervisor.

Continuing Education for Nurses

Some programs offered at Esalen qualify for continuing education credit with the California Board of Registered Nursing. For current C.E. listings, see pages 60-61.

There is a $10 processing fee for each certificate of completion requested.

Recommended Reading and Mail Order Books

Most books listed as recommended reading for workshops are available through Esalen's bookstore. Other merchandise is also available. For ordering information please call 408-667-3049.

Ongoing Residence Program

Offered beginning mid-September and ending mid-June, the Ongoing Residence Program is designed for those who would like to have time and space in the Esalen environment for an intensive workshop program over a long term. A Residence Program stay is 26 days (four "weeks" and three weekends).

Participants may select any of the five-day workshops offered during their stay with weekends free to enjoy room and board. Occasionally workshops are cancelled, so second choices are advised.

The cost is $3195 per 26-day period for standard accommodations and $2520 for bunk bed rooms.

Disabled Access

Esalen now provides a means of transportation to the baths for those with physical limitations which prevent them from walking. A vehicle was purchased, in part, through the generosity of Dr. John W. Harris, who believes, as we do, that those among us who are aged, infirm, or handicapped should also be able to enjoy the hot springs.

If you are disabled and would like to plan a visit to Esalen or participate in a workshop, please give the office as much advance notice as possible. While disabled access to some parts of the property is difficult, with enough planning, arrangements can be made for access to most of our facilities.
Making Contact with Us

Mail or Fax: The most efficient way to register for a workshop at Esalen is to fax or mail your reservation. If you fax your reservation, be sure to include accurate credit card information.

Esalen’s Fax: 408-667-2724.
(Our fax line is exclusively for reservations—no personal correspondence, please).

Phone: If you prefer to make your reservation by phone, please be prepared with your completed reservation form and your credit card. We know that all calls to Esalen are long distance and will try to be as efficient as possible.

General Information:
408-667-3000

Express Reservations:
408-644-8477
(This is only for those who have previously taken a workshop at Esalen and know the workshop, date, and leader of the workshop for which they are registering.)

All Other Reservations:
408-667-3005

Catalog Requests: 408-644-8476

Phone Reservation Hours:
Mon., Tues., Thur.: 10 AM to 7 PM
Wed., Fri.: 10 AM to 12 NOON
Sat.: 10 AM to 3 PM
Sun.: 12 NOON to 5 PM

Fees
Please Note: Workshop fees cover tuition, food, and lodging.

Fees and Reservations: Preregistration, by fax, mail, or phone, is required prior to arrival. A registration form is provided on page 72. Since workshops fill quickly, it is advisable to sign up as early as possible. In order to reserve a space in any workshop, we require full payment or the following deposits:

Weekend: $150
5 to 7 days: $250
12 to 14 days: $350

More than 21 days: $450

Deposits are payable in U.S. currency only. Overseas residents must pay by checks drawn on U.S. banks or use a credit card. Balance of payment is due on arrival. (Please see page 5 for information on discounts and reduced rate options.) Please indicate your second choice for a workshop in case your first choice is cancelled and we are unable to reach you.

Esalen Institute reserves the right to cancel any program at any time.

Accommodations

Standard Accommodations: This is shared housing with two or three persons per room. In some cases, bathrooms are shared. Couples will always be housed together. The rates listed with the workshop descriptions throughout the catalog refer to these shared standard accommodations.

7-Day Rate, per person $1110
5-Day Rate, per person $740
Weekend Rate, per person $380

Bunk Bed Rooms: Bunk beds are available for seminar participants who are willing to share a room with three or more persons. There are a limited number of these spaces, which are reserved on a first-come, first-served basis.

$845
$550
$300

Sleeping Bags: Sleeping bag space may be available for workshop participants. Please inquire when you make your reservations.

$570
$375
$200

Own Accommodations: If you are staying off the property the following rates apply:

$660
$425
$235

Camping on the grounds, either in tents or campers, is prohibited. We do not have parking space to accommodate RVs.

We would like to remind you that scholarship assistance is available; refer to “Scholarship Information” as well as “Reduced Rate Options and Discounts” for other economical ways of staying at Esalen.

Room and Board

Occasionally, when beds aren’t needed for seminarians, room and board is available. This gives visitors the opportunity to enjoy the grounds, the baths, and massage without participating in a workshop. Accommodations are standard (2 or 3 per room) or bunk bed (4 or more per room). Not all rooms have private baths. Room and board rates include dinner on the day of arrival and breakfast and lunch on the following day. We require full payment at the time of reservation. This payment is nonrefundable and nontransferable.

Note: Room and Board reservations must be made by phone, not by fax machine.

For a room and board stay between Sunday and Thursday, please call us no earlier than the Thursday before for room availability. For a Friday or Saturday night stay, please call no earlier than the Sunday before. The following rates are per person, per day.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Weekend (Fri. and Sat.)</th>
<th>Weekday (Sun. through Thurs.)</th>
<th>(Two or more weekdays)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Standard Accommodations (2 or 3 per room):</td>
<td>$125</td>
<td>$105</td>
<td>$90</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bunk Bed (4 or more per room):</td>
<td>$85</td>
<td>$80</td>
<td>$70</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

*Off-season rates are in effect from October 1 through March 31, holidays excepted.

Cancellation Policy

Cancellation and Refund Policy: If you cancel or change any part of your reservation at least five full days before the start of your workshop, your nonrefundable deposit, less a $30 processing fee, will be transferred to a credit account to be used within one year. If you cancel with less than five days’ notice, you forfeit your entire deposit. If you have prepaid your entire reservation fee, we will retain the deposit, as above, less the $30 processing fee, and return the balance to you. (Please note: Wilderness Programs has a different cancellation and refund policy.)

If you have applied for a scholarship and we are unable to give you any assistance, we will, at your request, refund your deposit in full if you cancel your reservation at least five full days prior to the start of your workshop.
Scholarship Information

Esalen is able to provide some scholarship assistance to workshop participants in exchange for a work commitment (usually in housekeeping). Approved scholarship recipients must contact the labor pool supervisor soon after arrival at Esalen.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Assistance</th>
<th>Work</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Weekend</td>
<td>$50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3-9 days</td>
<td>$100</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12-14 days</td>
<td>$200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>14+ days</td>
<td>$300</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Due to the number of requests we receive, we can only provide one scholarship per person per year, and only in cases of financial hardship.

Reduced Rate Options and Discounts

If you pay in full at the time you make your reservation, you will receive a $10 prepaid discount per workshop and be eligible for express check-in upon arrival. This discount does not apply to scholarship recipients or sleeping bag accommodations.

Senior Citizen Discount: Esalen offers a special discount to individuals over 60 years of age. The discount for a weekend workshop is $25; for a five-day or longer workshop, it's $50. Please request this discount at the time of registration. When you complete the reservation form on page 72, please indicate the discounts for which you qualify. If you qualify, and you make your reservation by phone, be sure to ask for this discount. (Please note: Senior discounts are not available for the Work Study Program.)

Accommodations for Families: Two full-paying adults housed in standard accommodations may have their children in the room for a meal charge of $19 per child per day ($9 for children under six). Note: If children are enrolled in Gazebo School Park or an Esalen workshop, additional fees are required. Contact the Gazebo, 408-667-3019, for information regarding their fees.

Workshops for Families: Participating families will pay full workshop rates for the first two participants (adult or child). Each additional participant will pay the following rate:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>2-day workshop</th>
<th>3-day</th>
<th>4-day</th>
<th>5-day</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>$115</td>
<td>$165</td>
<td>$210</td>
<td>$245</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Additional sleeping mats and bedding will be provided for each room.

The Gazebo School Park Early Childhood Program

The Gazebo School Park is a unique educational experience for children one to six years. It is open year-round and has an average of 15 to 20 children in attendance each day.

The Early Childhood Program is available to seminarians who would like child care at Esalen. Child care is provided during workshop hours only. Daytime activities for the children include gardening, pony rides, learning about animal care, exploring nature, a real boat, the magic castle, and an Indian tepee. Evenings are spent with a teacher in the Gazebo Farmhouse, engaged in activities that are age appropriate, such as reading, learning and playing with the computer, baking, arts and crafts, or building-block play.

Reservations should be made at least one month in advance. Call the Gazebo Farmhouse, 408-667-3026, for more information and reservations.

Internship Program: This is a three-month program for those who wish to have intense exposure to life at the Gazebo School Park and its unique educational resources. The Internship Program offers experience with children, the Gazebo environment, and its teaching philosophy. Applicants must have completed at least three work scholar months at Esalen before being considered for this program.

Call the Gazebo Farmhouse, 408-667-3026, for more information or reservations.

Transportation to Esalen

Van Service: On Fridays and Sundays we have van service from the Monterey Greyhound stop leaving at approximately 3:45 p.m. and from the Monterey Airport at approximately 4 p.m. If you plan to use this service, please inform the Esalen office at least 24 hours prior to your arrival. The $30 one-way fee (subject to change) is payable to the Esalen office when you check in. Return reservations may be made at that time. The only departing van service from Esalen is on Fridays and Sundays at approximately 5:30 p.m.

Checking In

Check-in and Meals: Rooms become available at 4 p.m.; however, guests are welcome to arrive anytime after 2 p.m. Weekend programs begin with dinner on Friday and end with brunch on Sunday. Five-day and longer programs begin with dinner on Friday or Sunday and end with lunch on Friday or Sunday. Check-out time is noon on departure day.

F. Y. I.

Health Services: There are no medical services or pharmaceutical supplies available at Esalen. If you will require medical attention or supplies during your stay, please come prepared to administer to your own needs. Esalen is 45 miles from the nearest medical facility or pharmacy.

For Your Safety: Please bring a flashlight for use at night while walking on the grounds.

Illegal Drugs: In accordance with state and federal laws, the possession or use of illegal drugs on Esalen grounds is strictly prohibited.

Lost and Found: To inquire about items left behind from your Esalen visit, call 408-667-3019.

Guests: Seminarians are not allowed guests on the property during their stay.

Pets: No pets are allowed on the property.

Smoking: Smoking is not permitted in any of our accommodations or meeting rooms.

Complaints or Comments? Please contact Kim Harper at 408-667-3014
The Arts at Esalen

In the past year, Esalen has revitalized its arts program, hosting groups such as the American Conservatory Theatre (returning in April to rehearse Euripides’ Hecuba, starring Olympia Dukakis) and the Hermitage Group of St. Petersburg, a group of Russian artists who spent several days painting in the Art Barn. Our Artist-in-Residence program, established to provide the time and space for artists to work in a retreat-like setting, has hosted the residencies of Kathryn Koszak, Christopher Castle, Joan Baez, David Darling, Gloria Naylor, and Margot McLean. The focus of the program is on supporting the work of artists; however, others at Esalen, staff and seminarians alike, have benefited from the residencies, enjoying the poetry readings, music, art exhibits, and dance performances at the Wednesday night Huxley series and on our new outdoor dance platform/amphitheater.

October 22-27, Esalen is hosting its first annual Arts Festival, drawing on its long-time relationships with artists, musicians, dancers, actors, and teachers of art to create a unique and, it is anticipated, exciting event. See page 54 for details.

Richard Olney (1915-1994)

Dick Olney graced Esalen with wisdom and compassion for many years. His gentle grandfatherly presence and crystal clear teachings touched all of us here who came into contact with him. His work was a synthesis of many wisdom-traditions, beginning with hypnosis, Gestalt therapy, and bioenergetics, and expanding to include shamanism, Native American practices, and Eastern philosophy, becoming a teaching that embodied both psychotherapy and spirituality.

“Tun ka shela, I’m only here for help and health,” was one of the things Dick would often say. He saw Esalen as a place that stood for help and health, and so felt comfortable here and supportive of Esalen’s mission. At his death, Dick’s family requested that, in lieu of flowers or other expressions of love, memorial contributions be sent to Esalen. Please send them to:

The Olney Fund
Attention: Barbara Cohen
Esalen Institute
Big Sur, CA 93920

Contributions will be used to further the work that Dick embodied.

The Esalen Catalog (1962-1992)
available via the Educational Resources Information Center (ERIC)

Anyone interested in The Esalen Catalog as human potential movement historical source material for research purposes can now obtain the complete thirty-one-year set from ERIC’s document delivery arm, the ERIC Document Reproduction Service (EDRS, 7420 Fullerton Road, Suite 110, Springfield, Virginia 22153-2852; 1-800-443-3742).

The Friends of Esalen Program

THE FRIENDS OF ESALEN

The Friends of Esalen program supports the scholarship fund which provides financial aid to people who want to attend our workshops but cannot otherwise afford them. In addition to knowing that you have given someone else the opportunity to experience Esalen and are supporting our ongoing work, you will receive for one year the Esalen Catalog, the quarterly Friends Newsletter, and the annual Friends Directory.

If you join as a Supporting Member or above, you will receive an autographed copy of Michael Murphy’s book The Future of the Body. At the Sustaining Member level, you will also be mentioned in our newsletter, unless you wish to remain anonymous. As a Benefactor, you will, in addition to the above, receive a special gift.

The Group 2000 is made up of individuals who are committed to helping Esalen have the long-term financial capability to fulfill its vision into the year 2000. The members meet together and with staff members at Esalen two weekends each year, in June and December. As a member of the Founders Circle, you will be able to meet individually with our CEO.

We invite you to join us in extending Esalen into the lives of other people.

Contributions will be used to further the work that Dick embodied.
GUIDE TO WORKSHOPS

This is a guide to the workshops offered in this catalog. Although many of the them could be cross-referenced, most are listed only in their main subject area. We recommend that you read the workshop description before deciding to register. If you have never been to Esalen or taken an Esalen workshop, you might want to consider the 'Experiencing Esalen' workshop scheduled throughout the catalog and listed in the Integral Practices section of this directory. Please call the Esalen office if you have questions concerning a workshop.

THE ARTS / CREATIVITY

May 7-12 • Vision Painting
May 12-19 • The Painting Experience
May 19-21 • Present at the Creation: Reawakening the Artist Within May 21-26 • Pottery at Esalen
May 26-28 • African Dance: Expressions of Spiritual Energy
May 28-June 2 • Pilobolus: Collaborative Creativity Method
June 16-18 • Singing Gestalt
June 23-25 • Natural Genius: An Authenticity of Being June 25-30 • Reawakening the Artist Within
June 30-July 7 • Language of the Drums: African Percussion, Chanting, and Dance
June 30-July 2 • The Body of Metaphor: The Craft and Magic of Figurative Language
June 30-July 2 • Art from the Heart: A Workshop for Families
July 1-7 • Forgotten Treasures of Western Spirituality: Christian Alchemy and Pagan Icons
July 7-9 • The Language of the Drum: Intermediate Level
July 7-9 • Moving World: Nature, Movement, Art
July 9-14 • Massage Mbunde
July 9-14 • Ninth Annual Children's Safari: A Music and Dance Festival
July 16-21 • The Naked Soul: A Ritual Theater Lab
July 23-28 • Animals, Angels, and Other Spiritual Allies: A Study in Film
July 23-28 • The Singing Cure
July 28-30 • Esalen Chamber Music Festival
July 30-August 4 • Writing the Natural Way
August 4-6 • Play, Spontaneity, and Performance Art
August 6-11 • Drawing and Painting
August 6-11 • Living Dance: A Moving Way
August 11-13 • Learning to Tell: Finding Your Essential Stories
August 18-20 • Big Sur Bead Making
August 25-27 • Vision Painting
August 27-September 1 • Reawakening the Artist Within August 27-September 1 • Naming the Lost: Improvisation, Storytelling, and Grief
September 1-3 • The Healing Voice
September 3-8 • The Writer's Way: A Personal Adventure Through Writing
September 8-10 • Creating From Spirit
September 10-15 • Drawing the Mystic Light of Nature
September 15-17 • Jewish Humor
September 17-22 • Biodrama

BIOFEEDBACK / HYPNOSIS

May 7-12 • Self-Hypnosis
May 21-June 16 • Certification in Clinical Hypnosis
May 28-June 2 • Awakened Mind: Five-Day Brainwave Training Intensive
August 20-25 • Enhancing Communication Hypnotically
October 20-22 • Awakened Mind II: Advanced Brainwave Training and Transcendent States

BUSINESS / WORKPLACE / SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY

May 5-7 • Rekindling the Spirit in Work
June 30-July 2 • Reconnecting Business with its Soul
July 14-16 • Identity, Community, and Politics: The Ontogeny of Everyday Life
August 6-11 • Managing With Heart: Changing the Leadership Paradigm
September 22-24 • A Weekend with Matthew Fox
October 6-8 • Building a Successful Career as a Writer, Public Speaker, and Consultant
October 6-8 • Building in a Sacred Way
October 15-20 • The Future of Leadership: Integrating Creativity, Value, and Accountability
October 27-29 • CoHousing: Creating Your Own Community

CHILDREN / FAMILIES / EDUCATION

June 30-July 2 • Art from the Heart: A Workshop for Families
July 7-9 • Big Sur Wilderness Experience: For Families
July 7-9 • Replenishing the Vision: A Retreat for Educators
July 9-14 • Ninth Annual Children's Safari: A Music and Dance Festival
July 23-28 • Our Children - Ourselves

BEST COPY AVAILABLE

446
CONTEMPLATIVE / SPIRITUAL & RELIGIOUS STUDIES

April 30-May 5 • An Insight Meditation Retreat
June 2-4 • Introduction to Vipassana Meditation
June 16-18 • Meditation, the Self, and Healing
June 23-25 • Jewish Renewal: Finding and Healing the Jewish Part of Your Soul
June 25-30 • Practicing in the Marketplace: The Diamond Approach
July 2-7 • Forgotten Treasures of Western Spirituality: Christian Alchemy and Pagan Icons
July 9-14 • Following the Thread... Revealing the Fabric
July 9-14 • The Enneagram of Relationship
July 14-16 • The Kabbalah: Doorway to the Mind
July 16-21 • A Journey into the Mother
August 6-11 • The Enneagram and Self-Realization
September 1-3 • The Healing Voice
September 3-8 • Nature and Contemplation
September 8-10 • Soul and Spirit
September 10-15 • Dzogchen: Awakening the Buddha Within
September 15-17 • The Meditation Hall and Everyday Life
September 17-22 • Zen Teachings of Mountains, Rivers, and the Great Earth
September 22-24 • A Weekend with Matthew Fox
September 24-29 • A Course in Miracles
September 29-October 1 • Return, Remember, Renew: The Jewish New Year
October 6-8 • Toward Waking Up: Cultivating Mindfulness
October 8-13: The Subtle Art of Meditation
October 27-29 • Introduction to Vipassana Meditation

DREAMS

April 30-May 5 • Dreams and Intuition
June 4-9 • Dreaming: The Magic Mirror that Never Lies
July 23-28 • The Dream Master: Dreams and Fantasies

HEALTH / HEALING

May 14-19 • Creating Health through Imagery
May 19-21 • Recovery
June 2-4 • Medicinal Herbology: An Esalen Garden Workshop
June 9-11 • Optimum Health: Theory and Practice
June 11-16 • Chakra Integration: A Complete Approach to Health and Healing
June 16-23 • Developing a Fitness Regimen for Optimal Well-Being
June 23-25 • Caring for the Dying: What Really Works?
July 14-16 • Healthy Back, Healthy Mind
July 30-August 4 • Managing Your Stress, Your Heart, and Your Life
August 11-13 • Stress Reduction: An East/West Approach
September 3-8 • Spiritual Healing: Laying-on-of-Hands
September 8-10 • Chi Gung: Opening the Energy Gates of Your Body
September 15-17 • Transpersonal Medicine
September 29-October 1 • Psychoneuroimmunology and its Implications

INTEGRAL PRACTICES

May 12-14 • Experiencing Esalen
May 19-21 • The Ultimate Yes
June 2-4 • Experiencing Esalen
June 25-30 • Turning on the Light: A Choice to Live Consciously
July 7-9 • Experiencing Esalen
July 21-23 • The Subtle Self
August 4-6 • Experiencing Esalen
August 11-13 • The Eastern Path to Long-Term Fulfillment
August 20-25 • Healing the Emotional/Spiritual Body
August 27-September 1 • Conscious Embodiment: The Study of Boundaries and Relationship
September 3-8 • Life Energy Process
September 8-10 • Experiencing Esalen
September 17-22 • Turning on the Light: A Choice to Live Consciously
September 24-29 • Stepping into Your Body of Light
October 13-15 • Experiencing Esalen

INTUITIVE DEVELOPMENT

April 30-May 5 • Dreams and Intuition
May 21-26 • Intuition, Perception, and Altered States of Consciousness
July 7-9 • Practical Intuition: Introduction
August 27-September 1 • Intuition and the Dance of Attention

MARTIAL ARTS / YOGA / SPORT

April 30-May 5 • Tai Chi Ch'uan: An East/West Approach
May 7-12 • Yoga: A Week of Learning and Rejuvenation
June 9-11 • Yoga for the '90s
June 11-16 • Golf in the Kingdom: An Exploration of the Inner Game
August 18-20 • The Inner — and Outer — Game of Baseball
August 22-September 1 • Conscious Embodiment: The Study of Boundaries and Relationship
September 8-10 • Chi Gung: Opening the Energy Gates of Your Body
September 24-29 • Golf in the Kingdom: An Exploration of the Inner Game

MYTH / RITUAL / SHAMANISM / ANTHROPOLOGY

May 5-7 • Regaining the Tribal Mind: A Workshop for Women
May 26-28 • The Story of the Tasaday: Learning What is Essential
June 18-23 • Evocation of the Deceased in a Latter-Day Psychomanteum
July 2-7 • Mending the Sacred Hoop: The Use of Ritual in Therapy and Life
August 13-18 • Kinship With All Life

ERIC
August 20-25 • The Medicine Wheel Way
September 1-3 • Women, Men, Sex, and Power: Life in the 21st Century
September 3-8 • The Art of Ceremony
September 17-22 • Biodrama
October 27-29 • Horror and the Holy: Wisdom Teachings of the Monster Tale

PHILOSOPHICAL INQUIRY / INTELLECTUAL PLAY
May 5-7 • Euclid's Voyage
July 14-16 • Identity, Community, and Politics: The Ontogeny of Everyday Life
July 21-23 • Choice in Dying: Toward a Good Death
August 25-27 • Experiments That Could Change the World

PROFESSIONAL GROWTH / TRAINING
May 12-19 • Gestalt Practicum
May 14-19 • Creating Health through Imagery
May 21-June 16 • Certification in Clinical Hypnosis
May 26-28 • Refilling the Chalice: Time Out for Healers
June 11-16 • Sexual Trauma Survivors: Specific Strategies for Body, Mind, and Spiritual Healing
June 16-18 • EMDR: Treating the Trauma Victim
July 2-7 • Mending the Sacred Hoop: The Use of Ritual in Therapy and Life
July 21-23 • Intimate Connections
July 23-28 • Creating Exact Moments of Healing
August 11-13 • The Helper's Journey: Working with Grief, Loss, and Life-Threatening Illness
October 13-15 • Pushing the Envelope

PSYCHOLOGICAL / TRANSPERSONAL PROCESS
April 30-May 5 • Emotional Elimination
May 7-12 • Endarkenment and Beyond
May 12-19 • Gestalt Practicum
May 14-19 • The Practical Art of Creative Risk-Taking May 19-21 • Time Shifting: Creating Time for Your Life
May 19-21 • 'Tis a Gift to be Simple
May 28-June 2 • Making it Float
June 4-9 • Opening the Feelings
June 9-11 • The Power of Growth
June 11-16 • Recovering from the Loss of a Parent

RELATIONSHIP / COMMUNICATION
May 26-28 • Relationships: The Sacred Path of Love, Sex, and Passion
June 2-4 • Conscious Loving: A Body-Centered Approach to Relationship Transformation
July 9-14 • The Enneagram of Relationship
July 21-23 • Fathers and Daughters
July 23-28 • Gender War, Gender Peace: The Art of Gender Diplomacy
July 30-August 4 • Friendship and Intimacy: The Dance of Caring and Conflict
July 30-August 4 • Relationship Intensive for Sexual Abuse Survivors and/or Partners
August 4-6 • Keeping a Good Relationship Alive
August 13-18 • A Workshop for Couples: Independence and Intimacy
August 18-20 • Romantic Choice: How We Choose Who to Fall in Love With August 20-25 • Enhancing Communication Hypnotically
August 25-27 • Intimate Relationships: Keeping the Spark Alive
September 24-29 • Relationships: Letting Go – Moving On October 6-8 • Relationships, Power, and Abuse: A Process Work Seminar
October 8-13 • Tantra: The Art of Conscious Loving
October 20-22 • Forgiveness: The Key to Intimacy

C SOMATICS
May 5-7 • An Introduction to the Living Brain
May 7-12 • Five-Day Massage Intensive
May 12-19 • Cortical Reeducation® and the Feldenkrais Method®
May 21-26 • Lomi Somatic Intensive: An Active Exploration of Presence
May 21-26 • The Upledger Institute's CranioSacral II
June 4-9 • Mountains and Waves
June 9-11 • Weekend Massage Intensive
June 11-16 • Chakra Integration: A Complete Approach to Health and Healing
June 16-18 • Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach
June 18-23 • Part of the Dancing Heart: The Body as Map
June 23-25 • Body Rejuvenation
June 25-30 • The Body and Zen
July 2-7 • Movement, Touch, and the Healing Process
July 9-14 • Massage Mbundu
July 21-23 • Massage Intensive for Couples
July 30-August 4 • Core Zero Balancing: Basic I & II
August 13-18 • Five-Day Massage Intensive
August 18-20 • Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach
August 20-25 • Continuum

August 25-27 • Breema Bodywork: The Nonjudgmental Treatment
August 27-September 1 • Intuition and the Dance of Attention
August 27-September 1 • Trigger Point and Esalen Massage
September 15-17 • Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach
September 17-22 • Five-Day Massage Intensive
September 20-September 24 • Reinhabiting Your Body: An Experience in Authentic Movement
October 1-6 • Creative Bodywork: An Advanced Workshop
October 8-15 • Cortical Reeducation® and the Feldenkrais Method®
October 15-20 • The Upledger Institute’s SomatoEmotional Release I
October 27-29 • A Massage Workshop for Women
October 29-November 3 • Five-Day Massage Intensive

C WILDERNESS
April 28-May 6 • Big Sur Wilderness Journey: From Esalen to Tassajara Zen Mountain Center
May 28-June 2 • Big Sur Wilderness Experience
June 4-9 • Mountains and Waves
June 23-25 • Big Sur Wilderness Experience
July 7-9 • Big Sur Wilderness Experience: For Families
July 16-22 • Origins: A Rites of Passage Journey in the Ventana Wilderness
August 20-25 • Big Sur Wilderness Experience
September 3-8 • Nature and Contemplation
September 17-22 • Zen Teachings of Mountains, Rivers, and the Great Earth

C WOMEN’S / MEN’S STUDIES
May 5-7 • Regaining the Tribal Mind: A Workshop for Women
July 14-16 • Why Men Are the Way They Are August 6-11 • Women’s Wisdom
October 1-6 • Moving Through Idealization and Shame to Love: A Workshop for Gay Men
October 13-15 • When Drummers Were Women
October 20-22 • Joy, Inspiration, and Hope: A Retreat for Gay Men
October 27-29 • A Massage Workshop for Women
April 26-May 6

Big Sur Wilderness Journey: From Esalen to Tassajara Zen Mountain Center

Steven Harper & Steven Waldrip

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 58. $740

Week of April 30-May 5

An Insight Meditation Retreat

Mary Orr

Insight (vipassana) meditation, taken from the teachings of the Buddha, is a practice of cultivating peacefulness in the mind and openness in the heart. It is learning to live in the present moment, to ride more easily with the ups and downs of our lives.

This workshop will be a week of alternating periods of sitting and walking meditation, talks, instructions, and interviews. It is an ideal retreat for people beginning practice as well as for experienced meditators. $740

Dreams and Intuition

Carolyn Conger

This is an experiential workshop designed to develop your dreamwork and intuitive skills. You will be guided to enter the mystery of the unconscious through psychological modalities, symbology, meditation, movement, energy work, drama, writing, and art. The group process — sharing, witnessing, ritualizing — will amplify the understanding of dreams and intuitive skills, which can lead to the development of inner wisdom and creativity. The work is profound, intellectually stimulating, spontaneous, and fun.

Bring your dreams and psychic/mystical experiences — or be prepared to have some — and an open mind. Also bring a notebook for dreams and journal writing, and a pad of art paper with crayons, felt-tips, or colored pencils. In addition, there will be tribal ceremonies, so bring a drum or other instrument if you have one.

Participants at all levels of development are welcome — the group will benefit from the freshness of beginners and the experience of advanced students. $740

T'ai Chi Ch'uan: An East/West Approach

Kenn Chase

This seminar will present a demonstration form of T'ai Chi Ch'uan, a shortened version derived from the fifty-four balanced, fluid, and graceful postures of the classical Yang style. Kenn Chase teaches an integral method, utilizing Feldenkrais Awareness Through Movement exercises, sensory awareness, and Chi Kung. These methods aid the participant in learning through ease and relaxation. Practiced five to ten minutes daily, this gentle martial art can calm the mind and provide the student with a centered perspective for daily living in a busy world.

Recommended reading: Cheng Man Ch'in, Cheng Tsu's Thirteen Treatises on T'ai Chi Ch'uan. $740
Emotional Elimination: The Pathway to Self-Respect

Michael Barnett

We ingest the experiences of our lives through our senses. We digest the experiences of our lives with our bodies. How can we absorb just what nourishes us and eliminate the waste?

Because we allow cultural expectations to define what we’re supposed to be and supposed to experience, we suffer, in our culture, from a lack of self-respect, a devaluation of our internal experience. We sit in judgment of our own experience, trying to alter it to conform to institutional generalizations. How can we remain aware of what our internal experience is so that we can accept it and be true to it?

This workshop aims to increase awareness of the emotional ingestion, digestion, absorption, and elimination processes from a natural point of view, in order to enable participants to experience that which our emotional blockages protect: our spirits.

The workshop will use didactic presentations to create a vocabulary for communication and semi-hypnotic relaxation techniques to generate material to process. Eclectic group methods to process and understand the material will be used.

This workshop is for everyone who eats, feels, and lives in a culture. Come with an agenda or allow an agenda to evolve. As you can see from this workshop description, a Western medical psychiatric approach will not be employed.

$740

Weekend of May 5-7

Rekindling the Spirit in Work

Howard Schecter & Barbara Lee

"Rekindling the Spirit in Work" is about reconnecting with yourself and the work you do. Through creative exercises and sharing with the group, you can gain clarity about your goals in work, the skills required to reach those goals, and a deeper awareness of your strengths. The process can help you to confront and dissolve major blocks to rewarding work and to integrate who you are with what you do. This process is far more effective than narrow vocational perspectives. The emphasis is on the question "Who is working?" By identifying with our highest self, what we do can flow more easily and be a direct expression in the world of who we are inside.

This workshop is for people who are beginning new careers, in transition, dissatisfied, or simply bored with their work. Participants often come away with a sense of clarity and purpose, and seldom feel the need to make radical shifts in job or profession. Rather, the subtle inner adjustments of identity, attitude, and perspective create greater job satisfaction and offer direction for taking the next steps in work.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $380

An Introduction to the Living Brain

Bonnie Bainbridge-Cohen & Seymour Levine

As the infant's brain develops in utero, corresponding basic patterns of movement appear. Gaps in these movement patterns can affect many aspects of brain function, such as perception, organization, sequencing, and movement.

In this workshop Bonnie Bainbridge-Cohen will cover the embodiment and repatterning of the brain and spinal cord in relation to cellular awareness and basic developmental patterns of movement. Seymour Levine will discuss basic principles of brain organization and neuroanatomy. Participants will explore experientially how movement can repattern the brain and how the brain in turn can support the development of movement.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $380

Euclid's Voyage

Ralph Abraham

Euclid's Elements, the second most popular book in history after the Bible, traveled a circuitous route from Alexandria to London, a journey of 2,000 years through ancient Greece, medieval Islam, and Renaissance Europe. Euclid's voyage also moves from the soaring mysticism of Pythagorean sacred mathematics to the rigid formalism of Aristotelian modern mathematics. Board the train for this thrilling intellectual tour, with Euclid as a guide. $380

Week of May 7-12

Yoga: A Week of Learning and Rejuvenation

Ganga White & Tracey Rich

Presenting East/West teachings in a way that is contemporary, humorous, and applicable to modern living, the leaders will offer a week of physical, mental, and spiritual rejuvenation.

Days will begin with instruction in an ancient Hatha yoga movement series that is new to this country and combines grace and flow with posture, pranayama (breath), and meditation. Participants will be shown a 45-minute balanced, aerobic yoga practice they can continue at home. Afternoons and evenings will be for group discussion and exploration into the teachings and principles of the art of enlightened living.

Topics will include diet and nutrition, how yoga works, aligning and restructuring the body, and awakening subtle energies. Through Jhana (the yoga of wisdom and perception), participants can begin observing the thought processes and patterns that dictate their lives, looking at the areas of love, responsibility, relationship, freedom, and death.

Participants at all levels are welcome; no previous experience is necessary. For additional information, contact the leaders at 805-964-1944. $740
Self-Hypnosis: Methods, Practice, and New Learning with Brainwave Feedback

Marc Lehrer & Guest Leaders

This workshop will present a wide variety of approaches to self-hypnosis, which can be perfected and modified to suit particular needs. The sessions will include: the teaching and practice of methods, group trance experiences, demonstrations, and discussions about applying the learning to everyday situations and problem areas. Special emphasis will be given to issues of perfecting performance skills, habit control (such as smoking and weight control), improving self-image, executive stress-management applications, dream programming, and pain reduction and pleasure enhancement.

To help deepen trance states, participants will have the opportunity to experience some of the most recent computerized brainwave stimulation and biofeedback equipment. Native American healing trances, such as the use of the sweat lodge and preparation for vision quests, may be introduced. The leaders will also share information on ways to teach self-hypnosis classes and create self-hypnosis tapes.

Meetings will be in the mornings and evenings with afternoons free. Marc Lehrer will teach some of the sessions and will select experienced hypnosis teachers to present their favorite methods in other sessions.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740

Endarkenment and Beyond

Will Schutz

Will Schutz writes: "The Endarkenment Workshop began as a semi-humorous (half-witted?) reaction to spending years searching for enlightenment, making progress, but falling woefully short (references: my wife). There must be alternate ways, I thought. Why not invert everything: Seek out the imperfections, look at them, make contact with them, exaggerate them to the point of ridiculousness, and go beyond. Over the past several years this evolution has been growing to the point of convergence with the paths to enlightenment, but with more fun and less pain. This workshop will continue this odyssey through appreciating the seriousness of problems by taking them beyond seriousness to humor, and appreciating the fair witness humor allows." $740

Vision Painting

Helen Jerene Malcolm

Trust your creative spirit. Vision Painting is a form that can enable you to move beyond moral judgments and to discover new truths. It is playful, creative, and expressive. Vision Painting becomes an affirmation of the participant's life that desire expression, change, or healing.

Vision Painting is a way to acknowledge your creative spirit and open a channel for the images to flow. Self-expression is evoked through feelings, color, music, movement, and dream images. The creative impulse is explored as an opportunity to play, take risks, face fears, and suspend judgment. Painting from creative spirit is a sacred journey into self.

What you focus upon, conscious or unconscious, continually creates the life you experience. This is a transformative adventure recreating aspects of your life spiritually, professionally, and physically. Through the visioning process, a vision of the future you intend may be crafted from its highest potential. $740 (plus $30 materials fee paid directly to leader)

Five-Day Massage Intensive

Kathleen O'Shaughnessy & Robert Helm

This workshop is designed for those who are just beginning to explore Esalen massage as an avenue for deep communication. Participants will be introduced to Esalen's traditional long-stroke, integrative style. Incorporating this into predefined demonstration partner exchange, will be detail related to specific areas of the body.

There will be discussion to offer insight into the various approaches to bodywork and how they address physiological well-being as well as the senses. Light yoga stretches, Continuum movement awareness, and Zen meditation will be presented as a means of balancing personal energy. Participants are asked to wear loose, layered clothing.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740

Weekend of May 12-14

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

Contact is the appreciation of differences.

- FRITZ PERLS

...and the recognition of similarities.

- RICHARD PRICE

This workshop is designed to introduce the various practices of Esalen to first-time participants or to those renewing their acquaintance with Esalen. Emphasis will be on finding those approaches to self-awareness that work most effectively for each individual participant. Sessions may include: meditation, sensory awareness, gestalt practice, group process, art, movement, and massage. There will also be time to explore the natural magnificence of the Big Sur coast. $380

May 12-19

Gestalt Practicum

Christine Stewart Price & Gail Stewart

This workshop is designed for people who would like to further explore the gestalt practice form in theory as well as through personal experience. It is especially appropriate for those in the helping professions, such as counselors, bodyworkers, and teachers, who are interested in integrating this approach into their current practice. The format will include open seat sessions with the leaders, structured exercises where participants work with each other, didactic presentation, and discussion.

The prerequisite for admission into the workshop is previous participation in a workshop specifically in gestalt practice led by one of the Esalen gestalt staff (Eric Erickson, Christine Price, or Joyce Lyke). Otherwise you may send a letter of application to Christine Price, 31 Onyx Street, Larkspur, CA 94939, and will be considered if there is space available.

Recommended reading: Perls, The Gestalt Approach and Eyewitness to Therapy; Heider, The Tao of Leadership; Ram Dass & Gorman, How Can I Help?

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $1110
The Painting Experience
Michell Cassou & Stewart Cubley
It is rare for most people to use painting for its qualities of inner adventure and self-discovery, to paint purely for the process of exploration, not for the result.

The purpose of this workshop is to provide a setting to explore the self through painting — to discover in form and color a powerful tool for uncovering and dissolving blocks to emotional and spiritual expression. Participants will be given the support and stimulation to develop a natural way of painting based directly upon feeling. The work takes place in an authentic studio setting with large white surfaces to confront the creative void, along with a rich spectrum of colors and brushes. The workshop may be of interest to persons involved in a wide variety of disciplines, including art, education, counseling, and meditative practices. No prior experience in painting is necessary. Please bring a smock.

Please note: Portions of this workshop will be videotaped for the leaders.

For further information about this workshop, contact: The Painting Experience Studio, 730 20th Avenue, San Francisco, CA 94116, 415-564-8515.

Cortical Reeducation® and the Feldenkrais Method®
Harriet Goslin & Patti (Lawrence) White
How a person sits, stands, or moves reflects patterns that are “wired in” to the nervous system. This information can be erased or changed. By reeducating the brain-muscle connection, restrictions in movement can be freed, freeing lifetime habits that have organized around that movement.

This work is a relearning of the ease and fluidity taken for granted as a child and lost somewhere along the way. Physical injury, emotional trauma, or ongoing stress all evoke a protective response from the body. These patterns remain when no longer needed, outside of awareness, and continue to cause discomfort and limitations. Freeing them results in relief of chronic pain or tightness and a higher energy level. By changing muscular holding patterns, the entire protective posture is altered, deeply affecting the body’s habitual defense system. Thus, new movement possibilities mean new self-image possibilities.

Fears and anxieties have corresponding muscle habits. Verbal information or spiritual practice that fails to extinguish these habits may fail to eliminate the toxic behavior.

This workshop is for those who are physically active and fit and want to increase their skills while learning to reduce risk or injury; for the sedentary or those dealing with after-effects of injuries; for chronically tired and stressed individuals who want to learn how to take better care of their neck, shoulders, and back; and for those who want to improve their posture and breathing and live with more flexibility and comfort.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $1110

Week of May 14-19
Creating Health Through Imagery
Jeanne Achterberg & Frank Lawlis
The power of the imagination has historically been recognized as a vital key in determining whether people stay well, become ill, or respond positively to a diagnosis of disease. Currently, an impressive and expanding body of clinical and research evidence supports its use in a broad range of treatment settings, for many medical disorders, and as a preeminent factor in the psychological, emotional, and spiritual issues confronted in the wake of crisis.

This program will focus on imagery as a health care tool for the seriously ill. It will relate the common threads of imagery in ancient rituals to modern settings. New research on the physiological and biochemical pathways of the imagination will be discussed. Imagery will be demonstrated as mental rehearsal for challenging events or treatments, as diagnosis, and as an adjunctive treatment procedure for catastrophic and chronic conditions such as cancer, AIDS, autoimmune disorders, and injuries. A major section will deal with methods for enhancing immunity.

Demonstrations, experiential sessions, case studies, and role-playing will accompany the discussion material. Participants will view slides and two important films, have the opportunity to ask questions, and network. This program is designed primarily for the helping professions, although health consumers who take an active role in their treatment and recovery will also find it useful.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740

present at the creation:
reawakening the artist within
Esalen Arts Center Staff
It is said that the drive to create — to be original, inventive, resourceful — is as vital as the biological drive of hunger and as life-enhancing as the spiritual call to wholeness. As children many of us were thwarted in this essential expression of the human life-force. We were taught that it was the end result that was all-important, and thus were denied the exhilarating experience of the creative process itself. And we allowed our creative expression to go to sleep.

This workshop invites you on a journey of reawakening. The Arts Center staff will provide a safe, supportive environment for you to rediscover the creator within. There will be a variety of art media available, which may include painting, pottery, silk-dyeing, dance and movement, mask-making, ritual, and group work. The leaders will offer exercises, as needed, to stimulate and liberate your creative expression, as they guide you deeper into the world of your own imagination and playfulness.

The Practical Art of Creative Risk-Taking
David Schiffman
To make effective, creative choices, you need courage, imagination, and the willingness to know your heart and be true to the dreams that live inside it. Choosing this deeper wisdom can often involve the risk of breaking set — the choice to move against the powerful grain of old fears, habits, and the constant pressure of other people’s expectations. To foster this spirit means contacting the elemental, instinctual parts of our natures, befriending rather than suppressing or denying the sexuality and power out of which initiative and enthusiasm spring.

This workshop will focus on how to develop a more adventurous, resourceful, and buoyant way of living. In an atmosphere based on warmth and humor, group members will explore their capacity for mutual tenderness, respect, and honesty. Traditional psychological practices such as gestalt, bioenergetics, and psychosynthesis will be used for intensive individual work, as well as nontraditional innovative approaches in bodywork, kinesthetic retraining, music, and guided imagery.

$740
This will also be a wonderful opportunity to get messy. No previous art training is necessary.

'Tis a Gift to be Simple
David Schiffman
This weekend is intended as a gift for people who would like to return to the simplicity of the values we treasure most. Its aim is to create a climate of mutual support and encouragement for exploring how we can best cultivate the spirit of real generosity and faith in dealing with ourselves and others.

This timely gift will embrace the following elements:

- Sanctuary — the opportunity to step away and pause, to create a mood of peace and personal clearing without haste or interruption
- The company of kindred spirits — a chance to be met with honesty, empathy, and wisdom in an atmosphere of soulful, clear-eyed support
- The emotional freedom to be — the right to let down and be sad or mad in order to clear the air and move on, making room in our hearts for new possibilities
- The right to feel free and alive in our bodies — the use of innovative ways of moving and touching in order to restore the vitality of feeling truly alive and physically at ease
- The use of innovative ways of moving and touching in order to restore the vitality of feeling truly alive and physically at ease

The approaches utilized will be drawn from a wide variety of practices, both traditional and nontraditional, all aimed at restoring our gratitude and appreciation for being alive.

The Ultimate Yes
George Leonard
Life has one ultimate message, "Yes!", repeated in infinite number and variety. Human life, channeled for millennia by Civilization, is only just beginning to express the diversity and range of which it is easily capable.

- Education and Ecstasy

The ultimate "Yes" is to life itself in its every moment, whatever that moment might bring. The ultimate gift to any friend or loved one is to be totally present for him or her. This gentle May weekend will be dedicated to saying "Yes" to life and the present moment.

Through breathing, chanting, meditation, imaging, and movement, this seminar will seek to affirm our oneness with nature, the cosmos, and one another, to remind ourselves of the brevity and vividness of the miracle of existence. Bring a friend or a loved one or come alone. All that is needed is a generous spirit and a willingness to participate wholeheartedly.

Recovery
Howard Kornfeld
Recovery from addiction and depression encompasses different stages. After acute detoxification and pharmacotherapy, the recovering individual often faces the most difficult hurdle: the restoration of a sense of beauty and meaning in life.

The Esalen/Big Sur environment symbolizes the earth's beauty in all its fragility and splendor. The link between personal and planetary healing becomes coherent in this setting. The restoration of beauty and meaning may become possible after a pattern of chronic somatic pain is released through massage therapy and exercise. Or meaning may be restored during an experience of meditation or gestalt awareness.

This workshop is for those professionals or members of the general public who would like to experience how established recovery can be integrated with the beauty and ambience of the Esalen environment and curriculum. The workshop will also explore the interface between modern addiction medicine and a recovery philosophy based not only on the venerable 12-step surrender process, but also on several further sets of principles. These include those of ecopsychology, as articulated by Theodore Roszak, and those of the ecology of the mind, as developed by Gregory Bateson.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60.

May 21–June 16

Certification in Clinical Hypnosis
Marc Lehrer with Norman Katz, Adam Burke, Ari Dann & Rainya Dann

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 56.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60.

Week of May 21–26

Lomi Somatic Intensive: An Active Exploration of Presence
Kathryn Lydecker, Johanna Putnoi & Robert Sanoff

You have slept for millions and millions of years. Why not wake up this morning?

- KABIR

Write the leaders: "The awareness we bring to each moment is the key to our deep freedom. Most of us get stuck in habits of body, heart, and mind. These habits are unconsciously formed in our family of origin and become etched onto our essential infrastructure. This matrix imprints on our body language, our emotional climate, and our state of mind, ultimately creating our worldview. Unexamined belief clouds the reality of each moment, and we become prisoners in a body/mind cell.

"In this workshop, awareness, presence, and practice will be our lanterns. We will use meditation, conscious movement, breath awareness, informed touch, and principles from aikido and gestalt as ways to experience ourselves richly and to participate with integrity, courage, and gentleness.

"The Esalen environment and our group experience there, however, are only a beautiful laboratory in which to practice interrupting our habits and expanding our capacity to tolerate deep feeling. The greater our commitment to the process, the more intrinsic the change. But the real challenge of our time together is to discover how to bring our embodied insights home."

The leaders have been teaching together for more than a dozen years and bring their sense of community and affection for one another to the group process. $740

Intuition, Perception, and Altered States of Consciousness: Extending the Boundaries of Human Experience
Keith Harary & Darlene Moore

Most of us have had experiences in which we appeared to be aware of information that was not immediately available to our five familiar senses. Such experiences usually emerge spontaneously and can range from simple hunches to premonitions in which we seem to be inexplicably aware of impending events. Labeling such experiences "psychic" does not explain them, but makes this fundamentally normal aspect of human awareness appear to be some sort of occult or supernatural process. Yet such experiences most likely emerge out of a deep interconnectedness between consciousness and the physical world that is entirely natural.

This workshop will teach specific techniques of extended perception in order to allow this capacity to become a consciously available resource in everyday life rather than a strictly spontaneous phenomenon. Starting with the basics of learning how to manage mental impressions, participants will practice separating their most relevant feelings and images from various forms of "mental noise" in a variety of extended perception scenarios. They will also be taught to develop their own inner language for processing intuitive information.

Additional exercises will focus on exploring techniques for inducing lucid dreams and out-of-body experiences, and for consciously connecting with the broader transpersonal continuum that lies just beyond the threshold of ordinary awareness.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740

The Upledger Institute’s CranioSacral II
Suzanne Scarlock-Durana

This workshop, the second in a series given by the Upledger Institute, further explores the CranioSacral System and its function in relationship to other patho-physiological body systems. The course will begin with the study of cranial base dysfunctions as perceived, diagnosed, and treated by Dr. William Sutherland, the father of cranial osteopathy. In this course students will learn how to integrate Sutherland’s techniques for identifying and evaluating lesions into our "10-step protocol" and how to apply individual correction treatments when needed.

Evaluation and treatment processes of the hard palate, the mandible, and temporomandibular joint will be presented and practiced to complete the exploration of the masticatory system. Emphasis will then be directed to whole body evaluation, as discussions will center on various "physiological phenomena" that occur within the body.

The SomatoEmotional Release process will also be introduced with discussion and demonstration of an "energy cyst." Before participating in this course, students must complete CranioSacral Therapy I, either at Esalen or elsewhere.

Please note: The third workshop in this series, SomatoEmotional Release I, will be held October 15-20 and will be taught by Dr. John Upledger. For further information see Special Programs, page 56.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740

Pottery at Esalen
Noel Mapstead & Keiko Suga

The Big Sur coast is uniquely endowed with numerous deposits of raw clays which have been decomposing from granite rock for millions of years. This workshop will bring participants to the Big Sur clays to create form and metamorphosis.

The group will explore parts of the Big Sur coast to gather clays, make pottery, and bake the clay in open-pit fires using cow dung.

Participants will be taught to identify natural clays, process and work clay, and fire by traditional methods using Esalen’s natural surroundings as an open studio. Other sessions will include clay hot baths and a sweat lodge.

This workshop will demonstrate how to transform ostensibly valueless natural materials into treasured objects. Emphasis will be on completing handmade works to take home and give to loved ones. No prior experience is necessary. $740

Weekend of May 26-28

African Dance: Expressions of Spiritual Energy
Yao Tamakloe & Sarah Abukutsa

Yao Tamakloe is a teacher of dance, drumming, and ethnomusicology. He is a third-generation jazz performance artist and has danced and taught with Babatunde Olatunji and Katherine Durham for over ten years. Sarah Abukutsa, his wife, is one of Kenya’s most celebrated singers, and has also studied West African dance. Together they will teach the exciting forms of African dances and the symbolic stories they tell.

Participants will experience the dynamics of war, harvest, and initiation dances, as well as the subtle healing funeral and recreational dances. The different movements that relate to various roles in society will be presented.

Live drumming will accompany this joyful marriage of power and fluidity inherent in dance. Drumming to accompany dances will be taught using Babatunde Olatunji’s Gun GoDo PaTa method. Bring a drum if you can. $380

Relationships: The Sacred Path of Love, Sex, and Passion
Mary Goldenson (Devavan) & Gustavo Rabin

Where in life did we stray from our path as lover? How do we return to that path and connect to our own love, sex, and passion?

Many of us spend a lot of time looking for satisfaction in relationships, often to give up in despair or anger. We are all, in some form, battle-scarred veterans, wounded by failed romances and marriages, alienated sons and daughters, lost friends. Re-opening our hearts and creating emotional safety in all our relationships is essential to our spiritual awakening.
We must look within at the walls that separate us from loving in order to free, connect, and come to peace with our own love, sex, and passionate energy. We can begin to do that by reflecting upon the male and female roles we play, our fears of one another, our limits to intimacy, and the gifts we can bring each other by ending the "blame game."

In this workshop participants will be shown new ways to communicate needs and desires, deepening the ability to love and transform personal, social, and work relationships. The group will work with imagery, movement, gestalt, Reichian work, meditation, and writing. The workshop is appropriate for individuals, couples, relatives, and friends who want peace and harmony, intimacy and mutual pleasure.

Refilling the Chalice: Time Out for Healers
Joan Borysenko

The leader writes: "Several times each year this retreat is held in a solitary or protected group setting to enjoy nature, open to the still small voice within, and refill the chalice of caring and love from which others sip throughout the year. Esalen is a wonderful setting for such a retreat. There will be scheduled time for group meditation and yoga, prayer, silent mindful walking in the beauty of Big Sur, dreamwork, listening to sacred music, and discussing the nature of healing. This is a time to nourish ourselves and to honor the sacred trust we have been given by taking time to welcome and thank the Spirit that we serve."

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $380

The Story of the Tasaday: Learning What is Essential
John Nance

Can you imagine life without agriculture or the wheel, engines or indoor plumbing? Suppose there were no mirrors and you'd never seen your own image. Most of the time humans have walked the earth such things did not exist. So what is essential to survival and well-being?

To answer that question, this workshop explores the story of the gentle Tasaday people of the Philippines. It offers an intimate glimpse into the Tasaday's way of life—called "as close to nature as any people known in modern times"—and thereby an appreciation of who we may have been in the distant past and who we have become today.

The Tasaday's incredible journey of the last twenty-three years has taken them from cave dwellings in a tropical rain forest to the teeming city of Manila. Their determination to survive in the wilderness and adapt to the modern world offers an inspiring demonstration of the strength, love, and flexibility of the human body, mind, and spirit.

John Nance has been documenting the Tasaday since 1971, when they came to their edge of the forest, looked into the tree-harvested flatland beyond, and called it "the place where the eye sees too far." Through a collection of stories, photographs, and films, you are invited to explore the truths and metaphors of the Tasaday's world—and to find meanings in your own search to get in touch with your soul, which the Tasaday described as the "part of you that sees the dream." $380

Week of May 28-June 2

Big Sur Wilderness Experience
Steven Harper

Located on a narrow stretch of land between the Pacific Ocean and the coastal ridge of the Santa Lucia Mountains, Esalen is the trailhead to one of the world's most spectacular wilderness areas. With this natural reserve as the primary teacher, the group will walk into the Los Padres National Forest. Drawing on various traditions, this wilderness experience will help participants develop the quality of their awareness and open to the natural world.

Weeklong workshops will venture out on five hikes (4-10 miles long). Weekend workshops will take two hikes (3-6 miles long). Using Esalen as a base camp, the group will explore the different trails through the natural beauty of the Big Sur backcountry. Days will begin and end at Esalen with short stretching and sharing sessions. Each hike will begin after breakfast and conclude in time to enjoy the hot springs and dinner each evening at Esalen. Basic outdoor skills such as map reading and minimum impact concepts will be practiced. Participants will be taught enough skills to begin exploring the wilderness on their own after these outings. More information will be sent upon registration. $450

Making It Float
Robert Hall

There is no fixing a damaged childhood. The best you can hope for is to make the sucker float.

—PAT CONROY

Robert Hall writes: "And so it is. This workshop is about making it float. How to. If you're willing to spend some time with meditation, gestalt group process, making sounds, and experimenting with moving your body to your own rhythms, if you're interested in how body awareness, psychotherapy, and meditation work together to loosen your identification with who you think you are, and if you still have your sense of humor, we'll not only make it float, we'll take a ride in it."

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740

Pilobolus: Collaborative Creativity Method
Michael Tracy

Pilobolus Dance Theatre, the company that pioneered a unique collaborative method of choreography, has performed worldwide for nearly twenty-five years, and has taught widely in universities and institutes around the country.

This workshop, taught by Pilobolus's co-Artistic Director Michael Tracy, will offer a unique opportunity to see into the choreographic method of this innovative company, and to learn how to use this method as a means of developing your own creative ideas.

The workshop will begin each day with an introduction to this collaborative method. A part of each day will then be devoted to guided movement experimentation; another part will be dedicated to developing collaborative ideas into short choreographic pieces. The workshop will provide a lively, supportive environment in which to develop your creative skills, and guidance and feedback as you refine your ideas into a more powerful dramatic form. There will be daily opportunities to create new work, and a dynamic sharing of artistic ideas. By the end of the week, you may be surprised by your creative work.

This workshop is open to people of all ages and levels of experience. Come prepared to move. $740

Awakened Mind: Five-Day Brainwave Training Intensive
Anna Wise

The Awakened Mind is a state of consciousness that releases deep inner resources, capacities, and powers that often lie dormant and inaccessible. This workshop will help you develop the intricate combinations of brainwave frequencies that underlie optimum mental states. Biofeedback monitoring, combined with different methods of meditation, visualization, "sensualization," and deep psychophysiological relaxation, will help you learn how to master your own brainwaves.

$740

The workshop will present methods for accessing repressed memories and creating a bridge between your conscious and your unconscious mind. Bridging this gap and making this connection with your innermost self allows you to begin a process that encourages healing and integration. Emphasis will also be on the importance of the interrelationship between brainwaves and the human energy system, specifically the kundalini process.

Throughout the workshop, the Mind Mirror EEG will be used to demonstrate brainwave patterns, and Electrical Skin Resistance Meters will be used to measure the depth of arousal and relaxation of your autonomic nervous system, illuminating the interrelationship between your body and your mind.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $380

Weekend of June 2-4

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see May 12-14. $380

Introduction to Vipassana Meditation

James Baraz

Vipassana (insight) meditation is the practice described by the Buddha for developing wisdom, compassion, and peace. Vipassana, "to see things clearly," means being mindful of what is actually happening in the present moment. Using the breath, body sensations, thought, and emotions as objects of attention, we can learn to be fully awake and bring a balanced awareness to all aspects of our lives.

Through vipassana meditation we can experience the nature of reality as continuous change. When we see that all phenomena are impermanent, we can begin to let go of clinging to the pleasant or avoiding the unpleasant. We are then more capable of meeting each situation with spontaneity, fearlessness, and love. Meditation also teaches us to see in each moment the interconnectedness of all things. Our hearts open to a natural expression of compassion and kindness.

Participants will be introduced to this method of meditation practice and the principles on which it is based. There will be periods of silent sitting and walking meditation, as well as discussion. As attention is brought to all activities at Esalen, individuals will continue to develop mindfulness throughout the weekend. This will provide a foundation for applying vipassana practice to everyday life.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $380

Conscious Loving:
A Body-Centered Approach to Relationship Transformation

Gay & Kathryn Hendricks

Relationships are the primary arena in which our deepest selves are either concealed or revealed. This workshop is designed for couples, professionals, and singles who are interested in the ability of a close relationship to catalyze the creativity of each person. It has two major purposes: 1) to expand the experience of love past previous limits; and 2) to learn to rest in the essence that underlies persons.

Based on the leaders' experience with over 1,500 couples, they will present breath and movement practices that can accelerate the process by which people in close relationships can attain their goals. Participants will work on the transformation of present relationships while exploring the three key principles of conscious relationship: living in integrity, claiming creativity, and embracing life. Group members will be given tools designed to make it easier to tell the truth and take healthy responsibility for feelings and issues.

Among the tools to be used: videotapes, movement processes, breathwork, and dyadic communication activities.

Recommended reading: G. & K. Hendricks, Conscious Loving and At the Speed of Life. $380

Medicinal Herbology: An Esalen Garden Workshop

Jeanine Pollak

This weekend workshop will present in-depth coverage of forty useful plants growing fresh in the Esalen garden. It will include how to identify, prepare, and formulate these plants with respect to the medicinal, nutritional, and cosmetic aspects of each.

Using the garden as a classroom, participants will learn to make fresh infusions, sun teas, liniments, and tinctures. The group will discuss safe and effective formulas for common colds, flus, sore throats, headaches, and digestive/respiratory systems. The workshop will draw from modern scientific research and herbal pharmacology, as well as from tradition and folklore, as the uses and energetics of each plant are explored. Participants will also be given detailed knowledge of many other common plants and the safe and effective use of herbs in daily life.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $380

Week of June 4-9

Mountains and Waves

Susan Harper & Steven Harper

Nature is a primary teacher of movement, creativity, and awareness. Being outdoors in the richness and beauty of the natural world awakens our outer senses. Continuum movement takes us inward, heightening the awareness of our inner senses. These five days will combine both practices, integrating the subtle inner explorations that Continuum movement inspires with the activity of day-hiking in the magnificent Big Sur backcountry.

The day-hikes will introduce participants to basic and increasingly refined awareness practices to enhance their sensitivity to all that wilderness and being out-of-doors offers. In so doing, not only will there be contact with the natural world, but it will be an opportunity to reawaken those elements of wilderness within.

In the indoor sessions, participants will explore movements which express and embody what they have taken in during their walks, enlivening their ability to feel what they see in nature, as well as their own inner nature. Engaging with this sensual environment, the group will play with movement, breath, sound, dreams, and ritual.

This is a time for contact with nature and wilderness, inside and out. Participants need not have previous experience in hiking or dance. $740

Opening the Feelings

Dale Cummings

Participants will employ Radix® and Reichian methods of emotional release, the most important of which is the Radix intensive, a period of individual work within a small group setting which can provide emotional support among participants. Grief, pain, fear, and rage that have been held in since childhood can emerge. As the participant accepts and works through these negative feelings, he or she may discover a new capacity for pleasure, trust, and love. In time, the sexual experience may change as feelings of tenderness and sexuality intensify and merge. C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $380

Dreaming: The Magic Mirror that Never Lies
Jeremy Taylor
The basic language of dreams is symbol and metaphor. Dreams address everyone in essentially the same way, regardless of the uniqueness of our individual lives and circumstances.

Participants will share and work with their dreams, drawing on the mythological/archetypal images that shape our contemporary individual and collective lives. Although the focus will be dream interpretation in a collective context, the methods are designed to give participants the ability to engage in their own dreamwork upon returning home.

Everyone is welcome — those who are just beginning to explore the world of their dreams, as well as professionals who work with dreams. As the leader comments: "Only the dreamer can say with any certainty what meanings his or her dreams may hold, and dreamwork is one of the few activities that puts beginners and experts on an equal emotional footing from the outset."

Recommended reading: Taylor, Dream Work and Where People Fly and Water Flows Uphill. $740

Weekend of June 9-11

The Power of Growth
Seymour Carter
Everyone has unused capacities for further personal development. When these capacities are recognized and given attention, a natural force is released which, like a tide, can carry the individual to a higher level of ability and action. Fritz Perls taught how to recognize the force of avoided issues in dealing with blocked energies. When unfinished issues are confronted and assimilated, it is possible to feel potent and in charge of one's life.

In this workshop, participants will deal with these issues by examining the influence of the inner dialogue on thoughts and the nature of impasse, as well as tendencies within themselves toward psychological completion and well-being. The basis of this work is the gestalt method, supported by studies in various body disciplines, including sensory awareness, bioenergetics, and aikido. Each participant's process of development will be honored, encouraged, and treated as unique. $380

Weekend Massage Intensive
Carl Chase (C.C.) & Laurie Schutz
Participants will be instructed in basic methods for giving a pleasurable and beneficial full-body massage. Fundamental elements of bodywork, such as breath awareness, grounding, movement, quality of touch, and stress reduction, will be introduced. This workshop is open to beginners as well as those who wish to brush up on their massage skills. C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $380

Optimum Health: Theory and Practice
Nick Hall & Jim Loehr
The effects of stress on the body are still largely unknown, but research over the past decade has indicated that it may be linked to various diseases. This workshop will explore the theoretical and practical issues relating to stress and outline a training program for optimum health and stress reduction.

Nick Hall, a pioneer in research exploring the relationship between the brain and the immune system, will review the practical issues concerning stress and psychoneuroimmunology. He has published over 100 articles on PNI and has been featured on "60 Minutes" for his work using imagery with cancer patients. Participants will explore behavioral-based techniques such as relaxation, guided imagery, conditioning, and nutrition as anti-stress interventions.

Jim Loehr will demonstrate his Toughness Training System, which evolved from his work with world-class tennis players, including Martina Navratilova and Gabriela Sabatini. Strategies for toughening physically, mentally, and emotionally will be explored. His method for calculating units of stress, units of recovery, and markers of overtraining will be experienced by each participant. The importance, function, and timing of recovery in terms of sleep, diet, and active and passive rest will be reviewed in the context of Life Toughening.

Participants need not be extremely athletic or highly conditioned, only interested in increasing their level of fitness. C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $380

Yoga for the '90s
Deborah Anne Medow
Today, more than ever before, many people are overwhelmed by the stresses and tensions that they experience in their daily lives. Yoga, the oldest science of life, utilizes body, mind, and breath to bring stress under control by revitalizing energy on physical, mental, and spiritual levels.

On the physical level, asanas (yoga postures) tone the muscles, joints, and nerves, massage the internal organs, increase circulation, and improve digestion, making the body strong, flexible, and proportionate.

On the mental and spiritual level, the regular practices of asanas and breathing methods not only cleanse the system and energize the body, they also help to calm the mind and develop an awareness of self. Meditation can then become a vehicle for focusing this awareness, allowing the spirit to flourish.

During this weekend, asanas, breathing exercises, integral movement, and meditation will be taught and practiced, with particular emphasis on the yoga postures (stretches). Special focus will be on assisting participants in building a solid basis for the further development of yoga practice. Yoga philosophy and theory will be presented, and a healthy diet will be discussed and encouraged. $380

Week of June 11-16

Golf in the Kingdom: An Exploration of the Inner Game
Stephen Cohen, Fred Shoemaker & Brian Bergstrom

Ye'll come away from the links with a new hold on life, that is certain if ye play the game with all your heart.

— Michael Murphy (As Shivas Irons), Golf in the Kingdom

The game of golf provides many opportunities to enhance the journey of self-discovery. It can be experienced not only as an athletic endeavor, but also as a metaphor for the way one lives. Just as in life, issues of self-confi-
This approach is designed for traditional psychosynthesis and gestalt, to explore the inner self and how one interferes with its emergence. Two days will be spent on field trips to the Monterey Peninsula where participants will practice and play in some of the most beautiful golf country in the world. On other days there will be time to relax and enjoy the natural pleasures of Esalen and Big Sur.

Recommended reading: Murphy, Golf in the Kingdom; Gallwey, The Inner Game of Golf.

(plus greens fees paid directly to the leader)

Sexual Trauma Survivors: Specific Strategies for Body, Mind, and Spiritual Healing
Carolyn Braddock & Guests

The body remembers sexual trauma because the body is the scene of the crime. It expresses these memories in how one breathes, moves, and speaks — or doesn’t speak. Consequently, body sensations may be blocked and a protective body belief system may develop. A child learns early not to have a voice to express the anger, sadness, pain, or frustration she or he suffers.

This workshop focuses on body/mind/spirit integration, adding new somatic dimensions to traditional strategies in the healing journey. For example, it will identify three main body types (rigid, collapsed, and inanimate) that illustrate how survivors respond when they revisit the memories of their traumas.

Through eight guided teaching sessions, participants will be shown how to enhance their skills with new intervention strategies to empower wounded individuals to speak in a strong, new voice. Group members will be actively involved in interventions, demonstrations, discussion of legal/ethical issues, and case presentations from a body-oriented perspective. Breathwork, sound, movement, gestalt, bodywork, Tai Ji, role-playing, and creative cognitive work will also be used, creating a balance between work and play.

This approach is designed for traditional psychotherapists, bodyworkers, and those in the medical profession.

Please note: This workshop is for professionals, in training, and others who are interested in a new body-oriented approach to working with sexual trauma survivors. It is applicable for Braddock Body Process™ certification hours.

Recommended Reading: Braddock, Body Voices: Using the Power of Breath, Sound, and Movement to Heal and Create New Boundaries. C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740

Recovering from the Loss of a Parent
Jack Engler

In the mind of a child, whatever the age, it is incomprehensible that parents can die. When they do, especially later in life, we may be surprised by how shocked, unprepared, and overwhelmed we can feel, and for how long. The death of a parent confronts us with issues and feelings we have never faced before.

This is a workshop for those who have lost a parent in adult life, and who still find themselves working through related issues. In a safe, supportive setting, the workshop will offer a chance to explore these issues, identify blocks to grieving and healing, and learn how this painful event can be an opportunity for a deeper understanding and appreciation of life as well as death.

The workshop will address specific issues associated with the loss of a parent: the nature of grief, the process of grieving someone we always assumed would be there, dealing with anger and guilt; the impact on relationships with family and friends, work and home, new attitudes toward death; and our own spirituality and mortality.

The workshop will be based primarily on personal sharing and interaction. It will include written assignments and exercises, as well as guided meditations. Because this work depends on everyone having an opportunity to share and interact, it will be limited to twelve participants. $740

Chakra Integration: A Complete Approach to Health and Healing
Laurie Lioness Parizek & The Esalen Teaching Staff

The chakras are vital, life-enhancing centers that have their roots in the physical body, along the spine, and deep in the brain. They open into the energy field and are a complete three-dimensional system of the body. When integrated, they refine the mainstream current of energy in the central nervous system, bring balance to the endocrine system, and help to integrate one’s physical, spiritual, and energetic life.

This workshop will use movement, sound, awareness exercises, and supportive hands-on work to balance the chakras and mainstream spinal current, and to gently and consciously open this channel that connects heaven and earth through our bodies. Participants will be guided in grounding and breathwork. To enable participants to work more consciously with themselves and others, the workshop will integrate personal healing work, gentle energetic touch, and associated hands-on skills. Meditation will be used throughout the week to bring serenity and a deeper personal understanding of the chakras. Individuals are invited to bring their favorite musical instruments and personal healing tools.

This workshop is designed for those interested in developing a working knowledge of this ancient time-tested way of healing, especially health care professionals. Please bring warm clothing as some of this workshop will be outdoors.

Recommended reading: Haas, Staying Healthy with the Seasons; Brennan, Hands of Light. C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740

June 16-23

Developing a Fitness Regime for Optimal Well-Being
Carl Chase (C.C.) & Deborah Anne Medow

Everyone wants to feel more flexible, toned, and energized — stronger and more powerful. This workshop can help you develop and practice a daily fitness regime to achieve those goals.

This seven-day workshop will provide an opportunity to start to unlock your health potential and develop the positive thoughts and attitudes that can create optimal well-being. The keys will be a combination of meditation, yoga, “ballistic” stretching, movement, dance, and a healthy diet.

During the workshop, participants will practice the above activities to help establish a daily fitness routine — fitness on physical, mental, and spiritual levels. The group support will be especially helpful for those who have a difficult time keeping such a fitness practice going.

There will also be quiet time for reflection, integration, and the peaceful enjoyment of the beautiful Big Sur coast and Esalen property.
Meditation, the Self, and Healing
Ron Alexander & Lobsang Rappay

“Learning to observe experience from a place of stillness enables one to relate to life without fear and clinging. One begins to accept pleasure and pain, fear and joy, and all aspects of life with increasing equanimity and balance. Life is seen as a constantly changing process.”

— Jack Kornfield, Seeking the Heart of Wisdom

Meditation helps to cultivate self-regulation through relaxation and the development of attentional skill. Mindfulness training helps develop awareness of self and psychic processes. It can also enhance affective and cognitive states of mind/body awareness to promote insight and individuation.

This workshop will provide instruction in the essential practice and understanding of meditation from both a psychological and spiritual perspective. The focus will be on the practice, experience, and benefits of meditation in daily life.

The meditative techniques of the various Buddhist schools, particularly Tibetan, Kundalini, Vipassana, and Zen, will be explored in detail. Tibetan meditation seeks to use mindfulness, insight, and visualization to activate physiological and psychological energies whose merger can produce powerful states of mind to penetrate into the reality of our being and experience. The principles of Buddhist psychology and Tibetan medicine amplify and integrate the full spectrum of mind/body healing.

This workshop can help participants acquire skills to calm the mind, directly experience affect, and enhance the creative activation of the mind. It is designed for everyone, from beginning to advanced.

Recommended reading: Goldstein & Kornfield, Seeking the Heart of Wisdom, and Rappay, Tibetan Meditative Experience.

C. E. credit is available; see page 60. $110

Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach
Patrick Douce

The work of Moshe Feldenkrais is based on the natural process by which we learned to move as children. During this workshop, soft, easy, gentle movements will be used to increase awareness of the body and to improve the ease and ability of movement. Special emphasis will be placed on the difficulties in movement that arise from chronic conditions such as lower back and neck pain, tension in the neck and shoulders, and knee injuries. Such conditions can be improved by approaching the difficulties as problems in learning rather than as therapeutic troubles. Situations which were “incurable” become “reeducable.” Workshop participants will also be introduced to methods for improving their ability to sense each other’s bodies through touch and massage.

Although this workshop is valuable for anyone interested in learning more about his/her body through direct experience, it may be of special interest and benefit to dancers, athletes, doctors, nurses, physical therapists, psychologists, health care professionals, and elderly citizens who may discover new ways of moving with ease and increased flexibility — painlessly and immediately.

C. E. credit is available; see page 60. $380

Weekend of June 16-18

EMDR: Treating the Trauma Victim A Workshop for Psychotherapists
Francine Shapiro & Margot Silk Forrest

The effects of trauma can be disastrous for the client and can lay the cornerstone for a variety of pathologies and presenting complaints. The recent success of EMDR (Eye Movement Desensitization and Reprocessing) in the rapid treatment of trauma has caused many to reexamine the assumptions about the nature of pathology. EMDR is an interactive, standardized approach and method that can accelerate the treatment of post-trauma symptomatology.

In this workshop, topics for discussion will be traumatic wounding, the mechanisms of processing, the role of clients in their own healing, and what this means for clinicians. While not constituting a training, the workshop will explore theoretical assumptions, the model, and its discrete elements and clinical applications.

$380

Week of June 18-23

The Core Self: Returning to Innocence and Choice
Ron Alexander

Resources for healing, such as spontaneity, curiosity, trust, creativity, innocence, and joy, are found in the Core Self. This workshop will assist participants — including health professionals — in accessing the resources of the Core Self to facilitate personal healing and to acquire new skills in the mind/body healing process. Participants will also work on cultivating a friendly relationship with the unconscious to heal old dysfunctional patterns, and on discovering how to resolve incompletions from the past to become more conscious in the present moment. This process can bring about the healing of pain, fear, grief, and loss, and thereby enable the creation of healthier pathways for new living, loving, working, and relating.

$380
The goals of this work are to enhance self-esteem, to become free of trauma and self-images of the past, to become conscious in the present moment, to communicate more effectively, to become empowered as a leader, and to develop a cohesive personal vision. The tools that will be used include gestalt open seat work, self psychology, insight meditation, breathing practices, mind/body healing, dreamwork, accessing the creative unconscious, deep music, group process, and immersion into nature.

Recommended reading: Heider, The Tao of Leadership; Chopra, Timeless Mind, Ageless Body; Polster, Every Person’s Life is Worth a Novel; and Moore, The Care of the Soul. C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740

Part of the Dancing Heart: The Body as a Map
Sara Shelton Mann

This is an unusual workshop that presents improvisational movement as a disciplined practice that can provide access to and awareness of essential states — those states of trust, joy, vulnerability, curiosity, and openness.

By exploring different physical systems — bone, muscle, nerves, fluids — one’s personal experience can expand and become a source through which movement, writing, storytelling, and singing can act as transformative agents. The group will start with balancing the visual, sensing, listening body, then dive into the physical systems that can bring forth essential states — strength, joy, peace — past the ordinary to the extraordinary, revealing our relationship to self and others. Participants can produce a personal body map, which, when viewed objectively, encourages a natural spirit of investigation to arise spontaneously.

The workshop will offer a movement practice designed for all ages and levels of experience. The practice can provide a new map of awareness and physical skills to track personal experience, especially experience of the unnameable. The workshop will also include writing, processing, and contemplation. $740

Evocation of the Deceased in a Latter-Day Psychomanteum
Raymond Moody & William Roll

In ancient Greece, there were institutions known as oracles of the dead, or psychomanteums, where people traveled, so the early historians and poets tell us, to visit with the spirits of loved ones lost to death. Dr. Roll and Dr. Moody will demonstrate how to re-create a latter-day psychomanteum through the use of the venerable technique of mirror-gazing, and how to facilitate vivid apparitional encounters with the departed within that environment.

Dr. Roll will discuss his research with hauntings and poltergeists. Dr. Moody will discuss the history of evoking spirits through mirror-gazing. Together they will explore the meaning of apparitional experiences in general, including angels and transformative aliens. This unusual workshop will also present other procedures for connecting with the deceased, including the soul dance and psi sessions. $740

Acts of Courage
David Schiffman & Susan Kuttner

This workshop is designed for people who are facing change. It will be a time to pause and step away from the deadlines, demands, distractions, and interruptions of daily life.

These five days will be an opportunity to come back to your own heart in the company of kindred spirits. Participants will work to gather strength and clarity for making simple, effective plans for dealing with changes and uncertainties.

The pace will be gentle and restorative, with ample time to consider each individual’s dreams, desires, and dilemmas. The intention will be to see how the process of transition can be approached in a heartfelt, open-minded, and courageous spirit. Together the group will create a mood of sanctity, balance, and peace for reflecting and acting on each individual’s deepest concerns. Resources and influences will be drawn from a variety of traditional psychological approaches, as well as movement, music, ritual, and ceremonial practice. $740

Big Sur Wilderness Experience
Steven Harper

For workshop description see May 28-June 2 $380

Body Rejuvenation
Dub Leigh & Audrey Nakamura

The goal of this workshop is to start rejuvenating the body, mind, and spirit. A fast way to do this is to work the body: transform the old, hard, short, nonresilient tissue into soft, lengthy, bouncy tissue free from trauma, stress, and pain; work on changing the despondent, hopeless, negative, grouchy person into an enthusiastic, positive, upbeat person.

The recipe for beginning to rejuvenate the body will be demonstrated in one session to the group, and then experienced and performed by each participant.

This seminar is recommended for anyone and everyone. The older you are, the more stuff you have to work with. Bring a swimsuit — a two-piece for women.

Please note: Since this is a hands-on class using particular methods, participants are asked not to receive bodywork outside of class until the workshop is over.

Recommended reading: Leigh, Bodytherapy: From Rolf to Feldenkrais to Tanouye Roshi. C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $380

Caring for the Dying: What Really Works?
Zoketsu Norman Fischer & Frank Ostaseski

This workshop explores a mindful and compassionate approach to caring for those with chronic or life-threatening illness. Drawing on the experience of the Zen Hospice Project, a nationally innovative model of conscious care, the aim is to demystify the care-giving process, investigate our response to suffering, and clarify our intention in service.

The leaders will introduce traditional meditation practices of awareness, impermanence, and forgiveness; provide exercises designed to explore accumulated grief; and discuss the importance of ritual and memorials. Through silence, writing, storytelling, and the collective wisdom of the group, participants will discover ways of encouraging our innate generosity and skillful means to stay present in difficult or impersonal care-giving situations.

The workshop offers renewal and a fresh perspective on service to professionals or individuals caring for friends or family. All are invited, but those caring for people with AIDS or cancer are particularly encouraged to attend. Wear comfortable clothing and please bring writing materials.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $380
Natural Genius:
An Authenticity of Being
Elisa Lodge

Unleashing the creative spirit will happen only when we recognize that natural genius lies within everything and everybody.
— BUCKMINSTER FULLER

Natural genius is a powerful creative force that arises when a deep sense of self-worth and trust is felt. It reflects a wholehearted acceptance of the many facets of our being. We are all geniuses in wonderful and mysterious ways that lie undiscovered within us.

Participants will have an opportunity to explore self-defeating patterns and beliefs that inhibit natural genius and learn practical tools to unleash untapped energy, passion, and creativity.

Individual and group exercises will be used, including a whole-body thinking process to balance right and left brain, stimulate intuition, and support more spontaneous "feeling" aspects of our thinking. By freeing and integrating breath, sound, feelings, energy, and movement as the nonverbal expression of our aliveness, participants can contrast the difference between self-imprisonment and inner freedom, pretense and presence, acting and being.

As we regain the power to dance our unique dance, as we voice the wisdom buried in our bones, we open to the heart of our personal power.

$380

Jewish Renewal: Finding and Healing the Jewish Part of Your Soul
Michael Lerner

You don’t have to be Jewish to learn from the spiritual and psychological wisdom of the Jewish people. Though Christianity portrayed Judaism as rigidly stuck in legalisms, and the oppression of Jews sometimes caused Jews to revert to a Judaism more aimed at survival than celebration, today the post-Holocaust world is seeing a remarkable renewal of Jewish spirituality and insights. Politically progressive and psychologically sophisticated Jews are reclaiming Judaism from the conservatism, conformism, and spiritual deadness that dominate some segments of the organized Jewish community.

Michael Lerner has been called "America's preeminent liberal Jewish intellectual" after the publication of his book Jewish Renewal. Lerner presents a weekend seminar that combines psychological processes to reclaim the Jewish part of your soul (even if you didn’t know you had that part), Jewish religious observance (Sabbath meals and celebrations, reading of the Torah, etc.), and reflections on the Jewish approach to care for the soul, the relationship between spirituality and politics, and the psychodynamics of compassion and transformation.

$380

The Group 2000
Michael Murphy

The Group 2000 is comprised of people who wish to help Esalen fulfill its mission and have contributed $2000 or more in one year. This is a special weekend to inform the Group of the latest developments at the Institute and discuss the plans and possibilities for the future. There will be time with Michael Murphy and the staff, an opportunity to interact as a group, as well as time to enjoy being at Esalen with some optional planned activities.

For more information, contact Ginger Hart, Coordinator, Friends of Esalen at 408-667-3007.

$380

Practicing in the Marketplace:
The Diamond Approach —
A Spiritual Teaching for Our Times
Sandra Maitri & Joyce Lyke

God has made non-existence appear solid and respectable;
He has made Existence appear in the guise of non-existence.
He has hidden the Sea and made the foam visible,
He has concealed the Wind and shown you the dust.
— JALAL AL-DIN RUMI

There is something within each of us that cannot be seen or touched with our ordinary senses, yet many of us intuit that this dimension is more important than anything else — it is the fathomless source of who we are. Through our conditioning, opaque inner veils have come to obscure our contact with these depths, leaving us to reside on the surface of ourselves and our lives, in at best a state of discontent and at worst deep suffering. We look outside of ourselves for happiness and fulfillment, but when we finally recognize that what we long for is really deep within, a great turning begins.

This is the beginning of the spiritual journey. The Diamond Approach evolved as a way of making that journey for those of us leading ordinary lives of work and family in our modern world. Combining traditional spiritual understandings and practices with the most current knowledge of depth psychology, we are able to contact dimensions of reality and of the human potential traditionally accessible only to a very few.

$740

Week of June 25-30
Reawakening the Artist Within
Esalen Arts Center Staff

For workshop description see May 19-21

$740
The goal of this seminar is twofold: (1) to use The Body and Zen presence, awareness, and inquiry will be taught to the fundamentals of the Diamond Approach. In this workshop, students will be introducedenced more fully. By also using dreamwork, released, and positive feelings' can be experited more fully. By also using dreamwork, anger, fear, and pain, which are reflected in bodywork for those who want to let go of past selves, our work, and those we love.

Please note: Registration requires completion of a questionnaire. For more information see Special Programs, page 56.

Recommended reading: A.H. Almaas, Essence and Diamond Heart – Book One.

The Body and Zen
Dub Leigh & Audrey Nakamura

The goal of this seminar is twofold: (1) to use bodywork methods and principles for releasing tension, trauma, and toxins from connective tissue, and (2) to circulate the vital energy in an aligned body. The group will draw from Rolfing® (structure), Feldenkrais (function), and Zen (energy) to obtain these goals.

This is a hands-on workshop. Participants will give and receive bodywork and learn methods to recognize, work with, and relieve some types of chronic muscle pain. Participants are asked to bring a swimsuit — a two-piece for women.

Please note: Since this is a hands-on class using particular methods, participants are asked not to receive bodywork outside of class until the workshop is over.

Recommended reading: Leigh, Bodytherapy: From Rolf to Feldenkrais to Tanouye Roshi.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60.

Letting Go — Moving On
Mary Goldenson (Devarani) & Gustavo Rabin

Beliefs, fears, and emotions from the past can continue into present relationships and interfere with spontaneous feelings of trust, love, and joy. The goal of this workshop is to experience and let go of these defenses and create new ways to relate — in the moment — to ourselves, our work, and those we love.

The workshop includes periods of intense bodywork for those who want to let go of past anger, fear, and pain, which are reflected in the body as armor and tension. As armor softens, feelings held in since childhood can be released, and positive feelings can be experienced more fully. By also using dreamwork, massage, dance, and group process, a new capacity for loving can emerge.

This workshop will have no more than thirty participants. $740

Turning on the Light: A Choice to Live Consciously
Laura DeNuccio & Guest Leaders

In the sunlight of awareness, each thought and action becomes sacred.

— THICH NHAT HANH

Laura DeNuccio writes: "What would you love to see in your life? What has meaning to your heart? What is truly of value? To live fully, mindful of these questions, is a choice each individual can make moment-by-moment. This workshop is about honoring, empowering, and celebrating each person as we reclaim our wholeness/holiness as human beings making choices to live fully.

"Through the creative use of breath, sound, music, movement, and visioning, we can explore and discover what our spirit longs to express. Included will be guided meditations to increase body awareness and aliveness, to dissolve and balance energetic blockages, and to quiet, still, and expand the mind.

Participants will engage in self-care and personal growth practices for daily living, offered as a basic awareness practice to increase mindfulness, self-understanding, and the ability to be present with one’s experience in the moment. Emphasis will be on cultivating compassion and patience as we align with our personal truths in relation to others and the planet.

“Attuning with Nature, taking light hikes into Big Sur, we can deepen our capacity to listen to our innate wisdom and intelligence. And by applying the creative use of the Spoken Word, we can expand a vision of possibilities for ourselves and the world in which we live.”

Recommended reading: Fields, et al., Chop Wood, Carry Water; Chopra, Quantum Healing; Hanh, The Miracle of Mindfulness.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60.

June 30-July 7

Language of the Drums: African Percussion, Chanting, and Dance
Babatunde Olatunji & Friends

Nigerian musician Babatunde Olatunji has been bridging the gap between American and African culture for more than thirty years. In this workshop he will show how drum sounds and rhythms communicate, stimulate, and pace the activities of traditional African life. He will teach the consonants of the Yoruba language, reproducing its sounds on drums and through chants, body percussion, and dance. This workshop is for dancers, percussionists, musicians, and anyone who wants to speak the language of the drums. Drummers can experience the dance and dancers can experience the drums. Bring a drum if you have one.

Please note: This has always been a popular workshop, with lots of people drumming and dancing in a small area. The energy runs high — be prepared for a crowded, exuberant atmosphere.

$1110

Weekend of June 30-July 2

Disarming the Ogre: Recognizing and Transforming the Inner Critic
Sarah La Salled

The Ogre — also known as the inner negative voice, the committee, the dark and hopeless perceptions, black-and-white thinking — is the voice of old belief systems. Many people experience their Ogre as a feeling of malaise or heaviness. Often it goes unrecognized by posing as the voice of reason, of ultimate reality. The Ogre judges. It counselors with criticism and continually re-inflicts wounds. The fundamental goal of the Ogre is to protect from pain and further loss. Unfortunately, the voice is cruel and distorted in its effort to preserve.

In this workshop, participants will catch their Ogre, illuminate him, and utilize various methods to transmute his negative influence. Writing, drawing, partnering, and group dis-

The Body of Metaphor: The Craft and Magic of Figurative Language
Jim Dodge

This writing workshop will be a journey into the realm of figurative language, or tropes, and its core expressions — metaphor, simile, image, and symbol. It will concentrate on metaphor-making, emphasizing the craft and art of imagini-

the physical world through what Aristotle called "the art of the likely impossible."
The primary focus will be on group and individual practice in creating and elaborating metaphors—the ancient "alchemical marriage" mediated by the imagination—as well as the skills that bring clarity and grace to that union. Along the way the group will also:

- Consider the history of metaphor and the role of imagination in various cultures
- Explore the notion that an aesthetic (and a culture) is virtually defined by its metaphorical practices
- Discuss writing as a collaborative act of imagination with the reader
- Examine the properties/powers of words and language as a "wild system"
- Consider the intricate relationships (and perhaps the necessary unity) of language, imagination, and the natural world

In short, we will try to get a firm grasp on the workings of metaphor—and then let go. $380

Reconnecting Business with its Soul

David Trickett, Anita Roddick, Bill Sechrest & Ron Loeb

Einstein asked the question, "Is the world a friendly place?" In this time of rapid global change and worldwide hostilities, executives, managers, and all stakeholders in our global business community may wonder why anyone would even pose the query. Yet an affirmative answer can shift our worldview from the ancient "alchemical marriage" mediated by the imagination—as well as as the skills that bring clarity and grace to that union. Along the way the group will also:

- Consider the history of metaphor and the role of imagination in various cultures
- Explore the notion that an aesthetic (and a culture) is virtually defined by its metaphorical practices
- Discuss writing as a collaborative act of imagination with the reader
- Examine the properties/powers of words and language as a "wild system"
- Consider the intricate relationships (and perhaps the necessary unity) of language, imagination, and the natural world

In short, we will try to get a firm grasp on the workings of metaphor—and then let go. $380

Nobel Laureate Ilya Prigogene's insight that "the world is richer than it is possible to express in any single language." $380

Art from the Heart:
A Workshop for Families

Janet Greenwood

For centuries, families naturally created and worked together to provide food, clothing, and shelter for survival. This workshop was also a way for family members to connect with each other, play, talk, and learn to appreciate each other's talents. Today our sophisticated technology has allowed us to lighten our workload. Unfortunately, it has simultaneously reduced opportunities for families to create together and naturally strengthen interdependence, cooperation, and trust.

Through an approach Janet Greenwood calls "Art from the Heart," families will participate in specific art experiences—drawing, play, collage, and music—designed to deepen understanding, communication, and joy being together. Art creations become symbols to learn about ourselves and teach each other about what most contributes to our feeling loved and cared about. Symbolic art can thus be used to heal past wounds. By creating and understanding a personal symbol vocabulary, combined with verbal and psychological understanding, we can become more conscious of behavioral patterns and more intentional in developing loving, healthy relationships.

No prior art experience is necessary. The workshop is designed for families of all configurations, appropriate for most children over age five. Students and professionals in psychology or education may find these techniques useful personally as well as professionally.

For information on recommended readings and videotapes, contact A+ Relationship School, 3021 Citrus Circle, Suite 110, Walnut Creek, CA 94598, or call 510-806-8255. $380

This workshop is designed to provide tools, techniques, and technologies for people who work with people—teachers, therapists, nurses, social workers, managers, massage practitioners, salespeople. Please bring drums and other instruments (if you have them), along with a strong sense of humor. $740

Movement, Touch, and the Healing Process

Patrick Douce

This workshop will approach the concept of a free, effortless body through Moshe Feldenkrais's work in movement and touch. Balinese and other Indonesian systems of working with the human body's energy field will broaden the Feldenkrais work.

Participants will be introduced to the complexity and simplicity of the spinal column. They will use soft, conscious movement to increase their sensitivity for safe, hands-on explorations. Moving away from the notion of a straight, stiff, rod-like back, they will find that posture and overall flexibility of the spine improves.

This program is designed for both beginners and professionals interested in movement.
Weekend of July 7-9

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see May 12-14. $380

The Language of the Drum: Intermediate Level

Babatunde Olatunji

This workshop is designed for those who would like to further explore the polyrhythmic aspect of African music. It will include exploring varying combinations of rhythmic patterns, the ability to play rhythmic patterns on two drums, rhythmic exercises to help develop stamina and dexterity of the hands and fingers on the drum, and the use of sticks in playing. Participants will also be introduced to different styles of playing the agogo (cow bell), shaker (African maracas), and body percussion.

There will be time devoted to open discussion of the healing power of the drum through history. The group will learn how to meditate with drumming and chanting. No special dancing is involved in this class except for occasional movements conducted by the leader.

Please note: This class is open to those who have taken at least two full workshops with Babatunde Olatunji or a professional percussionist.

Things to bring: one or two drums, congas, djembe, or ashido; shaker (African maracas); agogo (cow bell); and djun-jun (not required). $380

Big Sur Wilderness Experience: For Families

Kai, Kim & Steven Harper

In our modern world it is easy to overlook the importance of our relationship to nature and our relationship with our families. Using the natural world as the primary teacher, this workshop will offer an opportunity to play, work, and laugh together in nature. Big Sur's many moods — sometimes dramatic, sometimes subtle — inspire silence, playfulness, activity, thoughtfulness, awe. This will be a time to share these moments with your family.

This wilderness experience provides an opportunity for parents and children of all ages to explore the Big Sur backcountry on day-hikes, returning each day to Esalen. The leaders will introduce exercises, games, and practices to cultivate awareness of how we relate to nature, ourselves, and our families. They will demonstrate approaches for hiking as a family, introduce useful equipment, teach appropriate safety considerations, and encourage each family to find its own unique pace, style, and interest for being in nature together.

Previous wilderness experience is not necessary. Families of all configurations are welcome.

(For family rates, see Reduced Rate Options, page 5.) $380

Practical Intuition: Introduction

Laura Day

We are all psychics. Every time we draw a conclusion, we work with intuition as well as linear and emotional processes. Identifying how our intuitive faculty works enables us to use it selectively for effective decision-making. A predominantly linear process may be preferable when clear, empirical information is available. But when little data is at hand, or if the question relates to how current choice might affect future results, an intuitive process may be more efficient.

"Practical Intuition," an experiential workshop, introduces intuitive methods for gaining empirical information. Participants will give and receive several present and future intuitive readings a day, focusing on predicting and retrieving verifiable data. Different intuitive styles, such as clairvoyance, clairaudience, and telepathy will be taught, along with exercises for continued training at home.

Participants are requested to bring a few photographs of themselves and people they know well, their personal and business questions, and a willingness to work as if they already know how to do something that they in fact already know how to do.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $380

Moving World: Nature, Movement, and Art

Kathryn Roszak & Christopher Castle

This workshop offers the opportunity to explore the great natural beauty and sanctuarity of Esalen/Big Sur through movement, dance, writing, and art. There was a time in our history — whether in the distant past of our ancient ancestors or the recent past of our own childhood — when we knew our surroundings with the immediacy and spontaneity of our senses. Now, by responding to the environment as the initiator of experience, we can transform our sense of being, both within... ourselves and in relation to the world.

The group will embark upon a pilgrimage of the senses, a journey of discovery and surprise. Places of exploration will include the Esalen garden, the hot springs, and the shore. Participants will create wayside shrines of natural materials, allowing these places to speak through us and tell us their stories. There will be guided meditations and interplay with the elements of nature. The workshop will explore ancient people's relationship to nature through art as well as other cultural perspectives. The group will probe the archetypal meaning of place and its significance in our lives.

The only requirements are a willingness to move, to investigate, and to leave your preconceived ideas at home. $380

Replenishing the Vision: A Retreat for Educators
Betty Halpern, Lia Thompson-Clark, Eduardo Ezner & the Gazebo Staff
Based on the vision and educational philosophy of Janet Lederman, this workshop will give educators at all levels a chance to replenish their professional souls. The weekend will include the following areas of exploration:

- Play and its relationship to human development and learning
- Ways of planning curriculum and observing children's development consistent with playful modes of knowing
- The growth of the professional self through dreams, dance, and movement

Participants will also explore their own childhood experiences insofar as these experiences influence their work with children and families. In addition, there will be time for massage and herbal baths, as teachers join with other teachers in an opportunity to nurture themselves and therefore the children they teach. $380

Week of July 9-14

The Enneagram of Relationship: Men and Women, Love and Work
Helen Palmer
The Enneagram is an ancient spiritual description that highlights interactions between different types of people. The stories of relationship emerge from panel interviews, from interactions between participants, and from inner attention practices that help us to identify with each panel's unique perspective. These interactions are characteristically played out all through life, particularly with authorities, co-workers, family, and friends.

Understanding the nine agendas opens compassion for many of our own relationship dilemmas. Instead of polarizing between "my side" and "your side," we grasp the logic of different viewpoints. Being in the presence of panelists who speak with the authority of their own beliefs can be of great help in understanding different styles of relating.

By hearing others speak for themselves we can:
- Find the trigger issues that shape our relationships with different types of people
- Make professional relationships more effective in management, team-building, co-worker, and client settings
- See our intimate relationships from the perspective of the significant people in our lives

The immediate goal of knowing how your viewpoint differs from the people with whom you live and work is to improve the quality of current relationships. The larger goal is spiritual: To know others as they see themselves, rather than as a projection of our own internal bias. This workshop is for both advanced Enneagram students and for newcomers.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740

Massage Mbunde
Peggy Horan, Brita Ostrom & Guest Drummer
This workshop will unite the fundamentals of Esalen massage with expressive movement and African drum rhythms. Participants will learn to give and receive soothing touch, with emphasis on contact with awareness, sensitivity, and presence. The leaders will present a basic understanding of specific tension patterns and their relief.

Days will be spent at the Esalen baths. In the evenings the group will join a guest drum teacher for movement and rhythm, prompting participants to replace old postures with newly found spontaneity. Drum meditations will provide focus and echo the heartbeat, the pulsation of energy through the body.

This workshop is designed for those who want tools for reducing stress in their lives, for bodywork practitioners and therapists, and for those in the creative arts interested in learning new skills with sound, rhythm, and expression. It is also a good introductory course in Esalen massage. $740

Following the Thread... Revealing the Fabric
Joyce Lyke & David Silverstein

1 went everywhere with longing in my eyes, until here in my own house I felt truth filling my sight.

— LALLA, 14TH-CENTURY MYSTIC

Our culture consistently delivers the message that happiness and success come from buying, attaining, or consuming material things. Throughout the day professional salespeople, masquerading as ordinary folk, try to convince us that a new car, a bigger house, or a vacation in the tropics will bring us deep satisfaction. These things may bring temporary happiness, but what truly satisfies the longing in our hearts, the yearning for something more, does not come from outside: it resides within, and is present always, even when we choose to ignore it.

This message is not new. Most people would agree that what makes life truly satisfying is our awareness of deep connection to ourselves, to our families, to our world. How to find and maintain the connection to those threads of awareness is the real issue. During this time together participants will gently and precisely sort through the tangle of life to find those threads within that lead us toward ourselves, toward the rich fabric of our Being, toward who we really are.

This workshop is designed for people who want to know themselves in a deeper way both emotionally and spiritually. It will present specific practices to deepen awareness and explore whatever emerges, using Sufi self-remembering exercises, meditation, gestalt awareness practice, and the power and peace of place that is Esalen.

Recommended reading: Almas, Essence and Diamond Heart – Book One; Helminski, Living Presence. $740

Embodied Gestalt Practice: Body and Soul
Edward Smith
Gestalt practice focuses on personal process, unfolding moment to moment in the here and now. Value is placed on awareness, actuality, and personal responsibility. As a path of growth, Embodied Gestalt Practice integrates...
Ninth Annual Children's Safari:
A Music and Dance Festival
Babarunte Olatunji & Ensemble

Coordinated by Lia Thompson-Clark & Ivy Mayer

The Annual Children's Safari is a music and dance festival for children 7-15 years old, led by musicians and dancers who teach musical ritual worldwide. Through storytelling, chanting, and learning rhythms in drumming and dance, children will work toward a performance guided by Babarunte Olatunji.

This year there will be both beginner and advanced classes for children. Adults who wish to participate may do so as musicians. Baba Olatunji's message is more than musical; it carries a dedication for the future: "We hope that children's programs will become the concern of all who work diligently for a peaceful world, full of love, for those who take our places tomorrow. Omelere — children are the reward of life."

Please bring your own drum or bells if you have them.

$400 for children ($740 for adults)

Un Viaje Interior
Gustavo Rabin & Sara Szpektor

Muchas veces emprendemos un viaje como una expresión metafórica de nuestra necesidad de un cambio interior. Es el momento en el que buscamos en el afuera, la respuesta que yace en nuestro interior. La claridad nos llega cuando tenemos el conocimiento, y con el conocimiento buscamos la comprensión. Así encontramos la armonía entre nuestro ser interior y el mundo exterior, lo aprendido y nuestra propia verdad.

En el conocimiento de uno mismo se encuentra la puerta por la cual salir de nuestros programas inconscientes, para relacionarnos desde un estado de libertad. Este workshop proveerá a los participantes la oportunidad de recorrer un proceso de exploración y crecimiento personal, afirmando la base sobre la cual ejercemos esa libertad y construimos nuestra vida, nuestros vínculos, nuestro ser.

Con este workshop, Esalen abre sus puertas a la comunidad de habla hispana para ofrecer el marco en el que recorrer ese viaje interior. A través de ejercicios gestálticos, proceso grupal, meditación y trabajo corporal, crearemos el medio adecuado y protegido en el cual transitar el sendero interior. Habrá también tiempo de explorar la espectacular Naturaleza que rodea a Esalen, los bosques y la costa de Big Sur.

Creando un puente con la comunidad de Esalen, invitados especiales presentarán diferentes ideas y técnicas de desarrollo personal. Este workshop tendrá lugar totalmente en español, las presentaciones de los invitados serán traducidas simultáneamente.

$740

Weekend of July 14-16

Why Men Are the Way They Are
Warren Farrell

I've never had a couple come to me and say, "Warren I want a divorce; my partner understands me."

This workshop can help both sexes to understand each other via role-playing in which participants experience pressures that mold the other sex's psyche. Men can experience, for example, women's view of sexual harassment; women can experience men's fear of sexual rejection and the powerlessness it engenders.

In a safe yet boundary-pushing environment, the leader introduces innovative perspectives — initially hard to hear because they are not only female-positive, but also more male-positive than is currently in vogue. The workshop challenges us to create more compassionate ways of relating to the other sex and viewing ourselves.

Group interactions are allowed to become emotional enough to simulate how we communicate when we become defensive. The leader then facilitates work on how both sexes can listen to criticism — even personal criticism — without becoming defensive, thus creating a model for expressing to our loved ones those "tough to hear" feelings.

This workshop offers insights on everything from male power and powerlessness to date rape and sexual harassment, from why men are afraid of commitment to why they commit more suicide; from a new view of equality in the home to myths about equality in the workplace.

A common response to this workshop, from both sexes, is "I've never felt so much love for the other sex."

Recommended reading: Farrell, The Myth of Male Power. $380

Healthy Back, Healthy Mind: Do-It-Yourself for Backs and Stress
Larry Payne & Brian Bergstrom

If you have already had your first bout with back problems, you are not alone. Ninety percent of all Americans will seek professional help for back problems at some time in their lives. Seven million people miss work daily from back-related illness, costing American business $2 billion dollars annually. Perhaps the saddest statistic is that eighty percent of all back problems can be prevented.

This workshop is user-friendly for those who want to explore real and safe do-it-yourself tools for preventing or healing back problems and coping with stress. It offers a creative synthesis and artful balance of ageless wisdom from the East and contemporary therapeutic methods from the West. The workshop is inspired by pioneers in the fields of yoga, movement, massage, and dialogue. It includes:

- Biomechanical education and exploration
- Safe, effective 15-, 20-, and 30-minute breath and movement routines for home or office
- Numerous effective relaxation practices
- Simple and fun partner massage for upper and lower back
- A sensible approach to the relationship of aging and back health

The workshop is open to all levels and ages. It is not recommended for acute back problems. For further information, please phone Samata International at 800-359-0171.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $380

Identity, Community, and Politics:
The Ontogeny of Everyday Life
Andra Akers & Tim Kennedy

If there are many paradigms in this nonlinear, ever-shifting, postcultural world, how do we create ourselves, our social, political, and spiritual worlds? How do we make meaning in this transition to a global human soul? What is the ground of being for a twenty-first century identity, the characteristics of a planetary citizen?

Could the sciences of biology and complexity serve as models for this new identity, both individual and global — and a way to envision new ways to live and work?
Biology is a potent vision of life's appreciation of itself, one way the human species recognizes its participation in the embodiment of this living planet. Organisms are both ends and means. Molecular, cellular, organismal, and ecological insights provide clear indications of the biological heritage that we share with the rest of the living earth—vivid stories of being, identity, and becoming.

With biology as the blueprint and imagination as the engine, it is possible to think of a new kinship story, with identity as an ecosystem of ideas, in a creative commonwealth founded on diversity with a new definition of power, a strategy of inclusion.

Recommended reading: Chomsky, World Orders Old and New; Kramer, Listening to Prozac; Waldrof, Complexity.

The Kabbalah: Doorway to the Mind
Edward Hoffman

For thousands of years, adepts of the Kabbalah, the mystical offshoot of Judaism, have explored the nature of the human mind and its vast potential. Its practitioners have focused extensively on such intriguing topics as consciousness, dreamwork, meditation, inward states of ecstasy and bliss, healing, and the mind/body unity. In recent years, a true renaissance of interest in the Kabbalah has been occurring. Throughout the world, men and women of all backgrounds are discovering the unique wisdom and power of this long-standing visionary system.

In this workshop, Dr. Hoffman will present specific Kabbalistic ideas and practices for achieving greater joy and direction in our lives. The focus will be on the Kabbalah's understanding of our inner world and ways to better identify— and actualize— our particular tikun, or life purpose.

The workshop will highlight how to develop the key inner traits of kavanah (intentionality) and higher imagination. No previous background in Jewish thought is necessary.

Through the Psyche to the Sacred: Transforming Inner Oppressors
Joan Hertzberg & Karen Peoples

The leaders write: "Many of us are deeply moved by the suffering in our world and are committed to actively doing what we can to heal it. Yet ceasing external violence and intolerance can only proceed along with the dismantling of patterns of dominance and submission that live within us, patterns that lead us to dissociate from full and essential presence.

"Internal processes of recognition, mutuality, and interdependence offer different modes of relatedness to self-crucial to restoring our conscious connection to body, culture, and Nature. These processes balance our chronic Western tendency to objectify, dehumanize, and oppressively control aspects of our self-experience. Working with a broad definition of trauma, we will explore the more insidious and subtle forms of invalidation learned from the environment that we now replicate inside us. These patterns disrupt the crucial trust in self so necessary to being fully present and effective in the world.

"Using music, movement, and guided imagery, we will seek to establish a sacred space in which participants may discover their foundation of essential presence and relatedness. From here we will explore how points of rupture in self-trust and the patterns of dominance surrounding them can become initiatory gateways into consciously reweaving aspects of ourselves we are now ready to acknowledge and integrate."

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $380

A Journey into the Mother
Andrew Harvey

"This is an invitation," writes Andrew Harvey, "to journey into the heart of the Divine Mother, the heart in which the whole universe lies embraced and shining, and in which all pains and paradoxes are healed and resolved in an experience beyond words of unconditional love."

The course will explore the principal aspects and splendors of the Sacred Feminine from most of the main mystical traditions, especially Sufi, Hindu, Mahayanist, Buddhist, and Taoist, and will pay attention to the ancient matriarchal wisdom of the Aborigines, Kogis, and Hopis in an attempt to obtain as large and vibrant a vision as possible of what the Mother is. The workshop will investigate both the meaning and the demands of the Sacred Marriage of heaven and earth, sexuality and sacredness, mysticism and action.

Participants will be encouraged to share their own mystical experiences of the Mother, to write, and to spend solitary periods communing with the splendor of the Mother as Nature. Music, chanting, and mystical poetry from different cultures will be used to awaken every sense to its divine potential.

Continues Andrew, "The Mother must be contacted by individuals directly within the terms of their own psyches and lives without any need of mediators or gurus. I hope to enable participants to find their own inner Mother and inner Divine Child."

The Naked Soul: A Ritual Theater Lab
Gabrielle Roth

Gabrielle Roth writes: "This is a workshop for those who want to explore the mysteries and dynamics of relating fearlessly with humor and compassion. We will cultivate and deepen our ability to see and hear each other as we break through masks and myths to face each other with naked souls.

"Each day will include movement practice and specific theater techniques. Mornings we will dance, afternoons we will immerse ourselves in theater exercises to expand our capacity to relate and behold. To weave witnessing and warrior into a vulnerable presence is our prayer and our hope."

Assisting Gabrielle Roth will be Jonathan Horan. $740

Origins: A Rite of Passage Journey in the Ventana Wilderness
Little Bear Nason & David Schiffman

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 58. $790

Week of July 16-21

Through the Psyche to the Sacred: Transforming Inner Oppressors
Joan Hertzberg & Karen Peoples

The leaders write: "Many of us are deeply moved by the suffering in our world and are committed to actively doing what we can to heal it. Yet ceasing external violence and intolerance can only proceed along with the dismantling of patterns of dominance and submission that live within us, patterns that lead us to dissociate from full and essential presence.

"Internal processes of recognition, mutuality, and interdependence offer different modes of relatedness to self-crucial to restoring our conscious connection to body, culture, and Nature. These processes balance our chronic Western tendency to objectify, dehumanize, and oppressively control aspects of our self-experience. Working with a broad definition of trauma, we will explore the more insidious and subtle forms of invalidation learned from the environment that we now replicate inside us. These patterns disrupt the crucial trust in self so necessary to being fully present and effective in the world.

"Using music, movement, and guided imagery, we will seek to establish a sacred space in which participants may discover their foundation of essential presence and relatedness. From here we will explore how points of rupture in self-trust and the patterns of dominance surrounding them can become initiatory gateways into consciously reweaving aspects of ourselves we are now ready to acknowledge and integrate."

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $380

The Kabbalah: Doorway to the Mind
Edward Hoffman

For thousands of years, adepts of the Kabbalah, the mystical offshoot of Judaism, have explored the nature of the human mind and its vast potential. Its practitioners have focused extensively on such intriguing topics as consciousness, dreamwork, meditation, inward states of ecstasy and bliss, healing, and the mind/body unity. In recent years, a true renaissance of interest in the Kabbalah has been occurring. Throughout the world, men and women of all backgrounds are discovering the unique wisdom and power of this long-standing visionary system.

In this workshop, Dr. Hoffman will present specific Kabbalistic ideas and practices for achieving greater joy and direction in our lives. The focus will be on the Kabbalah's understanding of our inner world and ways to better identify— and actualize— our particular tikun, or life purpose.

The workshop will highlight how to develop the key inner traits of kavanah (intentionality) and higher imagination. No previous background in Jewish thought is necessary.

$380

July 16-22

Origins: A Rite of Passage Journey in the Ventana Wilderness
Little Bear Nason & David Schiffman

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 58. $790

Week of July 16-21

The Naked Soul: A Ritual Theater Lab
Gabrielle Roth

Gabrielle Roth writes: "This is a workshop for those who want to explore the mysteries and dynamics of relating fearlessly with humor and compassion. We will cultivate and deepen our ability to see and hear each other as we break through masks and myths to face each other with naked souls.

"Each day will include movement practice and specific theater techniques. Mornings we will dance, afternoons we will immerse ourselves in theater exercises to expand our capacity to relate and behold. To weave witnessing and warrior into a vulnerable presence is our prayer and our hope."

Assisting Gabrielle Roth will be Jonathan Horan. $740

A Journey into the Mother
Andrew Harvey

"This is an invitation," writes Andrew Harvey, "to journey into the heart of the Divine Mother, the heart in which the whole universe lies embraced and shining, and in which all pains and paradoxes are healed and resolved in an experience beyond words of unconditional love."

The course will explore the principal aspects and splendors of the Sacred Feminine from most of the main mystical traditions, especially Sufi, Hindu, Mahayanist, Buddhist, and Taoist, and will pay attention to the ancient matriarchal wisdom of the Aborigines, Kogis, and Hopis in an attempt to obtain as large and vibrant a vision as possible of what the Mother is. The workshop will investigate both the meaning and the demands of the Sacred Marriage of heaven and earth, sexuality and sacredness, mysticism and action.

Participants will be encouraged to share their own mystical experiences of the Mother, to write, and to spend solitary periods communing with the splendor of the Mother as Nature. Music, chanting, and mystical poetry from different cultures will be used to awaken every sense to its divine potential.

Continues Andrew, "The Mother must be contacted by individuals directly within the terms of their own psyches and lives without any need of mediators or gurus. I hope to enable participants to find their own inner Mother and inner Divine Child."

$740

Weekend of July 21-23

Massage Intensive for Couples
Brita Ostrom & Dean Marson

This workshop is for partners who want to learn to massage each other. Emphasis will be on "hearing" with the hands, de-stressing the home, asking for what is needed, and giving to those we love. Sessions will include demonstrations and hands-on guidance. Individual concerns will be addressed so that participants can continue to practice at home. $380 per participant
The Subtle Self

Judith Blackstone

All spiritual traditions refer to an essential dimension of existence, calling it unity consciousness, emptiness, universal consciousness, and many other names. This dimension is not an abstract concept. It is the core of our own true nature and can be experienced by anyone who is willing to approach it with patience and openness. Unity consciousness is experienced as clear, mirror-like space, pervading our body and our environment, transcending the duality of self and object. It is deeper than the physical and energetic levels of our being and beyond our psychological defenses, projections, images, and archetypes. Subtle Self Work is a precise method of attuning to the clear space of unity consciousness.

In this workshop participants will explore how to: relate to others in this clear space, commune with nature, experience and live in the inner depths of the body, and integrate the body, authentic self, and unity consciousness. Group members will use the Subtle Self Work attunement exercises, daily sitting meditation, and sound, breath, and movement exercises to stimulate the channels in the vertical core of the body and expand the sense of unity consciousness. In this essential dimension of ourselves, we can find the source of our love, clarity, vitality, and peace.

Recommended reading: Blackstone, The Subtle Self.

$380

Intimate Connections

Mariah Fenton Gladis

Creating stable and fulfilling relationships is a challenge that everyone faces. To be successful, human relating must be understood and accepted as an activity, an ability that requires movement, purpose, emotional capacity, and extensive contact skills. People often believe that good relating evolves naturally, but they discover in the routine of living with families, friends, and lovers that, in truth, they have not been adequately prepared to meet the demands of loving relationships.

This workshop will focus on the nature and basic requirements of healthy relationships. It will offer participants opportunities to assess their abilities and disabilities, to develop awareness, and to practice risking positive action with others. It is for anyone who has “hit the wall” in a relationship or who has experienced being stuck at some seemingly impenetrable contact boundary and wants to break through the impasses that have kept them estranged and unfulfilled. The workshop will consider:

- Why it may be “no one’s fault” if father and daughter can’t get along — how customs and culture can lock fathers and daughters into rigid roles
- How the “Too Late Syndrome” may stand between fathers and daughters and how the right redecision can bring them together
- How to transform a dysfunctional scenario into a loving father-daughter dance — and when it’s better to dance solo

In this workshop participants can practice ways to make their father-daughter relationship an improvisation wherein each offers the other status to heal grief and enhance pleasure.

$380

Choice in Dying: Toward a Good Death

Derek Humphry

Dying and death as subjects for honest discussion have “come out of the closet” in recent years. No longer taboo is rational suicide to escape the suffering of terminal illness. Physician-assisted suicide has just become lawful in Oregon.

Derek Humphry, author of the best-selling Final Exit, brings his twenty years’ experience in the subject to bear in this workshop, leading a discussion on dying and death in the 1990s. He will trace the history of euthanasia back 2,000 years and explain its turbulent path through many fascinating legal and ethical barriers. Find out how the major religions of the world view euthanasia and why the sudden change in attitudes has taken place in the last forty years.

This is an opportunity first to gain an overview of the subject of dying in our culture and then to make your own statements from personal experiences. Come with a notepad and pen because you will be asked to pin down your personal philosophy on dying as well as debate it. Expect to learn, laugh, and cry.

$380

Fathers and Daughters: Understanding the Pattern of Your Relationship

Joan Minninger

Ideally fathers keep their promises and forgive their daughters’ mistakes. Ideally daughters grow up to be fair players. When this has not occurred we need to build new paths to healing by breaking out of limiting patterns to achieve authentic, unique relationships.

This workshop is for daughters and fathers who wish—singly or together—to understand their relationship better and to identify ways to change it to produce opportunities for mutual growth and enjoyment.

It’s the tension between conscious and unconscious that causes so many of the difficulties between fathers and daughters. By bringing embedded but unconscious attitudes into sharp relief, fathers and daughters can break through the impasses that have kept them

Week of July 23-28

Animals, Angels, and Other Spiritual Allies: A Study in Film

Francis Lu & Brother David Strindl-Rast

The dog with whom you grew up or the invisible friend in the tree house with whom you shared an otherwise lonely childhood may have helped shape your character more than any human teacher. In later life, a pet that proves a faithful companion in crisis may give you a sense of belonging when humans let you down.

The archetypes of messenger/angel, mentor, and ally appear in nonhuman form more often than we might suspect. Through films that celebrate these archetypes of spiritual friendship we can explore their power in our own life.

This seminar is designed to help participants remember the support received from spiritual friends in human and nonhuman shapes. Through group sharing of films, we may taste again the sweetness of experiences that nourished us in the past. This can sharpen our senses for gifts of friendship that don’t quite fit into our everyday frame of reference. Nourishment of this kind can heal the soul and provide sustenance for life’s journey.

This will be the seventh time that Francis Lu and Brother David co-lead a seminar that brings together film enthusiasts — be they private film buffs or film professionals — to view and discuss films in the incomparable setting of the screen.

$740
Our Children — Ourselves
Josette Sambhava Luvmour

These questions live in the heart of everyone who relates to children. This workshop asks: Is there a way to relate to children beyond rewards and punishments? Is there a way to 'dance' with our children so that all members of the family, or classroom, can enjoy wisdom-based relationships? How can education truly serve the awakening of consciousness in children?

This workshop is for all of us. Through the understanding of a child's developmental stages and the findings about the stage-specific wisdom that guides it, the workshop will explore all of these questions, as well as the ones you bring. Not only can participants gain insight into creating close families and communities, but also into themselves. In sharing how to nurture the healthy development of children, there will be opportunities to heal family rifts, to resolve conflict, and to develop highly effective communication skills.

Parents of children ages 1 to 7 are especially encouraged to bring their children to experience Esalen's Gazebo school. Arrangements can be made through Gazebo (see page 5).

Recommended reading: J. & S. Luvmour, Natural Learning Rhythms. $740

The Singing Cure
Paul Newham

The human voice is the primary means of communication in human beings. It is an expression of who we are and how we feel. In a person's voice you can hear the innocence of youth, the wisdom of age, the yearning of need, the edge of anger.

The voice is also one of the ways in which we preserve our identity: When we sound good we feel good — when we feel good we sound good. The voice and the individual's psychological state mutually influence each other.

Just as the voice can become limited and constricted by our psychological, physical, and social predicaments, it can also be a celebrated medium through which we can express the multicolored fabric of our inner self — images, moods, characters, impulses, ideas, and dreams. This workshop will introduce the techniques and processes of a new form of self-expression called Voice Movement Therapy, founded by Paul Newham. Through his insightful and imaginative direction, participants can take their voices on a journey through the contours of the soul, giving authentic expression to the inner landscape of the psyche and imagination in sound for all to hear.

The workshop is rigorous and demanding on body and mind, combining exercises in breath, movement, and voice with personal journeys of an intimate nature using the vocal instrument as vehicle and guide.

Recommended reading: Newham, The Singing Cure. $740

Gender War, Gender Peace: The Art of Gender Diplomacy
Aaron Kipnis & Elizabeth Herron

Why is it so difficult for women and men to get along? How can we create more love, understanding, and pleasure in our relationships?

This workshop will explore the ways in which men and women are members of different cultures. It will present new biological, linguistic, social, and spiritual perspectives that support more compassionate and balanced partnerships between the sexes. Through various exercises and playful encounters, the group will demonstrate male and female styles of communication and ways in which collective differences often contribute to relationship conflicts.

The leaders will ceremonially create a safe and just container in which to host 'gender peace councils' and demonstrate how to apply this healing process to personal relationships. Therapists and other helping professionals can gain valuable skills for working with the gender conflicts of clients.

Participants will:
- Explore differing emotional, nonverbal, and spoken languages of men and women and how they affect power and intimacy in relationships
- Have opportunities to both question and inform the other sex
- Discuss differing domains of power and pain
- Explore the unique gifts each sex offers and the value of relationship as a spiritual path
- Be invited to sing, drum, dance, and play along the way $740

The Dream Master: Dreams and Fantasies
Pierre Grimes

This workshop teaches how to understand the structure and function of dreams, and how fantasies, or spontaneous dream projections, are the doorway into the power and nature of the Dream Master, the massive intelligibility that presents us with our dreams. By coming to recognize how dreams select and represent the dynamics of our issues, we are brought to appreciate the intrinsic intelligibility of the Dream Master's reality. For the dream draws from our past those unresolved conflicts and offers them for reflection within a form of unmatched artistry.

The drama presented through dreams and fantasy has a common dynamic and structure which can unlock personal blocks to achievement of excellence. These blocks are conclusions we learned to draw from youthful experiences, but which now we unknowingly misapply to the present; they are false beliefs about ourselves and our reality. Since they are in principle irreconcilable with our highest ideals, they can become the causes of our sense of dissatisfaction and failure.

Participants will be offered a new way of understanding themselves, their reality, and the profound nature and role of the Dream Master. This approach is philosophical rather than psychological, since it challenges the legitimacy of beliefs by exploring the conditions that first made them believable.

Participants will explore dreams which occur during this week; please bring a tape recorder. $740

Creating Exact Moments of Healing
Mariah Fenton Gladis

Adult children of alcoholic, dysfunctional, or abusive families (ACAs) must walk a road of recovery that requires determination, lifelong commitment, and the creation of specific moments of healing. This workshop offers participants an opportunity to take a major step toward health, helping them define a plan for necessary moments they must create so they can move forward, transforming their personal history from one of liability to one of strength and wisdom. Focus will be on the promotion of healing in four fundamental relationships:
Week of July 30-August 4

Friendship and Intimacy: The Dance of Caring and Conflict
Joel Isaacs and Anne Isaacs

The leaders write: "Our goal in this workshop is to help each person touch the deepest place of longing to be whole and connected to others. We want to realign the balance point where the desire for contact and love is often countered by the fear of being engulfed or abandoned. We want to expand options beyond isolation or losing oneself to be close. "As children, our personalities are formed in response to how our connection with others is supported or prevented. Our adult person- alities are largely the result of how we learned to balance this interplay of caring (harmony) and conflict. In this workshop we will create a safe space where concerns and conflicts become more accessible to us, more visible. Healing these conflicts, likely the same ones we experience in our intimate relationships, frees the expression of caring to grow and deepen. Through risking we can create a new intimacy."

Since connecting at Esalen seventeen years ago, the leaders have lived and worked together, sharing a commitment to personal and professional growth, intimacy, and family. Tailoring each workshop to the needs and desires of the participants, they employ depth polarities of opposing desires, group process, and exercises to experience/clarify/affirm boundaries. They also work with the polarity of opposing desires, group process, humor, play, and music.

Core Zero Balancing: Basic I & II
Fritz Smith

Zero Balancing is a simple yet powerful method for aligning body structure with body energy. Science has shown that energy and matter are fundamentally coupled; advances in psychology have shown that the body and mind are interconnected. Zero Balancing is born of these perceptions, with roots in both Eastern and Western concepts. It is based on the experience that the balance of energy and structure within the body has a direct effect on our physical, mental, emotional, and spiritual health.

The structural/energetic interface of the body is beneath conscious awareness. When imbalances occur at this level, the body tends to compensate for them rather than resolve them directly. These imbalances often lead to loss of vitality, chronic body pain, and decreased potential for vibrant health. Through touch, Zero Balancing can assist in overcoming these imbalanced patterns.

The workshop will review anatomy, physiology, and skills of touch. It will present Zero Balancing methods for evaluating and balancing the structural/energetic interface of the body. Eastern concepts of chi energy and the chakra system will be discussed.

This seminar will be both didactic and experiential, with emphasis on new bodywork skills, and is open to all health care professionals. It is approved for C.E. credit for R.N.s and acupuncturists, and as Z.B. I or II in the Zero Balancing certification program.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740

Managing Your Stress, Your Heart, and Your Life
Mel Lefer

Dr. Dean Ornish produced the first major study showing conclusive evidence that reversal of heart disease and other disorders, such as high blood pressure, diabetes, obesity, and high cholesterol, was possible without the use of drugs or surgical intervention. This workshop will apply the tools developed by Dr. Ornish to provide the direct experience of how powerful, comprehensive lifestyle changes can affect one's heart and overall sense of well-being.

The workshop will utilize many approaches, including diet (special nonfat dishes will be available for participants), exercise, stretching, progressive relaxation, breathing practices, meditation, visualization, and group discussion. The goal will be for participants to transfer these good habits into every aspect of daily life, and to pave the way to the peace of mind that physical well-being can provide.

Recommended reading: Ornish, Eat More, Weigh Less — Stress, Diet, and Your Heart; and Dr. Dean Ornish's Program for Reversing Heart Disease.

Writing the Natural Way
Gabrielle Rico

Writing well can be as natural as telling a story to a friend, as fluid as daydreaming. In this course, Gabrielle Rico builds on the new science of Chaos as a metaphor for the workings of the mind, the creative process, and ways of accessing it to write freely and richly. She presents a series of writing activities to free you from the restrictions imposed by a linear, judgmental left-brain approach. She can help you to become receptive to your creative intuition and to express ideas, images, and feelings more authentically in a fresh, personal voice.

If we can understand something about the creative process, we begin to glimpse answers to such questions as "Where do ideas come from? How can we best hold them? What is the role of the emotions in the creative process? In what way is all writing creative?" A few of the many writing activities include:
- Clustering — a non-linear process that accesses seemingly random thoughts and feelings
- Improvisation and play with language
- Images — "strange attractors" which evoke visual, tactile, auditory, and gustatory memory patterns
- Metaphoric thought — moving beyond literal thinking

This workshop is appropriate for writers of all levels, from beginners to experts. Please bring colored felt-tip pens and a bound notebook.

Recommended reading: Rico, Writing the Natural Way and Pain and Possibility: Writing Through Personal Crisis. $740

---

Relationship Intensive for Sexual Abuse Survivors and/or Partners

Carolyn Braddock & Guest Staff

Survivors often have great difficulty sharing what they think and feel because old patterns have prohibited them from "telling secrets" and expressing themselves emotionally. The objective of this workshop is to help participants disengage — both verbally (spoken aloud) and nonverbally (spoken by the body) — from the "victim" position in relationships. Focus will be on the areas in relationships which are most commonly affected by sexual abuse and how those areas can become barriers to intimacy. They include body image, sexuality, trust, establishing clear boundaries, and taking responsibility for the kind of relationships one wants to create.

Participants will explore new ways of being emotionally honest and "feeling" their experiences, and will work on developing new patterns that empower relationships. Using breath, sound, and movement, the group will role-play and take part in experiential exercises that demonstrate new patterns of responding and relating. The goal will be to develop healthy ways of creating safety, trust, and aliveness in close relationships. Gestalt, bodywork, creative cognitive work, humor, and play will also be used.

Please note: This workshop is for couples and singles, as well as professionals who counsel.

---

Weekend of August 4-6

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see May 12-14. $380

Creative Bonding: Changing Destructive Detachment

George Kohlrieser

Recent medical and psychological research validates the idea that "no man is an island," and that bonding behavior to people, pets, places, things, and goals is central to physical, psychological, and spiritual well-being. Disruption in the bonding/grieving cycle can lead to destructive detachment, victimization, and chronic loneliness, which can shorten one's life and limit the quality of genuine aliveness.

Through presentations, guided imagery, emotional release, and group process, participants can explore, reinforce, or establish new and more effective ways to keep the bonding process alive and healthy.

Recommended reading: Lynch, The Language of the Heart; Bowlby, Attachment and Loss, Volume 3; Steindl-Rast, Gratefulness, the Heart of Prayer. $380

---

Play, Spontaneity, and Performance Art

Nina Wise

The leader writes: "I read once that rats were put in a maze with one path leading to a small room with food, another leading to a room charged with an electrical current, and a third path leading to a room with playthings. The rats learned to avoid the electric shock, but the food room and the play room were equally popular. Play, it seems, is as essential to rats as nutrition. "Play is also an integral part of human culture. In tribal societies, people sing, make music, drum, dance, and tell stories as part of their daily lives. With the advent of technology and specialization, we modernized folk have Forgetting how to play together. Singers sing, dancers dance, actors act, while the rest of us sit and watch.

"This workshop is about remembering how to dance, how to sing, how to tell stories about our lives, how to make it up as we go along, how to be together in a way that is lively, spontaneous, and creative. The workshop will include meditation, chanting, relaxation, movement, singing, writing, drawing, and theater games. We will also do spontaneous performance with and for each other in a safe and supportive environment.

"Everyone is afraid of performing, even professionals. Don't let your fear stop you. It's fun, fun, fun!"

Carolyn Braddock & Paula Murphy

Healing Body Image and Sexuality

Enrollment is limited to 12 couples.

Keeping a Good Relationship Alive
Gerald Smith

How can we be close and vulnerable as partners, yet separate and free to grow as individuals? The dilemma of merging and yet still maintaining a strong sense of individuality is never completely resolved, because each partner is continually changing. But it can be dealt with in ways that add to the aliveness in the relationship. This workshop will focus on the necessity of dealing with this issue in order to keep a good relationship alive.

Much of the participants' time during this weekend will be spent with their partners, separate from other couples. The workshop will use verbal, nonverbal, and written exercises to enhance openness, support, and affection, as well as skills to resolve differences in ways that do not produce "scar tissue." Also, since play is an essential part of keeping a relationship alive, there will be experiences to spark the imagination and willingness to play together.

Enrollment is limited to 12 couples.

$380 per participant

Drawing and Painting
Leigh Hyams

Artwork comes straight through an open mind — and with it come clarity of vision, increased awareness of oneself in relation to the environment, and a deepening understanding of the world of art and its meaning in one's life.

Leigh Hyams's unique teaching methods enable students to work fearlessly, exuberantly, sensitively, and observantly from the very first session. Using a variety of art materials, many techniques and ideas about image-making will be explored. Participants will work from Esalen's natural landscape, unorthodox still lifes, models, dreams, fantasies, and memories.

Individual and group critiques, demonstrations, slides, and discussions of art from many cultures will be used to give students a broader understanding of visual language. Participants will complete portfolios of their own drawings and paintings and work toward developing a new sense of themselves as creative human beings.

This is a workshop for people who want to revitalize their connection with art and the environment, as well as those who have had no previous experience. The only prerequisites are curiosity and willingness to explore the rich possibilities inherent in the act of making marks.

$740

The Enneagram and Self-Realization
Eli Jaxon-Bear

The leader writes: "Every soul longs for happiness and peace. This longing is the call home, the call within, to discover the richness and peace. This longing is the call home.

"The Enneagram presents a new form of self-inquiry by giving a perfect description of who you are not. All patterns of negative emotion, such as fear, anger, jealousy, and negative thinking are exposed as forms of self-hypnosis. "This work offers the possibility to wake up from the trance of suffering. It can happen on several levels simultaneously. There will be group trance and individual work to uncover the patterns of subconscious identification and directly experience the truth of love underlying all phenomena. "Learning the Enneagram usually elicits a deep sense of forgiveness and relief as you recognize patterns in your parents, lovers, and children, as well as yourself. A deeper possibility is the quest to discover the truth of Being."

This work is appropriate for beginners as well as those who might already be using it in their work or teaching it. $740

Living Dance: A Moving Way
Anna Halprin & Rich Lepore

Anna Halprin writes: "I envision a future where more of us will call ourselves dancers and work together to make art concerned with the primary issues of life. I envision a future where dance is once again honored for its power to inspire, teach, transform, and heal. I envision a future where all people dance together, where the circle is open to people of any color, culture, or spiritual practice. We will ask to join the four-legged and the winged creatures instead of asking them to join us. We will dance with the mountains, the oceans, the sun, and the moon."

"In this workshop we will experience this future as it is unfolding right now. I invite you to join me in this quest. Themes will include the healing power of dance, myth and ritual, dance in the environment, and the evolution of the human being in relation to the natural world."

Through an approach Anna Halprin calls the Life/Art Process, using movement, visualization, and group interaction, participants will create dances from their own lives. Such dances intend to bring about life changes and therefore may become powerful rituals, born of the heart and revealing personal and collective myths of relationships, life and death, healing, peace.

Professionals and nonprofessionals are welcome. Potential students for the Tamalpa Trainings may find this a valuable orientation. Recommended reading and viewing: For information, contact Anna Halprin at 15 Ravine Way, Kentfield, CA 94904. $740

Women’s Wisdom
Lenore Lefer & Anne Yoemans

What is the nature of women’s wisdom? What are the sources of our knowing? As women what does it mean to reclaim and trust again our wisdom and deep instinctive knowing in a culture which has neither sought our counsel nor valued our perceptions?

In this workshop we will explore:
- The wisdom of our bodies, including our relationship to sexuality
- Our relationship to cycles and seasons
- The knowing of our hands and hearts
- Our relationship to the unconscious as it comes to us through image and dream
- Our understanding of ritual and sacred places
- Our relationship to nature

We will look at the legacy handed down to us from our mothers and grandmothers, and how we carry their attitudes and beliefs, their wounds and their gifts, as well as our own. We will also spend time with images of ancient goddesses and see how they can help us in our efforts to recover and remember the depths of our knowing.

Our exploration will include words, silence, drawing, movement, yoga, and ritual. Bring something that expresses an aspect of women’s wisdom, and also a fragment of a dream. $740

Weekend of August 11-13

Stress Reduction:
An East/West Approach
David Levenson & Mark Abramson

Stress comes to us in many forms. Our bodies and minds are stressed by chronic pain and persistent illness. Relationships are stressful. We find stress at home and at work, in our social and financial lives, even in our recreation.

Stress often leads us to suffering. Medical problems may be magnified by our reactions to stress. Muscles tense up, pain tolerance decreases, inflammations increase, intestines go into spasm, fatigue may become profound. Our minds are often filled with anxiety, fear, depression, anger, and helplessness.

All of this suffering is normal and understandable, but it is not a requirement. Suffering is optional. In this workshop, you will be taught to minimize suffering with the help of mindfulness meditation, yoga, self-hypnosis, deep relaxation, healing imagery, and cognitive approaches. Through these practices, you can develop a self-caring objectivity that will allow wise choices and bring the best health to body and mind. You will be shown how to respond to your pain and suffering with compassion instead of self-criticism, guilt, and shame.

The workshop is designed to be practical. The aim is to integrate your experiences and give you tools to use in your everyday life.

The workshop is open to non-meditators and meditators alike, as well as to people with or without medical problems. C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $380

Introduction to Gestalt Practice
Christine Stewart Price

The Way, When Declared
Seems so Thin and Flavorless.
Nothing to Look At, Nothing to Hear—
And When Used—Is Inexhaustible.
—LAO Tzu

Gestalt practice is a form — nonanalytic, noncoercive, nonjudgmental — evolving out of the work of Fritz Perls. The work integrates ways of personal clearing and development that are both ancient and modern. To the extent that awareness is made primary relative to action, gestalt practice has a strong relationship to some forms of meditation and visualization. This form is similar to some Reichian work as well, in that emotional and energetic release and rebalancing are allowed and encouraged.

The emphasis is interpersonal rather than intrapersonal. It is explicitly understood that participants are not patients but persons actively consenting to work (or play) in awareness. The leader functions to reflect, clarify, and respect whatever emerges in this process. The aim is unfoldment, wholeness, and growth, rather than adjustment, cure or accomplishment. Through group exercises, meditations, and discussion, this workshop will introduce participants to the gestalt practice approach. Open seat work may be demonstrated.

Recommended reading: Perls, Gestalt Therapy Verbatim; Chodron, The Wisdom of No Escape. $380
The Eastern Path to Long-Term Fulfillment

George Leonard

We've tried them all — the fast weight-loss diets, the shortcuts to enlightenment, the "ten easy steps" to wealth, wisdom, and a perfect sex life. One by one, we've seen the shortcuts fail, leaving us empty and disillusioned. We've witnessed our entire nation brought close to bankruptcy by this same short-term thinking.

Now the news is in: The quick fix doesn't work. Long-term fulfillment takes long-term dedication. Success eventually comes not from obsessively pursuing short-term goals, but from living fully in the present and dedicating yourself to a never-ending path of mastery. At best, you follow this path not so much for hope of achievement as for its own sake, because it represents the best of who you are. And that, paradoxically, is what often produces the highest achievement.

This workshop combines ancient Eastern wisdom with recent Western research to map a journey of self-development that is revolutionary for these times. Through lecture, discussion, and simple movement exercises inspired by the Japanese art of aikido, participants will be introduced to the basic mastery principles that apply to all skills, whether one seeks to play tennis, become a physician, or improve a relationship. Here is a journey that offers the delicious feeling of moment-by-moment satisfaction transcending material gain, along with the possibility of achieving great things without diminishing others, creating harmony where once there was discord.

Recommended reading: Leonard, Mastery and The Silent Pulse.

Learning to Tell: Finding Your Essential Stories

Herbert Gold

The storyteller seeks to bring private fantasy into the shared reality of meaning for others — through passion, eloquence, narrative, the Aha! reaction. "In dreams begin responsibilities..." This workshop explores techniques which enable the dreamer to communicate — not only to express, but to communicate — the deepest inner life to others.

The group will work to grasp the great themes, love and death, through the gift of language. Participants will practice shaping memories to make contact with others through story. This workshop jump-starts that process.

The techniques of shaping a moving narrative follow with instinctual natural force when the audience is attentive and the teller of the tale is in touch. Bring paper, writing tools, and a willingness to ride toward eloquence. $380

The Helper's Journey: Working With Grief, Loss, and Life-Threatening Illness

Dale Larson

Writing the leader, "The rewards and challenges of working with people facing grief, loss, and life-threatening illness are part of the helper's journey. Together, as fellow travelers, we will explore how this journey can be one of discovery and personal growth as well as service to others."

"Our exploration begins with the inner world of helping, as we look at: our desire to help others and its roots in human nature; the myth of the codependent caregiver; the varieties of emotional involvement we experience as helpers, and how to remain involved without falling into the Helper's Pit; helper secrets; and other invisible stressors in caregiving. We'll also look at the interpersonal challenges of caregiving: How can we offer the healing words and helping relationships needed by the people we care for? How can we create healthy, high-functioning caregiving teams where we can learn and grow through our work together?"

Through group discussion, lectures, experiential exercises, humor, and films, this workshop will offer you support, practical skills, and rejuvenation as you continue on your helping journey.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $380

Week of August 13-18

Five-Day Massage Intensive

Sherry Galloway & Oliver Bailey

This massage workshop explores the fundamental elements of bodywork: grounding, centering, breath awareness, touch sensitivity, and intention. A hands-on approach will combine a balance of long, integrative strokes with detailed attention to specific areas of the body. There will be emphasis on discussion and modeling of boundaries and trust with respect to the client's physical and emotional well-being. Meditation and movement will be included, as they enhance the connection between client and practitioner.

This workshop is for beginning bodyworkers and those interested in learning some new approaches to massage.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740

Living a Spiritual Life in a Practical World

Judith Weaver

This workshop is based on the conviction that we are indeed whole and our innate creativity is alive within us. We can reclaim the feeling and sensitivity that we were born with... but which society has taught us to suppress.

In this workshop, spirituality is not about adhering to any religion or ism. It is about bringing more awareness to our daily processes and restoring the natural balance of body, mind, and spirit.

Using our breath, senses, and inner rhythms as guides, participants will practice being present, living one moment at a time, exploring these experiences, and investigating creative applications for daily living. The group will focus on everyday activities and relationships, practicing them in more integrated, conscious modes. Working from the inside out, participants will create community and explore boundaries to clarify what is needed for authentic, heartfelt living.

The workshop will present traditional meditation practices such as Zazen and vipassana, and nontraditional forms such as sensory awareness and inner movement. There may be time spent in "noble silence" and an introduction to the Chinese energetic practices of T'ai Chi Ch'uan and Qi Gong.

These explorations can give participants a sense of how to create the practices, relationships, and community they really want, and how to integrate it all into daily life to enhance health, well-being, and wholeness.

A Workshop for Couples: Independence & Intimacy

Mary Goldenson (Devanani)

Very little in our culture prepares couples for the challenge, "There is room for both of us." Too often the relationship becomes a battleground for unresolved issues, hurts, and beliefs.

In this workshop, couples will have an opportunity to explore and reclaim the unspoken expectations they project onto each other, begin healing past hurts that create distance, and learn new ways of communicating. They will have a supportive environment where they can experience themselves as courageous and able to take risks. Experiential processes will be drawn from gestalt, Reichian work, dance, imagery, and meditation.

$740 per participant

Kinship With All Life

David Schiffman & Little Bear Nason

“Our aims for this week are simple,” writes David Schiffman. “To be rooted deeply in the timeless, magical realities of the natural world. To feel the powerful, restorative, sacred rhythms of Big Sur’s sea, sky, and mountains in our every breath. To rediscover the lovingly creative inner resources of our own music, poetry, and prayer. To feel physically and emotionally healed, rested, and cleansed, ready to face whatever comes next in our lives.

"This workshop is intended for people who value a practical, down-to-earth approach to spirituality, change, and relationship. It is especially useful for those who would like to develop the shamanic aspects of their own instinctive and intuitive power. The week will be grounded in the Native American practices of Big Sur’s first people, the Esselen Tribe, the original gatekeepers of the West. Earth-based rituals involving initiation and purification will be combined with original inner vision work, innovative bodywork, as well as the creative use of music, movement, and ceremony for inducing ecstatic transport and deep emotional release. It will be a special opportunity, as well, to be met by kindred spirits who share a sincere interest in true apprenticeship to the earth.”

$740

Weekend of August 18-20

Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach

Patrick Douce

For workshop description see June 16-18. C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $380

The Healing Power of Humor, Compassion, and Gentle Touch: The Rubenfeld Synergy Method

Ilana Rubenfeld

"Humor lightened the dark, painful places in my life and helped me onto a path of healing," writes Ilana Rubenfeld. This workshop is for people who want to include humor, movement, body language, and compassionate touch as a way of taking care of themselves personally, professionally, and spiritually. Using the Rubenfeld Synergy Method, a healing system for the dynamic integration of body, mind, emotions, and spirit, participants will have the opportunity to listen, recognize, and work through feelings and memories locked in their bodies.

The workshop will be an exciting journey of discovery. It is recommended that all participants attend the first session on August 18.

$740

Big Sur Bead Making

Noel Mapstead & Keiko Suga

The Big Sur coast is uniquely endowed with natural clays that have been decomposing from granite rock for millions of years. This workshop will be dedicated to the making of clay beads from local natural sources. The group will explore parts of the Big Sur coast to gather clays, make beads, and bake the beads in open-pit fires using cow dung and seaweed. Participants will be taught to identify natural clays, work and process clay, and fire with traditional and modern methods. Other activities will include bead stringing and clay hot baths.

The very act of pinching clay with our fingers marks us as human. The impulse to fashion natural materials that we share with the beasts of the field is what distinguishes us from them. The workshop will develop from this simple ground. It will also explore the human history of hand-crafted beads as monetary value versus the dehumanizing value of money today.

Emphasis will be on creating objects to give to loved ones. No experience is necessary. $380

The Inner — and Outer — Game of Baseball

Jeff McKay

Practical training in skills, if done in a certain way, is a method of spirit-discipline.

— SADAHARU OH, A Zen Way of Baseball

Writes Jeff McKay: "This workshop will be a Fantasy-Camp-with-a-Difference — we’ll explore both the spirit and practice of baseball. The spirit of the workshop is founded in Eastern philosophy (the principles of martial arts, especially aikido). The practice of the workshop will be guided by Western science (sport psychology, especially peak performance theory).

"The camp will include instruction, competition, and reflection. In practice we'll learn the fundamentals of the inner game, emphasizing the art of hitting. Our games will be an opportunity to play hard in the spirit of sportsmanship. In the evenings we'll tell stories, sample a few readings, and explore what we're learning.

"The workshop will unfold as a spring training in a weekend. Friday evening will be an experimental introduction to the fundamentals of inner baseball: grounding, breathing, rhythm, power, awareness, and relaxed concentration. Saturday we'll go to Carmel, practice hitting, fielding, and throwing in the morning, and play a doubleheader in the afternoon. Sunday we'll reflect, relax, and seek to understand what Yogi Berra meant when he said, "Niney percent of the game is half mental!"

Participants of all skill levels are encouraged. Women are welcome. Bring whatever baseball equipment you have. Limited to 18 participants.

Recommended reading: Sadaharu Oh, A Zen Way of Baseball. $380

Romantic Choice: How We Choose Who to Fall in Love With Ayala Pines

When we fall in love we are sure that our beloved is not only perfect, but perfect for us. In time we realize that neither is true. Disappointed and disillusioned, we wonder: How is it that we choose who to fall in love with? And why are we so often wrong?

Many theories in psychology have tried to answer this question. In this workshop, participants will explore these theories as they apply to their own romantic choices, right or wrong. More importantly, participants will examine what they can do about these choices, both to enhance current romantic relationships and to avoid making the same mistakes in the future.

Through group discussion and a variety of experiential exercises, participants will have the opportunity to increase their understanding of the causes, both conscious and unconscious, of their romantic choices. In addition, they will be presented with tools to use to correct this understanding to improve the quality of current and future relationships.

The workshop is for anyone who seeks better understanding of his or her romantic choices, especially people who seem unable to make the "right choice," and for counselors who work with couples or individuals with a problem in romantic choices.

Recommended reading: Pines, Romantic Jealousy: Understanding and Conquering the Shadow of Love and Keeping the Spark Alive. $380

Week of August: 20-25

Big Sur Wilderness Experience
Steven Harper

For workshop description see May 28-June 2. $740

Enhancing Communication Hypnotically
Paul Launsbury & Nancy Winston

We are often unaware of how deeply identified we are with the patterns that recursively tune our perceptions, color our emotions, shape our ideas, and inform our actions. If we act with courage to break out of these patterns, a new world can appear, bringing a fresh, inviting quality of relatedness. This workshop is for people who would like to go beyond their current thresholds of awareness to develop more original, vital, effective communication.

Drawing from the leaders' training in hypnosis and psychotherapy with Milton Erickson, conceptual tools crafted from Gregory Bateson's communication research, and advances in cognitive neuroscience and "New Cybernetics," the workshop is designed to increase flexibility and control in interpersonal communication.

Through group interaction, playful experiments, and hypnotic inductions, the leaders will guide participants through various dimensions of the communication process. Special attention will be given to the hypnotic relationship, recognizing individual uniqueness, utilizing conscious and unconscious awareness, and examining the dynamics of induction, influence, and suggestion.

Participants will explore ways to be more responsive, more willing to enter unknown territory, and more capable of extending the range and flexibility of sensory motor, emotional, and mental controls in their communication behavior.

Prerequisites include tolerance for a modicum of confusion, willingness to be a group member, a sense of humor, and a desire for novel experience.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740

Continuum
Emilie Conrad-Da'oud

This workshop explores the idea that movement is something we are rather than something we do, that what we call a "body" is actually life expressing itself. Using deep rhythms and intrinsic motion, participants can discover a sensitivity to movement at all levels — not just familiar movements, but the "dance of intelligent life." Both individually and in rapport with a partner, participants will explore the subtleties of breath and tissue, the undulation of the spine, and the effect of being witnessed by others. The goal will be to experience a visceral, neuromuscular connection to all life, celebrating a richness and depth that go far beyond social or cultural connections. Emilie Conrad-Da'oud writes: "As we enliven ourselves from the inside, our dynamic expressions in the world increase. This remarkable oscillation from intrinsic to extrinsic, this elegant movement of creativity from cell to action, this flow of life urging itself into new creative channels — this is Continuum."

As a movement specialist at UCLA, the leader has contributed to a study demonstrating that primary movement is essential to mediating disease and aging. Her work is incorporated into the fields of physical therapy, massage, and psychoneuroimmunology. This workshop can give participants a deeper awareness of the body as a system where change, growth, and innovation are possible.

No dance or movement experience is necessary. $740

Healing the Emotional/Spiritual Body: The Rubenfeld Synergy Method
Ilana Rubenfeld

This workshop is for people who want to learn how to listen to the messages, memories, and feelings locked in their bodies. The leader will introduce and demonstrate the Rubenfeld Synergy Method, a powerful holistic system developed over the past thirty years that integrates Alexander Technique, Feldenkrais Method®, Ericksonian hypnosis, and gestalt practice.

Each day will include: body/mind exercises to relax, to stretch, and to heighten awareness; hands-on teaching to develop intuitive, gentle, and listening touch; discussions and demonstrations; and music and humor. The workshop community will become an active culture for learning and growth that will focus on:

- Changing habits to choices
- Experiencing the interdependence of emotions and posture
- Developing a sense of humor
- Healing the wounds of dysfunctional families
- Honoring the sacred within
- Moving beyond therapeutic techniques toward intuitive wisdom
- Exploring dreams and metaphors that reveal life patterns

"The body is the sacred sanctuary of the soul. Care for it like a flower garden," writes Idana Rubenfeld. In this workshop she will demonstrate the possibility of achieving emotional, physical, and spiritual integration.

Recommended reading: Rubenfeld, Twenty-Five Years of Simple (copy available through The Rubenfeld Center, 115 Waverly Place, New York, NY 10011).

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740

The Medicine Wheel Way

Carol Proudfoot-Edgar

This workshop draws on Native American Medicine Wheel ceremonies and teachings as resources for personal growth and renewed experiencing of ourselves within the larger web of the natural world. Just as Western psychological theory provides a framework for describing human development, the Medicine Wheel offers a map for self-individuation. A primary difference, however, is that the Medicine Wheel Way views humans as sacred beings and maintains that each must find his or her own path for "walking with beauty in the world."

The Medicine Wheel Way illuminates the relationship of all things. Each direction on the wheel has its particular meaning and points to aspects needed for fuller integration and individuation. Rituals mark the passage of seasons and significant events of life, connecting the individual to the great mystery of life.

This experiential workshop will use these ancient teachings while providing a supportive means for participants to continue their process of self-development and deepen their relationship with the natural world. Activities will include learning the Medicine Wheel, making medicine pouches, learning about shamanism, using the shamanic journey method to find power animals and spiritual teachers, and drawing upon ancestral knowledge available to all of us. The group will be drumming, rattling, and chanting throughout the week. Please bring a journal, a bandanna (to cover your eyes), and rattles (if you have them).

Please note: This workshop has a sequential structure. Each session builds on the previous one. Therefore, participants are requested to be present for all sessions. Please arrange for massages or other non-workshop activities between session breaks.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740

---

Weekend of August 25-27

Experiments That Could Change the World: Radical Research Anyone Can Do

Rupert Sheldrake

Rupert Sheldrake has been described as the "most controversial scientist on Earth." His new book Seven Experiments That Could Change the World, due to be published in America in September, is a bestseller in Britain and Germany. It has been serialized in the London Times and denounced by the editor of Nature. Thousands of people in Europe are participating in simple experiments, some costing less than $10, that could revolutionize our understanding of the world. For example, how many dogs and cats know when their person is homeward bound? The animals often go to wait at the door long before the person arrives. They seem to be telepathic. Another well-known but puzzling phenomenon is the sense of being stared at from behind. How can the power of the gaze be explained? How do pigeons home? How do scientists' beliefs influence the outcome of their experiments?

In this workshop, Rupert Sheldrake will explore biological and mental interconnections, discuss how they might be understood in terms of morphic fields, report on the latest results from Europe, invite participants to do experiments themselves, and open up a discussion on the implications of this research on our understanding of nature and ourselves.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740

Beyond the Enneagram

Kathleen Riordan Speeth

The enneagrams of personality classify psychological processes into nines: nine stymied mind-sets and the exalted ideas that might redeem them, for example, or nine ruling passions and their corresponding virtues, or nine aspects of three instincts. This presentation will examine the psychological and metaphysical implications of the enneagram system and explore its many benefits as well as its dangerous potential for evoking dreams of awakening while making heedlessness more interesting and comfortable. It will address questions such as:

- What is the enneagram? What are its sources? What does it mean when applied to psychology? How does it relate to other maps such as Jungian or DSM types?

- Is it true? Is it sound? Will knowing this system help me be kind and wise, engaged and true, as I live in the world among my fellow men? Will it make me stronger as I tremble before the riddle of my humanity?

- Much material will be offered, yet the workshop will be fundamentally experiential, with journalling, structured interaction, rhythmic Gurdjieff exercises, music, and video. The goal is personal growth. Wear comfortable clothing, bring a journal, and, if possible, come with prior enneagram training and unbiased intelligence.

Intimate Relationships: Keeping the Spark Alive

Ayala Pines

When two people are in love, it seems like the magical spark between them is going to last forever. More often than not, however, with the effects of everyday pressures and stresses, the love is eroded and eventually burns out. Burnout is not caused by individual pathology or inadequacy nor by major dramatic events. It is caused by a buildup of petty annoyances, minor dissatisfaction, and a gradual increase in boredom. How can this insidious process of love's erosion be prevented? How can a couple in love keep the romantic spark alive?

In this workshop, Ayala Pines will use the Gurdjieff exercises, music, and video. The goal is personal growth. Wear comfortable clothing, bring a journal, and, if possible, come with prior enneagram training and unbiased intelligence.
Breema Bodywork: The Nonjudgmental Treatment
Jon Schreiber

Breema Bodywork originated in a remote Kurdish village, where it still serves as the primary health care method. Developed by people whose profound insight into the nature of the human body affords them longer and more active lives, this ancient system has a health-enhancing and deeply harmonizing effect on those who practice and receive it.

Rather than analyzing and focusing on the recipient’s pathology, Breema emphasizes the experience of the practitioner. Both the giver and receiver of a Breema treatment receive benefits, which commonly include increased mental clarity, emotional balance, physical vitality, and instinctive movement reeducation. Breema treatments are hands-on, safe and gentle. They encompass a joyous array of unique movement sequences, and affect the body simultaneously through the musculoskeletal and physiological systems, as well as via the chakras and meridians. At its core, Breema is vibrational or energetic medicine.

A full series of treatment sequences will be presented. Participants will be taught the flowing movements that comprise the bodywork and the underlying universal health principles. The group will also do Self-Breema, specific exercises done on one’s own body. Designed for both health professionals and lay people, this workshop can help students of Breema to enhance their professional work, and can be a nurturing and balancing addition to their personal lives.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $380

Vision Painting
Helen Jerene Malcolm

Trust your creative spirit. Vision Painting is a form that can enable you to move beyond the rational mind to deeper levels of motivation, intention, and desire. It is playful, creative, and expressive. It is also fun and profoundly educational.

Visionary art is an expression of the core and yearning of the painter’s spirit. It is a sacred journey into self, a form of active meditation in which the painter allows a flow of images and color to speak through her or him.

Vision Painting is a way to acknowledge your creative spirit and exercise intuitive abilities. Feelings, color, music, movement, and dream images will all be used to evoke self-expression. The creative impulse will be explored as an opportunity to play, take risks, face fears, and suspend judgment.

The visionary process paints a treasure map of your life. Through guided visioning participants can witness areas of the self that desire change or healing. This is a transformative adventure recreating aspects of your life spiritually, professionally, and physically. The vision painting becomes a visual affirmation, a vision of the future you intend, crafted from its highest potential.

Please note: All who wish to explore self-expression through painting, beginners and artists, are welcome. $380 (plus $20 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

Week of August 27–September 1

Reawakening the Artist Within
Esalen Arts Center Staff

For workshop description see May 19-21. $740

Naming the Lost: Improvisation, Storytelling, and Grief
Corey Fischer

The leader writes: “Through storytelling, spontaneous writing, and nonverbal theatre work, we will mourn and celebrate those who are no longer in our lives. This will be an opportunity to touch the creative energy that is often released when we give generous attention to the extent of our loss – the loss of loved ones, of youth, or of expectations.

“Paradoxically, giving attention to this dimension of our lives can bring us closer to joy. Similarly, by attending to our own sense of mortality, we can set the stage for inner transformation.

“The structures and tools of experimental and improvisational theatre will serve as vessels to contain, shape, and transmit our personal experiences. We will work as a group, in dyads, and individually with the intention of creating a community of trust in which we can relinquish our inner censors and lay claim to the full expression of our humanity.”

No performance experience is required. Bring writing materials and wear loose, comfortable clothing. $740

Intuition and the Dance of Attention
Anne Armstrong & Randy Cherner

At the still point of the turning world,
Neither flesh nor fleshless;
Neither from nor towards; at the still point
there the dance is,
But neither arrest nor movement. And do not call it fixity.
Where past and future are gathered.
Neither movement from nor towards.
Neither ascent nor decline. Except for the point, the still point,
There would be no dance, and there is only the dance.

—T.S. Eliot, The Four Quartets

Intuition is a gift that everyone possesses. It takes many forms. The foundation for intuitive practice is the process of shifting one’s attention in very precise ways to lead to enhanced awareness. Anne Armstrong’s intuitive opening came through the psychic intuitive process, Randy Cherner’s through movement and touch.

The aim of this workshop is for participants to reclaim their intuitive powers in all areas of their lives—personal, professional, and spiritual. Group members will learn to develop their intuitive styles through meditations, sensing practices, refined touch, aikido, and Feldenkrais exercises. This workshop is unique in its attention to intuitive style in both its psychic and somatic dimensions.

Playing the Edge
David Schiffman

In the early stages of growth, success seems to be its own reward. Excitement, vitality, and the willingness to face life boldly are often characteristics of those who are involved in new and successful ventures. To keep this spirit alive is not easy. The enormous pressure, the grinding routines, and demands of substantial involvement can dispirit even the healthiest people. To listen to one’s heart and know what’s real requires the courage to pause. In this willingness to stop and listen to the deeper self live the true resources that guide and protect us.

The purpose of this week is to create a mood of sanctuary for people who are in transition. and facing major changes in career, relationship, or matters of the spirit; those in need of a break from demanding stressful responsibilities; individuals interested in breaking new ground in the areas of self-nurturance, intuitive functioning, and problem solving.

The process will be gently restorative, illuminating, and enlivening. The group intention will be to create a community based on trust and goodwill with emphasis on individual freedom. Traditional methods of self-inquiry (gestalt practice, bioenergetics, psychosynthesis) will be combined with innovative methods using music, meditation, poetry, and prayer to foster this spirit of living fully and comfortably.

Conscious Embodiment: The Study of Boundaries and Relationship

Wendy Palmer

"The discipline of conscious embodiment allows us to penetrate the movement of the mind beyond our fears and desires," writes Wendy Palmer. "Using principles from aikido and other spiritual practices (Buddhist meditation, Shintoism, Native American approaches), these classes offer ways of understanding mental and emotional habits of attention from an energetic viewpoint. Through centering techniques known as Basic Practice, the body becomes our stable reference point. This allows us to contact the part of ourselves that is wise, kind, and capable of powerful, embodied action. Training these principles strengthens our sense of self and deepens our capacity for relationship with all things." $740

Trigger Point and Esalen Massage

Arthur Munyer & Ingrid May

Trigger point, the movement of myofascial tissue through soft, deep contact with pressure points, and Esalen massage are methods of working with the body that can help the practitioner contact areas of tension, chronically troubled areas, toxins, and trauma of connective tissue. This workshop will combine these techniques, along with joint release, movement, and studies in anatomy.

The workshop is designed for bodyworkers, physicians, physical therapists, chiropractors, health care practitioners, and individuals with some massage experience who want to expand their hands-on skills and awareness. As such it will also address concerns of burnout, nurturing, creativity, and peer support for those who have chosen a demanding professional path as well as those who have chosen a demanding path for those who have chosen a demanding

Arthur Munyer adds: "I believe that feelings live in the very fiber of the tissue and can remain silent until touched or nurtured to release. Learning to be present and sensitive to these feelings is the most important area of my work."

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740 (plus $10 for the Trigger Point work manual)

Weekend of September 1-3

Women, Men, Sex, and Power: Life in the 21st Century

Helen Fisher

Anthropologist and author Helen Fisher will trace male/female relations back to their origins on the grasslands some four million years ago, explaining the beginnings of romantic love; why we fall in love with one person rather than another; when our modern patterns of adultery, divorce, remarriage emerged; how the sexes misunderstand each other; why our problems with sexual harassment and teen pregnancy evolved; and where many of our modern beliefs about gender come from. Her five lecture/discussion sessions (with slides) will include:

- "The Evolution of Human Sexuality"
- "Sexual Legacies: Gender Differences in the Brain"
- "Women, Men, and Power"
- "Origins of Morality, War, and God"
- "Future Sex: The 21st Century Family"

She will make several predictions about the future of women and men in business and the home, concluding that we are returning to traditions of powerful, sexual women and family lifestyles that evolved millennia ago. $380

The Healing Voice

Jill Purce

This workshop will teach practical explorations with sound for healing and the transformation of consciousness. By liberating the voice, it is possible to make contact with deep levels of the self and release an untapped source of energy.

Participants will work with the psychophysical effects of breathing, chanting, mantric and sonic meditations, and learning to tune and listen together, moving from the intuitive level into meditative states. Breath and sound will be developed so that different parts of the body/mind come into resonance to give sonic massage, and to heal and tune the chakras and subtle body. Participants will be taught ways to find their own note and hear inner sound, entering directly into the subtle dimensions of sound by the magical voice practices of traditional cultures, including trance music, Mongolian and Tibetan overtone chanting, and other ancient group chants and vocal practices.

To "enchant" means to "make magical through chant." It is the aim of the workshop to inspire participants to re-enchant themselves and their world. This work is accessible to anyone, regardless of musical ability. $380

Accepting Life's Transitions: Letting Go — Moving On

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

The only certainty in life is change, yet we often resist our transitions because of patterns of fear and self-denial. Old beliefs keep us stuck in our resentments, unsuccessful marriages, friendships, and careers, and can cause illness, sorrow, and the inability to forgive. Transitions are crossroads in our lives that give us the opportunity to take time out and reconnect with our truth. It is never too late to change. Transitions are doors to the renewal of our passions, courage, and commitments.

This workshop will present ways to help complete the past, be open to the present, and create a future. Participants will experience a safe, supportive environment that includes taking risks, intense bodywork, gestalt imagery, dance, and meditation in order to support the transitions that keep us committed to the process of discovering ourselves. $380

Spiritual Healing: Laying-on-of-Hands

Maria Lucia Sauer Holloman

This workshop will present practical methods for using the hands as instruments of physical and spiritual healing. This energy practice is one that incorporates both hands-on and energetic work, using the power of natural forces for healing. The emphasis will be on intentionality and personal clarity as fundamental tools in any healing art.

"Intentionality moves energy," says Maria
Lucia, "and it is through this focus that you can learn to take responsibility for your own thoughts and actions."

Born into a family of healers with a generations-old tradition, Maria Lucia studied with healers in her native Brazil, where spirituality — receiving healing knowledge from the spirit world — is a practice familiar to much of the population. Having also lived and studied at Esalen for nine years, she applies both Brazilian and North American approaches to healing.

Participants will be shown how to practice and refine this technique, as well as experience the personal benefits that come from receiving this work. The workshop is designed for bodyworkers, therapists, health professionals, and anyone interested in working with energy and people's bodies.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740

Nature and Contemplation

Steven Harper & Brother David Steindl-Rast

From time immemorial, nature has inspired human hearts to contemplation. Can we make this experience our own today? This week is designed to help participants experience both nature and contemplation deeply. Direct experience and contemplative reflection are the key words.

Earth under our feet on gentle hikes, water of the Pacific pounding against the shore, air of Big Sur's refreshing breezes, fire that heats Esalen's hot springs — all the elements of nature combine to touch our bodies and to raise our minds and spirits.

"Nature is never spent: there lives the dearest freshness deep down things," wrote the mystic poet Gerard Manley Hopkins. To drink from that freshness, from the fountain of youth, is what this workshop is all about. $740

Healing the Heart

Julie Bowden & Richard Balaban

This five-day workshop will be a journey into the vulnerable, tender part of the self that carries childhood traumas. Experiencing and integrating the pain from our past allows us to live more fully in relationship to ourselves and others, and helps us to acknowledge and refine our inner voice. Enhancing intimacy and relationship skills is an important part of this work. Issues specific to both men and women will be explored.

We welcome adult children of alcoholic and dysfunctional families, people with a history of unfulfilling relationships, recovering alcoholics and addicts, codependents, and treatment providers. Participants are asked to forego alcohol and other mood-altering, non-prescription drugs for these five days. This will help create an atmosphere of safety, care, and respect for core issues to emerge, an environment to facilitate transformation.

If there is unresolved pain from your past or relationship issues in your present, this workshop is designed for you.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740

The Writer's Way: A Personal Adventure Through Writing

Nancy Bazal

Writing personal story is a process of discovery. It is an opportunity to claim who we are and what we know as material. The task is to place a breath of air between ourselves and the situation, wide enough for a trail of ink to transform it into story. As the details emerge, they bring vitality to our writing and meaning to our lives. When we claim even a snippet of life for the artist, we cease to be victims of circumstance, for in that moment we have substituted curiosity for expectation and are free. Life is not tidy. Writing will not change this, but it will provide a container eager to receive it.

The intention of this workshop is to bypass the critic, to liberate the authentic voice and put it to use. The schedule will include writing in and out of the group, movement, meditation, reading, and discussion of pertinent material. Whether you are a non-writer, occasional writer, or professional, you can see your writing come alive with the immediacy of feelings and the raw wisdom of experience. The goal, as always, is to coax the mind out of its cycle of expectation and disappointment into a positive, functioning relationship with our work and our lives.

Recommended reading: Needleman, Work of Craft; Chodron, The Wisdom of No Escape. $740

The Art of Ceremony

Cynthia Gale

Each of us may live more gently and harmoniously upon this planet by deepening our spiritual connections to the earth through ceremony. It is through ceremony that we connect our physical world to the spiritual realms. This workshop will offer experiential exercises in prayer, meditation, and ceremony, as well as practical approaches to living a life rich in the celebration of Mother Earth spirituality. The focus of this workshop will be:

• The intention and power of prayer and the prayer circle
• Creating sacred space in one's physical world
• Working with the medicine wheel of life
• Uncovering the meanings of the universal symbols in the natural world
• Honoring the spirits of the birds and animals

Group members will also spend four sessions creating tree-of-life rattles of driftwood, shells, deerskin, and beads. Participants will be taught about the rattle's use in prayer, cleansing, and ceremony. The workshop will conclude with a ceremony for Mother Earth.

$740

(plus $35 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

Weekend of September 8-10

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see May 12-14.

$380
Soul and Spirit
Brother David Steindl-Rast, Phil Cousineau & David Darling

During our time a profound transformation is under way, one marked by the reappearance of soul in the cultural conversation. From poetry to boardrooms, religious conferences to architecture offices, soul has galvanized discussions about the vital force in our lives. To explore what it means to live soulfully and spiritually, this workshop will be a series of dialogues between Benedictine monk Brother David Steindl-Rast and author-filmmaker Phil Cousineau, while accompanied by master cellist David Darling.

Together they will present imaginative pictures of soul and spirit at the moments of birth and death, in love and romance, dreams and creativity, the contemplative life, the crisis of loss and depression, as well as in our work and the natural world.

The discussions will range from ancient world myths to poetry, literature, philosophy, and theology, and will utilize live music, slides, and film clips ranging from the environment and the spiritual quest to Carl Jung, Joseph Campbell, Ray Charles, and Georgia O’Keeffe. The focus will be on how to enrich our everyday life in these troubled times by revitalizing our soul and spirit through the cultivation of compassion and gratefulness.

$380

Chi Gung: Opening the Energy Gates of Your Body
Bruce Kumar Frantzis

Become more energetic, alert, calm, and flexible with Chi Gung. Based on developing chi, internal energy, this 3,000 year-old physical, mental, and spiritual fitness program is the source of healing and power in Chinese medicine, martial arts, and Taoist meditation. Chi Gung can reduce stress, improve health and sexual functioning, promote healing, combat aging, deepen meditation, and enhance performance in daily work, sports, or martial arts.

Bruce Kumar Frantzis has the ability to demystify subtle Chinese healing techniques and make them understandable and relevant to Westerners. Drawing on ten years of study in China, he will teach you to feel, circulate, and increase the internal energy of your body, and to dissolve energy blockages. You will learn standing meditation to open the body’s energy centers, as well as how to strengthen your internal organs and spine and adjust your internal biomechanical alignments.

This workshop is suitable for any age or fitness level, and both beginners and advanced students are welcome.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $380

Forgiveness
Julie Bouwen & Maria Nemeth

Every culture has its healing rituals, ways of letting go of old attachments to make way for new possibilities. An essential component is the practice of forgiveness.

As the years go by, many of us develop a history of incomplete relationships and unfilled expectations. As these experiences accumulate, our trust in others and ourselves diminishes, and our commitments in life become conditional. To release these burdens is to forgive the past.

This workshop will guide participants through exercises focusing on our judgments and characterizations, with emphasis on how these distorted perceptions affect us and interfere with our relationships. This work is preparation for a powerful forgiveness exercise, designed to facilitate letting go, allowing more joy and light into our lives. $380

Creating from the Spirit
Dan Wakefield

Miracles...seem to me to rest not so much upon faces or voices or healing power coming to us from afar, but upon our perceptions being made finer, so that for a moment our eyes can see and our ears can hear what is there about us always.

— W I L L A C A T H E R

Each of us has a rich source of creativity within us, a living well of ideas, stories, pictures, music, and dreams. This workshop, led by author Dan Wakefield, will guide participants through fascinating exercises in drawing, writing, music, and meditations on natural objects (trees, flowers, mountains), to appreciate and develop each individual’s own creativity.

Breaking the myth of drugs and alcohol as stimulants to creative work, the workshop will show that the key to the natural process of creativity is getting in touch with our deepest sources, the “spirit” within us that comes from clarity. Together the leader and the group will share ideas in breaking the “creative slump,” and participants will draw the continuing “road maps” of their own creative journeys.

$380

Village Concepts: African Music — Esalen Massage
Sarah Abukutsa & Carl Chase (C.C.)

Ancient languages combined dance, music, and poetry as one concept. In this workshop, the integration of these original communicational instincts with rejuvenating bodywork will provide a unique experience designed to be physically, mentally, and spiritually exhilarating. It is a workshop created to touch, both culturally and physiologically, the oneness of the world community.

The program will alternate sessions of group experience — singing, moving, and drumming — with the individual experience of massage instruction and one-to-one, hands-on massage work. This powerful combination can launch a journey — conscious and unconscious — into the core of body-mind-spirit.
C.C. will present massage methods that stimulate and relax through manipulation of muscles and nerves and through cross-fiber friction. Sarah will teach traditional East and West African movements, rhythms, and songs that evoke centuries of spiritual connections through the rituals these dance forms are based upon. The workshop will incorporate ethnology and ethnomusicology to share the wisdom of Africa.

This workshop is open to anyone, regardless of dance or massage experience. $740

Midlife Crisis as Spiritual Emergence

Karen Turner

This workshop will present midlife transition as a descent into contact with the soul, there to find spiritual emergence and renewal. This is a time when old systems which seemed foundational are stripped away, leaving chaos and challenging long-held beliefs. It is a time of soul-searching, of confronting both inflated and deflated self-concepts, of surrendering to deeper, more expanded states of awareness, and of learning to trust inner guidance as absolute authority in one's life.

This workshop will be a rite of passage for both men and women going through this transition. Together they will have the opportunity to discover each participant's unique self, and how each is in relationship to self, each other, the world, and spirit. "Tools for self-validation and awareness gathered over thir

The workshop will incorporate massage and shamanism will be presented, with time for discussion and sharing. The workshop will be uniquely designed to meet the needs of those attending. $740

Drawing the Mystic Light of Nature

Judith Cornell

Experience an initiation into the consciousness of Nature through meditative drawing and gentle nature walks. This workshop combines knowledge of integral yoga and shamanic art with the esoteric skills of working with the subtle energies of plants. In the beautiful setting of Esalen, participants will explore the gardens in a new way by working collaboratively with the flower and vegetable kingdoms to see and draw the inner light.

The workshop offers instruction in making a sacred connection to Nature by learning how to see and draw from an integral perspective. Inner vision will be integrated with the outer physical perception of the colored lights reflecting from the surface of flowers and vegetables; this integration can then be captured on paper as luminous images. The workshop will present innovative color theory for blending rainbow-colored pencils to create radiant, vibrant works. There will be emphasis on understanding Nature as a living being.

The foundation of this workshop is a convergence of art, science, ecology, and spirituality, drawing from the Eastern yoga traditions rooted in the mystery of light, sound, and consciousness as the matrix of all existence.

The workshop is also a practicum in applied ecopsychology to reconcile the experience of Nature's consciousness with the scientific worldview.

This workshop is designed for those with or without previous art experience. Please bring a notebook, a drawing board or smooth masonite board (approximately 18" x 18") with several large clips to hold drawing paper, and a quality hand-held pencil sharpener. Also bring any Berol Prismacolor drawing pencils you have.

Recommended reading: Cornell, Drawing the Light from Within. $740 (plus $30 materials fee paid directly to instructor)

Moving Beyond Memory: The Eidetic System of Personal Growth

Heather Burch

Heather Burch writes: "Like a seed, we are fully endowed at birth with a blueprint for full development. However, during life we take on layers of experience that mask the original blueprint — the full expression and fulfillment of our potential. These experiences become memories which shape our view of our self and the world.

"Ultimately, we become imprisoned by these memories. We allow them to define not only what we believe we have been, but who we are and can become, regardless of our blueprint. But memory is notoriously inaccurate and limiting to our potential.

"Imagination unleashes our potential and gives us access to the original blueprint — our deeper nature. By engaging the imagination with specific approaches developed within the eidetic system we can move beyond the frozen memories.

"The resulting new experience, rich in images, physical and emotional states, and perspective, frees us from the bondage of memory and initiates the healing process. As our deeper nature begins to emerge, new possibilities in life and significant aspects of ourselves long-forgotten or lost to us are revealed?"

Participants will explore their inner landscape, the nature of mind, and the role of memory and imagination. They will be taught specific methods from the eidetic system for resolving conflict and reclaiming their potential. The workshop will be of special interest to individuals seeking healing and self-acceptance, as well as to therapists and bodyworkers. It will be primarily experiential but will include didactic work as well $740
Weekend of September 15-17

Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach

Patrick Douce

For workshop description see June 16-18.

C.E. credit is available; see page 6o. $380

The Intersubjective Approach to Psychotherapy

Robert Stolorow, Leonard Bearne, Elena Bonn & Linda Loomis

During the past decade, Robert Stolorow and his collaborators have been elaborating a new theoretical paradigm for the conduct of psychotherapy. In this new paradigm, called intersubjectivity theory, the central guiding metaphor is the larger relational field in which psychological phenomena crystallize and in which experience is continually and mutually shaped. From an intersubjective perspective, crucial clinical phenomena such as transference, resistance, impass, and the therapeutic process itself are seen to take form at the interface of the interacting subjective worlds of client and therapist.

On Friday evening Dr. Stolorow will present an overview of the basic concepts of intersubjectivity theory. On Saturday his associates will discuss the clinical application of the intersubjective perspective to specific therapeutic issues. On Sunday morning Dr. Stolorow will return to address questions that have emerged during the weekend.

This workshop is recommended for psychotherapists and counselors who wish to enlarge their capacity to gain access to their clients’ inner experiences.

Recommended reading: Stolorow and Atwood, Contexts of Being; Stolorow, Brandchaft, and Atwood, Psychoanalytic Treatment and The Intersubjective Perspective. $380

Jewish Humor

Michael Krasny

What makes Jews funny? Do you need to be Jewish? Is there a non-missing link from the Old Testament to Mel Brooks and Woody Allen, Jerry Seinfeld and Gary Shandling? Is there really even such a thing as Jewish humor? AND WHY DOES A JEW ALWAYS ANSWER A QUESTION WITH ANOTHER QUESTION? Well, why shouldn't a Jew answer a question with another question? AND WHAT IS JEWISH ALZHEIMER’S? You forget everything but the grudges. AND AT WHAT STAGE DO JEWS CONSIDER A FETUS VIABLE? After completion of medical school.

This weekend will be a feast of Jewish jokes, humor, stories, and anecdotes which lead to laughter, wisdom, and deeper understanding of Judaic, Hebraic, and Yiddish culture, metaphor, folk spirit, and ritual. So do it already. Sign up. Be there. It will make your mother happy. $380

The Meditation Hall and Everyday Life: Transcending the Separation

Olga Luchakova

The goal of this workshop is to transcend the imaginary gap between sitting meditation and everyday activities by experientially realizing that the Self/God/Love is ever present. Tranquility and freedom are not states to be achieved but rather to be unveiled in the present moment.

The sublime teaching of Self-Realization, called Advaita Vedanta or Jnana Yoga, has been transmitted since ancient times by such sages as Dattatreya and Shankara. In this century, through the grace of Ramana Maharshi and Nisargadatta Maharaj, this teaching has become known to a larger number of Western spiritual seekers.

These sages recommended certain practices that help to progress from temporary awakening experiences to the steady flow of Realization. The group will practice those most direct meditative methods that allow us to reveal our divine nature in its different aspects:

- Tracing the “I” to its Source (the aspect of Being)
- Halting the mindstream (the aspect of pure Awareness)
- Cultivating the longing (the aspect of Love/Bliss)
- Total surrender and gratitude (the aspect of Non-doing)

The workshop will address the most common doubts, concerns, and fears sometimes associated with rapid spiritual growth. $380

Transpersonal Medicine

Jeanne Achterberg & Frank Lautis

The concept of transpersonal medicine has been coined from two fields of study, transpersonal psychology and medicine. Transpersonal medicine is healing from beyond the self, and recognizes that there are many resources beyond what we consider our consensual reality. This definition honors the integration of many eras of health care, expanding to include the ancient practices of shamanic work as well as the contemporary frontiers of psychoneuroimmunology and imagery.

This workshop will present many of the doors to alternate realities and specific avenues for accessing the wisdoms that lie just beyond the boundaries of the limits of self. Altered states of consciousness, ritual, advanced imagery techniques, the experience of community through joy, and transcendence are the basic topics for presentation. The workshop is designed to be primarily experiential with clinical applications for dealing with physical and mental problems from a professional perspective.

C.E. credit is available; see page 6o. $380

Week of September 17-22

Gestalt Practice

Christine Stewart Price

For workshop description see August 11-13.

This five-day format will combine introductory group work with the open seat form in which each participant will have the opportunity to work with the leader in a group context.

C.E. credit is available; see page 6o. $740

Turning on the Light: A Choice to Live Consciously

Laura DeNuccio & Guest Leaders

For workshop description see June 25-30.

C.E. credit is available; see page 6o. $740

Five-Day Massage Intensive

Laurie Lioness Barizck & Robert Helm

Esalen massage consists of more than the long, flowing strokes for which it is well known. In this workshop, Esalen bodywork in many of its forms will be demonstrated, practiced, and discussed during this week of learning and relaxation.

C.E. credit is available; see page 6o. $380
The workshop will introduce grounding techniques, pressure point work, meridian massage, stretches, and manipulations. The instructors will present a bodywork style that both addresses individual needs and integrates the whole person, focusing on the concept of working from our essential being. Special attention will be given to self-care, quality of contact, breath awareness, and stress reduction.

The workshop will also incorporate movement, dance, and rhythm to integrate the bodywork. Yoga and meditation will be taught to encourage focus and serenity. Participants will make full use of Esalen's beautiful grounds and facilities. Please bring warm, comfortable clothing and your favorite music or instrument.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740

Zen Teachings of Mountains, Rivers, and the Great Earth
Tenshin Reb Anderson & Steven Harper

Through the ages seekers and mystics of all cultures have gone to nature for inspiration, wisdom, and compassion. In this workshop, traditional Zen meditation will be taught and practiced as a vehicle for discovering a radically different way of experiencing the world. The workshop will take participants into the mountains and rivers where they can employ their newly awakened senses to receive the teachings of nature.

Each day there will be regular periods of meditation, group discussions, and day-hikes exploring the wilderness backcountry. This will be a time to cultivate and nurture awareness, listen to the silence of nature, and discover what Zen practice has to offer our experience of nature and daily life. Special emphasis will be placed on integrating Zen and the experience of nature into the inner vitality of our lives outside of the workshop.

No previous experience in hiking or Zen meditation is necessary. Students at all stages of practice are welcome. $740

Biodrama
Katriona Munthe

Biodrama is an interdisciplinary approach to the timeless human quest — to find the secrets of existence. It incorporates elements of art, music, theater improvisation, mythology, and modern psychology. It draws from the ancient Greek Orphic and Eleusinian Mysteries, where individuals set out on a journey to discover the depth of their spirituality — and were transformed in the process. It also remembers Virgil as our guide to the underworld, a model for the modern psychotherapist.

Biodrama was originally developed in Italy by Lorenzo Ostuni, who then brought it to America with Katriona Munthe in 1989. Here, it was described as a "journey into an archetypal universe which speaks of our capacity to live, to love, and even of our courage to die."

Workshop participants will re-enact through improvisation, mime, and music a journey into the body which commemorates the fundamental stages of existence: Bios (Life), Eros (Love), and Thanatos (Death). They will be invited to travel down into their own underworld — the unconscious — to meet the spirits and demons of their own creative passions. They can come to resonate with each other's emotions as they see them expressed in body language by another living human being and learn to compare their own gestures with those portrayed by the great masters who painted the human body.

Biodrama, in acting out the human drama, becomes an expression of art, of knowledge, and of caring.

Please note: Participants are invited to bring any photos or slides that have special meaning to them. $380

Weekend of September 24-29

Reawakening the Artist Within
Esalen Arts Center Staff

For workshop description see May 19-21. $740

Golf in the Kingdom: An Exploration of the Inner Game
Stephen Cohen, Fred Shoemaker & Brian Bergstrom

For workshop description see June 11-16. $740

(plus greens fees paid directly to the leader)

Change and Self-Esteem
Phyllis Shankman

Change is an ever present aspect of living which must be accepted and used creatively if one is to sustain a healthy, interesting, and exciting life. Many individuals talk about wanting change while actively or passively resisting it. Self-esteem, which includes self-acceptance, self-appreciation, and self-confidence, enables one to confront resistance and fear, and increases the willingness to change and take risks.

This workshop includes an in-depth process for finding and allowing self-acceptance and for creatively confronting opportunities for change and growth. Group activities include gestalt process work, discussion, massage, meditation, music, dance, art imagery exercises, and whatever else happens spontaneously.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740

Stepping into Your Body of Light
Julian Isaacs & Patricia Fields

“Lightbody activation” is a path that helps individuals work consciously with their own subtle energy systems, utilizing the healing and transformative powers of transpersonal energies to refine the energy centers of the body. Lightbody activation synthesizes many sources, including kundalini yoga, depth psychology, and the teachings of Aurobindo and Mother Mirra. These practices can catalyze the growth process, facilitating the release of old emotional and somatic patterns, thus extending the work of self-healing to all levels, from the physical body to the emotional, mental, and soul domains.

Participants will be shown how to differentiate among various energies and their applications, including the use of altered states of consciousness to unfold soul purpose, manifest reality, harmonize relationships, heal, and live in a more playful, joyful way, filled with grace. The workshop will include sound, music, movement, toning, meditation, imagery, dowsering, intuition training, group and individual process, psychokinesis training, energy exercises, discussion, and fun. It is particularly useful for mental health professionals and bodyworkers, as well as others seeking to utilize subtle energy practices for personal growth, as the skills presented can support both one’s own as well as one’s clients’ process.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740

A Course in Miracles
Julian Silverman

A Course in Miracles is a curriculum for changing your mind so that you can enjoy life. Its basic premise is that the mind can learn to empower itself by learning to extend itself. According to the Course, “All confusion comes from not extending life.”

In this workshop the vision of A Course in Miracles is set within a framework of three of its critical ideas. Each one is introduced with a quote which spotlights a basic human learning need:

1. “Instruction in perception is your greatest need.”
2. “You do not know the meaning of love and that is your handicap.”
3. “Your task is not to seek for love, but merely to seek and find all the barriers within yourself that you have built against it.”

Julian Silverman elaborates, “The first dovetails with my years of scientific research in the area of perception, in both the normal state and altered states of consciousness. The second fits with my lifelong search for a conception of love which integrates the spiritual and the physical. The third enables me to draw on my more than twenty years of experience as a psychotherapist and supervisor of psychotherapists, and my abiding interest in spiritually-based self-examination.”

The workshop uses a combination of conceptual and experiential learning methods.

Prerequisites: Own a copy of A Course in Miracles. Be interested in learning what’s in it.

$740

Relationships:
Letting Go — Moving On
Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

For one human being to love another: that is perhaps the most difficult of all our tasks, the ultimate test and proof, the work for which all the other work is but preparation.
— Rilke

The fabric of our lives is made up of relationships. All of life’s relationships will be the focus of this workshop: family, friends, lovers, co-workers, partners.

Often beliefs, defenses, fears, and emotions about past relationships continue into our present relationships and keep us from spontaneous feelings of love, trust, and joy. The goal of this workshop is to experience these patterns and create new ways to relate in the moment to ourselves, others, and our work.

This workshop can help you:
• Find out how your relationships mirror you
• Get a clearer picture of what you want and how to get it
• Examine ways you sabotage yourself
• Learn more about how others see you
• Learn practical tools and knowledge that will help create empowered relationships

$740

Weekend of September 29-October 1

Reinhabiting Your Body:
An Experience in Authentic Movement
Tina Stromsted

“Authentic Movement” is a meditative form of dance influenced by the psychology of Carl Jung. This workshop offers a structure within which natural movement can bloom and be nurtured, allowing individuals to discover ways to engage their creativity and make soulful self-contact.

The body is the mediator for all of life’s experiences. Our bodies form our closest link to the unconscious, providing avenues for deep and lasting change. If we are locked into a muscular pattern held around a specific image, this can determine not only how we move but how we live. Uncovering images of the self that may have locked us into painful or dissatisfying ways of living can help us to heal wounds and find freedom of expression.

Through moving and witnessing in a safe space, participants in this workshop may explore their own inner dance as it unfolds. Body-related issues, unresolved developmental material, preverbal memories, and transpersonal experiences may emerge, leading toward integration and wholeness.

Designed for mental health professionals, educators, artists, and those interested in personal growth, this experiential process aids participants in bridging body and psyche through expressive movement.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $380

Psychoneuroimmunology and Its Implications
George Solomon & Margaret Kemeny

The rapidly developing field of psychoneuroimmunology (PNI) is concerned with the nature of complex interactions between the central nervous system and the immune system. The central nervous system mediates stress effects, coping, emotions, and other psychological processes that, by way of the immune system, affect the onset and course of many diseases.

The leaders will present a didactic and interactive workshop which will describe the immune system, how it works, and how it is regulated. They will discuss human and animal research on the effects of stress and other experiential factors on immunity and on immunologically-resistant and -mediated disease, including bacterial and viral infections, cancer, autoimmune disease, allergies, and AIDS. The as yet poorly researched area of interventions, including psychotherapy, and placebo effects will be explored.

Some of the possible mechanisms underlying traditional and alternative healing systems and placebo effects will be explored.

$380
Whether health or mental health practitioners concerned with the clinical relevance of PNI, or individuals who are concerned with maintaining or improving their own health, participants will be encouraged to set goals for their particular health needs.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $380

Return, Remember, Renew:
The Jewish New Year
Rabbi William Cutter

Writes Rabbi Cutter: 'The Saturday between Rosh HaShanah and Yom Kippur is called 'The Sabbath of Return,' a day between the two major observances of the Jewish year devoted to reflection, study, and fellowship. In the spirit of Esalen, we shall work together to reflect on the year past, on sins and old wounds; and we shall anticipate the new year through story, poetry, and ancient Jewish texts: halakha, aggada, and kabbala. The workshop will include Sabbath observance — Shabbat at Esalen is easy to observe — and inquiry into the nature of Jewish repentance and elevation of our spirits. An opportunity to remember and forgive."

This will be the third year of this Esalen series on the Jewish New Year. The workshop is limited to twenty participants. $380

Self-Empowerment and Purification:
The Farther Reaches of Gestalt
Julian Silverman

“We badly need a new orientation, a new perspective,” wrote Fritz Perls. “We have graduated from the infant’s ‘I can’t help myself;’ to the adult’s ‘I can’t help myself because. ’... But psychology and psychiatry were never meant to be after-the-fact justifications for continuing neurotic behavior, behavior which does not permit the individual to live up to the maximum of his capacities.”

In his autobiography, Perls speculated that a new form of psychotherapy would emerge and that it would entail some kind of cleansing or purification process. He was not clear, however, how it would work. In actuality, he had prepared the way quite well for the next form.

In this workshop the boundaries of the "next form" are defined and examined using both didactic and experiential sessions. Two interrelated processes are emphasized: the first, a purification process, has the purpose of "wiping the slate clean" of mental debris; the second has the purpose of identifying a personal center from which to act with power.

Introductory Workshop Principle #1: Take responsibility for every emotion, every movement you make, every thought you have.

Recommended reading: A Course in Miracles. C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $380

Consciousness and Healing:
History, Philosophy, and Practice
Eugene Taylor

This workshop, examining practices of inner exploration, is designed to help you think more clearly about self-knowledge, character development, and the probable means by which healing takes place. It will present an overview of the mind-body problem; a history of mystical experiences, healing practices, famous healers, and spiritual communities; an exploration of psychotherapeutic and psychoanalytic techniques; and experiential sessions to learn how development. The format will consist of slide-lectures, discussion and feedback, and in-depth experiential sessions. This balanced combination is intended to:

- Make you want to learn much more about the history of healing
- Make you feel better about involvement in any aspect of healing
- Provide you with an opportunity to interact with kindred souls who feel the same way

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740

Pilobolus Technique:
Choreographic Creation
Jonathan Wolken

Since its first appearance, Pilobolus Dance Theatre has been a pioneer in American contemporary dance, creating its own unique method of choreography. This workshop is based on Pilobolus’s evolving understanding of technique as a creative collaborative process. Dance is approached not as an inflexible physical regime but as an expressive medium for people of all ages, backgrounds, and levels of experience.

Taught by Pilobolus founder Jonathan Wolken, this workshop will focus on the choreographic process that makes movement a powerful means of expression. The group will investigate the lively mixture of form and flow, abstraction and theatricality, strength, force, and balance that are at work in the realm of dance.

Participants will explore a wide variety of movement through improvisation and will choreograph a number of short dances. It will be an opportunity to indulge in the incredible panorama of human motion.

Extensive dance training is not necessary, although a reasonable degree of fitness is advised. Participants should be willing to be physically energetic and enthusiastic. $740

Drawing with Color
Leigh Hyams

This is a workshop for people who want to reconnect with the heightened awareness that comes with drawing and the pleasure that comes from deeply experiencing color. Previous art experience is not a prerequisite.

The leader's unusual teaching methods enable students to draw immediately with joy, inventiveness, sensitivity, and wildness. Participants will be introduced to a variety of techniques and media — both orthodox and unorthodox — while exploring the pleasure of working with color. They can leave the workshop with a portfolio of drawings, a full sketchbook, and the ability to see the world with fresh eyes.

Previous art experience is not a prerequisite. (plus $25 materials fee paid directly to the leader) $380

Creative Bodywork:
An Advanced Workshop
Deborah Anne Medow & Esalen Teaching Staff

No one is ever competent enough, nor is any technique ever effective enough. It is only the continuing growth of the practitioner that can guarantee competence and effectiveness.

— THOMAS HANNA

This is an opportunity for massage practitioners to improve their skills, stimulate their creativity, and experience current trends in massage and bodywork. Cross-fiber friction, polarity therapy techniques, spiritual massage, yoga, movement, and meditation will be included.

Enrollment priority will be given to Esalen-certified practitioners.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740

Pilobolus Technique:
Choreographic Creation
Jonathan Wolken

Since its first appearance, Pilobolus Dance Theatre has been a pioneer in American contemporary dance, creating its own unique method of choreography. This workshop is based on Pilobolus's evolving understanding of technique as a creative collaborative process. Dance is approached not as an inflexible physical regime but as an expressive medium for people of all ages, backgrounds, and levels of experience.

Taught by Pilobolus founder Jonathan Wolken, this workshop will focus on the choreographic process that makes movement a powerful means of expression. The group will investigate the lively mixture of form and flow, abstraction and theatricality, strength, force, and balance that are at work in the realm of dance.

Participants will explore a wide variety of movement through improvisation and will choreograph a number of short dances. It will be an opportunity to indulge in the incredible panorama of human motion.

Extensive dance training is not necessary, although a reasonable degree of fitness is advised. Participants should be willing to be physically energetic and enthusiastic. $740
Moving Through Idealization and Shame to Love: A Workshop for Gay Men

David Hawkins

David Hawkins writes: "Men who are homosexual (or bisexual) live in a bicultural world. Our personalities are shaped by the expectations and values of the culture into which we were born and those of the culture we may choose to join. In each culture certain aspects of our humanity are idealized while other aspects are shamed. Our lives and our options are limited or supported by the strategies we have developed to respond to idealization and shame.

"Each of us achieves a unique balance of adaptation/individuation, confrontation/capitulation, hiddenness/openness, coming out/passing. Since no lifestyle is inherently more honorable than another, each must be evaluated as to its costs and benefits to each individual's current developmental needs. "Because loving relationships depend on knowing and being known, understanding and being understood, strategies for achieving the ideal and avoiding the experience of shame may actually be preventing us from reaching the love and intimacy we desire. This workshop is for men who are willing to risk and work together to create an environment in which the true self can be seen and heard."

$740

Handwriting Patterns: Possibilities for Healing and Change

Vimala Rodgers

From birth we listen to teachers, parents, friends, and relatives, and we interpret what they say about us. We begin to believe that this is who we really are, and shape our personality accordingly. As a result, we create a belief system that often prevents us from utilizing our natural resources. All of this is clearly reflected in our handwriting, which child psychologist William Preyer calls "brainwriting." When we write, each stroke of the pen not only reveals our personality, it reinforces it. Conventional handwriting analysis is the study and interpretation of writing patterns. This workshop in applied graphotherapy goes a step further and focuses on altering specific writing patterns as a means of restructuring and unlearning old beliefs and imprinting new ones that can expand our potential beyond what we imagine. Graphotherapy provides a powerful model of the mind and a set of behavioral tools that allow us to unlock some of the hidden mechanisms of our belief systems.

Participants will learn how to identify both limiting and expansive belief patterns in their writing, and will be given personalized stroke or letter changes that reinforce self-esteem and create the possibility of uncovering long-hidden talents and abilities. Recommended reading: Rodgers, Change Your Handwriting; Change Your Life; Chopra, Quantum Healing.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740

Fibers of infinity: Adventures in Handmade Paper

Madeleine de Joly

Paper juxtaposes issues of communication and silence, nature and culture, permanence and change. In this workshop participants can discover, from the first impulses of creativity, the wonder of working with vacuum-formed paper through a week of experimental art-making, discussions, slides, videos, and inspirational readings.

The range of possibilities of the medium is extraordinary. The remarkable attribute of this technology is that both convex and concave surfaces are simultaneously possible. Initially the pulp can be used in its pure form or it can be altered by embedding non-organic or organic materials within the fibers. An infinite variety of imprinted or cast textures can be introduced. Before drying, the resultant pressed paper can remain flat or be shaped by being rolled, folded, draped, squeezed, tied, or cast over forms. Further investigation can include the embedding of dimensional or flat graphic imagery, the casting or imprinting of objects, and layering. Forces of nature, found objects, and multimedia components can be integrated at any stage of development.

Emphasis will be on working in a self-referential manner with an underlying conceptual component. The tacit goal is to invoke spiritual contemplation through witnessing the evolution of amorphous material becoming two- and three-dimensional expressions. On the level of feeling, the artistic expression of the individual can radiate the completeness of life.

Recommended reading: Yanagi, The Unknown Craftsman; Saint-Exupery, The Little Prince; and Heller, Papermaking. $740

Weekend of October 6-8

Relationships, Power, and Abuse: A Process Work Seminar

Max Schuepbach

Process Work, developed by Arnold Mindell, works with relationship difficulties using a wide array of methods. Many relationship problems, including stagnation and loneliness, can remain nearly unchanged in spite of working on one's personal history. Working with sexism, racism, and homophobia, Process Work has found that many of these difficulties are not only rooted in the personal psychology of the individual, but reflect a political and cultural reality. This workshop will introduce the methods of Process-oriented group process to increase awareness of these connections and will use this awareness for conflict resolution around issues of power and hierarchy.

In addition, Process-oriented methods will be used to work on old abuse traumas that surface in relationships and create difficulties that stop us from finding and living our ideals in relationship. Participants will work individually and in dyads on these issues. $380

Building a Successful Career as a Writer, Public Speaker, and Consultant

Ken Dycthwaite & Bob Kriegel

In this seminar, two highly sought after speakers and successful entrepreneurs (and long-term friends of Esalen) will share many tips and strategies they have learned about how to avoid mistakes, save time, and achieve some measure of inner and outer success and satisfaction in writing, public speaking, consulting, and business development. Topics will include:

- The best way to get published and what to expect from the process
- How to make the most of selling audio and video programs of your work
- Shortcuts to developing a rewarding career as a public speaker
- Why be a consultant? How to make a living from it? Where does it lead?
- Strategies for effective self-promotion
- Methods for gaining access to broadcast media and what to do and say on the air
- How to negotiate the best fees for your work
- Tips for building a leveraged business around your energy and ideas

$740
Building in a Sacred Way

Tom Bender

Many social problems, such as alcoholism, drugs, homelessness, and child abuse, share a common root. They arise out of lack of self-worth and mutual respect, and a lack of opportunity to be of value to family and society. They are all diseases of the spirit and of the absence of a sacred basis to society.

Similarly, our homes and communities embody our attitudes, good, bad, sacred, or indifferent. Changes to our surroundings can reaffirm the sacredness of our world. They can embody the values and reestablish the sense of respect and honor essential for social health and a sustainable society.

This workshop will examine how to create sustainable communities and nurturing homes, and the importance of a spiritual base. It will explore the economics which make that essential and possible. Group members will explore the modern application of feng-shui, which involves the energy interactions of people and places. Participants will probe the reasons for rituals of founding and using places which sustain their energy and the meaning they hold. The workshop will use the power of Esalen's setting to teach how to embody the same spirit in our homes and communities.

Toward Waking Up: Cultivating Mindfulness

Charles Tart

Ordinary consciousness is a kind of waking sleep, an absorption in our personal and cultural illusions. This apparently strange Eastern concept is actually supported in detail by Western psychological data. Given this, how can we awaken? Our essential selves were invalidated and suppressed in childhood, as part of our "education." How can we rediscover and nourish them? Our instinctual and sensory wisdom is buried under cultural noise and distraction. How can we come to our senses?

G.I. Gurdjieff, one of the first teachers to adapt Eastern spiritual methods to Western culture, developed practices for awakening from our sleep, our cultural trance. Occasional retreats to exotic places like Esalen are quite useful, but ordinary life is the best setting for using psychological and spiritual development practices that emphasize balanced work on mind, emotions, instincts, and body. This workshop will examine Gurdjieff's main ideas, integrating them with modern growth psychology.

Self-observation and self-remembering will be taught as a primary meditation-in-life for increasing self-understanding and living more effectively in the here and now. These practices use that most marvelous tool that is always with us — our bodies. The workshop will also review basic formal meditation practice as an aid to mindfulness. The emphasis will be on practicing awakening as part of everyday life.

Recommended reading: Tart, Waking Up and/or Living the Mindful Life.

Self-Transformation: The Art of the Actor for Everyday Life

Jane Marla Robbins

Transforming feelings of anxiety and insecurity into feelings of self-confidence and joy is a miracle that can happen in all areas of one's life — physical, emotional, spiritual. This transformation can help us fulfill our potential for the roles we have chosen to play — child, parent, artist, public speaker, shaman, sensualist, or spouse.

The group will explore and discuss a wealth of acting techniques, including: physical, mental, emotional, vocal, and spiritual preparations, relaxation, sense memory, the magic "as if" animal exercises, overcoming self-consciousness, speaking the truth, perfect props, and psychophysical action.

Participants can learn how to replace old fears and paranoid projections with self-manufactured pleasures and positive projections. Many "real-life" situations ordinarily fraught with worry can easily be transformed using the Actor's Imagination. The power and pleasure of being able to create a sense of well-being can be experienced by everyone, and, once discovered, it cannot be easily shaken.

No previous acting experience is necessary.

Cortical Reeducation® and the Feldenkrais Method®

Harriet Goslin & Patti (Lawrence) White

October 8-15

For workshop description see May 12-19.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $1,110

Week of October 8-13

Tantra: The Art of Conscious Loving

Charles Muir & Caroline Muir

Few of us have been blessed with healthy childhood conditioning and education regarding the mysteries of sexual love and sexual energy. This can leave many individuals less aware and conscious about their sexuality than they are in other aspects of their lives. Tantra can transform sex into a loving meditation, putting more consciousness, energy, intimacy, joy, and love into sexual exchanges.

Participants will learn and discuss various ways to increase intimacy and passion in their relationship. Tantric meditation and ways to exchange sexual energy in a safe, nonsexual manner will also be taught in the workshop. These methods can then be practiced in a sexual way in the privacy of your own home.

This workshop is open to couples only.

The Subtle Art of Meditation

David Streeter

The experience of insight, tranquility, inner strength, and aliveness can be found within our everyday life through the ancient art of meditation.

This workshop will approach traditional meditation practice in an unusual way. In a retreat atmosphere, participants will prepare the body/mind for silent listening with fluid movement from the martial arts and yoga. The workshop will incorporate breathing methods (Prana-Yama) and energy work with Zazen (sitting meditation). Other activities will include a silent listening hike in the wilderness, group meditation in a nearby contemplative monastery, and Zazen at Esalen's meditation center nestled close to a waterfall. This approach to the subtle practice of meditation through the body can inspire the student to discover his or her rich interior life and that crystal-clear still point described so well in every spiritual tradition.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740

Opening to Ourselves and Others

Rachel Harris

In order to survive and make our way in the world, we develop defense mechanisms, rigid patterns of thinking, feeling, and behaving. We deaden, dissociate, or sacrifice parts of ourselves during early childhood experiences, chronically stressful situations, or traumatic events. These brittle habits, originally designed for survival, limit our vital connection to ourselves as well as to others. We create our own self-limiting prisons.

"This workshop is about softening, melting, opening," writes Rachel Harris. "We will create a safe opportunity to identify our chronic defense patterns and explore who we are underneath these personality structures. We will seek to become more objective about our- selves and increase our psychological freedom. The focus is to deepen our sense of ourselves and enhance our capacity for relationship with others.

"An integrated approach of body awareness, mindful introspection, breathing, creative expression, and dyadic exercises will be used to gently lighten the burden of our chronic defenses. The opportunity is to stop being who we think we have to be and develop the process of being with ourselves as we are, which is all we really have and what we will take home with us."

Weekend of October 13-15

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see May 12-14. $380

Pushing the Envelope

Terence McKenna

Submits Terence, inimitably: "Fun and conviviality for ravers, anarachs, cyborgs, boppers, androids, var clones, zippies, and old-fashioned just plain freaks. The plot is revealed and the stakes rise as we approach the end of the Millennium. Join us for a pre-solstice meditation on the state of the condensing techno-lapis of the collective human soul and the mysteries of the attractor at the end of time. We will discuss self-directed psychedelic cartography, zippie culture, post-everything sexuality, four-dimensional map-making, and the care and feeding of psychedelic plants and people. Excursions into botany, onology, epistemology, parapsychology, and dubious puns are bound to occur. Think-along fun for double Scorpios, pagans, explorers, fans of Tantra and alchemy. Practical approaches to rave culture, the problem of post-Modernism, and the search for real love and community. All are welcome."

$380

When Drummers Were Women

Layne Redmond

This century has seen a vast unearthing of the images of the Great Goddess and her priestesses. Throughout the ancient Mediterranean world, she is portrayed with her tambourine or frame drum. The frame drum is one of the oldest, most primal instruments and was predominantly played by women with their bare hands. A powerful trance-inducing instrument, it was used in the religious rites of many goddesses, including Inanna, Ishtar, Cybele, Hathor, Isis, Sekhmet, Aphrodite, Demeter, and Artemis.

This weekend will focus on hand drumming techniques and their relationship with the elements of earth, water, fire, and air. Working in a circle and using the force of gravity, participants will practice synchronizing with the energy of the earth and radiating a group pulse. These rhythmic rituals are an ancient technology for accessing higher levels of awareness and releasing a deeper feminine energy.

This workshop is for women only. No prior experience with frame drums is necessary. Drums will be provided. $380

Psychosynthesis: Personal and Transpersonal Growth

John Firman & Ann Russell

Psychosynthesis was born in 1910 when the Italian psychiatrist Roberto Assagioli became dissatisfied with psychoanalysis. Although Assagioli was a colleague of Freud and Jung and an early pioneer of psychoanalysis in Italy, he saw that psychoanalysis neglected the healthier and "higher" aspects of human nature.

A student of philosophical and spiritual traditions of both East and West, Assagioli sought instead an approach which would address not only psychological wounding and personal development, but, in addition, the "transper- sonal" dimension — the dimension of inspired creativity, altruistic ideals, and peak experiences. Since that time, psychosynthesis has grown to become a compassionate and comprehensive psychology of the whole person, providing the practical means for exam- ining one's life and for discovering how to grow more fully into one's true self.

This workshop will be an experiential overview of the theory and practice of psychosynthesis. It is an invitation to explore the heights and depths of human being, including subpersonality or "ego-state" work, object relations and family-of-origin issues, the super- conscious and transpersonal self, and the experience of "vocation" or "call" in life. The intention is to gain a deeper feel for our unique psychological and spiritual journey, to get a sense for what our next steps on this journey might be, and, most essentially, to find a greater compassion for ourselves and others.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740

The Upledger Institute's SomatoEmotional Release I

John Upledger

SomatoEmotional Release is a healing process that helps rid the mind and body of residual effects of past trauma and associated negative emotional experiences. Joint research efforts by Dr. John Upledger and biophysicist Dr. Zvi Karni led to the discovery that the body often
Although a reasonably healthy body can work and adapt to "energy cysts," extra energy is required to perform normal bodily functions. As the years pass, the adaptive pattern of the body loses its effectiveness, and symptoms and dysfunctions begin to appear which become more difficult to ignore or suppress.

In SomatoEmotional Release I, students learn how to assist the patient/client in physically identifying and expelling the "energy cyst" and in re-experiencing and resolving unpleasant memories.

Students must complete CranioSacral Therapy I and II before participating in this course, either at Esalen (see May 21-26) or elsewhere.

Required reading: Upledger, SomatoEmotional Release and Beyond and CranioSacral Therapy II: Beyond the Dura; Fisher and Ury, Getting to Yes.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740

Focusing: Treasure Maps to the Soul

Ann Weiser Cornell

Focusing is a body-centered process which you can use to bring clarity and fresh air to all the life issues you face. Eugene Gendlin developed Focusing after researching why psychotherapy doesn't always succeed. He discovered that successful therapy clients had a vague, hard-to-describe inner awareness, a bodily felt sense about their issues. Listening to the felt sense proved to be a key component of psychological change.

This workshop is an opportunity to learn this gentle, powerful process of bodily attention, to listen to your own felt senses, exploring the subtleties of feeling that are there for you, in an atmosphere of respect and safety.

Ann Weiser Cornell writes: "I have discovered seven Treasure Maps that show where wholeness can come back into your life: self-criticism, confusion, obsessions and secrets, blocks, addictions, depression, and unfulfilled desires. Step by step, I'll show you how to listen to the parts of you that seem most stuck, and invite them to tell their stories, and release. We think we have to push ourselves to change, but inner gentleness and compassion bring change faster."

This workshop is designed for beginners as well as those familiar with Focusing. Helping professionals can learn powerful tools for working with clients.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740

Taoist Chi Kung: Enhancing Vitality

Master Share K. Lew

Traditional Taoist concepts of health, longevity, and harmony with nature will be introduced by Master Lew, a monastery-trained Taoist priest from southern China. The core of the workshop will be instruction in the "Shen," a set of twelve Chi Kung exercises (six standing, six sitting) whose primary purpose is self-healing. These rare exercises can also develop better concentration, increase visual and auditory acuity, and enhance sensitivity to oneself and others. Master Lew will discuss the use of everyday foods and Chinese herbs in healing, and tell stories from his life in the monastery.

Master Lew, now seventy-seven, was among the first to openly teach Chi Kung (Taoist internal energy cultivation) to non-Chinese. His monastery style, Tao Ahn Pai, dates back 1300 years to Lui Dong Bin in the Tang Dynasty, who is one of the Eight Immortals of Taoism.

Recommended Reading: Porter, Road to Heaven: Encounters with Chinese Hermits; Deng Ming-Dao, The Wandering Taoist.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740

Proprioceptive Writing: Demystifying the Creative Process

Linda Trichter-Metcalfe & Tobin Simon

"Proprioception" is a physiological term for kinesthetic sensation — feelings that originate in the body's interior. Proprioceptive Writing is a method through which inner intelligence is stimulated: meaning is approached through feeling. The originators of this method will lead participants in an experiential exploration of a simple yet richly subtle method of writing that demystifies the initial stages of the creative process.

Proprioceptive Writing is practiced to music in 25-minute sessions under stress-free conditions, either in groups or alone. This method takes the emphasis off writing and focuses on the experience of inner hearing, activating the auditory imagination — the key to emotion and the path toward feeling. Once participants relax into a listening stance, their psychological space expands and they can begin to speak through their writing with simplicity and strength. Writing becomes textured as well as cathartic. Because this process releases the writer from the painful pressure to produce form, it feels fluent, like meaning in motion. It lets you enter your own mind and forget the world.

This workshop is valuable for people who are seeking a form of written expression, a creative ritual, or a meditative discipline, and also for those who desire increased focus and personal meaning in their lives. $740

The Future of Leadership: Integrating Creativity, Value, and Accountability

Bruce Gregory

Bruce Gregory writes: "In the future, leaders will work creatively to transform climates of exploitation, frustration, and discomfort with climates of accountability and value."

This workshop is for executives, managers, and other people who are committed to improving their leadership skills. The focus of the workshop will be on:

- Developing skill to respond with creativity — as opposed to reactivity — to communication of blame, defensiveness, manipulation, and intimidation
- Developing skills to transform blame into accountability when facilitating conflict resolution
- Assessing personal needs to stay grounded and focused on the achievement of goals and visions
- Exploring internal resources via creative use of unconscious processes for the purposes of expanding availability and trust of these resources

Some of the processes used will include: giving and receiving feedback on communication and leadership styles; role-playing; and mind/body exercises for learning to creatively use the unconscious. Some didactic information will also be covered.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740

Weekend of October 20-22

Awakened Mind II: Advanced Brainwave Training and Transcendent States

Anna Wise

After the initial Awakened Mind brainwave training, how do we develop brainwave states and practice meditations that take us to internal spaces of greater spiritual awareness and transcendence?
Focusing on the union of beta, alpha, theta, and delta brainwaves, participants will explore "the space of consciousness" which can unlock hidden realms of perception and understanding, leading toward inner light and wisdom. The group will work with developing concentration power and memory, opening up the storehouse of internal energy, deep psychic relaxation, and the expansion of consciousness for self-healing and healing.

A variety of practices will be utilized to help access and develop higher states of consciousness, including inner visualization and sensualization, Yoga Nidra, Chidakasha meditation, open-eyed brainwave training, Trataka, and Antar Trataka. Participants will also look at how Eastern meditations and visualizations as well as meditations from the tantras are used for personal transformation.

The Mind Mirror EEG will be used to demonstrate and monitor brainwave patterns, and Electrical Skin Resistance Meters will be available to measure the depth of arousal and relaxation.

The seminar is open to anyone who has participated in a previous workshop with Anna Wise. C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $380

Taking Care of Yourself While Helping Others: Survival Tools for Service Professionals

Dennis Portnoy

Service professionals - nurses, counselors, educators, administrators, those in helping roles - are at great risk for burnout and decreased effectiveness. In addition to facing increased pressures in the workplace, they frequently perpetuate familiar self-defeating habits of relating such as:

- Over-identifying with their role as helper
- Taking on too much responsibility for both work and the feelings of others
- Making everyone else's needs more important than their own
- Deriving self-worth from being needed by others

This behavior limits effectiveness personally and professionally and leads to burnout. Participants will be shown ways to:

- Deliver service excellence without becoming overextended
- Distinguish between healthy and unhealthy giving
- Minimize the negative effects of stress in a working environment
- Learn how to protect themselves and recover from continual exposure to other people's suffering
- Identify and counteract dysfunctional helping styles

Nonprofessionals who are in a helping role or people involved in taking care of loved ones are also welcome to attend.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $380

Forgiveness: The Key to Intimacy

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

All life is about relationships. Creating an alive and honest connection with an intimate partner requires us to go deeply into our hearts and allow the courageous self to emerge. The journey to intimacy begins with the path of forgiveness.

How does forgiveness lead to intimacy?

- It allows us to let go of our anger, resentment, and grief
- It allows the agitated mind to move more deeply into the healing heart
- It resolves separation with ourselves and with others
- It allows us to give up punishment we inflict on ourselves and others
- It allows us to complete unfinished business

Once we forgive, we can experience ourselves and our relationships in a state of more lightness, love, and laughter.

This workshop can be especially helpful for those working with boundary issues, the effects of dysfunctional family life, or addictions that have been used as a defense against intimacy. One may come whether in a good relationship or troubled, as a couple or alone, mother, father, daughter or son, or in the healing professions.

The workshop will provide you with ways to help complete the past, be open to the present, and create the future. It will offer a safe, supportive environment that includes taking risks, intense bodywork, gestalt imagery, dance, and meditation in order to support the commitment to the process of discovering ourselves. $380

Joy, Inspiration, and Hope: A Retreat for Gay Men

Scott Wirth

"As gay men," writes Scott Wirth, "Our psychological lives are too often defined in terms of deficit and injury: we are the targets of homophobia; we are not "real" men; we are "sick and sinful"; our lives are being robbed from us by AIDS - the long, dark list goes on. Whether we are fully or only dimly aware of it, our gay male psyches are invariably overburdened with the images and emotional residue of victimization, oppression, and tragedy.

"Without denying the dark and painful aspects of our lives as gay men, we will emphasize and make room for the joyful, inspiring, and hopeful aspects of our histories, present lives, and futures. We will visit five phases of our lives: infancy, boyhood, adolescence, young manhood, and midlife. We will imaginatively blend together memory, fantasy, and stories we have heard.

"In a series of guided experiential sessions, we will construct and journey through what Jungian analyst Verena Kast has called our "biography of joy", this time as gay males. We will discover ways in which our soul remained inwardly steadfast throughout the different phases of our lives, nurturing and protecting us in ways that no parent or caregiver ever did. We will also recall and gratefully honor those who supported us - usually unknowingly - in the formation of our gay identity.

If you wish, bring a cassette of music which you find joyous, inspiring, or hopeful (each piece five minutes or less).

Recommended reading: Kast, Joy, Inspiration, and Hope. $380

Writing and the Act of Creation

George Leonard

Participants will be encouraged to break through ego-barriers and cultural conditioning that inhibit expression. In so doing, they will have a chance to experience the creativity that is inherent in all of life. There will be little in the way of theoretical discussion and no critiques of past works. Simple movement will serve to reduce stress, free the mind, and focus the will. Participants will have the opportunity to write furiously in the here and now and to get immediate feedback. Before the weekend has passed, they in all probability will have completed a short article or fictional work, and will have experienced some of the joys and heartaches that accompany publication. Bring pencils, pens, or portable typewriters - and plenty of paper.

Week of October 22-27

Esalen Arts Festival

This week Esalen will be hosting its first Arts Festival, a five-day appreciation of the arts, bringing together painters, musicians, dancers, actors, and writers. There will be guest performances, instruction in various art media, poetry readings, multimedia events, and panel discussions. Participants will be offered a range of classes from which to choose, including instruction in painting, sculpting, singing, and dance. A number of events will take place outdoors — on our sloping lawn overlooking the Pacific Ocean, in our new amphitheater and dance platform, and in the Esalen garden.

Because appearances by guest actors and musicians are subject to touring schedules, we cannot list, at Catalog publication deadline, the names of individual teachers and performers. A full schedule will be provided to participants. There will also be several unannounced surprises. The biggest events will be held in a forum that will comfortably accommodate all participants.

Whether you are an artist, an art lover, or an artistic spirit, the Esalen Arts Festival is sure to be a stimulating, enriching, and memorable event.

Please note: Since there will be only 70 beds available this week, early registration is recommended.

Weekend of October 27-29

Introduction to Vipassana Meditation

James Baraz

For workshop description see June 2-4.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60.

The Art and Craft of Screenplay

Lewis John Carlino

This week will be an exploration into the form of the screenplay. It will examine questions of story, plot, character, theme, and images, with particular emphasis on what constitutes a dramatic action and the pitfalls encountered in building sound film structure.

The group will investigate the seeds of creativity, its blocks, and what can and cannot be written about screenwriting. Participants will write their own short motion picture scenarios which will then be analyzed by the group.

Lewis John Carlino is a screenwriter, playwright, and director. Among his films are The Great Santini, Resurrection, I Never Promised You a Rose Garden, and The Sailor Who Fell from Grace with the Sea.

Recommended reading: Aristotle, Poetics; Froug, The Screenwriter Looks at the Screenwriter; and Goldman, Adventures in the Screen Trade.

A Massage Workshop for Women

Ingrid May & Ellen Watson

This is a weekend massage workshop for women of all ages and backgrounds who wish to learn in a nurturing and supportive setting how to give and receive massage. The workshop will enable participants to master some fundamentals of bodywork as developed by Esalen massage practitioners, including grounding, movement, and breath awareness. This is an invitation for women to rediscover the innate wisdom of the body and to honor and celebrate being female.

Horror and the Holy: Wisdom-Teachings of the Monster Tale

Kirk Schneider

What makes horror films and books so compelling? What fascinates us about the macabre, extreme, or ostensibly repellent? What can we learn from these tales — about ourselves, spirituality, and the direction and values of our society?

In this workshop, Kirk Schneider will utilize films, stories, and experiential exercises to shed light on these questions. He will show that despite classic horror’s reputation for sensationalism, it has a rich and underappreciated depth and can open the mind to the human condition — and into the most timely questions of our age.

Drawing upon his recent book Horror and the Holy, Dr. Schneider will explore such themes as the fascinating in the terrifying, the terrifying in the fascinating, the interplay of despair and fanaticism, and the redemptive element in despair and fanaticism, indeed, in horror itself: wonderment.

Discussion, self-exploration, and the play of ideas will be encouraged.

CoHousing: Creating Your Own Community

Kathryn McCamant & Charles Durrett

Dramatic demographic and economic changes have created a mismatch between today’s household and most conventional American housing. Households experience this mismatch as they face a child-care crisis, deepening isolation, and a chronic time crunch. Things we once took for granted — family, community, a sense of belonging — must now be actively sought out.

CoHousing addresses many of these needs. Developed by the residents themselves, CoHousing communities are made up of private dwellings complemented by extensive common facilities. Each dwelling is autonomous, yet the common house, with the opportunity for shared dinners and child care, is a focal point of the community.

This workshop gives participants an overview of organizing, planning, and designing a CoHousing community, from site acquisition, group process, development, and design, to construction and management.

Topics will include:

- An overview of the CoHousing development process, from initial meetings to moving in
- Development strategies and the advantages/disadvantages of working with a developer
- Forming and working with a group, and organizing for effective decision making
- Financial options — ownership structures and money realities
- Designing for community — architectural considerations
- The next steps — your role, the group’s role, services of professionals
- What other CoHousing groups are doing — the network and how to plug in

Recommended reading: McCamant and Durrett, CoHousing — A Contemporary Approach to Housing Ourselves.

October 29-November 10

Integrative Body Psychotherapy (IBP): Professional Training Program

Jack Rosenberg & Beverly Kitaen Morse

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 56.

$1795
Five-Day Massage Intensive
Kathleen O'Shaughnessy & Dean Marson
This workshop is designed for those who are just beginning to explore Esalen massage as deep communication. The central theme will be primary approaches to full-body massage, which the leaders will introduce through demonstration and experiential exchanges. Self-awareness through movement, yoga stretches, and Zen meditation will be used to enhance the senses. Discussion will offer insights into various approaches to bodywork and how they address both the physiological and the mental/emotional body.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60. $740

Life as Art — Art as Life
Wes "Scoop" Nisker & Nina Wise
Most of us spend our days concerned with the grocery list of life's demands, paying the bills, keeping the gas tank filled, maintaining our hairdos, and boiling the water for pasta. But just below the surface of our polite and upright lives lurks the living room dancer, the singing poet in the shower, and the storytelling fool.

The Hindus call life "leila," the sport of the gods. This workshop is about stepping onto the playing field. We will lift the serious veil of purpose and meaning so that our true nature, which is inherently playful, can emerge. Give up on self-transformation, forget about being politically correct or spiritually advanced, this is a come-as-you are party!

Using stories from our lives, we will make art in a safe and supportive environment. Participants will be guided in vocal and movement exercises, theater games, storytelling, and imaginative meditations. We will create performances for and with one another by allowing the characters within us to have a voice. We will turn life into art. Bring your lipstick, your tutu, your cowboy boots, your smoking jacket, your worst memories, your favorite dance steps, and your bag of confetti.

$740

Transition, Risk, and Renewal: Mastering the Art of Change
David Schiffman & Susan Kuttner
David Schiffman writes: "During the last twenty-five years I have had the privilege of being a midwife for an extraordinary variety of people facing major transitions in life. During this week I would like to share and explore those influences, inner resources, and natural rhythms that best support real, healthy, sustainable change. Our aim will be to cultivate the emotional poise, mental clarity, energetic flexibility, and stamina necessary to face life's inevitable challenges in a timely, graceful, and thoroughly effective manner. Participants will be encouraged to initiate attention and support for themselves both in the group and upon returning home in fresh and innovative ways that can minimize unnecessary suffering, fatigue, and wasted time. "The methods used will be a blending of the old and the new, the tried and the true — tailor-made to fit the actual needs of the group. The only prerequisite for attending this seminar is an honest readiness to engage in a heartfelt adventure of exploration and risk-taking that could change your approach to life."

$740

Vocal Awareness: Empowerment Through Voice
Arthur Joseph
In many traditions, the throat is the center of creative power. The voice represents this power, and thus has the capacity to help access our full creative expression. This course combines the powerful techniques of Vocal Awareness with universal principles of creativity to help participants to realize their creative potential.

To develop creatively, the following must occur: creative energy is accessed, feeling is enhanced, the capacity to feel is increased, sensory sensitivity is heightened, a channel for expression is determined, and content for creative expression is identified.

Vocal Awareness – which views voice as a metaphor, representing an individual to the world — introduces techniques which are integral to this development process. Vocal Awareness includes vocalizing, sound meditation, movement, song study, and development of the speaking voice as a means for deepening contact with the self. Participants will work individually and in groups exploring breathing, toning, and vocalizing.

Singing and speaking offer an immediate outlet for creative expression. However, the voice can become a springboard for other forms of creative expression, such as writing, drawing, movement, and problem solving. Used in this way, the voice becomes a metaphor for the whole person as an integrated creative being, and this workshop can be not only a vocal training class but a step toward empowerment along life's path.

Please note: Participants are required to bring tape recorders. $740
SPECIAL PROGRAMS

The programs listed below are either longer than the standard Esalen workshop or part of an ongoing series.
Prices quoted below for these programs are for standard accommodations as described in "Reservation Information," pages 4–5. Sometimes bunk bed space is available at a reduced rate. Scholarships are also available; please see "Scholarship Information" on page 5.

May 21–June 16

Certification in Clinical Hypnosis

Marc Lehrer with Norman Katz, Adam Burke, Art Dann & Rainya Dann

This course is a synthesis of Ericksonian and Direct Hypnosis, neurolinguistics, and bio-hypnotic monitoring. It satisfies the hypnosis course requirements for the MFCC and complies with the California State Requirement for Hypnosis Certification. It is designed to help develop hypnotic skills for counseling, medicine, nursing and other health areas, education, and bodywork. This program is also an opportunity for personal growth and transformation for anyone interested in hypnotic phenomena and the uses of suggestion in daily life.

Hypnotic suggestion, advanced imagery, and relaxation methods will be explored. There will be daily presentations, numerous practice sessions, video examples of Erickson and other practitioners, and extensive written support materials. A hypnosis library will be available for in-depth learning of advanced topic areas, and there will be an opportunity to explore personal goals with trance and biofeedback equipment.

The scientific basis of hypnosis as well as its practical applications will be emphasized. Topic areas will include: induction methods, hypnotic testing, symptom and habit removal, individual and family counseling applications, pain control and psychosomatics, non-verbal and pendulum methods, biomedical hypnotic monitoring, metaphor and storytelling methods, hypnosis with children, regression and uncovering, redecisioning and reframing, self-concept enhancement, stress management, fears and phobias, early trauma, hypnotic dream programming, imagery generation, NLP methods, enhancing performance in sports, music, and sensation, self-hypnosis methods, teaching self-hypnosis classes, and other topics related to therapy, health, and personal growth. Selected ongoing exercises drawn from alikdo, Feldenkrais, movement, massage, and shamanistic traditions will complement the traditional topic areas.

Since each of the leaders will present for a number of days, there will be an opportunity to model different ways of deepening your own hypnotic potential, trance induction, and utilization skills. This monthlong experience with various faculty members will allow each participant an in-depth opportunity to develop vivid personal imagery, make lasting self-suggestions, and relate more completely with the unconscious mind.

The Hypnosis Certification is offered through the American College of Hypnosis, Biofeedback, and Neurotherapy Practices, approved by the Department of Private Post-Secondary and Vocational Education of the State of California. Certification is granted upon faculty review of assignments, class participation, practice, and knowledge of ethical guidelines necessary for offering hypnosis to the general public. There is a $120 certificate review fee, payable to the American College, due upon registration at the first day of the program.

Space is limited to twenty-two participants. Reading lists and information about certification and graduate credit will be sent upon registration or by request. You may contact Dr. Lehrer directly for further questions at 408-426-3321.

C.E. credit is available; see page 60.

Standard accommodations: $3150
Bunk bed room, if available: $2260

The Upledger Institute Series

The Upledger Institute was founded by John E. Upledger, who pioneered the field of CranioSacral Therapy nearly twenty-five years ago. Dr. Upledger is a Certified Specialist of Osteopathic Manipulative Medicine, an Academic Fellow of the British Society of Osteopathy, and a Doctor of Science. He was recently appointed to the Alternative Medicine Program Advisory Council of the National Institutes of Health.

From 1975 to 1983, Dr. Upledger served as clinical researcher and professor of biomechanics at Michigan State University. During those years he supervised a team of anatomists, physiologists, biophysicists, and bioengineers in experiments testing the existence and influence of the craniosacral system. The results of those studies explained the function of the craniosacral system and its use in treating malfunctions of the brain and spinal cord.

Today the Upledger Institute teaches non-invasive modalities such as CranioSacral Therapy to doctors and health care practitioners of all disciplines. Curricula range from the structural/functional anatomical perspective to approaches that explore the physical, emotional, mental, and spiritual origins of pain and dysfunction.

Esalen presented CranioSacral I in February, 1995, and is offering CranioSacral II (May 21-26) and SomatoEmotional Release I (October 15-20, taught by Dr. Upledger) during this catalog period. The workshops are sequential and each requires completion of the previous course, either at Esalen or elsewhere.

The Diamond Approach: A Spiritual Teaching for Our Times

An Introductory Series of Classes

Teachers of the Ridhwan School are offering a series of three introductory workshops in the Diamond Approach over the next year. The Diamond Approach is a spiritual teaching developed by A.H. Almaas (Hameed Ali) to meet the needs of those wishing to contact the depths of who they are while leading ordinary lives of work and family. In addressing these needs, the teaching bridges the traditional divisions between what is considered sacred and what is considered mundane. It utilizes elements from depth psychology and traditional spiritual knowledge and practices, creating a new method for engaging in the process of spiritual transformation.

The methodology of the Diamond Approach is open-ended inquiry into one's personal experience leading to an experiential understanding of it. The format includes meditation, awareness and movement practices, talks, exercises in self-inquiry, and personal processing within the group. As we inquire into and travel through our inner terrain, our identifications and beliefs shaped by our conditioning — the obscuring veils within — become more and more transparent, and we are able to contact dimensions of reality and the human potential traditionally accessible to only a few. As we gradually contact the depths of who we are, the personality becomes refined, and our lives progressively become embodiments and expressions of our true nature.

As in the case of many schools of spiritual work, spiritual development in the Diamond Approach, while noninvasive and nonconfrontational, does lead to addressing the defenses of the ego and the dissolution of its structures, and so is not appropriate for everyone. It is especially suited to those who have done a lot of spiritual and/or psychological work, and who still feel that something within has not been touched. Reading one or both of the books below is recommended to see if you resonate with this approach. Prospective participants will be sent a questionnaire to ascertain whether the work may be of personal benefit.

While each workshop will provide a foundation for the next, each will be complete on its own and so may be taken individually or as part of the series (see June 25-30). Students who have completed the series of Diamond Approach workshops will be eligible to apply for the twice-yearly Diamond Heart Retreats held in California.

For more information and to obtain a questionnaire contact Joyce Lyke at 408-375-9845.

Recommended reading: Almaas, Essence and Diamond Heart Book One.

October 29-November 10

Integrative Body Psychotherapy (IBP): Professional Training Program
Jack Rosenberg & Beverly Kitaen Morse

This is a 12-day residential training program in Integrative Body Psychotherapy (IBP). It is primarily for professionals and graduate students in related fields. IBP is a unique and powerful transpersonal body-mind system of psychotherapy. It draws together the theories of ancient and modern healing systems. A major focus is awakening the authentic self and heightening general aliveness and sexuality through breathing, body release techniques, and IBP psychological arenas. IBP emphasizes integration of body, mind, emotions, and spirit, and views the body as the foundation for psychological and transpersonal growth. Object relations developmental theory is integrated with IBP theory and bodywork.

For further information contact Beverly Morse at Rosenberg-Kitaen Central IBP Institute, 1551 Ocean Ave., #230, Santa Monica, CA 90401; 310-395-2117.

Recommended reading: Rosenberg et. al., Body, Self, and Soul: Sustaining Integration; and Total Orgasm.

Standard accommodations: $1795
Bunk bed room, if available: $1245

Healthspring Outreach and Education

The Healthspring Project offers education and information that extends Esalen's work in the healing arts and sciences to the outside world. It is an independent service-oriented program of Esalen teachers and their associates. Healthspring offers a global information network linking visitors to Esalen with centers, teachers, and health professionals focused in the fields of somatics and psychology that are located in their home area. Our listings are public information and are not meant to be an endorsement of any individual or institution. Some of our practitioners and teachers travel to New York, San Francisco, and Los Angeles and are available for private sessions and classes. If you are interested in being contacted, let us know.

The Healthspring library offers books on health and healing, bodywork, somatic studies, psychology, nutrition, and related studies, which may be borrowed by students for a given period while at Esalen. Donations of appropriate books are greatly appreciated.

For access to this program, write to Laurie Lioness Parizek at Esalen, c/o Healthspring.
April 28-May 6

Big Sur Wilderness Journey: From Esalen to Tassajara Zen Mountain Center

Steven Harper & Steven Waldrip

Nature provides opportunities to stretch one's limits and explore one's inner wilderness. By living in a natural environment it is possible to expand and realize a deeper sense of self and richness of being.

The group will spend a day and a night at Esalen, leaving the next morning to hike through the Ventana wilderness. Participants will travel "light," receiving instruction in minimum-impact camping, ecology, geography, and the cultural history of the area.

Wilderness will be both mirror and primary teacher as the group lives simply in direct contact with nature. Using gestalt awareness practice and group process, participants will explore emerging feelings and new sensations. Drawing inspiration from natural and native purification practices, individuals will create a time of cleansing and contemplation, culminating in a 24-hour period alone. The group will then hike on to Tassajara Zen Mountain Center, deep in a rugged wilderness valley with natural hot springs, for their last night together. Meditation instruction will be available at Tassajara for those who wish it.

Backpacking experience is not necessary, though participants should be prepared for the challenge of vigorous physical activity. More information will be sent upon registration.

October 7-14

Heart of Big Sur: Wilderness Journey into the Santa Lucia Mountains

Little Bear Nason & Steven Harper

This journey begins with a gathering at the Esselen Tribe's ceremonial grounds high in the hills above Big Sur. Here participants will be initiated by tribal leaders into the sacredness of ceremony, dreamtime, and ritual in preparation for the rites of passage.

After hiking some of the most beautiful high ridge country in northern Big Sur, the group will arrive at an area that has been used by generations of Esselen Indians for restoration and purification. From here each person will go off alone for two days and nights to his/her own sacred practice ground for the retrieval of the simple reverence for life and personal effectiveness that grows out of diligent cultivation of the soul.

Regathering after this solo time, participants will have the opportunity to share their stories. The practical application of the insights gained will be examined, marked, and celebrated.

This workshop is geared for people with a sincere interest in making real changes in their lives who are willing to take the time and receive the support necessary to make such changes.

Backpacking experience is not necessary. Backpacking experience is not necessary. Be prepared for vigorous physical activity. The workshop begins on Sunday, July 16, at 6:30 p.m. at the Ventana Wilderness Ranch in Carmel Valley. Complete details and an equipment list will be sent upon registration.

Esalen Wilderness Programs Refund Policy

Most expenses in wilderness programs are incurred preparing for your arrival. The Esalen Wilderness Program refund policy reflects the fact that few of these expenses can be recovered.

To reserve a space in a wilderness workshop, a nonrefundable deposit of $200 is required. The balance of the fee is due 14 days before the program begins. If you cancel prior to 30 days before the program begins, your nonrefundable deposit may be applied to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year. If you cancel from 30 days up to the starting date of the trip, your deposit is forfeited.
In its continuing commitment to the fields of education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences, Esalen regularly sponsors invitational conferences that bring together experts who share their research and points of inquiry. As host, Esalen covers room and board expenses for participants as a way of advancing these particular studies. These are invitational conferences only and are not open to the public. Recently held programs and their conveners are listed here.

Cultivating Ecological Design Intelligence
October 16-19, 1994
A new vision of ecological design is emerging, one that brings together architects, planners, engineer, farmers, artists, and many others in a shared search for the basic design details of a sustainable culture. This conference invited a small group of ecological design pioneers to share ideas and experiences about how to more rapidly move ecological design into the mainstream. Those assembled established the International Ecological Design Society to connect grassroots workers with those in academia, the business world, and the design professions. The Society will foster research on important issues, forge convivial links, and create new educational opportunities. Also planned is the Quarterly of Ecological Design (Q.E.D.) to provide a platform for both carefully monitored research and more speculative ideas.

Direct Mental and Healing Influences on Living Systems
December 4-9, 1994
Intentionality represents a long-standing puzzle in the study of human consciousness. Can the human mind influence the physical world by an act of intention — without physical contact of any sort?

This meeting, co-sponsored by Esalen's Center for Theory and Research, brought together 18 leading researchers from laboratories throughout Europe, Canada, and the United States, representing various disciplines, including physics, medicine, psychology, anthropology, and theology. Conference participants focused on ways to increase scientific understanding of both the conscious and unconscious role of intentionality in the physical world, including potential applications. For example, how does intentionality affect the healing process? Can one person's intentions influence another person's physiology — even from a distance? Researchers spent the week developing a series of proposals for specific projects that involve multi-laboratory, multidisciplinary, and multinational collaboration. The progress of these proposals will be reported in future issues of the Noetic Sciences Review.

FUTURE PROGRAMS

Listed here are a few of the programs scheduled for the months ahead. This is not an invitation to register, but information to assist you in your long-range plans to participate in an Esalen workshop. Dates are subject to change; please call the Esalen Office or see the next catalog for more specific information.

November 12-December 10, 1995
28-Day Massage Practitioner Certification Program
CONTINUING EDUCATION PROGRAMS FOR NURSES

The Board of Registered Nursing has approved Esalen as a provider of Continuing Education for registered nurses, provider number 01152. Only those programs listed below offer Continuing Education credit. Workshop leaders have the final decision in applying for C.E.U. eligibility. There is a $10 processing fee for C.E.U. certificates, payable at the end of the workshop when you turn in your evaluation form to the office. If you wish to receive a certificate, please notify the office at the time of registration.

Please note: Two-day workshops offer 10 hours of C.E. credit and all five-day or longer workshops offer 30 hours.

If you need additional information on our C.E. courses or future C.E. outreach programs, please contact Sherry Sanders Galloway, R.N., Continuing Education Coordinator, 408-667-3000.

May 5-7
- An Introduction to the Living Brain
- Rekindling the Spirit in Work

May 7-12
- Self-Hypnosis: Methods, Practice, and New Learning with Brainwave Feedback
- Five-Day Massage Intensive

May 12-19
- Gestalt Practicum
- Cortical Reeducation and the Feldenkrais Method

May 14-19
- Creating Health Through Imagery

May 19-21
- Recovery
- Time-Shifting: Creating Time for Your Life

May 21-June 16
- Certification in Clinical Hypnosis

May 21-26
- Intuition, Perception, and Altered States of Consciousness: Extending the Boundaries of Human Experience
- The Upledger Institute's CranioSacral II

May 26-28
- Refilling the Chalice: Time Out for Healers

May 28-June 2
- Making It Float
- Awakened Mind: Five-Day Brainwave Training Intensive

June 2-4
- Introduction to Vipassana Meditation
- Medicinal Herbology: An Esalen Garden Workshop

June 4-9
- Opening the Feelings

June 9-11
- Weekend Massage Intensive
- Optimum Health: Theory and Practice

June 11-16
- Sexual Trauma Survivors: Specific Strategies for Body, Mind, and Spiritual Healing
- Chakra Integration: A Complete Approach to Health and Healing

June 16-23
- Developing a Fitness Regime for Optimal Well-Being

June 16-18
- Meditation, the Self, and Healing
- Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais Approach

June 18-23
- The Core Self: Returning to Innocence and Choice

June 23-25
- Body Rejuvenation
- Caring for the Dying: What Really Works?

June 25-30
- The Body and Zen
- Turning on the Light: A Choice to Live Consciously

July 2-7
- Movement, Touch, and the Healing Process

July 7-9
- Practical Intuition: Introduction

July 9-14
- The Enneagram of Relationship: Men and Women, Love and Work
- Embodied Gestalt Practice: Body and Soul

July 14-16
- Through the Psyche to the Sacred: Transforming Inner Oppressors
- Healthy Back, Healthy Mind: Do-It-Yourself for Backs and Stress

July 23-28
- Creating Exact Moments of Healing

July 30-August 4
- Core Zero Balancing: Basic I & II

August 4-6
- Awakening From Trauma: Healing Body Image and Sexuality

August 6-11
- Managing With Heart: Changing the Leadership Paradigm

August 11-13
- Stress Reduction: An East/West Approach
- The Helper's Journey: Working With Grief, Loss, and Life-Threatening Illness

August 13-18
- Five-Day Massage Intensive

August 18-20
- Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais Approach

August 20-25
- Enhancing Communication Hypnotically
- Healing the Emotional/Spiritual Body: The Rubenfeld Synergy Method
- The Medicine Wheel Way

August 25-27
- Breema Bodywork: The Nonjudgmental Treatment

August 27-September 1
- Trigger Point and Esalen Massage

September 3-8
- Spiritual Healing: Laying-on-of-Hands
- Healing The Heart
September 8-10
- Chi Gung: Opening the Energy Gates of Your Body

September 15-17
- Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach
- Transpersonal Medicine

September 17-22
- Turning On The Light: A Choice to Live Consciously
- Five-Day Massage Intensive
- Gestalt Practice

September 24-29
- Stepping Into Your Body of Light
- Change and Self-Esteem

September 29-October 1
- Reinhabiting Your Body: An Experience in Authentic Movement
- Psychoneuroimmunology and Its Implications
- Self-Empowerment and Purification: The Farther Reaches of Gestalt

October 1-6
- Creative Bodywork: An Advanced Workshop
- Consciousness and Healing: History, Philosophy, and Practice
- Handwriting Patterns: Possibilities for Healing and Change

October 8-15
- Cortical Reeducation® and the Feldenkrais Method®

October 8-13
- The Subtle Art of Meditation

October 13-15
- Psychosynthesis: Personal and Transpersonal Growth

October 15-20
- The Upledger Institute's SomatoEmotional Release I
- Focusing: Treasure Maps to the Soul
- Taoist Chi Kung: Enhancing Vitality
- The Future of Leadership: Integrating Creativity, Value, and Accountability

October 20-22
- The Awakened Mind II: Advanced Brainwave Training and Transcendent States
- Taking Care of Yourself While Helping Others: Survival Tools for Service Professionals

October 27-29
- Introduction to Vipassana Meditation

October 29-November 3
- Five-Day Massage Intensive
Work Study Program

The Work Study Program is for those who are interested in an intense and complete involvement with the Esalen environment. It is a work-oriented program, emotionally and physically, and only rarely is it restful. Participants work thirty-two hours per week in one of Esalen's departments (kitchen, garden, farm, housekeeping, maintenance, or grounds) and participate, along with staff and long-term students, in that department's program.

During most evenings and one weekend intensive, work students are together as a group exploring different practices and approaches available at Esalen, with specifically assigned leaders who will be with the group throughout the month coordinating the study schedule and facilitating many of the evening sessions.

The selection of work students is done by Bette Dingman, the Work Study Coordinator, in consultation with department supervisors. Since this is a work program, preference is given to applicants who are open and willing to learn about themselves within the work context as well as within the evening and weekend study/process groups. Applicants with particular skills or physically limiting conditions are urged to mention them on the application. It is necessary for applicants to be able to speak and understand English.

First-month work students, in particular, are assigned to departments largely on the basis of community need. No work students will be assigned to the office until they have fulfilled a minimum of one month in one of the aforementioned departments.

The study portion of the program is divided into two groups each month: each emphasizes one type of growth practice, such as gestalt, meditation, Reichian work, massage or somatics work, and so forth. Participants must be prepared to stay at Esalen for the full duration designated for that particular program, assuming that they meet the standards of the Work Study Program.

Please note: This program is designed to explore and apply human values and potentials in both the evening groups and the workplace. It is not intended as a substitute for therapy or as a "cure."

It is sometimes possible to receive college unit credit for participating in the Work Study Program. Please check with your college or university for eligibility requirements.

Work Study Programs scheduled for this catalog period are:

April 30-May 28

Lenore & Mel (Rudra) Lefer will lead this program. Lenore will offer an exploration of the inner journey within the framework of psychosynthesis, using guided imagery, journal writing, dreams, ritual, storytelling, and nature to create a supportive environment in which healing and transformation can occur. Mel will teach all levels of Integral Yoga, including postures, progressive relaxation, breathing practices, meditation, and visualization.

The basis of this month with Seymour Carter will be the gestalt method, supported by studies in various body disciplines, including sensory awareness, bioenergetics, and aikido. Each participant's process of development will be honored, encouraged, and treated as unique.

May 28-June 25

Maria Lucia Sauer Holloman & Anita Donovan will invite the creative spirit to come alive during this monthlong by combining music, art, movement, and ritual with the practice of the fundamental healing art of laying-on-of-hands.

With an emphasis on the practice of massage, David Streeter will explore the inner power of the human being. He will combine the essence of Zen meditation with movement from the martial arts and yoga. These principles will be applied to the art of massage and the art of being in the world.

June 25-July 23

This month with Gideon Dreyer will focus on the experience of becoming immobilized when confronted with certain obstacles and using these situations for inner enrichment and education. Participants will focus on spiritualizing their thoughts, feelings, and actions, and cultivating the will to act accordingly.

Eduardo Eizner & Guests will lead a month concentrating on emotional release work and self-awareness, incorporating gestalt practice, group and individual process, rituals, movement, and bodywork.

July 23-August 20

Patrick Douce will share the essence of his work with Moshe Feldenkrais, Balinese healers, and Indonesian Silat Martial-Art-for-Health systems. This program will focus on movement and touch to increase the sensitivity, flexibility, coordination, relaxation, and freedom of the body. Individual problem areas will be approached in order to improve chronic stiffness and pain. Group experience and interaction will help facilitate balance in the overall growth of each participant.

In the tradition of Milton Erickson, Nancy Winston & Paul Lounsberry will use cybernetic principles and hypnotic techniques to help participants bring about new forms of spontaneous interaction, novel experience, and more satisfying outcomes in everyday life. The focus will be on mobilizing and utilizing unconscious capacities to increase variety and choice in the patterns that organize our ways of bringing forth our world. This will include formal and informal trance inductions, group interaction, and exploration of individual styles of organizing and communicating experience.

August 20-September 17

Eric Erickson will lead a group devoted to the development of integral practices. Gestalt practice, meditation, movement exercises, the experience of nature, and bodywork will be explored as complementary awareness practices which, when combined, integrate mind-body-spirit into a greater whole and enhance personal development and transformation.

During this monthlong Kenn Chase will teach the entire sequence of Tai Chi Ch'uan meditation technique. There are 54 postures which will be taught along with various East/West mind body techniques. He will integrate body alignment, Taoist breathing exercises, deep relaxation methods, sensory awareness, and visualization processes.
September 17–October 15

The focus of a month with David Schiffman will be on the theme of transition. It is geared for people who are facing major changes and would like an opportunity to create a time for sanctuary and a mood of mutual support. The intention will be to cultivate an individual style of approaching change that is heartfelt, open-minded, and resourceful in spirit.

Judith Cornell will focus on the alchemy of illuminating personal and group mandalas for healing and integrating body, mind, and spirit. She will share a worldview merging sacred art, transpersonal psychology, and science with perennial wisdom to perceive our wholeness and connectedness, using an approach that synthesizes light, sound, and consciousness. Participants will draw, meditate, and learn simple yoga movements and sound techniques for harmonizing the body/mind, releasing fear, and opening to higher states of creativity.

Please note: There will be a $35 materials fee paid directly to the leader.

October 15–November 12

A month with John Soper & Friends will focus on ways to improve the quality of life for participants. Gestalt practice will be the vehicle for personal growth in a group setting. The group may also experience other practices including games, to bring into focus those areas of our lives that are ripe for change.

Vicki Topp & Friends will lead a monthlong journey exploring ourselves and our environment in a weaving of integral healing practices which may include massage, sensory awareness, imagery, storytelling, gestalt, creative movement, and spiritual nourishment.

Inasmuch as the Work Study Program is a complete program in itself, please do not plan to take regularly scheduled catalog workshops during your stay. Professional services, such as massage, are available at staff rates.

Fees: A deposit of $400 in U.S. currency is required with your application. The work scholar fee is $750 for the first month, $700 for the second month, and $650 for the third month. Work students may be invited to remain for a second or third month depending on space available and community needs. Occasionally it is possible to stay for a longer period of time as an Extended Student. There are no scholarships available for the Work Study Program.

Housing: Accommodations are shared (occasionally co-ed), with up to four people to a room, usually at South Coast Center, a staff complex located 1.5 miles north of Esalen.

For more information contact Bette Dingman: 408-667-3010.

Note: Application is not registration in the program. Registration is made only after approval of application and upon receipt of deposit. The balance of the fee is due on arrival. Of the original deposit, $100 is nonrefundable and may be transferred to other programs within one year of receipt. Please return the application form (see next page) with your deposit to:

Work Study Program
Esalen Institute
Big Sur, CA 93920.

Institute of Transpersonal Psychology Offers External Master's Degrees

Work students now have the opportunity to integrate their work study experience at Esalen with the external degree program of the Institute of Transpersonal Psychology. The external degree format enables students to study at any location. Work students will be able to continue the dynamics of personal growth fostered at Esalen while earning master's degrees in transpersonal studies or in transpersonal psychology.

Inquiries and applications should be made directly to ITP. Contact:

Nancy Fagen
External Program
Institute of Transpersonal Psychology
744 San Antonio Road
Palo Alto, CA 94303
415-493-4430
WORK STUDY PROGRAM APPLICATION

Name ____________________________________________ Male ☐ Female ☐

Date of Birth ____________________________ Occupation ____________________________

Place of Employment _____________________________________________________________

Daytime Phone ( ) ____________________________ Home Address ____________________________

Evening Phone ( ) ____________________________ City/State/Zip code ____________________________

Date of Application ____________________________ Country ____________________________

Do you have any physically limiting conditions which might affect your full participation in this program? ☐ Yes ☐ No

If yes, please be specific. _____________________________________________________________

Are you currently taking any medications? ☐ Yes ☐ No ☐ No ☐ One-month extension ☐ Two-month extension

If yes, please specify: ________________________________________________________________

Which program(s) are you interested in? Please list the leader's name. __________________________

Please note: When focused programs continue with the same leader for more than one month, participants must be prepared to stay at Esalen for the full duration of that particular program.

The Work Study Program is for 28 days, beginning and ending on Sunday. Please list the dates of your choice, listing two alternative dates as well.

1st: ____________ to ____________ 2nd: ____________ to ____________ 3rd: ____________ to ____________

Work students may be invited to remain for a second or third month, depending on space available and the needs of the Esalen community. Please indicate your availability for such an invitation.

☐ No extension ☐ One-month extension ☐ Two-month extension

Assignments to departments are made according to community labor needs. However, if you have particular skills that you're willing to use, especially in food preparation, gardening, maintenance, mechanics, construction, or housecare, please mention them here.

☐ Please check here if you have emergency medical skills (M.D., R.N., or E.M.T.) and are willing to use them during your stay.

Attach a personal statement about your interest in the Work Study Program and why you'd like to participate.

All applicants are required to sign a standard release from liability and assumption of risk form as a condition of participation in the Work Study Program.

Please Note: No pets allowed.
The Dolphin Tape Series

Each new tape list has a somewhat different emphasis in its selection of titles and speakers. In addition to the many well-known titles from speakers familiar to you, included here for the special attention of new customers, you will find several additional tapes from some old favorites, the most recent recordings from others, and a few entirely new speakers, events, and subjects.

Dolphin Tapes has no complete catalog, just overlapping tape lists. When you place an order, let us know your field of interest or your favorite speakers. We may have more information on some of them. Many tapes are in stereo. Tape length is normally 1 1/2 hours.

Single-tape titles are $10:
- Abraham/Thompson: Eccentric Thinking and Chaos Revolution, 1993
- Abraham/McKenna/Sheldrake: TRIALOGUES: Preview and Sampler, 1989-90
- Gregory Bateson: The Limits of Science, 1978
- Joseph Campbell: Kundalini and the Chakra System, 1981
- Fritjof Capra: Ecological Vision, 1984
- Fritjof Capra: Characteristics of Systems Thinking, 1985
- Big Sur Drums: Steve Genardini's Drummers, 1971
- Earl Ettienne: AIDS and Health, Integrity, and Life, 1983
- Richard Feynman: Quantum Mechanical View of Reality, 1983
- David Finkelstein: A New Quantum Logic, 1976
- Stanislav Grof: A New Paradigm for Psychotherapy, 1980
- Thomas Hanna: An Introduction to Somatic Exercises, 1987
- Willis Harman: Origin of the Psychedelic 1960, 1977
- Arthur Hastings: Transpersonal Realities, 1979
- John Heider: Living in the Tao, 1987
- Al Huang & David Darling: Dancing Cello, Dancing Tao, 1989
- Aldous Huxley: The Individual and History (MIT Cambridge), 1961
- Laura Huxley: Recipes for Living and Loving (Guided Imagery), 1963
- George Kohlrieter: Hostage Negotiation & Attachment Theory, 1986
- Jack Kornfield: The Simplicity of Spiritual Practice, 1982
- Janet Lederman: Early Childhood Experience (Gazebo), 1987
- John C. Lilly: The Dolphin Experience, 1969
- John & Toni Lilly: Integrating Science and Mysticism, 1981
- Abraham Maslow: Self-Actualization, 1966
- Terence McKenna: Hot Concepts and Melting Edges, 1994
- Joseph Chilton Pearce: (6) Journey to the Heart, 1990
- Terence McKenna: (4) Light at the End of History, 1994
- Terence McKenna: (4) Conversation at the Edge of Magic, 1994
- Terence McKenna: (4) Eros, Chaos, and Meaning's Edge, 1994
- Rupert Sheldrake: (4) Birth of Nature: Revival of Animism, 1990
- David Steindl-Rast-Rast: (6) Mysticism as a Frontier Experience, 1985
- David Steindl-Rast: (4) Enjoying Poetry, 1992
- Andrew Weil: (4) New Insights into Addiction, 1987
- Arthur M. Young: (4) The Reflexive Universe Interviews, 1983

Four-tape titles are $34:
- Angeles Arrien & Robert Bly: (6) Love in the Western World, 1984
- Gregory Bateson: (6) Steps to an Ecology of Mind, 1980
- John C. Lilly: (6) Ego, Self, and Essence, 1971
- John C. Lilly: (6) The East Coast Workshop, 1973
- Abraham Maslow: (6) The Eupychian Ethic, 1969
- Joseph Chilton Pearce: (6) Journey to the Heart, 1990
- Rupert Sheldrake: (6) Resonance and Presence of the Past, 1985
- David Steindl-Rast: (6) Approaches to Christian Mysticism, 1987
- Andrew Weil: (6) All You Wanted to Know About Drugs, 1993
- Robert Anton Wilson: (6) The "Coincidence" of Joyce, 1985
- Ruthy Alon: (6) Lessons in the Feldenkrais Method (Series 1 or II)
- Moshe Feldenkrais: (6) Awareness Through Movement Lessons (Series 1)
- Moshe Feldenkrais: (6) First Professional Training (Volume 1), 1972
- Terence McKenna: (8) Collected Talks: Series 1 (1982-83) or II (1983-86)
- Terence McKenna: (8) The Esalen Scholar-In-Residence Series, 1989
- Buckminster Fuller: (8) The Pajaro Dunes Tapes, 1977
- Terence McKenna: (8) True Hallucinations (A Talking Book), 1984
- Abraham/McKenna/Sheldrake: TRIALOGUES at the Edge, 1989-90
- Gregory Bateson: (12) Informal Esalen Lectures, 1975-1980 (Archives)

Please add $3.00 to your complete order for handling and mailing (add $3.00 more if you wish priority mail). Overseas orders add $1.00 per tape for mailing. California residents include 6 1/2% tax. Institutional purchase orders please add 20% to tape cost for invoicing and deferred payment. Allow 4 to 6 weeks for delivery (most orders are mailed within two weeks).

Please mail your order and your check payable to:
DOLPHIN TAPES, P.O. Box 71, Big Sur, CA 93920

Advertisement: Dolphin Tapes is a private company independent of Esalen.
Bonnie Bainbridge-Cohen, developer of Body Mind Centering®, is an innovator and leader in working with movement, touch, and the body-mind relationship. p. 12

Richard Balaban is a clinical psychologist in private practice in Bloomington, Indiana, who delights in leading groups. He affirms joyfulness and the creation of a sense of self and community. p. 42

James Baraz has taught vipassana (insight) meditation retreats since 1977. He is on the board of directors of Insight Meditation West and the Dharma Foundation. p. 18, 54

Michael Barnett is a practicing psychologist in Bowling Green, Kentucky, whose personal work emphasizes emotional expression and healing. p. 12

Leonard Bearse has a broad background in humanistic psychotherapy and has been a visiting teacher at Esalen. For the past seven years he has studied analytic approaches to therapy, the last two with Dr. Robert Stolorow. p. 45

Tom Bender is an architect, strategic planner, feng-shui practitioner, top award winner in the 1993 international Sustainable Communities Solutions competition, and former editor of RAIN magazine. p. 30

Brian Bergstrom is a structural bodywork practitioner and yoga instructor with over fifteen years' experience. He has a private practice in Palm Springs, CA. p. 19, 28, 46

Judith Blackstone is a counselor, meditation teacher, author, and dancer. She is the founder of The Subtle Self Work, a method of realizing the natural integration of the body, authentic self, and spiritual consciousness. p. 30

Elena Bonn practices psychoanalytic psychotherapy with adults and teenagers in Westlake Village, CA. She has trained with Dr. Robert Stolorow in intersubjectivity for four years. p. 45

Joan Boyensko is a medical scientist and psychologist. She is the author of Minding the Body, Minding the Mind; Fire in the Soul; and several other books. p. 17

Julie Bowden, pioneer in the children of alcoholics (COA) field, is cofounder of the National Association of COAs. She coauthored Recovery: A Guide for Adult COAs and Genesis: Spirituality in Recovery. p. 42, 43

Carolyn Bradock is a body-centered therapist and consultant in private practice in Lakewood, CO. She authored Body Voices: Using the Power of Breath, Sound, and Movement to Heal and Create New Boundaries. She trains professionals in Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder. p. 20, 33, 34

Heather Burch is an eclectic imagery therapist and trainer. She studied extensively with Dr. Ahldor Ahlen, originator of Image Therapy. In addition, she has a background in shamanism, hypnosis, and self-acceptance training. p. 44

Adam Burke is a research psychologist, acupuncturist, educator, and author. He is the director of Halcyon and offers trance-based trainings internationally. p. 15, 56

Lewis John Carlolo is a novelist, playwright, screenwriter, and director. He has taught playwriting at the University of Southern California, and screenwriting at Columbia University. p. 54

Seymour Carter, longtime gestalt teacher at Esalen and in Europe, combines studies in sensory awareness, Zen Buddhism, aikido, and other body-oriented practices. p. 19, 25, 62

Michell Cassou is the founder of an original approach to painting designed to stimulate and unblock creativity. She is director of the Painting Experience Studio in San Francisco. p. 14

Christopher Castle is a visual artist, iconographer, composer, and geomancer whose artwork is represented in the British Museum and National Galleries of Scotland and Wales. He was recently Artist-in-Residence at Esalen. p. 26

Chaparral Quartet is composed of veterans of many distinguished Los Angeles musical organizations, including the L.A. Chamber Orchestra and the Hollywood Bowl Orchestra. They perform and record regularly for motion pictures, television, and radio. p. 32

Carl Chase (C.C.) is a bodyworker who specializes in cross-fiber friction and deep tissue methods. He has also studied sports massage and soft-tissue manipulation. p. 19, 20, 43

Kenn Chase has taught traditional Yang style Tai Chi Ch'uan for 25 years. He has studied with several Tai Chi masters and has taught in Paris, Amsterdam, and London. He is the founder of MindBody Technologies, a corporate training company. p. 11, 62

Randy Cherney conducts a three-year apprenticeship training program for practitioners in the field of somatic education. He is founder of a somatic center in Corte Madera, California. p. 40

Stephen Cohen, gestalt practitioner and long-time golf teacher, is founder and President of The Shivas Irons Society, a non-profit organization dedicated to enhancing golf's beauties and virtues. p. 19, 46

Pamela Colorado is coordinator of the Worldwide Indigenous Science Network, which brings together indigenous people and scientists to renew ancient indigenous knowledge. She has a doctorate in social philosophy. p. 12

Carolyn Conger blends her clairvoyant gifts with conventional psychology, dreamwork, healing, and intuition, working internationally. A doctor of clinical psychology, she has done research in psychomimicry and human energy fields. p. 11

Emile Conrad-Da'oud is the founder of Continuum. Her innovative approach to movement has enhanced the creativity of artists in many fields and has led to new insights in the healing process. p. 38

Ann Weiser Cornell has taught focusing in eleven states and nine countries. She is the author of The Focusing Guide's Manual, and is past president of the Association for Humanistic Psychology. p. 52

Judith Cornell, artist and educator, has developed programs exploring the synthesis of art with other fields. Founder of Manifesting Inner Light, she has taught people worldwide to use art as a yoga for healing and transformation. p. 44, 63

Phil Cousineau is a filmmaker, lecturer, and adventure travel guide. He is the author of Soul: Readings from Socrates to Ray Charles and The Hero's Journey: Joseph Campbell on His Life and Work. p. 43

Stewart Cubley, author, and scientist, is cofounder with Michell Cassou of the Painting Experience Studio in San Francisco. p. 14

Dale Cummings, certified Radix® teacher and marriage and family counselor in West Los Angeles and Los Gatos, is director of training for the Radix® Institute. p. 18

Rabbi William Cutter is a rabbi and a professor of literature and education at Hebrew Union College in Los Angeles. p. 48
Lama Surya Das is a Buddhist scholar, poet, and translator of Tibetan texts. He is co-founder of the Dzogchen Foundation of America and author of The Snow Lion’s Turquoise Mane: 150 Wisdom Tales from Tibet. p. 43

Laura Day has been practicing intuitively for over a decade in the U.S. and Europe. She teaches intuitive skills for use in business and daily life. p. 16

Madeline de Joly is a contemporary multimedia artist and teacher who uses handmade paper as a core element. Her work is affiliated with major international galleries, museums, and corporate and private collections. p. 49

Laura DeNuccio, a certified Radius® practitioner, has 20 years of experience leading groups in Reichian bodywork, gestalt, movement, meditation, and vision work. Her current interest is swimming with wild dolphins in Hawaii. p. 24, 45

Jim Dodge has written three novels (Eup, Not Fade Away, Stone Junction), four books of poems, and numerous essays on ecology and bioregionalism. p. 24

Anita Eubank Donovan practices psychotherapy and spiritual healing in San Francisco. She is cofounder and advisory member of the Creative Arts Center at Esalen. p. 62

Patrick Douce, one of Moshe Feldenkrais’s first American students, has lived at Esalen since 1972. Since 1986 he has lived half of each year in Bali, developing programs with Indonesian Silat Martial-Arts-for-Schools. p. 21, 25, 37, 45, 62

Gideon Dreyer is a clinical psychologist from Cape Town and the Netherlands. He has taught at several universities and institutes. His main interest is ancient and modern initiation. p. 62

Charles Durrett is coauthor of CoHousing—A Contemporary Approach to Housing Ourselves. Through his architectural design and consulting firm, CoHousing Company, he is working to create co-housing communities in the U.S. p. 24

Ken Dychtwald is a psychologist, gerontologist, entrepreneur, and former Esalen resident. He has authored eight books, including Bodymind and Age Wave. p. 49

Warren Farrell author of Why Men Are The Way They Are and The Liberated Man, has been a pioneer in both the women’s and men’s movement, and has appeared on over 1,000 television and radio shows. p. 18

Patricia Fields, a licensed psychologist with eighteen years’ experience in facilitating spiritual development, is a skilled enterprising practitioner and teacher. p. 47

Jiri Firman, a psychotherapist in Palo Alto, trained in psychosynthesis with his founder Roberto Assagioli. He is an adjunct faculty member at the Institute of Transpersonal Psychology. p. 51

Corey Fischer, actor, writer, and teacher, has been creating and performing theater for over twenty years. He cofounded A Traveling Jewish Theatre, and teaches solo performing, ensemble creation, and storytelling. p. 40

Zoketsu Norman Fischer is a Zen priest, head teacher at Green Gulch Farm Zen Center, chairman of the Zen Hospice Project, and author of six volumes of poetry. He has written extensively on the integration of Buddhist practice in everyday life. p. 27

Helen Fisher, anthropologist, is author of Anatomy of Love: A Natural History of Mating, Marriage, and Why We Stray and The Sex Contract: The Evolution of Human Behavior. She hosted the four-part TV series “Anatomy of Love.” p. 41

Margot Silk Forrest is the editor of The Healing Woman, a newsletter for women survivors of childhood sexual abuse. An incest survivor herself, she is currently writing a book on successful case histories of EMDR. p. 21

Matthew Fox is the internationally known author of fifteen books. He holds master’s degrees in philosophy and theology and a doctorate in spirituality, and is the leading proponent of Creation Spirituality. p. 46

Bruce Kramer Frantzis has over thirty years’ experience in Oriental healing, meditation, and martial arts, including fifteen years’ study in Asia. He leads seminars in the U.S. and Europe. p. 43

Cynthia Gale, ceremonial artist and teacher of Mother Earth spirituality, is a former dean at Sarah Lawrence College and award-winning fiber artist who exhibits her art in galleries and museums throughout the U.S. p. 42

Sherry Sanders Galloway is an Esalen massage staff practitioner. She has been an R.N. and nursing instructor since 1974. She has a private practice working with survivors of childhood abuse and people with work, stress, and stress-related injuries. p. 36

Mariah Fenton Gladis, gestalt practitioner and trainer, founded and directed the Bucks County Institute for 12 years. She is director of the Pennsylvania Gestalt Center for Psychotherapy and Training. p. 30, 31

Herbert Gold has published over 20 books, including Bohemia; Best Nightmare on Earth: A Life in Haiti; Fathers, and Family. p. 36

Mary Goldenson (Devarani) is a clinical psychologist, coach, and certified Esalen® teacher in Los Angeles. She has a private practice specializing in relationship therapy and transitions. p. 16, 24, 37, 41, 47, 53

Harriet Gonsis is the originator of Cortical Reeducation®. She is a Feldenkrais® practitioner with a background in psychotherapy, applied kinesiology, craniosacral work, and social anthropology. p. 14, 50

Janet Greenwood is an M.E.C.C., a Registered Nurse, and Registered Art Therapist who specializes in couples therapy and relationship training. She produced the award-winning film, “The Gestalt Art Experience with Janie Rhyne.” p. 55

Bruce Gregory is a psychologist in private practice who specializes in mind/body healing and health psychology. He works with individuals and couples who are experiencing difficulties with leadership skills. p. 52

Pierre Grimes is a philosopher who founded the Noetic Society for the Study and Exploration of Platonic and Ne-Platonic Works. Author of The Art of Delivering False Beliefs, he has developed the art of philosophical midwifery. p. 31

Nick Hall directs the Division of Psychoneuroimmunology at the University of South Florida School of Medicine, and serves as a consultant to the National Institutes of Health. p. 29

Robert Hall, physician, psychiatrist, and teacher, has studied the mind-body process and meditation for 25 years. He is cofounder of the Lomi School and the Tomatis School of Psychotherapy. p. 17

Betsy Halpern, professor of education at Sonoma State University since 1968, has been teaching the Esalen Gazebo staff for over six years. Her focus is on the learning community formed by teachers and children and their families. p. 27

Anna Halprin founded the San Francisco Dancers’ Workshop and cofounded the Tamalpa Institute. She performs, teaches, and leads community events in Marin County and around the world. p. 35

Keith Harary is a research psychologist and counselor of eight books. He has twenty-five years’ experience in human potential research and is research director of the Institute for Advanced Psychology in San Francisco. p. 16

Kai Harper is a native Big Sur local and a student at Esalen’s Gazebo School. He has trained his parents for the last three years in the ways of innovative parenting and hitting methods. p. 26

Kim Harper is an Esalen staff member, mother, gardener, and lover of nature. She makes her home in Big Sur. p. 26

Steven Harper coordinates Esalen’s Wilderness Programs. He has led both traditional and experimental expeditions internationally for nearly 20 years. His work focuses on wild nature as a vehicle for awakening. p. 11, 17, 18, 22, 26, 38, 41, 46, 58

Susan Harper teaches Continuum Dance Meditation workshops in Los Angeles and San Francisco, leads Dance the River trips on wild rivers, and has presented at the Joy-Spangler Asilomar Conference. p. 18

Rachel Harris was in the 1968 Esalen Residential Program. She is a psychotherapist in private practice in Princeton, NJ, and a consultant for executives on leadership and interpersonal skill development. p. 51

Andrew Harvey, born and raised in South India and educated at Oxford, was the youngest ever professor of All Souls College. Scholar, educator, and author, his twenty-two books include novels, poems, and translations. p. 29

David Hawkins, a psychiatrist in private practice, has trained group therapists at Duke University and throughout the U.S. He is past president of the American Academy of Psychotherapists. p. 49

Robert Helm is a senior member of the Esalen massage/bodywork staff. p. 13, 45

Gay Hendricks has been a psychologist and body-centered therapist for twenty-five years. He is the author of Learning to Love Yourself, and the coauthor of Conscious Loving and At the Speed of Life. p. 18

Kathlyn Hendricks, a movement and body-centered therapist, trains mental health professionals internationally, and is coauthor of Conscious Loving and At the Speed of Life. p. 18

Elizabeth Herron specializes in women’s empowerment and gender reconciliation. She co-directs, with Aaran Kipnis, the Gender Relations Institute and is coauthor of Gender War, Gender Peace. p. 31

Joan Hertzberg, a psychologist in private practice, is on the clinical faculty of New College and the California Institute of Integral Studies. She trained extensively with Dick Olney in his transpersonal approach of Self-Acceptance Training. p. 29

Edward Hoffman is a licensed clinical psychologist in the New York City area and the author of seven books in the fields of Jewish mysticism, spirituality, and psychology, including, most recently, Visions of Innocence. p. 29

Maria Lucia Sauer Holloman has practiced spiritual healing in Brazil and the U.S. since 1982. She has been a resident student and teacher at Esalen and conducts trainings and seminars internationally. p. 41, 62

Jonathan Horan has been a professional actor for the past ten years. He is a certified massage practitioner and currently on the teaching faculty of the Moving Center. p. 29
Peggy Horan has been practicing and teaching massage at Esalen for 35 years. She is a student of childbirth, dance, and movement. p. 27

Derek Humphry, founder of the original Hemlock Society and current president of the Euthanasia Research & Guidance Organization (ERGO), has authored five books on dying, including the best-seller Final Exit. p. 30

Leigh Hyams is a painter/teaching-artist at UC Berkeley Extension and Attis in Greece whose work has been exhibited internationally. A Fulbright Scholar, she leads art tours for museums and universities. p. 34, 48

Anne Isaacs, a licensed clinical social worker, has been practicing body-psychotherapy in Los Angeles for 17 years. She trains professionals in Bodymancy, an advanced form of somatic developmental psychology. p. 32

Joel Isaacs has a Ph. D. in physics and is a body-psychotherapist practicing in Los Angeles for 18 years. He has trained professionals in Reichian approaches, and leads Bodymancy trainings with his wife Anne. p. 35

Julian Isaacs is a consciousness researcher, university professor, parapsychologist, and energy practitioner who uses higher energies, biofeedback, and psychotechnology to facilitate transformational process. p. 47

Anne Isaacs, a licensed clinical social worker, has been practicing body-psychotherapy in Los Angeles for 17 years. She trains professionals in Bodymancy, an advanced form of somatic developmental psychology. p. 32

Joel Isaacs has a Ph. D. in physics and is a body-psychotherapist practicing in Los Angeles for 18 years. He has trained professionals in Reichian approaches, and leads Bodymancy trainings with his wife Anne. p. 35

Julian Isaacs is a consciousness researcher, university professor, parapsychologist, and energy practitioner who uses higher energies, biofeedback, and psychotechnology to facilitate transformational process. p. 47

Eli Jaxon-Bear was a keynote speaker at the First International Enneagram Conference at Stanford in August, 1994. His most recent book is The Enneagram and Self-Realization. p. 34

Arthur Joseph is a teacher and professor of voice with over thirty years' experience. He is the creator of Vocal Awareness, a method that integrates mind/body/spirit through the vocal arts. p. 55

Norman Katz is a director of the Milton Erickson Institute of Hypnosis and the Behavioral Sciences of New Mexico. He teaches in Albuquerque and Santa Fe. p. 15, 56

Margaret Kemeny is trained in behavioral science and immunology. She conducts psychoneuroimmunologic research at the UCLA School of Medicine on individuals infected with the HIV virus. p. 47

Tim Kennedy is a molecular neurobiologist at UCSC working to characterize the development of the nervous system. Popular accounts of his work can be found in Discover, Nature, Science, and The New Times Science Times. p. 28

Aaron Kipnis is an international consultant on gender issues and male psychology. He is author of the critically acclaimed book Knights Without Armor and coauthor of Gender War, Gender Peace. p. 31

George Kohlrieser, a psychologist with an international practice, researches and applies attachment and separation theory to relationships, psychosomatic illness, violence prevention, and hostage negotiations. p. 33, 36

Howard Kornfeld is an addictionsologist, psychopharmacologist, and emergency physician. He has visited Esalen since 1977. He has worked to reduce the nuclear threat and to end capital punishment. p. 15

Michael Krasny, professor of English at San Francisco State University, is host and producer of the award-winning Northern California radio program "FORUM." He is also a prize-winning teacher, journalist, scholar, and fiction writer. p. 45

Bob Kriegel is a former Esalen resident, performance psychologist, and best-selling author whose books include Inner Skiing and If It Ain't Broke, Break It. He gives speeches and seminars to associations and corporations. p. 49

Susan Kuthner is a marketing and communications consultant, both in business and the healing arts. She assists her clients in becoming more effective, more powerful, more heartfelt, and more successful in their efforts. p. 23, 55

Dale Larson, associate professor and director of the Graduate Health Psychology Program at Santa Clara University, is a clinician, researcher, former Fulbright Scholar, international lecturer, and author of The Helper's Journey. p. 36

Sarah La Saulle is a counselor and teacher who specializes in healing blockages to self-love and creativity. She is in private practice in Santa Monica, CA. p. 24

Frank Lawlis, clinical health psychologist and researcher, is a professor at the Institute of Transpersonal Psychology. He has taught at four major medical schools and has a private practice in Santa Monica, CA. He works with children for the past nine years. p. 14, 45

Barbara Lee is a counselor who has worked with groups for the past nine years. She holds a certificate in Organization Development and Transformation from the California Institute of Integral Studies. p. 12

Lenore Lefer is a psychotherapist in San Francisco who teaches and leads professional training in psychosynthesis in the U.S. and Russia. She also facilitates retreats for women and for people with heart disease and cancer. p. 35, 62

Mel Lefer has been a research participant and teacher at Dr. Dean Ornish's Preventive Medicine Research Institute for nine years, and has shown reversal of his own heart disease without surgery. He has practiced and taught Integral Yoga for nine years. p. 32, 62

Marc Lehrer teaches clinical hypnosis and biofeedback internationally. He studied hypnosis with Milton Erickson and John Grindler, and resides in Santa Cruz, CA. p. 13, 55, 56

Dub Leigh, longtime bodywork practitioner, was trained and certified by his friends Ida Rolf, Moshe Feldenkrais, and Tanouye-roshi. p. 23, 24

George Leonard is the author of Mastery: The Silent Pulse; and The Transformation. He is a fourth-degree black belt in aikido and founder of Leonard Energy Training (LET). p. 15, 36, 53

Rick Lepore is a professional dancer and teacher and a graduate of Tanglewood Institute’s Expressive Arts Program. He has had extensive experience working with people challenging AIDS. p. 35

Michael Lerner, both a psychotherapist and philosopher, is editor of Tikkun: A Bimonthly Jewish Critique of Politics, Culture, and Society, a journal noted for its cutting-edge analyses of American culture and politics. p. 43

David Levenson is an internist whose medical practice is devoted to stress reduction, pain management, wellness, and the treatment of obesity. Co-founder of the Sequoia Hospital Stress Reduction Clinic, he is also a long-term mindfulness mediator. p. 35

Seymour Levine is a professor in the Department of Psychiatry at Stanford. His primary interests are developmental neuroendocrinology and the psychobiology of stress. p. 12

Master Share K. Lew, a youthful 76, is a healer and Taist practitioner from Wong Lung monastery in Southern China, with over half a century's experience teaching Taist health practices such as Chi Kung. p. 52

Elisa Lodge is an expressive arts therapist with an extensive background in the healing arts, movement education, and performance arts. p. 23

Ron Loeb is a corporate lawyer who focuses on corporate governance and responsibility. He is a member of The Jefferson Circle, a learning group for senior corporate executives drawn to the issues of individual and corporate renewal. p. 25

Jim Loehe, sport psychologist and pioneer in Mental Toughness Training, works in business and professional and amateur sports. He has authored a wide variety of books and training materials. p. 19

Linda Loomis works intersubjectivity to specialize in the treatment of physical, emotional, and sexual abuse, and the problems arising from alcoholism and post-traumatic stress. p. 45

Paul Lounsbery, a founding member of the New York Forum for Psychotherapy Cybernetics, studied hypnosis and psychotechnology with Milton Erickson. He is in private practice in New York and specializes in the innovative use of hypnosis. p. 38, 62

Francis Liu is associate clinical professor of psychiatry at the University of California, San Francisco, with interests in film and transpersonal psychology. p. 30

Olga Luchakova is a spiritual teacher with an extensive background in Christian mysticism, Advaista-Vedanta, Raja yoga, Buddhism and Slavic paganism. She is an adjunct professor at the California Institute of Integral Studies. p. 26, 45

Nancy Kaye Lunney, formerly a vocal coach and accompanist, is the originator of Singing Gestalt, which utilizes lyrics and songs as a means of self-expression. She is director of programming at Esalen. p. 21

Josette Luv mour, counselor and educator, has extensive experience in transpersonal and developmental psychology. She is co-author of Natural Learning Rhythms and Everybody Wins, and co-founder and director of the PathFinder Family Learning Center. p. 31

Sambhava Luv mour is a teacher, author, parent, and advisor to public and private schools. Cofounder and director of PathFinder Family Learning Center, she runs an apprenticeship program in holistic education and is co-innovator of many family learning opportunities. p. 31

Kathryn Lydecker, licensed marriage and family therapist, is a senior associate of the Lomi School. She is in private practice in Taos, New Mexico and Amarillo, Texas. p. 15

Joyce Lyke is a teacher in the Ridshaw Work School, which is dedicated to understanding the relationship between personality and being. She has been part of the Esalen Gestalt staff for many years. p. 23, 27

Sandra Maitri is a teacher of the Ridshaw Work School, home of the Diamond Approach. She has been involved in spiritual and psychological work for the last twenty-five years. p. 53

Helen Jerene Malcolm, artist, consultant, and teacher, works with a visionary consulting team designing long-range vision paintings for individual clients and Fortune 500 corporations. p. 13, 40

Sara Shelton Mann has twenty years of movement-based study and essential state disciplines as a background for integration work as transformative process. She is the director of Contraband, a San Francisco-based performance company and training school. p. 22

Noel Mapstead is a local fine artist and potter. He has studied and exhibited extensively in New York and is now at home with Big Sur crafts using traditional firing techniques. p. 16, 37

Dean Marson is a practitioner and instructor of Esalen massage who uses self-care techniques as a means of introducing people to the pleasure and potential of human touch. p. 39, 55

BEST COPY AVAILABLE
Ingrid May is a German-trained physical therapist currently with the Esalen massage staff. Her massage work integrates dance, movement, breath awareness, and meditation. p. 41, 54
Ivy Mayer is a dancer who was born and raised in Big Sur. She has led children's groups at Esalen for eight years. p. 28
Kathryn McCamant is coauthor of CoHousing — A Contemporary Approach to Housing Ourselves. She works through her design and consulting firm, The CoHousing Company, to bring co-housing communities to life in the U.S. p. 54
Jeff McKay is a college baseball coach and sport psychologist. Over the last thirty years, he has coached beginners and professionals from California to Russia. p. 37
Terence McKenna has spent twenty-five years studying the ontological foundations of shamanism and the ethnopharmacology of spiritual transformation. He is the author of True Hallucinations; The Archaic Revival, and Food of the Gods. p. 23
Deborah Anne Medow, Esalen workshop leader and bodywork practitioner since 1969, teaches ashtanga yoga, massage, creative movement, gestalt awareness, and related healing disciplines throughout the U.S. and Europe. p. 19, 20, 48
Joan Minninger is a teacher, writer, psychotherapist, and communications consultant with a private practice in San Francisco. She is the author of thirteen books, including The Father-Daughter Tribe of Big Sur. His life is an apprentice to the Earth. p. 49, 57, 58
Maria Nemeth, a clinical psychologist, has been leading seminars for twenty-four years emphasizing meaningful communication and the development of excellence with ease. p. 43
Paul Newham, director, composer, and writer, synthesizes elements of artistic practice with the principles of therapeutic inquiry in his work in contemporary art therapy. He is the author of The Singing Drum. p. 41
Wes "Scoop" Nisker is considered the dean of new radio journalism and is editor of Inquiring Mind, a journal of the Vipassana Buddhist community. He is the author of Crazy Wisdom. p. 55
Babatunde Olatunji, master percussionist from Nigeria, has performed internationally for over 30 years and is known for his album Drums of Passion. He is an authority on African religion. p. 24, 26, 28
Mary Ott has practiced vipassana meditation for ten years. Trained to teach by Jack Kornfield, she leads retreats throughout the U.S. p. 11
Kathleen O'Shaughnessy has an extensive background in Soto Zen, the major psychotherapies, movement therapy, nutritional healing, shamanic states, bodywork, and the practicalities of transpersonal crisis. p. 13, 55
Frank Ostaseski is founding director of the Zen Hospice Project. He has 16 years of Buddhist practice and has studied a variety of psychotherapeutic methods. He gives professional trainings on compassionate care of the dying. p. 22, 51
Arthur Munyer, a member of the Esalen massage crew since 1973, is a trigger point specialist and long-time bodywork practitioner trained by Dub Leigh, Fritz Smith, and Lauren Berry. p. 41
Michael Murphy founded Esalen Institute (with Richard Price) in 1962, and helped initiate Esalen's Soviet American Exchange Program. He is the author of Golf in the Kingdom, Jacob Arabet, and The Future of the Body. p. 23
Paula Murphy is a psychologist in private practice, workshop leader, and educator in Denver, CO. p. 34
Helen Palmer has, for the past 21 years directed CTTI, a training center that unites psychological work with the agendas of sacred tradition. She has authored The Enneagram and The Enneagram in Love and Work. p. 27, 29
Veda Palmer is a fourteen-year-old black belt in aikido and co-founder and teacher at Tamalpais Aikido Dojo in Mill Valley, CA. She is the author of The Intuitive Body. p. 41
Laurie Lionness Parizet blends traditional and innovative ways of healing, and works with the chakras and the energy body. She piloted the Healthspring Project, extending Esalen's work in the healing arts and sciences to the rest of the world. p. 20, 45
Larry Payne, an innovator in the field of yoga, is president of the International Association of Yoga Therapists, and featured in the video Healthy Back, Healthy Mind. p. 28
Karen Peoples has been on the doctoral psychology faculty of the California Institute of Integral Studies since 1983. Her workshops have focused on the awakening of the sacred in the body through the healing of trauma. p. 29
Ayala Pines is a couples' therapist and the author of Romantic Jealousy: The Shadow of Love and Keeping the Spark Alive: Preventing Burnout in Love and Marriage. She has coauthored Career Burnout and Experiencing Social Psychology. p. 38, 39
Jeanine Pollak is the founder of Botanic Adventures, a wilderness adventure-travel company. She teaches at the University of California, Santa Cruz, and throughout Northern California. p. 18
Dennis Portnoy, a licensed counselor, specializes in programs on burnout prevention and codependency in the workplace. He conducts trainings for organizations, medical groups, schools, and associations. p. 33
Christine Stewart Price is a teacher and ongoing student of gestalt practice and other approaches to developing awareness. p. 13, 35, 45
Elisabeth Pringle is a psychologist maintaining private practices in Leesburg and Ocala, Florida, while developing research with physicians and presenting workshops on the relationships between mind/body health, emotional attachments, and intimacy. p. 36
Carol Prouse-Edgar, former counseling psychologist at UCSC for 17 years, leads workshops on integrating shamanic methods and Native American teachings. She is a certified shamanic counselor and teacher for Michael Harner's Foundation for Shamans Studies. p. 39
Jill Purce is the author of The Mystic Spiral. She studied the mystical dimension of sound with Karlheinz Stockhausen and the magical use of voice and overtone chanting with Tibetan lamas. p. 41
Johanna Putoni has been teaching, performing, and studying the movement arts in the Bay Area since 1972. She is a senior teacher of Lomi Somatic Therapy and has a private practice in Menlo Park, CA. p. 15
R
Gustavo Rabin is a clinical psychologist who focuses on relationships, life's transitions, and spiritual creativity. He has a private practice in Los Angeles. p. 16, 24, 28
Lobsang Rapggya is a fully ordained Tibetan Buddhist monk, currently training as a clinical psychologist. He is a lecturer and consultant in depth psychology and Indo-Tibetan studies at Columbia University. p. 21
Stephan Rechtschaffen, founder/president of Omega Institute, is a psychologist concerned with holistic approaches to wellness and longevity. He uses concepts of time as the focus for developing optimal health. p. 15
Elayn Redmond is a writer, musician, and leader of the "Mob of Angels," a women's ritual drumming group. She performs and records internationally, and researches the visual history of goddesses, priestesses, and women playing the frame drum. p. 51
Tracey Rich has earned the title of "Yoga Asharya" and is the associate director of White Lotus Foundation. She trains teachers and students and leads seminars nationally. p. 12
Gabrielle Rico, professor of English, creative arts, and humanities at San Jose State University, lectures widely on the application of brain research to the creative process. She is the developer of the ground-breaking clustering process. p. 12
Jane Maria Robbins, a professional actress, teacher, and writer for twenty-five years, has acted in movies, television, and on Broadway. Her plays have been produced in New York, London, Copenhagen, and Spoleto. p. 50
Anita Roddick is founder and Chief Executive Officer of The Body Shop International, a company that incorporates transformational ideas, female thinking, love, and self-education into regular business practices. p. 25
Vimala Rodgers, graphotherapist and author, trains health professionals, psychotherapists, and persons committed to personal transformation. She is director of The Institute of Handwriting Studies. p. 49
William Roll is an internationally renowned parapsychologist who made his career studying apparitions, hauntings, and poltergeists. p. 22
Jack Rosenberg, a psychologist and director of the Rosenberg-Rand Institute of Integrative Body Psychotherapy in Venice, California, is the author of Body, Self, and Soul. p. 54, 57

Kathryn Roszak is a choreographer, dancer, and teacher who has worked with the San Francisco Ballet, San Francisco Opera, and American Conservatory Theater. She was Artist-in-Residence at Esalen in 1994, creating dances with ecological themes. p. 26

Gabrielle Roth is an artist, healer, and philosopher. She is the author of Maps to Ecstasy: Teachings of an Urban Shaman and is musical director of The Mirrors. p. 29

Laurie Schutz, longtime Esalen massage practitioner and teacher, incorporates varied approaches to allow for nurturing, balance, and integration of the body. She has led parent-infant workshops. p. 29

Will Schutz, founder of the Antioch holistic studies department, is the creator of The Human Element, a set of training materials for organizations. He is the author of Joy and Profound Simplicity. p. 13

Suzanne Scrobuck-Durana, a senior instructor for the Upledger Institute, teaches CranioSacral Therapy and SomatoEmotional Release nationwide. Her lifelong fascination with integrating the energetic, spiritual, and physical has led her to teach this as well. p. 16

Bill Sechrest, a past board member of Esalen, is vice-chairman (U.S.) of the World Business Academy and president of CDAC, a Dallas-based charitable corporation that focuses on neighborhoods, communities, and cities as organic systems. p. 25

Maggie Seeley is an organizational consultant to business (UNICEF, GE) as well as state and local governments (Utah Corrections Department, San Francisco Arts Commission). She teaches organizational change and ethics at the University of New Mexico. p. 34

Phyllis Shankman is a licensed counselor in Santa Monica who teaches at Ryokan College and is a group facilitator at AIDS Project Los Angeles. She has led workshops at Esalen for over 15 years. p. 46

Francine Shapiro, originator of EMDR, is a Senior Research Fellow at Mental Research Institute in Palo Alto, CA. She is the author of Eye Movement Desensitization and Reprocessing: Basic Principles, Protocols, and Procedures. p. 21

Rupert Shepard, best known for his hypothesis of morphic resonance, has studied, taught, and researched in biology at Cambridge, was a Knoll Fellow in philosophy at Harvard, and has worked at an international agricultural institute in India. p. 39

Fred Shoemaker, an inner game teacher, and golf professional, is founder of The School for Extraordinary Golf. He has taught seminars for the U.S. Canadian, and Japanese F.G.A.s, and often writes about the inner game. p. 59, 46

Julian Silverman, a former director and president of Esalen Institute, is a psychologist and educator. He has led group process and health care seminars throughout the U.S. and Europe. p. 47, 48

David Silverstein is a teacher in the Ridgely-White School, which is dedicated to understanding the relationship between personal and spiritual development. He is a longtime student of meditation. p. 27

Tobin Simon is cofounder of Preproceptive Writing and codirector of the Preproceptive Writing Center in Portland, Maine. He is formerly a professor of English and humanities. p. 52

Edward Smith, professor of psychology and Coordinator of Clinical Training at Georgia Southern University, has published five books, including The Body in Psychotherapy and Gestalt Voices. He has led workshops since 1971. p. 27

Fritz Smith is a physician, cranial osteopath, certified acupuncturist, and founder of Zero Balancing. He is the author of Inner Bridges: A Guide to Energy Movement and Body Structure. p. 32

Gerald Smith is a licensed psychologist in private practice in Belmont, CA. He has authored two books on relationships, Couple Therapy and Hidden Meanings, and has led workshops at Esalen for 28 years. p. 34

George Solomon, physician and professor of psychiatry at UCSF, is a pioneer in the field of psychoneuroimmunology. His current research concerns psychoneuroimmunologic aspects of AIDS and of aging. p. 47

John Soper is a gestalt counselor with a background in international business. He is deeply aware of the need to improve the environment. p. 63

Kathleen Riorian Speth grew up in the Gurdjieff Work and learned the tenets of personality from Claudio Naranjo in 1971. She is a psychologist, student of philosophy, and author of several books and articles, including The Gurdjieff Work. p. 39

Brother David Steindl-Rast, Benedictine monk, psychologist, and author, has lectured on five continents. He is concerned with the spiritual changes of our time. p. 30, 44, 43

Gail Stewart is a student and teacher of process-oriented bodywork. She teaches for the Tragar Institute and directs resource, a bodywork training program in Berkeley, CA. p. 13

Robert Stolorow is Training and Supervising Analyst at the Institute of Contemporary Psychoanalysis, Los Angeles, coauthor of six books, and author or coauthor of more than 120 articles on psychoanalysis and psychotherapy. p. 45

David Streeter, a certified sports massage practitioner on the Esalen massage staff, has taught yoga and anatomy and worked as an athletic trainer. Before joining the Esalen faculty, he lived as a Camaldolese monk. p. 50, 52

Sara Szpektor is a clinical psychologist in private practice in Buenos Aires, Argentina. Working with couples and groups, she combines gestalt practices, strategic counseling, and spiritual development. p. 28
John Upledger is an osteopathic physician recognized for his development of CranioSacral Therapy and Somato-Emotional Release. Author and alternative treatment innovator, he established the Upledger Institute, which has trained thousands of health care professionals. p. 51

Dan Wakefield is a novelist, journalist, and screenwriter whose books include Returning: A Spiritual Journey; The Story of Your Life: Writing a Spiritual Autobiography; and New York in the Fifties. p. 43

Steven Waldrip has been a senior instructor with the National Outdoor Leadership School. He is an associate with the Bay Area Counseling Alliance and is a student in the Ridhwan School. p. 59

Patti (Lawrence) White is a Cortical Reeducation® and Feldenkrais® practitioner who employs hypnotherapy, craniosacral, kinesiology, and Somato-Emotional Release® to harmonize body, mind, and spirit. p. 14, 50

Ellen Watson practices and teaches at Esalen where she has studied since 1984. Her bodywork style reflects her training in yoga, dance, Reichian and holotropic breathwork, hypnosis, and spiritual healing. p. 54

Judyth Weaver, Reichian-based psychologist and professor of somatic psychology, is a certified teacher of sensory awareness and T'ai Chi Ch'uan. Longtime student of Buddhism and Taoism, she has led workshops at Esalen since 1969. p. 36

Ganga White, internationally-known teacher and master of yoga, is author of Double Yoga and has received the titles "Yoga Acharya" and "Yogiraj" in India. p. 12

Nancy Winston is a counselor in New York City who has studied with Milton Erickson and has taught and trained clinicians in the use of hypnosis and counseling. p. 38, 62

Judyth Weaver, Reichian-based psychologist and professor of somatic psychology, is a certified teacher of sensory awareness and T'ai Chi Ch'uan. Longtime student of Buddhism and Taoism, she has led workshops at Esalen since 1969. p. 36

Scott Wirth is a San Francisco Jungian analyst/psychologist specializing in work with gay men. He coedited and contributed to Same Sex Love and the Path to Wholeness. p. 53

Ganga White, internationally-known teacher and master of yoga, is author of Double Yoga and has received the titles "Yoga Acharya" and "Yogiraj" in India. p. 12

Scott Wirth is a San Francisco Jungian analyst/psychologist specializing in work with gay men. He coedited and contributed to Same Sex Love and the Path to Wholeness. p. 53

Nina Wise is a performance artist who creates autobiographical and fictional pieces. Her multimedia works have been honored with seven Bay Area Critics Circle awards and numerous grants and fellowships. p. 33, 55

Jonathan Wolken is co-founder of Pilobolus Dance Theatre. p. 48

Anna Yeomans, a psychotherapist in Concord, Massachusetts, has used psychosynthesis as the central framework for her work for over twenty years. She has worked with women's groups in the U.S., Canada, Russia and Lithuania. p. 35
ESALEN INSTITUTE RESERVATION FORM

This form is for your convenience in reserving a space in Esalen workshops. If you wish to make reservations for more than one person, please photocopy this form so that each registrant has his/her own form, unless you are registering as a couple with the same address and phone number. A nonrefundable deposit for each person registering and each workshop applied for must accompany this form. (Please see Reservation Information, page 4, under Fees and Reservations, Making Contact with Us, and Cancellation and Refund Policy.)

Name of Registrant:
SEX: M ☐ F ☐ Couple ☐
Address:
City: State: Zip:
Home Phone: ( ) Work Phone: ( )

Please print

Check if you have previously been to Esalen and this is a new address.

Occasionally there are unexpected situations that require us to contact you immediately before your stay here. If you will not be at the above numbers during the two weeks prior to the workshop, where may we reach you?

Please mark your first and second choices for housing after referring to page 4 for accommodation descriptions and rates. Total cost includes workshop fees, lodging, and meals.

☐ Check for standard accommodations, if available.
☐ Check for bunk bed room, if available.
☐ Check for sleeping bag space, if available.
☐ Check if you wish to room as a couple.
Write here the name(s) of any person(s) with whom you wish to room.

All workshop reservations require a nonrefundable deposit. Balance is due at time of check-in. (See page 4.)

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Workshop Date</th>
<th>Leader's Name</th>
<th>Fee</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Workshop Deposits Enclosed:</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tax-deductible contribution to Esalen (Optional):</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>$5 Catalog Contribution (Optional):</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Total Amount Enclosed:

☐ Check here for $10 prepay discount (see page 5).
☐ Check here if this is your first visit to Esalen.
☐ Check here if you need directions to Esalen.
☐ Check here if you are a senior.

FOR OFFICE USE ONLY

DATE REC. | RES INITIALS | CIRCLE DEPOSIT | CC | CK | CA | SUS
---------|--------------|----------------|----|----|----|-----
DEPOSIT AMT. | RES. BK | CC AUTH. #
DATE TYPED | TYPED INITIALS | PP | SCHOL | LIMO | SENIOR

Passenger Van Service:
I want transportation from (check one):
☐ Monterey Greyhound Bus Stop at approximately 3:45 PM 1042 Del Monte Avenue (corner of Aquito)
☐ Monterey Airport at approximately 4:00 PM on
  (date of arrival, Fridays and Sundays only).

The $30 per person charge (subject to change) is payable on arrival at Esalen. If your plans for use of the passenger van service change after you have made your reservation, please notify us. The only departing van service from Esalen is on Fridays and Sundays at approximately 5:30 PM. Passenger van service is not available at any other time.

Other Notes:
All of our rooms are non-smoking. If you smoke, please plan to do so outside.

☐ We occasionally make our mailing list available to other organizations who have services, information, or events that might be of interest to our subscribers. Please check here if you prefer that your name be used for Esalen mailings only.
☐ Check here if you do not want your phone number given out for ride-sharing.

Please make checks payable to Esalen Institute, in U.S. currency only. (There will be a $15 fee for returned checks.) Overseas residents must pay by checks drawn on U.S. banks or with one of the charge cards below. Checks or credit card information must accompany the reservations form. Or, you may fax this form to us at 408-667-2724. If you do so, you must include payment via one of the credit cards below.

Your reservation can be charged to:
☐ MasterCard ☐ Visa ☐ American Express

Card No. Expiration Date

Authorizing Signature

Thank you for your reservation. As soon as it is processed you will receive by return mail a receipt for your deposit and a notice of confirmation. Please review your confirmation for accuracy.
Esalen Institute is a center to encourage work in the humanities and sciences that promotes human values and potentials. Its activities consist of public seminars, residential work-study programs, invitational conferences, research, and semi-autonomous projects.
The Esalen Catalog
September 1995–February 1996
Esalen Institute is a center to explore work in the humanities and sciences that promotes human values and potentials. The Institute exists to sponsor, encourage, and attempt evaluation of work in these areas, both inside and outside our own organizational framework. Esalen's activities consist of public seminars, residential work-study programs, invitational conferences, research, and semi-autonomous projects.

Since Esalen is a center for experimental education, we ask that persons come to our programs out of an educational interest. We do not offer "cures" or assurances of change. As a center to foster personal and social transformation, Esalen offers those who join us the chance to explore more deeply the world and themselves.

Welcome to Esalen.
Esalen was founded in 1962 as an educational center devoted to the exploration of unrealized human capacities. It became known for its blend of East/West philosophies, its experiential/didactic workshops, the steady influx of philosophers, psychologists, artists, and religious thinkers, and its breathtaking grounds blessed with natural hot springs. Once home to a Native American tribe known as the Esselen, Esalen is situated on 27 acres of spectacular Big Sur coastline with the Santa Lucia Mountains rising sharply behind.

There are various ways to experience Esalen, ranging from an overnight visit to a long-term stay as a seminarist. The weekend and five-day workshops described throughout the catalog are the standard route for coming to Esalen. The “Experiencing Esalen” workshops, scheduled periodically, offer an introduction to practices such as gestalt, massage, sensory awareness, and meditation. From such a sampling, participants can then choose those approaches they are most attracted to and pursue them in subsequent seminars.

Another way of being at Esalen which allows a greater involvement at a lower expense is the Work Study Program, an intensive twenty-eight day work-oriented program for individuals who want to make a directed, personal commitment to self-exploration and growth, and a contribution to the Esalen community. For a full description of the Work Study Program, please turn to page 62.

For those who wish an extended stay, there are periodic long-term programs which involve didactic seminars or professional trainings as well as experiential workshops. Please see Special Programs. Finally, there are other events that enrich life at Esalen. There are occasional forums in which writers and thinkers, both visiting and resident, share their ideas with the community. On Wednesday nights there may be lectures, films, dance performances, or other events. Bodywork of various kinds is available by appointment with individual practitioners. There is also a community event schedule offered. Please check the bulletin board when you arrive.

Esalen is a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on Coast Route 1. From the south, we are 50 miles north of San Simeon. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute, By Reservation Only.

Catalog Subscriptions
If you would like to receive the Esalen Catalog, please refer to page 2 for subscription rates and send your check or money order (U.S. currency) in the enclosed subscription envelope, or mail it to: Subscriptions, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920 (see Income Tax Regulation 1.162-5).

The Hot Springs at Esalen
We would like those people who are planning their first visit to Esalen to know that swimsuits are optional, and nudity common, in the hot springs, massage area, and swimming pool. We encourage each individual to choose what is most comfortable, either wearing a swimsuit or not, and emphasize that the environment we strive for at Esalen is one of personal sanctuary and respect for the human body.

Accreditation
Many formal educational institutions recognize the time spent at Esalen as being worthy of credit in their own curricula; check with your university or college for further information. We would be glad to supply information to your school regarding any of our programs or series of programs. Please submit a written request to the office supervisor.

Recommended Reading and Mail Order Books
Most books listed as recommended reading for workshops are available through Esalen’s bookstore. Other merchandise is also available. For ordering information please call 408-667-3049.

Ongoing Residence Program
Offered beginning mid-September and ending mid-June, the Ongoing Residence Program is designed for those who would like to have time and space in the Esalen environment for an intensive workshop program over a long term. A Residence Program stay is 26 days (four “weeks” and three weekends). Participants may select any of the five-day workshops offered during their stay with weekends free to enjoy room and board. Occasionally workshops are cancelled, so second choices are advised.

If you are disabled and would like to plan a visit to Esalen or participate in a workshop, please give the office as much advance notice as possible. While disabled access to some parts of the property is difficult, with enough planning, arrangements can be made for access to most of our facilities.
RESERVATION INFORMATION

Making Contact with Us

Mail or Fax: The most efficient way to register for a workshop at Esalen is to fax or mail your reservation. If you fax your reservation, be sure to include accurate credit card information.

Esalen’s Fax: 408-667-2724.
(Our fax line is exclusively for reservations—no personal correspondence, please).

Phone: If you prefer to make your reservation by phone, please be prepared with your completed reservation form and your credit card. We know that all calls to Esalen are long distance and will try to be as efficient as possible.

General Information:
408-667-3000

Express Reservations:
408-644-8477
(This is only for those who have previously taken a workshop at Esalen and know the workshop, date, and leader of the workshop for which they are registering.)

All Other Reservations:
408-667-3005

Catalog Requests: 408-644-8476

Phone Reservation Hours:*
Mon., Tues., Thur.: 10 AM to 7 PM
Wednesday: 10 AM to 12 NOON
Friday: 10 AM to 5 PM
Saturday: 10 AM to 3 PM
Sunday: 12 NOON to 5 PM

*The reservation office is closed on Christmas and New Year’s Day.

Fees

Fees and Reservations: Preregistration, by fax, mail, or phone, is required prior to arrival. A registration form is provided on page 71. Since workshops fill quickly, it is advisable to sign up as early as possible. In order to reserve a space in any workshop, we require full payment or the following deposits:

Weekend: $150 19 to 21 days: $450
5 to 7 days: $250 More than 21 days:
12 to 14 days: $350 $600

Room and Board

Occasionally, when beds aren’t needed for seminarians, room and board is available. This gives visitors the opportunity to enjoy the grounds, the baths, and massage without participating in a workshop. Accommodations are standard (2 or 3 per room) or bunk bed (4 or more per room). Not all rooms have private baths. Room and board rates include dinner on the day of arrival and breakfast and lunch on the following day. We require full payment at the time of reservation. This payment is nonrefundable and nontransferable.

Note: Room and Board reservations must be made by phone, not by fax machine.

For a room and board stay between Sunday and Thursday, please call us no earlier than the Thursday before for room availability. For a Friday or Saturday night stay, please call no earlier than the Sunday before. The following rates are per person, per day:*

Weekend (Friday and Saturday nights)  Weekday (Sunday through Thursday nights)  (Two or more weekdays)

Standard Accommodations (2 or 3 per room):

$125 $105 $90

Bunk Bed (4 or more per room):

$85 $80 $70

*Off-season rates are in effect from October 1 through March 31, holidays excepted.

Cancellation Policy

Cancellation and Refund Policy: If you cancel or change any part of your reservation at least five full days before the start of your workshop, your nonrefundable deposit, less a $30 processing fee, will be transferred to a credit account to be used within one year. If you cancel with less than five days’ notice, you forfeit your entire deposit. If you have prepaid your entire reservation fee, we will retain the deposit, as above, less the $30 processing fee, and return the balance to you.

(Please note: Wilderness Programs has a different cancellation and refund policy.)

If you have applied for a scholarship and we are unable to give you any assistance, we will, at your request, refund your deposit in full if you cancel your reservation at least five full days prior to the start of your workshop.

Deposit to guarantee your room is due on arrival. (Please see page 5 for information on discounts and reduced rate options.)

Please indicate your second choice for a workshop in case your first choice is cancelled and we are unable to reach you.

Esalen Institute reserves the right to cancel any program at any time.

Workshop Accommodations

Please Note: Workshop fees cover tuition, food, and lodging.

Standard Accommodations: This is shared housing with two or three persons per room. In some cases, bathrooms are shared. Couples will always be housed together. The rates listed with the workshop descriptions throughout the catalog refer to these shared standard accommodations.

7-Day Rate, 5-Day Rate, 3-Day Rate* per person, per person, per person
$1110 $740 $380

Bunk Bed Rooms: Bunk beds are available for seminar participants who are willing to share a room with three or more persons. There are a limited number of these spaces, which are reserved on a first-come, first-served basis.

$845 $550 $300

Sleeping Bags: Sleeping bag space may be available for workshop participants. Please inquire when you make your reservations.

$570 $375 $200

Own Accommodations: If you are staying off the property the following rates apply:

$660 $425 $235

Camping on the grounds, either in tents or campers, is prohibited. We do not have parking space to accommodate RVs.

We would like to remind you that scholarship assistance is available; refer to “Scholarship Information” as well as “Reduced Rate Options and Discounts” for other economical ways of staying at Esalen.

Deposits are payable in U.S. currency only. Overseas residents must pay by checks drawn on U.S. banks or use a credit card. Balance of payment is due on arrival. (Please see page 5 for information on discounts and reduced rate options.)

Please indicate your second choice for a workshop in case your first choice is cancelled and we are unable to reach you.

Esalen Institute reserves the right to cancel any program at any time.

Cancellation and Refund Policy:

Cancellation and Refund Policy: If you cancel or change any part of your reservation at least five full days before the start of your workshop, your nonrefundable deposit, less a $30 processing fee, will be transferred to a credit account to be used within one year. If you cancel with less than five days’ notice, you forfeit your entire deposit. If you have prepaid your entire reservation fee, we will retain the deposit, as above, less the $30 processing fee, and return the balance to you.

( Please note: Wilderness Programs has a different cancellation and refund policy.)

If you have applied for a scholarship and we are unable to give you any assistance, we will, at your request, refund your deposit in full if you cancel your reservation at least five full days prior to the start of your workshop.

Room and Board

Occasionally, when beds aren’t needed for seminarians, room and board is available. This gives visitors the opportunity to enjoy the grounds, the baths, and massage without participating in a workshop. Accommodations are standard (2 or 3 per room) or bunk bed (4 or more per room). Not all rooms have private baths. Room and board rates include dinner on the day of arrival and breakfast and lunch on the following day. We require full payment at the time of reservation. This payment is nonrefundable and nontransferable.

Note: Room and Board reservations must be made by phone, not by fax machine.

For a room and board stay between Sunday and Thursday, please call us no earlier than the Thursday before for room availability. For a Friday or Saturday night stay, please call no earlier than the Sunday before. The following rates are per person, per day:*

Weekend (Friday and Saturday nights)  Weekday (Sunday through Thursday nights)  (Two or more weekdays)

Standard Accommodations (2 or 3 per room):

$125 $105 $90

Bunk Bed (4 or more per room):

$85 $80 $70

*Off-season rates are in effect from October 1 through March 31, holidays excepted.

Cancellation Policy

Cancellation and Refund Policy: If you cancel or change any part of your reservation at least five full days before the start of your workshop, your nonrefundable deposit, less a $30 processing fee, will be transferred to a credit account to be used within one year. If you cancel with less than five days’ notice, you forfeit your entire deposit. If you have prepaid your entire reservation fee, we will retain the deposit, as above, less the $30 processing fee, and return the balance to you.

( Please note: Wilderness Programs has a different cancellation and refund policy.)

If you have applied for a scholarship and we are unable to give you any assistance, we will, at your request, refund your deposit in full if you cancel your reservation at least five full days prior to the start of your workshop.
Scholarship Information
Esalen is able to provide some scholarship assistance to workshop participants in exchange for a work commitment (usually in the kitchen). Approved scholarship recipients must contact the labor pool supervisor soon after arrival at Esalen.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Assistance</th>
<th>Work</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Weekend</td>
<td>$ 50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5-9 days</td>
<td>$100</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12-14 days</td>
<td>$200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>14+ days</td>
<td>$300</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

If additional scholarship assistance is required, please send a letter of explanation to Justin Garrett at Esalen. Due to the number of requests we receive, we can only provide one scholarship per person per year, and only in cases of financial hardship.

Reduced Rate Options and Discounts
If you pay in full at the time you make your reservation, you will receive a $10 prepayment discount per workshop and be eligible for express check-in upon arrival. This discount does not apply to scholarship recipients or sleeping bag accommodations.

Senior Citizen Discount: Esalen offers a special discount to individuals over 60 years of age. The discount for a weekend workshop is $25; for a five-day or longer workshop, it’s $50. Please request this discount at the time of registration. When you complete the reservation form on page 71, please indicate the discounts for which you qualify. If you qualify, and you make your reservation by phone, be sure to ask for this discount. (Please note: Senior discounts are not available for the Work Study Program.)

Accommodations for Families: Two full-paying adults housed in standard accommodations may have their children in the room for a meal charge of $19 per child per day ($9 for children under six). Note: If children are enrolled in Gazebo School Park or an Esalen workshop, additional fees are required. Contact the Gazebo, 408-667-3026, for information regarding their fees.

Workshops for Families: Participating families will pay full workshop rates for the first two participants (adult or child). Each additional participant will pay the following rate:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>2-day workshop</th>
<th>3-day</th>
<th>4-day</th>
<th>5-day</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>$115</td>
<td>$165</td>
<td>$210</td>
<td>$245</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Additional sleeping mats and bedding will be provided for each room.

The Gazebo School Park Early Childhood Program
The Gazebo School Park is a unique educational experience for children one to six years. It is open year-round and has an average of 15 to 20 children in attendance each day.

The Early Childhood Program is available to seminarians who would like child care at Esalen. Child care is provided during workshop hours only. Daytime activities for the children include gardening, pony rides, learning about animal care, exploring nature, a real boat, the magic castle, and an Indian tepee.

Evenings are spent with a teacher in the Gazebo Farmhouse, engaged in activities that are age appropriate, such as reading, learning and playing with the computer, baking, arts and crafts, or building-block play.

Reservations should be made at least a month in advance. Call the Gazebo Farmhouse, 408-667-3026, for more information and reservations.

F. Y. I.

Health Services: There are no medical services or pharmaceutical supplies available at Esalen. If you will require medical attention or supplies during your stay, please come prepared to administer to your own needs. Esalen is 45 miles from the nearest medical facility or pharmacy.

For Your Safety: Please bring a flashlight for use at night while walking on the grounds.

Illegal Drugs: In accordance with state and federal laws, the possession or use of illegal drugs on Esalen grounds is strictly prohibited.

Lost and Found: To inquire about items left behind from your Esalen visit, call 408-667-3019.

Guests: Seminarians are not allowed guests on the property during their stay.

Pets: No pets are allowed on the property.

Smoking: Smoking is not permitted in any of our accommodations or meeting rooms.

Transportation to Esalen
Van Service: On Fridays and Sundays we have van service from the Monterey Greyhound stop leaving at approximately 3:45 p.m. and from the Monterey Airport at approximately 4 p.m. If you plan to use this service, please inform the Esalen office at least 24 hours prior to your arrival. The $30 one-way fee (subject to change) is payable to the Esalen office when you check in. Return reservations may be made at that time. The only departing van service from Esalen is on Fridays and Sundays at approximately 5:30 p.m.

Checking In
Check-in and Meals: Rooms become available at 4 p.m.; however, guests are welcome to arrive anytime after 2 p.m. Weekend programs begin with dinner on Friday and end with brunch on Sunday. Five-day and longer programs begin with dinner on Friday or Sunday and end with lunch on Friday or Sunday. Check-out time is noon on departure day.
The Search for Home

SHARON THOM

Across the field from my childhood home in Playa del Rey, jackrabbits leapt silhouetted against the bright smog-enhanced sunset, accompanied every few minutes by the shimmering silver image of a jet easing to earth. We lived about a half-mile from the Los Angeles International Airport, and the location of our neighborhood led to its demise in 1971, when it was judged unlivable by the local authorities. It was not a matter of the neighborhood "going downhill" but the complete demolition of a sprawling suburb where children once played hide-and-go-seek in the street, ran barefoot, and could walk to the ice cream store unaccompanied. No one lives there anymore. There are no houses to live in.

Two years ago I returned to the area with my son and rummaged among the dirt and weeds, looking for some sign of the old house. At last I discovered a small piece of rose cinder block that was a fragment of the tall pink wall framing our backyard, and carried it off in my fist. Back in the car, my son Austin, then five years old, asked with great seriousness, "Mama, why did you have to go visit your environment?"

I still ask myself that question. Despite the fact that there is no house and no neighborhood to return to, I feel compelled to drive the perimeters of the emptiness every few years. As I meander through Playa del Rey, each of the familiar street signs tugs on the emotional net in which I am caught, unable to return to the home of my youth, and incapable of leaving it behind.

A sense of home begins with the confines and liberties of childhood. At a certain point in one's early youth there is a moment of awakening, of individuation, in which one sees oneself as a unique element in the swarm of familiar objects and people that make up home. In that moment, we discover our separateness (this is long before the equally profound realization later in life that we are not separate but One), and that the inside and outside of our own being is endlessly repeated in the world, dividing our family from the neighbors' families, our street from other streets, and on into infinity. We discover a reliable pattern of existence, and long for greater understanding of how all things are connected and divided by their boundaries.

And then we further discover that the rules of separateness are arbitrary and shifting, often at the whim of others. My mother used to lament, "Can't I have just one room to myself?" when we were caught bouncing on her bed. But she'd repeat her complaint when we made a mess in the living room, or used her bathroom. My elder sister said that when we were very young, our mother would banish us to the backyard, and sit at the kitchen table to have a cup of coffee in peace, ignoring our pleas for attention. I can see her at the table, imagine her despair as she struggles to establish an inside that isn't perpetually battered by the outside, and with compassion I recognize her disappointment that one doesn't always get a room of one's own, and even when one does, it may not be enough.

Our concept of home as a place of safety, whether or not it truly was safe for us, develops early in childhood and is ingrained into our language. The home base of our games is the one spot where we are free from harm; home room is a resting place between the pressure of classes; and a home run is the one hit that speaks of completion and wholeness. As revealed by our clichés—"home is where the heart is"—home exists as an idealized island of belonging and safety. Home is a place with doors to which there are keys, a place of shared meals and shared dreams.

Home is also a place where real people live, where family members collide at the dinner table and bathroom sink, where the walls which provide shelter sometimes press too close. With mixed feelings, we look back at our own childhood, at our youthful misdemeanors against our parents as we struggled to find our own integrity. As an arena for rebellion, truly "there's no place like home."

This ambivalence we feel toward home embraces both the difficult memories and our idealism. Some days we are acutely aware of the transcendent nature of our yearning for a deep sense of belonging. Perhaps the German mystic Novalis described it best: "Always homeward, to our eternal source." On other days the search for home may take more mundane forms, such as house-hunting, a frustrating and yet important part of the whole. The gestalt of creating home necessarily involves... bringing the outside and the inside into harmony, for home is experienced both as locality and a state of being. It encompasses the rooms into which one settles, and the feeling of belonging to these rooms. When we are at home we are most ourselves, and we may rest—for a short time, even our ambivalence and longings may rest. It is to this reassuring moment of quiet we have to look forward on our search for home. Nothing less than the deep restfulness of home will do: it is the burden of our search, and the meaning of the journey.

In its larger context, the search for home extends beyond personal histories and psychologies into our greater relation to God (mysticism), the earth (ecological perception), and one another (community). In mysticism, the home one seeks is the "eternal source," achieved perhaps by what Brother Lawrence called "practice in the presence of God." Ecological perception is quite simply the awakening to one’s participation in the natural order; it inevitably brings one to the conclusion that we will never be at home on earth if the earth is not at home with us. Community can be defined as a gathering of people with shared values, to which one belongs and makes a contribution. All three areas—mysticism, ecology, and community—elevate our sense of aliveness. Each evokes home as a state of being, a perception of belonging, and is also linked to the experience of home as locality. For this reason, it is not surprising that the issue of home is prominent at Esalen, for longtime staff and first-time guests alike.

Esalen is named after the native people who once dwelled on these cliffs, who bathed in the hot springs and enjoyed the view we now enjoy. Many people who come here, and especially those who stay here, feel intensely close to the land. The grounds are exhilarating, 156 acres of gardens, hot springs, canyons, mountains, and trees along a two-mile stretch of Pacific Ocean. On a sunny day the sky is an achingly bright blue, and on a clear night one feels dizzy taking in the expanse of stars. Even bad weather is wonderful: in the middle of an intense storm, with the electricity out, phones down, and trees toppling over at random, one experiences another kind of exhilaration, a sizzling sense of being in the middle of something natural and massive, something shared by all those who live and visit here.

Many people return here, not only because of the beautiful location but because this is where they have experienced a sense of belonging, acceptance, forgiveness—being a part of something larger than oneself, where the values of psychological and spiritual transformation are articulated and practiced. Workshops are usually small and intimate, and for many participants the group becomes an immediate community, however short-lived. Coming to Esalen can feel like coming home, being part of an extended family. It is genuinely a "home away from home" for many people.

And, like the rest of life, Esalen is what you make of it. It's a place where you can confront your past, take emotional risks, accept responsibility for wrongdoing and grow beyond guilt, and make enormous creative leaps. It's also a place where you can get stuck, become savvy in the art of psychological maneuvering, and nurture your fear of change. What one experiences at Esalen, and the knowledge and skills one takes away from one's time here, is within the command of the individual. It is easy to idealize Esalen and then become disillusioned with its failings because it is a place of ideals: Esalen nourishes the concept of a higher self without providing a blueprint of precisely what our higher human potential should look like. That in itself may be considered a failing. We see it as a freedom.

Can one find home in Esalen? In some ways, the effort may be like trying to find permanence in the middle of a whirlwind. They say there is quiet in the eye of the storm, but at Esalen one finds the third eye of the storm, and this is not calming. Some of the workshops are emotionally challenging, moving swiftly and deeply into issues of the heart. One does not escape problems and upheavals here, because these bubble up from human nature, and of all the things one cannot escape at Esalen, it is human nature. And so, although we can't provide sanctuary to our guests or staff, the community one finds here may extend an emotional safety net that facilitates accelerated work. Not infrequently, guests will say, "Esalen has saved my life." Or as one health caregiver told me recently, "Esalen gave me back my tears." He had come to a workshop prepared to confront his grief, and was surprised to find that releasing grief may also release joy. And this is what we expect from home: not a simple belonging that is scoured of meaning, but a feeling that our roots will hold onto us gently, even when we are incapable of holding on to ourselves.

The challenge then, is to create an inside that survives the battering of the outside, an inner sense of home, belonging, and self-esteem. One cannot be guaranteed a room of one's own, nor can Esalen or any other place make assurances that the room into which one settles will ever be enough. And yet the promise of home is very real and close to heart. Not only close to heart, but awaiting within one's heart, and with a genuine and full sense of belonging comes a radiance, a confidence, which allows one to offer the hospitality of home to others.

"Without it (self-respect), one eventually discovers the final turn of the screw: one runs away to find oneself, and finds no one at home."

—JOAN DIDION, "On Self-Respect," Slouching Toward Bethlehem

Sharon Thom is President and CEO of Esalen Institute.
Scheduling Private Conferences at Esalen

It is possible to arrange for your group or organization to hold its conferences at Esalen. We can accommodate large groups (up to 100) on a space-available basis.

Smaller groups may schedule private conferences in our renovated Big House. This facility is available for individuals who work together and would like to design their own Esalen program, drawing on our leaders and other resources. Ten bedrooms, nine bathrooms, a kitchen, dining room, and living room make it possible to house group members together, thereby enhancing the retreat environment.

We schedule all conferences a year in advance. To schedule or discuss possible formats, please contact conference coordinator Pat Lewine at 408-667-3038.

Frederic Spiegelberg (1897-1994)

Esalen lost a friend, teacher, and vital seminal figure when Frederic Spiegelberg died last November at the age of 97. Spiegelberg was professor emeritus of Indian civilization and a pioneer in comparative religious studies at Stanford, where two of his students were Michael Murphy and Dick Price, Esalen's cofounders. In their efforts to make Esalen a reality, Murphy and Price sought Spiegelberg's advice and support, and he was instrumental in attracting many of the trailblazing thinkers who made their way to Esalen during its formative years. Murphy described Spiegelberg as "the greatest lecturer I ever heard."

The Esalen Catalog on the Internet

Starting in the fall of 1995, the current Esalen Catalog will be accessible via the Internet. Our World Wide Web site is under construction, and when completed will offer updated workshop availability and other information about Esalen in a new interactive format. The URL is http://www.esalen.org.

The Esalen Catalog (1962-1992) Available via the Educational Resources Information Center (ERIC)

Anyone interested in The Esalen Catalog as human potential movement historical source material for research purposes can now obtain the complete thirty-one-year set from ERIC's document delivery arm, theERIC Document Reproduction Service (EDRS, 7420 Fullerton Road, Suite 110, Springfield, Virginia 22153-2852; 1-800-443-3742). When ordering either microfiche or reproduced paper copy, please refer to the catalog's ERIC accession number ED 347 118.

THE FRIENDS OF ESALEN

The Friends of Esalen program supports the scholarship fund which provides financial aid to people who want to attend our workshops but cannot otherwise afford them. In addition to knowing that you have given someone else the opportunity to experience Esalen and are supporting our ongoing work, you will receive for one year the Esalen Catalog, the quarterly Friends Newsletter, and the annual Friends Directory.

If you join as a Supporting Member or above, you will receive an autographed copy of Michael Murphy's book The Future of the Body. At the Sustaining Member level, you will also be mentioned in our newsletter, unless you wish to remain anonymous. As a Benefactor, you will, in addition to the above, receive a special gift.

The Group 2000 is made up of individuals who are committed to helping Esalen have the long-term financial capability to fulfill its vision into the year 2000. The members meet together and with staff members at Esalen two weekends each year, in June and December. As a member of the Founders Circle, you will be able to meet individually with our CEO.

We invite you to join us in extending Esalen into the lives of other people.
This is a guide to the workshops offered in this catalog. Although many of them could be cross-referenced — and some resist easy categorization — most are listed only in their main subject area. We recommend that you read the workshop description before deciding to register. If you have never been to Esalen or taken an Esalen workshop, you might want to consider the “Experiencing Esalen” workshop scheduled throughout the catalog and listed in the Integral Practices section of this directory. Please call the Esalen office if you have questions concerning a workshop.

The Arts / Creativity

September 1-3 • The Healing Voice
September 3-8 • The Writer’s Way: A Personal Adventure Through Writing
September 8-10 • Creating From Spirit
September 10-15 • Drawing the Mystic Light of Nature
September 15-17 • Jewish Humor
September 17-22 • Biodrama
September 24-29 • Reawakening the Artist Within September 29-October 1 • Drawing With Color
October 1-6 • Pilobolus Technique: Choreographic Creation
October 1-6 • Fibers of Infinity: Adventures in Handmade Paper
October 6-8 • Self-Transformation: The Art of the Actor for Everyday Life
October 13-15 • When Drummers Were Women
October 15-20 • Proprioceptive Writing: Demystifying the Creative Process
October 20-22 • Writing and the Act of Creation
October 22-27 • Esalen Arts Festival
October 27-29 • The Art and Craft of Screenplay
October 27-29 • Horror and the Holy: Wisdom-Teachings of the Monster Tale
October 29-November 3 • Life as Art — Art as Life
October 29-November 3 • Vocal Awareness: Empowerment Through Voice
November 12-17 • Instant Dreams: The Polaroid Transfer
November 17-19 • Action Theater: The Improvisation of Presence
November 19-24 • Expressive Painting
December 1-3 • A Workshop for Poets
December 1-3 • Improvisational Wisdom: Finding the Robin Williams Within December 3-8 • Writing Through Loss
December 3-8 • The MAX: Stretching the Limits of Your Self-Expression
December 8-10 • The Artist’s Way: The Vein of Gold
December 17-22 • True Stories: Autobiographic Storytelling
December 22-24 • Freeing the Poetic Imagination
December 24-29 • Painting the Soulscapes
December 24-29 • Play, Spontaneity, and Performance Art
December 29-31 • Music for Everyone: Finding Your Long-Lost Musician
December 31-January 5 • Tao Mentoring in Music and Tai Ji Dance
January 7-12 • Body Poetry East and West
January 7-12 • Vision Painting
January 28-February 2 • The Healing Power of Theater
February 4-9 • Writing About Our Lives: A Workshop for Women
February 4-9 • The Art and Dance of Transformation
February 11-16 • Reawakening the Artist Within
February 23-25 • Singing Gestalt
February 25-March 1 • Language of the Drums: African Percussion, Chanting, and Dance

Biofeedback / Hypnosis / Intuitive Development

October 20-22 • Awakened Mind II: Advanced Brainwave Training and Transcendent States
December 24-29 • Intuition, Perception, and Altered States of Consciousness
February 25-March 1 • Awakened Mind: Five-Day Brainwave Training Intensive

Business / Workplace / Social Responsibility

September 22-24 • A Weekend with Matthew Fox
October 6-8 • Building a Successful Career as a Writer, Public Speaker, and Consultant
October 6-8 • Building in a Sacred Way
October 15-20 • The Future of Leadership: Integrating Creativity, Value, and Accountability
October 27-29 • CoHousing: Creating Your Own Community
November 10-12 • Money: Myths, Lies, and Financial Independence
December 1-3 • All Our Relations: Shamanism and Ecopsychology
December 15-17 • Energy, Resources, Environment, Development, and Security
December 17-22 • Green Buildings with Magical Spaces
January 7-12 • Conservative, Liberal, Self-Concept: A New Synthesis
January 21-26 • Consensus
January 26-28 • When Success is Not Enough
February 2-4 • The Art of Leadership: Communication, Creativity, Vision

Children / Families / Education

January 5-7 • Giftedness: The Wonder and the Anguish
January 12-14 • The Path of Parenting: A Spiritual Approach
February 2-4 • Fathers & Sons & Mothers & Daughters
February 25-March 1 • Birth Experience: A Pathway to Life

Contemplative / Spiritual & Religious Studies

September 1-3 • The Healing Voice
September 3-8 • Nature and Contemplation
September 8-10 • Soul and Spirit
September 10-15 • Dzogchen: Awakening the Buddha Within
September 15-17 • The Meditation Hall and Everyday Life
September 17-22 • Zen Teachings of Mountains, Rivers, and the Great Earth
September 22-24 • A Weekend with Matthew Fox
September 24-29 • A Course in Miracles
September 29-October 1 • Return, Remember, Renew: The Jewish New Year
October 6-8 • Toward Waking Up: Cultivating Mindfulness
October 8-13: The Subtle Art of Meditation
October 27-29 • Introduction to Mindfulness Meditation
November 17-19 • Angels
November 24-26 • Ramakrishna Today
December 22-24 • Zen Practice
December 31-January 5 • The Subtle Art of Meditation
January 5-7 • Attention! Attention! Attention!
January 12-14 • The Living Core of Biblical Spirituality
January 21-26 • The Heartful Path to Mind Power: Geometrizing Mind Space
January 26-28 • Working with Obstacles and Difficulties
January 28-February 2 • Coming Home to the Soul
February 9-11 • Introduction to Mindfulness Meditation
February 11-16 • Soul as Living Presence: The Diamond Approach
February 18-23 • Dzogchen: Awakening the Buddha Within
February 23-28 • Two Events with Claudio Naranjo

HEALTH / HEALING

September 3-8 • Spiritual Healing: Laying-on-of-Hands
September 8-10 • Chi Gung: Opening the Energy Gates of Your Body
September 15-17 • Transpersonal Medicine
October 1-6 • Consciousness and Healing: History, Philosophy, and Practice
October 15-20 • Taoist Chi Kung: Enhancing Vitality
December 15-17 • Conscious Health: A Model for Ultimate Aliveness
December 24-29 • Spiritual Healing: Laying-on-of-Hands
January 5-7 • Psychoneuroimmunology and Its Implications
January 19-21 • Managing Your Stress, Your Heart, and Your Life

INTEGRAL PRACTICES

September 3-8 • Life Energy Process
September 8-10 • Experiencing Esalen
September 17-22 • Turning on the Light: A Choice to Live Consciously
September 24-29 • Stepping into Your Body of Light
October 13-15 • Experiencing Esalen
November 17-19 • Experiencing Esalen
November 19-24 • Turning on the Light: A Choice to Live Consciously
December 15-17 • You Don't Have to Be Good
December 17-22 • Healing the Emotional/Spiritual Body
December 29-31 • Experiencing Esalen
January 19-21 • Experiencing Esalen
January 21-26 • Life Energy Process
January 21-26 • The Wildness Within

DREAMS

November 3-5 • The Healing Power of the Dream
November 12-17 • Entering the Dreamtime: Walking Between Two Worlds
January 26-28 • Exploring the World of Lucid Dreaming

INTEGRAL PRACTICES
January 28-February 2 • Coming Home to the Soul
February 16-18 • Experiencing Esalen
February 23-25 • The Life We Are Given

MARTIAL ARTS / YOGA / SPORT

- September 8-10 • Chi Gung: Opening the Energy Gates of Your Body
- September 24-29 • Golf in the Kingdom: An Exploration of the Inner Game
- November 3-5 • Releasing the Warrior: Assault Prevention For Women
- December 31-January 5 • Tao Mentoring in Music and Tai Ji Dance

MYTH / RITUAL / SHAMANISM / ANTHROPOLOGY

- September 1-3 • Women, Men, Sex, and Power: Life in the 21st Century
- September 3-8 • The Art of Ceremony
- September 17-22 • Biodrama
- October 27-29 • Horror and the Holy: Wisdom-Teachings of the Monster Tale
- December 31-January 5 • To Be Ready to Live, To Be Ripe to Die
- January 7-12 • Body Poetry East and West
- January 19-21 • Ryukido: Movement from the Martial Arts

PHILOSOPHICAL INQUIRY / INTELLECTUAL PLAY

- September 1-3 • Women, Men, Sex, and Power: Life in the 21st Century
- September 24-29 • A Course in Miracles
- October 2-6 • Handwriting Patterns: Possibilities for Healing and Change

PROFESSIONAL GROWTH / TRAINING

- September 15-17 • The Intersubjective Approach to Psychotherapy (IBP): Professional Training Program
- November 3-5 • Intimate Connections
- November 3-5 • The Healing Power of the Dream
- January 5-7 • Attention! Attention! Attention!
- January 26-28 • Religious and Spiritual Problems: A Paradigm Shift in Mental Health

PSYCHOLOGICAL / TRANSPERSONAL PROCESS

- September 1-3 • Accepting Life’s Transitions: Letting Go — Moving On
- September 3-8 • Healing the Heart
- September 8-10 • Forgiveness
- September 10-15 • Moving Beyond Memory: The Eidetic System of Personal Growth
- September 10-15 • Midlife Crisis as Spiritual Emergence
- September 15-17 • The Intersubjective Approach to Psychotherapy
- September 17-22 • Gestalt Practice
- September 24-29 • Change and Self-Esteem
- September 29-October 1 • Self-Empowerment and Purification: The Farther Reaches of Gestalt
- October 1-6 • Intimate Connections
- October 6-8 • Relationships, Power, and Abuse: A Process Work Seminar
- October 8-13 • Opening to Ourselves and Others
- October 13-15 • Psychosynthesis: Personal and Transpersonal Growth
- October 15-20 • Focusing: Treasure Maps to the Soul
- October 20-22 • Forgiveness: The Key to Intimacy
- October 29-November 3 • Transition, Risk, and Renewal: Mastering the Art of Change
- November 3-5 • Intimate Connections
- November 5-10 • Psychotherapy as Spiritual Practice: The Method of Loving Presence
- November 5-10 • Creating Exact Moments of Healing
- November 5-10 • Courage
- November 10-12 • Introduction to Gestalt Practice
- November 10-12 • The Core Self: Return to Innocence and Choice
- November 12-17 • The Transformational Enneagram:
  - Mindfulness, Insight, and Experience
- November 17-24 • Healing from Sexual Trauma: A Seven-Day Intensive for Survivors
- November 26-December 1 • The Power of Growth
- November 26-December 1 • La Trama de Nuestros Relaciones
- December 15-17 • The Healing Power of Humor, Compassion, and Gentle Touch
- December 17-22 • Holiday Humbug
- December 22-24 • The Sources of Growth
- December 24-29 • Christmas Present
- December 29-January 5 • Renewal: New Beginnings in Midlife
- December 29-January 5 • Forgiveness and Freedom
- January 5-7 • Opening the Feelings
- January 5-7 • Roots and Wings: Renewing Our Spirits — Living Our Dreams
- January 7-12 • Completions and Transitions
January 12-14 • The Enneagram in Personal Development and Therapy
January 26-28 • Re-Solving Your Past, Remembering Who You Are
January 26-28 • Working with Obstacles and Difficulties
January 28-February 2 • Holotropic Breathwork and Creative Fire
January 28-February 2 • Facing Life's Challenges: Courage, Faith, and Self-Acceptance
February 2-4 • Forgiveness: The Key to Intimacy
February 2-4 • Fathers & Sons & Mothers & Daughters
February 4-9 • Gestalt Practice
February 9-11 • The Body: Doorway to Self-Discovery — The Gestalt Practice Approach
February 16-18 • The LQ Factor: How to Increase Your Love Quotient
February 16-18 • The LQ Factor: How to Increase Your Love Quotient
February 16-18 • The LQ Factor: How to Increase Your Love Quotient
February 16-18 • The LQ Factor: How to Increase Your Love Quotient
February 25-March 1 • Letting Go — Moving On

RELATIONSHIP / COMMUNICATION

September 24-29 • Relationships: Letting Go — Moving On October 6-8 • Relationships, Power, and Abuse: A Process Work Seminar
October 8-13 • Tantra: The Art of Conscious Loving
October 20-22 • Forgiveness: The Key to Intimacy
November 10-12 • Mindfulness and the Pursuit of Intimacy
November 12-17 • I — You — Us: Pleasure, Intimacy, and the Search for Connectedness
December 3-8 • The Evolution of Desire: Sex, Love, Jealousy, and Human Nature
December 8-10 • The Good Divorce
January 28-February 2 • Dialogue: A Way of Life, A Path to Wholeness
February 2-4 • Forgiveness: The Key to Intimacy
February 16-18 • The LQ Factor: How to Increase Your Love Quotient

SOMATIC

September 15-17 • Reclaiming The Body: Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach
September 17-22 • Five-Day Massage Intensive
September 29-October 1 • Reclaiming Your Body: An Experience in Authentic Movement
October 1-6 • Creative Bodywork: An Advanced Workshop
October 8-15 • Cortical Reeducation® and the Feldenkrais Method®
October 15-20 • The Upledger Institute's SomatoEmotional Release I
October 27-29 • A Massage Workshop for Women

WOMEN'S / MEN'S STUDIES

October 1-6 • Moving Through Idealization and Shame to Love: A Workshop for Gay Men
October 13-15 • When Drummers Were Women
October 20-22 • Joy, Inspiration, and Hope: A Retreat for Gay Men
October 27-29 • A Massage Workshop for Women
November 3-5 • Reclaiming The Body: Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach
December 1-3 • Dancing Backwards in High Heels: Women's Resilience and Love
January 12-14 • Understanding the Other Sex: Gender Training for Gender Trainers
January 19-21 • A Retreat for Women of Experience: Midlife and Beyond
February 4-9 • Writing About Our Lives: A Workshop for Women

WILDERNESS

September 3-8 • Nature and Contemplation
September 17-22 • Zen Teachings of Mountains, Rivers, and the Great Earth
October 7-14 • Heart of Big Sur: Wilderness Journey into the Santa Lucia Mountains
January 21-26 • The Wildness Within 525

Weekend of September 1-3

Women, Men, Sex, and Power: Life in the 21st Century
Helen Fisher

Anthropologist and author Helen Fisher will trace male/female relations back to their origins on the grasslands some four million years ago, explaining the beginnings of romantic love; why we fall in love with one person rather than another; when our modern patterns of adultery, divorce, and remarriage emerged; how the sexes misunderstand each other; why our problems with sexual harassment and teen pregnancy evolved; and where many of our modern beliefs about gender come from. Her five lecture/discussion sessions (with slides) will include:

- "The Evolution of Human Sexuality"
- "Sexual Legacies: Gender Differences in the Brain"
- "Women, Men, and Power"
- "Origins of Morality, War, and God"
- "Sex: The 21st Century Family"

She will make several predictions about the future of women and men in business and the home, concluding that we are returning to traditions of powerful, sexual women and family lifestyles that evolved millennia ago. $380

The Healing Voice
Jill Purce

This workshop will teach practical explorations with sound for healing and for the transformation of consciousness. By liberating the voice, it is possible to make contact with deep levels of the self and release untapped energy. Participants will work with the psychophysical effects of breathing, chanting, mantric and sonic meditations, and tuning and listening together, moving from the intuitive level into meditative states. Breath and sound will be developed so that different parts of the body/mind come into resonance to give sonic massage and to heal and tune the chakras and subtle body. Participants will be taught ways to find their own note and hear inner sound, entering directly into subtle dimensions of sound via the voice practices of traditional cultures, including trance music, Mongolian and Tibetan overtone chanting, and other ancient group chants and vocal practices.

To enchant means to "make magical through chant." The aim of this workshop is to inspire participants to re-enchant themselves and their world. The work is accessible to anyone, regardless of musical ability. $380

Accepting Life's Transitions: Letting Go—Moving On
Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

The only certainty in life is change, yet we often resent our transitions because of patterns of fear and self-denial. Old beliefs keep us stuck in our resentments, unsuccessful marriages, friendships, and careers, and can cause illness, sorrow, and the inability to forgive. Transitions are crossroads in our lives that give us the opportunity to take time out and reconnect with our truth. It is never too late to change. Transitions are doors to the renewal of our passions, courage, and commitments.
This workshop will present you with ways to make this experience our own today. This workshop is designed for bodyworkers, therapists, health professionals, and anyone interested in working with energy and people’s bodies. C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61.

Spiritual Healing: Laying-on-of-Hands

Maria Lucia Sauer Holloman

This workshop will present practical methods for using the hands as instruments of physical and spiritual healing. This energy practice is one that incorporates both hands-on and energetic work, using the power of natural forces for healing. The emphasis will be on intentionality and personal clarity as fundamental tools in any healing art. "Intentionality moves energy," says Maria Lucia, "and it is through this focus that you can learn to take responsibility for your own thoughts and actions."

Born into a family of healers with a generations-old tradition, Maria Lucia studied with healers in her native Brazil, where spiritism—receiving healing knowledge from the spirit world—is a practice familiar to much of the population. Having also lived and studied at Esalen for nine years, she applies both Brazilian and North American approaches to healing.

Participants will be shown how to apply and refine this practice, and can experience the personal benefits that come from receiving this work. The workshop is designed for bodyworkers, therapists, health professionals, and anyone interested in working with energy and people’s bodies.

Nature and Contemplation

Steven Harper & Brother David Steindl-Rast

From time immemorial, nature has inspired human hearts to contemplation. Can we make this experience our own today? This workshop is designed to help participants experience deeply both nature and contemplation. Direct experience and contemplative reflection are the key words.

Earth underfoot on gentle hikes, water of the Pacific pounding against the shore, air of Big Sur’s refreshing breezes, fire that heats Esalen’s hot springs—all of nature’s elements combine to touch our bodies and to raise our minds and spirits.

“Nature is never spent: there lives the dearest freshness deep down things,” wrote the mystic poet Gerard Manley Hopkins. To drink from that freshness, from the fountain of youth, is what this workshop is all about.

Healing the Heart

Julie Bowden & Richard Balaban

This five-day workshop will be a journey into the vulnerable, tender part of the self that carries childhood traumas. Experiencing and integrating the pain from our past allows us to live more fully in relationship to ourselves and others, and helps us to acknowledge and nurture our inner voice. Enhancing intimacy and relationship skills is an important part of this work. Issues specific to both men and women will be explored.

The workshop welcomes adult children of alcoholic and dysfunctional families, people with a history of unfulfilling relationships, recovering alcoholics and addicts, codependents, and treatment providers. Participants are asked to forgo alcohol and other mood-altering, nonprescription drugs for these five days. This will help create an atmosphere of safety, care, and respect for core issues to emerge, an environment to facilitate transformation.

If there is unresolved pain from your past or relationship issues in your present, this workshop is designed for you.

The Writer’s Way: A Personal Adventure Through Writing

Nancy Baca

Writing personal story is a process of discovery. It is an opportunity to claim who we are and what we know as material. The task is to place a breath of air between ourselves and the situation, wide enough for a trail of ink to transform it into story. As the details emerge, they bring vitality to our writing and meaning to our lives. When we claim even a snippet of life for the artist, we cease to be victims of circumstance, for in that moment we have substituted curiosity for expectation and are free. Life is not tidy. Writing will not change this, but it will provide a container eager to receive it.

The intention of this workshop is to bypass the critic, to liberate the authentic voice and put it to use. The schedule will include writing in and out of the group, movement, meditation, reading, and discussion of pertinent material. Whether you are a non-writer, occasional writer, or professional, you can see your writing come alive with the immediacy of feelings and the raw wisdom of experience. The goal, as always, is to coax the mind out of its cycle of expectation and disappointment into a positive, functioning relationship with our work and our lives.

Recommended reading: Needelman, Work of Craft; Chodron, The Wisdom of No Escape.

Life Energy Process

Stephano Sabetti

The Life Energy Process (LEP) is a spiritually-oriented approach to self-development and professional growth based on Eastern and Western energy dynamics. Specially designed subtle and intensive movements (micro-moments) can increase energy flow and lead to the discharge of nonessential processes in the body (repressed emotions, chemical toxins, etc.). Each of us has an energy frequency that can be felt when attuned through LEP. This unique vibration helps to center and ground, as well as to find clearer direction and meaning in daily life. Each participant will have a chance to feel her/his unique energy process and explore it through process inquiry.

Life Energy Process includes: dance, theater, massage, pool work, and various other forms. The workshop is of particular interest to professionals and laypersons who are excited by the integration of theory, pleasure, and hands-on application of energy concepts.

The Art of Ceremony

Cynthia Gale

Each of us may live more gently and harmoniously upon this planet by deepening our spiritual connections to the earth through ceremony. Through ceremony we connect our physical world to the spiritual realms. This workshop will offer experiential exercises in prayer, meditation, and ceremony, as well as practical approaches to living a life rich in the celebration of Mother Earth spirituality. The focus of this workshop will be:

- The intention and power of prayer and the prayer circle
- Creating sacred space in one’s physical world
• Working with the medicine wheel of life
• Uncovering the meanings of the universal symbols in the natural world
• Honoring the spirits of the birds and animals

Group members will also spend four sessions creating tree-of-life rattles of driftwood, shells, deerskin, and beads. Participants will be taught the rattles’ use in prayer, cleansing, and ceremony. The workshop will conclude with a ceremony for Mother Earth. $740 (plus $35 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

Weekend of September 8-10

Experiencing Esalen Staff

Contact is the appreciation of differences.

— Fritz Perls

...and the recognition of similarities.

— Richard Price

This workshop is designed to introduce the various practices of Esalen to first-time participants or to those renewing their acquaintance with Esalen. Emphasis will be on finding those approaches to self-awareness that work most effectively for each individual participant. Sessions may include: meditation, sensory awareness, gestalt practice, group process, art, movement, and massage. There will also be time to explore the natural magnificence of the Big Sur coast. $380

Soul and Spirit

Brother David Steindl-Rast, Phil Cousineau & David Darling

During our time a profound transformation is under way, marked by the reappearance of soul in the cultural conversation. From poetry to boardrooms to religious conferences, soul has galvanized discussions about the vital force in our lives. To explore what it means to live soulfully and spiritually, this workshop will be a series of dialogues between Benedictine monk Brother David Steindl-Rast and author-filmmaker Phil Cousineau, while accompanied by master cellist David Darling.

Together they will present pictures of soul and spirit at birth and death, in love and romance, dreams and creativity, the contemplative life, the crisis of loss and depression, as well as in work and the natural world.

The discussions will move from ancient myths to poetry, literature, philosophy, and theology, and will utilize live music, slides, and film clips ranging from the environment and the spiritual quest to Carl Jung, Joseph Campbell, Ray Charles, and Georgia O’Keeffe. The focus will be on how to enrich our everyday life in these troubled times by revitalizing our soul and spirit through the cultivation of compassion and gratefulness. $380

Chi Gung: Opening the Energy Gates of Your Body

Bruce Kumar Frantzis

Become more energetic, alert, calm, and flexible with Chi Gung. Based on developing chi, internal energy, this 3,000 year-old physical, mental, and spiritual fitness program is the source of healing and power in Chinese medicine, martial arts, and Taoist meditation. Chi Gung can reduce stress, improve health and sexual functioning, promote healing, combat aging, deepen meditation, and enhance performance in daily work, sports, or martial arts.

Bruce Kumar Frantzis will demystify subtle Chinese healing techniques and make them understandable and relevant to Westerners. Drawing on ten years of study in China, he will teach you to feel, circulate, and increase the internal energy of your body, and to dissolve energy blockages. He will present standing meditation to open the body’s energy centers, and teach how to strengthen your internal organs and spine and adjust your internal biomechanical alignments.

This workshop is suitable for any age or fitness level—beginners and advanced students are welcome.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $380

Forgiveness

Julie Bowden & Maria Nemeth

Every culture has its healing rituals, ways of letting go of old attachments to make way for new possibilities. An essential component is the practice of forgiveness.

As the years go by, many of us develop a history of incomplete relationships and unfulfilled expectations. As these experiences accumulate, our trust in others and ourselves diminishes, and our commitments in life become conditional. To release these burdens is to forgive the past.

This workshop will guide participants through exercises focusing on our judgments and characterizations, with emphasis on how these distorted perceptions affect us and interfere with our relationships. This work will be preparation for a powerful forgiveness exercise, designed to facilitate letting go, allowing more joy and light into our lives. $380

Week of September 10-15

Dzogchen—Awakening the Buddha Within: A Silent Meditation & Self-Inquiry Retreat

Lama Surya Das

Buddhism teaches awareness techniques for awakening to inner freedom. Dzogchen—Tibetan for "the Natural Great Perfection"—introduces the inherent freedom, purity, and perfection of innate Buddha-Mind. Dzogchen is considered the summit of all Buddhist teachings: swift, easy, joyful, and direct.

Through meditation (sitting, walking, and guided), chanting, energy exercises, self-inquiry, and personal instruction, this quintessential Vajrayana path will be introduced and practiced according to the nonsectarian way of the Practice Lineage of Tibetan Buddhism, relying on authentic Tibetan texts, meditation manuals, oral tradition, and personal experience. Constant themes of this nondual awareness practice include appreciating the true joy of meditation, the incredible lightness of being, and opening to effortlessness.

Conducted in silence, this meditation retreat offers a unique opportunity for experienced meditators and beginners alike to better know themselves through the timeless wisdom of this ancient Tibetan teaching. $740

Village Concepts: African Music—Esalen Massage
Sarah Abukutsa & Carl Chase (C.C.)

Ancient languages combined dance, music, and poetry as one concept. In this workshop, the integration of these original communicational instincts with rejuvenating bodywork will provide a unique experience designed to be physically, mentally, and spiritually exhilarating. It is a workshop created to embody, both culturally and physiologically, the oneness of the world community.

C.C. will present massage methods that stimulate and relax through manipulation of muscles and nerves and through cross-fiber friction. Sarah will teach traditional East and West African movements, rhythms, and songs that evoke centuries of spiritual connections through the rituals these dance forms are based upon. The leaders will incorporate both ethno- and ethnomusicology to share the wisdom of Africa.

This workshop is open to anyone, regardless of dance or massage experience. $740

Midlife Crisis as Spiritual Emergence
Karen Turner

This workshop will present midlife transition as a descent into contact with the soul, there to find spiritual emergence and renewal. Midlife is a time when old systems which seemed foundational are stripped away, leaving chaos and challenging long-held beliefs. It is a time of soul-searching; of confronting both inflated and deflated self-concepts; of surrendering to deeper, more expanded states of awareness; and of learning to trust inner guidance as absolute authority in one’s life.

This workshop will be a rite of passage for both men and women going through this transition. Together participants will have the opportunity to discover each individual’s unique self, and how each is in relationship to self, each other, the world, and spirit. Karen Turner will offer tools for self-exploration and awareness gathered over thirty years from psychology, mysticism, and shamanism, with time for discussion and sharing. The workshop will be uniquely designed to meet the needs of those attending. $740

Drawing the Mystic Light of Nature
Judith Cornell

Experience an initiation into Nature’s consciousness through meditative drawing and gentle nature walks. This workshop combines elements of integral yoga and shamanic art with the esoteric skills of working with the subtle energies of plants. In Esalen’s beautiful setting, participants will explore the gardens in a new way, working collaboratively with the flower and vegetable kingdoms to see and draw the inner light.

The goal of this work is to integrate one’s inner vision with the outer physical perception of the colored lights reflecting from the surface of flowers and vegetables; this integration can then be captured on paper as luminous images. The workshop will present innovative color theory for blending rainbow-colored pencils to create radiant, vibrant works. Emphasis will be on understanding Nature as a living being and making a sacred connection.

This work is a convergence of art, science, ecology, and spirituality, drawing from the Eastern yoga traditions rooted in the mystery of light, sound, and consciousness as the matrix of all existence. The workshop is also a practicum in applied ecopsychology to reconcile the experience of Nature’s consciousness with the scientific worldview.
Weekend of September 15-17

Freelimg Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach

Patrick Douce

The work of Moshe Feldenkrais is based on the natural process by which we learned to move as children. During this workshop, soft, easy, gentle movements will be used to increase awareness of the body and to improve the ease and ability of movement. Special emphasis will be placed on the difficulties in movement that arise from chronic conditions such as lower back and neck pain, tension in the neck and shoulders, and knee injuries. Such conditions can be improved by approaching the difficulties as problems in learning rather than as therapeutic troubles. Situations which were “incurable” become “reeducable.” Workshop participants will also be introduced to methods for improving their ability to sense each other’s bodies through touch and massage.

Although this workshop is valuable for anyone interested in learning more about his/her body through direct experience, it may be of special interest and benefit to dancers, athletes, doctors, nurses, physical therapists, psychologists, health professionals, and elderly individuals who may discover new ways of moving with ease and increased flexibility—painless and immediately.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $380

The Intersubjective Approach to Psychotherapy

Robert Stolorow, Leonard Bearne, Elena Bonn & Linda Loomis

During the past decade, Robert Stolorow and his collaborators have been elaborating a new theoretical paradigm for the conduct of psychotherapy. In this new paradigm, called intersubjectivity theory, the central guiding metaphor is the larger relational field in which psychological phenomena crystallize and in which experience is continually and mutually shaped. From an intersubjective perspective, crucial clinical phenomena such as transference, resistance, impasses, and the therapeutic process itself are seen to take form at the interface of the interacting subjective worlds of client and therapist.

Friday evening Dr. Stolorow will present an overview of the basic concepts of intersubjectivity theory. On Saturday his associates will discuss the clinical application of the intersubjective perspective to specific therapeutic issues. Sunday morning Dr. Stolorow will return to address questions that have emerged during the weekend.

This workshop is recommended for psychotherapists and counselors who wish to enlarge their capacity to gain access to their clients’ inner experiences.

Recommended reading: Stolorow and Atwood, Contexts of Being; Stolorow, Brandchaft, and Atwood, Psychoanalytic Treatment and The Intersubjective Perspective. $380

Jewish Humor

Michael Krasny

What makes Jews funny? Do you need to be Jewish? Is there a non-existing link from the Old Testament to Mel Brooks and Woody Allen, Jerry Seinfeld and Gary Shandling? Is there really even such a thing as Jewish humor? AND WHY DOES A JEW ALWAYS ANSWER A QUESTION WITH ANOTHER QUESTION? Well, why shouldn’t a Jew answer a question with another question? AND WHAT IS JEWISH ALZHEIMER’S? You forget everything but the grudges. AND AT WHAT STAGE DO JEWS CONSIDER A FETUS VIABLE? After completion of medical school.

This weekend will be a feast of Jewish jokes, humor, stories, and anecdotes which lead to laughter, wisdom, and deeper understanding of Judaic, Hebraic, and Yiddish culture, metaphor, folk spirit, and ritual. So do it already. Sign up. Be there. It will make your mother happy. $380

The Meditation Hall and Everyday Life: Transcending the Separation

Olga Luchakova

The goal of this workshop is to transcend the imaginary gap between sitting meditation and everyday activities by experientially realizing that the Self/God/Love is ever present. Tranquility and freedom are not states to be achieved but rather to be unveiled in the present moment.

The teaching of Self-Realization, called Advaita Vedanta or Jnana Yoga, has been transmitted since ancient times by such sages as Dattatreya and Shankara. In this century, through the grace of Ramana Maharshi and Nisargadatta Maharaj, this teaching has become known to a larger number of Western spiritual seekers.
Transpersonal Medicine

Jeanne Achterberg & Frank Lawlis

The concept of transpersonal medicine has been coined from two fields of study, transpersonal psychology and medicine. Transpersonal medicine is healing from beyond the self, and recognizes that there are many resources beyond what we consider our consensual reality. This definition honors the integration of many eras of health care, expanding to include the ancient practices of shamanic work as well as the contemporary frontiers of psychoneuroimmunology and imagery.

This workshop will present many of the doors to alternate realities and specific avenues for accessing the wisdoms that lie just beyond the boundaries of the limits of self. Altered states of consciousness, ritual, advanced imagery techniques, the experience of community through joy, and transcendence are the basic topics for presentation. The workshop is designed to be primarily experiential with clinical applications for dealing with physical and mental problems from a professional perspective.

Week of September 17-22

Gestalt Practice

Christine Stewart Price

The Way, when declared
Seems so thin and flavorless.
Nothing to look at, nothing to hear—
And when used—is inexhaustible.
—Lao Tzu

Gestalt practice is a form—nonanalytic, noncoercive, nonjudgmental—evolving out of the work of Fritz Perls. The work integrates ways of personal clearing and development that are both ancient and modern. To the extent that awareness is made primary relative to action, gestalt practice has a strong relationship to some forms of meditation and visualization. This form is similar to some Reichian work as well, in that emotional and energetic release and rebalancing are allowed and encouraged.

The emphasis is intrapersonal rather than interpersonal. It is explicitly understood that participants are not patients but persons actively consenting to work (or play) in awareness. The leader functions to reflect, clarify, and respect whatever emerges in this process. The aim is unfoldment, wholeness, and growth, rather than adjustment, cure or accomplishment. Through group exercises, meditations, and discussion, this workshop will introduce participants to the gestalt practice approach. The format will combine introductory group work with the open seat form in which each participant will have the opportunity to work with the leader in a group context.

Recommended reading: Perls, Gestalt Therapy Verbatim; Chodron, The Wisdom of No Escape.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $380

Turning on the Light: A Choice to Live Consciously

Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita) & Guest Leaders

In the sunlight of awareness, each thought and action becomes sacred.
—Thich Nhat Hanh

Laura DeNuccio writes: “What would you love to see in your life? What has meaning to your heart? To live fully, mindful of these questions, is a choice we can make moment by moment. This workshop is about honoring, empowering, and celebrating each person as we reclaim our wholeness/holiness as human beings making choices to live fully.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $740

With the creative use of breath, sound, music, movement, and visioning, we will explore what our spirit longs to express. We will work to cultivate compassion and patience as we align with our personal truths in relation to others and the planet. There will be guided meditations to increase body awareness and aliveness, to dissolve and balance energetic blockages, and to quiet and expand the mind. Self-care and personal growth practices for daily living will be offered as a basic awareness practice to increase mindfulness, self-understanding, and the ability to be present in the moment.

“Arttuning with Nature, taking light hikes into Big Sur, we can deepen our capacity to listen to our innate wisdom. By applying the creative use of the Spoken Word, we can expand a vision of possibilities for ourselves and the world in which we live.”

Recommended reading: Fields, et al., Chop Wood, Carry Water; Chopra, Quantum Healing; Hanh, The Miracle of Mindfulness.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $740

Five-Day Massage Intensive

Laurie Lioness Parizek & Robert Helm

Esalen massage consists of more than the long, flowing strokes for which it is well known. In this workshop, Esalen bodywork in many of its forms will be demonstrated, practiced, and discussed during this week of learning and relaxation.

The workshop will introduce grounding techniques, pressure point work, meridian massage, stretches, and manipulations. The instructors will present a bodywork style that both addresses individual needs and integrates the whole person, focusing on the concept of working from our essential being. Special attention will be given to self-care, quality of contact, breath awareness, and stress reduction.

The workshop will also incorporate movement, dance, and rhythm to integrate the bodywork. Yoga and meditation will be taught to encourage focus and serenity.

Participants will make full use of Esalen’s beautiful grounds and facilities. Please bring warm, comfortable clothing and your favorite music or instrument.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $740
Zen Teachings of Mountains, Rivers, and the Great Earth
TenShin Reb Anderson & Steven Harper
Through the ages seekers and mystics of all cultures have gone to nature for inspiration, wisdom, and compassion. In this workshop, traditional Zen meditation will be taught and practiced as a vehicle for discovering a radically different way of experiencing the world. The workshop will take participants into the mountains and rivers where they can employ their newly awakened senses to receive the teachings of nature.

Each day there will be regular periods of meditation, group discussions, and day-hikes exploring the wilderness backcountry. This will be a time to cultivate and nurture awareness, listen to the silence of nature, and discover what Zen practice has to offer our experience of nature and daily life. Special emphasis will be placed on integrating Zen and the experience of nature into the inner vitality of our lives outside of the workshop.

No previous experience in hiking or Zen meditation is necessary. Students at all stages of practice are welcome. $740

Biodrama
Katriona Munthe
Biodrama is an interdisciplinary approach to the timeless human quest—to find the secrets of existence. It incorporates elements of art, music, theater improvisation, mythology, and modern psychology. It draws from the ancient Greek Orphic and Eleusinian Mysteries, where individuals set out on a journey to discover the depth of their spirituality—and were transformed in the process.

Biodrama was originally developed in Italy by Lorenzo Ostuni, who then brought it to America with Katriona Munthe in 1989. Here, it was described as “a journey into an archetypal universe which speaks of our capacity to live, to love, and even of our courage to die.”

Workshop participants will re-enact through improvisation, mime, and music a journey into the body which commemorates the fundamental stages of existence: Bios (Life), Eros (Love), and Thanatos (Death). They will be invited to travel down into their own under-world—the unconscious—to meet the spirits and demons of their own creative passions. They can come to resonate with each other’s emotions as they see them expressed in body language and learn to compare their own gestures with those portrayed by the great masters who painted the human body. Biodrama, in acting out the human drama, becomes an expression of art, of knowledge, and of caring.

Please note: Participants are invited to bring any photos or slides that have special meaning to them.

Weekend of September 22-24

A Weekend with Matthew Fox
Matthew Fox, theologian, writer, and teacher, is best known as the father of Creation Spirituality, a blend of mysticism, psychology, feminism, and environmentalism that emphasizes humanity’s “original blessing” rather than its “original sin.” Creation Spirituality integrates the wisdom of Western spirituality and global indigenous cultures with science’s emerging understanding of the universe and the passionate creativity of art. For twenty-three years Fox has been presenting this ecumenical theology, which he describes as “a tradition that fosters an attitude that can change lives by giving hope and imagination . . . one that can so energize the wisdom from artists and scientists and world religions that it offers a substantially new way of thinking. It is a bridge that carries us back to the ancient past and forward with hope for the future.”

An ordained Dominican priest, Fox was silenced by the Vatican in 1988 and dismissed from his order in 1993. He is founder and Editor-in-Chief of Creation Spirituality magazine, cited by the Utne Reader for “Best Coverage of Cutting Edge Issues.” He established the Institute in Culture and Creation Spirituality at Holy Names College in Oakland, which he describes as a “wisdom school . . . [whose] primary purpose of knowledge is compassion, which is understood as celebration and justice-making.”

This will be a weekend of thought-provoking talks, stimulating discussion, and experiential exercises. $380

Week of September 24-29

Stepping into Your Body of Light
Julian Isaacs & Patricia Fields
“Lightbody activation” is a path that helps individuals work consciously with their own subtle energy systems, utilizing the healing and transformative powers of transpersonal energies to refine the energy centers of the body. Lightbody activation synthesizes many sources, including kundalini yoga, depth psychology, and the teachings of Aurobindo and Mother Meera. These practices can catalyze the growth process, facilitating the release of old emotional and somatic patterns, thus extending the work of self-healing to all levels, from the physical body to the emotional, mental, and soul domains.

Participants will be shown how to differentiate among various energies and their applications, including the use of altered states of consciousness to unfold soul purpose, manifest reality, harmonize relationships, heal, and live in a more playful, joyful way, filled with grace. The workshop will include sound, music, movement, meditation, dowsing, intuition training, group and individual process, psychokinesis training, energy exercises, and fun. It is particularly useful for mental health professionals and bodyworkers, as well as others seeking to utilize subtle energy practices for personal growth, as the skills presented can support both one’s own as well as one’s clients’ process.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $740

Golf in the Kingdom:
An Exploration of the Inner Game
Stephen Cohen, Fred Shoemaker & Brian Bergstrom
You’ll come away from the links with a new hold on life, that is certain if ye play the game with all your heart.

—Michael Murphy (as Shivas Irons), Golf in the Kingdom

The game of golf provides many opportunities to enhance the journey of self-discovery.
It can be experienced not only as an athletic endeavor, but also as a metaphor for the way one lives. Just as in life, issues of self-confidence, fear, trust, discipline, and awareness emerge in the conflict between the ego's desire for success and the inner self's ability to achieve.

During these five days, teaching methods gleaned from a study of the inner game will be utilized, as well as principles from psychotherapy and gestalt, to explore the inner self and how one interferes with its emergence. Two days will be spent on field trips to the Monterey Peninsula where participants will practice and play in some of the most beautiful golf country in the world. On other days there will be time to relax and enjoy the natural pleasures of Esalen and Big Sur.

Recommended reading: Murphy, Golf in the Kingdom; Gallwey, The Inner Game of Golf.

Change and Self-Esteem
Phyllis Shankman

Change is an ever present aspect of living which must be accepted and used creatively if one is to sustain a healthy, interesting, and exciting life. Many individuals talk about wanting change while actively or passively resisting it. Self-esteem, which includes self-acceptance, self-appreciation, and self-confidence, enables one to confront resistance and fear, and increases the willingness to change and take risks.

This workshop includes an in-depth process for finding and allowing self-acceptance and for creatively confronting opportunities for change and growth. Group activities include gestalt process work, discussion, massage, meditation, music, dance, art imagery exercises, and whatever else happens spontaneously.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $740

A Course in Miracles
Julian Silverman

A Course in Miracles is a curriculum for changing your mind so that you can enjoy life. Its basic premise is that the mind can learn to empower itself by learning to extend itself. According to the Course, "All confusion comes from not extending life."

In this workshop the vision of A Course in Miracles is set within a framework of three of its ideas. Each one is introduced with a quote which spotlights a basic human learning need:

1. "Instruction in perception is your greatest need."
2. "You do not know the meaning of love and that is your handicap."
3. "Your task is not to seek love, but merely to seek and find all the barriers within yourself that you have built against it."

Elaborates Julian Silverman, "The first dovetails with my years of scientific research in the area of perception, in both the normal state and altered states of consciousness. The second fits with my lifelong search for a conception of love which integrates the spiritual and the physical. The third enables me to draw on my more than twenty years of experience as a psychotherapist and supervisor of psychotherapists, and my abiding interest in spiritually-based self-examination."

The workshop uses a combination of conceptual and experiential learning methods.

Prerequisites: Own a copy of A Course in Miracles. Be interested in learning what's in it. $740

Relationships: Letting Go—Moving On
Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

For one human being to love another: that is perhaps the most difficult of all our tasks, the ultimate test and proof, the work for which all the other work is but preparation.

—Rilke

The fabric of our lives is made up of relationships. All of life's relationships will be the focus of this workshop: family, friends, lovers, co-workers, partners.

Often beliefs, defenses, fears, and emotions about past relationships continue into our present relationships and keep us from spontaneous feelings of love, trust, and joy. The goal of this workshop is to experience these patterns and create new ways to relate in the moment to ourselves, others, and our work. This workshop can help you:

- Find out how your relationships mirror you
- Get a clearer picture of what you want and how to get it
- Examine ways you sabotage yourself
- Learn more about how others see you
- Learn practical tools and knowledge that will help create empowered relationships

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $740

Present at the Creation: Reawakening the Artist Within
Esalen Arts Center Staff

It is said that the drive to create—to be original, inventive, resourceful—is as vital as the biological drive of hunger and as life-enhancing as the spiritual call to wholeness. As children many of us were thwarted in this essential expression of the human life-force. We were taught that it was the end result that was all-important, and thus were denied the exhilarating experience of the creative process itself. And we allowed our creative expression to go to sleep.

This workshop invites you on a journey of reawakening. The Arts Center staff will provide a safe, supportive environment for you to rediscover the creator within. There will be a variety of art media available, which may include painting, pottery, silk-dyeing, dance and movement, mask-making, ritual, and group work. The leaders will offer exercises, as needed, to stimulate and liberate your creative expression, as they guide you deeper into the world of your own imagination and playfulness.

This will also be a wonderful opportunity to get messy. No previous art training is necessary. $740

Weekend of September 29-October 1

Reinhabiting Your Body: An Experience in Authentic Movement
Tina Stromsted

"Authentic Movement" is a meditative form of dance influenced by the psychology of Carl Jung. This workshop offers a structure within which natural movement can bloom and be nurtured, allowing individuals to discover ways to engage their creativity and make soulful self-contact.

The body is the mediator for all of life's experiences. Our bodies form our closest link to the unconscious, providing avenues for deep and lasting change. If we are locked into a muscular pattern held around a specific experience or dissatisfying ways of living can help us to heal wounds and find freedom of expression.

Through moving and witnessing in a safe space, participants in this workshop may...
This will be the third year of this Esalen series on the Jewish New Year. The workshop is limited to twenty participants.

$380

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61.

Self-Empowerment and Purification: The Farther Reaches of Gestalt
Julian Silverman

"We badly need a new orientation, a new perspective," wrote Fritz Perls. "We have graduated from the infant's 'I can't help myself; to the adult's 'I can't help myself because ... ' But psychology and psychiatry were never meant to be after-the-fact justifications for continuing neurotic behavior, behavior which does not permit the individual to live up to the maximum of his capacities."

In his autobiography, Perls speculated that a new form of psychotherapy would emerge and that it would entail some kind of cleansing or purification process. He was not clear, however, how it would work. In actuality, he had prepared the way quite well for the next form.

In this workshop the boundaries of the "next form" are defined and examined using both didactic and experiential sessions. Two inter-related processes are emphasized: the first, a purification process, has the purpose of "wiping the slate clean" of mental debris; the second has the purpose of identifying a personal center from which to act with power.

Introductory Workshop Principle #1: Take responsibility for every emotion, every movement you make, every thought you have.

Recommended reading: A Course in Miracles.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $380

Drawing with Color
Leigh Hyams

This is a workshop for people who want to reconnect with the heightened awareness that comes with drawing and the pleasure that comes from deeply experiencing color. Previous art experience is not a prerequisite.

The leader's unusual teaching methods enable students to draw immediately with joy, inventiveness, sensitivity, and wildness.

Participants will be introduced to a variety of techniques and media—both orthodox and unorthodox—while exploring the pleasure of working with color. They can leave the workshop with a portfolio of drawings, a full sketchbook, and the ability to see the world with fresh eyes.

$380

(plus $25 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61.

Consciousness and Healing: History, Philosophy, and Practice
Eugene Taylor

This workshop, examining practices of inner inquiry into the nature of Jewish repentance, is designed to help you think more clearly about self-knowledge, character development, and the probable means by which healing takes place. It will present an overview of the mind/body problem; a history of mystical experiences, healing practices, famous healers, and spiritual communities; an exploration of psychotherapeutic and psychoanalytic techniques; and experiential sessions to learn ki development. The format will consist of slide-lectures, discussion and feedback, and in-depth experiential sessions. This balanced combination is intended to:

- Make you want to learn much more about the history of healing
- Make you feel better about involvement in any aspect of healing
- Provide you with an opportunity to interact with kindred souls who feel the same way

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $740

Pilobolus Technique: Choreographic Creation
Jonathan Wolken

Since its first appearance, Pilobolus Dance Theatre has been a pioneer in American contemporary dance, creating its own unique method of choreography. This workshop is based on Pilobolus's evolving understanding of technique as a creative collaborative process. Dance is approached not as an inflexible physical regime but as an expressive medium for people of all ages, backgrounds, and levels of experience.

Taught by Pilobolus founder Jonathan Wolken, this workshop will focus on the choreographic process that makes movement a powerful means of expression. The group will investigate the lively mixture of form and flow, abstraction and theatricality, strength, force, and balance that are at work in the realm of dance.

Participants will explore a wide variety of movement through improvisation and will choreograph a number of short dances. It will be an opportunity to indulge in the incredible panorama of human motion.
Extensive dance training is not necessary, although a reasonable degree of fitness is advised. Participants should be willing to be physically energetic and enthusiastic. $740

Moving Through Idealization and Shame to Love: A Workshop for Gay Men

David Hawkins

David Hawkins writes: "Men who are homosexual (or bisexual) live in a bicultural world. Our personalities are shaped by the expectations and values of the culture into which we were born and those of the culture we may choose to join. In each culture certain aspects of our humanity are idealized while other aspects are shamed. Our lives and our options are limited or supported by the strategies we have developed to respond to idealization and shame.

"Each of us achieves a unique balance of adaptation/individuation, confrontation/capitulation, hiddenness/openness, coming out/passing. Since no lifestyle is inherently more honorable than another, each must be evaluated as to its costs and benefits to each individual's current developmental needs.

"Because loving relationships depend on knowing and being known, understanding and being understood, strategies for achieving the ideal and avoiding the experience of shame may actually be preventing us from reaching the love and intimacy we desire. This workshop is for men who are willing to work and risk together to create an environment in which the true self can be seen and heard."

Handwriting Patterns: Possibilities for Healing and Change

Vimala Rodgers

From birth we listen to teachers, parents, friends, and relatives, and we interpret what they say about us. We begin to believe that this is who we really are, and shape our personality accordingly. As a result, we create a belief system that often prevents us from utilizing our natural resources. All of this is clearly reflected in our handwriting, which child psychologist William Preyer calls "brainwriting." When we write, each stroke of the pen not only reveals our personality, it reinforces it. This workshop in applied graphotherapy goes a step further than conventional handwriting analysis and focuses on altering specific writing patterns as a means of restructuring and unlearning old beliefs and imprinting new ones that can expand our potential beyond what we imagine. Graphotherapy provides a powerful model of the mind and a set of behavioral tools that allow us to unlock some of the hidden mechanisms of our belief systems.

Participants will learn how to identify both limiting and expansive belief patterns in their writing, and will be given personalized stroke or letter changes that reinforce self-esteem and create the possibility of uncovering long-hidden talents and abilities.

Recommended reading: Rodgers, Change Your Handwriting, Change Your Life; Chopra, Quantum Healing.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $740

Fibers of Infinity: Adventures in Handmade Paper

Madeline de Joly

Paper juxtaposes issues of communication and silence, nature and culture, permanence and change. In this workshop participants can discover, from the first impulses of creativity, the wonder of working with vacuum-formed paper during a week of experimental art-making, discussions, slides, videos, and inspirational readings.

The range of possibilities of the medium is vast. Both convex and concave surfaces are simultaneously possible. The pulp can be used in its pure form or it can be altered by embedding non-organic or organic materials within the fibers. An infinite variety of imprinted or cast textures can be introduced. Before drying, the pressed paper can remain flat or be shaped by being rolled, folded, squeezed, tied, or cast over forms. Further flat or be shaped by being rolled, folded, within the fibers. An infinite variety of embedding non-organic or organic materials used in its pure form or it can be altered by simultaneously possible. The pulp can be altered by embedding non-organic or organic materials within the fibers. An infinite variety of imprinted or cast textures can be introduced. Before drying, the pressed paper can remain flat or be shaped by being rolled, folded, squeezed, tied, or cast over forms. Further investigation can include the embedding of dimensional or flat graphic imagery, the casting or imprinting of objects, and layering. Forces of nature, found objects, and multimedia components can be integrated at any stage of development.

Emphasis will be on working in a self-referential manner with an underlying conceptual component. The tacit goal is to invoke spiritual contemplation through witnessing the evolution of amorphous material becoming two- and three-dimensional expressions. On the feeling level, artistic expression can radiate the completeness of life.

Recommended reading: Yanagi, The Unknown Craftsman; Saint-Exupery, The Little Prince; Heller, Papermaking. $740

Weekend of October 6-8

Relationships, Power, and Abuse: A Process Work Seminar
Max Schuepbach

Process Work, developed by Arnold Mindell, works with relationship difficulties using a wide array of methods. Many relationship problems, including stagnation and loneliness, can remain nearly unchanged in spite of working on one's personal history. Working with sexism, racism, and homophobia, Process Work has found that many of these difficulties are not only rooted in the personal psychology of the individual, but reflect a political and cultural reality. This workshop will introduce the methods of Process-oriented group process to increase awareness of these connections and will use this awareness for conflict resolution around issues of power and hierarchy.

In addition, Process-oriented methods will be work on old abuse traumas that surface in relationships and create difficulties that stop us from finding and living our ideals in relationship. Participants will work individually and in dyads on these issues. $380

Building a Successful Career as a Writer, Public Speaker, and Consultant
Ken Dychtwald & Bob Kriegel

In this seminar the leaders, sought after speakers and successful entrepreneurs (and long-term friends of Esalen) will share many tips and strategies they have learned about how to avoid mistakes, save time, and achieve some measure of inner and outer success and satisfaction in writing, public speaking, consulting, and business development. Topics will include:
- Why be a consultant? How to make a living from it?
- Chasing your dreams, conquering fear of failure, and taking risks
- Getting published and what to expect from the process
- Selling audio and video programs of your work
- Developing a career as a public speaker
- Gaining access to broadcast media—what to do and say on the air
- Building a leveraged business around your energy and ideas
- Money and karma—reflections on the ups and downs of success
- Developing and keeping passion—the fire in your belly

In addition to the meeting agenda, ample time will be provided to enjoy the wonders of Esalen and Big Sur.

Please note: The leaders are donating their fees to the Esalen Scholarship Fund. This is the only time and place that this workshop has ever been offered. $380

Toward Waking Up: Cultivating Mindfulness
Charles Tart

Ordinary consciousness is a kind of waking sleep, an absorption in our personal and cultural illusions. This apparently strange Eastern concept is actually supported in detail by Western psychological data. Given this, how can we awaken? Our essential selves were invalidated and suppressed in child-

Building in a Sacred Way
Tom Bender

Many social problems, such as alcoholism, drugs, homelessness, and child abuse, share a common root. They arise out of lack of self-worth and mutual respect, and a lack of opportunity to be of value to family and society. They are all diseases of the spirit and of the absence of a sacred basis to society.

Similarly, our homes and communities embody our attitudes, good, bad, sacred, or indifferent. Changes to our surroundings can reaffirm the sacredness of our world. They can embody the values and reestablish the sense of respect and honor essential for social health and a sustainable society.

This workshop will examine how to create sustainable communities and nurturing homes, with emphasis on the importance of building from a spiritual base. It will investigate the economics which make that essential and possible. There will be exploration into the modern application of feng-shui, which involves the energy interactions of people and places, as well as into the reasons for rituals of founding and using places which sustain their energy and the meaning they hold. The workshop will use the power of Esalen's setting to teach how to embody the same spirit in our homes and communities. $380

Self-Transformation: The Art of the Actor for Everyday Life

Jane Marla Robbins

Transforming feelings of anxiety and insecurity into feelings of self-confidence and joy is a miracle that can happen in all areas of one's life—physical, emotional, spiritual. This transformation can help us fulfill our potential for the roles we have chosen to play—child, parent, artist, public speaker, shaman, sensualist, or spouse.

The group will explore and discuss a wealth of acting techniques, including: physical, mental, emotional, vocal, and spiritual preparations, relaxation, sense memory, the magic "as if," animal exercises, overcoming self-consciousness, speaking the truth, perfect props, and psychophysical action.

Participants can learn how to replace old fears and paranoid projections with self-manufactured pleasures and positive projections. Many "real-life" situations ordinarily fraught with worry can easily be transformed using the Actor's Imagination. The power and pleasure of being able to create a sense of well-being can be experienced by everyone, and, once discovered, cannot be easily shaken.

No previous acting experience is necessary. $380

October 7-14

Heart of Big Sur: Wilderness Journey into the Santa Lucia Mountains

Little Bear Nason & Steven Harper

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 58. $790

October 8-15

Cortical Reeducation® and the Feldenkrais Method®

Harriet Goslins & Patti (Lawrence) White

How a person sits, stands, or moves reflects patterns that are "wired in" to the nervous system. This information can be erased or changed. By reeducating the brain-muscle connection, restrictions in movement can be freed, freeing lifetime habits that have organized around that movement.

This work is a relearning of the ease and fluidity taken for granted as a child and lost somewhere along the way. Physical injury, emotional trauma, or ongoing stress all evoke a protective response from the body. These patterns remain when no longer needed, outside of awareness, and continue to cause discomfort and limitations. Freeing them results in relief of chronic pain or tightness and a higher energy level. By changing muscular holding patterns, the entire protective posture is altered, deeply affecting the body's habitual defense system. Thus, new movement possibilities mean new self-image possibilities.

Fears and anxieties have corresponding muscular habits. Verbal information or spiritual practice that fails to extinguish these habits may fail to eliminate the toxic behavior.

This workshop is for those who are physically active and fit and want to increase their skills while learning to reduce risk or injury; for the sedentary or those dealing with after-effects of injuries; for chronically tired and stressed individuals who want to learn how to take better care of their neck, shoulders, and back; and for those who want to improve their posture and breathing and live with more flexibility and comfort.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $1110

Week of October 8-13

Tantra: The Art of Conscious Loving

Charles Muir & Caroline Muir

Few of us have been blessed with healthy childhood conditioning and education regarding the mysteries of sexual love and sexual energy. This can leave many individuals less aware and conscious about their sexuality than they are in other aspects of their lives. Tantra can transform sex into a loving meditation, putting more consciousness, energy, intimacy, joy, and love into sexual exchanges.

Participants will learn and discuss various ways to increase intimacy and passion in their relationship. Tantric meditation and ways to exchange sexual energy in a safe, nonsexual manner will also be taught in the workshop. These methods can then be practiced in a sexual way in the privacy of your own home.

This workshop is open to couples only. $740

The Subtle Art of Meditation

David Streeter

The experience of insight, tranquility, inner strength, and aliveness can be found within our everyday life through the ancient art of meditation.

This workshop will approach traditional meditation practice in an unusual way. In a retreat atmosphere, participants will prepare the body/mind for silent listening with fluid movement from the martial arts and yoga. The workshop will incorporate breathing methods (Prana-Yama) and energy work with Zazen (sitting meditation). Other activities will include a silent listening hike in the wilderness, group meditation in a nearby contemplative monastery, and Zazen at Esalen's meditation center nestled close to a waterfall.

This approach to the subtle practice of meditation through the body can inspire the student to discover his or her rich interior life and that crystal-clear still point described so well in every spiritual tradition.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $740
Experiencing Esalen
Experiencing Esalen Staff
For workshop description see September 8-10.

Pushing the Envelope
Terence McKenna
Submits, inimitably: "Fun and conviviality for ravers, anarchs, cyborgs, boppers, androids, vat clones, zippies, and old-fashioned just plain freaks. The plot is revealed and the stakes rise as we approach the end of the Millennium. Join us for a pre-solstice meditation on the state of the condensing techno-lapis of the collective human soul and the mysteries of the attractor at the end of time. We will discuss self-directed psychedelic cartography, zippie culture, post-everything sexuality, four-dimensional map-making, and the care and feeding of psychedelic plants and people. Excursions into botany, ontology, epistemology, parapsychology, and dubious puns are bound to occur. Think-along fun for double Scorpios, pagans, explorers, fans of Tantra and alchemy. Practical approaches to rave culture, the problem of post-Modernism, and the search for real love and community. All are welcome."

When Drummers Were Women
Layne Redmond
This century has seen a vast unearthing of the images of the Great Goddess and her priestesses. Throughout the ancient Mediterranean world, she is portrayed with her tambourine or frame drum. The frame drum is one of the oldest, most primal instruments and was predominantly played by women with their bare hands. A powerful trance-inducing instrument, it was used in the religious rites of many goddesses, including Inanna, Ishtar, Isis, Artemis, Aphrodite, and Demeter.

This weekend will focus on hand drumming techniques and their relationship with the elements of earth, water, air, and fire. Working in a circle and using the force of gravity, participants will practice synchronizing with the energy of the earth and radiating a group pulse. These rhythmic rituals are an ancient technology for accessing higher levels of awareness and releasing a deeper feminine energy.

This workshop is for women only. No prior experience with frame drums is necessary. Drums will be provided.

Psychosynthesis: Personal and Transpersonal Growth
John Firman & Ann Russell
Psychosynthesis was born in 1910 when the Italian psychiatrist Roberto Assagioli became dissatisfied with psychoanalysis. Although Assagioli was a colleague of Freud and Jung and an early pioneer of psychoanalysis in Italy, he saw that psychoanalysis neglected the healthier and "higher" aspects of human nature.

A student of philosophical and spiritual traditions of both East and West, Assagioli sought instead an approach which would address not only psychological wounding and personal development, but, in addition, the "transpersonal" dimension—the dimension of inspired creativity, altruistic ideals, and peak experiences. Since that time, psychosynthesis has grown to become a compassionate and comprehensive psychology of the whole person, providing the practical means for examining one's life and for discovering how to grow more fully into one's true self.

This workshop will be an experiential overview of the theory and practice of psychosynthesis. It is an invitation to explore the heights and depths of human being, including selfhoodality or "ego-state" work, object relations and family-of-origin issues, the superconscious and transpersonal self, and the experience of "vocation" or "call" in life. The intention is to gain a deeper feel for our unique psychological and spiritual journey, to get a sense for what our next steps on this journey might be, and, most essentially, to find a greater compassion for ourselves and others.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61.

The Upledger Institute’s SomatoEmotional Release I
John Upledger
SomatoEmotional Release is a healing process that helps rid the mind and body of residual effects of past trauma and associated negative emotional experiences. Joint research efforts by Dr. John Upledger and biophysicist Dr. Zvi Karni led to the discovery that the body often retains (rather than dissipates) physical forces as the result of an accident, injury, or emotional trauma, and then isolates the dysfunctional area, creating what we call an "energy cyst.”

Although a reasonably healthy body can work and adapt to "energy cysts,” extra energy is required to perform normal bodily functions. As the years pass, the adaptive pattern of the body loses its effectiveness, and symptoms and dysfunctions begin to appear which become more difficult to ignore or suppress.
In SomatoEmotional Release I, students learn how to assist the patient/client in physically identifying and expelling the "energy cyst" and in reexperiencing and resolving unpleasant memories.

Students must have completed CranioSacral Therapy I and II before participating in this course, either at Esalen or elsewhere. For further information see Special Programs, page 56.

Required reading: Upledger, SomatoEmotional Release and Beyond and CranioSacral Therapy II: Beyond the Dura; Fisher and Ury, Getting to Yes. C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $740

Focusing: Treasure Maps to the Soul
Ann Weiser Cornell
Focusing is a body-centered process which you can use to bring clarity and fresh air to all the life issues you face. Eugene Gendlin developed Focusing after researching why psychotherapy doesn’t always succeed. He discovered that successful therapy clients had a vague, hard-to-describe inner awareness, a bodily felt sense about their issues. Listening to the felt sense proved to be a key component of psychological change.

This workshop is an opportunity to learn this gentle, powerful process of bodily attention, to listen to your own felt senses, exploring the subtleties of feeling that are there for you, in an atmosphere of respect and safety.

Ann Weiser Cornell writes: "I have discovered seven Treasure Maps that show where wholeness can come back into your life: self-criticism, confusion, obsessions and secrets, blocks, addictions, depression, and unfulfilled desires. Step by step, I’ll show you how to listen to the parts of you that seem most stuck, and invite them to tell their stories and release. We think we have to push ourselves to change, but inner gentleness and compassion bring change faster.”

This workshop is designed for beginners as well as those familiar with Focusing. Helping professionals can learn powerful tools for working with clients.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $740

Taoist Chi Kung: Enhancing Vitality
Master Share K. Lew

Traditional Taoist concepts of health, longevity, and harmony with nature will be introduced by Master Lew, a monastery-trained Taoist priest from southern China. The core of the workshop will be instruction in the "Shen," a set of twelve Chi Kung exercises (six standing, six sitting) whose primary purpose is self-healing. These rare exercises can also develop better concentration, increase visual and auditory acuity, and enhance sensitivity to oneself and others. Master Lew will discuss the use of everyday foods and Chinese herbs in healing, and tell stories from his life in the monastery.

Master Lew, now seventy-seven, was among the first to openly teach Chi Kung (Taoist internal energy cultivation) to non-Chinese. His monastery style, Tao Ahn Pai, dates back 1300 years to Lui Dong Bin in the Tang Dynasty, who is one of the Eight Immortals of Taoism.

Recommended Reading: Porter, Road to Heaven: Encounters with Chinese Hermits; Deng Ming-Dao, The Wandering Taoist.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $740

Proprioceptive Writing: Demystifying the Creative Process
Linda Trichter-Metcalf & Tobin Simon

“Proprioception” is a physiological term for kinesthetic sensation—feelings that originate in the body's interior. Proprioceptive Writing is a method through which inner intelligence is stimulated: meaning is approached through feeling. The originators of this method will lead participants in an experiential exploration of a simple yet richly subtle method of writing that demystifies the initial stages of the creative process.

Proprioceptive Writing is practiced to music in 25-minute sessions under stress-free conditions, either in groups or alone. This method takes the emphasis off writing and focuses on the experience of inner hearing, activating the auditory imagination—the key to emotion and the path toward feeling. Once participants relax into a listening stance, their psychological space expands and they can begin to speak through their writing with simplicity and strength. Writing becomes textured as well as cathartic. Because this process releases the writer from the painful pressure to produce form, it feels fluent, like meaning in motion. It lets you enter your own mind and forget the world.

This workshop is valuable for people who are seeking a form of written expression, a creative ritual, or a meditative discipline, and also for those who desire increased focus and personal meaning in their lives.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $740

The Future of Leadership: Integrating Creativity, Value, and Accountability
Bruce Gregory

Bruce Gregory writes: "In the future, leaders will work creatively to transform climates of exploitation, frustration, and discomfort with climates of accountability and value."

This workshop is for executives, managers, and others who are committed to improving their leadership skills. The focus will be on:

- Developing skill to respond with creativity—as opposed to reactivity—to communications of blame, defensiveness, manipulation, and intimidation
- Developing skills to transform blame into accountability when facilitating conflict resolution
- Assessing personal needs in order to stay grounded and focused on the achievement of goals and visions
- Exploring internal resources via creative use of unconscious processes to expand availability and trust of these resources

The processes used will include: giving and receiving feedback on communication and leadership styles; mind/body exercises for learning to creatively use the unconscious; and role-playing. Some didactic information will also be covered.

C. E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $740

Awakened Mind II: Advanced Brainwave Training and Transcendent States
Anna Wise

After the initial Awakened Mind brainwave training, how do we develop brainwave states and practice meditations that take us to internal spaces of greater spiritual awareness and transcendence?
Focusing on the union of beta, alpha, theta, and delta brainwaves, participants will explore "the space of consciousness" which can unlock hidden realms of perception and understanding. The group will work with developing concentration and memory, opening up the storehouse of internal energy, deep psychic relaxation, and the expansion of consciousness for self-healing and healing.

To help access and develop higher states of consciousness, a variety of practices will be used, including inner visualization and sensu-alization, Yoga Nidra, Chidakasha meditation, open-eyed brainwave training, Trataka, and Antar Trataka. Participants will also look at how Eastern meditations and visualizations as well as meditations from the tantras are used for personal transformation.

The Mind Mirror EEG will be used to demonstrate and monitor brainwave patterns, and Electrical Skin Resistance Meters will be available to measure the depth of arousal and relaxation.

The seminar is open to anyone who has participated in a previous workshop with Anna Wise.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $380

Taking Care of Yourself While Helping Others: Survival Tools for Service Professionals

Dennis Portnoy

Service professionals—nurses, counselors, educators, administrators, those in helping roles—are at great risk for burnout and decreased effectiveness. In addition to facing increased pressures in the workplace, they frequently perpetuate familiar self-defeating habits of relating, such as over-identifying with their role as helper, taking on too much responsibility for both work and the feelings of others, making everyone else's needs more important than their own, and deriving self-worth from being needed by others. This behavior limits effectiveness personally and professionally and leads to burnout. Participants will be shown ways to:

- Deliver service excellence without becoming overextended
- Distinguish between healthy and unhealthy giving
- Minimize the negative effects of stress in a demanding work environment
- Learn how to protect themselves and recover from continual exposure to other's suffering
- Identify and counteract dysfunctional helping styles

Nonprofessionals who are in a helping role or people involved in taking care of loved ones are also welcome to attend.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $380

Writing and the Act of Creation

George Leonard

Participants will be encouraged to break through ego-barriers and cultural conditioning that inhibit expression. In so doing, they will have a chance to experience the creativity that is inherent in all of life. There will be little in the way of theoretical discussion and no critiques of past works. Simple movement will serve to reduce stress, free the mind, and focus the will. Participants will have the opportunity to write furiously in the here and now and to get immediate feedback. Before the weekend has passed, they in all probability will have completed a short article or fictional work, and will have experienced some of the joys and heartaches that accompany publication. Bring pencils, pens, or portable typewriters—and plenty of paper.

Forgiveness: The Key to Intimacy

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

All life is about relationships. Creating an alive and honest connection with an intimate partner requires us to go deeply into our hearts and allow the courageous self to emerge. This journey to intimacy begins with the path of forgiveness.

How does forgiveness lead to intimacy?

- It allows us to let go of anger, resentment, and grief
- It allows the agitated mind to move more deeply into the healing heart
- It resolves separation from ourselves and from others
- It allows us to give up inflicting punishment on ourselves and others
- It allows us to complete unfinished business

The workshop will present ways to help complete the past, be open to the present, and create the future. It will offer a safe, supportive environment that will include taking risks, intense bodywork, gestalt imagery, dance, and meditation to support the commitment to the process of discovering ourselves.

This workshop can be especially helpful for those dealing with boundary issues, the effects of a dysfunctional family life, or addictions that have been used as a defense against intimacy. It is appropriate for everyone, whether in a good relationship or troubled, as a couple or alone, mother, father, daughter, or son, or in the healing professions. $380

---

Joy, Inspiration, and Hope: A Retreat for Gay Men

Scott Wirth

"As gay men," writes Scott Wirth, "our psychological lives are too often defined in terms of deficit and injury: we are not 'real' men; we are 'sick and sinful'; our lives are being robbed from us by AIDS—the long, dark list goes on. Our gay male psyches are invariably overburdened with the images and emotional residue of victimization, oppression, and tragedy. "Without denying the dark aspects of our lives as gay men, we will emphasize the joyful, inspiring, and hopeful aspects of our histories, present lives, and futures. We will visit five phases of our lives: infancy, boyhood, adolescence, young manhood, and midlife. We will blend together memory, fantasy, and stories we have heard.

"In a series of guided experiential sessions, we will construct and journey through what Jungian analyst Verena Kast has called our 'biography of joy,' this time as gay males. We will discover ways in which our soul remained inwardly steadfast throughout the different phases of our lives, nurturing and protecting us in ways that no parent or caregiver ever did. We will also recall and honor those who supported us—usually unknowingly—in the formation of our gay identity".

If you wish, bring a cassette of music which you find joyous, inspiring, or hopeful (each piece five minutes or less).

Recommended reading: Kast, Joy, Inspiration, and Hope. $380
Week of October 22-27

Esalen Arts Festival
This week Esalen will be hosting its first Arts Festival, a five-day appreciation of the arts, bringing together painters, musicians, dancers, actors, and writers. There will be guest performances, instruction in various art media, poetry readings, multimedia events, and panel discussions. Participants will be offered a range of classes from which to choose, including instruction in painting, sculpting, singing, and dance. A number of events will take place outdoors—on our sloping lawn overlooking the Pacific Ocean, in our new amphitheater and dance platform, and in the Esalen garden. The biggest events will be held in a forum that will comfortably accommodate all participants.

At Catalog publication time, scheduled to appear are several Esalen longtime favorites and some stimulating first-timers. There will also be a number of unannounced surprises. A full schedule will be provided to participants. For up-to-the-minute Festival line-up information, please call 408-642-4765.

Whether you are an artist, an art lover, or an artistic spirit, the Esalen Arts Festival is sure to be a stimulating, enriching, and memorable event.

Please note: Since there will be only 70 beds available this week, early registration is recommended. $740.

Weekend of October 27-29

Introduction to Mindfulness Meditation
James Baraz
Mindfulness—or vipassana—meditation is the practice described by the Buddha for developing wisdom, compassion, and peace. Vipassana, “to see things clearly,” means being mindful of what is actually happening in the present moment. Using the breath, body sensations, thought, and emotions as objects of attention, we can learn to be fully awake and bring a balanced awareness to all aspects of our lives.

Through vipassana meditation we can experience the nature of reality as continuous change. When we see that all phenomena are impermanent, we can begin to let go of clinging to the pleasant or avoiding the unpleasant. We are then more capable of meeting each situation with spontaneity, fearlessness, and love. Meditation also teaches us to see in each moment the interconnectedness of all things. Our hearts open to a natural expression of compassion and kindness.

Participants will be introduced to this method of meditation practice and the principles on which it is based. There will be periods of silent sitting and walking meditation, as well as discussion. As attention is brought to all activities at Esalen, individuals will continue to develop mindfulness through the weekend. This will provide a foundation for applying mindfulness practice to everyday life.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $380.

The Art and Craft of Screenplay
Lewis John Carlino
This work will be an exploration into the form of the screenplay. It will examine questions of story, plot, character, theme, and images, with particular emphasis on what constitutes a dramatic action and the pitfalls encountered in building sound film structure.

The group will investigate the seeds of creativity, its blocks, and what can and cannot be taught about screenwriting. Participants will write their own short motion picture scenarios which will then be analyzed by the group.

Lewis John Carlino is a screenwriter, playwright, and director. Among his films are The Great Santini, Resurrection, I Never Promised You a Rose Garden, and The Sailor Who Fell from Grace with the Sea.

Recommended reading: Aristotle, Poetics; Froug, The Screenwriter Looks at the Screenwriter; Goldman, Adventures in the Screen Trade. $380.

A Massage Workshop for Women
Ingrid May & Ellen Watson
This is a weekend massage workshop for women of all ages and backgrounds who wish to learn in a nurturing and supportive setting how to give and receive massage. The workshop will enable participants to master some fundamentals of bodywork as developed by Esalen massage practitioners, including grounding, movement, and breath awareness. This is an invitation for women to rediscover the innate wisdom of the body and to honor and celebrate being female. $380.

Horror and the Holy: Wisdom-Teachings of the Monster Tale
Kirk Schneider
What makes horror films and books so compelling? What fascinates us about the macabre, extreme, or ostensibly repellent? What can we learn from these tales—about ourselves, spirituality, and the direction and values of our society?

In this workshop, Kirk Schneider will utilize films, stories, and experiential exercises to shed light on these questions. He will show that despite classic horror's reputation for sensationalism, it has a rich and underappreciated insight into the human condition—and into the most timely questions of our age.

Dr. Schneider will explore such themes as the fascinating in the terrifying, the terrifying in the fascinating, the interplay of despair and fanaticism, and the redemptive element in despair and fanaticism, indeed in horror itself: wonderment.

Discussion, self-exploration, and the play of ideas will be encouraged.

CoHousing: Creating Your Own Community
Kathryn McCamant & Charles Durrett
Dramatic demographic and economic changes have created a mismatch between today's household and most conventional American housing. Households experience this mismatch as they face a child care crisis, deepening isolation, and a chronic time crunch. Things we once took for granted—family, community, a sense of belonging—now be actively sought out.

CoHousing addresses many of these needs. Developed by the residents themselves, CoHousing communities are made up of private dwellings complemented by extensive common facilities. Each dwelling is autonomous, yet the common house, with the opportunity for shared dinners and child care, is a focal point of the community.

This workshop gives participants an overview of organizing, planning, and designing a CoHousing community, from site acquisition, group process, development, and design, to construction and management.
Topics will include:

- An overview of the CoHousing development process, from initial meetings to moving in
- Development strategies and the advantages/disadvantages of working with a developer
- Forming and working with a group, and organizing for effective decision making
- Financial options—ownership structures and money realities
- Designing for community—architectural considerations
- The next steps—your role, the group's role, services of professionals
- What other CoHousing groups are doing—the network and how to plug in

Recommended reading: McCamant and Durrett, CoHousing: A Contemporary Approach to Housing Ourselves. $380

October 29—November 10

Integrative Body Psychotherapy (IBP): Professional Training Program
Jack Rosenberg & Beverly Kitaen Morse
For workshop description see Special Programs, pages 56-57. $1795

Week of October 29—November 3

Five-Day Massage Intensive
Kathleen O'Shaughnessy & Dean Marson
This workshop is designed for those who are just beginning to explore Esalen massage as deep communication. The central theme will be primary approaches to full-body massage, which the leaders will introduce through demonstration and experiential exchanges. Self-awareness through movement, yoga stretches, and Zen meditation will be used to enhance the senses. Discussion will offer insights into various approaches to bodywork and how they address both the physiological and the mental/emotional body.
C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $740

Life as Art—Art as Life
Wes “Scoop” Nisker & Nina Wise
Most of us spend our days concerned with the grocery list of life's demands, paying the bills, keeping the gas tank filled, maintaining our hairdos, and boiling the water for pasta. But just below the surface of our polite and upright lives lurks the living room dancer, the singing poet in the shower, and the storytelling fool.
The Hindus call life "leila," the sport of the gods. This workshop is about stepping onto the playing field. We will lift the serious veil of purpose and meaning so that our true nature, which is inherently playful, can emerge. Give up on self-transformation, forget about being politically correct or spiritually advanced, this is a come-as-you are party!
Using stories from our lives, we will make art in a safe and supportive environment. Participants will be guided in vocal and movement exercises, theater games, storytelling, and imaginative meditations. We will create performances for and with one another by allowing the characters within us to have a voice. We will turn life into art. Bring your lipstick, your tutu, your cowboy boots, your smoking jacket, your worst memories, your favorite dance steps, and your bag of confetti. $740

Transition, Risk, and Renewal:
Mastering the Art of Change
David Schiffman & Susan Kuttner
David Schiffman writes: “During the last twenty-five years I have had the privilege of being a midwife for an extraordinary variety of people facing major transitions in life. During this week we will share and explore those influences, inner resources, and natural rhythms that best support real, healthy, sustainable change. Our aim will be to cultivate the emotional poise, mental clarity, energetic flexibility, and stamina necessary to face life’s inevitable challenges in a timely, graceful, and thoroughly effective manner. Participants will be encouraged to initiate attention and support for themselves both in the group and upon returning home in fresh and innovative ways that can minimize unnecessary suffering, fatigue, and wasted time.
Vocal Awareness: Empowerment Through Voice

Arthur Joseph

In many traditions, the throat is the center of creative power. The voice represents this power, and thereby has the capacity to help access our full creative expression. This course combines the powerful techniques of Vocal Awareness with the principles of creativity theory to help participants realize their creative potential.

Vocal Awareness introduces techniques which are integral to this development process. This approach—which views voice as a metaphor, representing an individual to the world—includes vocalizing, sound meditation, movement, song study, and development of the speaking voice as a means for deepening contact with the self. Participants will work individually and in groups exploring breathing, toning, and vocalizing.

Singing and speaking offer an immediate outlet for creative expression. In addition, the voice can become a springboard for other forms of creative expression, such as writing, drawing, movement, and problem solving. In this way, the voice becomes a metaphor for the whole person as an integrated creative being. Consequently, this workshop can be not only a vocal training class but a step toward empowerment along life's path.

Please note: Participants are required to bring tape recorders.

Weekend of November 3-5

Releasing the Warrior: Assault Prevention for Women

André Salvage

The ancient warriors of old had it. Many of the great seers had it. Once in a while you'll see it in the eyes of a stranger, a woman in the market, or even in a child. There is no fear, no resentment, no paranoia. There is only a peaceful awareness that allows these warriors to walk through any city with the confidence that they can defend themselves.

This type of power is accessible to all of us. During this workshop, Master André Salvage will share how to develop a true reliance on your intuition to trust when something feels wrong, to assert yourself in a way to prevent inappropriate behavior that leads to harm, and, finally, how to physically stop an attacker.

This program was developed in response to Salvage's own experience of trauma and tragedy in the crime-ridden neighborhoods of South Central Los Angeles. He combines the practical knowledge and survival savvy of a former street fighter with the compassionate understanding of a teacher who can help release the latent warrior in us all.

Intimate Connections

Mariah Fenton Cladis

Creating stable and fulfilling relationships is a challenge that everyone faces. To be successful, human relating must be understood and accepted as an activity, an ability that requires movement, purpose, emotional capacity, and contact skills. People often believe that good relating evolves naturally, but they discover in the routine of living with families, friends, and lovers that, in truth, they have not been adequately prepared to meet the demands of loving relationships.

This workshop will focus on the nature and basic requirements of healthy relationships. It will offer participants opportunities to assess their abilities and disabilities, to develop awareness, and to practice risk-taking positive action with others. It is for anyone who has "hit the wall" in a relationship or who has experienced being stuck at some seemingly impenetrable contact boundary and wants to break through. Particularly helpful for adult children of dysfunctional families, ACAs, and human relations professionals, this experiential and didactic workshop will blend individual and group gestalt work, spiritual healing, bodywork, and personal metaphor.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $380

The Healing Power of the Dream: A Dreamwork Seminar for Professionals

Joyce Frazee

Each night we dream,
Each dream a work of art,
Each work of art a healing...

This seminar will reveal how simple approaches to the art and artfulness of dreams can reveal the healing power of the dream.

Joyce Frazee writes: "As health care professionals, we receive many questions from clients about their dreams. Also, we ourselves wonder about our dreams. Who are these strangers and acquaintances, friends and lovers who come to visit us at night—often bizarrely different from their daytime roles? Who are these monsters and attackers?"

This weekend workshop will focus on techniques for working with dreams, including how to use dreamwork for therapeutic intervention and how to use dreams to uncover body memories. Storytelling, role-playing, drawing, dancing, meditation, and gestalt will also be used to learn how the dream itself—and the understanding of the dream—can be the healer.

Please note: Nonprofessionals are welcome.

C. E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $380

Esalen Massage Intensive

Brita Ostrom & Laurie Schutz

The body is the soul, presented in its richest and most expressive form.

- Thomas Moore

Massage is a satisfying way to "come home," an experience that can unify body and mind—and connect with spirit. Sharing a massage can also heighten intuitive, nonverbal connectedness. In this workshop, participants will learn to reach out from their center to touch another, to heighten awareness, and to ease painful holding patterns. In the exchange process, they will also learn to receive more fully.

Group members will be guided through the body via touch and movement to learn the elemental skills of Esalen massage. The physiology of breath and relaxation will be illustrated and the psychological impact of touch in one's personal history will be explored. There will be plenty of time for supervised practice and for questions of individual concerns.

This workshop is for individuals who want to learn massage basics or add another approach to giving massage, anyone searching for a retreat from the mental chatter of the workplace, and those engaged in their own personal healing journey.

Please bring a large towel.

C. E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $380
The Upledger Institute's CranioSacral I

Robert Harris

CranioSacral Therapy is a gentle, non-invasive, hands-on technique that helps detect and correct imbalances in the CranioSacral System which may be the cause of sensory, motor, or intellectual dysfunction. It is used to treat a myriad of health problems including headaches, neck and back pain, TMJ dysfunction, chronic fatigue, motor coordination difficulties, eye problems, endogenous depression, hyperactivity, and central nervous system disorders.

Participants will learn the detailed anatomy and physiology of the CranioSacral System, its functions in health, and its relationship to the disease processes. Half of the class time will be "hands-on," developing the sensitive palpatory skills needed to detect subtle stimuli in the human body.

Class material will concentrate on palpation and its potential range as an evaluative and therapeutic process; fascial and soft tissue release techniques; and the pressurestat model which explains the mechanism of the CranioSacral System. Participants will learn a concise 10-step protocol for evaluation and treatment of the entire body. By the end of this intensive program, participants will be able to identify and localize significant restrictions and imbalances in the CranioSacral System.

For more information see Special Programs, page 56.

C. E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $740

Psychotherapy as Spiritual Practice: The Method of Loving Presence

Ron Kurtz

True love is no game of the faint-hearted and the weak. It is born of strength and understanding.

— MEHER BABA

How do we become full human beings? Where do we find the strength for "true love" and how do we develop "true love," the kind of presence that tells clients, "nevertheless there is meaning"? How do we express all this first as qualities we bring to relationship and finally as method and technique? In what ways is psychotherapy basically a spiritual discipline?

This workshop will approach these questions of wisdom of Buddhism and Taoism and the teaching methods of Hakomi Body-Centered Psychotherapy. The emphasis will be on discovery, particularly the discovery of how we do what we do by being who we are. The group will also study how the images and energies which give rise to this way of being are evoked, nourished, and sustained.

The work will be experiential, with short talks, exercises, and demonstrations. And, of course, there will be laughing, singing, dancing, and otherwise behaving with love and joy. $740

Creating Exact Moments of Healing

Mariah Fenton Gladis

Adult children of alcoholic, dysfunctional, or abusive families (ACAs) must walk a road of recovery that requires determination, lifelong commitment, and the creation of specific moments of healing. This workshop offers participants an opportunity to take a major step toward health, helping them define a plan for necessary moments they must create so they can move forward, transforming their personal history from one of liability to one of strength and wisdom. Focus will be on the promotion of healing:

- With oneself—developing awareness, freedom from addictions, and healing of the body and soul from the residual effects of trauma
- With others—improving one's capacity for moving out of isolation and into direct, open communication and trust; expanding intimacy skills while securing healthy boundaries
- In the world—moving away from chaos and deprivation toward stability and abundance
- Spiritually—searching for the meaning of one's history and accessing that part of the self that can utilize universal blessings

This workshop will be experiential and didactic, blending individual and group gestalt work, music, spiritual practices, and bodywork. A step-by-step recovery process developed by the leader will be incorporated throughout the workshop. The atmosphere will be one of trust and mutual support. This workshop is also appropriate for professionals who work with ACAs.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $740

Courage

Joyce Frazee

In the mouth of the dragon there are many jewels.

— BUDDHIST PROVERB

For some of us it takes courage just to live our daily lives. Every day we awaken to face the demons in our lives—demons that come in many forms: perfectionism, guilt, avoidance, shame, despair, failure. Time passes and we become skillful at living despite the constant awareness that these demons are preventing us from experiencing the fullness of life. Their existence drains our energy and limits our joy and freedom. But getting close to them, allowing ourselves to confront them, is very difficult to do.

This week will give us an opportunity to find the courage to face our demons. Participants will be encouraged to look at the things in their lives that are difficult to face and will be given support to help recognize and confront them. This will be done through gestalt practice, dreamwork, and bioenergetics. Drawing, dance, and meditation may also be used to recover the jewels from the dragon. $740

Mindfulness and the Pursuit of Intimacy

James Baraz & Steven Newmark

Forming meaningful intimate relationships can be a painful and confusing process. We may meet someone who seems like a promising potential partner, have the highest intentions to act with honesty and sensitivity, and still find our hopes ending in disappointment. By becoming aware of unconscious patterns that sabotage real intimacy, there is a greater possibility of creating the kind of bond we are seeking.
Bringing a spiritual dimension to the challenge of being single allows us to shift our perspective and not take our predicament quite so seriously. Using mindfulness practice we can see through identification with negative thoughts that block our natural expression of love and presence. As a result, we can move toward more honest, centered, spontaneous communication that puts others at ease and makes us attractive to them.

Through frank discussions and experiential exercises this workshop will explore the challenge of forming new relationships consciously so that barriers that keep us apart can be dissolved. A safe, supportive environment will help participants to be genuine, have fun, and learn to use relationship as a vehicle to become more awake in life.

$380

Introduction to Gestalt Practice

Christine Stewart Price

The Way, when declared
Seems so thin and flavorless.
Nothing to look at, nothing to hear—
And when used—is inexhaustible.

—Lao Tzu

Gestalt practice is a form—nonanalytic, noncoercive, nonjudgmental—evolving out of the work of Fritz Perls. The work integrates ways of personal clearing and development that are both ancient and modern. To the extent that awareness is made primary relative to action, gestalt practice has a strong relationship to some forms of meditation and visualization. This form is similar to some Reichian work as well, in that emotional and energetic release and rebalancing are allowed and encouraged.

The emphasis is intrapersonal rather than interpersonal. It is explicitly understood that participants are not patients but persons actively consenting to work (or play) in awareness. The leader functions to reflect, clarify, and respect whatever emerges in this process. The aim is unfoldment, wholeness, and growth, rather than adjustment, cure or accomplishment. Through group exercises, meditations, and discussion, this workshop will introduce participants to the gestalt practice approach. Open seat work may be demonstrated.

Recommended reading: Perls, Gestalt Therapy Verbatim; Chodron, The Wisdom of No Escape.

C. E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $380

Sensory Awareness

Charlotte Selver

Some seventy years ago Charlotte Selver's teacher, Elsa Gindler, began exploring the natural potential of the human being. The work that evolved was an approach through a disciplined practice involving the person as total organism. Gindler's innovative methods very often unearthed, liberated, and cultivated abilities and sensitivities which her students had never been conscious of possessing.

To "awaken" means that one's energies—neuromuscular and perceptive—become altered, leading to greater movability, both psychologically and physically, and to a fuller use of the senses and intuitive powers. For this to occur, a deeper peace is needed so that sensations become clearer and rigidities, pressures, and preconceptions can gradually dissolve. In becoming "tuned in" by another person, or by a task or given situation, powers arise and come into play which correspond exactly to the demands of the occasion. This calls for permissiveness, subtle reactivity, and openness to the moment.

With the cultivation of these functions, our lives can unfold in a far richer and more responsive way than what we are used to. We can restore the delight of ever new experiencing which was our birthright in childhood, but lost in the course of our education into adulthood.

Recommended reading: Brooks, Sensory Awareness.

C. E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $380

Money: Myths, Lies, and Financial Independence

Dennis Stearns

It's been said that even sex is easier to talk about than money. This workshop offers a healthy discussion of money, its myths and lies, along with how to achieve success on your financial independence journey. Dennis Stearns has over fifteen years of experience helping people find a peaceful coexistence with money-related issues. Among the questions to be explored:

• How can I free myself from money worries?
• How can children and grandchildren be taught healthy attitudes toward finance in our money-driven society?
• How can we help elderly parents deal with living longer, nursing homes, and limited financial resources?
• What are step-by-step investment and estate techniques to help our family stay financially balanced?

Special group discussions will help you solve problems in a relaxed setting with no "sales pitch." Spouses are encouraged to attend, since many of the most successful people utilize interdependence and family support systems. Advanced techniques will be presented in layman's terms. Take an important step toward freeing yourself from money worries.

$380
The Transformational Enneagram: Mindfulness, Insight, and Experience
Don Richard Riso & Russ Hudson
Much is said about the transformative aspects of the Enneagram, and yet little has been demonstrated about how it can be used for transforming the personality. People are finding that it is not enough to meditate on the higher aspects of the types to bring the passions into balance: it is first necessary to use the Enneagram as a guide for uncovering our psychological wounds and to experience the many ways in which our personality acts as a defensive structure.

This advanced workshop will focus on integrating insight into the inner logic of the types with meditation practices and experiential work. The personality types will be viewed as patterns of object relations, habitual attentional orientations, and emotional reactions which prevent us from experiencing our essence. While our type usually obscures our true nature with a characteristic web of identifications, it can also serve as an opening to the deeper reality of spirit. Conversational instruction will be combined with guided meditation, small group work, music, and other tools so that the Enneagram can truly help us live a life of presence, compassion, and joy. Some familiarity with Don Riso’s Personality Types or Understanding the Enneagram is required.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $3325

Instant Dreams: The Polaroid Transfer
Cynthia Johnson-Bianchetta
Often referred to as “crossover” art, Polaroid transfers blur the distinction between photography and watercolor, possessed of an ethereal quality that transcends photographic rendition and plays on the viewer’s imagination with dreamlike effect. Each image becomes a personal statement with a handmade, one-of-a-kind quality.

In this workshop participants will learn the Polaroid transfer process, transferring slides onto watercolor paper and hand-coloring them. The emphasis will be on connecting the image-making process to internal process so that photography can become a tool for awareness and growth. Movement, intuition, and play will all be vehicles for this journey.

Please bring a 35MM camera you are familiar with, as well as a journal. A list of film and additional necessary materials will be supplied upon registration. $740

Healing from Sexual Trauma: A Seven-Day Intensive for Survivors
Carolyn Braddock & Guest Staff
Healing does not have to be a struggle—healing can be gentle, sensitive, and friendly. In a week of safety, exploration, and integration, this intensive will explore the belief systems of the sexual trauma survivor’s body, mind, and spirit. Using a gentle approach, the workshop will offer innovative and creative possibilities for healing.

Since the body was where the trauma occurred, the focus will be on body-oriented healing. Attention will be paid to how trauma Affects flashbacks and dissociation, old patterns, addictions, and the ability to let go. Participants will learn and practice specific tools for wholeness: humor, energy awareness, gestalt, role-playing, breath, sound, movement, meditation, Tai Ji, and play. Different sessions will focus on sexuality, relationships, touch and intimacy, and creating new patterns. Video demonstrations and a Braddock Body Process Manual will be used. Individual work within the group will be possible.

To register for this seminar, completion of an application questionnaire is necessary. This is to provide some history and to help determine what support could be available during the week. For an application, please contact the leader at: 333 S. Allison Parkway, #304, Lakewood, CO 80226-3115, or call 303-985-7310.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $1110

Weekend of November 17-19

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see September 8-10. $380

Angels

Sophy Burnham

What is an angel? Are they real? When and why and how do they appear? Why to some people and not to others, and why on one occasion and not another? If there are indeed attending angels, what do we do to call their help? What happens to you after you see an angel or have a miracle that saves your life? What then?

What then, indeed. As Sophy Burnham writes: "In this two-day workshop, we shall use meditations, exercises, and especially participant interactions to tell our stories, strengthen our bonds with spiritual companions, as well as consider questions of suffering and pain, peace and love, prayer, the human physiology and brain, our missions on this plane, and where the angels are leading us on this journey of our lives." $380

Action Theater: The Improvisation of Presence

Ruth Zaporah

Action Theater is a physical theater training that offers a way to proceed toward lively, spontaneous expression. Its exercises invite exploration into the direct experience of sensation/feeling/action. This quiets the conceptual mind, the mind that forgives ahead leaving the body behind, the mind that limits experience. The exercises encourage the development of diverse skills: movement, acting, voice, and partner and ensemble relating.

Participants can increase the ability to hold and express emotion. They will learn how to embody action, to elicit images from an enlivened imagination, and to recover lost personal material. Every exercise works simultaneously in all of these directions, creating a reciprocation between exploration and communication. In a larger sense, every exercise addresses a present relationship between intention and awareness and expands the possibilities of both.

This training is appropriate for anyone interested in the dynamics that support the relationship between consciousness, action, and communication.

Recommended reading: Zaporah, Action Theater: The Improvisation of Presence. $380

Week of November 19-24

Turning on the Light: A Choice to LiveConsciously

Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prila) & Guest Leaders

For workshop description see September 17-22.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $740

ISHTA: The Yoga of Empowerment

Rod Stryker

Rod Stryker writes: "Every human being already has all that is required to realize deep and meaningful fulfillment. Our deepest desires, often hidden or misunderstood, are the guideposts to our ultimate destiny. By leading us to the direct experience of who we are, the practices of ISHTA (Integrated Science of Hatha and Tantric Arts) Yoga can make us aware of and sensitize us to our innate physical, intellectual, energetic, and spiritual gifts."

The course will include daily yoga routines to strengthen and purify the body, breathing practices for rejuvenation and healing, and meditation (including yogic visualization practices) to still the mind and deepen the experience of Self. It will also include open discussion and some theory, and will employ the majesty of the Esalen surroundings to nourish the journey toward wholeness and integration.

Previous yoga experience is recommended but not necessary. For further information, please contact Rod Stryker at 310-364-4698. $740

---

Weekend of November 24-26

The Patterns of Life

Fritjof Capra & Chungliang Al Huang

Throughout the history of philosophy and science there has been a tension between substance and form, contents and pattern. In the West, the study of contents ("basic building blocks") dominated all science until recently. In the East, especially in China, the acceptance and awareness of the "Larger Pattern"— Tao Hsing, which includes both substance and form, contents and patterns—has always been predominant.

In this workshop, Fritjof Capra will show how the study of pattern has informed the latest developments in science—systems theory, chaos theory, fractal geometry, and more.
Chungliang Al Huang will complement this approach by demonstrating through Tai Ji movement meditation, Chinese philosophy, and brush calligraphic symbols how the study of pattern is at the very center of ancient Taoist wisdom.

This workshop unites two longtime friends from opposite cultural backgrounds to share a synthesis of East and West in a stimulating exploration of lifelong learning.

Ramakrishna Today
Andrew Harvey

Using the parables, conversations, and teachings of Ramakrishna, the great Bengali saint and child of the Mother, Andrew Harvey will complete a vision of the mystic path in today's world. Starting with Ramakrishna's revolutionary vision of the Divine Mother as the force and truth underlying all paths and ways of knowing God, Harvey will explore the stages of mystical growth, the necessity of prayer and urgent devotion, and how one's deepening love of God flowers in service to fellow beings.

The weekend will be rooted in stories of Ramakrishna's life and in the pithy and vibrant parables that Ramakrishna used to open the souls of his disciples. For Ramakrishna and those who follow his way of the Mother, final spiritual mystery consists in being able to give birth in reality to one's own inner divine child. In this workshop
Harvey hopes to enable all participants to awaken their inner divine child and establish a direct relationship with it and the Mother.

Week of November 26-
December 1

Feldenkrais®: Life, Learning, and Movement
Mark Reese & Donna Ray-Reese

The Feldenkrais® Method is a somatic learning-based approach to health and personal growth with profound implications for many professions—rehabilitation, psychology, education, performing arts, athletics, and gerontology. This approach was originally developed by Israeli physicist, judo teacher, and somatic practitioner Moshe Feldenkrais, who based his discoveries on a synthesis of physical, biological, and human science, and a self-guided body/mind reeducation prompted by crippling knee injuries.

In this workshop the leaders will guide participants through an in-depth exploration of The Feldenkrais Method through effortless body/mind movement exercises, discussions, and demonstrations. The workshop will include specific exercises for the back, neck, shoulders, breathing, and posture, and introduce basic principles of the Feldenkrais hands-on work, Functional Integration®.
Participants will be taught methods to develop bodily coordination, flexibility, efficiency, pleasure, and grace of motion, as well as improved mental and emotional functioning.
The workshop will also teach movement-based approaches to psychological learning, as well as the revolutionary scientific concepts underlying the Feldenkrais Method.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61.  $740
The Power of Growth
Seymour Carter

Everyone has unused capacities for further personal development. When these capacities are recognized and given attention, a natural force is released which, like a tide, can carry the individual to a higher level of ability and action. Fritz Perls taught how to recognize the force of avoided issues in dealing with blocked energies. When unfinished issues are confronted and assimilated, it is possible to feel potent and in charge of one's life.

In this workshop, participants will deal with these issues by examining the influence of the inner dialogue on thoughts and the nature of impasse, as well as tendencies within themselves toward psychological completion and well-being. The gestalt method, supported by studies in various body disciplines, including sensory awareness, bioenergetics, and aikido. Each participant's process of development will be honored, encouraged, and treated as unique.

Weekend of December 1-3

All Our Relations:
Shamanism and Ecopsychology
Leslie Gray

Leading-edge psychologists contend that we cannot have sanity without a sane relationship with the environment. Some psychotherapists are beginning to feel their work is "irrelevant" as they increasingly encounter analyisis-weary patients seeking a sense of "connectedness." Meanwhile, eco-activists have been concluding that guilt tactics are not producing the changes in human behavior required for planetary restoration. Indeed, the thinking on the ecological frontiers is that our key to survival lies in the formation of an empathic relationship with the earth.

This workshop will demonstrate the critical link between shamanism and the emerging ecopsychology movement. Ancient shamanic practices will be used to address contemporary ecopsychological dilemmas. Participants will work with plants, stones, feathers, and fetish animals to make tangible the shamanic worldview that "all things are related." Cleansing, purifying herbs, simple repetitive movement, and the sound of the drum will be tools for self-empowerment to become visionaries of a sustainable future. Leslie will share songs, rituals, and stories learned from her Native American elders—for these are the ways human beings have traditionally maintained an emotional connection to Mother Earth and the awesome diversity of creatures that live upon her.
Dancing Backwards in High Heels: Women's Resilience and Love

Patricia O'Gorman & Julie Bowden

Ginger Rogers did everything Fred Astaire did. She just did it backwards and in high heels.
—FORMER TEXAS GOVERNOR ANN RICHARDS

“As women,” write the leaders, “we develop our own natural resilience based on the challenges and reinforcements we experience growing up. In no area is this more evident than in love relationships, where we must learn how much to yield, how much to retain, how much to give, and how much to ask for.

“Resilience is the ability to take life’s challenges and adversities—life’s lemons—and create a sweeter existence. It rests on a balance of self-regard and regard for others. Our ability to love and build fulfilling relationships depends upon our ability to achieve that balance between our independence (our wholeness) and our vulnerability (our need for others).

“This workshop can help you resume control over your life, prepare you to make better choices, and enhance your ability to meet individual goals and priorities. Come explore, deepen, and celebrate the resilience we bring to our relationships.”

Patricia O'Gorman and Julie Bowden are two of the founders of the adult child and codependence movement. $380

Improvisational Wisdom: Finding the Robin Williams Within

Paula Shaw

The nature of creativity is elusive. Our most creative moments often seem to come from nowhere and happen when we least expect them. Einstein's theory of relativity came to him suddenly and unscientifically, and Mozart saw many of his greatest compositions complete in a single vision. At the other end of the spectrum, we marvel at the lightning-quick humor of Robin Williams, a brilliance that seems boundless. What are the conditions that put us in touch with our own creativity and brilliance, and how do we access them?

This weekend is an introduction to letting go of your programmed patterns and discovering the joy of spontaneous creation. The first premise of improvisational theater games (which Robin Williams claims unleashed him) is to “go in blank.” Within the game structures, participants are coached to be receptive—stop, look, and listen; deny nothing; release control; let go of planning ahead. This process can help you to trust your own intuition, sense of humor, eloquence, and physical grace, and let you get out of your own way to make room for exhilarating flashes of creative brilliance. The workshop is also just a lot of fun. $380

Week of December 3-8

Writing Through Loss

Nancy Bacal

To write from the heart is to heal the heart...

One of life’s unavoidable realities is that we all experience loss. Whether it be with love, death, youth, health, marriage, work, or a moment of pure grace, we are all subject to the laws of impermanence. Loss inevitably involves pain. Pain becomes suffering when we shut down and resist the natural rhythms of mourning and change.

A time of loss is a time of vulnerability. It can also be an opportunity to awaken to a new perspective of life. This workshop is intended to help participants reopen to joy through surrender and the expression of our deeper feelings. Rather than feel diminished by what is gone, we will utilize it as material for writing. Even the cruelest tragedy can be transformed through the practice of writing and the telling of story. As we write, we come to know ourselves; as we share, we move out of isolation. As the dark riches of our lives are released, they deepen our emotional and creative lives and inspire the journey of our companions.

Meditation and movement will be included, but our primary tools will be pen and paper. More than skill, enthusiasm for the writing process and a desire for change are the main requirements.

Recommended reading: Beck, Everyday Zen in Work and Love; Goldberg, Writing Down the Bones; Chodron, Start Where You Are. $740

The Evolution of Desire: Sex, Love, Jealousy, and Human Nature

Jed Diamond

How we choose and lose our mates has been a source of fascination and confusion for men and women throughout history. Fear and desire fuel the battle of the sexes, which seems to produce more and more casualties despite our best efforts at healing.

This workshop will explore what’s behind casual sex, as well as short-term and long-term relationships. It will show why men and women differ in what they want in a mate and why people confuse addictive “love” with healthy intimacy. It will offer a model for developing satisfying relationships that work.

The leader's wide-ranging experience in this field as well as the most recent discoveries in evolutionary psychology will help to answer many of the most perplexing questions we face, including:

- If we all want love, why is there so much conflict in our intimate relationships?
- Why do men often complain that they don't get enough sex, and women that they don't get enough intimacy?
- Are there universal male and female desires that cut across cultures?
- What light can evolutionary psychology shed on human nature and the problems in the world? $740

The MAX: Stretching the Limits of Your Self-Expression

Paula Shaw

“The MAX” is an outrageous voyage through your own humanity—a journey to turn yourself inside out and explore the extent of your self-expressive power. It employs a variety of acting, observation, and communication methods designed to expand your limits “to the max” and move you into a new arena of personal creativity and self-expression.

“The MAX” is extremely challenging. Participants must commit to a rigorous exploration of the sources of their emotional limitations. Seminar hours will be longer than usual early in the week (and shorter later in the week). Participants will work individually in front of the room, playing to and with other group members. There will be exercises that use raw emotion, role-playing, and “dress-up” assignments.

This workshop is an opportunity to experience yourself in a way you may have dreamed about but never imagined possible. The game is risk, the premise: You’re either daring or dead—the most unsafe thing you can do in life is to play it safe. Clearly, this course is not for the faint of heart, but it is full of heart, humor, and irreverence and is constructed with the understanding that this kind of risk-taking requires a very safe workspace.

556
If your heart beats faster when you think of taking this workshop, then maybe it’s just the thing to do. Come play!

Please note: Due to the intense and sequential nature of this workshop, attendance at all sessions is necessary.

Required: A 1-3 minute memorized piece—monologue, poem, song, etc.  $740

---

Weekend of December 8-10

The Artist’s Way: The Vein of Gold

Julia Cameron & Mark Bryan

Every blade of grass has its Angel that bends over it and whispers, “Grow. Grow.”
—— The Talmud

All of us are creative, with a “vein of gold,” an area where our gifts operate smoothly, even brilliantly. This intensive course in creativity as a spiritual path is designed to amplify each individual’s unique voice—the voice of the Original Self—through creative exercises in writing, storytelling, making art and music, and intensive work with our own narrative timelines.

The workshop will focus on the “myths and monsters” that stand between us and our full creative potential. It will help participants to move beyond shame and creative constriction to dissolve fear, remove emotional scar tissue, and strengthen conscious contact with the divine. Special importance will be given to clarifying individual veins of gold, understanding our particular lenses of perception, and looking for clues to the nature of our “karmic jobs.”

For those already in touch with their creative veins of gold, this course offers concrete methods for reaching even richer sources. For those not yet employing their creativity, it can help free the way to uncover the vital and unique Original Self.  $380

---

The Good Divorce

Connie Ahrons

Most of us think of divorce as marking the end of a relationship, something to survive and then get over. Yet the reality—especially for those of us with children from that marriage—is that the divorce remains with us for the rest of our lives, a relationship full of confusing ambiguities.

Although it was anger that helped to mobilize the “break-out” from a painful relationship, it often masks deeper emotions. Most of us still have unresolved issues with our exes that are reactivated in new relationships and during the many life transitions—grandchildren, illnesses, deaths—that thrust us together with ex-spouses.

In this workshop, participants will work to identify their “stuck” places to better understand what keeps them from letting go of the old anger and integrating the divorce into their lives. The workshop will incorporate storytelling, role-playing, small group experiential exercises, and group discussion to defuse anger, identify gender-related issues, and remember and reconnect with the good and loving aspects of ex-partners.

The workshop is for anyone who is divorced. Come alone, with exes, or with new partners.  $380

---

Weekend of December 10-15

Esalen will be closed to the public during these five days.

---

Weekend of December 15-17

The Healing Power of Humor, Compassion, and Gentle Touch: The Rubenfeld Synergy Method

Ilana Rubenfeld

“Humor lightened the dark, painful places in my life and helped me onto a path of healing,” writes Ilana Rubenfeld. This workshop is for people who want to include humor, movement, body language, and compassionate touch as a way of taking care of themselves personally, professionally, and spiritually.

Using the Rubenfeld Synergy Method, a healing system for the dynamic integration of body, mind, emotions, and spirit, participants will have the opportunity to listen, recognize, and work through feelings and memories locked in their bodies.

The workshop will use body/mind exercises, individual demonstrations, hands-on practice, dreamwork, gestalt practice, and music, all designed to support contacting, releasing, transforming, and balancing the energy of inner body language.

The workshop atmosphere will be one of caring, healing, laughter, tears, and inspiration—encouraging participants to experience empowerment, integration, and new possibilities.

Recommended reading: Rubenfeld, Twenty-Five Years of Simple (available through The Rubenfeld Center, 115 Waverly Place, New York, NY 10011).

Participation in this workshop fulfills one of the requirements for acceptance into the Rubenfeld Synergy Training Program.  $380

---

Energy, Resources, Environment, Development, and Security

Amory Lovins

Energy policy is well along in a revolution which Amory Lovins’s 1976 Foreign Affairs article helped to launch, redefining the problem as not simply where to get more energy—of any kind, from any source, at any price—but rather how to find just the amount, type, scale, and source that would do each desired task at the least cost. This end-use/least-cost approach has proven fruitful in examining a wide range of issues, from the efficient use of water and minerals to the interlinked problems of sustainable economic development, redefining security, rethinking agriculture, and protecting the earth.

Understanding the links between these subjects often makes it possible to solve many problems at once. This seminar will begin with energy—chiefly its efficient use and renewable supply—both as factual background and conceptual launching pad for related issues. It will then branch out in the directions of most interest to participants, emphasizing interconnections and vision across boundaries between various disciplines. Modest acquaintance with numbers and economic fundamentals will be helpful, though not essential, as the seminar is equally concerned with social, political, and ethical issues, and with practical methods of implementation, drawing on participants’ diverse perspectives.  $380
The Ohashiatsu Method

Ohashi

Combining elements of the philosophy and practices of Oriental healing with psychological and spiritual components, Ohashiatsu is a method of bodywork offering both giver and receiver an experience of self-development and healing. Ohashiatsu expands awareness of self and others through movement, meditation, and touch. As a holistic method, it emphasizes sensing and working with overall energy flow throughout the body to create balance and facilitate the body's own natural impulse to heal itself, relieving aches, tension, stress, and fatigue to induce a state of peaceful well-being.

The format of the course is lecture, demonstration, and hands-on practice, presenting basic Ohashiatsu techniques that can be used immediately with family, friends, and clients—techniques which can both benefit professionals from other fields of touch therapy and provide beginners with a good start.

Please note: Wear loose, comfortable clothing and bring a blanket or exercise mat.

You Don't Have to Be Good

Kim McCourt

You do not have to be good.
You do not have to walk on your knees
for a hundred miles through the desert, repenting.
You only have to let the soft animal of your body love what it loves.

—MARY OLIVER

By listening to our bodies we can know what is right for us, rather than what we "should" do. We knew this as children but were encouraged to ignore our inner truths and obey the critic. Always having to be "good" restricts and censors the richness of who we are. Buried beneath all the "shoulds" and "don'ts" is a true, wise self that longs for expression.

To get there, the group will play with different doorways to somatic knowing: emotional, visual, auditory, kinesthetic, olfactory, or general sensing. The intention will be to identify which doorway opens up our personal intuitive self, and then go on in.

Using movement and meditation, play and process, art and journal writing, participants will explore the indomitable aliveness beneath the censoring critic and conditioned tendencies. The focus will be: listening, accepting, and expressing what is true. The atmosphere will be nonjudgmental and light-hearted. Come and discover what feels so "good" about being "bad." $380

Conscious Health: A Model for Ultimate Aliveness

Richard Helfant & Steve Hasenberg

Thoughts in your mind have made you what you are and thoughts in your mind will make you what you become.

—PONDER

Here is an approach that offers the possibility of a healthier, more empowering life to everyone. The Conscious Health Communication (CHC) model provides the tools to reenergize your sense of self, your body, your stress coping skills, and your preparation for a healthier future.

Health can be defined as the full, free flow of vital life energy throughout the mind and body. This energy is affected by one's internal and external communication. An unacknowledged inner voice can exist which controls the forces for health and vitality, or sickness and fatigue. This inner voice often contains strong beliefs and attitudes about your body's well-being. The body may respond to these messages with either enhanced energy and vigor or by constricting, shutting down, and blocking off.

This workshop will provide an exploration of your own CHC. Through simple exercises, participants can reawaken a healthy flow of energy throughout their internal and external worlds. Experiential practices will be used to help restore a sense of power, vigor, and control over the body/mind, and unlock the ability to achieve a higher level of ultimate aliveness.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $380

True Stories: Autobiographic Storytelling

Spalding Gray

All human beings have at least one good story in them. The aim of this workshop is to create a safe, supportive space to give birth to that story. Each member of the workshop will be asked to function as storyteller, audience, and critic. When not telling, members will be asked to listen and respond.
Participants should bring a tape recorder to record their own work.

This workshop is limited to 13 people who will be chosen on the basis of personal letters sent to Spalding Gray, c/o Esalen (please include your phone number). The letters should explain why you feel it is important for you to take this workshop. Please send no fees until you have been notified by mail of your acceptance. All letters should be sent to Spalding Gray, c/o Esalen, Big Sur, CA 93920, and must be received by October 15, 1995. Participants will be notified of their acceptance by November 15. $740

The Body in Four Dimensions: Anatomy for Bodyworkers and their Clients
Deane Juhan

Anatomy is typically presented on the flat pages of textbooks. But only when it is experienced in the three-dimensional body does it come alive as a vital and fascinating study. And only then can the body’s fourth dimension—its development over time and its faithful recording of our experiences, habits, and accumulating tendencies over all our years—be constructively understood.

Using slides, discussion, self-exploration, and interactive hands-on contact, this workshop will illustrate the internal parts of our bodies and their biomechanical, functional relationships. As we build more accurate and detailed images of our anatomy, we can more clearly identify the physiological and psychological ramifications of the ways we have organized and used our physical beings—posture, movement, respiration, digestion, circulation, memory, emotions, habits, blocks, and so on.

This workshop is especially beneficial for bodyworkers of all kinds, and can accelerate the personal changes sought by those who are clients and receivers as well.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $740

Green Buildings with Magical Spaces
Gregory Franta

As our society pushes toward global environmental havoc, can we make a significant difference in the quality of our future? Can our communities become ‘green’ enough to enable future generations to enjoy our planet in healthy, sustainable ways? This workshop will investigate design strategies leading toward sustainable communities.

Participants—whether homeowners, architects, educators, facility planners, executives, or concerned citizens of Earth—will have opportunities to discover a deeper awareness of the intrinsic relationship between people, nature, and technology.

The workshop will address our built environment and its growing impact on energy, health, pollution, natural resources, and society. Energy efficiency, natural lighting, and environmental quality in architecture will be explored in regard to building design, form, envelope, interiors, and materials. The format will include: slide presentations; a design studio individualized for participants with diverse interests; “hands-on” energy analysis; field trips to explore opportunities with indigenous materials and renewable energy alternatives; and time for personal adaptation and process.

C.E. credit for architects is available through the American Institute of Architects. A workbook with specially prepared selections, a compilation of publications, A Primer on Sustainable Building, and energy analysis software are available for an additional $95 (optional). Amory Lovins’s preceding workshop on December 15-17 is recommended and complementary, but is not prerequisite.

Healing the Emotional/Spiritual Body: The Rubenfeld Synergy* Method
Ilana Rubenfeld

This workshop is for people who want to learn how to listen to the messages, memories, and feelings locked in their bodies. Ilana Rubenfeld will introduce and demonstrate the Rubenfeld Synergy Method, a holistic system that integrates Alexander Technique, Feldenkrais Method®, Ericksonian hypnosis, and gestalt practice.

Each day will include: body/mind exercises to relax, to stretch, and to heighten awareness; hands-on teaching to develop intuitive, gentle, and listening touch; discussions and demonstrations; and music and humor. The workshop community will become an active culture for learning and growth focused on:

- Experiencing the interdependence of emotions and posture
- Healing the wounds of dysfunctional families
- Moving beyond therapeutic techniques toward intuitive wisdom
- Exploring dreams and metaphors that reveal life patterns

Green Building with Magical Spaces
Gregory Franta

- Developing a sense of humor
- Honoring the sacred within

“The body is the sacred sanctuary of the soul,” says Ilana Rubenfeld. “Care for it like a flower garden.” In this workshop she will demonstrate the possibility of achieving emotional, physical, and spiritual integration.

Recommended reading: Rubenfeld, Twenty-Five Years of Simple (available through The Rubenfeld Center, 115 Waverly Place, New York, NY 10011).

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $740

Holiday Humbug
Paul Rebillot & Audrey Savage

For many people, the winter holidays are the time of maximum stress and deepest depression. Hospitals and mental health clinics fill with people seeking relief from the pressures of outer darkness and frantic social “cheerfulness.” Darkness seems to have overwhelmed the light, inducing sadness within, while holiday festivities stir past disappointments and present loneliness.

In traditional cultures, the time before the winter solstice is a time of turning inward to prepare for the festival of the light’s return. Paul Rebillot writes, “This workshop offers a chance to deal with the humbug by looking at our disillusioned dreams, our unfulfilled ideals, our past regrets and present sorrows. Through ritual and gestalt open seat, guided fantasy, music, and play, we will each seek an inner solstice, our own turning from the darkness of past regret and future fantasy to the light-filled divine simplicity of our present being. Together we will create a celebration that brings us into the light and tunes us into the joy of the light’s rebirth that takes place each year at solstice time.” $740

Weekend of December 22-24

Zen Practice
Kathleen O’Shaughnessy

We can use the mind to penetrate thought to the place behind thought, where all thought begins.

—Modern Zen Saying

Kathleen O’Shaughnessy writes, “Zen is the sitting form which constitutes the heart, soul, blood, and backbone of Buddhist perspective. It is austere and direct. We strip awareness to the finite weavings of mind and breath—the two elements most basic to existence. From
In this workshop, sitting practice will be enhanced with hatha yoga sessions as physiological meditation. Verbal exchanges, teaching stories, as well as some historical perspective will be utilized; however, the major portion of time will be directed toward establishing an equilibrium in the core practice.

Please wear loose, layered clothing.

Freeing the Poetic Imagination: Poetry Writing at Esalen

David Richo

Since ancient times, poetry has been associated with healing and intuitive wisdom. It remains the soul's language and everyone is capable of speaking it. Poetry has the power to render immediate feelings in the compelling rhythms of the imagination.

In this workshop, Jungian active imagination exercises will be used to find personal metaphors and to visit the unopened rooms of the psyche. Participants will work with images that visualize—not words that conceptualize—in order to access the full spectrum of inner colors. As these images are fashioned into a poetic diction faithful to unique needs, visions, and goals, participants can come to see how their story—especially its present chapter—fits into a vaster volume of destiny. As Jung wrote: "Whoever speaks in primordial images evokes the beneficent forces behind them."

Weekend Massage Intensive

Robert Helm & Daniela Urbassek

Winter solstice is traditionally a time for looking inward before the returning of the light. This cycle of nature will be the predominant metaphor for this massage workshop. Using meditation, breath awareness, and grounding, participants will first attune to their internal movement. Then, moving awareness outward to include others, participants will be instructed in classic Esalen bodywork, quality of touch, and the art of giving a pleasurable and beneficial massage.

This workshop is open to all levels of experience.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61.

The Sources of Growth

Seymour Carter

Many potential sources of our growth reside in our unfinished issues, the developmental processes that we have failed to recognize and assimilate because of distressing life experiences or the inability to learn about them.

"Unfinished issues" refers to normal phases of development which have been bypassed or ignored. It is unfortunate but true that most families emphasize some of our attributes and ignore or discourage others. These unclaimed potential talents, tendencies, and traits are a powerful reservoir within us waiting to be tapped.

Using a primarily gestalt-oriented process, supported by the tools of family systems theory, practices of introspection, and body-oriented intervention strategies, participants can begin to discover and utilize capacities in themselves for new possibilities in their lives. Each participant's process of development will be honored, encouraged, and treated as unique.

Rituals of Transformation

Paul Rebillo & Audrey Savage

People are continually approaching thresholds, transition points from one state to another. To live is to change. Unfortunately, we have a tendency to resist change, to cling to the familiar, to remain stuck at the threshold. This resistance eventually causes us much stress and pain.

Rituals can prepare people for change and help heal the passages that were not completed in the past. A ritual awakens within the psyche the archetypal patterns of change. By acting out the ritual, people learn, not only in their minds but in their hearts and the movements of their bodies, the process of transformation.

Participants will look at what they want to transform in their lives, what they need to say good-bye to, and what steps they need to take to cross their present threshold. Small groups will work together to design and enact rituals to support this healing process.

Just as the body can move from one position into another, so can the full being: hearts can move, minds can move. Joseph Campbell said that when someone discovers his or her authentic path, the way seems blessed with magic. To find this way is the work of "Rituals of Transformation."

Spiritual Healing: Laying-on-of-Hands

Maria Lucia Sauer Holloman

For workshop description see September 3-8. C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61.
This timely gift will embrace the following best cultivate the spirit of real generosity and mate of mutual support for exploring how to who would like to give themselves a change. This workshop is intended as a gift for people the holiday season. Its aim is to create a cli- elements: faith in dealing with ourselves and others.

The methods will be drawn from a variety of practices, both traditional and nontraditional, all aimed at restoring gratitude and apprecia- and celebrating those qualities, events, and influences we wish to cherish and remember.

The methods will be drawn from a variety of practices, both traditional and nontraditional, all aimed at restoring gratitude and appreciation for being alive.

Intuition, Perception, and Altered States of Consciousness: Extending the Boundaries

Keith Harary & Darlene Moore

Most of us have had experiences in which we've appeared to be aware of information not immediately available to our five familiar senses. Such experiences can range from simple hunches, to feeling in touch with a loved one at a distance, to dramatic premonitions. Labeling such experiences "psychic" does not explain them, but instead makes this funda- mentally normal aspect of awareness appear to be some sort of occult or supernatural process. Yet such experiences are common, most likely emerging from a deep interconnectedness between consciousness and the physical world. They are part of a broad continuum of altered states, experiences that allow us to transcend the boundary between conscious reality and the innermost self.

In this workshop, specific techniques of extended perception will be taught to allow this capacity to become a consciously avail- able resource in everyday life. Starting with learning how to manage mental impressions, participants will practice separating their most relevant feelings and images from various forms of "mental noise" in a variety of extended perception scenarios. A more advanced method, involving using one's own "mental noise" to help guide intuition, will also be taught in order to develop an inner language for processing intuitive information. Additional exercises will explore experienc- ing extended perception in dreams, inducing lucid dreams and out-of-body experiences, and consciously connecting with the broader transpersonal continuum that lies just beyond the threshold of ordinary awareness.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61.

Play, Spontaneity, and Performance Art

Nina Wise

The leader writes: "I read once that rats were put in a maze with one path leading to a room with food, another to a room charged with an electrical current, and a third to a room with playthings. The rats learned to avoid the electric shock, but the food room and the play room were equally popular. Play, it seems, is as essential to rats as nutrition. "Play is also an integral part of human culture. In tribal societies, people sing, drum, dance, and tell stories as part of their daily lives. With the advent of technology and specialization, we modernized folk have forgotten how to play together. Singers sing, dancers dance, actors act, the rest of us sit and watch. "This workshop is about remembering how to sing, how to tell stories about our lives, how to make it up as we go along, how to be together in a way that is spontaneous and crea- tive. The workshop will include meditation, chanting, movement, singing, writing, drawing, and theater games. We will also do sponta- neous performance with and for each other in a safe and supportive environment.

"Everyone is afraid of performing, even professionals. Don't let your fear stop you. It's fun, challenging, and rewarding."

Painting the Soulscape

Robert Venosa & Martina Hoffman

This painting seminar explores what the lead- ers call Serendipitous Exploitation, "an emotional outpouring of color and seemingly abstract form, followed by studied, individual- istic detailing." Using this simple process, the artist—beginner or experienced—can begin to create essential form and color that are both enlivening and enlightening. The premise is to exercise right-brain potential in a non- threatening, effortless, and exuberant manner that instills joy, self-discovery, and newfound self-esteem.

Participants will also be introduced to the Misch Technique (discovered in 1460 by Van Eyck and employed by such masters as Rembrandt, Dürer, and Max Ernst) and will work with an updated simplified version. Upon completion of the workshop, the group will hold a mini-exhibit of their creations for all to see and enjoy.

This workshop is for anyone wishing to tap the artistic capabilities that lie within their reach and discover the joy and illuminating power of painting.

Note: Upon registration, participants will be sent a list of materials to bring.

Intuition, Perception, and Altered States of Consciousness: Extending the Boundaries

Keith Harary & Darlene Moore

Most of us have had experiences in which we've appeared to be aware of information not immediately available to our five familiar senses. Such experiences can range from simple hunches, to feeling in touch with a loved one at a distance, to dramatic premonitions. Labeling such experiences "psychic" does not explain them, but instead makes this fundamentally normal aspect of awareness appear to be some sort of occult or supernatural process. Yet such experiences are common, most likely emerging from a deep interconnectedness between consciousness and the physical world. They are part of a broad continuum of altered states, experiences that allow us to transcend the boundary between conscious reality and the innermost self.

In this workshop, specific techniques of extended perception will be taught to allow this capacity to become a consciously available resource in everyday life. Starting with learning how to manage mental impressions, participants will practice separating their most relevant feelings and images from various forms of "mental noise" in a variety of extended perception scenarios. A more advanced method, involving using one's own "mental noise" to help guide intuition, will also be taught in order to develop an inner language for processing intuitive information. Additional exercises will explore experiences extended perception in dreams, inducing lucid dreams and out-of-body experiences, and consciously connecting with the broader transpersonal continuum that lies just beyond the threshold of ordinary awareness.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61.

Music for Everyone: Finding Your Long-Lost Musician

David Darling

David Darling's magical work with late bloomers, nonprodigies, professional musicians, and "burned-out" teachers has been opening hearts to the mystery of sound for the past two decades. "Music for Everyone" is an adventure into music making, rhythmic grooving, song writing, laughing, and listening.

Regardless of prior experience, this workshop will take you to a deeper, more powerful music level. Bring an instrument or play on David's collection of world instruments.

Weekend of December 29-31

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see September 8-10.

Music for Everyone: Finding Your Long-Lost Musician

David Darling

David Darling's magical work with late bloomers, nonprodigies, professional musicians, and "burned-out" teachers has been opening hearts to the mystery of sound for the past two decades. "Music for Everyone" is an adventure into music making, rhythmic grooving, song writing, laughing, and listening.

Regardless of prior experience, this workshop will take you to a deeper, more powerful music level. Bring an instrument or play on David's collection of world instruments.

Play, Spontaneity, and Performance Art

Nina Wise

The leader writes: "I read once that rats were put in a maze with one path leading to a room with food, another to a room charged with an electrical current, and a third to a room with playthings. The rats learned to avoid the electric shock, but the food room and the play room were equally popular. Play, it seems, is as essential to rats as nutrition. "Play is also an integral part of human culture. In tribal societies, people sing, drum, dance, and tell stories as part of their daily lives. With the advent of technology and specialization, we modernized folk have forgotten how to play together. Singers sing, dancers dance, actors act, the rest of us sit and watch. "This workshop is about remembering how to sing, how to tell stories about our lives, how to make it up as we go along, how to be together in a way that is spontaneous and creative. The workshop will include meditation, chanting, movement, singing, writing, drawing, and theater games. We will also do spontaneous performance with and for each other in a safe and supportive environment.

"Everyone is afraid of performing, even professionals. Don't let your fear stop you. It's fun, challenging, and rewarding."

Painting the Soulscape

Robert Venosa & Martina Hoffman

This painting seminar explores what the lead- ers call Serendipitous Exploitation, "an emotional outpouring of color and seemingly abstract form, followed by studied, individual- istic detailing." Using this simple process, the artist—beginner or experienced—can begin to create essential form and color that are both enlivening and enlightening. The premise is to exercise right-brain potential in a non- threatening, effortless, and exuberant manner that instills joy, self-discovery, and newfound self-esteem.

Participants will also be introduced to the Misch Technique (discovered in 1460 by Van Eyck and employed by such masters as Rembrandt, Dürer, and Max Ernst) and will work with an updated simplified version.
Renewal: New Beginnings in Midlife
Mark Gerzon & Shelley Kessler
What has been called a "midlife crisis" is often the beginning of a quest for wholeness that can enliven and enrich our adult years. Many of us awaken in adulthood to an awareness that there is much more to us than we have dared to show or explore. This workshop will provide a safe, healing space in which men and women can listen to their own and each other's stories of midlife transformation regarding work, love, health, and spiritual growth.

The leaders will invite participants to dig deeply into the ground where the confusion, fear, yearnings, and vision of this period are rooted. Using the council process, the "life line," and a variety of psychodrama techniques, participants will explore the joys and sorrows of the search for deeper love, purpose, and meaning that becomes possible in life's second half.

The focus will be on intimate relationship in midlife. Growing out of their forthcoming book on the stages of long-term intimacy and inspired by their twenty-year marriage, Gerzon and Kessler will explore such themes as the challenge of reclaiming wholeness while sustaining a family, the lure of the 'mysterious stranger' at midlife, and the connection between separateness and surrender in marriage.

Forgiveness and Freedom
Edith Eva Eger
This workshop is designed to provide participants with coping skills as they journey along the path from victimization to empowerment, from weakness to strength, from being stuck to seeking the highest levels of human potential. The workshop asks the questions, "How have we imprisoned ourselves? How have we fled from freedom and self-responsibility? Whom have we made the warden of our world that don't get us what we want?"

The workshop is about discovering the willingness to accept self-responsibility and find the starting point to make a new beginning.

Dr. Edith Eger is a survivor of Auschwitz. $380

The Subtle Art of Meditation
David Streeter
For workshop description see October 8-13.
C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $740

Tao Mentoring in Music and Tai Ji Dance
David Darling & Chungliang Al Huang
David and Chungliang have been conducting this annual New Year's celebration of creativity for many years at Esalen. This year they wish to focus on the core elements in their sharing: Passion, Clarity, and Balance. With David's mastery as a cellist and composer and Chungliang's "Living Tao" skills, they will guide participants in one of the most subtle yet powerful, principles of Tao, Wu Wei—"non-interference" in our collective learning.

Using the inspiration of great classical music (especially Bach), jazz, blues, and multicultural musical heritages, as well as humor and enthusiasm for transformation, David and Chungliang will offer a joyous and supportive environment in which to celebrate our spontaneity and our deep core center. They will alternate between mutual teaching—offering participants a chance to discover their own personal music and pure dance through both improvisation and structure—and sessions focusing on Lao Tzu's Tao Te Ching, Tai Ji movement meditation, and healing Qi Gong exercises.

To Be Ripe to Die
Sukie Miller & Edmundo Barbosa
Many cultures, including traditional Judeo-Christian ones, believe that we must prepare as meticulously and with as much discipline, passion, and imagination for our afterdeaths as we do for our lives. By understanding what may well come next, these cultures hold, the lived life is enhanced. The mini- and micro-deaths within our normally lived lives—the death of a loved one, of a marriage, of a dream—become doorways to major change and to the unknown: perhaps the true potential, the place of hope, compassion, delight, and mystery.

The workshop will be both a report on the findings of the Institute for the Study of the Afterdeath and an experiential adventure into the afterdeath systems of several different cultures. As a community, the group will explore belief systems where the line between the living and the dead is thin. As individuals, participants will explore together the images each of us consciously and unconsciously holds of an afterdeath, looking especially to see how these images can magnify or limit our lives.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $740

Weekend of January 5-7

Attention! Attention! Attention!
Kathleen Riordan Speeth

This workshop is for people helpers, people lovers, and all those who want to profit from I-Thou applications of the powerful attentional practices found in Eastern and Western meditative traditions. How to witness your truth and let you glimpse my deep self? Can we learn to hear each other plain? When to connect and when to defend interior solitude?

Everyone has experienced concentration but few understand how to use it in empathic awareness. We have all allowed our minds to wander but few have learned the twin secrets of insight meditation and psychoanalysis, in which attention bare of labels yields profundities that heal.

Freud and Perls and the Buddha pointed in one direction, Ramakrishna, Erikson, and Csikzentmihalyi in another. We need to function well in the whole attentional continuum from deep empathy to cool professionalism lest we suffer stagnation, devitalization, or burn-out. Surprisingly—because we already have the basic abilities and need only to learn how to control them—even one weekend's sensitization can noticeably improve attention.

Bring a journal. Come with an open mind and heart, ready to add a surprising new dimension to your here-and-now awareness of others—and even of yourself.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $380

The Tao of Saging
Chungliang Al Huang

We begin aging at infancy. But until we reach middle age, the shock of aging is never properly addressed by most people. This seminar focuses on a new way of looking at this inevitable process with equanimity, integrity, humor, and realism. With insight and skill, Chungliang will guide participants through a saging dance of living. Using the Tai Ji yin-yang sign to illustrate this paradigm of aging, he will trace the "S" curve within the symbol as the saging path—from birth to midlife—then trace it back again to complete the "whole picture" of life.

Through saging, this living process can prove to be joyfully alive, creative, and constantly enriching. The workshop will combine thoughtful philosophical discussions with enlivening disciplines of daily practice. Come join the dance!

Recommended reading and viewing: Huang, Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain and Quantum Soup; Huang & Watts, Tao: The fresh eyes and renewed enthusiasm. A chance resources that allow us to see the world with breath and hang out in the elemental beauty appraisal. It will also be a rime to catch one’s for inner reflection and heartfelt self-inquiry. Its pacing and format are designed to provide a safe, restorative mood for people who value a heartfelt, original David Schiffman writes: "This workshop is SpiritsLiving our Dreams
Roots and Wings: Renewing our C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61.
Coexistence of many diseases.
The leaders will present a didactic and interactive workshop which will describe the immune system, how it works, and how it is regulated. They will discuss human and animal research on the effects of stress and other experiential factors on immunity and on immunologically-resistant and -mediated disease, including bacterial and viral infections, cancer, autoimmune disease, allergies, and AIDS. The as yet poorly researched area of interventions, including psychotherapy, on immunity and disease will be discussed. Some of the possible mechanisms underlying traditional and alternative healing systems and placebo effects will be explored.
Whether health or mental health practition-ers concerned with the clinical relevance of PNI, or individuals who are concerned with maintaining or improving their own health, participants will be encouraged to set goals for their particular health needs. C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $380
Psychoimmunology and its Implications George Solomon & Margaret Kemeny The rapidly developing field of psychoimmunology (PNI) is concerned with the nature of complex interactions between the central nervous system and the immune system. The central nervous system mediates stress effects, coping, emotions, and other psychological processes that, by way of the immune system, affect the onset and course of many diseases.

Giftedness: The Wonder and the Anguish Mary Rocamora
The inner process of the gifted is little understood by either the general public or the gifted themselves. This workshop—designed for both the gifted and those who work or live with gifted individuals—leads participants on a journey through the stereotypes and misconceptions about giftedness and presents what is now known in the research community about giftedness and creativity.

There is still much to learn about the inner experience of giftedness—how to cope with the internal stress factors, how to recognize and optimize one’s talents and vision, and how to better communicate with others. Many gifted adults were never identified and many more were impaired by both psychological and circumstantial factors, including gender, race, and cultural background. These factors will be introduced so their impact on self-actualization can be seen.

All participants will be helped to identify personal traits that researchers attribute to the gifted. Inner transformational approaches that specifically address the personality differences of the gifted will be offered as well as guidance toward achieving an extraordinary life.

$380

Week of January 7-12

Body Poetry East and West
Chungliang Al Huang & Brother David Steindl-Rast
For newcomers it is always surprising how the combination of Tai Ji body movement with the collective enjoyment of poetry can improve the flow of energy on all levels. Joint workshops by Chungliang and Brother David have become known as “festivals of aliveness.”
This year, these two bridgebuilders between East and West will share their treasures of poems and stories, old and new, following the rhythm of the I Ching. This great Taoist Book of Changes can serve as a key to release the free flow of life energy within us. By becoming attentive to life’s rhythms—through nature, poems, and movement—we can learn to tap the springs of our innate creativity in new ways. We can experience body and soul with renewed delight.
In Esalen’s unique setting, ocean, garden, hot springs, and human companionship work together toward one goal, which is also the goal of this workshop: to come fully alive and to celebrate life. $740

Conservative, Liberal, Self-Concept: A New Synthesis
Will Schutz
Writes Will Schutz: “The Republican revolution of 1994 has had the salutary effect of forcing some fresh thinking about our democratic and republican origins. I have often wondered why the simple label of ‘conservative’ or ‘liberal’ is such a good predictor of a person’s positions on a wide variety of social and political issues: self-restraint vs. selfishness, social responsibility vs. personal responsibility, self-determination vs. dependency, human nature as good vs. human nature as evil, compassion vs. justice.
“What are the basic psychological and philosophical beliefs that underlie this distinction? We shall explore the roots of these beliefs in ourselves, test a method of reconciling these dichotomies through the use of the Concordance method of group decision-making (see my The Human Element), and form a basis for a simpler, more consistent, easier-to-agree-on political philosophy which takes into account the concepts of competition, power, cooperation, and creativity, and avoids misleading dichotomies. Using some techniques described in the above book, we shall investigate our own self-concepts and self-esteem, how to strengthen them, and discover how to clarify our attitudes toward the classic issues of public policy.”
Recommended reading: Schutz, The Human Element. $740

Mending the Fragmented Self: Soul Retrieval and Shamanic Practices
Sandra Ingerman & Carol Proudfoot-Edgar
Shamanism is the oldest spiritual system used for healing, problem-solving, and the general well-being of both the individual and the community. From a shamanic perspective, emotional and physical "dis-spiritedness" often results from "soul-loss; a trauma that keeps us dissociated from life, our bodies, our relationships, and from feeling our connection with the natural world.

This workshop will introduce elements of core shamanism and practices involved in the reintegration of retrieved parts. It will present the shamanic journey method and other practices for accessing important information for one's healing. There will be rituals and ceremonies focusing on "release and renewal" as participants discover their own personal vision of well-being. Special emphasis will be on raising and using the power of the circle for personal healing and growth.

Workshop space is available for participants to have a private session with a workshop leader acting in the role of the shaman to spiritually retrieve parts lost in life traumas. Additional space is available for others who have already had a soul retrieval done.

Please bring a bandanna, a journal, and drums and rattles (if you have them).

Recommended reading: Ingerman, Soul Retrieval: Mending the Fragmented Self.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $740

Vision Painting
Helen Jerene Malcolm

Painting your vision is a sacred journey into self. Visionary art is a means of expressing the core yearning of the painter's deeper self, an active meditation in which the participant allows a flow of color and images to emerge as if the painting were painting itself. In an atmosphere of exploration and acceptance—enabling the creative impulse to play, take risks, and face fears—the painting finds its own path through darkness and light.

In this work, you can move beyond the rational mind to deeper levels of motivation and desire. Self-expression is prompted from the feeling centers, through the hand onto paper, evoked by guided visioning, color, music, movement, and dream images.

What you focus upon, conscious or unconsciously, creates the life you experience. Your vision painting can be a treasure map of your life where change and healing are affirmed. This is a transformative adventure recreating aspects of your life spiritually, professionally, and physically.

Please note: All are welcome, beginners as well as artists. $740

(plus $30 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

Completions and Transitions
Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

Often in our lives we feel incomplete with the past. We are aware that we are not moving into the present with a generous and open heart. Old memories haunt us, even though we experience them as "finished." When we sense that we exist more in the past than in the present, it is time to make a distinction between "finished" and "completed."

Transitions without completions foster resentments—about unsuccessful marriages, friendships, careers—and can produce illness, sorrow, and the inability to forgive.

Transitions are crossroads in our lives that give us the opportunity to finish and complete the past, reconnect with our present truth, and renew our passion, courage, and commitment for the future. The focus of this workshop will be to deeply review our lives, relationships, and circumstances to discover what needs to be transformed from "finished" to "completed."

The workshop will present you with ways to make successful transitions. It will provide a safe, supportive environment that includes risk taking, intense bodywork, gestalt imagery, movement, and meditation in order to support the transitions that keep us committed to the process of discovering ourselves.

$740

Weekend of January 12-14

Weekend Massage Intensive
C.J. Bradbury & Margaret Stevens

In this workshop, the basics of Esalen massage will be demonstrated and practiced, as well as simple techniques of "floor massage." Fundamental elements of bodywork, such as breath awareness, grounding, movement, quality of touch, and stress reduction, will be introduced.

It will be a weekend of reconnecting with the natural human familiarity with touch, in a safe, supportive environment. Please wear loose, comfortable clothing to the opening session.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $380
The Living Core of Biblical Spirituality
Brother David Steindl-Rast

Writes Brother David: "Many people ask, 'Is there still a solid spiritual core left in the Biblical tradition?' Such questioning may be prompted by detached curiosity, by deep personal anguish, or by any position between these two poles. This workshop is designed to deal honestly and compassionately with all such questions, from whatever position they may come.

"As we move into a new millennium, an unprecedented transformation of the world is taking place before our eyes. Profound changes and upheavals affect all aspects of life—including religion and spirituality. Do we still have access to whatever it was in the past that gave men and women strength and conviction when everything else was crumbling?"

This weekend will provide an opportunity to discuss these deep concerns with Brother David. In his books, tapes, and lectures, many people have found ways to cut through misconceptions, distortions, and authoritarian rigidity, and to tap spiritual wellsprings that are both Biblical and universal, both living and life-giving.

$380

---

The Enneagram in Personal Development and Therapy
David Daniels

This workshop will focus on the keys to working powerfully with each type. Case examples, interactions, and mock therapy will be used to demonstrate the application of awareness practices, paradox, the traps and avoidance of one's inner divine essence. A method of parenting will be introduced that develops a spiritual underpinning and essential wisdom rather than relying on unconscious conditioning.

Participants will explore their own experience and essential wisdom rather than introduce experiential work to help educators understand a child's psychological and intrinsic nature is not suppressed.

The leader will help participants work with attorneys and psychologists on the importance of father involvement in custody cases and approaches leading to mediation. He will introduce experiential work to help educators turn data rape into "date love" and help affirmative action officers incorporate the white male rather than alienate him.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 560-61.

$380

---

Understanding the Other Sex: Gender Training for Gender Trainers
Warren Farrell

This is an advanced workshop for graduates of Warren Farrell's seminars "The Myth of Male Power" and "Why Men Are the Way They Are."

While the workshop will help participants deepen their understanding of the other sex, special emphasis will be placed on how to communicate, rather than litigate. Participants will be trained in new approaches to sexual harassment, pay equity, affirmative action, and diversity issues that incorporate male-positive as well as female-positive perspectives.

Participants will also be trained to help hospitals create new programs on men's health by introducing the 21 neglected areas of men's health as well as by countering myths about spouse abuse, depression, and suicide that keep us from creating better prevention programs.

The leader will help participants work with attorneys and psychologists on the importance of father involvement in custody cases and approaches leading to mediation. He will introduce experiential work to help educators turn data rape into "date love" and help affirmative action officers incorporate the white male rather than alienate him.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 560-61.

$380

---

The Path of Parenting: A Spiritual Approach
Barbara Sachs

Parenting is difficult. We are given no formal education to prepare us for this profound undertaking. Most of us know almost nothing about it, yet we are expected to be successful on the first try. We want to raise our children to be happy, healthy, loving adults, but we often end up tired, discouraged, and distant from them.

The purpose of this workshop is to help parents understand a child's psychological and spiritual growth, and to mirror and support the child's emerging self. The workshop will introduce the natural stages of psychological development and the emerging essential nature. It will present the development of the outer personality and one's inner divine essence, and how to support both so that a child's intrinsic nature is not suppressed.

Participants will explore their own experience to understand our inherent nature and spiritual essence. A method of parenting will be introduced that develops a spiritual understanding and essential wisdom rather than relying on unconscious conditioning.

The format will be experiential with lecture notes.

$380

---

Cross-Cultural Shamanic Practices
Angeles Arrien

This workshop will introduce participants to shamanic tools from diverse cultures. Group members will work individually and collectively to honor ancestor spirits and release unhealthy family patterns. Angeles Arrien's work focuses on the universal human qualities of power, love, vision, and wisdom, accessed to increase personal and professional effectiveness.

This workshop qualifies as foundation work for Angeles Arrien's Four-Fold Way educational program.

Recommended reading: Arrien, The Four-Fold Way: Walking the Path of the Warrior, Teacher, Healer, and Visionary.

$740

---

Sports Massage: Keeping the Players Playing
John Harris & Sherry Sanders Galloway

This sports massage workshop is about maintaining athletic conditioning. The focus will be on body mechanics and simple techniques for keeping muscles toned, stretched, and ready for any physical activity. Specific injury treatments, such as trigger point therapy and cross-friction technique, will be demonstrated. There will be simple anatomy instruction and a presentation of methods that can be used regardless of location or supplies on hand.

Each session will combine a brief lecture with a step-by-step demonstration, followed by extensive hands-on practice. There will be one-to-one assistance available and individual concerns will be addressed. The objective is two-fold: 1) to become familiar with the tissue that lies beneath the skin: how it works, how it moves, how to prevent injury to it, how to heal it; and 2) to keep both the provider and the receiver of this work comfortable and fit, both physically and emotionally—in short, to "keep the players playing."

This work can benefit athletes, dancers, yoga practitioners, and "weekend warriors." Please wear loose and comfortable clothing.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 560-61.

$740
Weekend of January 19-21

Experiencing Esalen
Experiencing Esalen Staff
For workshop description see September 8-10.

Hanna Somatics:
Mastery of Muscles and Emotions
Eleanor Criswell Hanna
This workshop will explore the neuromuscular responses to emotional states—the somatics way to internal mastery of muscles and emotions—and the joy that comes with the body's renewed awareness and freedom. Guided somatic exercises and individual sessions with practitioners trained by Thomas Hanna will give participants the opportunity to experience this wonderful work. Dyad practice is included.

Recommended reading: Hanna, Somatics; The Body of Life; and Bodies in Revolt.
C. E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $380

Managing Your Stress, Your Heart, and Your Life
Mel Lefer
Dr. Dean Ornish produced the first major study showing conclusive evidence that reversal of heart disease and other disorders, such as high blood pressure, diabetes, obesity, and high cholesterol, was possible without the use of drugs or surgical intervention. This workshop will apply the tools developed by Dr. Ornish to provide the direct experience of how powerful, comprehensive lifestyle changes can affect one's heart and overall sense of well-being.

The workshop will incorporate many approaches, including diet, exercise, stretching, progressive relaxation, breathing practices, meditation, visualization, and group discussion. The goal will be for participants to transfer these good habits into every aspect of daily life, and to pave the way to the peace of mind that physical well-being can provide.

Recommended reading: Ornish, Eat More, Weigh Less—Stress, Diet, and Your Heart; and Dr. Dean Ornish's Program for Reversing Heart Disease. $380

Ryukido:
Movement from the Martial Arts
Yoshi Sakuyama
Ki, the vital energy that flows through the body, has been valued by martial artists because it gives them the courage to conquer fear. They have devised special breathing practices and physical movements to enhance their ki energy. Yoshi Sakuyama, a sixth-degree black belt and movement artist from Japan, will introduce Ryukido, a total movement training system drawn from the foundations of martial arts. These simple yet powerful movements amplify ki flow and refine one's actions.

Participants will be guided into bodily awareness through various practices such as basic movements (to feel and move from the body's center), pair work, breath, and Kiatsu massage. The fluid, dancelike movements are fun to practice, and the teaching can be applied to everyday life. $380

A Retreat for Women of Experience:
Midlife and Beyond
Lenore Lefer & Anne Yeomans
The gifts of woman are many. They have been undervalued and made invisible until we cannot see them ourselves. Today, more than ever, the earth needs these gifts.

This is an opportunity for women in midlife and beyond to come together to explore the issues that are on our minds and in our hearts. What are the challenges we each face? How can we support each other in reclaiming and honoring our passion, our tears, our outrage, our laughter, and our beauty? How can we express our deepest values at this time in our lives?

The workshop will include time to speak and tell our stories, and time for silence, hatha yoga, walking meditation, and group process.

Some themes to be explored include:
• The wisdom of the body
• Sexuality and intimacy
• Menopause
• Power and self-expression
• Self-care in the midst of responsibilities
• Spiritual questions of midlife

It is our hope that these days together will strengthen our trust and renew our spirit, so that we can return to our lives with more joy, more tenderness toward ourselves and others, and more boldness in living all that is important to us. $380
The Wildness Within
Brita Ostrom & Eric Erickson

Every part of this soil is sacred... Every hillside, every valley, every plain and grove, has been hallowed by some sad or happy event in the days long vanished.

—Chief Seattle, 1856

Maybe saving a forest starts with preserving some of the feelings that die inside us every day... If we cannot respect that interior land neither can we respect the land we walk.

—David Lynch, Twin Peaks

Sizing); the other by ignoring (disregarding)

Recommended reading A Course in Miracles.

The Heartful Path to Mind Power: Geometrizing Mind Space
Julian Silverman

Using both lecture and experiential learning we learn it, the less diseasing will be the rediscovering love and integrating the rediscovery of 'how things appear to be: It is about things, for neutralizing the compelling influence of our internal landscape and "the land we walk," first exploring our interior wellspring of dreams, emotions, and intuitions, and then extending outward to make intimate connection with others and with the Big Sur coast.

Participants will work with awareness practices to gain clearer insight into their inner reality, and with meditative movement, conscious touch, and massage to relieve old physical holding patterns to facilitate change and renewal. As body and mind become more integrated, attention will then turn to developing a nourishing relationship with the planet. Big Sur will become the backdrop for short hikes and wilderness experiences.

The workshop is for those seeking a time of personal renewal, couples or friends seeking to reconnect in a different way, and body-workers seeking a new perspective on their field.

Consensus
Caroline Estes

Consensus decision making has been in use for hundreds of years. The Society of Jesus (Jesuits) used it in its early years. Most Native Americans used it in some form. In its more than 300 years of existence, the Quakers have brought it to what is probably its finest form in their Meetings for Business.

Caroline Estes, a Quaker for nearly four decades, has adapted the Quaker "search for unity" for use in secular groups as a search for truth. Her work is based on the belief that each person has a piece of the truth, and that bringing together those pieces of truth results in decisions that transcend the individual.

This workshop will teach not only how to put forward one's own truth, without hidden agendas or biases, but how to listen for the truth of others. Through extensive role-playing, it will present the methods of seeking consensus and of facilitating meetings that use consensus.

The workshop will enable participants to take part more effectively in meetings, whether or not consensus is being used, and to become more effective group leaders.

The workshop is designed for everyone seeking to enhance personal power.

Weekend of January 26-28

Exploring the World of Lucid Dreaming
Stephen LaBerge

Dreams are worlds of wonder where anything imaginable can happen. However, ordinarily we sleep through our nightly journeys, unaware of the opportunities available.

We are not bound to forever sleepwalk through our dreams. Lucid dreams are dreams in which we know we are dreaming while we're dreaming. While lucid, we can be fully conscious that the dreamworld is a mental creation, and that we are free to act in the dream unconstrained by laws of physics or society.

People can develop the skill of lucid dreaming and research has shown that it can profoundly affect our brains and bodies. Participants will be taught how to induce lucid dreaming... and explore its many uses: self-exploration, creative problem solving, enhancing self-confidence, healing, adventure, and self-integration.

The seminar will extend beyond dreaming to investigate our experience of the world and our perceptions of 'reality.' It will explore the concept that all perceptions are illusory and that waking reality, like dreaming, is, like dreaming, a mental construction.

The workshop will combine lecture and experiential exercises. It is intended for avid dreamers and people interested in self-exploration and the enhancement of consciousness. Recommended reading: LaBerge, Lucid Dreaming; and LaBerge & Rheingold, Exploring the World of Lucid Dreaming. C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $380

When Success is Not Enough

Peller Marion

If I had known what it would be like to have it all, I would have settled for less.

—LILY TOMLIN

Materialism is skyrocketing in the United States. Indeed, many of us are wealthy beyond the wildest dreams of our ancestors. Still, we struggle more than ever for self-esteem and meaning in our lives.

When alternative measures of success are not available, the deep human need to be valued and respected by others is often acted out through consumption. Buying things becomes a means to both self-esteem and social acceptance. 'The avarice of mankind is insatiable,' wrote Aristotle, who believed that as soon as one desire was satisfied, another would appear to take its place. If our wants are insatiable, there is simply no such thing as enough.

This workshop is designed to explore the questions: How much is enough? What is an achievement junkie? What is my definition of success at this time in my life? How do I create my own personal philosophy of life and live by my own agenda?

Participants will investigate the paradox of success in their own lives. A variety of experiential approaches will be used, including readings, discussion, games, dance, gestalt, imagery, and meditation.

Recommended reading: Marion, Crisis Proof Your Career: How to Find Job Security In An Insecure Time; and Making It: Stories and Stages of Successful Entrepreneurs. C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $380

Re-Solving Your Past, Remembering Who You Are: A Gestalt Process Workshop

Julian Silverman

To become a whole person, one needs, to quote Fritz Perls in his autobiography, "to center one's existence."

Centering one's existence means orienting in time and space. The methods for centering in time and centering in space are different and complementary. Centering one's existence has two major obstacles: one's unresolved past and one's faulty self-remembrance.

This workshop elaborates on Perls's essential idea and provides participants with opportunities to work on blocks to centering one's existence.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $380

Religious and Spiritual Problems: A Paradigm Shift in Mental Health

David Lukoff, Francis Lu & Robert Turner

Religion is a system of wishful illusions together with a disavowal of reality, such as we find... nowhere else... but in a state of blissful hallucinatory confusion.

—SIGMUND FREUD

Psychiatry has not only neglected but actively ignored the issue of spirituality.

—SCOTT PECK

Historically, mental health professionals have ignored, trivialized, or pathologized the religious and spiritual dimensions of life. Persons involved with unconventional spiritual paths as well as those having intense religious/spiritual experiences have been at risk of being misdiagnosed as mentally ill.

Significantly, work in transpersonal psychology recently came to fruition with the acceptance of a new diagnostic category entitled "Religious or Spiritual Problems" in the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual, Fourth Edition that guides diagnostic practice in the U.S. and many other countries. The adoption of this new category as an "Other Condition That May Be A Focus of Clinical Attention"—not a mental disorder—signifies a paradigm shift by accepting distressing religious/spiritual experiences as nonpathological problems.

The three authors of this new diagnostic category will share the issues involved in its adoption. Film and videotape excerpts will serve as stimuli for discussions of precipitants, phenomenology, support, integration, and outcome of religious and spiritual problems. Clinical cases will be presented to illustrate their diagnostic and treatment issues. Participants will have the opportunity to discuss personal experiences related to this topic. C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $380

Working with Obstacles and Difficulties

Yvonne Rand

How can we deal with the circumstances and experiences which we see as obstacles and difficulties in our lives? In this workshop, participants will be presented with methods for observing, identifying, and describing how encounters with obstruction occur; for analyzing the nature of obstruction and the causes and conditions which give rise to obstruction; and for devising and applying antidotes. Participants will be invited to evaluate and enjoy the opportunities for training the mind which the occurrence of obstacles and difficulties allows. The workshop will draw resources in these endeavors both from the Buddhist meditation tradition and from the Western psychotherapeutic tradition. $380

Week of January 26 - February 2

Holotropic Breathwork and the Creative Fire

Laurie Weaver & Ricci Coddington

This workshop is open only to those experienced in Holotropic Breathwork

The leaders write: "Holotropic Breathwork is a powerful method of inner exploration, personal transformation, and healing. It is a process by which we can come back into connection with our inner selves, our creativity, and our fire. It is a doorway through which we can explore and fully contact the many aspects of our personality, our intuitive wisdom, and our inner healer.

"This five-day program is an opportunity to connect more deeply with ourselves, our hearts, and the Mother Earth. Along with the breathwork, we will include sitting and walking meditations, relaxation, creative expression, gestalt work, and music making."

To apply for this workshop, please send your previous Holotropic Breathwork experience, along with dates and names of the certified facilitators, to Laurie Weaver, 2776 41st Ave., San Francisco, CA 94116. $380
Participation in this workshop will fulfill 45 hours of credit requirements for the Grof Transpersonal Training program. $740

Facing Life’s Challenges: Courage, Faith, and Self-Acceptance
Phyllis Shankman

The only thing predictable in life is its unpredictability. It is full of ongoing challenges. Some challenges are easy; many are difficult to face and cope with. But each challenge or crisis is also an opportunity for expansion, learning, and healing, a chance to break set and move beyond old patterns. As individuals our work is to develop the courage, faith, and self-acceptance that will enable us to find the personal meaning and value in each challenge and grow from it.

This workshop is an opportunity to face these challenges in a safe, supportive space. Honoring oneself and the goodwill of others, participants will engage in group process, meditation, humor, massage, art, music, and movement, all in the context of expanding our capacity to transform challenges into meaningful growth experiences.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $740

The Healing Power of Theater
Jean-Claude van Itallie

More and more, the power of creative expression to heal and to transform is being recognized. In a supportive, nonjudgmental atmosphere, playwright Jean-Claude van Itallie will lead participants on an inspiring, playful, and disciplined adventure, a rediscovery of the place of transformation: the source of both spiritual and artistic practice. Through movement, dance, playwriting improvisations, meditation, acting and listening exercises, and dream- and storytelling, this workshop is designed to reawaken and express the spacious, creative self we often forget. With workshop members encouraging and supporting one another, each individual’s healing creativity will be evoked in a spontaneous and structured manner, through a disciplined play of body, voice, and mind.

Everyone is welcome. No theater or writing experience is necessary. $740

Dialogue: A Way of Life, A Path to Wholeness
Glenna Gerard & Linda Teurfs

Often today we find ourselves afloat in a sea of confusion, chaos, and conflict, unable to find meanings that bridge the separation we feel. And yet, twentieth century sciences tell us reality is relational—meaning is created through relationship.

Dialogue is a group communication process that focuses on how we create meaning and the very culture we share. Rooted in Greek dia (through) and logos (word or meaning), dialogue has been with us through the ages in indigenous tribal councils, Quaker meetings, the contemplative traditions, and in the writings of Martin Buber, Carl Rogers, and, most recently, the late David Bohm, quantum physicist and philosopher. Because of its transformative properties, it is of interest to leaders and facilitators in organizational, counseling, educational, and spiritual settings.

This program is an in-depth experience of dialogue and how it can help us move towards greater personal and collective wholeness. Processes from the contemplative, shamanic, and Jungian traditions will be interwoven to develop the capacity for collective mindfulness and wholeness. Attention will be focused on our capacity for holding paradox, expanded self-worldviews, and how interpersonal openness and integrity lead to higher levels of collective creativity and integration. $740

Weekend of February 2-4

For workshop description see October 20-22.

Forgiveness: The Key to Intimacy
Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

For workshop description see October 20-22. $380

Briefing for a Descent into Novelty
Terence McKenna

Terence’s most recent transmission: “A unique opportunity to spend a weekend with one of the archaic revival’s most hyperactive minds: mushroom mullah Terence McKenna, apostle of time’s end and imminent historical transformation, will lead a guided tour of his end-of-the-millennium wunderkammer of eccentric, obscure, and strangely elegant ideas and positions. McKenna, the eschatological, botanical ambassador from the Absolute Other, is a silver-tongued altered statesman and psychedelic crusader who rarely fails to amuse and edify. Lively discussion of the approaching exfoliation of the human species into a transdimensional collectivity should be anticipated. Bring a friend.” $380

The Art of Leadership: Communication, Creativity, Vision
Ron Alexander

In the beginner’s mind there are many possibilities
While in the expert’s mind there are few.

Suzuki

This workshop is for entrepreneurs, executives, managers, and others committed to improving their communication and leadership skills. It is especially intended for those open to doing deep personal work with a commitment to transform the self and thereby become more effective and productive in leadership style. The major areas of focus will be resolving conflict, developing trust with those who feel threatened, addressing blind spots in self-esteem, healing blocks in creativity, and building support for transforming vision into reality.

The workshop is primarily experiential and will include gestalt open seat work; sharing feedback on leadership and communication styles; improving coaching skills; role-playing
Week of February 4-9

Gestalt Practice
Christine Stewart Price

For workshop description see September 17-22.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $380

Polarity Massage Intensive
Deborah Anne Medow

Polarity massage is a system of balancing the currents of life force which naturally flow through the body. It is a holistic approach to healing in which the practitioner and recipient work with thoughts and attitudes, nutritional needs, polarity yoga exercises, and the polarity treatment itself.

Participants will be instructed in the basic concepts of the polarity system as applied to the human energy field through the medium of touch. Emphasis will be on theory, polarity points and counterpoints, energy balancing methods, nutrition, and polarity yoga. Three-hour sessions will be held in the mornings and afternoons. Evenings will be for practice and occasional group meetings.

This workshop is designed for professional bodyworkers, health care providers, and interested laypersons, and is a good review for anyone who has taken a polarity workshop.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $740

Writing About Our Lives: A Workshop for Women
Ellen Bass

Ellen Bass writes: “The philosophy behind this workshop is best expressed by Martha Graham, who said, ‘There is a vitality, a life-force, an energy, a quickening that is translated through you into action. And because there is only one of you in all time, this expression is unique. And if you block it, it will never exist through any other medium, and be lost. The world will not have it. It is not your business to determine how good it is, nor how valuable, nor how it compares with other expressions. It is your business to keep it yours clearly and directly, to keep the channel open.’

“This workshop will help keep the channels open. It will be a supportive place to share our lives and work, our voice, our creativity. There will be a lot of time for writing, as well as time for sharing and feedback. From beginners to experienced, all women writers are welcome. Whether you are interested in poetry, fiction, nonfiction, or journal writing, this workshop is an opportunity to become clearer, go deeper, express your feelings and ideas more powerfully.”

Note: Although Ellen Bass is known for her work with survivors of child sexual abuse, the focus of this workshop will not be on healing from trauma. It is a creative writing workshop in which women are free to write on any subject they choose. $740

The Art and Dance of Transformation
Joanne Segel & Linda Jacobson

Transformational art and movement are creative processes that can be tools for self-development, spiritual growth, and understanding. Opening up to our creativity we receive more life energy. Art is a natural process of being human, and this workshop is designed to show you not that the artist is unique, but that each person is a unique artist.

During this week, with love and support, the stages of life will be explored, beginning with the first instant of cellular consciousness. Drums and dreams, drawing and painting, writing and ritual will be woven together to inspire and ignite you. Participants will take active dream journeys to enter the imaginal realm where inner healing takes place, tapping the wellspring of imagination and creativity in a nonjudgmental, nurturing environment.

Art and movement are vessels that hold enormous power for transformation. By connecting with our creative, instinctual natures, we transform our souls.

All levels are welcome—no prior art or movement experience is necessary. $740

(plus $25 materials fee paid directly to the leaders)
Weekend of February 9-11

Introduction to Mindfulness Meditation

James Baraz

For workshop description see October 27-29.
C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $380

The Way of the Shaman: The Shamanic Journey, Power, and Healing

Michael Harner & Sandra Ingerman

Considered by many to be the world’s authority on shamanism, Michael Harner will introduce participants to core shamanism, the basic methods of the shaman to enter a nonordinary reality of problem solving, well-being, and healing.

During this experiential workshop, particular emphasis will be placed on the classic shamanic journey to explore the hidden universe otherwise known mainly through myth and dream. Participants will be initiated into shamanic journeying, aided by drumming and movement practices to experience the shamanic state of consciousness and to awaken dormant spiritual abilities and connections with Nature.

Practice will include comparisons by participants of their discoveries in shamanic journeys as well as personal problem solving. Participants will also be provided with methods for journeying in nonordinary reality to their own individual spiritual teachers, a classic step in shamanic practice. Group members will be shown how shamanism can be applied in daily life to help heal oneself, others, and the planet.

This workshop constitutes the prerequisite for more advanced courses with Michael Harner and faculty members of the Foundation for Shamanic Studies.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $380

The Body: Doorway to Self-Discovery—The Gestalt Practice Approach

Christine Stewart Price

My belief is in the blood and flesh as being wiser than the intellect. The body-conscious is where life bubbles up in us. It is how we know that we are alive, alive to the depths of our souls and in touch somewhere with the vivid reaches of the cosmos.

-D.H. Lawrence

In gestalt practice, ‘feeling’ is defined as that unactually be felt in the body.

Awareness of feeling as physical sensation is one of the most effective ways to reach the goals Fritz Perls described as the goals of the gestalt process: to increase aliveness, to have a better ability to cope, and to fill in the holes of our existence. By sensing ourselves as our bodies we may access dimensions of being human that go beyond our ideas of who we think we are.

This workshop will focus on physical sensation as the entry point to knowing ourselves. Using the gestalt practice approach (see September 17-22), especially in exploration of breath, movement, and sound, participants will explore this inner realm of awareness in all its grit and glory.

Zero Balancing Open Forum

Fritz Smith

This weekend is an opportunity for people doing Zero Balancing to reconnect with Fritz Smith, with Zero Balancing, and with each other. Fritz writes: "It is critically important to periodically meet with like-minded people and to openly, freely, and safely discuss problems, insights, and successes of your work—in this case, the leading-edge therapy of balancing energy and structure."

The workshop's agenda will vary with the needs of those who attend, but will focus on personal nurturing and recharging, and will include giving and receiving sessions, refining touch, honing the ZB protocol, observing demos by Fritz, and looking at the newer emerging possibilities of ZB.

Come and rekindle your sense of belonging, of not being isolated in the world.
Prerequisite training: Core Zero Balancing I.
This open forum qualifies for 12.5 hours of class credit toward Zero Balancing Certification, and is approved for CEUs for nurses (see pages 60-61) and acupuncturists.

February 11-23

Advanced Training in Shamanism and Shamantic Healing

Michael Harner & Sandra Ingerman

For workshop description see Special Programs, pages 56-57.
C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61.

Week of February 11 -16

Present at the Creation: Reawakening the Artist Within

Esalen Arts Center Staff

For workshop description see September 24-29. $740

Soul as Living Presence: The Diamond Approach

Joyce Lyke & Jessica Moore Britt

The Soul, like the moon, is new and always new again.
And I have seen the ocean continuously creating.
Since I scoured my mind and my body, I too, Lalla, am new, each moment new.
My teacher told me one thing. Live in the soul.
When that was so, I began to go naked, and dance.

—LALLA, Naked Song

The living presence of our soul is what is transformed and matured in the course of our spiritual development. It is our living consciousness which, when free to unfold, manifests its inherent dynamism, aliveness, and potentiality. The flow of our soul, if unimpeded, takes us deeper and deeper into our Essential Nature and in turn pours out of us in the unique expression of that True Nature in our individual lives. For most of us, however, our souls remain trapped in fixed conceptual and behavioral patterns that dampen the quality of our daily living and limit its possibilities. These rigidities block fundamental change in our consciousness, regardless of how many spiritual experiences we have had. For this reason, understanding the nature of the soul and what blocks its movement is essential for those who are serious about transformation.

This workshop will explore the main structures and underlying psychodynamic issues that have imprinted and shaped our souls, using open-ended inquiry and various body-awareness and meditative practices to loosen them. As these rigidifications and restrictions within the soul relax and unwind, the dynamic flow of the soul can unfold, revealing more and more of its full potential, bringing us closer to Home.

Please note: Registration requires completion of a questionnaire. For more information see Special Programs, pages 56-57.
Recommended reading: A.H. Almaas, Essence and Diamond Heart—Book One. $740
Five-Day Massage Intensive
Laurie Lioness Parizek & Arthur Munyer

Esalen massage consists of more than the long, flowing strokes for which it is well known. In this workshop, Esalen bodywork in many of its forms will be demonstrated, practiced, and discussed during this week of learning and relaxation.

The workshop will introduce grounding techniques, pressure point work, meridian massage, stretches, and manipulations. The instructors will present a bodywork style that both addresses individual needs and integrates the whole person, focusing on the concept of working from our essential being. Special attention will be given to self-care, quality of contact, breath awareness, and stress reduction.

The workshop will also incorporate movement, dance, and rhythm to integrate the bodywork. Yoga and meditation will be taught to encourage focus and serenity.

Participants will make full use of Esalen's beautiful grounds and facilities. Please bring warm, comfortable clothing and your favorite music or instrument.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61.

Weekend of February 18-23

Dzogchen—Awakening the Buddha Within: A Silent Meditation & Self-Inquiry Retreat
Lama Surya Das
For workshop description see September 10-15. $740

Playing the Edge
David Schiffman
In the early stages of growth, success seems to be its own reward. Excitement, vitality, and the willingness to face life boldly are characteristics of those who are involved in new and successful ventures. To keep this spirit alive is not easy. Enormous pressures, grinding routines, and demands of involvement can disrupt even the healthiest people. To listen to one's heart requires the courage to pause. In this willingness to stop and listen to the deeper self live the true resources that guide and protect us.

The purpose of this week is to create a mood of sanctuary for people in transition considering major changes in career, relationship, or matters of the spirit; those in need of a break from stressful responsibilities; and individuals interested in breaking new ground in the areas of self-nurture, intuitive functioning, and problem solving.

The process will be gently restorative, illuminating, and enlivening. The intention will be to create a community based on trust and goodwill with emphasis on individual freedom. Traditional methods of self-inquiry (gestalt practice, bioenergetics, psychosynthesis) will be combined with innovative methods using music, meditation, poetry, ritual, and prayer to foster this spirit of living fully.

Weekend of February 16-18

Experiencing Esalen
Experiencing Esalen Staff
For workshop description see September 8-10. $380

The LQ Factor—How to Increase Your Love Quotient
Sam Keen

Sam Keen submits: “Modern psychology has focused attention on IQ—intelligence quotient—and utterly failed to increase our understanding of the nature of love. New Age Dr. Lonelyhearts and a gaggle of sexperts have rushed to fill the vacuum and litter the popular media with questionable advice about sex, romance, and intimacy.

“In this lecture/workshop, we will strip away layers of nonsense and false mystification and try to think clearly and wholeheartedly about the elements that compose the complex act of love. Hopefully, we may increase our capacity for passion and compassion and learn what it means to practice the art of loving.” $380

Weekend of February 23-25

The Life We Are Given
Michael Murphy & George Leonard
Like the human heart, the world points beyond itself to something greater and more beautiful. That something attracts us all, in different ways, and leads many of us to seek transformation.

—George Leonard & Michael Murphy, The Life We Are Given

Never before in history have so many people been offered so many possibilities for personal growth. And never before has the need for personal and social transformation been more urgent. Informed by their lifework in the field of human potential, George Leonard and Michael Murphy will lead participants in wide-ranging discussions on such topics as:

- The relations between this evolving universe and world-transcending realities
- Human capacities for extraordinary life
- The elements of transformative practice

This workshop will include simple movement exercises, meditation, storytelling, and unbridled metaphysical speculation. Murphy and Leonard will report on their two-year experiment in Integral Transformatiod Practice and help participants plan their own paths of transformation.

Recommended readings: Murphy, The Future of the Body; Leonard, Mastery; Leonard & Murphy, The Life We Are Given.

Two Events with Claudio Naranjo

Customarily invited by Esalen to present without agenda, this year Claudio Naranjo will offer an unusual workshop introducing two different themes:

1. Interpersonal Meditation and Music as Contemplation—each of these subjects constitutes a little-explored field in which Dr. Naranjo may well be the most experienced exponent. Interpersonal meditation (or meditation-in-relation) refers to the extension of meditation techniques to dyadic situations of shared silence; contemplation through music refers to meditation with an object reinforced by appropriate musical support.

2. The Enneagram of Society—Dr. Naranjo will discuss a set of interrelated social ills intimately linked to characterological styles and which constitute an analog to the “cardinal sins” in the individual psyche. It is perhaps because of these fundamental social pathologies that we cannot conceive of a technological solution to the world problematic that bypasses individual transformation.

Singing Gestalt
Nancy Kaye Lunney

Singing can be an experience of great joy, poignant tenderness, or overwhelming fear. It can provide illuminating moments of pure expression or a persona to hide behind.
“Singing Gestalt” is singing about yourself; who you are, what you feel. It is about being yourself in front of other people without judging how well you sing. It is not about performance—it is about making contact, feeling, expressing, and being there, with and for yourself and others.

If the idea of getting up and singing in front of other people terrifies you more than anything you can think of, this workshop is for you. If you love to sing in front of other people and want to stretch yourself further, this workshop is for you. It is a chance to take your singing self out of the shower, out of the car—out of the closer.

Some guided imagery and gestalt may be used. Bring lyrics to songs that express thoughts and feelings you’d like to explore. Accompaniment and lots of music are provided. $380

Technoshamanism: Total Immersion in Spiritual Technology
Douglas Rushkoff

To wholeheartedly embrace technology may be the only way to partake in the next phase of human evolution. Douglas Rushkoff, a leading explorer of the spirituality of technology, will orient students to a wide range of high-tech tools for consciousness research. Participants will experience brain machines, the Internet, computer fractals, Virtual Reality, tarot, astrology, and The Ching through computer programs, chaos math, hemispheric alignment audio, video games, and even new media—all within the context of their effect on awareness, emotions, and the body.

The workshop will explore the techno-vision quest and evaluate it as an adjunct to more traditional spiritual practices. The weekend will conclude with a techno-pagan rave dance, to which all of Esalen is invited.

Participants are encouraged to bring at least one item of technology—from brain machines and laptop computers to their kids’ video game cartridges, players, and laser disks—which they would like to better understand, to explore and share with the group. $380

Week of February 25–March 1

Language of the Drums: African Percussion, Chanting, and Dance
Babatunde Olatunji & Friends

Nigerian musician Babatunde Olatunji has been bridging the gap between American and African culture for thirty-five years. In this workshop he will show how drum sounds and rhythms communicate, stimulate, and pace the activities of traditional African life. He will teach the consonants of the Yoruba language, reproducing its sounds on drums and through chants, body percussion, and dance. This workshop is for dancers, percussionists, musicians, and anyone who wants to speak the language of the drums. Drummers can experience the dance and dancers can experience the drums. Bring a drum if you have one.

Please note: This has always been a popular workshop, with lots of people drumming and dancing in a small area. The energy runs high—be prepared for a crowded, exuberant atmosphere. $740

Awakened Mind: Five-Day Brainwave Training Intensive
Anna Wise

The Awakened Mind is a state of consciousness that releases deep inner resources, capacities, and powers that often lie dormant and inaccessible. This workshop will help you develop the intricate combinations of brainwave frequencies that underlie optimum mental states. Biofeedback monitoring, combined with different methods of meditation, visualization, "sensualization," and deep psychophysiological relaxation, will help you learn how to master your own brainwaves.

The workshop will present methods for accessing repressed memories and creating a bridge between your conscious and your unconscious mind. Bridging this gap and making this connection with your innermost self allows you to begin a process that encourages healing and integration. Emphasis will also be on the importance of the interrelationship between brainwaves and the human energy system, specifically the kundalini process.

Throughout the workshop, the Mind Mirror EEG will be used to demonstrate brainwave patterns, and Electrical Skin Resistance Meters will be used to measure the depth of arousal and relaxation of your autonomic nervous system, illuminating the interrelationship between your body and your mind.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $740

Birth Experience: A Pathway to Life
Barbara Findeisen

Emotional and physical experiences that occur in the womb, at birth, and in the postnatal period have an enormous influence on our personality development and have long-term effects on how we respond to subsequent life events.

This workshop will include research and information about the psychological development during prenatal life and early infancy; the significance of cellular learning; levels of psychological trauma; and how the effects of these factors may manifest as behavioral patterns in children or adults. Didactic material will be interspersed with experiential sessions offering the opportunity both to facilitate and to regress to these early experiences, identify traumas, explore their impact, and begin the process of healing. All participants will have the chance to explore their own individual issues as well as learn various approaches for working with others.

Registration is open to everyone interested in the birth experience, and is especially recommended to those working with families, childbirth, and counseling.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61. $740

Letting Go—Moving On
Mary Goldenson (Devannai)

Beliefs, fears, and emotions from the past can continue into present relationships and interfere with spontaneous feelings of trust, love, and joy. The goal of this workshop is to experience and let go of these defenses and create new ways to relate—in the moment—to ourselves, our work, and those we love.

The workshop includes periods of intense bodywork for those who want to let go of past anger, fear, and pain, which are reflected in the body as armor and tension. As armor softens, feelings held in since childhood can be released, and positive feelings can be experienced more fully. By also using dreamwork, massage, dance, and group process, a new capacity for loving can emerge.

This workshop may have up to 30 participants. $740
The programs listed below are either longer than the standard Esalen workshop or part of an ongoing series. Prices quoted below for these programs are for standard accommodations as described in "Reservation Information," page 4. Sometimes bunk bed space is available at a reduced rate. Scholarships are also available; please see "Scholarship Information" on page 3.

The Upledger Institute Series

The Upledger Institute was founded by John E. Upledger, who pioneered the field of CranioSacral Therapy nearly twenty-five years ago. Dr. Upledger is a Doctor of Science, an Academic Fellow of the British Society of Osteopathy, and a member of the Alternative Medicine Program Advisory Council of the National Institutes of Health.

From 1975 to 1983, Dr. Upledger served as clinical researcher and professor of biomechanics at Michigan State University. During those years he supervised a team of anatomists, physiologists, biophysicists, and bioengineers in experiments testing the existence and influence of the craniosacral system. The results of those studies explained the function of the craniosacral system and its use in treating malfunctions of the brain and spinal cord.

The Upledger Institute teaches noninvasive modalities such as CranioSacral Therapy to doctors and health care practitioners of all disciplines. Curricula range from the structural/functional anatomical perspective to approaches that explore the physical, emotional, mental, and spiritual origins of pain and dysfunction.

Esalen will be offering SomatoEmotional Release I (October 15-20, taught by Dr. Upledger) and CranioSacral I (November 5-10) during this catalog period. The workshops are sequential and each requires completion of the previous course, either at Esalen or elsewhere.

The Diamond Approach: A Spiritual Teaching for Our Times

An Introductory Series of Classes

Teachers of the Ridhwan School are offering a series of introductory workshops in the Diamond Approach over the next year (see Soul as Living Presence, February 11-16). The Diamond Approach is a spiritual teaching developed by A.H. Almaas (Hameed Ali) to meet the needs of those wishing to contact the depths of who they are while leading ordinary lives of work and family. In addressing these needs, the teaching bridges the traditional divisions between what is considered sacred and what is considered mundane. It utilizes elements from depth psychology and traditional spiritual knowledge and practices, creating a new method for engaging in the process of spiritual transformation.

The methodology of the Diamond Approach is open-ended inquiry into one's personal experience leading to an experiential understanding of it. The format includes meditation, awareness and movement practices, talks, exercises in self-inquiry, and personal processing within the group. As we inquire into and travel through our inner terrain, our identifications and beliefs shaped by our conditioning — the obscuring veils within — become more and more transparent, and we are able to contact dimensions of reality and the human potential traditionally accessible only to a few. As we gradually contact the depths of who we are, the personality becomes refined, and our lives progressively become embodiments and expressions of our true nature.

As in the case of many schools of spiritual work, spiritual development in the Diamond Approach, while noninvasive and nonconfrontational, does lead to addressing the defenses of the ego and the dissolution of its structures, and so is not appropriate for everyone. It is especially suited to those who have done a lot of spiritual and/or psychological work, and who still feel that something within has not been touched. Reading one or both of the books below is recommended to see if you resonate with this approach. Prospective participants will be sent a questionnaire to ascertain whether the work may be of personal benefit.

While each workshop will provide a foundation for the next, each will be complete on its own and so may be taken individually or as part of the series. For more information and to obtain a questionnaire contact Joyce Lyke at 408-375-9845.

Recommended reading: Almaas, Essence and Diamond Heart — Book One.

October 29-November 10

Integrative Body Psychotherapy (IBP): Professional Training Program

Jack Rosenberg & Beverly Kitaen Morse

This is a 12-day residential training program in Integrative Body Psychotherapy (IBP). It is primarily for professionals and graduate students in related fields. IBP is a unique and powerful transpersonal body/mind system of psychotherapy. It draws together the theories of ancient and modern healing systems. A major focus is awakening the authentic self and heightening general aliveness and sexuality through breathing, body release techniques, and IBP psychological approaches. IBP emphasizes integration of body, mind, emotions, and spirit, and views the body as the foundation for psychological and transpersonal growth. Object relations developmental theory is integrated with IBP theory and bodywork.

For further information contact Beverly Morse at Rosenberg-Kitaen Central IBP Institute, 1551 Ocean Ave. #230, Santa Monica, CA 90401; 310-395-2117.

Recommended reading: Rosenberg et al., Body, Self, and Soul: Sustaining Integration; and Total Orgasm.

Standard accommodations: $1795
Bunk bed room, if available: $1245

November 12-December 10

28-Day Massage Practitioner Certification Program

Ellen Watson, David Streeter & Esalen Massage Staff

The Esalen monthlong massage program provides professional instruction in fundamental massage skills. This training includes anatomy, movement, meditation, ethics, and self-care. The daily sessions consist of lecture, demonstration, and supervised hands-on practice. Special attention will be given to developing a center from which learning can easily occur and a balance between technique, intuition, and creativity can be achieved.
Following successful completion of the program, students wishing to fulfill certification requirements have six months to complete and document thirty massage sessions. Upon payment of a $50 processing fee, a California state-approved Certificate of Completion will be issued.

This is a professional training group with limited admission. Please request an application form when making reservations.

C.E. credit is available; see pages 60-61.

Standard accommodations: $3325
Bunk bed room, if available: $2350

February 11-23

Advanced Training in Shamanism and Shamanic Healing
Michael Harner & Sandra Ingerman
Shamanism is the most ancient system known for using the mind, heart, and spirit to heal oneself and others, and to solve the problems of daily living. This 12-day intensive course emphasizes the universal methods of classic core shamanism, such as shamanic journeying, and their practical application to contemporary life.

Course prerequisite: a previous workshop with Michael Harner or other authorized faculty member of the Foundation for Shamanic Studies, either at Esalen or elsewhere.

For information, cost, and application, please contact the Foundation for Shamanic Studies, PO Box 1939, Mill Valley, CA 94942; 415-380-8282. Early application is recommended.

C. E. credit is available; see pages 60-61.

Healthspring Outreach and Education
The Healthspring Project offers education and information that extends Esalen's work in the healing arts and sciences to the outside world. It is an independent service-oriented program of Esalen teachers and their associates. Healthspring offers a global information network linking visitors to Esalen with centers, teachers, and health professionals in the fields of somatics and psychology that are located in their home area. Our listings are public information and are not meant to be an endorsement of any individual or institution. Some of our practitioners and teachers travel to New York, San Francisco, and Los Angeles and are available for private sessions and classes. If you are interested in being contacted, let us know.

The Healthspring library offers books on health and healing, bodywork, somatic studies, psychology, nutrition, and related studies, which may be borrowed by students for a given period while at Esalen. Donations of appropriate books are greatly appreciated.

For access to this program, write to Laurie Lioness Parizek at Esalen, c/o Healthspring.
WILDERNESS PROGRAMS

October 7-14

Heart of Big Sur: Wilderness Journey into the Santa Lucia Mountains

Little Bear Nason & Steven Harper

Immersed in the wilderness environment, this journey will seek to reawaken the spirit of the wild, expanding and deepening the connection to self, the earth, and nature. With wilderness as the primary teacher, participants will work with local Native California Indian traditions and contemporary awareness practices to enhance contact with nature.

The group will journey directly into the heart of Big Sur's Santa Lucia Mountains to Pine Valley, the ancestral summer home of the Esselen Indians, whose village sites, stone tools, and sacred rock paintings are still found among the sandstone caves and boulders.

Mules will carry in food and equipment, giving participants the freedom to hike the six miles from the trailhead base camp in Pine Valley with only a light day-pack. From base camp, there will be optional day-hikes (averaging 6-10 miles) that lead to caves with Indian petroglyphs, along mountain streams to inspiring waterfalls, through valleys of oaks and pines, and to sacred mountain tops with expansive views.

There will be instruction and practice in local Native American traditions and culture, and an opportunity to participate in ceremonies, drumming, and chanting. There will be a time of cleansing (a sweat lodge) and contemplation, culminating in a 24-hour vision quest. In addition there will be an introduction to the area's natural history, including the geology, plants, and animals of the Ventana Wilderness.

All meals are provided and are of exceptional quality. Previous wilderness experience is not necessary, although participants should be prepared for some vigorous physical activity. The group will convene in Monterey on Saturday, October 7 at 4 p.m. A complete information packet will be sent upon registration.

$790

Esalen Wilderness Programs Refund Policy

Most expenses in wilderness programs are incurred preparing for your arrival. The Esalen Wilderness Program refund policy reflects the fact that few of these expenses can be recovered.

To reserve a space in a wilderness workshop, a nonrefundable deposit of $200 is required. The balance of the fee is due 14 days before the program begins. If you cancel prior to 30 days before the program begins, your nonrefundable deposit may be applied to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year. If you cancel from 30 days up to the starting date of the trip, your deposit is forfeited.
IN ITS continuing commitment to the fields of education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences, Esalen regularly sponsors invitational conferences that bring together experts who share their research and points of inquiry. As host, Esalen covers room and board expenses for participants as a way of advancing these particular studies. These are invitational conferences only and are not open to the public. Recently held programs and their conveners are listed here.

Ecopsychology, Spirituality, and Healing Ministries: A Cathedral Confluence
February 12-17, 1995
This conference united healers, artists, psychologists, writers, biologists and priests (representatives of San Francisco’s Grace Cathedral and New York’s St. John the Divine) whose work touches on the best of the new disciplines emerging from cathedrals today. The discussions articulated the interconnection between these disciplines and how new concepts of healing affect all that we do, e.g., “There is no health if the earth is sick.” Emphasis was on finding the intersection between art and spirituality, both in the world and in a cathedral setting, and on breaking through language barriers to discover the common core themes of these inherently related fields.

Sustainability Consciousness
April 9-14, 1995
The aim of this conference was to inspire and articulate the collective preparation for "The Great U-Turn" from a greed-based, growth-oriented culture to a need-based, sustainable culture. The conference forged relationships between activists, journalists, scientists, artists, business people, and educators to foment ecological thinking and to weave strands of sustainability, spirituality, and systems theory into designs for ecological action in the areas of electronic media, patterns of consumption, grassroots organizing, innovative funding, and consciousness raising. Key elements of the proceedings were captured in the virtual space of an ongoing Internet World Wide Web page (URL: http://www.well.com/www/suscon/esalen/), enabling the conference to be informed electronically by a much wider community and to share its ideas with a growing global village.

New Directions in Meditation Research VII
April 30-May 5, 1995
Cosponsored by Esalen Institute, the Institute of Noetic Sciences & Marius Robinson
The objective of this conference was to identify critical issues involved both in the study of meditation and in its use in clinical or educational contexts. Conference participants also discussed methodologies for meditation research; explored the interface between meditation traditions and the disciplines of science, psychology, and human development; and explored the potential significance of meditation and meditation research for both the individual and society.

FUTURE PROGRAMS

LISTED HERE are some of the special programs scheduled for the months ahead. This is not an invitation to register, but information to assist you in your long-range plans to participate in an Esalen workshop. Dates are subject to change; please call the Esalen Office or see the next catalog for more specific information.

March 8-April 5, 1996
28-Day Massage Practitioner Certification Program

March 17-29, 1996
Emotional Healing: From Codependence to Aliveness
Terry Hunt & Miriam Kahn
CONTINUING EDUCATION PROGRAMS FOR NURSES

The Board of Registered Nursing has approved Esalen as a provider of Continuing Education for registered nurses, provider number 01152. Only those programs listed below offer Continuing Education credit. Workshop leaders have the final decision in applying for C.E.U. eligibility. There is a $10 processing fee for C.E.U. certificates, payable at the end of the workshop when you turn in your evaluation form to the office. If you wish to receive a certificate, please notify the office at the time of registration.

Please note: Two-day workshops offer 10 hours of C.E. credit and five-day or longer workshops offer 30 hours.

If you need additional information on our C.E. courses or future C.E. outreach programs, please contact Sherry Sanders Galloway, R.N., Continuing Education Coordinator, 408-667-3000.

October 1-6
- Creative Bodywork: An Advanced Workshop
- Consciousness and Healing: History, Philosophy, and Practice
- Handwriting Patterns: Possibilities for Healing and Change

October 8-15
- Cortical Reeducation® and the Feldenkrais Method®

October 8-13
- The Subtle Art of Meditation

October 13-15
- Psychosynthesis: Personal and Transpersonal Growth

October 15-20
- The Upledger Institute's SomatoEmotional Release I
- Focusing: Treasure Maps to the Soul
- Taoist Chi Kung: Enhancing Vitality
- The Future of Leadership: Integrating Creativity, Value, and Accountability

October 20-22
- Awakened Mind II: Advanced Brainwave Training and Transcendent States
- Taking Care of Yourself While Helping Others: Survival Tools for Service Professionals

October 27-29
- Introduction to Mindfulness Meditation

October 29-November 3
- Five-Day Massage Intensive

November 3-5
- The Healing Power of the Dream: A Dreamwork Seminar for Professionals
- Intimate Connections
- Esalen Massage Intensive

November 5-10
- The Upledger Institute's Craniosacral I
- Creating Exact Moments of Healing

November 10-12
- Introduction to Gestalt Practice
- Sensory Awareness
- The Core Self

November 12-December 10
- 28-Day Massage Practitioner Certification Program

November 12-17
- The Transformational Enneagram: Mindfulness, Insight, and Experience

November 17-24
- Healing From Sexual Trauma: A Seven-Day Intensive for Survivors

November 19-24
- Turning on the Light: A Choice to Live Consciously

November 26-December 1
- Feldenkrais®: Life, Learning, and Movement

December 15-17
- Conscious Health: A Model for Ultimate Aliveness
- The Ohashiatsu® Method

December 17-22
- The Body in Four Dimensions: Anatomy for Bodyworkers and their Clients
- Healing the Emotional/Spiritual Body: The Rubenfeld Synergy® Method

December 22-24
- Weekend Massage Intensive

December 24-29
- Spiritual Healing: Laying-on-of-Hands
- Intuition, Perception, and Altered States of Consciousness
December 31-January 5
- Adventures in Bodywork
- Opening the Feelings
- The Subtle Art of Meditation
- To Be Ready to Live, To Be Ripe to Die

January 5-7
- Psychoneuroimmunology and Its Implications
- Attention! Attention! Attention!

January 7-12
- Mending the Fragmented Self: Soul Retrieval and Shamanic Practices

January 12-14
- Weekend Massage Intensive
- The Enneagram in Personal Development and Therapy
- Understanding the Other Sex: Gender Training for Gender Trainers

January 14-19
- Sports Massage: Keeping the Players Playing

January 19-21
- Hanna Somatics: Mastery of Muscles and Emotions

January 21-26
- The Heartful Path to Mind Power: Geométrizing Mind Space

January 26-28
- When Success Is Not Enough
- Re-Solving Your Past, Remembering Who You Are: A Gestalt Process Workshop
- Religious and Spiritual Problems: A Paradigm Shift in Mental Health

January 28-February 2
- Facing Life's Challenges: Courage, Faith, and Self-Acceptance

February 2-4
- The Art of Leadership: Communication, Creativity, Vision

February 4-9
- Gestalt Practice
- Polarity Massage Intensive

February 9-11
- Introduction to Mindfulness Meditation
- Zero Balancing Open Forum
- The Way of the Shaman

February 11-23
- Advanced Training in Shamanism and Shamanic Healing

February 11-16
- Five-Day Massage Intensive

February 25-March 1
- Awakened Mind: Five-Day Brainwave Training Intensive
- Birth Experience: A Pathway to Life
The Work Study Program is for those interested in an intense and complete involvement with the Esalen environment. It is a work-oriented program, emotionally and physically, and only rarely is it restful. Participants work thirty-two hours per week in one of Esalen's departments (kitchen, garden, farm, housekeeping, maintenance, or grounds) and participate, along with staff and long-term students, in that department's program.

During most evenings and one weekend intensive, work students are together as a group exploring different practices and approaches available at Esalen, with specifically assigned leaders who will be with the group throughout the month, coordinating the study schedule and facilitating many of the evening sessions.

The selection of work students is done by Bette Dingman, the Work Study Coordinator, in consultation with department supervisors. Since this is a work program, preference is given to applicants who are open and willing to learn about themselves within the work context as well as within the evening and weekend study/process groups. Applicants with particular skills or physically limiting conditions are urged to mention them on the application. It is necessary for applicants to be able to speak and understand English. First-month work students, in particular, are assigned to departments largely on the basis of community need. No work students will be assigned to the office until they have fulfilled a minimum of one month in one of the aforementioned departments, either during a current or a previous stay.

The study portion of the program is divided into two groups each month: each emphasizes one type of growth practice, such as gestalt, meditation, Reichian work, massage or somatics work, and so forth. Participants must be prepared to stay at Esalen for the full duration designated for that particular program, assuming that they meet the standards of the Work Study Program.

Please note: This program is designed to explore and apply human values and potentials in both the evening groups and the workplace. It is not intended as a substitute for therapy or as a "cure."

It is sometimes possible to receive college unit credit for participating in the Work Study Program. Please check with your college or university for eligibility requirements.

Work Study Programs scheduled for this catalog period are:

September 17 - October 15

The focus of a month with David Schiffman will be on the theme of transition. It is geared for people who are facing major changes and would like to create a time for sanctuary and a mood of mutual support. The intention will be to cultivate an individual style of approaching change that is heartfelt, open-minded, and resourceful in spirit.

Judith Cornell will focus on the alchemy of illuminating personal and group mandalas for healing and integrating body, mind, and spirit. The program will merge sacred art, transpersonal psychology, and science with perennial wisdom aimed at perceiving our wholeness and connectedness, an approach synthesizing light, sound, and consciousness.
Participants will draw, meditate, and learn simple yoga movements and sound techniques for harmonizing the body/mind, releasing fear, and opening to higher states of creativity.

Please note: There will be a $35 materials fee paid directly to the leader.

October 15-November 12
A month with John Soper & Friends will focus on ways to improve the quality of life for participants. Gestalt practice will be the vehicle for personal growth in a group setting. The group may also experience other practices, including games, to bring into focus those areas of our lives that are ripe for change.

Vicki Topp & Friends will lead a monthlong journey exploring ourselves and our environment, utilizing a blend of integral healing practices which may include massage, sensory awareness, imagery, storytelling, gestalt, creative movement, and spiritual nourishment.

November 12-December 10
Steven Harper & Friends will lead an introductory month of "oldies and goodies." Exploring group process, gestalt practice, dance, movement work, bodywork, energy awareness, and meditation, the group will pay special attention to how these transformative practices may be integrated into the work aspect of the program and our lives outside of Esalen.

November 12-January 7
Eric Erickson & Friends will lead a two-month practicum focused on gestalt practice, a form which evolved at Esalen out of the work of Fritz Perls. In this work, awareness is the primary tool: its power is derived from concentrating attention on the seeming simplicity of moment-to-moment experience. This approach will be explored through open seat work, group exercises, group process, and learning to work with one another. Complementary awareness practices—meditation, movement, and the experience of nature—will be utilized throughout. The approach will be experiential, allowing theoretical considerations to emerge from an experiential base.

Please note: This special two-month program requires a commitment to both work scholar months.

December 10-January 7
Mary Goldenson's (Devarani) program of letting go and moving on employs Reichian methods, dance, imagery, gestalt, and meditation to experience and let go of beliefs, fears, and emotions from the past which continue into present relationships and interfere with spontaneous feelings of trust, love, and joy.

January 7-February 4
Using Esalen massage as the primary focus, Peggy Horan will lead a monthlong program exploring touch, sensing, feelings, and presenting, relating these areas to both bodywork and daily life. In support of the massage work, sessions in group process, gestalt, and movement will be offered.

David Schiffman. See September 17-October 15.

February 4-March 3
Jo Smith Hollman will lead a month focusing on the intertwining paths of personal growth and community building. Using exercises for the body/mind/spirit, dance, storytelling, bodywork, meditation, and guided imagery, this will be an exploration into developing awareness and self-love, and how to expand this development into healthy relating. "There is within us that which is within others..."

The program led by Ellen Watson will feature movement as an awareness practice and a form of self-expression. Utilizing hatha yoga asanas, Gabrielle Roth's dancing meditation "The Wave," and heightened breath awareness, participants will dance and play, sweat and pray together.

Inasmuch as the Work Study Program is a complete program in itself, please do not plan to take regularly scheduled catalog workshops during your stay. Professional services, such as massage, are available at staff rates.

Fees: A deposit of $400 in U.S. currency is required with your application. The work scholar fee is $750 for the first month, $700 for the second month, and $650 for the third month. Work students may be invited to remain for a second or third month depending on space available and community needs. Occasionally it is possible to stay for a longer period of time as an Extended Student. There are no scholarships available for the Work Study Program.

Housing: Accommodations are shared (occasionally co-ed), with up to four people to a room, usually at South Coast Center, a staff complex located 1.5 miles north of Esalen. For more information contact Bette Dingman: 408-667-3016.

Please note: Application is not registration in the program. Registration is made only after approval of application and upon receipt of deposit. The balance of the fee is due on arrival. Of the original deposit, $100 is non-refundable and may be transferred to other programs within one year of receipt. Please return the application form (see next page) with your deposit to:

Work Study Program
Esalen Institute
Big Sur, CA 93920.

Institute of Transpersonal Psychology Offers External Master's Degrees

Work students now have the opportunity to integrate their work study experience at Esalen with the external degree program of the Institute of Transpersonal Psychology. The external degree format enables students to study at any location. Work students will be able to continue the dynamics of personal growth fostered at Esalen while earning master's degrees in transpersonal studies or in transpersonal psychology.

Inquiries and applications should be made directly to ITP. Contact:

Nancy Fagen
External Program
Institute of Transpersonal Psychology
744 San Antonio Road
Palo Alto, CA 94303
415-493-4430
WORK STUDY PROGRAM APPLICATION

Name ____________________________________________

Date of Birth ____________________________ Occupation ____________________________

Place of Employment ____________________________________________

Daytime Phone (____) ____________________________ Home Address ____________________________

Evening Phone (____) ____________________________ City/State/Zip code ____________________________

Date of Application ____________________________ Country ____________________________

Do you have any physically limiting conditions which might affect your full participation in this program?  □ Yes  □ No

If yes, please be specific. ____________________________________________

Are you currently taking any medications?  □ Yes  □ No  If yes, please specify: ____________________________________________

Which program(s) are you interested in? Please list the leader's name. ____________________________________________

Please note: When focused programs continue with the same leader for more than one month, participants must be prepared to stay at Esalen for the full duration of that particular program.

The Work Study Program is for 28 days, beginning and ending on Sunday. Please list the dates of your choice, listing two alternative dates as well.

1st: __________________ to __________________  2nd: __________________ to __________________  3rd: __________________ to __________________

Work students may be invited to remain for a second or third month, depending on space available and the needs of the Esalen community. Please indicate your availability for such an invitation.

□ No extension  □ One-month extension  □ Two-month extension

Assignments to departments are made according to community labor needs. However, if you have particular skills that you're willing to use, especially in food preparation, gardening, maintenance, mechanics, construction, or housecare, please mention them here.

□ Please check here if you have emergency medical skills (M.D., R.N., or E.M.T.) and are willing to use them during your stay.

Attach a personal statement about your interest in the Work Study Program and why you'd like to participate.

All applicants are required to sign a standard release from liability and assumption of risk form as a condition of participation in the Work Study Program.

Please Note: No pets allowed.
The Dolphin Tape Series

Each new tape list has a somewhat different emphasis in its selection of titles and speakers. In addition to the many well-known titles from familiar speakers included for the special attention of new customers, there are several additional tapes from some old favorites, the most recent recordings from others, and a few entirely new speakers, events, and subjects.

Dolphin Tapes has no complete catalog, just overlapping tape lists. When you place an order, let us know your field of interest or your favorite speakers. We may have more information on some of them. Many tapes are in stereo. Tape length is normally 1 to 1 1/2 hours.

Single-tape titles are $10:
- Abraham/McKenna/Sheldrake: TRIALOGUES: Preview and Sampler, 1989-90
- Gregory Bateson: The Limits of Science, 1978
- David Brower: Breaking the Species Barrier, 1971
- Joseph Campbell: Kundalini and the Chakra System, 1981
- Fritzop Capra: Ecological Vision, 1984
- Fritzop Capra: Characteristics of Systems: Thinking, 1985
- Barry Commoner: Human Meaning of Environmental Crisis, 1971
- Big Sur Drums: Steve Gardinardi Drummers, 1971
- Earl Ettienne: AIDS and Health: Integrity and Life, 1994
- Richard Feynman: Quantum Mechanical View of Reality, 1983
- David Finkelstein: A New Quantum Logic, 1976
- Stanislav Grof: A New Paradigm for Psychotherapy, 1980
- Arthur Hastings: Transpersonal Realities, 1979
- Willis Harman: Ego, Self, and Essence, 1971
- David Steindl-Rast: Enjoying Poetry, 1992
- David Steindl-Rast: Mysticism as a Frontier Experience, 1985
- Rupert Sheldrake: Reproduction of Memory, 1994
- Ruthy Alon: Lessons in Feldenkrais Method (Series I or II)
- John M. Young: The Reflexive Universe Interviews, 1983

The Dolphin Vinyl Album Tape Sets:
- Angeles Arrien & Robert Bly: (6) Love in the Western World, 1984
- Gregory Bateson: (6) Steps to an Ecology of Mind, 1980
- John C. Lilly: (6) Ego, Self, and Essence, 1971
- John C. Lilly: (6) The East Coast Workshop, 1973
- Abraham Maslow: (6) The Euporean Ethic, 1969
- Joseph Chilton Pearce: (6) Journey to the Heart, 1990
- David Steindl-Rast: (6) The Coincidence of Joyce, 1985
- Andrew Weil: (6) Mixing Drugs, 1993
- Robert Anton Wilson: The Critical Path (Marin), 1982
- David Finkelstein: (4) Ancient, Medieval, and Classical Physics, 1984
- Joseph Campbell: (4) Imagery in the Novels of James Joyce, 1968
- Joseph Campbell: (4) The Challenge of the West, 1975

Please mail your order and your check payable to:
DOLPHIN TAPES, P.O. Box 71, Big Sur, CA 93920

Please add $3.00 to your complete order for handling and mailing (add $5.00 more if you wish priority mail). Overseas orders add $1.00 per tape for mailing. California residents include 6 1/2% tax. Institutional purchase orders please add 10% to tape cost for invoicing and deferred payment. Allow 4 to 6 weeks for delivery (most orders are mailed within two weeks).

Please mail your order and your check payable to:
DOLPHIN TAPES, P.O. Box 71, Big Sur, CA 93920

Advertisement: Dolphin Tapes is a private company independent of Esalen.
C BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION

A

Ralph Abraham, known for his work in dynamics and chaos theory, is professor of mathematics at UCSB, and author of Chaos, Gaia, Eros: The Orphic Trinity in Myth and Science, and co-author of Dialogues at the Edge of the West. p. 52

Jeremiah Abrams is a Jungian therapist and writer. His books include The Shadow in America and Meeting the Shadow. As director of the Mt. Vision Institute in Sausalito, Calif., he conducts a certification program in soul-centered psychology and psycho-spiritual integration. p. 33

Sarah Abukutsa is a professional singer and dancer who trained in her native Kenya before working in Europe and the U.S. She has worked with Babatunde Olatunji and Quincy Jones. p. 16

Jeanne Achterberg is professor of psychology at Saybrook Institute and co-chairs the Mind/Body Advisory Panel for the Office of Alternative Medicine Division, National Institutes of Health. She is currently president of the Association of Transpersonal Psychology. p. 18

Connie Ahrons is a psychotherapist in Santa Monica and associate director of the Marriage and Family Therapy Training Program at USC. She is the author of The Good Divorce and co-author of Divorced Families. p. 38

Ronald Alexander is a health psychologist in private practice in Santa Monica, Calif., and a clinical core faculty member at Rykoff Center. He is a consultant to the entertainment industry, specializing in creativity and leadership skills. p. 35, 51

Tenshin Reb Anderson was ordained by Shunryu Suzuki Roshi in 1970. He served as Abbot of San Francisco Zen Center from 1986 to 1995 and is now "Senior Dharma Teacher" at Zen Center. p. 19

Elliot Aronson, teacher, scientist, and author, has been leading workshops on self-awareness and self-compassion for over twenty-five years. He is a member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. p. 52

Vera Aronson is a counselor and group leader who specializes in issues relating to the elderly. p. 52

Angeles Arrien, a native Basque, is an author, anthropologist, educator, and corporate consultant, whose teachings are based on the universality of values, ethics, and experiences revealed through cross-cultural myths, symbols, and the arts. p. 47

Nancy Bacal is a lyricist, screenwriter, and aikido black-belt. She edited Leonard Cohen's Stranger Music and Raga, a film starring Ravi Shankar. She leads ongoing writing workshops in Los Angeles and West Marin, Calif. p. 14, 37

Richard Balaban is a clinical psychologist in private practice in Bloomington, Ind., who delights in leading groups. He affirms joyfulness and the creation of a sense of self and community. p. 14

James Baraz has taught vipassana insight meditation retreats since 1977 and is cofounder of Spirit Rock Meditation Center in Marin County, Calif. A licensed psychologist, he has a counseling practice in Berkeley. p. 28, 31, 53

Edmundo Barbosa is a body-oriented psychologist from Sao Paulo, Brazil and the founder of Refida, a center for work with cancer patients. He is a senior research associate for the Institute for the Study of the Afterdeath. p. 43

Ellen Bass has supported, encouraged, and inspired women's writing for over 20 years. She has published a dozen books, including poetry, nonfiction, and children's stories. p. 52

Leonard Beame has a broad background in humanistic psychotherapy and has been a visiting teacher at Esalen. For the past seven years he has studied analytic approaches to therapy, the last two with Dr. Robert Stolorow. p. 57

Tom Bender is an architect, strategic planner, feng-shui practitioner, top award winner in the 1993 international Sustainable Community Solutions competition, and former editor of RAIN magazine. p. 23

Brian Bergstrom is a structural bodywork practitioner and yoga instructor with over fifteen years' experience. He has a private practice in Palm Springs, Calif. p. 19

Elena Bonn practices psychodynamic psychotherapy with adults and teenagers in Westlake Village, Calif. She has trained with Dr. Robert Stolorow in intersubjectivity for four years. p. 17

Julie Bowden, a pioneer in the children of alcoholics (COA) field, is cofounder of the National Association of COAs. She co-authored Recovery: A Guide for Adult COAs and Genetic Spirituality in Recovery. p. 14, 15, 37

C.J. Bradbury is a member of the Esalen massage staff and a teacher of fai chi ch'uan with an avid interest in brainwave training. He is the grandfather of Joshua and Jazellyn. p. 46

Carolyn Bradock is a body-centered therapist and consultant in private practice in Lakewood, Colo. She authored Body Voices: Using the Power of Breath, Sound, and Movement to Heal and Create New Boundaries. She trains professionals in post-traumatic stress disorder. p. 33

Jessica Moore Britt, a Reichian practitioner in the Bay Area, is a teacher of the Ridwan Work School, which is dedicated to understanding personality and spiritual development. p. 53

Mark Bryan, cofounder of The Artist's Way workshops, has an extensive background in business creativity and lectures and consults on creativity in business, science, and the arts. He teaches at the College of Santa Fe film school. p. 38

Heather Burch is an eidetic imagery therapist and trainer. She studied extensive ly with Dr. Ahhiber Ahhier, originator of Image Therapy. In addition, she has a background in shamanism, hypnosis, and self-acceptance training. p. 17

Sophy Bumham, author of ten books including A Book of Angels (translated into 12 Languages) and Angel Letters, is currently working on a third non-fiction book on angels and the spiritual dimension that surrounds us. p. 34

Julia Cameron has been a working artist for more than 20 years as a screenwriter, director, and producer in Hollywood, and as a journalist for such diverse publications as The New York Times and Rolling Stone. p. 38

Fritjof Capra, physicist and systems theorist, is a director of the Berkeley-based Center for Ecoliteracy. He is the author of The Tao of Physics, The Turning Point, and Uncommon Wisdom. p. 34

Lewis John Carlino is a novelist, playwright, screenwriter, and director. He has taught playwriting at the University of Southern California, and screenwriting at Columbia University. p. 28

Seymour Carter, longtime gestalt teacher at Esalen and in Europe, combines studies in family systems theory with Zen Buddhism, sensory awareness, aikido, and other body-oriented practices. p. 36, 41

Carl Chase is a bodyworker who specializes in cross-fiber friction and deep tissue methods. He has also studied sports massage and soft-tissue manipulation. p. 16, 43

Ricci Coddington is a certified practitioner of Holotropic Breathwork with over 30 years' experience in deep healing work. She completed a three-year training program in transpersonal psychology with Stanislav and Christina Grof. p. 50

Stephen Cohen, gestalt practitioner and longtime golf hacker, is founder and President of The Shivas Irons Society, a non-profit organization dedicated to enhancing golf's beauty and virtues. p. 19

Ann Weiser Comell has taught Focusing in eleven states and nine countries. She is the author of The Focusing Guide's Manual, and is past president of the Association for Humanistic Psychology. p. 26

Judith Cornell, artist and educator, has developed programs exploring the synthesis of art with other fields. Founder of Manifesting Inner Light, she has taught people worldwide to use art as a yoga for healing and transformation. p. 16, 61

Phil Cousineau is a filmmaker, lecturer, and adventure travel guide. He is the author of Soul: Readings from Socrates to Ray Charles and The Hero's Journey: Joseph Campbell on His Life and Work. p. 15

Dale Cummings, certified Radix® teacher and marriage and family counselor in West Los Angeles, Santa Cruz, and San Francisco, is director of training for the Radix® Institute. p. 43

Rabbi William Cutter is a rabbi and a professor of literature and education at Hebrew Union College in Los Angeles. p. 21

David Daniels is a clinical professor of psychiatry at Stanford and a teacher of the Enneagram with Helen Palmer. With 25 years in private practice, he incorporates individual and group process, couples therapy, and clinical applications of the Enneagram. p. 47

David Darling is a maverick cellist, composer, conductor, and teacher. He is cofounder of Music for People, an organization that humanizes the learning process of creating music. His latest recordings are Cello, Dark Wood, and 8-String Religion. p. 15, 42, 53

Lama Surya Das is a Buddhist scholar, poet, and translator of Tibetan texts. He is founder of the Dzogchen Foundation of America and author of The Snow Lion's Tail: 150 Wisdom Tales from Tibet. p. 15, 59

Madeline de Joly is a contemporary multimedia artist and teacher who uses handmade paper as a core element. Her work is affiliated with major international galleries, museums, and corporate and private collections. p. 21

Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita), certified Radix® practitioner and longtime Esalen group leader, has over 20 years' experience guiding people in breathwork, gestalt, vision improvement, movement, and meditation. Her current interest is swimming with wild dolphins in Hawaii. p. 18, 34

Jed Diamond is a counselor, teacher, and author of The Warrior's Journey Home: Healing Men's Addictions. Healing the Planet and Looking for Love in All the Wrong Places. p. 37

Patrick Douce, one of Moshe Feldenkrais's first American students, has lived at Esalen since 1972. Since 1986 he has lived half of each year in Bali, developing programs with Indonesian Silat Martial-Arts-for-schools. p. 17

Charles Durrett is coauthor of CoHousing — A Contemporary Approach to Housing Ourselves. Through his architectural design and consulting firm, The CoHousing Company, he is working to create co-housing communities in the U.S. p. 28

Ken Dychtwald is a psychologist, gerontologist, entrepreneur, and former Esalen resident. He has authored eight books, including Bodymind and Age Wave. p. 13

Matthew Fox is the internationally known author of fifteen books. He holds master's degree in philosophy and theology and a doctorate in spirituality, and is the leading proponent of Creation Spirituality. p. 19

Gregory Franta is principal architect of ENSAR Group, an international design firm specializing in environmentally sustainable architecture. He is cofounder of the AIA Committee on the Environment. p. 10

Bruce Kumar Frantzis has over thirty years' experience in Oriental healing, meditation, and martial arts, including fifteen years' study in Asia. He leads seminars in the U.S. and Europe. p. 15

Joyce Frazier, a gestalt practitioner in private practice, is the senior supervisor of the Gestalt Training Institute of Vancouver, Canada. She gives dream workshops in the U.S., Canada, and Europe. p. 30, 31

Edith Eger is a clinical assistant professor of psychiatry at UCSF Medical School. She has a private practice in La Jolla and is an international consultant on post-traumatic stress reaction. p. 43

Eric Erickson is a long-term student of gestalt and Eastern philosophical traditions. p. 49, 63

Caroline Estes is a cofounder of Alpha Farm, an Oregon intentional community (founded in 1972) which uses consensus in all its decision making. p. 49

Warren Farrell author of Why Men Are The Way They Are and The Liberated Man, has been a pioneer in both the women's and men's movement, and has appeared on over 1,000 television and radio shows. p. 47

Patricia Fields, a licensed psychologist with eighteen years' experience in facilitating spiritual development, is a skilled energetic practitioner and intuitive. p. 19

Barbara Findeschein is a researcher and lecturer on pre-and perinatal psychology and creator of the film Journey to be Born. p. 43

Karen Fisher, a researcher and teacher on pre- and perinatal psychology and author of Soul: Readings from Socrates to Ray Charles and The Hero's Journey: Joseph Campbell on His Life and Work. p. 15

Cynthia Gale, ceremonial artist and teacher of Mother Earth spirituality, is a former dean at Sarah Lawrence College and award-winning fiber artist who exhibits her art in galleries and museums throughout the U.S. p. 14

Sherry Sanders Galloway is an Esalen massage staff practitioner and teacher whose focus is sports massage, balanced with Esalen bodywork. A practicing R.N., she specializes in emergency medicine and psychiatric intervention. p. 47

Glenda Gerard is cofounder of The Dialogue Group, specializing in interpersonal communication, leadership, and group facilitation. Her passion is integrating spiritual practice and conscious learning in personal and professional life. p. 51

Mark Gerzon authored several books, including Coming Into Our Own: Understanding the Adult Metamorphosis and A Choice of Heroes: The Changing Faces of American Manhood. He has led workshops on gender and on midlife throughout the U.S. p. 43

Mariah Fenton Gladis, gestalt practitioner and trainer, founded and, for 12 years, directed the Buchs County Institute. She is director of the Pennsylvania Gestalt Center for Psychotherapy and Training. p. 30, 31

Mary Goldenson (Devarani) is a clinical psychologist, chiropractor, and certified Radix® teacher in Los Angeles. She has a private practice specializing in relationship therapy and transitions. p. 13, 20, 27, 46, 51, 55, 63

Harriet Goslin is the originator of Cortical Resynchronization®. She is a Feldenkrais® practitioner with a background in psychosynthesis, applied kinesiology, craniosacral work, and social anthropology. p. 24

Leslie Gray is a Native American clinical psychologist with a shamanic counseling practice in San Francisco. She offers seminars on shamanism and on applied ecopsychology worldwide. p. 36

Spalding Gray, writer and actor, has created a series of 13 autobiographical monologues which he has performed in the U.S., Europe, and Australia. He has taught storytelling at Columbia, NYU, and Omega Institute. p. 39

Bruce Gregory is a psychologist in private practice who specializes in mind/body healing and health psychology. He works with corporate executives who are experiencing difficulties with leadership skills. p. 26

Eleanor Criswell Hanna, professor of psychology at Sonoma State University, is editor of Somatics, director of the Novato Institute for Somatic Research and Training, and author of How Yoga Works. p. 48

Keith Haring is a research psychologist and coauthor of eight books. He has twenty-five years' experience in human potential research and is research director of the Institute for Advanced Psychology in San Francisco. p. 42

Michael Harner has practiced shamanism and shamanic healing for more than thirty-five years and pioneered their return to contemporary life. His books include The Way of the Shaman; The Jivaro; and Hallucinogens and Shamanism. p. 53, 57

Steven Harper coordinates Esalen's Wilderness Programs. He has led both traditional and experimental expeditions internationally for nearly 20 years. His work focuses on wild nature and vehicle for awakening. p. 16, 19, 24, 58, 63

John Harris is a bodyworker and somatic therapist with 15 years' experience treating physical and emotional pain. He specializes in sports massage and has worked extensively with post-traumatic stress disorder. p. 47

Rachel Harris was in the 1968 Esalen Residential Program. She is a psychotherapist in private practice in Princeton, N.J., and a consultant for executives on leadership and interpersonal skill development. p. 24

Robert Harris has been practicing Craniosacral Therapy since 1986 and now heads the Cranial Therapy Centre in Toronto. A senior instructor for the Uplender Institute, he teaches and lectures internationally. p. 31

Andrew Harvey, born and raised in South India and educated at Oxford, was the youngest ever professor of All Souls College. Scholar, educator, and author, his twenty-two books include novels, poems, and translations. p. 35
Steve Hasenberg is an author, teacher, and psychotherapist in private practice. He wrote and co-developed the Time/Life video series Stress Management: A Positive Strategy and has researched and created meditation programs nationwide. p. 39

David Hawkins, a psychiatrist in private practice, has trained group therapists at Duke University and throughout the U.S. He is past president of the American Academy of Psychotherapists. p. 22

Richard Helfant, former Director of Cardiology at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center and professor of medicine at UCLA, is a cardiologist, teacher, and author of Women Take Heart. p. 39

Robert Helm is a senior member of the Esalen massage/bodywork staff. p. 18, 41

Martina Hoffman is a painter, sculptor, and Rishi master whose art explores women's connection to the Goddess. Her work is featured in the recent book The Return of the Great Goddess. p. 42

Jo Smith Holtman is a therapist and professor of sociology at Jackson, Miss. She is the author of The Healthy Personality: Being and Doing, and has been leading workshops on self and community for over twenty-five years. p. 63

Maria Lucia Sauer Holloman has practiced spiritual healing in Brazil and the U.S. since 1982. She has been a resident student and teacher at Esalen and conducts trainings and seminars internationally. p. 14, 41

Peggy Horan has been practicing and teaching massage at Esalen for 25 years. She is a student of childbirth, dance, and movement. p. 63

Chungliang Al Huang teaches Tai Ji philosophy, East/West synthesis, and the art of movement meditation. He is the foundress and president of the Living Tao Foundation, and the director of Lan Ting Institute in the Sacred Mountains of China. p. 36, 63, 44, 45

Russ Hudson has been teaching Enneagram Professional Trainings with Don Riso since 1991. He is coauthor of their forthcoming The Wisdom of the Enneagram, and has 15 years' experience with Fourth Way schools, Buddhism, and other traditions. p. 33

Dorothy S. Hunt is a painter/teaching-artist at UC Berkeley Extension, Harshorn, in Norway and Atitsa in Greece. A Fulbright Scholar whose work has been exhibited internationally, she leads art tours for museums and universities. p. 21, 34

Sandra Ingerman is an international faculty member of Michael Harmer's Foundation for Shamanic Studies. She is the author of Soul Retrieval: Mending the Fragmented Self. p. 45, 53, 57

Julian Isaacs is a consciousness researcher, university professor, parapsychologist, and energy practitioner who uses higher energies, biofeedback, and psychotechnology to facilitate transformational process. p. 19

Linda Jacobson is a professional artist who teaches transformational art at UCLA and internationally. Her teaching reflects her involvement with Tibetan Buddhism, Jungian concepts, and shamanism. p. 52

Cynthia Johnson-Blanchetta is a photographer and performance artist who focuses on the intuitive aspects of the photographic medium. Former Director of the Weston Photographic Gallery, she also teaches dance and movement at Esalen. p. 33

Arthur Joseph is a teacher and professor of voice with over thirty years' experience. He is the creator of Vocal Awareness, a method that integrates mind/body/spirit through the vocal arts. p. 30

Deane Juhun is the author of Job's Body: A Handbook for Bodyworkers and Somatic Explorations. He was a member of the Esalen massage crew for 16 years, and is currently a Tajar practitioner and instructor in Miller Valley, Calif. p. 40

Sam Keen is the author of eleven books, including The Passionate Life, Faces of the Enemy, and, most recently, Hymns to an Unknown God. p. 54

Margaret Kemeny is trained in behavioral science and immunology. She conducts psychoneuroimmunologu research at the UCLA School of Medicine on individuals infected with the HIV virus. p. 65

Shelley Kessler, a leading educator in the new field of emotional literacy, has led programs which facilitate initiation. She is coauthor with Mark Gerrain of the forthcoming Man, Woman, Earth: Reclaiming Spirit and Wildness in Intimate Relationship. p. 43

Galway Kinnell is a former MacArthur Fellow whose 1962 Selected Poems won the Pulitzer Prize and the National Book Award. He teaches at NYU, living part-time in New York and part-time in Vermont. His most recent book is Imperfect Thirst. p. 36

Michael Krasny, professor of English at San Francisco State University, is host and producer of the award-winning Northern California radio program "FORUM." He is also a prize-winning teacher, journalist, scholar, and fiction writer. p. 17

Bob Krieger is a former Esalen resident, performance psychologist, and best-selling author whose books include Inner Skiing and If It Ain't Break, Break It. He gives speeches and seminars to associations and corporations. p. 23

Ron Kurtz developed the Hakomi method and is founder of the Hakomi Institute. He is author of Body-Centered Psychotherapy and is currently writing a book on psychotherapy as a spiritual practice. p. 31

Susan Kuttner is a marketing and communications consultant, both in business and the healing arts. She assists her clients in becoming more effective, more powerful, more heartfelt, and more successful in their efforts. p. 59

Stephen LaBerge is a scientist dedicated to the transformation of human consciousness. He teaches and researches conscious or "lucid" dreaming at Stanford University. p. 49

Frank Lawlis, clinical health psychologist and researcher, is a professor at the Institute of Transpersonal Psychology. He has taught at four major medical schools and has a grant to study pain and stress management for children with cancer at Stanford Medical Center. p. 18

Lenore Leifer is a psychologist in San Francisco who teaches and leads professional training in psychosomacy in the U.S., and Russia. She also facilitates retreats for women and for people with heart disease and cancer. p. 48

Mel Leifer has been a research participant and teacher at Dr. Dean Ornish's Preventive Medicine Research Institute for nine years, and has shown reversal of his own heart disease without surgery. He has practiced and taught Integral Yoga for nine years. p. 48

George Leonard is the author of Mastery; The Silent Pulse; and The Transformation. He is a fourth-degree black belt in aikido and founder of Leonard Energy Training (LET). p. 37, 59

Master Share K. Lew, a youthful 77, is a healer and Taoist priest from Wong Lung monastery in Southern China, with over half a century's experience teaching Taoist health practices such as Chi Kung. p. 26

Elisa Lodge is an expressive arts therapist with thirty years' experience teaching body/mind practices and an extensive background in the healing arts, movement education, and performance art. p. 49

Linda Loomis uses intersubjectivity to specialize in the treatment of physical, emotional, and sexual abuse, and the problems arising from alcoholism and post-traumatic stress. p. 17

Amory Lovins cofounded and directs research at Rocky Mountain Institute, a nonprofit resource policy center. The Wall Street Journal named him among 28 people in the world most likely to change the course of business in the 90s. p. 38

Francis Lu is a clinical professor of psychiatry at UCSF and deputy chief for inpatient psychiatry at San Francisco General Hospital. He has conducted seminars at Esalen on film and transpersonal psychology. p. 50

Olga Luchakova is a spiritual teacher with an extensive background in Christian mysticism, Advaita-Vedanta, Raja yoga, Buddhism, and Slavic paganism. She is an adjunct professor at the California Institute of Integral Studies. p. 17

David Lukoff is a professor of psychology at Saybrook Institute and a psychologist at the San Francisco VA Day Treatment Center. He has published articles on the spiritual and religious dimensions of clinical practice. p. 50

Nancy Kaye Lunney, formerly a vocal coach and accompanist, is the originator of Singing Gestalt, which utilizes lyrics and songs as a means of self-expression. She is director of programming at Esalen. p. 54

Joyce Lyke is a teacher in the Redhill Work School, which is dedicated to understanding the relationship between personality and being. She has been part of the Esalen Gestalt staff for many years. p. 53

Helen Jerene Malcolm, artist, consultant, and teacher, works with a visionary consulting team designing long-range vision paintings for individual clients and Fortune 500 corporations. p. 46

Peller Marion is a psychologist, writer, and organizational management consultant. She is president of Peller Marion Associates, Inc., an outsourcing and executive development coaching corporation in San Francisco. p. 50

Dean Marson is a practitioner and instructor of Esalen massage who uses self-care techniques as a means of introducing people to the pleasure and potential of human touch. p. 59

Ingrid May is a German-trained physical therapist currently with the Esalen massage staff. Her massage work integrates dance, movement, breath awareness, and meditation. p. 28

Kathryn McCammon is coauthor of CoHousing—A Contemporary Approach to Housing Ourselves. She works through her design firm, The CoHousing Company, to bring co-housing communities to life in the U.S. p. 28
Kim McCourt is a licensed marriage and family counselor and a senior associate at the Lomi School. Her bodywork practice incorporates craniotherapy, intuitive hands-on energy work, orthodox massage, and shiatsu. p. 59

Terence McKenna has spent twenty-five years studying the ontological foundations of shamanism and the ethnopharmacology of spiritual transformation. He is the author of True Hallucinations; The Archetica Religion; and Food of the Gods. p. 5, 15

Deborah Anne Medow, Esalen workshop leader and bodywork practitioner since 1969, teaches ashtanga yoga, massage, creative movement, gestalt awareness, and related healing disciplines throughout the U.S. and Europe. p. 11, 43, 52

Sukie Miller, former director of education at Esalen, founded the Institute for the Study of the Afterlife. She has worked extensively with dying patients and has visited and studied over thirty afterlife systems worldwide. p. 43

Darlene Moore is a research associate at the Institute for Advanced Psychology in San Francisco. She has conducted special projects and taught extended perception workshops for the Institute throughout the U.S., Canada, and Europe. p. 42

Beverly Kitaen Morse is a marriage and family counselor in private practice in Santa Monica and a senior instructor at the Rosenberg-Rand Institute for Integrative Body Psychotherapy. p. 29, 56

Caroline Muir has been a yoga practitioner for over 20 years. She is a Tantric Sex expert who specializes in sexual healing and awakening the goddess energy in women. p. 54

Charles Muir, a professional yoga instructor for 25 years, is director of the Source Schools of Tantra Yoga in Hawaii and California. He is a teacher of the move Tantra: The Art of Conscious Loving. p. 54

Katrine Munthe is a clinical psychologist who has lived and worked in Italy for most of her life. She uses art history as a foundation for therapy and focuses on symbology, body language, and the use of metaphor and myth. p. 19

Arthur Munyer, a member of the Esalen massage crew since 1975, is a trigger point specialist and longtime bodywork practitioner trained by Dub Leigh, Fritz Smith, and Lauren Berry. p. 54

Michael Murphy founded Esalen Institute (with Richard Price) in 1962, and helped initiate Esalen's Soviet American Exchange Program. He is the author of Golf in the Kingdom; Jacob Arab; and The Future of the Body. p. 54

Claudio Naranjo, growth-disciplines theorist and former Esalen resident, introduced meditation as an adjunct to therapy and developed the enneagram as personality map in the U.S. He has given the opening address at all the International Gestalt Conferences. p. 34

Little Bear Nason is the seventh generation spiritual leader of the Esalen Indian Tribe of Big Sur. His life is an apprenticeship to the Earth. p. 14, 58

Maria Nemeth, a clinical psychologist, has been leading seminars for twenty-four years emphasizing successful communication and the development of excellence with ease. p. 15

Steven Newmark is a psychotherapist, author, and lecturer on singles issues. He is the creator of the videos What Women Really Want, The Art of Meeting Men, and How to Meet Women. p. 31

Wes "Scoop" Nisker is considered the dean of new radio journalism and is editor of Inquiring Mind, a journal of the Vipassana Buddhist community. He is the author of Crazy Wisdom. p. 29

Gina Ogden is a licensed M.F.C.C., certified sex therapist, and the author of three books on women's sexuality, including Women Who Love Sex. She is preparing a book, Bodotian. p. 33

Patricia O'Gorman is a cofounder of the National Assoication for Children of Alcoholics and a former faculty member of the NYU School of Medicine, Department of Psychiatry. She is a psychologist in private practice and the mother of twin boys. p. 37

Ohashi is a philosopher, healer, teacher, and creator of the Ohashiaatsu Method®. He founded the Ohashi Institute and has authored numerous books and videos. p. 39

Babatunde Olatunji, master percussionist from Nigeria, has performed internationally for 35 years and is known for his album Drums of Passion. He is an authority on African religion. p. 55

Kathleen O'Shaughnessy has an extensive background in Soto Zen, the major psychotherapies, movement therapy, nutritional healing, shamanic states, bodywork, and the practicalities of transpersonal crisis. p. 39, 40

Brita Oststrom has led massage and other workshops at Esalen for 21 years. She is trained in gestalt awareness work and participated in Esalen's two-year somatics education project. She is a licensed M.F.C.C. p. 30, 49

Laurie Lioness Patzick blends traditional and innovative ways of healing and works with the chakras and the energy body. She pilots the HealthSpring Project, extending Esalen's work in the healing arts and sciences to the rest of the world. p. 18, 54

Dennis Portnoy, a licensed counselor, specializes in programs on burnout prevention and codependency in the workplace. He conducts training sessions for organizations, medical groups, schools, and associations. p. 27

Christine Stewart Price is a teacher and ongoing student of gestalt practice and other approaches to developing awareness. p. 18, 33, 54, 53

Carol Proudfoot-Edgar, former counseling psychologist at UCSC for 17 years, leads workshops on integrating shamanic methods and Native American teachings. She is a certified shamanic counselor and teaches for Michael Harmer's Foundation for Shamanic Studies. p. 45

Jill Purce is the author of The Mystic Spiral. She studied the mystical dimensions of sound with Karlheinz Stockhausen and the magical use of voice and overtone chanting with Tibetan lamas. p. 13

Gustavo Rabin is a clinical psychologist who focuses on relationships, life's transitions, and spiritual creativity. He has a private practice in Los Angeles. p. 36

Yvonne Rand is a Buddhist meditation teacher and a lay Bodhisattva priest in the Soto Zen tradition. She brings deep interest and training in psychology and the arts to her consideration of ways to live a spiritual life. p. 50

Donna Ray-Reese, Feldenkrais practitioner and assistant trainer, is an M.F.C.C. psychotherapist specializing in psychophysical issues and learning difficulties. p. 35

Paul Rebillo, a group leader at Esalen for nineteen years, combines gestalt methodology with theater and ritual. He teaches in Europe and throughout the U.S. p. 40, 41

Layne Redmond is a writer, musician, and leader of the Mob of Angels, a women's ritual drumming group. She performs and records internationally, and researches the visual history of goddesses, priestesses, and women playing the frame drum. p. 35

Mark Reese, Relaxercise coauthor and author of Feldenkrais/Erickson Parallels, is one of twelve Feldenkrais Guild-accredited teacher-trainers and teaches internationally. p. 35

David Richo has a doctorate in clinical psychology and is the author of How To Be An Adult. He emphasizes Jungian active imagination techniques to integrate psychological and spiritual work. p. 41

Don Richard Riso is president of Enneagram Personality Types, Inc. in New York, and is the most published author in the field. His books include Discovering Your Personality Type and Enneagram Transformations. p. 33

Jane Marla Robbins, a professional actress, teacher, and writer for twenty-five years, has acted in movies, television, and on Broadway. Her plays have been produced in New York, London, Copenhagen, and Spoleto. p. 24

Mary Roscmaroma is the director of the Rosmarina School, a non-profit educational organization to optimize the developmental potential of gifted adults. She has been counseling gifted adults for over 24 years. p. 45

Vimala Rodgers, graphotherapist and author, trains health professionals, psychotherapists, and persons committed to personal transformation. She is director of The Institute of Integral Handwriting Studies. p. 22

Jack Rosenberg, a psychologist and director of the Rosenberg-Rand Institute of Integrative Body Psychotherapy in Venice, Calif., is the author of Body, Self, and Soul. p. 29, 56

Ilana Rubenfeld, thirty-year pioneer in the integration of body-mind-spirit and originator of the Rubenfeld Synergy® Method, is a certified teacher of Alexander Technique, Feldenkrais Method®, and trained with Fritz and Laura Perls in gestalt practice. p. 18, 40

Douglas Rushkoff, author of four books and many computer programs and CD-ROMs, is media editor for the Whole Earth Catalogue. He has taught film, media, and theory and lectured on computers and spirituality. p. 55

Ann Russell is a psychotherapist in Palo Alto who has been a psychospiritual teacher and trainer for twenty years. She is an adjunct faculty member at the Institute of Transpersonal Psychology. p. 53

Stephanie Sabetti, founder of the Life Energy Process, has a doctorate in psychology and trains therapists internationally. She is also an organizational consultant. p. 14, 49

Barbara Sachs trained as a psychotherapist and Rishwan teacher and was clinical director of counseling at JFK University. She raised her two children as a single parent, integrating their passions: parenting, spiritual life, and psychology. p. 47

Yoshi Sakuyama, a six-degree black belt of Shorinji Kempo, a Japanese martial art rooted in Zen Buddhism, is also a movement artist and teacher of Zynkulo, a total movement training system. p. 48

André Salvage has been teaching self-defense for over 17 years. A consultant at Park Grove Hospital and the L.A. Commission on Assaults Against Women, he has developed nationwide assault prevention seminars. p. 30

Audrey Savage, gestalt practitioner and body therapist, works with women's issues, sexuality and spirituality, and the tarot. She is the author of The Fourth Woman and Twice Raped. p. 40, 47
David Schiffman is a longtime group leader at Esalen. His primary interest is in facilitating people who are in transition toward a more heartfelt, unstrained existence. p. 29, 44, 45, 54, 62, 63
Kirk Schneider is a psychologist, author, and adjunct faculty member at several Bay Area schools. His most recent book is The Psychology of Existence, coauthored with the late Rollo May. p. 28
Max Schuepbach is cofounder of the Process Work Centers in Oregon and Switzerland. He is the originator of the Lava Rock Clinic, which he co-leads with Arnold Mindell. It integrates Process Work with medicine and community building. p. 23
Laurie Schutz, senior Esalen massage practitioner and teacher, integrates her degree in body awareness psychology with a noninvasive massage approach to maximize the release of both mind and body tension. p. 30
Will Schutz, founder of the Antioch holistic studies department, is the creator of The Human Element, a set of training materials for organizations. He is the author of Joy and Profound Simplicity. p. 45
Joanne Segel has been a registered movement and transformational therapist for over 25 years. She is an affiliate of the Gestalt Institute and integrates Jungian concepts into her work. p. 52
Charlotte Selver, student of Elsa Cindler, introduced sensory awareness in the U.S., and has been closely connected with Esalen and the San Francisco Zen Center since its beginnings. p. 32
Phyllis Shankman is a licensed counselor in Santa Monica who teaches at Ryokan College and is a group facilitator at AIDS Project Los Angeles. She has led workshops at Esalen for over 15 years. p. 20, 51
Paula Shaw, a professional actress and acting teacher for over 10 years, conducts workshops in expanding self-expression, well-being, and creativity for non-actors across the United States and Canada. p. 37
Fred Shoemaker, an inner game teacher and golf professional, is founder of The School for Extraordinary Golf. He has taught seminars for the U.S., Canadian, and Japanese PGA, and often writes about the inner game. p. 19
Julian Silverman, a former director and president of Esalen Institute, is a psychologist and educator. His work focuses on the integration of psychotherapeutic and spiritual practices in community setting. p. 20, 21, 49, 50
Tobin Simon is cofounder of Proprioceptive Writing and codirector of the Proprioceptive Writing Center in Portland, Maine. He is formerly a professor of English and humanities. p. 26
Fritz Smith is a physician, cranial osteopath, certified acupuncturist, and founder of Zero Balancing. He is the author of Inner Bridges: A Guide to Energy and Body Structure. p. 53
Ray Gwyn Smith is a poet and artist from the mountains of North Wales. She brings together her bardic heritage with insights from her ongoing solo experience with the wild. p. 52
George Solomon, physician and professor of psychiatry at UCLA, is a pioneer in the field of psychoneuroimmunology. His current research concerns psychoneuroimmunologic aspects of AIDS and aging. p. 45
John Soper is a gestalt practitioner with a background in international business. He is deeply aware of the need to improve the environment. p. 63
Kathleen Riordan Speeth, author of The Gurdjieff Work, for many years taught psychotherapeutic technique at the Institute of Transpersonal Psychology. Trained in Buddhist, Sufi, and Hindu methods, she melds practical psychology with existential philosophy, East and West. p. 44
Dennis Stevens is a nationally recognized author and speaker on reducing financial stress and achieving financial independence. He is a certified financial consultant and a member of the Registry of Financial Planning Practitioners. p. 32
Brother David Steindl-Rast, Benedictine monk, psychologist, and author, has lectured on five continents. He is Spiritual Teacher-in-Residence at Esalen, concerned with the unique challenges and opportunities of our time. p. 14, 15, 45, 47
Margaret Stevens is a senior member of the Esalen massage staff and a student of yoga, dance, and voice. p. 66
Robert Stolarow is Training and Supervising Analyst at the Institute of Contemporary Psychoanalysis, Los Angeles, coauthor or coeditor of six books, and author or coauthor of more than 120 articles on psychoanalysis and psychotherapy. p. 17
David Streeter, a certified sports massage practitioner on the Esalen massage staff, has taught yoga and anatomy and worked as an athletic trainer. Before joining the Esalen faculty, he lived as a Carmalidese monk. p. 24, 33, 43, 56
Tina Stromsted, faculty member in the Somatic Psychology Program at the California Institute of Integral Studies, integrates body-oriented, Jungian, and creative arts approaches in her teaching and private practice. p. 20
Rod Styrke, an initiate of Kriya and Tantric-Hatha Yoga and a Yogiraj (master) in the ISHTA lineage, has taught yoga and meditation since 1980. He is based at Yoga Works in Santa Monica, Calif., where he leads teacher training. p. 36
Sara Szektor is a clinical psychologist in private practice in Buenos Aires, Argentina. Working with couples and groups, she combines gestalt practices, strategic counseling, and spiritual development. p. 36
Charles Tart teaches at the California Institute of Integral Studies. Author of Altered States of Consciousness and Transpersonal Psychologies, he is a student of aikido, Gurdjieff work, Tibetan Buddhism, and other humanistic and spiritual disciplines. p. 23
Eugene Taylor is a historian and philosopher of psychology, a William James scholar, and a third-degree black belt in aikido. p. 21
Linda Teurs is an organizational consultant and cofounder of The Dialogue Group. She specializes in leadership, self-organizing/managing teams, interpersonal communications, and integration of dialogue into a wide variety of settings. p. 51
Vicki Topp, faculty coordinator for the Esalen massage staff, teaches soft and sensitive use of pressure points and deep tissue massage combined with emotional and transpersonal body practices. p. 65
Linda Trichter-Metcalfe, formerly a professor of English and humanities, cofounded the practice of Proprioceptive Writing and has been teaching it since 1976. She is codirector of the Proprioceptive Writing Center in Portland, Maine. p. 26
Karen Turner, author, teacher, and counselor, specializes in midlife transitions and spiritual emergence. She has been working for over 30 years combining spiritual disciplines, imagery, and psychology. p. 16
Robert Turner is an assistant clinical professor of psychiatry at UCSC and in private practice in San Francisco. He was the director of a training/ certification program in spiritual emergency syndromes. p. 50

U
John Upledger is an osteopathic physician recognized for his development of CranialSacral Therapy and SomatoEmotional Release. Author and alternative treatment innovator, he established the Upledger Institute, which has trained thousands of health care professionals. p. 25, 56
Daniela Ursaske is a member of the Esalen massage staff. Her work is strongly influenced by her studies in transisoclar work, movement, and dance. p. 41

V
Jean-Claude van Itallie, renowned off-off Broadway playwright (America Hurrah, The Serpent, widely produced versions of Chekhov), is also a longtime Tibetan Buddhist and Sufi dancer. p. 51
Robert Venosa is internationally recognized as one of the masters of Fantastic Realism. His paintings have been the subject of three books, Manus Manus, Noospheres, and the upcoming Drifts with Terence McKenna. p. 42

W
Dan Wakefield is a novelist, journalist, and screenwriter whose books include Returning: A Spiritual Journey, The Story of Your Life: Writing a Spiritual Autobiography, and New York in the Fifties. p. 15
Ellen Watson practices and teaches at Esalen where she has studied since 1984. Her bodywork style reflects her training in yoga, dance, Reichian and holotropic breathwork, hypnosis, and spiritual healing. p. 28, 33, 56, 63
Laurie Weaver is a teacher, counselor, and certified practitioner of Holotropic Breathwork with a private practice in San Francisco. She was an original member of the Grop Transpersonal Training staff. p. 30
Patti (Lawrence) White is a Cortical Reductive® and Feldenkrais® practitioner who employs hypnotherapy, transcranial, kinesiology, and Somato-Emotional Release® to harmonize body, mind, and spirit. p. 24
Scott Wirth is a San Francisco Jungian analyst/psychologist specializing in work with gay men. He counseled and contributed to Same Sex Love and the Path to Wholeness. p. 27
Anna Wise has been using EEGs to measure and train brainwaves for high performance and meditative states for the past 20 years. A member of the Academy of Certified Neurotherapists, she leads workshops internationally. p. 26, 53
Nina Wise is a performance artist who creates autobiographical and fictional pieces. Her multimedia works have been honored with seven Bay Area Critics' Circle awards and numerous grants and fellowships. p. 19, 44
Linda Piscitelli Wolf is a Transpersonal Counselor and lead trainer for the Eupsychia Institute in Austin, Texas. Co-director of the certification program at the Mt. Vision Institute in Sausalito, Calif., her work is founded on the premise that the "healer is within." p. 33
Jonathan Wolken is cofounder of Pilobolus Dance Theatre. p. 21
Anne Yeamans, a psychotherapist in Concord, Mass., has used psychosynthesis as the central framework for her work for over twenty years. She has worked with women's groups in the U.S., Canada, Russia, and Lithuania. p. 60
Ruth Zaporah, performance artist and teacher, regularly presents her work throughout the U.S. and Europe. She is a recipient of a National Endowment for the Arts Choreographer's Fellowship. p. 34
This form is for your convenience in reserving a space in Esalen workshops. If you wish to make reservations for more than one person, please photocopy this form so that each registrant has his/her own form, unless you are registering as a couple with the same address and phone number. A nonrefundable deposit for each person registering and each workshop applied for must accompany this form. (Please see Reservation Information, page 4, under Fees and Reservations, Making Contact with Us, and Cancellation and Refund Policy.)

Name of Registrant

Address

City

State

Zip

Home Phone: (____)   Work Phone: (____)

Sex: M   F   Couple

☐ Check if you have previously been to Esalen and this is a new address.

Occasionally there are unexpected situations that require us to contact you immediately before your stay here. If you will not be at the above numbers during the two weeks prior to the workshop, where may we reach you?

Please mark your first and second choices for housing after referring to page 4 for accommodation descriptions and rates. Total cost includes workshop fees, lodging, and meals.

☐ Check for standard accommodations, if available.

☐ Check for bunk bed room, if available.

☐ Check for sleeping bag space, if available.

☐ Check if you wish to room as a couple.

Write here the name(s) of any person(s) with whom you wish to room.

All workshop reservations require a nonrefundable deposit. Balance is due at time of check-in. (See page 4.)

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Workshop Date</th>
<th>Leader’s Name</th>
<th>Fee</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

Workshop Deposits Enclosed:

Tax-deductible contribution to Esalen (Optional):

$5 Catalog Contribution (Optional):

Subtotal:

Total Amount Enclosed:

☐ Check here for $10 prepay discount (see page 5).

☐ Check here if this is your first visit to Esalen.

☐ Check here if you need directions to Esalen.

☐ Check here if you are a senior.

FOR OFFICE USE ONLY

DATE REC. RES INITIALS CIRCLE DEPOSIT CC CK CA SUS

DEPOSIT AMT. RES. BK CC AUTH. #

DATE TYPED TYPED INITIALS PP SCHOL LIMO SENIOR

Passenger Van Service:

I want transportation from (check one):

☐ Monterey Greyhound Bus Stop at approximately 3:45 PM

1042 Del Monte Avenue (corner of Aquito)

☐ Monterey Airport at approximately 4:00 PM on

(date of arrival, Fridays and Sundays only).

The $30 per person charge (subject to change) is payable on arrival at Esalen. If your plans for use of the passenger van service change after you have made your reservation, please notify us. The only departing van service from Esalen is on Fridays and Sundays at approximately 5:30 PM. Passenger van service is not available at any other time.

Other Notes:

All of our rooms are non-smoking. If you smoke, please plan to do so outside.

No pets allowed.

We are unable to act as a banking service for our guests. Please bring adequate funds for your stay.

☐ We occasionally make our mailing list available to other organizations who have services, information, or events that might be of interest to our subscribers. Please check here if you prefer that your name be used for Esalen mailings only.

☐ Check here if you do not want your phone number given out for ride-sharing.

Please make checks payable to Esalen Institute, in U.S. currency only (There will be a $15 fee for returned checks.) Overseas residents must pay by checks drawn on U.S. banks or with one of the charge cards below. Checks or credit card information must accompany the reservations form. Or, you may fax this form to us at 408-667-2724. If you do so, you must include payment via one of the charge cards below.

Your reservation can be charged to:

☐ MasterCard ☐ Visa ☐ American Express

Card No. ________________

Expiration Date ________________

Authorizing Signature __________________

Thank you for your reservation. As soon as it is processed you will receive by return mail a receipt for your deposit and a notice of confirmation. Please review your confirmation for accuracy.
The Swan

Across the wide waters something comes floating—a slim and delicate ship, filled with white flowers—

and it moves
on its miraculous muscles

as though time didn’t exist, as though bringing such gifts to the dry shore was a happiness

almost beyond bearing.
And now it turns its dark eyes, it rearranges
the clouds of its wings,

it trails
an elaborate webbed foot,
the color of charcoal.
Soon it will be here.

Oh, what shall I do when that poppy-colored beak rests in my hand?
Said Mrs. Blake of the poet:

I miss my husband’s company—
he is so often in paradise.
Of course! the path to heaven doesn’t lie down in flat miles.
It’s in the imagination with which you perceive this world,

and the gestures
with which you honor it.
Oh, what will I do, what will I say, when those white wings touch the shore?
Esalen Institute is a center to encourage work in the humanities and sciences that promotes human values and potentials. Its activities consist of public seminars, residential work-study programs, invitational conferences, research, and semi-autonomous projects.
The Esalen Catalog
January–June 1996

Esalen

587
Esalen Institute is a center to explore work in the humanities and sciences that promotes human values and potentials. The Institute exists to sponsor, encourage, and attempt evaluation of work in these areas, both inside and outside our own organizational framework. Esalen's activities consist of public seminars, residential work-study programs, invitational conferences, research, and semi-autonomous projects.

Since Esalen is a center for experimental education, we ask that persons come to our programs out of an educational interest. We do not offer “cures” or assurances of change. As a center to foster personal and social transformation, Esalen offers those who join us the chance to explore more deeply the world and themselves.

Welcome to Esalen.
Esalen was founded in 1962 as an educational center devoted to the exploration of unrealized human capacities. It became known for its blend of East/West philosophies, its experiential/didactic workshops, the steady influx of philosophers, psychologists, artists, and religious thinkers, and its breathtaking grounds blessed with natural hot springs. Once home to a Native American tribe known as the Esselen, Esalen is situated on 27 acres of spectacular Big Sur coastline with the Santa Lucia Mountains rising sharply behind.

There are various ways to experience Esalen, ranging from an overnight visit to a long-term stay as a seminarian. The weekend and five-day workshops described throughout the catalog are the standard route for coming to Esalen. The “Experiencing Esalen” workshops, scheduled periodically, offer an introduction to practices such as gestalt, massage, sensory awareness, and meditation. From such a sampling, participants can then choose those approaches they are most attracted to and pursue them in subsequent seminars.

Another way of being at Esalen which allows a greater involvement at a lower expense is the Work Study Program, an intensive twenty-eight day work-oriented program for individuals who want to make a directed, personal commitment to self-exploration and growth, and a contribution to the Esalen community. For a full description of the Work Study Program, please turn to page 62.

For those who wish an extended stay, there are periodic long-term programs which involve didactic seminars or professional trainings as well as experiential workshops. Please see Special Programs.

Finally, there are other events that enrich life at Esalen. There are occasional forums in which writers and thinkers, both visiting and resident, share their ideas with the community. On Wednesday nights there may be lectures, films, dance performances, or other events. Bodywork of various kinds is available by appointment with individual practitioners. There is also a community event schedule offered. Please check the bulletin board when you arrive.

Esalen is a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on Coast Route 1. From the south, we are 50 miles north of San Simeon. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads Esalen Institute, By Reservation Only.

---

Catalog Subscriptions

If you would like to receive the Esalen Catalog, please refer to page 2 for subscription rates and send your check or money order (U.S. currency) in the enclosed subscription envelope, or mail it to: Subscriptions, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920 (see Income Tax Regulation 1.162-5).

---

The Hot Springs at Esalen

We would like those people who are planning their first visit to Esalen to know that swimsuits are optional, and nudity common, in the hot springs, massage area, and swimming pool. We encourage each individual to choose what is most comfortable, either wearing a swimsuit or not, and emphasize that the environment we strive for at Esalen is one of personal sanctity and respect for the human body.

In addition to around-the-clock availability for Esalen guests, the hot springs are open to the general public by reservation only from 1 AM to 3 AM. There is a $10 fee. To make a reservation, please call 408-667-3047.

---

Accreditation

Many formal educational institutions recognize the time spent at Esalen as being worthy of credit in their own curricula; check with your university or college for further information. We would be glad to supply information to your school regarding any of our programs or series of programs. Please submit a written request to the office supervisor.

---

Continuing Education at Esalen

Esalen is a provider of continuing education credits for both nurses and psychologists.

Approved workshops for nurses are noted in the Seminars section of this catalog as well as listed separately in the Continuing Education section, page 60. There is a $10 fee for each certificate of completion.

Recently approved as a C.E.U. provider for psychologists, Esalen has not yet catalog publication time received specific approval for individual workshops. Those workshops for which C.E.U. applications have been filed are noted in the Seminars section. For current status information, please phone Brita Ostrom at 408-667-3040.

---

Recommended Reading and Mail Order Books

Most books listed as recommended reading for workshops are available through Esalen's bookstore. Other merchandise is also available. For ordering information please call 408-667-3049.

---

Ongoing Residence Program

Offered beginning mid-September and ending mid-June, the Ongoing Residence Program is designed for those who would like to have time and space in the Esalen environment for an intensive workshop program over a long term. A Residence Program stay is 26 days (four “weeks” and three weekends). Participants may select any of the five-day workshops offered during their stay with weekends free to enjoy room and board. Occasionally workshops are cancelled, so second choices are advised.

The cost is $3195 per 26-day period for standard accommodations and $2520 for bunk bed rooms.
Making Contact with Us

Mail or Fax: The most efficient way to register for a workshop at Esalen is to fax or mail your reservation. If you fax your reservation, be sure to include accurate credit card information.

Esalen’s Fax: 408-667-2724.

(Our fax line is exclusively for reservations—no personal correspondence, please).

Phone: If you prefer to make your reservation by phone, please be prepared with your completed reservation form and your credit card. We know that all calls to Esalen are long distance and will try to be as efficient as possible.

General Information:

408-667-3000

Express Reservations:

408-644-8477

(This is only for those who have previously taken a workshop at Esalen and know the workshop, date, and leader of the workshop for which they are registering.)

All Other Reservations:

408-667-3005

Catalog Requests: 408-644-8476

Phone Reservation Hours:

Mon., Tues., Thur.: 10 AM to 7 PM

Wednesday: 10 AM to 12 NOON

Friday: 10 AM to 5 PM

Saturday: 10 AM to 3 PM

Sunday: 12 NOON to 5 PM

*The reservation office is closed on Christmas and New Year’s Day.

Fees

Fees and Reservations: Preregistration, by fax, mail, or phone, is required prior to arrival. A registration form is provided on page 72. Since workshops fill quickly, it is advisable to sign up as early as possible. In order to reserve a space in any workshop, we require full payment or the following deposits:

- Weekend: $150
  - 19 to 21 days: $450
  - 5 to 7 days: $570
  - More than 21 days: $350

- 12 to 14 days: $330

- 29 to 21 days: $380

- More than 21 days: $600

- 5 to 7 days: $250

- 21 to 29 days: $375

- 29 to 30 days: $425

- 31 to 35 days: $575

- 36 to 60 days: $750

- 60 to 90 days: $1050

- 90 to 120 days: $1500

- 120 to 210 days: $2500

- 210 to 360 days: $5000

Deposits are payable in U.S. currency only. Overseas residents must pay by checks drawn on U.S. banks or use a credit card. Balance of payment is due on arrival. (Please see page 5 for information on discounts and reduced rate options.)

Please indicate your second choice for a workshop in case your first choice is cancelled and we are unable to reach you.

Esalen Institute reserves the right to cancel any program at any time.

Workshop Accommodations

Please Note: Workshop fees cover tuition, food, and lodging.

Standard Accommodations: This is shared housing with two or three persons per room. In some cases, bathrooms are shared. Couples will always be housed together. The rates listed with the workshop descriptions throughout the catalog refer to these shared standard accommodations.

- 7-Day Rate, per person: $1110
- 5-Day Rate, per person: $740
- Weekend Rate, per person: $380

Bunk Bed Rooms: Bunk beds are available for seminar participants who are willing to share a room with three or more persons. There are a limited number of these spaces, which are reserved on a first-come, first-served basis.

- Bunk Bed (4 or more per room): $845
  - 5-Day Rate: $550
  - 7-Day Rate: $300

Sleeping Bags: Sleeping bag space may be available for workshop participants. Please inquire when you make your reservations.

- Sleeping Bag: $570
  - 5-Day Rate: $375
  - 7-Day Rate: $200

Own Accommodations: If you are staying off the property the following rates apply:

- Room and Board: $660
  - 5-Day Rate: $425
  - 7-Day Rate: $235

Campers are prohibited. We do not have parking space for more than four cars. Each car is charged $40 per day. RVs are standard (2 or 3 per room) or bunk bed (4 or more per room). Not all rooms have private baths. Room and board rates include dinner on the day of arrival and breakfast and lunch on the following day. We require full payment at the time of reservation. This payment is nonrefundable and nontransferable.

Note: Room and Board reservations must be made by phone, not by fax machine.

- For a room and board stay between Sunday and Thursday, please call us no earlier than the Wednesday before for room availability.

- For a Monday night stay, please call no earlier than the Thursday before.

- For a Friday or Saturday night stay, please call no earlier than the Sunday before.

- The following rates are per person, per day:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Rate</th>
<th>Weekend (Friday and Saturday nights)</th>
<th>Weekday (Sunday through Thursday nights)</th>
<th>(Two or more weekdays)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Standard Accommodations (2 or 3 per room):</td>
<td>$125</td>
<td>$105</td>
<td>$90</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bunk Bed (4 or more per room):</td>
<td>$85</td>
<td>$80</td>
<td>$70</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Off-season rates are in effect from October 1 through March 31, holidays excepted.

Cancellation Policy

Cancellation and Refund Policy: If you cancel or change any part of your reservation at least five full days before the start of your workshop, your nonrefundable deposit, less a $30 processing fee, will be transferred to a credit account to be used within one year. If you cancel with less than five days’ notice, you forfeit your entire deposit. If you have prepaid your entire reservation fee, we will retain the deposit, as above, and return the balance to you.

(Unless: If you cancel with less than five days’ notice, we will retain the deposit, as above, and return the balance to you.)*

(We would like to remind you that scholarship assistance is available; refer to "Scholarship Information" as well as "Reduced Rate Options and Discounts" for other economical ways of staying at Esalen.

If you have applied for a scholarship and we are unable to give you any assistance, we will, at your request, refund your deposit in full if you cancel your reservation at least five full days prior to the start of your workshop.

---

Room and Board

Occasionally, when beds aren’t needed for seminarians, room and board is available. This gives visitors the opportunity to enjoy the grounds, the baths, and massage without participating in a workshop. Accommodations are standard (2 or 3 per room) or bunk bed (4 or more per room). Not all rooms have private baths. Room and board rates are per person, per day.

- Weekend: $1110
  - 5-Day Rate: $740
  - Weekend Rate: $380

- Bunk Bed Rooms: Bunk beds are available for seminar participants who are willing to share a room with three or more persons. There are a limited number of these spaces, which are reserved on a first-come, first-served basis.

- Bunk Bed (4 or more per room): $845
  - 5-Day Rate: $550
  - 7-Day Rate: $300

- Sleeping Bags: Sleeping bag space may be available for workshop participants. Please inquire when you make your reservations.

- Sleeping Bag: $570
  - 5-Day Rate: $375
  - 7-Day Rate: $200

- Own Accommodations: If you are staying off the property the following rates apply:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Rate</th>
<th>Weekend (Friday and Saturday nights)</th>
<th>Weekday (Sunday through Thursday nights)</th>
<th>(Two or more weekdays)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Room and Board:</td>
<td>$125</td>
<td>$105</td>
<td>$90</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bunk Bed (4 or more per room):</td>
<td>$85</td>
<td>$80</td>
<td>$70</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Off-season rates are in effect from October 1 through March 31, holidays excepted.

---

Making Contact with Us

Mail or Fax: The most efficient way to register for a workshop at Esalen is to fax or mail your reservation. If you fax your reservation, be sure to include accurate credit card information.

Esalen’s Fax: 408-667-2724.

(Our fax line is exclusively for reservations—no personal correspondence, please).

Phone: If you prefer to make your reservation by phone, please be prepared with your completed reservation form and your credit card. We know that all calls to Esalen are long distance and will try to be as efficient as possible.

General Information:

408-667-3000

Express Reservations:

408-644-8477

(This is only for those who have previously taken a workshop at Esalen and know the workshop, date, and leader of the workshop for which they are registering.)

All Other Reservations:

408-667-3005

Catalog Requests: 408-644-8476

Phone Reservation Hours:

Mon., Tues., Thur.: 10 AM to 7 PM

Wednesday: 10 AM to 12 NOON

Friday: 10 AM to 5 PM

Saturday: 10 AM to 3 PM

Sunday: 12 NOON to 5 PM

*The reservation office is closed on Christmas and New Year’s Day.
Scholarship Information

Esalen is able to provide some scholarship assistance to workshop participants in exchange for a work commitment (usually in the kitchen). Approved scholarship recipients will receive their work schedules upon arrival at Esalen.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Assistance</th>
<th>Work</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Weekend</td>
<td>$ 50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5-9 days</td>
<td>$100</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12-14 days</td>
<td>$200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>14+ days</td>
<td>$300</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

If additional scholarship assistance is required, please send a letter of explanation to ATTN: Scholarships at Esalen. Due to the number of requests we receive, we can only provide one scholarship per person per year, and only in cases of financial hardship.

Reduced Rate Options and Discounts

If you pay in full at the time you make your reservation, you will receive a $10 prepayment discount per workshop and be eligible for express check-in upon arrival. This discount does not apply to scholarship recipients or sleeping bag accommodations.

Senior Citizen Discount: Esalen offers a special discount to individuals over 60 years of age. The discount for a weekend workshop is $25; for a five-day or longer workshop, it's $50. Please request this discount at the time of registration. When you complete the reservation form on page 72, please indicate the discounts for which you qualify. If you qualify, and you make your reservation by phone, be sure to ask for this discount. (Please note: Senior discounts are not available for the Work Study Program.)

Accommodations for Families: Two full-paying adults housed in standard accommodations may have their children in the room for a meal charge of $19 per child per day ($9 for children under six). Note: If children are enrolled in Gazebo School Park or an Esalen workshop, additional fees are required. Contact the Gazebo, 408-667-3026, for information regarding their fees.

Workshops for Families: Participating families will pay full workshop rates for the first two participants (adult or child). Each additional participant will pay the following rate:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Workshop</th>
<th>2-day</th>
<th>3-day</th>
<th>4-day</th>
<th>5-day</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Cost</td>
<td>$115</td>
<td>$165</td>
<td>$210</td>
<td>$245</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Additional sleeping mats and bedding will be provided for each room.

The Gazebo School Park Early Childhood Program

The Gazebo School Park is a unique educational experience for children one to six years. It is open year-round and has an average of 15 to 20 children in attendance each day.

The Early Childhood Program is available to seminarians who would like child care at Esalen. Child care is provided during workshop hours only. Daytime activities for the children include gardening, pony rides, learning about animal care, exploring nature, a real boat, the magic castle, and an Indian tepee. Evenings are spent with a teacher in the Gazebo Farmhouse, engaged in activities that are age appropriate, such as reading, learning and playing with the computer, baking, arts and crafts, or building-block play.

Reservations should be made at least a month in advance. Call the Gazebo Farmhouse, 408-667-3026, for more information and reservations.

Senior Citizen Discount:
The Early Childhood Program is available to seminarians who would like child care at Esalen. Child care is provided during workshop hours only. Daytime activities for the children include gardening, pony rides, learning about animal care, exploring nature, a real boat, the magic castle, and an Indian tepee. Evenings are spent with a teacher in the Gazebo Farmhouse, engaged in activities that are age appropriate, such as reading, learning and playing with the computer, baking, arts and crafts, or building-block play.

Reservations should be made at least a month in advance. Call the Gazebo Farmhouse, 408-667-3026, for more information and reservations.

Internship Program: This is a three-month program for those who wish to have intense exposure to life at the Gazebo School Park and its unique educational resources. The Internship Program offers experience with children, the Gazebo environment, and its teaching philosophy. Applicants must have completed at least three work scholar months at Esalen before being considered for this program.

Call the Gazebo Farmhouse, 408-667-3026, for more information or reservations.

F. Y. I.

Health Services: There are no medical services or pharmaceutical supplies available at Esalen. If you will require medical attention or supplies during your stay, please come prepared to administer to your own needs. Esalen is 45 miles from the nearest medical facility or pharmacy.

For Your Safety: Please bring a flashlight for use at night while walking on the grounds.

Illegal Drugs: In accordance with state and federal laws, the possession or use of illegal drugs on Esalen grounds is strictly prohibited.

Lost and Found: To inquire about items left behind from your Esalen visit, call 408-667-3019.

Guests: Seminarians are not allowed guests on the property during their stay.

Pets: No pets are allowed on the property.

Smoking: Smoking is not permitted in any of our accommodations or meeting rooms.
suppose I could say that I have been a Buddhist-in-the-making all along, for most of my life I have desperately and dogmatically clung to Buddha's first principle—Life is Suffering—as if suffering was all I had. At times it was all I had, but at least it was my suffering. And in the stormy sea of life, I wasn't about to relinquish my life preserver.

One February, my search for expanded awareness and peace of mind took me and my spiritual wish-list to a small vipassana meditation retreat just south of Yosemite for ten days of sitting and silence. I wanted to locate a still place within, to increase my ability to concentrate with single-pointed focus, and to heighten my sensory awareness. Also, I desperately craved non-attachment. And equanimity. And self-acceptance. And an end to craving. And, if truth be told, I wanted to be more attractive to vipassana babes. Moreover, a minuscule peek, however brief, at the Oneness of All Creation would have been really neat.

The retreat presented vipassana meditation as taught by S.N. Goenka, a Burmese teacher in the lineage of Gautama, the historical Buddha. It is a tradition preserved in Asia for twenty-five hundred years. The practice involves scanning one's body repeatedly, up and down, attending to sensation, noticing its mutability and impermanence. If, as this teaching asks, we can only experience the world through our senses, and if this sensory experience is continually changing, then what is there, pray tell, for one to possibly attach oneself to? And if attachment is the root of all suffering, could not this simple practice, once truly embodied, be a first step to suffering's cessation?

Goenkaji was not there in the flesh, yet his spirit, humor, and wisdom filled the meditation hall, thanks to audiotaped instructions each day and videotaped discourses every night. His very first instruction made me immediately at home. “Pay attention to your desperation.” This was frequently repeated, an ostensibly odd yet, for me, comforting message. “Pay attention to your desperation.” I couldn’t believe my ears. Never had I received such a personalized teaching, for I was acutely aware of all the time and energy that I had spent trying to disregard my own ever-present desperation. It wasnt until the second morning that I realized that Goenka, with his thick Burmese accent, was, of course, directing us to “pay attention to your respiration.” Ah, an early lesson in non-attachment.

We had been given assigned seats in the meditation hall, which meant that for ten days I would be meditating next to Skippy, a tall, boyish, moonfaced man who, from day one, with the exactitude of a fine chronometer, cleared his throat every ten minutes in a manner that suggested a steady diet of buttermilk and Drano. These were no polite ahems. They were loud, guttural, phlegmy bursts. Not only that—he was somehow able to time his laryngeal eruptions to coincide precisely with that moment in which I was finally letting go of all incessant mind-chatter and at last becoming empty. Since we were seated but an arm’s length apart, the simplest solution would have been a sharp jab to the right to separate Skippy from his zafu and his senses. I couldn’t recall anyone having told us, “No hitting.” However, in classic, party-line, it’s-all-an-opportunity-for-growth fashion, I optimistically resolved that Skippy’s throat-clearing was placed before me as a lesson.

Each afternoon, we were called two by two to the front of the hall to sit for a few minutes with Veena, the assistant teacher, a warm, solemn Indian woman. It was our sole opportunity to speak during the retreat, a chance to ask questions about the problems and pitfalls in our sitting. Skippy and I were stablemates in this daily ritual, yoked together by our fixed seating arrangement. Skippy always spoke first, his words slightly slurred. No, he wasn’t having any problems. In fact, he was surprised at how easy it was. He was having a great time, relaxed and peaceful.

“And how are you doing, Peter?” Veena asked me. “I’m constantly distracted by thoughts,” I said, afraid that I was close to whining. “And unable to string together more than three empty breaths in a row.” I didn’t bother to reveal the contents of these distracting thoughts, which focused obsessively on the same three subjects: imaginary fights with my ex-girlfriend, polishing and repolishing a vipassana stand-up comedy monologue, and sex with every woman I’ve ever known. I didn’t tell her that, having been awakened at 4:30 every morning by a Tibetan gong, I was unable to attentively examine the hindrance of torpor—one of the Five Hindrances to meditation, along with desire, aversion, restlessness, and doubt—without immediately thereafter exploring sleep. And, of course, I said nothing of Skippy.
Veena’s reply, which did not deviate for the entire ten-day retreat, was succinct. “Keep trying. Start again.”

As the retreat progressed, I began to be able to witness the rising and formation of my thought patterns, and where-as I had once concluded that my brain entertained its thoughts in much the same way that a dog hosts fleas, I was now willing to concede some choice and responsibility in the matter. I began to acknowledge the projections and fabrications that constituted my “objective” view of “reality.” This realization, however, provided little consolation in the matter of Skippy who, in addition to obstructing my path to samadhi in the meditation hall, was invariably directly ahead of me in the buffet meal line, shuffling slowly and unsteadily with, I was soon convinced, the gait of a dying man. This, this guy was again holding me up, first on the spiritual plane and now on the material plane. He was standing between me and my lone source of pleasure—food—in this fortress of spiritual tortures! Skippy was turning into a roadblock on my highway to fulfillment. I began to seethe with rage, a rage that foresaw no release in a meditation retreat that required ten days of Noble Silence.

On the morning of day seven, I suddenly found myself needing to clear my throat with alarming frequency. Naturally, I leaped to the only plausible conclusion: (1) Skippy was possessed of a fatal and contagious bronchial disease; (2) he had come to the retreat to pass on peacefully; (3) I had picked up whatever it was he had; and (4) I was going to die. I could restrain myself no longer. I signaled to Frank, the bearded retreat manager, who had on opening night announced his availability in case of emergency. This was an emergency. Frank and I exited the hall into the chilly February sunshine.

“Frank, this probably sounds crazy—” I began. Through wire-rimmed glasses, he looked at me solicitously and—was it my imagination?—delightedly. I laid out the entire concocted scenario, the throat-clearing, Skippy’s halting walk, his slurred speech, and concluded with, “I need some assurances that I have not caught some terminal illness from Skippy.”

Frank was calm and reassuring. No, Skippy had not mentioned a fatal disease in his application. Yes, he would watch Skippy for any disturbing and telltale signs. No, he didn’t think I was crazy.

I returned to my place in the hall, only slightly mollified. That afternoon it happened.

Sitting on my cushion, scanning my body for physical sensations as we had been instructed, I felt a slight, tingly current coursing in my hands and feet. As I paid attention to this pleasurable sensation, it began to travel throughout my body, from head to toe and back again, up and down, as if I were being massaged inside and out with a loving, streaming, vibrating energy. I was alive with this energy, watching it, sensing it gradually spread and intensify until I was bathed in a continuous, gentle, ecstatic, full-body rapture. I remained in this state of blissful reanimation for fifteen, thirty, forty-five minutes, an hour. So this was the state of “free flow” that had been described to us earlier in the week.

And while I was experiencing this radiating energy, there was Skippy—Old Faithful—going off with familiar regularity. And there I was, hearing the rumble of Skippy’s pipes, neither reacting nor feeling reactivated, simply hearing, hearing, hearing, as I was hearing the rustle of a woman shifting on her cushion across the room and the whisper of the wind through the tall pine trees outside the hall and the pulsation of my own heartbeat in my ears. Why, it was as if—as if I had had a choice all along, as if it had not been Skippy who had been driving me to near-homicidal fury, but rather I myself who was first choosing and then willingly wallowing in good old, delicious, self-inflating, self-important, self-righteous rage. And I began to consider the implications….

I knew my return to terra firma was inevitable. I wish I could say that I was never again reflexively enraged at Skippy, lovers, friends, family, co-workers, the President, life. But these days, when it seems so easy to be driven crazy, I sometimes take a moment to remember that I’m the one who is doing the driving.

Thank you, Skippy, wherever you are.

Peter Friedberg is co-editor of the Esalen Catalog.
Scheduling Private Conferences at Esalen

It is possible to arrange for your group or organization to hold its conferences at Esalen. We can accommodate large groups (up to 100) on a space-available basis.

Smaller groups may schedule private conferences in our renovated Big House. This facility is available for individuals who work together and would like to design their own Esalen program, drawing on our leaders and other resources. Ten bedrooms, nine bathrooms, a kitchen, dining room, and living room make it possible to house group members together, thereby enhancing the retreat environment.

We schedule all conferences a year in advance. To schedule or discuss possible formats, please contact conference coordinator Pat Lewine at 408-667-3038.

The Esalen Catalog on Internet

Esalen’s World Wide Web site is under construction and, when launched, will make the Esalen Catalog available on-line in a new, interactive format. Additional information on special programs at Esalen will be offered, along with updated workshop availability.

To receive an e-mail announcement of the site opening, send an e-mail note to: ghs@esalen.org

The Esalen Catalog (1962-1992) Available via the Educational Resources Information Center (ERIC)

Anyone interested in The Esalen Catalog as human potential movement historical source material for research purposes can now obtain the complete thirty-one-year set from ERIC’s document delivery arm, the ERIC Document Reproduction Service (EDRS, 7420 Fullerton Road, Suite 110, Springfield, Virginia 22153-2852; 1-800-443-3742). When ordering either microfiche or reproduced paper copy, please refer to the catalog’s ERIC accession number ED 347 118.

THE FRIENDS OF ESALEN

Membership in Friends of Esalen supports the scholarship fund to allow financial aid for those who wish to attend our workshops but cannot otherwise afford them. A membership gift also provides additional funding for our pioneering work in health, education, the environment, and the humanities. With annual membership, Friends of Esalen receive the Esalen Catalog as well as a special newsletter.

Members at the Supporting level or above receive an autographed copy of Michael Murphy’s book The Future of the Body. At the Sustaining Member level, gifts are also acknowledged in the newsletter, unless the donor wishes to remain anonymous. Benefactors receive all of the aforementioned along with an individual gift from Esalen.

Group 2000 is composed of individuals committed to assisting Esalen in building the long-term financial capability to fulfill its mission into the year 2000 and beyond. The Group 2000 meets together and with staff members at Esalen every year. Members of the Founders Circle are invited to meet individually with our CEO.

We deeply appreciate the generosity and interest of the Friends of Esalen. You are invited to join us in extending the experience of Esalen into the lives of more people.

Name ___________________________ Phone ___________________________

Address ____________________________________________

City ___________________________ State ________ Zip ________

Please make checks payable to Esalen Institute, in U.S. currency only, or use one of the charge cards listed below:

- MasterCard
- Visa
- American Express

Card No. ___________________________ Exp. ___________________________

Authorizing signature ___________________________

Please complete this form or the inside flap of the envelope insert included in the catalog and return with your gift. Check the box on the outside of the envelope marked “Friends of Esalen.” Thank you for your support. Esalen is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit public charity. Contributions are tax-deductible to the extent allowable by law.

E3 THE FRIENDS OF ESALEN

MEMBERSHIP IN FRIENDS OF ESALEN supports the scholarship fund to allow financial aid for those who wish to attend our workshops but cannot otherwise afford them. A membership gift also provides additional funding for our pioneering work in health, education, the environment, and the humanities. With annual membership, Friends of Esalen receive the Esalen Catalog as well as a special newsletter.

Members at the Supporting level or above receive an autographed copy of Michael Murphy’s book The Future of the Body. At the Sustaining Member level, gifts are also acknowledged in the newsletter, unless the donor wishes to remain anonymous. Benefactors receive all of the aforementioned along with an individual gift from Esalen.

Group 2000 is composed of individuals committed to assisting Esalen in building the long-term financial capability to fulfill its mission into the year 2000 and beyond. The Group 2000 meets together and with staff members at Esalen every year. Members of the Founders Circle are invited to meet individually with our CEO.

We deeply appreciate the generosity and interest of the Friends of Esalen. You are invited to join us in extending the experience of Esalen into the lives of more people.

MEMBERSHIP IN FRIENDS OF ESALEN supports the scholarship fund to allow financial aid for those who wish to attend our workshops but cannot otherwise afford them. A membership gift also provides additional funding for our pioneering work in health, education, the environment, and the humanities. With annual membership, Friends of Esalen receive the Esalen Catalog as well as a special newsletter.

Members at the Supporting level or above receive an autographed copy of Michael Murphy’s book The Future of the Body. At the Sustaining Member level, gifts are also acknowledged in the newsletter, unless the donor wishes to remain anonymous. Benefactors receive all of the aforementioned along with an individual gift from Esalen.

Group 2000 is composed of individuals committed to assisting Esalen in building the long-term financial capability to fulfill its mission into the year 2000 and beyond. The Group 2000 meets together and with staff members at Esalen every year. Members of the Founders Circle are invited to meet individually with our CEO.

We deeply appreciate the generosity and interest of the Friends of Esalen. You are invited to join us in extending the experience of Esalen into the lives of more people.

MEMBERSHIP IN FRIENDS OF ESALEN supports the scholarship fund to allow financial aid for those who wish to attend our workshops but cannot otherwise afford them. A membership gift also provides additional funding for our pioneering work in health, education, the environment, and the humanities. With annual membership, Friends of Esalen receive the Esalen Catalog as well as a special newsletter.

Members at the Supporting level or above receive an autographed copy of Michael Murphy’s book The Future of the Body. At the Sustaining Member level, gifts are also acknowledged in the newsletter, unless the donor wishes to remain anonymous. Benefactors receive all of the aforementioned along with an individual gift from Esalen.

Group 2000 is composed of individuals committed to assisting Esalen in building the long-term financial capability to fulfill its mission into the year 2000 and beyond. The Group 2000 meets together and with staff members at Esalen every year. Members of the Founders Circle are invited to meet individually with our CEO.

We deeply appreciate the generosity and interest of the Friends of Esalen. You are invited to join us in extending the experience of Esalen into the lives of more people.
This is a guide to the workshops offered in this catalog. Although many of them could be cross-referenced—and some resist easy categorization—most are listed only in their main subject area. We recommend that you read the workshop description before deciding to register. If you have never been to Esalen or taken an Esalen workshop, you might want to consider the "Experiencing Esalen" workshop scheduled throughout the catalog and listed in the Integral Practices section of this directory. Please call the Esalen office if you have questions concerning a workshop.

THE ARTS / CREATIVITY

December 31-January 5 • Tao Mentoring in Music and Tai Ji Dance
January 7-12 • Body Poetry East and West
January 7-12 • Vision Painting
January 28-February 2 • The Healing Power of Theater
February 4-9 • Writing About Our Lives: A Workshop for Women
February 4-9 • The Art and Dance of Transformation
February 11-16 • Reawakening the Artist Within
February 23-25 • Singing Gestalt
February 25-March 1 • Language of the Drums: African Percussion, Chanting, and Dance
March 1-3 • Language of the Drums: Intermediate Level
March 1-3 • Baking Bread at the Big House
March 3-8 • A Potter's View of the Universe: Big Sur Clay
March 10-15 • Improvisational Being
March 15-17 • Reawakening the Artist Within
March 31-April 5 • Painting and the Art of Perception
March 31-April 5 • The MAX: Stretching the Limits of Your Self-Expression
April 5-7 • Vision Painting
April 5-7 • Improvisational Wisdom: Finding the Robin Williams Within

April 7-12 • Awakening Vision Through Conscious Photography
April 19-21 • Writing for Your Life
April 26-28 • Crazy Wisdom: A Weekend of Philosophy and Laughter
May 3-5 • Freeing the Poetic Imagination: Poetry Writing at Esalen
May 3-5 • The Healing Power of Laughter and Play
May 5-10 • Expressive Painting
May 10-12 • From the Congo to Dreamtime
May 24-26 • African Dance: Expressions of Spiritual Energy
June 2-7 • Singing in the African-American Tradition
June 9-14 • Meditation, the Living Body, and Creativity
June 9-14 • Old-Fashioned New Age Cooking
June 14-16 • Reawakening the Artist Within
June 14-16 • Chaos and Complexity in Photography, Life, and Work
June 14-16 • Ageless Vitality: The Body is Living Music
June 16-21 • Pilobolus: Collaborative Creativity Method
June 23-28 • Masks of Transformation: Moving from Personality to Essence

BIOFEEDBACK / HYPNOSIS / INTUITIVE DEVELOPMENT

February 25-March 1 • Awakened Mind: Five-Day Brainwave Training Intensive
March 31-April 7 • Reweaving the Web: Hypnotic Entrainments—Conversation in a New Key
April 28-May 3 • Facilitating Intuition
May 3-5 • Intuition and the Dance of Attention
May 12-17 • Advanced Hypnosis: Practice and Applications
May 19-24 • The High-Performance Mind: Awakened Mind Brainwave Training

BUSINESS / WORKPLACE / SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY

January 7-12 • Conservative, Liberal, Self-Concept: A New Synthesis
January 21-26 • Consensus
January 26-28 • When Success is Not Enough
February 2-4 • The Art of Leadership: Communication, Creativity, Vision
May 10-12 • Nine Worldviews: The Enneagram at Work
May 12-17 • The Visionary Life: The Quest of Your Life
June 2-7 • Conflict Resolution Through Conscious Negotiations
June 7-9 • Rekindling the Spirit in Work
June 21-23 • Reconnecting Business with its Soul

CHILDREN / FAMILIES / EDUCATION

January 5-7 • Giftedness: The Wonder and the Anguish
January 12-14 • The Path of Parenting: A Spiritual Approach
February 2-4 • Fathers & Sons & Mothers & Daughters
February 25-March 1 • Birth Experience: A Pathway to Life
June 14-16 • The Parenting Process
June 16-21 • Healing the Parent-Child Bond: For Parents and Their Adult Children
CONTEMPLATIVE / SPIRITUAL & RELIGIOUS STUDIES

December 31-January 5 • The Subtle Art of Meditation
January 5-7 • Attention! Attention! Attention!
January 12-14 • The Living Core of Biblical Spirituality
January 21-26 • The Heartful Path to Mind Power: Geometrizing Mind Space
January 26-28 • Working with Obstacles and Difficulties
January 28-February 2 • Coming Home to the Soul
February 9-11 • Introduction to Mindfulness Meditation
February 11-16 • Soul as Living Presence: The Diamond Approach
February 18-23 • Dzogchen: Awakening the Buddha Within
February 23-25 • Two Events with Claudio Naranjo
March 3-8 • Working with the Enneagram Types—Part 1: The Belly Center
March 10-15 • The Subtle Art of Meditation
March 29-31 • The Sages, God, and Me
April 14-19 • The Path of Transformation through Meditation
May 10-12 • Vipassana Meditation and the Teachings of Thich Nhat Hanh
May 10-12 • The Return of the Mother
May 19-24 • Soul Making
May 24-26 • OpenMind Training: Innovations in Meditation and Mind/Body Healing
June 2-7 • Zen and the Art of Anything
June 9-14 • Meditation, the Living Body, and Creativity
June 21-25 • Introduction to Mindfulness Meditation
June 23-30 • The Diamond Approach to the Lataif: Opening the Doors to Essence

DREAMS

January 26-28 • Exploring the World of Lucid Dreaming
April 19-21 • The Healing Power of the Dream
May 10-12 • From the Congo to Dreamtime
May 26-31 • Dreaming: The Magic Mirror that Never Lies

HEALTH / HEALING

January 5-7 • Psychoneuroimmunology and Its Implications
January 19-21 • Managing Your Stress, Your Heart, and Your Life
April 14-19 • Spiritual Healing: Laying-on-of Hands
April 19-21 • Holoenergetics®: The Art and Science of Conscious Healing
April 21-26 • Chakra Integration: A Complete Approach to Health and Healing
April 26-28 • Energy Kinesiology: Awakening to Abundant Energy
May 5-10 • Embodying Images of Health: A Somatic/Expressive Approach to Psychoneuroimmunology
May 26-June 2 • Developing a Fitness Regime for Optimal Well-Being June 14-16 • Practical Herbology: An Esalen Garden Workshop
June 23-28 • Ecopsychology, Addiction Recovery, and Gender Reconciliation
June 28-30 • Caring for the Dying: What Really Works?

INTEGRAL PRACTICES

January 19-21 • Experiencing Esalen
January 21-26 • Life Energy Process
January 21-26 • The Wildness Within
January 28-February 2  •  Coming Home to the Soul
February 16-18  •  Experiencing Esalen
February 23-25  •  The Life We Are Given
March 8-10  •  Experiencing Esalen
April 26-28  •  You Don't Have To Be Good
April 28-May 3  •  Experiencing Esalen
May 17-19  •  Experiencing Esalen
May 17-19  •  The Embodied Life: Feldenkrais® Movement and Zen Meditation
May 31-June 2  •  Experiencing Esalen
June 7-9  •  The Ultimate Yes
June 16-21  •  How to Feel as Good as You Can in Spite of Everything
June 23-28  •  Turning On the Light: A Choice to Live Consciously

MARTIAL ARTS / YOGA / SPORT

December 31-January 5  •  Tao Mentoring in Music and Tai Ji Dance
January 5-7  •  The Tao of Saging
January 7-12  •  Body Poetry East and West
January 19-21  •  Ryukido: Movement from the Martial Arts
March 1-3  •  Mastering the Competitive Mind
March 17-22  •  Yoga for the 90s
March 29-31  •  Essential Tai Ji: Body-Mind-Spirit in Action
April 14-19  •  T'ai Chi Ch'uan: An East/West Approach
April 21-26  •  Golf in the Kingdom: An Exploration of the Inner Game
April 26-28  •  Joy is the Journey: Hatha Yoga and More
May 12-17  •  Yoga: The Art of Living
May 19-24  •  Kalarippayattu: The Yoga-Based Martial art
June 28-30  •  Yoga Works: Tools for Well-Being

MYTH / RITUAL / SHAMANISM / ANTHROPOLOGY

December 31-January 5  •  To Be Ready to Live, To Be Ripe to Die
January 7-12  •  Mending the Fragmented Self: Soul Retrieval and Shamanic Practices
January 14-19  •  Cross-Cultural Shamanic Practices
February 9-11  •  The Way of the Shaman
February 11-23  •  Advanced Training in Shamanism and Shamanic Healing
March 1-3  •  Your Deep Mythology: Renew the Dream that Quicksens Your Spirit
March 3-8  •  The Heart of the Shaman
March 10-15  •  My Emerging Myth
March 24-29  •  A Mythological Toolbox: Envisioning and Embodying the Myths We Live By April 14-19  •  Soul Dramas: Past Life Regression and Spiritual Healing for (Helping) Professionals
May 3-5  •  From the Heart of the Andes: Andean Wisdom, Indian Mysticism
May 5-10  •  Giving Voice to Bear: Shamanism and Bear Medicine

PHILOSOPHICAL INQUIRY / INTELLECTUAL PLAY

February 2-4  •  Briefing for a Decent into Novelty
February 2-4  •  Chaos and the Language of Nature
February 23-25  •  The Life We Are Given
February 23-25  •  Technoshamanism: Total Immersion in Spiritual Technology
March 8-10  •  A Weekend with Terence McKenna
March 22-24  •  Psyche and Cosmos
April 26-28  •  Crazy Wisdom: A Weekend of Philosophy and Laughter
June 7-9  •  Practical Alchemy, Kabbalah, and Quantum Physics
June 14-16  •  Chaos and Complexity in Photography, Life, and Work
June 28-30  •  Identity, Community, and Politics: The Ontogeny of Everyday Life

PROFESSIONAL GROWTH / TRAINING

January 5-7  •  Attention! Attention! Attention!
January 26-28  •  Religious and Spiritual Problems: A Paradigm Shift in Mental Health
March 8-April 5  •  28-Day Massage Practitioner Certification Program
March 15-17  •  The Zen of the Therapist: New Integrations
April 19-21  •  The Healing Power of the Dream: A Dreamwork Seminar for Professionals
April 21-26  •  Group Process Training
April 28-May 3  •  Facilitating Intuition
May 12-17  •  Advanced Hypnosis: Practice and Applications
May 26-June 2  •  Gestalt Practicum
June 21-23  •  Making a Private-Pay Practice Work

PSYCHOLOGICAL / TRANSPERSONAL PROCESS

December 31-January 5  •  Opening the Feelings
January 5-7  •  Roots and Wings: Renewing Our Spirits, Living Our Dreams
January 7-12  •  Completions and Transitions
January 12-14  •  The Enneagram in Personal Development and Therapy
January 26-28  •  Re-Solving Your Past, Remembering Who You Are
January 26-28  •  Working with Obstacles and Difficulties
January 28-February 2  •  Holotropic Breathwork and the Creative Fire
January 28-February 2  •  Facing Life's Challenges: Courage, Faith, and Self-Acceptance
February 2-4  •  Forgiveness: The Key to Intimacy
February 2-4  •  Fathers & Sons & Mothers & Daughters
February 4-9  •  Gestalt Practice
February 9-11  •  The Body: Doorway to Self-Discovery—The Gestalt Practice Approach
February 16-18  •  The LQ Factor: How to Increase Your Love Quotient
February 18-23  •  Playing the Edge
February 25-March 1  •  Birth Experience: A Pathway to Life
February 25-March 1  •  Letting Go—Moving On March 1-3  •  Your Deep Mythology: Renew the Dream that Quicksens Your Spirit
March 1-3  •  Tis a Gift to Be Simple
March 8-10  •  Accepting Life's Transitions: Letting Go—Moving On March 10-15  •  My Emerging Myth
March 15-17  •  Taking Responsibility: Pathway to Personal Power
March 17-29  •  Emotional Healing: From Codependence to Aliveness
March 17-22 • The Practical Art of Creative Risk-Taking
March 24-29 • The Road Best Traveled: Reinspiring Life Purpose and Direction
March 29 -32 • A Celebration of the Body: A Self-Empowerment Weekend
April 7-12 • Letting Go—Moving On April 7-12 • Making Crucial Life Choices and Major Life Changes
April 12-14 • How Successful People Succeed
April 19-21 • Forgiveness: The Key to Intimacy
April 21-26 • Group Process Training
April 21-26 • Courage
April 21-26 • Awakening from Trauma: Healing Body Image and Sexuality
April 26-28 • Harnessing the Paradoxes of High Performance
May 3-5 • The Sources of Growth
May 5-10 • Healing the Heart
May 12-17 • Playing the Edge
May 12-17 • The Visionary Life: The Quest of Your Life
May 19-24 • The Power of Growth
May 24-26 • Life's Little Midterm
May 26-June 2 • Gestalt Practicum
May 26-31 • The Core Self: Return to Innocence and Choice
May 31-June 2 • Forgiveness
June 2-7 • Opening the Feelings
June 7-9 • Disarming the Ogre: Recognizing and Transforming the Inner Critic
June 9-14 • Transition, Risk, and Renewal: Mastering the Art of Change
June 21-23 • Roots and Wings: Renewing our Spirits, Living our Dreams

SOMATICs
December 31-January 5 • Adventures in Bodywork
January 12-14 • Weekend Massage Intensive January 14-19 • Sports Massage: Keeping the Players Playing
January 19-21 • Hanna Somatics: Mastery of Muscles and Emotions
February 4-9 • Polarity Massage Intensive February 9-11 • Zero Balancing Open Forum
February 11-16 • Five-Day Massage Intensive
March 3-8 • The Upledger Institute's SomatoEmotional Release II
March 8-April 5 • 28-Day Massage Practitioner Certification Program
March 15-17 • Sensory Awareness
March 24-29 • Healing from Trauma: A Bodywork Intensive April 5-7 • Weekend Massage Intensive
April 26-28 • You Don't Have to be Good
April 28-May 3 • Continuum
May 3-5 • Intuition and the Dance of Attention
May 5-10 • Lomi Somatic Intensive: An Active Exploration of Presence
May 10-12 • Weekend Massage Intensive May 12-17 • Intermediate Massage Intensive
May 17-19 • The Embodied Life: Feldenkrais® Movement and Zen Meditation
May 26-June 2 • Cortical Reeducation® and the Feldenkrais Method®
June 2-7 • Facial Communication/Facial Diagnosis
June 9-14 • Five-Day Massage Intensive
June 9-14 • Mountains and Waves: Wilderness and Continuum
June 21-23 • Couples Massage Weekend
June 23-28 • The Upledger Institute's CranioSacral II

RELATIONSHIP / COMMUNICATION
January 28-February 2 • Dialogue: A Way of Life, A Path to Wholeness
February 4-7 • Forgiveness: The Key to Intimacy
February 16-18 • The LQ Factor: How to Increase Your Love Quotient
March 3-8 • Couples Workshop
March 8-10 • Reinventing Love
March 31-April 7 • Reweaving the Web: Hypnotic Entailments—Conversation in a New Key April 7-12 • Tantra: The Art of Conscious Loving
April 12-14 • Relationship as a Spiritual Path
April 19-21 • A Workshop for Couples
April 19-21 • Forgiveness: The Key to Intimacy
April 28-May 3 • Gender Talk: Communicating with the Opposite Sex... and Everyone Else
May 17-19 • Close Yet Free: Keeping a Good Relationship Alive
May 24-26 • Communication and Partnership
June 2-7 • Conflict Resolution through Conscious Negotiation
June 16-21 • Relationships: Letting Go—Moving On June 21-23 • Couples Massage Weekend
June 28-30 • Innocence: The Cancer that Kills Love

WILDERNESS / ECOPSYCHOLOGY
January 21-26 • The Wildness Within
March 29-31 • Re-Visioning: Landscape Perception and Love
April 14-19 • The Way of Wilderness
May 24-26 • Big Sur Wilderness Experience
June 2-8 • Origins: A Rites-of-Passage Journey in the Ventana Wilderness
June 9-14 • Mountains and Waves: Wilderness and Continuum
June 21-23 • Couples Massage Weekend
June 23-28 • The Upledger Institute's CranioSacral II

WOMEN'S / MEN'S STUDIES
January 12-14 • Understanding the Other Sex: Gender Training for Gender Trainers
January 19-21 • A Retreat for Women of Experience: Midlife and Beyond
February 4-9 • Writing About Ourselves: A Workshop for Women
March 10-15 • Moving Through Idealization and Shame to Love: A Workshop for Gay Men
April 28-May 3 • Gender Talk: Communicating with the Opposite Sex... and Everyone Else
Week of December 31 - January 5

The Subtle Art of Meditation
David Streeter

The experience of insight, tranquility, inner strength, and aliveness can be found within our everyday life through the ancient art of meditation.

This workshop will approach traditional meditation practice in an unusual way. In a retreat atmosphere, participants will prepare the body/mind for silent listening with fluid movement from the martial arts and yoga. The workshop will incorporate breathing practices (pranayama) and energy work with zazen (sitting meditation). Other activities will include a silent listening hike in the wilderness, group meditation in a nearby contemplative monastery, and zazen at Esalen’s meditation center nestled close to a waterfall.

This approach to the subtle practice of meditation through the body can inspire the student to discover his or her rich interior life and that crystal-clear still point described so well in every spiritual tradition.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

Tao Mentoring in Music and Tai Ji Dance
David Darling & Chungliang Al Huang

David and Chungliang have been conducting this annual New Year’s celebration of creativity for many years at Esalen. This year they will focus on the core elements in their sharing: Passion, Clarity, and Balance. With David’s mastery as a cellist and composer and Chungliang’s “Living Tao” skills, they will guide participants in one of the subtlest, yet most powerful, principles of Tao, Wu Wei—“non-interference” in our collective creative learning.

Using the inspiration of great classical music (especially Bach), jazz, blues, and multicultural musical heritages, as well as humor and enthusiasm for transformation, David and Chungliang will offer a joyous and supportive environment in which to celebrate spontaneity and our deep core. They will alternate between mutual teaching—offering participants a chance to discover their own personal music and pure dance through both improvisation and structure—and sessions focusing on Lao Tzu’s Tao Te Ching, Tai Ji movement meditation, and healing Qi Gong exercises. $740

Adventures in Bodywork
Deborah Anne Medow & Carl Chase (C.C.)

This intermediate/advanced workshop is for massage and bodywork practitioners who wish to enhance their skills, experience current directions in bodywork, and have a good time while learning.

Together C.C. and Deborah have over forty years of experience in the massage, movement, and bodywork fields, and will draw upon their expertise in massage, deep tissue methods, cross-fiber friction, polarity therapy, anatomy, yoga, "ballistic" stretching, and more. They will customize a workshop to give you new information and inspiration to improve the caliber and diversity of work you presently incorporate into your massage and bodywork sessions.

Bring work-out clothes, musical instruments, CDs, and tapes for a week of learning and laughter.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$740

Opening the Feelings
Dale Cummings

Radix® is an archaic term meaning "root" or "source." Radix work is a direct body approach focusing on this "life force" which underlies all biological processes, and from which springs the expression of feeling and creativity. Chronic, unconscious patterns of muscular tension can form what Wilhelm Reich called "armor," which blocks or inhibits both awareness and expressiveness.

Within a small setting, participants will experience Radix and neo-Reichian methods of emotional release, including a period of individual work called the "intensive." As the armor softens, grief, pain, and rage held in since childhood can emerge. Allowing and accepting these feelings in a safe, supportive environment can create a new capacity for trust, love, and pleasure.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$740

To Be Ready to Live, To Be Ripe to Die
Sukie Miller & Edmundo Barbosa

Many cultures, including traditional Judeo-Christian ones, believe that we must prepare as meticulously and with as much discipline, passion, and imagination for our afterdeaths as we do for our lives. By understanding what may well come next, these cultures hold, the lived life is enhanced. The mini- and micro-"deaths" within our normally lived lives—the death of a loved one, of a marriage, of a dream—become doorways to major change and to the unknown: perhaps the true potential, the place of hope, compassion, delight, and mystery.

The workshop will be both a report on the findings of the Institute for the Study of the Afterdeath and an experiential adventure into the afterdeath systems of several different cultures. As a community, the group will explore belief systems where the line between the living and the dead is thin. As individuals, participants will explore together the images each of us consciously and unconsciously holds of an afterdeath, looking especially to see how these images can magnify or limit our lives.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$740

Attention! Attention! Attention!
Kathleen Riordan Speeth

Kathy Speeth writes: "This workshop is for people helpers, people lovers, and all those who want to profit from I-Thou applications of the powerful attentional practices found in Eastern and Western meditative traditions. How to witness your truth and let you glimpse my deep self? Can we learn to hear each other plain? When to connect and when to defend interior solitude?

"Everyone has experienced concentration but few understand how to use it in empathic awareness. We have all allowed our minds to wander but few have learned the twin secrets of insight meditation and psychoanalysis, in which attention bare of labels yields profundities that heal.

"Freud and Perls and the Buddha pointed in one direction, Ramakrishna, Erikson, and Csikzentmihalyi in another. We need to function well in the whole attentional continuum from deep empathy to cool professionalism lest we suffer stagnation, devitalization, or burn-out. Surprisingly—because we already have the basic abilities and need only to learn how to control them—even one weekend's sensitization can noticeably improve attention.

"Bring a journal. Come with an open mind and heart, ready to add a surprising new dimension to your here-and-now awareness of others—and even of yourself."

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$380

The Tao of Saging
Chungliang Al Huang

We begin aging at infancy. But until we reach middle age, the shock of aging is never properly addressed by most people. This seminar focuses on a new way of looking at this inevitable process with equanimity, integrity, humor, and realism. With insight and skill, Chungliang will guide participants through a saging dance of living. Using the Tai Ji yin-yang sign to illustrate this paradigm of aging, he will trace the "S" curve within the symbol as the saging path—from birth to midlife—then trace it back again to complete the "whole picture" of life.

Through saging, this living process can prove to be joyfully alive, creative, and constantly enriching. The workshop will combine thoughtful philosophical discussions with enlivening disciplines of daily practice. Come join the dance!

$380

Psychoneuroimmunology and Its Implications
George Solomon & Margaret Kemery

The rapidly developing field of psychoneuroimmunology (PNI) is concerned with the nature of complex interactions between the central nervous system and the immune system. The central nervous system mediates stress effects, coping, emotions, and other psychological processes that, by way of the immune system, affect the onset and course of many diseases.

The leaders will present a didactic and interactive workshop which will describe the immune system, how it works, and how it is regulated. They will discuss human and animal research on the effects of stress and other experiential factors on immunity and on immunologically-resistant and -mediated disease, including bacterial and viral infections, cancer, autoimmunity, allergies, and AIDS. The as yet poorly researched area of interventions, including psychotherapy, on immunity and disease will be discussed. Some of the possible mechanisms underlying traditional and alternative healing systems and placebo effects will be explored.

Whether health or mental health practitioners concerned with the clinical relevance of PNI, or individuals who are concerned with maintaining or improving their own health, participants will be encouraged to set goals for their particular health needs.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$380
Roots and Wings: Renewing Our Spirits, Living Our Dreams
David Schiffman

David Schiffman writes: "This workshop is for people who value a heartfelt, original approach to life, the suitably seasoned who want to trust and master their own rhythms and who appreciate the value of imaginative self-inquiry. Its pacing and format are designed to provide a safe, restorative mood for inner reflection and honest self-appraisal. It will also be a time to catch one's breath and hang out in the elemental beauty of Big Sur in a mood of peace and inspiration, an opportunity to tune into the inner resources that allow us to see the world with fresh eyes and renewed enthusiasm. A chance as well to connect with kindred spirits and to explore the mysteries, gifts, and dilemmas of who we are.

"Using a unique blend of physical, emotional, and spiritual attunement practices, we will weave a spell aimed at restoring the magic and faith we need to live soulful, wholehearted lives. We will spend the weekend doing this inner work using ceremony, ritual, music, poetry, movement, and visualization." $380

Giftedness: The Wonder and the Anguish
Mary Rocamora

The inner process of the gifted is little understood by either the general public or the gifted themselves. This workshop—designed for both the gifted and those who work or live with gifted individuals—leads participants on a journey through the stereotypes and misconceptions about giftedness and presents what is now known in the research community about giftedness and creativity.

There is still much to learn about the inner experience of giftedness—how to cope with the internal stress factors, how to recognize and optimize one's talents and vision, and how to better communicate with others. Many gifted adults were never identified and many more were impaired by both psychological and circumstantial factors, including gender, race, and cultural background. These factors will be introduced so their impact on self-actualization can be seen.

All participants will be helped to identify personal traits that researchers attribute to giftedness. Inner transformational approaches that specifically address the personality differences of the gifted will be offered, as well as guidance toward achieving an extraordinary life. $380

Week of January 7-12

Body Poetry East and West
Chungliang Al Huang & Brother David Steinall-Rast

For newcomers it is always surprising how the combination of Tai Ji body movement along with the collective enjoyment of poetry can improve the flow of energy on all levels. Joint workshops by Chungliang and Brother David have become known as "festivals of aliveness."

This year, these two bridgebuilders between East and West will share their treasures of poems and stories, old and new, following the rhythm of the I Ching. This great Taoist Book of Changes can serve as a key to release the free flow of life energy within us. By becoming attentive to life's rhythms—through nature, poems, and movement—we can learn to tap the wellsprings of our innate creativity in new ways. We can experience body and soul with renewed delight.

In Esalen's unique setting, ocean, garden, hot springs, and human companionship work together toward one goal, the goal of this workshop: to come fully alive and to celebrate life. $740

Conservative, Liberal, Self-Concept: A New Synthesis
Will Schutz

Wrote Will Schutz: "The Republican revolution of 1994 has had the salutary effect of forcing some fresh thinking about our democratic and republican origins. I have often wondered why the simple label of 'conservative' or 'liberal' is such a good predictor of a person's positions on a wide variety of social and political issues: self-restraint vs. selfishness, social responsibility vs. personal responsibility, self-determination vs. dependency, human nature as good vs. human nature as evil, compassion vs. justice.

"What are the basic psychological and philosophical beliefs that underlie this distinction? We shall explore the roots of these beliefs in ourselves, test a method of reconciling these dichotomies through the use of the Concordance method of group decision-making (see The Human Element), and form a basis for a simpler, more consistent, easier-to-agree-on political philosophy which takes into account the concepts of competition, power, cooperation, and creativity, and avoids misleading dichotomies. Using some techniques described in the above book, we shall investigate our own self-concepts and self-esteem, how to strengthen them, and discover how to clarify our attitudes toward the classic issues of public policy."

Recommended reading: Schutz, The Human Element. $740

Mending the Fragmented Self: Soul Retrieval and Shamanic Practices
Sandra Ingerman & Carol Proudfoot-Edgar

Shamanism is the oldest spiritual system used for healing, problem-solving, and the general well-being of both the individual and the community. From a shamanic perspective, emotional and physical "dis-spiritedness" often results from "soul-loss," a trauma that keeps us dissociated from life, our bodies, our relationships, and from feeling our connection with the natural world.

This workshop will introduce elements of core shamanism and practices involved in the reintegration of retrieved parts. It will present the shamanic journey method and other practices for accessing important information for one's healing. There will be rituals and ceremonies focusing on "release and renewal" as participants discover their own personal vision of well-being. Special emphasis will be on raising and using the power of the circle for personal healing and growth.

Workshop space is available for 12 participants to have a private session with a workshop leader acting in the role of the shaman to spiritually retrieve parts lost in life trauma. Additional space is available for others who have already had a soul retrieval done.

Please bring a bandanna, a journal, and drums and rattles (if you have them).

Recommended reading: Ingerman, Soul Retrieval: Mending the Fragmented Self.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

Vision Painting
Helen Jerene Malcolm

Painting your vision is a sacred journey into self. Visionary art is a means of expressing the core yearning of the painter's deeper self; an active meditation in which the participant allows a flow of color and images to emerge as if the painting were painting itself. In an atmosphere of exploration and acceptance—enabling the creative impulse to play, take risks, and face fears—the painting finds its own path through darkness and light.

In this work, you can move beyond the rational mind to deeper levels of motivation and desire. Self-expression is prompted from the feeling centers, through the hand onto paper, evoked by guided visioning, color, music, movement, and dream images.

What you focus upon, conscious or unconsciously, creates the life you experience. Your vision painting can be a treasure map of your life where change and healing are affirmed. This is a transformative adventure recreating aspects of your life spiritually, professionally, and physically.

Please note: All are welcome, beginners as well as artists. (plus $30 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

Completions and Transitions

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

Often in our lives we feel incomplete with the past. We are aware that we are not moving into the present with a generous and open heart. Old memories haunt us, even though we experience them as “finished.” When we sense that we exist more in the past than in the present, it is time to make a distinction between “finished” and “completed.”

Transitions without completions foster resentments—about unsuccessful marriages, friendships, careers—and can produce illness, sorrow, and the inability to forgive.

Transitions are crossroads in our lives that give us the opportunity to finish and complete the past, reconnect with our present truth, and renew our passion, courage, and commitment for the future. The focus of this workshop will be to deeply review our lives, relationships, and circumstances to discover what needs to be transformed from “finished” to “completed.”

The workshop will present you with ways to make successful transitions. It will provide a safe, supportive environment that includes risk-taking, intense bodywork, gestalt imagery, movement, and meditation in order to support the transitions that keep us committed to the process of discovering ourselves.

The Living Core of Biblical Spirituality

Brother David Steindl-Rast

Writes Brother David: “Many people ask, ‘Is there still a solid spiritual core left in the Biblical tradition?’ Such questioning may be prompted by detached curiosity, by deep personal anguish, or by any position between these two poles. This workshop is designed to deal honestly and compassionately with all such questions, from whatever position they may come.

“As we move into a new millennium, an unprecedented transformation of the world is taking place before our eyes. Profound changes and upheavals affect all aspects of life—including religion and spirituality. Do we still have access to whatever it was in the past that gave men and women strength and conviction when everything else was crumbling?”

This weekend will provide an opportunity to discuss these deep concerns with Brother David. In his books, tapes, and lectures, many people have found ways to cut through misconceptions, distortions, and authoritarian rigidity, and to tap spiritual wellsprings that are both Biblical and universal, both living and life-giving.

The Path of Parenting: A Spiritual Approach

Barbara Sachs

Parenting is difficult. We are given no formal education to prepare us for this profound undertaking. Most of us know almost nothing about it, yet we are expected to be successful on the first try. We want to raise our children to be happy, healthy, loving adults, but we often end up tired, discouraged, and distanced from them.

The purpose of this workshop is to help parents understand a child’s psychological and spiritual growth, and to mirror and support this process.
The Enneagram in Personal Development and Therapy

David Daniels

This workshop will focus on the keys to working powerfully with each type. Case examples, interactions, and mock therapy will be used to demonstrate the application of awareness practices, paradox, the traps and avocations, conscious conduct, the preview and review technique, and energy transformation with each of the Enneagram types. While the workshop is designed especially for the helping professions, individuals knowledgeable in the Enneagram who want to further their personal growth and relationships are welcome.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.
C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.

Week of January 14-19

Cross-Cultural Shamanic Practices

Angeles Arrien

This workshop will introduce participants to shamanic tools from diverse cultures. Group members will work individually and collectively to honor ancestor spirits and release unhealthy family patterns. Angeles Arrien's work focuses on the universal human qualities of power, love, vision, and wisdom, accessed to increase personal and professional effectiveness.

This workshop qualifies as foundation work for Angeles Arrien's Four-Fold Way educational program.

Recommended reading: Arrien, The Four-Fold Way: Walking the Path of the Warrior, Teacher, Healer, and Visionary.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.

Sports Massage: Keeping the Players Playing

John Harris & Sherry Sanders Galloway

This sports massage workshop is about maintaining athletic conditioning. The focus will be on body mechanics and simple techniques for keeping muscles toned, stretched, and ready for any physical activity. Specific injury treatments, such as trigger point therapy and cross-friction technique, will be demonstrated. There will be simple anatomy instruction and a presentation of methods that can be used regardless of location or supplies on hand.

Each session will combine a brief lecture with a step-by-step demonstration, followed by extensive hands-on practice. There will be one-to-one assistance available and individual concerns will be addressed. The objective is two-fold: 1) to become familiar with the tissue that lies beneath the skin: how it works, how it moves, how to prevent injury to it, how to heal it; and 2) to keep both the provider and the receiver of this work comfortable and fit, both physically and emotionally—in short, to "keep the players playing."

This work can benefit athletes, dancers, yoga practitioners, and "weekend warriors." Please wear loose and comfortable clothing.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Week of January 19-21

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

Contact is the appreciation of differences.
— Fritz Perls

...and the recognition of similarities.
— Richard Price

This workshop is designed to introduce the various practices of Esalen to first-time participants or to those renewing their acquaintance with Esalen. Emphasis will be on finding those approaches to self-awareness that work most effectively for each individual participant. Sessions may include: meditation, sensory awareness, gestalt practices, group process, art, movement, and massage. There will also be time to explore the natural magnificence of the Big Sur coast.

Hanna Somatics: Mastery of Muscles and Emotions

Eleanor Criswell Hanna

This workshop will explore the neuromuscular responses to emotional states—the somatics way to internal mastery of muscles and emotions—and the joy that comes with the body's renewed awareness and freedom. Guided somatic exercises and individual sessions with practitioners trained by Thomas Hanna will give participants the opportunity to experience this wonderful work. Dyad practice is included.

Recommended reading: Hanna, Somatics; The Body of Life; and Bodies in Revolt.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.
Managing Your Stress, Your Heart, and Your Life

Mel Lefer

Dr. Dean Ornish produced the first major study showing conclusive evidence that reversal of heart disease and other disorders, such as high blood pressure, diabetes, obesity, and high cholesterol, was possible without the use of drugs or surgical intervention. This workshop will apply the tools developed by Dr. Ornish to provide the direct experience of how powerful, comprehensive lifestyle changes can affect one's heart and overall sense of well-being.

The workshop will incorporate many approaches, including diet, exercise, stretching, progressive relaxation, breathing practices, meditation, visualization, and group discussion. The goal will be for participants to transfer these good habits into every aspect of daily life, and to pave the way to the peace of mind that physical well-being can provide.

Recommended reading: Ornish, Eat More, Weigh Less—Stress, Diet, and Your Heart; and Dr. Dean Ornish's Program for Reversing Heart Disease. $380

Ryukido: Movement from the Martial Arts

Yoshi Sakuyama

Ki, the vital energy that flows through the body, has been valued by martial artists because it gives them the courage to conquer fear. They have devised special breathing practices and physical movements to enhance their ki energy. Yoshi Sakuyama, a sixth-degree black belt and movement artist from Japan, will introduce Ryukido, a total movement training system drawn from the foundations of martial arts. These simple yet powerful movements amplify ki flow and refine one's actions.

Participants will be guided into bodily awareness through various practices such as basic movements (to feel and move from the body's center), pair work, breath, and Kiatsu massage. The fluid, dancelike movements are fun to practice, and the teaching can be applied to everyday life. $380

A Retreat for Women of Experience: Midlife and Beyond

Lenore Lefer & Anne Yeomans

The gifts of woman are many. They have been undervalued and made invisible until we can not see them ourselves. Today, more than ever, the earth needs these gifts.

This is an opportunity for women in midlife and beyond to come together to explore the issues that are on our minds and in our hearts. What are the challenges we each face? How can we support each other in reclaiming and honoring our passion, our tears, our outrage, our laughter, and our beauty? How can we express our deepest values at this time in our lives?

The workshop will include time to speak and tell our stories, and time for silence, hatha yoga, walking meditation, and group process.

Some themes to be explored include:

- The wisdom of the body
- Sexuality and intimacy
- Menopause
- Power and self-expression
- Self-care in the midst of responsibilities
- Spiritual questions of midlife

It is our hope that these days together will strengthen our trust and renew our spirit, so that we can return to our lives with more joy, more tenderness toward ourselves and others, and more boldness in living all that is important to us. $380

Week of January 21-26

Life Energy Process

Stephano Sabetti

The Life Energy Process (LEP) is a spiritually-oriented approach to self-development and professional growth based on Eastern and Western energy dynamics. Specially designed subtle and intensive movements (micro-movements) can increase energy flow and lead to the discharge of nonessential processes in the body (repressed emotions, chemical toxins, etc.). Each of us has an energy frequency that can be felt when attuned through LEP. This unique vibration helps to center and ground, as well as to find clearer direction and meaning in daily life. Each participant will have a chance to feel her/his unique energy process and explore it through process inquiry.

Life Energy Process includes: dance, theater, massage, pool work, and various other forms. The workshop is of particular interest to professionals and laypersons who are excited by the integration of theory, pleasure, and hands-on application of energy concepts. $740

The Heartful Path to Mind Power: Geometrizing Mind Space

Julian Silverman

Writes Julian Silverman: “This workshop is about the big changes which need to occur in the way we think in order to survive the next twenty years. It is about a master plan for revisiting the way the mind makes sense of things, for neutralizing the compelling influence of ‘how things appear to be’. It is about rediscovering love and integrating the rediscovery into our lives—using, of all things, geometry.

“Sounds ‘far out!’ It is. It is also an unavoidable emergent of human consciousness. The sooner we learn it, the less disbelieving will be the transition to a more fulfilling way of being. Using both lecture and experiential learning formats, this workshop will focus on two questions:

- How do you move into a frame of mind more empowering and more meaningful than your current one?
- How do you cleanse your mind, getting rid of disempowering, demeaning mental images and programs?

“This involves the coordination of two very different kinds of learning—one by organizing (categorizing) and pulling together (synthesizing); the other by ignoring (disregarding) and letting go (forgiving).”

Recommended reading: A Course in Miracles. C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

The Wildness Within

Brita Ostrom & Eric Erickson

Every part of this soil is sacred. . . Every hillside, every valley, every plain and grove, has been hallowed by some sad or happy event in the days long vanished.

—CHIEF SEATTLE, 1856

Maybe saving a forest starts with preserving some of the feelings that die inside us every day... If we cannot respect that interior land neither can we respect the land we walk.

—DAVID LYNCH, Twin Peaks

Writes Brita: “Big Sur is a place where healing can happen. The deep canyons and expansive coastal setting evoke our wilder personal interiors so our demons and dreams have breathing room and a chance to be tested.” This workshop will focus on the interrelatedness of our internal landscape and “the land we walk,” first exploring our interior wellspring of dreams, emotions, and intuitions, and then... extending outward to make intimate connection with others and with the Big Sur coast.

Participants will work with awareness practices to gain clearer insight into their inner reality, and with meditative movement, conscious touch, and massage to relieve old physical holding patterns to facilitate change and renewal. As body and mind become more integrated, attention will then turn to developing a nourishing relationship with the planet. Big Sur will become the backdrop for short hikes and wilderness experiences.

The workshop is for those seeking a time of personal renewal, couples or friends seeking to reconnect in a different way, and body-workers seeking a new perspective on their field.

$740

Consensus

Caroline Estes

Consensus decision making has been in use for hundreds of years. The Society of Jesus (Jesuits) used it in its early years. Most Native Americans used it in some form. In its more than 300 years of existence, the Quakers have brought it to what is probably its finest form in their Meetings for Business.

Caroline Estes, a Quaker for nearly four decades, has adapted the Quaker “search for unity” for use in secular groups as a search for truth. Her work is based on the belief that each person has a piece of the truth, and that bringing together those pieces of truth results in decisions that transcend the individual.

This workshop will teach not only how to put forward one’s own truth, without hidden agendas or biases, but how to listen for the truth of others. Through extensive role-playing, it will present the methods of seeking consensus and of facilitating meetings that use consensus.

The workshop will enable participants to take part more effectively in meetings, whether or not consensus is being used, and to become more effective group leaders.

$740

Fit to Lead: Shape-Shifting into the 21st Century

Elisa Lodge

Wrote Elisa Lodge: “Shape-shifting is the ability to alter one’s physical, emotional, and mental states at will, to affect and inspire the consciousness of others. It is a term originally ascribed to the shaman, the mystically empowered leader/healer of traditional cultures. Today’s radically changing world requires us to become, like the shaman, self-healing and the leaders of our destiny.

“The focus of our week together will be to reclaim the trust in the intuitive authority of our body wisdom. When the body, its movements, breath, and speech become more fluid, vital, and musical rather than mechanized, controlled, and predictable, we exude an authenticity and flexibility of being in all we do and say.

“Time will be spent on recognizing the body language of dominance and subservience and on the ability to contrast pretense and presence, acting and being. Individual and group exercises will be used to reshape stress and strain into harmonious, congruent expression; sit, stand, and walk with fluent, vibrant aliveness; inspire courage to act with greater boldness and daring; and improvise strategically on one’s feet.”

The workshop is designed for everyone seeking to enhance personal power.

$740

Exploring the World of Lucid Dreaming

Stephen LaBerge

Dreams are worlds of wonder where anything imaginable can happen. However, ordinarily we sleep through our nightly journeys, unaware of the opportunities available.

We are not bound to forever sleepwalk through our dreams. Lucid dreams are dreams in which we know we are dreaming while we’re dreaming. While lucid, we can be fully conscious that the dreamworld is a mental creation, and that we are free to act in the dream unconstrained by laws of physics or society.

People can develop the skill of lucid dreaming and research has shown that it can profoundly affect our brains and bodies. Participants will be taught how to induce lucid dreaming and explore its many uses: self-exploration, creative problem-solving, enhancing self-confidence, healing, adventure, and self-integration.

The seminar will extend beyond dreaming to investigate our experience of the world and our perceptions of “reality.” It will explore the concept that all perceptions are illusory and that waking reality is, like dreaming, a mental construction.

The workshop will combine lecture and experiential exercises. It is intended for avid dreamers and people interested in self-exploration and the enhancement of consciousness.

Recommended reading: LaBerge, Lucid Dreaming; LaBerge & Rheingold, Exploring the World of Lucid Dreaming.

$380

When Success is Not Enough

Peller Marion

If I had known what it would be like to have it all, I would have settled for less.

— Lily Tomlin

Materialism is skyrocketing in the United States. Indeed, many of us are wealthy beyond the wildest dreams of our ancestors. Still, we struggle more than ever for self-esteem and meaning in our lives.

When alternative measures of success are not available, the deep human need to be valued and respected by others is often acted out through consumption. Buying things becomes a means to both self-esteem and social acceptance. "The avarice of mankind is insatiable," wrote Aristotle, who believed that as soon as one desire was satisfied, another would appear to take its place. If our wants are insatiable, there is simply no such thing as enough.

This workshop is designed to explore the questions: How much is enough? What is an achievement junkie? What is my definition of success at this time in my life? How do I create my own personal philosophy of life and live by my own agenda?

Participants will investigate the paradox of success in their own lives. A variety of experiential approaches will be used, including readings, discussion, games, dance, gestalt, imagery, and meditation.

Recommended reading: Marion, Crisis Proof Your Career: How to Find Job Security In An Insecure Time; and Making It: Stories and Stages of Successful Entrepreneurs.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $380

Religious and Spiritual Problems: A Paradigm Shift in Mental Health

David Lukoff, Francis Lu & Robert Turner

Religion is a system of wishful illusions together with a disavowal of reality, such as we find... nowhere else... but in a state of blissful hallucinatory confusion.

—SIGMUND FREUD

Psychiatry has not only neglected but actively ignored the issue of spirituality.

—SCOTT PEECK

Historically, mental health professionals have ignored, trivialized, or pathologized the religious and spiritual dimensions of life. Persons involved with unconventional spiritual paths as well as those having intense religious/spiritual experiences have been at risk of being misdiagnosed as mentally ill.

Significantly, work in transpersonal psychology recently came to fruition with the acceptance of a new diagnostic category entitled "Religious or Spiritual Problems" in the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual, Fourth Edition that guides diagnostic practice in the U.S. and many other countries. The adoption of this new category as an "Other Condition That May Be A Focus of Clinical Attention"—not a mental disorder—signifies a paradigm shift by accepting distressing religious/spiritual experiences as nonpathological problems.

The three authors of this new diagnostic category will share the issues involved in its adoption. Film and videotape excerpts will serve as stimuli for discussions of precipitants, phenomenology, support, integration, and outcome of religious and spiritual problems. Clinical cases will be presented to illustrate their diagnostic and treatment issues. Participants will have the opportunity to discuss personal experiences related to this topic.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. $380

Working with Obstacles and Difficulties

Yvonne Rand

How can we deal with the circumstances and experiences which we see as obstacles and difficulties in our lives? In this workshop, participants will be presented with methods for observing, identifying, and describing how encounters with obstruction occur; analyzing the nature of obstruction and the causes and conditions which give rise to obstruction; and devising and applying antidotes. Participants will be invited to evaluate and enjoy the opportunities for training the mind which the occurrence of obstacles and difficulties allows. The workshop will draw resources in these endeavors both from the Buddhist meditation tradition and from the Western psychotherapeutic tradition. $380

Holotropic Breathwork and the Creative Fire

Laurie Weaver & Ricci Coddington

This workshop is open only to those experienced in Holotropic Breathwork

The leaders write: "Holotropic Breathwork is a powerful method of inner exploration, personal transformation, and healing. It is a process by which we can come back into connection with our inner selves, our creativity, and our fire. It is a doorway through which we can explore and fully contact the many
To apply for this workshop, please send your hearts, and the Mother Earth. Along with the "This five-day program is an opportunity to connect more deeply with ourselves, our hearts, and the Mother Earth. Along with the breathwork, we will include sitting and walking meditations, relaxation, creative expression, gestalt work, and music making."

To apply for this workshop, please send your previous Holotropic Breathwork experience, along with dates and names of the certified facilitators, to Laurie Weaver, 2776 41st Ave., San Francisco, CA 94116.

Participation in this workshop will fulfill 45 hours of credit requirements for the Grof Transpersonal Training program. $740

Facing Life's Challenges: Courage, Faith, and Self-Acceptance
Phyllis Shankman
The only thing predictable in life is its unpredictability. It is full of ongoing challenges. Some challenges are easy; many are difficult to face and cope with. But each challenge or crisis is also an opportunity for expansion, learning, and healing, a chance to break set and move beyond old patterns. As individuals our work is to develop the courage, faith, and self-acceptance that will enable us to find the personal meaning and value in each challenge and grow from it.

This workshop is an opportunity to face these challenges in a safe, supportive space. Honoring oneself and the goodwill of others, participants will engage in group process, meditation, humor, massage, art, music, and movement, all in the context of expanding our capacity to transform challenges into meaningful growth experiences.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

The Healing Power of Theater
Jean-Claude van Itallie
More and more, the power of creative expression to heal and to transform is being recognized. In a supportive, nonjudgmental atmosphere, playwright Jean-Claude van Itallie will lead participants on an inspiring, playful, and disciplined adventure, a rediscovering of the place of transformation: the source of both spiritual and artistic practice. Through movement, dance, playwriting improvisations, meditation, acting and listening exercises, and dream- and storytelling, this workshop is designed to reawaken and express the spacious, creative self we often forget. With workshop members encouraging and supporting one another, each individual's healing creativity will be evoked in a spontaneous yet structured manner, through a disciplined play of body, voice, and mind.

Everyone is welcome. No theater or writing experience is necessary. $740

Coming Home to the Soul
Dorothy S. Hunt
Suppose in each moment of our lives, in all of our joys and sufferings, in every encounter or experience with creature or person, there existed an invitation to come home to our true Self? Suppose a part of us knew that our true Self was not the "self" we cling to, of separate body, mind, thought, or feeling? Suppose somewhere, like a tiny ray of light through years of ignorance, tears, or darkness, a voice spoke in hushed tones reminding us we are already Home, already worthy, already healed? Could we hear?

"Yet it is true," writes Dorothy Hunt. "There is a consciousness deep within us which remembers who we are, where we came from, and where we are headed. It receives and inspires our love. It will teach us if we learn to listen. Some call this consciousness the 'soul,' others the 'heart.' But by whatever name we call it, it is continually calling us home to our true Self.

"Through the use of myth, music, meditation, movement, dreams, drawing, writing, guided imagery, and silence, this workshop will explore deeply the experiences and wisdom of the soul. We will explore the soul's images and archetypes, its rhythms and relatedness with all of nature. We will seek its knowledge and try to listen to the ways it calls us Home."

$740

Forgiveness: The Key to Intimacy
Mary Goldenson (Deanarani)
All life is about relationships. Creating an alive and honest connection with an intimate partner requires us to go deeply into our hearts and allow the courageous self to emerge. This journey to intimacy begins with the path of forgiveness.

How does forgiveness lead to intimacy?
• It allows us to let go of anger, resentment, and grief
• It allows the agitated mind to move more deeply into the healing heart
• It resolves separation from ourselves and from others
• It allows us to give up inflicting punishment on ourselves and others
• It allows us to complete unfinished business

Dialogue: A Way of Life, A Path to Wholeness
Glenna Gerard & Linda Tourfs
Often today we find ourselves afloat in a sea of confusion, chaos, and conflict, unable to find meanings that bridge the separation we feel. And yet, twentieth-century sciences tell us reality is relational—meaning is created through relationship.

Dialogue is a group communication process that focuses on how we create meaning and the very culture we share. Rooted in Greek dia (through) and logos (word or meaning), dia-whether in a good relationship or troubled, as a couple or alone, whether mother, father, daughter, or son, or in the healing professions.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.

$380

Briefing for a Descent into Novelty
Terence McKenna

This recent transmission: "A unique opportunity to spend a weekend with one of the archaic revivals most hyperactive minds: mushroom mullah Terence McKenna, apostle of time's end and imminent historical transformation, will lead a guided tour of his end-of-the-millennium wunderkammer of eccentric, obscure, and strangely elegant ideas and positions. McKenna, the eschatological, botanical ambassador from the Absolute Other, is a silver-tongued altered statesman and psychedelic crusader who rarely fails to amuse and edify. Lively discussion of the approaching exfoliation of the human species into a transdimensional collectivity should be anticipated. Bring a friend."

$380

The Art of Leadership: Communication, Creativity, Vision
Ron Alexander

In the beginner's mind there are many possibilities
While in the expert's mind there are few.
—SUZUKI

This workshop is for entrepreneurs, executives, managers, and others committed to improving their communication and leadership skills. It is especially intended for those open to doing deep personal work with a commitment to transform the self and thereby become more effective and productive in leadership style. The major areas of focus will be resolving conflict, developing trust with those who feel threatened, addressing blind spots in self-esteem, healing blocks in creativity, and building support for transforming vision into reality.

The workshop is primarily experiential and will include gestalt open seat work; sharing feedback on leadership and communication styles; improving coaching skills; role-playing and problem-solving exercises for real-life work situations; and exercises for developing the unconscious to creatively solve problems.

Recommended reading: Depree, Leadership is an Art; Wing, The Tao of Power; and Crum, The Magic of Conflict.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$380

Fathers & Sons & Mothers & Daughters
Elliot & Vera Aronson

Just wait til YOU have children—then you'll know!
Oh my God, I sound just like my mother!

We are all someone's child and most of us already are or eventually will become somebody's mother or father. Our relationship with our parents is the most profound and the most ambivalent of all relationships—it influences us throughout our lives. Indeed, this relationship is all too often a hidden template for other intimate relationships, especially those with our own children. The more aware we become of the complex issues involved, the more we can heal old wounds and maximize the joy we experience with our parents and, ultimately, with our children, as we gain the ability to break out of unproductive, repetitive cycles.

This workshop is aimed at increasing awareness and understanding of how we think, feel, and behave—as daughter, son, mother, and father—with the goal of increasing our joy and effectiveness in these roles. Toward this end, a supportive environment will be provided in which participants will be invited to make use of a variety of verbal and nonverbal approaches, including art, play, fantasy, and movement.

Chaos and the Language of Nature

Ralph Abraham & Ray Guyn Smith

Chaos theory has triggered a paradigm shift. But can it light our way ahead? This experiential, interactive workshop will explore ways in which chaos concepts may:

- Enhance our conversation with Nature
- Heal the dichotomy between Nature and Self
- Offer clues to a more integrated human presence on Earth

Come and embrace the future with renewed innocence and hope! $380

--Lao Tzu

Gestalt practice is a form—nonanalytic, non-coercive, nonjudgmental—evolving out of the work of Fritz Perls. The work integrates ways of personal clearing and development that are both ancient and modern. To the extent that awareness is made primary relative to action, gestalt practice has a strong relationship to some forms of meditation and visualization. This form is similar to some Reichian work as well, in that emotional and energetic release and rebalancing are allowed and encouraged.

The emphasis is intrapersonal rather than interpersonal. It is explicitly understood that participants are not patients but persons actively consenting to work (or play) in awareness. The leader functions to reflect, clarify, and respect whatever emerges in this process. The aim is unfoldment, wholeness, and growth, rather than adjustment, cure or accomplishment. Through group exercises, meditations, and discussion, this workshop will introduce participants to the gestalt practice approach. The format will combine introductory group work with the open seat form in which each participant will have the opportunity to work with the leader in a group context.

Recommended reading: Perls, Gestalt Therapy Verbatim; Chodron, The Wisdom of No Escape.
C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Polarity Massage Intensive

Deborah Anne Medow

Polarity massage is a system of balancing the currents of life force which naturally flow through the body. It is a holistic approach to healing in which the practitioner and recipient work with thoughts and attitudes, nutritional needs, polarity yoga exercises, and the polarity treatment itself.

Participants will be instructed in the basic concepts of the polarity system as applied to the human energy field through the medium of touch. Emphasis will be on theory, polarity points and counterpoints, energy balancing methods, nutrition, and polarity yoga. Three-hour sessions will be held in the mornings and afternoons. Evenings will be for practice and occasional group meetings.

This workshop is designed for professional bodyworkers, health care providers, and interested laypersons, and is a good review for anyone who has taken a polarity workshop.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Week of February 4-9

Gestalt Practice

Christine Stewart Price

_The Way, when declared_

_Seems so thin and flavorless._

_Nothing to look at, nothing to hear—_

_And when used—is inexhaustible._

Writing About Our Lives: A Workshop for Women

Ellen Bass

Ellen Bass writes: "The philosophy behind this workshop is best expressed by Martha Graham, who said, 'There is a vitality, a life force, an energy, a quickening that is translated through you into action. And because there is only one of you in all time, this expression is unique. And if you block it, it will never exist through any other medium, and be lost. The world will not have it. It is not your business to determine how good it is, nor how valuable, nor how it compares with other expressions. It is your business to keep it yours clearly and directly, to keep the channel open.'"

"This workshop will help keep the channels open. It will be a supportive place to share our lives and work, our voice, our creativity. There will be a lot of time for writing, as well as time for sharing and feedback. From beginners to experienced, all women writers are welcomed. Whether you are interested in poetry, fiction, nonfiction, or journal writing, this workshop is an opportunity to become clearer, go deeper, express your feelings and ideas more powerfully."

Note: Although Ellen Bass is known for her work with survivors of child sexual abuse, the focus of this workshop will not be on healing from trauma. It is a creative writing workshop in which women are free to write on any subject they choose.

$740

The Art and Dance of Transformation

Joanne Segel & Linda Jacobson

Transformational art and movement are creative processes that can be tools for self-development, spiritual growth, and understanding. Opening up to our creativity we receive more life energy. Art is a natural process of being human, and this workshop is designed to show you not that the artist is unique, but that each person is a unique artist.

During this week, with love and support, the stages of life will be explored, beginning with the first instant of cellular consciousness. Drums and dreams, drawing and painting, writing and ritual will be woven together to inspire and ignite you. Participants will take active dream journeys to enter the imaginal realm where inner healing takes place, tapping the wellspring of imagination and creativity in a nonjudgmental, nurturing environment.

Art and movement are vessels that hold enormous power for transformation. By connecting with our creative, instinctual natures, we inform our souls.

All levels are welcome—no prior art or movement experience is necessary.

$740

(plus $25 materials fee paid directly to the leaders)

Weekend of February 9-11

Introduction to Mindfulness Meditation

James Baraz

Mindfulness—or vipassana—meditation is the practice described by the Buddha for developing wisdom, compassion, and peace. Vipassana, "to see things clearly," means being mindful of what is actually happening in the present moment. Using the breath, body sensations, thought, and emotions as objects of attention, we can learn to be fully awake and bring a balanced awareness to all aspects of our lives.

Through vipassana meditation we can experience the nature of reality as continuous change. When we see that all phenomena are impermanent, we can begin to let go of clinging to the pleasant or avoiding the unpleasant. We are then more capable of meeting each situation with spontaneity, fearlessness, and love. Meditation also teaches us to see in each moment the interconnectedness of all things. Our hearts open to a natural expression of compassion and kindness.

Participants will be introduced to this method of meditation practice and the principles on which it is based. There will be periods of silent sitting and walking meditation, as well as discussion. As attention is brought to all activities at Esalen, individuals will continue to develop mindfulness through the weekend. This will provide a foundation for applying mindfulness practice to everyday life.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $380

The Way of the Shaman: The Shamanic Journey, Power, and Healing
Michael Harner & Sandra Ingerman

Considered by many to be the world's authority on shamanism, Michael Harner will introduce participants to core shamanism, the basic methods of the shaman to enter a nonordinary reality of problem solving, wellbeing, and healing.

During this experiential workshop, particular emphasis will be placed on the classic shamanic journey to explore the hidden universe—otherworldly known through myth and dream. Participants will be initiated into shamanic journeying, aided by drumming and movement practices to experience the shamanic state of consciousness and to awaken dormant spiritual abilities and connections with Nature.

Practice will include comparisons by participants of their discoveries in shamanic journeys as well as personal problem-solving. Participants will also be provided with methods for journeying in nonordinary reality to their own individual spiritual teachers, a classic step in shamanic practice. Group members will be shown how shamanism can be applied in daily life to help heal oneself, others, and the planet.

This workshop constitutes the prerequisite for more advanced courses with Michael Harner and faculty members of the Foundation for Shamanic Studies.

Please note: C.E. credit is no longer available for nurses. $380

The Body: Doorway to Self-Discovery—The Gestalt Practice Approach
Christine Stewart Price

My belief is in the blood and flesh as being wiser than the intellect. The body-conscious is where life bubbles up in us. It is how we know that we are alive, alive to the depths of our souls and in touch somewhere with the vivid reaches of the cosmos.

—D.H. Lawrence

In gestalt practice, "feeling" is defined as that which can actually be felt in the body. Awareness of feeling as physical sensation is one of the most effective ways to reach the goals Fritz Perls described as the goals of the gestalt process: to increase aliveness, to have a better ability to cope, and to fill in the holes of our existence. By sensing ourselves as our bodies we may access dimensions of being human that go beyond our ideas of who we think we are.

This workshop will focus on physical sensation as the entry point to knowing ourselves. Using the gestalt practice approach (see February 4-9), especially in exploration of breath, movement, and sound, participants will explore this inner realm of awareness in all its grit and glory. $380

Zero Balancing Open Forum
Fritz Smith

This weekend is an opportunity for people doing Zero Balancing to reconnect with Fritz Smith, with Zero Balancing, and with each other. Fritz writes: "It is critically important to periodically meet with like-minded people and to openly, freely, and safely discuss problems, insights, and successes of your work—in this case, the leading-edge therapy of balancing energy and structure."

The workshop's agenda will vary with the needs of those who attend, but will focus on personal nurturing and recharging, and will include giving and receiving sessions, refining touch, honing the ZB protocol, observing demos by Fritz, and looking at the newer emerging possibilities of ZB.

Come and rekindle your sense of belonging, of not being isolated in the world. Prerequisite training: Core Zero Balancing I.

This open forum qualifies for 12.5 hours of class credit toward Zero Balancing Certification, and is approved for C.E.U.s for nurses (see page 60) and acupuncturists. $380

February 11-23
Advanced Training in Shamanism and Shamanic Healing
Michael Harner & Sandra Ingerman

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 58.

Please note: C.E. credit is no longer available for nurses.

Week of February 11-16
Present at the Creation: Reawakening the Artist Within
Esalen Arts Center Staff

It is said that the drive to create—to be original, inventive, resourceful—is as vital as the biological drive of hunger and as life-enhancing as the spiritual call to wholeness. As children many of us were thwarted in this essential expression of the human life force. We were taught that it was the end result that was all-important, and thus were denied the exhilarating experience of the creative process itself. And we allowed our creative expression to go to sleep.

This workshop invites you on a journey of reawakening. The Arts Center staff will provide a safe, supportive environment for you to rediscover the creator within. There will be a variety of art media available, which may include painting, pottery, silk-dyeing, dance and movement, mask-making, ritual, and group work. The leaders will offer exercises, as needed, to stimulate and liberate your creative expression, as they guide you deeper into the world of your own imagination and playfulness.

This will also be a wonderful opportunity to get messy. No previous art training is necessary.

Soul as Living Presence: The Diamond Approach
Joyce Lyke & Jessica Moore Britt

The Soul, like the moon, is new and always new again.

And I have seen the ocean continuously creating.

Since I scoured my mind and my body I too,

Lalla, am new, each moment new.

My teacher told me one thing, Live in the soul.

When that was so, I began to go naked, and dance.

—Lalla, Naked Song

The living presence of our soul is what is transformed and matured in the course of our spiritual development. It is our living consciousness which, when free to unfold, manifests its inherent dynamism, aliveness, and potentiality. The flow of our soul, if unimpeded, takes us deeper and deeper into our Essential Nature and in turn pours out of us in the unique expression of that True Nature in our individual lives. For most of us, however, our soul remains trapped in fixed conceptual and behavioral patterns that dampen the quality of our daily living and limit its possibilities. These rigidities block fundamental change in our consciousness, regardless of how many spiritual experiences we have had. For this reason, understanding the nature of the soul and what blocks its movement is essential for those who are serious about transformation.

This workshop will explore the main structures and underlying psychodynamic issues that have imprinted and shaped our souls, using open-ended inquiry and various body-awareness and meditative practices to loosen them. As these rigidifications and restrictions within the soul relax and unwind, the dynamic flow of the soul can unfold, revealing more and more of its full potential, bringing us closer to Home.

Please note: Registration requires completion of a questionnaire. For more information see Special Programs, page 58.

Recommended reading: A.H. Almaas, Essence and Diamond Heart—Book One.

Five-Day Massage Intensive
Laurie Lioness Parizek & Arthur Munyer

Esalen massage consists of more than the long, flowing strokes for which it is well known. In this workshop, Esalen bodywork in many of its forms will be demonstrated, practiced, and discussed during this week of learning and relaxation.

The workshop will introduce grounding techniques, pressure point work, meridian massage, stretches, and manipulations. The instructors will present a bodywork style that both addresses individual needs and integrates the whole person, focusing on the concept of working from our essential being. Special attention will be given to self-care, quality of contact, breath awareness, and stress reduction.

The workshop will also incorporate movement, dance, and rhythm to integrate the bodywork. Yoga and meditation will be taught to encourage focus and serenity.

Participants will make full use of Esalen's beautiful grounds and facilities. Please bring warm, comfortable clothing and your favorite music or instrument.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Weekend of February 16-18

Experiencing Esalen
Experience Esalen Staff

For workshop description see January 19-21.

The LQ Factor—How to Increase Your Love Quotient
Sam Keen

Sam Keen submits: "Modern psychology has focused attention on IQ—intelligence quotient—and utterly failed to increase our understanding of the nature of love. New Age Dr. Lonelyhearts and a gaggle of sexperts have rushed to fill the vacuum and litter the popular media with questionable advice about sex, romance, and intimacy.

"In this lecture/workshop, we will strip away layers of nonsense and false mystification and try to think clearly and wholeheartedly about the elements that compose the complex act of love. Hopefully, we may increase our capacity for passion and compassion and learn what it means to practice the art of loving."

Week of February 18-23

Dzogchen—Awakening the Buddha Within: A Silent Meditation & Self-Inquiry Retreat
Lama Surya Das

Buddhism teaches awareness techniques for awakening to inner freedom. Dzogchen—Tibetan for "the Natural Great Perfection"—introduces the inherent freedom, purity, and perfection of innate Buddha-Mind. Dzogchen is considered the summit of all Buddhist teachings: swift, easy, joyful, and direct.

Through meditation (sitting, walking, and guided), chanting, energy exercises, self-inquiry, and personal instruction, this quintessential Vajrayana path will be introduced and practiced according to the nonsectarian way of the Practice Lineage of Tibetan Buddhism, relying on authentic Tibetan texts, meditation manuals, oral tradition, and personal experience. Constant themes of this nondual awareness practice include appreciating the true joy of meditation, the incredible lightness of being, and opening to effortless awareness.

Conducted in silence, this meditation retreat offers a unique opportunity for experienced meditators and beginners alike to better know themselves through the timeless wisdom of this ancient Tibetan teaching.

Playing the Edge
David Schiffman

In the early stages of growth, success seems to be its own reward. Excitement, vitality, and the willingness to face life boldly are characteristics of those who are involved in new and successful ventures. To keep this spirit alive is not easy. Enormous pressures, grinding routines, and demands of involvement can disrupt even the healthiest people. To listen to one's heart requires the courage to pause. In this willingness to stop and listen to the deeper self live the true resources that guide and protect us.

The purpose of this week is to create a mood of sanctuary for people in transition considering major changes in career, relationship, or matters of the spirit; those in need of a break from stressful responsibilities; and individuals interested in breaking new ground in the areas of self-nurturance, intuitive functioning, and problem solving.

The process will be gently restorative, illuminating, and enlivening. The intention will be
Two Events with Claudio Naranjo

Customarily invited by Esalen to present without agenda, this year Claudio Naranjo will offer an unusual workshop introducing two different themes:

1) Interpersonal Meditation and Music as Contemplation—each of these subjects constitutes a little-explored field in which Dr. Naranjo may well be the most experienced exponent. Interpersonal meditation (or meditation-in-relation) refers to the extension of meditation techniques to dyadic situations of shared silence; contemplation through music refers to meditation with an object reinforced by appropriate musical support.

2) The Enneagram of Society—Dr. Naranjo will discuss a set of interrelated social ills intimately linked to characterological styles and which constitute an analog to the “cardinal sins” in the individual psyche. It is perhaps because of these fundamental social pathologies that we cannot conceive of a technological solution to the world problematic that bypasses individual transformation. $380

Weekend of February 23-25

The Life We Are Given

Michael Murphy & George Leonard

Like the human heart, the world points beyond itself to something greater and more beautiful. That something attracts us all, in different ways, and leads many of us to seek transformation.

—George Leonard & Michael Murphy, The Life We Are Given

Never before in history have so many people been offered so many possibilities for personal growth. And never before has the need for personal and social transformation been more urgent. Informed by their lifework in the field of human potential, George Leonard and Michael Murphy will lead participants in wide-ranging discussions on such topics as:

- The relations between this evolving universe and world-transcending realities
- Human capacities for extraordinary life
- The elements of transformative practice

This workshop will include simple movement exercises, meditation, storytelling, and unbridled metaphysical speculation. Murphy and Leonard will report on their two-year experiment in Integral Transformative Practice and help participants plan their own paths of transformation.

Recommended readings: Murphy, The Future of the Body; Leonard, Mastery; Leonard & Murphy, The Life We Are Given. $380

Singing Gestalt

Nancy Kaye Lunney

Singing can be an experience of great joy, poignant tenderness, or overwhelming fear. It can provide illuminating moments of pure expression or a persona to hide behind.

“Singing Gestalt” is singing about yourself, who you are, what you feel. It is about being yourself in front of other people without judging how well you sing. It is not about performance—it is about making contact, feeling, expressing, and being there, with and for yourself and others.

If the idea of getting up and singing in front of other people terrifies you more than anything you can think of, this workshop is for you. If you love to sing in front of other people and want to stretch yourself further, this workshop is for you. It is a chance to take your singing self out of the shower, out of the car—out of the closet.

Some guided imagery and gestalt may be used. Bring lyrics to songs that express thoughts and feelings you’d like to explore. Accompaniment and lots of music are provided. $380

Technoshamanism: Total Immersion in Spiritual Technology

Douglas Rushkoff

To wholeheartedly embrace technology may be the only way to partake in the next phase of human evolution. Douglas Rushkoff, a leading explorer of the spirituality of technology, will orient students to a wide range of hi-tech tools for consciousness research.

Participants will experience brain machines, the Internet, computer fractals, and Virtual Reality; tarot, astrology, and I Ching through computer programs; chaos math, hemispheric alignment audio, video games, and even new media—all within the context of their effect on awareness, emotions, and the body.

$380

Week of February 25-March 1

Language of the Drums: African Percussion, Chanting, and Dance

Babatunde Olatunji & Friends

Nigerian musician Babatunde Olatunji has been bridging the gap between American and African culture for thirty-five years. In this workshop he will show how drum sounds and rhythms communicate, stimulate, and pace the activities of traditional African life. He will teach the consonants of the Yoruba language, reproducing its sounds on drums and through chants, body percussion, and dance. This workshop is for dancers, percussionists, musicians, and anyone who wants to speak the language of the drums. Drummers can experience the dance and dancers can experience the drums. Bring a drum if you have one.

Please note: This has always been a popular workshop, with lots of people drumming and dancing in a small area. The energy runs high—be prepared for a crowded, exuberant atmosphere. $380

Awakened Mind: Five-Day Brainwave Training Intensive

Anna Wise

The Awakened Mind is a state of consciousness that releases deep inner resources, capacities, and powers that often lie dormant and inaccessible. This workshop will help you develop the intricate combinations of brainwave frequencies that underlie optimum mental states. Biofeedback monitoring, combined with different methods of meditation, visualization, “sensualization,” and deep psychophysiological relaxation, will help you learn how to master your own brainwaves.

The workshop will present methods for accessing repressed memories and creating a bridge between your conscious and your
The workshop aims to help people explore their own individual processes of healing. All participants will have the chance to explore their own experiences and let go of these defenses and create new ways to relate—in the moment—to ourselves, our work, and those we love.

The workshop includes periods of intense bodywork for those who want to let go of past anger, fear, and pain, which are reflected in the body as armor and tension. As armor softens, feelings held in since childhood can be released, and positive feelings can be experienced more fully. By also using dreamwork, massage, dance, and group process, a new capacity for loving can emerge.

This workshop may have up to thirty participants. $740

---

Weekend of March 1-3

Language of the Drums: Intermediate Level

Batbundle Olatunjì

This workshop is designed for those who would like to further explore the polyrhythmic aspect of African music. It will include exploring varying combinations of rhythmic patterns, the ability to play rhythmic patterns on two drums, rhythmic exercises to develop stamina and dexterity of the hands and fingers, and the use of sticks in playing. Participants will also be introduced to different styles of playing the agogo (cow bell), shekere (African maracas), and body percussion.

There will be time devoted to discussion of the healing power of the drum through history. The group will learn how to meditate with drumming and chanting. No special dancing is involved except for occasional movements conducted by the leader.

Please note: This class is open to those who have taken at least two full workshops with Babarunde Olatunji or a professional percussionist.

Things to bring: one or two drums, congas, djembes, or ashidos; shekere (African maracas); agogo (cow bell); and djun-jun (not required). $380

---

Letting Go—Moving On

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

Beliefs, fears, and emotions from the past can continue into present relationships and interfere with spontaneous feelings of trust, love, and joy. The goal of this workshop is to experience and let go of these defenses and create new ways to relate—in the moment—to ourselves, our work, and those we love.

The workshop includes periods of intense bodywork for those who want to let go of past anger, fear, and pain, which are reflected in the body as armor and tension. As armor softens, feelings held in since childhood can be released, and positive feelings can be experienced more fully. By also using dreamwork, massage, dance, and group process, a new capacity for loving can emerge.

This workshop may have up to thirty participants. $740

---

Dream that Quickens Your Spirit

Joseph Campbell

Joseph Campbell regularly referred people to Jungian psychology, Gestalt therapy, ancient spiritual disciplines, and modern clinical practice—you will be led through a sequence of experiences designed to transform personal myths that are limiting you and cultivate personal myths that support your most highly valued potentials.

Joseph Campbell regularly referred people to the leaders' workshops. Said a prominent reviewer of their book: "Neither Carl Jung nor Joseph Campbell showed us how to use myth for personal and societal growth. Feinstein and Krippner begin to answer that question."

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. $380

---

Mastering the Competitive Mind

Jena Marcovici

In athletics, as well as in our professional lives, what has come to matter most is the "score." Challenges are about winning at any expense. Lost is the joy of just playing or finding meaning in what you do.

Jena Marcovici is a sports psychotherapist who has worked with world-class tennis players and understands what the pressures of competition can do to the psyche. He is experienced at helping people let go of conditioned patterns that sabotage the joy and effort of playing a sport, or of succeeding in a particular aspect of life.

Jena writes: "The more you relax, the better you play. It's the law of 'reversed effort.' By combining the original concept of 'competition'—its Latin root means 'to seek together'—with the joy of your organic rhythms, you can liberate yourself from the fight-or-flight mind-set that envisions the person on the other side as the enemy. The result is a more balanced perspective that expresses power with as opposed to power over."

Yoga, Tai Chi, visual imagery, and discussion will be used. Whether you are a serious athlete, a would-be athlete, or someone seeking to master your "competitive mind," this workshop can help you redefine, on a very personal level, what winning means.

Please bring a tennis racquet (if you have one), running shoes, and loose, comfortable clothes.

$380

'Tis a Gift to be Simple
David Schiffman

This weekend is intended as a gift for people who would like to return to the simplicity of the values we treasure most. Its aim is to create a climate of mutual support and encouragement for exploring how we can best cultivate the spirit of real generosity and faith in dealing with ourselves and others.

This timely gift will embrace the following elements:

- Sanctuary—the opportunity to step away and pause, to create a mood of peace and personal clearing without haste or interruption
- The company of kindred spirits—a chance to be met with honesty, empathy, and wisdom in an atmosphere of soulful, clear-eyed support
- The emotional freedom to be—the right to let down and be sad or mad in order to clear the air and move on, making room in our hearts for new possibilities
- The right to feel free and alive in our bodies—the use of innovative ways of moving and touching in order to restore the vitality of feeling truly alive and physically at ease

The approaches utilized will be drawn from a wide variety of practices, both traditional and nontraditional, all aimed at restoring our gratitude and appreciation for being alive. $380

Baking Bread at the Big House
Robin Burnside & Dennis Marriott

How would Grandma’s breads taste with amaranth, quinoa, kamut, or spelt? What is the irresistible magnetism that draws hundreds of otherwise purposeful Esalen visitors to spend long hours hanging around the lodge breadbaskets?

Find out during a flour-dusted weekend of fun in Esalen’s Big House. You’ll learn to combine ancient ingredients, familiar grains, traditional methods, and new ideas—making quick breads, yeasted breads, sourdoughs, round loaves, flat breads, braids, and rolls. Explore and devour!

No prior baking experience is required—just a need to knead... and knead... and knead...

$380

Week of March 3-8

The Heart of the Shaman
Richard Yensen Pérez-Venero & Donna Dryer Pérez-Venero

"The shamanic awakening" write the leaders, "is a mythic and poetic spiritual journey of initiation. In this work we learn to honor our innermost wounding experiences and use them as a portal into the spirit world. The journey of death and rebirth awakens our capacity to be compassionate and loving.

“A circle of trust developed through ritual will carry us through the crack between the worlds. Both ancient and modern practices will be used to enter shamanic trance, experience deep catharsis, and find the path with heart.”

Come prepared to use this shamanic environment as a sacred vessel for deep personal exploration and spiritual growth. This workshop is physically demanding, personally revealing, and includes an all-night ceremony. Because of the special nature of this work, enrollment is limited.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Working with the Enneagram Types—Part 1: The Belly Center
Helen Palmer & David Daniels

This is the first of a trilogy of groundbreaking workshops focused on the psychological and spiritual work that specifically benefits different types of people. This approach recognizes that psychological diversity calls for particular practices and inner tasks that add up to a type-specific spiritual strategy. For example: fearful people follow a path toward psychological well-being that differs from the route of those seeking to convert anger and aggression. Likewise, a spiritual practice that cuts through fear may not be transformative for people who are less afraid.

This first workshop concentrates on the body-based practices that contain and transform emotional energies that are usually expressed through the narrow bias of type. The format is highly interactive, using panels and group exercises to identify the cues, tasks, interventions, and appropriate body-based spiritual practices for each of the nine Enneagram personalities.

For more information, see Special Programs, page 58.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.

A Potter’s View of the Universe: Big Sur Clay
Noel Mapstead & Keiko Suga

This unique pottery workshop is an alchemical blend of four basic elements: Earth, Water, Fire, and Fun. Imagine yourself engrossed in:
- Primordial Big Sur clay oozing between your fingers
- Pottery making on a Pacific beach
- Nights around fires of glowing cow dung, seaweed, and clay
- Making beads in the dark of a Native American sweat lodge
- Slathering your body in wet clay and bathing in Esalen's hot springs

Starting with ostensibly valueless natural materials, participants will learn to fashion valuable objects within a group setting designed to cultivate creative experimentation, human transformation, and environmental awareness. The group will be taught to identify, gather, and prepare naturally occurring clays; to use hand-building pottery methods; and to work with traditional firing techniques, skills which can all be used anywhere on earth.

No previous experience is required. This workshop is an enjoyable and total immersion into the potter's world and a chance to identify, gather, and prepare naturally occurring clays; to use hand-building pottery methods; and to work with traditional firing techniques, skills which can all be used anywhere on earth.

Couples Workshop
Jack Rosenberg & Beverly Kitaen Morse

Most couples are reluctant to seek help in their relationships. Instead they wait, hoping that the relationship will improve. If couples approached medical help the same way they approach marriage counseling, many of them would visit the doctor when they ought to be lining up at the mortician.

Designed on a preventive model, this workshop will deal with the underlying structures and defenses in relationships before they surface as terminal problems. It will also examine attitudes and beliefs about sexuality and how to make sex better.

Recommended reading: Rosenberg, Total Orgasm and Body, Self, and Soul: Sustaining Integration.

The Upledger Institute's SomatoEmotional Release II
Susan Pinto

In this workshop, SomatoEmotional Release (SER) techniques are integrated with various creative and dialoguing methods. The emphasis is on wholeness and self-healing; the goal is a comfortable holistic mind/body approach to the resolution of problems related to client progress and growth.

The idea presented in the "something missing" might be the completion of a naturally programmed and perhaps instructive biological process that had been triggered in action. This interruption creates what might be thought of as a "frustration" of the biological process, serving as an etiologic agent for related dysfunctions which may be physiological, psychological, emotional, spiritual or any combination of these.

By blending concepts of psychosynthesis, Gestalt, and Jungian psychology with SER and CST, the therapist employs specific techniques to help clients increase awareness of the "inner self". Class exercises are designed to strengthen the relationship between the conscious and the unconscious mind in order to increase self-awareness.

Upledger Institute SomatoEmotional Release II is a prerequisite.

For further information see Special Programs, page 58.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Accepting Life's Transitions: Letting Go—Moving On
Mary Goldenson (Devanari)

The only certainty in life is change, yet we often resist our transitions because of patterns of fear and self-denial. Old beliefs keep us stuck in our resentments, unsuccessful marriages, friendships, and careers, and can cause illness, sorrow, and the inability to forgive. Transitions are crossroads in our lives that give us the opportunity to take time out and reconnect with our truth. It is never too late to change. Transitions are doors to the renewal of our passions, courage, and commitments.

A Weekend with Terence McKenna
Terence's singular submission: "A drama of transformation—millennia-in-the-making—will come to completion in the time of our own lives. Discovery of a deep past in the history of mind, confrontation with the implications of ethno-psychedelic experiences and plants, and the persistent intuitions of a nearby and interested intelligence: these concerns, when fused with the sudden appearance of a global morphogenetic field in the form of the WWW, indicate that the pace is quickening in the countdown toward the moment when James Joyce anticipated that 'Man will be dirigible.' Come join our ongoing and humor-filled exploration of the historical concrescence of the alchemical pearl."

Reinventing Love
Robert Solomon & Heather Maycock Ogilvy

"Reinventing Love" is an interpersonal probe into the most highly valued of all passions, its promise and its disappointments. The workshop will emphasize the essential creativity of love and the need to express and "reinvent" an emotion not torn between defensive individualism and independence. The group will explore the myths of love in order to find out why love goes wrong, why we choose the wrong partners, and how to choose the right one in order for love to succeed.

Participants will examine the connection between intimacy and anger; and the fragile connection between love and dependency. Individuals will be encouraged to explore personal experience and discuss the myths and images that have contributed to our most intimate (and sometimes most dangerous) feelings. Above all, the aim will be to understand why love is so important to us and why it cannot be abandoned.

Come join our ongoing and humor-filled exploration of the historical concrescence of the alchemical pearl."

$380

$380

$3325

$740

$740

$740

$380
This workshop will present you with ways to help complete the past, be open to the present, and create a future. Participants will have a safe, supportive environment that includes taking risks, intense bodywork, gestalt imagery, dance, and meditation in order to support the transitions that keep us committed to the process of discovering ourselves.

$380

Week of March 10-15

The Subtle Art of Meditation
David Streeter
For workshop description see December 31-January 5.
C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$740

Improvisational Being
Nina Wise
Imagine feeling comfortable to dance whenever you feel like dancing, at parties, nightclubs, or simply alone in your living room. Imagine feeling able to sing whenever the impulse arises, in the car, by your child's bedside, or sitting around a dinner table with friends. Imagine feeling free to speak in a different voice and become a different character, a Southern belle, a French poet, a Brooklyn teenager.

Spontaneity is a characteristic of behavior that has become limited in modern life. We have been trained to be polite, to follow the rules. We inhibit our spontaneous impulses in order to fit in, to be accepted, approved of, loved. Yet ironically, as we suppress our impulses to play, we feel more and more alienated from ourselves, our friends, family, and colleagues.

This workshop is about loosening the hold of the censoring mind that inhibits our speech and actions. It will include meditation, chanting, movement, singing, writing, drawing, and theater games. There will also be spontaneous performance with and for each other in a safe and supportive environment.

Through experimentation with improvising, we can discover that as we take the risk to express who we are in playful and creative ways, we feel a sense of ease and belonging that previously has eluded us.

$740

My Emerging Myth
Paul Rebillot & Audrey Savage
In Mind and Nature, Gregory Bateson tells the story of a man who asked his computer, "Do you compute that you will ever think like a human being?" The machine did its work, analyzing. Bateson says, "its own computational habits," then printed the following answer: THAT REMINDS ME OF A STORY. "Thinking in terms of stories," Bateson concludes, "must be shared by all mind or minds, whether ours or those of redwood forests and sea anemones.... The evolutionary process... must be the stuff of stories."

Paul Rebillot adds: "In this workshop, we will discover our own evolutionary path by developing our stories from personal biography to fable to myth. The theme will be set by telling our stories in fairy tale form: 'Once upon a time...' Then, going out into nature, we will write a fable about the creatures we meet there. From these, we will seek the ruling archetype in each of our histories, creating through drama and dance, costumes and masks, our own personal myth.

"To discover our personal myth is to find both the themes in our life story and the resources available to deal with the issues that confront us in our day-to-day lives. We will do gestalt work with the elements of our myth to find out how it applies to our individual life process. By discovering our own 'mythic character,' we can access new goals for the future and new strength to attain them."

$740

Moving Through Idealization and Shame to Love: A Workshop for Gay Men
David Hawkins
David Hawkins writes: "Men who are homosexual (or bisexual) live in a bicultural world. Our personalities are shaped by the expectations and values of the culture into which we were born and those of the culture we may choose to join. In each culture certain aspects of our humanity are idealized while other aspects are shamed. Our lives and our options are limited or supported by the strategies we have developed to respond to idealization and shame.

"Each of us achieves a unique balance of adaptation/individuation, confrontation/capitulation, hiddenness/openness, coming out/passing. Since no lifestyle is inherently more honorable than another, each must be evaluated as to its costs and benefits to each individual's current developmental needs."

$740

Weekend of March 15-17

Present at the Creation: Reawakening the Artist Within
Esalen Arts Center Staff
For workshop description see February 11-16.

$380

Taking Responsibility: Pathway to Personal Power
Nathaniel & Devers Branden
Just about everyone pays lip service to self-responsibility, but very few people have thought through what it means if applied consistently to all the key areas of life, from the most intimately personal to the cultural and political. In this workshop which blends theory and practice, conversation and experiential exercises, Nathaniel and Devers Branden will lead an exploration of the deeper meanings of self-responsibility. Participants will have an opportunity to examine and compare the areas of life where they already function self-responsibly with the areas where they do not—and confront what stands in the way.

A central theme of the Brandens' work is that self-responsibility is not an onerous duty but a source of liberation and power. "In the past," Nathaniel Branden writes, "I dealt with self-responsibility exclusively from the perspective of its importance to self-esteem. Here the focus is wider. We want to show how central the practice is to success in love, work, child-rearing, personal development—why it is an essential of healthy spiritual evolution—and why it is a social imperative if we are to have a world that works?"

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.
C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.

$380
The Zen of the Therapist: New Integrations
Stuart Twemlow & Ron Alexander

This workshop will introduce a comprehensive training program for psychotherapists using intensive group work, didactic discussions, supervision of therapist/client dyads, and clinical demonstrations. Emphasis will be on:

- The mind-set of the therapist—developing skills of attention, perception, and self-observation; examining the assumptions and values of the therapist as they impact on the process, especially regarding what is healthy, what is real, and how change occurs
- The role of the therapist's body as an instrument of therapeutic perception—training the body to become more effectively integrated with mind and spirit
- Improving intervention skills relating to: mirroring and pacing; handling resistance and grounding the therapist's anxieties; facilitation of the unconscious healing process through metaphor, trance, and guided imagery
- Tracking transference and counter-transference issues using more finely tuned self-observation skills

This training weekend will draw from Zen, martial arts, psychodynamic theory, Ericksonian hypnotherapy, and Gestalt therapy. Sessions will include process work, deep music, meditation, physical repatterning exercises, and dialogue using challenging questions.

Recommended reading: Beck, Everyday Zen; Polster & Polster, Gestalt Therapy Integrated; Stolorow, Contexts of Being.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.

Sensory Awareness
Charlotte Selver

Some seventy years ago Charlotte Selver's teacher, Elsa Gindler, began exploring the natural potential of the human being. The work that evolved was an approach through a disciplined practice involving the person as total organism. Gindler's innovative methods very often unearthed, liberated, and cultivated abilities and sensitivities which her students had never been conscious of possessing.

To "awaken" means that one's energies—neuromuscular and perceptive—become altered, leading to greater movability, both psychologically and physically, and to a fuller use of the senses and intuitive powers. For this to occur, a deeper peace is needed so that sensations become clearer and rigidities, pressures, and preconceptions can gradually dissolve. In becoming "tuned in" by another person, or by a task or given situation, powers arise and come into play which correspond exactly to the demands of the occasion. This calls for permissiveness, subtle reactiveness, and openness to the moment.

With the cultivation of these functions, our lives can unfold in a far richer and more responsive way than what we are used to. We can restore the delight of ever new experiencing which was our birthright in childhood, but lost in the course of our education into adulthood.

Recommended reading: Brooks, Sensory Awareness.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Emotional Healing: From Codependence to Aliveness
Terry Hunt & Miriam Kahn

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 58.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Yoga for the '90s
Deborah Anne Medow

Today, more than ever before, many people are overwhelmed by the stresses and tensions that they experience in their daily lives. Yoga, the oldest science of life, utilizes body, mind, and breath to bring stress under control by revitalizing energy on physical, mental, and spiritual levels.

On the physical level, asanas (yoga postures) tone the muscles, joints, and nerves, massage the internal organs, increase circulation, and improve digestion, making the body strong, flexible, and proportionate.

On the mental and spiritual level, the regular practices of asanas and breathing methods not only cleanse the system and energize the body; they also help to calm the mind and develop an awareness of self. Meditation can then become a vehicle for focusing this awareness, allowing the spirit to flourish.

During this week, asanas, breathing exercises, integral movement, and meditation will be taught and practiced, with particular emphasis on the yoga postures (stretches). Special focus will be on assisting participants in building a solid basis for the further development of yoga practice. Yoga philosophy and theory will be presented, and a healthy diet will be discussed and encouraged.

The Practical Art of Creative Risk-Taking
David Schiffman

To make effective, creative choices, you need courage, imagination, and the willingness to know your heart and be true to the dreams that live inside it. Choosing this deeper wisdom can often involve the risk of breaking set—the choice to move against the powerful grain of old fears, habits, and the constant pressure of other people's expectations. To foster this spirit means contacting the elemental-instinctual parts of our natures, befriending rather than suppressing or denying the power and sexuality out of which initiative and enthusiasm spring.

This workshop will focus on how to develop a more adventurous, resourceful, and buoyant way of living. In an atmosphere of warmth and humor, group members will explore their capacity for mutual tenderness, respect, and honesty. Traditional psychological practices such as gestalt, bioenergetics, and psychosynthesis will be used for intensive individual work, as well as nontraditional innovative approaches in bodywork, kinesthetic retraining, music, and guided imagery.

Weekend of March 22-24

Psyche and Cosmos
Stanislav Grof & Richard Tarnas

During the ten years they worked together at Esalen, Richard Tarnas and Stanislav Grof repeatedly encountered an extraordinary correlation between specific planetary positions and a wide range of psychological states. These synchronicities not only provided invaluable insight into both the timing and the specific archetypal character of psychotherapeutic transformations, but also suggested that the relationship between the cosmos and human experience was very different from that assumed in the mechanistic worldview of conventional modern science.

In this seminar, Grof and Tarnas will present both the practical applications of this research and its larger philosophical implications, with special attention to the analysis of birth charts and transits. Specific topics will include:

- Precise descriptions of the psychological correlations observed
- Instructions for calculating and evaluating one's own transits
- A look at major present and upcoming planetary alignments
- The specific planetary correspondences with Grof's stages of birth and psychospiritual transformation
- The relevance of this work to the larger depth psychology tradition (psychoanalytic, archetypal, transpersonal)

Though useful, prior background in astrology is not necessary. Participants should bring a copy of their birth chart.

Recommended reading: the epilogue to Tarnas's The Passion of the Western Mind; any book by Grof.

Week of March 24-29

A Mythological Toolbox: Envisioning and Embodying the Myths We Live By
The Joseph Campbell Foundation

Our outward-oriented consciousness, addressed to the demands of the day, may lose touch with the inward forces; and the myths are the means to bring us back in touch. They are telling us in picture language of powers of the psyche to be recognized and integrated in our lives, powers that have been common to the human spirit forever, and which represent that wisdom of the species by which we have weathered the millennia.

—JOSEPH CAMPBELL, MYTHS TO LIVE BY

How do you come to know the myths that have shaped your life? What "powers of the psyche" are awaiting your recognition? Can you envision them, embody them, integrate them into your life story? Will doing so add to our species' wisdom as we move toward a new millennium?

Each spring Joseph Campbell, the master mythologist, gathered with his friends at Esalen to explore such questions. Their annual inquiries into the outer reaches of inner space became a tradition that continues.

Coordinator Bob Walter, Foundation director and Campbell's longtime editor, writes: "In this year's eclectic exploration we will employ an array of tools from the mythological toolbox: we will dance and discuss, play games, sing songs, tell stories, make music and art, watch films, and dream. Individual, small group, and collective activities will provide opportunities for both reflection and expression."

Joining Bob Walter will be Tai Ji dancer/Campbell collaborator Chungliang "Al" Huang, award-winning author and artist Gerald McDermott, word-weaver and song-spinner Rebecca Armstrong, and filmmaker/poet Keith Cunningham.

For suggested readings and further information, contact the Joseph Campbell Foundation at 1-800-330 MYTH.

Healing from Trauma: A Bodywork Intensive
Carolyn Braddock & Christian Hendricks

"Someday the body will present its bill, for it is as incorruptible as a child who, still whole in spirit, will accept no compromises or excuses, and it will not stop tormenting us until we stop evading the truth."

—Alice Miller, Thou Shalt Not Be Aware

The body remembers because the body is the scene of the crime. This memory is expressed directly through body voices—how a person breathes, speaks, and moves. Listening to these body voices can facilitate healing.

When a bodyworker places hands on a trauma survivor, memories may flood in and body sensations be blocked, resulting in rigid holding and movement patterns. Releasing these patterns allows the body to unravel and expand, freeing the individual.

This workshop will focus on working with post-traumatic stress (particularly in sexual trauma survivors). It will present an understanding of victimization and offer strategies for the different embodiments of trauma, strategies which do not revictimize the survivor. The instruction is designed to heighten sensitivity to the psychological and physiological manifestations of post-traumatic stress—dissociation, flashbacks, energy blocks, and breath patterns. Emphasis will be placed on establishing trust and choice in the client/practitioner relationship. There will be a presentation of martial arts techniques that can help survivors move through difficult, intense feelings.

This week will be primarily experiential, with hands-on practice, extensive video analysis, and case studies. It is designed for bodywork-ethical professionals, and anyone interested in learning specific body-oriented intervention techniques.

Please note: This workshop is applicable for Braddock Body Process® Training hours for certification.

C.E. is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

The Road Best Traveled: Reinspiring Life Purpose and Direction
Mel Bucholtz

"The road best traveled is the one that reflects the best of us," writes Mel Bucholtz. "This seminar is a way station, where we meet to look at how we have come the distance up until now, and how we've brought our natural sensibilities into life along the way. We hold these questions up to ourselves: What are my truest, simplest feelings of vitality, joy, beauty, and awe? How can I live reflecting these qualities?"

"We start by discovering our own stillness, the lens of attention used to focus on our life. From here we engage the tool recognition, using it to grasp the vital and imaginative experiences of our lives. Then we begin to practice crafting, forging our own style of expression to take hold of our inner discoveries and carry them into life-affirming action."

"In this way we can start to fulfill the twin mandates of life: first, creativity is the ultimate act of personal responsibility; and second, authentic expression is being community, not just maintaining relationships but actually being related. This leads to the practice of feeling centered, rather than being self-centered; a feeling of meeting the aliveness of others while creating vibrant, imaginative realities from within ourselves."

"The road best traveled is grounded in recognizing, and crafting, the best of us into living expression. Rediscovering our basic way of doing this creates the way ahead."

$740

A Celebration of the Body: A Self-Empowerment Weekend
Carolyn Braddock & Christian Hendricks

People usually consider walking on water or in thin air a miracle. But I think the real miracle is not to walk either on water or in thin air, but to walk on the earth.

—Thich Nhat Hanh

This workshop is designed to facilitate the integration of body, mind, and spirit into a healing journey. The material presented and practiced is for daily use, and particularly valuable for survivors of trauma (sexual and emotional trauma, physical illnesses, surgeries, body disfigurement or loss, and traumas from accidents).

Breath, sound, and selected centering and martial arts techniques will be utilized to assist participants in expressing their voice—a source of power—while encouraging release through movement. The martial arts techniques foster self-empowerment, and can help
March 31-April 7

Reweaving the Web: Hypnotic Entailments—Conversation in a New Key
Paul Lounsbury & Nancy Winston
Like the pattern that connects a story to its parts, we embody and are embedded in a continuous web of interaction. The co-creation with which we weave this web is "conversation." Whether in inner dialogue with oneself, communicating with friends and associates, or negotiating with intimate others, these conversations inform the types of outcomes and relationships our lived experience produces.

To navigate this complex webwork of messages and meanings, we become experts—experts in constructing and interpreting conversations in familiar ways. By unconditionally using this expertise to habitually maintain certain constancies in our inner narratives, we unknowingly limit our experience. These limitations are reflected not only in our constructions of who we imagine ourselves and others to be, but in the patterning of beliefs implicit in our choices and possibilities for what we can and cannot do, to whom we can and cannot relate, and how much passion and desire we do or do not feel.

In the tradition of Milton Erickson's hypnotic psychotherapy, this workshop will employ cybernetic principles and hypnotic technique to bring about spontaneous, satisfying, and novel forms of new conversation. It will focus participants to mobilize and utilize unconscious capacities to increase authenticity, embodiment, variety, and choice in a multitude of domains and dimensions of experience. Formal and informal trance inductions, group interaction, and exploration of both group and individual styles of organizing and communicating experience will be included.

Prerequisites: A sense of humor, a willingness to be a group member, a tolerance for a modicum of confusion, and an availability for learning something you don't already know in a way you haven't yet learned to learn it.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $380

Week of March 31-April 5

Painting and the Art of Perception
Margot McLean

Thinking is more interesting than knowing but less interesting than looking.

—GOETHE

What stands between you and painting what you see? What speaks to you and how do you translate it into an image? What kinds of materials do you use?

This workshop is designed to open you to new ways of seeing and painting in a relaxed, nonintimidating atmosphere. Making art requires focus but not fear. Through studio work and discussion, this workshop will try to unravel our preconceived notions of what we "think" something "should" look like, so as to reach the innate power of the image.

How we perceive plays an inestimable role in the ecology of culture and place. How may our perceptual choices affect nature so that image-making becomes a collaboration with the natural world rather than an appropriation of it?

With the Esalen grounds as visual habitat, participants will paint what it moves in them, translating the natural world into images. There will be experiments with materials and lively discussion.

This course is for anyone interested in painting and open to new ideas about perceiving the world. A list of suggested materials will be sent upon registration.

Please note: Laura Sewall's preceding workshop of March 29-31, "Re-Visioning: Landscape Perception and Love," is recommended and complementary, though not prerequisite. $740

The MAX: Stretching the Limits of Your Self-Expression
Paula Shaw

"The MAX" is an outrageous voyage through your own humanity—a journey to turn yourself inside out and explore the extent of your self-expressive power. It employs a variety of acting, observation, and communication methods designed to expand your limits "to the max" and move you into a new arena of personal creativity and self-expression.

"The MAX" is extremely challenging. Participants must commit to a rigorous exploration of the sources of their emotional limitations. Seminar hours will be longer than usual early in the week (and shorter later in

Re-Visioning: Landscape Perception and Love
Laura Sewall

The less we see, the more numbed we become to the joy and pain of being alive, and the further estranged we become from ourselves and all others. ... Meaning is lost.

—FREDERICK FRANCK

Passion and care follow from deepened awareness of that which is seen, touched, felt. However, as a result of defending ourselves against the pain of the world, we collectively suffer from minimizing our sensory and sensual selves: by numbing ourselves, we see, hear, and feel less. This workshop is devoted to a reawakening of visual awareness and to facilitating an appreciation for beauty, place, and interdependence. The workshop emphasizes the practice of learning to perceive both visible relationships and those between ourselves and nature that might be characterized as "of the soul."

This weekend's practice together includes a series of visual and perceptual exercises designed to alter habitual ways of seeing. The workshop is directed toward those in search of deeper sensory experience and the power and poignancy of being connected to place. It is especially appropriate for painters and others involved in the visual arts.

Please note: Although not prerequisite, this workshop is an excellent introduction and companion to Margot McLean's "Painting and the Art of Perception," March 31-April 5.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $380
Participants will work individually in front of the room, playing to and with other group members. There will be exercises that use raw emotion, role-playing, and "dress-up" assignments.

This workshop is an opportunity to experience yourself in a way you may have dreamed about but never imagined possible. The game is risk, the premise: You're either daring or dead—the most unsafe thing you can do in life is to play it safe. Clearly, this course is not for the faint of heart, but it is full of heart, humor, and irreverence and is constructed with the understanding that this kind of risk-taking requires a very safe workspace.

If your heart beats faster when you think of taking this workshop, then maybe it's just the thing to do. Come play!

Please note: Due to the intense and sequential nature of this workshop, attendance at all sessions is necessary.

Required: A 1-3 minute memorized piece—monologue, poem, song, etc. $740

Vision Painting
Helen Jerene Malcolm
Visionary art is an expression of the core yearning of the painter's spirit, an active meditation in which the painter allows a flow of color and images to emerge as if the painting is painting itself.

In vision painting, expression is prompted from the feeling centers, through the hand onto the paper, evoked by guided visioning, feelings, color, music, movement, and dream images. The workshop atmosphere of exploration and acceptance will help you to suspend judgment, enabling the creative impulse to play, take risks, and face fears. You can move beyond the rational mind to deeper levels of motivation and desire.

What you focus upon, conscious or unconscious, creates the life you experience. Your vision painting thus becomes a treasure map of your life where change and healing are affirmed. This is a transformative adventure, re-creating aspects of your life spiritually, professionally, and physically. It is also fun and profoundly educational.

All who wish to explore self-expression through painting, beginner or artist, are welcome. $380 (plus $20 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

Improvisational Wisdom: Finding the Robin Williams Within
Paula Shaw
The nature of creativity is elusive. Our most creative moments often seem to come from nowhere and happen when we least expect them. Einstein's theory of relativity came to him suddenly and unscientifically, and Mozart saw many of his greatest compositions complete in a single vision. At the other end of the spectrum, we marvel at the lightning-quick humor of Robin Williams, a brilliance that seems boundless. What are the conditions that put us in touch with our own creativity and brilliance, and how do we access them?

This weekend is an introduction to letting go of your programmed patterns and discovering the joy of spontaneous creation. The first premise of improvisational theater games (which Robin Williams claims unleashed him) is to "go in blank." Within the game structures, participants are coached to be receptive—stop, look, and listen; deny nothing; release control; let go of planning ahead. This process can help you to trust your own intuition, sense of humor, eloquence, and physical grace, and lets you get out of your

Weekend of April 5-7

Weekend Massage Intensive
Carl Chase (C.C.) & Laurie Schutz
Participants will be instructed in basic methods for giving a pleasurable and beneficial full-body massage. Fundamental elements of bodywork, such as breath awareness, grounding, movement, quality of touch, and stress reduction, will be introduced. This workshop is open to beginning as well as those who wish to brush up on their massage skills.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $380

Vision Painting
Helen Jerene Malcolm
Visionary art is an expression of the core yearning of the painter's spirit, an active meditation in which the painter allows a flow of color and images to emerge as if the painting is painting itself.

In vision painting, expression is prompted from the feeling centers, through the hand onto the paper, evoked by guided visioning, feelings, color, music, movement, and dream images. The workshop atmosphere of exploration and acceptance will help you to suspend judgment, enabling the creative impulse to play, take risks, and face fears. You can move beyond the rational mind to deeper levels of motivation and desire.

What you focus upon, conscious or unconscious, creates the life you experience. Your vision painting thus becomes a treasure map of your life where change and healing are affirmed. This is a transformative adventure, re-creating aspects of your life spiritually, professionally, and physically. It is also fun and profoundly educational.

All who wish to explore self-expression through painting, beginner or artist, are welcome. $380 (plus $20 materials fee paid directly to the leader)
own way to make room for exhilarating flashes of creative brilliance. The workshop is also just a lot of fun. $380

From Innocence to Wisdom: Keeping the Spirit Alive
David Schiffman

"Our aims for this weekend are simple," writes David Schiffman. "To be rooted deeply in the timeless, magical realities of the natural world. To feel the powerful, restorative, sacred rhythms of Big Sur's sea, sky, and mountains in our every breath. To rediscover the creative inner resources that resurrect our spirit: the true power of our own music, poetry, and prayer. Our shared intention for this time is to feel physically and emotionally healed, rested, and cleansed, ready to face whatever comes next in our lives.

"This workshop is intended for people who value a practical, down-to-earth approach to spirituality, change, and relationship. It is especially useful for those who would like to develop the shamanic aspects of their own instinctive and intuitive power. The weekend will be grounded in practices involving initiation and purification, combined with original inner vision work, innovative bodywork, as well as the creative use of music, movement, and ceremony. It will be a special opportunity, as well, to be met by kindred spirits who share a sincere interest in true apprenticeship to the earth." $380

Week of April 7-12

Letting Go—Moving On
Mary Goldenson (Devanani)
For workshop description see February 25-March 1. $740

Tantra: The Art of Conscious Loving
Charles Muir & Caroline Muir

Few of us have been blessed with healthy childhood conditioning and education regarding the mysteries of sexual love and sexual energy. This can leave many individuals less aware and conscious about their sexuality than they are in other aspects of their lives. Tantra can transform sex into a loving meditation, putting more consciousness, energy, intimacy, joy, and love into sexual exchanges.

Participants will learn and discuss various ways to increase intimacy and passion in their relationship. Tantric meditation and ways to exchange sexual energy in a safe, nonsexual manner will also be taught in the workshop. These methods can then be practiced in a sexual way in the privacy of your own home.

This workshop is open to couples only. $740 per participant

Making Crucial Life Choices and Major Life Changes
Michael Broder

Achieving fulfillment is a lifelong process which involves both recognizing and making many choices along the way. Taking the risks that make major life changes possible is the essence of the personal growth experience. Relationship transitions, career changes, and new lifestyle options all challenge us to choose between our comfort zones and new levels of fulfillment.

Using visualizations and meditation practices, as well as both group process and individual work, this workshop will present each participant with the opportunity to identify the next major step along his or her path. Then participants will be encouraged to explore the risks that need to be taken to overcome potential blocks to their change processes. This workshop is especially recommended for those who recognize themselves as living in a comfortable state of discomfort with respect to one or more important aspects of life, for anyone in the process of transition, and for those who can use some sharpening of their risk-taking skills.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. This workshop is approved by the American Psychological Association for 26 Category I C.E.Us for psychologists. $740

Awakening Vision through Conscious Photography
Jeff Berner

Here was room enough for the imagination to work. —Mark Twain

Whether you are starting out in photography or are an advanced beginner, explore nature, people, and wildlife through the "mirror with a memory." This workshop will show you how to follow the path of photography as a meditation, a hobby, and an art. Without technical jargon, you can learn how to make your camera serve your personal vision.

Author of five books in the field, Jeff Berner can help each individual discover his or her talent, providing a continuous flow of "Aha!" experiences with an informal, spontaneous teaching style. Turn looking into really seeing—and snapshotting into fine photography.

Easy-going projects will include: The Psychology of Lenses, The Selective Eye, Looking at Seeing, A Still Life is Still Life, The Click that “Kills,” Creative Accidents, Visual Meditation, and Uses of Color. There will be creative critiques of each participant's work. The group will shoot and talk by day, and show and tell by night. There will be non-strenuous photo safaris, including a morning at Pfeiffer Beach. The final evening will feature a group celebration of the projected results in a multimedia show.

The workshop will emphasize the use of color slide film, so that participants can see their day's work projected on an eight-foot-wide screen each evening. What is taught is fully applicable to all future photography, both print and slide. Bring at least 5 rolls of 36-exposure Fujichrome and/or Ektachrome slide film, rated ISO 100 or 200, plus $8 per roll for overnight processing. Any working 35mm SLR camera will be adequate; recent Pentax, Minolta, Canon, and Nikon models are recommended.

You can call Jeff Berner to discuss the workshop at 707-878-2000, weekdays, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Pacific Time. $740

Weekend of April 12-14

Relationship as a Spiritual Path
Harville Hendrix & Helen Hunt

Until the 18th century, generally, marriage was an economic and social contract arranged by parents. Although it existed under moral constraints, it had no psychological or spiritual value to the married partners. With the establishment of democracy and the attendant freedom to choose one's destiny, including one's marital partner, marriage became a means of psychological wholeness and spiritual evolution, joining religion and psychotherapy as a transformational modality. Freed from the constraints of authority but hampered by the absolutizing of individualism, the transcendent potential in marriage is just becoming conscious in our culture.

This workshop will interpret the romantic impulse that leads to marriage-by-choice as a unique creation of Nature in the service of its self-repair and self-completion. Conscious cooperation with the unique unconscious forces that create the marital dyad leads to an altered state of awareness, personal and social transformation, and restoration to an experience of essential Oneness. The workshop will include lectures, experiential processes, writing exercises, and guided imagery to help participants understand and participate in the process of personal and spiritual evolution through committed love.

623

Please note: This workshop has regularly drawn a very large enrollment. $380

How Successful People Succeed
Robert Maurer

Psychology has traditionally studied individuals, couples, and organizations in difficulty, and most theories and therapies are based on the work with these groups. But from the time of Freud, the problem-oriented focus on human behavior has limited the usefulness of psychology in daily life. Only recently has the direction of research turned to looking at success in individuals, in couples, and in organizations.

Research has found consistent traits that successful people have in common. Recent experiments challenge much of our current thinking on how to create healthy bodies, relationships, and work settings. This workshop will use extensive audiovisual presentations of the surprising findings on success.

The topics will include:

• Four traits successful people share
• How successful people change
• Is stress in the eye of the beholder? How successful people cope with adversity
• The essential skill to look for in a romantic partner

Skills for enhancing success will be demonstrated and practical tools will be provided.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. $380

Week of April 14-19

The Way of Wilderness
Steven Harper

You didn’t come into this world. You came out of it, like a wave from the ocean. You are not a stranger here.

— Alan Watts

Ever since the supposed “primordial soup,” nature has been our teacher. We were born of this earth and throughout recorded time people have turned to wilderness to awaken and become whole again. With wild nature as the primary teacher, participants will explore the ways of wilderness, discovering as “civilized” twentieth-century humans what it means to walk this ancient path that uncovers our relationship to nature and to ourselves. Charles Darwin wrote, “From so simple a beginning endless forms most beautiful and most wonderful have been, and are being evolved.” Perhaps through direct experience of nature we can continue this “most beautiful and most wonderful” evolution consciously—as nature aware of itself.

This workshop will include movement awareness exercises, meditation, and extended day-hikes (3-10 miles long) into the Big Sur backcountry. Most sessions will be outdoors, with a return to Esalen each evening. Special attention will be given to incorporating into everyday life what is learned from the wilds. Previous wilderness experience is not necessary, although participants should be prepared for some vigorous physical activity.

Soul Dramas: Past-Life Regression and Spiritual Healing for (Helping) Professionals
Roger Woolger

“Soul dramas are the daily emotional patterns, roles, and scripts we get stuck in and habitually act out,” writes Roger Woolger. “Some believe that although the soul first staged its dramas around childhood trauma, it had already rehearsed them in utero and had written them long ago from the ancient store of past-life melodramas we all carry.”

Soul dramas can be tragic, pathetic, humorous, or banal, and when left unrecognized can cause anxiety, depression and rage, or a deep sense of dissatisfaction or alienation. Roger Woolger’s unique method of releasing and transforming these compulsive dramas involves regression to buried memories and past lives, as well as profound after-death encounters in the spirit realms called “bardos” by Tibetan Buddhists. Participants will be taught simple methods for body release, healing catharsis, and the reintegration of lost parts of the soul.

Experienced in psychotherapy and bodywork (Jung, Reich, and Gestalt), Woolger helps bring people through deep transformative experiences with compassion, creating an atmosphere that is safe and contained. He also illuminates the broader spiritual picture, everything from Sufism to Western mysticism to Shakespeare—teaching with humor through poetry, music, story, and meditation.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

T’ai Chi Ch’uan: An East/West Approach
Kenn Chase

This seminar will present a demonstration form of T’ai Chi Ch’uan, a shortened version derived from the fifty-four balanced, fluid, and graceful postures of the classical Yang style. Kenn Chase teaches an integral method, utilizing Feldenkrais Awareness Through Movement™ exercises, sensory awareness, and Chi Kung. These methods aid the participant in learning through ease and relaxation. Practiced five to ten minutes daily, this gentle martial art can calm the mind and provide the student with a centered perspective for daily living in a busy world.

Recommended reading: Cheng Man Ch’in, Cheng Ts’ui’s Thirteen Treatises on T’ai Chi Ch’uan. $740

Spiritual Healing: Laying-on-of-Hands
Maria Lucia Sauer Holloman

This workshop will present practical methods for using the hands as instruments of physical and spiritual healing. This energy practice is one that incorporates both hands-on and energetic work, using the power of natural forces for healing. The emphasis will be on intentionality and personal clarity as fundamental tools in any healing art.

“Intentionality moves energy,” says Maria Lucia, “and it is through this focus that you can learn to take responsibility for your own thoughts and actions.”

Born into a family of healers with a generations-old tradition, Maria Lucia studied with healers in her native Brazil, where spirituality—receiving healing knowledge from the spirit world—is a practice familiar to much of the population. Having also lived and studied at Esalen for nine years, she applies both Brazilian and North American approaches to healing.

Participants will be shown how to apply and refine this practice, and can experience the personal benefits that come from receiving this work. The workshop is designed for bodyworkers, therapists, health professionals, and anyone interested in working with energy and people's bodies.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$740

The Path of Transformation through Meditation

Daniel Brown

This workshop is designed both for beginners wishing to establish a solid foundation in meditation and for experienced meditators wishing to refine their practice. Participants will explore how the path of meditation unfolds from the very beginnings of practice to the stages of enlightenment. The workshop will be practice-oriented, presenting a wide range of meditations in order to determine the best match for each individual. The fundamentals of both concentration and awareness styles of meditation will be stressed. Emphasis will be on establishing a sound basis in posture and mental stabilization.

Meditation is not just a means to sit quietly. Its purpose is to gain fundamental insight into self, reality, and time. A form of standard insight meditation will be taught, as well as some of the more subtle "quick path" instructions, such as meditating on the movements of the mind and "awareness of awareness" meditations. Specialized meditations for transforming bodily states, affect, and thought will also be presented.

Daniel Brown draws upon twenty-five years of meditation practice in various Eastern traditions, ten years of translating meditation texts from Sanskrit and Tibetan, and ten years of scientific research on meditative states.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$740

Holoenergetics: The Art and Science of Conscious Healing

Leonard Laskow

Leonard Laskow is a Stanford-trained OB-GYN who coined the term holoenergetic healing, "healing with the energy of the whole." In this experiential workshop Dr. Laskow will introduce the art and science of "energy healing," present current research, and integrate the advances of medical science with the unifying power of a loving consciousness to heal and transform oneself.

Holoenergetics uses coherent heart-focused energy, consciously directed through attention, intention, imagery, breath, and hands to facilitate the inherent healing response of body and mind. Workshop participants can learn to:

- Establish a healing presence in alignment with their spiritual essence
- Activate and direct the body's immune system to help transform illness into wellness
- Recognize, understand, release, and reform energy patterns that are sources of illness
- Employ healing practices based on resonant energy transfer, intention, insight, imagery, forgiveness, and love
- Augment and transfer healing energy with breath
- Detect and measure subtle energies

In this workshop, theory will be integrated with practice so that participants can immediately begin using their inherent healing ability and new skills for personal transformation and to help others.

Please note: Dr. Laskow will be available for limited private consultations during the weekend. To schedule a time in advance, please call 415-381-5000.

Recommended reading: Laskow, Healing with Love.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.

$380

Forgiveness: The Key to Intimacy

Mary Goldenson (Devanani)

For workshop description see February 2-4.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.

$380

Weekend of April 19-21

The Healing Power of the Dream

Joyce Frazee

This seminar will reveal how simple approaches to the art and artfulness of dreams can reveal the healing power of the dream.

Joyce Frazee writes: "Most of us forget our dreams and so are unable to receive the gift of healing the dream has to offer. When we do remember we wonder, Who are these strangers and acquaintances, friends and lovers who come to visit us at night—often bizarrely different from their daytime roles? Who are these monsters and attackers?

This weekend workshop will focus on techniques for remembering and working with dreams, including how to use dreamwork for therapeutic intervention and how to use dreams to recover body memories. Storytelling, role-playing, drawing, dancing, meditation, and gestalt will also be used to learn how the dream itself—and the understanding of the dream—can be the healer.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.

$380

A Workshop for Couples

Daniel Brown & Marushka Glissen

This is a workshop for couples who want to improve their communication skills and increase their understanding of each other. It will teach ways to resolve conflict and practical methods for becoming both self-assertive and self-transcending in a partnership. Some of the work will address how family of origin and past conditioning contribute to the bonding as well as to the conflicts. Time will also be devoted to learning how to find satisfaction, mutual support, relaxation, solitude, and play in day-to-day living as partners. The overall emphasis will be on helping couples to discover the wider purpose of being together through a sharing of values, love, and, perhaps, a spiritual vision.

$380 per participant

Writing for Your Life

Deena Metzger

Each person’s life is a story. Perceiving our life as story and learning to tell it are parts of the creative process. Writing allows us to abandon ourselves to the realm of the imagination, trusting that within it we act in the best interest of the Self. The simple willingness to explore story asserts the reality of the individual. The creative process of discovering and telling our story—a story that possesses us unmercifully and yet, paradoxically, which we create and re-create—becomes part of the way we construct our lives.

Participants will be guided through a series of exercises to open the doors of the imagination and lead them to the discovery of their own quintessentially unique story. To find this story is to create meaning, knowing that it heals us as it makes us whole.

This workshop is for writers and non-writers alike, artists, therapists, and anyone seeking a creative inner connection.

$380

Week of April 21-26

Group Process Training

Howard Schechter & Barbara Lee

Learn your techniques well and be prepared to let them go when you touch the human soul.

— CARL JUNG

This is a workshop for people fascinated with the power of skillfully guided groups. It offers participants the personal value of deep group process along with the skills necessary to become an effective group leader. Participants will learn how to use the unfolding moment-to-moment material in the group as the primary tool to foster individual awareness, facilitate healing and growth, and help the group become a rich environment for individual development.

Three levels of facilitation techniques will be presented: personal, interpersonal, and systemic. Participants will be taught how to cultivate individual growth within the group context, use interpersonal conflict and cooperation to deepen relationships, and use group signals and promote whole-system health. The methodologies will be an integration of gestalt practice, psychosynthesis, focusing, Process Oriented Psychology, Authentic Movement, art therapy, the Diamond Approach, and the circle techniques of native peoples.

The key to being an effective leader is to discover, identify with, and honor the sacred essence in the other members of the group—beyond the issues arising out of more superficial personality dynamics. Practicing this, while processing whatever phenomena emerge in the moment, allows a leader to guide groups toward a powerfully moving, positive, and growthful experience.

$740

Golf in the Kingdom: An Exploration of the Inner Game

Stephen Cohen, Fred Shoemaker & Brian Bergstrom

You’ll come away from the links with a new hold on life, that is certain if ye play the game with all your heart.

— MICHAEL MURPHY (AS SHIVAS IRONS), Golf in the Kingdom

The game of golf provides many opportunities to enhance the journey of self-discovery. It can be experienced not only as an athletic endeavor, but also as a metaphor for the way one lives. Just as in life, issues of self-confidence, fear, trust, discipline, and awareness emerge in the conflict between the ego’s desire for success and the inner self’s ability to achieve.

During these five days, teaching methods gleaned from a study of the inner game will be utilized, as well as principles from psychosynthesis and gestalt, to explore the inner self and how one interferes with its emergence. Two days will be spent on field trips to the Monterey Peninsula where participants will practice and play in some of the most beautiful golf country in the world. On other days there will be time to relax and enjoy the natural pleasures of Esalen and Big Sur.

Recommended reading: Murphy, Golf in the Kingdom; Gallwey, The Inner Game of Golf.

$740

(plus greens fees paid directly to the leader)

Courage

Joyce Frazee

In the mouth of the dragon there are many jewels.

— BUDDHIST PROVERB

For some of us it takes courage just to live our daily lives. Every day we awaken to face the demons in our lives—demons that come in many forms: perfectionism, guilt, avoidance, shame, despair, failure. Time passes and we become skillful at living despite the constant awareness that these demons are preventing us from experiencing the fullness of life. Their existence drains our energy and limits our joy and freedom. But getting close to them, allowing ourselves to confront them, is very difficult to do.

This week will provide an opportunity to find the courage to face our demons. Participants will be encouraged to look at the things in their lives that are difficult to face and will be given support to help recognize and confront them. This will be done through gestalt practice, dreamwork, and bioenergetics. Drawing, dance, and meditation may also be used to recover the jewels from the dragon.

Chakra Integration: A Complete Approach to Health and Healing

Laurie Lioness Parizek & The Esalen Teaching Staff

The chakra system is a complete and effective way to map, understand, and balance our physical, emotional, and spiritual energies.

$740

PER PARTICIPANT
The chakras are vital, life-enhancing energy centers that have their roots deep in our core. Backed up by nerve plexuses and endocrine glands, they open into the energy field and are a complete three-dimensional system of the body. When integrated, they refine the mainstream current in the central nervous system and balance all the major systems of the body. They are also useful in addressing and healing old restrictive behavior patterns.

This workshop will incorporate movement, sound, awareness exercises, and supportive hands-on work to balance the chakras and mainstream spinal current, and to gently and consciously open this channel that connects heaven and earth through our bodies. The workshop will integrate personal and interactive healing work with gentle energetic touch and associated hands-on skills. Meditation will be used to encourage serenity and a deeper personal understanding of the chakras.

The workshop is designed for those interested in developing a working knowledge of this ancient time-tested way of healing, and is useful for those in the fields of health care and education. Please bring warm clothing and your favorite music or instrument.

Recommended reading: Judith, Wheels of Life; Haas, Staying Healthy with the Seasons; Brennan, Hands of Light.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Awakening From Trauma:
Healing Body Image and Sexuality
Carolyn Braddock & Paula Murphy

This workshop is for women and men who have experienced bodily trauma, including sexual and emotional trauma, surgeries and physical illnesses, and disfigurement or loss from accidents. It is also designed for professionals, friends, and others who work with those who have experienced such trauma.

The focus will be on establishing a new relationship with ourselves, our bodies, and our sexuality, both internally and externally. This means releasing messages which have kept us stuck in old patterns, freeing ourselves, and creating new patterns.

Each body will be honored as sacred as participants will be taught to listen to the wisdom of their bodies. New positive approaches will be developed toward awareness, change, and health. In a safe and trusting environment, participants will explore ways of creating more energy, intimacy, and passion.

Group process, breath, sound, movement, humor, gestalt, imagery, journal work, body dialogue, and video will all be used. In an atmosphere of curiosity and interest, the goal will be empowerment and the integration of body, mind, and spirit.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Weekend of April 26-28

Joy is the Journey:
Hatha Yoga and More
Lilias Folan

Join Lilias Folan, host of the PBS series "Lilias, Yoga & You," for a weekend of yoga and relaxation. In her unique, compassionate teaching style, Lilias will guide participants in learning fresh ways to move, meditate, and breathe—with special focus on the art of relaxation. There will be time for stillness and time for high play. Sunday morning (weather permitting), as the sun rises, participants will gather to "Greet the Day in a Sacred Way.

Open your heart, mind, and spirit with a journey through your closest natural environment, your own body! Lilias will share her spiritual journey and practical ways to weave yoga practice into your daily life.

All levels of expertise are welcome. Please wear comfortable clothes and bare feet, and bring your own mat. Registration will be limited to 35 participants.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Harnessing the Paradoxes of High Performance
Jerry Fletcher & Kelle Oluyler

During high levels of human performance, apparently contradictory behaviors exist simultaneously. For example, sprinters run faster if they can remain relaxed while sprinting, yet most people would consider sprinting and relaxing as a contradiction in terms. The most successful entrepreneurs are not just risk-takers, but conservative risk-takers. Although being simultaneously conservative and a risk-taker seems impossible, the two together produce the best results.

We all inherently have powerful contradictory and paradoxical qualities, but most people do not know how to synthesize and reconcile them to achieve an outstanding result without compromising one or the other. Yet compromise diminishes performance. An entrepreneur at his or her best is not half conservative and half risk-taker. A sprinter at his or her best is not half relaxed and half sprinting. The highest levels are reached when the two states are fully present and merged in some way, into "conservative risk-taking" or "relaxed sprinting."

This workshop will assist individuals in identifying and embracing their apparently conflicting personal qualities to achieve outstanding results, particularly in challenging circumstances. Each participant will have the opportunity to work through a personal application.

You Don't Have to Be Good
Kim McCourt

You do not have to be good.

You do not have to walk on your knees for a hundred miles through the desert, repenting.

You only have to let the soft animal of your body love what it loves.

— Mary Oliver

By listening to our bodies we can know what is right for us, rather than what we "should" do. We knew this as children but were encouraged to ignore our inner truths and obey the critic. Always having to be "good" restricts and censors the richness of who we are. Buried beneath all the "shoulds" and "don'ts" is a true, wise self that longs for expression.

To get there, the group will play with different doorways to somatic knowing: emotional, visual, auditory, kinesthetic, olfactory, or general sensing. The intention will be to identify which doorway opens up our personal intuitive self, and then go on in.

Using movement and meditation, play and process, art and journal writing, participants will explore the indomitable aliveness beneath the censoring critic and conditioned tendencies. The focus will be: listening, accepting, and expressing what is true. The atmosphere will be nonjudgmental and light-hearted. Come and discover what feels so "good" about being "bad."

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Crazy Wisdom: A Weekend of Philosophy and Laughter
Wes "Scoop" Nisker & Paul Krassner

Seriousness is the only refuge of the shallow.

— Oscar Wilde

This is an opportunity to spend a weekend having a real good time while exploring your own sense of humor and ability to play. Through the use of improvisational theater games, writing exercises, leader presentations, and group discussion, participants can become clowns, jesters, tricksters, and fools as they examine the lighter side of their life and times.

Workshop presentations will include coyote stories, Taoist and Zen humor, the writings of Mark Twain, as well as audio and videotape excerpts from great humorists such as Charlie Chaplin, Lenny Bruce, Nichols and May, Robin Williams, and Richard Pryor.

Participants will also work in groups to develop a humorous theatrical presentation for our traditional Saturday night gathering.

You don’t have to be funny to join this workshop, simply open to the playful possibilities of the moment. At least one belly laugh is guaranteed.

Energy Kinesiology: Awakening to Abundant Energy

Donna Eden

"Each of us is a swirling universe of energy that gives life to every cell of the body, animating health, and determining our state of mind," writes Donna Eden. "The human body is designed to heal itself. The body talks with symptoms instead of words. We can talk back in the language of energies: the meridians, chakras, and the life force. We are designed to feel good. You can discover how to bring energy into an exhausted body, empower your immune system, and be more alive, healthy, and exuberant."

This is a hands-on workshop. Through muscle testing and other simple demonstrations, participants will be shown how to test for energy blockages and dysfunctions and how to move energy in themselves and others. There will be energy exercises to improve the harmony of all the body’s systems and help alleviate pain and stress.

This is a workshop for all those interested in awakening their body’s sensitivity and learning to heal with energy. $380

---

Week of April 26-May 3

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see January 19-21. $740

Continuum

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud

This workshop explores the idea that movement is something we are rather than something we do, that what we call a “body” is actually life expressing itself.

Using deep rhythms and intrinsic motion, participants can discover a sensitivity to movement at all levels—not just familiar movements, but what the leader calls the “dance of intelligent life.” Both individually and in rapport with a partner, participants will explore the subtleties of breath and tissue, the undulation of the spine, and the effect of being witnessed by others. The goal will be to experience a visceral, neuromuscular connection to all life, celebrating a richness and depth that go far beyond social or cultural connections.

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud writes: “As we enliven ourselves from the inside, our dynamic expressions in the world increase. This remarkable oscillation from intrinsic to extrinsic, this elegant movement of creativity from cell to action, this flow of life urging itself into new creative channels—this is Continuum.”

As a movement specialist at UCLA, the leader has contributed to a study demonstrating that primary movement is essential to mediating disease and aging. Her work is incorporated into the fields of physical therapy, massage, and psychoneuroimmunology. This workshop can give participants a deeper awareness of the body as a system where change, growth, and innovation are possible.

No dance or movement experience is necessary. C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

Facilitating Intuition

Nancy Rosanoff

Trusting one’s intuition is best learned in an ongoing supportive group environment. This workshop will demonstrate just how powerful intuitive knowing can become with appropriate support and guidance. Based on the principle that learning is greatly facilitated when one is responsible for sharing new skills with others, the workshop will instruct participants in how to lead their own intuition support groups. It will provide guidance and hands-on practice for those interested in both developing their own intuition and facilitating the use of intuition in others.

Using meditation, visualization, writing, drawing, sharing, discussion, and practice, this course will guide participants through a full intuition training and development program. Practical applications of intuition will include decision-making, career transitions, relationships, and life vision. Participants may also develop their own exercises to facilitate intuition and have opportunities to try them out with the group for feedback. If you would like to incorporate intuition more deeply into your life and are interested in facilitating an intuition self-help group, this workshop is for you.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740
Gender Talk: Communicating With the Opposite Sex... and Everyone Else

Mudita Nisker & Dan Clurman

If you speak English, you're using language in the same way as the opposite sex; right? Not exactly. Men and women often use language for different reasons and consequently misunderstand each other. Many men converse to determine who's in power. Women, on the other hand, talk to create intimacy.

Sooner or later, men and women have difficulties talking together. Fortunately, there are dynamic skills to handle these differences. This workshop will show you how to deal with many situations, from diagnosing and correcting what's gone wrong in a conversation to negotiation with your partner or boss. Using discussion, demonstration, and role-playing, participants will explore ways to:

- Identify assumptions men and women make when trying to satisfy their own and each other's needs
- Send clear, concise messages which invite cooperation
- Express difficult-to-share feelings and still maintain good will
- Improve listening skills even in tough situations
- Experience more delight in being with others

This work draws from cognitive psychology, critical thinking, systems theory, and gender research. The objective will be to help each individual cultivate the ability to identify communication hot spots and work them constructively. In the process, you can discover your own truth and honor the truth of others.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$740

---

Weekend of May 3-5

From the Heart of the Andes: Andean Wisdom, Indian Mysticism

Chamalu

"Modern beings have forgotten their beautiful, simple natures. The only way to live is to live fully. We must form our lives into festivals of growth and permanent creation," says Chamalu, a Bolivian Indian mystic who teaches Andean shamanism. His teachings, based on Andean cosmology, encourage individuals to live without wasting time, to work according to their dreams while having fun, and to live life with purpose.

Through presentation and experiential exercises, participants will learn about the spirituality and life of the indigenous people of the Andes, their ceremonial music and dance, and how to rediscover nature as a source of power, and how to reconnect with the plant and animal world. The workshop will end with a ceremony to heal the earth, "Magic Ecology."

Chamalu founded the Janajpacha community in Bolivia. Janajpacha is the Quechua word for paradise. His goal is to help people live this paradise in the present. Working to unite the tribe of love—Indians of All Colors—he teaches that his teachings are based on humility, service, and living life as a continuous opening of joy, learning, love, and earth healing.

$380

---

Framing the Poetic Imagination: Poetry Writing at Esalen

David Richo

Since ancient times, poetry has been associated with healing and intuitive wisdom. Poetry remains the soul's language: everyone is capable of speaking it. It has the power to render immediate feelings in compelling rhythms of the imagination.

In this workshop, Jungian active imagination exercises will be used to find personal metaphors and to visit the unopened rooms of the psyche. Participants will work with images that visualize—not words that conceptualize—to access the full spectrum of inner colors. As these images are fashioned into a poetic diction faithful to unique needs, visions, and goals, participants can come to see how their story—especially its present chapter—fits into a vaster volume of destiny. As Jung wrote: "Whoever speaks in primordial images evokes the beneficent forces... behind them."

No experience is necessary. Bring ample paper. Your journal or dream journal may be helpful as a resource. No one will be obliged to share what he/she has written, but everyone will be welcomed to do so. This will be a time of writing together, reading aloud, receiving feedback, and, most of all, following one's poet guide.

$380

---

The Sources of Growth

Seymour Carter

Many potential sources of our growth reside in our unfinished issues, the developmental processes that we have failed to recognize and assimilate because of distressing life experiences or the inability to learn about them. "Unfinished issues" refers to normal phases of development which have been bypassed or ignored. It is unfortunate but true that most families emphasize some of our attributes and ignore or discourage others. These unclaimed potential talents, tendencies, and traits are a powerful reservoir within us waiting to be tapped.

Using a primarily gestalt-oriented process, supported by the tools of family systems theory, practices of introspection, and body-oriented intervention strategies, participants can begin to discover and utilize capacities in themselves for new possibilities in their lives. Each participant's process of development will be honored, encouraged, and treated as unique.

$380

---

Intuition and the Dance of Attention

Anne Armstrong & Randy Cherner

At the still point of the turning world, Neither flesh nor fleshless; Neither from nor towards; at the still point, there the dance is, But neither arrest nor movement. And do not call it fixity. Where past and future are gathered, Neither movement from nor towards, Neither ascent nor decline. Except for the point, the still point, There would be no dance, and there is only the dance. —T.S. Eliot, The Four Quartets

Intuition is a gift that everyone possesses. It takes many forms. The foundation for intuitive practice is the process of shifting one's attention in very precise ways to lead to enhanced awareness. Anne Armstrong's intuitive opening came through the psychic intuitive process, Randy Cherner's through movement and touch.

The aim of this workshop is for participants to reclaim their intuitive powers in all areas of their lives—personal, professional, and spiritual. Group members will learn to develop their intuitive styles through meditations, sensing practices, refined touch, aikido, and Feldenkrais exercises. This workshop is unique in its attention to intuitive style in both its psychic and somatic dimensions.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$380
The language of Play is a universal language that all of us spoke fluently in childhood, and that most of us have forgotten in adulthood. But, like any lost language, the language of Playfulness comes back amazingly quickly once you take a few moments to practice, to turn off your everyday mind, and to let yourself get swept away in childlike excitement and the pleasure of membership in a supportive team.

In this workshop, participants will learn to play (and design) scores of noncompetitive games that can be used to build support and community. They will explore the “low” experience and the “me/we” dichotomy, and uncover the differences between game rules and ground rules, competition and cooperation, enjoyment and enlightenment. They will discover how to nurture grown-up, healing, loving fun, and how to turn work into play.

Come prepared to take a serious look at fun!

Recommended reading: Weinstein, Managing to Have Fun and Playfair: Everybody’s Guide to Noncompetitive Play.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $380

Expressive Painting
Leigh Hyams

Artwork comes straight through an open mind and an adventurous spirit. With it come clarity of vision, increased self-awareness, and a deepening understanding of the meaning of art in one’s life.

Without freedom one cannot respond fully to the experience of painting. Leigh Hyams’s teaching methods help students to work freely, exuberantly, and sensitively from the very first session. Participants will work from Esalen’s natural landscape, still lifes, models, dreams, myths, and memories. Informal discussions, demonstrations, and slides of art from many cultures will help expand understanding of visual language. Participants will complete portfolios of their own paintings and can discover in the process a new sense of themselves as artistic, creative human beings.

This is a workshop for people who want to revitalize their connection with art—to develop fresh eyes. No previous experience is necessary. The only prerequisites are curiosity and respect for core issues to emerge, participants are asked to forgo alcohol and other mood-altering, nonprescription drugs for these five days.

To help create an atmosphere of safety, care, and respect for core issues to emerge, participants are asked to forgo alcohol and other mood-altering, nonprescription drugs for these five days.

If you long to live beyond your past, discover your untapped strengths, and enhance your relationships, this workshop is designed for you.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. $740

Embodying Images of Health: A Somatic/Expressive Approach to Psychoneuroimmunology
Jamie McHugh & George Solomon

This workshop is an experiential and intellectual journey into the body, focusing on the embodiment of our personal and collective images as they relate to the immune system. Ordinarily, we see our immune systems as a scientific construct distant from our experience, something that cannot be sensed. In this workshop, participants can experience the immune system as tangible, alive, and available to our influence.

The workshop will explore connections between the Western medical view of the body, the Eastern archetypal perspective, and contemporary psychoneuroimmunologic (PNI) theory. A body-based expressive arts approach—movement meditations, breath/sound work, expressive dance, dialogue, drawing, and group interaction—will be used to activate the senses and tap into the creative life force. Individual and group process will help to identify, explore, and express the archetypal forces—Creator, Destroyer, and Protector—in order to understand how our internal images and beliefs affect our health and behavior. PNI theory will create a context for more fully appreciating and cognitively understanding how we can take a more active role in our own healing.

No prior PNI/dance/drawing experience is necessary.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

Healing the Heart
Julie Bowden & Richard Balaban

This workshop will be a journey into the tender part of the self that carries childhood preciousness and trauma. Feeling and integrating the pain and gifts of our past allows us to live more fully in relationship with ourselves and others, and helps us to acknowledge and nurture our inner voice. Affirming a more solid sense of self and experiencing a supportive community is a part of this work.

To help create an atmosphere of safety, care, and respect for core issues to emerge, participants are asked to forgo alcohol and other mood-altering, nonprescription drugs for these five days.

If you long to live beyond your past, discover your untapped strengths, and enhance your relationships, this workshop is designed for you.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

Giving Voice to Bear: Shamanism and Bear Medicine
Carol Proudfoot-Edgar

All cultures in the Northern Hemisphere perceive Bear as a special teacher and relative to humans. There are Bear dreamers, Bear doctors, and Bear ceremonies. These ceremonies address a process of transformation which Bear both symbolizes and teaches. The basic process is that of a wheel of existence characterized by the principle of birth, growth, death, decay, and rebirth. Bear is the guiding spirit of the theme of renewal. This workshop will focus on Bear, and Bear's power to heal, protect, and teach us about our interior worlds and our relatedness to other beings of Earth.

Writes Carol Proudfoot-Edgar: "Early in the week, I will talk about Bear mythology, ceremonies, and practices so we can share a common knowledge regarding why this work is called 'Bear Medicine power.' We will work with the spirits in nature identified with Bear Medicine—water, stones, and trees. In our shamanic journeys, we will contact our ancient ancestors who were practitioners of Bear Medicine. We will explore primary activities of hibernating, dreaming, and healing touch. We will make leather-fringed Bear masks and other objects to assist us in bringing through the Spirit of Bear. We will forage to strengthen ourselves so our activities in the months ahead are fueled by a fat soul and nourished body.'

Please bring a journal, a bandanna (to cover your eyes), and rattles (if you have them).

Please note: This workshop has a sequential structure. Each session builds on the previous one. Participants are requested to be present for all sessions. Please arrange for massages or other non-workshop activities between session breaks.

Recommended reading: Rockwell, Giving Voice to Bear; Engel, Bear.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

(plus $6 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

From the Congo to Dreamtime
Titos Sompa & Ione

Titos Sompa, master dancer, choreographer, and percussionist from the Congo and psychotherapist/author/director Ione recently collaborated on Ione's internationally acclaimed play Njinga the Queen King, which premiered at the Brooklyn Academy of Music's Next Wave Festival, and was most recently performed at New York's Lincoln Center.

Together they have created a special workshop that teaches Congolese movement and rhythms while accessing participants' deepest dream themes. A vocabulary of ancient Congolese movement will be created to assist participants in expressing the most important aspects of their inner journeys, discovered through overnight dream incubations and shamanistic journeying.

The workshop is open to all levels of experience. $380

Weekend of May 10-12

Weekend Massage Intensive
C.J. Bradbury & Char Pias

For workshop description see January 12-14.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $380
Vipassana Meditation and the Teachings of Thich Nhat Hanh
Christopher Reed

How is it possible to live with the awareness of what is happening in our society and to our world? This is an extraordinary time to be alive on Earth. Either we destroy ourselves or we awaken together to our true nature, our profound interconnectedness—our Interbeing, as Thich Nhat Hanh calls it.

For many of us there is a deep grief, for many more a nagging malaise. We are destroying our environment, our own home, and neither denial nor activism can fully address the pain and discontent of it.

The practice of Buddhism is a way of transforming old notions of self and self-interest so that we may truly live. Vipassana means "looking deeply." When we truly look we see that we are a part of life; that it is ours, that we also belong to it. We have the capacity, the right, even the obligation to respond to its call, rather than to just react out of fear, anger, loneliness, compulsivity.

This practice is an invitation to engage with life, to break down notions of separation. The workshop will include instruction in sitting and walking meditation as well as interactive exercises and dialogue.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $380

Nine Worldviews: The Enneagram at Work
Johanna Putnoi & Michael Goldberg

"I can see in the dark," boasted Nasrudin one day in the teahouse.

"If that is so, why do we see you carrying a light through the streets?"

"Only to prevent other people from colliding with me."

— IDRIES SHAH

The Enneagram is an elegant and now hugely popular approach to communication, character, and culture. Based on ancient sources (versions of the Enneagram appear in Chaucer, Dante, and HaKaballah), the Enneagram describes nine different worldviews: the ways that people think, act, feel, and, most especially, relate to one another. Each perspective has particular powers and abilities, and each generates foreseeable predicaments which, luckily, have appropriate interventions.

The Enneagram is meant to enchant: sophisticated yet exquisitely transparent, the system predicts how one style will get along with another, the nature of the difficulties they are likely to have, and the opportunities for partnership and co-creation. This workshop will explore the Enneagram as an open systems approach to management, relationships, and workteams, and will demonstrate how this insightful perspective integrates the best in current management thinking in a context that shows what works well where.

This workshop is for people who want to use the Enneagram as a practical tool. A complete introduction to the system will be presented including: videos, stories, live examples of type, and an explanation of how to determine Enneagram style. Experiential exercises will provide the sometimes startling adventure of seeing the world from the position of each of the nine.

Both beginning and experienced Enneagrammers are welcome.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $380

Yoga: The Art of Living
Ganga White & Tracey Rich

Yoga is far more than a set of physical exercises, although that alone would make it an extraordinary practice. It is, moreover, an art of living, a process of reintegration and movement into wholeness. The beauty of Yoga is that it addresses all areas of our lives. These five days will be spent cultivating physical, mental, and spiritual rejuvenation. The goal will be to assist beginners as well as experienced Yoga students in finding the tools and the inspiration for learning a lifelong practice.

Days will begin with a flowing Hatha Yoga sequence combining asana (posture), pranayama (breath control), and meditation to condition the whole person and develop strength, flexibility, and vitality. Participants will be shown how to integrate this practice into their daily lives, making it practical and accessible as well as joyful and creative. There will also be group discussion and inquiry into such topics as: the latest principles of natural diet and nutrition, aligning and restructuring the body, awakening the body's intelligence, working with the breath and subtle energies, and freeing the mind from authoritarian gurus and sacred cows. The workshop will also look at the areas of meditation, love, freedom, and death.

All levels welcome, no previous experience needed. $740

The Visionary Life: The Quest of Your Life
Robert Maurer

In the past, psychology's usefulness has traditionally been limited by its focus on people with problems. Recent studies, however, have centered on those who have succeeded in the major challenges of life, from vocation to relationships. How did they achieve and sustain success? Current research has provided surprising insights into the pursuit of success.

This program explores one of the key attributes common to all successful people: vision—the clear sense of purpose that guides and sustains actions and emotions, particularly during times of crisis. During these challenging times, people of vision and commitment are extraordinary and essential. What are the skills of the visionary and how are these skills developed and maintained? This program will not only provide the remarkable research findings but will demonstrate these qualities in filmed and live interviews.

The quest for a visionary life is a journey that each of us is capable of. The focus of this workshop will be on creating vivid dreams, discovering the path to get there, and finding the courage to travel the road.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$740

Intermediate Massage Intensive
Pamela Espinoza & Kathleen O'Shaughnessy

This workshop is directed toward individuals who have already had basic massage training and have been in practice for a while. It is for those who want to expand beyond their present edges into new territory and perhaps to add to what they are doing with specific complex areas such as the neck and low back. Part of the format will include the traditional Esalen style of long, integrative strokes and methods for deep contact with the recipient, which will then be focused down to detail. Another segment will have the flavor of a musician’s open jam session with two lead players, thus eliciting a cross-pollination of ideas and approaches from all of the participants.

Personal centering through Zen practice, breathing methods, yoga postures, and dynamic movement will be juxtaposed with the hands-on work.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$740

Weekend of May 17-19

Experiencing Esalen
Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see January 19-21.

$380

Close Yet Free: Keeping a Good Relationship Alive
Gerald Smith

How can we be open and vulnerable in order to love another person, yet at the same time free in order to continue to grow as an individual? The balance of merging and still maintaining a strong sense of self is never completely worked out, because each partner is continually changing. But this dilemma of competing needs can be dealt with in ways that will add to the aliveness in the relationship.

Much of the participants’ time during this weekend will be spent with their partners, separate from other couples. The workshop will use verbal, nonverbal, and written exercises to enhance openness, support, and affection, as well as skills to resolve differences in ways that do not produce “scar tissue.” Also, since play is an essential part of keeping a relationship alive, there will be experiences to spark the imagination and willingness to play together.

Enrollment is limited to 12 couples.

$380

per participant

The Embodied Life: Feldenkrais® Movement and Zen Meditation
Russell Delman

The embodied life refers to our natural condition when mind and body are unified. Moving beyond cliché, what does it mean to have body and mind functioning in coordination? How can the habits of both muscular tension and incessant internal chatter be worked with so that an essential unlearning and relearning can occur?

Moshe Feldenkrais created hundreds of ingenious movement experiments that allow us to rediscover the grace and ease inherent in a well-organized brain. Zen meditation offers a sophisticated, simple practice for the movement toward our “original nature.” Together these approaches help us to more fully embody life.

The group will practice Awareness Through Movement® (ATM) lessons, mindfulness meditation, and mental imagery designed to connect the learning to everyday life. This workshop is valuable for both active, mobile people and those with injuries. Beginning and experienced explorers can learn at their own level.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$380

Week of May 19-24

Soul Making
Alan Jones

Have you given up on your religious past, disowned your spiritual roots, or been crippled by a faith tradition which did not honor your experience? The soul dies and is reborn in the stories which seduce or attract it. What narrative dominates your life now and where did it come from?

The American/Western soul has been deformed by narratives of dominance and "happiness"—by a kind of psychological terrorism of impossible and unreasonable spiritual "entitlements." It has been further damaged by a flawed anthropology of a hyper-individualism turned sour. The wisdom of the soul knows that the most privileged access of spiritual power (grace) is through our greatest weakness, through what we dread. This workshop is informed by the Christian mystical tradition (both Eastern and Western)—especially the Desert Tradition, which serves as an antidote to the mean-spirited fundamentalism of the modern era.

There will be opportunities for meditative and liturgical practice, group and individual spiritual direction, and a visit to the Immaculate Heart Benedictine Monastery just south of Esalen.

Recommended reading: Jones, Soul Making; Johnston, Silent Music.

The High-Performance Mind: Awakened Mind Brainwave Training

Anna Wise

Having a high-performance mind means being able to enter at will the state of consciousness most beneficial and desirable for any given circumstance—then understanding how to use that state. Through brainwave training, this workshop will teach you how to produce the components for an awakened mind, the brainwave pattern of peak experience, optimum creativity, and high spiritual awareness. Working with both the state and the content of consciousness, you can learn to use these brainwaves to develop a high-performance mind.

The high-performance mind is clearer, sharper, quicker, and more flexible. Emotions are more available, understandable, and easier to transform. Information flows more easily between the conscious, subconscious, and unconscious levels, increasing intuition, insight, and empathy. Participants will work with using these optimum states of consciousness for self-healing, dealing with emotional issues, increasing creativity, improving relationships, and developing greater self-knowledge and awareness.

Biofeedback monitoring combined with guided meditation, visualization or "sensualization," and deep psychophysiological relaxation will help you learn how to master your own states of consciousness. The Mind Mirror EEG will be used to demonstrate brainwave patterns, and Electrical Skin Resistance Meters will be used to measure the depth of arousal and relaxation of your autonomic nervous system, illuminating the interrelationship between your body and your mind.

Recommended reading: Wise, The High-Performance Mind: Mastering Brainwaves for Insight, Healing, and Creativity.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

The Power of Growth

Seymour Carter

Everyone has unused capacities for further personal development. When these capacities are recognized and given attention, a natural force is released which, like a tide, can carry the individual to a higher level of ability and action. Fritz Perls taught how to recognize the force of avoided issues in dealing with blocked energies. When unfinished issues are confronted and assimilated, it is possible to feel potent and in charge of one's life.

In this workshop, participants will deal with these issues by examining the influence of the inner dialogue on thoughts and the nature of impasse, as well as tendencies within themseives toward psychological completion and well-being. The basis of this work is the gestalt method, supported by studies in various body disciplines, including sensory awareness, bioenergetics, and aikido. Each participant's process of development will be honored, encouraged, and treated as unique. $740

Kalarippayattu: The Yoga-Based Martial Art

Phillip Zarrilli

Kalarippayattu is Kerala, India's yoga-based martial/meditational/healing art dating from the twelfth century. A form of moving meditation to actualize single-point focus, it uses graceful, fluid, yet powerful and dynamic asana-like animal poses and exercises to awaken the subtle body within. According to a Malayalam saying, the ideal practitioner is one for whom the "body becomes all eyes."

This workshop will begin and end with the breath, combining exercises from yoga and kalarippayattu as the foundation for body/mind integration and single-point focus. Participants will be introduced to kalarippayattu practices and principles including the animal poses, leg exercises, steps, kicks, and complete full-body forms of moving meditation.

Through videotapes and discussions, participants will also learn how kalarippayattu is part of Kerala culture and performing arts—such as the internationally known kathakali dance/drama—and how it shares common principles with yoga and ayurveda.

Advanced practitioners of yoga and diverse martial arts are welcome, as well as actors, dancers, and those with no previous experience. Please wear loose, comfortable clothing.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

Weekend of May 24-26

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Steven Harper

Located on a narrow stretch of land between the Pacific Ocean and the coastal ridge of the Santa Lucia Mountains, Esalen is the trailhead to one of the world's most spectacular wilderness areas. With this natural reserve as the primary teacher, the group will walk into the Los Padres National Forest. Drawing on various traditions, this wilderness experience will help participants develop the quality of their awareness and open to the natural world.

Weeklong workshops will venture out on five hikes (4-10 miles long). Weekend workshops will take two hikes (3-6 miles long). Using Esalen as a base camp, the group will explore the different trails through the natural beauty of the Big Sur backcountry. Days will begin and end at Esalen with short stretching and sharing sessions. Each hike will begin after breakfast and conclude in time to enjoy the hot springs and dinner each evening at Esalen. Basic outdoor skills such as map reading and minimum impact concepts will be practiced. Participants will be taught enough skills to begin exploring the wilderness on their own after these outings. More information will be sent upon registration. $380

Communication and Partnership

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

Underlying all our relationships—husband, wife, lover, friend, daughter, son, mother, and father—is the need to communicate. Often we learn to express our needs through control, power struggles, addictions, dependency, guilt, denial, and unreasonableness.

This workshop is about healing the soul wounds sustained in our attempts at partnership. The focus will be on:

- Exploring the possibilities of equal soul partnership
- Learning new ways to express our fear, sadness, grief, and love for each other
- Defining what we need to change in our relationships
- Learning the different language styles we can use to better connect with our partners
- Learning ways to heal, forgive, and move on to a mutually beneficial relationship

Come alone or with a partner. The workshop will provide a safe, supportive environment for participants to learn new techniques of breathwork, dyadic communication skills, movement, and Gestalt, making it easier to express one's truth and take responsibility for one's feelings and issues.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.

$380

African Dance: Expressions of Spiritual Energy

Yao Tamakloe & Sarah Abukutsa

Yao Tamakloe is a teacher of dance, drumming, and ethnomusicology. He is a third-generation jazz performance artist and has danced and taught with Babatunde Olatunji and Katherine Durham for over ten years. Sarah Abukutsa, his wife, is one of Kenya's most celebrated singers, and has also studied West African dance. Together they will teach the exciting forms of African dances and the symbolic stories they tell.

Participants will experience the dynamics of war, harvest, and initiation dances, as well as the subtle healing funeral and recreational dances. The different movements that relate to various roles in society will be presented.

Live drumming will accompany this joyful marriage of power and fluidity inherent in dance. Drumming to accompany dances will be taught using Babatunde Olatunji's Gun GoDo PaTa method. Bring a drum if you can.

$380

Life’s Little Midterm

Kathleen Riordan Speeth

"The middle of life is the very prime of life;" —Kathleen Speeth. "Can it be sweet when it is so often burdened with habit and duty? Heroes and saints have, we are told, found ways to live with intensity and meaning. Can we by self-examination burnish our own ways of being in the world? Any evaluation must be profoundly individual. We will dedicate this weekend to the contemplation of love and work, intimacy, integrity, and transcendence. Does my profession reflect my gifts? Is the success I have attained the success I value? Amid the daily bustle of details have I remembered who and what I really care for? When have I been heartblind, head-numb, or ethically flabby? When deeply myself? If, as Socrates suggested, happiness is living my very own life in such a way that I am unashamed, how to move toward that great gladness?

"In this sustained inward exploration we will have the help of philosophers and the suc- cessor of great music, but the weekend will be essen-tially experiential—and perhaps surprisingly transformative. Are you ready?"

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.

$380

OpenMind Training: Innovations in Meditation and Mind/Body Healing

Ron Alexander

Learning to observe experience from a place of stillness enables one to relate to life without fear and clinging. One begins to accept pleasure and pain, fear and joy, and all aspects of life with increasing equanimity and balance. Life is seen as a constantly changing process.

—Jack Kornfield, Seeking the Heart of Wisdom

OpenMind Training provides instruction in the essential practice and understanding of meditation and mind/body healing from both a psychological and spiritual perspective. The focus is on the practice, experience, and benefits of meditation and self-healing in daily life.

Meditation helps to cultivate self-regulation through relaxation and the development of attentional skills. Training in mind/body healing facilitates awareness of the inner resources of trust, comfort, time, and curiosity for the activation of the healthy and creative aspects of the unconscious mind. Participants will be taught to develop a user-friendly relationship with the unconscious and to directly contact the resources of the core self. This promotes insight, wellness, and individuation.

Meditative techniques of the various Buddhist schools, particularly Tibetan and Zen, will be explored. Tibetan meditation uses mindfulness, insight, and visualization to activate physiological and psychological energies whose merger can produce powerful states of mind to penetrate into the reality of our being and experience.

Participants will meditate together and learn various forms of breathing, chanting, trance states, and mind/body healing exercises. This workshop can help participants acquire skills to calm the mind, regulate affect states, develop trust with the unconscious, explore inner healing resources, and enhance the creative activation of the unconscious. The workshop is designed for anyone from beginner to advanced.

Recommended reading: Goldstein & Kornfield, Seeking the Heart of Wisdom; Rossi, The Psychobiology of Mind-Body Healing.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.

$380

May 26-June 2

Cortical Reeducation® and the Feldenkrais Method®

Harriet Goslins

How a person sits, stands, or moves reflects patterns that are "wired in" to the nervous system. This information can be erased or changed. By reeducating the brain-muscle connection, restrictions in movement can be freed, freeing lifetime habits that have organized around that movement.

This work is a relearning of the ease and fluidity taken for granted as a child and lost somewhere along the way. Physical injury, emotional trauma, or ongoing stress all evoke a protective response from the body. These patterns remain when no longer needed, outside of awareness, and continue to cause discomfort and limitations. Freeing them results in relief of chronic pain or tightness and a higher energy level. By changing muscular holding patterns, the entire protective posture is altered, deeply affecting the body's habitual defense system. Thus, new movement possibilities mean new self-image possibilities.

Fears and anxieties have corresponding muscular habits. Verbal information or spiritual practice that fails to extinguish these habits may fail to eliminate the toxic behavior.

This workshop is for those who are physically active and fit and want to increase their skills... while learning to reduce risk or injury; for the sedentary or those dealing with after-effects of injuries; for chronically tired and stressed individuals who want to learn how to take better care of their neck, shoulders, and back; and for those who want to improve their posture and breathing and live with more flexibility and comfort.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$1110

Gestalt Practicum
Christine Stewart Price & Gail Stewart

This workshop is designed for people who would like to further explore the gestalt practice form in theory as well as through personal experience. It is especially appropriate for those in the helping professions, such as counselors, bodyworkers, and teachers, who are interested in integrating this approach into their current practice. The format will include open seat sessions with the leaders, structured exercises where participants work with each other, didactic presentation, and discussion.

The prerequisite for admission into the workshop is previous participation in a workshop specifically in gestalt practice led by one of the Esalen gestalt staff (Eric Erickson, Christine Price, or Joyce Lyke). Otherwise you may send a letter of application to Christine Price, 31 Onyx Street, Larkspur, CA 94939, and will be considered if there is space available.

Recommended reading: Perls, The Gestalt Approach and Eyewitness to Therapy; Heider, The Tao of Leadership; Ram Dass & Gorman, How Can I Help?

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$1110

Developing a Fitness Regime for Optimal Well-Being
Carl Chase (C.C.) & Deborah Anne Medow

Everyone wants to feel more flexible, toned, and energized, stronger and more powerful. This workshop can help you develop and practice a daily fitness routine to achieve those goals.

This seven-day workshop will provide an opportunity to begin unlocking your health potential and develop the positive thoughts and attitudes that can create optimal well-being. The keys will be a combination of meditation, yoga, "ballistic" stretching, movement, dance, and a healthy diet.

During the workshop, participants will practice the above activities to help establish a daily fitness routine—fitness on physical, mental, and spiritual levels. The group support will be especially helpful for those who have a difficult time keeping such a fitness practice going.

There will also be quiet time for reflection, integration, and the peaceful enjoyment of the beautiful Big Sur coast and Esalen grounds.

Please bring loose, comfortable clothing, tapes and CDs, even musical instruments, an open mind, a sense of humor, and a warm heart.

Please note: This workshop is not recommended for the seriously ill or the "faint of heart"

$1110

Week of May 26-31

Dreaming: The Magic Mirror that Never Lies
Jeremy Taylor

The basic language of dreams is symbol and metaphor. Dreams address everyone in essentially the same way, regardless of the uniqueness of our individual lives and circumstances.

Participants will share and work with their dreams, drawing on the mythological/archetypal images that shape our contemporary individual and collective lives. Although the focus will be dream interpretation in a collective context, the methods are designed to give participants the ability to engage in their own dreamwork upon returning home.

Everyone is welcome—those who are just beginning to explore the world of their dreams, as well as professionals who work with dreams. As the leader comments: "Only the dreamer can say with any certainty what meanings his or her dreams may hold, and dreamwork is one of the few activities that puts beginners and experts on an equal emotional footing from the outset."

$740

The Core Self: Return to Innocence and Choice
Ron Alexander

Resources for healing, such as spontaneity, curiosity, trust, creativity, innocence, and joy, are found in the Core Self. This workshop will assist participants—including health professionals—in accessing the resources of the Core Self to facilitate personal healing and to acquire new skills in the mind/body healing process. Participants will work toward cultivating a friendly relationship with the uncon-
The goals of this work are to enhance self-conscious to heal dysfunctional patterns and resolve incompletions from the past in order to become more conscious in the present moment. This process can bring about the healing of pain, fear, grief, and loss, and thereby enable the creation of healthier pathways for living, loving, working, and relating.

The tools will include gestalt open seat work, self psychology, insight meditation, breathing practices, dreamwork, accessing the creative unconscious, deep music, group process, and immersion into nature.

Recommended reading: Heider, The Tao of Leadership; Chopra, Ageless Body, Timeless Mind; Polster, Every Person's Life is Worth a Novel; Moore, The Care of the Soul.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Weekend oV June 2-7

Opening the Feelings

Dale Cummings

For workshop description see December 31-January 5.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$740

Singing in the African-American Tradition

Ysaye Barnwell & George Brandon

This workshop is designed to facilitate the development of a community through the vehicle of music from the African-American vocal tradition. Musical forms will include calls and chants, spirituals, ring shout, hymns, gospels, songs of the civil rights movement, and songs of contemporary struggle. The historical, social, and political context will be provided as an introduction to the songs in each of these musical forms.

Through participation in the songs and discussions of their context, the group will explore from an African-American worldview the values imbedded in the music, the role of cultural and spiritual traditions and rituals, how leadership emerges and can be shared among community members, the nature of cultural responses to and influences on political and social struggle, and, finally, the significance of a shared communal experience in one's personal life.

$740

Weekend of May 31-June 2

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see January 19-21.

$380

Forgiveness

Julie Bowden & Maria Nemeth

Every culture has its healing rituals, ways of letting go of old attachments to make way for new possibilities. An essential component is the practice of forgiveness.

As the years go by, many of us develop a history of incomplete relationships and unfulfilled expectations. As these experiences accumulate, our trust in others and ourselves diminishes, and our commitments in life become conditional. To release these burdens is to forgive the past.

This workshop will guide participants through exercises focusing on our judgments and characterizations, with emphasis on how these distorted perceptions affect us and interfere with our relationships. This work is preparation for a powerful forgiveness exercise, designed to facilitate letting go, allowing more joy and light into our lives.

$380

June 2-8

Origins: A Rites-of-Passage Journey in the Ventana Wilderness

Little Bear Nason & David Schiffman

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 65.

$790

Conflict Resolution Through Conscious Negotiations

Ron Luyet & Jim Tamm

Many business and personal relationships become adversarial simply through a lack of conflict resolution and negotiation skills. This workshop offers a combination of two powerful approaches, presenting the skills to transform conflict into collaborative problem-solving. The first is interest-based adversarial negotiations, well documented for dramatically reducing labor-management conflict. The second approach focuses on those behaviors and feelings that can block resolution of conflicted situations. Participants will be shown how their often unconscious emotional needs impact their effectiveness when negotiating and dealing with conflict.

The workshop will provide immediately useful negotiating skills, and a model explaining the fundamental emotional undercurrents that go on between oneself and others during conflict. Small-group preparations, negotiating simulations, self-assessment instruments, and structured feedback will help participants discover rigidity or fears that can sabotage negotiations or undermine long-term relationships.

The workshop is not a series of techniques that promise "how to get yours and most of theirs, too." It is skill-building to develop negotiating relationships for long-term mutual gains. It is designed to be an exciting workshop for learning technical skills and self-awareness to greatly increase effectiveness in resolving personal or professional differences.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. Approved for MCLE credit by the State Bar of California in the amount of 8 hours. This activity conforms to the standards for approved education activities prescribed by the rules and regulations of the State Bar of California governing minimum continuing legal education.

Facial Communication/ Facial Diagnosis
Lillian (Lesefko) Garnier

Your face is your identity, the external manifestation of your inner personality. It contains the primary clues for visual communication through the expressions it transmits, while being a topographical map of life experiences. Learning to interpret these clues can give you insight into your own psychological process as well as the health and character of others.

Based on the ancient science of Chinese facial analysis, derived from Chinese medicine, this workshop will combine Chinese medical wisdom with modern research and methods. Participants will learn about the health indicators of the face, the personality traits shown in the markings, the held emotional issues that block chi (life force energy) and create poor health, and how to read the changing quality of chi in the eyes.

Participants will learn to profile others and begin to understand the feelings that others are expressing facially. They will learn to recognize the psychological and emotional underlay of the disease process as seen from the face. Methods to unblock chi, move it, and focus it for optimum health and vitality will be discussed. Ultimately, participants can expand their self-knowledge by attempting to unmask their real selves.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Facial Diagnosis

Weekend of June 7-9

The Ultimate Yes
George Leonard

Life has one ultimate message, "Yes!", repeated in infinite number and variety. Human life, channeled for millennia by Civilization, is only just beginning to express the diversity and range of which it is easily capable.

— Education and Ecstasy

The ultimate "Yes" is to life itself in its every moment, whatever that moment might bring. The ultimate gift to any friend or loved one is to be totally present for him or her. This gentle June weekend will be dedicated to saying "Yes" to life and the present moment. Through breathing, chanting, meditation, imaging, and movement, this seminar will seek to affirm our oneness with nature, the cosmos, and one another, to remind ourselves of the brevity and vividness of the miracle of existence. Bring a friend or a loved one or come alone. All that is needed is a generous spirit and a willingness to participate wholeheartedly.

Disarming the Ogre: Recognizing and Transforming the Inner Critic
Sarah La Saulle

The Ogre—also known as the inner negative voice, the committee, the dark and hopeless perceptions, black-and-white thinking—is the voice of old belief systems. Many people experience their Ogre as a feeling of malaise or heaviness. Often it goes unrecognized by posing as the voice of reason, of ultimate reality. The Ogre judges. It counsels by criticism and continually re-inflicts wounds. The fundamental goal of the Ogre is to protect from pain and further loss. Unfortunately, the voice is cruel and distorted in its effort to preserve.

In this workshop, participants will catch their Ogre, illuminate him, and utilize various methods to transmute his negative influence. Writing, drawing, partnering, and group discussion will be used to deal with conscious and unconscious self-hatred.

Rekindling the Spirit in Work
Howard Schecter & Barbara Lee

"Rekindling the Spirit in Work" is about reconnecting with yourself and the work you do. Through creative exercises and sharing with the group, you can gain clarity about your goals in work, the skills required to reach those goals, and a deeper awareness of your strengths. The process can help you to confront and dissolve major blocks to rewarding work and to integrate who you are with what you do. This process is far more effective than narrow vocational perspectives. The emphasis is on the question "Who is working?" By an identifying with our highest self, what we do can flow more easily and be a direct expression in the world of who we are inside.

This workshop is for people who are beginning new careers, in transition, dissatisfied, or simply bored with their work. Participants often come away with a sense of clarity and purpose, and seldom feel the need to make radical shifts in job or profession. Rather, the subtle inner adjustments of identity, attitude, and perspective create greater job satisfaction and offer direction for taking the next steps in work.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Practical Alchemy, Kabbalah, and Quantum Physics
Chris Carmines, Ovid Jacob & Mira Zussman

At the crossroads of magic, science, and religion, equivalent principles operate. Western alchemy, kabbalah, and quantum physics are rooted in the same fundamental concepts despite our thinking of them as distinctly different cosmologies.

This workshop will explore the theory and practice of these traditions as well as the intersections between them. Participants will enter into the four alchemical elements (fire, water, air, and earth), the Hebrew tetragrammaton (the four Hebrew letters that form the name of God), and the four fundamental physical forces (weak, electromagnetic, strong, and gravitational), thereby returning to the building blocks of Creation itself. The workshop will provide not only an introduction to these multiple ways of knowing, but also a way to integrate them in our understanding and experience of nature.

The workshop will be a lively mixture of discussion and experiential exercises.

Week of June 9-14

Five-Day Massage Intensive
Brita Ostrom & Oliver Bailey

This massage workshop explores the fundamental elements of bodywork: grounding, centering, breath awareness, touch sensitivity, and intention. A hands-on approach will combine a balance of long, integrative strokes with detailed attention to specific areas of the body. There will be emphasis on discussion and modeling of boundaries and trust with respect to the client's physical and emotional well-being. Meditation and movement will be included, as they enhance the connection between client and practitioner.

This workshop is for beginning bodyworkers and those interested in learning some new approaches to massage.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Meditation, the Living Body, and Creativity
Robert Hall

There is natural wisdom, inherently and joyously present, in the nature of all things. The deep understanding that comes from the experience of presence is constantly offered to us by plants, insects, animals, creatures of the sea, the human body, by the Earth, and certainly by the heavens. Our focused attention reveals that wisdom to us, as well as its close companion, compassion.

Spiritual practice—sitting meditation—is the age-old method of building awareness of presence and awakening to the realities of our existence. We learn to gradually discard the limitations that were placed on our ability to feel. We awaken to life itself as it is revealed within our bodies. The natural wisdom and compassion of our hearts becomes our common experience.

This workshop will make use of meditation, conscious movement, voice, sharing of the heart, and listening to silence as preparation for creative expression; each person will use whatever mediums of delivery seem appropriate. Participants will perform theater, compose poetry, create dance, and use visual arts to express to each other the experience of presence itself.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.

Mountains and Waves: Wilderness and Continuum
Susan Harper & Steven Harper

Nature is a primary teacher of movement, creativity, and awareness. Being outdoors in the richness and beauty of the natural world awakens our outer senses. Continuum movement takes us inward, heightening the awareness of our inner senses. These five days will combine both practices, integrating the subtle inner explorations that Continuum movement inspires with the activity of day-hiking in the magnificent Big Sur backcountry.

The day-hikes will introduce participants to basic and increasingly refined awareness practices to enhance their sensitivity to all that wilderness and being out-of-doors offers. In so doing, not only will there be contact with the natural world, but it will be an opportunity to reawaken those elements of wilderness within.

In the indoor sessions, participants will explore movements which express and embody what they have taken in during their walks, enlivening their ability to feel what they see in nature, as well as their own inner nature. Engaging with this sensual environment, the group will play with movement, breath, sound, dreams, and ritual.

This will be a time for contact with nature and wilderness, inside and out. Participants need not have previous experience in hiking or dance.

Transition, Risk, and Renewal: Mastering the Art of Change
David Schiffman & Susan Kuttner

David Schiffman writes: “During the last twenty-five years I have had the privilege of being a midwife for an extraordinary variety of people facing major transitions in life. During this week I would like to share and explore those influences, inner resources, and natural rhythms that best support real, healthy, sustainable change. Our aim will be to cultivate the emotional poise, mental clarity, energetic flexibility, and stamina necessary to face life’s inevitable challenges in a timely, graceful, and thoroughly effective manner. Participants will be encouraged to initiate attention and support for themselves, both in the group and upon returning home, in fresh and innovative ways that can minimize unnecessary suffering, fatigue, and wasted time.

“The methods used will be a blending of the old and the new, the tried and the true—tailormade to fit the actual needs of the group. The only prerequisite for attending this seminar is an honest readiness to engage in a heartfelt adventure of exploration and risk-taking that could change your approach to life.”

Old-Fashioned New Age Cooking
Dennis Marriott & Robin Burnside

Imagine homemade yogurt and granola for breakfast. A garden-fresh vegetable soup and French country loaves for midday. Fresh pasta with a sauce to make Mama proud, and savory focaccia. All made from scratch, by you!

Learn to recapture the old-fashioned goodness and flavor of Grandma’s cooking while you discover cooking as a continuous practice in awareness and source of inspiration and joy.

Emphasis for this hands-on workshop will be on the flavor potential and nutritional value of the ingredients, stressing natural and organic eating and low/no-fat alternatives. Daily harvests from Esalen's organic garden/
Photography is used to illuminate the concepts of chaos theory and complexity with special emphasis on fractals and strange attractors. Context—not technique—is the focus. Insights gained from photographic sessions will be applied to explore a new model for understanding and responding to chaos and the complexity in our life, work, and rapidly changing world.

The workshop will begin with a brief introduction to the new science, followed by a photographic session in which participants venture outside and shoot several rolls of film. The film will be processed and the resulting collection of natural images used to demonstrate the concepts of fractals, self-organization, and the interactions of linear and nonlinear formation. Then, weaving together the images and concepts, participants will be shown how to explore and influence their personal and professional futures by anticipating and responding to change in new ways.

Activities and discussions are designed to help participants see subtle connections, patterns, and emerging opportunities in their lives and work. Each session will be a unique and rich integration of art, science, and world events.

Please bring a 35mm camera and 3-4 rolls of 24 exposure film. $380

Week of June 16-21

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Steven Harper

For workshop description see May 24-26. $740

How to Feel as Good as You Can in Spite of Everything

Julie Henderson

Julie Henderson writes: "Our original state, forgotten between effort and collapse, is inherently pleasurable. To rejoin this ground—to let life live us, to trust the pulsation which is our aliveness—brings us..."
invariably into pleasure. Despite our expectations and habits, this is more easy than difficult, and relies more on play than work.

"If you are willing to 'get over your self'—to loosen your conviction that you are your limiting postures of body, energy, and mind—you can open the gate and walk through to well-being as your 'ordinary' state.

"The risks you take are humbling, rocking, jiggling, and laughing, brought together in a meld of body awareness, skillful relationship, meditative presence, and humor."

Julie Henderson, somaticist, Vajrayana practitioner, and Ericksonian storyteller, has developed a form of work which emphasizes direct movement to well-being with only secondary attention to our habits of misery. She calls this work Zapchen, after the Tibetan word for a salubrious, mind-changing naughtiness.

relationships: Letting Go—Moving On
Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

For one human being to love another: that is perhaps the most difficult of all our tasks, the ultimate test and proof, the work for which all the other work is but preparation.

— RILKE

The fabric of our lives is made up of relationships. All of life's relationships will be the focus of this workshop: family, friends, lovers, co-workers, partners.

Often beliefs, defenses, fears, and emotions about past relationships continue into our present relationships and keep us from spontaneous feelings of love, trust, and joy. The goal of this workshop is to experience these patterns and create new ways to relate in the moment to ourselves, others, and our work.

This workshop can help you:
• Find out how your relationships mirror you
• Get a clearer picture of what you want and how to get it
• Examine ways you sabotage yourself
• Learn more about how others see you
• Learn practical tools and knowledge that will help create empowered relationships

$740

Pilobolus: Collaborative Creativity Method
Michael Tracy

Pilobolus Dance Theatre, the company that red a unique collaborative method of choreography, has performed worldwide for nearly twenty-five years and has taught in universities and institutes around the country.

This workshop, led by Pilobolus's co-Artistic Director Michael Tracy, will offer a rare opportunity to see behind the choreographic method of this innovative company, and to learn how to use this method to develop your own creative ideas.

The workshop will begin each day with an introduction to this collaborative method. A segment will then be devoted to guided movement experimentation: another portion will be dedicated to developing collaborative ideas into short choreographic pieces. The workshop will provide a supportive environment in which to develop your creative skills, and guidance and feedback as you refine your ideas into a more powerful dramatic form.

There will be daily opportunities to create new work, and an interactive sharing of artistic ideas. By the end of the week, you may be surprised by your creative work.

This workshop is open to people of all ages and levels of experience. Come prepared to move.

$740

Healing the Parent-Child Bond: For Parents and Their Adult Children
Phyllis Shankman

Relationships between parents and adult children are often the most complex, profound, and delicate relationships that we have in our lives. Through the years, as people's lives unfold and often unravel, through the celebrations, fights, laughter, disappointments, joy, and pain, these relationships endure internally. They continue to confront and impact us at every turn. Whether parents and children are intimate or distant in their daily lives does not change the significance of who we are to one another.

This is a workshop for parents and children over 18. The sessions will utilize awareness exercises, group discussions, and compassionate listening to create a supportive neutral space for open dialogue, appreciations, concerns, and "unfinished business." The intention is to open the door for more depth, mutual understanding, love, and acceptance.

Invite your parent or your adult child to join you, and spend some healing time together.

$740

Weekend of June 21-23

Introduction to Mindfulness Meditation
James Baraz

For workshop description see February 9-11.
C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$740

Roots and Wings: Renewing Our Spirits, Living Our Dreams
David Schiffman

For workshop description see January 5-7.

$740

Reconnecting Business with its Soul
David Trickett, Bill Sechrest & Ron Loeb

Einstein asked the question, "Is the world a friendly place?" In this time of rapid global change and worldwide hostilities, executives, managers, and all stakeholders in our global business community may wonder why anyone would even pose the query. Yet an affirmative answer can shift our worldview from an inherited model based on scarcity and disconnection to a systems model grounded on abundance and interpersonal relationship with the universe. This shift can provide renewed energy to conduct business in a manner that is values-based, socially responsible, and integrated with our surroundings. This view is a key not only to survival but also to success in the twenty-first century, wherein productivity, ethics, prosperity, growth, and spiritual wholeness all will be seen to emanate from the same creative source: the conscious human mind.

Participants will be guided through exercises using their own personal stories, selected brief readings, music, meditation, and dialogue, all aimed at a powerful awakening allowing them to see afresh the rich systems context in which business thrives. The workshop will seek to discover the key lying in each of us for answering Einstein's question in a way that can transform our businesses into global change agents capable of providing abundance for all their stakeholders. The workshop will provide practical tools for business leaders to be touched powerfully by Nobel Laureate Ilya Prigogene's insight that "the world is richer than it is possible to express in any single language."

$380

641
Couples Massage Weekend

Ellen Watson & David Streeter

This weekend couples workshop is designed for those who would like to bring the benefits of massage into their everyday lives. The workshop will teach simple massage techniques, developed by Esalen massage practitioners, which have proven valuable to anyone who wants to help a partner, friend, or family member feel better. Techniques that help relieve pain, increase vitality, or simply soothe the nerves will be demonstrated briefly and practiced with lots of hands-on instruction by the leaders.

This workshop is especially helpful for loving couples, as Esalen massage is greatly beneficial in its connective and healing qualities.

$380 per participant

Making a Private-Pay Practice Work

Ofer Zur

Practicing psychotherapy as a private practitioner in the '9os is challenging. The takeover by managed care, cuts in federal funding, and a continuing increase in the number of practitioners all mean shrinking practices, a more competitive market, and fewer available resources to pay for therapy. In addition, the sharp increase in rules and laws has added to therapists' anxiety about being sued.

This workshop is for psychotherapists who wish to practice outside the managed care system. It is possible not only to survive the managed care tidal wave, but in fact to benefit from it. These are times in which creative, informed therapists can enjoy and thrive in private practice, relying exclusively on clients paying out-of-pocket.

Using displays, handouts, instruction, and discussion, the workshop will address all the elements that comprise a successful therapist. It will introduce participants to basic management issues, such as clinical forms, record keeping, and risk management. It will outline specific, creative ways to market oneself with integrity, dignity, even with fun. It will demonstrate the essentials of effective therapy that go beyond specific orientations or techniques and are based on engagement, flexibility, and attending to clients' needs.

The workshop is geared toward psychologists, counselors, psychiatrists, social workers, interns, and psychological assistants.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$380
The Diamond Approach to the Lataif:

The format will include talks, exercises in self-inquiry, various traditional spiritual practices, music meditations, conscious physical activities, and guided personal exploration in small groups. Attendance at the previous workshops in the series is not necessary.

The lataif will be introduced in this, the third workshop of a series given by the Upledger Institute, further explores the CranioSacral System and its function in relationship to other patho-physiological body systems. The course will begin with the study of cranial base dysfunctions as perceived, diagnosed, and treated by Dr. William Sutherland, the father of cranial osteopathy. In this course students will learn how to integrate Sutherland’s techniques for identifying and evaluating lesions into our “to-treat protocol” and how to apply individual correction treatments when needed.

Evaluation and treatment processes of the hard palate, the mandible, and temporomandibular joint will be presented and practiced to complete the exploration of the masticatory system. Emphasis will be directed to whole body evaluation, as discussions will center on various “physiological phenomena” that occur within the body.

The SomatoEmotional Release process will also be introduced with discussion and demonstration of an “energy cyst.” Before participating in this course, students must complete CranioSacral Therapy I, either at Esalen or elsewhere.

For further information see Special Programs, page 58.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Recommended reading: C.S. Lewis, Till We Have Faces. $740

(plus $30 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

Ecopsychology, Addiction Recovery, and Gender Reconciliation

There have been four stages in the evolution of addiction recovery programs. The first stage began with the founding of Alcoholics Anonymous and focused on “individual” recovery. Then we recognized that individual recovery had to be supplemented by focus on “intimate relationships” and gender issues. Soon after, we added a focus on our addictive “social institutions.” We are just entering the fourth stage as we expand to include ways in which the 10,000 year period we call “civilization” is rooted in violence, abuse, and addiction.

The core of our individual, interpersonal, and social addictions can be traced to the time we first became estranged from the earth. To find a cure for all our addictions we must recognize that for the last 10,000 years the whole of Western civilization has been suffering from post-traumatic stress disorder. If we are going to survive on the planet we must go back to the time of the original trauma when we went from the I-Thou connection of the gatherer-hunter culture to the I-It disconnection of the domesticator-dominator culture.

Drawing on the most recent information from addiction studies, ecopsychology, the women’s and men’s movements, and evolutionary biology, the workshop will offer a model of recovery that combines planetary, societal, gender, and individual healing.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$740
Yoga: an ancient system that uses the body, breath, and mind to energize and transform all aspects of living. It is not only an excellent source of physical exercise, but a unique and powerful tool for self-realization. The practice of yoga can help release blocks that cause mental and physical pain and prevent us from knowing our divine nature. It is also a great way of dealing with the stress of daily living.

The invigorating effects of yoga become readily apparent as the body opens and stretches. Breath is the link between mind and body, and various breathing methods will be taught to help reduce tension and cleanse the system. The serenity and clarity that is the goal of yoga will be sought through meditation exercises that calm and focus the mind. Yoga philosophy and theory will be discussed, as well as nutrition and its role in overall physical health.

All levels are welcome and no prior experience is required, only an adventurous spirit.

For further information contact the leaders at 310-393-5150. $380

Caring for the Dying: What Really Works?
Frank Ostaseski & Ryushin Paul Haller

This workshop explores a mindful and compassionate approach to caring for those with chronic or life-threatening illness. Drawing on the experience of the Zen Hospice Project, a nationally innovative model of conscious care, the aim is to de-mystify the care-giving process, investigate our response to suffering, and clarify our intention in service.

The leaders will introduce traditional meditation practices of awareness, impermanence, and forgiveness; provide exercises designed to explore accumulated grief; and discuss the importance of ritual and memorials. Through silence, writing, storytelling, and the collective wisdom of the group, participants will discover ways of encouraging our innate generosity and skillful means to stay present in difficult or impersonal care-giving situations.

The workshop offers renewal and a fresh perspective on service to professionals or individuals caring for friends or family. All are invited, but those caring for people with AIDS or cancer are particularly encouraged to attend. Wear comfortable clothing and please bring writing materials.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. C.E. credit is available for psychologists. $380

Identity, Community, and Politics: The Ontogeny of Everyday Life
Andra Akers & Tim Kennedy

If there are many paradigms in this nonlinear, ever-shifting, postcultural world, how do we create ourselves, our social, political, and spiritual realities? How do we make meaning in this transition to a global human soul? What is the ground of being for a twenty-first century identity, the characteristics of a planetary citizen? What models will shape this new identity, both individual and global—and lead us to envision new ways to live and work?

In a cultural context, biological science is a potent vision of life’s appreciation of itself, one way our species recognizes its participation in the embodiment of this living planet. We and all organisms are both ends and means. Molecular, cellular, organismal, and ecological insights point to our heritage, one shared with the rest of the living earth—a vivid story of being and becoming.

With biology as the blueprint and imagination as the engine, this workshop will explore with you a new kinship story, with identity as an ecosystem of ideas, in a creative commonwealth founded on diversity, and search for a new definition of power based on a strategy of inclusion.

Recommended reading: Abraham, Chaos, Gaia, Eros; Chomsky, World Orders Old and New; Kauffman, At Home in the Universe. $380

Innocence: The Cancer That Kills Love
Judith Sherven & James Sniechowski

Why is it so hard to say, “I was wrong. I’m really sorry?” What causes us to insist it’s all someone else’s fault?

We live in an era of entitlement and self-righteous indignation. “I’m right. You’re wrong” are the watchwords of the day. And they are destroying our relationships.

In loving partnership no one is ever purely “right” or solely “wrong.” Both parties create their dance together.

Personal responsibility, co-created power-sharing, and the magic of differences are the cornerstones of this experiential workshop. Enhanced maturity, flexibility, and increased capacity for loving acceptance, compassion, and communion are the goals. The workshop will include guided meditations, role-playing vignettes to resolve conflict, and emotional “muscle testing.”

$740

Recommended reading: Fields, et al., Chop Wood, Carry Water; Chopra, Ageless Body, Timeless Mind; Hanh, The Miracle of Mindfulness. C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.
The programs listed below are either longer than the standard Esalen workshop or part of an ongoing series. Prices quoted below for these programs are for standard accommodations as described in "Reservation Information," page 4. Sometimes bunk bed space is available at a reduced rate. Scholarships are also available; please see "Scholarship Information" on page 5.

The Diamond Approach: A Spiritual Teaching for Our Times

An Introductory Series of Classes

Teachers of the Ridhwan School are offering a series of introductory workshops in the Diamond Approach over the next year (see Soul as Living Presence, February 11-16, and Opening the Doors to Essence, June 23-30). The Diamond Approach is a spiritual teaching developed by A.H. Almaas (Hameed Ali) to meet the needs of those wishing to contact the depths of who they are while leading ordinary lives of work and family. In addressing these needs, the teaching bridges the traditional divisions between what is considered sacred and what is considered mundane. It utilizes elements from depth psychology and traditional spiritual knowledge and practices, creating a new method for engaging in the process of spiritual transformation.

The methodology of the Diamond Approach is open-ended inquiry into one's personal experience leading to an experiential understanding of it. The format includes meditation, awareness and movement practices, talks, exercises in self-inquiry, and personal processing within the group. As we inquire into and travel through our inner terrain, our identifications and beliefs shaped by our conditioning—the obscuring veils within—become more and more transparent, and we are able to contact dimensions of reality and the human potential traditionally accessible to only a few. As we gradually contact the depths of who we are, the personality becomes refined, and our lives progressively become embodiments and expressions of our true nature.

As in the case of many schools of spiritual work, spiritual development in the Diamond Approach, while noninvasive and nonconfrontational, does lead to addressing the defenses of the ego and the dissolution of its structures, and so is not appropriate for everyone. It is especially suited to those who have done a lot of spiritual and/or psychological work, and who still feel that something within has not been touched. Reading one or both of the books below is recommended to see if you resonate with this approach. Prospective participants will be sent a questionnaire to ascertain whether the work may be of personal benefit.

While each workshop provides a foundation for the next, each is complete on its own and so may be taken individually or as part of the series. For more information and to obtain a questionnaire contact Joyce Lyke at 408-375-9845.

Recommended reading: Almaas, Essence and Diamond Heart — Book One.

---

February 11-23

Advanced Training in Shamanism and Shamanic Healing

Michael Harner & Sandra Ingerman

Shamanism is the most ancient system known for using the mind, heart, and spirit to heal oneself and others, and to solve the problems of daily living. This 12-day intensive course emphasizes the universal methods of classic core shamanism, such as shamanic journeying, and their practical application to contemporary life.

Course prerequisite: a previous workshop with Michael Harner or other authorized faculty member of the Foundation for Shamanic Studies, either at Esalen or elsewhere.

Recommended reading: Harner, The Way of the Shaman and Hallucinogens and Shamanism.

For information, cost, and application, please contact Foundation for Shamanic Studies, PO Box 1939, Mill Valley, CA 94942; 415-380-8282. Early application is recommended.

Please note: C.E. credit is no longer available for nurses.

The Upledger Institute Series

The Upledger Institute was founded by John E. Upledger, who pioneered the field of CranioSacral Therapy nearly twenty-five years ago. Dr. Upledger is a Doctor of Science, an Academic Fellow of the British Society of Osteopathy, and a member of the Alternative Medicine Program Advisory Council of the National Institutes of Health.

From 1975 to 1983, Dr. Upledger served as clinical researcher and professor of biomechanics at Michigan State University. During those years he supervised a team of anatomists, physiologists, biophysicists, and bioengineers in experiments testing the existence and influence of the craniosacral system. The results of those studies explained the function of the craniosacral system and its use in treating malfunctions of the brain and spinal cord.

The Upledger Institute teaches noninvasive modalities such as CranioSacral Therapy to doctors and health care practitioners of all disciplines. Curricula range from the structural/functional anatomical perspective to approaches that explore the physical, emotional, mental, and spiritual origins of pain and dysfunction.

Esalen will be offering SomatoEmotional Release II (March 3-8) and CranioSacral II (June 23-28) during this catalog period. This work is sequential and each workshop requires completion of the previous course, either at Esalen or elsewhere.

Working With the Enneagram Types—A Three-Part Series

Esalen is offering a special three-part series on the Enneagram, led by Helen Palmer. The Enneagram is an ancient model of human development that links the unique and private world of personality type with the specific aspects of human essence. Essence is a permanent, as contrasted to accidental, element of being. Awareness of essence has been called higher consciousness, or spiritual attainment.

Using the Enneagram model as the soder between the psychological and spiritual aspects of being, the three workshops focus on the practices of body, heart, and mind that best support different types of people toward spiritual liberation. These workshops may be taken individually (see March 3-8) or as an entire series.

March 8-April 5

28-Day Massage Practitioner Certification Program

Peggy Horan, Dean Marson
& Esalen Massage Staff

The Esalen monthlong massage program provides comprehensive instruction in basic massage skills. This training includes anatomy, movement, meditation, gestalt awareness, ethics and business practices, and self-care. The daily lessons consist of lecture, demonstration, and supervised hands-on practice. Bodywork is studied as a pathway to well-being and transpersonal growth.

After the monthlong program, students wishing to fulfill certification requirements have six months to complete and document thirty massage sessions. Upon payment of a $50 fee, a California state-approved Certificate of Completion will be issued.

This is a professional training group with limited admission. Please request an application form when making reservations.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Standard accommodations: $3325

Bunk bed room, if available: $2350

March 17-29

Emotional Healing: From Codependence to Aliveness

Terry Hunt & Miriam Kahn

Children who grow up in alcoholic, abusive, or otherwise unhealthy homes often develop disabilities that last a lifetime unless these disabilities are deliberately addressed. These difficulties can include: an inordinate need to control, an overdeveloped sense of responsibility, fear of authority figures, the inability to trust, difficulty having fun, compulsive behavior, fear of abandonment, and a chronic lack of self-esteem.

All addictions and codependency are diseases of denial. Sufferers of addictions and their offspring tell themselves that it really wasn't so bad, and they learn not to feel what they cannot tolerate. As they deny pain, they screen out joy, and their adult lives can be filled with depression and loneliness. These same individuals are also survivors, however, and most have emerged as successful-appearing adults. Yet they often spend so much energy managing and controlling work and relationships that they have little left for themselves and their own fulfillment.

A necessary part of healing is moving from being codependent toward a state of emotional sobriety. Through self-exploration, participants will have the opportunity to access, express, and release blocked emotions that they still carry from childhood, and to tap the aliveness that was sacrificed when they buried their anger, fear, and grief. Points of focus for this workshop will include:

- Emotional sobriety: Having a sense of balance and physical boundaries from which to find peace and a capacity for genuine sharing and pleasure
- Pleasure/addictions: Learning that true pleasure is a life-affirming, non-addictive experience
- Sexuality: Separating the unmet needs of the wounded child from adult intimate sexual relationships; learning tools for nurturing and sustaining healthy relationships
- Boundaries: Looking at the tendency to alternate between fusing with another and completely isolating oneself
- Spirituality: Learning to have faith despite the horror experienced in childhood
- Learning new behaviors: Identifying and overcoming old ways of reacting

Recommended reading: Hunt & Paine-Gernée, Emotional Healing; and Secrets to Tell, Secrets to Keep.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Standard accommodations: $1795

Bunk bed room, if available: $1245

Healthspring Outreach and Education

The Healthspring Project offers education and information that extends Esalen's work in the healing arts and sciences to the outside world. It is an independent service-oriented program of Esalen teachers and their associates. Healthspring offers a global information network linking visitors to Esalen with centers, teachers, and health professionals in somatics and psychology located in their home area. Our listings are public information and are not meant to be an endorsement of any individual or institution. Some of our practitioners and teachers travel to New York, San Francisco, and Los Angeles and are available for private sessions and classes. If you are interested in being contacted, let us know.

The Healthspring library offers books on health and healing, bodywork, somatic studies, psychology, nutrition, and related studies, which may be borrowed by students for a given period while at Esalen. Donations of appropriate books are greatly appreciated.

For access to this program, write to Laurie Lioness Parizek at Esalen, c/o Healthspring.
FOR NURSES

The Board of Registered Nursing has approved Esalen as a provider of continuing education for registered nurses, provider number 01152. Only those programs listed below offer continuing education credit. Workshop leaders have the final decision in applying for C.E.U. eligibility. There is a $10 processing fee for C.E.U. certificates, payable at the end of the workshop when you turn in your evaluation form to the office. If you wish to receive a certificate, please notify the office at the time of registration.

Please note: Two-day workshops offer 10 hours of C.E. credit and five-day or longer workshops offer 30 hours.

If you need additional information on C.E. courses for nurses or future C.E. outreach programs, please contact Sherry Sanders Galloway, R.N., Continuing Education Coordinator, 408-667-3000.

December 31-January 5
- Adventures in Bodywork
- Opening the Feelings
- The Subtle Art of Meditation
- To Be Ready to Live, To Be Ripe to Die

January 5-7
- Psychoneuroimmunology and Its Implications
- Attention! Attention! Attention!

January 7-12
- Mending the Fragmented Self: Soul Retrieval and Shamanic Practices

January 12-14
- Weekend Massage Intensive
- The Enneagram in Personal Development and Therapy
- Understanding the Other Sex: Gender Training for Gender Trainers

January 14-19
- Sports Massage: Keeping the Players Playing

January 19-21
- Hanna Somatics: Mastery of Muscles and Emotions

January 21-26
- The Heartful Path to Mind Power: Geometrizing Mind Space

January 26-28
- When Success Is Not Enough
- Re-Solving Your Past, Remembering Who You Are: A Gestalt Process Workshop
- Religious and Spiritual Problems: A Paradigm Shift in Mental Health

January 28-February 2
- Facing Life’s Challenges: Courage, Faith, and Self-Acceptance

February 2-4
- The Art of Leadership: Communication, Creativity, Vision

February 4-9
- Gestalt Practice
- Polarity Massage Intensive

February 9-11
- Introduction to Mindfulness Meditation
- Zero Balancing Open Forum

February 11-16
- Five-Day Massage Intensive

February 25-March 1
- Awakened Mind: Five-Day Brainwave Training Intensive
- Birth Experience: A Pathway to Life

March 3-8
- The Heart of the Shaman
- The Upledger Institute’s SomatoEmotional Release II
- Working with the Enneagram Types—Part I: The Belly Center

March 8-April 5
- 28-Day Massage Practitioner Certification Program

March 10-15
- The Subtle Art of Meditation

March 15-17
- Taking Responsibility: Pathway to Personal Power
- Sensory Awareness

March 17-29
- Emotional Healing: From Codependence to Aliveness
March 24-29
- Healing from Trauma:
  A Bodywork Intensive

March 29-31
- A Celebration of the Body:
  A Self-Empowerment Weekend

March 31-April 7
- Reweaving the Web: Hypnotic Enactments—
  Conversation in a New Key

April 5-7
- Weekend Massage Intensive

April 7-12
- Making Crucial Life Choices and Major Life Changes

April 12-14
- How Successful People Succeed

April 14-19
- Soul Dramas: Past-Life Regression and Spiritual Healing for (Helping) Professionals
- Spiritual Healing: Laying-on-of-Hands
- The Path of Transformation through Meditation

April 19-21
- Holoenergetics®: The Art and Science of Conscious Healing
- The Healing Power of the Dream

April 21-26
- Chakra Integration: A Complete Approach to Health and Healing
- Awakening From Trauma:
  Healing Body Image and Sexuality

April 26-28
- You Don't Have to Be Good

April 28-May 3
- Continuum
- Facilitating Intuition
- Gender Talk: Communicating With the Opposite Sex... and Everyone Else

May 3-5
- Intuition and the Dance of Attention
- The Healing Power of Laughter and Play

May 5-10
- Embodying Images of Health:
  A Somatic/Expressive Approach to Psychoneuroimmunology
- Healing the Heart
- Giving Voice to Bear: Shamanism and Bear Medicine

May 10-12
- Weekend Massage Intensive
- Vipassana Meditation and the Teachings of
  Thich Nhat Hanh
- Nine Worldviews: The Enneagram at Work

May 12-17
- Advanced Hypnosis: Practice and Applications
- The Visionary Life: The Quest of Your Life
- Intermediate Massage Intensive

May 17-19
- The Embodied Life: Feldenkrais®
  Movement and Zen Meditation

May 19-24
- The High-Performance Mind: Awakened
  Mind Brainwave Training

May 24-28
- OpenMind Training: Innovations in Meditation and Mind/Body Healing

May 26-June 2
- Cortical Reeducation® and the Feldenkrais Method®
- Gestalt Practicum

May 26-31
- The Core Self: Return to Innocence and Choice

June 2-7
- Opening the Feelings
- Conflict Resolution Through Conscious Negotiations
- Facial Communication/ Facial Diagnosis

June 7-9
- Rekindling the Spirit in Work

June 9-14
- Five-Day Massage Intensive

June 14-16
- Practical Herbology: An Esalen Garden
  Workshop

June 21-23
- Introduction to Mindfulness Meditation
- Making a Private-Pay Practice Work

June 23-28
- The Upledger Institute's CranioSacral II
- Ecopsychology, Addiction Recovery, and Gender Reconciliation
- Turning on the Light: A Choice to Live
  Consciously

June 28-30
- Caring for the Dying: What Really Works?

FOR PSYCHOLOGISTS

Esalen has been approved as a provider of continuing education for psychologists in the State of California, accredited by the California Psychological Association, provider number ESA001. This recent approval came at Catalog publication time, too soon to have received specific approval for individual workshop applications. Those workshops for which C.E.U. applications have been filed are noted in the Seminars section. For questions or further up-to-the-minute information, contact Brita Ostrom at 408-667-3040.

Please note: Two-day workshops will offer 10 hours of C.E. credit and five-day workshops will offer 26 hours.
The Work Study Program is for those interested in an intense and complete involvement with the Esalen environment. It is a work-oriented program, emotionally and physically, and only rarely is it restful. Participants work thirty-two hours per week in one of Esalen’s departments (kitchen, garden, farm, housekeeping, maintenance, or grounds) and participate, along with staff and long-term students, in that department’s program.

During most evenings and one weekend intensive, work students are together as a group exploring different practices and approaches available at Esalen, with specifically assigned leaders who will be with the group throughout the month, coordinating the study schedule and facilitating many of the evening sessions.

The selection of work students is done by Bette Dingman, the Work Study Coordinator, in consultation with department supervisors. Since this is a work program, preference is given to applicants who are open and willing to learn about themselves within the work context as well as within the evening and weekend study/process groups. Applicants with particular skills or physically limiting conditions are urged to mention them on the application. It is necessary for applicants to be able to speak and understand English. First-month work students, in particular, are assigned to departments largely on the basis of community need. No work students will be assigned to the office until they have fulfilled a minimum of one month in one of the aforementioned departments, either during a current or a previous stay.

The study portion of the program is divided into two groups each month: each emphasizes one type of growth practice, such as gestalt, meditation, Reichian work, massage or somatics work, and so forth. Participants must be prepared to stay at Esalen for the full duration designated for that particular program, assuming that they meet the standards of the Work Study Program.

Please note: This program is designed to explore and apply human values and potentials in both the evening groups and the workplace. It is not intended as a substitute for therapy or as a "cure." It is sometimes possible to receive college unit credit for participating in the Work Study Program. Please check with your college or university for eligibility requirements.

Work Study Programs scheduled for this catalog period are:

January 7-February 4

Using Esalen massage as the primary focus, Peggy Horan will lead a monthlong program exploring touch, sensing, feelings, and presencing, relating these areas to both bodywork and daily life. In support of the massage work, sessions in group process, gestalt, and movement will be offered.

The focus of a month with David Schiffman will be on the theme of transition. It is geared for people facing major changes who would like to create a time for sanctuary and a mood of mutual support. The intention will be to cultivate an individual style of approaching change that is heartfelt, open-minded, and resourceful in spirit.

February 6-March 3

Jo Smith Hollman will lead a month focusing on the intertwining paths of personal growth and community building. Using exercises for the body/mind/spirit, dance, storytelling, bodywork, meditation, and guided imagery, this will be an exploration into developing awareness and self-love, and how to expand this development into healthy relating. “There is within us that which is within others…”

Elaine Hughes will offer an intensive writing program which incorporates meditation, visualization, body awareness, sense perception, and evocative writing exercises, all designed... to facilitate personal process work in addition to promoting fuller self-expression. Art, music, and movement will be used for deepening creativity and opening the imagination. Weekly gestalt open seats will be scheduled. Please bring a bound writing journal.

March 3-31

During this month Julian & Cynthia Silverman’s program will provide a format for mindfulness in everyday life using the teachings of A Course in Miracles, meditation, movement, and massage. Focusing on the theme of oneness and separateness, Judy Blackstone and Zoran Josipovic will provide ways to increase our capacity to love and our ability to be alone. Gestalt, movement, freeing the voice, communing with nature, and meditation will be incorporated to help develop healthy boundaries, spiritual awareness, and self-expression.

March 31-April 28

A month with John Soper & Friends will focus on ways to improve the quality of life for participants. Gestalt practice will be the vehicle for personal growth in a group setting. The group may also experience other practices, including games, to bring into focus those areas of our lives that are ripe for change. Nina Wise will present a program of “Motion Training,” a technique that utilizes sound, movement, language, and visual elements in the creation of spontaneous performances that arise from the inner life of the actor. This work enhances the ability to integrate language and movement, respond physically to emotional impulses, and give voice in sound and language to personal truths. In addition to performance work, there will be meditation, writing, and experiments with integrating spontaneity and play into daily life.

April 28-May 26

Joyce Frazee will invite the creative power of the dream and the dreamer to connect during this monthlong. Gestalt practice and dreamwork, meditation, drawing, storytelling, bioenergetics, and dancing will also be used to reveal that through our dreams we are connected to each other and to ourselves.

With an emphasis on the practice of massage, David Streeter will explore the inner power of the human being. He will combine the essence of Zen meditation with movement from the martial arts and yoga. These principles will be applied to the art of massage and the art of being in the world.

May 26-June 23

The basis of a month with Seymour Carter will be the gestalt method, supported by studies in various body disciplines, including sensory awareness, bioenergetics, and aikido. Each participant’s process of development will be honored, encouraged, and treated as unique. Lenore & Mel (Rudra) Lefer will lead this program. Lenore will offer an exploration of the inner journey within the framework of psychosynthesis, using guided imagery, journal writing, dreams, ritual, storytelling, and nature to create a supportive environment in which healing and transformation can occur. Mel will teach all levels of Integral Yoga, including postures, progressive relaxation, breathing practices, meditation, and visualization.

June 23-July 21

Eduardo Eizner & Guests will lead a month concentrating on emotional release work and self-awareness, incorporating gestalt practice, group and individual process, rituals, movement, and bodywork. Olga Luchakova will lead an integral mind-body-spirit training (sja and maha yoga) exploring the connection between subtle energy practices and self-realization. Meditation, special movement, work with chakras and meridians, psychospiritual exercises, and self-inquiry will be used to cultivate awareness and healing of the deepest layers of our mind-body system and to uncover the truth of who we really are. (It is suggested that participants follow an ovo-lacto-vegetarian diet—eggs and dairy allowed—during this training.)

Inasmuch as the Work Study Program is a complete program in itself, please do not plan to take regularly scheduled catalog workshops during your stay. Professional services, such as massage, are available at staff rates.

Fees: A deposit of $400 in U.S. currency is required with your application. The work scholar fee is $750 for the first month, $700 for the second month, and $650 for the third month. Work students may be invited to remain for a second or third month depending on space available and community needs. Occasionally it is possible to stay for a longer period of time as an Extended Student. There are no scholarships available for the Work Study Program.

Housing: Accommodations are shared (occasionally co-ed), with up to four people to a room, usually at South Coast Center, a staff complex located 1.5 miles north of Esalen. For more information contact Bette Dingman: 408-667-3010.

Please note: Application is not registration in the program. Registration is made only after approval of application and upon receipt of deposit. The balance of the fee is due on arrival. Of the original deposit, $100 is non-refundable and may be transferred to other programs within one year of receipt. Please return the application form (see next page) with your deposit to:

- Work Study Program
  - Esalen Institute
  - Big Sur, CA 93920

Institute of Transpersonal Psychology

Offers External Master’s Degrees

Work students have the opportunity to integrate their work study experience at Esalen with the external degree program of the Institute of Transpersonal Psychology. The external degree format enables students to study at any location. Work students will be able to continue the dynamics of personal growth fostered at Esalen while earning master’s degrees in transpersonal studies or in transpersonal psychology.

Inquiries and applications should be made directly to ITP Contact:

- Nancy Fagen
  - External Program
  - Institute of Transpersonal Psychology
  - 744 San Antonio Road
  - Palo Alto, CA 94303
  - 415-493-4430
Work Study Program Application

Name ________________________________ □ Male □ Female

Date of Birth ________________________ Occupation ________________________________

Place of Employment __________________________

Daytime Phone (____) ____________________ Home Address ____________________________

Evening Phone (____) ____________________ City/State/Zip code _________________________

Date of Application ______________________ Country _____________________________

Do you have any physically limiting conditions which might affect your full participation in this program? □ Yes □ No

If yes, please be specific. ____________________________________________________________

Are you currently taking any medications? □ Yes □ No □ No If yes, please specify: __________________________

Which program(s) are you interested in? Please list the leader's name. ____________________________

________________________________________

Please note: When focused programs continue with the same leader for more than one month, participants must be prepared to stay at Esalen for the full duration of that particular program.

The Work Study Program is for 28 days, beginning and ending on Sunday. Please list the dates of your choice, listing two alternative dates as well.

1st: __________ to __________ 2nd: __________ to __________ 3rd: __________ to __________

Work students may be invited to remain for a second or third month, depending on space available and the needs of the Esalen community. Please indicate your availability for such an invitation.

□ No extension □ One-month extension □ Two-month extension

Assignments to departments are made according to community labor needs. However, if you have particular skills that you're willing to use, especially in food preparation, gardening, maintenance, mechanics, construction, or housecare, please mention them here.

________________________________________

________________________________________

________________________________________

________________________________________

Please check here if you have emergency medical skills (M.D., R.N., or E.M.T.) and are willing to use them during your stay.

Attach a personal statement about your interest in the Work Study Program and why you'd like to participate.

All applicants are required to sign a standard release from liability and assumption of risk form as a condition of participation in the Work Study Program.

Note: No pets allowed.
Esalen Wilderness Programs
Refund Policy

Most expenses in wilderness programs are incurred preparing for your arrival. The Esalen Wilderness Program refund policy reflects the fact that few of these expenses can be recovered.

To reserve a space in a wilderness workshop, a nonrefundable deposit of $200 is required. The balance of the fee is due 14 days before the program begins. If you cancel prior to 30 days before the program begins, your nonrefundable deposit may be applied to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year. If you cancel from 30 days up to the starting date of the trip, your deposit is forfeited.

Origins: A Rites-of-Passage Journey in the Ventana Wilderness

Little Bear Nason & David Schiffman

We are initiated into authentic self-knowledge only by genuine challenges, experiences that test us, stretch us, and open us to the inner resources that we can rely on. This workshop is patterned after ancient tribal rites of passage used for awakening to the powerful healing influences of one's inner visions.

The journey begins with a gathering at the Esselen Tribe's ceremonial grounds high in the hills above Big Sur. Here participants will be initiated by tribal leaders into the sacredness of ceremony, dreamtime, and ritual in preparation for the rites of passage.

After hiking some of the most beautiful high ridge country in northern Big Sur, the group will arrive at an area used by generations of Esselen Indians for restoration and purification. From here each person will go off alone for two days and nights to his/her own sacred practice ground for the retrieval of the simple reverence for life and personal effectiveness that grows out of diligent cultivation of the soul.

Regathering after this solo time, participants will have the opportunity to share their stories. The practical application of the insights gained will be examined, marked, and celebrated.

This workshop is geared for people with a sincere interest in making real changes in their lives who are willing to take the time and receive the support necessary to make such changes.

Backpacking experience is not necessary. Be prepared for vigorous physical activity. The workshop begins on Sunday, July 16, at 6:30 p.m. at the Ventana Wilderness Ranch in Carmel Valley. Complete details and an equipment list will be sent upon registration.

$790

June 2-8

BSS PROGRAMS

A U D I O  R E C O R D I N G S

The Dolphin Tape Series

Each new tape list has a somewhat different emphasis in its selection of titles and speakers. In addition to the many well-known titles from familiar speakers included for the special attention of new customers, there are several additional tapes from some old favorites, the most recent recordings from others, and a few entirely new speakers, events, and subjects.

Dolphin Tapes has no complete catalog, just overlapping tape lists. When you place an order, let us know your field of interest or your favorite speakers. We may have more information on some of them. Many tapes are in stereo. Tape length is normally 1 to 1 1/2 hours.

Single-tape titles are $10:

- Abraham/McKenna/Sheldrake: TRIALOGUES: Preview and Sampler, 1989-90
- Abraham/Thompson: Eccentric Sunday Morning: Chaos and Order, 1993
- Gregory Bateson: The Limits of Science, 1978
- David Brower: Breaking the Species Barrier, 1971
- Joseph Campbell at 80: The Hero’s Journey (Celebration), 1984
- Barry Commoner: Human Meaning of Environmental Crisis, 1971
- Richard Feynman: Quantum Mechanical View of Reality, 1983
- David Finkelstein: A New Quantum Logic, 1976
- Stanislav Grof: A New Paradigm for Psychotherapy, 1980
- William Harris: Origin of the Psychedelic, 1965-1977
- Arthurl Hastings: Transpersonal Realities, 1979
- Gerard Heard: The Power of Wonder, 1954
- John Heider: Living in the Tao, 1987
- Albert Hofmann: LSD and the Nature of Reality, 1978
- Al Huang & David Darling: Dancing Cello, Dancing Tao, 1989
- Aldous Huxley: Human Potentialities (MIT Cambridge), 1961
- Laura Huxley: Recipes for Living and Loving (Guided Imagery), 1963
- Stanley Keleman: Biological Roots of Human Experience (Kaitros), 1970
- Jack Kornfield: The Simplicity of Spiritual Practice, 1983
- Jack Kornfield: On Buddhism: A Personal Story, 1983
- Timothy Leary: American Culture: 1965-1985 (College of Marin), 1977
- Janet Lederman: Early Childhood Experience (Gazebo), 1987
- John C. Lilly: The Dolphin Experience, 1969
- John & Toni Lilly: Integrating Science and Mysticism, 1981
- Abraham Maslow: Self-Actualization, 1966
- Terence McKenna: Surfing on Finnegans Wake, 1993
- Terence McKenna: Hot Concepts and Melting Edges, 1994
- Terence McKenna: Laws and Freedom, Habits and Novelty, 1994
- Humphrey Osmond: Early Psychiatric History, 1967
- Joseph Chilton Pearce: Intelligence of the Heart, 1992
- Fritz Perls: Gestalt Therapy and How It Works, 1966
- Carl Rogers: My Philosophy and How It Grew, 1972
- Rogers/Bateson: Dialogue on Thinking, Feeling, Learning, 1975
- Will Schutz: Principles and Philosophy of Encounter, 1970
- Daniel Sheehan: Philosophy of Christic Institute, 1991
- Rupert Sheldrake: Morphic Resonance and Memory, 1985
- Sheldrake/Pearce: Resonant Fields of Heart and Brain, 1993
- Julian Silverman: A Lighthearted Course in Miracles
- Huston Smith: The Nature of Reality (Boston), 1970
- Richard Tarnas: The Passion of the Western Mind, 1993
- Wilson Van Dusen: The Nature of Humanness, 1969
- Alan Watts: Divine Madness, 1968
- Carl Whitaker: On Becoming a Professional Therapist, 1989
- Arthur M. Young: The Reflexive Universe Interviews, 1983

Four-tape titles are $34:

- Ralph Abraham: The Chaos Revolution, 1994
- Joseph Campbell: Imagination in the Novels of James Joyce, 1968
- James Fadiman: A Weekend of Stories, 1984
- David Finkelstein: Indeterminacy and Undecidability, 1978
- Roland Fischer: Creative, Psychedelic, and Esoteric States, 1969
- Buckminster Fuller: Integrity Day (Marin), 1983
- Abraham Maslow: An Informal Weekend in Big Sur, 1966
- Terence McKenna: Conversation at the Edge of Magic, 1994
- Terence McKenna: Eros, Chaos, and Meaning’s Edge, 1994
- Terence McKenna: Deeper and Broader Questions, 1994
- David Steindl-Rast: Mysticism as a Frontier Experience, 1985
- David Steindl-Rast: Living in the Now, 1988
- David Steindl-Rast: Enjoying Poetry, 1992

The Dolphin Vinyl Binder Tape Sets:

- Angeles Arrien & Robert Bly: 6 Love in the Western World, 1984
- John C. Lilly: 6 Ego, Self, and Essence, 1971
- John C. Lilly: The East Coast Workshop, 1973
- Abraham Maslow: 6 The Eupyschian Ethic, 1969
- Joseph Chilton Pearce: 6 Journey to the Heart, 1990
- Rupert Sheldrake: 6 Incubation and Presence of the Past, 1985
- Andrew Weil: 6 All You Wanted to Know About Drugs, 1993
- Robert Anton Wilson: 6 The “Coincidence” of Joyce, 1985
- Rutchdy Alyn: 6 Lessons in the Feldenkrais Method (Series I or II)
- Mohso Feldenkrais: 6 Awareness Through Movement Lessons (Series I)
- Joseph Campbell: 8 Legends of Courtly Love and the Grail, 1983
- Terence McKenna: 8 Collected Talks: Series I (1982-85) or Series II (1983-86)
- Terence McKenna: 8 The Esalen Scholar-In-Residence Series, 1989
- Julian Silverman: 8 Commentaries on A Course in Miracles, 1980
- Colin Wilson: 8 The New Analytic Philosophy, 1967
- Colin Wilson: 8 New Pathways in Human Evolution, 1990
- Buckminster Fuller: 8 The Pajaro Dunes Tapes, 1977
- Terence McKenna: 8 True Hallucinations (A Talking Book), 1984
- Abraham/McKenna/Sheldrake: (6) TRIALOGUES at the Edge, 1989-90
- Virginia Satir: 10 Conjoint Family Therapy, 1968
- Joseph Campbell: 10 World Mythology Series, 1969 (Library Archives)
- Gregory Bateson: 12 Informal Esalen Lectures, 1975-1980 (Archives)

Please add $3.00 to your complete order for handling and mailing (add $3.00 more if you wish priority mail). Overseas orders add $1.00 per tape for mailing. California residents include 6 1/2% tax. Institutional purchase orders please add 10% to tape cost for invoicing and deferred payment. Allow 4 to 6 weeks for delivery (most orders are mailed within two weeks).

Please mail your order and your check payable to: DOLPHIN TAPES, P.O. Box 71, Big Sur, CA 93920

Advertisement: Dolphin Tapes is a private company independent of Esalen.
A

Ralph Abraham, known for his work in dynamics and chaos theory, is professor of mathematics at UCSB, and author of Chaos, Gaia, Eros: The Orphic Trinity in Myth and Science, and coauthor of Triologies at the Edge of the West. p. 23

Sarah Abukutsa is a professional singer and dancer who trained in her native Kenya before working in Europe and the U.S. She has worked with Babatunde Olatunji and Quincy Jones. p. 48

Andra Aker is founder and president of the International Synergy Institute, an interdisciplinary think tank for new ideas in art, science, and social change. She is presently writing a book, Conversations with the 21st Century. p. 57

Ronald Alexander is a health psychologist in private practice in Santa Monica, Calif., and a clinical core faculty member at Ryokan College. He is a consultant to the entertainment industry, specializing in creativity and leadership skills. p. 24, 31, 48, 69

Anne Armstrong has been doing transpersonal counseling for more than thirty years and has trained professionals to use their intuitive abilities. p. 42

Elliot Aronson, teacher, scientist, and author, has been leading workshops on self-awareness and self-compassion for over twenty-five years. He is a member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. p. 22

Vera Aronson is a counselor and group leader who specializes in issues relating to the elderly. p. 22

Angeles Arrien, a native Basque, is an author, anthropologist, educator, and corporate consultant, whose teachings are based on the universality of values, ethics, and experiences revealed through cross-cultural myths, symbols, and the arts. p. 17

Oliver Bailey is a practitioner and instructor of Esalen massage. His background includes training in gestalt practice, translinguistic programming, intuitive work, and meditation. p. 52

Richard Balaban is a clinical psychologist in private practice in Bloomington, Indiana, who delights in leading groups. He affirms joyfulness and the creation of a sense of self and community. p. 43

James Baraz has taught vipassana insight meditation retreats since 1977 and is cofounder of Spirit Rock Meditation Center in Marin County, Calif. He is the co-editor of Conversations With Critical Thinkers. p. 42

Riccio Coddington is a certified practitioner of holistic work with over thirty years' experience in deep healing work. She completed a three-year training program in transpersonal psychology with Stanislav and Christina Grof. p. 40

Stephen Cohen, gestalt practitioner and longtime golf hacker, is founder and president of the Shusius Irons Society, a nonprofit organization dedicated to enhancing golf's beauties and virtues. p. 39

Emilie Conrad-D'aoud is the founder of Continuum. Her innovative approach to movement has enhanced the creativity of artists in many fields and has led to new insights in the healing process. p. 41

Dale Cummings, certified Radiate® teacher and marriage and family counselor in West Los Angeles, Santa Cruz, and San Francisco, is director of training for the Radiate® Institute. p. 14, 50

Rabbi William Cutter was trained in the Ford-Esalen project in confluence education. He is a professor of modern literature and education at Hebrew Union College in Los Angeles. p. 33

B

Chris Carmine writes on Western alchemy and practical Qabalah. Her book, The Celluloid Warrantor, considers the application and misapplication of magic in film. She is president of Raven's Wolf Films. p. 52

Seymour Carter, longtime gestalt teacher at Esalen and in Europe, combines studies in family systems theory with Zen Buddhism, sensory awareness, aikido, and other body-oriented practices. p. 42, 47, 63

Camalul, A Quechua Indian, has authored twenty-one books and given over 2,000 lectures. He founded the Universal Pachamama Movement in Bolivia, hosting a spiritual community and international conferences. p. 62

Carl Chase (C.C.) is a bodyworker who specializes in cross-fiber friction and deep tissue methods. He has also studied sports massage and soft-tissue manipulation. p. 35, 49

Kens Chase has taught traditional Yang style Tai Chi Ch'uan for twenty-five years. He has studied with several Tai Chi masters and has taught internationally. He is the founder of MindBody Technologies, a corporate training company. p. 37

Randy Chernef conducts a three-year apprenticeship training program for practitioners in the field of somatic education. He is founder of a somatics center in Corte Madera, Calif. p. 42

Dan Clurman, a licensed MFTC, teaches critical thinking at Golden Gate University and is in private practice in Oakland, Calif. He is the co-editor of Conversations With Critical Thinkers. p. 42

David Daniels is a clinical professor of psychiatry at Stanford and an Enneagram teacher with Helen Palmer. Twenty-five years in private practice, he incorporates individual and group process, couples therapy, and clinical applications of the Enneagram. p. 17, 28

David Darling is a maverick cellist, composer, conductor, and teacher. He is cofounder of Music for People, an organization that humanizes the learning process of creating music. His latest recordings are Cello, Dark Wood, and 8-String Religion. p. 13

Lama Surya Das is a Buddhist scholar, poet, and translator of Tibetan texts. He is founder of the Daughters Foundation of America and author of The Snow Lion's Turquoise Mane: 150 Wisdom Tales from Tibet. p. 25

Bernie DeKoven, groupware pioneer and author, has designed business games for Sun Microsystems and Apple Computer, computer games for Children's Television Workshop, and community celebrations for hundreds of thousands of people. p. 43

Russell Delman was one of the first people chosen to lead authorized professional training programs in the Feldenkrais® Method. He has maintained a Zen meditation practice since 1971. p. 46

Jessica Moore Britt, gestalt and Reshavian practitioner in the Bay Area, is a teacher of the Ridwan Work School, which is dedicated to understanding spirituality and social development. p. 25

Michael Broder is a psychologist involved with the human potential movement for over twenty-five years. He is the author of The Art of Living Single and The Art of Staying Together, as well as Positive Attitude Training on cassette. p. 36

Daniel Brown is director of a group private practice in Cambridge, Mass., and assistant professor at Harvard Medical School. He has spent nearly two decades investigating states of consciousness, and is a coauthor of States of Consciousness. p. 38, 39

Mel Bucholtz holds degrees in psychology, philosophy, and literature, and trained with Milton Erickson. For the past twenty-five years his work has involved bringing out individuals' unique skills, capacities for self-healing, and outstanding performance. p. 33

Robin Bunsdie is co-manager of the Esalen kitchen and former chef/owner of two successful restaurants. She has over twenty-five years of professional cooking experience. p. 28, 52

654

67
Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita), longtime Esalen group leader, has over twenty years’ experience worldwide guiding people in breathwork, gestalt, vision improvement, movement, and meditation. Her current interest is swimming with wild dolphins in Hawaii. p. 57

Jed Diamond is a psychotherapist specializing in addiction recovery and gender re-identification. He is the author of The Warrior’s Journey Home: Healing Men, Healing the Planet and Looking for Love in All the Wrong Places: Overcoming Romantic and Sexual Addictions. p. 56

Eric Erickson is a long-term student of gestalt and Eastern philosophical traditions. p. 18

Pamela Espinoza is an Esalen massage practitioner who integrates spiritual patterning and movement with the interconnective relationships of the body. Her interests include llamas, wilderness explorations, dance, and the Medicine Wheel. p. 46

Caroline Estes is a cofounder of Alpha Farm, an Oregen intentional community (founded in 1972) which uses consensus in all its decision making. p. 19

Maty Faratz is a founder and director of Yoga Works in Santa Monica, Calif. She has been teaching and promoting yoga for the past ten years. p. 57

Warren Farrell author of Why Men Are The Way They Are and The Liberated Man, has been a pioneer in both the women’s and men’s movement, and has appeared on over 1,000 television and radio shows. p. 17

David Feinestein, a clinical psychologist, is coauthor of Personal Mythology and Rituals for Living and Dying. He has taught at The John Hopkins University School of Medicine. p. 27

Barbara Finderman is a researcher and lecturer on pre- and perinatal psychology and creator of the film Journey to be Born. She founded Pocket Ranch Institute. p. 27

Jerry Fletcher is president and founder of High Performance Dynamics, a management consulting and training company based in San Anselmo, Calif. p. 40

Robert Hart is a physician of the body/mind, psychiatrist, poet, and meditation teacher. He is cofounder of the Lomi School and the Lomi Community Clinic in Santa Rosa, and on the teaching staff of Spirit Rock Meditation Center. p. 52

Joyce Frazee, a gestalt practitioner in private practice, is the senior supervisor of the Gestalt Training Institute of Vancouver, Canada. She gives dream workshops in the U.S., Canada, and Europe. p. 38, 39, 63

Hal French has received multiple teaching awards at the University of South Carolina, and has authored several books on Asian religion. He lectures and leads study tours internationally. p. 59

Sherry Sanders Galloway is an Esalen massage staff practitioner and teacher whose focus is sports massage, balanced with Esalen bodywork. A practicing R.N., she specializes in emergency medicine and psychiatric intervention. p. 17

Lillian (Lesefko) Garner is an expert on facial communication. She studied facial analysis with her Chinese grandmother and has researched Chinese texts and Western studies that correlate this ancient science with modern psychology and medicine. p. 51

Glenna Gerard is cofounder of The Dialogue Group, specializing in interpersonal communication, leadership, and group facilitation. Her passion is integrating spiritual practice and conscious learning in personal and professional life. p. 21

Marushka Glissen is a clinical social worker on the staff of Mt. Auburn Hospital in Cambridge, Mass. She specializes in psychotherapy, hypnotherapy, and couples treatment. p. 19

Michael Goldberg, a management consultant specializing in workteam dynamics, is the author of the soon-to-be-released The Enneagram at Work. He consults using the Enneagram to a wide range of companies including Motorola and the CIA. p. 45

Mary Goldenson (Devaram) is a clinical psychologist, chiropractor, and certified Radix® teacher in Los Angeles. She has a private practice specializing in relationship therapy and transitions. p. 16, 21, 27, 29, 36, 38, 47, 54

Harriet Gonski is the originator of Cortical Reduaction®. She is a Feldenkrais® practitioner with a background in psychosophy, applied kinesiology, transpersonal work, and social anthropology. p. 48

Stanislav Grof is a psychiatrist, author, and researcher of psychotherapy and non-ordinary states of consciousness. He is co-developer of Holotropic Breathwork, and conducts workshops and trainings worldwide. p. 32

Robert Hall is a physician of the body/mind, psychiatrist, poet, and meditation teacher. He is co-founder of the Lomi School and the Lomi Community Clinic in Santa Rosa, and on the teaching staff of Spirit Rock Meditation Center. p. 52

Ryushin Paul Haller, Zen priest, is spiritual director of the San Francisco Zen Center and a member of the Board of Directors of the Zen Hospice Project. He co-leads volunteer trainings and provides spiritual counseling to the dying and their caregivers. p. 57

Eleanor Criswell Hanna, professor of psychology at Sonoma State University, is editor of Somatics, director of the Novato Institute for Somatic Research and Training, and author of How Yoga Works. p. 17

Michael Hamer has practiced shamanism and shamanic healing for more than thirty-five years and pioneered their return to contemporary life. His books include The Way of the Shaman, The Jivaro, and Hallucinogens and Shamanism. p. 14, 58

Steven Harper coordinates Esalen’s Wilderness Programs. He has led both traditional and experimental expeditions internationally for nearly twenty years. His work focuses on wild nature as a vehicle for awakening. p. 37, 47, 52, 53

Susan Harper teaches Continuum Dance Meditation workshops in Los Angeles and San Francisco, leads Dance the River trips on wild rivers, and has presented at the Joy-Spangler Aslomar Conference. p. 51

John Harris is a bodyworker and somatic therapist with fifteen years’ experience treating physical and emotional pain. He specializes in sports massage and has worked extensively with post-traumatic stress disorder. p. 17

Andrew Harvey, born and raised in South India and educated at Oxford, was the youngest ever professor of All Souls College. Scholar, educator, and author, his twenty-two books include novels, poems, and translations. p. 45

David Hawkins, a psychiatrist in private practice, has trained group therapists at Duke University and throughout the U.S. He is past president of the American Academy of Psychotherapists. p. 30

Julie Henderson, has studied mind-body/body-as-mind for twenty years in both Tibetan and Western traditions. She is the author of The Lover Within and the forthcoming How to Feel as Good as You Can in Spite of Everything. p. 53

Christian Hendricks is an Aston Patterner®, Ju Jutsu instructor, and licensed massage therapist. He is in private practice in Seattle, Wash., specializing in increasing performance, rehabilitating injuries, ergonomic consultation, and movement education. p. 33

Jo Smith Hollman is a therapist and professor of sociology in Jackson, Miss. She is the author of The Healthy Personality: Being and Doing, and has been leading workshops on self and community for over twenty-five years. p. 62

Maria Lucia Sauer Holloman has practiced spiritual healing in Brazil and the U.S. since 1982. She has been a resident student and teacher at Esalen and conducts trainings and seminars internationally. p. 37

Chungliang Al Huang teaches Tai Ji philosophy, East/West Synthesis, and the art of movement meditation. He is the founder/president of the Living Tao Foundation, and the director of Lao Tze Institute in the Sacred Mountains of China. p. 13, 14, 15, 33

Lawrence Hudetz is both artist and scientist. From electrical engineering he moved into photography emphasizing science and art in synergy. His work is exhibited at the International Center of Photography and the Art Institute of Chicago. p. 53

Elaine Hughes, author of Writing from the Inner Self and several other books on writing, has been combining meditation with writing exercises in her teaching for over twenty years. p. 62

Dorothy S. Hunt has been practicing psychotherapy since 1967 and is the founder of the San Francisco Center for Meditation and Psychotherapy. She is the editor of Love: A Fruit Always in Season. p. 21

Helen Hunt is the founder of the New York Women’s Foundation and the Dallas Women’s Foundation. She is also founder and president of the Sister Fund and a board member of the MS Foundation. p. 36

Terry Hunt is a licensed psychologist and certified bioenergetic therapist specializing in addictive disorders and adults from dysfunctional families. He is coauthor of Emotional Healing and Secrets to Tell, Secrets to Keep. p. 34, 59

Leigh Hyams is a painter/teaching-artist at UC Berkeley Extension, adjunct professor at JFK University, and teacher at Atsitsa in Greece. A Fullbright Scholar whose work has been exhibited internationally, she leads art tours for museums and universities. p. 43

Sandra Ingerman is an international faculty member of Michael Harner’s Foundation for Shamanic Studies. She is the author of Soul Retrieval: Mending the Fragmented Self. p. 15, 24, 58

Ione is a writer, director, and playwright, author of the memoir Pride of Family: Four Generations of American Women of Color. She is also a psychotherapist who facilitates access to dreams, myths, and ancestral memories. p. 44
Ovid Jacob is a particle physicist and research associate at the Stanford Linear Accelerator Center. He has written and performed on quantum physics and its relation to alchemical and hallucinogenic models. p. 52

Linda Jacobson is a professional artist who teaches transformational art at UCLA and internationally. Her teaching reflects her involvement with Tibetan Buddhism, Jungian concepts, and shamanism. p. 23

Alan Jones trained for the priesthood in England, taught the Christian mystical tradition in New York for twelve years, and in 1965 became dean of Grace Cathedral, San Francisco. He is the author of Soul Making and The Soul's Journey. p. 44

Zoran Jospic is a counselor, meditation teacher, and co-director of Realization School in Marin County, Calif., and Woodstock, N.Y. He is a longtime student of Eastern contemplative traditions and co-founder of Zen for Beginners. p. 63

Miriam Kahn is a licensed clinical social worker and trained bioenergetics therapist in private practice in Cambridge, Mass. Her areas of expertise include gender and sexuality as well as recovery from psychological trauma. p. 31, 59

Norman Katz is director of the Milton Erickson Institute of Hypnosis and the Behavioral Sciences of New Mexico. He teaches in Albuquerque and Santa Fe. p. 45

Sam Keen is the author of eleven books, including The Passionate Life, Faces of the Enemy, and most recently, Hymns to an Unknown God. p. 25

Margaret Kemeny is trained in behavioral science and immunology. She conducts psychoneuroimmunological research at the UCLA School of Medicine on individuals infected with the HIV virus. p. 14

Tim Kennedy is a molecular neurobiologist whose work focuses on the characterization of molecular mechanisms which guide the development of the nervous system. Popular accounts of his work can be found in Discover, Nature, and Science. p. 57

Paul Krassner is editor of The Realist—"the best satirical periodical published in America" (Library Journal). He is an award-winning stand-up comedian—"the last live Lenny Bruce" (Cronoeh Marx). p. 40

Stanley Krippner is professor of psychology at Saybrook Institute and California Institute of Integral Studies, and co-founder of Personal Mythology, Dreamworking, Dream Telepathy, and Realms of Healing. p. 27

Susan Kuttner is a marketing and communications consultant, both in business and the healing arts. Her focus is on assisting her clients in becoming more effective, more powerful, more heartfelt, and more successful in their efforts. p. 52

Stephen LaBerge is a scientist dedicated to the transformation of human consciousness. He teaches and researches conscious or "lucid" dreaming at Stanford University. p. 19

Sarah LaSalle is a counselor and teacher who specializes in healing blocks to self-love and creativity. She is a private practitioner in Santa Monica, Calif. p. 51

Leonard Laskow is a Fellow of the American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology and former chief of OB-GYN at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula. He teaches internationally at medical centers, universities, and holistic institutes. p. 38

Barbara Lee is a ceramist who has worked with groups for the past fifteen years. She focuses on "heart-centered" remembrance of the Divine. p. 39, 51

Lenore Lefert is a psychotherapist in San Francisco who teaches and leads professional training in psychosynthesis in the U.S. and Russia. She also facilitates retreats for women and for people with heart disease and cancer. p. 18, 63

Mel Lefert has been a research participant and teacher at Dr. Dean Ornish’s Preventive Medicine Research Institute for nine years, and has shown reversal of his own heart disease without surgery. He has practiced and taught Integral Yoga for nine years. p. 18, 63

George Leonard is the author of Mastery; The Silent Pulse, and The Transformation. He is a fourth-degree black belt in aikido and founder of Leonard Energy Training (LET). p. 26, 51

Elisa Lodge is an expressive arts therapist with thirty years’ experience teaching body/mind practices. She is a professional actress and performer. p. 19, 53

Ron Loeb is a corporate lawyer who focuses on corporate governance and responsibility. He is a member of the Jefferson Circle, a learning group for senior corporate executives drawn to the issues of individual and corporate renewal. p. 54

Paul Lounsbury is a founding member of the New York Forum for Psychotherapy Cybernetics, studied hypnosis and psychotherapy with Milton Erickson. He is in private practice in New York and specializes in the innovative use of hypnosis. p. 34

Francis Lu is a clinical professor of psychiatry at UCSF and deputy chief for inpatient psychiatry at San Francisco General Hospital. He has conducted seminars at Esalen on film and transpersonal psychology. p. 20

Oiga Luchakova is a spiritual teacher with an extensive background in Christian mysticism, Advaita Vedanta, Raja yoga, Buddhism, and Slavic paganism. She is an adjunct professor at the California Institute of Integral Studies. p. 63

David Lukoff is a professor of psychology at Saybrook Institute and a psychologist at the San Francisco VA Day Treatment Center. He has published articles on the spiritual and religious dimensions of clinical practice. p. 20

Nancy Kaye Lunney, formerly a vocal coach and accompanist, is the originator of Singing Gestalt, which utilizes lyrics and songs as means of self-expression. She is director of programming at Esalen. p. 26

Ron Luyet is a psychotherapist, group facilitator, and organizational development consultant. His work is based on openness, responsibility, and compassion, as detailed in his recent book, Where Freedom Begins, coauthored with Marion Pastor. p. 50

Kathryn Lydecker, licensed marriage and family therapist, is a senior associate of the Lomi School. She is in private practice in Taos, N.M., and Amarillo, Texas. p. 43

Joyce Lyke is a teacher in the Ridwan Work School, which is dedicated to understanding the relationship between personality and being. She has been part of the Esalen Gestalt staff for many years. p. 25, 56

Sandra Maitri is a teacher of the Ridwan School, home of the Diamond Approach. She has been involved in spiritual and psychological work for the last twenty-five years. p. 56

Heilen Jerene Malcolm, artist, consultant, and teacher, works with a visionary consulting team designing long-range vision paintings for individual clients and Fortune 500 corporations. p. 15, 39

Noel Mapstead is a local fine artist and potter. He has studied and exhibited extensively in New York and is now at home with Big Sac rings using traditional firing techniques. p. 28

Jena Marcovici is a former touring professional tennis player (1972-1976) who competed against Borg and Vilas. He has a doctorate in counseling and psychology, and a private sports psychology practice in Richmond, Mass. p. 27

Peller Marion is a psychologist, writer, and organizational management consultant. She is president of Peller Marion Associates, Inc., an outplacement and executive development coaching corporation in San Francisco. p. 19

Dennis Marrott is a graduate of the New England Culinary Institute and co-founder of the Esalen kitchen. p. 28, 52

Dean Marson is a practitioner and instructor of Esalen massage who uses self-care techniques as a means of introducing people to the pleasure and potential of human touch. p. 29, 59

Robert Maurer is a Director of Behavioral Sciences for the Family Practice Residency Program at Santa Monica Hospital and a faculty member at the UCLA School of Medicine. He works with theatrical compa-
Arthur Munyer, a member of the Esalen massage crew since 1975, is a trigger point specialist and longtime bodywork practitioner trained by Dub Leigh, Fritz Smith, and Lauren Berry. p. 25

Michael Murphy founded Esalen Institute (with Richard F. Scott) in 1962, and helped initiate Esalen’s Soviet American Exchange Program. He is the author of Golf in the Kingdom; Jacob Atabet; and The Future of the Body. p. 26

Paula Murphy is a psychotherapist, educator, and workshop leader in private practice in Denver, Colo. She has developed curricula on “Human Sexuality” and “Education for Human Living.” p. 40

Claudio Naranjo, growth disciplines theorist and former Esalen resident, introduced meditation as an adjunct to therapy and was first to teach the enneagram as personality psychology in the U.S. He has given the opening address at all the International Gestalt Conferences. p. 26

Little Bear Nason is the seventh generation spiritual leader of the Esalen Indian Tribe of Big Sur. His life is an apprenticeship to the Earth. p. 50, 65

Maria Nemeth, a clinical psychologist, has been leading seminars for twenty-five years emphasizing successful communication and the development of excellence with ease. p. 50

Mudita Nisker is an MFCC who directs Communication Options and has conducted communication training nationally since 1978. A clinical supervisor at the California Institute of Integral Studies, she has a private practice in Oakland, Calif. p. 42

Wes “Scoop” Nisker is considered the dean of new radio journalism and is editor of Inquiring Mind, a journal of the Vipassana Buddhist community. He is the author of Crazy Wisdom. p. 40

Heather Maycock Ogilvy, a psychologist in Menlo Park, Calif., has been in private practice for eighteen years, working with adults and children. She is a longtime Esalen group leader. p. 29

Babatunde Olatunji, master percussionist from Nigeria, has performed internationally for thirty-five years and is known for his albums Drums of Passion. He is a certified SomatoEmotional Release instructor and has earned the title of “Yoga Acharya.” p. 29

Melody Schaper is a Laban Movement Analyst and teacher. A Laban Movement Analyst and teacher, she has studied with over twenty instructors and is also a movement teacher and a lay Bodhisattva priest in the Soto Zen tradition. She brings deep interest and training in psychology and the arts to her consideration of ways to live a spiritual life. p. 20

Robert Sandoff, a senior associate of the Lomi School, has led workshops and trainings in personal growth for fifteen years. He has been in private practice since 1976, currently in Santa Rosa, Calif. p. 43

Audrey Savage, gestalt practitioner and body therapist, works with women’s issues, sexuality and spirituality, and the tarot. She is the author of The Fourth Woman and Twice Raped. p. 30

Robert Schechter focuses his work on spiritual and emotional growth. His teaching introduces the insights and practices of a variety of Eastern and Western psychological and spiritual traditions. He is the author of Rekindling the Spirit in Work. p. 39, 51

David Schiffman is a longtime group leader at Esalen. His primary interest is in facilitating people who are in transition toward a more heartfelt, unstrained existence. p. 15, 25, 28, 32, 36, 45, 50, 54, 64, 65

Bill Schurz, senior Esalen massage practitioner and teacher, integrates his degree in body awareness psychology with a noninvasive massage approach to maximize the release of both mind and body tension. p. 35

Willis Schurz, founder of the Antioch holistic studies department, is the creator of The Human Element, a set of training materials for organizations. He is the author of Joy and Profound Simplicity. p. 15

Suzanne Scurluck-Durana, a certified instructor of CranioSacral Therapy for the Upledger Institute since 1986, has a private wholistic body therapy practice in Reston, Va. p. 56

Bill Sechrest, a past board member of Esalen, is Vice Chairman (U.S.) of the World Business Academy and president of James Sniechowski is a founder and director of the Mensurwirth Center in Los Angeles. He and wife Judith Syenon have appeared on numerous television and radio shows, and have conducted over 1,000 relationship and gender reconciliation workshops. P. 57

George Solomon, physician and professor of psychiatry at UCLA, is a pioneer in the field of psychoneuroimmunology. His current research concerns psychoneuroimmunologic aspects of AIDS and of aging. P. 14, 43

Robert Solomon is a professor at the University of Texas and has been giving seminars at Esalen for twelve years. He is the author of many books, including The Passions and About Love. P. 29

Titos Somp is a dancer, choreographer, and percussionist who specializes in the cultural arts of the Congo and Zaire. He is the artistic director of Mebendi Dance Theatre Project in Santa Cruz, and teaches and performs worldwide. P. 44

John Soper is a gestalt practitioner with a background in international business. He is deeply aware of the need to improve the environment. P. 63

Kathleen Riordan Speth, a psychologist in private practice who, though trained in Buddhism, Sufi, and Hindu methods, prefers to emphasize Western perspectives. She is author of The Gurdjiev Work, a lover of Bach, Rilke, and roses, and a closet creative writer. P. 14, 48

Brother David Steindl-Rast, Benedictine monk, psychologist, and author, has lectured on five continents. He is Spiritual Teacher-in-Residence at Esalen, concerned with the unique challenges and opportunities of our time. P. 15, 16

Margaret Stevens is a senior member of the Esalen massage staff and a student of yoga, dance, and voice. P. 16

Gail Stewart directs reSource, a bodywork training and continuing education program in Berkeley, Calif. She teaches and practices massage, trigger, and Reichian approaches. P. 49

David Streeter, a certified sports massage practitioner on the Esalen massage staff, has taught yoga and anatomy and worked as an athletic trainer. Before joining the Esalen faculty, he lived as a Camaldolese monk. P. 13, 30, 55-63

Keiko Suga is a ceramic artist whose focus is on traditional pottery-making techniques using local clays. P. 28

Yao Tamakloe studied African dance, music, and literature at the University of Ghana and at UCLA. He dances with the Drum of Passion Dancers. P. 48

Jim Tamm an administrative law judge dealing with labor-management disputes. Over the past twenty-five years he has conducted over 1000 settlement conferences, many involving highly emotional strike situations. P. 50

Richard Tamas, former director of programs at Esalen, is professor of philosophy and psychology at the California Institute of Integral Studies, and author of The Passion of the Western Mind. P. 32

Jeremy Taylor has taught dream work for over twenty-five years. He is president of the Association for the Study of Dreams and author of Dream Work and Where People Fly and Water Runs Uphill. P. 49

Linda Teurs is an organizational consultant and co-founder of The Dialogue Group. She specializes in leadership, self-organizing/management teams, interpersonal communications, and integration of dialogue into a wide variety of settings. P. 11

Michael Tracy has been an artistic director of Pilobolus Dance Theatre since 1974, and served as touring artistic director from 1981-1987. He has taught at many colleges and universities, most recently Trinity College and Yale University. P. 54

David Trickett, president of the World Business Academy, has worked in business, government, and education. He has degrees in history, ethics, and worldwide spiritual traditions, and a doctorate focusing on values in complex human systems. P. 54

Robert Turner is an assistant clinical professor of psychiatry at UCSF and in private practice in San Francisco. He was the director of a training/certification program in spiritual emergences. P. 20

Stuart Twemlow, physician, psychoanalyst, advanced harata black-belt, and Zen student, is clinical professor of psychiatry at the University of Kansas School of Medicine, and consultant on violence and peace to the government of Jamaica. P. 31

Jean-Claude van Italie, renowned off-broadway playwright (America Hurrah, The Serpent, widely produced versions of Chekhov), is also a longtime lover of Bach, Rilke, and roses, and a closet creative writer. P. 14, 48

Ellen Watson practices and teaches at Esalen where she has studied since 1984. Her bodywork style reflects her training in yoga, dance, Reichian and holotropic breathwork, hypnosis, and spiritual healing. P. 55

Stephanie Waxman is the head of the speech department at Hebrew Union College. She is a founding member of the Wims, an all-female improvisation ensemble, and We Tell Stories, a children's theater company. She has authored two children's books. P. 33

Laurie Weaver is a teacher, counselor, and certified practitioner of Holotropic Breathwork with a private practice in San Francisco. She was an original member of the ContraTranspersonal Training staff. P. 20

Matt Weinstein is the founder and Emperor of Playfair, Inc., an international management consulting and team-building organization based in Berkeley, Calif. He is the author of Managing to Have Fun. P. 43

Ganga White, yogi, author, and teacher, has practiced and taught internationally for thirty years. Founder of the White Lotus Foundation in Santa Barbara, Calif., he trains teachers and holds the titles of "Yoga Acharya" and "Vagish." P. 45

Nancy Winston is a counselor in New York City who has studied with Milton Erickson and has taught and trained clinicians in the use of hypnosis and counseling. P. 34

Anna Wise has been using EEGs to measure and train brainwaves for high performance and meditative states for the past twenty years. A member of the Academy of Certified Neuropsychologists, she leads workshops internationally. P. 36, 47

Nina Wise is a performance artist who creates autobiographical and fictional pieces. Her multimedia works have been honored with seven Bay Area Critics' Circle awards and numerous grants and fellowships. P. 30, 63

Roger Woolger is a Jungian analyst who brings Buddhist meditation and body release work to his regression process and spiritual healing. Author of Other Lives, Other Selves, and The Goddess Within, he trains therapists in Europe and America. P. 37

Anne Yeomans, a psychotherapist in Concord, Mass., has used psychosynthesis as the central framework for her work over twenty years. She has worked with women's groups in the U.S., Canada, Russia, and Lithuania. P. 18

Philip Zarrilli has studied kalarippayattu with Guru Bhadran Goundanbatty Nayar in Kerala since 1977. Professor at California State University, Los Angeles, he also teaches self-defense and yoga, and has authored/editied five books. P. 47

Ofer Zut is a psychotherapist, author, and teacher who focuses on effective therapy, the psychology of the caregiver, and integrative ways of healing. He practices in Sonoma, Calif. P. 55

Mira Zussman is associate professor of comparative religion and coordinator of Middle East Studies at San Jose State University. She is currently working on her second book, The Feminine Roots of Kabbalah. P. 52
This form is for your convenience in reserving a space in Esalen workshops. If you wish to make reservations for more than one person, please photocopy this form so that each registrant has his/her own form, unless you are registering as a couple with the same address and phone number. A nonrefundable deposit for each person registering and each workshop applied for must accompany this form. (Please see Reservation Information, page 4, under Fees and Reservations, Making Contact with Us, and Cancellation and Refund Policy.)

Name of Registrant

Address

City State Zip

Home Phone: ( ) Work Phone: ( )

Sex: M ☐ F ☐ Couple ☐

☑ Check if you have previously been to Esalen and this is a new address.

Occasionally there are unexpected situations that require us to contact you immediately before your stay here. If you will not be at the above numbers during the two weeks prior to the workshop, where may we reach you?

Please mark your first and second choices for housing after referring to page 4 for accommodation descriptions and rates. Total cost includes workshop fees, lodging, and meals.

☐ Check for standard accommodations, if available.

☐ Check for bunk bed room, if available.

☐ Check for sleeping bag space, if available.

☐ Check if you wish to room as a couple.

Write here the name(s) of any person(s) with whom you wish to room.

All workshop reservations require a nonrefundable deposit. Balance is due at time of check-in. (See page 4.)

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Workshop Date</th>
<th>Leader's Name</th>
<th>Fee</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Workshop Deposits Enclosed:</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Tax-deductible contribution to Esalen (Optional): $5

$5 Catalog Contribution (Optional): $5

Subtotal: $5

Total Amount Enclosed: $5

☐ Check here for $5 prepay discount (see page 5).

☐ Check here if this is your first visit to Esalen.

☐ Check here if you need directions to Esalen.

☐ Check here if you are a senior.

FOR OFFICE USE ONLY

DATE REC. RES INITIALS CIRCLE DEPOSIT CC CK CA SUS
DEPOSIT AMT. RES. BK CC AUTH. #
DATE TYPED TYPED INITIALS PP SCHOL LIMO SENIOR

Passenger Van Service:
I want transportation from (check one):

☐ Monterey Greyhound Bus Stop at approximately 3:45 PM 1042 Del Monte Avenue (corner of Aguajito)

☐ Monterey Airport at approximately 4:00 PM on

(date of arrival, Fridays and Sundays only).

The $30 per person charge (subject to change) is payable on arrival at Esalen. If your plans for use of the passenger van service change after you have made your reservation, please notify us. The only departing van service from Esalen is on Fridays and Sundays at approximately 5:30 PM. Passenger van service is not available at any other time.

Other Notes:
All of our rooms are non-smoking. If you smoke, please plan to do so outside.

No pets allowed.

We are unable to act as a banking service for our guests. Please bring adequate funds for your stay.

☐ We occasionally make our mailing list available to other organizations who have services, information, or events that might be of interest to our subscribers. Please check here if you prefer that your name be used for Esalen mailings only.

☐ Check here if you do not want your phone number given out for ride-sharing.

Please make checks payable to Esalen Institute, in U.S. currency only. (There will be a $15 fee for returned checks.) Overseas residents must pay by checks drawn on U.S. banks or with one of the charge cards below. Checks or credit card information must accompany the reservations form. Or, you may fax this form to us at 408-667-2724. If you do so, you must include payment via one of the credit cards below.

Your reservation can be charged to:

☐ MasterCard ☐ Visa ☐ American Express

Card No. Expiration Date Authorizing Signature

Thank you for your reservation. As soon as it is processed you will receive by return mail a receipt for your deposit and a notice of confirmation. Please review your confirmation for accuracy.
Esalen Institute is a center to encourage work in the humanities and sciences that promotes human values and potentials. Its activities consist of public seminars, residential work-study programs, invitational conferences, research, and semi-autonomous projects.
Esalen Institute is a center to explore work in the humanities and sciences that promotes human values and potentials. The Institute exists to sponsor, encourage, and attempt evaluation of work in these areas, both inside and outside our own organizational framework. Esalen's activities consist of public seminars, residential work-study programs, invitational conferences, research, and semi-autonomous projects.

Since Esalen is a center for experimental education, we ask that persons come to our programs out of an educational interest. We do not offer “cures” or assurances of change. As a center to foster personal and social transformation, Esalen offers those who join us the chance to explore more deeply the world and themselves.

Welcome to Esalen.
CONTENTS

Volume xxxv, Number 2

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Audio Recordings</td>
<td>66</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Biographical Information</td>
<td>67</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Catalog Subscription Information</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Continuing Education</td>
<td>60</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Esalen Notes</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Esalen Seminars</td>
<td>13</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Friends of Esalen</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Future Programs</td>
<td>58</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gazebo School Park Early Childhood Program</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>General Information</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Guide to Workshops</td>
<td>9</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Invitational Conferences</td>
<td>59</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reservation Form</td>
<td>72</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reservation Information</td>
<td>4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Scholarship Information</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“The Life We Are Given”</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Special Programs</td>
<td>58</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wilderness Programs</td>
<td>65</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Work Study Program and Application</td>
<td>62-64</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

---

Esalen Institute
Highway 1
Big Sur, California 93920-9616

Catalog Requests: 408-644-8476

Esalen Board of Trustees:
Mary Ellen Klee
Bokara Legendre
George Leonard
Michael Murphy
Jeremy Tarcher

President and CEO:
Sharon Thom

Director of Programming:
Nancy Kaye Lunney

Operations Manager:
David Price

Personnel Manager:
Pat Lewine

Esalen Catalog Staff:
Editors:
Margaret Livingston
Peter Friedberg

Administrative Liaison:
Kasia Zajac

Design & Production:
Terry McGrath

The Esalen Catalog is published triannually by the Esalen Institute,
Big Sur, California 93920-9616.
Printed on recycled paper.
©1996 Esalen Institute.
All rights reserved.

Subscription Information:
Subscription cost for one year is $15 for the United States, $17 for Canada and Mexico, $22 for Europe and South America, and $25 for all other countries.

Although we're delighted to provide you with this issue of the catalog, if you are not currently a subscriber we would appreciate a $5 contribution to defray postage and production costs.
GENERAL INFORMATION

Esalen was founded in 1962 as an educational center devoted to the exploration of unrealized human capacities. It became known for its blend of East/West philosophies, its experiential/didactic workshops, the steady influx of philosophers, psychologists, artists, and religious thinkers, and its breathtaking grounds blessed with natural hot springs. Once home to a Native American tribe known as the Esselen, Esalen is situated on 27 acres of spectacular Big Sur coastline with the Santa Lucia Mountains rising sharply behind.

There are various ways to experience Esalen, ranging from an overnight visit to a long-term stay as a seminarian. The weekend and five-day workshops described throughout the catalog are the standard route for coming to Esalen. The “Experiencing Esalen” workshops, scheduled periodically, offer an introduction to practices such as gestalt, massage, sensory awareness, and meditation. From such a sampling, participants can then choose those approaches they are most attracted to and pursue them in subsequent seminars.

Another way of being at Esalen which allows a greater involvement at a lower expense is the Work Study Program, an intensive twenty-eight day work-oriented program for individuals who want to make a directed, personal commitment to self-exploration and growth, and a contribution to the Esalen community. For a full description of the Work Study Program, please turn to page 62.

For those who wish an extended stay, there are periodic long-term programs which include didactic seminars or professional trainings as well as experiential workshops. Please see Special Programs.

Finally, there are other events that enrich life at Esalen. There are occasional forums in which writers and thinkers, both visiting and resident, share their ideas with the community. On Wednesday nights there may be lectures, films, dance performances, or other events. Bodywork of various kinds is available by appointment with individual practitioners. There is also a community event schedule offered. Please check the bulletin board when you arrive.

Esalen is a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on Coast Route 1. From the south, we are 50 miles north of San Simeon. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute, By Reservation Only.

Catalog Subscriptions

If you would like to receive the Esalen Catalog, please refer to page 2 for subscription rates and send your check or money order (U.S. currency) in the enclosed subscription envelope, or mail it to: Subscriptions, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920 (see Income Tax Regulation 1.162-5).

The Hot Springs at Esalen

We would like those people who are planning their first visit to Esalen to know that swimsuits are optional, and nudity common, in the hot springs, massage area, and swimming pool. We encourage each individual to choose what is most comfortable, either wearing a swimsuit or not, and emphasize that the environment we strive for at Esalen is one of personal sanctity and respect for the human body.

In addition to around-the-clock availability for Esalen guests, the hot springs are open to the general public by reservation only from 1 am to 3 am. There is a $10 fee. To make a reservation, please call 408-667-3047.

Please note: We are planning to begin upgrading our bath facilities in the fall of 1996. During this time, the baths will remain open with limited access. Massages will be available in alternate locations.

Accreditation

Many formal educational institutions recognize the time spent at Esalen as being worthy of credit in their own curricula; check with your university or college for further information. We would be glad to supply information to your school regarding any of our programs or series of programs. Please submit a written request to the office supervisor.

Continuing Education at Esalen

Esalen is a provider of continuing education credits for both nurses and psychologists. Approved workshops for nurses are noted in the Seminars section of this catalog as well as listed separately in the Continuing Education section, page 60. There is a $10 fee for each certificate of completion.

Workshops approved for psychologists are noted in the Seminars section and listed in the Continuing Education section. Those workshops for which C.E.U. applications have been filed and approval is pending are noted in the Seminars section only. For current status information, please phone Brita Ostrom at 408-667-3040.

Disabled Access

Esalen now provides a means of transportation to the baths for those with physical limitations which prevent them from walking. A vehicle was purchased, in part, through the generosity of Dr. John W. Harris, who believes, as we do, that those among us who are aged, infirm, or handicapped should also be able to enjoy the hot springs.

If you are disabled and would like to plan a visit to Esalen or participate in a workshop, please give the office as much advance notice as possible. While disabled access to some parts of the property is difficult, with enough planning, arrangements can be made for access to most of our facilities.

Recommended Reading and Mail Order Books

Most books listed as recommended reading for workshops are available through Esalen’s bookstore. Other merchandise is also available. For ordering information please call 408-667-3049.

Ongoing Residence Program

Offered beginning mid-September and ending mid-June, the Ongoing Residence Program is designed for those who would like to have time and space in the Esalen environment for an intensive workshop program over a long term. A Residence Program stay is 26 days (four “weeks” and three weekends). Participants may select any of the five-day workshops offered during their stay with weekends free to enjoy room and board. Occasionally workshops are cancelled, so second choices are advised.

The cost is $195 per 26-day period for standard accommodations and $2520 for bunk bed rooms.
Making Contact with Us

Mail or Fax: The most efficient way to register for a workshop at Esalen is to fax or mail your reservation. If you fax your reservation, be sure to include accurate credit card information.

Esalen’s Fax: 408-667-2724.
(Our fax line is exclusively for reservations—no personal correspondence, please).

Phone: If you prefer to make your reservation by phone, please be prepared with your completed reservation form, workshop dates and leaders, and your credit card. We know that all calls to Esalen are long-distance and will try to be as efficient as possible.

General Information: 408-667-3000

Express Reservations: 408-644-8477
(This is only for those who have previously taken a workshop at Esalen and know the workshop, date, and leader of the workshop for which they are registering.)

All Other Reservations: 408-667-3005

Catalog Requests: 408-644-8476

Phone Reservation Hours:* Mon., Tues., Thru.: 10 AM to 7 PM
Wednesday: 10 AM to 12 NOON
Friday: 10 AM to 5 PM
Saturday: 10 AM to 3 PM
Sunday: 12 NOON to 5 PM

*The reservation office is closed on Christmas and New Year’s Day.

World Wide Web: http://www.esalen.org

Fees

Fees and Reservations: Preregistration by fax, mail, or phone, is required prior to arrival. A registration form is provided on page 72. Since workshops fill quickly, it is advisable to sign up as early as possible. In order to reserve a space in any workshop, we require full payment or the following deposits:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Period</th>
<th>Deposit Amount</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>12 to 14 days</td>
<td>$350</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5 to 7 days</td>
<td>$250</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12 to 14 days</td>
<td>$350</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Deposits are payable in U.S. currency only. Overseas residents must pay by checks drawn on U.S. banks or use a credit card. Balance of payment is due on arrival. (Please see page 5 for information on discounts and reduced rate options.)

Please indicate your second choice for a workshop in case your first choice is cancelled and we are unable to reach you.

Esalen Institute reserves the right to cancel any program at any time.

Workshop Accommodations

Please Note: Workshop fees cover tuition, food, and lodging.

Standard Accommodations: This is shared housing with two or three persons per room. In some cases, bathrooms are shared. Couples will always be housed together. The rates listed with the workshop descriptions throughout the catalog refer to these shared standard accommodations.

7-Day Rate, per person: $1110
5-Day Rate, per person: $740
Weekend Rate, per person: $580

Bunk Bed Rooms: Bunk beds are available for seminar participants who are willing to share a room with three or more persons. There are a limited number of these spaces, which are reserved on a first-come, first-served basis.

Bunk Bed (4 or more per room): $845

Sleeping Bags: Meeting rooms are sometimes used as shared sleeping bag space and may be available for workshop participants. Sleeping baggers do not have unlimited access during the day, as these meeting rooms are frequently in use. Please inquire when you make your reservations.

Sleeping Bag: $570

Own Accommodations: If you are staying off the property the following rates apply:

Own Accommodations: $660

Camping on the grounds, either in tents or campers, is prohibited. We do not have parking space to accommodate RVs.

We would like to remind you that scholarship assistance is available; refer to “Scholarship Information” as well as “Reduced Rate Options and Discounts” for other economical ways of staying at Esalen.

Room and Board

Occasionally, when beds aren’t needed for seminarians, room and board is available. This gives visitors the opportunity to enjoy the grounds, the baths, and massage without participating in a workshop. Accommodations are standard (2 or 3 per room) or bunk bed (4 or more per room). Not all rooms have private baths. Room and board rates include dinner on the day of arrival and breakfast and lunch on the following days. We require full payment at the time of reservation. This payment is nonrefundable and nontransferable.

Note: Room and Board reservations must be made with a reservation specialist by phone, not by fax machine.

For a room and board stay between Sunday and Thursday, please call us no earlier than the Thursday before for room availability. For a Friday or Saturday night stay, please call no earlier than the Sunday before. The following rates are per person, per day.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Weekday (Sunday through Thursday nights)</th>
<th>Weekend (Friday and Saturday nights)</th>
<th>(Two or more weekdays)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Standard Accommodations (2 or 3 per room):</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>$125</td>
<td>$105</td>
<td>$90</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bunk Bed (4 or more per room):</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>$85</td>
<td>$80</td>
<td>$70</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

*Off-season rates are in effect from October 1 through March 31, holidays excepted.

Cancellation Policy

Cancellation and Refund Policy: If you cancel or change any part of your reservation at least five full days before the start of your workshop(s), your nonrefundable deposit, less a $30-per-workshop processing fee, will be transferred to a credit account to be used within one year. If you cancel with less than five days’ notice, you forfeit your entire deposit. If you have prepaid your entire reservation fee, we will retain the deposit, as above, less the $30 processing fee, and return the balance to you. (Please note: Wilderness Programs has a different cancellation and refund policy.)

If you have applied for a scholarship and we are unable to give you any assistance, we will, at your request, refund your deposit in full if you cancel your reservation at least five full days prior to the start of your workshop.
Scholarship Information
Esalen is able to provide some scholarship assistance to workshop participants in exchange for a work commitment (usually in the kitchen). Approved scholarship recipients will receive their work schedules upon arrival at Esalen.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Assistance</th>
<th>Work</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Weekend</td>
<td>$50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5-9 days</td>
<td>$100</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12-14 days</td>
<td>$200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>14+ days</td>
<td>$300</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

If additional scholarship assistance is required, please send a letter of explanation to Attention: Scholarships at Esalen. Due to the number of requests we receive, we can only provide one scholarship per person per year, and only in cases of financial hardship.

Reduced Rate Options and Discounts
If you pay in full at the time you make your reservation, you will receive a $10 prepayment discount per workshop and be eligible for express check-in upon arrival. This discount does not apply to scholarship recipients or sleeping bag accommodations.

Senior Citizen Discount: Esalen offers a special discount to individuals over 60 years of age. The discount for a weekend workshop is $25; for a five-day or longer workshop, it's $50. Please request this discount at the time of registration. When you complete the reservation form on page 72, please indicate the discounts for which you qualify. If you qualify, and you make your reservation by phone, be sure to ask for this discount. (Please note: Senior discounts are not available for the Work Study Program.)

Accommodations for Families: Two full-paying adults housed in standard accommodations may have their children in the room for a meal charge of $19 per child per day ($9 for children under six). Note: If children are enrolled in Gazebo School Park or an Esalen workshop, additional fees are required. Contact the Gazebo, 408-667-3026, for information regarding their fees.

Workshops for Families: Participating families will pay full workshop rates for the first two participants (adult or child). Each additional participant will pay the following rate:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Workshops</th>
<th>2-day workshop</th>
<th>3-day</th>
<th>4-day</th>
<th>5-day</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>$115</td>
<td>$165</td>
<td>$210</td>
<td>$245</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Additional sleeping mats and bedding will be provided for each room.

The Gazebo School Park Early Childhood Program
The Gazebo School Park is a unique educational experience for children one to six years. It is open year-round and has an average of 15 to 20 children in attendance each day.

The Early Childhood Program is available to seminarians who would like child care at Esalen. Child care is provided during workshop hours only. Daytime activities for the children include gardening, pony rides, learning about animal care, exploring nature, a real boat, the magic castle, and an Indian tepee. Evenings are spent with a teacher in the Gazebo Farmhouse, engaged in activities that are age appropriate, such as reading, learning and playing with the computer, baking, arts and crafts, or building-block play.

Reservations should be made at least a month in advance. Call the Gazebo Farmhouse, 408-667-3026, for more information and reservations.

Internship Program: This is a three-month program for those who wish to have intense exposure to life at the Gazebo School Park and its unique educational resources. The Internship Program offers experience with children, the Gazebo environment, and its teaching philosophy. Applicants must have completed at least three work scholar months at Esalen before being considered for this program.

Call the Gazebo Farmhouse, 408-667-3026, for more information or reservations.

Transportation to Esalen
Van Service: On Fridays and Sundays we have van service from the Monterey Greyhound stop leaving at approximately 3:45 p.m. and from the Monterey Airport at approximately 4 p.m. If you plan to use this service, please inform the Esalen office at least 24 hours prior to your arrival. The $30 one-way fee (subject to change) is payable to the Esalen office when you check in. Return reservations may be made at that time. The only departing van service from Esalen is on Fridays and Sundays at approximately 5:30 p.m.

Checking In
Check-in and Meals: Rooms become available at 4 p.m.; however, guests are welcome to arrive anytime after 2 p.m. Weekend programs begin with dinner on Friday and end with brunch on Sunday. Five-day and longer programs begin with dinner on Friday or Sunday and end with lunch on Friday or Sunday. Check-out time is noon on departure day.

F. Y. I.

Health Services: There are no medical services or pharmaceutical supplies available at Esalen. If you will require medical attention or supplies during your stay, please come prepared to administer to your own needs. Esalen is 45 miles from the nearest medical facility or pharmacy.

For Your Safety: Please bring a flashlight for use at night while walking on the grounds.

Illegal Drugs: In accordance with state and federal laws, the possession or use of illegal drugs on Esalen grounds is strictly prohibited.

Lost and Found: To inquire about items left behind from your Esalen visit, call 408-667-3019.

Guests: Seminarians are not allowed guests on the property during their stay.

Pets: No pets are allowed on the property.

Smoking: Smoking is not permitted in any of our accommodations or meeting rooms.
The Life We Are Given

Editor’s Note: What follows has been excerpted from The Life We Are Given, Michael Murphy and George Leonard’s latest collaboration which describes Integral Transformative Practice (ITP)—a pioneering program for transforming body, mind, heart, and spirit through balanced and comprehensive long-term practice. Their book includes stories of ITP students that emphasize the tremendous capacity for growth we all possess. It is a testament to the joy and transformation possible through long-term, committed practice.

For years, the two of us had wanted to try our ideas about the realization of extraordinary human abilities, to see if people with busy lives could change themselves for the better through long-term practice. We had long held a vision of human evolution and the transformation of human societies. Separately and together, we had worked for most of our adult lives inspired by the belief that all of us possess a vast, untapped potential to learn, to love, to feel deeply, to create, and that there are few tragedies so pervasive, so difficult to justify, as the waste of that potential.

Michael Murphy and George Leonard

Novelist James Agee wrote, “I believe that every human being is potentially capable, within his ‘limits’ of fully ‘realizing’ his potentialities; that this, his being cheated and choked of it, is infinitely the ghastliest, commonest, and most inclusive of all the crimes of which the human world can accuse itself....I know only that murder is being done against nearly every individual on the planet.”

We are haunted by Agee’s words. They bring to mind the victims of war, famine, and disease, of ignorance, poverty, and injustice. They point to the dogmatism that inhibits thought, numbs the feelings, and twists the perceptions of entire cultures. But the crime of which Agee speaks is not a distant phenomenon, not something “out there.” It touches the lives not only of those trapped by injustice or material deprivation, but also of those considered fortunate: our parents and children, our friends and sisters and brothers, ourselves. It is hard to imagine words more heart-wrenching than those of a close friend or relative who at the approach of death is heard to say, “I realize now I’ve wasted my life.” Against the backdrop of the billions of years it took to give us our life and the brief time we have to experience it here, the dimensions of such waste are beyond our calculation.

And this isn’t just a private matter. It’s hard to say how much of the world’s neurosis, drug abuse, illness, crime, and general unhappiness can be traced to our failure to develop our God-given abilities. But surely people who are deeply involved in lifelong learning, in practices that encourage community, good health, and a sense of oneness with the spirit of the universe, would be unlikely to sink into the despair, unrest, and cynicism that lead to so many individual and societal ills.

Early in 1992 sustained by our faith in the human potential, we convened an experimental class in what we called Integral Transformative Practice (ITP). The experiment lasted for two years and provided material and inspiration for this book. But it isn’t just this one class that informs our words, but rather the gleanings of a long journey, a lifetime’s quest.

When the Berlin Wall came down in November, 1989 and the entire Eastern Bloc began cracking apart like ice in a thaw, many expert observers found themselves struggling to conceal their astonishment. Just a few years earlier, most would have rated the probability of such a shift in the foreseeable future as close to zero. In hindsight, however, we can see that the process was underway before 1989. The Wall had been coming down for a long time before men and women, East and West, began hammering and ripping it apart.

Today another process is underway throughout much of the world, a grassroots understanding that spirit and body are joined, that mind can somehow influence matter, that lives can radically change, that the further evolution of humankind is possible. The evidence of this process is all around us, in books that come out of nowhere to top the national bestseller lists, in polls on spiritual matters, in sometimes sensational images in the popular media of angels among us, of contacts with alien civilizations.

Some might say that these are merely symptoms of end-of-the-millennium anxieties. And yet we meet with physicists who see similarities between certain implications of quantum mechanics and the great spiritual traditions, with electronic engineers who invoke connections between the mental and the material. We find more and more people, including some scientists, willing to entertain the notion that our science itself, wondrous as it is, has not yet adequately addressed every significant realm of the knowable. Again and again, in different guises, in words and metaphors that often seem to clash, in forms both trivial and profound, the same essential understanding quietly spreads around the world: The reductive, purely materialistic interpretation of reality is not the whole picture. Unfathomed possibilities exist in consciousness and the flesh. Our evolution has not reached a dead end. Despite our frailties and flaws and the seemingly overwhelming horrors of the time, the human species has immense possibilities for advance.

The programs described in this book have proven to be of significant value to most of those who have participated in it, with extraordinary outcomes for some. There’s no doubt in our minds that a regular, long-term practice which involves body, mind, heart, and soul, and which aims at good health and the cultivation of our untapped potentials, can enhance individual lives and contribute to the social good. There are some who would say, “Yes, but you can never get many people to devote themselves to a long-term practice.” But how are we to know unless we try?

In the transformations that emerge from an integral practice, the matter of social support is particularly important. It is difficult even to discuss such transformation if everyone around us stands ready to prejudge and invalidate. On the other hand, there is the danger of cultic pressure to see things that don’t exist. The nonauthoritarian program we have championed...along with objective reality checks wherever possible, can help us safely past this pitfall. We feel that as the number of people engaged in the quest for transformation increases, the number of successes will increase even faster. If a significant minority of a society’s people consciously and constructively engage in such a quest, we could see something new on this planet: one of those events that cannot be adequately predicted by what has gone before.

Throughout our practice, we have taken care to remind ourselves of the stupendous miracle of existence, the ultimate value of every life. We have celebrated our connectedness with all living things and with the stuff of the inorganic world. We have viewed every step in the cosmic journey, from the birth of the universe to the ever-flowing present moment, as our genealogy, and have experienced ourselves as a part of, not apart from, all that we behold or ever could behold. Many who have practiced with us have found the aliveness that has come from our practice to be transformative in and of itself.

To awaken can be painful, for it opens us to a poignant awareness of the pervasive waste of life around us and in us. But the eventual rewards are great. We no longer need horrors to jolt us awake. To see a sunrise is enough. To look into a friend’s or lover’s eyes, to truly see another human being, is enough. To hear a distant strain of music, or a child’s laughter, is enough. With this awakening, this renewed aliveness, there generally comes a love for others, a love that asks nothing in return. Such love doesn’t imply the denial of evil; the world is a dangerous place and awakening also means being aware of those dangers and standing ready to take centered action to confront wrong when necessary. But the ego-transcending love remains, and it spreads in concentric circles like ripples on a pond, kindling similar feelings in more of those it touches than we might imagine.

There are many powerful forces in the world, and some of them—cynicism, greed, ethnic hatred, heedless ambition, armies, and huge, impersonal organizations, to name a few—have a particular power to destroy. But a love that asks nothing in return is perhaps even more powerful, for it seeks to create, not destroy. Only a long series of close calls has given us this life. Again and again, over eons of time, often against long odds, Eros has finally won the day. Are we willing to consider the possibility of a society in which love prevails?

We believe that by the very nature of things, each of us carries a spark of divinity in every cell and that we have the potential to manifest powers of body, mind, heart, and soul beyond our present ability to imagine. Such a compass course might create clarity where there is now confusion and bring the human psyche into harmony with nature and the cosmos. At best, it could open the way to the ultimate adventure, during which much of what has been metanormal would become normal, and some who read these pages would be privileged to share the next stage in the world’s unfolding splendor.
Esalen's New Personnel Manager

Pat Lewine was recently appointed to the newly-created position of Esalen personnel manager. Pat has lived and worked at Esalen since 1984. She has been a Work Scholar in both the office and kitchen, office supervisor, and, most recently, programs manager. She brings to the job her longterm gestalt studies, her sense of humor, and years of experience as mother and coach.

The Esalen Catalog via Internet

We are pleased to announce that the Esalen Catalog is now available online. In addition to updated workshop availability and information on ways of being at Esalen, the new World Wide Web site also includes announcements of upcoming special events as well as history and feature stories from Esalen. To access the site, set your web browser to:

http://www.esalen.org

Scheduling Private Conferences at Esalen

It is possible to arrange for your group or organization to hold its conferences at Esalen. We can accommodate large groups (up to 100) on a space-available basis. Smaller groups may schedule private conferences in our renovated Big House. This facility is available for individuals who work together and would like to design their own Esalen program, drawing on our leaders and other resources. Ten bedrooms, nine bathrooms, a kitchen, dining room, and meeting room make it possible to house group members together, thereby enhancing the retreat environment.

We schedule all conferences a year in advance. To schedule or discuss possible formats, please contact conference coordinator Kasia Zajac at 408-667-3038.

For more information or comments on the Esalen site, send e-mail to:

ghs@esalen.org

THE FRIENDS OF ESALEN

MemBERSHIP IN FRIENDS OF ESALEN supports the scholarship fund to allow financial aid for those who wish to attend our workshops but cannot otherwise afford them. A membership gift also provides additional funding for our pioneering work in health, education, the environment, and the humanities. With annual membership, Friends of Esalen receive the Esalen Catalog as well as a special newsletter.

Members at the Supporting level or above receive an autographed copy of Michael Murphy's book The Future of the Body. At the Sustaining Member level, gifts are also acknowledged in the newsletter, unless the donor wishes to remain anonymous. Benefactors receive all of the aforementioned along with an individual gift from Esalen.

Group 2000 is composed of individuals committed to assisting Esalen in building the long-term financial capability to fulfill its mission into the year 2000 and beyond. The Group 2000 meets together and with staff members at Esalen every year. Members of the Founders Circle are invited to meet individually with our CEO.

We deeply appreciate the generosity and interest of the Friends of Esalen. You are invited to join us in extending the experience of Esalen into the lives of more people. For more information, or if you would like us to call you to discuss your gift, please contact us at 408-667-3007 or via e-mail at friends@esalen.org.

Name_________________________ Phone_________________________
Address________________________ E-mail________________________
City_________________________ State_______ Zip_________

Please make checks payable to Esalen Institute, in U.S. currency only, or use one of the charge cards listed below:

☐ MasterCard ☐ Visa ☐ American Express

Card No.________________________ Exp._______________________

Authorizing signature________________________________________

Please complete this form or the inside flap of the envelope insert included in the catalog and return with your gift. Check the box on the outside of the envelope marked “Friends of Esalen.” Thank you for your support.

Esalen Institute is a nonprofit public charity corporation, exempt from income tax under IRC section 501(c)(3). Contributions are tax-deductible to the extent allowable by law.
GUIDE TO WORKSHOPS

THIS IS A GUIDE TO the workshops offered in this catalog. Although many of them could be cross-referenced—and some resist easy categorization—most are listed only in their main subject area. We recommend that you read the workshop description before deciding to register. If you have never been to Esalen or taken an Esalen workshop, you might want to consider the “Experiencing Esalen” workshop scheduled throughout the catalog and listed in the Integral Practices section of this directory. Please call the Esalen office if you have questions concerning a workshop.

THE ARTS / CREATIVITY

May 3-5 • Freeing the Poetic Imagination: Poetry Writing at Esalen
May 3-5 • The Healing Power of Laughter and Play
May 5-10 • Expressive Painting
May 10-12 • From the Congo to Dreamtime
May 24-26 • African Dance: Expressions of Spiritual Energy
June 2-7 • Singing in the African-American Tradition
June 9-14 • Meditation, the Living Body, and Creativity
June 9-14 • Old-Fashioned New Age Cooking
June 14-16 • Reawakening the Artist Within
June 14-16 • Chaos and Complexity in Photography, Life, and Work
June 14-16 • Ageless Vitality: The Body is Living Music
June 16-21 • Pilobolus: Collaborative Creativity Method
June 23-28 • Masks of Transformation: Moving from Personality to Essence
June 30-July 5 • African Percussion, Chanting, and Dance
June 30-July 5 • The Story of Your Life: Becoming the Author of Your Experience
July 5-7 • Language of the Drums: Intermediate Level
July 5-7 • Wearable Art: A Fimo Clay Workshop for Families
July 7-12 • Massage Mbunde
July 7-12 • A Potter's View of the Universe: Big Sur Clay
July 19-21 • Jewish Humor
July 21-26 • The Singing Cure
July 21-26 • Drawing on the Right Side of the Brain
July 26-28 • Improvisational Wisdom: Finding the Robin Williams Within July 26-28 • From Father's Daughter to Creative Woman
July 28-August 2 • Stretching the Limits of Your Self-Expression
August 4-9 • Living Dance: A Moving Way
August 9-11 • When Drummers Were Women
August 16-18 • At the Turning Point: Poems Can Help Us in Crisis
August 18-23 • The Inner and Outer Landscape in Film
August 23-30 • Music and Miracles: Tone, Sound, and Chant
August 30-September 1 • Creating From Spirit
September 1-6 • The Writer's Way: Freeing the Authentic Voice
September 6-8 • The Art of the Actor for Everyday Life
September 8-13 • The Soul's Theatre: The Practice of Improvisation
September 13-15 • Poetry Workshop: Writing New Poems
September 13-15 • Vision Painting
September 15-20 • The Naked Soul: A Ritual Theatre Lab
September 20-22 • The 21 Praises of Tara: A Sacred Dance Practice
September 27-29 • Singing Gestalt
September 30-October 4 • TA KE TI NA: The Forgotten Power of Rhythm
October 4-8 • Reawakening the Artist Within
October 10-12 • Intuition and the Dance of Attention
October 12-17 • The Visionary Life: The Quest of Your Life
June 2-7 • Conflict Resolution Through Conscious Negotiations
June 7-9 • Rekindling the Spirit in Work
June 21-23 • Reconnecting Business with its Soul
August 30-September 1 • Realizing the New Political Paradigm in Our Time
September 1-6 • Managing with Heart
September 13-15 • Essential Peacemaking: Women and Men
September 20-22 • The Art of Leadership
October 4-6 • Dialogue
October 20-25 • Facing Each Other, Facing Ourselves

BUSINESS / WORKPLACE / SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY

May 10-12 • Nine Worldviews: The Enneagram at Work
May 12-17 • Advanced Hypnosis: Practice and Applications
May 19-24 • The High-Performance Mind: Awakened Mind Brainwave Training
August 16-18 • Innovative Hypnotherapeutic Approaches to Mind-Body Healing
August 18-25 • Constructing Psychotherapy Hypnotically
September 8-13 • Intuition and the Dance of Attention
September 20-22 • Awakened Mind II: Advanced Brainwave Training and Transcendent States

CHILDREN / FAMILIES / EDUCATION

June 14-16 • The Parenting Process
June 16-21 • Healing the Parent-Child Bond: For Parents and Their Adult Children
June 30-July 5 • Creativity and Community: A Workshop for Children
July 5-7 • Replenishing the Vision: A Retreat for Educators
July 5-7 • Wearable Art: A Fimo Clay Workshop for Families
July 7-12 • Art, Acting, Music, and Fun: A Children's Festival
July 14-19 • Lego-Mania

CONTEMPLATIVE / SPIRITUAL & RELIGIOUS STUDIES

May 10-12 • Vipassana Meditation and the Teachings of Thich Nhat Hanh
May 10-12 • The Return of the Mother
May 19-24 • Soul Making
Professional Growth / Training

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Date Range</th>
<th>Event Title</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>May 12-17</td>
<td>Advanced Hypnosis: Practice and Applications</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>May 26-June 2</td>
<td>Gestalt Practicum</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>June 21-23</td>
<td>Making a Private-Pay Practice Work</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>July 12-14</td>
<td>Refilling the Chalice: Time Out for Healers</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>July 19-21</td>
<td>Narcissism and Intimacy: Love That Wounds, Love That Heals</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>July 28-August 2</td>
<td>Psychosynthesis for Professionals</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>August 9-11</td>
<td>Survival Tools for Service Professionals</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>August 16-18</td>
<td>Innovative Hypnotherapeutic Approaches to Mind-Body Healing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>August 18-25</td>
<td>Constructing Psychotherapy Hypnotically</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>October 25-27</td>
<td>Pandoras Gifts: On Secrets, Health, and Healing</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Psychological / Transpersonal Process

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Date Range</th>
<th>Event Title</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>May 3-5</td>
<td>The Sources of Growth</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>May 5-10</td>
<td>Healing the Heart</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>May 12-17</td>
<td>Playing the Edge</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>May 12-17</td>
<td>The Visionary Life: The Quest of Your Life</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>May 19-24</td>
<td>The Power of Growth</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>May 24-26</td>
<td>Life's Little Midterm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>May 26-June 2</td>
<td>Gestalt Practicum</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>May 26-31</td>
<td>The Core Self: Return to Innocence and Choice</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>May 31-June 2</td>
<td>Forgiveness</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>June 2-7</td>
<td>Opening the Feelings</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>June 7-9</td>
<td>Disarming the Ogre: Recognizing and Transforming the Inner Critic</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>June 9-14</td>
<td>Transition, Risk, and Renewal: Mastering the Art of Change</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>June 21-23</td>
<td>Roots and Wings: Renewing our Spirits, Living our Dreams</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>June 30-July 5</td>
<td>Dancing with the Shadow</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>July 14-19</td>
<td>Gestalt Practice</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>July 14-19</td>
<td>Adventures in Death: Riding Your Transitions to Power and Freedom</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>July 14-19</td>
<td>La Trama de Nuestra Relaciones</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>July 19-21</td>
<td>Mothers and Daughter: Communication, Identity, and Self-Esteem</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>July 28-August 2</td>
<td>Friendship and Intimacy: The Dance of Caring and Conflict</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>August 2-4</td>
<td>Choosing Aliveness</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>August 4-11</td>
<td>Creating Exact Moment of Healing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>August 4-9</td>
<td>The Power of Growth</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>August 9-11</td>
<td>Psychosynthesis: Personal and Transpersonal Growth</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>August 11-16</td>
<td>Completions and Transitions</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>August 14-19</td>
<td>The Transformational Enneagram</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>August 18-23</td>
<td>Experiencing the Celestine Prophecy: Connecting to Your Life Purpose</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>August 23-25</td>
<td>Generativity</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>August 23-25</td>
<td>'Tis a Gift to Be Simple</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>August 25-30</td>
<td>When a Romantic Relationship Ends: From Grief to Growth</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Martial Arts / Yoga / Sport

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Date Range</th>
<th>Event Title</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>May 12-17</td>
<td>Yoga: The Art of Living</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>May 19-24</td>
<td>Kalarippayattu: The Yoga-Based Martial Art</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>June 21-23</td>
<td>Yoga Works: Tools for Well-Being</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>July 5-7</td>
<td>Healthy Back, Healthy Mind: User-Friendly Yoga for Backs and Stress</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>July 7-12</td>
<td>Taoist Chi Kung: Enhancing Vitality</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>August 30-September 1</td>
<td>Chi Kung / Nei Gung</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>September 6-8</td>
<td>Sabetti Sphurana Yoga: The Yoga of Inner Vibration</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>October 6-11</td>
<td>Golf in the Kingdom</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>October 20-25</td>
<td>Celestial Bodies: Archetypal Astrology and Transformative Yoga</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Myth / Ritual / Shamanism / Anthropology

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Date Range</th>
<th>Event Title</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>May 3-5</td>
<td>From the Heart of the Andes: Andean Wisdom, Indian Mysticism</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>May 5-10</td>
<td>Giving Voice to Bear: Shamanism and Bear Medicine</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>June 30-July 5</td>
<td>Spirit in Nature: Learning from Other Species and Other Cultures</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>July 7-12</td>
<td>Kinship with All Life</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>September 20-22</td>
<td>Beyond Gender Language: The Union of The Sun and The Moon</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>September 22-27</td>
<td>Evocation of the Deceased in a Latter-Day Psychomanteum</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>September 29-October 4</td>
<td>Conscious Dreaming: The Path of the Shaman in Everyday Life</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Philosophical Inquiry / Intellectual Play

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Date Range</th>
<th>Event Title</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>June 7-9</td>
<td>Practical Alchemy, Kabbalah, and Quantum Physics</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>June 14-16</td>
<td>Chaos and Complexity in Photography, Life, and Work</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>June 28-30</td>
<td>Identity, Community, and Politics: The Ontogeny of Everyday Life</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>August 2-4</td>
<td>A Weekend with Terence McKenna</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>October 20-25</td>
<td>Celestial Bodies: Archetypal Astrology and Transformative Yoga</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
The Sources of Growth
Seymour Carter

Many potential sources of our growth reside in our unfinished issues, the developmental processes that we have failed to recognize and assimilate because of distressing life experiences or the inability to learn about them. "Unfinished issues" refers to normal phases of development which have been bypassed or ignored. It is unfortunate but true that most families emphasize some of our attributes and ignore or discourage others. These unclaimed potential talents, tendencies, and traits are a powerful reservoir within us waiting to be tapped.

Using a primarily gestalt-oriented process, supported by the tools of family systems theory, practices of introspection, and body-oriented intervention strategies, participants can begin to discover and utilize capacities in themselves for new possibilities in their lives. Each participant's process of development will be honored, encouraged, and treated as unique.

Freeing the Poetic Imagination:
Poetry Writing at Esalen
David Richo

Since ancient times, poetry has been associated with healing and intuitive wisdom. Poetry remains the soul's language: everyone is capable of speaking it. It has the power to render immediate feelings in compelling rhythms of the imagination.

In this workshop, Jungian active imagination exercises will be used to find personal metaphors and to visit the unopened rooms of the psyche. You will work with images that visualize—not words that conceptualize—to access the full spectrum of inner colors. As these images are fashioned into a poetic diction faithful to unique needs, visions, and goals, you can come to see how your story—especially its present chapter—fits into a vaster volume of destiny. As Jung wrote: "Whoever speaks in primordial images evokes the beneficent forces... behind them."

Intuition and the Dance of Attention
Anne Armstrong & Randy Cherner

Intuition is a gift that everyone possesses. It takes many forms. The foundation for intuitive practice is the process of shifting one's attention in very precise ways to lead to enhanced awareness. Anne Armstrong's intuitive opening came through the psychic intuitive process, Randy Cherner's through movement and touch.

The aim of this workshop is for participants to reclaim their intuitive powers in all areas of their lives—personal, professional, and spiritual. Group members will learn to develop their intuitive styles through meditations, sensing practices, refined touch, aikido, and Feldenkrais exercises. This workshop is unique in its attention to intuitive style in both its psychic and somatic dimensions.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $380

From the Heart of the Andes: Andean Wisdom, Indian Mysticism
Chamalu
Chamalu is a Bolivian Indian mystic who teaches Andean shamanism. His teachings, based on Andean cosmology, encourage individuals to live without wasting time, to work according to their dreams while having fun, and to live life with purpose.

Through presentation and experiential exercises, participants will learn about the spirituality and life of the indigenous people of the Andes, their ceremonial music and dance, how to rediscover nature as a source of power, and how to reconnect with the plant and animal world. The workshop will end with a ceremony to heal the earth, "Magic Ecology."

Chamalu founded the Janajpacha community in Bolivia. Janajpacha is the Quechua word for paradise. His goal is to help people live this paradise in the present. Working to unite the tribe of love—Indians of All Colors—his teachings are based on humility, service, and living life as a continuous opening of joy, learning, love, and earth healing. $380

The Healing Power of Laughter and Play
Matt Weinstein & Bernie DeKoven

The language of Play is a universal language that all of us spoke fluently in childhood, and which most of us have forgotten in adulthood. But, like any lost language, the language of Playfulness comes back amazingly quickly once you take a few moments to practice, to turn off your everyday mind, and to allow yourself to be swept away in childlike excitement and the pleasure of membership in a supportive team.

In this workshop, you will learn to play (and design) scores of noncompetitive games that can be used to build support and community, and explore the differences between game rules and ground rules, competition and cooperation, enjoyment and enlightenment.

You can discover how to nurture grown-up, healing, loving fun, and how to turn work into play.

Come prepared to take a serious look at fun!

Recommended reading: Weinstein, Managing to Have Fun and Playfair: Everybody's Guide to Noncompetitive Play.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $380

Week of May 5-10

Lomi Somatic Intensive: An Active Exploration of Presence
Kathryn Lydecker, Johanna Putnoi & Robert Sanoff

You have slept for millions and millions of years. Why not wake up this morning?

"The awareness we bring to each moment is the key to our deep freedom," write the leaders. "Most of us get stuck in habits of body, heart, and mind. These habits are unconsciously formed in our family of origin and become etched onto our essential infrastructure. This matrix imprints on our body language, our emotional climate, and our state of mind, ultimately creating our worldview. Unexamined belief clouds the reality of each moment, and we become prisoners in a body/mind cell.

"In this workshop, awareness, presence, and practice will be our lanterns. We will use meditation, conscious movement, breath awareness, informed touch, and principles from aikido and gestalt as ways to experience ourselves richly and to participate with integrity, courage, and gentleness.

"The Esalen environment will be a laboratory in which to practice interrupting our habits and expanding our capacity to tolerate deep feeling. The greater our commitment to the process, the more intrinsic the change. The real challenge will be to discover how to take our embodied insights back home with us."

The leaders have been teaching together for more than a dozen years and bring their sense of community and affection for one another to the group process.

$740 (plus $55 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

Embodying Images of Health: A Somatic/Expressive Approach to Psychoneuroimmunology
Jamie McHugh & George Solomon

This workshop is an experiential and intellectual journey into the body, focusing on the embodiment of our personal and collective images as they relate to the immune system. Ordinarily, we see our immune systems as a scientific construct distant from our experience, something that cannot be sensed. In this workshop, participants can experience the immune system as tangible, alive, and available to our influence.

The workshop will explore connections between the Western medical view of the body, the Eastern archetypal perspective, and contemporary psychoneuroimmunologic (PNI) theory. It will apply a body-based expressive arts approach—movement meditations, breath/sound work, expressive dance, dialogue, drawing, and group interaction—to activate the senses and tap into the creative life force. Individual and group process will be used to help identify, explore, and express the archetypal forces—Creator, Destroyer, and Protector—in order to understand how our internal images and beliefs affect our health and behavior. PNI theory will create the context for more fully appreciating and cognitively understanding how we can take a more active role in our own healing.

Expressive Painting
Leigh Hyams

Artwork comes straight through an open mind and an adventurous spirit. With it come clarity of vision, increased self-awareness, and a deepening understanding of the meaning of art in one's life.

Without freedom one cannot respond fully to the experience of painting. Leigh Hyam's teaching methods help students to work freely, exuberantly, and sensitively from the very first session. Participants will work from Esalen's natural landscape, still lifes, models, dreams, myths, and memories. Discussions, demonstrations, and slides of art from many cultures will be used to expand understanding of visual language. Participants will complete portfolios of their own paintings and may discover, in the process, a new sense of themselves as artistic, creative human beings.

This is a workshop for people who want to revitalize their connection with art—to develop fresh eyes. No previous experience is necessary. The only prerequisites are curiosity about the creative process and a willingness to explore the rich possibilities inherent in the act of painting. $740
No prior PNI/dance/drawing experience is necessary.
C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

Healing the Heart
Julie Bowden & Richard Balaban
This workshop will be a journey into the tender part of the self that carries childhood preciousness and trauma. Feeling and integrating the pain and gifts of our past allows us to live more fully in relationship with ourselves and others, and helps us to acknowledge and nurture our inner voice. Affirming a more solid sense of self and experiencing a supportive community is a part of this work.

If you long to live beyond your past, discover your untapped strengths, and enhance your sense of self and experiencing a supportive community is a part of this work.

Please note: To help create an atmosphere of safety, care, and respect for core issues to emerge, participants are asked to forgo alcohol and other mood-altering, nonprescription drugs for these five days.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

Giving Voice to Bear: Shamanism and Bear Medicine
Carol Proudfoot-Edgar

All cultures in the Northern Hemisphere perceive Bear as a special teacher and relative to humans. There are Bear dreamers, Bear doctors, and Bear ceremonies, which address a process of transformation which Bear both symbolizes and teaches. That process is a wheel of existence characterized by the principle of birth, growth, death, decay, and rebirth. Bear is the guiding spirit of renewal. This workshop will focus on Bear’s power to heal, protect, and teach us about our interior worlds and our relatedness to other beings of Earth.

Wrote Carol Proudfoot-Edgar: “Early in the week, I will talk about Bear mythology, ceremonies, and practices so we can share a common knowledge about why this work is called ‘Bear Medicine power.’ We will work with the spirits in nature identified with Bear—their symbols and stories. We will work with Bear Medicine—water, stones, and trees. In our shamanic journeys, we will contact our ancient ancestors who were practitioners of Bear Medicine. We will explore primary activities of hibernating, dreaming, and healing that we may truly live. Vipassana means ‘looking deeply.’ When we truly see we see that we are a part of life, that it is ours, that we also belong to it. We have the capacity, the right, even the obligation to respond to its call, rather than to just react out of fear, anger, loneliness, compulsivity.

This practice is an invitation to engage with life, to break down notions of separation. The workshop will include instruction in sitting and walking meditation as well as interactive exercises and dialogue.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $380

From the Congo to Dreamtime
Titos Sompa & Ione

Titos Sompa, master dancer, choreographer, and percussionist from the Congo and psychotherapist/author/director Ione recently collaborated on Ione’s internationally acclaimed play Njinga the Queen King, which premiered at the Brooklyn Academy of Music’s Next Wave Festival, and was most recently performed at New York’s Lincoln Center.

Together they have created a special workshop that teaches Congolese movement and rhythms while accessing participants’ deepest dream themes. A vocabulary of ancient Congolese movement will be created to assist participants in expressing the most important aspects of their inner journeys, discovered through overnight dream incubations and shamanistic journeying.

The workshop is open to all levels of experience. $380

Vipassana Meditation and the Teachings of Thich Nhat Hanh
Christopher Reed

How is it possible to live with the awareness of what is happening in our society and to our world? This is an extraordinary time to be alive on Earth. Either we destroy ourselves or we awaken together to our true nature, our profound interconnectedness—our Interbeing, as Thich Nhat Hanh calls it.

For many of us there is a deep grief, for many more a nagging malaise. We are destroying our environment, our own home, and neither denial nor activism can fully address the pain and discontent of it.

The practice of Buddhism is a way of transforming old notions of self and self-interest so that we may truly live. Vipassana means “looking deeply.” When we truly look we see that we are a part of life, that it is ours, that we also belong to it. We have the capacity, the right, even the obligation to respond to its call, rather than to just react out of fear, anger, loneliness, compulsivity.

This practice is an invitation to engage with life, to break down notions of separation. The workshop will include instruction in sitting and walking meditation as well as interactive exercises and dialogue.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $380

Nine Worldviews: The Enneagram at Work
Johanna Putnoi & Michael Goldberg

“If I can see it in the dark,” boasted Nasrudin one day in the teahouse.

“If that is so, why do we see you carrying a light through the streets?”

“Only to prevent other people from colliding with me.”

— Idries Shah

The Enneagram is an elegant and increasingly popular approach to communication, character, and culture. Based on ancient sources (versions of the Enneagram appear in Chaucer, Dante, and Kaballah), the Enneagram describes nine different worldviews: the ways that people think, act, feel, and, most especially, relate to one another. Each perspective has particular powers and abilities, and each generates foreseeable predicaments which, luckily, have appropriate interventions.

The Enneagram is meant to enchant: sophisticated yet exquisitely transparent, the system predicts how one style will get along with another, the nature of the difficulties they are likely to have, and the opportunities for partnership and co-creation. This workshop will explore the Enneagram as an open systems approach to management, relationships, and work teams, and will demonstrate how this insightful perspective integrates the best in current management thinking to show what works well where.

This workshop is for people who want to use the Enneagram as a practical tool. A complete introduction to the system will be presented, including videos, stories, live examples of type, and an explanation of how to determine Enneagram style. Experiential exercises will provide the sometimes startling adventure of seeing the world from the position of each of the nine.

Both beginning and experienced Enneagrammers are welcome. C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Advanced Hypnosis: Practice and Applications

Mart Lehrer & Norman Katz

This specialized program will cover advanced hypnotherapy practices suitable for therapists and practitioners who use hypnosis in their work. The format will include advanced inductions, direct and indirect metaphor and suggestion, pain control, regression and future orientation in time, plus other topics selected by the participants. There will be opportunity for supervised feedback as well as a goal for each participant to create a short hypnosis audio tape on a topic of her/his own choosing as a completion project. Each participant is expected to have already had basic hypnosis training and practical experience in application of techniques. The workshop is also suitable for those who wish to review techniques from other hypnosis programs.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

The Visionary Life: The Quest of Your Life

Robert Maurer

Psychology's usefulness has traditionally been limited by its focus on people with problems. Recent studies, however, have centered on those who have succeeded in the major challenges of life, from vocation to relationships, and provide surprising insights into the pursuit of success.

This program explores one of the key attributes common to all successful people: vision—the clear sense of purpose that guides and sustains actions and emotions, particularly during times of crisis. During these challenging times, people of vision and commitment are extraordinary and essential. What are the skills of the visionary and how are these skills developed and maintained? This program will not only provide remarkable research findings but will demonstrate these qualities in filmed and live interviews.

The quest for a visionary life is a journey that each of us is capable of. The focus of this workshop will be on creating vivid dreams, discovering the path to get there, and finding the courage to travel the road.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.
Intermediate Massage Intensive
Pamela Espinoza & Kathleen O'Shaughnessy
This workshop is designed for individuals who have already had basic massage training and have been in practice for a while. It is for those who want to expand into new territory and add to what they are doing with specific complex areas such as the neck and lower back.

Part of the format will include the traditional Esalen style of long, integrative strokes and back.

Complex areas such as the neck and low back.

and add to what they are doing with specific approaches and from all of the participants.

Personal centering through Zen practice, breathing methods, yoga postures, and dynamic movement will be interwoven with the hands-on work.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$740

Weekend of May 17-19

Experiencing Esalen
Experiencing Esalen Staff
Contact is the appreciation of differences.
-Fritz Perls
...and the recognition of similarities.
-Richard Price
This workshop is designed to introduce the various practices of Esalen to first-time participants or to those renewing their acquaintance with Esalen. Emphasis will be on finding those approaches to self-awareness that work most effectively for each participant. Sessions may include: meditation, sensory awareness, gestalt practice, group process, art, movement, and massage. There will also be time to explore the magnificence of the Big Sur coast.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$380

Close Yet Free: Keeping a Good Relationship Alive
Gerald Smith
How can we be open and vulnerable in order to love another person, yet at the same time free in order to continue to grow as an individual? The balance of merging and still maintaining a strong sense of self is never worked out, because each partner is always changing. But this dilemma of competing needs can be dealt with in ways that add to the aliveness in the relationship. Much of the participants' time during this weekend will be spent with their partners, separate from other couples. The workshop will use verbal, nonverbal, and written exercises to enhance openness, support, and affection, as well as skills to resolve differences in ways that do not produce "scar tissue." Also, since play is an essential part of keeping a relationship alive, there will be experiences to spark the imagination and willingness to play together.

Enrollment is limited to 12 couples.

$380 per participant

The Embodied Life: Feldenkrais® Movement and Zen Meditation
Russell Delman
The embodied life refers to our natural condition when mind and body are unified. What exactly does it mean to have body and mind functioning in coordination? How can the habits of both muscular tension and incessant internal chatter be worked with so that an essential unlearning and relearning can occur?

Moshe Feldenkrais created hundreds of ingenious movement experiments that allow us to rediscover the grace and ease inherent in a well-organized brain. Zen meditation offers a sophisticated, simple practice for the movement toward our "original nature." Together these approaches help us to more fully embody life.

The group will practice Awareness Through Movement® (ATM) lessons, mindfulness meditation, and mental imagery designed to connect the learning to everyday life. This workshop is valuable for both active, mobile people and those with injuries. Beginning and experienced explorers can learn at their own level.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$380

Week of May 19-24

Soul Making
Alan Jones
Have you given up on your religious past, dis-owned your spiritual roots, or been crippled by a faith tradition which did not honor your experience? The soul dies and is reborn in the stories which seduce or attract it. What narrative dominates your life now and where did it come from?

The American/Western soul has been deformed by narratives of dominance and "happiness"—by a kind of psychological terrorism of impossible and unreasonable spiritual "entitlements." It has been further damaged by a flawed anthropology of a hyper-individualism turned sour. The wisdom of the soul knows that the most privileged access of spiritual power (grace) is through our greatest weakness, through what we dread. This workshop is informed by the Christian mystical tradition (both Eastern and Western)—especially the Desert Tradition, which serves as an antidote to the mean-spirited fundamentalisms of the modern era.

There will be opportunities for meditative and liturgical practice, group and individual spiritual direction, and a visit to the Immaculate Heart Benedictine Monastery just south of Esalen.

Recommended reading: Jones, Soul Making; Johnston, Silent Music.

$740

The High-Performance Mind: Awakened Mind Brainwave Training
Anna Wise
The high-performance mind is clearer, sharper, and more flexible. Emotions are more available and easier to transform. Information flows more easily between the conscious, subconscious, and unconscious levels, increasing intuition, insight, and empathy.

Having a high-performance mind means being able to enter at will the state of consciousness most beneficial for any given circumstance—then understanding how to use that state. Through brainwave training, this workshop will teach you how to produce the components for an awakened mind, the brainwave pattern of peak experience, optimum creativity, and high spiritual awareness. Working with both the state and the content of consciousness, you can learn to use these brainwaves to develop a high-performance mind for self-healing, dealing with emotional issues, increasing creativity, improving relationships, and developing greater self-knowledge and awareness.

Biofeedback monitoring combined with meditation, visualization, and deep psychophysiological relaxation will help you learn how to master your own states of consciousness. The Mind Mirror EEG will be used to demonstrate brainwave patterns, and Electrical Skin
Resistance Meters to measure the depth of arousal and relaxation of your autonomic nervous system, illuminating the interrelationship between your body and your mind.

Recommended reading: Wise, The High-Performance Mind: Mastering Brainwaves for Insight, Healing, and Creativity.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

The Power of Growth

Seymour Carter

Everyone has unused capacities for further personal development. When these capacities are recognized and given attention, a natural force is released which, like a tide, can carry the individual to a higher level of ability and action. Fritz Perls taught how to recognize the force of avoided issues in dealing with blocked energies. When unfinished issues are confronted and assimilated, it is possible to feel potent and in charge of one’s life.

In this workshop, participants will deal with these issues by examining the influence of the inner dialogue on thoughts and the nature of impasse, as well as tendencies within themselves toward psychological completion and well-being. The basis of this work is the gestalt method, supported by studies in various body disciplines, including sensory awareness, bioenergetics, and aikido. Each participant’s process of development will be honored, encouraged, and treated as unique. $740

Kalarippayattu: The Yoga-Based Martial Art

Phillip Zarrilli

Kalarippayattu is Kerala, India’s yoga-based martial/meditational/healing art dating from the twelfth century. A form of moving meditation to actualize single-point focus, it uses graceful, fluid, yet powerful and dynamic asana-like animal poses and exercises to awaken the subtle body within. According to a Malayalam saying, the ideal practitioner is one for whom the “body becomes all eyes.”

The workshop will begin and end with breath, combining exercises from yoga and kalarippayattu as the foundation for body/mind integration and single-point focus. Kalarippayattu practices and principles will be introduced, including the animal poses, leg exercises, steps, kicks, and complete full-body forms of moving meditation.

Through videotapes and discussions, participants will also learn how kalarippayattu is part of Kerala culture and performing arts—such as the internationally known kathakali dance/drama—and how it shares common principles with yoga and ayurveda.

Beginners are welcome, as well as actors, dancers, and advanced practitioners of yoga and diverse martial arts. Please wear loose, comfortable clothing. $740

• Exploring the possibilities of equal partnership
• Learning new ways to express our fear, sadness, grief, and love for each other
• Defining what we need to change in our relationships
• Learning different language styles to better connect with our partners
• Learning ways to heal, forgive, and move on to a mutually beneficial relationship

Come alone or with a partner. The workshop will provide a safe, supportive environment to learn new practices of breathwork, dyadic communication skills, movement, and Gestalt, making it easier to express your truth and take responsibility for your feelings and issues.

C.E. credit is available for psychologists; see page 61. $380

African Dance: Expressions of Spiritual Energy

Yao Tamakloe & Sarah Abukutsa

Yao Tamakloe is a teacher of dance, drumming, and ethnology. A third-generation jazz performance artist, he has danced and taught with Babatunde Olatunji and Katherine Durham for over ten years. Sarah Abukutsa, his wife, is one of Kenya’s most celebrated singers, and has also studied West African dance. Together they will teach the exciting forms of African dances and the symbolic stories they tell.

Participants will experience the dynamics of war, harvest, and initiation dances, as well as the subtle, healing funeral and recreational dances. The different movements that relate to various roles in society will be presented.

Live drumming will accompany this joyful marriage of power and fluidity inherent in dance. Drumming to accompany dances will be taught using Babatunde Olatunji’s Gun GoDo PaTa method. Bring a drum if you can. $380

Life’s Little Midterm

Kathleen Riordan Speeth

“ ’The middle of life is the very prime of life,' writes Kathleen Speeth. ‘Can it be sweet when it is so often burdened with habit and duty? Heroes and saints, we are told, have found ways to live with intensity and meaning. Can we by self-examination burnish our own ways of being in the world? Any evaluation must be profoundly individual.”
Meditation helps to cultivate self-regulation in daily life. Focusing on their practice, experience, and both a psychological and spiritual perspective, meditation and mind/body healing from OpenMind Training provides instruction in transformative. Are you ready? $380

OpenMind Training: Innovations in Meditation and Mind/Body Healing
Ron Alexander

Learning to observe experience from a place of stillness enables one to relate to life without fear and clinging. One begins to accept pleasure and pain, fear and joy, and all aspects of life with increasing equanimity and balance. Life is seen as a constantly changing process.

— Jack Kornfield, Seeking the Heart of Wisdom

OpenMind Training provides instruction in meditation and mind/body healing from both a psychological and spiritual perspective, focusing on their practice, experience, and benefits in daily life.

Meditation helps to cultivate self-regulation through relaxation and the development of attentional skills. Training in mind/body healing facilitates awareness of the inner state of trust, comfort, time, and curiosity for the activation of the healthy, creative aspects of the unconscious mind. Participants will be taught to develop a user-friendly relationship with the unconscious and to directly contact the resources of the core self. This promotes insight, wellness, and individuation.

Meditative techniques of the various Buddhist schools, particularly Tibetan and Zen, will be explored. Tibetan meditation uses mindfulness, insight, and visualization to activate physiological and psychological energies whose merger can produce powerful states of mind to penetrate into the reality of our being and experience.

Participants will also learn various forms of breathing, chanting, trance states, and mind/body healing exercises. This workshop presents skills to calm the mind, develop trust with the unconscious, and explore inner healing resources. It is designed for anyone from beginner to advanced.

Recommended reading: Goldstein & Kornfield, Seeking the Heart of Wisdom; Rossi, The Psychobiology of Mind-Body Healing.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.
C.E. credit is available for psychologists; see page 61.

$380

May 26–June 2

Cortical Reeducation® and the Feldenkrais Method®
Harriet Goslin

How a person sits, stands, or moves reflects patterns that are "wired in" to the nervous system. This information can be erased or changed. By reeducating the brain-muscle connection, restrictions in movement can be freed, freeing lifetime habits that have organized around that movement.

This work is a relearning of the ease and fluidity taken for granted as a child and lost somewhere along the way. Physical injury, emotional trauma, or ongoing stress all evoke a protective response from the body. These patterns remain when no longer needed, outside of awareness, and continue to cause discomfort and limitations. Freeing them results in relief of chronic pain or tightness and a higher energy level. By changing muscular holding patterns, the entire protective posture is altered, deeply affecting the body's habitual defense system. Thus, new movement possibilities mean new self-image possibilities.

Fears and anxieties have corresponding muscular habits. Verbal information or spiritual practice that fails to extinguish these habits may fail to eliminate the toxic behavior.

This workshop is for those who are physically active and fit and want to increase their skills while learning to reduce risk or injury; for the sedentary or those dealing with after-effects of injuries; for chronically tired and stressed individuals who want to learn how to take better care of their neck, shoulders, and back; and for those who want to improve their posture and breathing and live with more flexibility and comfort.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$1110

Gestalt Practicum
Christine Stewart Price & Gail Stewart

This workshop is designed for people who would like to further explore the gestalt practice form in theory as well as through personal experience. It is especially appropriate for those in the helping professions, such as counselors, bodyworkers, and teachers who are interested in integrating this approach into their current practice. The format will include open seat sessions with the leaders, structured exercises where participants work with each other, didactic presentation, and discussion.

The prerequisite for admission into the workshop is previous participation in a workshop specifically in gestalt practice led by one of the Esalen gestalt staff (Eric Erickson, Christine Price, or Joyce Lyke). Otherwise you may send a letter of application to Christine Price, or Joyce Lyke. Otherwise you may send a letter of application to...
Participants will share and work with their circumstances. The basic language of dreams is symbol and metaphor. Dreams address everyone in essentially the same way, regardless of the uniqueness of our individual lives and circumstances.

Developing a Fitness Regime for Optimal Well-Being

Carl Chase (C.C.) & Deborah Anne Medow

Everyone wants to feel more flexible, toned, and energized, stronger and more powerful. This workshop can help you develop and practice a daily fitness regime to achieve those goals.

This week will be an opportunity to begin unlocking your health potential and develop the positive thoughts and attitudes that can create optimal well-being. The keys will be a combination of meditation, yoga, "ballistic" stretching, movement, dance, and a healthy diet.

During the workshop, participants will practice the above activities to help establish a daily fitness routine—fitness on physical, mental, and spiritual levels. Group support will be especially helpful for those who have a difficult time keeping such a fitness practice going.

There will also be time for reflection, integration, and the peacef ul enjoyment of the beautiful Big Sur coast and Esalen grounds. Please bring loose, comfortable clothing, tapes and CDs, even musical instruments, an open mind, a sense of humor, and a warm heart.

Please note: This workshop is not recommended for the seriously ill or the "faint of heart."
Within a small group setting, participants will experience Radix and neo-Reichian methods of emotional release, including a period of individual work called the "intensive." As the armor softens, grief, pain, and rage held in since childhood can emerge. Allowing and accepting these feelings in a safe, supportive environment can create a new capacity for trust, love, and pleasure.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

Singing in the African-American Tradition

Ysaye Barnwell & George Brandon

This workshop is designed to facilitate the development of a community through the vehicle of music from the African-American vocal tradition. Musical forms will include calls and chants, spirituals, ring shouts, hymns, gospels, songs of the civil rights movement, and songs of contemporary struggle. The historical, social, and political context will be provided as an introduction to the songs in each of these musical forms.

Through participation in the songs and discussions of their context, the group will explore from an African-American worldview the values imbedded in the music, the role of cultural and spiritual traditions and rituals, how leadership emerges and can be shared among community members, the nature of cultural responses to and influences on political and social struggle, and, finally, the significance of a shared communal experience in one's personal life. $740

Zen and the Art of Anything

Hal French & Melody Schaper

There is a reservoir of creativity in each of us that often lies unexplored. For the curious, it holds a compelling, intriguing appeal. How do we find this place? How do we tap into its power?

Zen, both in its traditional expressions and through other meditative practices, can offer promising access routes to this realm and link these depths to a variety of creative pursuits. Meditation, then, may turn these pursuits into art forms. Participants are asked, by way of advance preparation, to consider one or two activities which they would like to refine through this process: "Zen and the Art of ______." Each fills in the blank, and seeks in the workshop to apply lessons learned. $740

Sessions will involve zazen (sitting meditation) and other seated exercises, but a strong emphasis will be on moving zen, or zen choreographed. Movement improvisation, visualization, and other sensitizing exercises will be employed, using the total Esalen setting, to enhance our capacity to become alert, alive, aware, awake.

Zen is not merely an esoteric pursuit for cloistered Asians, but may be adopted by Western laypersons and adapted to various pursuits, rendering us more adept in our practice of them.

Recommended reading: Suzuki, Zen Mind, Beginner's Mind. $740

Conflict Resolution Through Conscious Negotiations

Ron Luyet & Jim Tamm

Many business and personal relationships become adversarial simply through a lack of conflict resolution and negotiation skills. This workshop offers a combination of two powerful approaches that can transform conflict into collaborative problem-solving. The first is interest-based adversarial negotiations, well documented for dramatically reducing labor/management conflict. The second focuses on behaviors and feelings that can block resolution of conflict. Participants will be shown how their often unconscious emotional needs impact their effectiveness when negotiating and dealing with conflict.

The workshop will provide immediately useful negotiating skills and a model explaining the fundamental emotional undercurrents that go on between oneself and others during conflict. Small-group preparations, negotiating simulations, self-assessment instruments, and structured feedback will help participants discover rigidity or fears that can sabotage negotiations or undermine long-term relationships.

The workshop is not a series of techniques that promise "how to get yours and most of theirs, too." It is skill-building to develop negotiating relationships for long-term mutual gains. It is designed for learning technical skills and self-awareness to greatly increase effectiveness in resolving personal or professional differences.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

Facial Communication/Facial Diagnosis

Lillian (Lesefko) Garnier

Your face is your identity, the external manifestation of your inner personality. It contains the primary clues for visual communication through the expressions it transmits, while being a topographical map of life experiences. Learning to interpret these clues can give you insight into your own psychological process as well as the health and character of others.

Based on the ancient science of Chinese facial analysis, derived from Chinese medicine, this workshop will combine Chinese medical wisdom with modern research and methods. Participants will learn about the health indicators of the face, the personality traits shown in its markings, the held emotional issues that block chi (life force energy), and how to read the changing quality of chi in the eyes.

Participants will learn to profile others and begin to understand the feelings that others are expressing facially. They will learn to recognize the psychological and emotional underlay of the disease process as seen from the face. Methods to unblock chi, move it, and focus it for optimum health and vitality will be discussed. Ultimately, participants can expand their self-knowledge by attempting to unmask their real selves.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

The Ultimate Yes

George Leonard

Life has one ultimate message, "Yes!", repeated in infinite number and variety: Human life, channeled for millennia by Civilization, is only just beginning to express the diversity and range of which it is easily capable.

— Education and Ecstasy

The ultimate "Yes" is to life itself in its every moment, whatever that moment might bring. The ultimate gift to any friend or loved one is to be totally present for him or her. This June weekend will be dedicated to saying "Yes" to life and the present moment. Through breathing, chanting, meditation, imaging, and movement, this seminar will seek to affirm our personal life and the present moment.

Weekend of June 7-9

The Ultimate Yes

George Leonard

Life has one ultimate message, "Yes!", repeated in infinite number and variety: Human life, channeled for millennia by Civilization, is only just beginning to express the diversity and range of which it is easily capable.

— Education and Ecstasy

The ultimate "Yes" is to life itself in its every moment, whatever that moment might bring. The ultimate gift to any friend or loved one is to be totally present for him or her. This June weekend will be dedicated to saying "Yes" to life and the present moment. Through breathing, chanting, meditation, imaging, and movement, this seminar will seek to affirm our personal life and the present moment.

Facial Communication/Facial Diagnosis

Lillian (Lesefko) Garnier

Your face is your identity, the external manifestation of your inner personality. It contains the primary clues for visual communication through the expressions it transmits, while being a topographical map of life experiences. Learning to interpret these clues can give you insight into your own psychological process as well as the health and character of others.

Based on the ancient science of Chinese facial analysis, derived from Chinese medicine, this workshop will combine Chinese medical wisdom with modern research and methods. Participants will learn about the health indicators of the face, the personality traits shown in its markings, the held emotional issues that block chi (life force energy), and how to read the changing quality of chi in the eyes.

Participants will learn to profile others and begin to understand the feelings that others are expressing facially. They will learn to recognize the psychological and emotional underlay of the disease process as seen from the face. Methods to unblock chi, move it, and focus it for optimum health and vitality will be discussed. Ultimately, participants can expand their self-knowledge by attempting to unmask their real selves.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740 omen with nature, the cosmos, and one another, to remind ourselves of the brevity and vividness of the miracle of existence.
Bring a friend or a loved one or come alone.
All that is needed is a generous spirit and a willingness to participate wholeheartedly.
Recommended reading: Leonard, Education and Ecstasy, The Silent Pulse, and The Transformation.

Disarming the Ogre: Recognizing and Transforming the Inner Critic
Sarah La Salle
The Ogre—also known as the inner negative voice, the committee, the dark and hopeless perceptions, black-and-white thinking—is the voice of old belief systems. Many people experience their Ogre as a feeling of malaise or heaviness. Often it goes unrecognized by posing as the voice of reason, of ultimate reality.
The Ogre judges. It counsels by criticism and continually re-inflicts wounds. The fundamental goal of the Ogre is to protect from pain and further loss. Unfortunately, the voice is cruel and distorted in its effort to preserve.
In this workshop, participants will catch their Ogre, illuminate him, and utilize various methods to transmute his negative influence.
Writing, drawing, partnering, and group discussion will be used to deal with conscious and unconscious self-hatred.

Rekindling the Spirit in Work
Howard Schechter & Barbara Lee
"Rekindling the Spirit in Work" is about reconnecting with yourself and the work you do. Through creative exercises and sharing with the group, you can gain clarity about your goals in work, the skills required to confront and dissolve major blocks to rewarding work and to integrate who you are with what you do. This process is far more effective than narrow vocational perspectives. The emphasis is on the question "Who is working?" By identifying with our highest self, what we do can flow more easily and be a direct expression in the world of who we are inside.

This workshop is for people who are beginning new careers, in transition, dissatisfied, or simply bored with their work. Participants often come away with a sense of clarity and purpose, and seldom feel the need to make radical shifts in job or profession. Rather, the subtle inner adjustments of identity, attitude, and perspective create greater job satisfaction and offer direction for taking the next steps in work.
C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Practical Alchemy, Kabbalah, and Quantum Physics
Chris Carmines, Ovid Jacob &
Mira Zussman
At the crossroads of magic, science, and religion, equivalent principles operate. Western alchemy, kabbalah, and quantum physics are rooted in the same fundamental concepts despite our thinking of them as distinctly different cosmologies.
This workshop will explore the theory and practice of these traditions as well as the intersections between them. Participants will enter into the four alchemical elements (fire, water, air, and earth), the Hebrew tetragrammaton (the four Hebrew letters that form the name of God), and the four fundamental physical forces (weak, electromagnetic, strong, and gravitational), thereby returning to the building blocks of Creation itself. The workshop will provide not only an introduction to these multiple ways of knowing, but also a way to integrate them in our understanding and experience of nature.
The workshop will be a lively mixture of discussion and experiential exercises.

The Group 2000
Esalen Staff
The Group 2000 is made up of individuals who are committed to assisting Esalen in the long-term financial capability to fulfill its vision into the next millennium and who have contributed $2,000 or more in a year. For its June gathering, the Group 2000 will particicipate in George Leonard’s workshop, "The Ultimate Yes," as well as meet together as a group to discuss plans and possibilities for the future of Esalen Institute.
For more information, please contact Gordon
Smith at 408-667-3032.

Week of June 9-14

Five-Day Massage Intensive
Brita Ostrom & Oliver Bailey
This massage workshop explores the fundamental elements of bodywork: grounding, centering, breath awareness, touch sensitivi-ity, and intention. A hands-on approach will offer a balance of long, integrative strokes with detailed attention to specific areas of the body. There will be emphasis on boundaries and trust with respect to the client’s physical and emotional well-being. Meditation and movement will be included, as they enhance the connection between client and practitioner.
This workshop is for beginning bodyworkers
and those interested in learning some new approaches to massage.
C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Meditation, the Living Body, and Creativity
Robert Hall
There is natural wisdom, inherently and joyously present, in the nature of all things. The deep understanding that comes from the experience of presence is constantly offered to us by plants, insects, animals, creatures of the sea, the human body, by the Earth, and certainly by the heavens. Our focused attention reveals that wisdom to us, as well as its close companion, compassion.
Spiritual practice—sitting meditation—is the age-old method of building awareness of presence and awakening to the realities of our existence. We learn to gradually discard the limitations that were placed on our ability to feel. We awaken to life itself as it is revealed within our bodies. The natural wisdom and compassion of our hearts becomes our common experience.
This workshop will make use of meditation, conscious movement, voice, sharing of the heart, and listening to silence as preparation for creative expression; each person will use whatever mediums of delivery seem appropriate. Participants will perform theater, compose poetry, create dance, and use visual arts to express to each other the experience of presence itself.
C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.
Mountains and Waves: Wilderness and Continuum
Susan Harper & Steven Harper

Nature is a primary teacher of movement, creativity, and awareness. Being outdoors in the richness and beauty of the natural world awakens our outer senses. Continuum movement takes us inward, heightening the awareness of our inner senses. These five days will combine both practices, integrating the subtle inner explorations that Continuum movement inspires with the activity of day-hiking in the magnificent Big Sur backcountry.

The day-hikes will introduce participants to basic and increasingly refined awareness practices to enhance their sensitivity to all that wilderness and being out-of-doors offers. In so doing, not only will there be contact with the natural world, but it will be an opportunity to reawaken those elements of wilderness within.

In the indoor sessions, participants will explore movements which express and embody what they have taken in during their walks, enlivening their ability to feel what they see in nature, as well as their own inner nature. Engaging with this sensual environment, the group will play with movement, breath, sound, dreams, and ritual.

Participants need not have previous experience in hiking or dance. $740

Transition, Risk, and Renewal: Mastering the Art of Change
David Schiffman & Susan Kuttner

David Schiffman writes: "During the last twenty-five years I have had the privilege of being a midwife for an extraordinary variety of people facing major transitions in life. During this week I would like to share and explore those influences, inner resources, and natural rhythms that best support healthy, sustainable change. Our aim will be to cultivate the emotional poise, mental clarity, energetic flexibility, and stamina necessary to face life's inevitable challenges in a timely, graceful, and effective manner. Participants will be encouraged to initiate attention and support for themselves, both in the group and upon returning home, in innovative ways that can minimize unnecessary suffering, fatigue, and wasted time.

"The methods used will be a blending of the old and the new, the tried and the true—tailor-made to fit the actual needs of the group. The prerequisite for this seminar is an honest readiness to engage in a heartfelt adventure of exploration and risk-taking that could change your approach to life." $740

Old-Fashioned New Age Cooking
Dennis Marriott & Robin Burnsde

Imagine homemade yogurt and granola for breakfast. A garden-fresh vegetable soup and French country loaves for midday. Fresh pasta with a sauce to make Mama proud, and savory focaccia. All made from scratch, by you!

Learn to recapture the old-fashioned goodness and flavor of Grandma's cooking while you discover cooking as a continuous practice in awareness and source of inspiration and joy.

Emphasis for this hands-on workshop will be on the flavor potential and nutritional value of the ingredients, stressing natural and organic eating and low/no-fat alternatives. Daily harvests from Esalen's organic garden/farm will provide fresh herbs and produce.

There will also be ample time for reflection, integration, and the enjoyment of the Big Sur coast and Esalen's grounds. No prior cooking or baking experience is required, just a love for food—and life. $740

Weekend of June 14-16

The Parenting Process
Eileen & Thomas Paris

What we call dysfunction today has an obvious evolutionary trail, for parents, in spite of the best intentions, tend to repeat injuries they vow they will never pass on. Therefore, in order to bring a psychological and spiritual change to our global society, we clearly must begin with a radical and substantive change in the way we parent.

This interactive workshop teaches communication skills based on the developmental themes of bonding, mirroring, and separating. Because these themes attend to what constitutes a healthy parent/child relationship, they are applicable to relationships with children of any age—from conception on.

This workshop will utilize experiential exercises to heighten awareness of negative family myths and relationship patterns, and will teach how to interrupt them. In addressing modern-day parenting concerns with a developmental focus, parents can raise kids with a "healthy sense of self"—a body experience which enables children to live their lives from the inside. This can help them live in a developmental continuum with the life of the planet.

The Parenting Process is designed for all parents, whether new, experienced, or expectant, living together, single, divorced, or living in alternatively structured families. $380

Chaos and Complexity in Photography, Life, and Work
Lawrence Hudetz & Irene Sanders

This high-participation workshop explores new ways to see and think about the world. Photography will be used to illuminate the concepts of chaos theory and complexity with special emphasis on fractals and strange attractors. Context—not technique—is the focus. Insights gained from photographic sessions will be applied to explore a new model for understanding and responding to the chaos and complexity in our life, work, and rapidly changing world.

The workshop will begin with a brief introduction to the new science, followed by a photographic session in which participants venture outside and shoot several rolls of film. The resulting collection of natural images will be used to demonstrate the concepts of fractals, self-organization, and the interactions of linear and nonlinear formation. Then, weaving together the images and concepts, participants will be shown how to explore and influence their personal and professional futures by anticipating and responding to change in new ways.

Activities and discussions are designed to help participants see subtle connections, patterns, and emerging opportunities in their lives and work. Each session will be a unique and rich integration of art, science, and world events.

Please bring a 35mm camera and 3-4 rolls of 24 exposure film. $380

Practical Herbology: An Esalen Garden Workshop
Jeanine Pollak

This weekend workshop will present in-depth coverage of thirty useful plants growing fresh in the Esalen garden. It will include how to identify, prepare, and formulate these plants according to the medicinal, nutritional, and cosmetic aspects of each.
Using the garden as a classroom, participants will learn to make fresh tinctures, sun teas, herbal oils, and liniments. The workshop will cover herbal formulas for common colds, flus, sore throats, headaches, digestion, and respiration. It will draw from modern scientific research and herbal pharmacology, as well as from tradition and folklore, to explore the uses and energetics of each plant. Handouts, recipe sheets, and species lists will be included, plus a variety of homemade herbal products for sampling.

This workshop is designed to broaden herbal perspectives, to contact plants in many forms, and to provide a wide diversity of approaches to working with herbs.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Ageless Vitality:
The Body is Living Music

Elisa Lodge

The secret is to hear the music that is the body. The body becomes not a doomed machine but a glorious composition.

— LARRY DOSSEY, M.D.

Ageless vitality arises when we feel a deep sense of trust for the intuitive wisdom in our bodies. When the body, its movements, breath, and speech become more musical, fluid, and vital—rather than mechanized, controlled, and predictable—responsiveness to the body’s inherent knowledge and creative resources is more available.

The workshop will include individual and group exercises, Authentic Movement, and expressive arts to evoke natural vitality and energetic aliveness. The focus will be on regaining the ability to:

- Tune into our inner rhythms
- Redirect emotional buildup into aesthetic expression
- Sit, stand, and walk with fluent, vibrant aliveness
- Exercise energy to circulate more freely to the task at hand
- Develop powers of self-affirmation

Time will be devoted to discovering how we deplete our natural ability to be self-healing and self-renewing, and how we can become “artists of being,” utilizing our natural genius to re-create our lives into melodious and harmonious expression.

Present at the Creation:
Reawakening the Artist Within

Esalen Arts Center Staff

It is said that the drive to create—to be original, inventive, resourceful—is as vital as the biological drive of hunger and as life-enhancing as the spiritual call to wholeness. As children many of us were thwarted in this essential expression of the human life force. We were taught that it was the end result that was all-important, and thus were denied the exhilarating experience of the creative process itself. And we allowed our creative expression to go to sleep.

This workshop invites you on a journey of reawakening. The Arts Center staff will provide a safe, supportive environment for you to rediscover the creator within. There will be a variety of art media available, which may include painting, pottery, silk-dyeing, dance and movement, mask-making, ritual, and group work. The leaders will offer exercises, as needed, to stimulate and liberate your creative expression, as they guide you deeper into the world of your own imagination and playfulness.

This will also be a wonderful opportunity to get messy. No previous art training is necessary.

How to Feel as Good as You Can in Spite of Everything

Julie Henderson

Julie Henderson writes: "Our original state, forgotten between effort and collapse, is inherently pleasurable. To rejoin this ground—to let life live us, to trust the pulsation which is our aliveness—brings us inevitably into pleasure. Despite our expectations and habits, this is more easy than difficult, and relies more on play than work.

“If you are willing to ‘get over your self’ to loosen your conviction that you are your limiting postures of body, energy, and mind—you can open the gate and walk through to well-being as your ‘ordinary’ state.

“The risks you take are humming, rocking, jiggling, and laughing, brought together in a meld of body awareness, skillful relationship, meditative presence, and humor.”

Julie Henderson, somaticist, Vajrayana practitioner, and Ericksonian storyteller, has developed a form of work which emphasizes direct movement to well-being with only secondary attention to our habits of misery. She calls this work Zapchen, after the Tibetan word for a salubrious, mind-changing naughtiness.

Week of June 16-21

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Steven Harper

For workshop description see May 24-26.

How to Feel as Good as You Can in Spite of Everything

Julie Henderson

Julie Henderson writes: "Our original state, forgotten between effort and collapse, is inherently pleasurable. To rejoin this ground—to let life live us, to trust the pulsation which is our aliveness—brings us inevitably into pleasure. Despite our expectations and habits, this is more easy than difficult, and relies more on play than work.

“If you are willing to ‘get over your self’ to loosen your conviction that you are your limiting postures of body, energy, and mind—you can open the gate and walk through to well-being as your ‘ordinary’ state.

“The risks you take are humming, rocking, jiggling, and laughing, brought together in a meld of body awareness, skillful relationship, meditative presence, and humor.”

Julie Henderson, somaticist, Vajrayana practitioner, and Ericksonian storyteller, has developed a form of work which emphasizes direct movement to well-being with only secondary attention to our habits of misery. She calls this work Zapchen, after the Tibetan word for a salubrious, mind-changing naughtiness.

$380
Relationships: Letting Go—Moving On
Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

For one human being to love another: that is perhaps the most difficult of all our tasks, the ultimate test and proof, the work for which all the other work is but preparation.

— RILKE

The fabric of our lives is made up of relationships. All of life's relationships will be the focus of this workshop: family, friends, lovers, co-workers, partners.

This workshop will help you:

- Examine ways you sabotage yourself perhaps the most difficult of all our tasks, the work for which all the other work is but preparation.
- Find out how your relationships mirror you.
- Learn practical tools and knowledge that will help create empowered relationships.
- Get a clearer picture of what you want and how to get it.
- Examine ways you sabotage yourself.
- Learn more about how others see you.
- Learn practical tools and knowledge that will help create empowered relationships.

$740

Pilobolus: Collaborative Creativity Method
Michael Tracy

Pilobolus Dance Theatre, the company that pioneered a unique collaborative method of choreography, has performed worldwide for nearly twenty-five years and has taught in universities and institutes around the country.

This workshop, led by Pilobolus's co-Artistic Director Michael Tracy, will offer a rare opportunity to see behind the choreographic method of this innovative company and to learn how to use this method to develop your own creative ideas.

The workshop will begin each day with an introduction to this collaborative method. A segment will then be devoted to guided movement experimentation; another portion will be dedicated to developing collaborative ideas into short choreographic pieces. The workshop will provide a supportive environment in which to develop your creative skills, and offer guidance and feedback as you refine your ideas into a more powerful dramatic form. There will be daily opportunities to create new work and share artistic ideas. By the end of the week, you may be surprised by your creative work.

This workshop is open to people of all ages and levels of experience. Come prepared to move.

$740

Healing the Parent-Child Bond:
For Parents and Their Adult Children
Phyllis Shankman

Relationships between parents and adult children are often the most complex, profound, and delicate relationships we have. Through the years, as people's lives unfold and often unravel, through the celebrations, fights, laughter, disappointments, joy, and pain, these relationships endure internally. They continue to confront and impact us at every turn.

Whether parents and children are intimate or distant in their daily lives does not change the significance of who we are to one another.

This is a workshop for parents and children over 18. The sessions will utilize awareness exercises, group discussions, and compassionate listening to create a supportive neutral space for open dialogue, appreciations, concerns, and "unfinished business." The intention is to open the door for more depth, mutual understanding, love, and acceptance.

Invite your parent or your adult child to join you, and spend some healing time together.

$740

Introduction to Mindfulness Meditation
James Baraz

Mindfulness—or vippassana—meditation is the practice described by the Buddha for developing wisdom, compassion, and peace. Vippassana, "to see things clearly," means being mindful of what is actually happening in the present moment. Using the breath, body sensations, thought and emotions as objects of attention, we can learn to be fully awake and bring a balanced awareness to all aspects of our lives.

Through vippassana meditation we can experience the nature of reality as continuous change. When we see that all phenomena are impermanent, we can begin to let go of clinging to the pleasant or avoiding the unpleasant. We are then more capable of meeting each situation with spontaneity, fearlessness, and love. Meditation also teaches us to see in each moment the interconnectedness of all things. Our hearts open to a natural expression of compassion and kindness.

Participants will be introduced to this method of meditation practice and the principles on which it is based. There will be periods of silent sitting and walking meditation, as well as discussion. As attention is brought to all activities at Esalen, individuals will continue to develop mindfulness throughout the weekend. This will provide a foundation for applying mindfulness practice to everyday life.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$380

Reconnecting Business with its Soul
David Trickett, Bill Sechrest & Ron Loeb

Einstein asked the question, "Is the world a friendly place?" In this time of rapid global change and worldwide hostilities, executives, managers, and all stakeholders in our global business community may wonder why anyone would even pose the query. Yet an affirmative answer can shift our worldview from an inherited model based on scarcity and disconnection to a systems model grounded on abundance and interrelationship with the universe. This shift can provide renewed energy to conduct business in a manner that is values-based, socially responsible, and integrated with our surroundings. This view is a key not only to survival but also to success in the twenty-first century, wherein productivity, ethics, prosperity, growth, and spiritual wholeness all will be seen to emanate from the same creative source: the conscious human mind.

Participants will be guided through exercises using their personal stories, selected brief readings, music, meditation, and dialogue designed to help see afresh the rich systems context in which business thrives. The intention is to discover the key lying in each of us for answering Einstein's question in a way that can transform our businesses into global change agents capable of providing abundance for all their stakeholders. The workshop will provide practical tools to assimilate Nobel Laureate Ilya Prigogene's insight that "the world is richer than it is possible to express in any single language.

$380

Roots and Wings: Renewing Our Spirits, Living Our Dreams
David Schiffman

David Schiffman writes: "This workshop is for people who value a heartfelt, original approach to life, the suitably seasoned who want to trust and master their own rhythms and who appreciate the value of imaginative self-inquiry. Its pacing and format are Using displays, handouts, instruction, and exclusively on clients paying out-of-pocket. Therapists can thrive in private practice, relying on the aged care tidal wave, but in fact to benefit from it. These are times in which creative, informed therapists, which have proven valuable to practitioners, and family, and which utilizes traditional spiritual practices, and guided personal exploration in small groups. Attendance at the previous workshops in the series is not necessary. It will introduce participants to basic management issues, such as clinical forms, record keeping, and risk management. It will outline specific, creative ways to market oneself with integrity, dignity, even with fun. It will demonstrate the essentials of effective therapy that go beyond specific orientations or techniques—essentials based on engagement, flexibility, and attending to clients' needs. The workshop is geared toward psychologists, counselors, psychiatrists, social workers, interns, and psychological assistants. C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Couples Massage Weekend
Ellen Watson & David Streeter
This weekend couples workshop is designed for those who would like to bring the benefits of massage into their everyday lives. The workshop will teach simple massage techniques, developed by Esalen massage practitioners, which have proven valuable to anyone who wants to help a partner, friend, or family member feel better. Techniques that help relieve pain, increase vitality, or simply soothe the nerves will be demonstrated briefly and practiced with lots of hands-on instruction by the leaders.

This workshop is especially helpful for loving couples, as Esalen massage is greatly beneficial in its connective and healing qualities.

Making a Private-Pay Practice Work
Ofer Zur
Practicing psychotherapy as a private practitioner in the '90s is challenging. The takeover by managed care, cutting in federal funding, and a continuing increase in the number of practitioners all mean shrinking practices, a more competitive market, and fewer available resources to pay for therapy. In addition, the sharp increase in rules and laws has added to therapists' anxiety about being sued.

This workshop is for psychotherapists who wish to practice outside the managed care system. It is possible not only to survive the managed care tidal wave, but in fact to benefit from it. These are times in which creative, informed therapists can thrive in private practice, relying exclusively on clients paying out-of-pocket.

Using a unique blend of physical, emotional, and spiritual attunement practices, we will weave a spell aimed at restoring the magic and faith we need to live soulful, wholehearted lives. We will spend the weekend doing this inner work using ceremony, ritual, music, poetry, movement, and visualization.

The Diamond Approach to the Lataif: Opening the Doors to Essence
Joyce Lyke & Sandra Maitri
Traveling the path of spiritual unfoldment requires of us and calls forth from us particular qualities of our Essential or True Nature. These qualities, residing beneath the surface of our personality, are characteristically the first to arise as one works with the Diamond Approach. They are also the qualities that we need throughout so that our journey truly becomes one that leads to abiding in Being. Each quality is associated with a center of subtle consciousness in the body, a Sufi system known as the lataif. Through contacting and understanding these centers and working with the psychodynamic issues that block each of them, the lataif become doors ushering us into the Essential realm.

This is one of a series of workshops presenting the Diamond Approach at Esalen. The Diamond Approach is a contemporary spiritual path which arose in response to the needs of those living ordinary lives of work and family, and which utilizes traditional spiritual understandings and practices as well as those of depth psychology.

The format will include talks, exercises in self-inquiry, various traditional spiritual practices, music meditations, conscious physical activities, and guided personal exploration in small groups. Attendance at the previous workshops in the series is not necessary.

Please note: Registration requires completion of a questionnaire. For more information see Special Programs, page 58.

Recommended reading: Almasi, Diamond Heart—Book One and Essence.

Week of June 23-30
The Upledger Institute's CranioSacral II
Suzanne Sculock-Durana
This workshop, the second in a series given by the Upledger Institute, further explores the CranioSacral System and its function in relationship to other patho-physiological body systems. The course will begin with the study of cranial base dysfunctions as perceived, diagnosed, and treated by Dr. William Sutherland, the father of cranial osteopathy. In this course students will learn how to integrate Sutherland's techniques for identifying and evaluating lesions into a ten-step protocol and how to apply individual correction treatments when needed. Evaluation and treatment processes of the hard palate, the mandible, and temporomandibular joint will be presented and practiced to complete the exploration of the masticatory system. Emphasis will then be directed to whole body evaluation, as discussions will center on various "physiological phenomena" that occur within the body.

The Somato-Emotional Release process will also be introduced with discussion and demonstration of an "energy cyst." Before participating in this course, students must complete CranioSacral Therapy 1, either at Esalen or elsewhere.

For further information see Special Programs, page 58.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Week of June 23-30
The Upledger Institute's CranioSacral II
Suzanne Sculock-Durana
This workshop, the second in a series given by the Upledger Institute, further explores the CranioSacral System and its function in relationship to other patho-physiological body systems. The course will begin with the study of cranial base dysfunctions as perceived, diagnosed, and treated by Dr. William Sutherland, the father of cranial osteopathy. In this course students will learn how to integrate Sutherland's techniques for identifying and evaluating lesions into a ten-step protocol and how to apply individual correction treatments when needed. Evaluation and treatment processes of the hard palate, the mandible, and temporomandibular joint will be presented and practiced to complete the exploration of the masticatory system. Emphasis will then be directed to whole body evaluation, as discussions will center on various "physiological phenomena" that occur within the body.

The Somato-Emotional Release process will also be introduced with discussion and demonstration of an "energy cyst." Before participating in this course, students must complete CranioSacral Therapy 1, either at Esalen or elsewhere.

For further information see Special Programs, page 58.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Week of June 23-30
The Upledger Institute's CranioSacral II
Suzanne Sculock-Durana
This workshop, the second in a series given by the Upledger Institute, further explores the CranioSacral System and its function in relationship to other patho-physiological body systems. The course will begin with the study of cranial base dysfunctions as perceived, diagnosed, and treated by Dr. William Sutherland, the father of cranial osteopathy. In this course students will learn how to integrate Sutherland's techniques for identifying and evaluating lesions into a ten-step protocol and how to apply individual correction treatments when needed. Evaluation and treatment processes of the hard palate, the mandible, and temporomandibular joint will be presented and practiced to complete the exploration of the masticatory system. Emphasis will then be directed to whole body evaluation, as discussions will center on various "physiological phenomena" that occur within the body.

The Somato-Emotional Release process will also be introduced with discussion and demonstration of an "energy cyst." Before participating in this course, students must complete CranioSacral Therapy 1, either at Esalen or elsewhere.

For further information see Special Programs, page 58.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.
Integrating the theories of Jung, Reich, and Almas, the workshop will illuminate how our masks function as both wombs and tombs.

Through the process of constructing and painting our masks, we can see both the defensive layers of our self- and body-images as well as the radiance of our true nature. The workshop will utilize movement, interactive exercises, full-body drawings of our armor and essence, and creative encounters with shadow and persona as further ways of exploring the different faces and body poses we present to the world. The week will conclude with a sacred mask ritual in which each participant enacts his or her journey from personality to essence.

Recommended reading: C.S. Lewis, Till We Have Faces. $740

(plus $30 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

Ecopsychology, Addiction Recovery, and Gender Reconciliation

Jed Diamond

This workshop combines three aspects of healing: our planet, ourselves, and our intimate relationships. The center from which to explore this healing will be an expanded focus on addiction recovery.

There have been four stages in the evolution of addiction recovery programs. The first began with Alcoholics Anonymous and focused on "individual" recovery. Then came the recognition that individual recovery had to be supplemented by focus on "intimate relationships" and gender issues. Soon after, the emphasis was our addictive "social institutions." Now we are entering the fourth stage, expanded to include ways in which the planet, society, gender, and individual healing.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

Yoga Works: Tools for Well-Being

Chuck Miller & Maty Ezraty

Yoga is an ancient system that uses the body, breath, and mind to energize and transform all aspects of living. It is not only an excellent source of physical exercise, but a unique and powerful tool for self-realization. The practice of yoga can help release blocks that cause mental and physical pain and prevent us from knowing our divine nature. It is also a great way of dealing with the stress of daily living.

The invigorating effects of yoga become readily apparent as the body opens and stretches. Breath is the link between mind and body, and various breathing methods will be taught to help reduce tension and cleanse the system. The serenity and clarity that is the goal of yoga will be sought through meditation exercises that calm and focus the mind. Yoga philosophy and theory will be discussed, as well as nutrition and its role in overall physical health.

All levels are welcome and no prior experience is required, only an adventurous spirit. For further information contact the leaders at 310-393-5150. $380

Caring for the Dying: What Really Works?

Frank Ostaseski & Ryushin Paul Haller

This workshop explores a mindful and compassionate approach to caring for those with chronic or life-threatening illness. Drawing on the experience of the Zen Hospice Project, a nationally innovative model of conscious care, the aim is to demystify the care-giving process, investigate our response to suffering, and clarify our intention in service.

The leaders will introduce traditional meditation practices of awareness, impermanence, and forgiveness; provide exercises designed to explore accumulated grief; and discuss the importance of ritual and memorials. Through silence, writing, storytelling, and the collective wisdom of the group, participants will discover ways of encouraging our innate generosity and skillful means to stay present in difficult or impersonal care-giving situations.

The workshop offers renewal and a fresh perspective on service to professionals or individuals caring for friends or family. All are invited, but those caring for people with AIDS or cancer are particularly encouraged to attend. Wear comfortable clothing and please bring writing materials.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $380

“Innocence”—The Cancer That Kills Love
Judith Sherwen & James Sniechowski

Why is it so hard to say, “I was wrong. I’m really sorry?” What causes us to insist it’s all someone else’s fault?

We live in an era of entitlement and self-righteous indignation. “I’m right. You’re wrong” are the watchwords of the day. And they are destroying our relationships.

In loving partnership no one is ever purely “right” or solely “wrong.” Both parties create their dance together.

Personal responsibility, co-created power-sharing, and the magic of differences are the cornerstones of this experiential workshop. Enhanced maturity, flexibility, and increased capacity for loving acceptance, compassion, and communion are the goals. The workshop will include guided meditations, role-playing vignettes to resolve conflict, and emotional “music testing.” $380

Identity, Community, and Politics: The Ontogeny of Everyday Life
Andra Akers & Tim Kennedy

If there are many paradigms in this nonlinear, ever-shifting, postcultural world, how do we create ourselves, our social, political, and spiritual realities? How do we make meaning in this transition to a global human soul? What is the ground of being for a twenty-first century identity, the characteristics of a planetary citizen? What models will shape this new identity, both individual and global—and lead us to envision news ways to live and work?

In a cultural context, biological science is a potent vision of life’s appreciation of itself, one way our species recognizes its participation in the embodiment of this living planet.

We and all organisms are both ends and means. Molecular, cellular, organismal, and ecological insights point to our heritage, one shared with the rest of the living earth—a vivid story of being and becoming.

With biology as the blueprint and imagination as the engine, this workshop will explore a new kinship story in which identity is an ecosystem of ideas, in a creative commonwealth founded on diversity and in a search for a new definition of power founded on a strategy of inclusion.

Recommended reading: Abraham, Chaos, Gaia, Eros, Chomsky, World Orders Old and New; Kaufman, At Home in the Universe. $380

Week of June 30-July 5

Language of the Drums: African Percussion, Chanting, and Dance
Babatunde Olatunji & Friends

Olatunji and the Fourth of July—a jubilant Esalen tradition! Nigerian musician Babatunde Olatunji has been bridging the gap between American and African culture for more than thirty-five years. In this workshop he will show how drum sounds and rhythms communicate, stimulate, and pace the activities of traditional African life. He will teach the consonants of the Yoruba language, reproducing its sounds on drums and through chants, body percussion, and dance.

This workshop is for dancers, percussionists, musicians, and anyone who wants to speak the language of the drums. Drummers can experience the dance and dancers can experience the drums. Participants will prepare for a performance at Esalen’s annual Fourth of July celebration. Bring a drum if you have one.

Please note: This has always been a popular workshop, with lots of people drumming and dancing in a small area. The energy runs high—be prepared for a crowded, exuberant atmosphere. $740

Dancing with the Shadow
Jeremiah Abrams & Linda Piscitelli Wolf

One does not become enlightened by imagining figures of light, but by making the darkness conscious. —C.G. Jung

The shadow is the person one has no wish to be. Yet shadow-work leads us back to our buried potential, to the treasure-house wherein lies what we have rejected out of shame, fear, ignorance, or lack of love.

Facing the shadow does not mean eliminating it, but rather undertaking the process of balancing and depolarizing, healing the split between our conscious self-concept and all else we are or might be. This enables us to live more fully in the existential present and to embody expanded awareness.

The workshop approaches the shadow from the soul-centered view of Jungian archetypal psychology, concerned with the unique transformative path which each soul must follow. Participants will undertake a journey inward to the shadow, allowing the images to come forward and integrating them through dreamwork, trance, bodywork, active imagination, and the evolving group dialogue.

There will be a ceremonial purification (sweat) lodge to initiate the work and a ritual celebration—a Shadow Dance—to end, so come prepared with costume and full shadow-regalia. If you are feeling stuck or just feel like it’s time to take the next step in your spiritual journey, this workshop is for you.

Recommended reading: Abrams, The Shadow in America; Abrams & Zweig, Meeting the Shadow. $740

The Story of Your Life: Becoming the Author of Your Experience
Mandy Aftel

Is your life a page-turner or a hackneyed story you’ve gotten tired of repeating? We tell the stories of our lives to friends and neighbors, on job interviews and blind dates, at slumber parties and in therapy. Too often, though, the stories we tell are simplistic tales of blame, guilt, hopelessness, and anger that limit our understanding of the past and close off possibilities for the future. “That’s the story of my life,” we say when things go wrong—again.

But even ordinary lives have the elements of great literature. Each of us lives three major plots—love, mastery, and loss. These plots are motivated by our needs for self-esteem, control, and separation, and they are complicated—sometimes capsized—by the themes of sex, money, escape, and children.

We enact these plots and complications with a cast of major and minor characters, the most important of whom is the narrator—ourselves.

In this workshop, which blends psychology and narrative, you can learn how to trace, examine, and revise your love, mastery, and loss plots and to harness the four complications. Through brief writing exercises and interpersonal process, you can learn how to become the author of your own life-story, creating a new narrative—courageous, fulfilling, imaginative—and an artful existence full of the complexity, nuance, and excitement of a great novel.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. $740
Spirit in Nature: Learning from Other Species and Other Cultures
Jo Imlay & John Broomfield

For most of our ancestors, the world was a unified, spirit-filled cosmos in which humans were bound in kinship with animals, trees, rivers, rocks, and sky. Our contemporary culture is attempting to rekindle the belief that by acknowledging the living consciousness of the earth we have much to learn from our companions in nature.

This workshop will help participants to reconnect with the earth and hear nature’s voices once again. To open all the senses, time will be divided between talk and meditative silence, group activities and solo explorations, drumming, and shamanic ritual.

Through discussion and videos, participants will be introduced to the spiritual bond with nature embedded in native cultures: Celtic, Himalayan, Arctic, Native American, Polynesian, Australian. These traditions teach us that everything given by the earth must be held sacred. Against this background, participants will explore their own spiritual experiences in nature and pool ideas on ways to live more lightly on the earth.

Much of the week will be spent outdoors in the quiet beauty of Esalen’s gardens, grounds, and seashore, practicing how to truly see and hear—learning to walk with reverence and joy among our brother and sister creatures. $740

Creativity and Community: A Workshop for Children
Lia Thompson-Clark & Guest Teachers

Creativity is most likely to be fostered by a transformative atmosphere during the early years of life.

— HOWARD GARDNER

Children who have grown up at Esalen have flourished, thanks in large part to the opportunities to explore both freedom and discipline in the teachings of the many artists, thinkers, and doers who come to Big Sur. This workshop provides an opportunity for children to participate in many of the activities Esalen has to offer. Explorations of art forms such as dance, theatre, painting, and ceramics will be presented. To learn how a community functions, children will participate in various Esalen work departments, providing further opportunities to engage in individual and collective responsibility.

This workshop is for children, ages 8-14, whose parents are attending a concurrent Esalen seminar. $475

Weekend of July 5-7

Healthy Back, Healthy Mind: User-Friendly Yoga for Backs and Stress
Larry Payne

If you have already had your first bout with back problems, you are not alone. Ninety percent of all Americans will seek professional help for back problems at some time in their lives. Seven million people miss work daily from back-related illness, costing American business twenty-two billion dollars annually. Perhaps the saddest statistic is that eighty percent of all back problems can be prevented.

This workshop is user-friendly for those who want to explore do-it-yourself tools for enjoying life, coping with stress, and preventing or healing back problems. It offers a creative synthesis and artful balance of ageless wisdom from the East and contemporary healthful methods from the West. The yoga is inspired by the work of T.K.V. Desikachar of Madras, India. The course includes:

• Safe, effective yoga programs specially designed for the 35-65 age group
• Numerous effective relaxation practices
• Do-it-yourself partner yoga routines
• Biomechanical education and lifestyle tools
• Experiential hiking and walking techniques

Please Note: This workshop is not recommended for acute back problems. For more information, please phone 800-359-0171.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $380

Language of the Drums: Intermediate Level
Babatunde Olatunji

This workshop is designed for those who would like to further explore the polyrhythmic aspect of African music. It will include exploring varying combinations of rhythmic patterns, the ability to play rhythmic patterns on two drums, rhythmic exercises to develop stamina and dexterity of the hands and fingers, and the use of sticks in playing.

Participants will also be introduced to different styles of playing the agogo (cow bell), shekere (African maracas), and body percussion.

There will be time devoted to discussion of the healing power of the drum through history. Participants will learn how to meditate with drumming and chanting. No special dancing is involved except for occasional movements conducted by the leader.

Please note: This class is open to those who have taken at least two full workshops with Babatunde Olatunji or a professional percussionist.

Things to bring: one or two drums, congas, djembes, or ashidos; shekere (African maracas); agogo (cow bell); and djun-jun (not required). $380
No, You're Not Crazy: Understanding Our Spiritual Awakenings
Edward Hoffman & Laura Lawrence

Have you ever had a mystical, intensely spiritual, psychic, or peak experience? If so, as surveys repeatedly show, you're hardly alone. Yet, as practicing therapists, we find today that many people are ashamed to talk about their "spiritual awakenings"—whether through dreams, visions, altered states, uncanny events, or higher guidance—for fear of being ridiculed, labeled, or even regarded as crazy.

Unfortunately, mainstream psychotherapy, counseling, and organized religion still view such experiences as basically pathological. Yet by denying the validity and importance of our peak moments, we ultimately disempower ourselves—and cut ourselves off from a well-spring of wholeness and vitality.

This workshop is designed to offer practical knowledge and methods for embracing, honoring, and integrating our "spiritual awakenings" in the midst of daily life. A variety of experiential, meditative, and life-review exercises will be provided for this purpose. Topics will include:

- The taboo on spiritual experience
- From inner denial to acceptance
- Reentering the everyday world
- Leading a double life, secret identities, and relating to others
- Creating sacred space and time.

This workshop is for everyone who's had a "spiritual awakening"—or knows someone who has—and is looking for a way to better understand and integrate these key moments into everyday living.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. $380

Wearable Art: A Fimo Clay Workshop for Families
Lee Brown

Although Fimo clay has been commonly used in Europe for the past fifty years, it is just now becoming a popular art medium in the United States. This man-made material, also known as polymer clay, comes in a wide range of colors. Its easy-to-use formula lends itself to art projects that are guaranteed to give you instant gratification as well as a special sense of accomplishment.

During this weekend in the Esalen Art Barn, you will work side by side with your children or grandchildren, making beads, buttons, and small objects that will be incorporated into a necklace, a pin, a bracelet—something to wear home. A variety of techniques will be taught and there will be ample time to complete projects.

No previous experience is necessary. $380

(see Reduced Rate Options, page 5.)

Week of July 7-12

A Longing for Wholeness: Embracing the Shadow in Relationship
Charlie & Linda Bloom

Although most of us are aware of what it takes to cultivate intimacy, trust, and deep connectedness in relationships, it is another thing altogether to put our knowledge into practice. Often the challenge of creating loving relationships is far more difficult than we expected. In many cases the pain engendered by unsuccessful efforts can become so intolerable that separation may appear to be the only acceptable option. Yet this need not be so.

Linda and Charlie Bloom have been in a committed relationship for twenty-seven years and have raised three children. Theirs has not been an easy path. They have dealt with many painful challenges, including abuse, betrayal, neglect, addiction, and life-threatening illness, and in the process have learned about the darker aspects of relationships and how to consciously work with them.

In this workshop, participants will be encouraged to open more fully to those aspects of themselves that are relegated to the dark. Experiential processes, role playing, and group exercises will be used to clarify the means through which we can learn to listen and speak from the truth of each moment, even at those times when we find our hearts closed in pain. In coming to terms with these darker aspects we can bring greater authenticity, playfulness, intimacy, and co-creativity into our relationships. $740

Massage Mbunde
Peggy Horan, Brita Ostrom & Candye Ryan

This workshop combines the fundamentals of Esalen massage with expressive movement and African drum rhythms. Days will be spent at the Esalen baths where participants will learn to give and receive soothing touch, with an emphasis on contact with awareness, sensitivity, and presence. The course will also present a basic understanding of specific tension patterns and their relief.

In the evenings the group will meet for movement and rhythm, to stimulate the replacement of old postural habits with newfound spontaneity. Drum meditations—echoing the heartbeat, the pulsation of energy through the body—will provide the focus.

This workshop is designed for those who want tools for reducing stress in their lives, for bodyworkers and therapists, and for those in the creative arts interested in learning new skills with sound, rhythm, and expression. It's also a good introductory course in Esalen massage.

Bring a hand drum if you can. $740 also discuss the use of everyday foods and Chinese herbs in healing, and tell stories from his life in the monastery.

Master Lew, now seventy-eight, was among the first to openly teach Chi Kung (Taoist internal energy cultivation) to non-Chinese. His monastery style, Tao Ahn Pai, dates back 1300 years to Lui Dong Bin of the Tang Dynasty, who is one of the Eight Immortals of Taoism.

Recommended Reading: Porter, Road to Heaven: Encounters with Chinese Hermits; Deng Ming-Dao, The Wandering Taoist. C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

A Potter’s View of the Universe: Big Sur Clay
Noel Mapstead & Keiko Suga

This unique pottery workshop is an alchemical blend of four basic elements: Earth, Water, Fire, and Fun. Imagine yourself absorbed in:

- Primordial Big Sur clay oozing between your fingers
- Pottery making on a Pacific beach
- Nights around fires of glowing cow dung, seaweed, and clay
- Making beads in the dark of a Native American sweat lodge
- Slathering your body in wet clay and bathing in Esalen’s hot springs

Starting with ostensibly valueless natural materials, you will be shown how to fashion valued objects in a group setting designed to cultivate creative experimentation, human transformation, and environmental awareness. On field trips along the Big Sur coast, you will be taught to identify, gather, and prepare naturally occurring clays. You will learn to use hand-building pottery methods and to work with traditional firing techniques, skills which can all be used anywhere on earth.

No previous experience is required. This workshop is an enjoyable and totally immerse-experience—-a chance to make beautiful objects for those you love. $740

Kinship With All Life
David Schiffman & Little Bear Nason

“Our aims for this week are simple,” writes David Schiffman. “To become rooted deeply in the timeless, magical realities of the natural world. To feel the powerful, restorative, sacred rhythms of Big Sur’s sea, sky, and mountains in our every breath. To rediscover the creative inner resources of our own music, poetry, and prayer. To feel physically and emotionally healed, rested, and cleansed, ready to face whatever comes next in our lives.

“This workshop is intended for people who value a practical, down-to-earth approach to spirituality, change, and relationship. It is especially useful for those who want to develop the shamanic aspects of their intrinsic and intuitive power. The week will be grounded in the Native American practices of Big Sur’s first people, the Esselen Tribe, the original gatekeepers of the West. Earth-based rituals involving initiation and purification will be combined with original inner-vision work, innovative bodywork, and the creative use of music, movement, and ceremony for inducing ecstatic transport and deep emotional release. It will be an opportunity, as well, to be met by kindred spirits who share a sincere interest in true apprenticeship to the earth.” $740

Art, Acting, Music, and Fun: A Children’s Festival
Lia Thompson-Clark & Guest Teachers

This year Esalen’s annual summer festival for children will expand its offerings to present theatre and improvisation, painting (on both paper and silk), and clay sculpture and firing. Local artists and musicians will be guest teachers for a celebration of African and American rhythms and rituals. Twelve-year-old Camille Clark, an experienced old-timer in this festival, writes in: “Kids, come and enjoy art, acting, music, and fun. You will have fun playing games, making music, and making a play. You will also enjoy working with clay and painting pictures and silk scarves.”

There will also be time for group explorations of the Esalen baths, beaches, and hills. As Camille says: “Going down to the ocean is like meeting an old friend.”

Come meet old friends and new as you learn and develop new skills. This workshop is for children, ages 8-14, whose parents are attending a concurrent Esalen seminar. $475

Weekend of July 12-14

Experiencing Esalen
Experiencing Esalen Staff
For workshop description see May 17-19. $380

Big Sur Wilderness Experience
Steven Harper
For workshop description see May 24-26. $380

Refilling the Chalice: Time Out for Healers
Joan Borysenko

Joan Borysenko writes: “Several times each year this retreat is held in a solitary or protected group setting to enjoy nature, open to the still, small voice within, and refill the chalice of caring and love from which others sip throughout the year. Esalen is a wonderful setting for such a retreat. There will be scheduled time for group meditation and yoga, prayer, silent mindful walking in the beauty of Big Sur, dreamwork, listening to sacred music, and discussing the nature of healing. This is a time to nourish ourselves and to honor the sacred trust we have been given by taking time to welcome and thank the Spirit that we serve.”

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $380

Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais Approach
Patrick Douce

The work of Moshe Feldenkrais is based on the natural process by which we learned to move as children. During this workshop, soft, easy, gentle movements will be used to increase awareness of the body and to improve the ease and ability of movement. Special emphasis will be placed on the difficulties in movement that arise from chronic conditions such as lower back and neck pain, tension in the neck and shoulders, and knee injuries. These conditions can be improved by approaching the difficulties as problems in learning rather than as therapeutic troubles. Situations which were “incurable” become “reeducable.” Workshop participants will also be introduced to methods for improving their ability to sense each other's bodies through touch and massage.

This workshop is valuable for anyone interested in learning more about his/her body through direct experience. It may be of special interest and benefit to dancers, athletes, doctors, nurses, physical therapists, psychologists, health care professionals, and elderly citizens who may discover new ways of moving with ease and increased flexibility—painless and immediately.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$380

Why Men Are the Way They Are

Warren Farrell

I've never had a couple come to me and say,
"Warren I want a divorce; my partner understands me."

This workshop is designed to help both sexes understand each other via role-playing in which participants experience the pressures that mold the other sex's psyche. Men, for example, can experience women's view of sexual harassment; women can experience men's fear of sexual rejection and the powerlessness it engenders.

In a safe yet boundary-pushing environment, Warren Farrell will introduce innovative perspectives—initially challenging, perhaps, not only because they female-positive but also more male-positive than is currently in vogue. Group interactions will be allowed to become emotional enough to reflect how we communicate when we're defensive. Farrell will then facilitate work to demonstrate how both sexes can listen to criticism—even personal criticism—without becoming defensive, thus creating a model for expressing those "tough to hear" feelings, even to loved ones. The goal: to create more compassionate ways to relate to the other sex and to view ourselves.

This workshop offers insights on everything from male power and powerlessness to date rape and sexual harassment; from why men fear commitment to why they commit more suicide; from a new view of equality in the home to myths about equality in the workplace.

A common response to this workshop has been "I've never felt so much love for the other sex."

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.
C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.

$380

Gestalt Practice

Christine Stewart Price

The Way, when declared
Seems so thin and flavorless.
Nothing to look at, nothing to hear—
And when used—is inexhaustible.

—Lao Tzu

Gestalt practice is a form—nonanalytic, non-coercive, nonjudgmental—evolving out of the work of Fritz Perls. The work integrates ways of personal clearing and development that are both ancient and modern. To the extent that awareness is made primary relative to action, gestalt practice has a strong relationship to some forms of meditation and visualization. This form is similar to some Reichian work as well, in that emotional and energetic release and rebalancing are allowed and encouraged.

The emphasis is interpersonal rather than intrapersonal. It is explicitly understood that participants are not patients but persons actively consenting to work (or play) in awareness. The leader functions to reflect, clarify, and respect whatever emerges in this process. The aim is unfoldment, wholeness, and growth, rather than adjustment, cure, or accomplishment. Through group exercises, meditations, and discussion, this workshop will introduce participants to the gestalt practice approach. The format will combine introductory group work with the open seat form in which each participant will have the opportunity to work with the leader in a group context.

Recommended reading: Perls, Gestalt Therapy Verbatim; Chodron, The Wisdom of No Escape.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$740

The Upledger Institute's CranioSacral I

Alix McLaughlin

CranioSacral Therapy is a gentle, noninvasive, hands-on technique that helps detect and correct imbalances in the CranioSacral System which can be the cause of sensory, motor, or intellectual dysfunction. It is used to treat a myriad of health problems including headaches, neck and back pain, TMJ dysfunction, chronic fatigue, motor coordination difficulties, eye problems, endogenous depression, hyperactivity, and central nervous system disorders.

Participants will learn the detailed anatomy and physiology of the CranioSacral System, its functions in health, and its relationship to the disease processes. Approximately half of the class time will be hands-on, developing the sensitive palpatory skills needed to detect subtle stimuli in the human body.

Class material will concentrate on palpation and its potential range as an evaluative and therapeutic process; fascial and soft-tissue release techniques; and the pressurestat model, which explains the mechanism of the CranioSacral System. Participants will learn a concise ten-step protocol for evaluation and treatment of the entire body. This program is
Adventures in Death: Riding Your Transitions to Power and Freedom
Angela Browne-Miller

Death is a part of life usually shunted into the shadows. This workshop explores the various forms of death, minor and major—mental, emotional, social, financial, physical, and spiritual—transitions and events both within and beyond any given lifetime. Participants will examine and practice states of mind which can stimulate a healthy transition into a new reality. They will also investigate the practice of leaving the body and moving on to undergo physical death.

The workshop looks at what parts of the self continue through any form of change or death (divorce, career change, aging, loss, physical death) and what parts of the self are released. The following questions will also be considered: How can we safely get in and out of our bodies? When should we start practicing this? Should we teach our children this material? How do we navigate our deaths? How do we preserve our consciousness during death? How can we develop a substrate of self which we would like to carry on past this lifetime?

This seminar presents a full exploration of the subject of death. Our medical, environmental, and spiritual history makes this a timely and necessary exploration.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. $740

Lego-Mania: For Children
Renee Slonaker

Children have a natural drive to know how the world works. In this class, using the engaging Lego Technic systems and computer interface, children will explore basic principles of mechanical engineering, architecture, physics, chemistry, robotics, design, and invention. Their imaginations will be ignited making motorized vehicles, robots, bridges, cranes, houses, catapults, and more. A computer interface will be provided to program all of their motorized creations. There will be time for exploring other educational software as well.

As children design and build their projects they will be strengthening problem-solving and critical-thinking skills and developing a love for questing after knowledge. They will also be learning effective teamwork and communication as well as enhancing self-esteem. The instruction is geared toward guiding children into formulating meaningful questions and thinking in a variety of ways. Children can discover how to make decisions, become less impulsive, and be creative in looking for solutions to problems.

This workshop is designed for children ages 6 to 9 whose parents are attending a concurrent seminar.

Women's Wisdom
Lenore Lefer & Anne Yeomans

What is the nature of women's wisdom? What are the sources of our knowing? As women what does it mean to reclaim and trust again our wisdom and deep instinctive knowing in a culture which has neither sought our counsel nor valued our perceptions?

In this workshop we will explore:
- The wisdom of our bodies, including our relationship to sexuality
- Relationship to cycles and seasons
- The knowing of our hands and hearts
- Our relationship to the unconscious as it comes to us through image and dream
- Our understanding of ritual and sacred places
- Our relationship to nature

We will look at the legacy handed down to us from our mothers and grandmothers, and how we carry their attitudes and beliefs, their wounds and their gifts, as well as our own. We will also spend time with images of ancient goddesses in our efforts to recover and remember the depths of our knowing.

Our exploration will include words, silence, drawing, movement, yoga, and ritual. Bring something that expresses an aspect of women's wisdom, and also a fragment of a dream.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. $740

La Trama de Nuestras Relaciones
(Gustavo Rabin & Sara Szpektor)

Menos veces nuestras relaciones interpersonales no nos dejan satisfechos. Vemos al otro como a un contrincante. Y esto ocurre a pesar de desear desde nuestro ser mas profundo, que nuestras relaciones sean un trampolín hacia una conciencia mayor.

Esto "a pesar nuestro" que nos vemos compelidos a cumplir con programas del pasado y repetimos formas de relacionarnos que provo- can dolor, desesperanza, aislamiento. Esta disfuncionalidad en la trama de nuestras relaciones, responde al programa absorbido y cristalizado en nuestra infancia.

Este workshop esta concebido para traer luz al camino de la curacion/ reparacion, y alegría y amor para compartirla. Traeremos a la superficie aspectos nuestros que manteneamos ocultos o que permanecian a nuestra sombra.

Los partipantes se beneficiaran del trabajo personal en este taller experiencial, ya sea que concurran solos o como pareja, estando en una relacion afectiva estable o en busqueda de una.

A través de ejercicios gestalticos, trabajo grupal y proceso personal, en este workshop tendremos la oportunidad de:
- Descubrir y reconocer nuestras proyecciones sobre los demas
- Examinar la forma en que saboteamos el conseguir lo que mas deseamos
- Aprender nuevas formas de comunicacion y a amar desde un estado de libertad interior

Este workshop tendra lugar totalmente en español, los presentantes invitados seran traducidos simultaneamente.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. $740

Narcissism and Intimacy: Love That Wounds, Love That Heals
A Workshop for Helping Professionals
Marion Solomon

Narcissism is often seen as an overriding love of self. However, it is not self-love but defenses designed to protect against injury to a damaged self that causes modern-day narcissists to have such problematic love relationships.

This workshop will explore the main structures and underlying dynamics that have imprinted and shaped our hearts, our souls, and our self-image. Using slides, self-exploration, role-playing, and videotapes of couples' sessions, participants will consider: when wounds begin, the degree of narcissistic injury, how it is reenacted in intimate relationships, and helpful or hurtful responses to narcissistic vulnerability.

The philosophy behind the workshop is best expressed by Heinz Kohut, who said, 'A good marriage is one in which only one partner is crazy at any given time.' The focus will be on learning to open the channels to deep wounds that infect relationships between intimate partners. Participants will learn how experiencing and integrating the pain from the past allows us to live more fully in relationship to ourselves and with others.

This workshop is recommended for psychotherapists and counselors who wish to expand their capacity to work with couples and individuals in relational crises.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. $380

Weekend Massage Intensive
Kathleen O'Shaughnessy & Char Pias

This workshop is for those individuals who are just beginning to explore touch as deep communication. The central theme will be primary approaches to full-body massage, which will be introduced through demonstration and experiential exchanges. Self-awareness through movement and breath will be used to enhance the senses. Discussion will offer insights into various approaches to bodywork and how they address both the physiological and mental/emotional body.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $380

A Taste of The Diamond Approach: Introductory Weekend
Jessica Moore Britt & David Silverstein

I went everywhere with longing in my eyes,
Until here, in my own house, I felt truth filling my sight.

— LALLA, 14th century mystic

There is something within each of us that cannot be seen or touched with our ordinary senses, yet many of us intuit its presence and importance as if called to the mysterious source of who and what we are.

Through conditioning, opaque veils obscureils, making responding to this call difficult, leaving us frustrated and residing at the surface of our lives in, at best, a state of discontent and, at worst, deep suffering. As a result we look outside of ourselves for fulfillment, until finally we realize that what we long for is actually deep within, allowing the Great Turn to begin—toward the Real.

The Diamond Approach evolved as a way to make this turn while living our daily lives. Combining traditional spiritual practices with depth psychology, the Diamond Approach supports penetrating the veils, challenging our basic beliefs about ourselves and the universe. This can allow space for contact with the Real to emerge in a field of grace and understanding.

In this workshop the focus will be on the love of truth—the guiding principle of this work—and its relationship to the primary method of this work: open-ended inquiry to experience. There will be explorations of the barriers to this inquiry and of the compassion and curiosity needed for the unfoldment of our souls through this method. Along with meditation, specific practices focusing on presence and inquiry will be taught.

For more information about the Diamond Approach see Special Programs, page 58.

Recommended reading: Almas, Essence and Diamond Heart—Book One. $380

Jewish Humor
Michael Krasny

What makes Jews funny? Do you need to be Jewish? Is there a non-missing link from the Old Testament to Mel Brooks and Woody Allen, Jerry Seinfeld and Gary Shandling? Is there really even such a thing as Jewish humor? AND WHY DOES A JEW ALWAYS ANSWER A QUESTION WITH ANOTHER QUESTION? Well, why shouldn't a Jew answer a question with another question? AND WHAT IS JEWISH ALZHEIMER'S? You forget everything but the grudges. AND AT WHAT STAGE DO JEWS CONSIDER A FETUS VIABLE? After completion of medical school.

This weekend will be a feast of Jewish jokes, humor, stories, and anecdotes which lead to laughter, wisdom, and deeper understanding of Judaic, Hebraic, and Yiddish culture, metaphor, folk spirit, and ritual. So do it already. Sign up. Be there. It will make your mother happy. $380

Mothers and Daughters: Communication, Identity, and Self-Esteem
Bonnie Mark

The insight that we have about ourselves, our childhood, and our relationships with our parents influences the life-choices we make and the paths we take. Becoming aware of the roots of these choices can be a lifelong process. This workshop looks at the mother-daughter relationship and the influences each has on the other throughout the stages of life.

The workshop is designed to enable mothers and daughters to become closer, to work better together, and to have more harmony and joy in the family experience. It offers opportunities for self-exploration and opening creativity through a variety of experiential interactions. Group process will be used to focus on resolving conflict, negotiating interpersonal boundary difficulties, and improving communication, leading toward both self-esteem and identity development. The workshop will employ self-reflection, goal setting, and creative journalizing to promote insight-oriented growth. It will also address family expectations, obligations, and our unique styles of accepting, challenging, and rebelling in the context of women's roles, past, present, and future.

Women who are coming alone to work on these issues are welcome and will be able to participate fully throughout the weekend. $380

Week of July 21-26

The Singing Cure
Paul Newman

The voice is the primary means of communication in human beings. It is an expression of who we are and how we feel. In a person's voice you can hear the innocence of youth, the wisdom of age, the yearning of need, the edge of anger. The voice is also one of the ways in which we preserve our identity. The voice and the individual's psychological state mutually influence each other.

Just as the voice can become limited and constricted by our psychological, physical, and social predicaments, it can also be a celebrated medium through which we can express the multicolored fabric of our self-images, moods, characters, impulses, ideas, and dreams. This workshop will introduce the techniques and processes of a new form of self-expression called Voice Movement Therapy, founded by Paul Newham. Guided by Paul's insightful direction, participants can take their voices on a journey through the contours of the soul, giving authentic vocal expression to the inner landscape of the psyche and imagination for all to hear.

The workshop is rigorous and demanding on body and mind, combining exercises in breath, movement, and voice with personal journeys of an intimate nature using the vocal instrument as vehicle and guide.

Recommended reading: Newham, The Singing Cure.  $740

Relationship Intensive

Carolyn Braddock & Christian Hendricks

You are invited to a week of exploring, relationship, and healing. This workshop offers an opportunity for both personal and professional growth, as it presents:

- The twelve dimensions of intimacy
- How to focus on what you really want in relationships
- How to speak what you are thinking but not saying
- How to take responsibility in relationships
- The trouble areas of relationships
- How to empower relationships

A further objective will be to help release participants from the victim position, verbally (spoken aloud) and nonverbally (spoken by the body). Focus will be on those areas in relationships most commonly affected by various forms of trauma: body image, sexuality, trust, boundaries, and conflict resolution.

Participants will explore new ways to be emotionally honest and will work on recognizing old patterns and developing new ones. The primary tools will be breath, sound, movement, and experiential exercises. Gestalt, bodywork, creative cognitive work, humor, and play will also be utilized. The goal: to develop healthy ways of creating safety, trust, and aliveness in close relationships.

This workshop is open to all singles, couples, friends, business partners, and intimate partners.

Recommended reading: Braddock, Body Voices.

Using the Power of Breath, Sound, and Movement to Heal and Create New Boundaries.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.  $740

The Subtle Art of Meditation

David Streeter

The experience of insight, tranquility, inner strength, and aliveness can be found within our everyday life through the ancient art of meditation.

This workshop will approach traditional meditation practice in an unusual way. In a retreat atmosphere, participants will prepare the body/mind for silent listening with fluid movement from the martial arts and yoga. The workshop will incorporate breathing practices (pranayama) and energy work with zazen (sitting meditation). Other activities will include a silent listening hike in the wilderness, group meditation in a nearby contemplative monastery, and zazen at Esalen's meditation center nestled close to a waterfall.

This approach to the subtle practice of meditation through the body can inspire the student to discover his or her rich interior life and that crystal-clear still point described so well in every spiritual tradition.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.  $740

You Don't Have to Be Good

Kim McCourt

_You do not have to be good._

_You do not have to walk on your knees for a hundred miles through the desert, repenting._

_You only have to let the soft animal of your body love what it loves._

— MARY OLIVER

By listening to our bodies we can know what is right for us, rather than what we "should" do. We knew this as children but were encouraged to ignore our inner truths and obey the critic. Always having to be "good" restricts and censors the richness of who we are. Byed beneath all the "shoulds" and "don'ts" is a true, wise self that longs for expression.

To get there, the group will play with different doorways to somatic knowing: emotional, visual, auditory, kinaesthetic, olfactory, or general sensing. The intention will be to identify which doorway opens up our personal intuitive self, and then go on in.

Using movement and meditation, play and process, art and journal writing, participants will explore the indomitable aliveness beneath the censoring critic and conditioned tendencies. The focus will be: listening, accepting, and expressing what is true. The atmosphere will be nonjudgmental and light-hearted. Come and discover what feels so "good" about being "bad."

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.  $740

Drawing on the Right Side of the Brain

Lynda Greenberg

In order to draw, neither previous art training nor manual dexterity is required. All that is necessary to draw is to learn to see. This workshop teaches basic strategies of seeing through a combination of lectures and studio exercises that packs a semester-long art course into five days.

Following the lesson plan of Drawing on the Right Side of the Brain by Dr. Betty Edwards, the lectures explain the principles of visual perception and creativity that allow the student to successfully master the studio exercises. The studio exercises in turn lead to the integration of perceptual skills and the ability to produce high-quality finished drawings. Since it is the right side of the brain that processes spatial information, exercises are presented to "trick" the left side—domain of linear data like language, naming, and categorizing—into surrendering control.

In a carefully sequenced process, participants are taught ways of seeing that enable them to skillfully draw their perceptions. More importantly, these new strategies of thinking are useful in general problem solving. Consequently, the workshop does not teach "techniques of drawing" in a narrow sense; it teaches how to see in the broader sense, and how to record one's perceptions in drawings.  $740

Weekend of July 26-28

The Body Tells the Truth:

The Rubenfeld Synergy® Method

Ilana Rubenfeld

"Humor lightened the dark, painful places in my life and helped me onto a path of healing," writes Ilana Rubenfeld. This workshop is for people who want to include humor, move-
A S ociety of Souls: The Uses of Non-Ordinary Reality in Healing

Jason Shulman

"Ultimate spirituality," writes Jason Shulman, "is kindness. Ultimate spirituality includes the ability to be intimate and, at its core, the ability to care. It is our caring and love, combined with our knowledge and ability to be in relationship, which ultimately heals both ourselves and our clients."

"What is it that keeps us from our preexistent state of warmth and openness? How does this affect our work as healers, physicians and helpers? In this workshop we will explore the uses of non-ordinary states to increase our capacity to experience and transmit this basic attitude of compassion. Although unusual to our everyday mind, non-ordinary reality is actually present and available to us always."

The workshop will use various modalities to access these states, such as:

- Talking to Heaven— to develop the ability to connect to the subtle realms of the spirit
- Kabbalistic healing—the Jewish mystical path of relational healing
- Spiritual psychodynamics—to perceive psychically such defenses as transference and projective identification
- Meditation—the river running through this weekend together

The workshop is designed to help health professionals and serious seekers of personal healing to improve and expand their capabilities in whichever modality they are already working.

A S ociety of Souls: The Uses of Non-Ordinary Reality in Healing
Jason Shulman

Recommended reading: Rubenfeld, Twenty-Five Years of Simple (copy available through The Rubenfeld Center, 115 Waverly Place, New York, NY 10011).

Participation in this workshop fulfills one of the requirements for acceptance into the Rubenfeld Synergy Training Program. $380

Improv isional Wisdom: Finding the Robin Williams Within

Paula Shaw

The nature of creativity is elusive. Our most creative moments often seem to come from nowhere and happen when we least expect them. Einstein’s theory of relativity came to him suddenly and unscientifically, and Mozart saw many of his greatest compositions complete in a single vision. At the other end of the spectrum, we marvel at the lightning-quick humor of Robin Williams, a brilliance that seems boundless. What are the conditions that put us in touch with our own creativity and brilliance, and how do we access them?

This weekend is an introduction to letting go of your programmed patterns and discovering the joy of spontaneous creation. The first premise of improvisational theater games (which Robin Williams claims unleashed him) is to “go in blank.” Within the game structures, participants are coached to be receptive—stop, look, and listen; deny nothing; release control; let go of planning ahead. This process can help you to trust your own intuition, sense of humor, eloquence, and physical grace, and lets you get out of your own way to make room for exhilarating flashes of creative brilliance. The workshop is also just a lot of fun.

Improv isional Wisdom: Finding the Robin Williams Within
Paula Shaw

Recommended reading: Rubenfeld, Twenty-Five Years of Simple (copy available through The Rubenfeld Center, 115 Waverly Place, New York, NY 10011).

Participation in this workshop fulfills one of the requirements for acceptance into the Rubenfeld Synergy Training Program. $380

Romantic Choice: How We Choose Who to Fall in Love With

Ayala Pines

When we fall in love we are sure that our beloved is not only perfect, but perfect for us. In time we realize that neither is true. Disappointed and disillusioned, we wonder: How is it that we choose who to fall in love with? And why are we so often wrong?

Many theories in psychology have tried to answer this question. In this workshop, participants will explore these theories as they apply to their own romantic choices, right or wrong. More importantly, participants will examine what they can do about these choices, both to enhance current romantic relationships and to avoid making the same mistakes in the future.

Through group discussions and a variety of experiential exercises, participants will have the opportunity to increase their understanding of the causes, both conscious and unconscious, of their romantic choices. In addition, they will be presented with tools to use this understanding to improve the quality of current and future relationships.

The workshop is for anyone who seeks better understanding of his or her romantic choices.

Recommended reading: Reis, Daughters of Saturn: From Father’s Daughter to Creative Woman.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. $380

Daughters of Saturn: From Father’s Daughter to Creative Woman

Patricia Reis

Virginia Woolf wrote, “We think back through our mothers if we are writers.” With Woolf’s observation in mind, this workshop will address the question, “What happens when we think back through our fathers?” What role does the personal, cultural, and spiritual father play in women’s experience of creativity?

During this workshop, participants will travel together the sometimes difficult and culturally undefined territory of daughter-father relationships, exploring the questions: How does a woman gain access to her creative life? What conditions drive her creative process? What kinds of struggles does she undergo?

The workshop will track the lives of four women writers—Emily Dickinson, H.D., Sylvia Plath, and Anais Nin—focusing on their father-daughter relationships. Utilizing movement, drawing, reflection, and sharing, participants will create maps of their own lives as creative women.

Following the structure of her recent book, Patricia Reis will guide a journey from life in the Belly of the Father through the first Gate of Awakening, into the Battleground of Culture to find the second Gate, the Threshold, and finally to locate the trails into the Women’s Wildzone to discover the third Gate of the Return, where women can bring their creative work into the world.

Please note: This workshop is for women only. Participants are asked to bring a photo or memento of their fathers.

Recommended reading: Reis, Daughters of Saturn: From Father’s Daughter to Creative Woman.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. $380
The Enneagram and Self-Realization

Eli Jaxon-Bear

"How do I create suffering for myself and others?" Ultimately, this is a question that everyone must ask. The answer comes from the willingness to end suffering. This willingness is the vehicle for true self-inquiry.

This time together will be a time of introspection, reflection, and self-inquiry. The workshop will use the Enneagram of Character Fixation as a framework for discovering latent subconscious identification with who you are not. Zazen, one-on-one session work, group trance, and various other processes will facilitate the quest within.

All great spiritual traditions point to the one truth. If this truth is believed, it becomes religion—dogma—and leads to warfare. If this truth is directly realized, it leads to lasting peace. When Jesus said, "The kingdom of heaven is within," it is the same message as the Buddha saying you are already the Buddha. If it is time for you to directly realize this yourself, this time together will be dedicated to that end.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Friendship and Intimacy: The Dance of Caring and Conflict

Joel & Anne Isaacs

"Our goal in this workshop," Anne and Joel Isaacs say, "is to help each person touch the deepest place of longing to be whole and connected to others. We want to realign the balance point where the desire for contact and love is often countered by the fear of being engulfed or abandoned. We want to expand options beyond isolation or losing oneself to be close.

"As children, our personalities are formed in response to how our connection with others is supported or prevented. Our adult personalities are largely the result of how we learned to balance this interplay of caring (or harmony) and conflict. In this workshop we will create a safe space where concerns and conflicts become more accessible to us, more visible. Healing these conflicts, likely the same ones we experience in our intimate relationships, frees the expression of caring to grow and deepen. Through risk and suffering we can create a new intimacy."

Since connecting at Esalen eighteen years ago, the leaders have lived and worked together, sharing a commitment to personal and professional growth, intimacy, and family. They employ depth body-psychotherapy, body sensing and movement, and exercises to experience, clarify, and affirm boundaries. They also work with the polarity of opposing desires, group process, humor, play, and music.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. $740

The MAX: Stretching the Limits of Your Self-Expression

Paula Shaw

"The MAX" is an outrageous voyage through your own humanity—a journey to turn yourself inside out and explore the extent of your self-expressive power. It employs a variety of acting, observation, and communication methods designed to expand your limits "to the max" and move you into a new arena of personal creativity and self-expression.

"The MAX" is extremely challenging. Participants must commit to a rigorous exploration of the sources of their emotional limitations. Seminar hours will be longer than usual early in the week (and shorter later in the week). Participants will work individually in front of the room, playing to and with other group members. There will be exercises that use raw emotion, role-playing, and "dress-up" assignments.

This workshop is an opportunity to experience yourself in a way you may have dreamed about but never imagined possible. The game is risk, the premise: You're either daring or dead—the most unsafe thing you can do in life is to play it safe. Clearly, this course is not for the faint of heart, but it is full of heart, humor, and irreverence and is constructed with the understanding that this kind of risk-taking requires a very safe workspace.

If your heart beats faster when you think of taking this workshop, then maybe it's just the thing to do. Come play!

Please note: Due to the intense and sequential nature of this workshop, attendance at all sessions is necessary.

Required: A 1-3 minute memorized piece—monologue, poem, song, etc. $740

Healing the Emotional/Spiritual Body: The Rubenfeld Synergy® Method

Ilana Rubenfeld

This workshop is for people who want to learn how to listen to the messages, memories, and feelings locked in their bodies. The leader will introduce and demonstrate the Rubenfeld Synergy Method, a powerful holistic system developed over the past thirty years that integrates Alexander Technique, Feldenkrais Method®, Ericksonian hypnosis, and gestalt practice.

Each day will include: body/mind exercises to relax, to stretch, and to heighten awareness; hands-on teaching to develop intuitive, gentle, and listening touch; discussions and demonstrations; and music and humor. The workshop community will become an active culture for learning and growth that will focus on:

- Experiencing the interdependence of emotions and posture
- Developing a sense of humor
- Healing the wounds of dysfunctional families
- Honoring the sacred within
- Moving beyond therapeutic techniques toward intuitive wisdom
- Exploring dreams and metaphors that reveal life patterns

"The body is the sacred sanctuary of the soul. Care for it like a flower garden," writes Ilana Rubenfeld. In this workshop she will demonstrate the possibility of achieving emotional, physical, and spiritual integration.

Recommended reading: Rubenfeld, Twenty-Five Years of Simple (copy available through The Rubenfeld Center, 115 Waverly Place, New York, NY 10011). $380

Weekend of August 2-4

Intimate Connections

Mariah Fenton Gladis

Creating stable and fulfilling relationships is a challenge that everyone faces. To be successful, human relating must be understood and accepted as an activity, an ability that requires movement, purpose, emotional capacity, and extensive contact skills. People often believe that good relating evolves naturally, but they discover in the routine of living with families, friends, and lovers that, in truth, they have not been adequately prepared to meet the demands of loving relationships.

This workshop will focus on the nature and basic requirements of healthy relationships. It will offer participants opportunities to assess their abilities and disabilities, to develop awareness, and to practice risking positive n with others. It is for anyone who has he wall" in a relationship or who has experienced being stuck at some seemingly impenetrable contact boundary and wants to break through. Particularly helpful for adult children of dysfunctional families, ACAs, and human relations professionals, this experiential and didactic workshop will blend individual and group gestalt work, spiritual healing, bodywork, and personal metaphor.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $380

A Weekend with Terence McKenna

This recent communiqué: "A height-of-summer celebration of changing times. Join us in a discussion of the end-of-the-millennium unfoldment that stretches from the far reaches of the World Wide Web to the depths of inner space. Alien intelligence, rave cyberculture, and techniques for pushing the cultural and linguistic envelope are sure to surface.

"McKenna is the author of numerous books on shamanism, plant psychedelics, and exotic cartographies of consciousness. He is the inventor of Novelty Theory and its chief enthusiast. Join Terence and the usual suspects in an exploration of where we are in the alchemical meltdown at the end of history. You too can be part of the think-along tradition at Esalen." $380

Choosing Aliveness

Peter Finkelstein & Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

Life is a precious gift. We have all experienced moments of feeling totally alive, yet much of our life is spent in a half-asleep, half-committed state of being. While there are many life-situations beyond our control, we choose how we respond to these events. The choice to be passionately alive is an act of courage. To choose life is to:

- Open ourselves to all of life—suffering, joy, success, failure, love, and grief
- Fully acknowledge the truth of who we are
- Commit to living our deepest values and dreams
- Define what we must change in our relationships
- Learn new ways to heal, forgive, and communicate

The challenge is to honestly address the ways in which we have compromised, given up, or lied to ourselves and others. This workshop is designed to bring to awareness our unconscious choices of how we deaden ourselves and to create the possibility for new aliveness and passionate involvement.

Come alone or with a partner. A safe, supportive atmosphere will be provided, using communication skills, movement, Gestalt, and Reichian work.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. $380

Rekindling the Flame: For Lesbian and Gay Couples

Patricia Zorn & Sharon Kleinberg

Patricia and Sharon write: "As lesbians and gay men, we have been forced to have our partnerships in isolation, robbing us not only of support, but also of information that can help us understand our ways of relating. Most of us wonder what a satisfying union really is and have not had good role models to guide and help us in resolving the particular power struggles of our lesbian and gay relationships.

"Based on several years' work with Harville Hendrix (author of Getting the Love You Want: A Guide for Couples and Keeping the Love You Find), this workshop offers powerful tools for helping couples deal with relationship struggles. It is not a quick fix, but rather a guide to understanding power struggles so we can reclaim the energy from arguing and use it to cultivate safety. It is also a way to increase the joyfulness, spontaneity, and commitment we feel while falling in love."

Expect new communication skills, greater compassion for you and your partner, laughter, surprises, fun, excitement, and romance. $380

August 4-11

Creating Exact Moments of Healing

Mariah Fenton Gladis

There are moments in the lives of some people that never should have happened, moments that should have happened and didn't, moments from which we needed rescuing. All these moments have been and still are deeply imbedded in our beings. They appear in our lives as recurring patterns and blocks until they are selectively addressed and transformed. They weave the fabric of our visions, our capacity to create fulfillment in living, even our musculature. They must be relived, rectified, and new memories must be etched into our cells and souls.

This workshop will help participants take a
Anna Halprin writes: “I envision a future where dance is once again honored for its power to inspire, teach, transform, and heal. I envision a future where all people dance together, where the circle is open to people of any color, culture, or spiritual practice. We will ask to join the four-legged and the winged creatures instead of asking them to join us. We will dance with the mountains, the oceans, the sun, and the moon. "In this workshop we will experience this future as it is unfolding right now. I invite you to join me in this quest. Themes will include the healing power of dance, myth and ritual, dance in the environment, and the evolution of the human being in relation to the natural world."

Through an approach Anna calls the Life/Art Process, using movement, visualization, and group interaction, participants will create dances from their own lives. Such dances intend to bring about life changes and therefore may become powerful rituals, born of the heart, revealing personal and collective myths of relationships, life and death, healing, peace.

Professionals and nonprofessionals are welcome. Potential students for the Tamalpa Trainings may find this a valuable orientation.

Recommended reading and viewing: For information, contact Anna Halprin at 15 Ravine Way, Kentfield, CA 94904.

The workshop is for beginners as well as those more experienced with somatics and bodywork.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$740

The Sound of the Self

David Gordon & Marcia Shantipriya Goldberg

Sound and music wisely applied can purify, heal, and awaken us at every level, from the deepest physiological to the most sublime spiritual planes.

This experiential workshop is a unique fusion of meditation, sound vibration, and yoga. During the sessions, toning, auditory stimulation, guided listening, and movement to open and balance the body will be interwoven with quiet meditation. These alternating periods of sound and silence help to synchronize body and mind and form a bridge between internal communication and external self-expression.

In this journey we can move toward the source of our own inner balance, creativity, well-being, and freedom.
This is an opportunity for novice meditators and newcomers to yoga to begin the inner journey, and a chance for old friends of meditation to deepen their experience. The workshop offers diverse skills to enable participants to develop their own personal practice. No musical or vocal experience is needed; the only prerequisites are ears, heart, and a sense of adventure.

Please wear loose, comfortable clothing. $380

Psychosynthesis: Personal and Transpersonal Growth
John Firman & Ann Gila
Psychosynthesis was born in 1910 when the Italian psychiatrist Roberto Assagioli became dissatisfied with psychoanalysis. Although Assagioli was a colleague of Freud and Jung and an early pioneer of psychoanalysis in Italy, he saw that psychoanalysis neglected the healthier and “higher” aspects of human nature.

A student of philosophical and spiritual traditions of both East and West, Assagioli sought instead an approach which would address not only psychological wounding and personal development, but, in addition, the “transpersonal” dimension—the dimension of inspired creativity, altruistic ideals, and peak experiences. Since that time, psychosynthesis has grown to become a compassionate and comprehensive psychology of the whole person, providing the practical means for examining one’s life and for discovering how to grow more fully into one’s true self.

This workshop will be an experiential overview of the theory and practice of psychosynthesis. It is an invitation to explore the heights and depths of being human, including subpersonality or “ego-state” work, object relations and family-of-origin issues, the superconscious and transpersonal self, and the experience of “vocation” or “call” in life. The intention is to gain a deeper feel for our unique psychological and spiritual journey, to get a sense for what our next steps on this journey might be, and, most essentially, to find a greater compassion for ourselves and others.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $380

When Drummers Were Women
Layne Redmond
This century has seen a vast unearthing of the images of the Great Goddess and her priestesses. Throughout the ancient Mediterranean land, she is portrayed with her tambourine or frame drum. The frame drum is one of the oldest, most primal instruments and was predominantly played by women with their bare hands. A powerful trance-inducing instrument, it was used in the religious rites of many goddesses, including Inanna, Ishtar, Isis, Artemis, Aphrodite, and Demeter.

This weekend will focus on hand drumming techniques and their relationship with the elements of earth, water, fire, and air. Working in a circle and using the force of gravity, participants will practice synchronizing with the energy of the earth and radiating a group pulse. These rhythmic rituals are an ancient technology for accessing higher levels of awareness and releasing a deeper feminine energy.

This workshop is for women only. No prior experience with frame drums is necessary. Drums will be provided. $380

Taking Care of Yourself While Helping Others: Survival Tools for Service Professionals
Dennis Portnoy
Service professionals—nurses, counselors, educators, administrators, those in helping roles—are at great risk for burnout and decreased effectiveness. In addition to facing increased pressures in the workplace, they frequently perpetuate familiar self-defeating habits of relating such as overidentifying with their helper role, taking on too much responsibility for both work and the feelings of others, making everyone else’s needs more important than their own, and deriving self-worth from being needed by others. This behavior limits effectiveness personally and professionally and leads to burnout. In this seminar, participants will be shown ways to:

- Deliver service excellence without becoming overextended
- Distinguish between healthy and unhealthy giving
- Minimize the negative effects of stress in a demanding work environment
- Learn how to protect themselves and recover from continual exposure to other people’s suffering
- Identify and counteract dysfunctional helping styles

Nonprofessionals who are in a helping role or people involved in taking care of loved ones are also welcome to attend.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $380

Bonding: The Heart of Dialogue
George Kohlrieser
From cradle to grave, life involves a dialogue with a changing script of “affectional bonds.” When in dialogue, a sense of well-being exists. Out of dialogue, a sense of distress prevails. The difference lies in the ability to create bonds.

It is a myth that bonding occurs only with people we like. In truth, it means being attached in a way that allows a relationship to exist even where profound differences are present. If an individual has difficulty in creating attachment and bonding, then there will be difficulties in dialoguing. Models of “in-your-face” communication, manipulation, domination, detachment, and even violence are increasingly replacing the natural beauty of true dialogue.

This experiential workshop focuses on the theory, practice, and problems of dialogue. It draws on the latest research from attachment theory, transactional analysis, psychophysiological stress management, social network theory, and developmental psychology. Attachment theory is a way to conceptualize the tendency of humans to make affectional bonds, to connect, to be in dialogue with life. Ultimately, this is the path out of loneliness and isolation. To be out of dialogue leads to many forms of physical, emotional, and spiritual distress including psychosomatic illness, aggression, addiction, depression, emotional detachment, and burnout. Life energy itself is connected to the quality and depth of dialogue in one’s life.

This workshop has both personal and organizational applications. It is designed for individuals or couples wishing to increase their understanding of dialogue and negotiation, as well as for those experiencing difficulties in these areas. Methods will include short presentations, guided imagery, emotional release, group process, and bonding work to understand, create, and be in dialogue.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. $1110
we experience them as "finished." When we sense that we exist more in the past than in the present, it is time to make a distinction between "finished" and "completed." Transitions without completions foster resentments—about unsuccessful marriages, friendships, careers—and can produce illness, sorrow, and the inability to forgive.

Transitions are crossroads in our lives that give us the opportunity to finish and complete the past, reconnect with our present truth, and renew our passion, courage, and commitment for the future. The focus of this workshop will be to deeply review our lives, relationships, and circumstances to discover what needs to be transformed from "finished" to "completed."

The workshop will present ways to make successful transitions. It will provide a safe, supportive environment that includes risk taking, intense bodywork, gestalt imagery, movement, and meditation in order to support the transitions that keep us committed to the process of discovering ourselves.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. $740

Advanced Cortical Reeducation® and the Feldenkrais Method®
Harriet Goslins

True healing is learning. And true learning is "outcome-not-predicted." This workshop will be an exploration of advanced floorwork that moves us toward letting go of those movement patterns and accompanying strategies that still block our physical, emotional, and spiritual healing.

Come with an intention to let go of at least one behavior pattern that no longer serves you, a curiosity about its connection to physical symptoms and movement habits, and a willingness to replace it with new choices, greater body occupancy, and more joy of movement.

Please note: This workshop is open only to those who have completed Harriet Goslins's introductory seven-day workshop.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

Innovative Hypnotherapeutic Approaches to Mind-Body Healing
Ernest Rossi

In this workshop, intended for helping professionals, Ernest Rossi will present a variety of innovative approaches to hypnotherapeutic experience in order to facilitate mind-body communication and healing. These new approaches focus on how we can better utilize our natural states of arousal, rejuvenation, and creativity in everyday life. New developments in the use of simple, nonverbal methods of facilitating private creative experience and healing will be explored. These approaches are all designed to reduce stress, maximize performance, and improve health and emotional well-being. Dr. Rossi has evolved these new approaches—which integrate the accumulated wisdom of the ancients, Jung's synthetic method, and the new sciences of Chaos and Complexity—over twenty years of experience in facilitating individuals and groups internationally.

The workshop will consist of lectures and demonstrations, and an opportunity to work one-on-one with Dr. Rossi within the supportive setting of the group. It is especially designed for psychologists, psychiatrists, and anyone with a professional license to practice therapy.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. $380

At the Turning Point...
Poems Can Help Us in Crisis
Brother David Steindl-Rast

Every crisis in life invites us to sift out seed from husk, that which holds promise from that which must die. Poetry can help this process of sifting, more so than many would expect. In a world of hypocrisy, poetry offers criteria for certainty—or at least as much certainty as life will permit.

The Benedictine monastic heritage, in which Brother David stands, has been called the "poetic heart of the Christian tradition." Drawing from the well of that tradition, Brother David will introduce poets as guides in crisis.
There are skills of the heart that can be learned, skills that may transform what appears to be the point of death into a turning point.

Recommended reading: Rilke, Letters to a Young Poet; Steindl-Rast, Gratefulness—The Heart of Prayer. $380

Intimate Relationships: Keeping the Spark Alive

Ayala Pines

When two people are in love, it seems like the magical spark between them is going to last forever. More often than not, however, with the effects of everyday pressures and stresses, the love is eroded and eventually burns out. Burnout is not caused by individual pathology or inadequacy nor by major dramatic events. It is caused by a buildup of petty annoyances, minor dissatisfactions, and a gradual increase in boredom. How can this insidious process of love’s erosion be prevented? How can a couple in love keep the romantic spark alive?

Participants will be encouraged to find the romantic images they shared at the beginning of their own relationships. This workshop is recommended especially for couples committed to keeping the spark alive in their relationships, and for marriage and family counselors. It may also be helpful for individuals who are trying to figure out what went wrong in a relationship that burned out.

Recommended reading: Pines, Keeping the Spark Alive. $380

---

August 18-25

Constructing Psychotherapy Hypnotically

Paul Lounsby & Nancy Winston

If you are a psychotherapist with a sense of humor, an interest in sharpening your skills, a desire for personal growth, and can enjoy participating in a supportive group of colleagues, this workshop is for you. This seminar will make accessible the underlying hypnotic concepts, skills, and tools that Milton Erickson used to invent his ingenious approaches to psychotherapy.

The workshop’s goals are to: 1) orient psychotherapists to a way of formulating experience from which novel forms of therapeutic induction will naturally flow; 2) initiate a “wake-up call” for clinicians to appreciate and rely more fully upon the communicative brilliance of the unconscious mind; 3) expand participants’ frames of reference; and 4) facilitate skills for tailoring psychotherapy to the uniqueness of the individual(s) at hand.

The workshop will cover trance induction, the hypnotic/therapeutic relationship, unconscious responsiveness and communication, suggestion and therapeutic language, trance phenomena, resistance, identification of individual frames of reference, systemically-significant “organizing” patterns, dissociative structures, pain control, and reframing.

Built on a theory of “no-theory,” this framework is grounded in constructionist and cybernetic epistemology. It cohesively links narrative, systemic, and solution-oriented therapies to their roots in the hypnotic psychotherapy of Milton Erickson. Highly experiential, intended for those curious enough to sustain interest through bouts of unexpected confusion, lulls of languidness, and intimate encounters of an unknown kind, this workshop is designed to promote deep emotional transformation.

The workshop will be conducted in a group format. It will explore and address the professional and/or personal interests each individual brings to the group, while simultaneously attending to, giving instruction in, and generating distinctions for constructing psychotherapy hypnotically.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. $1110

---

The Transformational Enneagram: Mindfulness, Insight, and Experience

Don Richard Riso & Russ Hudson

Much is said about the transformative aspects of the Enneagram, and yet little has been demonstrated about how it can be used for transforming the personality. People are finding that it is not enough to simply meditate on the higher aspects of the types to bring the passions into balance: It is first necessary to use the Enneagram as a guide for uncovering our psychological wounds and to experience the many ways in which our personality acts as a defensive structure.

This advanced workshop will focus on integrating insight into the inner logic of the types with meditation practices and experiential work. The personality types will be viewed as patterns of object relations, habitual attentional orientations, and emotional reactions which prevent us from experiencing our essence. While our type usually obscures our true nature with a characteristic web of identifications, it can also serve as an opening to the deeper reality of spirit. Conversational instruction will be combined with guided meditation, small-group work, music, and other tools so that the Enneagram can truly help us live a life of presence, compassion, and joy. Some familiarity with Don Riso’s Personality Types or Understanding the Enneagram is required.

Please note: This is not a Training Program, but a highly experiential workshop with new exercises.
C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Reducing Stress, Managing Your Heart, Restoring Intimacy to Your Life
Mel Lefer

Dr. Dean Ornish produced the first major study showing conclusive evidence that reversal of heart disease and other disorders, such as high blood pressure, diabetes, obesity, and high cholesterol, was possible without the use of drugs or surgical intervention. This workshop will apply the tools developed by Dr. Ornish to provide the direct experience of how powerful, comprehensive lifestyle changes can affect one's heart and overall sense of well-being.

The side-effects of medication and the aging process, such as sexual dysfunction, will be examined. New methods to renew sexual interest and performance and to restore intimacy will be discussed. The workshop will utilize many approaches, including diet (special nonfat dishes will be available for participants), exercise, stretching, progressive relaxation, breathing practices, meditation, visualization, and group discussion. The goal will be for participants to transfer these good habits into every aspect of daily life, and to pave the way to the peace of mind that physical well-being can provide.

Recommended reading: Ornish, Everyday Cooking with Dean Ornish; Eat More, Weigh Less; Stress, Diet, and Your Heart; and Dr. Dean Ornish's Program for Reversing Heart Disease.

Finding Serenity: The Inner and Outer Landscape in Film
Francis Lu & Brother David Steindl-Rast

How does one find serenity in life while suffering from one's nightmares and painful memories? This seminar will explore how film's inner visions and dreams, its dancing with land, sky, and water, can evoke serenity in the face of life's inevitable disappointments.

For their eighth seminar together, Francis and Brother David will celebrate the 100th anniversary of film's creative ability to engage an audience and to bring forth the bitterness of life's experiences.

Participants will view six to eight feature films—some rarely seen—as well as some short films, and discuss them in a supportive group setting. In workshops past, this process has helped participants to discover more soulful ways to relate film to their own lives.

A film festival—and more—in Esalen's incomparable setting!

Experiencing the Celestine Prophecy: Connecting to Your Life Purpose
Carol Adrienne & Sigrid Emerson

“You have a purpose,” write the leaders, “and the universe is waiting to help you find and fulfill it. The purpose of this workshop is to take the ageless wisdom described in the Insights of The Celestine Prophecy and apply it to everyday life. Our goal is to work with these Insights to help you gain more satisfaction in work, be more open to adventure, understand more clearly your life purpose, as well as tap into the messages of synchronicity. We will use ancient intuitive tools, meditation, physical activity, journal writing, interactive exercises, and humor.”

Carol Adrienne will take you inside the nine evolutionary Insights, and help you explore the positive qualities you were born to express. The sessions are designed to be a progressive, in-depth look at who you are and where you are going in life. You will also learn how to deal with specific obstacles in relationships and move beyond limitations. Sigrid Emerson will work with you to release stress and increase energy through gentle stretching and walking meditations. Personal evaluations of lifestyle and stress factors will integrate the four dimensions of health.

While it is helpful to have read either The Celestine Prophecy by James Redfield or The Celestine Prophecy: An Experiential Guide by Redfield and Adrienne, it is not mandatory.

Breema Bodywork: The Nonjudgmental Treatment
Jon Schreiber

Breema Bodywork originated in a remote Kurdish village, where it still serves as the primary health care method. Developed by people whose insight into the nature of the human body affords them longer and more active lives, this ancient system has a health-enhancing and deeply harmonizing effect on those who practice and receive it.

Rather than analyzing and focusing on the recipient's pathology, Breema emphasizes the experience of the practitioner. Thus, both the giver and receiver of a Breema treatment receive benefits, which commonly include increased mental clarity, emotional balance, physical vitality, and instinctive movement reeducation. Breema treatments are hands-on, safe, and gentle. They encompass an array of unique movement sequences and affect the body through the musculoskeletal and physiological systems, as well as via the chakras and meridians. At its core, Breema is vibrational or energetic medicine.

A full series of treatment sequences will be presented. Participants will be taught the flowing movements of the bodywork and the underlying universal health principles. The group will also learn Self-Breema, specific exercises done on one's own body. Designed for both health professionals and lay people, this workshop can help students of Breema to enhance their professional work, and can be a

Weekend of August 23-25

Generativity
Kathleen Riordan Speeth

Erik Erikson called the crucial issue of maturity "generativity versus stagnation." The urge to create a lasting body of work arises when we begin to measure time remaining rather than time passed. No longer desperately self-preoccupied, we want to express ourselves. Then comes the struggle of wooing the muse. Self-doubts surface: "But how? Do I have any right to try? I should be with my family. What I produce doesn't meet my standards. I'm too tired. I have no time!" Convention, habit, and cowardice conspire to drown out the still, small voice within unless the newly creative soul sustains heroic self-confidence.

This workshop is not designed for the Ruskins or Tolstoys, the Schweitzers or Dickinsons of this world, whose lives were oriented early toward artistic goals, but for those who have first awakened in midlife to the desire to make not only money, but beauty—who sense they have something fine inside but don't know what it is, or quite how to sustain the effort required to bring it forth. Using journaling, discussion, Gestalt, and experiential exercises, participants will grapple with the issues they confront when dissatisfied with the level of meaning in their lives, they wish to give their personal best to creative projects of their very own.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.

$740

$740

$740

$380
nurturing and balancing addition to their personal lives.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $380

The Subtle Self

Judith Blackstone

All spiritual traditions refer to an essential dimension of existence, calling it unity consciousness, emptiness, universal consciousness, and many other names. This dimension is not an abstract concept. It is the core of our own true nature and can be experienced by anyone who is willing to approach it with patience and openness. Unity consciousness is experienced as clear, mirror-like space, pervading our body and environment, transcending the duality of self and object. It is deeper than the physical and energetic levels of our being and beyond our psychological defenses, projections, images, and archetypes. Subtle Self Work is a precise method of attuning to the clear space of unity consciousness.

In this workshop participants will explore how to relate to others in this clear space, commune with nature, experience and live in the inner depths of the body, and integrate the body, authentic self, and unity consciousness. Group members will use the Subtle Self Work attunement exercises, daily sitting meditation, and sound, breath, and movement exercises to stimulate the channels in the vertical core of the body and expand the sense of unity consciousness. In this essential dimension of ourselves, we can find the source of our love, clarity, vitality, and peace.

Recommended reading: Blackstone, The Subtle Self. $380

'Tis a Gift to Be Simple

David Schiffman

This weekend is intended as an offering for people who would like to return to the simplicity of the values we treasure most. Its aim is to create a climate of mutual support and encouragement for exploring how to best cultivate the spirit of real generosity and faith in dealing with ourselves and others.

This timely gift will embrace the following elements:

- Sanctuary—the opportunity to step away and pause, to create a mood of peace and personal clearing without haste or interruption
- The company of kindred spirits—a chance to be met with honesty, empathy, and wisdom in an atmosphere of soulful, clear-eyed support
- The emotional freedom to be—the right to let down and feel sad, glad, or mad in order to clear the air and move on, making room in our hearts for new possibilities
- The right to feel free and alive in our bodies—the use of innovative ways of moving and touching in order to restore the vitality of feeling truly alive and physically at ease

The methods will be drawn from a wide variety of practices, both traditional and nontraditional, all aimed at restoring our gratitude and appreciation for being alive. $380

---

Music and Miracles: Tone, Sound, and Chant

Don Campbell

Ancient peoples knew that music and sound profoundly affect body, mind, and spirit. All health is sustained by rhythmic patterns that occur throughout the body. Everything in the body is vibration and pattern—the blinking of the eyes, the heartbeat, the breath. Every molecule is in a dance.

Based on the latest research linking the creative arts with memory and brain development, Western scientists are determining the effects of vibration, sound, and music on body and mind. The ear is the basic instrument for motion, movement, and balance in the body. Music and movement have been shown to directly affect reading and writing in children by creating dynamic changes in brain waves. Getting the brain unstuck from habitual patterns is the key to enhancing creative power and inspiring lifelong learning.

This workshop is for anyone who wishes to understand and explore the transformational and healing energies of the innate music in each of us. Participants will experiment with toning and profound listening exercises to help cultivate healing. Movement, meditation, and creative sounding will blend with lectures in a workshop designed to offer practical, joyful learning. $740

---

Movement, Touch, and the Healing Process

Patrick Douce

This workshop will approach the concept of a free, effortless body through Moshe
Feldenkrais's work in movement and touch. Balinese and other Indonesian systems of working with the human body's energy field will be presented to broaden the Feldenkrais work.

The workshop will introduce you to the complexity and simplicity of the spinal column. You will be taught soft, conscious movement to increase your sensitivity for safe, hands-on explorations. Moving away from the notion of a straight, stiff, rod-like back, you can discover that posture and overall flexibility of the spine improves.

This program is designed for both beginners and professionals interested in movement and touch. Individuals with chronic tension or stress, and those with lower back, neck, shoulder, or hip pain may find alternatives through learning more about the human body's possibilities.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$740

Contemplating the Mystic Light of Nature
Judith Cornell

Learn to experience nature as a living, spiritual being by developing a joyful and harmonious connection with the natural world. This week will be a time for meditation and gentle nature walks, for experiencing the monarch butterflies and hummingbirds drinking nectar from brightly-colored mandala flowers.

By learning to experience nature through grounded meditative awareness, your senses become more mindful. You can feel more acutely the sun warming your body, the ankle-deep carpets of soft grass embracing your feet. You can open to the smells of ocean spray and sounds of pounding surf. To experience the mystic light, the spiritual energy that permeates all of nature, it is necessary to slow your hectic pace and let go of intellectual concerns.

As you deepen your communion with nature, you will learn simple but powerful techniques to see and draw the subtle energies of plants. Judith Cornell's methods are based on sacred art, integral yoga, and ecopsychology, drawing from the esoteric traditions rooted in the mystery of light, sound, and consciousness as the matrix of all existence.

No previous skills are necessary. Come with an open heart and beginner's mind. Bring a notebook, a good hand-held pencil sharpener, and any Berol PrismaColor drawing pencils you have.

Recommended reading: The Mother, Flowers and Their Messages; Cornell, Luminous Symbols for Healing.

$740

(plus $30 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

Weekend of August 30–September 1

Relationships: A Return to Intimacy and Passion
Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

Where in life did we stray from our path as lover? How do we return to that path and connect to our intimate and passionate self?

Many of us suffer from failed relationships, often giving up in despair and anger. We are all, in some form, battle-scarred veterans, wounded by failed romances and marriages, alienated sons and daughters, and lost friends.

The major focus of this workshop is moving out of the "blame game" which destroys intimacy and passion. The workshop will explore the self-defeating male and female roles we play, our fears of one another, our anger, our control issues—all of which become barriers to loving and fulfilling relationships.

Participants will be shown new ways to communicate needs and desires, to deepen the ability to accept love, and to transform personal, social, and work relationships. Group work will include imagery, movement, Gestalt, Reichian work, meditation, and writing. This workshop is appropriate for individuals, couples, relatives, and friends who desire a higher level of intimacy and passion in their lives.

$380

Chi Kung/Nei Gung
Robert Blaisdell

The discipline of Chi Kung is a highly specialized and comprehensive curriculum of exercises and practices aimed at utilizing awareness and consciousness in order to develop and optimize an individual's intrinsic energetic potential. Through Chi Kung a practitioner may circulate and increase internal energy, strengthen internal organs and functions, and enhance and deepen sensitivity and awareness.

Chi Kung literally translates to "energy skill or discipline." Throughout human history numerous forms of this discipline have existed. Robert Blaisdell draws upon the ancient Taoist practices of martial and medical Chi Kung to create a basic and functional framework, which is then elaborated upon to facilitate specific needs of students in exploring their potential. The goal of the work is to initiate and sustain the integration of mind, body, and emotions, to deepen awareness, and to promote overall health, longevity, and well-being.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$380

Weekend Massage Intensive
Laurie Schutz & Oliver Bailey

Participants will be instructed in basic methods used in giving a pleasurable and beneficial massage. Fundamental elements of bodywork, such as breath awareness, grounding, movement, quality of touch, and stress reduction, will be introduced. The workshop is available to beginners as well as those who wish to brush up on their massage skills.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$380

Realizing the New Political Paradigm in Our Time
Daniel Sheehan & Sara Nelson

In this workshop, attorney Daniel Sheehan will present his call for the establishment of a new Natural Law Social Democratic Political Movement in America, complete with a description of the governing principles and public policy programs which must be enacted by such a movement. Sheehan is the former general counsel for the United States Jesuit Headquarters' Washington-based National Office of Social Ministry. He is also a former Harvard Divinity School Ph.D. candidate who majored in Judeo-Christian social ethics under Dr. Ralph Potter, the social ethicist for the World Council of Churches. Sheehan will compare and contrast the governing principles and public policy programs of this Natural Law Social Democratic Political Movement with those of the National Republican and Democratic Parties which will have been adopted at the July, 1996 National Conventions in San Diego and Chicago, respectively.

Sara Nelson will provide organizing information and public education advice on how to advance the development of this needed Natural Law Social Democratic Political Movement in a manner consistent with genuine spiritual values and social democratic principles.

$380
Creating from the Spirit

Dan Wakefield

Miracles... seem to me to rest not so much upon faces or voices or healing power coming to us from afar, but upon our perceptions being made finer, so that for a moment our eyes can see and our ears can hear what is there about us always.

— WILLA CATHER

Each of us has a rich source of creativity within us, a living well of ideas, stories, pictures, music, and dreams. This workshop, led by author Dan Wakefield, will guide participants through fascinating exercises in drawing, writing, music, and meditations on natural objects (trees, flowers, mountains) to appreciate and develop each individual's own creativity.

Breaking the myth of drugs and alcohol as stimulants to creative work, the workshop will show that the key to the natural process of creativity is getting in touch with our deepest sources, the "spirit" within us that comes from clarity. Together the leader and the group will share ideas about breaking the "creative slump," and participants will draw the continuing "road maps" of their own creative journeys.

Spiritual Healing: Laying-on-of-Hands

Maria Lucia Sauer Holloman

This workshop will present practical methods for using the hands as instruments of physical and spiritual healing. This energy practice incorporates both hands-on and energetic work, using the power of natural forces for healing. The emphasis will be on using intentionality and personal clairty as fundamental tools in any healing art. "Intentionality moves energy," says Maria Lucia, "and it is through this focus that you can learn to take responsibility for your own thoughts and actions."

Born into a family of healers with generations-old tradition, Maria Lucia studied with healers in her native Brazil, where spiritualism—receiving healing knowledge from the spirit world—is a practice familiar to much of the population. Having also lived and studied at Esalen for nine years, she applies both Brazilian and North American approaches to healing.

Participants will be shown how to practice and refine this approach, as well as experience the personal benefits that come from receiving this work. The workshop is designed for bodyworkers, therapists, health professionals, and anyone interested in working with energy and people's bodies.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

The Writer's Way: Freeing the Authentic Voice

Nancy Bacal

Imagine five days of writing where you substitute kindness for self-criticism, liberate the writer's voice, and put it to use! Writing personal story is an invitation to claim everything you know and are as material. The task is simple. You place a breath of air between yourself and the event/the feelings/the madness/the grace, wide enough for a trail of ink to transform it into story. As the details emerge, you can release you from self-judgment, bringing vitality back to your writing, into your life. When you claim your experience for the page, you cease to be a victim of circumstance. For in that moment, you substitute curiosity for expectation and are free.

This retreat, conducted in silence, offers a unique opportunity for experienced practitioners of meditation as well as beginners to better know themselves through the timeless wisdom of this ancient Tibetan teaching.

Spiritual Healing: Laying-on-of-Hands

Maria Lucia Sauer Holloman

This workshop will present practical methods for using the hands as instruments of physical and spiritual healing. This energy practice incorporates both hands-on and energetic work, using the power of natural forces for healing. The emphasis will be on using intentionality and personal clarity as fundamental tools in any healing art. "Intentionality moves energy," says Maria Lucia, "and it is through this focus that you can learn to take responsibility for your own thoughts and actions."

Born into a family of healers with generations-old tradition, Maria Lucia studied with healers in her native Brazil, where spiritualism—receiving healing knowledge from the spirit world—is a practice familiar to much of the population. Having also lived and studied at Esalen for nine years, she applies both Brazilian and North American approaches to healing.

Participants will be shown how to practice and refine this approach, as well as experience the personal benefits that come from receiving this work. The workshop is designed for bodyworkers, therapists, health professionals, and anyone interested in working with energy and people's bodies.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

The Writer's Way: Freeing the Authentic Voice

Nancy Bacal

Imagine five days of writing where you substitute kindness for self-criticism, liberate the writer's voice, and put it to use! Writing personal story is an invitation to claim everything you know and are as material. The task is simple. You place a breath of air between yourself and the event/the feelings/the madness/the grace, wide enough for a trail of ink to transform it into story. As the details emerge, you can release you from self-judgment, bringing vitality back to your writing, into your life. When you claim your experience for the page, you cease to be a victim of circumstance. For in that moment, you substitute curiosity for expectation and are free.

This retreat, conducted in silence, offers a unique opportunity for experienced practitioners of meditation as well as beginners to better know themselves through the timeless wisdom of this ancient Tibetan teaching.

Spiritual Healing: Laying-on-of-Hands

Maria Lucia Sauer Holloman

This workshop will present practical methods for using the hands as instruments of physical and spiritual healing. This energy practice incorporates both hands-on and energetic work, using the power of natural forces for healing. The emphasis will be on using intentionality and personal clarity as fundamental tools in any healing art. "Intentionality moves energy," says Maria Lucia, "and it is through this focus that you can learn to take responsibility for your own thoughts and actions."

Born into a family of healers with generations-old tradition, Maria Lucia studied with healers in her native Brazil, where spiritualism—receiving healing knowledge from the spirit world—is a practice familiar to much of the population. Having also lived and studied at Esalen for nine years, she applies both Brazilian and North American approaches to healing.

Participants will be shown how to practice and refine this approach, as well as experience the personal benefits that come from receiving this work. The workshop is designed for bodyworkers, therapists, health professionals, and anyone interested in working with energy and people's bodies.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

The Writer's Way: Freeing the Authentic Voice

Nancy Bacal

Imagine five days of writing where you substitute kindness for self-criticism, liberate the writer's voice, and put it to use! Writing personal story is an invitation to claim everything you know and are as material. The task is simple. You place a breath of air between yourself and the event/the feelings/the madness/the grace, wide enough for a trail of ink to transform it into story. As the details emerge, you can release you from self-judgment, bringing vitality back to your writing, into your life. When you claim your experience for the page, you cease to be a victim of circumstance. For in that moment, you substitute curiosity for expectation and are free.

This retreat, conducted in silence, offers a unique opportunity for experienced practitioners of meditation as well as beginners to better know themselves through the timeless wisdom of this ancient Tibetan teaching.

Spiritual Healing: Laying-on-of-Hands

Maria Lucia Sauer Holloman

This workshop will present practical methods for using the hands as instruments of physical and spiritual healing. This energy practice incorporates both hands-on and energetic work, using the power of natural forces for healing. The emphasis will be on using intentionality and personal clarity as fundamental tools in any healing art. "Intentionality moves energy," says Maria Lucia, "and it is through this focus that you can learn to take responsibility for your own thoughts and actions."

Born into a family of healers with generations-old tradition, Maria Lucia studied with healers in her native Brazil, where spiritualism—receiving healing knowledge from the spirit world—is a practice familiar to much of the population. Having also lived and studied at Esalen for nine years, she applies both Brazilian and North American approaches to healing.

Participants will be shown how to practice and refine this approach, as well as experience the personal benefits that come from receiving this work. The workshop is designed for bodyworkers, therapists, health professionals, and anyone interested in working with energy and people's bodies.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

The Writer's Way: Freeing the Authentic Voice

Nancy Bacal

Imagine five days of writing where you substitute kindness for self-criticism, liberate the writer's voice, and put it to use! Writing personal story is an invitation to claim everything you know and are as material. The task is simple. You place a breath of air between yourself and the event/the feelings/the madness/the grace, wide enough for a trail of ink to transform it into story. As the details emerge, you can release you from self-judgment, bringing vitality back to your writing, into your life. When you claim your experience for the page, you cease to be a victim of circumstance. For in that moment, you substitute curiosity for expectation and are free.

This retreat, conducted in silence, offers a unique opportunity for experienced practitioners of meditation as well as beginners to better know themselves through the timeless wisdom of this ancient Tibetan teaching.

Spiritual Healing: Laying-on-of-Hands

Maria Lucia Sauer Holloman

This workshop will present practical methods for using the hands as instruments of physical and spiritual healing. This energy practice incorporates both hands-on and energetic work, using the power of natural forces for healing. The emphasis will be on using intentionality and personal clarity as fundamental tools in any healing art. "Intentionality moves energy," says Maria Lucia, "and it is through this focus that you can learn to take responsibility for your own thoughts and actions."

Born into a family of healers with generations-old tradition, Maria Lucia studied with healers in her native Brazil, where spiritualism—receiving healing knowledge from the spirit world—is a practice familiar to much of the population. Having also lived and studied at Esalen for nine years, she applies both Brazilian and North American approaches to healing.

Participants will be shown how to practice and refine this approach, as well as experience the personal benefits that come from receiving this work. The workshop is designed for bodyworkers, therapists, health professionals, and anyone interested in working with energy and people's bodies.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

The Writer's Way: Freeing the Authentic Voice

Nancy Bacal

Imagine five days of writing where you substitute kindness for self-criticism, liberate the writer's voice, and put it to use! Writing personal story is an invitation to claim everything you know and are as material. The task is simple. You place a breath of air between yourself and the event/the feelings/the madness/the grace, wide enough for a trail of ink to transform it into story. As the details emerge, you can release you from self-judgment, bringing vitality back to your writing, into your life. When you claim your experience for the page, you cease to be a victim of circumstance. For in that moment, you substitute curiosity for expectation and are free.
This seminar emphasizes personal change while providing in-depth training in organizational dynamics and paradigm shifting. It offers coaching, experiential learning, and concrete material in such areas as: leadership practices, outdoor teamwork, organizational culture, conflict, change and wounding, and acknowledgment of our ancestors. Movement, music, meditation, massage, art, time in nature, and intuitive practices will be interwoven throughout. Participants will spend a day writing a Personal Vision Statement, with specific steps to bring the learning back to work and home. “Managing With Heart” can be fun, transformational, inspiring, and joyous. For more information, please call 800-943-2782.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

Weekend of September 6-8

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Steven Harper

For workshop description see May 24-26. $740

Light Upon Light: Rumi Today

Andrew Harvey

In this workshop, the Divine Fire is lit by Rumi, one of the world’s greatest poets and religious teachers of all times. Rumi’s work is a treasure of great value to seekers of every tradition and to everyone able to appreciate the timeless truth and beauty of his message. In this workshop, we’ll share insights into Rumi’s teaching and poetry, and try to put his words in action. $380

Self-Transformation: The Art of the Actor for Everyday Life

Jane Marla Robbins

Transforming feelings of anxiety and insecurity into feelings of self-confidence and joy is a miracle that can happen in all areas of one’s life—physical, emotional, spiritual. This transformation can help us fulfill our potential for the roles we have chosen to play—child, parent, artist, public speaker, shaman, sensualist, or spouse.

The workshop will explore and discuss a wealth of acting techniques, including: physical, emotional, vocal, and spiritual preparations, relaxation, sense memory, the magic “as if,” animal exercises, overcoming self-consciousness, speaking the truth, perfect props, and psychophysical action.

Participants can learn how to replace old fears and paranoid projections with self-generated pleasures and positive projections. Many “real-life” situations ordinarily fraught with worry can easily be transformed using the Actor’s Imagination. The power and pleasure of being able to create a sense of well-being can be experienced by everyone, and, once discovered, it cannot be easily shaken.

No previous acting experience is necessary. $380

Time Shifting: Creating Time for Your Life

Stephan Rechtschaffen

Time is a mysterious flow of which we are a natural part. Yet in our fast-paced, overscheduled lives, we have lost touch with living “in the flow of time.” We have become a society plagued with “time sickness.” Caught up in the stress of running from work to home to recreation, no one seems to have the time to do the important things. Anxious about the future, regretful of the past, we miss the hidden fullness of each moment.

This workshop helps participants understand their own attitudes toward time and the effect those attitudes have on lifestyle, health, and longevity. Stephan Rechtschaffen, a medical doctor and cofounder of Omega Institute, will introduce practices to move perception away from societal time pressures into the often unexplored territory and emotions of “freedom-within-time.” Using meditation, visualization, and time evaluation and planning (not scheduling), participants can begin to experience their own natural rhythm in time and the simple power and pleasure of being “present” in each moment.

Participants will explore the effect of dysrhythmic, hurried schedules—on health, relationships, work, and creativity—and, using their expanded sense of time, explore what they really want and how to bring the freedom of “timelessness-within-time” into their everyday lives.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $380

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. $380

Sabetti Sphurana Yoga: The Yoga of Inner Vibration

Stephano Sabetti

Sphurana, according to spiritual teacher Ramana Maharshi, is the spiritual self that one feels especially in the heart chakra. When our spirit is oriented toward sphurana in a continual and effortless manner, we can experience, says Maharshi, a “taste of enlightenment.”

Sabetti Sphurana Yoga was developed by Stephano Sabetti, in conjunction with the Life Energy Process, to support wholeness on many levels simultaneously. It integrates:

- Vibratory energy—experiencing bodily the vibrations of the spirit and opening the healing channel
- Asanas—physical postures which are not static forms but may be spontaneously created as energy movement changes
- Balance—finding balance in imbalance, discovering order in chaos, to more easily integrate the practice into daily life

Sphurana Yoga, unlike other yoga, works with emotions in order to feel them without becoming attached to them, to help them become more essential and direct. Sphurana Yoga also incorporates humor and pleasure to soften the muscles, minimize tension, support humanness, and allow energy to flow in its inherent rhythm.

This will be week of music, pleasure, and fun. $380

Week of September 8-13

Intuition and the Dance of Attention

Anne Armstrong & Randy Cherner

For workshop description see May 3-5.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

The Soul’s Theatre: The Practice of Improvisation

Corey Fischer

Improvisation is the art of the present moment. Our modern Western culture has pretty much left improvisation to jazz musicians. We hardly remember the traditions of improvised poetry, improvised storytelling, and improvised theatre that have flourished at different times in many cultures.
“In this workshop,” writes Corey Fischer, “we’ll begin to reinvent those traditions. We’ll improvise with movement, nonverbal sounds, language, and story. We will work with our own moment-to-moment experience, our memories, our secrets, our dreams, and our desires. We will discover how we can transform the demons of fear, self-criticism, and resistance into powerful allies to create moments of spontaneous, self-revelatory performance.”

While no previous theatre background is required, please note that a high level of commitment is necessary to create the level of trust that is the basis of this work. This is not an “acting class” or a workshop in sketch comedy or theatre sports. This is an opportunity to learn that, as Eduardo Galeano writes, “...every single one of us has something to say to the others, something that deserves to be celebrated or forgiven by others.”

Bring writing materials and wear loose, comfortable clothing.

Spiritual Journeys, Sacred Lives
Dorothy Hunt

The seeds of spiritual realization are always present in the human heart. This workshop will introduce film biographies of such spiritual leaders of our century as Mother Teresa, Ramana Maharshi, Bede Griffiths, the Dalai Lama, Thomas Merton, and Martin Luther King Jr. to help inspire, inform, and stimulate the exploration of our own spiritual unfolding. As the weekend proceeds, participants will write and share stories of their own spiritual journeys (no prior writing experience is necessary).

Through writing, drawing, discussion, and silence, this course will explore such matters as: the people, places, and experiences which have had the greatest impact on our spiritual life; the themes or questions which keep repeating in our life story; the moments of despair and the moments of grace; ways we view God; the surprises which are so often present in spiritual awakening; and the hidden gifts which only an open heart can see.

By sharing and celebrating the rich and varied ways the Divine manifests in human life, we honor the sacredness of our individual stories and the creating, sustaining Spirit present in each one.

The Practical Art of Creative Risk-Taking
David Schiffman

To make effective, creative choices, you need courage, imagination, and the willingness to know your heart and be true to the dreams that live inside it. Choosing this deeper wisdom can often involve the risk of breaking set—the choice to move against the powerful grain of old fears, habits, and the constant pressure of other people’s expectations. To foster this spirit means contacting the elemental, instinctual parts of our natures, befriending rather than suppressing or denying the sexuality and power out of which initiative and enthusiasm spring.

This workshop will focus on how to develop a more adventurous, resourceful, and buoyant way of living. In an atmosphere based on warmth and humor, group members will explore their capacity for mutual tenderness, respect, and honesty. Traditional psychological practices such as gestalt, bioenergetics, and psychosynthesis will be used for intensive individual work, as well as nontraditional innovative approaches in bodywork, kinesthetic retraining, music, and guided imagery.

The Upledger Institute’s SomatoEmotional Release I
John Upledger

SomatoEmotional Release is a healing process that helps rid the mind and body of residual effects of past trauma and associated negative emotional experiences. Joint research efforts by Dr. John Upledger and biophysicist Dr. Zvi Karni led to the discovery that the body often retains (rather than dissipates) physical forces as the result of an accident, injury, or emotional trauma, and then isolates the dysfunctional area, creating what we call an “energy cyst.”

Although a reasonably healthy body can work and adapt to “energy cysts,” extra energy is required to perform normal bodily functions. As the years pass, the adaptive pattern of the body loses its effectiveness, and symptoms and dysfunctions begin to appear which become more difficult to ignore or suppress.

In SomatoEmotional Release I, students learn how to assist the patient/client in physically identifying and expelling the “energy cyst” and in re-experiencing and resolving unpleasant memories.

Students must complete CranioSacral I and II before participating in this course, either at Esalen or elsewhere. For further information see Special Programs, page 58.

Required reading: Upledger, SomatoEmotional Release and Beyond and CranioSacral Therapy II: Beyond the Dura; Fisher & Ury, Getting to Yes.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.
Weekend of September 13-15

Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach
Patrick Douce
For workshop description see July 12-14.
C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $380

Essential Peacemaking: Women and Men
Danaan Parry & Jerilyn Brusseau
We stand at a threshold of new understanding about the "next step" for women and men—co-leadership of a completely re-created twenty-first century.

"Essential Peacemaking: Women and Men" was created by Jerilyn and Danaan, experienced conflict negotiators, to answer a deep need: trained, awake, skilled teams of men and women who understand that men and women speak different languages, listen differently, have different needs and reasons for being, and who also know how to facilitate other men and women to listen and truly hear each other.

Essential Peacemaking is about finding a common language between the sexes. This weekend at Esalen combines the first two training workshops of Essential Peacemaking. It is a rare opportunity to explore, in one weekend, the skills and discoveries that make it possible for women and men to deeply and clearly come to know one another.

Please note: There are more than 350 Essential Peacemaking facilitators in twenty-five countries. If, after this weekend, you wish to become an accredited facilitator of this program, only the final three-day accreditation training will be needed. $380

Poetry Workshop: Writing New Poems
Sharon Olds
This is an intensive workshop for the writing of new poems in an atmosphere of encouragement and adventure. The focus will be on the new poems written during the weekend and where they can lead us. There will be individual conference times as well as group meetings. The goal will be to help each other bring forth something fresh and alive from deep inside. Beginners as well as experienced writers are encouraged to apply.

Sharon Olds teaches in the Graduate Creative Writing Program of New York University. She has been given a San Francisco Poetry Center Award, a National Book Critics' Circle Award, a Lamont Award from the Academy of American Poets, and grants from the NEA and the Guggenheim Foundation.

To apply, please send a letter with your name and address, and between three and five pages of your poems, typed (no dot-matrix, please). Do not include a SASE; applications will not be returned. Send them to Sharon Olds Workshop, c/o Esalen Institute, Big Sur CA 93920. Your poems must be received no later than July 1, 1996. Participants will be notified of their acceptance into the workshop on July 22, 1996.

Recommended reading: Poetry by Sharon Olds: Satan Says; The Dead and the Living: The Gold Cell; and The Father. $380

The Meditation Hall and Everyday Life: Transcending the Separation
Olga Luchakova
The goal of this workshop is to transcend the imaginary gap between sitting meditation and everyday activities by experientially realizing that the Self/God/Love is ever present. Tranquility and freedom are not states to be achieved but rather to be unveiled in the present moment.

The sublime teaching of self-realization, called Advaita Vedanta or Jnana Yoga, has been transmitted since ancient times by such sages as Dattatreya and Shankara. In this century, through the grace of Ramana Maharshi and Nisargadatta Maharaj, this teaching has become known to a larger number of Western spiritual seekers.

These sages recommended certain practices that help to progress from temporary awakening experiences to the steady flow of Realization. The group will practice those most direct meditative methods that allow us to reveal our divine nature in its different aspects:

- Tracing the "I" to its Source (the aspect of Being)
- Halting the mindstream (the aspect of pure Awareness)
- Cultivating the longing (the aspect of Love/Bliss)
- Total surrender and gratitude (the aspect of Non-doing)

The workshop will address the most common doubts, concerns, and fears sometimes associated with rapid spiritual growth. $380

Vision Painting
Helen Jerene Malcolm
Vision painting is a nonverbal gestalt experienced via color, light, and form. It is a subtle process exposing the conditioned mind and its limitations. In an atmosphere of exploration and acceptance you are encouraged to suspend judgment, enabling the creative impulse to play, take risks, and face fears. The resulting paintings become a visual journal of your stream of consciousness.

Prompted by visualization, meditation, music, and movement, expression is evoked from the feeling centers, through the hand, and onto paper. Your intuitive voice is encouraged to uncover a source of wisdom reflected in the impulse to change. Beyond the rational mind, from deeper levels of motivation, the painting seemingly paints itself and reveals its message.

Expanding consciousness through your work permits a look at the life you create for yourself physically, spiritually, and professionally. Your vision paintings become a treasure map of your life where change and healing are affirmed. This is a transformative adventure in personal creativity. It is also fun and profoundly educational.

Those who are sure they can't paint, beginners, and artists are all welcome. $380

(plus $20 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

Week of September 15-20

Gestalt Practice
Christine Stewart Price
For workshop description see July 14-19.
C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

The Naked Soul: A Ritual Theater Lab
Gabrielle Roth
Gabrielle Roth writes: "This is a workshop for those who want to explore the mysteries and dynamics of relating fearlessly with humor and compassion. We will cultivate and deepen our ability to see and hear each other as we break through masks and myths to face each other with naked souls."
Each day will include movement practice and specific theater techniques. Mornings we will dance, afternoons we will immerse ourselves in theater exercises to expand our capacity to relate and behold. "To weave witness and warrior into a vulnerable presence is our prayer and our hope."

Assisting Gabrielle Roth will be Jonathan Horan.

Weekend of September 20-22

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see May 17-19.

Awakened Mind II:

Advanced Brainwave Training and Transcendent States

Anna Wise

After the initial Awakened Mind brainwave training, how do we develop brainwave states and practice meditations that take us to internal spaces of greater spiritual awareness and transcendence?

Focusing on the union of beta, alpha, theta, and delta brainwaves, participants will explore "the space of consciousness" which can unlock hidden realms of perception and understanding. They will work with developing concentration and memory, opening up the storehouse of internal energy, deep psychic relaxation, and the expansion of consciousness for self-healing and healing.

To help develop higher states of consciousness, the workshop will utilize a variety of practices, including inner visualization, Yoga Nidra, Chidakasha meditation, open-eyed brainwave training, Trataka, and Antar Trataka. Participants will also look at how Eastern meditations and visualizations as well as meditations from the tantras can be practiced for personal transformation.

The Mind Mirror EEG will be used to demonstrate and monitor brainwave patterns, and Electrical Skin Resistance Meters will be available to measure the depth of arousal and relaxation.

The seminar is open to anyone who has participated in a previous workshop with Anna Wise.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Beyond Gender Language:

The Union of The Sun and The Moon

Howard Teich

In C.G. Jung’s last major work (the little read, often misunderstood Mysterium Conjunctionis—An Inquiry into the Separation and Synthesis of Psychic Opposites in Alchemy), he reveals the "hidden secret," the ingredients of the fiery light of nature. Jung travels beyond anima and animus, beyond feminine and masculine, to the most ancient and archetypal psychic opposites—the sun and the moon.

This workshop will be a shamanic journey toward integration and healing of the solar/lunar split in our nature. The vehicle for this journey will be drawn from Navajo ceremonies, using archetypal images from Navajo sand paintings for initiation into the Pollen Path of peace, prosperity, and happiness.

Traditionally, these sand paintings are used to purify initiates in the unification of psychic opposites.

This process can liberate men and women from the distortions and fragmentations of gender-based language. The workshop will teach participants to use these unifying principles in an ongoing way and to live this solar/lunar energy day to day—conscious, embodied, and practical.

Other elements of this workshop will include alchemy, quantum physics, and archetypal psychology. Tools will include yogic breathing, active imagination, Gestalt, and meditation. This work can be particularly helpful for psychiatrists, psychologists, and counselors in diagnosing and healing internal and external splits of psyche and matter such as narcissistic wounds, phobias, and addictions in play, work, and relationships.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.

The 21 Praises of Tara:

A Sacred Dance Practice

Prema Desara

Tara is the great Mother Goddess of unconditional love. Ages ago, Tara was an ordinary woman who practiced dharma and reached enlightenment. Instead of entering nirvana, she vowed, "I will stay in the body of a woman until the end of time, helping all those who call out to me to cross the ocean of sorrow and attain enlightenment." She is said to answer the cries and prayers of all lost or suffering beings, and to overcome obstacles and dissolve ignorance. The chanting of Tara’s 21 Praises is an ancient healing practice through which fear and other afflictions clouding the mind are dispelled and life challenges met with clarity and compassion.

Prema Desara combines her dance training from the temples of India with ancient Tibetan practices of self-empowerment. In this ritual of transformation, participants will be guided to embody the sublime qualities of Tara, and to embrace own their essence of feminine wisdom, compassion, and power.

They will learn the subtleties of sacred movement, mudras, offerings, and visualizations. At the end of the workshop, the dancers will adorn themselves in silk costumes (provided by the leader) and dance a ritual offering and autumnal equinox celebration in the presence of the Esalen community.

Please note: This workshop is for women only. No dance experience is required.

The Art of Leadership:

Communication, Creativity, Vision

Ron Alexander

In the beginner’s mind there are many possibilities

While in the expert’s mind there are few.

— SUZUKI

This workshop is for entrepreneurs, executives, managers, and others committed to improving their communication and leadership skills. It is especially intended for those open to doing deep personal work with a commitment to transform the self and thereby become more effective and productive in their leadership style. The major areas of focus will be: resolving conflict, developing trust with those who feel threatened, addressing blind spots in self-esteem, healing blocks in creativity, and building support for transforming vision into reality.

The workshop is primarily experiential and will include gestalt open seat work, sharing feedback on leadership and communication styles, improving coaching skills, developing the unconscious to creatively solve problems, and role-playing and problem-solving exercises for real-life work situations.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.
Beliefs, fears, and emotions from the past can continue into present relationships and interfere with spontaneous feelings of trust, love, and joy. The goal of this workshop is to experience and let go of these defenses and create new ways to relate—in the moment—to ourselves, our work, and those we love.

The workshop includes periods of intense bodywork for those who want to let go of past anger, fear, and pain, which are reflected in the body as armor and tension. As armor softens, feelings held in since childhood can be released, and positive feelings can be experienced more fully. By also using dreamwork, massage, dance, and group process, a new capacity for loving can emerge.

This workshop may have up to thirty participants. $740

Evocation of the Deceased in a Latter-Day Psychomanteum
William Roll

In ancient Greece, there were institutions known as oracles of the dead, or psychomanteums, where people traveled, so the early historians and poets tell us, to be reunited with the spirits of loved ones lost to death. Dr. Roll will describe how, in collaboration with Dr. Raymond Moody, he re-created a latter-day psychomanteum through the use of the venerable technique of mirror gazing. He will demonstrate how this environment may evoke vivid reunion encounters and other transcendent experiences.

Dr. Roll will show video clips from his investigations of hauntings and poltergeists, and explore the meaning of apparitional experiences in general, including angels and transformative aliens.

This unusual workshop will also present other procedures for connecting with the deceased, including the soul dance, psi sessions, and guided regression, to share the transition of the loved one to another state of consciousness.

Recommended reading: Xie, The Eight Healing Sounds of Yin-Style Bagua and The Twelve Guiding Energy Sitting Meditations (for information on the books and accompanying videos, call the Association for Traditional Studies at 415-337-4129).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

Singing Gestalt
Nancy Kaye Lunney

Singing can be an experience of great joy, poignant tenderness, or overwhelming fear. It can provide illuminating moments of pure expression or a persona to hide behind.

"Singing Gestalt" is singing about yourself, who you are, what you feel. It is about being yourself in front of other people without judging how well you sing. It is not about performance—it is about making contact, feeling, expressing, and being there, with and for yourself and others.

If the idea of getting up and singing in front of other people terrifies you more than anything you can think of, this workshop is for you. If you love to sing in front of other people and want to stretch yourself further, this workshop is for you. It is a chance to take your singing self out of the shower, out of the car—out of the closet.$380
The goal is to confirm and clarify our relation-gateway of our personal dream images to pants can become dreamers in all these senslife. Like symbols and synchronicities of waking times and by paying attention to the dreamscious dreaming in a relaxed state, through spontaneous wisdom of sleep-dreams, of dreaming come in many ways: through the widely known as "one who dreams?" The gifts Robert Moss

Shaman in Everyday Life

Conscious Dreaming: The Path of the Shaman in Everyday Life

Robert Moss

Among Native Americans, the shaman is widely known as "one who dreams." The gifts of dreaming come in many ways: through the spontaneous wisdom of sleep-dreams, through creative incubation, through conscious dreaming in a relaxed state, through shamanic soul-flight to other worlds and times—and by paying attention to the dream-like symbols and synchronicities of waking life.

In this adventure with Robert Moss, a leading dream explorer and shamanic teacher, participants can become dreamers in all these senses. The workshop is a journey through the gateway of our personal dream images to approach the sources of healing, creativity, and insight. With the aid of drumming, guided visualization, and partner exercises, participants will experiment with shape-shifting, shared dreaming, and folding time, scouting possible futures and other life experiences. The goal is to confirm and clarify our relationship with spiritual allies and develop rituals for spiritual cleansing, psychic self-defense, and soul recovery.

Conscious dreaming is a key to soul-remembering—reclaiming the knowledge that belonged to you before you entered this life-time—and a creative and playful way to walk the path of soul in everyday life. $740

The Heart of Sports Massage

David Streeter

"In this week together," writes David Streeter, "we will focus on the most powerful and effective techniques that have evolved from contemporary sports massage and explore the power within our own bodies as we practice these techniques. This essential knowledge is drawn from the internal martial arts and shiatsu where the internal power of the practitioner is fully utilized. In this way it is possible to apply deep tissue, trigger point, and cross-friction massage without strain, fatigue, or injuries to our own hands, arms, or backs. Demonstrations and lectures will be brief and to the point. We will move to the table and practice with as much personal instruction as possible." This workshop is designed to give each student the tools and the confidence he or she needs to work deeply and effortlessly. The techniques are uncomplicated and will be of great value to anyone with a sincere interest in the fine art of massage.

C. E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $380

Weekend of October 4-6

Present at the Creation: Reawakening the Artist Within

Esalen Arts Center Staff

For workshop description see June 14-16. $380

Dialogue

Daniel Martin

Thought invents the world and then denies it. The very world we have created we now find to be problematic. And we are caught in its web. We cannot solve our problems with the same thinking that created them. Solutions or, more accurately, resolutions will come from deconstructing our thought processes and constructing new ones.

Dialogue is the skill of thinking in a new way; thinking collectively. We do this by freeing ourselves from the assumptions that shape our perceptions and by learning how to collaborate at progressively deeper levels. This requires skills of inquiry and listening—to ourselves, to one another, and to the energy field we create together. Dialogue is participating in the unfolding of meaning, assisting the emergence of what wants to happen.

This most natural human skill has been lost in a world of fragmentation and narrow individualism. But it can be relearned. It is founded, however, on a certain level of self-conscious awareness or psychological maturity. This workshop is an invitation to people who have done their personal work, who have consciously attempted to live their own journey. Dialogue offers a natural next step in the process of personal and social growth. Come and develop a skill that is vital for the work of defining the human role in a new era.

$380

TA KE TI NA:
The Forgotten Power of Rhythm

Reinhard Flatischler

Everyone of us is deeply rhythmic: hearts beat, lungs breathe, cells pulsate—we are rhythm. Illuminating this, TA KE TI NA, a synthesis of the rhythmic knowledge of many cultures, goes back to the primal rhythmic knowledge that lives within every human being. TA KE TI NA connects musical rhythms with the rhythms of daily life, the rhythms of the body, the rhythms of consciousness.

The principle underlying the TA KE TI NA experience is the simultaneous performance of several different rhythms with basic stepping, clapping, vocal rhythms, and chanting. The workshop takes on the quality of ritual as participants, standing and moving in a circle, clapping and chanting rhythmic syllables, gradually create a group unity.

For many of us, the knowledge that we are naturally connected with rhythm has disappeared. TA KE TI NA, in reestablishing the connection with this "forgotten power of rhythm," can reveal a new range of qualities to life. Through increased abilities in movement, rhythmic competence, and musical creativity, natural confidence can grow. The skills presented in TA KE TI NA can be applied to everyday living as well as to all musical fields. $380

Self-Empowerment and Purification:
The Farther Reaches of Gestalt

Julian Silverman

"We badly need a new orientation, a new perspective," wrote Fritz Perls. "We have graduated from the infant's 'I can't help myself' to the adult's 'I can't help myself because . . . .' But psychology and psychiatry were never meant to be after-the-fact justifications for continuing neurotic behavior, behavior which does not permit the individual to live up to the maximum of his capacities."

In his autobiography, Perls speculated that a new form of psychotherapy would emerge and that it would entail some kind of cleansing or purification process. He was not clear, however, how it would work. In actuality, he had prepared the way quite well for the next form.

In this workshop the boundaries of the 'next form' are defined and examined using both didactic and experiential sessions. Two inter-related processes are emphasized: the first, a purification process, has the purpose of "wiping the slate clean" of mental debris; the second is to identify a personal center from which to act with power.

Introductory Workshop Principle #1: Take responsibility for every emotion, every movement you make, every thought you have.

Recommended reading: A Course in Miracles. C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.

Joy, Inspiration, and Hope: A Retreat for Gay Men
Scott Wirth

"As gay men," writes Scott Wirth, "our psychological lives are too often defined in terms of deficit and injury: we are not 'real' men; we are 'sick and sinful'; our lives are being robbed from us by AIDS—the long, dark list goes on. Our gay male psyches are invariably overburdened with the images and emotional residue of victimization, oppression, and tragedy.

"Without denying the dark aspects of our lives as gay men, we will emphasize the joyful, inspiring, and hopeful aspects of our lives—past, present, and future. We will visit five phases of life: infancy, boyhood, adolescence, young manhood, and midlife, and blend together memory, fantasy, and stories we have heard.

"In a series of guided experiential sessions, we will construct and journey through what Jungian analyst Verena Kast has called our 'biography of joy, this time as gay males. We will discover ways in which our soul remained inwardly steadfast throughout the different phases of our lives, nurturing and protecting us in ways that no parent or caregiver ever did. We will also recall and honor those who supported us—usually unknowingly—in the formation of our gay identity."

If you wish, bring a cassette of music which you find joyous, inspiring, or hopeful (each piece five minutes or less).

Recommended reading: Kast, Joy, Inspiration, and Hope. $380

Week of October 6-11

Tantra: The Art of Conscious Loving
Charles Muir & Caroline Muir

Few of us have been blessed with healthy childhood conditioning and education regarding the mysteries of sexual love and sexual energy. This can leave many individuals less aware and conscious about their sexuality than they are in other aspects of their lives. Tantric meditation and ways to exchange sexual energy in a safe, nonsexual manner will be taught in the workshop.

Participants will learn and discuss various ways to increase intimacy and passion in their relationship. Tantric meditation and ways to exchange sexual energy in a safe, nonsexual manner will also be taught in the workshop. These methods can then be practiced in a sexual way in the privacy of your own home.

This workshop is open to couples only. $740 per participant

Treasure Maps to the Soul
Ann Weiser Cornell & Barbara McGavin

We go along through life trying to overcome our weaknesses and imperfections. We push them away, repress them, deny them, and send them into exile. Of course we don't want to give in to the addiction or depression or shyness or procrastination. But often we end up with an uneasy truce—getting by, but not really getting better.

In this workshop you will learn how to use these stuck, unlovable parts of yourself as treasure maps. You will discover how the parts of yourself that you try hardest to overcome are the very parts that hold the key—that carry the secret—of your greatest potential as an evolving being.

The means to bring forth this treasure will be Focusing, a simple, gentle, natural, and powerful body/mind skill of self-awareness. Focusing is a way of listening to your body's subtle, rich, organismic experience. It is safe, private, and nonconfrontational. There is no pushing, no revealing more than you want to reveal.

This workshop offers specific, grounded methods for working with the seven areas of treasure: Dragon (self-criticism), Fog (confusion), River (overwhelming emotion), Pit (depression), Swamp (action blocks), Wilderness (addictions), and Mountain Top (unfulfilled desire). This is a light-hearted and hopeful approach that can give you valuable tools to use in your daily life.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

Golf in the Kingdom: An Exploration of the Deeper Game
Stephen Cohen, Fred Shoemaker & Brian Bergstrom

"Ye'll come away from the links with a new hold on life, that is certain if ye play the game with all your heart.

—MICHAEL MURPHY (AS SHIVAS IRONS), Golf in the Kingdom

The game of golf provides many opportunities to enhance the journey of self-discovery. It can be experienced not only as an athletic endeavor, but also as a metaphor for the way one lives. Just as in life, issues of self-confidence, fear, trust, discipline, and awareness emerge in the conflict between the ego's desire for success and the inner self's ability to achieve.

During these five days, teaching methods gleaned from a study of the deeper game will be utilized, as well as principles from psychosynthesis and Gestalt, to explore the inner self and how one interferes with its emergence. Two days will be spent on field trips to the Monterey Peninsula where participants will practice and play in some of the most beautiful golf country in the world. On other days there will be time to relax and enjoy the natural pleasures of Esalen and Big Sur.

Recommended reading: Murphy, Golf in the Kingdom; Gallwey, The Inner Game of Golf.

\[ \text{(plus greens fees paid directly to the leader)} \]

A Course in Miracles

Julian Silverman

A Course in Miracles is a curriculum for changing your mind so that you can enjoy life. Its basic premise is that the mind can learn to empower itself by learning to extend itself. According to the Course, "All confusion comes from not extending life."

In this workshop the vision of A Course in Miracles is set within a framework of three of its critical ideas. Each one is introduced with a quote spotlighting a basic human learning need:

1. "Instruction in perception is your greatest need."
2. "You do not know the meaning of love and that is your handicap."
3. "Your task is not to seek for love, but merely to seek and find all the barriers within yourself that you have built against it."

Julian Silverman elaborates, "The first principle dovetails with my years of scientific research in the area of perception, in both normal and altered states of consciousness. The second fits with my lifelong search for a conception of love which integrates the spiritual and the physical. The third enables me to draw on my more than twenty years of experience as a psychotherapist and supervisor of psychotherapists, and my abiding interest in spiritually-based self-examination."

The workshop uses a combination of conceptual and experiential learning methods.

Prerequisites: Own a copy of A Course in Miracles. Be interested in learning what's in it. C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

Weekend of October 11-13

A Weekend with Marianne Williamson

Writes Marianne Williamson: "As we enter the final stages of the millennium, we turn our attention to the relationship between personal and global transformation. We will focus this weekend on increasing our capacity to receive God's grace and impart it to others."

In this workshop, Marianne Williamson will be discussing universal themes from A Course in Miracles.

Please note: This is the only workshop at Esalen this weekend. It is expected to have an extremely large enrollment. $380

Week of October 13-18

Esalen Arts Festival

This week Esalen will be hosting its second annual Arts Festival, a five-day celebration of the arts, bringing together painters, musicians, dancers, actors, writers, and artists who resist easy categorization. There will be guest performances, instruction in various art media, poetry readings, multimedia events, and panel discussions.

A wide range of classes will be offered: painting, sculpting, photography, singing, and dance. Several events will take place outdoors—on our broad lawn overlooking the Pacific and in our new amphitheater and dance platform.

Because appearances by guest actors and musicians are subject to touring schedules, we cannot, at catalog publication time, list the names of individual teachers and performers. A schedule of events and guest appearances will be provided via a Festival Information Hot Line in August.

Whether you are an artist, an art lover, or an artistic spirit, the Esalen Arts Festival promises to be a stimulating, enriching, and memorable event.

Please note: Since there will be only 75 beds available this week, early registration is recommended. $740

Weekend of October 20-22

Apprenticeship to the Earth—Return to Sacred Ground

Little Bear Nason & David Schiffman

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 65. $790

Continuum

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud

This workshop explores the idea that movement is something we are rather than something we do, that what we call a "body" is actually a nonlinear creative event.

"Awareness of ourselves as movement begins with developing our sensitivity to our intrinsic world," writes Emilie Conrad-Da'oud. "We do this by exploring the mobile diversity of our breath, by discovering how our sound permeates connective tissue, and most of all by experiencing fluidity as our biological origin—the undulating waves of life that brought us here in the first place."
"As we enliven ourselves from the inside, our dynamic expressions in the world increase. This remarkable oscillation from intrinsic to extrinsic, and from cell to action, urges itself into new creative channels. Released from convention, our movement vocabulary can include textures and dynamics that are the expression of what is current and alive."

As a movement specialist at UCLA, Conrad-Daud has contributed to a study demonstrating that enhancing fluid movement is essential to mediating disease and aging. Her work is incorporated into the fields of alternative medicine, physical therapy, and physical fitness.

No dance or movement experience is necessary. This workshop can give participants a deeper awareness of the body as a process where change, growth, and innovation are possible.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

Celestial Bodies: Archetypal Astrology and Transformative Yoga
Richard Tarnas & Terra Wise

Combining two workshops into one, this seminar balances the intellectual focus of astrology lectures and discussions with time to inspire the body through yoga postures, focused breathing, flowing movement, and conscious relaxation.

As Jung was the first major modern psychologist to note, astrology has an extraordinary capacity to illuminate the archetypal dynamics of the individual human psyche. In this seminar, Richard Tarnas will present an overview of his and psychiatrist Stanislav Grof’s work over the past twenty years linking particular psychological conditions and stages of the therapeutic process and their timing with specific planetary patterns in the birth chart and transits. Participants will be instructed in how to calculate and interpret their own transits, with special attention paid to the significance of major present and upcoming planetary alignments.

Through movement, sound, and breath, Terra Wise will guide participants toward a more conscious attunement to the physical and subtle body. Each day the class will experience safe, playful, and health-enhancing postures, both stationary and flowing. This ancient healing system can improve strength, flexibility, and overall fitness, as well as promote a greater sense of peace and alignment.

As a movement specialist at UCLA, Conrad-Daud has contributed to a study demonstrating that enhancing fluid movement is essential to mediating disease and aging. Her work is incorporated into the fields of alternative medicine, physical therapy, and physical fitness.

No dance or movement experience is necessary. This workshop can give participants a deeper awareness of the body as a process where change, growth, and innovation are possible.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

Opening to Ourselves and Others
Rachel Harris

In order to survive and make our way in the world, we develop defense mechanisms, rigid patterns of thinking, feeling, and behaving. We deaden, dissociate, or sacrifice parts of ourselves during early childhood experiences, chronically stressful situations, or traumatic events. These brittle habits, originally designed for survival, limit our vital connection to ourselves as well as to others. We create our own self-limiting prisons.

"This workshop is about softening, melting, opening," writes Rachel Harris. "We will create a safe opportunity to identify our chronic defense patterns and explore who we are underneath these personality structures. We will seek to become more objective about ourselves and increase our psychological freedom. The focus will be to deepen our sense of ourselves and enhance our capacity for relationship with others.

"We will use an integrated approach of body awareness, mindful introspection, breathing, creative expression, and dyadic exercises to gently lighten the burden of our chronic defenses. The opportunity is to stop being who we think we have to be and develop the process of being with ourselves as we are, which is all we really have and what we will take home with us."

$740

Writing the Natural Way
Gabriele Rico

Writing well can be as natural as telling a story to a friend, as fluid as daydreaming. Using the new science of Chaos as a metaphor for the workings of the mind, the creative process, and ways of accessing it, Gabriele Rico can teach you to write freely and richly. Presenting a series of writing activities to free you from the restrictions imposed by a linear, judgmental, left-brain approach, she can help you to become receptive to your creative intuition—to express ideas, images, and feelings more authentically in a fresh, personal voice.

Once we understand something about the creative process, we can begin to glimpse answers to such questions as "Where do ideas come from? How can we best hold them? What is the role of the emotions in the creative process? In what way is all writing creative?"

A few of the many writing activities include:

- Clustering—a nonlinear process that accesses seemingly random thoughts and feelings
- Improvisation and play with language
- Images—"strange attractors" which evoke visual, tactile, auditory, and gustatory memory patterns
- Metaphoric thought—moving beyond literal thinking

This workshop is appropriate for writers of all levels, from beginners to experts. Please bring colored felt-tip pens and a bound notebook. Recommended reading: Rico, Writing the Natural Way and Pain and Possibility: Writing Through Personal Crisis. $740

Facing Each Other, Facing Ourselves
David Chrislip & Steven Harper

If the ground can be our common ground, we can begin to talk to each other (human and nonhuman) once again.

— Gary Snyder, A Place in Space

This workshop begins with discovering—or reconnecting with—one’s own deepest purpose. Using one’s life as the ground for deeper connections, participants will explore the expanding circles of family, community, and place. The intent is to discover—experimentally—the practices and processes that bring health to each dimension, to enhance our ability to face each other and talk to each other in ways that enrich our common ground.

When our lives are in harmony with self, family, community, and place, we feel the fulfillment of living a life that is deeply purposeful and connected. There is healing within and without. There is engagement with the many aspects of our lives. There is the capacity for coping with what is yet to come.
By cultivating these qualities—fulfillment, healing, engagement, and the ability to cope—we also develop our leadership capacities to serve our families, organizations, and communities in ways that bring health and healing. We can learn to act in ways that create common ground rather than division. Instead of losing sight of the world we are serving, we become a part of it.

Through individual and group exercises, meditation, walks in nature, and discussions, participants will explore the sources in their lives that can help them to discover an inspiring path with heart.

How does forgiveness lead to intimacy?
- It allows us to let go of anger, resentment, and grief
- It allows the agitated mind to move more deeply into the healing heart
- It resolves separation from ourselves and from others
- It allows us to give up inflicting punishment on ourselves and others
- It allows us to complete unfinished business

The workshop will present ways to help complete the past, be open to the present, and create the future. It will offer a safe, supportive environment that will include taking risks, intense bodywork, gestalt imagery, dance, and meditation to support the commitment to the process of discovering ourselves.

This workshop can be especially helpful for those dealing with boundary issues, the effects of a dysfunctional family life, or addictions that have been used as a defense against intimacy. It is appropriate for everyone, whether in a good relationship or troubled, as a couple or alone, mother, father, daughter, or son, or in the healing professions.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.

Pandora's Gifts: On Secrets, Health, and Healing
Dale Larson

In the Greek myth of Pandora's box, after the Furies escape, one entity remains: Hope. This workshop looks at how secrets and secrecy affect the hope—and health—of people and organizations, and how, with openness sustained by empathy and support, hope—and improved health—can replace avoidance and fear.

We all have uncomfortable feelings, thoughts, and information about ourselves that we avoid telling others. These secrets can range from mildly embarrassing to highly distressing. Although telling these secrets to the wrong person can be disastrous, recent research confirms that "what we don't say can hurt us," that confiding in others can be good for our health.

The workshop will explore the topic of secrets from both personal and professional perspectives. What do people say are their most difficult and painful secrets? How do we manage these kinds of secrets in our lives? How can we safely disclose our secrets and move toward greater intimacy and support? If we are counselors, how can we work successfully with the secrets of the individuals and families we care for? Also, how can we man-
Reflexology—Foot Compression Massage
Deborah Ardell Hill
Reflexology is a method of applying pressure to areas or points on the feet and hands to stimulate the glands, organs, and other areas of the body in order to increase circulation, relax the nerves and body, and help to normalize body functions.

For thousands of years the relationship between reflex points and the organs was understood by the Chinese, the Egyptians, East Indians, and North American Indians. Reflexology was first introduced scientifically to the medical profession in the United States in 1913 by Dr. William Fitzgerald, who engaged other doctors and health care practitioners to keep records of their findings on their patients.

This workshop is designed for bodyworkers and nonprofessionals alike. It will present a new way of looking at the body, offer specific techniques, and provide a sequence to work from. It will also introduce basic anatomy and physiology. In addition to offering nurturing to others, reflexology can be used as part of a self-help program.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $380

Week of October 27-November 1
Playing the Edge
David Schifman
For workshop description see May 12-17. $740

Five-Day Massage Intensive
Deborah Anne Mc Dow & Sherry Sanders Galloway
This massage workshop explores the fundamental elements of bodywork: grounding, centering, breath awareness, touch sensitivity, and intention. A hands-on approach will combine a balance of long, integrative strokes with detailed attention to specific areas of the body. There will be emphasis on discussion and modeling of boundaries and trust with respect to the client's physical and emotional well-being. Meditation and movement will be included, as they enhance the connection between client and practitioner.

This workshop is for beginning bodyworkers and those interested in learning some new approaches to massage.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

Vocal Awareness: Empowerment Through Voice
Arthur Joseph
In many traditions, the throat is the center of creative power. The voice represents this power, and thereby has the capacity to help access our full creative expression. This course combines the powerful techniques of Vocal Awareness with the principles of creativity theory to help participants realize their creative potential.

Vocal Awareness introduces techniques which are integral to this development process. This approach—which views voice as a metaphor, representing an individual to the world—includes vocalizing, sound meditation, movement, song study, and development of the speaking voice as a means for deepening contact with the self. Participants will work individually and in groups exploring breathing, toning, and vocalizing.

Singing and speaking offer an immediate outlet for creative expression. In addition, the voice can become a springboard for other forms of creative expression, such as writing, drawing, movement, and problem solving. In this way, the voice becomes a symbol for the whole person as an integrated creative being. Consequently, this workshop can be not only a vocal training class but a step toward empowerment along life's path.

Please note: Participants are required to bring tape recorders.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

Starting to Heal Yourself
Meir Schneider
Subtle expectations about aging and health have programmed us to believe that our bodies are destined for certain levels of decline, that fatigue will increase as the day progresses, and that health naturally declines with age. This workshop will encourage a change in those expectations. It is designed to help participants imagine a higher level of optimum health and mobilize those resources that promote healing through proper awareness and movement.

Meir Schneider will introduce his practices of self-healing—subtle movement, breathing, relaxation, self-massage, and vision exercises—in order for each person to get in touch with his/her body. The effects of both correct and incorrect movement will be discussed.

Imagery will be introduced to help free up physical limitations and the restricted concepts of health which accompany them.

Schneider's self-healing methods have been helpful with a variety of stress- and lifestyle-related diseases, among them:
- Arthritis, both osteo- and rheumatoid
- Spine problems, including scoliosis, sciatica, and degenerated disks
- Vision problems, from myopia to macula degeneration
- Neuromuscular ailments such as multiple sclerosis, muscular dystrophy, etc.
- Digestive disorders such as spastic colon, colitis, chron's disease and constipation
- Respiratory problems, such as asthma

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740
The programs listed below are either longer than the standard Esalen workshop or part of an ongoing series. Prices quoted below for these programs are for standard accommodations as described in "Reservation Information," page 4. Sometimes bunk bed space is available at a reduced rate. Scholarships are also available; please see "Scholarship Information" on page 5.

The Diamond Approach: A Spiritual Teaching for Our Times

An Introductory Series of Classes

Teachers of the Ridhwan School are offering a series of introductory workshops in the Diamond Approach (see Opening the Doors to Essence, June 23-30 and A Taste of the Diamond Approach, July 19-21). The Diamond Approach is a spiritual teaching developed by A.H. Almaas (Hameed Ali) to meet the needs of those wishing to contact the depths of who they are while leading ordinary lives of work and family. The teaching bridges the traditional divisions between what is considered sacred and what is considered mundane. It utilizes elements from depth psychology and traditional spiritual knowledge and practices, creating a new method for engaging in the process of spiritual transformation.

The methodology of the Diamond Approach is open-ended inquiry into one's personal experience leading to an experiential understanding of it. The format includes meditation, awareness and movement practices, talks, exercises in self-inquiry, and personal processing within the group. As we inquire into and travel through our inner terrain, our identifications and beliefs shaped by our conditioning—the obscuring veils within—become more and more transparent, and we are able to contact dimensions of reality and the human potential traditionally accessible to only a few. As we gradually contact the depths of who we are, the personality becomes refined, and our lives progressively become embodiments and expressions of our true nature.

As in the case of many schools of spiritual work, spiritual development in the Diamond Approach, while noninvasive and nonconfrontational, does lead to addressing the defenses of the ego and the dissolution of its structures, and so is not appropriate for everyone. It is especially suited to those who have done a lot of spiritual and/or psychological work, and who still feel that something within has not been touched. Reading one or both of the books below is recommended to see if you resonate with this approach. Prospective participants will be sent a questionnaire to ascertain whether the work may be of personal benefit (no questionnaire is required for the July 19-21 introductory weekend).

While each workshop provides a foundation for the next, each is complete on its own and may be taken individually or as part of the series. For more information and to obtain a questionnaire contact Joyce Lyke at 408-375-9845.

Recommended reading: Almaas, Essence and Diamond Heart – Book One.

The Upledger Institute Series

The Upledger Institute was founded by John E. Upledger, who pioneered the field of CranioSacral Therapy nearly twenty-five years ago. Dr. Upledger is a Doctor of Science, an Academic Fellow of the British Society of Osteopathy, and a member of the Alternative Medicine Program Advisory Council of the National Institutes of Health.

From 1975 to 1983, Dr. Upledger served as clinical researcher and professor of biomechanics at Michigan State University. During those years he supervised a team of anatomists, physiologists, biophysicists, and bioengineers in experiments testing the existence and influence of the craniosacral system. The results of those studies explained the function of the craniosacral system and its use in treating malfunctions of the brain and spinal cord.

The Upledger Institute teaches noninvasive modalities such as CranioSacral Therapy to doctors and health care practitioners of all disciplines. Curricula range from the structural/functional anatomical perspective to approaches that explore the physical, emotional, mental, and spiritual origins of pain and dysfunction.

The Upledger Institute series is open-ended inquiry into CranioSacral II (June 23-28), CranioSacral I (July 14-19), and Somato-Emotional Release I (September 8-13, taught by Dr. Upledger). This work is sequential and each workshop requires completion of the previous course, either at Esalen or elsewhere.

Healthspring Outreach and Education

The Healthspring Project extends Esalen's work in the healing arts and sciences to the outside world. It is an independent service-oriented program of Esalen teachers and their associates. Healthspring offers a global information network linking visitors to Esalen with centers, teachers, and health professionals in somatics and psychology located in their home area. (These listings are public information and are not meant to be an endorsement of any individual or institution.) Some of our practitioners and teachers travel in the United States and internationally and are available for private sessions and classes. If you are interested in being contacted, let us know.

The Healthspring library offers books on health and healing, somatic studies, psychology, bodywork, nutrition, and related studies, which may be borrowed by students while at Esalen. Donations of appropriate books are greatly appreciated.

For access to this program, write to Laurie Lioness Parizek at Esalen, c/o Healthspring.

Future Programs

Listed here are some of the special programs scheduled for the months ahead. This is not an invitation to register, but information to assist you in your long-range plans to participate in an Esalen workshop. Dates are subject to change; please call the Esalen Office or see the next catalog for more specific information.

November 10-December 3

28-Day Massage Practitioner Certification Program

Deborah Anne Medow & Oliver Bailey

February 9-21

Advanced Training in Shamanism and Shamanic Healing

Michael Harner & Sandra Ingerman
In its continuing commitment to the fields of education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences, Esalen regularly sponsors invitational conferences that bring together experts who share their research and points of inquiry. As host, Esalen covers room and board expenses for participants as a way of advancing these particular studies. These are invitational conferences only and are not open to the public. Recently held programs and their conveners are listed here.

The Land Institute’s Natural Systems Agriculture Conference
October 22-25, 1995

The Land Institute is an organization devoted to sustainable agriculture and stewardship of the Earth. Its mission is to provide alternatives to the current agricultural paradigm, which is dominated by industrial processes rather than ecological principles and which undercuts the land’s ability to meet long-term food needs. Recently funded by the Department of Agriculture to plan a pilot program based on its “natural systems” paradigm, the Land Institute brought together at Esalen scientists from the fields of agronomy, genetics, soil science, climatology, plant breeding, ecology, and environmental studies to launch this effort.

Direct Mental and Healing Interactions with Living Systems
November 26-December 1, 1995

This conference brought together a team of scientists from Europe and the United States to develop cutting-edge research on the direct influence of consciousness in healing and personal transformation. The goal of the working group, which met for the third year, is to support the emergence of a multidisciplinary and multinational research program. The aim of this research program, now underway, is to systematically study and develop previously underresearched aspects of human experience, including psychic abilities and distant healing capacities. Researchers reported on their latest findings, developed new collaborative research protocols for the coming year, and considered new methodologies for future work.

The Ecological Design Institute EDEN Project
January 14-17, 1996

The Ecological Design Institute held an invited conference to launch their new project, the Ecological Design Education Network (EDEN). In attendance were EDEN’s advisors, a multifaceted group of design faculty, students, and ecological design firms and organizations from across the country. Intended to address the lack of ecological design education in universities, EDEN will connect students with internships in ecological design and design/build firms: these may be architecture and landscape architecture firms, design/build firms building rammed earth and straw bale structures or constructed wetlands, or non-profit organizations furthering appropriate technology or low-income housing. The program will offer students a comprehensive, hands-on education in ecological design.

Visual Arts and the Environment
February 4-9, 1996

The Visual Arts and the Environment Conference brought together visual artists with philosophers, psychologists, and museum planners to exchange ideas and reflections. Topics of discussion included: “Where Is the Environment,” ”(Re)Presenting Land(scape),” ”The Meaning of Sanctuary,” ”The City as Artist Habitat,” and ”Artist and Ritual.” There were slide presentations and discussions of each individual artist’s work. A recurring theme was the role of the artist in the creation of culture and culture’s relationship to nature. The conference will result in a documentation (printed and/or electronic) of the ideas presented and considered.
FOR NURSES

The Board of Registered Nursing has approved Esalen as a provider of continuing education for registered nurses, provider number 01152. Only those programs listed below offer continuing education credit. Workshop leaders have the final decision in applying for C.E.U. eligibility. There is a $10 processing fee for C.E.U. certificates, payable at the end of the workshop when you turn in your evaluation form to the office. If you wish to receive a certificate, please notify the office at the time of registration.

Please note: Two-day workshops offer 10 hours of C.E. credit and five-day or longer workshops offer 30 hours.

If you need additional information on C.E. courses for nurses or future C.E. outreach programs, please contact Sherry Sanders Galloway, R.N., Continuing Education Coordinator, 408-667-3000.

May 3-5
- Intuition and the Dance of Attention
- The Healing Power of Laughter and Play

May 5-10
- Embodying Images of Health: A Somatic/Expressive Approach to Psychoneuroimmunology
- Healing the Heart
- Giving Voice to Bear: Shamanism and Bear Medicine

May 10-12
- Weekend Massage Intensive
- Vipassana Meditation and the Teachings of Thich Nhat Hanh
- Nine Worldviews: The Enneagram at Work

May 12-17
- Advanced Hypnosis: Practice and Applications
- The Visionary Life: The Quest of Your Life
- Intermediate Massage Intensive

May 17-19
- The Embodied Life: Feldenkrais® Movement and Zen Meditation
- The High-Performance Mind: Awakened Mind Brainwave Training

May 24-26
- OpenMind Training: Innovations in Meditation and Mind/Body Healing

May 26-June 2
- Cortical Reeducation® and the Feldenkrais Method®
- Gestalt Practicum

May 26-31
- The Core Self: Return to Innocence and Choice
- Opening the Feelings
- Conflict Resolution Through Conscious Negotiations
- Facial Communication/ Facial Diagnosis

June 2-7
- Rekindling the Spirit in Work

June 9-14
- Five-Day Massage Intensive

June 14-16
- Practical Herbology: An Esalen Garden Workshop
- Introduction to Mindfulness Meditation
- Making a Private-Pay Practice Work

June 21-23
- The Upledger Institute's CranioSacral II
- Ecopsychology, Addiction Recovery, and Gender Reconciliation
- Turning on the Light: A Choice to Live Consciously

June 28-30
- Caring for the Dying: What Really Works?
- Healthy Back, Healthy Mind: User-Friendly Yoga for Backs and Stress
- No, You're Not Crazy: Understanding Our Spiritual Awakenings

July 7-12
- Taoist Chi Kung: Enhancing Vitality

July 12-14
- Refilling the Chalice: Time Out for Healers
- Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach
- Why Men Are the Way They Are

July 14-19
- Gestalt Practice
- The Upledger Institute's CranioSacral I
- Adventures in Death: Riding Your Transitions to Power and Freedom

July 19-21
- Weekend Massage Intensive

July 21-26
- Relationship Intensive
- The Subtle Art of Meditation
- You Don't Have to Be Good

July 28-August 2
- Psychosynthesis for Professionals
- The Enneagram and Self-Realization

August 2-4
- Intimate Connections

August 4-11
- Creating Exact Moments of Healing

August 4-9
- Five Day Massage Intensive

August 9-11
- Psychosynthesis: Personal and Transpersonal Growth
- Taking Care of Yourself While Helping Others

August 11-18
- Bonding: The Heart of Dialogue

August 11-16
- Core Zero Balancing: Basic I & II
- Advanced Cortical Reeducation® and the Feldenkrais Method®
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Date Range</th>
<th>Event Title</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>August 16-18</td>
<td>Innovative Hypnotherapeutic Approaches to Mind-Body Healing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>August 18-25</td>
<td>Constructing Psychotherapy Hypnotically</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>August 18-23</td>
<td>The Transformational Enneagram: Mindfulness, Insight, and Experience</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>August 23-25</td>
<td>Breema Bodywork: The Nonjudgmental Treatment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>August 25-30</td>
<td>Movement, Touch, and the Healing Process</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>August 30-September 1</td>
<td>Chi Kung/Nei Gung</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Weekend Massage Intensive</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>September 1-6</td>
<td>Spiritual Healing: Laying-on-of-Hands</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Managing With Heart: Changing the Paradigm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>September 6-8</td>
<td>Time Shifting: Creating Time for Your Life</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>September 8-13</td>
<td>Intuition and the Dance of Attention</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>The Upledger Institute's SomatoEmotional Release I</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>September 13-15</td>
<td>Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>September 15-20</td>
<td>Gestalt Practice</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>September 20-22</td>
<td>Awakened Mind II: Advanced Brainwave Training and Transcendent States</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>The Art of Leadership: Communication, Creativity, Vision</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>September 22-27</td>
<td>Turning on the Light: A Choice to Live Consciously</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Healing Without Medicines: Qigong and the Medical Knowledge of Yin-Style Bagua</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>September 29-October 4</td>
<td>The Heart of Sports Massage</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>October 4-6</td>
<td>Self-Empowerment and Purification: The Farther Reaches of Gestalt</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>October 6-11</td>
<td>Treasure Maps to the Soul</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>A Course in Miracles</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>October 20-25</td>
<td>Continuum</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>October 25-27</td>
<td>Pandora's Gifts: On Secrets, Health, and Healing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Reflexology—Foot Compression Massage</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>October 27-November 3</td>
<td>Cortical Reeducation® and the Feldenkrais Method®</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>October 27-November 1</td>
<td>Five-Day Massage Intensive</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Vocal Awareness: Empowerment Through Voice</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Starting to Heal Yourself</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

FOR PSYCHOLOGISTS

Esaene has been approved as a provider of continuing education for psychologists in the State of California, accredited by the California Psychological Association, provider number ESA001. Workshops for which C.E.U. credit has been approved are listed here. Those workshops for which C.E.U. applications have been filed and approval is pending are noted in the Seminars section. For current status information, contact Brita Ostrom at 408-667-3040.

Please note: Two-day workshops will offer 10 hours of C.E. credit and five-day workshops will offer 26 hours.

May 24-26
- Communication and Partnership
- OpenMind Training: Innovations in Meditation and Mind/Body Healing
The Work Study Program is for those interested in an intense and complete involvement with the Esalen environment. It is a work-oriented program, emotionally and physically, and only rarely is it restful. Participants work thirty-two hours per week in one of Esalen’s departments (kitchen, garden, farm, housekeeping, maintenance, or grounds) and participate, along with staff and long-term students, in that department’s program.

During most evenings and one weekend intensive, work students are together in one of two groups (see below) exploring different practices and approaches available at Esalen, with specifically assigned leaders who are with the group throughout the month, coordinating the study schedule and facilitating many of the evening sessions.

The selection of work students is done by Bette Dingman, the Work Study Coordinator, in consultation with department supervisors. Since this is a work program, preference is given to applicants who are open and willing to learn about themselves within the work context as well as within the evening and weekend study/process groups. Applicants with particular skills or physically limiting conditions are urged to mention them on the application. It is necessary for applicants to be able to speak and understand English.

First-month work students, in particular, are assigned to departments largely on the basis of community need. No work students will be assigned to departments with particularly assigned leaders who are with the group throughout the month, coordinating the study schedule and facilitating many of the evening sessions.

The study portion of the program is divided into two groups each month: each emphasizes one type of growth practice, such as gestalt, meditation, Reichian work, massage or somatics work, and so forth. Applicants must select one group and be prepared to stay at Esalen for the full duration designated for that particular program, assuming that they meet the standards of the Work Study Program.

Please note: This program is designed to explore and apply human values and potentials in both the evening groups and the workplace. It is not intended as a substitute for therapy or as a "cure."

...sometimes possible to receive college credit for participating in the Work Study Program. Please check with your college or university for eligibility requirements.

Work Study Programs scheduled for this catalog period are:

April 28-May 26
Joyce Frazee will invite the creative power of the dream and the dreamer to connect during this monthlong. Gestalt practice, dreamwork, meditation, drawing, storytelling, bioenergetics, and dancing will all be used to reveal that through our dreams we are connected to each other and to ourselves.

With an emphasis on the practice of massage, David Streeter will explore the inner power of the human being. He will combine the essence of Zen meditation with movement from the martial arts and yoga. These principles will be applied to the art of massage and the art of being in the world.

May 26-June 23
The basis of a month with Seymour Carter will be the gestalt method, supported by studies in various body disciplines, including sensory awareness, bioenergetics, and aikido. Each participant's process of development will be honored, encouraged, and treated as unique.

Lenore & Mel (Rudra) Lefer will lead this program. Lenore will offer an exploration of the inner journey within the framework of psychosynthesis, using guided imagery, journal writing, dreams, ritual, storytelling, and nature to create a supportive environment in which healing and transformation can occur. Mel will teach all levels of Integral Yoga, including postures, progressive relaxation, breathing practices, meditation, and visualization.

June 23-July 21
Eduardo Eizner & Guests will lead a month concentrating on emotional release work and self-awareness, incorporating gestalt practice, group and individual process, rituals, movement, and bodywork.

Olga Luchakova will lead an integral mind-body-spirit training (raja and mana yoga) exploring the connection between subtle energy practices and self-realization. Meditation, special movement, work with chakras and meridians, psychospiritual exercises, and self-inquiry will be used to cultivate awareness and healing of the deepest layers of our mind-body system. (It is suggested that participants follow an ovo-lacto-vegetarian diet—eggs and dairy allowed—during this training.)

July 21-August 18
Patrick Douce will share the essence of his work with Moshe Feldenkrais, Balinese healers, and Indonesian Silat Martial-Art-for-Health systems. This program will focus on movement and touch to increase the sensitivity, flexibility, coordination, relaxation, and freedom of the body. Individual problem areas will be approached in order to improve chronic stiffness and pain. Group experience and interaction will help facilitate balance in the overall growth of each participant.

Elaine Hughes will offer an intensive writing program based in evocative imagery exercises which incorporate meditation, visualization, body awareness, sense perception, and movement. Expect to look deeply into the nature of your own experience, to challenge and surprise yourself, and to open your imagination to new possibilities. Please bring a writing journal you like and a favorite pen or two. Weekly gestalt open seats will be scheduled.

August 18-September 15
Eric Erickson will lead a group devoted to the development of integral practices. Gestalt practice, meditation, movement exercises, and the experience of nature will be explored as complementary awareness practices which, when combined, integrate mind-body-spirit into a greater whole and enhance personal development and transformation.

Kathleen O’Shaughnessy will teach the fundamentals of Esalen-style massage, with emphasis on both form and quality of contact. She will also introduce ancient and contemporary meditation approaches—of stillness and movement— including Soto Zen practice, hatha yoga, dynamic breath in healing, and Continuum intrinsic motion and sounding (developed by Emile Conrad D’Aoud) as a means for inner understanding.
September 15 - October 13

Maria Lucia Sauer Holloman will lead a monthlong program teaching spiritual massage and healing, the laying-on-of-hands. This practice incorporates both hands-on and energetic work. Yoga, meditation, artwork, and Tibetan and bioenergetic exercises will be introduced to complement this energy work and to help bring participants in tune with their bodies.

The focus of a month with David Schiffman will be on the theme of transition. It is geared for people facing major changes who would like an opportunity to create a time for sanctuary and a mood of mutual support. The intention will be to cultivate an individual style of approaching change that is heartfelt, open-minded, and resourceful in spirit.

October 13 - November 10

A month with John Soper & Friends will focus on ways to improve the quality of life for participants. Gestalt practice will be the vehicle for personal growth in a group setting. The group may also experience other practices, including games, to bring into focus those areas of our lives that are ripe for change.

David Streeter. See April 28-May 26.

Inasmuch as the Work Study Program is a complete program in itself, please do not plan to take regularly scheduled catalog workshops during your stay. Professional services, such as massage, are available at staff rates.

Fees: A deposit of $400 in U.S. currency is required with your application. The work scholar fee is $750 for the first month, $700 for the second month, and $650 for the third month. Work students may be invited to remain for a second or third month depending on space available and community needs. Occasionally it is possible to stay for a longer period as an Extended Student. There are no scholarships available for the Work Study Program.

Housing: Accommodations are shared (occasionally co-ed), with up to four people to a room, usually at South Coast Center, a staff complex located 1.5 miles north of Esalen.

For more information contact Bette Dingman: 408-667-3010.

Please note: Application is not registration in the program. Registration is made only after approval of application and upon receipt of deposit. The balance of the fee is due on arrival. Of the original deposit, $100 is nonrefundable and may be transferred to other programs within one year of receipt. Please return the application form (see next page) with your deposit to:

Work Study Program
Esalen Institute
Big Sur, CA 93920

Institute of Transpersonal Psychology
Offers External Master's Degrees

Work students have the opportunity to integrate their work study experience at Esalen with the external degree program of the Institute of Transpersonal Psychology. The external degree format enables students to study at any location. Work students will be able to continue the dynamics of personal growth fostered at Esalen while earning master's degrees in transpersonal studies or in transpersonal psychology.

Inquiries and applications should be made directly to ITP Contact:

Nancy Fagen
External Program
Institute of Transpersonal Psychology
744 San Antonio Road
Palo Alto, CA 94303
415-493-4430
WORK STUDY PROGRAM APPLICATION

Name ____________________________________________    □ Male    □ Female

Date of Birth ___________________________    Occupation ____________________________

Place of Employment ____________________________

Daytime Phone (___) ___________________________    Home Address ____________________________

Evening Phone (___) ___________________________    City/State/Zip code ____________________________

Date of Application ___________________________    Country ____________________________

Do you have any physically limiting conditions which might affect your full participation in this program? □ Yes    □ No

If yes, please be specific. ____________________________________________

Are you currently taking any medications? □ Yes    □ No    If yes, please specify: ____________________________________________

Which program(s) are you interested in? Please list the leader's name. ____________________________________________

Please note: When focused programs continue with the same leader for more than one month, participants must be prepared to stay at Esalen for the full duration of that particular program.

The Work Study Program is for 28 days, beginning and ending on Sunday. Please list the dates of your choice, listing two alternative dates as well.

1st: _________ to _________    2nd: _________ to _________    3rd: _________ to _________

Work students may be invited to remain for a second or third month, depending on space available and the needs of the Esalen community. Please indicate your availability for such an invitation.

□ No extension    □ One-month extension    □ Two-month extension

Assignments to departments are made according to community labor needs. However, if you have particular skills that you're willing to use, especially in food preparation, gardening, maintenance, mechanics, construction, or housecare, please mention them here.

__________________________________________    _________________________________________

__________________________________________    _________________________________________

□ Please check here if you have emergency medical skills (M.D., R.N., or E.M.T.) and are willing to use them during your stay.

Attach a personal statement about your interest in the Work Study Program and why you'd like to participate.

All applicants are required to sign a standard release from liability and assumption of risk form as a condition of participation in the Work Study Program.

Note: No pets allowed.
Origins: A Rites-of-Passage Journey in the Ventana Wilderness
Little Bear Nason & David Schiffman

We are initiated into authentic self-knowledge by genuine challenges, experiences that test us, stretch us, and open us to inner resources that we can rely on. This workshop is patterned after ancient tribal rites of passage used for awakening to the powerful healing influences of one’s inner visions.

The journey begins with a gathering at the Esselen Tribe’s ceremonial grounds high in the Big Sur hills. Here participants will be initiated by tribal leaders into the sacredness of ceremony, dreamtime, and ritual in preparation for the rites of passage.

After hiking some of the most beautiful high ridge country in northern Big Sur, the group will arrive at an area used by generations of Esselen Indians for restoration and purification. From here each person will go off alone for two days and nights to his/her own sacred practice ground for the retrieval of the simple reverence for life and personal effectiveness that grows out of diligent cultivation of the soul.

Regathering after this solo time, participants will have an opportunity to share their stories. The practical application of the insights gained will be examined, marked, and celebrated.

This workshop is geared for people interested in making real changes in their lives who are willing to take the time to receive the support necessary to make such changes.

Backpacking experience is not necessary. Be prepared for vigorous physical activity. The workshop begins on Sunday, June 2, at 6:30 p.m. at the Ventana Wilderness Ranch in Carmel Valley. Complete details and an equipment list will be sent upon registration. $790

Apprenticeship to the Earth—Return to Sacred Ground
Little Bear Nason & David Schiffman

David Schiffman writes: “This wilderness adventure is for people who value the restorative and inspirational power of the natural world. We will journey on foot and/or horseback toward a simpler mode of being. Our destination: Pine Valley, deep in the woods of Big Sur’s most pristine backcountry, a convergence of earth, sky, and mountains, filled with centuries-old towering pines, sparkling streams and waterfalls, surrounded by high granite cliffs and secret caves inscribed with petroglyphs. It is an ancient, sacred gathering-place for the Esselen Indians, used for countless generations as a tribal sanctuary for new visions, purification, celebration, and community.

“It will be a time to share the elemental realities of outdoor living and travel: sleeping under starry skies in the fragrance of the forest, immersed in the music of creek and wind, sharing meals around blazing fires in an unhurried mood of common support.

“Our time together will also be used for self-realization and personal mastery. We will employ a variety of shamanic practices for uncluttering our minds and hearts and freeing our spirits. Our tools will combine the ancient and the modern, including:

• Music and ceremony as spirit medicine
• Native American prayer and purification practices
• Opportunities for individual initiation into dreamtime
• Healing and kinship through the sensitive use of touch
• Free-form adventures in the heart of the forest

This trip is suitable for newcomers as well as old hands.”

Participants can elect to hike or ride. All gear and food will be packed in on mules. Be prepared for some physical exertion. Further details sent upon registration. $790

Esalen Wilderness Programs Refund Policy

Most expenses in wilderness programs are incurred preparing for your arrival. The Esalen Wilderness Program refund policy reflects the fact that few of these expenses can be recovered.

To reserve a space in a wilderness workshop, a nonrefundable deposit of $200 is required. The balance of the fee is due 14 days before the program begins. If you cancel prior to 30 days before the program begins, your nonrefundable deposit may be applied to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year. If you cancel from 30 days up to the starting date of the trip, your deposit is forfeited.
The Dolphin Tape Series

Each new tape list has a somewhat different emphasis in its selection of titles and speakers. In addition to the many well-known titles from familiar speakers included for the special attention of new customers, there are several additional tapes from some old favorites, the most recent recordings from others, and a few entirely new speakers, events, and subjects.

Dolphin Tapes has no complete catalog, just overlapping tape lists. When you place an order, let us know your field of interest or your favorite speakers. We may have more information on some of them. Many tapes are in stereo. Tape length is normally 1 to 1 1/2 hours.

Single-tape titles are $10:

- Abraham/McKenna/Sheldrake: TRIALOGUES: Preview and Sampler, 1989-90
- Abraham/Thompson: Eccentric Sunday Morning: Chaos and Order, 1993
- Gregory Bateson: The Limits of Science, 1978
- David Brower: Breaking the Species Barrier, 1971
- Joseph Campbell at 80: The Hero's Journey (Celebration), 1984
- Barry Commoner: Human Meaning of Environmental Crisis, 1971
- Richard Feynman: Quantum Mechanical View of Reality, 1983
- David Finkelstein: A New Quantum Logic, 1976
- Stanislav Grof: A New Paradigm for Psychotherapy, 1980
- Willis Harman: Origin of the Psychedelic 1960s, 1977
- Arthur Hastings: Transpersonal Realities, 1979
- Gerald Heard: The Power of Wonder, 1954
- John Heider: Living in the Tao, 1987
- Albert Hofmann: LSD and the Nature of Reality, 1978
- Al Huang & David Darling: Dancing Cello, Dancing Tao, 1989
- Aldous Huxley: Human Potentialities (MIT Cambridge), 1961
- Laura Huxley: Recipes for Living and Loving (Guided Imagery), 1963
- Stanley Keleman: Biological Roots of Consciousness, 1970
- Jack Kornfield: The Simplicity of Spiritual Practice, 1982
- Jack Kornfield: On Buddhism: A Personal Story, 1983
- Timothy Leary: American Culture: 1945-1985 (College of Marin), 1977
- Janet Lederman: Early Childhood Experience (Gizebo), 1987
- John C. Lilly: The Dolphin Experience, 1969
- John & Toni Lilly: Integrating Science and Mysticism, 1981
- Abraham Maslow: Self-Actualization, 1966
- Terence McKenna: Surfing on Ennigraph's Wake, 1993
- Terence McKenna: Hot Concepts and Melting Edges, 1994
- Terence McKenna: Laws and Freedom, Habits and Novelty, 1994
- Humphrey Osmond: Early Psychiatric History, 1967
- Joseph Chilton Pearce: Intelligience of the Heart, 1992
- Fritz Perls: Gestalt Therapy and How It Works, 1966
- Carl Rogers: My Philosophy and How It Grew, 1972
- Rogers/Bateson: Dialogue on Thinking, Feeling, Learning, 1975
- Will Schutz: Principles and Philosophy of Encounter, 1970
- Daniel Sheehan: Philosophy of Christic Institute, 1991
- Rupert Sheldrake: Morphic Resonance and Memory, 1985
- Sheldrake/ Pearce: Resonant Fields of Heart and Brain, 1993
- Julian Silverman: A Lighthearted Course in Miracles
- Huston Smith: The Nature of Reality (Boston), 1970
- Richard Tarnas: The Passion of the Western Mind, 1993
- Wilson Van Dusen: The Nature of Humanness, 1969
- Alan Watts: Divine Madness, 1968
- Carl Whitaker: On Becoming a Professional Therapist, 1989

Two-tape titles are $18:

- Walt Anderson & Ted Rozsak: (2) The Upstart Spring (Esalen), 1984
- Gregory Bateson: (2) Balinese Culture and Shamanism, 1976
- Joseph Campbell: (2) Myths of Alienation and Rapture, 1970
- Joseph Campbell & Sam Keen: (2) The Dark Side of the Forest, 1985
- Ram Dass: (2) One Man's Journey to the East, 1969
- I. Finkelstein: (2) Ancient, Medieval, and Classical Physics, 1984
- Bruce Kumin Funatrist: (2) Taoist Philosophy and Practice, 1994
- Buckminster Fuller: (2) The Critical Path (Maui), 1982
- Stanislav Grof: (2) The Birth Trauma, 1981
- Stanislav Grof: (2) The Cosmic Game, 1987
- Jean Houston: (2) The Possible Human (Boston), 1979
- Robinson Jeffers' Poetry: (2) A Dramatic Celebration (Carmel), 1972
- Timothy Leary: (2) The Power of Imprinting, 1982
- Terence McKenna: (2) The Magical Mystery Tour, 1989
- Daniel Sheehan & Sara Nelson: (2) Politics and Natural Law, 1995
- Frederic Spiegelberg: (2) India and the Saints, 1964
- Alan Watts: (2) Eastern Religion and Western Therapy, 1971
- Janet Zuckerman: (2) The Feeling Process, 1987

Four-tape titles are $36:

- Ralph Abraham: (4) The Chaos Revolution, 1994
- Joseph Campbell: (4) Imagery in the Novels of James Joyce, 1968
- James Fadiman: (4) A Weekend of Stories, 1984
- David Finkelstein: (4) Indeterminacy and Undecidability, 1978
- Roland Fischer: (4) Creative, Psychotic, and Ectatic States, 1969
- Buckminster Fuller: (4) Integrity Day (Marin), 1983
- Abraham Maslow: (4) An Informal Weekend in Big Sur, 1966
- Terence McKenna: (4) Conversation at the Edge of Magic, 1994
- Terence McKenna: (4) Eros, Chaos, and Meaning's Edge, 1994
- Terence McKenna: (4) Deeper and Broader Questions, 1994
- David Steindl-Rast: (4) Mysticism as a Frontier Experience, 1985
- David Steindl-Rast: (4) Living in the Now, 1988
- David Steindl-Rast: (4) Enjoying Poetry, 1992
- Andrew Weil: (4) New Insights into Addiction, 1987

The Dolphin Vinyl Album Tape Sets:

- Angeles Arrien & Robert Bly: (6) Love in the Western World, 1984
- Gregory Bateson: (6) Steps to an Ecology of Mind, 1980
- John C. Lilly: (6) Ego, Self, and Essence, 1971
- John C. Lilly: (6) The East Coast Workshop, 1973
- Abraham Maslow: (6) The Eupsychian Ethic, 1969
- Joseph Chilton Pearce: (6) Journey to the Heart, 1990
- Rupert Sheldrake: (6) Resonance and Presence of the Past, 1985
- Andrew Weil: (6) All You Wanted to Know About Drugs, 1993
- Robert Anton Wilson: (6) The "Coincidence" of Joyce, 1985
- Ruthy Alon: (6) Lessons in the Feldenkrais Method (Series I or II)
- Terence McKenna: (8) Collected Talks: Series I (1982-83) or II (1983-86)
- Terence McKenna: (8) The Eslan Scholar-In-Residence Series, 1989
- Julian Silverman: (8) Commentaries On A Course in Miracles, 1980
- Buckminster Fuller: (8) The Pajaro Dunes Tapes, 1977
- Moshe Feldenkrais: (6) Awareness Through Movement Lessons (Series I)
- Terence McKenna: (8) True Hallucinations (A Talking Book), 1984
- Virginia Satir: (10) Conjoint Family Therapy, 1968
- Gregory Bateson: (12) Informal Esalen Lectures, 1975-1980 (Archives)

Please add $3.00 to your complete order for handling and mailing (add $3.00 more if you wish priority mail). Overseas orders add $1.00 per tape for mailing. California residents include 6 1/2% tax. Institutional purchase orders please add 10% to tape cost for invoicing and deferred payment. Allow 4 to 6 weeks for delivery (most orders are mailed within two weeks).

Please mail your order and your check payable to:
DOLPHIN TAPES, P.O. Box 71, Big Sur, CA 93920

Advertisement: Dolphin Tapes is a private company independent of Esalen.
BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION

A

Jeremiah Abrams is a Jungian therapist and writer. His books include The Shadow in America and Meeting the Shadow. As director of the Mt. Vision Institute in Sausalito, Calif., he conducts a certification program in soul-centered psychology and psychospiritual integration. p. 28

Sarah Bakutsa is a professional singer and dancer who trained in her native Kenya before working in Europe and the U.S. She has worked with Babatunde Olatunji and Quincy Jones. p. 18

Carol Adrienne is the coauthor (with James Redfield) of The Celestine Prophecy: An Experiential Guide, and author of The Numerology Kit and Your Child’s Destiny. She has been an intuitive counselor, teacher, and lecturer since 1976. p. 43

Mandy Aftel is a Berkeley psychotherapist who has specialized in working with artists and writers for almost twenty years. She is the author of The Story of Your Life: The Author of Your Experience and Death of a Rolling Stone: The Brian Jones Story. p. 28

Andra Akers is founder and president of the International Synergy Institute, an interdisciplinary think tank for new ideas in art, science, and social change. She is presently writing a book, Conversations with the 21st Century. p. 58

Ronald Alexander is a health psychologist in private practice in Santa Monica, Calif., and a clinical core faculty member at Rykeian College. He is a consultant to the entertainment industry, specializing in creativity and leadership skills. p. 19, 20, 50

Anne Armstrong has been doing transpersonal counseling for more than thirty years and has trained professionals to use their intuitive abilities. p. 13, 47

B

Nancy Bacal is a lyricist, screenwriter, and aikido black-belt. She edited Leonard Cohen’s Stranger Music and Raga, a film starring Ravi Shankar. She leads ongoing writing workshops in Los Angeles and West Marin. p. 46

Oliver Bailey is a practitioner and instructor of Esalen massage. His background includes training in gestalt practice, neurolinguistic programming, intuitive work, and meditation. p. 22, 45

Richard Balaban is a clinical psychologist in private practice in Bloomington, Ind., who delights in leading groups. His focus is on consciousness and the creation of a sense of self and community. p. 15

James Baraz has taught vipassana insight meditation retreats since 1977 and is cofounder of Spirit Rock Meditation Center in Marin County, Calif. A licensed psychologist, he has a counseling practice in Berkeley. p. 21

Ysaye Barnwell has since 1979 performed, composed, and recorded with the internationally renowned a cappella quartet Sweet Honey in the Rock. She also holds a doctorate in speech pathology and a post-doctoral degree in public health. p. 21

Tandy Beal, dancer, choreographer, actress, comedienne, and dreamer, has performed as a solo artist and with her own ensemble in major cities and festivals throughout the world. She was recently appointed director of the New Pibke Circus. p. 56

Brian Bergstrom is a structural bodywork practitioner and yoga instructor with over fifteen years’ experience. He has a private practice in Palm Springs, Calif. p. 53

Judith Blackstone is a counselor, mediator, teacher, author, and dancer. She is the founder of The Subtle Self Work, a method of realizing the natural integration of the body, authentic self, and spiritual consciousness. p. 44

Robert Biaisdel is a master martial artist holding multiple black belts in Aikido, Taekji, and Pa Koa Chang. Founder of the Ching Lien school of Nei Chia Gung Fu, his teaching integrates his studies of consciousness, meditation, and healing. p. 45

Charlie Bloom is a teacher, consultant, and therapist specializing in relationship issues. He has designed and facilitated experiential seminars since 1982, and co-directs The Empowerment Network with his wife Linda. p. 30

Linda Bloom is a psychotherapist, seminar leader, and co-director of The Empowerment Network. She has facilitated relationship workshops throughout the U.S. and in Japan. p. 30

Joan Borysenko is a medical scientist and psychologist. She is the author of Minding the Body, Mending the Mind; Fire in the Soul; and several other books. p. 49

Robin Bumshe is co-manager of the Esalen kitchen and former chef/owner of two successful restaurants. She has over twenty-five years of professional cooking experience. p. 23

C

Don Campbell is a musician, composer, and writer who, for fifteen years, has researched psychoacoustics, the science of how sound and rhythm affect the brain and consciousness. He is founder/director of the Institute for Music, Health, and Education. p. 44

Chris Carmines writes on Western alchemy and practical Qabalah. Her book, The Celluloid Warrior, considers the application and misapplication of magic in film. She is president of Raven’s Wolf Films. p. 22

Seymour Carter, longtime gestalt teacher at Esalen and in Europe, combines studies in family systems theory with Zen Buddhism, sensory awareness, aikido, and other body-oriented practices. p. 13, 18, 39, 62

Billy Cauley is a musician and percussionist committed to opening new horizons through music. Over the past twenty-five years, he has collaborated with such artists as Al Jarreau, Grover Washington, Artillo, and Flora Purim. p. 39

Chamali, a Querchu Indian, has authored twenty-one books and given over 2,000 lectures. He founded the Universal Pacahama Movement in Bolivia, hosting a spiritual community and international conferences. p. 14

D

Dorothy Charles is a gestalt practitioner and long-term Gay GEO staff member who has lived at Esalen since 1982. p. 30

Carl Chase (C.C.) is a bodyworker who specializes in cross-fiber friction and deep tissue methods. He has also studied sports massage and soft-tissue manipulation. p. 20

Randy Chermer conducts a three-year apprenticeship training program for practitioners in the field of somatic education. He is founder of a somatics center in Corte Madera, Calif. p. 13, 47

David Chrislip is a writer and teacher with over twenty years’ experience leading workshops internationally, focusing on leadership and community. He is the coauthor of Collaborative Leadership: How Citizens and Civic Leaders Can Make a Difference. p. 55

Stephen Cohen, gestalt practitioner and longtime golf hacker, is founder and president of The Shivas Irons Society, a nonprofit organization dedicated to enhancing golf’s beauties and virtues. p. 53

Emile Conrad-Daoud is the founder of Continuum. Her innovative approach to movement has enhanced the creativity of artists in many fields and has led to new insights in the healing process. p. 54

Ann Weiser Cornell has taught focusing in eleven countries on nine continents. She is the author of The Power of Focusing: A Practical Guide to Emotional Self-Healing, and a past president of the Association for Humanistic Psychology. p. 53

Judith Cornell, award-winning author of Mandala: Luminous Symbols for Healing, is a pioneer in the synthesis of sacred art with psychology, science, holistic health, and ancient wisdom. She is an international seminar leader in transpersonal psychology. p. 45

Dale Cummings, certified Radix® teacher and marriage and family counselor in West Los Angeles, Santa Cruz, and San Francisco, is director of training for the Radix® Institute. p. 20

Lama Sunya Das is a Buddhist scholar, poet, and translator of Tibetan texts. He is founder of the Dzogchen Foundation of America and author of The Snow Lion’s Turquoise Mane: 150 Wisdom Tales from Tibet. p. 46

Bernie DeKoven, groupware pioneer and author, has designed business games for Sun Microsystems and Apple Computer, computer games for Children’s Television Workshop, and community celebrations for hundreds of thousands of people. p. 14

Russell Delman was one of the first people chosen to lead authorized professional training programs in the In-Tension Method. He has maintained a Zen meditation practice since 1971. p. 17

DOROTHY CHARLES

G X

BEST COPY AVAILABLE
Irene is a writer, director, and playwright, author of the memoir Pride of Family: Four Generations of American Women of Color. She is also a psychotherapist who facilitates access to dreams, myths, and ancestral memories. p. 15

Anne Isaacs, a licensed clinical social worker, has been practicing body-psychotherapy in Los Angeles for eighteen years. She trains professionals in Bodymodynamic, an advanced form of somatic developmental psychology. p. 37

Joel Isaacs has a Ph.D. in physics and is a body-psychotherapist practicing in Los Angeles for nineteen years. He has trained professionals in Reichian approaches, and leads Bodymodynamic trainings with his wife Anne. p. 37

Ovid Jacob is a particle physicist and research associate at the Stanford Linear Accelerator Center. He has written and performed on quantum physics and its relation to alchemical and hallucinatory models. p. 22

Eli Jaxon-Bear was a keynote speaker at the First International Enneagram Conference at Stanford in August, 1994. His most recent book is The Enneagram and Self-Realization. p. 37

Alan Jones trained for the priesthood in England, taught the Christian mystical tradition in New York for twelve years, and in 1982 became dean of Grace Cathedral, San Francisco. He is the author of Soul Making and The Soul's Journey. p. 17

Arthur Samuel Joseph is a teacher and professor of voice with over thirty years' experience. He is the creator of Vocal Awareness, and teacher at Dr. Dean Ornish's Preventive Medicine Research Institute for women and for people with heart disease. p. 33, 62

Mel Lefkowitz has been a research participant and teacher at Dr. Dean Ornish's Preventive Medicine Research Institute for ten years, and has shown reversal of his own heart disease without surgery. He has practiced and taught Integral Yoga for ten years. p. 43, 62

Marc Lefler teaches clinical hypnosis and biofeedback internationally. He studied hypnosis with Milton Erickson and John Grinder, and resides in Santa Cruz, Calif. p. 16

George Leonard is the author of Mastery, The Silent Pulse, and The Transformation. He is a fourth-degree black belt in aikido and founder of Leonard Energy Training (LET). p. 21, 51

Master Share K. Lew, a youthful 78, is a healer and Taoist priest from Wong Lung monastery in Southern China with over half a century's experience teaching Taoist health practices such as Chi Kung. p. 30

Eliza Lodge is an expressive arts therapist with thirty years' experience teaching body/mind practices. She is a professional actress and performing artist. p. 24

Ron Loeb is a corporate lawyer who focuses on corporate governance and responsibility. He is a member of The Jefferson Circle, a learning group for senior corporate executives drawn to the issues of individual and corporate renewal. p. 25

Paul Lounsbury, a founding member of the New York Forum for Psychotherapy Cybernetics, studied hypnosis and psychotherapy with Milton Erickson. He is in private practice in New York and specializes in the innovative use of hypnosis. p. 42

Francis Li is a clinical professor of psychiatry at UCSD and deputy chief for inpatient psychiatry at San Francisco General Hospital. He has conducted seminars at Esalen on film and transpersonal psychology. p. 43

Olga Luchakova is a spiritual teacher with an extensive background in Christian mysticism, Advaita-Vedanta, Raja yoga, Buddhism, and Slavic paganism. She is an adjunct professor at the California Institute of Integral Studies. p. 49, 62

Nancy Kaye Lunny, formerly a vocal coach and accompanist, is the originator of Singing Gestalt, which utilizes lyrics and songs as a means of self-expression. She is director of programming at Esalen. p. 51

Ron Layet is a psychotherapist, group facilitator, and organizational development consultant. His work is based on openness, responsibility, and compassion, as detailed in his recent book, Where Freedom Begins, coauthored with Marion Pastor. p. 21

Kathryn Lydecker, licensed marriage and family therapist, is a senior associate of the Lomi School. She is in private practice in Taos, N.M., and Amarillo, Texas. p. 14

Joyce Lyke is a teacher at the Ridhwan School, which is dedicated to understanding the relationship between personality and being. She has been part of the Esalen Gestalt staff for many years. p. 26

Sandra Maitri is a teacher at the Ridhwan School, home of the Diamond Approach. She has been involved in spiritual and psychological work for the last twenty-five years. p. 26

Helen Jerene Malcolm, artist, consultant, and teacher, works with a visionary consulting team designing long-range vision paintings for individual clients and Fortune 500 corporations. p. 49

Noel Mapstead is a local fine artist and potter. He has studied and exhibited extensively in New York and is now at home with Big Sur clays using traditional firing techniques. p. 31

Bonnie Mark is a psychotherapist specializing in child, adolescent, and family therapy. Author of The Handbook of Infant, Child, and Adolescent Therapy, she consults and supervises at the Reiss-Copyright. p. 34

Dennis Marriott is a graduate of the New England Culinary Institute and co-manager of the Esalen kitchen. p. 23

Daniel Martin, a former priest and educator, is the founder/director of International Communities for the Renewal of the Earth, whose mission is to assist the process of value and structural change in an emerging ecological context. p. 52

Robert Maurer is Director of Behavioral Sciences for the Family Practice Residency Program at Santa Monica Hospital and a faculty member at the UCLA School of Medicine. He works with theatrical companies and writers on the challenges of creativity. p. 16

Kim McCourt is a licensed marriage and family counselor and a senior associate at the Lomi School. Her bodywork practice incorporates craniosacral, intuitive hands-on energy work, orthopedic massage, and shiatsu. p. 35

Barbara McGavin is a clinical social worker, former member of the British Focusing Network and the British Focusing Teachers' Association. p. 53

Jamie McHugh is a Registered Somatic Movement Therapist, AIDS activist, and performance artist. He is assistant professor at John F. Kennedy University and adjunct faculty at Tamalpais Institute. p. 14

Terence McKenna has spent twenty-five years studying ontological foundations of shamanism and the ethnopharmacology of spiritual transformation. He is the author of True Hallucinations, The Archaic Revival, and Food of the Gods. p. 38

Alix McLaughlin has been practicing CranioSacral Therapy since 1986 and now heads the CranioSacral Therapy Centre in Toronto. A senior instructor for the Uplègder Institute, she teaches and lectures internationally. p. 32

Deborah Anne Medow, Esalen workshop leader and bodywork practitioner since 1969, teaches ashtanga yoga, massage, creative movement, gestalt awareness, and related healing disciplines throughout the U.S. and Europe. p. 20, 57

Charles Miedzinski is a co-founder of the Arts and Consciousness graduate program at JFK University. He has taught courses and workshops on masks and transformative and sacred arts at universities for twenty-five years. p. 26

Chuck Miller has been practicing yoga for twenty-one years and is an advanced Ashtanga yoga instructor. His teaching reflects his deep commitment to yoga as a way of life. p. 27

Robert Moss is a dreamworker, shamanic counselor, former professor of ancient history and philosophy, and student of the Western mystery traditions. Australian-born, he first encountered the ways of a dreaming people through his friendship with Aborigines. p. 52

Caroline Muir has been a yoga practitioner for over twenty years. She is a Tantric sex expert who specializes in sexual healing and awakening the goddess energy in women. p. 53

Charles Muir, a professional yoga instructor for twenty-five years, is director of the Source Schools of Tantra Yoga in Hawaii and California. He is co-founder (with his wife) of Tantra: The Arts of Conscious Loving. p. 53

Little Bear Nason is the seventh generation spiritual leader of the Esselen Indian Tribe of Big Sur. His life is an apprenticeship to the Earth. p. 20, 31, 59, 65

Sara Nelson is executive director of the Christic Institute, national labor chair of the National Organization for Women, and director of both Community Access TV Productions and American Documentary Films. p. 45
Maria Nemeth, a clinical psychologist, has been leading seminars for twenty-five years emphasizing successful communication and the development of excellence with ease. p. 20

Paul Newman, director, composer, and writer, synthesizes elements of artistic practice with the principles of therapeutic inquiry in his work in contemporary arts therapy. He is author of The Singing Cure. p. 34

Andrew Nugent-Head is the China Director of the Association for Traditional Studies. He has lived in Beijing since 1987, where he works and studies with the last generation of traditional masters born and educated pre-1949. p. 51

Babatunde Olatunji, master percussionist from Nigeria, has performed and recorded internationally for over thirty-five years and is known for his album Drums of Passion. He is an authority on African religion. p. 28, 29

Sharon Olds teaches writing workshops in the Graduate Creative Writing Program of New York University and at the Squaw Valley Community of Writers. She has published many books of poems, including The Gold Cell and The Father. p. 49

Kathleen O'Shaughnessy has an extensive background in Soto Zen, the major psychotherapies, movement therapy, nutritional healing, shamanic states, bodywork, and the practicalities of transpersonal crisis. p. 17, 36, 62

Frank Ostaseski is founding director of the Zen Hospice Project. He has seventeen years of Buddhist practice and has studied a variety of psychotherapeutic methods. He gives professional trainings on compassionate care of the dying. p. 27

Brita Ostrom has led massage and other workshops at Esalen for twenty-one years. She is trained in gestalt awareness work and participated in Esalen's two-year somatics education program. She is a licensed MFC. p. 22, 30

Eileen Paris, coauthor of I'll Never Do To My Kids What My Parents Did to Me, grew up on Neill, Reich, and Jung. Her focus is giving parents new self-abilities they can hand on to their children. p. 23

Thomas Paris, coauthor of I'll Never Do To My Kids What My Parents Did to Me, is a body psychotherapist whose focus is on pre- and perinatal psychology and body therapy to help parents further the evolution of consciousness. p. 23

Danaan Parry is executive director of the Earthstewards Network and the author of Warriors of the Heart and The Essence Book of Days. He has meditated conflicts around the world, including Pakistan, Northern Ireland, and the former Soviet Union. p. 49

Larry Payne, a pioneer in the field of yoga and yoga care, is president of the national Association of Yoga Therapists, and featured in the video Healthy Back, Healthy Mind. p. 29

Char D. Pias, Esalen Massage Staff member since 1970, is a facilitator and founding member of the Esalen Arts Center. She is a licensed graduate and member of the Center for Spiritual Healing, Tiburon, Calif. p. 34

Ayala Pines is a couples therapist and the author of Romantic Jealousy: The Shadow of Love and Keeping the Spark Alive: Preventing Burnout in Love and Marriage. She coauthored Career Burnout and Experiencing Social Psychology. p. 36, 42

Jeanine Pollak is the founder of Botanic Adventures, a wilderness adventure-travel company. She has eighteen years' experience lecturing, consulting, and formulating herbal products, and teaches at UC Santa Cruz and throughout Northern California. p. 23

Dennis Portnoy is a licensed counselor specializing in burnout prevention and codependency in the workplace. He conducts trainings for organizations, medical groups, and schools, and is the author of Overextended and Undernourished: A Self-Care Guide for People in Helping Roles. p. 40

Christine Stewart Price is a teacher and ongoing student of gestalt practice and other approaches to developing awareness. p. 19, 32, 39

Carol Proudfoot-Edgar leads workshops on integrating shamanic methods and Native American teachings, with a special interest in Bear Medicine. She is a certified shamanic counselor and teacher for Michael Harner's Foundation for Shamans. p. 15

Johanna Putnoin, a somatic educator and communications consultant, teaches the Enneagram to bodyworkers, screenwriters, women inmates, and in corporations throughout the U.S. and Europe. She is a senior associate of the Lomi School. p. 14, 15

Gustavo Rabin is a clinical psychologist who focuses on relationships, life's transitions, and spiritual creativity. He has a private practice in Los Angeles. p. 33

Stephan Rechtschaffen, founder/president of Omega Institute, is a physician concerned with holistic approaches to wellness and longevity. He uses concepts of time as the focus for developing optimal health. p. 47

Layne Redmond is a writer, musician, and leader of the Mob of Angels, a women's ritual drumming group. She performs and records internationally, and researches the visual history of goddesses, priestesses, and women playing the frame drum. p. 40

Christopher Reed has been practicing meditation since 1970, teaching since 1981, and has received Dharmaic transmission as a teacher from Thich Nhat Hanh. He is cofounder and resident teacher at Dharma and Manzanita Village Meditation Centers. p. 15

Patricia Reis has an MFA from UCLA and a degree in depth psychology from Pacifica Graduate Institute. Author of Through the Goddess: A Woman's Way of Healing, she has a private psychotherapy practice for women in Yarmouth, Maine. p. 36

Tracey Rich has earned the title of "Yoga Acharnya" and is the associate director of the White Lotus Foundation in Santa Barbara, Calif. She trains teachers and students and leads seminars nationally. p. 16

David Richo has a doctorate in clinical psychology and is the author of How To Be An Adult. He emphasizes Jungian active imagination techniques to integrate psychological and spiritual work. p. 13

Gabriele Rico, professor of English, creative arts, and humanities at San Jose State University, argues widely on the application of brain research to the creative process. She is the developer of the ground-breaking clustering process. p. 55

Don Richard Riso is president of Enneagram Personality Types, Inc. in New York, and is the most published author in the field. His books include Discovering Your Personality Type and Enneagram Transformations. p. 44

Jane Marla Robbins, a professional actress, teacher, and writer for twenty-five years, has acted in movies, television, and on Broadway. Her plays have been produced in New York, London, Copenhagen, and Spoleto. p. 47

William Roll is an internationally renowned parapsychologist who made his career studying apparitions, hauntings, and poltergeists. p. 51

Ernest Rossi is a hypnotherapist, teacher, and author who has pioneered innovative approaches to mind-body healing and the optimization of human consciousness. p. 41

Gabrielle Roth is an artist, healer, and philosopher. She is the author of Maps to Ecstasy: Teachings of an Urban Shaman and is musical director of The Mirrors. p. 49

Ilana Rubenfeld, thirty-year pioneer in the integration of body-mind-spirit and originator of the Rubenfeld Synergies Method, is a certified teacher of Alexander Technique, Feldenkrais Method, and is also a professional counselor and teacher for over thirty years emphasizing successful communication and the development of excellence with ease. p. 20

Maggie Seeley is an organizational consultant to business (UNICEF, GE) as well as state and local governments (Utah Corrections Department, Santa Fe Arts Commission). She teaches organizational change and ethics at the University of New Mexico. p. 46

Phyllis Shankman is a licensed counselor in Santa Monica and has led groups at Esalen for eighteen years. She is founder and director of The Mountains AIDS Foundation, which offers retreats and groups for people living with HIV/AIDS. p. 25

Paula Shaw, a professional actress and acting teacher for over twenty years, conducted workshops on developing self-expression, well-being, and creativity for non-actors across the United States and Canada. p. 36, 37

Daniel Speakman is president and general counsel of the Christic Institute whose history-making legal cases include Karen Silkwood, the Pentagon Papers, Three Mile Island, Wounded Knee, Greensboro, and Iran/Contra. p. 45
Judith Sherven is a psychologist and relationship specialist who teaches internationally. With husband James Sniechowski she coauthored the forthcoming book, Loving the Differences: The Secret to measure and train brainwaves for high performance and meditative states for the past twenty years. A member of the Academy of Certified Neurotherapists, she leads workshops internationally. p. 17, 50

Terra Wise is a certified yoga instructor, herbalist, and body-mind integration therapist in private practice in Laguna Beach, Calif. p. 55

Linda Piscitelli Wolf is a transpersonal counselor and lead trainer for the Eupychia Institute in Austin, Texas. Co-director of the certification program at the EI Vision Institute in Sausalito, Calif, her work is founded on the premise that the "healer is within." p. 28

Y

Anne Yeomans, a psychotherapist in Concord, Mass, has used psychoanalysis as the central framework for her work for over twenty years. She has worked with women's groups in the U.S., Canada, Russia, and Lithuania. p. 33

T

Philip Zarilli has studied kalarippayattu with Gurukul, Govindan Nayar in Kerala since 1977. Professor at California State University, Los Angeles, he also teaches t'ai chi ch'uan and yoga, and has authored/editd five books. p. 18

Ofer Zur is a psychotherapist, author, and teacher who focuses on effective therapy, the psychology of the caregiver, and integrative ways of healing. He practices in Sonoma, Calif. p. 26

Mira Zussman is associate professor of comparative religion and coordinator of Middle East Studies at San Jose State University. She is currently working on her second book, The Feminine Roots of Kabbalah. p. 22
This form is for your convenience in reserving a space in Esalen workshops. If you wish to make reservations for more than one person, please photocopy this form so that each registrant has his/her own form, unless you are registering as a couple with the same address and phone number. A nonrefundable deposit for each person registering and each workshop applied for must accompany this form. (Please see Reservation Information, page 4, under Fees and Reservations, Making Contact with Us, and Cancellation and Refund Policy.)

Name of Registrant ____________________________ Sex: M ☐ F ☐ Couple ☐

Address ____________________________

City ____________________________ State __________ Zip __________

Home Phone: (___) ____________________________ Work Phone: (___) ____________________________

☐ Check if you have previously been to Esalen and this is a new address.

Occasionally there are unexpected situations that require us to contact you immediately before your stay here. If you will not be at the above numbers during the two weeks prior to the workshop, where may we reach you?

Please mark your first and second choices for housing after referring to page 4 for accommodation descriptions and rates. Total cost includes workshop fees, lodging, and meals.

☐ Check for standard accommodations, if available.

☐ Check for bunk bed room, if available.

☐ Check for sleeping bag space, if available.

☐ Check if you wish to room as a couple.

Write here the name(s) of any person(s) with whom you wish to room.

All workshop reservations require a nonrefundable deposit. Balance is due at time of check-in.
(See page 4.)

Workshop Date ____________________________ Leader’s Name ____________________________ Fee __________

Workshop Deposits Enclosed: ____________

Tax-deductible contribution to Esalen (Optional): ____________

$5 Catalog Contribution (Optional): ____________

Subtotal: ____________

Total Amount Enclosed: ____________

☐ Check here for $10 prepay discount (see page 5).

☐ Check here if this is your first visit to Esalen.

☐ Check here if you need directions to Esalen.

☐ Check here if you are a senior.

FOR OFFICE USE ONLY

DATE REC. RES INITIALS CIRCLE DEPOSIT CC CK CA SUS

DEPOSIT AMT. RES. BK CC AUTH. #

DATE TYPED TYPED INITIALS PP SCHOL LIMO SENIOR

Thank you for your reservation. As soon as it is processed you will receive by return mail a receipt for your deposit and a notice of confirmation. Please review your confirmation for accuracy.
Esalen Institute is a center to encourage work in the humanities and sciences that promotes human values and potentials. Its activities consist of public seminars, residential work-study programs, invitational conferences, research, and semi-autonomous projects.
Esalen Institute is a center to explore work in the humanities and sciences that promotes human values and potentials. The Institute exists to sponsor, encourage, and attempt evaluation of work in these areas, both inside and outside our own organizational framework. Esalen's activities consist of public seminars, residential work-study programs, invitational conferences, research, and semi-autonomous projects.

Since Esalen is a center for experimental education, we ask that persons come to our programs out of an educational interest. We do not offer "cures" or assurances of change. As a center to foster personal and social transformation, Esalen offers those who join us the chance to explore more deeply the world and themselves.

Welcome to Esalen.
Contents

Volume xxxv, Number 3

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Audio Recordings</td>
<td>66</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Biographical Information</td>
<td>67</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Catalog Subscription Information</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Continuing Education</td>
<td>60</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Esalen Notes</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Esalen Seminars</td>
<td>13</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Friends of Esalen</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Future Programs</td>
<td>58</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gazebo School Park Early Childhood Program</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>General Information</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Guide to Workshops</td>
<td>9</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Invitational Conferences</td>
<td>59</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reservation Form</td>
<td>72</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reservation Information</td>
<td>4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Scholarship Information</td>
<td>4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“The Heart Aroused”</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Special Programs</td>
<td>57</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wilderness Programs</td>
<td>65</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Work Study Program and Application</td>
<td>62-64</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Esalen Institute
Highway 1
Big Sur, California 93920-9616

Catalog Requests: 408-644-8476

Esalen Board of Trustees:
Mary Ellen Klee
Bokara Legendre
George Leonard
Michael Murphy
Jeremy Tarcher

President and CEO:
Sharon Thom

Director of Programming:
Nancy Kaye Lunney

Operations Manager:
David Price

Personnel Manager:
Pat Lewine

Esalen Catalog Staff:
Editors:
Margaret Livingston
Peter Friedberg

Administrative Liaison:
Kasia Zajac

Design & Production:
Terry McGrath

The Esalen Catalog is published triannually by the Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920-9616. Printed on recycled paper. ©1996 Esalen Institute. All rights reserved. ISSN 1088-2782

Subscription Information: Subscription cost for one year is $15 for the United States, $17 for Canada and Mexico, $22 for Europe and South America, and $25 for all other countries. Although we're delighted to provide you with this issue of the catalog, if you are not currently a subscriber we would appreciate a $5 contribution to defray postage and production costs.

Cover art adapted from "Nepenthe" woodcut by Tom Killian. ©1996 Tom Killian. P.O. Box 2876, Santa Cruz 95063
GENERAL INFORMATION

Esalen was founded in 1962 as an educational center devoted to the exploration of unrealized human capacities. It became known for its blend of East/West philosophies, its experiential/didactic workshops, the steady influx of philosophers, psychologists, artists, and religious thinkers, and its breathtaking grounds blessed with natural hot springs. Once home to a Native American tribe known as the Esselen, Esalen is situated on 27 acres of spectacular Big Sur coastline with the Santa Lucia Mountains rising sharply behind.

There are various ways to experience Esalen, ranging from an overnight visit to a long-term stay as a seminarian. The weekend and five-day workshops described throughout the catalog are the standard route for coming to Esalen. The "Experiencing Esalen" workshops, scheduled periodically, offer an introduction to practices such as gestalt, massage, sensory awareness, and meditation. From such a sampling, participants can then choose those approaches they are most attracted to and pursue them in subsequent seminars.

Another way of being at Esalen which allows a greater involvement at a lower expense is the Work Study Program, an intensive twenty-eight day work-oriented program for individuals who want to make a directed, personal commitment to self-exploration and growth, and a contribution to the Esalen community. For a full description of the Work Study Program, please turn to page 62.

For those who wish an extended stay, there are periodic long-term programs which involve didactic seminars or professional trainings as well as experiential workshops. Please see Special Programs.

Finally, there are other events that enrich life at Esalen. There are occasional forums in which writers and thinkers, both visiting and resident, share their ideas with the community. On Wednesday nights there may be lectures, films, dance performances, or other events. Bodywork of various kinds is available by appointment with individual practitioners. There is also a community event schedule offered. Please check the bulletin board when you arrive.

Esalen is a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on Coast Route 1. From the south, we are 50 miles north of San Simeon. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Reservation Only.

Catalog Subscriptions
If you would like to receive the Esalen Catalog, please refer to page 2 for subscription rates and send your check or money order (U.S. currency) in the enclosed subscription envelope, or mail it to: Subscriptions, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920 (see Income Tax Regulation 1.162-5).

The Hot Springs at Esalen
We would like those people who are planning their first visit to Esalen to know that swimsuits are optional, and nudity common, in the hot springs, massage area, and swimming pool. We encourage each individual to choose what is most comfortable, either wearing a swimsuit or not, and emphasize that the environment we strive for at Esalen is one of personal sanctuary and respect for the human body.

In addition to around-the-clock availability for Esalen guests, the hot springs are open to the general public by reservation only from 1 AM to 3 AM. There is a $10 fee. To make a reservation, please call 408-667-3047.

Please note: We are planning to begin upgrading our bath facilities in the fall of 1996. During this time, the baths will remain open with limited access. Massages will be available in alternate locations.

Accreditation
Many formal educational institutions recognize the time spent at Esalen as being worthy of credit in their own curricula; check with your university or college for further information. We would be glad to supply information to your school regarding any of our programs or series of programs. Please submit a written request to the office supervisor.

Continuing Education at Esalen
Esalen is a provider of continuing education credits for both nurses and psychologists.

Approved workshops for nurses are noted in the Seminars section and listed in the Continuing Education section. Those workshops for which C.E.U. applications have been filed and approval is pending are noted in the Seminars section only. For current status information, please phone Brita Ostrom at 408-667-3040.

Recommended Reading and Mail Order Merchandise
Most books listed as recommended reading for workshops are available through Esalen's bookstore. All other bookstore items are also available via mail order. For ordering information please call 408-667-3049.

Ongoing Residence Program
Offered beginning mid-September and ending mid-June, the Ongoing Residence Program is designed for those who would like to have time and space in the Esalen environment for an intensive workshop program over a long term. A Residence Program stay is 26 days (four "weeks" and three weekends). Participants may select any of the five-day workshops offered during their stay with weekends free to enjoy room and board. Occasionally workshops are cancelled, so second choices are advised.

The cost is $3435 per 26-day period for standard accommodations and $2710 for bunk bed rooms.
RESERVATION INFORMATION

Making Contact with Us

Mail or Fax: The most efficient way to register for a workshop at Esalen is to fax or mail your reservation. If you fax your reservation, be sure to include accurate credit card information.

Esalen’s Fax: 408-667-2724
(Our fax line is exclusively for reservations—no personal correspondence, please.)

Phone: If you prefer to make your reservation by phone, please be prepared with your completed reservation form, workshop dates and leaders, and your credit card. We know that all calls to Esalen are long-distance and will try to be as efficient as possible.

General Information: 408-667-3000

Express Reservations: 408-664-8477
(This is only for those who have previously taken a workshop at Esalen and know the workshop, date, and leader of the workshop for which they are registering.)

All Other Reservations: 408-667-3005

Catalog Requests: 408-664-8476

Phone Reservation Hours:
Mon., Tues., Thurs.: 10 AM to 7 PM
Wednesday: 10 AM to 12 NOON
Friday: 10 AM to 5 PM
Saturday: 10 AM to 3 PM
Sunday: 12 NOON to 5 PM

*The reservation office is closed on Christmas and New Year’s Day.

World Wide Web: http://www.esalen.org

Fees

Fees and Reservations: Preregistration, by fax, mail, or phone, is required prior to arrival. A registration form is provided on page 72. Since workshops fill quickly, it is advisable to sign up as early as possible. In order to reserve a space in any workshop, we require full payment or the following deposits:

Weekend: $150
5 to 7 days: $300
12 to 14 days: $400

5-9 days: $100
10-12 days: $200
13+ days: $300

Deposits are payable in U.S. currency only. Overseas residents must pay by checks drawn on U.S. banks or use a credit card. Balance of payment is due on arrival. (Please see page 5 for information on discounts and reduced rate options.)

Please indicate your second choice for a workshop in case your first choice is cancelled and we are unable to reach you.

Esalen Institute reserves the right to cancel any program at any time.

Workshop Accommodations

Please Note: Workshop fees cover tuition, food, and lodging.

Standard Accommodations: This is shared housing with two or three persons per room. In some cases, bathrooms are shared. Couples will always be housed together. The rates listed with the workshop descriptions throughout the catalog refer to these shared standard accommodations.

7-Day Rate, per person
5-Day Rate, per person
Weekend Rate, per person
$1220
$975
$425

Bunk Bed Rooms: Bunk beds are available for seminar participants who are willing to share a room with three or more persons. There are a limited number of these spaces, which are reserved on a first-come, first-served basis.

Weekend: $1175
5-Day Rate, per person:
7-Day Rate, per person:
12-14 days:
150
920
5-Day Rate, per person:
Weekend Rate, per person:
400
$300
$160
$600

Sleeping Bags: For sleeping bag information, please see Scholarship Information below.

Bunk Bed (4 or more per room):

Own Accommodations: If you are staying off the property the following rates apply:

$715
$600
$255

Campers are not allowed on the grounds, either in tents or RVs. We do not have parking space to accommodate RVs.

Cancellation Policy

Cancellation and Refund Policy: If you cancel or change any part of your reservation at least five full days before the start of your workshop(s), your nonrefundable deposit, less a $30-per-workshop processing fee, will be transferred to a credit account to be used within one year. If you cancel with less than five days' notice, you forfeit your entire deposit. If you have prepaid your entire reservation fee, we will retain the deposit, as above, less the $30 processing fee, and return the balance to you. (Please note: Wilderness Programs has a different cancellation and refund policy.)

Scholarship Information

Standard and Bunk Bed Accommodations: Esalen is able to provide some scholarship assistance to workshop participants in exchange for a work commitment (usually in the kitchen). Approved scholarship recipients will receive their work schedules upon arrival at Esalen. The following assistance is available for standard and bunk bed accommodations only:

Weekend: $30
5-9 days: $100
10-12 days: $200
13+ days: $300

Work: 4 hours
8 hours
16 hours
24 hours

Room and Board

Occasionally, when beds aren’t needed for seminarians, room and board is available. This gives visitors the opportunity to enjoy the grounds, the baths, and massage without participating in a workshop. Accommodations are standard (2 or 3 per room) or bunk bed (4 or more per room). Not all rooms have private baths. Room and board rates include dinner on the day of arrival and breakfast and lunch on the following day. We require full payment at the time of reservation. This payment is nonrefundable and nontransferable.

Note: Room and Board reservations must be made with a reservation specialist by phone, not by fax machine.

For a room and board stay between Sunday and Thursday, please call us no earlier than the Thursday before for room availability. For a Friday or Saturday night stay, please call no earlier than the Sunday before. The following rates are per person, per day:

Weekend:
(Friday and Saturday nights)
*Off-season rates are in effect from October 1 through March 31, holidays excepted.

Weekday:
(Thursday)

Standard Accommodations (2 or 3 per room):

Bunk Bed (4 or more per room):

*The reservation office is closed on Christmas and New Year's Day.

World Wide Web: http://www.esalen.org
Sleeping Bag Accommodations: Sleeping bag accommodations are a form of scholarship assistance in which Esalen meeting rooms are used as shared sleeping bag space. Sleeping baggers have only limited access to these rooms, as they are frequently in use. The following rates apply:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>7-Day Rate</th>
<th>5-Day Rate</th>
<th>Weekend Rate</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>$570</td>
<td>$375</td>
<td>$200</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

These rates entitle the following work commitment:
- 10 hours per week
- 8 hours per week
- 4 hours per week

To reserve a sleeping bag space, a written application explaining the basis of your scholarship request is required. Sleeping bag space cannot be reserved by phone. The application must be received at least 2 weeks prior to your workshop. Please write “Scholarship” and the dates of the workshop on the outside of the envelope. Sleeping bag spaces are assigned according to financial need.

If additional scholarship assistance is required, please mail a letter of explanation to: Scholarships at Esalen. Due to the number of requests we receive, we can only provide one scholarship per person per year.

---

Reduced Rate Options and Discounts

If you pay in full at the time you make your reservation, you will receive a $10 prepayment discount per workshop and be eligible for express check-in upon arrival. This discount does not apply to scholarship recipients or sleeping bag accommodations.

Senior Citizen Discount: Esalen offers a special discount to individuals over 60 years of age. The discount for a weekend workshop is $25; for a five-day or longer workshop, it’s $50. Please request this discount at the time of registration. When you complete the reservation form on page 72, please indicate the discounts for which you qualify. If you qualify, and you make your reservation by phone, be sure to ask for this discount. (Please note: Senior discounts are not available for the Work Study Program.)

Accommodations for Families: Two full-paying adults housed in standard accommodations may have their children in the room for a meal charge of $19 per child per day ($9 for children under six). Note: If children are Gazebo School Park or an Esalen additional fees are required.

Contact the Gazebo, 408-667-3026, for information regarding their fees.

Workshops for Families: Participating families will pay full workshop rates for the first two participants (adult or child). Each additional participant will pay the following rate:

- 2-day workshop: $115
- 3-day workshop: $165
- 4-day workshop: $210
- 5-day workshop: $245

Additional sleeping mats and bedding will be provided for each room.

The Gazebo School Park Early Childhood Program

The Gazebo School Park is a unique educational experience for children one to six years. It is open year-round and has an average of 15 to 20 children in attendance each day.

The Early Childhood Program is available to seminarians who would like child care at Esalen. Child care is provided during workshop hours only. Daytime activities for the children include gardening, pony rides, learning about animal care, exploring nature, a real boat, the magic castle, and an Indian tepee. Evenings are spent with a teacher in the Gazebo Farmhouse, engaged in activities that are age appropriate, such as reading, learning and playing with the computer, baking, arts and crafts, or building-block play.

Reservations should be made at least a month in advance. Call the Gazebo Farmhouse, 408-667-3026, for more information and reservations.

Internship Program: This is a three-month program for those who wish to have intense exposure to life at the Gazebo School Park and its unique educational resources. The Internship Program offers experience with children, the Gazebo environment, and its teaching philosophy. Applicants must have completed at least three work scholar months at Esalen before being considered for this program.

Call the Gazebo Farmhouse, 408-667-3026, for more information or reservations.

- First month: $400
- Second month: $350
- Third month: $300

Seminarians as Volunteers

Seminarians in residence at Esalen are invited to contribute one or two hours per week to work with the staff, usually in the kitchen. Your help enables us to meet the pressures of peak working times and enables you to experience Esalen from the inside out.

---

Transportation to Esalen

Van Service: On Fridays and Sundays we have van service from the Monterey Greyhound stop leaving at approximately 3:45 p.m. and from the Monterey Airport at approximately 4 p.m. If you plan to use this service, please inform the Esalen office at least 24 hours prior to your arrival. The $30 one-way fee (subject to change) is payable to the Esalen office when you check in. Return reservations may be made at that time. The only departing van service from Esalen is on Fridays and Sundays at approximately 5:30 p.m.

---

Checking In

Check-in and Meals: Rooms become available at 4 p.m.; however, guests are welcome to arrive anytime after 2 p.m. Weekend programs begin with dinner on Friday and end with brunch on Sunday. Five-day and longer programs begin with dinner on Friday or Sunday and end with lunch on Friday or Sunday. Check-out time is noon on departure day.

---

F. Y. I.

Health Services: There are no medical services or pharmaceutical supplies available at Esalen. If you will require medical attention or supplies during your stay, please come prepared to administer to your own needs. Esalen is 45 miles from the nearest medical facility or pharmacy.

For Your Safety: Please bring a flashlight for use at night while walking on the grounds.

Illegal Drugs: In accordance with state and federal laws, the possession or use of illegal drugs on Esalen grounds is strictly prohibited.

Lost and Found: To inquire about items left behind from your Esalen visit, call 408-667-3019.

Guests: Seminarians are not allowed guests on the property during their stay.

Pets: No pets are allowed on the property.

Smoking: Smoking is not permitted in any of our accommodations or meeting rooms.
The Heart Aroused

POETRY AND THE PRESERVATION OF THE SOUL IN CORPORATE AMERICA

David Whyte

Editor's Note: In The Heart Aroused, poet David Whyte maintains that the best way to respond to the current call for creativity in organizational life is to overcome our habitual fear and reticence and bring our full passionate, creative human souls right inside the office with us. In telling the story of Beowulf, he shows us how to face the unconscious nightmares that intrude into even the most organized workplace, nightmares we face in the demands, conversations, and relationships that make up our work life. What follows is an excerpt from the Beowulf chapter.

No man or woman, standing at the edge of their own inner pool of darkness, is exempt from the wish to pass by this stage, to find a safe, dry land bridge and walk across. We intuit in those waters the potentialities and dreams of a lifetime, but, finding them hidden by the strangely irrational depth of our fear, we are not sure they are worth the grief.

The early English teller of Beowulf asked his listeners to drop beneath the surface of their daily existence, where the rational mind continually prays for dry feet. Since that time the physical details of life may have changed. The elemental motifs have not. We could describe Beowulf himself as a sixth-century consultant. He was a prince and warrior who did not make his home in any one kingdom, but, going his services to foreign kings for the same mixture of personal honor, self-education, prestige, and personal gain that motivates his modern consultative counterpart.

Hearing that Hrothgar, King of Denmark, was suffering the predations of Grendel, a diabolical swamp creature, Beowulf presented himself in Hrothgar's hall as the answer to his problems. Apparently, at night, after the feasting and gift-giving was done, a large green creature smeared with mud would emerge from the lake, enter the hall, fight off Hrothgar's best warriors, see, glowing on the wall, an unknown but marvelous sword, and retreat with its human victim. Beowulf was welcomed by Hrothgar, and that night lies in his closest friend and confidant of Hrothgar. The king is grief-stricken. Visibly moved, Beowulf decides he must go down into the swamp of Herot, fights with his men inside Herot, Hrothgar's great hall. Sure enough, in the ensuing fight, Beowulf mortally wounds Grendel who then stagers back to die in the mere.

The problem, it seems, has been solved in one swift movement. But that night, as Beowulf sleeps with his men in a different hall, something else comes from the swamp of Herot, fights off the best warriors, and retreats with its human victim. Grendel's mother. The message in this portion of the poem is unsparring. It is not the things you fear that you must deal with, it is the mother of the things you fear. The very thing that has given birth to the nightmare.

The man who had been taken by Grendel's mother was the closest friend and confidant of Hrothgar. The king is grief-stricken. Visibly moved, Beowulf decides he must go down into the lake where Grendel's mother lives to confront her directly.

Clad in his web of rings, Beowulf leaps into the water and sinks to the very bottom of the lake, where Grendel's mother waits for him. Beowulf finds that the great sword Grunting, given to him by the Danes to help him in his pitch-black travail, is useless against this she-monster, as is another gift from above, the Danish king's helmet. He is forced to throw them away and wrestle barehanded with Grendel's mother. Locked together in a death-like embrace, they tumble into her den, where Beowulf waits for him. Beowulf finds that the great sword Grunting, given to him by the Danes to help him in his pitch-black travail, is useless against this she-monster, as is another gift from above, the Danish king's helmet. He is forced to throw them away and wrestle barehanded with Grendel's mother. Locked together in a death-like embrace, they tumble into her den, where Beowulf waits for him. Beowulf finds that the great sword Grunting, given to him by the Danes to help him in his pitch-black travail, is useless against this she-monster, as is another gift from above, the Danish king's helmet. He is forced to throw them away and wrestle barehanded with Grendel's mother. Locked together in a death-like embrace, they tumble into her den, where Beowulf waits for him. Beowulf finds that the great sword Grunting, given to him by the Danes to help him in his pitch-black travail, is useless against this she-monster, as is another gift from above, the Danish king's helmet. He is forced to throw them away and wrestle barehanded with Grendel's mother. Locked together in a death-like embrace, they tumble into her den, where Beowulf waits for him.

The internal willingness to wrestle with our inner demons does not necessarily mean that anyone else in the office is brought into the drama. The real achievement is found when we acknowledge that these unresolved forces, our demons, affect our lives and those who work with us tremendously, simply because everything we do is determined by the fears and hopes we bring to a situation. Recognizing the presence of these forces in our own outlook, we can stop them from playing out unconsciously with our colleagues in the workplace. Nevertheless, a form of healing seems to take place when we find a truly sympathetic ear for our more difficult struggles.

A close friend of mine, a senior manager for a large London publishing company and the epitome of steadiness and understatement, suddenly, around thirty-five, found himself plunged into a complete abyss over the path his life had taken. He looked around one day and wondered how he could carefully construct, over so many years, a daily life he could barely endure.
In a catastrophically short time he came to the edge of a nervous breakdown. The state of his soul became imperative to him, but his very professionalism at work prevented him from giving himself the time to wrestle with the long-buried compulsions and neglected longings that to his distress were now rising to the surface of his consciousness. In an act of courage, he asked for an open-ended leave from the company to deal with his emotional life. In an equal act of courage, the company gave it to him. He was told to take the time he needed.

The next few months of the fall were spent with family and friends, taking a hard look at the way his life was constellated. Everything was up for appraisal, including the place of his work. Toward the end of his two-month sabbatical from work, I made a sudden decision to fly to Britain and join him. We took off for the West borderlands, exploring the mist-wreathed hills of that frosty December, fetching up in small pubs and inns, continually picking up the conversation around old threads of his life and possible new directions.

We reached the bottom of Grendel's lake in the small Shropshire town of Church Stretton, sheltering from the freezing damp in a small café. After three days of being the eternally supportive friend, I took a deep breath and said something about him I knew he wouldn't like. Almost immediately our conversation turned adversarial. I briefly remember making some wild statement, almost like an accusation, an appraisal of one portion of his life about which only a close friend could have the arrogance or foolishness to make. Fixing him with my best steely glare, I told him something about the way he was, and that he shouldn't be the way he was, that I was disappointed in him, and that he had better change or he would never surface again.

Looking back it wasn't even important whether I was right or not, only that I felt his will re-engage half in outrage and half in recognition of what I had said. He first went white and silent, or not, only that I felt his will re-engage half in outrage and half in recognition of what I had said. He first went white and silent, then a narrow image of what it means to be professional can continually prohibit us from taking any first step as we vainly attempt to exclude human darkness and inner struggle from work life. What would it be like to take a professional approach to the longings of our soul for fulfillment in the world?

Whatever seemingly small possibilities we have for including our struggles in our work life, there seems little choice but to look for them. Whether we work with supportive or unsupportive colleagues, we will always be hunted by what we have most denied in ourselves. Waking or sleeping, it takes many different forms, but most often the shape of a devouring creature trying to include us, literally, in the greater body of its experience.

Ironically, our place of refuge is the lake where the greater devouring animal of our disowned desire lies in the shape of Beowulf's mother. The refusal to go down into the lake is the refusal to be eaten by life. The delusion is that there might be a possibility of immunity from the natural failures that accompany the soul's explorations in the world. But the story says you are going to be swallowed by something greater one way or another. The question is whether you will give yourself to that greater life consciously.

The German poet Rilke said:

> Winning does not tempt that man.
> This is how he grows: by being defeated, decisively by constantly greater things.

The only real question is not one of winning or losing, but of experiencing life with an ever-increasing depth. The storyteller says, why not go down, at home or at work, into the lake, consciously, like Beowulf. Don't die on the shore. The stakes are very high; the stakes are your life.

The point is that we eventually come to the realization that it is injurious to the soul to remove portions of our life from exploration, as if, at work, certain parts of experience suddenly lie out of bounds. We simply spend too much time and have too much psychic and emotional energy invested in the workplace for us to declare it a spiritual desert bereft of life-giving water.

Whatever strategy we employ, or whoever we choose to speak with, we are eventually compelled to bring our work life into the realm of spiritual examination. Life does not seem to be impressed by our arguments that we can ignore our deeper desires simply because we happen to be earning a living at the time.

If the first steps along the creative path almost always involve awaking in Dante's dark wood, or descending down to meet Grendel's mother, then a narrow image of what it means to be professional can continually prohibit us from taking any first step as we vainly attempt to exclude human darkness and inner struggle from work life. What would it be like to take a professional approach to the longings of our soul for fulfillment in the world?
Esalen Profile:
Nancy Kaye Lunney,
Director of Programming

To the 10,000 or so seminarians who journey to Esalen each year, Nancy Kaye Lunney is Esalen. For the past 15 years she has been Esalen's director of programming, responsible for selecting the workshops and leaders that comprise the lion's share of Esalen's work.

Originally trained as a musician, Nancy first came to Esalen in 1972 for a workshop in gestalt practice with Dick Price, an event she describes as "life-changing." She went on to study gestalt, receive her MFCC, and return to Esalen to work with people using an innovative synthesis of music and gestalt she developed called "Singing Gestalt." (If you would like to experience Nancy's workshop, "Singing Gestalt" can be found in the Seminars section of this catalog). Before becoming director of programming, she worked as editor of the Esalen Catalog and was producer of the first Esalen Revue, which is now a yearly theatrical event offering some of the best talent south of the Monterey peninsula.

Nancy believes in the transformational power of the arts, a belief reflected in Esalen's extensive workshop offerings in music, dance, theater, and the visual arts. As director of programming she strives for balance, innovation, depth, and diversity, seeking teachers who practice what they teach. "Esalen is constantly evolving," says Nancy. Her efforts continue to support its creative future.

The Esalen Catalog via Internet

We are pleased to announce that the Esalen Catalog is available on-line. In addition to updated workshop availability and information on ways of being at Esalen, the new World Wide Web site also includes announcements of upcoming special events as well as history and feature stories from Esalen. To access the site, set your web browser to:

http://www.esalen.org

For more information or comments on the Esalen site, send e-mail to:
ghs@esalen.org

Scheduling Private Conferences at Esalen

It is possible to arrange for your group or organization to hold its conferences at Esalen. We can accommodate large groups (up to 100) on a space-available basis.

Smaller groups may schedule private conferences in our renovated Big House. This facility is available for individuals who work together and would like to design their own Esalen program, drawing on our leaders and other resources. Ten bedrooms, nine bathrooms, a kitchen, dining room, and meeting room make it possible to house group members together, thereby enhancing the retreat environment.

We schedule all conferences a year in advance. To schedule or discuss possible formats, please contact conference coordinator Kasia Zajac at 408-667-3038.

\[8\]

\[743\]
This is a guide to the workshops offered in this catalog. Although many of them could be cross-referenced—and some resist easy categorization—most are listed only in their main subject area. We recommend that you read the workshop description before deciding to register. If you have never been to Esalen or taken an Esalen workshop, you might want to consider the "Experiencing Esalen" workshop scheduled throughout the catalog and listed in the Integral Practices section of this directory. Please call the Esalen office if you have questions concerning a workshop.

The Arts / Creativity

- September 1-6 • The Writer's Way: Freeing the Authentic Voice
- September 6-8 • The Art of the Actor for Everyday Life
- September 8-13 • The Soul's Theatre: The Practice of Improvisation
- September 13-15 • Poetry Workshop: Writing New Poems
- September 15-20 • The Naked Soul: A Ritual Theatre Lab
- September 20-22 • The 21 Praises of Tara: A Sacred Dance Practice
- September 27-29 • Imagined, Presence, and Joy: A Performing Arts Workshop
- October 4-6 • TA KE TI NA: The Forgotten Power of Rhythm
- October 13-18 • Esalen Arts Festival
- October 20-25 • Writing the Natural Way
- November 1-3 • Horror and Spiritual Transformation: A Study in Film and Life
- November 3-8 • Comedy, Joy: The Practice of Connectivity
- November 10-15 • Carving Wood: Expressing the Invisible
- November 24-29 • Expressive Painting
- December 1-6 • Big Sur Ceramic Alchemy
- December 6-8 • A Workshop for Poets
- December 8-13 • The MAX: Stretching the Limits of Your Self-Expression
- December 8-13 • Icons: Faces of Darkness and Illumination
- December 20-22 • Big Sur Bead Making
- December 20-22 • The Psychology of Storytelling
- December 22-27 • Improvisational Being
- December 22-27 • Painting the Soulscape
- December 29-January 3 • Feeling and Creativity: Reinvigorating Ventures in Life
- January 3-5 • Music for Everyone: Finding Your Long-Lost Musician
- January 3-5 • Fire in the Earth: Poetry, Silence, and the Heart's Desire
- January 5-10 • Vision Painting
- January 5-10 • Tao Mentoring in Music and Tai Ji Dance
- January 12-17 • Creative Arts Center at Esalen
- January 12-17 • Body Poetry East and West
- January 26-31 • Hypnosis and Creativity
- January 31-February 2 • Writing Children's Books
- February 2-7 • The Painting Experience
- February 2-7 • Proprioceptive Writing: Demystifying the Creative Process
- February 7-14 • The Painting Experience
- February 7-9 • Singing Gestalt
- February 16-21 • Writing Through Loss

Bioknowledge / Hypnosis / Intuitive Development

- September 8-13 • Intuition and the Dance of Attention
- September 20-22 • The Awakened Mind: Brainwave Training
- November 10-15 • Facilitating Deep Process Using the Penniston Protocol Alpha/Theta Brainwave Training Technique
- November 24-29 • The High-Performance Mind: Awakened Mind Brainwave Training
- January 26-31 • Hypnosis and Creativity

Business / Workplace / Social Responsibility

- September 1-6 • Managing with Heart
- September 13-15 • Essential Peacemaking: Women and Men
- September 20-22 • The Art of Leadership
- October 4-6 • Dialogue
- October 20-25 • Facing Each Other, Facing Ourselves
- January 24-26 • When Success is Not Enough

Children / Families / Home & Hearth

- December 8-13 • Cooking as Spiritual Practice: Finding Your Way in the Kitchen
- December 27-29 • Baking Bread at the Big House
- February 21-23 • The Path of Parenting: A Spiritual Approach
- February 21-23 • The Secrets of Good Bread

Contemplative / Spiritual & Religious Studies

- September 1-6 • Dzogchen—Awakening the Buddha Within
- September 6-8 • Light Upon Light: Rumi Today
- September 8-13 • Spiritual Journeys, Sacred Lives
- September 13-15 • The Meditation Hall and Everyday Life
- October 6-11 • A Course in Miracles
- October 11-13 • A Weekend with Marianne Williamson
- November 1-3 • The Enneagram of the Passions: An Oral Tradition Class
- November 3-8 • Working with the Enneagram Types: The Heart Center
- November 8-10 • Buddhism, Therapy, and the Therapist
- November 22-24 • Finding the Sacred in Our Everyday World
- December 8-13 • Icons: Faces of Darkness and Illusion
- December 13-15 • Toward Waking Up: Cultivating Mindfulness
- December 29-January 3 • Inner Marriage: The Union of Absolute and Relative
- January 10-12 • Prayer of the Heart
- January 24-26 • The Flame: An Introduction to the Diamond Approach
January 31—February 2 • Introduction to Mindfulness Meditation
February 2-7 • Inquiry: The Path and Practice of the Diamond Approach
February 9-14 • Dzogchen—Awakening the Buddha Within

DREAMS
September 29-October 4 • Conscious Dreaming: The Path of the Shaman in Everyday Life
November 24-29 • Entering the Dreamtime: Walking Between Two Worlds
December 13-15 • Exploring the World of Lucid Dreaming

HEALTH / HEALING
September 1-6 • Spiritual Healing: Laying-on-of-Hands
September 22-27 • Healing Without Medicines: Qigong and the Medical Knowledge of Yin-Style Bagua
October 27-November 1 • Starting to Heal Yourself
December 20-22 • Stress Reduction: An East/West Approach
December 22-27 • Spiritual Healing: Laying-on-of-Hands
December 29-January 3 • SIKE: Healing and Health through Ki Energy
January 3-5 • Taking Better Care of Yourself: An Eclectic Physician’s Guide to a Healthy New Year
January 12-17 • Chakra Integration: A Complete Approach to Health and Healing
January 26-31 • Qigong and Psychoneuroimmunology: An East/West Healing System
January 31-February 2 • Secrets Kept From the Mind But Not From the Body

INTEGRAL PRACTICES
September 1-6 • Life Energy Process®
September 20-22 • Experiencing Esalen
September 22-27 • Turning on the Light: A Choice to Live Consciously
September 27-29 • The Tao of Practice
October 25-27 • Experiencing Esalen
November 8-10 • The Vision and Practice of Human Transformation
November 17-22 • Thanksgiving into Healing
November 22-24 • Experiencing Esalen
December 6-8 • The Elements of Transformation
December 8-13 • Purpose and Passion: Returning to Your Soul’s Memory of Wholeness
December 20-22 • The Healing Power of Humor, Compassion, and Gentle Touch
December 22-27 • Healing the Emotional/Spiritual Body: The Rubenfeld Synergy® Method
December 27-29 • Experiencing Esalen
January 5-10 • The Wildness Within
January 17-19 • Experiencing Esalen
January 19-24 • Life Energy Process®
February 7-9 • Experiencing Esalen
February 21-23 • The Life We Are Given

MARTIAL ARTS / YOGA / SPORT
September 6-8 • Sabetti Sphurana Yoga: The Yoga of Inner Vibration
October 6-11 • Golf in the Kingdom
October 20-25 • Celestial Bodies: Archetypal Astrology and Transformative Yoga
PSYCHOLOGICAL / TRANSPERSONAL PROCESS

September 6-8 • Time Shifting: Creating Time for Your Life
September 8-13 • The Practical Art of Creative Risk-Taking
September 15-20 • Gestalt Practice
September 20-22 • Beyond Gender Language: The Union of The Sun and The Moon
September 22-27 • Letting Go—Moving On October 4-6 • Self-Empowerment and Purification: The Farther Reaches of Gestalt
October 6-11 • Treasure Maps to the Soul
October 18-20 • Emotional Resilience
October 20-25 • Opening to Ourselves and Others
October 25-27 • Forgiveness: The Key to Intimacy
October 25-27 • Pandora’s Gifts: On Secrets, Health, and Healing
October 27-November 1 • Playing the Edge

November 3-8 • I—You—Us: Pleasure, Intimacy, and the Search for Connectedness
November 10-15 • Courage
November 17-22 • Hakomi and Internal Family Systems: A New Synthesis November 17-22 • How to Want What You Have November 24-December 1 • Healing from Trauma
November 29-December 1 • The Sources of Growth
December 1-6 • Change, Challenges, and Self-Esteem
December 8-13 • Healing Our Hearts
December 13-15 • Introduction to Gestalt Practice
December 20-22 • A New Beginning: Courage and Heart
December 22-27 • Selves Transformation: The Voice Dialogue Process
December 27-29 • ‘Tis a Gift to Be Simple
December 27-29 • Beauty and the Beast: The Secrets of Love and Death
December 29-January 3 • The Practical Art of Creative Risk-Taking
December 29-January 3 • Feeling and Creativity: Reinvigorating (Ad)ventures in Life

January 3-5 • Reinventing Love
January 10-12 • The Body: Doorway to Self-Discover—The Gestalt Practice Approach
January 10-12 • Emotional Literacy
January 12-17 • Gestalt Practice
January 12-17 • Completions and Transitions
January 17-19 • The Practice of Love
January 19-24 • Journey From Betrayal To Trust: A Universal Rite of Passage
January 19-24 • Creating Exact Moments of Healing
January 26-31 • Playing the Edge
January 31-February 2 • Winning the Battle Between Faith and Hopelessness

February 2-7 • The Power of Growth
February 23-28 • El Lenguaje de la Libertad (The Language of Freedom)

RELATIONSHIP / COMMUNICATION

September 13-15 • Essential Peacemaking: Women and Men
October 6-11 • Tantra: The Art of Conscious Loving
November 3-8 • I—You—Us: Pleasure, Intimacy, and the Search for Connectedness
November 15-17 • Mindfulness and the Pursuit of Intimacy
November 17-22 • Relationship: The Courage to Begin
November 22-24 • In Tenderness and in Fire: A Couples Workshop
December 6-8 • Conscious Loving: A Body-Centered Approach to Relationship Transformation
December 13-15 • Powerfully Presenting Yourself
January 17-19 • Intimate Connections
January 24-26 • Interdependence and Intimacy: A Workshop for Couples
February 14-16 • Communication and Partnership
February 23-28 • Dialogue: A Way of Life, A Path to Wholeness

SOMATICS

September 8-13 • The Upledger Institute's SomatoEmotional Release I
September 13-15 • Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach
September 29-October 4 • The Heart of Sports Massage
October 20-25 • Continuum
October 25-27 • Reflexology—Foot Compression Massage
October 27-November 3 • Cortical Reeducation® and the Feldenkrais Method®
October 27-November 1 • Five-Day Massage Intensive
November 8-December 6 • 28-Day Massage Practitioner Certification Program
November 10-15 • Rolling®, Yoga, and Your Body
November 15-17 • Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach

November 15-17 • Sensory Awareness
December 1-6 • The Incredible Lightness of Being: A Transformational Movement Workshop
December 6-8 • Weekend Massage Intensive
December 27-29 • Weekend Massage Intensive
January 5-10 • Five-Day Massage Intensive
January 17-19 • Hanna Somatics: Mastery of Muscles and Emotions
January 19-24 • Fit to Lead: Shape-Shifting into the 21st Century
January 26-31 • Art of Trigger Point Massage
January 31-February 2 • Reinhabiting Your Body: An Experience in Authentic Movement
February 2-7 • The Upledger Institute's CranioSacral I
February 14-16 • Couples Massage Weekend
February 16-21 • Five-Day Massage Intensive
February 23-28 • You Don't Have to Be Good

WILDERNESS / ECOPSYCHOLOGY

September 6-8 • Big Sur Wilderness Experience
October 20-25 • Apprenticeship to the Earth: A Return to Sacred Ground
November 15-17 • All Our Relations: Shamanism and Ecopsychology
January 5-10 • The Wildness Within

WOMEN'S / MEN'S STUDIES

October 4-6 • Joy, Inspiration, and Hope: A Retreat for Gay Men
January 24-26 • Why Men Are the Way They Are
Price Changes: Please note that beginning November 1996 there will be a rate increase. This is the first increase in over three years. Prices on page 4 reflect the increased rates and do not apply for the months of September and October.

As a non-profit, we remain committed to using our resources efficiently and keeping our expenses at a minimum. Our objective is to keep Esalen as financially accessible as possible. We appreciate your support.

Week of September 1–6

Dzogchen—Awakening the Buddha Within: A Silent Meditation and Self-Inquiry Retreat

Lama Surya Das

Buddhism teaches awareness techniques for awakening to inner freedom. Dzogchen introduces the inherent freedom, purity, and perfection of innate Buddha-Mind. Dzogchen—Tibetan for "the Natural Great Perfection"—is considered the summit of all Buddhist teachings: swift, easy, joyful, and direct.

This retreat will introduce the quintessential Vajrayana path, practiced according to the non-denominational way of the Practice Lineage of Buddhism, relying on authentic Tibetan texts, meditation manuals, oral tradition, and personal experience. Much of the day will be devoted to sitting practice, interspersed with both guided and walking meditations, chanting, self-inquiry, question-and-answer periods, and breath/energy relaxation exercises. Constant themes of this non-dual awareness practice will include appreciating the true joy of meditation, the incredible lightness of being, and opening to effortlessness.

This retreat, conducted in silence, offers a unique opportunity for experienced mediation practitioners as well as beginners to better know themselves through the timeless wisdom of this ancient Tibetan teaching.

Spiritual Healing: Laying-on-of-Hands

Maria Lucia Sauer Holloman

This workshop will present practical methods for using the hands as instruments of physical and spiritual healing. This practice incorporates both hands-on and energetic work, using the power of natural forces for healing. The emphasis will be on using intentionality and personal clarity as the fundamental tools of any healing art. "Intentionality moves energy," says Maria Lucia, "and it is through this focus that you can learn to take responsibility for your own thoughts and actions."

Born into a family of healers with a generations-old tradition, Maria Lucia studied with healers in her native Brazil, where spiritism—receiving healing knowledge from the spirit world—is a practice familiar to much of the population. Having also lived and studied at Esalen for nine years, she applies both Brazilian and North American approaches to healing.

Participants will be shown how to practice and refine this approach, as well as experience the personal benefits that come from receiving this work. The workshop is designed for bodyworkers, therapists, health professionals, and anyone interested in working with energy and people's bodies.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

The Writer's Way: Freeing the Authentic Voice

Nancy Bacal

Imagine five days of writing where you substitute kindness for self-criticism, liberate the writer's voice, and put it to use! Writing personal story is an invitation to claim everything you know and are as material. The task is simple. You place a breath of air between
. yourself and the event/the feelings/the madness/the grace, wide enough for a trail of ink to transform it into story. As the details emerge, they can release you from self-judgment, bringing vitality back to your writing, into your life. When you claim your experience for the page you cease to be a victim of circumstance; in that moment, you substitute curiosity for expectation and are free.

Whether you are a nonwriter, occasional writer, or professional, the goal is the same: to challenge old habits and attitudes, to coax the mind out of its cycle of expectation and disappointment into a useful relationship with your work. The schedule will include laughter, tears, moments of resistance, and awesome discovery. With the assistance of movement and meditation, you'll write, in and out of the group, and read and discuss pertinent material.

Recommended reading: Needleman, Work of Craft; Chodron, The Wisdom of No Escape. $740

Life Energy Process®
Stephano Sabetti
The Life Energy Process (LEP) is a spirituality-oriented approach to self-development and professional growth based on Eastern and Western energy dynamics. Specially designed subtle and intensive movements (microments) can increase energy flow and lead to the discharge of nonessential processes in the body (repressed emotions, chemical toxins, etc.). Each of us has an energy frequency that can be felt when attuned through LEP. This unique vibration helps to center and ground, as well as to find clearer direction and meaning in daily life. Each participant will have a chance to feel her/his unique energy process and explore it through process inquiry.

Life Energy Process includes: dance, theater, massage, pool work, and various other forms. The workshop is of particular interest to professionals and laypersons who are excited by the integration of theory, pleasure, and hands-on application of energy concepts. $740

Managing With Heart: Changing the Leadership Paradigm
Maggie Seeley & Paul Temple
"Managing With Heart" is about bringing the wisdom of the heart into the business world. It is about rediscovering your passion. It is a "revision" of your life and your work. Our inherited business paradigm is hard, heartless, competitive. Its sole objective is to make money and/or sustain bureaucracy. To be successful, one must fight to survive, protect one’s turf, and hide one’s feelings.

The essence of the new leadership is building an intentional culture of mutual trust where people can bring forth their creativity and sensitivity. Tapping into one’s essential self, integrating the heart, the head, and the body, can stimulate a new level of personal excitement and organizational motivation.

This seminar emphasizes personal change while providing in-depth training in organizational dynamics and paradigm shifting. It offers coaching, experiential learning, and concrete material in such areas as: leadership practices, outdoor teamwork, organizational culture, acknowledgment of ancestors, and conflict, change, and wounding. Movement, music, meditation, massage, art, time in nature, and intuitive practices will be interwoven throughout. Participants will spend a day writing a Personal Vision Statement, with specific steps to bring the learning back to work and home. "Managing With Heart" can be transformational, inspiring, and joyous.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

Weekend of September 6-8
Big Sur Wilderness Experience
Steven Harper
Located on a narrow stretch of land between the Pacific Ocean and the coastal ridge of the Santa Lucia Mountains, Esalen is the trailhead to one of the world’s most spectacular wilderness areas. Using this natural reserve as the primary teacher, participants will walk into the Los Padres National Forest. Drawing on various traditions, this wilderness experience will help participants develop the quality of their awareness and open to the natural world.

Weeklong workshops will venture out on five hikes (4-10 miles long). Weekend workshops will take two hikes (3-6 miles long). Using Esalen as a base camp, the group will explore the different trails through the natural beauty of the Big Sur backcountry. Days will begin and end at Esalen with short stretching and sharing sessions. Each hike will begin after breakfast and conclude in time to enjoy the hot springs and dinner each evening at Esalen. Basic outdoor skills such as map reading and minimum impact concepts will be practiced. Participants will be taught enough skills to begin exploring the wilderness on their own after these outings. More information will be sent upon registration. $380

Light Upon Light: Rumi Today
Andrew Harvey
In this workshop, the Divine Fire is lit by Rumi, one of the world’s greatest poets and religious teachers of all times. Rumi’s work is a treasure of great value to seekers of every tradition and to everyone able to appreciate the timeless truth and beauty of his message. In this workshop, we’ll share insights into Rumi’s teaching and poetry, and try to put his words in action. $380

Self-Transformation: The Art of the Actor for Everyday Life
Jane Marla Robbins
Transforming feelings of anxiety and insecurity into feelings of self-confidence and joy is a miracle that can happen in all areas of one’s life—physical, emotional, spiritual. This transformation can help us fulfill our potential for the roles we have chosen to play—child, parent, artist, public speaker, shaman, sensualist, or spouse.

The workshop will explore and discuss a wealth of acting techniques, including: physical, mental, emotional, vocal, and spiritual preparations, relaxation, sense memory, the magic "as if," animal exercises, overcoming self-consciousness, speaking the truth, perfect props, and psychophysical action.

Participants can learn how to replace old fears and paranoid projections with self-generated pleasures and positive projections. Many "real-life" situations ordinarly fraught with worry can easily be transformed using the Actor’s Imagination. The power and pleasure of being able to create a sense of well-being can be experienced by everyone, and, once discovered, it cannot be easily shaken.

No previous acting experience is necessary. $380

Time Shifting: Creating Time for Your Life
Stephan Rechtschaffen
Time is a mysterious flow of which we are a natural part. Yet in our fast-paced, overscheduled lives, we have lost touch with living "in the flow of time." Caught up in the stress of running from work to home to recreation, no one seems to have the time to do the important things. Anxious about the future, regretful of the past, we miss the hidden fullness of each moment.

This workshop helps participants understand their own attitudes toward time and the effect those attitudes have on lifestyle, health, and longevity. Stephan Rechtschaffen, a medical doctor and cofounder of Omega Institute, will introduce practices to move perception away from societal time pressures into the unexplored territory and emotions of “freedom-within-time.” Using meditation, visualization, and time evaluation and planning (not scheduling), participants can begin to experience their own natural rhythm in time and the simple power and pleasure of being “present” in each moment.

Participants will explore the effect of dysrhythmic, hurried schedules—on health, relationships, work, and creativity—and, using their expanded sense of time, explore what they really want and how to bring the freedom of “timelessness-within-time” into their everyday lives.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. C.E. credit is available for psychologists; see page 61. $380

Sabetti Sphurana Yoga: The Yoga of Inner Vibration

Stephano Sabetti

Sphurana, according to spiritual teacher Ramana Maharshi, is the spiritual self that one feels especially in the heart chakra. When our spirit is oriented toward sphurana in a continual and effortless manner, we can experience, says Maharshi, a “taste of enlightenment.”

Sabetti Sphurana Yoga was developed by Stephano Sabetti, in conjunction with the Life Energy Process, to support wholeness on many levels simultaneously. It integrates:

- Vibratory energy—experiencing bodily the vibrations of the spirit and opening the healing channel
- Asanas—physical postures which are not static forms but may be spontaneously created as energy movement changes
- Balance—finding balance in imbalance, discovering order in chaos, to more easily integrate the practice into daily life

Sphurana Yoga, unlike other yoga, works with emotions in order to experience them without becoming attached to them, to help them become more essential and direct. Sphurana Yoga also incorporates humor and pleasure to soften the muscles, minimize tension, support humanness, and allow energy to flow in its inherent rhythm.

This will be a weekend full of music, humor, and pleasure. $380

Week of September 6–13

Intuition and the Dance of Attention

Anne Armstrong & Randy Cherner

At the still point of the turning world,
Neither flesh nor fleshless;
Neither from nor towards; at the still point,
there the dance is,
But neither arrest nor movement. And do not call it fixity.
Where past and future are gathered.
Neither movement from nor towards,
Neither ascent nor decline. Except for the point,
the still point,
There would be no dance, and there is only the dance.

— T.S. Eliot, The Four Quartets

Intuition is a gift that everyone possesses. It takes many forms. The foundation for intuitive practice is the process of shifting one’s attention in very precise ways to lead to enhanced awareness. Anne Armstrong’s intuitive opening came through the psychic intuitive process, Randy Cherner’s through movement and touch.

The aim of this workshop is for participants to reclaim their intuitive powers in all areas of their lives—personal, professional, and spiritual. Group members will learn to develop their intuitive styles through meditations, sensing practices, refined touch, aikido, and Feldenkrais exercises. This workshop is unique in its attention to intuitive style in both its psychic and somatic dimensions.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

The Soul’s Theatre: The Practice of Improvisation

Cory Fischer

Improvisation is the art of the present moment. Our modern Western culture has pretty much left improvisation to jazz musicians. We hardly remember the traditions of improvised poetry, storytelling, and theatre that have flourished at different times in many cultures.

“In this workshop,” writes Corey Fischer, “we’ll begin to reinvent those traditions. We’ll improvise with movement, nonverbal sounds, language, and story. We will work with our own moment-to-moment experience, our memories, our secrets, dreams, and desires. We will discover how we can transform the demons of fear, self-criticism, and resistance into powerful allies to create moments of spontaneous, self-revelatory performance.”

While no previous theatre background is required, please note that a high level of commitment is necessary to create the level of trust that is the basis of this work. This is not an “acting class” or a workshop in sketch comedy or theatre sports. This is an opportunity to learn that, as Eduardo Galeano writes, “... every single one of us has something to say to the others, something that deserves to be celebrated or forgiven by others.”

Bring writing materials and wear loose, comfortable clothing. $740

Spiritual Journeys, Sacred Lives

Dorothy Hunt

The seeds of spiritual realization are always present in the human heart. This workshop will introduce film biographies of such spiritual leaders of our century as Mother Teresa, Ramana Maharshi, Bede Griffiths, the Dalai Lama, Thomas Merton, and Martin Luther King Jr. to help inspire, inform, and stimulate the exploration of our own spiritual unfolding. As the weekend proceeds, participants will write and share stories of their own spiritual journeys (no prior writing experience is necessary).

Through writing, drawing, discussion, and silence, this course will explore such matters as: the people, places, and experiences which have had the greatest impact on our spiritual life; the themes or questions which keep repeating in our life story; the moments of despair and the moments of grace; ways we view God; the surprises which are so often present in spiritual awakening; and the hidden gifts which only an open heart can see.

By sharing and celebrating the rich and varied ways the Divine manifests in human life, we honor the sacredness of our individual stories and the creating, sustaining Spirit present in each one. $740
The Practical Art of Creative Risk-Taking

David Schiffman

To make effective, creative choices, you need courage, imagination, and the willingness to know your heart and be true to the dreams that live inside it. Choosing this deeper wisdom can often involve the risk of breaking set—the choice to move against the powerful grain of old fears, habits, and the constant pressure of other people's expectations. To foster this spirit means contacting the elemental-instinctual parts of our natures, befriending rather than suppressing or denying the sexuality and power out of which initiative and enthusiasm spring.

This workshop will focus on how to develop a more adventurous, resourceful, and buoyant way of living. In an atmosphere based on warmth and humor, group members will explore their capacity for mutual tenderness, respect, and honesty. Traditional psychological practices such as gestalt, bioenergetics, and psychosynthesis will be used for intensive individual work, as well as nontraditional innovative approaches in bodywork, kinesthetic retraining, music, and guided imagery.

$740

The Upledger Institute's SomatoEmotional Release I

John Upledger

SomatoEmotional Release is a healing process that helps rid the mind and body of residual effects of past trauma and associated negative emotional experiences. Joint research efforts by Dr. John Upledger and biophysicist Dr. Zvi Karni led to the discovery that the body often retains (rather than dissipates) physical forces as the result of an accident, injury, or emotional trauma, and then isolates the dysfunctional area, creating what we call an "energy cyst."

Although a reasonably healthy body can work and adapt to "energy cysts," extra energy is required to perform normal bodily functions. As the years pass, the adaptive pattern of the body loses its effectiveness, and symptoms and dysfunctions begin to appear which become more difficult to ignore or suppress.

In SomatoEmotional Release I, students learn how to assist the patient/client in physically identifying and expelling the "energy cyst" and in re-experiencing and resolving unpleasant memories.

Before participating in this course, students must complete Upledger CranioSacral I and II, either at Esalen or elsewhere. For further information see Special Programs, page 57.

Required reading: Upledger, SomatoEmotional Release and Beyond and CranioSacral Therapy II: Beyond the Dura; Fisher & Ury, Getting to Yes. C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 6o.

$740

Weekend of September 13–15

Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach

Patrick Douce

The work of Moshe Feldenkrais is based on the natural process by which we learned to move as children. During this workshop, soft, easy, gentle movements will be used to increase awareness of the body and to improve the ease and ability of movement. Special emphasis will be placed on the difficulties in movement that arise from chronic conditions such as lower back and neck pain, tension in the neck and shoulders, and knee injuries. These conditions can be improved by approaching the difficulties as problems in learning rather than as therapeutic troubles. Situations which were "incurable" become "reeducable." Workshop participants will also be introduced to methods for improving their ability to sense each other's bodies through touch and massage.

This workshop is valuable for anyone interested in learning more about his/her body through direct experience. It may be of special interest and benefit to dancers, athletes, doctors, nurses, physical therapists, psychologists, health care professionals, and elderly citizens who may discover new ways of moving with ease and increased flexibility—painlessly and immediately.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $380

Essential Peacemaking: Women and Men

Danaan Parry & Jerilyn Brusseau

We stand at a threshold of new understanding about the "next step" for women and men—co-leadership of a completely re-created twenty-first century.

"Essential Peacemaking: Women and Men" was created by Jerilyn and Danaan, both experienced conflict negotiators, to answer a deep need: trained, awake, skilled teams of men and women who understand that men and women speak different languages, listen differently, have different needs and reasons for being, and who also know how to facilitate other men and women to listen and truly hear each other.

Essential Peacemaking is about finding a common language between the sexes. This weekend at Esalen combines the first two training workshops of Essential Peacemaking. It is a rare opportunity to explore, in one weekend, the skills and discoveries that make it possible for women and men to deeply and clearly come to know one another.

Please note: There are more than 350 Essential Peacemaking facilitators in twenty-five countries. If, after this weekend, you wish to become an accredited facilitator of this program, only the final three-day accreditation training will be needed. $380

Poetry Workshop: Writing New Poems

Sharon Olds

An intensive workshop for the writing of poems in an atmosphere of encouragement and adventure. The focus will be on the new poems written during the weekend and where they can lead us. There will be individual conference times as well as group meetings. The goal will be to help each other bring forth something fresh and alive from deep inside. Beginners as well as experienced writers are encouraged to apply.

Sharon Olds teaches in the Graduate Creative Writing Program of New York University. She has been given a San Francisco Poetry Center Award, a National Book Critics' Circle Award, a Lamont Award from the Academy of American Poets, and grants from the NEA and the Guggenheim Foundation.

To apply, please send a letter with your name and address, and between three and five pages of your poems, typed (no dot-matrix, please). Do not include a SASE; applications will not be returned. Send them to Sharon Olds Workshop, c/o Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920. Your poems must be received no later than July 1, 1996. Participants will be notified of their acceptance into the workshop on July 22, 1996.

Recommended reading: Poetry by Sharon Olds: Satan Says; The Dead and the Living; The Gold Cell, and The Father. $380

The Meditation Hall and Everyday Life: Transcending the Separation

Olga Luchakova

The goal of this workshop is to transcend the imaginary gap between sitting meditation and everyday activities by experientially realizing that the Self/God/Love is ever present. Tranquility and freedom are not states to be achieved but rather to be unveiled in the present moment.

The sublime teaching of self-realization, called Advaita-Vedanta or Jnana Yoga, has been transmitted since ancient times by such sages as Dattatreya and Shankara. In this century, through the grace of Ramana Maharshi and Nisargadatta Maharaj, this teaching has become known to a larger number of Western spiritual seekers.

These sages recommended certain practices that help to progress from temporary awakening experiences to the steady flow of Realization. The group will practice those most direct meditative methods that allow us to reveal our divine nature in its different aspects:

- Tracing the "I" to its Source (the aspect of Being)
- Halting the mindstream (the aspect of pure Awareness)
- Cultivating the longing (the aspect of Love/Bliss)
- Total surrender and gratitude (the aspect of Non-doing)

The workshop will address the most common doubts, concerns, and fears sometimes associated with rapid spiritual growth. $380

Vision Painting

Helen Jerene Malcolm

Vision painting is a nonverbal gestalt experienced via color, light, and form. It is a subtle process exposing the conditioned mind and its limitations. In an atmosphere of exploration and acceptance you are encouraged to suspend judgment, enabling the creative impulse to play, take risks, and face fears. The resulting paintings become a visual journal of your stream of consciousness.

Prompted by visualization, meditation, music, and movement, expression is evoked from the feeling centers, through the hand, and onto paper. Your intuitive voice is encouraged to uncover a source of wisdom reflected in the impulse desiring expression. Beyond the rational mind, from deeper levels of motivation, the painting seemingly paints itself and reveals its message.

Expanding consciousness through your work permits a look at the life you create for yourself physically, spiritually, and professionally. Your vision paintings become a treasure map of your life where change and healing are affirmed. This is a transformative adventure in personal creativity. It is also fun and profoundly educational.

Those who are sure they can't paint, beginners, and artists are all welcome. $380

(plus $20 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

---

Week of September 15–20

Gestalt Practice

Christine Stewart Price

The Way, when declared

Seems so thin and flavorless.

Nothing to look at, nothing to hear—

And when used—is inexhaustible.

—LAO TZU

Gestalt practice is a form—nonanalytic, noncoercive, nonjudgmental—evolving out of the...
The format will combine introductory group and interpersonal. It is explicitly understood that awareness is made primary relative to action, rather than adjustment, cure, or accomplishment. Through group exercises, meditations, and discussion, this workshop will introduce participants to the gestalt practice approach. The format will combine introductory group work with the open seat form in which each participant will have the opportunity to work with the leader in a group context.

Recommended reading: Perls, Gestalt Therapy Verbatim; Chodron, The Wisdom of No Escape. C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$740

The Naked Soul: A Ritual Theater Lab
Gabrielle Roth

Gabrielle Roth writes: “This is a workshop for those who want to explore the mysteries and dynamics of relating fearlessly with humor and compassion. We will cultivate and deepen our ability to see and hear each other as we break through masks and myths to face each other with naked souls.

“Each day will include movement practice and specific theater techniques. Mornings we will dance, afternoons we will immerse ourselves in theater exercises to expand our capacity to relate and behold. To weave witness and warrior into a vulnerable presence is our prayer and our hope.”

Assisting Gabrielle Roth will be Jonathan Horan.

$740

Weekend of September 20–22

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

Contact is the appreciation of differences.
— Fritz Perls

... and the recognition of similarities.
— Richard Price

This workshop is designed to introduce the various practices of Esalen to first-time participants or to those renewing their acquaintance with Esalen. Emphasis will be on finding those approaches to self-awareness that work most effectively for each participant. Sessions may include: meditation, sensory awareness, gestalt practice, group process, art, movement, and massage. There will also be time to explore the magnificence of the Big Sur coast.

$380

The Awakened Mind: Brainwave Training
Anna Wise

Inside each person lives a wealth of knowledge, capacities, and power rarely transmitted to the conscious mind. Brainwave training, combined with meditation and biofeedback monitoring, can help develop these deeper resources, allowing access to greater creativity, reduced stress, and a deeper awareness and understanding of the inner self. After assessing the brainwave patterns of hundreds of unusually highly-functioning people, C. Maxwell Cade of London's Institute for Psychobiological Research began to see similarities in the patterns of optimal states of mind. Drawing upon Cade's work, Anna Wise has developed a training program to help access these optimum states.

Different methods of meditation, visualization, and psychophysiological relaxation affect our brainwaves in particular ways, as do specific acts such as tongue, eye, and body positions. In this workshop you will learn techniques for brainwave development and management, and begin to determine which methods of practice are best for you. Different brainwave patterns. You will also add how you can use these optimum states for your own creativity, mental flexibility, self-healing, problem solving, and spiritual development.

All Mind Mirror EEG will be used to demonstrate brainwave patterns, and each participant will be able to use an Electrical Skin Resistance Meter to measure the depth of arousal or relaxation of the nervous system.

Please note: Our previous catalog incorrectly listed this workshop as Advanced Brainwave Training.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $380

Beyond Gender Language: The Union of The Sun and The Moon
Howard Teich

In C.G. Jung's last major work (Mysterium Coniunctionis—An Inquiry into the Separation and Synthesis of Psychic Opposites in Alchemy), he reveals the "hidden secret," the ingredients of the fiery light of nature. Jung travels beyond anima and animus, beyond feminine and masculine, to the most ancient and archetypal psychic opposites—the sun and the moon.

This workshop will be a shamanic journey toward integration and healing of the solar/lunar split in our nature. The vehicle for this journey will be drawn from Navajo ceremonies, using archetypal images from Navajo sand paintings for initiation into the Pollen Path of peace, prosperity, and happiness. Traditionally, these sand paintings are used to purify initiates in the unification of psychic opposites.

This process can liberate men and women from the distortions and fragmentations of gender-based language. The workshop will teach participants to use these unifying principles in an ongoing way and to live this solar/lunar energy day to day-conscious, embodied, and practical.

Other elements of this workshop will include alchemy, quantum physics, and archetypal psychology. Tools will include yogic breathing, active imagination, Gestalt, and meditation. This work can be particularly helpful for psychiatrists, psychologists, and counselors in diagnosing and healing splits of psyche and matter such as narcissistic wounds, phobias, and addictions in play, work, and relationships.

$380

The 21 Praises of Tara:
A Sacred Dance Practice
Prema Desara

Tara is the great Mother Goddess of unconditional love. Ages ago, Tara was an ordinary woman who practiced dharma and reached enlightenment. Instead of entering nirvana, she vowed, “I will stay in the body of a woman until the end of time, helping all those who call out to me to cross the ocean of sorrow and attain enlightenment." She is said to answer the cries and prayers of all lost or suffering beings, and to overcome obstacles and dissolve ignorance. The chanting of Tara's 21 Praises is an ancient healing practice through which fear and other afflictions clouding the mind are dispelled and life challenges met with clarity and compassion.

Premada Desara combines her dance training from the temples of India with ancient Tibetan practices of self-empowerment. In this ritual of transformation, participants will be guided to embody the sublime qualities of Tara, and to embrace their own essence of feminine wisdom, compassion, and power. They will learn the subtleties of sacred movement, mudras, offerings, and visualizations. At the end of the workshop, the dancers will adorn themselves in silk costumes (provided by the leader) and dance a ritual offering and adorn themselves in silk costumes (provided by the leader) and dance a ritual offering and autumnal equinox celebration in the presence of the Esalen community.

Please note: This workshop is for women only. No dance experience is required.

$380

The Art of Leadership: Communication, Creativity, Vision
Ron Alexander

In the beginner's mind there are many possibilities
While in the expert's mind there are few.
—SUZUKI

This workshop is for entrepreneurs, executives, managers, and others committed to improving their communication and leadership skills. It is especially intended for those open to doing deep personal work with a commitment to transform the self and thereby become more effective and productive in their leadership style. The major areas of focus will be: resolving conflict, developing trust with those who feel threatened, addressing blind spots in self-esteem, healing blocks in creativity, and building support for transforming vision into reality.

The workshop is primarily experiential and will include gestalt open seat work, sharing feedback on leadership and communication styles, improving coaching skills, developing the unconscious to creatively solve problems, and role-playing and problem-solving exercises for real-life work situations.

Recommended reading: Depree, Leadership is an Art; Wing, The Tao of Power; Crum, The Magic of Conflict.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$380

Turning on the Light: A Choice to Live Consciously
Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita) & Guest Leaders

In the sunlight of awareness, each thought and action becomes sacred.
—THICH NHAT HANH

Laura DeNuccio writes: "To live fully in the present moment, deeply in touch with life, is a choice each individual can make—one breath at a time. This week we will honor, empower, and celebrate each person as we explore what it means to live fully moment to moment. Choices can emerge as we ask: What would you love to see in your life? What matters most to your heart? What is truly of value?"

"Through the creative use of breath, sound, movement, and visioning, we can awaken and remember what our spirit longs to express. Guided meditations will be introduced to increase body awareness and aliveness, to dissolve and balance energetic blockages, and to quiet, still, and expand the mind. Personal growth, self-care, and integral practices for daily living will be offered for increasing mindfulness, self-knowledge, and responsibility.

"Emphasis will be on cultivating compassion, honesty, and kindness as we align with our own truths in relation to others and the Earth. Through attunement with the natural world—gentle nature walks and light hikes in Big Sur—we can deepen our capacity to listen to our innate wisdom. The group will experiment with co-creating community, an environment of trust and acceptance, as we reclaim our wholeness/holiness as human beings making choices to live fully."

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$740

Healing Without Medicines: Qigong and the Medical Knowledge of Yin-Style Bagua
Xie Peiqi & Andrew Nugent-Head

One of the great focuses of 76-year-old healer and martial artist Dr. Xie Peiqi has been the concept of healing without medicines. The last person fully trained in both the healing and martial aspects of the traditional Chinese art of Yin-style Bagua, Dr. Xie has spent almost sixty years practicing medicine, as well as being one of China's most respected martial artists. In the last three years, Dr. Xie has spent almost sixty years practicing medicine, as well as being one of China's most respected martial artists. In the last three years, Dr. Xie has been working with longtime China resident Andrew Nugent-Head to make his knowledge accessible to the West.

During this workshop, participants will learn three of Yin-style Bagua's powerful Qi (energy) healing systems—the Luohan Patting Method, the Twelve Sitting Meditations, and the Eight Healing Sounds—each of which is designed to treat illnesses and allow the practitioner to attain a higher state of internal development and health.

$380
Dr. Xie will also talk about Chinese medicine from the Yi Jing (Book of Changes) and Bagua perspective, a traditional approach all but lost in China's schools which claim to teach traditional Chinese medicine. Finally, by integrating this traditional medical theory with the Qigong exercises presented during the workshop, participants can learn to apply this knowledge or incorporate it into their healing practices for their patients.

Recommended reading: Xie, The Eight Healing Sounds of Yin-Style Bagua and The Twelve Guiding Energy Sitting Meditations (books and accompanying videos available through the Association for Traditional Studies, 415-337-4129).

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Singing Gestalt
Nancy Kaye Lunney

Singing can be an experience of great joy, poignant tenderness, or overwhelming fear. It can provide illuminating moments of pure expression or a persona to hide behind.

“Singing Gestalt” is singing about yourself, who you are, what you feel. It is about being yourself in front of other people without judging how well you sing. It is about performance—it is about making contact, feeling, expressing, and being there, with and for yourself and others.

If the idea of getting up and singing in front of other people terrifies you more than anything you can think of, this workshop is for you. If you love to sing in front of other people and want to stretch yourself further, this workshop is for you. It is a chance to take your singing self out of the shower, out of the car—out of the closet.

Some guided imagery and gestalt may be used. Bring lyrics to songs that express thoughts and feelings you'd like to explore. Accompaniment and lots of music are provided.

Letting Go—Moving On
Mary Goldenson (Devarami)

Beliefs, fears, and emotions from the past can continue into present relationships and interfere with spontaneous feelings of trust, love, and joy. The goal of this workshop is to experience and let go of these defenses and create new ways to relate—in the moment—to ourselves, our work, and those we love.

The workshop includes periods of intense bodywork for those who want to let go of past anger, fear, and pain, which are reflected in the body as armor and tension. As armor softens, feelings held in since childhood can be released, and positive feelings can be experienced more fully. By also using dreamwork, massage, dance, and group process, a new capacity for loving can emerge.

This workshop may have up to thirty participants.

Evocation of the Deceased in a Latter-Day Psychomanteum
William Roll

In ancient Greece, there were institutions known as oracles of the dead, or psychomanteums, where people traveled, so the early historians and poets tell us, to be reunited with the spirits of loved ones lost to death. Dr. Roll will describe how, in collaboration with Dr. Raymond Moody, he re-created a latter-day psychomanteum through the use of the venerable technique of mirror gazing. He will demonstrate how this environment may evoke vivid reunion encounters and other transcendent experiences.

Recommended reading: Leonard & Murphy, The Life We Are Given; Leonard, Mastery; Murphy, The Future of the Body.

The Tao of Practice
George Leonard

We've tried them all—the ten easy steps to power and prosperity, the programs offering instant enlightenment or total fitness in fifteen minutes a week—and we've discovered they simply don't work. More and more people are beginning to say no to the false and often destructive promises of the quick fix. Moreover, new research is showing the efficacy of patient, long-term practice, which, it turns out, is far more important than talent in achieving mastery.

In this workshop, human potential pioneer George Leonard introduces a path (tao) of practice that can bring pleasure and fulfillment, not just during this weekend but for months and years to come. Drawing on the Integral Transformative Practice (ITP) he cofounded with Michael Murphy, Leonard will offer the fundamentals of a long-term program for realizing the potential of mind, body, heart, and soul.

You will have a chance to learn a forty-minute series that includes physical movement, breathing practice, relaxation, transformative imaging, and meditation. You will practice balancing and centering, the use of chi, focused surrender, and the creation of effective affirmations. There will be discussions of the principles of human transformation, as revealed in a two-year experiment Leonard and Murphy conducted.

This workshop involves physical movement but is not strenuous. All that's needed is a generous heart and a willingness to participate.

Recommended reading: Leonard & Murphy, The Life We Are Given; Leonard, Mastery; Murphy, The Future of the Body.

Conscious Dreaming: The Path of the Shaman in Everyday Life
Robert Moss

Among Native Americans, the shaman is widely known as "one who dreams." The gifts of dreaming come in many ways: through the spontaneous wisdom of sleep-dreams, through creative incubation, through conscious dreaming in a relaxed state, through shamanic soul-flight to other worlds and times—and by paying attention to the dreamlike symbols and synchronicities of waking life.

In this adventure with Robert Moss, a leading dream explorer and shamanic teacher, participants can become dreamers in all these senses. The workshop is a journey through the gateway of our personal dream images to approach the sources of healing, creativity, and insight. With the aid of drumming, guided visualization, and partner exercises, participants will experiment with shape-shifting, shared dreaming, and folding time, scouting possible futures and other life experiences.

The goal is to confirm and clarify our relationship with spiritual allies and develop rituals for spiritual cleansing, psychic self-defense, and soul recovery.

Conscious dreaming is a key to soul-remembering—reclaiming the knowledge that belonged to you before you entered this lifetime—and a creative and playful way to walk the path of soul in everyday life. $740

The Heart of Sports Massage

David Streeter

"In this week together," writes David Streeter, "we will focus on the most powerful and effective techniques that have evolved from contemporary sports massage and explore the power within our own bodies as we practice these techniques. This essential knowledge is drawn from the internal martial arts and shiatsu where the internal power of the practitioner is fully utilized. In this way it is possible to apply deep tissue, trigger point, and cross-friction massage without strain, fatigue, or injuries to our own hands, arms, or backs. Demonstrations and lectures will be brief and to the point. We will move to the table and practice with as much personal instruction as possible."

This workshop is designed to give each student the tools and the confidence he or she needs to work deeply and effortlessly. The techniques are uncomplicated and will be of great value to anyone with a sincere interest in the fine art of massage.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

Weekend of October 4–6

Dialogue

Daniel Martin

Thought invents the world and then denies it. The very world we have created we now find to be problematic. And we are caught in its web. We cannot solve our problems with the same thinking that created them. Solutions or, more accurately, resolutions will come from deconstructing our thought processes and constructing new ones.

Dialogue is the skill of thinking in a new way: thinking collectively. We do this by freeing ourselves from the assumptions that shape our perceptions and by learning how to collaborate at progressively deeper levels. This requires skills of inquiry and listening—to one another, and to the energy field we create together. Dialogue is participating in the unfolding of meaning, assisting the emergence of what wants to happen.

This most natural human skill, lost in a world of fragmentation and narrow individualism, can be relearned. It is founded, however, on a certain level of self-conscious awareness or psychological maturity. This workshop is an invitation to people who have done their personal work, who have consciously attempted to live their own journey. Dialogue offers a natural next step in the process of personal and social growth. Come and develop a skill that is vital for the work of defining the human role in a new era. $380

TA KE TI NA: The Forgotten Power of Rhythm

Reinhard Flatischler

Everyone of us is deeply rhythmical: hearts beat, lungs breathe, cells pulsate—we are rhythm. Illuminating this, TA KE TI NA, a synthesis of the rhythmic knowledge of many cultures, goes back to the primal rhythmic knowledge living within every human being. TA KE TI NA connects musical rhythms with the rhythms of daily life, the rhythms of the body, the rhythms of consciousness.

The principle underlying the TA KE TI NA experience is the simultaneous performance of several different rhythms with basic stepping, clapping, vocal rhythms, and chanting. The workshop takes on the quality of ritual as participants, standing and moving in a circle, clapping and chanting rhythmic syllables, gradually create a group unity.

For many of us, the knowledge that we are naturally connected with rhythm has disappeared. TA KE TI NA, in reestablishing the connection with this "forgotten power of rhythm," can reveal a new range of qualities to life. Through increased abilities in movement, rhythmic competence, and musical creativity, natural confidence can grow. The skills presented in TA KE TI NA can be applied to everyday living as well as to all musical fields.

Joy, Inspiration, and Hope: A Retreat for Gay Men

Scott Wirth

"As gay men," writes Scott Wirth, "our psychological lives are too often defined in terms of deficit and injury: we are not 'real' men; we are 'sick and sinful'; our lives are being robbed from us by AIDS—the long, dark list goes on. Our gay male psyches are invariably overburdened with the images and emotional residue of victimization, oppression, and tragedy.

"Without denying these dark aspects, we will emphasize the joyful, inspiring, and hopeful aspects of our lives—past, present, and future. We will visit five phases of life: infancy, boyhood, adolescence, young manhood, and midlife, and blend together memory, fantasy, and stories we have heard.

"In a series of guided experiential sessions, we will construct and journey through what Jungian analyst Verena Kast has called our 'biography of joy,' this time as gay males. We will discover ways in which our soul remained inwardly steadfast throughout the different phases of our lives, nurturing and protecting us in ways that no parent or caregiver ever did. We will also recall and honor those who supported us—usually unknowingly—in the formation of our gay identity."

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $380

Self-Empowerment and Purification: The Farther Reaches of Gestalt

Julian Silverman

"We badly need a new orientation, a new perspective," wrote Fritz Perls. "We have graduated from the infant's 'I can't help myself' to the adult's 'I can't help myself because... But psychology and psychiatry were never meant to be after-the-fact justifications for continuing neurotic behavior, behavior which does not permit the individual to live up to the maximum of his capacities."

In his autobiography, Perls speculated that a new form of psychotherapy would emerge and that it would entail some kind of cleansing or purification process. He was not clear, however, how it would work. In actuality, he had prepared the way quite well for the next form.

In this workshop the boundaries of the "next form" are defined and examined using both didactic and experiential sessions. Two interrelated processes are emphasized: the first, a purification process, has the purpose of "wiping the slate clean" of mental debris; the second is to identify a personal center from which to act with power.

Introductory Workshop Principle #1: Take responsibility for every emotion, every movement you make, every thought you have.

Recommended reading: A Course in Miracles. C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $380
If you wish, bring a cassette of music which you find joyous, inspiring, or hopeful (each piece five minutes or less).

Recommended reading: Kast, Joy, Inspiration, and Hope.

Week of October 6-11

Tantra: The Art of Conscious Loving
Charles & Caroline Muir

Few of us have been blessed with healthy childhood conditioning and education regarding the mysteries of sexual love and sexual energy. This can leave many individuals less aware and conscious about their sexuality than they are in other aspects of their lives. Tantra can transform sex into a loving meditation, putting more consciousness, energy, intimacy, joy, and love into sexual exchanges.

Participants will learn and discuss various ways to increase intimacy and passion in their relationship. Tantric meditation and ways to exchange sexual energy in a safe, nonsexual manner will also be taught in the workshop. These methods can then be practiced in a sexual way in the privacy of your own home.

Treasure Maps to the Soul
Ann Weiser Cornell & Barbara McGavin

We go along through life trying to overcome our weaknesses and imperfections. We repress them, deny them, and send them into exile. Of course we don't want to give in to depression or addiction or shyness or procrastination. But often we end up with an uneasy truce—getting by, but not really getting better.

In this workshop you will learn how to use these stuck, unlovable parts of yourself as treasure maps. You will discover how the parts of yourself that you try hardest to overcome are the very parts that hold the key—that carry the secret—to your greatest potential as an evolving being.

The means to bring forth this treasure will be Focusing, a simple, gentle, and powerful body/mind skill of self-awareness. Focusing is a way of listening to your body's subtle, rich, organismic experience. It is safe, private, and nonconfrontational. There is no pushing, no revealing more than you want to reveal.

This workshop offers specific, grounded methods for working with the seven areas of treasure: Dragon (self-criticism), Fog (confusion), River (overwhelming emotion), Pit (depression), Swamp (action blocks), Wilderness (addictions), and Mountain Top (unfulfilled desire). This is a light-hearted, hopeful approach that can give you valuable tools to use in your daily life.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740 per participant

Golf in the Kingdom: An Exploration of the Deeper Game
Stephen Cohen, Fred Shoemaker & Brian Bergstrom

You'll come away from the links with a new hold on life, that is certain if ye play the game with all your heart.

—Michael Murphy (as Shivas Irons), Golf in the Kingdom

The game of golf provides many opportunities to enhance the journey of self-discovery. It can be experienced not only as an athletic endeavor, but also as a metaphor for the way one lives. Just as in life, issues of self-confidence, fear, trust, discipline, and awareness emerge in the conflict between the ego's desire for success and the inner self's ability to achieve.

During these five days, teaching methods gleaned from a study of the deeper game will be utilized, as well as principles from psychosynthesis and gestalt, to explore the inner self and how one interferes with its emergence. Two days will be spent on field trips to the Monterey Peninsula where participants will practice and play in some of the most beautiful golf country in the world. On other days there will be time to relax and enjoy the natural pleasures of Esalen and Big Sur.
Recommended reading: Murphy, Golf in the
Kingdom; Gallwey, The Inner Game of Golf;
Shoemaker, Extraordinary Golf: The Art of the Possible. $740
(plus greens fees paid directly to the leader)

A Course in Miracles
Julian Silverman

A Course in Miracles is a curriculum for changing your mind so that you can enjoy life. Its basic premise is that the mind can learn to empower itself by learning to extend itself.
According to the Course, "All confusion comes from not extending life."

In this workshop the vision of A Course in Miracles is set within a framework of three of its critical ideas. Each one is introduced with a quote spotlighting a basic human learning need:
1. "Instruction in perception is your greatest need."
2. "You do not know the meaning of love and that is your handicap."
3. "Your task is not to seek for love, but merely to seek and find all the barriers within yourself that you have built against it."

Julian Silverman elaborates, "The first priniple dovetails with my years of scientific research in the area of perception, in both normal and altered states of consciousness.
The second fits with my lifelong search for a conception of love which integrates the spiritual and the physical. The third enables me to draw on my more than twenty years of experience as a psychotherapist and supervisor of psychotherapists, and my abiding interest in alter states of consciousness. The second enables me to draw on my more than twenty years of experience as a psychotherapist and supervisor of psychotherapists, and my abiding interest in spiritually-based self-examination."

The workshop uses a combination of conceptual and experiential learning methods.
Prerequisites: Own a copy of A Course in Miracles. Be interested in learning what's in it.
C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.
$740

Weekend of October 11–13

A Weekend with Marianne Williamson

 Writes Marianne Williamson: "As we enter the final stages of the millennium, we turn to the relationship between personal and global transformation. We will focus this weekend on increasing our capacity to receive God's grace and impart it to others."

In this workshop, Marianne Williamson will be discussing universal themes from
A Course in Miracles.

Please note: This is the only workshop at Esalen this weekend. It is expected to have an extremely large enrollment. $740

Weekend of October 13–18

Esalen Arts Festival
Maintaining the Thread: Looking Back—Moving Forward

This week Esalen hosts its second exciting Arts Festival, a five-day recognition of the arts, bringing together painters, musicians, poets, actors, writers, and other artists who resist easy categorization. This year's offering acknowledges that artists maintain the thread between the traditional and the innovative, linking current concerns of technology, ecology, and community rituals with the archaic psyche.

Throughout the week a broad and diversified array of workshops will be offered:
painting, sculpting, photography, voice and singing, dance, poetry, story, and theater.
Evenings will be devoted to performances and discussions intended to inform and inspire. Several events will take place out-of-doors overlooking the Pacific—on our broad lawn or in our new amphitheater and dance platform.

Because appearances by guest performers and teachers are subject to touring schedules, we cannot, at catalog publication time, list the names of individual teachers and performers. To hear an up-to-the-minute schedule of events and performers please call 408-642-4765, or our regularly updated
Festival Information Hot Line.

Maintaining the Thread: Looking Back—Moving Forward promises to be a stimulating and thought-provoking event, a week of close contact with gifted teachers designed to enrich your personal expression and rekindle your dedication to your own artistic desires.

Please note: Since there will be only 70 beds available this week, early registration is strongly recommended.

$740

Weekend of October 20–25

Apprenticeship to the Earth—
Return to Sacred Ground

Little Bear Nason & David Schiffman

For workshop description see Wilderness
Programs, page 65. $790

Continuum
Emilie Conrad-Daoud

This workshop explores the idea that movement is something we are rather than something we do, that what we call a "body" is actually a creative event.

"Awareness of ourselves as movement begins with developing our sensitivity to our intrinsic world," writes Emilie Conrad Daoud. "We do this by exploring the mobile diversity of our breath, by discovering how our sound permeates connective tissue, and most of all by experiencing fluidity as our biological origin—the undulating waves of life that brought us here in the first place.

$740
"As we enliven ourselves from the inside, our dynamic expressions in the world increase. This oscillation from intrinsic to extrinsic, from cell to action, urges itself into new creative channels. Released from convention, our movement vocabulary can include textures and dynamics that are the expression of what is current and alive.

As a movement specialist at UCLA, Conrad-Da’oud has contributed to a study demonstrating that enhancing fluid movement is essential to mediating disease and aging. Her work is incorporated into the fields of alternative medicine, physical therapy, and physical fitness. This workshop can give participants a deeper awareness of the body as a process where change, growth, and innovation are possible. No dance or movement experience is necessary. C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $740

Celestial Bodies: Archetypal Astrology and Transformative Yoga
Richard Tarnas & Terra Wise
This seminar balances the intellectual focus of astrology lectures and discussions with the intent to inspire the body through yoga postures, focused breathing, flowing movement, and conscious relaxation. As Jung was the first major modern psychologist to note, astrology has an extraordinary capacity to illuminate the archetypal dynamics of the human psyche. Richard Tarnas will present an overview of his and psychiatrist Stanislav Grof’s work over the past twenty years linking particular psychological conditions and stages of the therapeutic process with specific planetary patterns in the birth chart and transits. Participants will be instructed in how to calculate and interpret their own transits, with special attention paid to the significance of major present and upcoming planetary alignments.

Through movement, sound, and breath, Terra Wise will guide participants toward a more conscious attunement to the physical and subtle body. Each day the class will experience safe and health-enhancing postures. This ancient healing system can improve strength, flexibility, and overall fitness, as well as promote a unifying sense of peace and alignment. Like astrology, yoga helps us become conscious of the unconscious, to move toward true wholeness.

The common theme of this dual workshop is to animate the "return of soul" to both the mind and the body. The emphasis will be on providing participants with information and practices that can be immediately integrated into their own lives.

Opening and advanced students of these disciplines are welcome. Participants should bring a yoga mat or towel, loose comfortable clothing, and a copy of their natal chart. $740

Opening to Ourselves and Others
Rachel Harris
In order to survive and make our way in the world, we develop defense mechanisms, rigid patterns of thinking, feeling, and behaving. We deaden, dissociate, or sacrifice parts of ourselves during early childhood experiences, chronically stressful situations, or traumatic events. These brittle habits, originally designed for survival, limit our vital connection to ourselves as well as to others. We create our own self-limiting prisons.

"This workshop is about softening, melting, opening," writes Rachel Harris. "We will create a safe opportunity to identify our chronic defense patterns and explore who we are underneath these personality structures. We will seek to become more objective about ourselves and increase our psychological freedom. The focus will be to deepen our sense of ourselves and enhance our capacity for relationship with others.

"We will use an integrated approach of body awareness, mindful introspection, breathing, creative expression, and dyadic exercises to gently lighten the burden of our chronic defenses. The opportunity is to stop being who we think we have to be and develop the process of being with ourselves as we are, which is all we really have and what we will take home with us." $740

Writing the Natural Way
Gabriele Rico
Writing well can be as natural as telling a story to a friend, as fluid as daydreaming. Using the new science of Chaos as a metaphor for the workings of the mind, the creative process, and ways of accessing it, Gabriele Rico can teach you to write freely and richly. Presenting a series of writing activities to free you from the restrictions imposed by a linear, judgmental, left-brain approach, she can help you to become receptive to your creative intuition—to express ideas, images, and feelings more authentically in a fresh, personal voice.

Once we understand something about the creative process, we can begin to glimpse answers to such questions as: Where do ideas come from? How can we best hold them? What is the role of the emotions in the creative process? In what way is all writing creative?

A few of the many writing activities include:
- Clustering—a nonlinear process that accesses seemingly random thoughts and feelings
- Improvisation and play with language
- Images—"strange attractors" which evoke visual, tactile, auditory, and gustatory memory patterns
- Metaphoric thought—moving beyond literal thinking

This workshop is appropriate for writers of all levels, from beginners to experts. Please bring colored felt-tip pens and a bound notebook.

Recommended reading: Rico, Writing the Natural Way and Pain and Possibility: Writing Through Personal Crisis. $740

Facing Each Other, Facing Ourselves
David Chrislip & Steven Harper
If the ground can be our common ground, we can begin to talk to each other (human and nonhuman) once again.

—GARY SNYDER, A Place in Space

This workshop will begin with discovering— or reconnecting with—one’s own deepest purpose. Using one’s life as the ground for deeper connections, participants will then explore the expanding circles of family, community, and place. The intent is to discover—experientially—the practices and processes that bring health to each dimension, to enhance our ability to face each other and talk to each other in ways that enrich our common ground.

When our lives are in harmony with self, family, community, and place, we feel the fulfillment of living a life that is deeply purposeful and connected. There is healing within and without. There is engagement with the many aspects of our lives. There is the capacity for coping with what is yet to come.

By cultivating these qualities—fulfillment, healing, engagement, and the ability to cope—we also develop our leadership capacities to serve our families, organizations, and communities in ways that bring health and healing. We can learn to act in ways that create common ground rather than division. Instead of losing sight of the world we are serving, we become a part of it.
Through individual and group exercises, meditation, walks in nature, and discussions, participants will explore the sources in their lives that can help them to discover an inspiring path with heart.

Weekend of October 25–27

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see September 20–22.

$740

---

Imagination, Presence, and Joy: A Performing Arts Workshop

Tandy Beal

Tandy Beal states:

Here's what you'll do—

Solo, duet, and group exercises about awareness and problem solving. The springboard is movement, the pool you'll dive into is the imagination.

Here are the skills you'll use or develop—

Here's what you may discover—

The imagination (and the body) as a friend and ally. A new level of awareness. A light heart.

Here's my background—

Thirty years in dance, theatre, circus, and film, as a performer, director, writer, choreographer, and dreamer.

$380

---

Forgiveness: The Key to Intimacy

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

All life is about relationships. Creating an alive and honest connection with an intimate partner requires us to go deeply into our hearts and allow the courageous self to emerge. This journey to intimacy begins with the path of forgiveness.

How does forgiveness lead to intimacy?

- It allows us to let go of anger, resentment, and grief
- It allows the agitated mind to move more deeply into the healing heart
- It resolves separation from ourselves and from others
- It allows us to give up inflicting pain on ourselves and others
- It allows us to complete unfinished business

The workshop will present ways to help complete the past, be open to the present, and create the future. It will offer a safe, supportive environment that will include taking risks, intense bodywork, gestalt imagery, dance, and meditation to support the commitment to the process of discovering ourselves.

This workshop can be especially helpful for those dealing with boundary issues, the effects of a dysfunctional family life, or addictions that have been used as a defense against intimacy. It is appropriate for everyone, whether in a good relationship or troubled, as a couple or alone, mother, father, daughter, or son, or in the healing professions.

C.E. credit is available for psychologists; see page 61.

$380

---

Pandora's Gifts: On Secrets, Health, and Healing

Dale Larson

In the Greek myth of Pandora's box, after the Furies escape, one entity remains: Hope. This workshop looks at 1) how secrets and secrecy affect the hope—and health—of people and
The workshop will explore the topic of firms that "what we don't say can hurt us." Although telling these secrets to the wrong person can be disastrous, recent research confirms that "what we don't say can hurt us," that confiding in others can be good for our health.

We all have uncomfortable feelings, thoughts, and information about ourselves that we avoid telling others. These secrets can range from mildly embarrassing to highly distressing. Although telling these secrets to the wrong person can be disastrous, recent research confirms that "what we don't say can hurt us," that confiding in others can be good for our health.

The workshop will explore the topic of secrets from both personal and professional perspectives. What do people say are their most difficult and painful secrets? How do we manage these kinds of secrets in our lives? How can we safely disclose our secrets and move toward greater intimacy and support? If we are counselors, how can we work successfully with the secrets of the individuals and families we care for? Also, how can we manage our helper secrets (the distressing thoughts and feelings related to our work as caregivers)?

The workshop will offer nonthreatening exercises for approaching secrets and secrecy. It is designed for both professional caregivers and interested nonprofessionals.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

C.E. credit is available for psychologists; see page 61.

Reflexology—Foot Compression Massage

Deborah Ardell Hill

Reflexology is a method of applying pressure to areas or points on the feet and hands to stimulate the glands, organs, and other areas of the body in order to increase circulation, relax the nerves and body, and help to normalize body functions.

For thousands of years the relationship between reflex points and the organs was understood by the Chinese, the Egyptians, East Indians, and North American Indians. Reflexology was first introduced scientifically to the medical profession in the United States in 1913 by Dr. William Fitzgerald, who engaged other doctors and health care practitioners to keep records of their findings on patients.

This workshop is designed for bodyworkers and nonprofessionals alike. It will present a new way of looking at the body, offer specific techniques, and provide a sequence to work from. It will also introduce basic anatomy and physiology. In addition to offering nurturing to others, reflexology can be used as part of a self-help program.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Cortical Reeducation® and the Feldenkrais Method®

Harriet Goslins

How a person sits, stands, or moves reflects patterns that are "wired in" to the nervous system. This information can be erased or changed. By reeducating the brain-muscle connection, restrictions in movement can be freed, freeing lifetime habits that have organized around that movement.

This work is a relearning of the ease and fluidity taken for granted as a child and lost somewhere along the way. Physical injury, emotional trauma, or ongoing stress all evoke a protective response from the body. These patterns remain when no longer needed, outside of awareness, and continue to cause discomfort and limitations. Freeing them results in relief of chronic pain or tightness and a higher energy level. By changing muscular holding patterns, the entire protective posture is altered, deeply affecting the body's habitual defense system. Thus, new movement possibilities mean new self-image possibilities.

Fears and anxieties have corresponding muscular habits. Verbal information or spiritual practice that fails to extinguish these habits may fail to eliminate the toxic behavior.

This workshop is for those who are physically active and fit and want to increase their skills while learning to reduce risk or injury; for the sedentary or those dealing with after-effects of injuries; for chronically tired and stressed individuals who want to learn how to take better care of their neck, shoulders, and back; and for those who want to improve their posture and breathing and live with more flexibility and comfort.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Playing the Edge

David Schiffman

In the early stages of growth, success seems to be its own reward. Excitement, vitality, and the willingness to face life boldly are characteristics of those who are involved in new and successful ventures. To keep this spirit alive is not easy. Enormous pressures, grinding routines, and demands of involvement can erode even the healthiest people. To listen to one's heart requires the courage to pause. In this willingness to stop and listen to the deeper self live the true resources that guide and protect us.

The purpose of this week is to create a mood of sanctuary for people in transition considering major changes in career, relationship, or matters of the spirit; those in need of a break from stressful responsibilities; and individuals interested in breaking new ground in the areas of self-nurturance, intuitive functioning, and problem solving.

The process will be gently restorative, illuminating, and enlivening. The intention will be to create a community based on trust and goodwill with emphasis on individual freedom. Traditional methods of self-inquiry (gestalt practice, bioenergetics, psychosynthesis) will be combined with innovative methods using music, meditation, poetry, ritual, and prayer to foster this spirit of living fully.

Five-Day Massage Intensive

Deborah Anne Medow & Sherry Sanders Galloway

This massage workshop explores the fundamental elements of bodywork: grounding, centering, breath awareness, touch sensitivity, and intention. A hands-on approach will combine a balance of long, integrative strokes with detailed attention to specific areas of the body. There will be emphasis on discussion and modeling of boundaries and trust with respect to the client's physical and emotional well-being. Meditation and movement will be included, as they enhance the connection between client and practitioner.

This workshop is for beginning bodyworkers and those interested in learning some new approaches to massage.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.
Vocal Awareness:
Empowerment Through Voice
Arthur Joseph

In many traditions, the throat is the center of creative power. The voice represents this power, and thereby has the capacity to help access our full creative expression. This course combines the powerful techniques of Vocal Awareness with the principles of creativity theory to help participants realize their creative potential.

Vocal Awareness introduces techniques which are integral to this development process. This approach—which views voice as a metaphor, representing an individual to the world—includes vocalizing, sound meditation, movement, song study, and development of the speaking voice as a means for deepening contact with the self. Participants will work individually and in groups exploring breathing, toning, and vocalizing.

Singing and speaking offer an immediate outlet for creative expression. In addition, the voice can become a springboard for other forms of creative expression, such as writing, drawing, movement, and problem solving. In this way, the voice becomes a symbol for the whole person as an integrated creative being. Consequently, this workshop can be not only a vocal training class but a step toward empowerment along life's path.

Please note: Participants are required to bring tape recorders.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.$740

Weekend of November 1–3

The Enneagram of the Passions:
An Oral Tradition Class
Joe Schaller with Helen Palmer

Each of the Enneagram personality types is rooted in one of the emotional passions described in sacred tradition. This emotional habit unites the thoughts, feelings, and agendas of each personality, creating a systematic bias about life. The Giver type, for example, operating from the passion of Pride, sees that people need his help. The Romantic (Envy) sees that something is missing, and so on for all nine points of view.

Although named in the negative, the passions are a primary source of energy for spiritual liberation. They are the raw material, the qualities of human nature that link personality to aspects of the human essence. Pride, for example, which inflates self-worth, also creates a search for Humility. Likewise the passion of Avarice defines a need for Non-Attachment.

Good self-observers can describe their passion and their key behaviors. They speak as living experts about the forces that direct their lives. Their insights are presented in the oral tradition, through video presentations and live panel of speakers for each Enneatype. The conversation and inner exercises highlight how different types of people relate to each other, their best developmental strategies, and how the passions are linked to the dimensions of higher consciousness.

This workshop is appropriate for both beginners and advanced students. Emphasis will be on inner material rather than personal process. The intensive can be applied as one of the prerequisites for the Enneagram Professional Training Program.

Recommended reading: Palmer, The Enneagram and The Enneagram in Love and Work.$425

The Naked Voice
Chloe Goodchild

"True singing opens up immensities inside you, way beyond the rational mind," says Chloe Goodchild. "There are those for whom singing is an art form, others for whom it is a metaphor for living. The naked voice embraces both."

Chloe Goodchild's work is based on a search for the naked voice, the sound buried in the bones, obscured by conditioning and inhibition. The way to this sound requires a "listening awareness," a quality of attention which enables the singer to listen with compassion to every sound which she or he expresses. The result of this practice is the true voice, the real sound, which can only sing from a direct connection with the heart.

This workshop will combine breathing and movement; sacred chants from around the globe; structured songs and free improvisation to bridge the voices of the belly, heart, and crown; explorations of the musical octave, the Indian scale, and early church modes as revealing states of soul; and spontaneous invocations from the heart to release the longing, passion, and praise of your own singing heart.

Recommended reading: Goodchild, The Naked Voice.$425

The Second Coming of Science
Brian O'Leary

Science is undergoing a major revolution. Concepts such as free energy and the interaction of our consciousness with the environment are becoming increasingly accepted, likely to become the cornerstones of a new science.

Dr. Brian O'Leary has devoted his last ten years to exploring, teaching, and writing about new paradigms of science. Participants in this course will not only become apprised of new theories and experiments, but will also have hands-on experience demonstrating the incredible power of consciousness. The workshop will focus on four modules, based on O'Leary's New Science trilogy:

1) The Science of the Intellect embraces experiments and theories that are "outside the box" yet still based on rigorous scientific methods, including the latest findings in psychokinesis, healing, remote viewing, near-death experience, precognition, biocommunications, etc.

2) The Science of the Imagination focuses on unraveling the mysteries of our lives. Dr. O'Leary will present exploratory techniques he devised with artist Meredith Miller to tap our creative source for developing new hypotheses of reality.

3) The Science of the Heart explores our healing potential and interconnectedness. Students will learn to use dowsing rods to measure the extent of healing power.

4) The Science of Empowerment teaches how to move into a world that transcends material limitation. Participants will be shown how to bend spoons with the power of the mind.

Recommended reading: O'Leary, Miracle in the Void: Free Energy, UFOs, and Other Scientific Revelations; Exploring Inner and Outer Space; and The Second Coming of Science (available through Kamapua'a Press, 1993 S. Kihei Rd., Ste. 21-200, Kihei, Maui, Hawaii 96753, 808-875-6996).

---

Week of November 3-8

I—You—Us: Pleasure, Intimacy, and the Search for Connectedness

Terry Hunt & Lisa Schachter

Pleasure is essential for healthy relationships. Add the erotic element and the potential for pleasure grows exponentially. But real life all too often leaves us isolated, confused, and struggling with the men and women in our lives. We substitute control for intimacy as we play out the myriad Good Girl and Super Guy roles we developed during traumatic childhoods and nightmarish adolescences. Or we may act and react out of fear, sadness, and rage, keeping our relationships locked in habitual defensive patterns.

"This workshop will help both individuals and couples to identify myths that block the flow of joy," the leaders write. "Together we will redefine the role of pain and pleasure in our lives and create updated images of our powerful, sensual, creative selves. The workshop will include intensive breathing, cathartic family-of-origin work, psychodramatic exploration of conflicts, managing physical and emotional boundaries, and visualizations that tap our deepest longings for intimacy. We will encourage each other to approach the mysteries in our lives with intention rather than fear, with assertion rather than suspicion. We will allow time to follow our instincts for pleasure into enriching and creative moments of wholeness."

Recommended reading: Schneider, Horror and the Holy: Wisdom-teachings of the Monster Tale; Becker, Denial of Death; Cooper, A Matter of Life and Death (available upon enrollment). $425

---

Working With the Enneagram Types: The Heart Center

Helen Palmer with Kabir Helminski & Camille Helminski

Using the Enneagram model of nine personality types as the solder between psychological and spiritual life, this workshop focuses on the heart center, with attention to the tasks and meditation practices that best support different types of people toward spiritual liberation.

The format involves chant, the poetry of Rumi, movement practices, spiritual conversation, and Sufi zikr to touch the heart that lies beneath emotion. Panel interviews will explore the interface between personality and the inner heart's perception of love, as it occurs for different types of people.

Heart-centered work is crucial for everyone, especially those newly opening to their feelings and those who need to befriend them.
Carving Wood: Expressing the Invisible

James Bond

“Our hands are gifts from our ancestors,” writes James Bond. “Thousands of years of carvings mention skills, and knowledge of their makers into the present day.”

This workshop will focus on allowing the body to direct the mind, following how our hands use tools to make marks in clay and wood. By visually tracking the possibilities of meanings, the intention will be to heighten awareness of the single moment when the tool awakens form in the wood. This process allows our sensitivities to find the harmonious balance between manipulation of the wood and the wood's own structural form.

Starting with clay, then moving on to become familiar with whittling tools and wood, the emphasis will be on participants finding their own way through practical experience. The telling of stories will be an integral part of the course, accompanying the act of creation. The workshop is designed to provide participants with confidence in their own skills to continue to practice and celebrate the abilities of their hands.

(plus $15 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

November 8–December 6
28-Day Massage Practitioner Certification Program
Deborah Anne Medow & Oliver Bailey
For workshop description see Special Programs, page 57.
C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.
$3590

Weekend of November 8–10
Buddhism, Therapy, and the Therapist
Joyce Frazee

Buddhism and psychotherapy have different views of the “value” of suffering. What are they? How are they similar and dissimilar? Buddhist teaching says there is a continuum between psychological and spiritual growth. If this is so, what is unique to each? What is the difference between a guru and a psychotherapist? How does having a spiritual practice affect the therapist and the therapy? These questions and others will be the focus of this workshop.

This is an opportunity for anyone involved or interested in either Buddhism or therapy to meet and discuss the interconnection between these disciplines. In addition to discussion, there will be meditation practice and simple exercises in awareness, as well as time to learn from one another.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. $425

The Vision and Practice of Human Transformation
George Leonard

The creative capacity of the human brain/body may be, for all practical purposes, infinite. Each of us is a prodigious learning animal, and our ultimate destiny may well be to evolve capacities that would now be termed extraordinary. Research conducted by George Leonard and Michael Murphy strongly suggests that the best path to the realization of our latent powers lies in a long-term practice which integrates mind, body, heart, and soul.

In this hands-on workshop, Leonard introduces you to Integral Transformative Practice (ITP), a path of practice that can help you realize your inborn genius while bringing pleasure, fulfillment, and good health, not just during this weekend but also in the weeks, months, and years to come. You will have a chance to learn a forty-minute series that includes physical movement, breathing practice, relaxation, transformative imaging, and meditation. You will practice balancing and centering, the use of ki, focused surrender, and the creation of effective affirmation. There will be discussions of the principles of human transformation, as revealed in a two-year experiment Leonard and Murphy conducted with fifty people.

This workshop involves physical movement but is not strenuous. All that’s needed is a generous heart and a willingness to participate.

Recommended reading: Leonard & Murphy, The Life We Are Given; Leonard, Mastery; Murphy, The Future of the Body. $425

Week of November 10–15
Rolfing®, Yoga, and Your Body
Rosie Spiegel & Tom Myers

Your body is a miraculous tool for facilitating personal and spiritual awakening and one of the most reliable sources of information you have regarding your own past, present, and future. Although we all, at some point, have gotten bogged down with destructive habits, armorings, and tensions, we also know the sheer delight of having a body that is capable of supporting our full self-development, creativity, and spontaneity. Yoga and Rolfing are two effective ways to bring increased awareness and deep positive change, thus liberating joy, improved health, energy, freedom, and new knowledge in our somatic selves.

This workshop brings you together with two practitioners who combine over forty years of experience with developing bodies and their consciousness, using both ancient and modern tools. With humor and compassion, Rosie and Tom bring a wide-ranging point of view to the art and science of living happily and successfully in your body. Each day will include yoga practice, bodyreading, the proper use of your body in work and play, breath and voice work, specific treatment for structural restrictions, and immersion into a new way of communicating to and with your wonderful body. $795

Facilitating Deep Process Using the Penniston Protocol Alpha/Theta Brainwave Training Technique

Julian Isaacs & Patricia Fields

In 1989 Dr. Eugene Penniston published the results of a study using a revolutionary new treatment for alcoholism based on alpha/theta brainwave biofeedback. The new technique’s effectiveness in preventing relapse has now been established by independent researchers as 70% over a five-year follow-up—a success rate previously unknown in addiction treatment. Since this landmark study, a growing band of psychologists has used the same technique to successfully treat a wide range of psychological conditions, including depression, anxiety, character disorders, and even multiple personality. The technique is now being adapted to treat mind/body disorders and is also increasingly used to facilitate personal psychological growth and for peak performance training.

This workshop will focus on the use of the technique for psychospiritual development. (The workshop will be primarily a learning experience. It is not intended to provide treatment for addicted individuals nor treatment of serious psychopathology.) Using sophisticated computer-based multi-user brainwave biofeedback systems and other devices, participants will be given ample opportunities to experience the alpha/theta state and will be shown how to use this unique state of consciousness for psychospiritual development. Adjunctive psychological and psychoenergetic techniques which complement the alpha/theta process will be demonstrated and taught. Professionals already using brainwave feedback techniques in their practices will be taught how to run alpha/theta brainwave training sessions.

To ensure adequate access to equipment, the workshop will be limited to sixteen participants.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. $795

Creative Arts Center at Esalen

Art Center Staff

Everyone has a drive to create—to be original, inventive, whimsical, resourceful. Located in The Barn at Esalen, the Creative Arts Center is a place for individuals to explore their imagination and their playfulness. It is a growing resource that is constantly evolving—a place that invites you to express your own creative instincts and become the artist that you’ve always imagined was hiding somewhere inside you.

Your time at Esalen will be spent utilizing a variety of art media, which may include: painting, pit-firing, working in Big Sur clay, drum-making and drumming, dance and movement, structural mask-making, ritual, and creative group work.

Join the Arts Center staff as they help you experience the delight of moving from observer to participant—become the painter, the sculptor, the artist. Let your imagination get the best of you.

No previous art training is necessary. $795

Courage

Joyce Frazee

In the mouth of the dragon there are many jewels.
—Buddhist Proverb

For some of us it takes courage just to live our daily lives. Every day we awaken to face the demons in our lives—demons that come in many forms: perfectionism, guilt, avoidance, shame, despair, failure. Time passes and we become skillful at living despite the constant awareness that these demons are preventing us from experiencing the fullness of life. Their existence drains our energy and limits our joy and freedom. But getting close to them, allowing ourselves to confront them, is very difficult to do.

This week will give us an opportunity to find the courage to face our demons. Participants will be encouraged to look at the things in their lives that are difficult to face and will be given support to help recognize and confront them. This will be done through gestalt practice, dreamwork, and bioenergetics. Drawing, dance, and meditation may also be used to recover the jewels from the dragon. $795

Weekend of November 15–17

Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach

Patrick Douce

For workshop description see September 13-15.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Mindfulness and the Pursuit of Intimacy

James Baraz & Steven Newmark

Forming meaningful intimate relationships can be a painful and confusing process. We may meet someone who seems like a promising potential partner, have the highest intentions to act with honesty and sensitivity, and still find our hopes ending in disappointment. By becoming aware of unconscious patterns that sabotage real intimacy, there is a greater possibility of creating the kind of bond we are seeking.

Bringing a spiritual dimension to the challenge of being single allows us to shift our perspective and not take our predicament quite so seriously. Using mindfulness practice, we can see through identification with negative thoughts that block our natural expression of love and presence. As a result, we can move toward more honest, centered, spontaneous communication that puts others at ease and makes us attractive to them.

Through frank discussions and experiential exercises this workshop will explore the challenge of forming new relationships consciously so that barriers that keep us apart can be dissolved. A safe, supportive environment will help participants to be genuine, have fun, and learn to use relationship as a vehicle to become more awake in life. $425

All Our Relations: Shamanism and Ecopsychology

Leslie Gray

Leading-edge psychologists contend that we cannot have sanity without a sane relationship with the environment. Some psychotherapists are beginning to feel their work is "irrelevant" as they increasingly encounter analysis-weary patients seeking a sense of "connectedness." Meanwhile, eco-activists have been concluding that guilt tactics are not producing the changes in human behavior required for planetary restoration. Indeed, the thinking on the ecological frontiers is that our key to survival lies in the formation of an empathic relationship with the earth.

This workshop will demonstrate the critical link between shamanism and the emerging ecopsychology movement. Ancient shamanic practices will be used to address contemporary ecopsychological dilemmas. Participants will work with plants, stones, feathers, and fetish animals to make tangible the shamanic worldview that "all things are related." Cleansing, purifying herbs, simple repetitive movement, and the sound of the drum will be tools for self-empowerment to become visionaries of a sustainable future. Leslie will share songs, rituals, and stories learned from her Native American elders—for these are the ways human beings have traditionally maintained an emotional connection to Mother Earth and the awesome diversity of creatures that live upon her.

C.E. credit is available for psychologists; see page 61.

Sensory Awareness
Charlotte Selver
Some seventy years ago Charlotte Selver's teacher, Elsa Gindler, began exploring the natural potential of the human being. The work that evolved was an approach through a disciplined practice involving the person as total organism. Gindler's innovative methods very often unearthed, liberated, and cultivated abilities and sensitivities which her students had never been conscious of possessing.

To "awaken" means that one's energies—neuromuscular and perceptive—become altered, leading to greater movability, both psychologically and physically, and to a fuller use of the senses and intuitive powers. For this to occur, a deeper peace is needed so that sensations become clearer and rigidities, pressures, and preconceptions can gradually dissolve. In becoming "tuned in" by another person, or by a task or given situation, powers come into play which correspond exactly to the demands of the occasion. This calls for subtle reactiveness and openness to the moment.

With the cultivation of these functions, our lives can unfold in a far richer and more responsive way than what we are used to. We can restore the delight of ever new experiencing which was our birthright in childhood, but lost in the course of our education into adulthood.

Recommended reading: Brooks, Sensory Awareness.
C.E. credit is available for nurses; see pages 60.

$425

Week of November 17–22

Hakomi and Internal Family Systems: A New Synthesis
Ron Kurtz & Richard Schwartz
This workshop is part of an innovative process in which the developers of two different models of psychotherapy are collaborating in an attempt to enrich each model and create a new synthesis. Ron Kurtz is the creator of the Hakomi method of Body-Centered Psychotherapy, based on principles of mindfulness, organicity, nonviolence, and mind-body holism; Richard Schwartz developed the Internal Family Systems model, which brings systems thinking to the world of subpersonalities. Through experiential exercises, demonstrations, and discussion, group members will explore both the roots and this cutting edge of psychotherapy. The workshop is designed for those in the helping professions as well as interested nonprofessionals.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.  $795

Relationships: The Courage to Begin

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

For one human being to love another: that is perhaps the most difficult of all our tasks, the ultimate test and proof, the work for which all the other work is but preparation.  — RILKE

Life is a precious gift. We have all experienced moments of feeling totally alive, especially within our relationships. When beliefs, defenses, fears, and emotions from the past enter into our present-day relationships, we lose our ability to feel love, trust, and joy.

The goal of this workshop is to experience these patterns and create new ways to relate to ourselves, others, and our work, thus enabling us to create new beginnings. This workshop can help you:

- Find out how your relationships mirror you
- Get a clearer picture of what you want and how to get it
- Examine ways you sabotage yourself
- Learn more about how others see you
- Learn practical tools and knowledge that will help create empowered relationships

In a supportive and safe environment, experiential exercises will help you become more adept at listening, empathizing, truth-telling, creative problem-solving, and taking responsibility to create the relationships you want. Come alone or with a partner. The workshop will draw from gestalt, Reichian work, dance, imagery, and meditation.  $795

How To Want What You Have

Timothy Miller

Whether seekers or cynics, conservatives or liberals, most people spend their lives imagining happiness is right around the corner. All that is needed is “just a little more” of something.

Most of us know, in theory, that happiness lies in wanting what we have, not in having what we want, but don’t know how to put that theory into practice. Normal desires for just a little more prosperity, love, success, or power seem to have no “off switch.” This is the fundamental obstacle to spiritual development described in most religious traditions.

In the sunlight of awareness, each thought and action becomes sacred.  — THICH NHAT HANH

Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita) & Guest Leaders

Laura DeNuccio writes: "One of the greatest gifts we have to offer the rest of creation is our heartfelt appreciation for the blessings and teachings of life. This attitude of gratitude blesses our lives and increases our good. Let’s come together and share: What’s healing? What’s challenging? What needs forgiving? What matters to your heart?

"This is an invitation to those individuals aware of an emerging consciousness felt and heard personally and globally, and who are searching to fulfill higher and deeper callings in their lives. Emphasis will be on learning how we embody this emerging consciousness, bridging our personal growth and inner experience with our outer involvement in the world.

"Cultivating mindfulness, compassion, and patience, we will joyfully explore self-care practices to nourish and enliven the body, quiet and still the mind, and open our hearts. Special attention will be given to any personal issues that emerge as we honor and celebrate our lives.

"Come and join us with your love and willingness to explore this ever-unfolding adventure of spirit, and we will all be gifted with a deepened sense of interconnectedness and aloha that is inherent in all life-forms."

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

---

Weekend of November 22-24

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see September 20-22.  $425

Finding the Sacred in Our Everyday World

Phil Cousineau, David Darling & Anthony Lawlor

...if you can’t find where your soul is hidden, for you the world will never be real!  — Kabir

Where do we turn when the music and poetry has gone out of our everyday lives? What can we do when we realize that our work, our home, and community have become soulless, and the world seems devoid of meaning?

The mysterious sense of the sacred found at sites such as temples, churches, and mosques and envisioned in works of the imagination can connect us to the infinite. The world’s wisdom traditions tell us that the task is to bring the sacred visions, rhythms, and melodies revealed by saints, sages, architects, and artists into our daily lives.

This experiential workshop will explore different practices of mindfulness with an emphasis on joyful attention to the mysteries of everyday life. It will combine classical, sacred, and jazz music by cellist David Darling, readings from mythology and poetry, slide shows illustrating sacred architecture from Ireland and France to Cambodia and Bali, together with a rich selection of documentary and feature film clips. There will be ample opportunity for open discussion, as well as exercises for applying design principles from sacred places including:

- Tools for creating sacred space in your own home
- Ideas for finding the spirit of place in your workplace
- Tricks for bringing a little soul to your workplace

Recommended reading and listening: Lawlor, The Temple in the House: Finding the Sacred in Everyday Architecture; Cousineau, Soul: An Archaeology: Readings from Socrates to Ray Charles and The Soul of the World; Darling, Eight-Stringed Religion and Cello.  $425

---

Thanksgiving into Healing

Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita) & Guest Leaders

In the sunlight of awareness, each thought and action becomes sacred.  — THICH NHAT HANH
The Intersubjective Approach to Psychotherapy

Robert Stolorow, George Atwood, Leonard Bearne, Elena Bonn & Linda Loomis

During the past decade, Robert Stolorow, George Atwood, and their collaborators have been elaborating a new theoretical paradigm for the conduct of psychotherapy. In this new paradigm, called intersubjectivity theory, the central guiding metaphor is the larger relational field in which psychological phenomena crystallize and in which experience is continually and mutually shaped. From an intersubjective perspective, crucial clinical phenomena such as transference, resistance, impasses, and the therapeutic process itself are seen to take form at the interface of the interacting subjective worlds of client and therapist.

Friday evening Dr. Stolorow will present an overview of the basic concepts of intersubjectivity theory. On Saturday Dr. Atwood will join the other co-leaders to discuss the clinical application of the intersubjective perspective to specific therapeutic issues. Sunday morning Drs. Stolorow and Atwood will return to address questions that have emerged during the weekend.

This workshop is recommended for psychotherapists and counselors who wish to enlarge their capacity to gain access to their clients' inner experiences.

Recommended reading: Stolorow & Atwood, Contexts of Being; Stolorow, Brandchaft & Atwood, Psychoanalytic Treatment and The Intersubjective Perspective.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. $425

In Tenderness and Fire: A Workshop for Couples

David Schiffman & Susan Kuttner

Susan and David write: "This weekend will be a time to see and to appreciate each other once again, with fresh eyes. It will be an opportunity to open to the presence of our partners in a spirit of renewal and openness-heartedness. The emphasis will be on keeping the spark of love alive—through emotional presence, touch, movement, music, ritual, and shared visions. We will investigate ways of communicating with each other that encourage clarity, truthfulness, imagination, and soulful excitement."

The weekend is for couples who would like to celebrate a reunion of spirit in a mood of tender, respectful attention. $425

November 24–December 1

Healing from Trauma: A Seven-Day Intensive

Carolyn Braddock & Christian Hendricks

Healing does not have to be a struggle—healing can be gentle, sensitive, and friendly. In a week of safety, exploration, and integration, this intensive will explore the belief systems of the trauma survivor's body, mind, and spirit (whether the trauma be sexual, emotional, physical, body-image, or from accidents, illnesses, or surgeries), and offer innovative and creative possibilities for healing.

Since the body was where the trauma occurred, the focus will be on body-oriented healing. Participants will learn how trauma affects body responses. They will be shown ways to move through body memories, flashbacks, and dissociation, to identify and release old patterns, and to recognize addictions and make healthy new choices. Breath, sound, and selected centering and martial arts techniques will be utilized to assist participants in expressing their voice—the source of their power.

Participants will be taught specific tools for wholeness: humor, energy awareness, gestalt, role-playing, meditation, Tai Ji, and play. Specific sessions will focus on sexuality, relationships, touch and intimacy, and creating new patterns. There will be video demonstrations. Individual work within the group will be possible.

To register, completion of an application questionnaire is necessary. This is to provide some history and to help determine what support could be available during the week. For an application, please contact Carolyn Braddock at: PO. Box 260123, Lakewood, CO 80226-0123, phone 303-985-7310, or fax 303-989-9813

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $1220

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. $795

Expressive Painting

Leigh Hyams

Artwork comes straight through an open mind and an adventurous spirit. With it comes clarity of vision, increased self-awareness, and a deepening understanding of the meaning of art in one's life.

Without freedom one cannot respond fully to the experience of painting. Leigh Hyams's teaching methods help students to work freely, exuberantly, and sensitively from the very first session. Participants will work from still lifes, models, dreams, myths, memories, and Esalen's natural landscape. Informal discussions, demonstrations, and slides of art from many cultures will help expand understanding of visual language. Participants will complete portfolios of their own paintings and, in the process, may discover a new sense of themselves as artistic, creative human beings.

This is a workshop for people who want to revitalize their connection with art—to develop... op fresh eyes. No previous experience is necessary. The only prerequisites are curiosity about the creative process and a willingness to explore the rich possibilities inherent in the act of painting.

$795
(plus $50 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

Entering the Dreamtime:
Walking Between Two Worlds
Jeremiah Abrams

In the last analysis, most of our difficulties come from losing contact with our instincts, with the age-old unforgotten wisdom stored up in us. And where do we make contact with this old man or old woman in us? In our dreams.

—C.G. Jung

What we dream reflects forward and backward on our everyday waking reality. In fact, we dream all the time; it is only when we drop below the threshold of reverie in sleep that we dream without distraction. In this experiential workshop, participants will engage in the magic of conscious dreaming and learn to be walkers between two worlds.

The approach will be a synthesis of the soul-centered view of Jungian archetypal psychology and the psychospiritual shaman's journey, which are concerned with the unique mative path that each soul must follow. The main purpose is to incarnate the realities of the Self.

In an environment of safety and support, participants will journey inward, using visualization, trance, breathwork, ritual, and music, allowing images to emerge, encouraging an easy flow between conscious and unconscious reality. Bioenergetics, bodywork, active imagination, and group dialogue will be used to embody the insights retrieved.

Midpoint in the workshop, the group will enter into the dreamtime in a ceremonial purification (sweat) lodge. The week will end with a ritual celebration, weaving the individual dreaming together into a collective dream mandala.

$795

Weekend of November 29–December 1

The Patterns of Life
Fritjof Capra & Chungliang Al Huang

Throughout the history of philosophy and science there has been a tension between substance and form, contents and pattern. In the West, the study of contents ("basic building blocks") dominated all science until recently. In the East, especially in China, the acceptance and awareness of the "Larger Pattern"—Tao Hsing, which includes both substance and form, contents and patterns—has always been predominant.

In this workshop, Fritjof Capra will show how the study of pattern has informed the latest developments in science—systems theory, chaos theory, fractal geometry, and more. Chungliang Al Huang will complement this approach by demonstrating through Tai Ji movement meditation, Chinese philosophy, and brush calligraphic symbols how the study of pattern is at the very center of ancient Taoist wisdom. Together they will expand the scope of their previous explorations.

This workshop unites two longtime friends from opposite cultural backgrounds to share a synthesis of East and West in a stimulating exploration of lifelong learning.

$425

The Sources of Growth
Seymour Carter

Many potential sources of our growth reside in our unfinished issues, the developmental processes that we have failed to recognize and assimilate because of distressing life experienances or the inability to learn about them. “Unfinished issues” refers to normal phases of development which have been bypassed or ignored. It is unfortunate but true that most families emphasize some of our attributes and ignore or discourage others. These unclaimed potential talents, tendencies, and traits are a powerful reservoir within us waiting to be tapped.

Using a primarily gestalt-oriented process, supported by the tools of family systems theory, practices of introspection, and body-oriented intervention strategies, participants can begin to discover and utilize capacities in themselves for new possibilities in their lives. Each participant’s process of development will be honored, encouraged, and treated as unique.

$425

Week of December 1-6

The Incredible Lightness of Being: A Transformational Movement Workshop

Patti (Lawrence) White & Claire Brown

Movement is life; without movement, life is unthinkable!

— Moshe Feldenkrais

We all seek to heal our emotional-mental-spiritual wounding and to function with grace and ease in the world. A clear pathway to this state of grace is to find and release those issues blocking self-empowerment. This workshop offers the tools to achieve this state and create a lightness of being.

All experience imbeds itself in body tissue, which, left unmoved, can eventually lead to a pervasive sense of heaviness, frequently unrecognized. Using a guided sequence of movements to access the brain, central nervous system, and emotional body, this work will take you on a journey of awareness of your body’s connection to life experience, karma, and spirit. By altering your brain-body connection, you can not only change how you move but begin to alter your belief system as well.

Participants will experience a synthesis of Feldenkrais and CranioSacral movement, blended with Ericksonian hypnosis and dreamwork. The workshop will encompass movement, sound, and restrictive pattern recognition. Meditation, art, dance, and play will be used with Holophonic sound to stimulate brain function. Prepare yourself for a creative journey to find your personal place of self-empowerment, inner peace, and grace.

Change, Challenges, and Self-Esteem

Phyllis Shankman

Change and the inevitable challenges of life are an ever present aspect of living which must be faced, accepted, and used creatively as opportunities for growth if one is to sustain a healthy, interesting, and meaningful life. Many individuals talk about wanting change while actively or passively resisting it—often until they are faced with one of life’s challenges. Self-esteem—which includes self-acceptance, self-appreciation, and self-confidence—enables one to confront fear and resistance and increases the willingness to change, risk, learn, and grow.

This workshop presents a gentle yet in-depth process for exploring and developing self-acceptance and for creatively confronting opportunities for change and growth. Activities will include group process, meditation, movement, massage, music, art, visualization, and whatever arises spontaneously.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $795

Big Sur Ceramic Alchemy

Noel Mapstead & Keiko Suga

Almost all elements on earth melt at a given temperature. In this workshop participants will experiment with the alchemical changes caused by the forces of heat.

The Big Sur coast is endowed with many natural clay deposits and other raw materials. Conducting field trips along the Big Sur coast, the workshop will provide the opportunity to explore the alchemy of clay and rock as well as other natural materials. Participants will learn to identify and work with natural clays. Using only nature’s materials such as cow dung, seaweed, and abalone shells, the group will create glazes for handmade pottery, beads, and other objects. These works will be fired in electric kilns and open-pit bonfires. Additional activities will include clay mud baths at Esalen’s hot springs and a Native American sweat lodge ceremony.

This workshop intends to challenge the senses by demonstrating that all matter is variable and subject to change. Plus, it offers a chance to create holiday presents for those we love.

No prior ceramics experience is necessary. $795

Soul Dramas: Past-Life Regression and Spiritual Healing for (Helping) Professionals

Roger Woolger

“Soul dramas are the daily emotional patterns, roles, and scripts we get stuck in and habitually act out,” writes Roger Woolger. “Some believe that although the soul first staged its dramas around childhood trauma, it had already rehearsed them in utero and had written them long ago from the ancient store of past-life melodramas we all carry.”

Soul dramas can be tragic, pathetic, humorous, or banal, and when left unrecognized can cause anxiety, depression and rage, or a deep sense of dissatisfaction or alienation. Roger Woolger’s unique method of releasing and transforming these compulsive dramas involves regression to buried memories and past lives, as well as profound after-death encounters in the spirit realms called “bardos” by Tibetan Buddhists. Participants will be taught simple methods for body release, healing catharsis, and the reintegration of lost parts of the soul.

Experienced in psychotherapy and bodywork (Jung, Reich, and Gestalt), Woolger compassionately helps bring people through deep, transformative experiences, creating an atmosphere that is safe and contained. He also illuminates the broader spiritual picture, from Sufism to Western mysticism to Shakespeare—teaching with humor through poetry, music, story, and meditation.

Recommended reading: Woolger, Other Lives, Other Selves.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $795

Weekend of December 6-8

The Elements of Transformation

Tony Schwartz & Deborah Pines

Who am I? Why am I here? Is it possible to transform while continuing to live an ordinary life in the world?

Tony Schwartz and his wife, Deborah Pines, hungered for answers to these fundamental questions. For five years, Tony and Deborah crisscrossed the country, interviewing and working with more than two hundred psychologists, philosophers, physicians, mystics, and scientists. Tony’s book, What Really Matters: Searching for Wisdom in America, tells... the story of their travels. M. Scott Peck called it "the most superior compendium I know of the technologies used to search for wisdom."

Tony and Deborah emerged from this search with a conviction that no singular path is sufficient, but that it is increasingly possible to pursue a comprehensive, balanced, and integrated path to a complete life. Drawing on the insights of Western depth psychology and the Eastern contemplative traditions, they will introduce a set of integrated practices for the mind, body, and spirit. In the process they will delineate five central facets of a complete life: awareness, character, performance, relationship, and community. Focusing on these areas, the group will participate in a range of practices including dreamwork, meditation, active listening, focused inquiry, and cultivating the essential virtues. There will also be an introduction to the Enneagram, a powerful personality typing system which can facilitate transformative work.

Weekend Massage Intensive
Dean Marson & Margaret Stevens

This workshop is an introduction to the art of touch. Participants will learn a basic approach to giving a pleasurable and beneficial Esalen-style massage through observation of demonstrations and hands-on work. In addition, the instructors will present practices which support massage including meditation, movement, stretching, and self-care techniques. While this group is especially suited for beginners, it is also open to those who wish to refresh their knowledge of massage skills.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.  $425

Conscious Loving: A Body-Centered Approach to Relationship Transformation
Gay & Kathlyn Hendricks

Relationships are the primary arena in which our deepest selves are either concealed or revealed. This workshop is designed for couples, professionals, and singles who are interested in the ability of a close relationship to catalyze the creativity of each person. It has two major purposes: 1) to expand the experience of love past previous limits; and 2) to learn to rest in the essence that underlies personal creativity and self-expression.

Based on the Hendrickse's experience with over 1,500 couples, they will present breath and movement practices that can accelerate the process by which people in close relationships can attain their goals. Participants will work on the transformation of present relationships while exploring three key principles of conscious relationship: living in integrity, claiming creativity, and embracing life. The workshop will present tools designed to make it easier to tell the truth and take healthy responsibility for feelings and issues.

Among the tools to be used: videotapes, movement processes, breathwork, and dyadic communication exercises.

Recommended reading: G. & K. Hendricks, Conscious Loving and At the Speed of Life.  $425

A Workshop for Poets
Galway Kinnell

This is a gathering for the writing of new poems in an atmosphere that is encouraging and challenging. The participants will be asked to put aside old habits and attempt to write something that is more difficult and daring than they have done previously. They will also be asked to take part in making the workshop supportive and inspiring for others. Much of the time during the weekend will be spent writing. Only the new poems written during these two days will be discussed in the group meeting.

To apply, please send four pages of your recent poems, typed (no dot matrix, please) with name, address, and day and evening phone numbers, postmarked by October 3, to Kinnell Workshop, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920. Participants will be notified of their acceptance by October 31.  $425

The MAX: Stretching the Limits of Your Self-Expression
Paula Shaw

"The MAX" is an outrageous voyage through your own humanity—a journey to turn yourself inside out and explore the extent of your self-expression power. It employs a variety of acting, observation, and communication methods designed to expand your limits to the "max" and move you into a new arena of personal creativity and self-expression.

"The MAX" is extremely challenging. Participants must commit to a rigorous exploration of the sources of their emotional limitations. Seminar hours will be longer than usual early in the week (and shorter later in the week). Participants will work individually in front of the room, playing to and with other group members. There will be exercises that use raw emotion, role-playing, and "dress-up" assignments.

This workshop is an opportunity to experience yourself in a way you may have dreamed about but never imagined possible. The game is risk, the premise: You're either daring or dead—the most unsafe thing you can do in life is to play it safe. Clearly, this course is not for... the faint of heart, but it is full of heart, humor, and irreverence and is constructed with the understanding that this kind of risk-taking requires a very safe workspace.

If your heart beats faster when you think of taking this workshop, then maybe it's just the thing to do.

Please note: Due to the intense and sequential nature of this workshop, attendance at all sessions is necessary.

Prerequisite: A 1-3 minute memorized piece—monologue, poem, song, etc. $795

Icons: Faces of Darkness and Illumination

Christopher Castle

Icons are images of the divine and are found in all cultures throughout time. Prehistoric figurines, faces of angels, bodhisattvas, or goddesses of the silver screen—all can transform our spirit.

The icons of the Byzantine tradition fascinate us with their magical qualities. The beauty of their ancient surfaces of gold and pure color are captivating; their images and forms embody an inherent joy and mystical light. The archetypal stories and characters they represent find a deep reflection in our consciousness and open the doors of our perceptions. Artists and non-artists of any spiritual persuasion find depth and meaning in the alchemy of creating the icon, the image which integrates the human and the divine, the immanent and the transcendent.

In a setting of quiet contemplation, workshop participants will make traditional or contemporary images using the ancient and now little-known methods and materials of icons. Daytime sessions will include instruction in panel preparation, the use of gold leaf, and egg tempera painting. Evening slide shows on the history and meaning of icons together with music and meditations on images from many cultures and times will provide a full context for the studio sessions.

No prior art experience is necessary.

C.E. credit is available upon agreement with JFK University. $795 (plus $30 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

Purpose and Passion: Returning to Your Soul's Memory of Wholeness

Genny Davis

"Wholeness is the desired and vibrational state of our true being," writes Genny Davis. "It must be embodied into our full consciousness in order to achieve our health, career, financial, and life goals.

"Each of us has a personal and collective purpose that we are called upon to realize so that we may be fulfilled. This workshop is designed to provide an in-depth opportunity to discover your purpose and to live your alignment with your creative passion.

"Through awakening to our souls memory of wholeness, a deepening of consciousness occurs naturally. Our past histories and experiences carried within our bodies and minds are transformed into the essential value and integrity of our authentic nature.

"Through interweaving the seven universal laws with the seven chakras, the healing arts of meditation, hands-on healing, sacred ceremonies, and individual and group experiences, you can learn to transcend limitation, awaken the path of your heart, and move into your soul's vibration and cellular intelligence."

"You can learn to journey beyond your body and mind's imprint of dysfunction so that you can embody your full potential. I welcome all you who are going through transitions and consciously seeking alignment for your unique path and lifework."

Healing is nothing more than a return to wholeness. — DEEPAK CHOPRA

Cooking as Spiritual Practice: Finding Your Way in the Kitchen

Ed Brown

Cooking may be viewed as a spiritual practice in the sense that it allows us opportunities to directly experience and awaken generosity, kindness, careful effort, patience, concentration, and awareness. To become intimate with the ingredients of our life and learn to handle them with sincerity is a primary focus of practice.

"Ingredients" may include any object of awareness from foods to thoughts, feelings, and physical sensations. By practicing Zen Master Dogen's advice—"Let your mind go out and abide in things. Let things return and abide in the mind:" we can find out what to "cook up."

Activities will include meditation, lecture and discussions, bread making, knife sharpening and cutting techniques, as well as structured tastings to acquaint your palate with its palette of flavors and tastes. The workshop is designed to enhance your capacity to cook and to have confidence in and develop your own sensibilities (all of which is different than being a good recipe-follower).

This workshop is designed to help both would-be and experienced cooks to cultivate fresh insights into the possibilities inherent in cooking and in oneself. Bon appetit. $795

Weekend of December 13-15

Introduction to Gestalt Practice

Eric Erickson

The Way, when declared
Seems so thin and flavorless.
Nothing to look at, nothing to hear—
And when used—is inexhaustible.

— LAO TZU

The Way, when declared
Seems so thin and flavorless.
Nothing to look at, nothing to hear—
And when used—is inexhaustible.

— LAO TZU
Gestalt practice is a form—nonanalytic, noncoercive, nonjudgmental—evolving out of the work of Fritz Perls. The work integrates ways of personal clearing and development that are both ancient and modern. To the extent that awareness is made primary relative to action, gestalt practice has a strong relationship to some forms of meditation and visualization.

It is explicitly understood that participants are not patients but persons actively consenting to work (or play) in awareness. The leader functions to reflect, clarify, and respect whatever emerges in this process. The aim is unfoldment, wholeness, and growth, rather than adjustment, cure, or accomplishment. Much of the power of the practice is brought forth by concentrating attention on the seeming simplicity of our moment-to-moment awareness made primary relative to action, our perceptions of "reality," It will examine Gurdjieff's main ideas, integrating them with modern growth psychology.

The seminar will extend beyond dreaming to creation, and that we are free to act in the world. We are not bound to forever sleepwalk unaware of the opportunities available. We are not bound to forever sleepwalk through our dreams, Lucid dreams are dreams in which we know we are dreaming while we're dreaming. While lucid, we can be fully conscious that the dreamworld is a mental creation, and that we are free to act in the dream unconstrained by laws of physics or society.

People can develop the skill of lucid dreaming and research has shown that it can profoundly affect our brains and bodies. Participants will be taught how to induce lucid dreaming and explore its many uses: self-exploration, creative problem-solving, enhancing self-confidence, healing, adventure, and self-integration.

The seminar will extend beyond dreaming to investigate our experience of the world and our perceptions of "reality." It will explore the concept that all perceptions are illusory and that waking reality is, like dreaming, a mental construction.

The workshop will combine lecture and experiential exercises. It is intended for avid dreamers and people interested in self-exploration and the enhancement of consciousness.

Recommended reading: LaBerge, Lucid Dreaming, LaBerge & Rheingold, Exploring the World of Lucid Dreaming.

Toward Waking Up: Cultivating Mindfulness

Charles Tart

Ordinary consciousness is a kind of waking sleep, an absorption in our personal and cultural illusions. This apparently strange Eastern concept is actually supported in detail by Western psychological data. Given this, how can we awaken? Our essential selves were invalidated and suppressed in childhood, as part of our "education." How can we rediscover and nourish them? Our instinctual and sensory wisdom is buried under cultural noise and distraction. How can we come to our senses?

G.I. Gurdjieff, one of the first teachers to adapt Eastern spiritual methods to Western culture, developed practices for awakening from our sleep, our cultural trance. Occasional retreats to exotic places like Esalen are quite useful, but ordinary life is the best setting for using psychological and spiritual development practices that emphasize balanced work on mind, emotions, instincts, and body. This workshop will examine Gurdjieff's main ideas, integrating them with modern growth psychology.

Self-observation and self-remembering will be taught as a primary meditation-in-life for increasing self-understanding and living more effectively in the here and now. These practices use that most marvelous tool that is always with us—our bodies. The workshop will also review basic formal meditation practice as an aid to mindfulness. The emphasis will be on practicing awakening as part of everyday life.

Recommended reading: Tart, Waking Up and/or Living the Mindful Life.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. $425

Powerfully Presenting Yourself

Paula Shaw

Why are some people so cogent and inspiring when they speak? What holds you back from delivering your message? This workshop will explore the inhibitions to self-expression and communication and help you to move beyond them, creating more freedom in both your personal and professional life. It is designed for people who want to develop a more powerful personal and public presentation as well as better professional and business communication skills (e.g., lawyers, doctors, teachers, managers, and consultants).

In an environment of safety and support, you will have the opportunity to experiment with presenting yourself in front of various-sized groups, using your voice, body, and emotional power. There will be in-depth individual and group exercises designed to free you from past blocks to presenting yourself publicly.

Up-front courage, passion, and clarity need not be restricted to rare moments in life. This process can help bring to life the eloquent speaker of your fantasies. You can learn to express yourself more fully and experience the satisfaction of being more authentic, effective, and self-assured. $425

Quantum Realities: Eight Plus One

Nick Herbert

The discovery of new quantum facts whose behavior is exactly described by quantum theory has given physicists unprecedented power and control over nature at the price of renouncing a picture of quantum reality. "Who could have imagined," Albert Einstein once remarked about this quantum reality crisis, "that we would come to know so much yet understand so little." In place of commonsensical but outdated old Newtonian reality, physicists have tried for six decades to explain the quantum facts/theory with a bewildering variety of tentative realities—all of them bizarre and none of them quite satisfactory.

In his popular science classic, Quantum Reality, Nick Herbert described eight realities ranging from Niels Bohr's meter-created reality to Hugh Everett's many-worlds reality to John von Neumann's consciousness-created reality. This workshop will examine how physicists justify and object to these eight modern visions of the way the world works and introduce a ninth view, Nick's favorite: "quantum tantra," which imagines physical/mental reality to be the unfolding sex-play of two divine beings.

Come and explore the borders of today's science with a provocative writer and thinker. $425
Weekend of December 20-22

A New Beginning: Courage and Heart
Mary Goldenson (Devarani) & Gustavo Rabin

One day you finally knew what you had to do and began... —Mary Oliver

Courage is resistance to fear, mastery of fear, not absence of fear. —Mark Twain

"As the year draws to an end," Mary Goldenson writes, "we will courageously peer into the depths of our hearts and minds and ask the questions:

1. Does my life reflect my heart's desires?
2. If fear did not stop me, what might I be doing differently?
3. What truths do I need to tell to live?
4. To whom or what have I given power over my life and what must I do to reclaim it?
5. How shall I live, knowing I shall die?

"More than the answers, our questions define where the real meaning of our life resides. Firmly grounded in the moment, we will explore ways to reconnect with our source of creativity and spirituality."

This workshop provides ways to help complete the past, be open to the present, and create the future. A safe, supportive environment will be provided. Didactic and experiential exercises will draw from gestalt, Reichian work, imagery, dance, and meditation.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. $425

Big Sur Bead Making
Noel Mapstead & Keiko Suga

The Big Sur coast is uniquely endowed with natural clays that have been decomposing from granite rock for millions of years. This workshop will be dedicated to the making of clay beads from local natural sources.

The group will explore the Big Sur coast to gather clays, make beads, and bake the beads in open-pit fires using cow dung and seaweed. Participants will be taught to identify natural clays, work and process clay, and fire with traditional and modern methods. Other activities will include bead stringing, hot clay mud baths, and a Native American sweat lodge.

The very act of pinching clay with our fingers marks us as human. The impulse to fashion the natural materials shared with the beasts of what distinguishes us from them.

The workshop will develop from this simple ground. It will also examine the history of hand-crafted beads as monetary value versus the dehumanizing value of money today.

Emphasis will be on creating objects to give to loved ones. No experience is necessary.

The Healing Power of Humor, Compassion, and Gentle Touch: The Rubenfeld Synergy® Method
Ilana Rubenfeld

"Humor lightened the dark, painful places in my life and helped me onto a path of healing," writes Ilana Rubenfeld. This workshop is for people who want to include humor, movement, body language, and compassionate touch as a way of taking care of themselves personally, professionally, and spiritually.

Using the Rubenfeld Synergy Method, a healing system for the dynamic integration of body, mind, emotions, and spirit, participants will have the opportunity to listen, recognize, and work through feelings and memories locked in their bodies.

The workshop will use body/mind exercises, individual demonstrations, hands-on practice, dreamwork, gestalt practice, and music, all designed to support contacting, releasing, transforming, and balancing the energy of inner body language.

The workshop atmosphere will be one of caring, healing, laughter, tears, and inspiration—encouraging participants to experience empowerment, integration, and new possibilities.

Recommended reading: Rubenfeld, Twenty-Five Years of Simple (available through The Rubenfeld Center, 115 Waverly Place, New York, NY 10011).

Participation in this workshop fulfills one of the requirements for acceptance into the Rubenfeld Synergy Training Program. $425

The Psychology of Storytelling
Bob Maurer

Stories possess the ability to tap into our deepest needs and desires, to hold us in their grasp by characters and plots that arouse our anger, engage our sympathies, and even inspire our love. New research findings have provided insights into how and why we create stories. All stories are created, read, heard, or seen by the brain. This workshop uses research, taped interviews with authors, and film clips to illustrate the brain's "rules" for storytelling and to demonstrate that all stories have universal themes.

This course is a convergence of literature, spirituality, and science which can be applied to personal awareness and growth, writing, creativity, and living. The material will be of interest to writers and nonwriters alike. Additional topics include:

- How childhood experiences impact our motivation and life choices
- How conflict is created and resolved in life and in fiction
- How a character "touches" an audience
- Why people sabotage success
- Strategies for enhancing and sustaining creativity

Participants are encouraged to bring writing samples. There will also be writing exercises and opportunities for feedback.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. $425

Stress Reduction: An East/West Approach
David Levenson & Mark Abramson

Stress comes to us in many forms. Our bodies and minds are stressed by chronic pain and persistent illness. Relationships are stressful. We find stress at home and at work, in our social and financial lives, even in our recreation.

Stress often leads us to suffering. Muscles tense up, pain tolerance decreases, inflammations increase, intestines go into spasm, fatigue may become profound. Our minds are often filled with anxiety, fear, depression, anger, and helplessness.

All of this suffering is normal and understandable, but it is not required: Suffering is optional. In this workshop, you will be taught to minimize suffering with the help of mindfulness meditation, yoga, self-hypnosis, deep relaxation, healing imagery, and cognitive approaches. Through these practices, you can develop a self-loving objectivity, an ability to respond to your pain and suffering with compassion instead of self-criticism, guilt, and shame.

The workshop is designed to be practical. The aim is to integrate your experiences and give you tools to use in your everyday life.

The workshop is open to nonmeditators and meditators alike, as well as to people with or without medical problems.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. $425
Week of December 22–27

Spiritual Healing: Laying-on-of-Hands
Maria Lucia Sauer Hollman
For workshop description see September 1-6.
C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.
$795

Improvisational Being
Nina Wise
To relax our attention into the present moment is extraordinarily simple; but for most of us it requires a lifetime of practice.
—Ruth Zaporah
Imagine feeling comfortable to dance whenever you feel like dancing, at parties, nightclubs, or simply alone in your living room. Imagine feeling able to sing whenever the impulse arises, in the car, by your child’s bedside, or sitting around a dinner table with friends. Imagine feeling free to speak in a different voice and become a different character, a Southern belle, a French poet, a Brooklyn teenager.
Spontaneity has become limited in modern life. We have been trained to be polite, to follow the rules. We inhibit our spontaneous impulses in order to fit in, to be approved of, loved. Yet ironically, as we suppress our impulses to play, we feel more and more alienated from ourselves, our friends, family, and colleagues.
This workshop is about loosening the hold of the censoring mind that inhibits our speech and actions. It will include movement, meditation, singing, chanting, and theater games, as well as spontaneous performances with and for each other in a safe and supportive environment.
Through experimentation with improvising, we discover that as we take the risk to express who we are in playful and creative ways, we feel a sense of ease and belonging that previously eluded us. We can also have a lot more fun.
$795

Selves Transformation:
The Voice Dialogue Process
Judith Stone & Sindona Cassteel
The course of our lives is determined to a great extent by an array of selves that live within each of us. The more we become attuned to these inner voices, the more real choice we are able to exercise in the pursuit of our individual destinies.
—DRS. HAL & SIDRA STONE
The Voice Dialogue Process, based on the psychology of selves, teaches us a philosophy and method for getting in touch with the wonderful and distinctive selves that live within each of us. Rather than focusing on “what” is being said, the focus is on “who” is saying it. “Who” becomes a process of exploration into these subpersonalities: when they were born in our lives, why they came into being, and how they serve to support and protect us.
This workshop offers a safe transformational experience using The Voice Dialogue Process. In being able to meet and honor the selves that are primary in our lives we in turn create a bridge to those selves that have been dis-owned. Strengthening the consciousness created in regard to our selves offers us true choice and empowerment in our personal lives, relationships, and lifework.
$795

Painting the Soulscape
Robert Venosa & Martina Hoffmann
This painting seminar explores what the leaders call Serendipitous Exploitation, “an emotional outpouring of color and seemingly abstract form, followed by studied, individualistic detailing.” Using this simple process, the artist—beginner or experienced—can begin to create essential form and color that are both enlivening and enlightening. The premise is to exercise right-brain potential in a non-threatening, effortless, and exuberant manner that instills joy, self-discovery, and newfound self-esteem.
Participants will also be introduced to the Rubenfeld Synergy Technique (discovered in 1460 by Van Eyck and employed by such masters as Rembrandt, Dürer, and Max Ernst) and will work with an updated simplified version. Upon completion of the workshop, the group will hold a mini-exhibit of their creations for all to see and enjoy.
This workshop is for anyone wishing to tap the artistic capabilities that lie within their reach and discover the joy and illuminating power of painting.
Note: Upon registration, participants will be sent a list of materials to bring.
$795

Healing the Emotional/Spiritual Body:
The Rubenfeld Synergy Method
Ilana Rubenfeld
This workshop is for people who want to learn how to listen to the messages, memories, and feelings locked in their bodies. Ilana Rubenfeld will introduce and demonstrate the Rubenfeld Synergy Method, a holistic system that integrates Alexander Technique, Feldenkrais Method®, Ericksonian hypnosis, and gestalt practice.
Each day will include: body/mind exercises to relax, stretch, and to heighten awareness; hands-on teaching to develop intuitive, gentle touch; discussions and demonstrations; and music and humor. The workshop community will become an active culture for learning and growth focused on:
• The interdependence of emotions and posture
• Healing the wounds of dysfunctional families
• Moving beyond therapeutic techniques toward intuitive wisdom
• Dreams and metaphors that reveal life patterns
• Developing a sense of humor
• Honoring the sacred within

“The body is the sacred sanctuary of the soul,” says Ilana. “Care for it like a flower garden.” In this workshop she will demonstrate the possibility of achieving emotional, physical, and spiritual integration.
Recommended reading: Rubenfeld, Twenty-Five Years of Simple (available through The Rubenfeld Center, 115 Waverly Place, New York, NY 10011).
$795

Weekend of December 27–29

Experiencing Esalen
Experiencing Esalen Staff
For workshop description see September 20-22.
$425

‘Tis a Gift to Be Simple
David Schiffman
This weekend is intended as an offering for people who would like to return to the simplicity of the values we treasure most. Its aim is to create a climate of mutual support and encouragement for exploring how to best cultivate the spirit of real generosity and faith in dealing with ourselves and others.
This timely gift will embrace the following elements:
• Sanctuary—the opportunity to step away and pause, to create a mood of peace and personal clearing without haste or interruption
The company of kindred spirits—a chance to be met with honesty, empathy, and wisdom in an atmosphere of soulful, clear-eyed support.

The emotional freedom to be—the right to let down and be sad, glad, or mad in order to clear the air and move on, making room in our hearts for new possibilities.

The right to feel free and alive in our bodies—the use of innovative ways of moving and touching in order to restore the vitality of feeling truly alive and physically at ease.

The methods will be drawn from a wide variety of practices, both traditional and nontraditional, all aimed at restoring our gratitude and appreciation for being alive.

Weekend Massage Intensive

Vicki Topp & Dean Marson

Treat yourself to the gift of massage and replenish your spirit in warm mineral baths while surrounded by the natural beauty of Big Sur. Participants will learn to give and receive an Esalen massage using breath awareness, creative touch, sensitivity, and intention.

Some meditation, movement, and stretches will also be included. The workshop is open to beginners as well as those more experienced with bodywork.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $425

Beauty and the Beast:

The Secrets of Love and Death

Geoffrey Hill

Using Beauty and the Beast, this workshop explores the hidden secrets of love and passion which have been outlawed by orthodox religion.

In Beauty and the Beast, the Beast proves himself to be none other than the primordial pagan god of love, the son of Mother Earth, the god of nature, sex, and passion. In this capacity, his story reveals a lot of hidden ancient pagan heretical secrets related to love, death, and passion. Beauty, as her name implies, is the Queen of Aesthetics, and she represents the human soul in search of love. Preserved by peasant communities throughout the ages, Beauty and the Beast points toward the secret cult of sacred temple sex, and much more.

Participants are encouraged to bring poems, songs, and love letters relating to their own ecstasy or pain of love. Through an intimate exploration of several versions of the story, participants will encounter their own feelings, experiences, and growth in relation to love. $425

Baking Bread at the Big House

Robin Burnside & Dennis Marriott

How would Grandma's breads taste with amaranth, quinoa, kamut, or spelt? What is the irresistible magnetism that draws hundreds of otherwise purposeful Esalen visitors to spend long hours hanging around the lodge breadbaskets?

Find out during a flour-dusted weekend of fun in Esalen's Big House. You'll learn to combine ancient ingredients, familiar grains, traditional methods, and new ideas—making quick breads, yeasted breads, sourdoughs, round loaves, flat breads, braids, and rolls. Explore and devour!

No prior baking experience is required—just a need to knead... and knead... and knead. $425
Week of December 29–January 5

The Practical Art of Creative Risk-Taking
David Schiffman
For workshop description see September 8–13.
$795

Clearing Our Vision for the New Year
Paul Rebillo & Audrey Savage

“I think one of the most disturbing ways to begin a new year is with a hangover,” writes Paul Rebillo. “If, as some say, the first day sets the tone for the coming year, wouldn't it be better to meet the New Year with clear eyes—wonderful rather than darkened consciousness? Wouldn't it be agreeable to spend a few days before the New Year dealing with, letting go of, saying good-bye ritualistically to the time past and then preparing the ground for the new?

“We will take time to find the meaning of the last year, and to position in relationship to the whole last period of our lives, working through any incomplete gestures—crying, laughing, singing, dancing through whatever needs to be finished before the New Year begins.

“Together we will celebrate a ritual of welcoming in 1997, not with resolutions, but by planting a seed for the next year of life, perhaps even for the next phase of life. Through guided fantasy, art, and movement, we will awaken from the seed a vision for the New Year, identifying our inner resources and our outer helpers in realizing that vision. We will also explore the ways in which we might sabotage that vision, what we can do to prevent that sabotage, and so clear a path to the realization of our goals.”

Feeling and Creativity: Reinvigorating (Ad)ventures in Life
Dale Cummings & Karel Samsom

When we liberate our capacity to respond emotionally, new realms of creativity and zest open up to us. Discovering new solutions in private and in work-oriented settings can transform leisure and job activities and enliven our experiences. How these two themes interconnect will be the focus of this workshop.

The workshop will use a neo-Reichian approach to emotional release as well as play, art, music, dance, and discussion to tap into feelings and creative capacities. A period of individual Radix work in a small group setting will provide a safe environment of emotional support and release. As negative feelings are worked through, active creativity can emerge.

Dale Cummings, a neo-Reichian counselor, and Karel Samsom, a teacher of creativity, innovation, and entrepreneurship, have for many years integrated these themes into their personal and professional lives. Through their focus on feelings and creativity, this workshop offers encouragement and practical ideas to reinvigorate personal and work experiences and to pursue exciting ideas and new (ad)ventures in daily life.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$795

SIKE: Healing and Health through Ki Energy
Mallory Fromm & Therese Baxter

Spinal Integration/Ki Energy (SIKE, pronounced “sigh-kee”) is a health training program in the healing applications of Ki energy (in Chinese chi, the vital energy sustaining life in all living things). Participants will first be taught to access their own Ki energy by means of breathing exercises. They will then be shown how to concentrate the Ki for transmission to another person.

SIKE seeks spinal integrity, restoration of the balance of tension and relaxation in the spine. Most people are tense in the upper dorsal vertebrae and weak in the lumbar vertebrae; hence, back pain, sleep disorders, and poor digestion. Participants will be taught how to bring the tension from the upper to the lower vertebrae.

Specific points and procedures for treating common ailments—headaches, migraines, compulsive behavior, sleep disorders, and aches and pains—by Ki energy will be illustrated and practiced.

To enhance spinal integrity, Mallory will lead exercises in breathing and balance, and Therese will lead exercises based on inner muscle balancing to improve body alignment and integrated movement. Their credo is that “participants take away not just a glowing sensation of health and mental clarity, but the knowledge and skills to maintain the sensation by themselves or with others.”

Participants should bring pencil and notebook, loose-fitting clothes, fresh socks for the session work, a large towel, and a small towel or handkerchief.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Inner Marriage: The Union of Absolute and Relative
Zoran Josipovic

All forms are one Earth
All energies are one Energy
All thoughts are mind of God
All selves are one Self

— SATHYA SAI BABA

Inner marriage is a process of coming into harmony with our innermost essence, our True Self—that part in us which allows us to realize our natural oneness with the totality of Being.

This workshop of lectures and experiential exercises will acquaint participants with the True Self, both in its subtle aspect as Space and in its dynamic aspect as Bliss. The workshop will investigate how this Self manifests as mind, breath, and body, and participants will practice experiencing the unity of our minds with Cosmic Mind, our breath with Life Energy, and our bodies with the Earth.

Accomplishing this requires opening the Central Channel, known as the “secret pathway of yogis,” and learning how to rest our awareness in equipoise at the very core of it. The workshop will use Subtle Self Work, meditation, and Eye-Movement Process, together with gentle stretching, breath, and sacred sounds to arrive at this place of profound mystery.

Participants should come ready for deep, concentrated work. Prerequisites are the ability to sit for a half-hour period of meditation and the willingness to experience and share one’s own process. This workshop is both for experienced meditators and for dedicated beginners.

Recommended reading: Blackstone, The Subtle Self; Grof, Holotropic Mind.

$795

Weekend of January 3–5

Reinventing Love
Robert Solomon & Heather Maycock Ogilvy

“Reinventing Love” is an interpersonal probe into the most highly valued of all passions, its promise, and its disappointments. The workshop will emphasize the essential creativity of love and the need to express and “reinvent” an emotion that is not torn between defensive individualism and independence. The group will explore the myths of love in order to find out why love goes wrong, why we choose the wrong partners, and how to choose the right one in order for love to succeed.

Participants will examine the connection between intimacy and anger, and the fragile connection between love and dependency. Individuals will be encouraged to explore their own experience and discuss the myths and images that have contributed to our most (and sometimes most dangerous) feelings. Above all, the aim will be to understand why love is so important to us and why it cannot be abandoned.

Music for Everyone: Finding Your Long-Lost Musician
David Darling
David Darling's magical work with late bloomers, nonprodigies, professional musicians, and "burned-out" teachers has been opening hearts to the mystery of sound for the past two decades. "Music for Everyone" is an adventure into music making, rhythmic grooving, song writing, laughing, and listening.

Regardless of prior experience, this workshop will take you to a deeper, more powerful music level. Bring an instrument or play on David's collection of world instruments. $425

Taking Better Care of Yourself: An Eclectic Physician's Guide for a Healthy New Year
Dr. Joe D. Goldstrich

"There are many simple yet powerful self-help tools that can be extremely useful in preventing and treating a wide range of health-related problems," writes Dr. Goldstrich. "They include diet and nutrition, nutritional supplements, herbs, and homeopathy.

"In this workshop we will explore a variety of dietary strategies for preventing and treating heart disease: low-fat, semi-vegetarian diets similar to those used at the Pritikin Center, where I served as chief cardiologist and medical director; the olive oil-based Mediterranean diet for prevention of heart disease and cancer; other therapeutic diets, from raw foods to macrobiotics; and using diet for weight management and relief of arthritis pain.

"There have been recent breakthroughs in the use of nutritional supplements and antioxidants to prevent and treat heart disease. We will learn how to use these supplements safely and effectively. Herbs and homeopathy are potent healing tools with a long history of safe and beneficial utilization. Their use for common conditions like colds and flu, trauma symptoms, and sleeping better can be easily learned.

"We will cover all of the above, plus other fruits of my twenty-five years of eclectic explorations in medicine. We will work in whatever way that may help empower you in your own self-healing."

Fire in the Earth: Poetry, Silence, and the Heart's Desire
David Whyte & John O'Donohue

This is a workshop concerned with remembering the half-forgotten and neglected desires that are central to our personal creativity and destiny. Fire has been an abiding image for creativity throughout human history, but the first steps into that flame depend upon our ability to rest in the silence present in our own bodies. These disciplines of silence are a way of understanding desire at a level deeper than we ordinarily experience.
Much of modern life distances us from our bodies, presenting the body as a problem to overcome rather than the center of our experience. In hard times we often find it more difficult to remember rest and silence, and it's during these times that we need them the most. This will be a time to remember, through poetry, silence, voice work, and movement, the priorities closest to our heart's desire.

Ability or knowledge of poetry is welcomed, but not the least bit necessary. $425

Week of January 5-10

Five-Day Massage Intensive
Kathleen O'Shaughnessy & Laurie Schutz
This workshop is for those who are just beginning to explore touch as deep communication. The central theme will be primary approaches to full-body massage, which will be introduced through both demonstration and experiential hands-on exchanges. Self-awareness through movement, sound, and breath will be used to enhance the senses.
Discussion will offer insights into various approaches to bodywork and how they address both the physiological and mental/ emotional body.
C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Vision Painting
Helen Jerene Malcolm
Painting your vision is a sacred journey into self. Visionary art is a means of expressing the core yearning of one's deeper self, an active meditation in which the painter allows a flow of color and images to emerge as if the painting were painting itself. In an atmosphere of exploration and acceptance—enabling the creative impulse to play, take risks, and face fears—the painting finds its own path through darkness and light.
In this work, you can move beyond the rational mind to deeper levels of motivation and feeling centers, through the hand onto paper, evoked by guided visioning, color, music,
movement, and dream images.
Your vision painting can be a treasure map of your life where change and healing are affirmed. This is a transformative adventure re-creating aspects of your life spiritually, proessionally, and physically.
Please note: All are welcome, beginners as well as artists. $795
(plus $30 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

Tao Mentoring in Music and
Tai Ji Dance
David Darling & Chungliang Al Huang
David and Chungliang have been conducting this annual New Year's celebration of creativity for many years at Esalen. This year they will focus on the core elements in their sharing: Passion, Clarity, and Balance. With David's mastery as a cellist and composer and Chungliang's "Living Tao" skills, they will guide participants in one of the most powerful principles of Tao, Wu Wei—
"non-interference" in our collective creative learning.
Using the inspiration of great classical music
(especially Bach), jazz, blues, and multicultural musical heritages, as well as humor and enthusiasm for transformation, David and Chungliang will offer a joyous and supportive environment in which to celebrate our spontaneity and our deep core. They will alternate between mutual teaching—allowing participants to discover their own personal music and pure dance through both improvisation and structure—and sessions focusing on Lao Tzu's Tao Te Ching, Tai Ji movement meditation, and healing Qi Gong exercises. $795

The Next Question:
What Happens to Us After We Die?
Sukie Miller & Edmundo Barbosa
Elisabeth Kübler-Ross asked the question: What can dying people teach us? Sherwin Nuland asked: What happens to our bodies when we die? And Raymond Moody and Kenneth Ring asked: What happens to us when we die? This workshop considers the next question: What happens to us after we die?
Together, as a community, participants will explore in depth The Four Stages of the after-death as determined by The Institute for the Study of the Afterdeath in its eight years of worldwide research. Participants will learn about and tap into the experiences of The Four Stages and work with the relevance of them to their daily lives. The workshop will explore as well the afterdeath systems of several different cultures where the line between the living and the dead is particularly thin.
The afterdeath has many lessons to teach us about a ripeness for death and a readiness to live. This workshop will plumb both levels simultaneously toward the goal of a greater understanding of the journey of our lives, now and in the future. $795

The Wildness Within
Brita Ostrom & Eric Erickson
Every part of this soil is sacred...Every hillside, every valley, every plain and grove, has been hallowed by some sad or happy event in the days long vanished.
—Chief Seattle, 1856
Maybe saving a forest starts with preserving some of the feelings that die inside us every day...If we cannot respect that interior land, neither can we respect the land we walk.
—David Lynch, Twin Peaks
"Big Sur is a place where healing can happen," writes Brita. "The deep canyons and expansive coastal setting evoke our wilder personal interiors so our demons and dreams have breathing room and a chance to be tested." This workshop will focus on the interconnectedness of our internal landscape and "the land we walk," first exploring the interior welspring of dreams, emotions, and intuitions, and then extending outward to make intimidate connection with others and with the Big Sur coast.
Participants will work with awareness practices to gain clearer insight into their inner reality, and with meditative movement, conscious touch, and massage to relieve old physical holding patterns to facilitate change and renewal. As body and mind become more integrated, attention will then turn to developing a nourishing relationship with the planet. Big Sur will become the backdrop for short hikes and wilderness experiences.
The workshop is for those seeking a time of personal renewal, couples or friends seeking to reconnect in a different way, and body-workers seeking a new perspective on their field. $795
The Body: Doorway to Self-Discovery—The Gestalt Practice Approach
Christine Stewart Price

My belief is in the blood and flesh as being wiser than the intellect. The body-conscious is where life bubbles up in us. It is how we know that we are alive, alive to the depths of our souls and in touch somewhere with the vivid reaches of the cosmos.

—D.H. Lawrence

In gestalt practice, “feeling” is defined as that which can actually be felt in the body. Awareness of feeling as physical sensation is one of the most effective ways to reach the goals Fritz Perls described as the goals of the gestalt process: to increase aliveness, to have a better ability to cope, and to fill in the holes of our existence. By sensing ourselves as our bodies we may access dimensions of being human that go beyond our ideas of who we think we are.

This workshop will focus on physical sensation as the entry point to knowing ourselves. Using the gestalt practice approach, especially in exploration of breath, movement, and sound, participants will explore this inner realm of awareness in all its grit and glory.

Please note: Open seat work will not be a primary part of this workshop.

$425

The Tao of Saging
Chungliang Al Huang

We begin aging at infancy. But until we reach middle age, the shock of aging is never properly addressed by most people. This seminar focuses on a new way of looking at this inevitable process with equanimity, integrity, humor, and realism. With insight and skill, Chungliang will guide participants through a saging dance of living. Using the Tai Ji yin-yang sign to illustrate this paradigm of aging, he will trace the “S” curve within the symbol as the saging path—from birth to midlife—then trace it back again to complete the “whole picture” of life.

Through saging, this living process can prove to be joyfully alive, creative, and constantly enriching. The workshop will combine thoughtful philosophical discussions with enlivening disciplines of daily practice. Come join the dance!

Recommended reading and viewing: Huang, T., Return to Mountain and Soup; Huang & Watts, Tao: The $795

Emotional Literacy
Kathleen Riordan Speeth

We are all trained to add, subtract, multiply, and divide, to sound out words, read paragraphs, and write down what we think, but who has received the same level of fundamental help in puzzling out our personal feelings? The cognitive gets the training; the emotive is assumed to be indwelling and untrainable.

Could that be why so many who can solve differential equations and discuss Heidegger have cold wars or sitcoms at home? Which of us feels fully affectively competent? Real emotional learning is both necessary and possible. As soon as the need is recognized the curriculum can be approached.

This will be an intensive weekend of emotional literacy training in how to:

• Hear what the still, small voice of conscience whispers
• Be self-directed, no longer mere pianos others can play
• Read people like books
• Be deeply kind to self and others
• Maintain a young, creative mind

Participants will discuss, enact, ponder in their private journals, and communicate their developing insights into emotional literacy. There will be music, there will be philosophy, developing insights into emotional literacy.

There will be periods of silent sitting and walking meditation/prayer. Participants will develop meditation practice through the weekend, and learn to understand their experiences in the light of the developmental stages of the prayer—vocal, silent, the prayer of recollection, illumination, union. This practice evokes feelings of grace and connectedness, and helps to discover true Essence.

$425

Watercourse Way, Huang & Lynch, Thinking Body, Dancing Mind and Mentoring: The Tao of Giving and Receiving Wisdom; Living Tao Videos (217-337-6133).

Week of January 10-12

Week of January 12-17

Gestalt Practice
Christine Stewart Price

For workshop description see September 15-20.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$795

Creative Arts Center at Esalen
Arts Center Staff

For workshop description see November 10-15.

$795

Completions and Transitions
Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

Often in our lives we feel incomplete with the past. Unresolved issues inhibit our moving into the present with an open and generous heart. Though we experience them as “finished,” old memories continue to haunt us. When we exist more in the past than in the present, it is time to make the distinction between “finished” and “complete.” Transitions without completions foster unsuccessful marriages, friendships, and careers—producing the causes of illness and sorrow. The inability to forgive makes us closed to new opportunities entering into our lives.

Transitions are crossroads in our lives that give us the opportunity to finish and complete the past, reconnect with our present truth, and renew our passion, courage, and commitment for the future. The focus of this workshop is an in-depth review of our lives,

$425

Prayer of the Heart
Olga Luchakova & Igor Kungurtsev

The Prayer of the Heart was transmitted from the early Desert Fathers to Byzantine monks, and preserved up to the present day by Russian hermits and pilgrims. This unique psychophysiological, meditative, and devotional practice transcends the framework of Christianity and can be used by spiritual seekers of any orientation. The Prayer of the Heart seeks inner silence and a state of union—the dissolution of the ego in God-essence.

The practice of the Prayer starts with cultivating wakefulness—attention to body sensations, emotions, energy, thoughts. The attention then shifts to concentration on the Spiritual Heart—the most important subtle energy center in the body—and work with the psychological and emotional issues blocking it. Finally, by exploring relationships with spiritual archetypes through sacred images and guided visualization, the seeker finds the individualized form of the prayer and learns how to practice it.

$425
relationships, and circumstances to discover what needs to be transformed from "finished" to "complete."

The workshop will provide a safe, supportive environment that includes risk-taking, intense bodywork, gestalt, imagery, movement, and meditation to keep us committed to the process of discovering ourselves.

C.E. credit is available for psychologists; see page 61.

Body Poetry East and West
Chungliang Al Huang & Brother David Steindl-Rast

"A Festival of Aliveness" is the subtitle given to this annual event by past participants. It is an ever new surprise how the combination of Tai Ji body movement with the sharing of poetry in a group setting can release energy and joy of mind and body.

Chungliang and Brother David, two bridge-builders between East and West, use the I Ching as a master key for freeing the flow of energy within us. The great Taoist Book of Changes can indeed effect changes in our own lives. It can guide us in attuning ourselves to the flow of nature and help us tap wellsprings of our innate creativity.

The treasures of poetry and stories, old and new, shared by Chungliang and Brother David find their perfect setting at Esalen. So does the body movement—the image of the group's Tai Ji movements reflected in the pool at sundown is unforgettable.

In this blessed place, oceans and mountains, gardens, hot springs, and human companionship work together toward one goal, the goal of this workshop: to experience body and soul with fresh delight.

Chakra Integration: A Complete Approach to Health and Healing
Laurie Lions' Parizek & The Esalen Teaching Staff

Chakra Integration is a complete and effective way to understand and balance our physical, emotional, and spiritual energies. The chakras are vital, life-enhancing energy centers that have their roots deep in our core. Backed up by nerve plexuses and endocrine glands, they open into the energy field and are a three-dimensional energetic system of the body. When integrated, they refine the mainstream current in the central nervous system and bring balance to all the major systems of the body. They are also useful in addressing and healing old restrictive behavior patterns.

This workshop will incorporate movement, sounding, awareness exercises, and supportive hands-on work to balance the chakras and the mainstream spinal current, and to gently and consciously open this channel that connects heaven and earth through our bodies. The workshop will integrate personal and interactive healing work with gentle energetic touch and associated hands-on skills. Meditation will be used to encourage serenity and a deeper personal understanding of the chakras.

The workshop is designed for those interested in developing a working knowledge of this ancient time-tested way of healing, and is useful for those in the fields of health care and education. Please bring warm clothes and your favorite music or instrument.

Recommended reading: Judith, Wheels of Life; Haas, Staying Healthy with the Seasons; Brennan, Hands of Light.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Weekend of January 17–19

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff
For workshop description see September 20–22.

Intimate Connections

Mariah Fenton Gladis

Creating stable and fulfilling relationships is a challenge that everyone faces. To be successful, human relating must be understood and accepted as an activity, an ability that requires movement, purpose, emotional capacity, and contact skills. People often believe that good relating evolves naturally, but they discover in the routine of living with families, friends, and lovers that, in truth, they have not been adequately prepared to meet the demands of loving relationships.

This workshop will focus on the nature and basic requirements of healthy relationships. It will offer participants opportunities to assess their abilities and disabilities, to develop awareness and to practice risking positive action with others. It is for anyone who has 'hit the wall' in a relationship or who has experienced being stuck at some seemingly impenetrable contact boundary and wants to break through. Particularly helpful for adult children of dysfunctional families, ACAs, and human relations professionals, this experiential and didactic workshop will blend individual and group gestalt work, spiritual healing, bodywork, and personal metaphor.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Hanna Somatics: Mastery of Muscles and Emotions

Eleanor Criswell Hanna

This workshop will explore the neuromuscular responses to emotional states—the somatics way to internal mastery of muscles and emotions—and the joy that comes with the body's renewed awareness and freedom. Guided somatic exercises and individual sessions with practitioners trained by Thomas Hanna will give participants the opportunity to experience this wonderful work. Dyad practice is included.

Recommended reading: Hanna, Somatics; The Body of Life; and Bodies in Revolt.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $425

The Practice of Love
Sam Keen
Movie producers, song writers, mystics, saints, and psychologists all agree that "love" is the answer, the solution, the treasure for which we search. But when it comes to thinking clearly about love our brains seem to turn to mush. The more we idealize love the more we mystify it. Modern psychology has focused attention on I.Q. (intelligence quotient), explored brain chemistry and learning strategies, but has failed to increase our understanding of the nature of love or suggest ways in which we might increase our I.Q.—love quotient.

"In this lecture/workshop," writes Sam Keen, "we will strip away layers of nonsense and false mystification and try to think clearly and wholeheartedly about the elements that compose the complex act of love. We will explore the skills, dispositions, feelings, and behaviors necessary to develop a daily practice of the kinds of love that come into play in our relationships with children, family, friends, lovers, mates, and strangers in need of care. We will recollect and share our personal love-histories, explore the varieties of love that give our lives depth and meaning, and, hopefully, increase our capacity for passion and compassion."

$425

Yoga and Healing
Thomas Michael Fortel
The word "yoga" comes from ancient Sanskrit and translates into "to yoke together," to create union, harmony, and balance: union of masculine and feminine, harmony of inner and outer, and balance of life's polar opposites.

The practice of physical yoga postures (asanas), conscious breathing, and active meditation is a tangible and practical way of change. In a fundamental way, yoga is a practice of self-healing. The yoga postures stimulate and purify the internal organs and glands of the body, flexibility is improved, and muscles and joints are strengthened. The focus on the breath is calming for the mind and nervous system and helps to develop a sense of ease, focus, and concentration. This is a practice of mind-body connection.

Mornings will begin with pranayama (breathing exercises), meditation, and an active yoga practice. There will be an emphasis on the breath, body alignment, and the healing qualities of the postures. The afternoon sessions will focus on restorative postures, forward bends, and twists. Evenings will be filled with yoga philosophy, group discussion, and partner yoga.

All yoga props will be provided. Everyone, from beginner to advanced, is welcome. $795

Creating Exact Moments of Healing
Mariah Fenton Gladis
Adult children of alcoholic, dysfunctional, or abusive families (ACAs) must walk a road of recovery that requires determination, lifelong commitment, and the creation of specific moments of healing. This workshop offers participants an opportunity to take a major step toward health, helping them to define a plan for necessary moments they must create so they can move forward and to transform their personal history from one of liability to one of strength and wisdom. Focus will be on the promotion of healing:

- With oneself—developing awareness, freedom from addictions, and healing of the body and soul from the residual effects of trauma
- With others—improving one's capacity for moving out of isolation and into direct, open communication and trust; expanding intimacy skills while securing healthy boundaries
- In the world—moving away from chaos and deprivation toward stability and abundance
- Spiritually—searching for the meaning of one's history and accessing that part of the self that can utilize universal blessings

This workshop will be experiential and didactic, blending individual and group gestalt work, music, spiritual practices, and bodywork. A step-by-step recovery process developed by the leader will be incorporated throughout the workshop. The atmosphere will be one of trust and mutual support. This workshop is also appropriate for professionals who work with ACAs.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $795

Fit to Lead: Shape-Shifting into the 21st Century
Elisa Lodge
Writes Elisa Lodge: "Shape-shifting is the ability to alter one's physical, emotional, and mental states at will, to affect and inspire the consciousness of others. It is a term originally ascribed to the shaman, the mystically empowered leader/healer of traditional cultures. Today's radically changing world requires us to become, like the shaman, self-healing and the leaders of our destiny."

"The focus of our week together will be to reclaim the trust in the intuitive authority of our body wisdom. When the body, its move-
Weekend of January 24–26

Interdependence and Intimacy: A Workshop for Couples

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

Creating an alive an honest connection with an intimate partner requires us to go deep into our hearts and allow our courageous selves to emerge.

Our culture does not prepare couples for the dual challenges they must face regarding intimacy and interdependence. We need to learn how to embrace our own values and paths, how to merge and enter the world of the other, and how to operate as a loving and effective team.

In this workshop, each participant will have opportunities to: experience how relationships are mirrors reflecting back to us unseen and rejected parts of ourselves; begin the process of healing past hurts; and create new ways of communicating which provide intimacy instead of distance.

Experiential and structured exercises will help participants become more adept at listening, empathizing, truth-telling, creative problem-solving, and taking responsibility to create the relationships we want. Providing a safe and supportive environment, the workshop will draw from gestalt, Reichian work, dance, imagery, and meditation.

The Flame: An Introduction to the Diamond Approach

Jessica Britt & Regina Reilly

Since the dawn of time, within the human soul there has been an natural curiosity for understanding where, what, and who we are. This longing for self-knowledge, referred to in the traditions as "the flame," burns bright today.

This workshop is an invitation to embark on your own inquiry into these sacred questions through the support of the Diamond Approach. The Diamond Approach is a method that has arisen out of the needs of people living in modern society. It answers the question of how to be in the world but not of it, how to recognize and abide in essential reality while living an ordinary life.

This knowledge is evoked through the practice of presence and open-ended inquiry, a gentle yet precise method for penetrating the veils of experience. As we penetrate moment-to-moment experience, awareness expands and deeper truth is revealed. This process continues through ever more subtle layers of consciousness, until we discover what is essentially real prior to conditioning.

This workshop offers a taste of the Diamond Approach. It will focus on the love of Truth as the guiding principle of this work. Along with meditation, specific practices and exercises focusing on presence and inquiry will be taught.

ISHTA: The Yoga of Empowerment

Rod Stryker

"Every human being already has all that is needed to realize deep and meaningful fulfillment," writes Rod Stryker. "Our deepest desires, often hidden or misunderstood, are the guideposts to our ultimate destiny. By leading us to the direct experience of who we are, the practices of ISHTA (Integrated Science of Hatha and Tantric Arts) Yoga can make us aware of and sensitize us to our innate physical, intellectual, energetic, and spiritual gifts."

The course will include daily yoga routines to strengthen and purify the body, breathing practices for rejuvenation and healing, and meditation (including yogic visualization practices) to still the mind and deepen the experience of Self. It will also include open discussion and some theory, and will employ the majesty of the Esalen surroundings to nourish the journey toward wholeness and integration.

Previous yoga experience is recommended but not necessary. For further information, please contact Rod Stryker at 310-364-4698.

For more information see Special Programs, page 57.

Recommended reading: Almaas, Essence and Diamond Heart—Book One.

Why Men Are the Way They Are

Warren Farrell

I've never had a couple come to me and say, "Warren I want a divorce; my partner understands me."

This workshop is designed to help both sexes understand each other via role-playing in which participants experience the pressures that mold the other sex's psyche. Men, for example, can experience women's view of sexual harassment; women can experience men's fear of sexual rejection and the powerlessness it engenders.

In a safe yet boundary-pushing environment, Warren Farrell will introduce innovative perspectives—initially challenging, perhaps, not only because are they female-positive but also more male-positive than is currently in vogue. Group interactions will be allowed to become emotional enough to reflect how we communicate when we're defensive. Farrell will then facilitate work to demonstrate how both sexes can listen to criticism—even personal criticism—without becoming defensive, thus creating a model for expressing those "tough-to-hear" feelings, even to loved ones. The goal: to create more compassionate ways to relate to the other sex and to view ourselves.

This workshop offers insights on everything from male power and powerlessness to date rape and sexual harassment; from why men fear commitment to why they commit murder suicide; from a new view of equality in the home to myths about equality in the workplace.

A common response to this workshop has been "I never felt so much love for the other sex."

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

C.E. credit is available for psychologists; see page 61.

When Success is Not Enough

Peller Marion

If I had known what it would be like to have it all, I would have settled for less. — LILY TOMLIN

For more information see Special Programs, page 57.
Materialism is skyrocketing in the United States. Indeed, many of us are wealthy beyond the wildest dreams of our ancestors. Still, we struggle more than ever for self-esteem and meaning in our lives.

When alternative measures of success are not available, the deep human need to be valued and respected by others is often acted out through consumption. Buying things becomes a means to both self-esteem and social acceptance. "The avarice of mankind is insatiable," wrote Aristotle, who believed that as soon as one desire was satisfied, another would appear to take its place. If our wants are insatiable, there is simply no such thing as enough.

This workshop is designed to explore the questions: How much is enough? What is an achievement junkie? What is my definition of success at this time in my life? How do I create my own personal philosophy of life and live by my own agenda?

Participants will investigate the paradox of success in their own lives. A variety of experiential approaches will be used, including readings, discussion, games, dance, gestalt, imagery and meditation.

Recommended reading: Marion, Crisis Proof Your Career: How to Find Job Security In An Insecure Time; and Making It: Stories and Stages of Successful Entrepreneurs.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$425

Week of January 26-31

Playing the Edge
David Schiffman
For workshop description see October 27-November 1.

$795

The Art of Trigger Point Massage
Arthur Munyer
Trigger Point massage is the movement of myofascial tissue by means of soft, deep contact with pressure points. These points are actually an interrelated network which form a focus of pain and emotional discomfort in our bodies. Through awareness and skilled touch these points may be stimulated by applying pressure which releases the muscle tension.

At the same time, the emotions stored in those tissues may be brought to awareness and given expression. As Arthur writes: "Some of these feelings are painful and some very loving. Learning to be present and sensitive to them all is the most important aspect of my work."

This workshop will combine Trigger Point release with the long, gentle strokes of Esalen massage to provide a nurturing context for this exploration. Where appropriate, craniosacral work, joint release, and deep tissue techniques may be employed, as well as grounding, sound, movement, meditation, and stretching to bring awareness and presence. The journey begins on the surface, then continues inward toward the core of the tensions that create the holding patterns which keep us closed.

This workshop is designed for bodyworkers, medical professionals, health care practitioners, and individuals who would like to be more comfortable working with touch and explore the connection between the spiritual, physical, and emotional. Some massage experience is especially helpful.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

$795

(plus $15 for the Trigger Point work manual)
Qigong and Psychoneuroimmunology: An East/West Healing System
Sondra Barrett & Shirley Dostadter

Never before has ancient Taoist health-enhancing Qigong been interwoven with the modern science of psychoneuroimmunology (PNI) to create a body/heart/mind medicine. This workshop offers a new way to explore the body’s wisdom to meet the challenges of modern life. As you explore in this workshop, this cohesive information integrates to form an enjoyable practice for daily life. Through sensory awareness and stress reduction tools which dovetail with Qigong internal energy exercises, you can learn how it feels to move beyond your stress reactions into full-time well-being.

The movements incorporate breath, imagery, acupuncture self-massage, and sound, which help you experience the gates, meridians, and flow of your life force. This profoundly simple East/West practice teaches the science and art of energy balancing and cell health. Through slides and expressive arts you will see the micro-world of the cell, the molecular connections between body, heart, and mind, and enter the spiral mystery of life. The function of this work is to connect each of us to our inherent source of life force and vitality.

This workshop is designed for both beginners and those experienced with Qigong or PNI. It will also benefit anyone wanting to understand and strengthen their healing system, those looking to change lifestyle, and people in the helping professions.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $795

The Medicine Wheel Way
Carol Proudfoot-Edgar

This workshop draws on Native American Medicine Wheel ceremonies and teachings as resources for personal growth and renewed experiencing of ourselves within the larger web of the natural world. Just as Western psychological theory provides a framework for describing human development, the Medicine Wheel offers a map for self-individuation. A primary difference, however, is that the Medicine Wheel views humans as sacred beings and maintains that each must find his or her own path for "walking with the sacred in the world." The Medicine Wheel Way illuminates the relationship of all things. Each direction on the wheel has its particular meaning and points to aspects needed for fuller integration and individuation. Rituals mark the passage of seasons and significant events of life, connecting the individual to the great mystery of life.

Activities will include learning the Medicine Wheel, making medicine pouches, learning about shamanism, using the shamanic journey method to find power animals and spiritual teachers, and drawing upon ancestral knowledge available to all of us. The group will be drumming, rattling, and chanting throughout the week. Please bring a journal, bandanna (to cover your eyes), and rattles (if you have them).

Please note: This workshop has a sequential structure. Each session builds on the previous one. Therefore, participants are requested to be present for all sessions. Please arrange for massages or other non-workshop activities between session breaks.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $795

Hypnosis and Creativity
Maggie Phillips & Noelle Poncelet

Our fast-paced, anxious, and often violent world challenges us to seek opportunities to discover the timeless and enduring creative resources of our inner selves. This experiential workshop will introduce ways to tap into sources of inspiration and passion, identify and utilize obstacles to creative expression, and foster receptivity to the creative muse within.

The workshop will feature process-oriented hypnosis, a synthesis of traditional and Ericksonian hypnotic methods, imagery, shamanic journeying, Arnie Mindell's process work, and indigenous healing traditions that evoke various types of trance states. Activities will include group and individual hypnotic explorations; art, movement, sound improvisations, and musical expression; storytelling; and medicine walks. The leaders will create a safe environment for exploring life experiences, inner awareness, and dream states in order to release barriers, balance masculine and feminine energies, and celebrate creative potentials.

Participants are invited to bring drums and musical instruments, art supplies, journals, power objects, and creative symbols. C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. $795

Introduction to Mindfulness Meditation
James Baraz

Mindfulness—or vipassana—meditation is the practice described by the Buddha for developing wisdom, compassion, and peace. Vipassana, "to see things clearly," means being mindful of what is actually happening in the present moment. Using the breath, body sensations, thought, and emotions as objects of attention, we can learn to be fully awake and bring a balanced awareness to all aspects of our lives.

Through vipassana meditation we can experience the nature of reality as continuous change. When we see that all phenomena are impermanent, we can begin to let go of clinging to the pleasant or avoiding the unpleasant. We are then more capable of meeting each situation with spontaneity, fearlessness, and love. Meditation also teaches us to see in each moment the interconnectedness of all things. Our hearts open to a natural expression of compassion and kindness.

Participants will be introduced to this method of meditation practice and the principles on which it is based. There will be periods of silent sitting and walking meditation, as well as discussion. As attention is brought to all activities at Esalen, individuals will continue to develop mindfulness through the weekend. This will provide a foundation for applying mindfulness practice to everyday life.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60. $795

Reinhabiting Your Body: An Experience in Authentic Movement
Tina Stromsted

"Authentic Movement" is a meditative form of dance influenced by the psychology of Carl Jung. This workshop offers a structure within which natural movement can bloom and be nurtured, allowing individuals to discover ways to engage their creativity and make soulful self-contact.

The body is the mediator for all of life's experiences. Our bodies form our closest link to the unconscious, providing avenues for deep and lasting change. If we are locked into a muscular pattern held around a specific image, this can determine not only how we move but how we live. Uncovering images of the self that may have locked us into painful or dis-satisfying ways of living can help us to heal wounds and find freedom of expression.

Through moving and witnessing in a safe space, participants in this workshop can explore their own inner dance as it unfolds. Body-related issues, unresolved developmental material, preverbal memories, and transpersonal experiences may emerge, leading toward integration and wholeness.

Designed for mental health professionals, educators, artists, and those interested in personal growth, this experiential process aids participants in bridging body and psyche through expressive movement.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 6o. $425

Secrets Kept From the Mind But Not From the Body
Ian Wickramasekera

This workshop will provide a high-impact demonstration of the High Risk Model of Threat-Related Disorders. This model of mind/body interaction pinpoints the sources of stress-related disorders and identifies three risk factors that can block secrets from the mind but not from the body. It will provide a demonstration of mind/body interaction on the "stress profile" using one or two volunteers from the group and a noninvasive (without breaking the skin) eight-channel physiograph (surface EMG, electrodermal, heart rate, etc.).

All members of the group will be voluntarily tested on the High Risk Model of Threat-Related Disorders for personal risk factors or "windows of vulnerability", which can be either physical (e.g. muscle tension, temperature, blood pressure) or psychological (negative affect, hypnentic ability, catastrophizing). The implications of this heuristic model for intervention and prevention of threat-related disorders will be discussed. The use of psychophysiological instruments to track unconscious cognitions and emotions will be illustrated with published case studies.

The workshop is designed to provide valuable tools for psychiatrists, psychologists, medical doctors, social workers, counselors, and interested nonprofessionals.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 6o.
C.E. credit is available for psychologists; see page 6t. $425

Winning the Battle Between Faith and Hopelessness
Sarah La Saulle & Sharon Kagan

In the course of everyone's life there are times of tremendous despair. People commonly suffer from at least one bout of severe depression in a lifetime. While some individuals feel that they have little to give them a sense of hope, others seem to remain strong. But neither of these responses is an experience of true faith. It is a mistake to believe that faith only comes as a gift. Before one can reach this state of grace, one must undergo a profound initiation. There are three stages to this rite of passage: 1) the collapse, 2) surrender, 3) the state of grace and faith.

In this workshop, the facilitators will enact a dialogue between the voices of faith and hopelessness. Through retelling the story of their lives, participants will develop a body of experience on which to base their faith.

Discussions will cover topics such as: a challenge to hopelessness, what core beliefs govern an individual's ability to choose between faith and hopelessness, what is false hope, how does faith differ from positive thinking, and faith as an experience.

The workshop will include group discussions, journal writing, storytelling, and art therapy exercises. $425

Writing Children's Books
Marissa Moss

This workshop will focus on developing the writing skills specifically needed for children's picture books. The workshop will begin by looking at how to take an idea and turn it into a story, then go beyond that to see what makes a story work—and what doesn’t. Through writing exercises, participants will explore different types of books, including concept books, fairy tales, and family stories, and different aspects of storytelling, such as plot, characterization, and mood. Participants can build on these exercises, either developing new stories from them or using them to hone the techniques they are currently working on.

There will also be time to discuss submission and publication procedures. Marissa Moss has worked with a wide range of publishers, including Farrar, Straus & Giroux, Houghton Mifflin, and Harcourt Brace, and her books have been critically acclaimed. She is familiar with all aspects of publishing, from design to promotion. Her most recent book, Amelia's Notebook, received a starred review from Publishers Weekly, was chosen as an American Bookseller's Association Pick of the Lists, and has sold over 150,000 copies. $425

The Painting Experience
(In a unique format designed to accommodate the great interest in this workshop, two Painting Experience sessions have been scheduled back-to-back. The first is a five-day session, February 2-7 with Stewart Cubley, the second a seven-day session, February 7-14 with Michell Cassou. This will give participants the opportunity to paint for five, seven, or twelve days. If taken as a twelve-day workshop, the rate is $1940 plus $60 materials fees.)

It is rare for most people to use painting for its qualities of inner adventure and self-discovery, to paint purely for the process of exploration, not for the result.

The purpose of this workshop is to provide a setting to explore the self through painting—to discover in form and color a powerful tool for uncovering and dissolving blocks to emotional and spiritual expression. Participants will be given the support and stimulation to develop a natural way of painting based directly upon feeling. The work takes place in an authentic studio setting with large white surfaces to confront the creative void, along with a rich spectrum of colors and brushes. The workshop may be of interest to persons involved in a wide variety of disciplines, including art, education, counseling, and meditative practices. No prior experience in painting is necessary. Please bring a smock.

For further information about this workshop, contact: The Painting Experience Studio, 2101 20th Avenue, San Francisco, CA 94116; 415-564-8515.

Recommended reading: Cassou & Cubley, Life, Paint & Passion.

Week of February 2-7

The Painting Experience
Stewart Cubley

For workshop description see February 2-14. $795

(The plus $25 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

The Upledger Institute's CranioSacral I
Judith Bradley

CranioSacral Therapy is a gentle, noninvasive, hands-on technique that helps detect and correct imbalances in the CranioSacral system, which may be the cause of sensory, motor, or intellectual dysfunction. It is used to treat a myriad of health problems, including headaches, neck and back pain, TMJ dysfunction, chronic fatigue, motor coordination difficulties, eye problems, endogenous depression, hyperactivity, and central nervous system disorders.

Participants will learn the detailed anatomy and physiology of the CranioSacral System, its functions in health, and its relationship to the disease processes. Half of the class time will be “hands-on,” developing the sensitive palpatory skills needed to detect subtle stimuli in the human body.

Class material will concentrate on palpation and its potential range as an evaluative and therapeutic process; fascial and soft tissue release techniques; and the pressurestat model which explains the mechanism of the CranioSacral System. Participants will learn a concise ten-step protocol for evaluation and treatment of the entire body. By the end of this intensive program, participants will be able to identify and localize significant restriction and imbalances in the CranioSacral System.

Please note: Registration for this workshop is done only through the Upledger Institute. Please call the Upledger Institute at 1-800-880-52.
The Power of Growth
Seymour Carter

Everyone has unused capacities for further personal development. When these capacities are recognized and given attention, a natural force is released which, like a tide, can carry the individual to a higher level of ability and action. Fritz Perls taught how to recognize the force of avoided issues in dealing with blocked energies. When unfinished issues are confronted and assimilated, it is possible to feel potent and in charge of one's life.

In this workshop, participants will deal with these issues by examining the influence of the inner dialogue on thoughts and the nature of impasse, as well as tendencies within themselves toward psychological completion and well-being. The basis of this work is the gestalt method, supported by studies in various body disciplines, including sensory awareness, bioenergetics, and aikido. Each participant's process of development will be honored, encouraged, and treated as unique. $795

February 7–9
Weekend of February 7–9

Experiencing Esalen
Experiencing Esalen Staff
For workshop description see September 20–22.
$425

Singing Gestalt
Nancy Lunney
For workshop description see September 27–29.
$425

The Way of the Shaman: The Shamanic Journey, Power, and Healing
Michael Harner
Considered by many to be the world's leading authority on shamanism, Michael Harner will introduce participants to core shamanism, the basic methods of the shaman to enter a nonordinary reality of problem solving, well-being, and healing. Particular emphasis will be placed on the classic shamanic journey to explore the hidden universe otherwise known mainly through myth and dream. Participants will be initiated into shamanic journeying, aided by drumming and movement practices, to experience the shamanic state of consciousness and to awaken dormant spiritual abilities and connections with Nature.

Practice will include comparisons of participants' discoveries during their shamanic journeys as well as personal problem-solving. Participants will also be provided with methods for journeying in nonordinary reality to their own individual spiritual teachers, a classic step in shamanic practice. Group members will be shown how shamanism can be applied in daily life to help heal oneself, others, and the planet.

This workshop constitutes the prerequisite for more advanced courses with Michael Harner and faculty members of the Foundation for Shamanic Studies. $425

February 9–14
Weekend of February 9–14

Dzogchen—Awakening the Buddha Within: A Silent Meditation and Self-Inquiry Retreat
Lama Surya Das
For workshop description see September 1–6.
$795

Couples Massage Weekend
Ellen Watson & David Streeter

This weekend couples workshop is designed for those who would like to bring the benefits of massage into their everyday lives. The workshop will teach simple massage techniques, developed by Esalen massage practitioners, which have proven valuable to anyone who wants to help a partner, friend, or family member feel better. Techniques that help relieve pain, increase vitality, or simply soothe the nerves will be demonstrated briefly and practiced with lots of hands-on instruction by the leaders.

This workshop is especially helpful for loving couples, as Esalen massage is greatly beneficial in its connective and healing qualities. $425 per participant

Communication and Partnership
Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

Underlying all our relationships—husband, wife, lover, friend, daughter, son, mother, and father—is the need to communicate. Often we learn to express our needs through control, power struggles, addictions, dependency, guilt, denial, and unreasonableness.

This workshop is about healing the soul-wounds sustained in our attempts at partnership. The focus will be on:

- Exploring the possibilities of equal soul partnership
- Learning new ways to express our fear, sadness, grief, and love for each other
- Defining what we need to change in our relationships
- Learning different language styles to better connect with our partners
- Learning ways to heal, forgive, and move on to a mutually beneficial relationship
Come alone or with a partner. The workshop will provide a safe, supportive environment to learn new practices of breathwork, dyadic communication skills, movement, and Gestalt, making it easier to express your truth and take responsibility for your feelings and issues.

C.E. credit is available for psychologists; see page 61.

Weekend of February 21-23

The Life We Are Given

Michael Murphy & George Leonard

Like the human heart, the world points beyond itself to something greater and more beautiful. That something attracts us all, in different ways, and leads many of us to seek transformation.

— GEORGE LEONARD & MICHAEL MURPHY, The Life We Are Given

Never before in history have so many people been offered so many possibilities for personal growth. And never before has the need for personal and social transformation been more urgent. Informed by their lifework in the field of human potential, George Leonard and Michael Murphy will lead participants in wide-ranging discussions on such topics as:

- The relations between this evolving universe and world-transcending realities
- Human capacities for extraordinary life
- The elements of transformative practice

This workshop will include simple movement exercises, meditation, storytelling, and unbridled metaphysical speculation. Murphy and Leonard will report on their two-year experiment in Integral Transformative Practice and help participants plan their own paths of transformation.

Recommended readings: Murphy, The Future of the Body; Leonard, Mastery; Leonard & Murphy, The Life We Are Given.

Five-Day Massage Intensive

Laurie Lioness Parizek & Carl Chase (C.C.)

Esalen massage consists of more than the long, flowing strokes for which it is well known. In this workshop, Esalen bodywork in many of its forms will be demonstrated, practiced, and discussed during this week of learning and relaxation.

The workshop will introduce grounding techniques, pressure point work, meridian massage, gentle manipulations, and energy work. The instructors will present a bodywork style that both addresses individual needs and integrates the whole person, focusing on the concept of working from our essential being. Special attention will be given to self-care, quality of contact, breath awareness, and stress release.

The workshop will also incorporate movement, dance, and rhythm to integrate the bodywork. Yoga and meditation will be taught to encourage focus and serenity.

Participants will make full use of Esalen's beautiful grounds and facilities. Please bring warm, comfortable clothing and your favorite music or instrument. The workshop is open to all levels of experience.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Writing Through Loss

Nancy Bacal

To write from the heart is to heal the heart...

One of life's unavoidable realities is that we all experience loss. Whether it be with love, death, youth, health, marriage, work, or a moment of pure grace, we are all subject to the laws of impermanence. Loss inevitably involves pain. Pain becomes suffering when we shut down and resist the natural rhythms of mourning and change.

A time of loss is a time of vulnerability. It can also be an opportunity to awaken to a new perspective of life. This workshop is intended to help participants reorient to joy through surrender and the expression of our deeper feelings. Rather than feel diminished by what is gone, participants will utilize it as material for writing. Even the cruelest tragedy can be transformed through the practice of writing and the telling of story. As we write, we come to know ourselves; as we share, we move out of isolation. As the dark riches of our lives are released, they deepen our emotional and creative lives and inspire the journey of our companions.

Meditation and movement will be included, but the primary tools will be pen and paper. More than skill, enthusiasm for the writing process and a desire for change are the main requirements.

Recommended reading: Beck, Everyday Zen in Work and Love; Goldberg, Writing Down the Bones; Chodron, Start Where You Are.

Five-Day Massage Intensive

$795

Writing Through Loss

$795

Five-Day Massage Intensive

$795
Participants will explore their own experience to understand our inherent nature and spiritual essence. The workshop will introduce a method of parenting that develops spiritual understanding and essential wisdom rather than relying on unconscious conditioning. The format will be experiential with mini-lectures.

A Weekend with Claudio Naranjo

Claudio Naranjo is a medical doctor with a psychoanalytic background who worked with Fritz Perls in the mid-sixties and formed part of the first Esalen gestalt team after Perls's departure for Canada. Naranjo has also received teachings from Buddhist, Sufi, and Indian tantric sources, has taught meditation, formulated the psychology of ennestypes, contributed to music therapy, founded SAT Institute in the early seventies, and has written many books (his recent books include Gestalt Therapy: Attitude and Practice of an Atheoretical Experientialism, Character and Neurosis: An Integrative View, and The End of Patriarchy). He is presently involved in training psychotherapists through a novel integrative and transpersonal approach that he has developed. There will be no pre-established agenda to this weekend event.

The Secrets of Good Bread

Peter Beckmann

Have you ever wondered why your home-baked bread never has the same crispy crust as the bread of your neighborhood bakery? Or why some of your home-baked loaves turn out rather like bricks than like those big, fluffy loaves you were intending? Or why your home-baked sourdough tastes more like vinegar than like those fragrant loaves from San Francisco?

This workshop presents the time-honored tradition of European bread-making. It is designed to answer all of the questions you ever had about bread baking. In this hands-on, step-by-step class, you will be guided through the sensitive art of cultivating your own sourdough culture, shaping round, sandwich, and braided loaves, and producing golden brown, crackling crusts in a home-style oven. You will learn the subtle differences a yeast sponge will make to the flavor of your breads. And above all, you will learn basic and natural bread-making techniques that require no fancy gadgets or machines. Bring along your favorite recipes for any questions they might pose. No prior baking experience is necessary.

Cross-Cultural Shamanic Practices

Angeles Arrien

This workshop will introduce participants to shamanic tools from diverse cultures. Group members will work individually and collectively to honor ancestor spirits and release unhealthy family patterns. Angeles Arrien's work focuses on the universal human qualities of power, love, vision, and wisdom, accessed to increase personal and professional effectiveness.

This workshop qualifies as foundation work for Angeles Arrien's Four-Fold Way educational program.

Recommended reading: Arrien, The Four-Fold Way: Walking the Path of the Warrior, Teacher, Healer, and Visionary.
Dialogue: A Way of Life, A Path to Wholeness
Glenna Gerard & Linda Teurfs

Often today we find ourselves afloat in a sea of confusion, chaos, and conflict, unable to find meanings that bridge the separation we feel. And yet twentieth century sciences tell us reality is relational—meaning is created through relationship.

Dialogue is a group communication process that focuses on how we create meaning and the very culture we share. Rooted in Greek dia (through) and logos (word or meaning), dialogue has been with us through the ages in indigenous tribal councils, Quaker meetings, the contemplative traditions, and in the writings of Martin Buber, Carl Rogers, and, most recently, the late David Bohm, quantum physicist and philosopher. Because of its transformative properties, it is of interest to leaders and facilitators in organizational, counseling, educational, and spiritual settings.

This program is an in-depth experience of dialogue and how it can help us move towards greater personal and collective wholeness. Processes from the contemplative, shamanic, and Jungian traditions will be interwoven to develop the capacity for collective mindfulness and wholeness. Attention will be focused on our capacity for holding paradox, expanded self- and worldview views, and how interpersonal openness and integrity lead to higher levels of collective creativity and integration.

You Don't Have to Be Good
Kim McCourt & Carol LaDue

You do not have to be good.
You do not have to walk on your knees for a hundred miles through the desert, repenting.
You only have to let the soft animal of your body love what it loves.

— MARY OLIVER

By listening to our bodies we can know what is right for us, rather than what we "should" do. We knew this as children but were encouraged to ignore our inner truths and obey the critic. Always having to be "good" restricts and censors the richness of who we are. Buried beneath all the "shoulds" and "don'ts" is a true, wise self that longs for expression.

To get there, the group will play with different doorways to somatic knowing: emotional, visual, auditory, kinesthetic, olfactory, or general sensing. The intention will be to identify which doorway opens up our personal intuitive self, and then go on in.

Using movement and meditation, play and process, art and journal writing, participants will explore the indomitable aliveness beneath the censoring critic and conditioned tendencies. The focus will be: listening, accepting, and expressing what is true. The atmosphere will be nonjudgmental and light-hearted. Come and discover what feels so "good" about being "bad."

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

El Lenguaje de la Libertad
(The Language of Freedom)
Gustavo Rabin & Sara Szpektor

Libertad. Estado natural en el cual nacemos. Las emociones no resueltas y las defensas que levantamos para preservar nuestro ser nos van haciendo perder gradualmente esa libertad primordial. Cerramos el paso a lo que nos hiere y al mismo tiempo nos encerramos. Así nos acostumbramos a vivir. Eso se transforma en nuestro "modus operandi." Por eso cuando finalmente buscamos un cambio, encontramos que nosotros somos nuestro propio obstáculo.

Luego dedicamos gran parte de nuestra vida a aprender cómo volver a la libertad y recuperar nuestra pasión. Lograrlo es una de las conquistas más elevadas.

Este workshop trata acerca de los mapas que nos guiarán desde nuestro propio encierro hacia la expresión más libre de nuestro ser. De la oscuridad a la luz. Juntos descubriremos como hablar nuevas palabras, el lenguaje de la libertad.

Si Ud. siente que algo se agita en un lugar remotamente interno cuando lee estas líneas, este workshop es para Ud.

A través de ejercicios gestálticos, trabajo grupal y proceso personal, en este workshop crearemos el ambiente seguro y protegido en el cual poder hablar este nuevo/antiguo lenguaje y ser libres otra vez.

Las actividades tendrán lugar totalmente en español, los presentantes invitados serán traducidos simultáneamente.
The programs listed below are either longer than the standard Esalen workshop or part of an ongoing series. Prices quoted below for these programs are for standard accommodations as described in Reservation Information, page 4. Sometimes bunk bed space is available at a reduced rate. Scholarships are also available; please see Scholarship Information on page 4.

The Upledger Institute Series

The Upledger Institute was founded by John E. Upledger, who pioneered the field of CranioSacral Therapy nearly twenty-five years ago. Dr. Upledger is a Doctor of Science, an Academic Fellow of the British Society of Osteopathy, and a member of the Alternative Medicine Program Advisory Council of the National Institutes of Health.

From 1975 to 1983, Dr. Upledger served as clinical researcher and professor of biomechanics at Michigan State University. During those years he supervised a team of anatomists, physiologists, biophysicists, and bioengineers in experiments testing the existence and influence of the craniosacral system. The results of those studies explained the function of the craniosacral system and its use in treating malfunctions of the brain and spinal cord.

The Upledger Institute teaches noninvasive modalities such as CranioSacral Therapy to doctors and health care practitioners of all disciplines. Curricula range from the structural/functional anatomical perspective to approaches that explore the physical, emotional, mental, and spiritual origins of pain and dysfunction.

During this catalog period, Esalen will be offering SomatoEmotional Release I (September 8-13, taught by Dr. Upledger himself) and CranioSacral I (February 2-7). This workshop is sequential and each workshop requires completion of the previous course, either at Esalen or elsewhere.

Working With the Enneagram Types—A Three-Part Series

Esalen is offering a special three-part series on the Enneagram, led by Helen Palmer. The Enneagram is an ancient model of human development that links the unique and private aspects of human essence. Essence is a permanent, as contrasted to accidental, element of being. Awareness of essence has been called higher consciousness, or spiritual attainment.

Using the Enneagram model as the solder between the psychological and spiritual aspects of being, the three workshops focus on the practices of body, heart, and mind that best support different types of people toward spiritual liberation. These workshops may be taken individually or as an entire series (see Working With the Enneagram Types: The Heart Center, November 3-8).

November 8-December 6

28-Day Massage Practitioner Certification Program

Deborah Anne Medow & Oliver Bailey

The Esalen monthlong massage program provides comprehensive instruction in basic massage skills. This training includes anatomy, movement, yoga, meditation, gestalt awareness, ethics and business practices, and self-care. The daily lessons consist of lecture, demonstration, and supervised hands-on practice. Bodywork is studied as a pathway to well-being and transpersonal growth.

After the monthlong program, students wishing to fulfill certification requirements have six months to complete and document thirty massage sessions. Upon payment of a $50 processing fee, a California state-approved Certificate of Completion will be issued.

This is a professional training group with limited admission. Please request an application form when making reservations.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

Bunk bed room, if available: $2540

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 60.

The Diamond Approach: A Spiritual Teaching for Our Times

An Introductory Series of Classes

Teachers of the Ridhwan School are offering a series of introductory workshops in the Diamond Approach (see The Flame: An Introduction to the Diamond Approach, January 24-26 and Inquiry: The Path and Practice of the Diamond Approach, February 2-7). The teaching bridges the traditional divisions between what is considered sacred and what is considered mundane.

The methodology of the Diamond Approach is an open-ended inquiry into one's personal experience leading to an experiential understanding of it. The format includes meditation, awareness and movement practices, talks, exercises in self-inquiry, and personal processing within the group. As we inquire into and travel through our inner terrain, our identifications and beliefs shaped by our conditioning—the obscuring veils within—become more and more transparent, and we are able to contact dimensions of reality and the human potential traditionally accessible to only a few. As we gradually contact the depths of who we are, our lives progressively become embodiments and expressions of our true nature.

As in many schools of spiritual work, spiritual development in the Diamond Approach, while noninvasive and nonconfrontational, does lead to addressing the defenses of the ego and the dissolution of its structures, and so is not appropriate for everyone. It is especially suited to those who have done a lot of spiritual and/or psychological work, and who still feel that something within has not been touched. Reading one or both of the books below is recommended to see if you resonate with this approach. Prospective participants will be sent a questionnaire to ascertain whether the work may be of personal benefit (no questionnaire is required for the January 24-26 introductory weekend).

While one Diamond Heart workshop may provide a foundation for the next, each is complete on its own and may be taken individually or as part of the series. For more information and to obtain a questionnaire contact Joyce Lyke at 408-375-9845.

Recommended reading: Almas, Essence and Diamond Heart – Book One.

February 9-21

Advanced Training in Shamanism and Shamanic Healing

Michael Harner & Sandra Ingerman

Shamanism is the most ancient system known for using the mind, heart, and spirit to heal oneself and others and for solving the problems of daily living. This twelve-day intensive course emphasizes the universal methods of classic core shamanism, such as shamanic journeying, and their practical application to contemporary life.

Course prerequisite: a previous workshop with Michael Harner or other authorized faculty member of the Foundation for Shamanic Studies, either at Esalen or elsewhere.

For information, cost, and application, please contact the Foundation for Shamanic Studies, P.O. Box 1939, Mill Valley, CA 94942; 415-380-8282. Early application is recommended.

Healthspring Outreach and Education

The Healthspring Project extends Esalen's work in the healing arts and sciences to the outside world. It is an independent service-oriented program of Esalen teachers and their associates. Healthspring offers a global information network linking visitors to Esalen with centers, teachers, and health professionals in somatics and psychology located in their home area. (These listings are public information and are not meant to be an endorsement of any individual or institution.) Some of our practitioners and teachers travel in the United States and internationally and are available for private sessions and classes. If you are interested in being contacted, let us know.

The Healthspring library offers books on health and healing, somatic studies, psychology, bodywork, nutrition, and related studies, which may be borrowed by students while at Esalen. Donations of appropriate books are greatly appreciated.

For access to this program, write to Laurie Lioness Parizek at Esalen, c/o Healthspring.

Future Programs

Listed here are some of the special programs scheduled for the months ahead. This is not an invitation to register, but information to assist you in your long-range plans to participate in an Esalen workshop. Dates are subject to change; please call the Esalen Office or see the next catalog for more specific information.

February 28-March 28, 1997

28-Day Massage Practitioner Certification Program

Robert Helm & Brita Ostrom

Spring, 1997

12-Day Emotional Healing Workshop

Terry Hunt
In its continuing commitment to the fields of education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences, Esalen regularly sponsors invitation- al conferences that bring together experts who share their research and points of inquiry. As host, Esalen covers room and board expenses for participants as a way of advancing these particular studies. These are invitational conferences only and are not open to the public. Recently held programs and their conveners are listed here.

Living Mindfully with HIV
March 31-April 5, 1996
This was the second annual conference organized by Zen Hospice Project for individuals living with HIV. It brought to Esalen men and women of diverse backgrounds and in different stages of HIV, from early diagnosis to the final months of life. The aim of the conference was to provide participants with tools for living as fully as possible with HIV.

Mornings were spent in a variety of mindfulness practices—sitting, walking, lying down—designed to bring awareness into the present moment. Afternoon sessions introduced experiential exercises dealing with loss, hopelessness, and grief. Evenings featured programs of speakers and sessions of shared life-stories. As one participant noted, “No one was a stranger to suffering.”

Participants found the Esalen environment, with its physical beauty, welcoming spirit, and alternative teachings, especially conducive to their work. Some were from the inner city and had never been to Big Sur; others had never received a massage (the Esalen massage crew gave massages to all conference attendees). Several members of the Esalen community participated in the conference, exploring their relationship to impermanence and suffering.

In the words of Frank Ostaseski of Zen Hospice Project, the conference demonstrated that “we’re not separate. Another person’s suffering is our own. We each have an innate generosity that we can completely rely on, an ability to embrace another’s suffering. The limited idea we have of ourselves, our habits of protection, our fear of losing ourselves all begin to drop away. We come away with a sense of ourselves as boundless, fully capable of giving generosity.”

A long-range objective of the conference is the creation of a model for similar retreats and the establishment of a meditation group for people with life-threatening illness.

New Directions in Meditation Research
April 28-May 3, 1996
For the past nine years, Esalen and the Institute of Noetic Sciences have cosponsored a series of invitational conference to advance our understanding of meditation and to explore the significance of contemplative practice at personal, social, spiritual, and scientific levels. Participants have included scholars and meditation practitioners from diverse disciplines, including psychology, comparative religion, anthropology, neuroscience, psychiatry, medicine, law, politics, martial arts, and education.

The focus of this year’s meeting—the last in the series—was to consider the historical development of meditation research, based on the recent publication by IONS of the second edition of the Meditation Bibliography by Michael Murphy and Steve Donovan and updated by Eugene Taylor. Researchers shared reports on the medical application of meditation built on clinical studies now under way at major medical centers throughout the United States. They discussed the pros and cons of different methodological approaches to meditation. In addition, participants used part of every session to experience different meditation practices and to use the “first person” perspective to explore the value of meditation for spiritual and psychological growth.
FOR NURSES

The Board of Registered Nursing has approved Esalen as a provider of continuing education for registered nurses, provider number 01152. Only those programs listed below offer continuing education credit. Workshop leaders have final decision in applying for C.E.U. eligibility; therefore a workshop accredited in the past may not necessarily be accredited today. There is a $10 processing fee for C.E.U. certificates, payable at the end of the workshop when you turn in your evaluation form to the office. If you wish to receive a certificate, please notify the office at the time of registration.

Please note: Two-day workshops offer 10 hours of C.E. credit and five-day or longer workshops offer 30 hours.

If you need additional information on C.E. courses for nurses or future C.E. outreach programs, please contact Sherry Sanders Galloway, R.N., Continuing Education Coordinator, 408-667-3000.

May 3-5
• Intuition and the Dance of Attention

September 1-6
• Spiritual Healing: Laying-on-of-Hands
• Managing With Heart: Changing the Leadership Paradigm

September 6-8
• Time Shifting: Creating Time for Your Life

September 8-13
• Intuition and the Dance of Attention
• The Upledger Institute's SomatoEmotional Release I

September 13-15
• Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach

September 15-20
• Gestalt Practice

September 20-22
• The Awakened Mind: Brainwave Training
• The Art of Leadership: Communication, Eativity, Vision

September 22-27
• Turning on the Light: A Choice to Live Consciously
• Healing Without Medicines: Qigong and the Medical Knowledge of Yin-Style Bagua

September 29-October 4
• The Heart of Sports Massage

October 4-6
• Self-Empowerment and Purification: The Farther Reaches of Gestalt

October 6-11
• Treasure Maps to the Soul
• A Course in Miracles

October 20-25
• Continuum

October 25-27
• Pandora's Gifts: On Secrets, Health, and Healing
• Reflexology—Foot Compression Massage

October 27-November 3
• Cortical Reeducation® and the Feldenkrais Method®

October 27-November 1
• Five-Day Massage Intensive
• Vocal Awareness: Empowerment Through Voice
• Starting to Heal Yourself

November 8-December 6
• 28-Day Massage Practitioner Certification Program

November 10-15
• Facilitating Deep Process Using the Penniston Protocol Alpha/Theta Brainwave Training Technique

November 15-17
• Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach
• Sensory Awareness

November 17-22
• Thanksgiving into Healing

November 24-December 1
• Healing from Trauma: A Seven-Day Intensive

November 24-29
• The High-Performance Mind: Awakened Mind Brainwave Training

December 1-6
• Change, Challenges, and Self-Esteem
• Soul Dramas: Past-Life Regression and Spiritual Healing for (Helping) Professionals

December 6-8
• Weekend Massage Intensive

December 8-13
• Healing Our Hearts

December 20-22
• Stress Reduction: An East/West Approach

December 22-27
• Spiritual Healing: Laying-on-of-Hands

December 27-29
• Weekend Massage Intensive

December 29-January 3
• Feeling and Creativity: Reinvigorating (Ad)ventures in Life
• SIKE: Healing and Health through Ki Energy

January 5-10
• Five-Day Massage Intensive

January 12-17
• Gestalt Practice
• Chakra Integration: A Complete Approach to Health and Healing

January 17-19
• Hanna Somatics: Mastery of Muscles and Emotions
• Intimate Connections

January 19-24
• Creating Exact Moments of Healing
January 24–26
• Why Men Are the Way They Are
• When Success is Not Enough

January 26–31
• The Art of Trigger Point Massage
• The Medicine Wheel Way
• Qigong and Psychoneuroimmunology: An East/West Healing System

January 31–February 2
• Introduction to Mindfulness Meditation
• Reinhabiting Your Body: An Experience in Authentic Movement
• Secrets Kept From the Mind But Not From the Body

February 2–7
• The Upledger Institute’s CranioSacral I

February 16–21
• Five-Day Massage Intensive

February 23–28
• You Don’t Have to Be Good

FOR PSYCHOLOGISTS
Esalen has been approved as a provider of continuing education for psychologists in the State of California, accredited by the California Psychological Association, provider number ESA001. Workshops for which C.E.U. credit has been approved are listed here. Those workshops for which C.E.U. applications have been filed and approval is pending are noted in the Seminars section. For current status information, contact Brita Ostrom at 408-667-3040.

Please note: Two-day workshops will offer 10 hours of C.E. credit and five-day workshops will offer 26 hours.

September 6–8
• Time Shifting: Creating Time for Your Life (ESA001-30)

October 25–27
• Forgiveness: The Key to Intimacy (ESA001-05-02)
• Pandora’s Gifts: On Secrets, Health, and Healing (ESA001-31)

November 15–17
• Shamanism and Ecopsychology (ESA001-46)

January 12–17
• Completions and Transitions (ESA001-37-01)

January 24–26
• Why Men Are the Way They Are (ESA001-28-01)

January 31–February 2
• Secrets Kept From the Mind But Not From the Body (ESA-001-48)

February 14–16
• Communication and Partnership (ESA001-07-01)
The Work Study Program is for those interested in an intense and complete involvement with the Esalen environment. It is a work-oriented program, emotionally and physically, and only rarely is it restful. Participants work thirty-two hours per week in one of Esalen's departments (kitchen, garden, farm, housekeeping, maintenance, or grounds) and participate, along with staff and long-term students, in that department's program.

During most evenings and one weekend intensive, work students are together in one of two groups (see below) exploring different practices and approaches available at Esalen, with specifically assigned leaders who are with the group throughout the month, coordinating the study schedule and facilitating many of the evening sessions.

The selection of work students is done by Bette Dingman, the Work Study Coordinator, in consultation with department supervisors. Since this is a work program, preference is given to applicants who are open and willing to learn about themselves within the work context as well as within the evening and weekend study/process groups. Applicants with particular skills or physically limiting conditions are urged to mention them on the application. It is necessary for applicants to be able to speak and understand English.

First-month work students, in particular, are assigned to departments largely on the basis of community need. No work students will be assigned to the office until they have fulfilled a minimum of one month in one of the aforementioned departments, either during a current or a previous stay.

The study portion of the program is divided into two groups each month: each emphasizes one type of growth practice, such as gestalt, meditation, Reichian work, massage or somatics work, and so forth. Applicants must select one group and be prepared to stay at Esalen for the full duration designated for that particular program, assuming that they meet the standards of the Work Study Program.

Please note: This program is designed to explore and apply human values and potentials in both the evening groups and the workplace. It is not intended as a substitute for therapy or as a "cure".

It is sometimes possible to receive college credit for participating in the Work Study Program. Please check with your college or university for eligibility requirements.

Work Study Programs scheduled for this catalog period are:

September 15-October 13

Maria Lucia Sauer Holloman will lead a monthlong program teaching spiritual massage and healing, the laying-on-of-hands. This practice incorporates both hands-on and energetic work. Yoga, meditation, artwork, and Tibetan and bioenergetic exercises will be introduced to complement this energy work and to help bring participants in tune with their bodies.

The focus of a month with David Schiffman will be on the theme of transition. It is geared for people facing major changes who would like an opportunity to create a time for sanctuary and a mood of mutual support. The intention will be to cultivate an individual style of approaching change that is heartfelt, open-minded, and resourceful in spirit.

October 13-November 10

A month with John Soper & Friends will focus on ways to improve the quality of life for participants. Gestalt practice will be the vehicle for personal growth in a group setting. The group may also explore other practices, including games, to bring into focus those areas of our lives that are ripe for change.

With an emphasis on the practice of massage, David Streeter will explore the inner power of the human being. He will combine the essence of Zen meditation with movement from the martial arts and yoga. These principles will be applied to the art of massage and the art of being in the world.

November 10-December 8

Eduardo Eizner & Guests will lead a month concentrating on emotional release work and self-awareness, incorporating gestalt practice, group and individual process, rituals, movement, and bodywork.

Kenn Chase will lead a month of learning and practicing the entire Yang-style T'ai Chi Ch'uan short form meditation technique. As a regular part of the practice he will teach Feldenkrais Awareness Through Movement sessions, which relieve chronic tensions in the neck, shoulders, and back. Also integrated into the program will be Chi Kung breathing practices, movement analysis, and sensory awareness.

December 8-January 5

The basis of a month with Seymour Carter will be the gestalt method, supported by studies in various body disciplines, including sensory awareness, bioenergetics, and aikido. Each participant's process of development will be honored, encouraged, and treated as unique.

Eric Erickson will lead a group devoted to the development of integral practices. Gestalt practice, meditation, movement exercises, and the experience of nature will be explored as complementary awareness practices which, when combined, integrate mind-body-spirit into a greater whole and enhance personal development and transformation.

January 5-February 2

Carolyn Braddock will focus on healing from bodily trauma, including sexual and emotional trauma, physical illnesses and surgeries, body image issues, and loss from accidents. The program will use a body-centered approach, incorporating breath, sound, and movement into a healing journey. Participants will work toward locating and releasing old patterns and developing new ones. Video analysis, group process, gestalt, bodywork, experiential exercises, and gentle martial arts exercises will all be incorporated.

The monthlong program with Deborah Anne Medow is based on learning how to pay attention to yourself both as an individual and in relationship to another. It is a program of going inward, developing a stronger sense of self, and bringing that self out to play and interact with others. The monthlong will integrate yoga, breathing exercises, massage, meditation, creative movement, and dance.

February 2-March 2

Helen Malcolm will guide a month of Vision Painting, the creation of a visual journal.
through color, light, and form. Painting will be used in a subtle process designed to expose the limitations of the conditioned mind. In an atmosphere of exploration and acceptance, participants can learn to suspend judgment, enabling the creative impulse to play, take risks, and face fears. Emotional awareness, visualization, meditation, music, and dream images will be used to evoke expression from an inner source of wisdom and intuition. David Schiffman. See September 15–October 13.

Inasmuch as the Work Study Program is a complete program in itself, please do not plan to take regularly scheduled catalog workshops during your stay. Professional services, such as massage, are available at staff rates.

Fees: A deposit of $400 in U.S. currency is required with your application. The work scholar fee is $750 for the first month, $700 for the second month, and $650 for the third month. Work students may be invited to remain for a second or third month depending on space available and community needs. Occasionally it is possible to stay for a longer period as an Extended Student. There are no scholarships available for the Work Study Program.

Housing: Accommodations are shared (occasionally co-ed), with up to four people to a room, usually at South Coast Center, a staff complex located 1.5 miles north of Esalen.

For more information contact Bette Dingman: 408-667-3010.

Please note: Application is not registration in the program. Registration is made only after approval of application and upon receipt of deposit. The balance of the fee is due on arrival. Of the original deposit, $100 is nonrefundable and may be transferred to other programs within one year of receipt. Please return the application form (see next page) with your deposit to:

Work Study Program
Esalen Institute
Big Sur, CA 93920

---

Institute of Transpersonal Psychology Offers External Master's Degrees

Work students have the opportunity to integrate their work study experience at Esalen with the external degree program of the Institute of Transpersonal Psychology. The external degree format enables students to study at any location. Work students will be able to continue the dynamics of personal growth fostered at Esalen while earning master's degrees in transpersonal studies or in transpersonal psychology.

Inquiries and applications should be made directly to ITP. Contact:

Nancy Fagen
External Program
Institute of Transpersonal Psychology
744 San Antonio Road
Palo Alto, CA 94303
415-493-4430

---

Institute of Transpersonal Psychology Offers External Master's Degrees

Work students have the opportunity to integrate their work study experience at Esalen with the external degree program of the Institute of Transpersonal Psychology. The external degree format enables students to study at any location. Work students will be able to continue the dynamics of personal growth fostered at Esalen while earning master's degrees in transpersonal studies or in transpersonal psychology.

Inquiries and applications should be made directly to ITP. Contact:

Nancy Fagen
External Program
Institute of Transpersonal Psychology
744 San Antonio Road
Palo Alto, CA 94303
415-493-4430
WORK STUDY PROGRAM APPLICATION

Name ____________________________________________ □ Male □ Female

Date of Birth ____________________________ Occupation ____________________________

Place of Employment ____________________________________________________________

Daytime Phone (______) ____________________________ Home Address ________________________

Evening Phone (______) ____________________________ City/State/Zip code ______________________

Date of Application ____________________________ Country ________________________________

Do you have any physically limiting conditions which might affect your full participation in this program? □ Yes □ No

If yes, please be specific. ____________________________________________________________

Are you currently taking any medications? □ Yes □ No If yes, please specify: ____________________________

Which program(s) are you interested in? Please list the leader's name. ____________________________

____________________________________________________________________________________

Please note: When focused programs continue with the same leader for more than one month, participants must be prepared to stay at Esalen for the full duration of that particular program.

The Work Study Program is for 28 days, beginning and ending on Sunday. Please list the dates of your choice, listing two alternative dates as well.

1st: ___________ to ___________ 2nd: ___________ to ___________ 3rd: ___________ to ___________

Work students may be invited to remain for a second or third month, depending on space available and the needs of the Esalen community. Please indicate your availability for such an invitation.

□ No extension □ One-month extension □ Two-month extension

Assignments to departments are made according to community labor needs. However, if you have particular skills that you're willing to use, especially in food preparation, gardening, maintenance, mechanics, construction, or housecare, please mention them here.

____________________________________________________________________________________

□ Please check here if you have emergency medical skills (M.D., R.N., or E.M.T.) and are willing to use them during your stay.

Attach a personal statement about your interest in the Work Study Program and why you'd like to participate.

All applicants are required to sign a standard release from liability and assumption of risk form as a condition of participation in the Work Study Program.

Note: No pets allowed.
Apprenticeship to the Earth—Return to Sacred Ground

Little Bear Nason & David Schiffman

David Schiffman writes: "This wilderness adventure is for people who value the restorative and inspirational power of the natural world. We will journey on foot and/or horseback toward a simpler mode of being. Our destination: Pine Valley, deep in the woods of Big Sur's most pristine backcountry, a convergence of earth, sky, and mountains, filled with centuries-old towering pines, sparkling streams and waterfalls, surrounded by high granite cliffs and secret caves inscribed with petroglyphs. It is an ancient, sacred gathering-place for the Esselen Indians, used for countless generations as a tribal sanctuary for new visions, purification, celebration, and community.

"It will be a time to share the elemental realities of outdoor living and travel: sleeping under starry skies in the fragrance of the forested in the music of creek and wind, sharing meals around blazing fires in an unhurried mood of common support.

"Our time together will also be used for self-realization and personal mastery. We will employ a variety of shamanic practices for uncluttering our minds and hearts and freeing our spirits. Our tools will combine the ancient and the modern, including:

- Music and ceremony as spirit medicine
- Native American prayer and purification practices
- Opportunities for individual initiation into dreamtime
- Healing and kinship through the sensitive use of touch
- Free-form adventures in the heart of the forest

This trip is suitable for newcomers as well as old hands."

Participants can elect to hike or ride.* All gear and food will be packed in on mules. Be prepared for some physical exertion. Further details sent upon registration. *

$790 *

($890 if you choose to ride)

Esalen Wilderness Programs
Refund Policy

Most expenses in wilderness programs are incurred preparing for your arrival. The Esalen Wilderness Program refund policy reflects the fact that few of these expenses can be recovered.

To reserve a space in a wilderness workshop, a nonrefundable deposit of $200 is required. The balance of the fee is due 14 days before the program begins. If you cancel prior to 30 days before the program begins, your nonrefundable deposit may be applied to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year. If you cancel from 30 days up to the starting date of the trip, your deposit is forfeited.
The Dolphin Tape Series
Each new tape list has a somewhat different emphasis in its selection of titles and speakers. In addition to the many well-known titles from familiar speakers included for the special attention of new customers, there are several additional tapes from some old favorites, the most recent recordings from others, and a few entirely new speakers, events, and subjects.

Dolphin Tapes has no complete catalog, just overlapping tape lists. When you place an order, let us know your field of interest or your favorite speakers. We may have more information on some of them. Many tapes are in stereo. Tape length is normally 1 to 1 1/2 hours.

Single-tape titles are $10:
- Abraham/McKenna/Sheldrake: TRIALOGUES: Preview and Sampler, 1989-90
- Abraham/Thompson: Eccentric Sunday Morning: Chaos and Order, 1993
- Abraham/McKenna/Sheldrake: TRIALOGUES: Preview and Sampler, 1989-90

Two-tape titles are $16:
- Joseph Campbell & Sam Keen: (2) The Dark Side of the Forest, 1985
- Joseph Campbell: (2) Myths of Alienation and Rapture, 1970
- Angeles Arrien: (2) Cross-Cultural Shamanic Practice, 1991
- Timothy Leary: (2) The Power of Imprinting, 1982
- Terence McKenna: (2) The Magical Mystery Tour, 1989
- Daniel Sheehan & Sara Nelson: (2) Politics and Natural Law, 1995
- Rupert Sheldrake: (2) Morphic Resonance and Memory, 1985
- Terence McKenna: Surfing on Finnegan's Wake, 1993
- Abraham Maslow: Self-Actualization, 1966
- John C. Lilly: The Dolphin Experience, 1969
- John & Toni Lilly: Integrating Science and Mysticism, 1981

Four-tape titles are $34:
- Ralph Abraham: (4) The Chaos Revolution, 1994
- Joseph Campbell: (4) Imagery in the Novels of James Joyce, 1968
- James Fadiman: (4) A Weekend of Stories, 1984
- David Finkelstein: (4) Indeterminacy and Undecidability, 1978
- Roland Fischer: (4) Creative, Psychotic, and Ecstatic States, 1969
- Rupert Sheldrake: (4) Deeper and Broader Questions, 1994
- Octavio Paz: (2) Eros, Chaos, and Meaning, 1994

Six-tape titles are $56:
- Gregory Bateson: (6) The East Coast Workshop, 1973
- Abraham Maslow: (6) The Eupyschian Ethic, 1969
- Joseph Chilton Pearce: (6) Journey to the Heart, 1990
- Rupert Sheldrake: (6) Resonance and Presence of the Past, 1985
- Andrew Weil: (6) All You Wanted to Know About Drugs, 1993
- Robert Anton Wilson: (6) The "Coincidence" of Joyce, 1985
- Terence McKenna: (8) The Esalen Scholar-In-Residence Series, 1989
- Colin Wilson: (8) New Comments on A Course in Miracles, 1980
- Rupert Sheldrake: (10) Informal Esalen Lectures, 1975-1980 (Archives)

DOLPHIN TAPES, P.O. Box 71, Big Sur, CA 93920
Please mail your order and your check payable to:
Please add $3.00 to your complete order for handling and mailing (add $3.00 more if you wish priority mail). Overseas orders send $1.00 per tape for mailing. California residents include 6 1/2% tax. Institutional purchase orders please add 10% to tape cost for invoicing and deferred payment. Allow 4 to 6 weeks for delivery (most orders are mailed within two weeks).
Please mail your order and your check payable to:
DOLPHIN TAPES, P.O. Box 71, Big Sur, CA 93920
Advertisement: Dolphin Tapes is a private company independent of Esalen.
Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita), longtime Esalen group leader, guides people internationally in breathwork, gestalt, vision improvement, movement, and meditation. Her current interest is swimming with wild dolphins in Hawaii. p. 19, 32

Prema Desara began her dance studies at age three, embarking on a career that carried her through ballet and modern dance to the sacred dances of Bali, India, and Tibet. Her work has been praised by the Dalai Lama. p. 18

Shirley Dockstader, a teacher in body-mind practices for twenty-five years, integrates hatha yoga and qigong into high-performance athletics and immune system strengthening. Founder of Mind and Movement, she is coauthor of Making Waves. p. 50

Patrick Douce, one of Moshe Feldenkrais's first American students, has lived at Esalen since 1972. Since 1986 he has lived half of each year in Bali, developing programs with Indonesian Slamat Martial-Arts-For-Health schools. p. 16, 30

Bay Area and leads retreats and workshops nationally. p. 47

Joyce Frazier, a gestalt practitioner in private practice, is the senior supervisor of the Gestalt Training Institute of Vancouver, Canada. She leads workshops in the U.S., Canada, and Europe. p. 29, 30

Malory Fromm has trained in Ki healing since 1981 and has led workshops in the U.S. and Japan. A licensed, practicing instructor of Ashiatsu (JPN Dan), he cofounded the Spinal Integrity Ki Energy (SIKE) Institute in Los Angeles. p. 42

Sherry Sanders Galloway is an Esalen massage staff practitioner and teacher whose focus is sports massage, balanced with Esalen bodywork. A practicing RN, she specializes in emergency medicine and psychiatric intervention. p. 16

Glenna Gerard is cofounder of The Dialogue Group, specializing in interpersonal communication, leadership, and group facilitation. Her passion is integrating spiritual practice and conscious learning in personal and professional life. p. 56

Marilah Fenton Gladis, longtime gestalt practitioner and trainer, founded and has for fourteen years directed the Bishops County Institute. She is director of the Pennsylvania Gestalt Institute for Psychotherapy and Training. p. 46, 47

Mary Goldenson (Devani) is a clinical psychologist, choreographer, and certified Radian® teacher in Los Angeles. She has a private practice specializing in relationship therapy and transitions. p. 10, 25, 32, 39, 45, 48, 53

Joe D. Goldstrich is board-certified in cardiology and internal medicine. He has lived at Esalen and has given workshops here for fifteen years. p. 43

Chloe Goodchild has taught voice and soundwork for fifteen years in Britain and Europe, where she performs and records. She recently released Wakening, an album of spiritual chants. Last year she was invited to sing for the Dalai Lama. p. 27

Harriet Golins is the originator of Cortical Reeducation®. She is a Feldenkrais practitioner with a background in kinesiology, applied kinesiology, craniosacral work, and social anthropology. p. 16

Leslie Gray is a Native American clinical psychologist with a shamanic counseling practice in San Francisco. She offers seminars on shamanism and on applied psycholology worldwide. p. 30

Eleanor Criswell Hanna, professor of psychology at Sonoma State University, is editor of Somatics, director of the Nosato Institute for Somatic Research and Training, and author of How Yoga Works and Biofeedback and Somatics. p. 46

Michael Harmer has practiced shamanism and shamanic healing for more than thirty-five years and pioneered their return to contemporary life. His books include The Way of the Shaman; The Jivaro; and Hallucinogens and Shamanism. p. 53, 57

Steven Harper coordinates Esalen's Wilderness Programs. He has led both traditional and experimental expeditions internationally for nearly twenty years. His work focuses on wild nature as a vehicle for awakening. p. 14, 24

Rachel Harris was in the 1968 Esalen Residential Program. She is a psychotherapist in private practice in Princeton, NJ, and a consultant for executives on leadership and interpersonal skill development. p. 24

Andrew Harvey, born and raised in South India and educated at Oxford, was the youngest-ever professor of All Souls College. Scholar, educator, and author, his twenty-two books include novels, poems, and translations. p. 14

Jeanne Hay is a teacher of the Riduan School, the home of the Diamond Approach, a method of spiritual realization and actualization. She has been involved in spiritual and psychological work since 1974. p. 52

Beth Hedva is the author of Journey From Betrayal To Trust. Her work blends ancient wisdom and spirituality with modern psychotherapy. p. 47

Camille Helmskink is the cofounder and codirector of Threshold Society. With Kabir Helmskink, she has translated three books of Sufi poetry, including the recently published Rumi translation, Jewels of Remembrance. p. 28

Kabir Helmskink, a Shakti of the Melevi Order, applies the teachings of classical Sufism to contemporary community. Among other works, he has authored Living Presence: A Sufi Way to Mindfulness and the Essential Self. p. 28

Christian Hendricks is an Aston Patterson®, Ju Jitsu instructor, and licensed massage therapist. He is in private practice in Seattle, specializing in increasing performance, rehabilitating injuries, ergonomic consultation, and movement education. p. 33

Gay Hendricks has been a psychologist and body-centered therapist for twenty-seven years. He is the author of Learning to Love Yourself and the coauthor of Conscious Loving and At the Speed of Life. p. 36

Kathlyn Hendricks, a movement and body-centered therapist, trains mental health professionals internationally and is the coauthor of Conscious Loving and At the Speed of Life. p. 36

Nick Herbert is the author of Quantum Reality, Faster-than-Light, and Elemental Mind. He is also the "Fringes" columnist for the magazine Mondo. p. 38

Deborah Ardell Hill is a licensed psychologist, chiropractor, and certified Radial® teacher in Los Angeles. She has a private practice and conscious learning in a variety of modalities, including shiatsu and craniosacral. She also incorporates the chakras and meridians as a framework for awakening. p. 14, 24

Steven Harper coordinates Esalen's Wilderness Programs. He has led both traditional and experimental expeditions internationally for nearly twenty years. His work focuses on wild nature as a vehicle for awakening. p. 14, 24

Beth Hedva is the author of Journey From Betrayal To Trust. Her work blends ancient wisdom and spirituality with modern psychotherapy. p. 47

Camille Helmskink is the cofounder and codirector of Threshold Society. With Kabir Helmskink, she has translated three books of Sufi poetry, including the recently published Rumi translation, Jewels of Remembrance. p. 28

Kabir Helmskink, a Shakti of the Melevi Order, applies the teachings of classical Sufism to contemporary community. Among other works, he has authored Living Presence: A Sufi Way to Mindfulness and the Essential Self. p. 28

Christian Hendricks is an Aston Patterson®, Ju Jitsu instructor, and licensed massage therapist. He is in private practice in Seattle, specializing in increasing performance, rehabilitating injuries, ergonomic consultation, and movement education. p. 33

Gay Hendricks has been a psychologist and body-centered therapist for twenty-seven years. He is the author of Learning to Love Yourself and the coauthor of Conscious Loving and At the Speed of Life. p. 36

Kathlyn Hendricks, a movement and body-centered therapist, trains mental health professionals internationally and is the coauthor of Conscious Loving and At the Speed of Life. p. 36

Nick Herbert is the author of Quantum Reality, Faster-than-Light, and Elemental Mind. He is also the "Fringes" columnist for the magazine Mondo. p. 38

Deborah Ardell Hill is a licensed psychologist, chiropractor, and certified Radial® teacher in Los Angeles. She has a private practice and conscious learning in a variety of modalities, including shiatsu and craniosacral. She also incorporates the chakras and meridians as a framework for awakening. p. 14, 24

Geoffrey Hill is an analytical therapist, poet, social critic, and script and creativity consultant. He is the author of Illuminating Shadows: The Mythic Power of Film, and the subject of a documentary on the use of movies as therapy. p. 44

Martina Hoffmann is a painter, sculptor, and Reiki master whose art explores women's connection to the Goddess. Her work is featured in the recent book The Return of the Great Goddess. p. 40

Maria Lucia Sauer Holloman has practiced spiritual healing in Brazil and the U.S. since 1982. She has been a resident student and teacher at Esalen and conducts trainings and seminars internationally. p. 13, 40, 62

Jonathan Horan is a professional actor, certified massage practitioner, and currently on the teaching faculty of the Moving Center. p. 18

Chungliang Al Huang teaches Tai Ji philosophy, East/West synthesis, and the art of movement meditation. He is the founder-president of the Living Tao Foundation and director of Lan Ting Institute in the Sacred Mountains of China. p. 34, 44, 45, 46

Dorothy Hunt has been practicing psychotherapy since 1967 and is the founder of the San Francisco Center for Meditation and Psychotherapy. She is the editor of Love: A Fruit Always in Season. p. 15

Terry Hunt is a licensed psychologist and a certified bioenergetic therapist specializing in addictive disorders and adults from dysfunctional families. He is coauthor of Emotional Healing and Secrets to Tell, Secrets to Keep. p. 28

Leigh Hyams is a painter/teaching-artist at UC Berkeley Extension, Harahomi in Norway, and Atrisfa in Greece. A Fulbright Scholar whose work has been exhibited internationally, she leads art tours for museums and universities. p. 33

Sandra Ingerman is an international faculty member of Harner’s Foundation for Shamanic Studies. She is the author of Soul Retrieval: Mending the Fragmented Self. p. 53, 57

Julian Isaacs is a faculty member of two Bay Area graduate schools and is clinical director of a brainwave biofeedback training facility in Corte Madera, Calif. He regularly conducts professional seminars in the use of alpha/theta brainwave training. p. 30

Arthur Joseph is a teacher and professor of voice and is the creator of Vocal Awareness, a method that integrates mind/body/spirit through the vocal arts. p. 27

Zoran Josipovic is a counselor, mediation teacher, and co-director of Realization Center in Woodstock, N.Y. He is a longtime student of Eastern contemplative traditions and coauthor of Zen for Beginners. p. 42

Sharon Kagan is an exhibiting artist and teacher of the creative process, with master's degrees in performance art and psychology. She has extensively studied the roles of faith and hope in the psychology of children of holocaust survivors. p. 51

Sam Keen is the author of eleven books, including The Passionate Life, Faces of the Enemy, and, most recently, Hymns to an Unknown God. p. 47

Gaylan Kinne is a former MacArthur Fellow whose 1982 Selected Poems was the Pulitzer Prize and the National Book Award. He teaches at NYU, living part-time in New York and part-time in Vermont. His most recent book is Imperfect Thirst. p. 36

Stanley Krippner is professor of psychology at Saybrook Institute and the California Institute of Integral Studies and coauthor of Dreamworking, Dream Telepathy, and Realms of Healing. p. 54

Igor Kungurtsev is a meditation teacher in the traditions of Advaita-Vedanta and Christian mysticism. He has an MD in psychiatry and is an adjunct professor at the California Institute of Integral Studies and John F. Kennedy University. p. 45

Ron Kurtz developed the Hakomi method and is founder of the Hakomi Institute. He is the author of Body-Centered Psychotherapy and is currently writing a book on psychotherapy as a spiritual practice. p. 31

Susan Kuttner is a marketing and communications consultant, both in business and the healing arts. She assists her clients in becoming more effective, more powerful, more heartfelt, and more successful in their efforts. p. 33

Stephen LaBerge is a scientist dedicated to the transformation of human consciousness. He teaches and researches conscious or "lucid" dreaming at Stanford University. p. 38

Carol LaDue is a focusing teacher, speaking coach, bodyworkyer, and the director of the Pool of Listening Wisdom. She facilitates people in the embodiment of a meaningful life with compassion, respect, and humor. p. 56

Dale Larson, associate professor and director of the Graduate Health Psychology Program at Santa Clara University, is a clinician, researcher, fullbright scholar, international lecturer, and author of The Helper's Journey. p. 25

Sarah LaSalle is a psychotherapist and teacher who specializes in healing blocks to self-love and creativity. She is in private practice in Santa Monica, Calif. p. 51

Anthony Lawlor is the author of The Temple in the House: Finding the Sacred in Everyday Architecture. He is an award-winning architect and principal of Lawlor/Weller Design Group. p. 32

George Leonard is the author of Mastery; The Silent Pulse; and The Transformation. He is a fourth-degree black belt in aikido and founder of Leonard Energy Training (LET). p. 20, 59, 54

David Levenson is an internist whose medical practice is devoted to stress reduction, pain management, counseling, and the treatment of obesity. Cofounder of the Sequoia Hospital Stress Reduction Clinic, he is also a long-term mindfulness meditator. p. 39

Elisa Lodge is a motivational speaker and international consultant who bridges the world of business with the expansion of human potential. p. 47

Linda Loomis uses intersubjectivity to specialize in the treatment of physical, emotional, and sexual abuse, and the problems arising from alcoholism and post-traumatic stress. p. 33

Olga Luchakova is a Christian yoga, Shakti yoga, and Advaita-Vedanta teacher. She is an adjunct professor at the California Institute of Integral Studies, Institute of Transpersonal Psychology, and John F. Kennedy University. p. 17, 45

Nancy Kaye Lunney, formerly a vocal coach and accompanist, is the originator of Singing Gestalt, which utilizes lyrics and songs as a means of self-expression. She is director of programming at Esalen. p. 20, 53

Joyce Lyke is a teacher in the Ridhwan Work School, which is dedicated to understanding the relationship between personality and being. She has been part of the Esalen Gestalt staff for many years. p. 52

Helen Jerene Malcolm, artist, consultant, and teacher, works with a visionary consulting team designing long-range vision paintings for individual clients and Fortune 500 corporations. p. 17, 44, 62

Noel Mapstead is a local fine artist and potter. He has studied and exhibited extensively in New York and is now at home with Big Sur clay using traditional firing techniques. p. 35, 39

Peller Marion is a psychologist, writer, and organizational management consultant. She is president of Peller Marion Associates, Inc., an outplacement and executive development coaching corporation in San Francisco. p. 48

Dennis Marriott is a graduate of the New England Culinary Institute and co-founder of the Esalen kitchen. p. 41

Dean Marson is a practitioner and instructor of Esalen massage who uses self-care techniques as a means of introducing people to the pleasure and potential of human touch. p. 36, 44

Daniel Martin, a former priest and educator, is the founder/director of International Communities for the Renewal of the Earth, whose mission is to assist the process of value and structural change in an emerging ecological context. p. 21

Robert Maurer teaches writing classes in creativity, storytelling, and character development at UCLA and USC. He is Director of Behavioral Sciences for the Family Practice Residency Program at Santa Monica-UCLA Medical Center. p. 39

Kim McCourt is a licensed marriage and family counselor and a senior associate at the Lomi School. Her bodywork practice incorporates craniosacral, intuitive hands-on energy work, orthopedic massage, and shiatsu. p. 56

Barbara McGavin is an accredited as a focusing Trainer by the Focusing Institute in Chicago. She is a founding member of the British Focusing Network and the British Focusing Teachers' Association. p. 22

Deborah Anne Medow, Esalen workshop leader and bodywork practitioner since 1986, teaches ashtanga yoga, massage, creative movement, gestalt awareness, and related healing disciplines throughout the U.S. and Europe. p. 16, 29, 57, 63

Robin Menken has been performing, directing, and teaching improvisation for thirty-seven years. She is an Obie-winning playwright who created the Second City Workshops in Los Angeles and taught and directed at USC Theatre Conservatory. p. 59

Sukie Miller, former director of education at Esalen, founded the Institute for the Study of the Afterlife. She has worked extensively with dying patients and has visited and studied over thirty afterlife systems worldwide. p. 44

Timothy Miller is the author of How To Want What You Have: Discovering the Magic and Grandeur of Ordinary Existence. He is a psychologist in private practice in Stockton, Calif. p. 32

Marissa Moss is an award-winning author and illustrator of children's books. She teaches at the University of California at Berkeley extension program. p. 51

Robert Moss is a shamanic counselor, former professor of ancient history and philosophy, and student of the Western mystery traditions. Australian-born, he first encountered the ways of a dreaming people through his friendship with Aborigines. p. 20

Caroline Mull has been a yoga practitioner for over twenty years. She is a Tantric instructor who specializes in sexual healing and awakening the goddess energy in women. p. 22

Charles Mull is a professional yoga instructor for twenty-five years, is director of the Source Schools of Tantra Yoga in Hawaii and California. He is coauthor (with his wife) of Tantra: The Art of Conscious Loving. p. 22

Arthur Munyon is a Trigger Point specialist who has been a student, practitioner, and teacher of various bodywork and emotional release disciplines for over twenty-five years, most of them at Esalen. He has a private practice in Carmel, Calif. p. 49

Michael Murphy founded Esalen Institute (with Richard Price) in 1962 and helped initiate Esalen's Soviet American Exchange Program. He is the author of Of the Kingdom, Jacob Atabet, and The Future of the Body. p. 54

Thomas Myers trained with Ida Rolf, Moshe Feldenkrais, and Buckminster Fuller, and has practiced Rolfing® internationally since 1976. Anatomist, musician, sailor, and parent, Tom practices on the coast of Maine. p. 29

Claudio Naranjo, growth disciplines theorist and former Esalen resident, introduced meditation as an adjunct therapy and was first to teach the Enneagram as personality map in the U.S. He has given the opening address at all the International Gestalt Conferences. p. 55

Little Bear Nasow is the seventh generation spiritual leader of the Esalen Indian Tribe of Big Sur. His life is an apprenticeship to the Earth. p. 23, 65

Steven Newmark is a psychotherapist, author, and lecturer on singles issues. He is the creator of the videos What Women Really Want, The Art of Meeting Men, and How to Meet Women. p. 30

Andrew Nugent-Head is the China Director of the Association for Traditional Studies. He has lived in Beijing since 1987, where he works and studies with the last generation of traditional masters born and educated pre-1949. p. 19

John O'Donohue is a Catholic priest, philosopher, poet, and storyteller. Born in Ireland and steeped in Celtic mysticism, he is the author of Echoes of Memory, a poetry collection, and Stone as the Tabernacle of Memory. p. 43

Heather Maycock Ogilvy, a psychologist in Menlo Park, Calif., has been in private practice for twenty years, working with adults and children. She is a longtime Esalen group leader. p. 42

Sharon Olds teaches writing workshops in the Graduate Creative Writing Program of New York University and at the Squaw Valley Community of Writers. She has published many books of poems, including The Gold Cell and The Father. p. 17

Brian O'Leary was a NASA scientist during the Apollo program, has served on the faculties of Cornell and Princeton, and cofounded the International Association for New Science. He has written ten books and 100 peer-reviewed scientific papers. p. 27

Kathleen O'Shaughnessy has an extensive background in Soto Zen, the major psychotherapies, movement therapy, nutritional healing, shamanic states, bodywork, and the practicalities of transpersonal crisis. p. 44

Brita Ostrom, a licensed MFTC, has led massage and other workshops at Esalen for twenty-one years. She is trained in gestalt awareness work and participated in Esalen's two-year somatics education program. p. 44

Helen Palmer has for the past twenty-two years directed CITI, a training center that unites psychological work with the agendas of sacred tradition. She has authored The Enneagram and The Enneagram in Love and Work. p. 27, 28
Network, he has written for Business Ethics Magazine and is a spokesman for new paradigm business strategies. p. 14

Linda Teurfs is an organizational consultant and cofounder of The Dialogue Group. She specializes in leadership, self-organizing/ managing teams, interpersonal communications, and integration of dialogue into a wide variety of settings. p. 56

Vicki Topp has been part of the Esalen massage staff and community since 1968. She currently teaches workshops and training groups internationally and is a student of Body-Mind-Centering®. p. 41

Linda Trichter-Metcalf, formerly a professor of English and humanities, cofounded the practice of Proprioceptive Writing and has been teaching it since 1976. She is codirector of the Proprioceptive Writing Center in Portland, Maine. p. 52

John Upledger is an osteopathic physician recognized for developing CranioSacral Therapy and SomatoEmotional Release. Author and alternative treatment innovator, he established the Upledger Institute, which has trained thousands of health care professionals. p. 16

Robert Venosa is considered one of the masters of Fantastic Realism. His paintings have been the subject of three books, Manas Manna, Noospheres, and the upcoming Drifts with Terence McKenna. p. 40

David Viscott is a psychiatrist and the author of fourteen books. He hosted a popular program on KABC Talk Radio as well as an Emmy Award-winning TV program, Night Talk with Dr. David Viscott. p. 23

Ellen Watson practices and teaches at Esalen where she has studied since 1984. Her bodywork style reflects her training in yoga, dance, Reichian and holotropic breathwork, hypnosis, and spiritual healing. p. 53

Patti (Lawrence) White is a teacher and healer certified in Feldenkrais®, CranioSacral Therapy, Whole Brain Learning®, Integrated Awareness®, and Ericksonian Hypnotherapy. She incorporates Holophonic sound and other modalities to harmonize and integrate body, mind, and spirit. p. 35

David Whyte, poet, storyteller, and world traveler, is the author of two books, Songs for Coming Home and Where Many Rivers Meet. He teaches throughout the U.S. and Britain. p. 43

Ian Wickramasekera is a psychophysiol- ogist and professor of psychology at Saybrook Institute. He has made important contributions to mind/body science for over thirty years, for which he has received the Salvador Dali and the Morton Prince Awards. p. 53

Marianne Williamson is the author of A Return to Love, A Woman’s Worth, and Illuminata: Thoughts, Prayers, and Rites of Passage. She lectures internationally on spirituality and new thought. p. 23

Scott Wirth is a San Francisco Jungian analyst/psychologist specializing in work with gay men. He co-edited and contributed to Same Sex Love and the Path to Wholeness. p. 21

Anna Wise has been training brainwaves for high performance and meditative states for over twenty years. A member of the Academy of Certified Neurotherapists, she is the author of The High-Performance Mind: Mastering Brainwaves for Insight, Healing, and Creativity. p. 18, 33

Nina Wise is a performance artist who creates autobiographical and fictional pieces. Her multimedia works have been honored with seven Bay Area Critics’ Circle awards and numerous grants and fellowships. p. 40

Terra Wise is a certified yoga instructor, herbalist, and body-mind integration therapist in private practice in Laguna Beach, Calif. p. 24

Roger Woolger is a Jungian analyst who brings Buddhist meditation and body release work to his regression process and spiritual healing. Author of Other Lives, Other Selves, and The Goddess Within, he trains therapists in Europe and America. p. 35

Xie Peiqi is the only known person to know the complete Yin-style Bagua system, including both its martial and healing sides. In 1993, Dr. Xie began working to fully document and test the methods he has used to cure patients declared terminal. p. 19
This form is for your convenience in reserving a space in Esalen workshops. If you wish to make reservations for more than one person, please photocopy this form so that each registrant has his/her own form, unless you are registering as a couple with the same address and phone number. A nonrefundable deposit for each person registering and each workshop applied for must accompany this form. (Please see Reservation Information, page 4, under Fees and Reservations, Making Contact with Us, and Cancellation and Refund Policy.)

Name of Registrant ___________________________ Sex: M □ F □ Couple □

Address ________________________________

City ___________________________ State _______ Zip ____________

Home Phone: (______) ___________________________ Work Phone: (______) ___________________________

☐ Check if you have previously been to Esalen and this is a new address.

Occasionally there are unexpected situations that require us to contact you immediately before your stay here. If you will not be at the above numbers during the two weeks prior to the workshop, where may we reach you?

Please mark your first and second choices for housing after referring to page 4 for accommodation descriptions and rates. Total cost includes workshop fees, lodging, and meals.

☐ Check for standard accommodations, if available.
☐ Check for bunk bed room, if available.
☐ Check for sleeping bag space, if available.
☐ Check if you wish to room as a couple.

Write here the name(s) of any person(s) with whom you wish to room.

All workshop reservations require a nonrefundable deposit. Balance is due at time of check-in. (See page 4.)

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Workshop Date</th>
<th>Leader’s Name</th>
<th>Fee</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Workshop Deposits Enclosed: ____________________________

Tax-deductible contribution to Esalen (Optional): ____________

$5 Catalog Contribution (Optional): ____________

Subtotal: ____________

Total Amount Enclosed: ____________

☐ Check here for $10 prepay discount (see page 5).
☐ Check here if this is your first visit to Esalen.
☐ Check here if you need directions to Esalen.
☐ Check here if you are a senior.

Passenger Van Service:
I want transportation from (check one):
☐ Monterey Greyhound Bus Stop at approximately 3:45 PM 1042 Del Monte Avenue (corner of Aguajito)
☐ Monterey Airport at approximately 4:00 PM on (date of arrival, Fridays and Sundays only).

The $30-per-person charge (subject to change) is payable on arrival at Esalen. Please prepare to arrive at the airport well before 4:00PM so you do not miss our van. Esalen cannot be responsible for taxi fare or other transportation costs. If your plans for use of the passenger van service change after you have made your reservation, please notify us. The only departing van service from Esalen is on Fridays and Sundays at approximately 5:30 PM. Passenger van service is not available at any other time.

Other Notes:
All of our rooms are non-smoking. If you smoke, please plan to do so outside.

No pets allowed.

We are unable to act as a banking service for our guests. Please bring adequate funds for your stay.

☐ We occasionally make our mailing list available to other organizations who have services, information, or events that might be of interest to our subscribers. Please check here if you prefer that your name be used for Esalen mailings only.

☐ Check here if you do not want your phone number given out for ride-sharing.

Please make checks payable to Esalen Institute, in U.S. currency only. (There will be a $15 fee for returned checks.) Overseas residents must pay by checks drawn on U.S. banks or with one of the charge cards below. Checks or credit card information must accompany the reservations form. If you do so, you must include payment via one of the credit cards below.

Your reservation can be charged to:
☐ MasterCard ☐ Visa ☐ American Express

Card No. ____________________________ Expiration Date ____________

Authorizing Signature ____________________________

Thank you for your reservation. As soon as it is processed you will receive by return mail a receipt for your deposit and a notice of confirmation. Please review your confirmation for accuracy.
Esalen Institute is a center to encourage work in the humanities and sciences that promotes human values and potentials. Its activities consist of public seminars, residential work-study programs, invitational conferences, research, and semi-autonomous projects.
Esalen Institute is a center to explore work in the humanities and sciences that promotes human values and potentials. The Institute exists to sponsor, encourage, and attempt evaluation of work in these areas, both inside and outside our own organizational framework. Esalen's activities consist of public seminars, residential work-study programs, invitational conferences, research, and semi-autonomous projects.

Since Esalen is a center for experimental education, we ask that persons come to our programs out of an educational interest. We do not offer "cures" or assurances of change. As a center designed to foster personal and social transformation, Esalen offers those who join us the chance to explore more deeply the world and themselves.

Welcome to Esalen.
CONTENTS

Audio Recordings ............................................. 73
Biographical Information ................................. 74
Catalog Subscription Information ......................... 2
Continuing Education ........................................ 67
Esalen Notes .................................................. 8
Esalen Seminars .............................................. 13
Friends of Esalen ............................................. 8
Gazebo School Park Early Childhood Program .......... 5
General Information ......................................... 3
Guide to Workshops .......................................... 9
Invitational Conferences ................................... 66
Recent Events at Esalen .................................... 6
Reservation Form ........................................... 80
Reservation Information .................................. 4
Scholarship Information ................................... 4
Special Programs ............................................. 64
Wilderness Programs ....................................... 72
Work Study Program and Application ..................... 69-71

Esalen Institute
Highway 1
Big Sur, California 93920-9616

Catalog Requests: 408-644-8476

Esalen Board of Trustees:
Mary Ellen Klee
Bokara Legendre
George Leonard
Nancy Kaye Lunney
Michael Murphy
Andy Nusbaum
Jeremy Tarcher

President and CEO:
Sharon Thom

Director of Programming:
Nancy Kaye Lunney

Operations Manager:
David Price

Personnel Manager:
Pat Lewine

Esalen Catalog Staff:
Editors:
Margaret Livingston
Peter Friedberg

Administrative Liaison:
Kasia Zajac

Design & Production:
Terry McGrath

The Esalen Catalog is published triannually by the Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920-9616. Printed on recycled paper. ©1996 Esalen Institute. All rights reserved. ISSN 1088-2782

Subscription Information:
Subscription cost for one year is $15 for the United States, $17 for Canada and Mexico, $22 for Europe and South America, and $25 for all other countries.

Although we're delighted to provide you with this issue of the catalog, if you are not currently a subscriber we would appreciate a $5 contribution to defray postage and production costs.
Esalen was founded in 1962 as an educational center devoted to the exploration of unrealized human capacities. It became known for its blend of East/West philosophies, its experiential/didactic workshops, the steady influx of philosophers, psychologists, artists, and religious thinkers, and its breathtaking grounds blessed with natural hot springs. Once home to a Native American tribe known as the Esselen, Esalen is situated on 27 acres of spectacular Big Sur coastline with the Santa Lucia Mountains rising sharply behind.

There are various ways to experience Esalen, ranging from an overnight visit to a long-term stay as a seminar participant. The weekend and five-day workshops described throughout the catalog are the standard route for coming to Esalen. The "Experiencing Esalen" workshops, scheduled periodically, offer an introduction to practices such as gestalt, massage, sensory awareness, and meditation. From such a sampling, participants can then choose those approaches they are most attracted to and pursue them in subsequent seminars.

Another way of being at Esalen which allows a greater involvement at a lower expense is the Work Study Program, an intensive twenty-eight-day work-oriented program for individuals who wish to make a directed, personal commitment to self-exploration and growth, and a contribution to the Esalen community. For a full description of the Work Study Program, please turn to page 69.

For those who wish an extended stay, there are periodic long-term programs which involve didactic seminars or professional trainings as well as experiential workshops. Please see Special Programs.

Finally, there are other events that enrich life at Esalen. There are occasional forums in which writers and thinkers, both visiting and resident, share their ideas with the community. On Wednesday nights there may be lectures, films, dance performances, or other events. Bodywork of various kinds is available by appointment with individual practitioners. There is also a community event schedule offered. Please check the bulletin board when you arrive.

Esalen is a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on Coast Route 1. From the south, we are 50 miles north of San Simeon. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute, By Reservation Only.

Catalog Subscriptions
If you would like to receive the Esalen Catalog, please refer to page 2 for subscription rates and send your check or money order (U.S. currency) in the enclosed subscription envelope, or mail it to: Subscriptions, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920 (see Income Tax Regulation 1.162-5).

The Hot Springs at Esalen
We would like those people who are planning their first visit to Esalen to know that swimsuits are optional, and nudity common, in the hot springs, massage area, and swimming pool. We encourage each individual to choose what is most comfortable, either wearing a swim-suit or not, and emphasize that the environment we strive for at Esalen is one of personal sanctity and respect for the human body.

In addition to around-the-clock availability for Esalen guests, the hot springs are open to the general public by reservation only from 1 AM to 3 AM. There is a $10 fee. To make a reservation, please call 408-667-3047.

Accreditation
Many formal educational institutions recognize the time spent at Esalen as being worthy of credit in their own curricula; check with your university or college for further information. We would be glad to supply information to your school regarding any of our programs or series of programs. Please submit a written request to the office supervisor.

Continuing Education at Esalen
Esalen is a provider of continuing education credits for both nurses and psychologists.

Approved workshops for nurses are noted in the Seminars section of this catalog as well as listed separately in the Continuing Education section, page 67. There is a $10 fee for each certificate of completion.

Workshops approved for psychologists are noted in the Seminars section and listed in the Continuing Education section. Those workshops for which C.E.U. applications have been filed and approval is pending are noted in the Seminars section only. For current status information, please phone Brita Ostrom at 408-667-3040.

Disabled Access
Esalen now provides a means of transportation to the baths for those with physical limitations which prevent them from walking. A vehicle was purchased, in part, through the generosity of Dr. John W. Harris, who believes, as we do, that those among us who are aged, infirm, or handicapped should also be able to enjoy the hot springs.

If you are disabled and would like to plan a visit to Esalen or participate in a workshop, please give the office as much advance notice as possible. While disabled access to some parts of the property is difficult, with enough planning, arrangements can be made for access to most of our facilities.

Recommended Reading and Mail Order Merchandise
Most books listed as recommended reading for workshops are available through Esalen's bookstore. All other bookstore items are also available via mail order. For ordering information please call 408-667-3049.

Ongoing Residence Program
Offered beginning mid-September and ending mid-June, the Ongoing Residence Program is designed for those who would like to have time and space in the Esalen environment for an intensive workshop program over a long term. A Residence Program stay is 26 days (four "weeks" and three weekends). Participants may select any of the five-day workshops offered during their stay with weekends free to enjoy room and board. Occasionally workshops are cancelled, so second choices are advised.

The cost is $3435 per 26-day period for standard accommodations and $2710 for bunk bed rooms.
RESERVATION INFORMATION

Making Contact with Us

Mail or Fax: The most efficient way to register for a workshop at Esalen is to fax or mail your reservation. If you fax your reservation, be sure to include accurate credit card information.

Esalen’s Fax: 408-667-2724
(Our fax line is exclusively for reservations—no personal correspondence, please.)

Phone: If you prefer to make your reservation by phone, please be prepared with your completed reservation form, workshop dates and leaders, and your credit card. We know that all calls to Esalen are long-distance and will try to be as efficient as possible.

General Information: 408-667-3000

Express Reservations: 408-644-8477
(This is only for those who have previously taken a workshop at Esalen and know the workshop, date, and leader of the workshop for which they are registering.)

All Other Reservations: 408-667-3005

Catalog Requests: 408-644-8476

Phone Reservation Hours:
Mon., Tues., Thurs.: 10 AM to 7 PM
Wednesday: 10 AM to 12 NOON
Friday: 10 AM to 5 PM
Saturday: 10 AM to 3 PM
Sunday: 12 NOON to 5 PM

*The reservation office is closed on Christmas and New Year’s Day.

World Wide Web: http://www.esalen.org

Fees

Fees and Reservations: Preregistration, by fax, mail, or phone, is required prior to arrival. A registration form is provided on page 80. Since workshops fill quickly, it is advisable to sign up as early as possible. In order to reserve a space in any workshop, we require full payment of the following deposits:

Weekend: $195 19 to 21 days: $450
5 to 7 days: $300 More than 21 days: $600
12 to 14 days: $400

Deposits are payable in U.S. currency only. Overseas residents must pay by checks drawn on U.S. banks or use a credit card. Balance of payment is due on arrival. (Please see page 5 for information on discounts and reduced options.)

Please indicate your second choice for a workshop in case your first choice is cancelled and we are unable to reach you.

Esalen Institute reserves the right to cancel any program at any time.

Workshop Accommodations

Please Note: Workshop fees cover tuition, food, and lodging.

Standard Accommodations: This is shared housing with two or three persons per room. In some cases, bathrooms are shared. Couples will always be housed together. The rates listed with the workshop descriptions throughout the catalog refer to these shared standard accommodations.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>7-Day Rate, per person</th>
<th>5-Day Rate, per person</th>
<th>Weekend Rate, per person</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>$1220</td>
<td>$795</td>
<td>$425</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Bunk Bed Rooms: Bunk beds are available for seminar participants who are willing to share a room with three or more persons. There are a limited number of these spaces, which are reserved on a first-come, first-served basis.

| $920                  | $595                   | $325                     |

Sleeping Bags: For sleeping bag information, please see Scholarship Information below.

Own Accommodations: If you are staying off the property the following rates apply:

| $715                  | $460                   | $255                     |

Camping on the grounds, either in tents or campers, is prohibited. We do not have parking space to accommodate RVs.

We would like to remind you that scholarship assistance is available; refer to Scholarship Information as well as Reduced Rate Options and Discounts for other economical ways of staying at Esalen.

Room and Board

Occasionally, when beds aren’t needed for seminarians, room and board is available. This gives visitors the opportunity to enjoy the grounds, the baths, and massage without participating in a workshop. Accommodations are standard (2 or 3 per room) or bunk bed (4 or more per room). Not all rooms have private baths. Room and board rates include dinner on the day of arrival and breakfast and lunch on the following day. We require full payment at the time of reservation. This payment is nonrefundable and nontransferable.

Note: Room and Board reservations must be made with a reservation specialist by phone, not by fax machine.

For a room and board stay between Sunday and Thursday, please call us no earlier than the Thursday before for room availability. For a Friday or Saturday night stay, please call no earlier than the Sunday before. The following rates are per person, per day.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Weekend (Friday and Saturday nights)</th>
<th>Weekday (Sunday through Thursday nights)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Standard Accommodations (2 or 3 per room):</td>
<td>$125</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bunk Bed (4 or more per room):</td>
<td>$85</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

*Off-season rates are in effect from October 1 through March 31, holidays excepted.

Cancellation Policy

Cancellation and Refund Policy: If you cancel or change any part of your reservation at least five full days before the start of your workshop(s), your nonrefundable deposit, less a $30-per-workshop processing fee, will be transferred to a credit account to be used within one year. If you cancel with less than five days’ notice, you forfeit your entire deposit. If you have prepaid your entire reservation fee, we will retain the deposit, as above, less the $30 processing fee, and return the balance to you. (Please note: Wilderness Programs has a different cancellation and refund policy.)

Scholarship Information

Standard and Bunk Bed Accommodations:

Esalen is able to provide some scholarship assistance to workshop participants in exchange for a work commitment (usually in the kitchen). Approved scholarship recipients will receive their work schedules upon arrival at Esalen. The following assistance is available for standard and bunk bed accommodations only:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Assistance</th>
<th>Work</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Weekend</td>
<td>$50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5-9 days</td>
<td>$100</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12-14 days</td>
<td>$200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>14+ days</td>
<td>$300</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Sleeping Bag Accommodations: Sleeping bag accommodations are a form of scholarship assistance in which Esalen meeting rooms are used as shared sleeping bag space. Sleeping baggers have only limited access to these rooms, as they are frequently in use. The following rates apply:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>7-Day Rate</th>
<th>5-Day Rate</th>
<th>Weekend Rate</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>$570</td>
<td>$375</td>
<td>$200</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

These rates entail the following work commitment:

- 10 hours work / 8 hours rest / 4 hours free

To reserve a sleeping bag space, a written application explaining the basis of your scholarship request is required. Sleeping bag space cannot be reserved by phone. The application must be received at least 2 weeks prior to your workshop. Please write “Scholarship” and the dates of the workshop on the outside of the envelope. Sleeping bag spaces are assigned according to financial need.

If additional scholarship assistance is required, please send a letter of explanation to: Scholarships at Esalen. Due to the number of requests we receive, we can only provide one scholarship per person per year.

Reduced Rate Options and Discounts

If you pay in full at the time you make your reservation, you will receive a $10 prepayment discount per workshop and be eligible for express check-in upon arrival. This discount does not apply to scholarship recipients or sleeping bag accommodations.

Senior Citizen Discount: Esalen offers a special discount to individuals over 60 years of age. The discount for a weekend workshop is $25; for a five-day or longer workshop, it's $50. Please request this discount at the time of registration. When you complete the registration form on page 80, please indicate the discounts for which you qualify. If you qualify, and you make your reservation by phone, be sure to ask for this discount. (Please note: Senior discounts are not available for the Work Study Program.)

Accommodations for Families: Two full-paying adults housed in standard accommodations may have their children in the room for a meal charge of $20 per child per day ($10 for children under six). Note: If children are enrolled in Gazebo School Park or an Express Workshop, additional fees are required.

Contact the Gazebo, 408-667-3026, for information regarding their fees.

Workshops for Families: Participating families will pay full workshop rates for the first two participants (adult or child). Each additional participant will pay the following rate:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Duration</th>
<th>Fee</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>2-day workshop</td>
<td>$115</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3-day</td>
<td>$165</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4-day</td>
<td>$220</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5-day</td>
<td>$245</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Additional sleeping mats and bedding will be provided for each room.

The Gazebo School Park Early Childhood Program

The Gazebo School Park is an accredited educational experience for children one to six years. It is open year-round and has an average of 15 to 20 children in attendance each day.

The Early Childhood Program is available to seminarians who would like child care at Esalen. Child care is provided during workshopping, hours only. Daytime activities for the children include gardening, pony rides, learning about animal care, exploring nature, a real boat, the magic castle, and an Indian tepee. Evenings are spent with a teacher in the Gazebo Farmhouse, engaged in activities that are age appropriate, such as reading, learning, and playing with the computer, baking, art crafts, or building-block play.

Reservations should be made at least a month in advance. Call the Gazebo Farmhouse, 408-667-3026, for more information and reservations.

Weekend: $200  Week: $400

Internship Program: This is a three-month program for those who wish to have intense exposure to life at the Gazebo School Park and its unique educational resources. The Internship Program offers experience with children, the Gazebo environment, and its teaching philosophy. Applicants must have completed at least three work scholar months at Esalen before being considered for this program.

Contact the Gazebo Farmhouse, 408-667-3026, for more information or reservations.

- First month: $400
- Second month: $350
- Third month: $300

Seminarians as Volunteers

Seminarians in residence at Esalen are invited to contribute one or two hours per week to work with the staff, usually in the kitchen. Your help enables us to meet the pressures of peak working times and enables you to experience Esalen from the inside out.

Transportation to Esalen

Van Service: On Fridays and Sundays we have van service from the Monterey Airport at approximately 4 PM and from the Monterey Transit Plaza (corner of Pearl and Alvarado, next to Ordway Drug) at approximately 4:30 PM. If you plan to use this service, please inform the Esalen office at least 24 hours prior to your arrival. The $30 one-way fee (subject to change) is payable to the Esalen office when you check in. Return reservations may be made at that time. The only departing van service from Esalen is on Fridays and Sundays at approximately 6:30 PM. If you plan to use this departure service, please make sure that your plane reservations are after 8 PM.

Checking In

Check-in and Meals: Rooms become available at 4 PM; however, guests are welcome to arrive anytime after 2 PM. Weekend programs begin with dinner on Friday and end with brunch on Sunday. Five-day and longer programs begin with dinner on Friday or Sunday and end with lunch on Friday or Sunday. Check-out time is noon on departure day.

F. Y. I.

Health Services: There are no medical services or pharmaceutical supplies available at Esalen. If you will require medical attention or supplies during your stay, please come prepared to administer to your own needs. Esalen is 45 miles from the nearest medical facility or pharmacy.

For Your Safety: Please bring a flashlight for use at night while walking on the grounds.

Illegal Drugs: In accordance with state and federal laws, the possession or use of illegal drugs on Esalen grounds is strictly prohibited.

Lost and Found: To inquire about items left behind from your Esalen visit, call 408-667-3019.

Guests: Seminarians are not allowed guests on the property during their stay.

Pets: No pets are allowed on the property.

Smoking: Smoking is not permitted in any of our accommodations or meeting rooms.
Recent Events at Esalen

A Community Invitational Conference on Compassion. Most religious traditions were represented at this conference where compassion was investigated as a concept, an experience, and an integral part of spiritual practice. Some of the participants included (from left): Brother David Steindl-Rast, a Benedictine Monk and psychologist; Ajahn Amaro, founder of a Buddhist monastery of the Thai Forest Tradition; and Sharon Thom, President and CEO of Esalen.

James Hillman reads from The Soul’s Code: In Search of Character & Calling, his latest book in which he discusses how destiny can be revealed in the essence of character.

Babatunde Olatunji & Friends: Language of the Drums
African percussion, chanting, and dance

Michael Hedges and Paulie Zink in concert at Esalen.
Esalen hosted the "Dream Seekers," a group of inner-city teens. These teenagers are part of a program designed and guided by André Salvage (back row, 4th from left). The teens live in a housing project in North Beach near Fisherman's Wharf in San Francisco. "Dream Seekers" leader Salvage said that he hoped their time at Esalen would help guide them more deeply into a place of love and peace.

Esalen's Second Annual Arts Festival. Painter Margot McLean instructs a participant in her "Painting & Perceiving" workshop. Workshops, performances, and participatory events were offered in a wide range of artistic disciplines, including painting, poetry, storytelling, music, children's book writing & illustration, photography, and mythology.

Joan Baez performed at the Second Annual Arts Festival.
Esalen Profile:
David Price,
Operations Manager

After spending portions of his early childhood and much of his young adult life at Esalen, David has taken a circuitous route to the position of Esalen's operations manager, including a lengthy stint as a musician and recording engineer. Deeply committed to Esalen's future, he valued the opportunity to assume a role that would be key in charting the Institute's course and maintaining the quality for which it is justly known. As the overseer of Esalen's day-to-day operations, David adheres to the principle of "maximum availability, minimum coercion" to guarantee that Esalen remains a center that promotes diversity and fosters self-responsibility. The son of the late Dick Price, Esalen's cofounder, David says, "I have an investment in keeping it true to what I imagine he would have wanted.''

The Esalen Catalog via Internet
We are pleased to announce that the Esalen Catalog is available on-line. In addition to updated workshop availability and information on ways of being at Esalen, the new World Wide Web site also includes announcements of upcoming special events as well as history and feature stories from Esalen. To access the site, set your web browser to:

http://www.esalen.org

For more information or comments on the Esalen site, send e-mail to:
ghs@esalen.org

Scheduling Private Conferences at Esalen
It is possible to arrange for your group or organization to hold its conferences at Esalen. We can accommodate large groups (up to 100) on a space-available basis. Smaller groups may schedule private conferences in our renovated Big House. This facility is available for individuals who work together and would like to design their own Esalen program, drawing on our leaders and other resources. Ten bedrooms, nine bathrooms, a kitchen, dining room, and meeting room make it possible to house group members together, thereby enhancing the retreat environment. We schedule all conferences a year in advance. To schedule or discuss possible formats, please contact conference coordinator Kasia Zajac at 408-667-3038.

The Friends of Esalen
Memorship in Friends of Esalen supports the scholarship fund to allow financial aid for those who wish to attend our workshops but cannot otherwise afford them. A membership gift also provides additional funding for our pioneering work in health, education, the environment, and the humanities. With annual membership, Friends of Esalen receive the Esalen Catalog as well as a special newsletter.

Members at the Supporting level or above receive an autographed copy of Michael Murphy's book The Future of the Body. At the Sustaining Member level, gifts are also acknowledged in the newsletter, unless the donor wishes to remain anonymous. Benefactors receive all of the aforementioned along with an individual gift from Esalen.

Group 2000 is composed of individuals committed to assisting Esalen in building the long-term financial capability to fulfill its mission into the year 2000 and beyond. The Group 2000 meets together and with staff members at Esalen every year. Members of the Founders Circle are invited to meet individually with our CEO.

We deeply appreciate the generosity and interest of the Friends of Esalen. You are invited to join us in extending the experience of Esalen into the lives of more people. For more information, or if you would like us to call you to discuss your gift, please contact us at 408-667-3007.

$name
$phone
$address
$city, $state $zip
$card
$code
$exp
$signature

Please complete this form or the inside flap of the envelope insert included in the catalog and return with your gift. Check the box on the outside of the envelope marked "Friends of Esalen." Thank you for your support.

Esalen Institute is a nonprofit public charity corporation, exempt from income tax under IRC section 501(c)(3). Contributions are tax-deductible to the extent allowable by law.
GUIDE TO WORKSHOPS

This is a guide to the workshops offered in this catalog. Although many of them could be cross-referenced—and some resist easy categorization—most are listed only in their main subject area. We recommend that you read the workshop description before deciding to register. If you have never been to Esalen or taken an Esalen workshop, you might want to consider the "Experiencing Esalen" workshop scheduled throughout the catalog and listed in the Integral Practices section of this directory. Please call the Esalen office if you have questions concerning a workshop.

THE ARTS / CREATIVITY

December 29-January 3 • Feeling and Creativity: Reinvigorating
(Ad)ventures in Life
January 3-5 • Music for Everyone: Finding Your Long-Lost Musician
January 3-5 • Fire in the Earth: Poetry, Silence, and the Heart's Desire
January 5-10 • Vision Painting
January 5-10 • Tao Mentoring in Music and Tai Ji Dance
January 12-17 • Body Poetry East and West
January 12-17 • Creative Arts Center at Esalen
January 26-31 • Hypnosis and Creativity
January 31-February 2 • Writing Children's Books
February 2-7 • The Painting Experience
February 2-7 • Proprioceptive Writing: Demystifying the Creative Process
February 7-14 • The Painting Experience
February 7-9 • Singing Gestalt
February 16-21 • Writing Through Loss
February 28-March 2 • Creative Arts Center at Esalen
February 28-March 2 • Language of the Drums: Intermediate Level
March 2-7 • Language of the Drums: African Percussion, Chanting, and Dance
March 7-9 • Creative Writing Brainstorming
March 9-14 • Painting and the Art of Perception
March 9-14 • The Healing Power of Theater
March 21-23 • Improvisational Being
March 23-28 • True Stories: Autobiographic Storytelling
March 30-April 4 • Pilobolus Technique
March 30-April 4 • Ceramic Insights
April 11-13 • Writing About Our Lives: A Workshop for Women
April 13-18 • The Art and Dance of Transformation
April 18-20 • Drawing and Painting: A Weekend Intensive April 20-25 • Drawing and Painting: A Five-Day Intensive April 25-27 • Big Sur Bead Making
April 27-May 2 • Working with Wool
May 4-9 • Believe I'll Sing: Singing in the African-American Tradition
May 4-9 • Exquisite Landscape/Exquisite Corpse: Expanding Perception through Collaborative Drawing
May 9-11 • Exploring our Multidimensionality through Drama Therapy
May 23-25 • African Dance: Expressions of Spiritual Energy
May 30-June 1 • Writing From Your Life
June 6-8 • From the Congo to Dreamtime
June 8-13 • The MAX: Stretching the Limits of Your Self-Expression
June 8-13 • Awakening Vision through Conscious Photography
• Wearable Art: A Polymer Clay Workshop
June 15-20 • A Potter's View of the Universe: Big Sur Clay
June 20-22 • Vision Painting
June 22-27 • Unmasking the True Self
June 27-29 • Chaos and Complexity in Photography, Life, and Work
June 29-July 6 • Language of the Drums: African Percussion, Chanting, and Dance
June 29-July 6 • Creative Arts Center at Esalen

BIOFEEDBACK / HYPNOSIS / INTUITIVE DEVELOPMENT

January 26-31 • Hypnosis and Creativity
March 30-April 4 • Reweaving the Web: Intimate Encounters of an Unknown Kind-A Workshop for Couples
April 4-6 • Enchanting the Joker: An Introduction to Self-Hypnosis
May 2-4 • The Awakened Mind: Brainwave Training
May 4-9 • The High-Performance Mind: Awakened Mind Brainwave Training
May 9-11 • Intuition and Perception: Extending the Boundaries

BUSINESS / WORKPLACE / SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY

January 24-26 • When Success is Not Enough
April 11-13 • Caring, Respect, and Inspiration: Resolving Ethical Conflict
April 18-20 • The Art of Leadership: Communication, Creativity, Vision
May 2-4 • Managing to Have Fun: The Power of Humor in Business
May 9-11 • Feng Shui, Chi, and Successful Living: In Search of Harmony and Balance
May 11-16 • Meeting the Challenge of the New Business Paradigm
May 18-23 • From Conflict to Partnership
May 23-25 • Green Buildings with Magical Spaces
June 13-15 • The Visionary Life

CHILDREN / FAMILIES / HOME AND HEARTH

February 21-23 • The Path of Parenting: A Spiritual Approach
February 21-23 • The Secrets of Good Bread
April 6-11 • Creative Cooking at the Big House
May 9-11 • Feng Shui, Chi, and Successful Living: In Search of Harmony and Balance

CONTEMPLATIVE / SPIRITUAL & RELIGIOUS STUDIES

December 29-January 3 • Inner Marriage: The Union of Absolute and Relative
January 10-12 • Prayer of the Heart
January 24-26 • The Flame: An Introduction to the Diamond Approach
January 31-February 2 • Introduction to Mindfulness Meditation
February 2-7 • Inquiry: The Path and Practice of the Diamond Approach
February 9-14 • Dzogchen-Awakening the Buddha Within: A Silent Meditation and Self-Inquiry Retreat

BEST COPY AVAILABLE
February 28-March 2 • Vipassana Meditation and the Teachings of Thich Nhat Hanh
March 16-21 • Explorations in Mindful Living
March 16-21 • Working with the Enneagram Types: The Head Center
April 6-11 • What to Do When the World Ends: A Workshop on A Course in Miracles
April 11-13 • Buddhism and Shamanism
April 13-18 • The Path of Transformation through Meditation
April 13-18 • Compassionate Action: Real Work, Good Work
May 4-9 • Rowing Toward God: Angels, Powers, and the Ecstatic Journey to Our Souls
May 16-18 • The Profound Stillness of Being: Advaita Meditation
May 18-23 • "Look Mom, No Self!"—The Narcissistic Process in Spiritual Development
May 23-25 • OpenMind Training: Innovations in Meditation and Mind/Body Healing
June 6-8 • Introduction to Mindfulness Meditation
June 8-13 • Feeding the Demons: The Chöd Teachings of Tibetan Buddhism
June 22-27 • Nada Brahma: The World is Sound
June 29-July 6 • Basic Trust and the Spiritual Path

HEALTH / HEALING
December 29-January 3 • SIKE: Healing and Health through Ki Energy
January 3-5 • Taking Better Care of Yourself: An Eclectic Physician's Guide for a Healthy New Year
January 12-17 • Chakra Integration: A Complete Approach to Health and Healing
January 26-31 • Qigong and Psychoneuroimmunology: An East/West Healing System
January 31-February 2 • Secrets Kept From the Mind But Not From the Body
March 9-14 • Spiritual Healing: Laying-on-of-Hands
April 4-6 • Energy Kinesiology: Awakening to Abundant Energy
May 9-11 • Practical Herboloy: An Esalen Garden Workshop
May 11-16 • Living with a Life-Threatening Illness: The Spiritual Journey
May 30-June 1 • Core Holoenergetics®: The Art and Science of Conscious Healing
June 1-6 • Holoenergetics® Level One Training
June 13-15 • Facing Death: Meeting Ourselves in the Care of the Dying

INTEGRAL PRACTICES
January 5-10 • The Wildness Within
January 17-19 • Experiencing Esalen
January 19-24 • Life Energy Process®
February 7-9 • Experiencing Esalen
February 21-23 • The Life We Are Given

DREAMS
May 2-4 • The Healing Power of the Dream
May 23-25 • Night Poetry: A Workshop on Dreaming
June 6-8 • From the Congo to Dreamtime
June 8-13 • Dreaming: The Magic Mirror that Never Lies
March 21-23 • Care of the Self: Enhancing Wellness
March 21-23 • Experiencing Esalen
April 6-11 • Integral Transformative Practice
April 25-27 • Experiencing Esalen
May 30-June 1 • Experiencing Esalen
June 13-15 • Experiencing Esalen
June 22-27 • Turning On the Light: A Choice to Live Consciously
June 27-29 • The Ultimate Yes

MARTIAL ARTS / YOGA / SPORT
January 5-10 • Tao Mentoring in Music and Tai Ji Dance
January 10-12 • The Tao of Saging
January 12-17 • Body Poetry East and West
January 19-24 • Yoga and Healing
January 24-26 • ISHTA: The Yoga of Empowerment
February 28-March 2 • Entering the Flow State: Quiet Mind, Fluid Body
March 28-30 • Essential Tai Ji: Body-Mind-Spirit in Action
April 11-15 • Intermediate Yoga: Deepening Practice
May 11-16 • Yoga: The Art of Living
May 16-18 • Joy is the Journey: Hatha Yoga and More
May 18-23 • Golf in the Kingdom: An Exploration of the Deeper Game
June 20-22 • Yoga Works: Tools for Well-Being
June 22-27 • ISHTA: The Yoga of Empowerment

MYTH / RITUAL / SHAMANISM / ANTHROPOLOGY
December 29-January 3 • Clearing Our Vision for the New Year
January 26-31 • The Medicine Wheel Way
February 7-9 • The Way of the Shaman: The Shamanic Journey, Power, and Healing
February 9-21 • Advanced Training in Shamanism and Shamanic Healing
February 16-21 • Waking to the Power of a New Myth
February 23-28 • Cross-Cultural Shamanic Practices
March 7-9 • Reacquainting the Mind with the Spirit
March 9-14 • The Heart of the Shaman
April 11-13 • Buddhism and Shamanism
June 8-13 • Hunting Power—Gathering Knowledge: A Workshop in Applied Shamanism
June 15-20 • Apacheta: Doorways of Consciousness
June 15-20 • Soul Dramas: Past-Life Regression and Spiritual Healing for (Helping) Professionals

PHILOSOPHICAL INQUIRY / INTELLECTUAL PLAY
January 5-10 • The Next Question: What Happens to Us After We Die?
February 21-23 • A Weekend with Claudio Naranjo
April 4-6 • Appreciating Imagination
April 18-20 • The Metaphor of the Blind Spot
June 6-8 • Between Earth and Sky: Celestial Mathematics and Natural Forces

PROFESSIONAL GROWTH / TRAINING
January 17-19 • Intimate Connections
January 31-February 2 • Secrets Kept From the Mind But Not From the Body
February 28-March 28 • 28-Day Massage Practitioner Certification Program
March 7-9 • The "Penniston Protocol" Deep Process Technique: A Workshop for Clinicians
March 14-16 • Religious and Spiritual Problems: A Paradigm Shift in Mental Health
March 23-28 • Awakening the Body: A Body-Centered Intensive
May 25-30 • Group Process Training
June 22-29 • Gestalt Practicum

PSYCHOLOGICAL / TRANSPERSONAL PROCESS
December 29-January 3 • Feeling and Creativity: Reinvigorating (Ad)ventures in Life
December 29-January 3 • The Practical Art of Creative Risk-Taking
January 3-5 • Reinventing Love
January 10-12 • The Body: Doorway to Self-Discovery-The Gestalt Practice Approach
January 10-12 • Emotional Literacy
January 12-17 • Completions and Transitions
January 12-17 • Gestalt Practice
January 17-19 • The Practice of Love
January 19-24 • Journey From Betrayal To Trust: A Universal Rite of Passage
January 19-24 • Creating Exact Moments of Healing
January 26-31 • Playing the Edge
January 31-February 2 • Winning the Battle Between Faith and Hopelessness
February 2-7 • The Power of Growth
February 23-28 • El Lenguaje de la Libertad (The Language of Freedom)
February 28-March 2 • Beyond Individualism: A Gestalt Model for Building Your Personal Support System
March 2-7 • The Power of Growth
March 9-14 • The Practical Art of Creative Risk-Taking
March 14-16 • Roots and Wings: Renewing Our Spirits, Living Our Dreams
March 19-April 4 • Emotional Healing: From Codependence to Aliveness
March 28-30 • A Celebration of the Body: A Self-Empowerment Weekend
March 30-April 4 • The Road Best Traveled: Reinspiring Life Purpose and Direction
April 4-6 • Re-Solving Your Past, Remembering Who You Are: A Gestalt Process Workshop
April 6-11 • Making Crucial Life Choices and Major Life Changes
April 13-18 • Healing Our Hearts
April 18-20 • The Art of Leadership: Communication, Creativity, Vision
April 20-25 • Playing the Edge
April 25-27 • 'Tis a Gift to Be Simple
April 27-May 2 • Gestalt Practice
April 27-May 2 • Rational, Emotional, and Intuitive Decision Making
May 2-4 • Mothers and Daughters: An Exploration in Communication, Identity, and Self-Esteem
May 4-9 • Courage
May 9-11 • The Sources of Growth
May 9-11 • Exploring our Multidimensionality through Drama Therapy
May 11-16 • Being Single
May 16-18 • In Search of the Secret of Joy
May 18-23 • Completions and Transitions
May 25-30 • Healing Body Image and Sexuality
May 25-30 • Group Process Training
May 25-30 • The Core Self: Return to Innocence and Choice
May 30-June 1 • Forgiveness
June 1-6 • The Cosmic Game: Explorations of the Frontiers of Human Consciousness
June 1-6 • Parent and Child Reunion
June 6-8 • Gestalt Practice
June 6-8 • When a Mentor Fails You
June 8-13 • The MAX: Stretching the Limits of Your Self-Expression
June 13-15 • The Visionary Life
June 15-20 • The Good Life: Simple Secrets, Seasoned Wisdom, Sacred Vows
June 20-22 • Change Your Handwriting, Change Your Life
June 22-29 • Gestalt Practicum
June 22-27 • Forgiveness: The Key to Intimacy
June 22-27 • Unmasking the True Self
June 27-29 • Sexuality, Relationships, and Consensus Reality
June 29-July 6 • Dancing with the Shadow

SOMATICs
January 5-10 • Five-Day Massage Intensive
January 12-19 • Hanna Somatics: Mastery of Muscles and Emotions
January 19-24 • Fit to Lead: Shape-Shifting into the 21st Century
January 26-31 • The Art of Trigger Point Massage
January 31-February 2 • Reinhabiting Your Body: An Experience in Authentic Movement
February 2-7 • The Upledger Institute's CranioSacral I
February 14-16 • Couples Massage Weekend
February 16-21 • Five-Day Massage Intensive
February 23-28 • You Don't Have To Be Good
February 28-March 28 • 28-Day Massage Practitioner Certification Program
March 7-9 • Couples Massage Weekend
March 14-16 • Sensory Awareness
March 14-16 • Advanced Zero Balancing: The Alchemy of Touch
March 23-28 • Awakening the Body: A Body-Centered Intensive March 28-30 • Weekend Massage Intensive
March 30-April 4 • Sports Massage: Keeping the Players Playing April 18-20 • Movement for Life-The Feldenkrais Method*
April 20-25 • The Upledger Institute's Visceral Manipulation I-A
April 25-27 • Massage Intensive for Couples
April 27-May 2 • Continuum
April 27-May 2 • Face Reading: The Language of the Face
May 2-4 • Mindbody Rhythms
May 4-9 • Lomi Somatic Intensive: An Active Exploration of Presence
May 25-June 1 • Cortical Reeducation® and the Feldenkrais Method*
June 13-15 • Weekend Massage Intensive
June 15-20 • Mountains and Waves: Wilderness and Continuum
June 29-July 6 • Intermediate/Advanced Massage Intensive

WILDERNESS / ECOPSYCHOLOGY
January 5-10 • The Wildness Within
April 13-18 • The Way of Wilderness
May 4-9 • Apprenticeship to the Earth—Return to Sacred Ground
May 16-18 • Big Sur Wilderness Experience
June 1-6 • Big Sur Wilderness Experience
June 15-20 • Mountains and Waves: Wilderness and Continuum

WOMEN'S / MEN'S STUDIES
January 24-26 • Why Men Are the Way They Are
March 16-21 • What is Cronedom? A Workshop for Women
April 4-6 • For Women Only: Toward a Sacred Sexuality
April 11-13 • Writing About Our Lives: A Workshop for Women
May 2-4 • Mothers and Daughters: An Exploration in Communication, Identity, and Self-Esteem
May 18-23 • Moving Through Idealization and Shame to Love: A Workshop for Gay Men
June 6-8 • Living with Breast Surgery: A Workshop for Women

RELATIONSHIP / COMMUNICATION
January 17-19 • Intimate Connections
January 24-26 • Interdependence and Intimacy: A Workshop for Couples
February 14-16 • Communication and Partnership
February 23-28 • Dialogue: A Way of Life, A Path to Wholeness
March 2-7 • The Intimate Couple: An Integrative Body Psychotherapy (IBP) Workshop
March 21-23 • Long Term Love: Sustaining Intimacy and Passion
March 30-April 4 • Rweaving the Web: Intimate Encounters of an Unknown Kind A Workshop for Couples
April 11-13 • Caring, Respect, and Inspiration: Resolving Ethical Conflict
April 18-20 • A Workshop for Couples
May 18-23 • From Conflict to Partnership
May 23-25 • A Return to Intimacy and Passion
June 13-15 • Powerfully Presenting Yourself
June 20-22 • Close Yet Free: Keeping a Good Relationship Alive
June 27-29 • Sexuality, Relationships, and Consensus Reality

821
Clearing Our Vision for the New Year
Paul Rebillot & Audrey Savage

"I think one of the most disturbing ways to begin a new year is with a hangover," writes Paul Rebillot. "If, as some say, the first day sets the tone for the coming year, wouldn't it be better to meet the New Year with clear eyes—wakeful rather than darkened consciousness? Wouldn't it be agreeable to spend a few days before the New Year dealing with, letting go of, saying good-bye ritually to the time past and then preparing the ground for the new?

"We will take time to find the meaning of the last year, and to position that in relationship to the whole last period of our lives, working through any incomplete gestals—crying, laughing, singing, dancing through whatever needs to be finished before the New Year begins.

"Together we will celebrate a ritual of welcoming in 1997, not with resolutions, but by planting a seed for the next year of life, perhaps even for the next phase of life. Through guided fantasy, art, and movement, we will take time to find the meaning of the last year, identifying our inner resources and our outer helpers in realizing that vision. We will also explore the ways in which we might sabotage that vision, what we can do to prevent that sabotage, and so clear a path to the realization of our goals."

SIKE: Healing and Health through Ki Energy
Mallory Fromm & Therese Baxter

Spinal Integration/Ki Energy (SIKE, pronounced "sigh-kee") is a health training program in the healing applications of Ki energy (in Chinese chi), the vital energy sustaining life in all living things. Participants will first be taught to access their own Ki energy by means of breathing exercises. They will then learn how to concentrate the Ki for transmission to another person.

SIKE seeks spinal integrity, the restoration of the balance of tension and relaxation in the spine. Most people are tense in the upper dorsal vertebrae and weak in the lumbar vertebrae; hence, back pain, sleep disorders, and poor digestion. Participants will learn how to bring the tension from the upper to the lower vertebrae.

Specific points and procedures for treating common ailments—headaches, migraines, compulsive behavior, sleep disorders, and aches and pains—by Ki energy will be illustrated and practiced.

To enhance spinal integrity, Mallory will lead exercises in breathing and balance, and Therese will lead exercises based on inner muscle balancing to improve body alignment and integrated movement. Their goal is that "participants take away not just a glowing sensation of health and mental clarity, but the knowledge and skills to maintain the sensation by themselves or with others."

Participants should bring pencil and notebook, loose-fitting clothes, fresh socks for the session work, a large towel, and a small towel or handkerchief.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

Feeling and Creativity: Reinvigorating (Ad)ventures in Life
Dale Cummings & Karel Samsom

When we liberate our capacity to respond emotionally, new realms of creativity and zest open up to us. Discovering new solutions in private and in work-oriented settings can transform leisure and job activities and enliven our experiences. How these two themes interconnect will be the focus of this workshop.

The workshop will use a neo-Reichian approach to emotional release as well as play, art, music, dance, and discussion to tap into feelings and creative capacities. A period of individual Radix work in a small group setting will provide a safe environment of emotional support and release. As negative feelings are worked through, active creativity can emerge.

Dale Cummings, a neo-Reichian counselor, and Karel Samsom, a teacher of creativity, innovation, and entrepreneurship, have for many years integrated these themes into their personal and professional lives. Through their focus on feelings and creativity, this workshop offers encouragement and practical ideas to reinvigorate personal and work experiences and to pursue exciting ideas and new adventures in daily life.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $795

Inner Marriage: The Union of Absolute and Relative

Zoran Josipovic

*All forms are one Earth
All energies are one Energy
All thoughts are mind of God
All selves are one Self*

— SATHYA SAI BABA

Inner marriage is a process of coming into harmony with our innermost essence, our True Self—that part in us which allows us to realize our natural oneness with the totality of Being.

This workshop of lectures and experiential exercises will acquaint participants with the True Self, both in its subtle aspect as Space and in its dynamic aspect as Bliss. The workshop will investigate how this Self manifests as mind, breath, and body, and participants will practice experiencing the unity of our minds with Cosmic Mind, our breath with Life Energy, and our bodies with the Earth.

Accomplishing this requires opening the Central Channel, known as the "secret pathway of yogis," and learning how to rest our awareness in equanimity at the very core of it. The workshop will use Subtle Self Work, meditation, and Eye-Movement Process, together with gentle stretching, breath, and sacred sounds to arrive at this place of profound mystery.

Participants should come ready for deep, concentrated work. Prerequisites are the ability to sit for a half-hour period of meditation and the willingness to experience and share one's own process. This workshop is for both experienced meditators and dedicated beginners.

---

The Practical Art of Creative Risk-Taking

David Schifffman

To make effective, creative choices, you need courage, imagination, and the willingness to know your heart and be true to the dreams that live inside it. Choosing this deeper wisdom can often involve the risk of breaking set—the choice to move against the powerful grain of old fears, habits, and the constant pressure of other people's expectations. To foster this spirit means contacting the elemental-instinctual parts of our natures, befriending rather than suppressing or denying the sexuality and power out of which initiative and enthusiasm spring.

This workshop will focus on how to develop a more adventurous, resourceful, and buoyant way of living. In an atmosphere based on warmth and humor, group members will explore their capacity for mutual tenderness, respect, and honesty. Traditional psychological practices such as gestalt, bioenergetics, and psychosynthesis will be used for intensive individual work, as well as nontraditional innovative approaches in bodywork, kinesthetic retraining, music, and guided imagery. $795

---

Weekend of January 3–5

Reinventing Love

Robert Solomon & Heather Maycock Ogilvy

"Reinventing Love" is an interpersonal probe into the most highly valued of all passions, its promise, and its disappointments. The workshop will emphasize the essential creativity of love and the need to express and "reinvent" an emotion that is not torn between defensive individualism and independence. The group will explore the myths of love in order to find out why love goes wrong, why we choose the wrong partners, and how to choose the right one in order for love to succeed.

Participants will examine the connection between intimacy and anger, and the fragile connection between love and dependency. Individuals will be encouraged to explore their own experience and discuss the myths and images that have contributed to our most intimate (and sometimes most dangerous) feelings. Above all, the aim will be to understand why love is so important to us and why it cannot be abandoned. $425

---

Music for Everyone: Finding Your Long-Lost Musician

David Darling

David Darling's magical work with late bloomers, nonprodigies, professional musicians, and "burned-out" teachers has been opening hearts to the mystery of sound for the past two decades. "Music for Everyone" is an adventure into music making, rhythmic grooving, song writing, laughing, and listening.

Regardless of prior experience, this workshop can take you to a deeper, more powerful musical level. Bring an instrument or play on David's collection of world instruments. $425

---

Taking Better Care of Yourself: An Eclectic Physician's Guide for a Healthy New Year

Joe D. Goldstrich

"There are many simple yet powerful self-help tools that can be extremely useful in preventing and treating a wide range of health-related problems," writes Dr. Goldstrich. "They include diet and nutrition, nutritional supplements, herbs, and homeopathy.

"In this workshop we will explore a variety of dietary strategies for preventing and treating heart disease: low-fat, semi-vegetarian diets similar to those used at the Pritikin Center, where I served as chief cardiologist and medical director; the olive oil-based Mediterranean diet for prevention of heart disease and cancer; other therapeutic diets, from raw foods to macrobiotics; and using diet for weight management and relief of arthritis pain.

"There have been recent breakthroughs in the use of nutritional supplements and antioxidants to prevent and treat heart disease. We will learn how to use these supplements safely and effectively. Herbs and homeopathy are potent healing tools with a long history of safe and beneficial utilization. Their use for common conditions like colds and flu, trauma symptoms, and sleeping better can be easily learned."
Vision Painting
Helen Jerene Malcolm
Painting your vision is a sacred journey into self. Visionary art is a means of expressing the core yearning of one's deeper self, an active meditation in which the painter allows a flow of color and images to emerge as if the painting were painting itself. In an atmosphere of exploration and acceptance—enabling the creative impulse to play, take risks, and face fears—the painting finds its own path through darkness and light.

In this work, you can move beyond the rational mind to deeper levels of motivation and desire. Self-expression is prompted from the feeling centers, through the hand onto paper, evoked by guided visioning, color, music, movement, and dream images.

Your vision painting can be a treasure map of your life where change and healing are affirmed. This is a transformative adventure re-creating aspects of your life spiritually, professionally, and physically.

Please note: All are welcome, beginners as well as artists. $795

Tao Mentoring in Music and Tai Ji Dance
Chungliang Al Huang & David Darling
David and Chungliang have been conducting this annual New Year's celebration of creativity for many years at Esalen. This year they will focus on the core elements in their sharing: Passion, Clarity, and Balance. With David's mastery as a cellist and composer and Chungliang's "Living Tao" skills, they will guide participants in one of the subtlest yet most powerful principles of Tao, Wu Wei—"non-interference" in our collective creative learning.

Using the inspiration of great classical music (especially Bach), jazz, blues, and multicultural musical heritages, as well as humor and enthusiasm for transformation, David and Chungliang will offer a joyous and supportive environment in which to celebrate our spontaneity and our deep core. They will alternate between mutual teaching—allowing participants to discover their own personal music and pure dance through both improvisation and structure—and sessions focusing on Lao Tzu's Tao Te Ching, Tai Ji movement meditation, and healing Qi Gong exercises. $795

The Next Question: What Happens to Us After We Die?
Sukie Miller & Edmundo Barbosa
Elisabeth Kübler-Ross asked the question: What can dying people teach us? Sherwin Nuland asked: What happens to our bodies when we die? And Raymond Moody and Kenneth Ring asked: What happens to us when we die? This workshop considers the next question: What happens to us after we die?

Together, as a community, participants will explore in depth The Four Stages of the afterdeath as determined by The Institute for the Study of the Afterdeath in its eight years of worldwide research. Participants will learn about and tap into the experiences of The Four Stages and work with the relevance of them to their daily lives. The workshop will also explore the afterdeath systems of several different cultures where the line between the living and the dead is particularly thin.

The afterdeath has many lessons to teach us about a ripeness for death and a readiness to live. This workshop will plumb both levels simultaneously toward the goal of a greater understanding of the journey of our lives, now and in the future. $795

The Wildness Within
Brita Ostrom & Eric Erickson
Every part of this soil is sacred... Every hillside, every valley, every plain and grove, has been hallowed by some sad or happy event in the days long vanished.

Chief Seattle, 1856

Maybe saving a forest starts with preserving some of the feelings that die inside us every day... If we cannot respect that interior land, neither can we respect the land we walk.

David Lynch, Twin Peaks

"Big Sur is a place where healing can happen," writes Brita. "The deep canyons and expansive coastal setting evoke our wilder personal interiors so our demons and dreams have breathing room and a chance to be tested." This workshop will focus on the interconnectedness of our internal landscape and 'the land we walk,' first exploring the interior wellspring of dreams, emotions, and intuitions, and then extending outward to make intimate connection with others and with the Big Sur coast.

Participants will work with awareness practices to gain clearer insight into their inner reality, and with meditative movement, conscious touch, and massage to relieve old physical holding patterns to facilitate change and renewal. As body and mind become more integrated, attention will then turn to developing a nourishing relationship with the planet. Big Sur will become the backdrop for short hikes and wilderness experiences.

The workshop is for those seeking a time of personal renewal, couples or friends seeking to reconnect in a different way, and body-workers seeking a new perspective on their field.

Weekend of January 10–12

The Body: Doorway to Self-Discovery—The Gestalt Practice Approach

Christine Stewart Price

My belief is in the blood and flesh as being wiser than the intellect. The body-conscious is where life bubbles up in us. It is how we know that we are alive, alive to the depths of our souls and in touch somewhere with the vivid reaches of the cosmos.

—D.H. LAWRENCE

In gestalt practice, “feeling” is defined as that which can actually be felt in the body. Awareness of feeling as physical sensation is one of the most effective ways to reach the goals Fritz Perls described as the goals of the gestalt process: to increase aliveness, to have a better ability to cope, and to fill in the holes of our existence. By sensing ourselves as our bodies we may access dimensions of being human that go beyond our ideas of who we think we are.

This workshop will focus on physical sensation as the entry point to knowing ourselves. Using the gestalt practice approach, especially in exploration of breath, movement, and sound, participants will explore this inner realm of awareness in all its grit and glory.

Please note: Open seat work will not be a primary part of the workshop.

Emotional Literacy

Kathleen Riordan Speeth

We are all trained to add, subtract, multiply, and divide, to sound out words, read paragraphs, and write down what we think. But who has received the same level of fundamental help in puzzling out our personal feelings? The cognitive gets the training; the emotive is assumed to be indwelling and untrainable. Could that be why so many who can solve differential equations and discuss Heidegger have cold wars or sitcoms at home? Which of us feels fully affectively competent? Real emotional learning is both necessary and possible. As soon as the need is recognized the curriculum can be approached.

This will be an intensive weekend of emotional literacy training in how to:

- Hear what the still, small voice of conscience whispers
- Be self-directed, no longer mere pianos others can play
- Read people like books
- Be deeply kind to self and others
- Maintain a young, creative mind

Participants will discuss, enact, ponder in their private journals, and communicate their developing insights into emotional literacy.

The Tao of Saging

Chunghang Al Huang

We begin aging at infancy. But until we reach middle age, the shock of aging is never properly addressed by most people. This seminar focuses on a new way of looking at this inevitable process with equanimity, integrity, humor, and realism. With insight and skill, Chunghang will guide participants through a saging dance of living. Using the Tai Ji yin-yang to illustrate this paradigm of aging, he will trace the “S” curve within the symbol as the saging path—from birth to midlife—then trace it back again to complete the “whole picture” of life.

Through saging, this living process can prove to be joyfully alive, creative, and constantly enriching. The workshop will combine thoughtful philosophical discussions with enlivening disciplines of daily practice. Come join the dance!

Recommended reading and viewing: Huang, Embrace Tiger; Return to Mountain and Quantum Soup; Huang & Watts, Tao: The Watercourse Way; Huang & Lynch, Thinking Body, Dancing Mind and Mentoring: The Tao of Giving and Receiving Wisdom; Living Tao Videos (217-337-6113).

Emotional Literacy

Kathleen Riordan Speeth

We are all trained to add, subtract, multiply, and divide, to sound out words, read paragraphs, and write down what we think. But who has received the same level of fundamental help in puzzling out our personal feelings? The cognitive gets the training; the emotive is assumed to be indwelling and untrainable. Could that be why so many who can solve differential equations and discuss Heidegger have cold wars or sitcoms at home? Which of us feels fully affectively competent? Real emotional learning is both necessary and possible. As soon as the need is recognized the curriculum can be approached.

This will be an intensive weekend of emotional literacy training in how to:

- Hear what the still, small voice of conscience whispers
- Be self-directed, no longer mere pianos others can play
- Read people like books
- Be deeply kind to self and others
- Maintain a young, creative mind

Participants will discuss, enact, ponder in their private journals, and communicate their developing insights into emotional literacy.
There will be music, there will be philosophy, but most of all there will be indelible personal experience, insights that will enhance the basic understanding of how to live as an emotionally robust human being. $425

Prayer of the Heart
Olga Luchakova & Igor Kungurtsev

The Prayer of the Heart was transmitted from the early Desert Fathers to Byzantine monks, and preserved up to the present day by Russian hermits and pilgrims. This unique psychophysiological, meditative, and devotional practice transcends the framework of Christianity and can be used by spiritual seekers of any orientation. The Prayer of the Heart seeks inner silence and a state of union—the dissolution of the ego in God-consciousness.

The practice of the Prayer starts with cultivating wakefulness—attention to body sensations, emotions, energy, thoughts. The attention then shifts to concentration on the Spiritual Heart—the most important subtle energy center in the body—and work with the psychological and emotional issues blocking it. Finally, by exploring relationships with spiritual archetypes through sacred images and guided visualization, the seeker finds the individualized form of the prayer and learns how to practice it.

There will be periods of silent sitting and walking meditation/prayer. Participants will develop meditation practice and learn to understand their experiences in the light of the developmental stages of the prayer—vocal, silent, the prayer of recollection, illumination, union. This practice evokes feelings of grace and connectedness, and helps to discover true Essence.

$425

Body Poetry East and West
Chungliang Al Huang & Brother David Steindl-Rast

“A Festival of Aliveness” is the subtitle given to this annual event by past participants. It is an ever new surprise how the combination of Tai Ji body movement with the sharing of poetry in a group setting can release energy and joy of mind and body.

Chungliang and Brother David, two bridgebuilders between East and West, use the I Ching as a master key for freeing the flow of energy within us. The great Taoist Book of Changes can indeed effect changes in our own lives. It can guide us in attuning ourselves to the flow of nature and help us tap wellsprings of our innate creativity.

The treasures of poetry and stories, old and new, shared by Chungliang and Brother David find their perfect setting at Esalen. So does the body movement—the image of the group’s Tai Ji movements reflected in the pool at sundown is unforgettable.

In this blessed place, oceans and mountains, gardens, hot springs, and human companionship work together toward one goal, the goal of this workshop: to experience body and soul with fresh delight. $795

Week of January 12-17

Completions and Transitions
Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

Often in our lives we feel incomplete with the past. Unresolved issues inhibit our moving into the present with an open and generous heart. Though we experience them as “finished,” old memories continue to haunt us. When we exist more in the past than in the present, it is time to make the distinction between “finished” and “complete.” Transitions without completions foster unsuccessful marriages, friendships, and careers—producing the illness and sorrow. The inability to forgive keeps us closed to new opportunities entering into our lives.

Transitions are crossroads in our lives that give us the opportunity to finish and complete the past, reconnect with our present truth, and renew our passion, courage, and commitment for the future. The focus of this workshop is an in-depth review of our lives, relationships, and circumstances to discover what needs to be transformed from “finished” to “complete.”

The workshop will provide a safe, supportive environment that includes risk-taking, intense bodywork, gestalt, imagery, movement, and meditation to keep us committed to the process of discovering ourselves.

C.E. credit is available for psychologists; see page 68. $795

Chakra Integration: A Complete Approach to Health and Healing
Laurie Lioness Parizel & The Esalen Teaching Staff

The chakra system is a complete and effective way to understand and balance our physical, emotional, and spiritual energies. The chakras are vital, life-enhancing energy centers that have their roots deep in our core. Backed up by nerveplexuses and endocrine glands, they open into the energy field and are a three-dimensional energetic system of the body. When integrated, they refine the mainstream current in the central nervous system and bring balance to all the major systems of the body. They are also useful in addressing and healing old restrictive behavior patterns.

This workshop will incorporate movement, sounding, awareness exercises, and supportive hands-on work to balance the chakras and the mainstream spinal current, and to gently and consciously open this channel that connects heaven and earth through our bodies. The workshop will integrate personal and interactive healing work with gentle energetic touch and associated hands-on skills. Meditation will be used to encourage serenity and a deeper personal understanding of the chakras.

The workshop is designed for those interested in developing a working knowledge of this ancient time-tested way of healing, and is useful for those in the fields of health care and education. Please bring warm clothes and your favorite music or instrument.

Recommended reading: Judith, Wheels of Life; Haas, Staying Healthy with the Seasons; Brennan, Hands of Light.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $795

Creative Arts Center at Esalen

Arts Center Staff

Everyone has a drive to create—to be original, inventive, whimsical, resourceful. Located in the Barn at Esalen, the Creative Arts Center is a place for individuals to explore their imagination and their playfulness. It is a growing resource that is constantly evolving—a place that invites you to express your own creative instincts and become the artist that you've always imagined was hiding somewhere inside you.

This workshop invites you on a journey of reawakening. The Arts Center staff will provide a safe, supportive environment for you to discover the creator within. There will be a variety of art media available, which may include painting, pottery, silk dyeing, dance and movement, mask making, ritual, and group work. The leaders will offer exercises, as needed, to stimulate and liberate your creative expression, as they guide you deeper into the world of your own imagination and playfulness.

This will also be a wonderful opportunity to get messy. No previous art training is necessary.

$795

Weekend of January 17–19

Intimate Connections

Mariah Fenton Gladis

Creating stable and fulfilling relationships is a challenge that everyone faces. To be successful, human relating must be understood and accepted as an activity, an ability that requires movement, purpose, emotional capacity, and skills. People often believe that good relating evolves naturally, but they discover in the routine of living with families, friends, and lovers that, in truth, they have not been adequately prepared to meet the demands of loving relationships.

This workshop will focus on the nature and basic requirements of healthy relationships. It will offer participants opportunities to assess their abilities and disabilities, to develop awareness, and to practice risk-taking positive action with others. It is for anyone who has "hit the wall" in a relationship or who has experienced being stuck at some seemingly impenetrable contact boundary and wants to break through. Particularly helpful for adult children of dysfunctional families, ACAs, and human relations professionals, this experiential and didactic workshop will blend individual and group gestalt work, spiritual healing, bodywork, and personal metaphor.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $425

The Practice of Love

Sam Keen

Movie producers, song writers, mystics, saints, and psychologists all agree that "love" is the answer, the solution, the treasure for which we search. But when it comes to thinking clearly about love our brains seem to turn to mush. The more we idealize love the more we mystify it. Modern psychology has focused attention on IQ (intelligence quotient), explored brain chemistry and learning strategies, but has failed to increase our understanding of the nature of love or suggest ways in which we might increase our IQ—our love quotient.

$827

"In this lecture/workshop," writes Sam Keen, "we will strip away layers of nonsense and false mystification and try to think clearly and wholeheartedly about the elements that compose the complex act of love. We will explore the skills, dispositions, feelings, and behaviors necessary to develop a daily practice of the kinds of love that come into play in our relationships with children, family, friends, lovers, mates, and strangers in need of care. We will recollect and share our personal love-histories, explore the varieties of love that give our lives depth and meaning, and, hopefully, increase our capacity for passion and compassion." $425
The workshop is of particular interest to professionals and laypersons who are excited by the integration of theory, pleasure, and hands-on application of energy concepts. $795

Journey From Betrayal To Trust: A Universal Rite of Passage
Beth Hedva

Betrayal can be shattering. We are all familiar with feelings of betrayal in intimate relationships, but betrayal comes in many other forms as well—sometimes even more difficult to resolve. For instance, many people feel rejected by one or both parents. This is a form of betrayal. So is rejection by our growing children, the hurt when friends drift away, and dismay as our aging bodies fail us. Racism, classism, and societal injustice are often experienced as a personal betrayal. This workshop takes an innovative approach to a fundamental issue of our time. You can learn to help yourself and others:

- Identify the five stages of betrayal
- Transform the tests of betrayal into personal challenges
- Gaining tools to resolve anger, grief, pain, and fear of loss
- Use intuition to remember a deeper truth
- Trust and be true to yourself

The workshop will utilize theory and practice through lecture and discussion, role-playing, demonstrations, and extensive inner work. $795

Yoga and Healing
Thomas Fortel

The word “yoga” comes from ancient Sanskrit and translates into “to yoke together,” to create union, harmony, and balance: union of masculine and feminine, harmony of inner and outer, and balance of life’s polar opposites. The practice of physical yoga postures (asanas), conscious breathing, and active meditation is a tangible and practical way of change. In a fundamental way, yoga is a practice of self-healing. The yoga postures stimulate and purify the internal organs and glands of the body, flexibility is improved, and muscles and joints are strengthened. The focus on the breath is calming for the mind and nervous system and helps to develop a sense of ease, focus, and concentration. This is a practice of mind-body connection.

Mornings will begin with pranayama (breath practice of mind-body connection. Meditation, and an active yoga practice. There will be an emphasis on the breath, body alignment, and the healing qualities of the postures. The afternoon sessions will focus on restorative postures, forward bends, and twists. Evenings will be filled with yoga philosophy, group discussion, and partner yoga.

All yoga props will be provided. Everyone, from beginner to advanced, is welcome. $795

Creating Exact Moments of Healing
Mariah Fenton Gladis

Adult children of alcoholic, dysfunctional, or abusive families (ACAs) must walk a road of recovery that requires determination, lifelong commitment, and the creation of specific moments of healing. This workshop offers participants an opportunity to take a major step toward healing, helping them to define a plan for necessary moments they must create so they can move forward and to transform their personal history from one of liability to one of strength and wisdom. Focus will be on the promotion of healing:

- With oneself—developing awareness, freedom from addictions, and healing of the body and soul from the residual effects of trauma
- With others—improving one’s capacity for moving out of isolation and into direct, open communication and trust; expanding intimacy skills while securing healthy boundaries
- In the world—moving away from chaos and deprivation toward stability and abundance
- Spiritually—searching for the meaning of one’s history and accessing that part of the self that can utilize universal blessings

This workshop will be experiential and didactic, blending individual and group gestalt work, music, spiritual practices, and bodywork. A step-by-step recovery process developed by the leader will be incorporated throughout the workshop. The atmosphere will be one of trust and mutual support. This workshop is also appropriate for professionals who work with ACAs.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $795

Fit to Lead: Shape-Shifting into the 21st Century
Elisa Lodge

Writes Elisa Lodge: “Shape-shifting is the ability to alter one’s physical, emotional, and mental states at will, to affect and inspire the consciousness of others. It is a term originally ascribed to the shaman, the mystically empowered leader/healer of traditional cultures. Today’s radically changing world requires us to become, like the shaman, self-healing and the leaders of our destiny.”

“The focus of our week together will be to reclaim the trust in the intuitive authority of our body wisdom. When the body, its movements, breath, and speech become more fluid, vital, and musical rather than mechanized, controlled, and predictable, we exude an authenticity and flexibility of being in all we do and say.

“Time will be spent on recognizing the body language of dominance and subservience and on the ability to contrast pretense and presence, acting and being. Individual and group exercises will be used to reshape stress and strain into harmonious, congruent expression; sit, stand, and walk with fluent, vibrant aliveness; inspire courage to act with greater boldness and daring; and improvise strategically on one’s feet.”

The workshop is designed for everyone seeking to enhance personal power. $795

Weekend of January 24–26

Interdependence and Intimacy: A Workshop for Couples
Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

Creating an alive and honest connection with an intimate partner requires us to go deep into our hearts and allow our courageous selves to emerge.

Our culture does not prepare couples for the dual challenges they must face regarding intimacy and interdependence. We need to learn how to embrace our own values and paths, how to merge and enter the world of the other, and how to operate as a loving and effective team.

In this workshop, each participant will have opportunities to: experience how relationships are mirrors reflecting back to us unseen and rejected parts of ourselves; begin the process of healing past hurts; and create new ways of communicating which provide intimacy instead of distance.

Experiential and structured exercises will help participants become more adept at listening, empathizing, truth-telling, creative problem-solving, and taking responsibility to create the relationships we want. Providing a safe and supportive environment, the workshop will draw from gestalt, Reichian work, dance, imagery, and meditation. $425

ISHTA: The Yoga of Empowerment
Rod Stryker

“Every human being already has all that is required to realize deep and meaningful fulfillment,” writes Rod Stryker. "Our deepest desires, often hidden or misunderstood, are the guideposts to our ultimate destiny. By leading us to the direct experience of who we are, the practices of ISHTA (Integrated Science of Hatha and Tantric Arts) Yoga can make us aware of and sensitize us to our innate physical, intellectual, energetic, and spiritual gifts.”

The course will include daily yoga routines to strengthen and purify the body, breathing practices for rejuvenation and healing, and meditation (including yogic visualization practices) to still the mind and deepen the experience of Self. It will also include open discussion and some theory, and will employ the majesty of the Esalen surroundings to nourish the journey toward wholeness and integration.

Previous yoga experience is recommended but not necessary. For further information, please contact Rod Stryker at 310-364-4698. $425

The Flame: An Introduction to the Diamond Approach
Jessica Moore Britt & Regina Reilly

Since the dawn of time, within the human soul there has been a natural curiosity for understanding where, what, and who we are. This longing for self-knowledge, referred to in the traditions as “the flame,” burns bright today.

This workshop is an invitation to embark on your own inquiry into these sacred questions through the support of the Diamond Approach. The Diamond Approach is a method that has arisen out of the needs of people living in modern society. It answers the question of how to be in the world but not of it, how to recognize and abide in essential reality while living an ordinary life.

This knowledge is evoked through the practice of presence and open-ended inquiry, a gentle yet precise method for penetrating the veils of experience. As we penetrate moment-to-moment experience, awareness expands and deeper truth is revealed. This process continues through ever more subtle layers of consciousness, until we discover what is essentially real prior to conditioning.

This workshop offers a taste of the Diamond Approach. It will focus on the love of Truth as the guiding principle of this work. Along with meditation, specific practices and exercises focusing on presence and inquiry will be taught.

For more information about the Diamond Approach, see Special Programs, page 64.

Recommended reading: Almas, Essence and Diamond Heart—Book One. $425

Why Men Are the Way They Are
Warren Farrell

I’ve never had a couple come to me and say, “Warren I want a divorce; my partner understands me.”

This workshop is designed to help both sexes understand each other via role-playing in which participants experience the pressures that mold the other sex’s psyche. Men, for example, can experience women’s view of sexual harassment; women can experience men’s fear of sexual rejection and the powerlessness it engenders.

In a safe yet boundary-pushing environment, Warren Farrell will introduce innovative perspectives—initially challenging, perhaps, not only because are they female-positive but also more male-positive than is currently in vogue. Group interactions will be allowed to become emotional enough to reflect how we communicate when we’re defensive. Farrell will then facilitate work to demonstrate how both sexes can listen to criticism—even personal criticism—without becoming defensive, thus creating a model for expressing those “tough-to-hear” feelings, even to loved ones. The goal: to create more compassionate ways to relate to the other sex and to view ourselves.

This workshop offers insights on everything from male power and powerlessness to date rape and sexual harassment; from why men fear commitment to why they commit more suicide; from a new view of equality in the home to myths about equality in the workplace.

A common response to this workshop has been “I’ve never felt so much love for the other sex.”

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

C.E. credit is available for psychologists; see page 68. $425

When Success is Not Enough
Peller Marion

If I had known what it would be like to have it all, I would have settled for less.

— Lily Tomlin

Materialism is skyrocketing in the United States. Indeed, many of us are wealthy beyond the wildest dreams of our ancestors. Still, we struggle more than ever for self-esteem and meaning in our lives.

When alternative measures of success are not available, the deep human need to be valued and respected by others is often acted out through consumption. Buying things becomes a means to both self-esteem and social acceptance. "The avarice of mankind is insatiable," wrote Aristotle, who believed that as soon as one desire was satisfied, another would appear to take its place. If our wants are insatiable, there is simply no such thing as enough.

This workshop is designed to explore the questions: How much is enough? What is an achievement junkie? What is my definition of success at this time in my life? How do I create my own personal philosophy of life and live by my own agenda?

Participants will investigate the paradox of success in their own lives. A variety of experiential approaches will be used, including readings, discussion, games, dance, gestalt, imagery, and meditation.

Recommended reading: Marion, Crisis Proof Your Career: How to Find Job Security In An Insecure Time; and Making It: Stories and Stages of Successful Entrepreneurs.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $425

Week of January 26-31

Playing the Edge
David Schiffman

In the early stages of growth, success seems to be its own reward. Excitement, vitality, and the willingness to face life boldly are characteristics of those who are involved in new and successful ventures. To keep this spirit alive is not easy. Enormous pressures, grinding routines, and demands of involvement can dispirit even the healthiest people. To listen to one’s heart requires the courage to pause. In this willingness to stop and listen to the deeper self live the true resources that guide and protect us.

The purpose of this week is to create a mood of sanctuary for people in transition considering major changes in career, relationship, or matters of the spirit; those in need of a break from stressful responsibilities; and individuals interested in breaking new ground in the areas of self-nurturance, intuitive functioning, and problem solving.

The process will be gently restorative, illuminating, and enlivening. The intention will be to create a community based on trust and goodwill with emphasis on individual freedom. Traditional methods of self-inquiry (gestalt practice, bioenergetics, psychosynthesis) will be combined with innovative methods using music, meditation, poetry, ritual, and prayer to foster this spirit of living fully.

$795

The Art of Trigger Point Massage
Arthur Munyer

Trigger Point massage is the movement of myofascial tissue by means of soft, deep contact with pressure points. These points are actually an interrelated network which form a focus of pain and emotional discomfort in our bodies. Through awareness and skilled touch these points may be stimulated by applying pressure which releases the muscle tension. At the same time, the emotions stored in them may be brought to awareness and given expression. As Arthur writes: “Some of these feelings are painful and some very loving. Learning to be present and sensitive to them all is the most important aspect of my work.”

This workshop will combine Trigger Point release with the long, gentle strokes of Esalen massage to provide a nurturing context for this exploration. Where appropriate, craniosacral work, joint release, and deep tissue techniques may be employed, as well as grounding, sound, movement, meditation, and stretching to bring awareness and presence. The journey begins on the surface, then continues inward toward the core of the tensions that create the holding patterns which keep us closed.

This workshop is designed for bodyworkers, medical professionals, health care practitioners, and individuals with massage experience who would like to be more comfortable working with touch and explore the connection between the spiritual, physical, and emotional. Some massage experience is especially helpful.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

$795

Qigong and Psychoneuroimmunology: An East/West Healing System
Sondra Barrett & Shirley Dockstader

Never before has ancient Taoist health-enhancing Qigong been intertwined with the modern science of psychoneuroimmunology (PNI) to create a body/heart/mind medicine. As you will explore in this workshop, these complementary disciplines integrate to form an enjoyable practice for daily life. Through sensory awareness and stress reduction tools which dovetail with Qigong internal energy exercises, you can learn how it feels to move beyond your stress reactions into full-time well-being.

The movements incorporate breath, imagery, acupuncture self-massage, and sound, which help you experience the gates, meridians, and flow of your life force. This profoundly simple East/West practice teaches the science and art of energy balancing and cell health. Through slides and expressive arts you will see the micro-world of the cell, the molecular connections between body, heart, and mind, and enter the spiral mystery of life. The function of this work is to connect each of us to our inherent source of life force and vitality.

This workshop is designed for both beginners and those experienced with Qigong or PNI. It will also benefit anyone wanting to understand and strengthen their healing system, those looking to change lifestyle, and people in the helping professions.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

$795

The Medicine Wheel Way
Carol Proudfoot-Edgar

This workshop draws on Native American Medicine Wheel ceremonies and teachings as resources for personal growth and renewed experiencing of ourselves within the larger web of the natural world. Just as Western psychological theory provides a framework for describing human development, the Medicine Wheel offers a map for self-individuation. A primary difference, however, is that the Medicine Wheel Way views humans as sacred beings and maintains that each must find his or her own path for “walking with beauty in the world.”

The Medicine Wheel Way illuminates the relationship of all things. Each direction on the wheel has its particular meaning and points to aspects needed for fuller integration and individuation. Rituals mark the passage of seasons and significant events of life, connecting the individual to the great mystery of life.

Activities will include learning the Medicine Wheel, making medicine pouches, learning about shamanism, using the shamanic journey method to find power animals and spiritual teachers, and drawing upon ancestral knowledge available to all of us. The group will be drumming, rattling, and chanting throughout the week. Please bring a journal, a bandanna (to cover your eyes), and rattles (if you have them).

Please note: This workshop has a sequential structure. Each session builds on the previous one. Therefore, participants are requested to be present for all sessions. Please arrange for massages or other non-workshop activities between session breaks.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

Hypnosis and Creativity

Maggie Phillips & Noelle Poncelet

Our fast-paced, anxious, and often violent world challenges us to seek opportunities to discover the timeless and enduring creative resources of our inner selves. This experiential workshop will introduce ways to tap into sources of inspiration and passion, identify and utilize obstacles to creative expression, and foster receptivity to the creative muse within.

The workshop will feature process-oriented hypnosis, a synthesis of traditional and Ericksonian hypnotic methods, imagery, shamanic journeying, Arnie Mindell’s process work, and indigenous healing traditions that evoke various types of trance states. Activities will include group and individual hypnotic explorations; art, movement, sound improvisations, and musical expression; storytelling; and medicine walks. The leaders will create a safe environment for exploring life experiences, inner awareness, and dream states in order to release barriers, balance masculine and feminine energies, and celebrate creative potentials.

Participants are invited to bring drums and musical instruments, art supplies, journals, power objects, and creative symbols.

C.E. credit is available for psychologists; see page 68.

Weekend of January 31–February 2

Introduction to Mindfulness Meditation

James Baraz

Mindfulness—or vipassana—meditation is the practice described by the Buddha for developing wisdom, compassion, and peace. Vipassana, “to see things clearly,” means being mindful of what is actually happening in the present moment. Using the breath, body sensations, thought, and emotions as objects of attention, we can learn to be fully awake and bring a balanced awareness to all aspects of our lives.

Through vipassana meditation we can experience the nature of reality as continuous change. When we see that all phenomena are impermanent, we can begin to let go of clinging to the pleasant or avoiding the unpleasant. We are then more capable of meeting each situation with spontaneity, fearlessness, and love. Meditation also teaches us to see in each moment the interconnectedness of all things. Our hearts open to a natural expression of compassion and kindness.

Participants will be introduced to this method of meditation practice and the principles on which it is based. There will be periods of silent sitting and walking meditation, as well as discussion. As attention is brought to all activities at Esalen, individuals will continue to develop mindfulness through the weekend. This will provide a foundation for applying mindfulness practice to everyday life.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

Reinhabiting Your Body: An Experience in Authentic Movement

Tina Stromsted

"Authentic Movement” is a meditative form of dance influenced by the psychology of Carl Jung. This workshop offers a structure within which natural movement can bloom and be nurtured, allowing individuals to discover ways to engage their creativity and make soulful self-contact.

The body is the mediator for all of life’s experiences. Our bodies form our closest link to the unconscious, providing avenues for deep and lasting change. If we are locked into a muscular pattern held around a specific image, this can determine not only how we move but how we live. Uncovering images of the self that may have locked us into painful or dissatisfying ways of living can help us to heal wounds and find freedom of expression.

Through moving and witnessing in a safe space, participants in this workshop can explore their own inner dance as it unfolds. Body-related issues, unresolved development issues, unresolved memories, and transpersonal experiences may emerge, leading toward integration and wholeness.

Designed for mental health professionals, educators, artists, and those interested in personal growth, this experiential process aids participants in bridging body and psyche through expressive movement.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

Secrets Kept From the Mind But Not From the Body

Ian Wickramasekera

This workshop will provide a high-impact demonstration of the High Risk Model of Threat-Related Disorders. This model of mind/body interaction pinpoints the sources of stress-related disorders and identifies three risk factors that can block secrets kept from the mind but not from the body. It will provide a demonstration of mind/body interaction on the “stress profile” using one or two volunteers from the group and a noninvasive (without breaking the skin) eight-channel physiograph (surface EMG, electrodermal, heart rate, etc.).

All members of the group will be voluntarily tested on the High Risk Model of Threat-Related Disorders for personal risk factors or “windows of vulnerability,” which can be either physical (e.g. muscle tension, temperature, blood pressure) or psychological (negative affect, hypnotic ability, catastrophizing). The implications of this heuristic model for intervention and prevention of threat-related disorders will be discussed. The use of psychophysiological instruments to track unconscious cognitions and emotions will be illustrated with published case studies.

The workshop is designed to provide valuable tools for psychiatrists, psychologists, medical doctors, social workers, counselors, and interested nonprofessionals.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

C.E. credit is available for psychologists; see page 68.

Winning the Battle Between Faith and Hopelessness

Sarah La Saulle & Sharon Kagan

In the course of everyone’s life there are times of tremendous despair. People commonly suffer from at least one bout of severe depression in a lifetime. While some individuals feel that they have little to give them a sense of hope, others seem to remain strong. But neither of these responses is an experience of true faith.
It is a mistake to believe that faith only comes as a gift. Before one can reach this state of grace, one must undergo a profound initiation. There are three stages to this rite of passage: 1) the collapse, 2) surrender, 3) the state of grace and faith.

In this workshop, the facilitators will enact a dialogue between the voices of faith and hopelessness. Through retelling the story of their lives, participants will build a body of experience on which to base their faith. Discussions will cover topics such as: a challenge to hopelessness, what core beliefs govern an individual's ability to choose between faith and hopelessness, what is false hope, how does faith differ from positive thinking, and faith as an experience.

The workshop will include group discussions, journal writing, storytelling, and art therapy exercises. $425

Writing Children's Books

Marissa Moss

This workshop will focus on developing the writing skills specifically needed for children's picture books. The workshop will begin by looking at how to take an idea and turn it into a story, then go beyond that to see what makes a story work—and what doesn't.

Through writing exercises, participants will explore different types of books, including concept books, fairy tales, and family stories, and different aspects of storytelling, such as plot, characterization, and mood. Participants can build on these exercises, either developing new stories from them or using them to hone texts they are currently working on.

There will also be time to discuss submission and publication procedures. Marissa Moss has worked with a wide range of publishers, including Farrar, Straus & Giroux, Houghton Mifflin, and Harcourt Brace, and her books have been critically acclaimed. She is familiar with all aspects of publishing, from design to promotion. Her most recent book, Amelia's Notebook, received a starred review from Publishers Weekly, was chosen as an American Bookseller's Association Pick of the Lists, and has sold over 150,000 copies. $425

CranioSacral System

_Best Copy Available_

_CranioSacral System_ is a gentle, noninvasive, hands-on technique that helps detect and correct imbalances in the CranioSacral System which may be the cause of sensory, motor, or intellectual dysfunction. It is used to treat a myriad of health problems, including headaches, neck and back pain, TMJ dysfunction, chronic fatigue, motor coordination difficulties, eye problems, endogenous depression, hyperactivity, and central nervous system disorders.

Participants will learn the detailed anatomy and physiology of the CranioSacral System, its functions in health, and its relationship to the disease processes. Half of the class time will be "hands-on," developing the sensitive palpation skills needed to detect subtle stimuli in the human body.

Class material will concentrate on palpation and its potential range as an evaluative and therapeutic process; fascial and soft tissue release techniques; and the pressurestat model which explains the mechanism of the CranioSacral System. Participants will learn a concise ten-step protocol for evaluation and treatment of the entire body. By the end of this intensive program, participants will be able to identify and localize significant restriction and imbalances in the CranioSacral System.

Please note: Registration for this workshop is done only through the Upledger Institute. Please call the Upledger Institute at 1-800-233-5880.

For more information see Special Programs, page 64.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $795

Inquiry: The Path and Practice of the Diamond Approach

Joyce Lyke & Jeanne Hay

Inquiry is the primary path and practice of the Diamond Approach, a method of self-realization and actualization developed by Hameed Ali (A.H. Almaas) to meet the spiritual needs of those wishing to contact the depths of who they are while leading ordinary lives of work and family. It is the open-ended investigation of one's experience using the qualities of presence, openness, and intimacy. Motivated by the love of Truth and fueled by curiosity, this method leads to natural unfolding of the soul by allowing a growing openness to its inherent spiritual nature. Inquiry can be utilized in our daily lives to explore any personal experience in such a way that leads to a greater depth and embodiment of Being.

This workshop is one in a series on the Diamond Approach offered at Esalen. The teaching utilizes elements from depth psychology and traditional spiritual knowledge and practices, creating a new method for engaging in the process of spiritual transformation. During the workshop, participants will explore some of the qualities and skills that support inquiry, as well as some of the obstacles which one may encounter. The format will include meditations, talks, and the practice of inquiry.

Please note: Registration requires completion of a questionnaire. For more information, see Special Programs, page 64.

Recommended reading: Almas, Diamond Heart—Book One and Essence.

Proprioceptive Writing:
Demystifying the Creative Process
Tobin Simon & Linda Trichter-Metcalf

"Proprioception" is a physiological term for kinesthetic sensation—feelings that originate in the body's interior. Proprioceptive Writing is a method through which inner intelligence is stimulated: Meaning is approached through feeling. The originators of this method will lead participants in an experiential exploration of a simple yet richly subtle method of writing that demystifies the initial stages of the creative process.

Proprioceptive Writing is practiced to music in 25-minute sessions under stress-free conditions, either in groups or alone. This method takes the emphasis off writing and focuses on the experience of inner hearing, activating the auditory imagination—the key to emotion and the path toward feeling. Once participants relax into a listening stance, their psychological space expands and they can begin to speak through their writing with simplicity and strength. Writing becomes textured as well as cathartic. Because this process releases the writer from the painful pressure to produce form, it feels fluent, like meaning in motion. It lets you enter your own mind and forget the world.

This workshop is valuable for people seeking a form of written expression, a creative ritual, or a meditative discipline, and also for those who desire increased focus and personal meaning in their lives.

The Power of Growth
Seymour Carter

Please note: This workshop has been rescheduled for March 2-7.

Everyone has unused capacities for further personal development. When these capacities are recognized and given attention, a natural force is released which, like a tide, can carry the individual to a higher level of ability and action. Fritz Perls taught how to recognize the force of avoided issues in dealing with blocked energies. When unfinished issues are confronted and assimilated, it is possible to feel potent and in charge of one's life.

In this workshop, participants will deal with these issues by examining the influence of the inner dialogue on thoughts and the nature of impasse, as well as tendencies within themselves toward psychological completion and well-being. The basis of this work is the gestalt method, supported by studies in various body disciplines, including sensory awareness, bioenergetics, and aikido. Each participant's process of development will be honored, encouraged, and treated as unique.

February 7-14
The Painting Experience
Michell Cassou

For workshop description see February 2-14.

Weekend of February 7-9
Experiencing Esalen
Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see January 17-19.
feels you'd like to explore. Accompaniment and lots of music are provided. $425

February 9–21

Advanced Training in Shamanism and Shamanic Healing
Michael Harner & Sandra Ingerman
For workshop description see Special Programs, page 64.

Week of February 9–14

Dzogchen—Awakening the Buddha Within: A Silent Meditation and Self-Inquiry Retreat
Lama Surya Das
Buddhism teaches awareness techniques for awakening to inner freedom. Dzogchen introduces the inherent freedom, purity, and perfection of innate Buddha-Mind. Dzogchen—Tibetan for "the Natural Great Perfection"—is considered the summit of all Buddhist teachings: swift, easy, joyful, and direct.

This retreat will introduce the quintessential Vajrayana path, practiced according to the nonsectarian way of the Practice Lineage of Tibetan Buddhism, relying on authentic Tibetan texts, meditation manuals, oral tradition, and personal experience. Much of the day will be devoted to sitting practice, interspersed with both guided and walking meditations, chanting, self-inquiry, question-and-answer periods, and breath/energy relaxation exercises. Constant themes of this nondual awareness practice will include appreciating the true joy of meditation, the incredible lightness of being, and opening to effortlessness.

This retreat, conducted in silence, offers a unique opportunity for experienced meditation practitioners as well as beginners to better know themselves through the timeless wisdom of this ancient Tibetan teaching. $795

Weekend of February 14–16

Couples Massage Weekend
Ellen Watson & David Streeter
This weekend couples workshop is designed for those who would like to bring the benefits of massage into their everyday lives. The workshop will teach simple massage techniques, developed by Esalen massage practitioners, which have proven valuable to anyone who wants to help a partner, friend, or family member feel better. Techniques that help relieve pain, increase vitality, or simply soothe the nerves will be demonstrated briefly and practiced with lots of hands-on instruction by the leaders.

This workshop is especially helpful for loving couples, as Esalen massage is greatly beneficial in its connective and healing qualities. $425 per participant

Communication and Partnership
Mary Goldenson (Devarani)
Underlying all our relationships—husband, wife, lover, friend, daughter, son, mother, and father—is the need to communicate. Often we learn to express our needs through control, power struggles, addictions, dependency, guilt, denial, and unreasonableness.

This workshop is about healing the soulwounds sustained in our attempts at partnership. The focus will be on:
- Exploring the possibilities of equal soul partnership
- Learning new ways to express our fear, sadness, grief, and love for each other
- Defining what we need to change in our relationships
- Learning the different language styles we can use to better connect with our partners
- Learning ways to heal, forgive, and move on to a mutually beneficial relationship

Come alone or with a partner. The workshop will provide a safe, supportive environment to learn new practices of breathwork, dyadic communication skills, movement, and Gestalt, making it easier to express your truth and take responsibility for your feelings and issues.

C.E. credit is available for psychologists; see page 68. $425

Week of February 16–21

Waking to the Power of a New Myth
Stanley Krippner & David Feinstein
Your personal mythology is an internal guidance system that addresses the broad concerns of identity (Who am I?), direction (Where am I?), and purpose (Why am I going... mythology, the better equipped you are to meet the challenges your life presents. Personal myths are always evolving. This workshop will help you midwife the birth of a new guiding myth—more fitting, more vital, more spiritually attuned. Drawing upon methods from a spectrum of systems, including Jungian psychology, Gestalt therapy, psychosynthesis, ancient spiritual disciplines, and modern clinical practice, you will be led through a sequence of experiences designed to transform dysfunctional myths while reaching into inner depths for visions that nourish and inspire.

Joseph Campbell often referred people to the leaders' workshops, and a prominent reviewer said of their book: “Neither Carl Jung nor Joseph Campbell showed us how to use myth for personal and societal growth. Feinstein and Krippner begin to answer that question.” This workshop will show you how to nurture and transform your guiding mythology so it may become an ever more trustworthy and life-affirming map. Participants are invited to bring a journal and to record their dreams prior to the workshop.

Writing Through Loss
Nancy Bacal
To write from the heart is to heal the heart...

One of life's unavoidable realities is that we all experience loss. Whether it be with love, death, youth, health, marriage, work, or a moment of pure grace, we are all subject to the laws of impermanence. Loss inevitably involves pain. Pain becomes suffering when we shut down and resist the natural rhythms of mourning and change.

A time of loss is a time of vulnerability. It can also be an opportunity to awaken to a new perspective of life. This workshop is intended to help participants reopen to joy through surrender and the expression of our deeper feelings. Rather than feel diminished by what is gone, participants will utilize it as material for writing. Even the cruelest tragedy can be transformed through the practice of writing and the telling of story. As we write, we come to know ourselves; as we share, we move out of isolation. As the dark riches of our lives are released, they deepen our emotional and creative lives and inspire the journey of our companions.

Meditation and movement will be included, the primary tools will be pen and paper. More than skill, enthusiasm for the writing process and a desire for change are the main requirements.

Recommended reading: Beck, Everyday Zen in Work and Love; Goldberg, Writing Down the Bones; Chodron, Start Where You Are. $795

Five-Day Massage Intensive
Oliver Bailey & Laurie Lioness Parizek
Esalen massage consists of more than the long, flowing strokes for which it is well known. In this workshop, the many forms of Esalen bodywork will be demonstrated, practiced, and discussed during this week of learning and relaxation.

The workshop will introduce grounding techniques, pressure point work, meridian massage, gentle manipulations, and energy work. The instructors will present a bodywork style that both addresses individual needs and integrates the whole person, focusing on the concept of working from our essential being. Special attention will be given to self-care, quality of contact, breath awareness, and stress release.

The workshop will also incorporate movement, dance, and rhythm to integrate the bodywork. Yoga and meditation will be taught to encourage focus and serenity.

Participants will make full use of Esalen's beautiful grounds and facilities. Please bring warm, comfortable clothing and your favorite music or instrument. The workshop is open to all levels of experience.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $795

The Path of Parenting: A Spiritual Approach
Barbara Sachs
Parenting is difficult. We are given no formal education to prepare us for this profound undertaking. Most of us know almost nothing about it, yet we are expected to be successful on the first try. We want to raise our children to be happy, healthy, loving adults, but we often end up tired, discouraged, and distanced from them.

The purpose of this workshop is to help parents understand a child's psychological and spiritual growth, and to mirror and support the child's emerging self. The workshop will introduce the natural stages of psychological development and the co-emerging inner essence, and suggest how to support both so that a child's intrinsic nature is not suppressed.

Participants will explore their own experience to help understand their own inherent nature and spiritual essence. The workshop will introduce a method of parenting that develops spiritual understanding and essential wisdom rather than relying on unconscious conditioning.

The format will be experimental with mini-lectures.

A Weekend with Claudio Naranjo
Claudio Naranjo
Claudio Naranjo is a medical doctor with a psychoanalytic background who worked with Fritz Perls in the mid-sixties and eventually formed part of the first Esalen gestalt team. Naranjo has also received teachings from Buddhist, Sufi, and Indian tantric sources, has taught meditation, formulated the psychology of enneatypes, contributed to music therapy, founded SAT Institute in the early seventies, and has written many books (his recent books include Gestalt Therapy: Attitude and Practice of an Athetoretical Experientialism; Character and Neurosis: An Integrative View; and The End of Patriarchy).

He is presently involved in training psychotherapists through a novel integrative and transpersonal approach that he has developed. There will be no preestablished agenda for this weekend event. $425

The Secrets of Good Bread

Peter Beckmann

Have you ever wondered why your home-baked bread never has the same crispy crust as the bread of your neighborhood bakery? Or why some of your home-baked loaves turn out rather like bricks than like those big, fluffy loaves you were intending? Or why your home-baked sourdough tastes more like vinegar than like those fragrant loaves from San Francisco?

This workshop presents the time-honored tradition of European bread-making. It is designed to answer all of the questions you ever had about bread baking. In this hands-on, step-by-step class, you will be guided through the sensitive art of cultivating your own sourdough culture, shaping round, sand- wich, and braided loaves, and producing golden brown, crackling crusts in a home-style oven. You will learn the subtle differences a yeast sponge will make to the flavor of your bread. And above all, you will learn basic and natural bread-making techniques that require no fancy gadgets or machines. Bring along your favorite recipes for any questions they might pose. No prior baking experience is necessary. $425

Week of February 23–26

Cross-Cultural Shamanic Practices

Angeles Arrien

This workshop will introduce participants to shamanic tools from diverse cultures. Group members will work individually and collectively to honor ancestor spirits and release unhealthy family patterns. Angeles Arrien’s work focuses on the universal human qualities of power, love, vision, and wisdom, accessed to increase personal and professional effectiveness.

This workshop qualifies as foundation work for Angeles Arrien’s Four-Fold Way educational program. Recommended reading: Arrien, The Four-Fold Way: Walking the Path of the Warrior, Teacher, Healer, and Visionary. $795

Dialogue: A Way of Life, A Path to Wholeness

Linda Teurfs & Glenna Gerard

Twentieth century sciences tell us reality is relational—meaning is created through relationship. Yet we often find ourselves afloat in a sea of confusion, chaos, and conflict, unable to find meanings that bridge the separation we feel.

Dialogue is a group communication process that focuses on how we create meaning and the very culture we share. Rooted in Greek dia (through) and logos (word or meaning), dialogue has been with us through the ages in indigenous tribal councils, Quaker meetings, the contemplative traditions, and in the writings of Martin Buber, Carl Rogers, and, most recently, the late David Bohm, quantum physicist and philosopher. Because of its transformative properties, it is of interest to leaders and facilitators in organizational, counseling, educational, and spiritual settings.

This program is an in-depth experience of dialogue and how it can help us move towards greater personal and collective wholeness. Processes from the contemplative, shamanic, and Jungian traditions will be interwoven to develop the capacity for collective mindfulness and wholeness. Attention will be focused on our capacity for holding paradox, expanded self- and worldview, and how interpersonal openness and integrity lead to higher levels of collective creativity and integration. $795

You Don’t Have to Be Good

Kim McCourt & Carol LaDue

You do not have to be good. You do not have to walk on your knees for a hundred miles through the desert, repenting. You only have to let the soft animal of your body love what it loves.

— Mary Oliver

By listening to our bodies we can know what is right for us, rather than what we “should” do. We knew this as children but were encouraged to ignore our inner truths and obey the critic. Always having to be “good” restricts and censors the richness of who we are. Buried beneath all the “shoulds” and “don’ts” is a true, wise self that longs for expression.

To get there, the group will play with different doorways to somatic knowing: emotional, visual, auditory, kinesthetic, olfactory, or general sensing. The intention will be to identify which doorway opens up our personal intuitive self, and then go on in.

Using movement and meditation, play and process, art and journal writing, participants will explore the indomitable aliveness beneath the censoring critic and conditioned tendencies. The focus will be: listening, accepting, and expressing what is true. The atmosphere will be nonjudgmental and light-hearted. Come and discover what feels so “good” about being “bad.”

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $795

El Lenguaje de la Libertad (The Language of Freedom)

Gustavo Rabin & Sara Szpektor

Libertad. Estado natural en el cual nacemos. Las emociones no resueltas y las defensas que levantamos para proteger nuestro ser nos van haciendo perder gradualmente esa libertad primordial. Cerramos el paso a lo que nos hiera y al mismo tiempo nos encerramos. Así nos acostumbramos a vivir. Eso se transforma en nuestro “modus operandi.” Por eso cuando finalmente buscamos un cambio, encontramos que nosotros somos nuestro propio obstáculo.

Luego dedicamos gran parte de nuestra vida a aprender cómo volver a la libertad y recuperar nuestra pasión. Lograrlo es una de las conquistas más elevadas.

Este workshop trata acerca de los mapas que nos guían desde nuestro propio encierro hacia la expresión más libre de nuestro ser. De la oscuridad a la luz. Juntos descubriremos como hablar nuevas palabras, el lenguaje de la libertad.

Si Ud. siente que algo se agita en un lugar remoto interno cuando lee estas líneas, este workshop es para Ud.

A través de ejercicios gestálticos, trabajo grupal y proceso personal, en este workshop crearemos el ambiente seguro y protegido en el cual poder hablar este nuevo/ antiguo lenguaje y ser libres otra vez.

Las actividades tendrán lugar totalmente en español, los presentantes invitados serán traducidos simultáneamente. $795

BEST COPY AVAILABLE
February 28–March 28

28-Day Massage Practitioner Certification Program
Robert Helm & Brita Ostrom
For workshop description see Special Programs, page 64.
C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

Weekend of February 28–March 2

Creative Arts Center at Esalen
Arts Center Staff
For workshop description see January 12–17.

Language of the Drums: Intermediate Level
Babatunde Olatunji
This workshop is designed for those who would like to further explore the polyrhythmic aspect of African music. It will include exploring varying combinations of rhythmic patterns, the ability to play rhythmic patterns on two drums, rhythmic exercises to develop stamina and dexterity of the hands and fingers, and the use of sticks in playing. Participants will also be introduced to different styles of playing the agogo (cow bell), shekere (African maracas), and body percussion.

Beyond Individualism: A Gestalt Model for Building Your Personal Support System
Gordon Wheeler
In our individualist culture, we have long overvalued autonomy and independence, while viewing dependency and even mutuality with discomfort or outright suspicion. Freud, Perls, and many others often seemed to equate optimum health with maximum individual autonomy. But our lives take place in a field of people and relationships. People who live fully, with creativity and satisfaction, know how to develop energy and support with others, comfortably and without exploitation or hyperdependency.

In this workshop you can move beyond individualism to develop new experiential models of self and relationship, intimacy and support. Utilizing exercises and dialogue, the workshop will apply these models so you can explore your own style of using support, and expand your capacities for giving and receiving, knowing yourself and others through dialogue, and creating support systems in your own life.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see pages 67.

Entering the Flow State: Quiet Mind, Fluid Body
Jena Marcovicci
In today's competitive world, what is often lost is the joy of simply playing or of finding meaning in what you do. Whether your interest is athletics or larger life, this workshop can help you play better, have more fun, and enter that flow state that athletes refer to as "the Zone."

Jena Marcovicci is a sports psychologist who has worked with world-class tennis players and mapped out a way to reach this flow state. Blending Western psychology and Eastern practices, he has developed a seven-step process for relaxing psychologically and releasing conditioned patterns that sabotage the joy and effort of playing a sport or succeeding in any aspect of life. As Jena writes: "The more you relax, the better you play. It's the law of 'reversed effort.' By finding your organic rhythms, you can liberate yourself from the fight-or-flight mind-set that envisions the person on the other side as the enemy."

Using yoga, Tai Chi, visual imagery, and freeform dance, discover the map for maximizing your potential. Whether you are a serious athlete, a would-be athlete, or someone seeking to master your "competitive mind," this workshop can help you reach the state of "quiet mind, fluid body."

Please bring a tennis racquet (if you have one), running shoes, and loose, comfortable clothes.
Recommended reading: Marcovicci, The Dance of Tennis.

Vipassana Meditation and the Teachings of Thich Nhat Hanh
Christopher Reed
This is an extraordinary time to be alive on Earth. How is it possible to live with the awareness of what is happening in our society and to our world? Either we destroy ourselves or we awaken together to our true nature, our profound interconnectedness—our Interbeing, as Thich Nhat Hanh calls it.
For many of us there is a deep grief, for many more a nagging malaise. We are destroying our environment, our own home, and neither denial nor activism can fully address the pain and discontent of it.

The practice of Buddhism is a way of transforming old notions of self and self-interest so that we may truly live. Vipassana means "looking deeply." When we truly look we see that we are a part of life, that it is ours, that we also belong to it. We have the capacity, the right, even the obligation to respond to its call, rather than to just react out of fear, anger, loneliness, compulsivity.

This practice is an invitation to engage with life, to break down notions of separation. The workshop will include instruction in sitting and walking meditation as well as interactive exercises and dialogue.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see pages 67.

---

Week of March 2-7

The Power of Growth
Seymour Carter

For workshop description see February 2-7.

---

The Intimate Couple: An Integrative Body Psychotherapy (IBP) Workshop
Jack Rosenberg & Beverly Kilaen Morse

Trust, love, erotic sexuality, and a core experience of self are building blocks for an alive and vital relationship. Yet, unless our bodies are awakened, these remain elusive ideas rather than familiar body feelings. Until we recognize the themes that distort our views, cause our prejudices, and perpetuate old defensive patterns, it is difficult to trust or be trusted. For a conscious relationship, or even just one that works well over time, we must know ourselves and have practical body-mind mental-health tools to resolve the inevitable dilemmas that interrupt our sense of well-being.

Today most couples want an equal and reciprocal relationship, but few know how to accomplish this attunement of partnership. Once you simultaneously experience the internal feeling of self and attunement with your partner—and know the obstacles—you will know how you got there and how to achieve it again and again.

---

Language of the Drums: African Percussion, Chanting, and Dance
Babatunde Olatunji & Friends

Nigerian musician Babatunde Olatunji has been bridging the gap between American and African culture for thirty-five years. In this workshop he will show how drum sounds and rhythms communicate, stimulate, and pace the activities of traditional African life. He will reach the consonants of the Yoruba language, reproducing its sounds on drums and through chants, body percussion, and dance. This workshop is for dancers, percussionists, musicians, and anyone who wants to speak the language of the drums. Drummers can experience the dance and dancers can experience the drums. Bring a drum if you have one.

Please note: This has always been a popular workshop, with lots of people drumming and dancing in a small area. The energy runs high—be prepared for a crowded, exuberant atmosphere!

---

Creative Writing Brainstorming
Herbert Gold

Even professional writers can learn to speak from the heart—in fact, anyone can whose feelings are strong, buried, and complex. Participants will struggle with the issues of love and death, communicate with each other, and explore the talents even gifted artists don't fully understand. Everyone will make some jump starts.

Bring paper, writing equipment, and a willingness to ride the rhythms of "speed eloquence."

---

Reacquainting the Mind with the Spirit
Bruce Scotton with Jaichima & Vicente

The wisdom inherent in our Western language and mythology tells us that only when spirit enters flesh do we become alive and conscious. Intellectually we remember the story of God breathing life into Adam—that the words respiration, inspiration, and expiration derive from the root word spirit. Yet we are trained to lose contact with our spirit, and this loss leads us to treat others and the earth as though they were not sacred.

Contrast this Western scenario with that of the Huichol people. When a child is born, the low-up—a success rate previously unknown in addiction treatment. Since this landmark study, a growing band of psychologists has used the same technique to successfully treat a wide range of psychological conditions, including depression, anxiety, character disorders, and even multiple personality. The technique is now being adapted to treat mind/body disorders and is also increasingly used for personal psychological growth and peak performance training.

This workshop, led by two experienced teachers of the Penniston Protocol alpha/theta brainwave training technique, will introduce clinicians to its use for addiction and deep psychological process. The workshop will review its applications, describe and teach in detail the treatment process, and address client selection and management issues.

Using a sophisticated computer-based brainwave biofeedback system for demonstrations, participants will also be shown how alpha/theta training is conducted in practice.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.

---

Weekend of March 7-9

The "Penniston Protocol" Deep Process Technique: A Workshop for Clinicians
Julian Isaacs & Patricia Fields

In 1989 Dr. Eugene Penniston published the results of a study using a revolutionary new treatment for alcoholism based on alpha/theta brainwave biofeedback. The new technique’s effectiveness in preventing relapse has now been established by independent researchers as 80% over a five year folparents hold her/him and say, "Thank you for coming to us. We welcome you and love you. Teach us to know who you are." Thus begins at coming to us. We welcome you and love you.

This workshop will be a training in making a place for ongoing contact with spirit. There will be shamanic ceremonies, and the role of the spirit throughout lifetime will be both experienced and discussed. The workshop will also address preparing the way for the spirit’s departure from the body in death. In addition, because we Westerners live so much in our minds, a rational framework for understanding this work within Western models of psychological development will be presented.

Jaichima and Vicente are Huichol shamans from the Sierra Madre, fluent in English. Bruce Scotton is a psychiatrist and Jungian analyst.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.

Couples Massage Weekend
Vicki Topp & Oliver Bailey

This workshop is for partners who want to learn to massage each other. Emphasis will be on "hearing" with the hands, de-stressing the home, asking for what is needed, and giving to those we love. Sessions will include demonstrations and hands-on guidance. Individual concerns will be addressed so that participants can continue to practice at home.

$425

Week of March 9-14

The Practical Art of Creative Risk-Taking
David Schiffman

For workshop description see December 29-January 3.

$795

Painting and the Art of Perception
Margot McLean

Thinking is more interesting than knowing but less interesting than looking. – Goethe

What stands between you and painting what you see? What speaks to you and how do you translate it into an image? What kinds of materials do you use?

The workshop is designed to open you to new ways of seeing and painting in a relaxed, unimmitating atmosphere. Through studio work and discussion, this course will try to unravel the preconceived notions of what we “think” something “should” look like, in order to reach the innate power of the image.

How we perceive plays an inestimable role in the ecology of culture and place. How may our perceptual choices affect nature so that image-making becomes a collaboration with the natural world rather than an appropriation of it?

With the Esalen grounds as visual habitat, participants will paint what it stirs in them, translating the natural world into images and experimenting with new materials.

This course is for anyone interested in painting and open to new ideas about perceiving the world. It can be taken again and again with ever deepening results. A list of suggested materials will be sent upon registration.

$795

Spiritual Healing: Laying-on-of-Hands
Maria Lucia Sauer Holloman

This workshop will present practical methods for using the hands as instruments of physical and spiritual healing. This practice incorporates both hands-on and energetic work, using the power of natural forces for healing. The emphasis will be on intentionality and personal clarity as the fundamental tools of any healing art. "Intentionality moves energy," says Maria Lucia, "and it is through this focus that you can learn to take responsibility for your own thoughts and actions."

Born into a family of healers with a generations-old tradition, Maria Lucia studied with healers in her native Brazil, where spiritism—receiving healing knowledge from the spirit world—is a practice familiar to much of the population. Having also lived and studied at Esalen for nine years, she applies both Brazilian and North American approaches to healing.

Participants can learn how to practice and refine this approach, as well as experience the personal benefits that come from receiving this work. The workshop is designed for bodyworkers, therapists, health professionals, and anyone interested in working with energy and people’s bodies.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

Weekend of March 14-16

Sensory Awareness
Charlotte Selver

Some seventy years ago Charlotte Selver’s teacher, Elsa Gindler, began exploring the natural potential of the human being. The work that evolved was an approach through a disciplined practice involving the person as total organism. Gindler’s innovative methods very often unearthed, liberated, and cultivated abilities and sensitivities which her students had never been conscious of possessing.

To “awaken” means that one’s energies—neuromuscular and perceptive—become altered, leading to greater movability, both psychologically and physically, and to a fuller use of the senses and intuitive powers. For this to occur, a deeper peace is needed so that sensations become clearer and rigidities, pressures, and preconceptions can gradually dissolve. In becoming “tuned in” by another person, or by a task or given situation, powers come into play which correspond exactly to the demands of the occasion. This calls for subtle reactivity and openness to the moment.

With the cultivation of these functions, our lives can unfold in a far richer and more responsive way than what we are used to. We can restore the delight of ever new experiencing which was our birthright in childhood, but lost in the course of our education into adulthood.

Recommended reading: Brooks, Sensory Awareness.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

$425

Religious and Spiritual Problems: A Paradigm Shift in Mental Health

David Lukoff & Francis Lu

Religion is a system of wishful illusions together with a disavowal of reality, such as we find... nowhere else... but in a state of blissful hallucinatory confusion.

— Sigmund Freud

If a member of a typical congregation were to have a profound religious experience, its minister would very likely send him or her to a psychiatrist for medical treatment.

— Stanislav Grof, Beyond the Brain

Increasing numbers of people are having intense religious and spiritual experiences with life-changing consequences. These experiences may occur spontaneously, arise from spiritual practice, or emerge in the context of grief, dying, illness, and recovery from substance and sexual abuse. While religious and spiritual experiences are usually positive, many persons encounter problems integrating them. Yet when they seek assistance from mental health or religious professionals, many persons have had their experiences ignored, trivialized, or pathologized. The recent inclusion of a new diagnostic category entitled “Religious or Spiritual Problem” in the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual, Fourth Edition (DSM-IV) signifies a paradigm shift by accepting distressing religious and spiritual experiences as nonpathological problems.

Two of the authors of this new diagnostic category will share the clinical, theoretical, research, and social issues involved in its adoption. Film and videotape excerpts and clinical cases will serve as stimuli for discussions of precipitants, phenomenology, treatment, and integration of religious and spiritual problems. Participants will have the opportunity to discuss their personal experiences related to this topic. While this workshop is designed for health care and religious professionals, interested lay persons are also welcome to attend.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

C.E. credit is available for psychologists; see page 68.

$425

Roots and Wings: Renewing Our Spirits, Living Our Dreams

David Schiffman

David Schiffman writes: “This workshop is for people who value a heartfelt, original approach to life, the suitably seasoned who want to trust and master their own rhythms and who appreciate the value of imaginative self-inquiry. Its pacing and format are designed to provide a safe, restorative mood for inner reflection and honest self-appraisal. It will also be a time to catch one's breath and hang out in the elemental beauty of Big Sur in a mood of peace and inspiration, an opportunity to tune into the inner resources that allow us to see the world with fresh eyes and renewed enthusiasm. It is a chance as well to connect with kindred spirits and explore the mysteries, gifts, and dilemmas of who we are.

"Using a blend of physical, emotional, and spiritual attunement practices, we will weave a spell aimed at restoring the magic and faith we need to live soulful, wholehearted lives. We will spend the weekend doing this inner work using ceremony, ritual, music, poetry, movement, and visualization.”

$425

Advanced Zero Balancing: The Alchemy of Touch

Fritz Smith

In this advanced Zero Balancing weekend, participants will refine and expand their Zero Balancing skills, examine emotional and psychological content held in different tissues and energy fields of the body, and apply this knowledge to Zero Balancing sessions with each other. There will also be time for discussion and problem solving. This workshop will strive to present a broader understanding of the healing process as participants deepen their relationships with their work and each other, and explore new ways of interacting with the body/mind through touch.

Prerequisites for this program are the five-day Basic Zero Balancing program or its equivalent, a working knowledge of Zero Balancing, and the readiness to further develop one's effective use of touch.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see pages 67.

$425
Explorations in Mindful Living

Jack Engler

"The greatest gift we can give someone," writes Jack Engler, "is the gift of our attention. It is also the greatest gift we can give ourselves, but frequently not—sometimes out of neglect or business, sometimes out of not taking ourselves seriously or as worthy of it, but often because we don't know how to be present to ourselves. As a result, instead of loving ourselves, but frequently don't; sometimes out of not taking ourselves more deeply and feeling connected to others, which is our deepest longing, we find ourselves contracting, disconnected, experiencing a confusing sense of isolation and emptiness.

"We will use various kinds of mindfulness meditation, simple hatha yoga, and certain cognitive and behavioral practices to learn how to be present for ourselves and the moment-to-moment flow of body, speech, and mind, and to confront whatever is keeping us separate and disconnected from ourselves and each other."

The workshop will emphasize practices you can take home with you and use in your life, your relationships, and your work. C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.

Working with the Enneagram Types: The Head Center

Helen Palmer

Using the Enneagram model of nine personality types as the solder between psychological and spiritual life, this workshop focuses on the mental center of visualization and knowing.

The format involves practices of awareness, discrimination, and object unification that support visual intuition. Panel interviews with the Enneagram types will explore the interface between personality and the perception of higher knowing as it occurs for different types of people.

We all benefit from deepening intuition as a source of guidance and direction, but the Enneatypes whose personal survival strategy depends on fear-driven imagination gain greatly by learning to discriminate between their own projections and authentic inner knowing.

This is the third seminar in the Esalen series "Working with the Enneagram Types." Each section focuses on the psychological and spiritual work of the body, heart, or mind that specifically benefits different types of people. "The Head Center" workshop can be taken as an independent seminar or as part of the series.

For additional information see Special Programs, page 64.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

What is Cronedom?

A Workshop for Women

Marion Woodman & Ann Skinner

Marion Woodman writes: "In this workshop we will explore the gradual initiation into the most mature aspects of femininity. What is the relationship between body and soul when the body is aging or physically ill? What is the relationship between spirit and soul? What is love forged in fire? What are the dualities that are, in fact, paradoxes? What does accepting our own humanity mean? How do we release creative energy in this phase?"

Please come prepared to do some simple bodywork combined with voice work. This workshop will be of most value to women over fifty.

Recommended reading: Woodman & Dickson, Dancing in the Flames.

Weekend of March 21-23

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see January 17-19.

Improvisational Being

Nina Wise

This workshop is designed to give you the physical and spiritual tools to translate your inner life into theater. Everyone has a story to tell, and stories reside as much in the body as in the mind. So you'll begin by moving from your center, giving voice and physicality to your private characters and realities. The environment will be safe and supportive. The result can be the remarkable satisfaction of unbounded self-expression.

The sessions will include relaxation, meditation, movement, singing, storytelling, and theater games. Expect to surprise yourself, to become more playful and at ease before an audience, and to leave with an enhanced sense of well-being in both your personal and creative life.

Care of the Self: Enhancing Wellness

Stuart Twemlow & Ron Alexander

The leaders write: "We often work with helping professionals, executives, and others with high demands for performance within their practices, organizations, or businesses. We see many health care professionals and business people who have neglected their own personal and professional health and have ended up experiencing burnout and exhaustion, derailed careers, and damaged marriages and relationships.

"Over the past twenty-five years we have developed a holistic program for enhancing wellness for such people. We will present a comprehensive lifestyle reorganization plan with concepts taken from Buddhist and Western psychology. This will include: 1) a detailed examination of thinking processes, assumptions, values, and goals; and 2) instruction in the application of principles of martial and meditative arts to strengthen body, mind, and spirit and make the person whole again.

This training experience will utilize practices derived from Zen, martial arts, psychoanalytic object relations, and Gestalt therapy. Sessions will include process work, deep music, meditation, physical repatterning exercises, and dialogue using challenging questions.

This workshop is designed to provide participants with deeper self-awareness, an increased capacity for self-reflection, as well as meditative and martial arts exercises—an integrated wellness program for body, mind, and spirit.

Recommended reading: Polster & Polster, Gestalt Therapy Integrated; Beck, Everyday Zen; Ogden, The Matrix of the Mind.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. C.E. credit is available for psychologists; see page 68.

Long-Term Love: Sustaining Intimacy and Passion

Mark Gerzon & Shelley Kessler

What enables love to last? What fosters lasting love in which both partners can grow and flourish? What allows a marriage to reach the harvest in which two whole individuals meet each other with a greater capacity for passion and true surrender?

Grounded in these questions, this workshop explores the many facets of long-term intimate relationships. Based on their marriage of twenty-three years and the research for their forthcoming book, Man, Woman, Earth: Reclaiming Spirit and Wildness in Intimate Relationship, Mark Gerzon and Shelley Kessler have designed this workshop for both individuals and couples who are seeking to develop the awareness that makes enduring intimacy and passion possible. Facets of intimacy to be explored include: the alchemy of falling in love, the building of a strong "container," living with the shadow, and the ever-changing balance of autonomy and surrender.

Participants will be invited to share their own stories. Tools will include role-playing, council, visualization, sensory awakening, and a storytelling process called LifeLine. $425

March 23–April 4

Emotional Healing:
From Codependence to Aliveness

Terry Hunt & Janet Green Garrison

For workshop description see Special Programs, page 64.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $1940

Week of March 23–28

Awakening the Body:
A Body-Centered Intensive

Carolyn Braddock & Christian Hendricks

This workshop is designed for bodyworkers, medical professionals, psychotherapists, and all those interested in learning specific body-centered intervention techniques and healing. The work will be primarily experiential, with hands-on practice, extensive video analysis, and case studies.

The focus will be on awakening the body from post-traumatic stress (sexual and emotional trauma, surgeries, loss of limbs or body function, life-threatening illnesses, family or relationship trauma, and others). The body remembers because the body is the scene of the crime. This memory is expressed directly through body voices: how a person breathes, speaks, and moves. Listening to and identifying these body voices can facilitate healing. Special attention will be given to:

- Exploring body resistance and readiness
- Using new movement patterns and addressing the emotional component
- Increasing the ability to "see" bodies more deeply
- Direct bodywork and the element of play
- Addressing the spiritual dimension
- Understanding victimization
- Strategies which do not revictimize the survivor
- Listening to one's own body wisdom and moving from one's core

Please note: This workshop is applicable for Braddock Body Process® certification hours.

C.E. is available for nurses; see page 67. $795

True Stories:
Autobiographic Storytelling

Spalding Gray

All human beings have at least one good story in them. The aim of this workshop is to create a safe, supportive space to give birth to that story. Each member of the workshop will be asked to function as storyteller, audience, and critic. When not telling, members will be asked to listen and respond.

Participants should bring a tape recorder to record their own work.

This workshop is limited to 13 people who will be chosen on the basis of personal letters sent to Spalding Gray, c/o Esalen (please include your phone number). The letters should explain why you feel it is important for you to take this workshop. Please send no fees until you have been notified by mail of your acceptance. All letters should be sent to Spalding Gray Workshop, c/o Esalen, Big Sur, CA 93920, and must be received by January 17, 1997. Participants will be notified of their acceptance by February 17. $795

Weekend of March 28–30

Essential Tai Ji:
Body-Mind-Spirit in Action

Chungliang Al Huang

Tai Ji is a philosophy of life, a living Tao, and an effective tool for self-cultivation that promotes health, wealth, and spiritual well-being. Chungliang Al Huang will combine structure, discipline, and creative exploration for beginners and longtime practitioners in this weekend of joyful movement meditation.
This process can be effective. Experiential exercises and group process, balancing and nonverbal in relationships, can enhance creativity, and use more voice and body awareness, and help to stay centered. Participants will be shown how to move out of the way when in conflict, to fill your needs. People usually consider walking on water or in thin air a miracle. But I think the real miracle is not to walk either on water or in thin air, but to walk on the earth.

—THICH NHAT HANH

This workshop is designed to facilitate the integration of body, mind, and spirit into a healing journey. The material presented and practiced is designed for daily use—at home, at work, in relationships—and is particularly valuable for survivors of trauma (sexual and emotional trauma, physical illnesses, surgeries, body image issues, loss, and accidents).

The workshop will utilize breath, sound, and selected centering and gentle martial arts practices to assist participants in expressing their voice—the source of their power—while encouraging release through movement. The martial arts practices encourage flexibility and body awareness, and help to stay centered, release areas of tension, and move through difficult feelings with more confidence and ease. Participants will be shown how to move out of the way when in conflict, enhance creativity, and use more voice—verbal and nonverbal—in relationships.

The workshop will be presented through experiential exercises and group process, using bodywork, play, the natural environment, humor, and video analysis. There will also be situational role-playing to learn how this process can be effective.

Recommended reading and viewing: Huang, Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain and Quantum Soup; Huang & Watts, Tao: The Watercourse Way; Huang & Lynch, Thinking Body, Dancing Mind and Mentoring: The Tao of Giving and Receiving Wisdom; Living Tao Videos (217-337-6113).

---

Weekend Massage Intensive

Deborah Anne Medow & Carl Chase (C.C.)

Participants will be instructed in basic methods for giving a pleasurable and beneficial full-body massage. Fundamental elements of bodywork, such as breath awareness, grounding, movement, quality of touch, and stress reduction, will be introduced. The workshop is open to beginners as well as those who wish to brush up on their massage skills.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

---

A Celebration of the Body:

A Self-Empowerment Weekend

Carolyn Braddock & Christian Hendrick

Week of March 30—April 4

Reweaving the Web:

Intimate Encounters of an Unknown Kind—A Workshop for Couples

Paul Lounsbury & Nancy Winston

As we navigate the politics of our intimate relationships, the stories we construct reflexively pattern our ways of relating—as much as our ways of relating pattern the ways we construct our stories. As couples we live in brilliant co-conspiracies, magically producing endless variations of a finely tuned and well choreographed pattern. But even though the webwork woven in this pattern connects us, both to ourselves and to each other, its borders constrain the quality of our experience. What, asks Gregory Bateson, connects a story its parts? His answer he calls Mind, not the conscious mind, but a sacred source of creativity—the pattern that connects. This workshop is designed to stir you to ponder the heights of your imagination and plumb the depths of your curiosity to investigate truly novel connections. It will enlist you in an unusual conversation hypnotically designed to "tweak," "stimulate," and "trance-form" what had been a "well known story" into the unfolding of a new pattern of relating.

You can expect to evolve greater variety in your ways of connecting, create space in your relationship for both partners to express more of who they are, generate new choices at old trigger points, increase emotional resilience and malleability, and establish more effective coordinations for solving problems and fulfilling your needs.

Working in the tradition of Milton Erickson, the workshop will employ both formal and informal trance work and utilize "group-as-a-whole" dynamics.

Prerequisites: Humor, a willingness to fully participate in the group, and an openness for learning something new in a way you haven’t yet learned to learn it.

---

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

---

Pilobolus Technique

Jonathan Wolken

Since its first appearance, Pilobolus Dance Theatre has been a pioneer in American contemporary dance, creating its own unique method of choreography. This workshop is based on Pilobolus's evolving understanding of technique as a creative collaborative process. Dance is approached not as an inflexible physical regime but as an expressive medium for people of all ages, backgrounds, and levels of experience.

Taught by Pilobolus founder Jonathan Wolken, this workshop focuses on the choreographic process that makes movement a powerful means of expression. The workshop will be an exploration into the lively mixture of form and flow, abstraction and theatricality, strength, force, and balance that are at work in the realm of dance.

Participants will experience a wide variety of movement through improvisation and will choreograph a number of short dances. This will be an opportunity to indulge in the incredible panorama of human motion. Extensive dance training is not necessary, although a reasonable degree of fitness is advised. Participants should be willing to be physically energetic and enthusiastic.

---

The Road Best Traveled:

Reinspiring Life Purpose and Direction

Mel Kimura-Bucholtz

"The road best traveled," writes Mel Kimura-Bucholtz, "is the one that reflects the best of us. This seminar is a way station, where we meet to look at how we have come the distance up until now, and how we’ve brought our natural sensibilities into life along the way. We hold these questions up to ourselves: What are my truest, simplest feelings of vitality, joy, beauty, and awe? How can I live reflecting these qualities?"

"We start by discovering our own stillness, the lens of attention used to focus on our life. From here we engage the tool recognition, using it to grasp the vital and imaginative experiences of our lives. Then we begin to practice crafting, forging our own style of expression to take hold of our inner discoveries and carry them into life-affirming action."

"In this way we can start to fulfill the twin mandates of life: first, creativity is the ultimate act of personal responsibility; and second, authentic expression is being community, not just maintaining relationships but actually being related. This leads to the practice of feeling centered—rather than being self-centered—a feeling of meeting the aliveness of others while creating vibrant, imaginative realities from within ourselves.

"The road best traveled is grounded in recognizing and crafting the best of us into living expression. Rediscovering our basic way of doing this creates the way ahead." $795

Sports Massage: Keeping the Players Playing

_Sherry Sanders Galloway & John Harris_

This sports massage workshop is about maintaining athletic conditioning. The focus will be on body mechanics and simple techniques for keeping muscles toned, stretched, and ready for any physical activity. Specific injury treatments, such as trigger point therapy and cross-friction technique, will be demonstrated. There will be simple anatomy instruction and a presentation of methods that can be used regardless of location or supplies on hand.

Each session will combine a brief lecture with a step-by-step demonstration, followed by extensive hands-on practice. There will be one-to-one assistance available and individual concerns will be addressed. The objective is two-fold: 1) to become familiar with the tissue that lies beneath the skin: how it works, how it moves, how to prevent injury to it, how to heal it; and 2) to keep both the provider and the receiver of this work comfortable and fit, both physically and emotionally—in short, to "keep the players playing."

Please wear loose and comfortable clothing.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $795

Ceramic Insights

_Embree De Persiis_

Clay as a medium of expression offers a wide variety of intrinsic gifts. Its textures, colors, malleability, sensuousness, and ancient resonances allow for infinite creative possibilities.

In working with clay, as inner vision assumes outer form, unexpected insights can emerge. And the allure of shape and allusion are ever present.

The workshop will begin with the exercise of pinching balls of clay into simple forms. This basic act is a centering experience which provides a familiarity with process that can then be expanded into each participant's individual direction. Coiling, sculpting, and burnishing are all available as methods of giving form to personal vision.

The seminar will culminate in a pit-firing on the Esalen cliffside. There, flame, smoke, seaweed, copper, and salt will imprint their random magic on our works.

All levels of ceramic experience are welcome.

Recommended (but not required!) reading: Berensohn, Finding One's Way with Clay; Needleman, The Work of Craft. $795
Appreciating Imagination
Terence McKenna
Author and explorer, shamanologist and philosopher, Terence McKenna brings a unique perspective to the idea of a spiritual path for each of us and an impending transformation of the human world that will involve everyone.

Terence writes: "Come help examine human attitudes toward the Other and discuss Time and its mysteries, the nature of language, and the techniques of ecstasy that have developed in non-Western societies to navigate to and from invisible worlds. The role of hallucinogenic plants will be explored—their role in shamanism, and their impact on the general evolution of human cultures and social forms. We will discuss making reasonable choices concerning spiritual development and techniques, survey the rich historical foundations of modern spirituality, and investigate the roles that we may each play in the proper unfolding of the post-historical future. This is a think-along experience for those who have grown weary of the lack of sophisticated water in the desert of transcendental yearnings." $425

Re-Solving Your Past, Remembering Who You Are: A Gestalt Process Workshop
Julian Silverman
To become a whole person, one must, to quote Fritz Perls in his autobiography, "center one's existence."

Centering one's existence means orienting in time and space. The methods for centering in time and centering in space are different and complementary. Centering oneself has two major obstacles: one's unresolved past and one's faulty self-remembrance.

Centering oneself in space is a geometric process for achieving physical and psychological balance. Centering oneself in time is a psychological process for dis-solving obstacles which interfere with accomplishing your life goals.

This workshop offers a way of projecting order onto the world which neutralizes the compelling influence of "how things appear to be." It is about rediscovering love and integrating the rediscovery into our lives in a more meaningful way.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $425

Energy Kinesiology: Awakening to Abundant Energy
Donna Eden
"Each of us is a swirling universe of energy that gives life to every cell of the body, animating health and determining our state of mind," writes Donna Eden. "The human body is designed to heal itself. The body talks with symptoms instead of words. We can talk back in the language of energies: the meridians, chakras, and the life force. We are designed to feel good. You can discover how to bring energy into an exhausted body, empower your immune system, and be more alive, healthy, and exuberant."

This is a hands-on workshop. Through muscle testing and other simple demonstrations, participants will be shown how to test for energy blockages and dysfunctions, and how to move energy in themselves and others.

There will be energy exercises to improve the harmony of all the body's systems and help alleviate pain and stress.

This is a workshop for all those interested in awakening their body's sensitivity and learning to heal with energy.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $425

Enchanting the Joker: An Introduction to Self-Hypnosis
Paul Lounsbury & Nancy Winston
Hypnosis is not magic but it is extraordinarily effective for gaining access to a surprising array of capacities outside our normal range of conscious functioning.

Learning to use self-hypnosis effectively takes practice and hard work, but the payoffs for those who decide to really learn it can be enormous. The abundant payoffs grow from developing an ever deeper appreciation for, reliance in, and rapport with the inner powers of the unconscious mind. This translates into authentic creative communication and coordination with our total functioning.

Specific uses include: clarifying, contacting, and coordinating inner desires and motivations; enhanced learning and concentration skills; developing inner controls for influencing forms of perception (e.g., pain perception, pleasure perception, time perception, color perception); controls for effecting attitudes and behaviors (emotional states, states of relaxation, memory states, performance states, as well as behaviors including numerous forms of creative problem-solving).

Using a hypnotic orientation in the tradition of Milton Erickson, this workshop will introduce you to basic principles, skills, and techniques of self-hypnosis. The workshop will entail instruction, formal and informal trance induction by the leaders, and structured experiments. Please bring a hand mirror big enough to reflect your face. $425

For Women Only: Toward a Sacred Sexuality
Lenore Lefer
Lenore Lefer writes: "This workshop addresses the question: How can we as women move towards integrating our sexual lives with our spiritual nature? We live in a culture that has traditionally separated these two aspects of ourselves, both of which are essential to living rich and full lives. The separation of the sacred from the sexual has caused many women to feel compartmentalized and less than whole. Having consciously or unconsciously made this choice, we are left longing for our exiled half.

"Some of the themes to be covered in this workshop include:

- The enhancement of our relationship to our bodies
- The broad diversity of the Feminine, and the goddesses that represent this energy
- The journey from shame to divine pride
- The changing nature of our sexuality as we mature
- Recognition, development, acceptance and comfort with both our sexual and mystical aspects

"In this weekend we will explore, as well, our beliefs and attitudes, both sexual and spiritual, that limit and enhance our creativity, power, and self-expression. We will use yoga, guided imagery, humor, group process, writing, and meditation to explore the full potency and mystery of the bawdy, sexual, wise, abundant, profound, deep Feminine wisdom."

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $425

Weekend of April 4–6

Integral Transformative Practice
Michael Murphy & George Leonard
Early in 1992, Michael Murphy and George Leonard began an experiment in what was to stand as a culmination of their lifetime work:
a long-term program for realizing the potential of body, mind, heart, and soul. This program, Integral Transformative Practice (ITP), is designed not for monastics but for people with busy lives, and is described in Murphy and Leonard's latest book, The Life We Are Given. This five-day workshop welcomes people who would like to begin their practice of ITP along with those who are already practicing and wish to deepen their work and share ideas with fellow practitioners. You will have a chance to learn a forty-minute kata series that includes physical movement, breathing practice, relaxation, transformative imaging, and meditation. You will practice balancing and centering, the use of ki or chi, focused surrender, and the creation of effective affirmations leading to increased vitality and good health. There will be discussions on the principles of mastery, the remarkable efficacy of long-term practice, and the mental/material interface. Especially useful to ITP practitioners will be a deeper understanding of the historical/theoretical foundations of Integral Transformative Practice.

This workshop involves physical movement but is not strenuous. All that's needed is a generous heart and a willingness to participate.

Making Crucial Life Choices and Major Life Changes

Michael Broder

Achieving fulfillment is a lifelong process which involves both recognizing and making many choices along the way. Taking the risks that make major life changes possible is the essence of the personal growth experience. Relationship transitions, career changes, and new lifestyle options all challenge us to choose between our comfort zones and new levels of fulfillment.

Using visualizations and meditation practices, as well as both group process and individual work, this workshop will present each participant with the opportunity to identify the next major step along his or her path along with the obstacles to getting there. Then participants will be encouraged to explore the risks that need to be taken to overcome potential blocks to change. This workshop is especially recommended for those who recognize themselves as living in a comfortable state of discomfort with respect to one or more important aspects of life; for anyone in the process of transition; and for those who can use some sharpening of their risk-taking skills.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. C.E. credit is available for psychologists; see page 68. This workshop is approved by the American Psychological Association for 26 Category I C.E.U.s for psychologists. $795

What to Do When the World Ends: A Workshop on A Course in Miracles

Julian & Cynthia Silverman

All that went before was a mistake, a fumbling preparation for birth.

— THOMAS MERTON

He not busy being born is busy dying.

— BOB DYLAN

"This is not a workshop about survival," write the Silvermans. "Forget it. It's a workshop for the 'insightful' who realize that it really is hopeless. It's about how to change your mind. It's about how to change your way of looking at things so that eternity replaces time. It's about how to respond at the end of the world you think is real... and feel good about it.

"It's about giving up without despair. It's about for-giving. It's about laughter."

Required reading: A Course in Miracles.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $795

Creative Cooking at the Big House

Robin Burnside

As the common diet moves further from the soil, so too society becomes more isolated and diffused.

— Socrates

The kitchen can be a place of alchemical transformation, from carefully gathering the finest ingredients to creatively blending them together to imaginatively presenting them. In this workshop, participants will meet at the beautiful Big House Kitchen to spend a week harvesting, cooking, and eating extraordinary dishes created from the best of Esalen’s garden and farm, Big Sur’s bountiful forests and sea, and local farmers and ranchers.

The workshop will explore the many ways to combine basic ingredients, using simple preparations to create exciting, nutritious, tasty, and comforting meals. Recipes will be shared, along with techniques to expand beyond them and create "your own way" with the food.

There will be outings to forage for ingredients from their "native homes" (bring some good walking shoes), a muffin-making jamboree in the Lodge Kitchen (baking for 250 people), and time together at the baths with a special closing ceremony.

All in all, a satisfying meal of a workshop. $795

Weekend of April 11–13

Buddhism and Shamanism

Joan Halifax

This retreat is an exploration of compassion in action through the wisdom traditions of Buddhism and shamanism. In many tribal cultures, it is the shaman who practices the craft of compassion. This healer-ecologist can be brought to the shaman's role through a "sacred catastrophe," an experience of suffering and redemption turning the individual toward compassion. Exploring the shaman's crisis as a potential gateway to compassion, this workshop will look at how the shaman serves the extended community of nature and culture.

In Buddhism, through the practice of kindness and awareness, every moment is seen as a vehicle for awakening. That is why we can use our everyday lives as a way to practice mindfulness and to help others. Engaged Buddhism is a way of practice and service that is opening spiritual practice for many non-Buddhist individuals. This weekend workshop will include meditation practices, council process, and ceremony. $425

Intermediate Yoga: Deepening Practice

Deborah Anne Medow

"Yoga is a multidimensional awareness practice," writes Deborah Medow. "By paying attention to yourself through body, mind, and breath, you can develop more physical aliveness, mental clarity, emotional openness, and a more peaceful and joyful spirit.

"This intermediate-level yoga weekend will focus on breathing exercises (purifications) and asanas (yoga postures), as well as some yogic philosophy and theory. The approach: Instead of pushing into or 'going for' the stretch, you will be encouraged to move slowly through an asana, staying at first within your comfort zone and giving yourself time to experience everything you are feeling in your muscles, tendons, and bones—not pushing, just being and breathing. By allowing yourself to fully experience where you are—right now,
This is a workshop for all those wishing to get more powerfully "er, go deeper, express your feelings and ideas. This workshop is an opportunity to become clearer. Whether you are interested in poetry, fiction, nonfiction, or journal writing, this workshop will be a lot of time for writing, as well as time for sharing and feedback. From beginners to experienced, all women writers are welcome. It will be a supportive place to share your work with others and to express your feelings and ideas more powerfully."

Writing About Our Lives: A Workshop for Women

Ellen Bass

"The philosophy behind this workshop," writes Ellen Bass, "is best expressed by Martha Graham, who said, "There is a vitality, a life force, an energy, a quickening that is translated through you into action. And because there is only one of you in all time, this expression is unique. And if you block it, it will never exist through any other medium, and be lost. The world will not have it. It is not your business to determine how good it is, nor how valuable, nor how it compares with other expressions. It is your business to keep it yours clearly and directly, to keep the channel open."

"This workshop will help keep the channels open. It will be a supportive place to share our lives and work, our voice, our creativity. There will be a lot of time for writing, as well as time for sharing and feedback. From beginners to experienced, all women writers are welcomed. Whether you are interested in poetry, fiction, nonfiction, or journal writing, this workshop is an opportunity to become clearer, go deeper, express your feelings and ideas more powerfully."

The Subtle Self

Judy Blackstone

All spiritual traditions refer to an essential dimension of existence, calling it unity consciousness, emptiness, universal consciousness, and many other names. This dimension is not an abstract concept. It is the core of our own true nature and can be experienced by anyone who is willing to approach it with patience and openness. Unity consciousness is experienced as clear, mirror-like space, pervading our body and our environment, transcending the duality of self and object. It is deeper than the physical and energetic levels of being and beyond our psychological defenses, projections, images, and archetypes. Subtle Self Work is a precise method of attuning to the clear space of unity consciousness.

In this workshop participants will explore how to: relate to others in this clear space, commune with nature, experience and live in the inner depths of the body, and integrate the body, authentic self, and unity consciousness. Group members will use the Subtle Self Work attunement exercises, daily sitting meditation, and sound, breath, and movement exercises to stimulate the channels in the vertical core of the body and expand the sense of unity consciousness. In this essential dimension of ourselves, we can find the source of our love, clarity, vitality, and peace.

Recommended reading: Blackstone, The Subtle Self.

Caring, Respect, and Inspiration: Resolving Ethical Conflict

Bill Puha

Our thorniest values-based dilemmas and ethical conflicts with others have clear-cut solutions. This is true at work, in broad social contexts, or in intimate relationships. But resolutions to conflicts are not singular endpoints reached by obsessing about them. They are step-by-step processes by which we show others and ourselves sensitive respect and caring—in little ways, all along the way.

Using the explicit conflict-resolution methods of Gandhi, King, and Mother Teresa, as well as research findings in cognitive development, this workshop will address personal/ career issues brought to the group by participants. The workshop will also offer practical ways to evolve more admirable outlooks and traits, thereby enhancing our habitual ways of thinking, perceiving, feeling, and relating even when we are "running on empty" or in turmoil inside. Inspiration will be drawn from videos and profiles of "ethical superstars" (see above) and "everyday heroes" in our midst.

The Way of Wilderness

Steven Harper

_You didn't come into this world. You came out of it, like a wave from the ocean. You are not a stranger here._

— ALAN WATTS

Ever since the supposed "primordial soup," nature has been our teacher. We were born of this earth and throughout recorded time people have turned to wilderness to awaken and become whole again.

With wild nature as the primary teacher, participants will explore the ways of wilderness, discovering as "civilized" twentieth-century humans what it means to walk this ancient path that uncovers our relationship to nature and to ourselves. Charles Darwin wrote, "From so simple a beginning endless forms most beautiful and most wonderful have been, and are being evolved." Perhaps through direct experience of nature we can continue this "most beautiful and most wonderful" evo-
This workshop will include movement awareness exercises, meditation, and extended day-hikes (3-10 miles long) into the Big Sur backcountry. Most sessions will be outdoors, with a return to Esalen each evening. Special attention will be given to incorporating into everyday life what is learned from the wilds.

Previous wilderness experience is not necessary, although participants should be prepared for some vigorous physical activity.

---

The Path of Transformation through Meditation

Daniel Brown

Meditation is not just a means to sit quietly. Its purpose is to gain fundamental insight into self, reality, and time. This workshop is designed both for beginners wishing to establish a solid foundation in meditation and for experienced meditators wishing to refine their practice. Participants will explore how the path of meditation unfolds from the very beginnings of practice to the stages of enlightenment.

The workshop will be practice-oriented, presenting a wide range of meditations in order to determine the best match for each individual. It will stress the fundamentals of both concentration and awareness styles of meditation. Emphasis will be on establishing a sound basis in posture and mental stabilization. A form of standard insight meditation will be taught, as well as some of the more subtle "quick path" instructions, such as meditating on the movements of the mind and "awareness of awareness" meditations. Specialized meditations for transforming bodily states, affect, and thought will also be presented.

Daniel Brown draws upon twenty-five years of meditation practice in various Eastern traditions, ten years of translating meditation texts from Sanskrit and Tibetan, and ten years of scientific research on meditative states.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $795

---

Compassionate Action: Real Work, Good Work

Joan Halifax & Jitsudo Ancheta-Sensei

Bodhicitta is a Buddhist term that describes the experience of longing that has been transformed to joy through our commitment to and practice of helping others. It is a heart that is truly awakened. Although Buddhism uses the experience of retreat to deepen our kindness and open our awareness, it is understood that every moment is a vehicle for our awakening. That is why we use our everyday lives as a way to practice mindfulness. "Real work, good work" is work that we do to help other beings. This kind of work, however, is seen as an opportunity to practice mindfulness.

This workshop will look at compassionate action as meditation practice. It will explore the essential teachings of the Buddha and how they apply to our everyday lives. Participants will engage in various forms of meditation practice, discussion, and interviews with the teachers. The workshop will also explore the value of contemplative work with the environment, youth at risk, and dying people. $795

---

The Art and Dance of Transformation

Joanne Segel & Linda Jacobson

Transformational art and movement are creative processes that can be tools for self-development, spiritual growth, and understanding. Opening up to our creativity, we receive more life energy. Art is a natural process of being human: This workshop is designed to show you not that the artist is unique but that each person is a unique artist.

During this week the stages of life will be explored, beginning with the first instant of cellular consciousness. Drums and dreams, drawing and painting, writing and ritual will be woven together to inspire and ignite you. Participants will take active dream journeys to enter the imaginal realm where inner healing takes place, tapping the wellspring of imagination and creativity in a nonjudgmental, nurturing environment.

Art and movement are vessels that hold enormous power for transformation. By connecting with our creative, instinctual natures, we inform our souls.

All levels are welcome—no prior art or movement experience is necessary. $795

---

Weekend of April 18–20

Movement for Life—The Feldenkrais Method®

Anat Baniel

Our only limitation is our belief that it is so.

— MOSES FELDENKRAIS

Do you remember a moment in your life when you moved fluidly, effortlessly, exquisitely, and pleasurably? Can you recall the sense of well-being and unlimited possibility that infused that moment?

Movement is so intrinsic to life that we take it for granted. We come to accept our limitations as natural and inevitable, largely unaware that the way we carry ourselves is a result of our belief systems, our feelings about ourselves, and what happened to us as we grew and evolved. The way we move then continues to shape our view of ourselves and our possibilities in the world.

Fortunately, the human brain has the capacity throughout life to form new patterns of movement, feeling, thought, and action with speed and efficiency. Given the necessary sensory, mental, and emotional information, habitual movement patterns can be replaced with easier, better organized ones. New possibilities open up: hence, greater spontaneity and freedom of choice. This can happen regardless of your level of skill, fitness, or degree of limitation.

In this workshop, through a variety of gentle, safe Awareness Through Movement® lessons, you'll use your feelings, thoughts, and awareness to acquire more pleasurable and more efficient ways to move. You'll have the opportunity to experience greater flexibility, spontaneity, and the joy that comes with being the master of your own body.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

$425

The Art of Leadership: Communication, Creativity, Vision
Ron Alexander

In the beginner’s mind there are many possibilities
While in the expert’s mind there are few.

— SUZUKI

This workshop is for individuals who are interested in exploring an intensive experiential process for becoming more effective leaders in both their personal and professional life settings. It is appropriate for entrepreneurs, executives, managers, and others committed to improving their communication and leadership skills, and especially intended for those open to doing deep personal work with a commitment to transform the self and thereby become more effective and productive in their leadership style. The major areas of focus will be: resolving conflict, developing trust with those who feel threatened, addressing blind spots in self-esteem, healing blocks in creativity, and building support for transforming vision into reality.

The workshop is primarily experiential and will include gestalt open seat work, sharing feedback on leadership and communication styles, improving coaching skills, developing the unconscious to creatively solve problems, and role-playing and problem-solving exercises for real-life work situations.

Recommended reading: Depree, Leadership is an Art; Wing, The Tao of Power; Crum, The Magic of Conflict.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

$425

The Metaphor of the Blind Spot
Heinz Von Foerster

Heinz Von Foerster writes: “At the place where the optic nerve leaves the eyeball there are no sensors to register any visual stimulus. We are not aware of this blind spot. Our visual field appears seamless and complete: we do not see that we do not see.

“So what was supposed to have said: ‘I know that I don’t know; but many don’t know even that.’ While the first part is of knowing (‘I know...’), the second part draws our attention to absolute ignorance: being ignorant of our own ignorance, an ignorance of the second order. It is this kind of ignorance that fascinates me, because I might be one of those to whom Socrates refers.

“We pride ourselves for understanding so much. We understand the macrocosm—we even walk on the moon. We understand the microcosm—we even use the power of atomic nuclei for unimaginable destruction or for unlimited supply of energy for our daily life. What we apparently do not understand is understanding itself. Do we have a blind spot in this respect?

“I shall use the metaphor of the blind spot as a guide to let us talk about a way of understanding, learning, and knowing vis-à-vis in-principle undecidables, unanalyzables, and unknowables.”

$425

Playing the Edge
David Schiffman

For workshop description see January 26-31.

$795

Drawing and Painting: A Five-Day Intensive
Leigh Hyams

This five-day intensive drawing and painting workshop is limited to those participants who have had at least one previous course with Leigh Hyams (the preceding April 18-20 weekend intensive qualifies). Emphasis will be on identifying and developing a personal voice in each individual’s work while expanding experience in the creative use of materials and deepening understanding of art and its place in our lives.

$795

The Upledger Institute’s Visceral Manipulation I-A
Frank Lowen

Visceral Manipulation (VM) is a manual therapy that uses specifically placed pressure to encourage normal mobility, tone, and inherent tissue motion of the viscera (internal organs) and their connective tissues. The VM process is based on the concept that each of the internal organs rotates on a physiological axis. The VM techniques have the potential to affect the physiological function of individual organs, the systems they function within, and the structural integrity of the entire body.

"Visceral Manipulation I-A" is the first in the two-part introductory level of VM study. Participants in this class will be given the basic manual skills to locate, evaluate, and normalize primary areas of dysfunction within the abdominal cavity (with the exception of the deepest visceral layer). Class work focuses on the dynamics of motion and suspension and their effects on internal organs, membranes, and ligaments. Among the topics

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

$425

A Workshop for Couples
Daniel Brown & Marushka Glissen

This is a workshop for couples who want to improve their communication skills and increase their understanding of each other. It will teach ways to resolve conflict and practical methods for becoming both self-assertive and self-transcending in a partnership. Some of the work will address how family of origin and past conditioning contribute to the bondaddressed will be mobility, motility, the relations between subatmospheric pressure and visceral homeostasis, as well as the organs and structural or neuromuscular integrity.

Participants must have completed the Upledger Institute's CranioSacral I.

Please note: Registration for this workshop is done only through the Upledger Institute. Please call the Upledger Institute at 1-800-233-5880.

For more information see Special Programs, page 64.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

Weekend of April 25-27

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see January 17-19.

Massage Intensive for Couples

Peggy Horan & Dean Marson

For workshop description see March 7-9.

Big Sur Bead Making

Noel Mapstead & Keiko Suga

The Big Sur coast is uniquely endowed with natural clays that have been decomposing from granite rock for millions of years. This workshop will be dedicated to the making of clay beads from local natural sources.

The group will explore the Big Sur coast to gather clays, make beads, and bake the beads in open-pit fires using cow dung and seaweed. Participants will be taught to identify natural clays, work and process clay, and fire with traditional and modern methods. Other activities will include bead stringing, hot clay mud baths, and a Native American sweat lodge.

The very act of pinching clay with our fingers marks us as human. The impulse to fashion the natural materials that we share with the beasts of the field is what distinguishes us from them. The workshop will develop from this simple ground. It will also examine the history of hand-crafted beads as money versus the dehumanizing value of money today.

Emphasis will be on creating objects to give to loved ones. No experience is necessary.

'Tis a Gift to Be Simple

David Schiffman

This weekend is intended as an offering for people who would like to return to the simplicity of the values we treasure most. Its aim is to create a climate of mutual support and encouragement for exploring how to best cultivate the spirit of real generosity and faith in dealing with ourselves and others. This timely gift will embrace the following elements:

- Sanctuary—the opportunity to step away and pause, to create a mood of peace and personal clearing without haste or interruption
- The company of kindred spirits—a chance to be met with honesty, empathy, and wisdom in an atmosphere of soulful, clear-eyed support
- The emotional freedom to be—the right to let down and be sad, glad, or mad in order to clear the air and move on, making room in our hearts for new possibilities
- The right to feel free and alive in our bodies—the use of innovative ways of moving and touching in order to restore the vitality of feeling truly alive and physically at ease

The methods will be drawn from a wide variety of practices, both traditional and nontraditional, all aimed at restoring our gratitude and appreciation for being alive.

Week of April 27-May 2

Gestalt Practice

Christine Stewart Price

For workshop description see January 12-17.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

Continuum

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud

This workshop explores the idea that movement is something we are rather than something we do, that what we call a "body" is actually a nonlinear creative event.

"Awareness of ourselves as movement begins with developing our sensitivity to our intrinsic world," writes Emilie Conrad-Da'oud. "We do this by exploring the mobile diversity of our breath, by discovering how our sound permeates connective tissue, and most of all by experiencing fluidity as our biological origin—the undulating waves of life that brought us here in the first place.

"As we enliven ourselves from the inside, our dynamic expressions in the world increase. This oscillation from intrinsic to extrinsic, from cell to action, urges itself into new creative channels. Released from convention, our movement vocabulary can include textures and dynamics that are the expression of what is current and alive."

As a movement specialist at UCLA, Conrad-Da'oud has contributed to a study demonstrating that enhancing fluid movement is essential to mediating disease and aging. Her work is incorporated into the fields of alternative medicine, physical therapy, and physical fitness.

This workshop can give participants a deeper awareness of the body as a process where change, growth, and innovation are possible. No dance or movement experience is necessary.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

Working with Wool

Noel Mapstead & Keiko Suga

Since ancient times wool has been a civilizing force in the lives of women and men.

Through the ages it has been used as a tool for commerce as well as for comfort. In this workshop, you can discover, with your own hands, the unique properties of wool. These special traits will enable you to create wool felt and to learn to produce yarn using a technique known since the Stone Age and still in use throughout the world.

The workshop will start with gathering wool—either from sheep on site at Esalen or from a field trip to a nearby ranch. From there you will move on to cleaning and preparing the fleece for use. The experience of working with wool in this way is soothing and relaxing.

As part of the workshop, there will be a Native American sweat lodge and clay hot baths, where you will fashion clay beads to string on the yarn that you produce.

Emphasis will be on the fascination of the process, not the finished product.
Rational, Emotional, and Intuitive Decision Making
Yossi Yassour

How do you go about deciding to choose a job, a mate, or a place to live? What about deciding to get a divorce, have a baby, or resign from a job?

"Modern" people have been taught to despise their feelings and put all their faith in their brain when making decisions. On the other hand, uncontrolled emotions can be a major source of irrational behavior. The "optimal" mix of intuition, emotions, and rationality may cancel out the worst features of each and enhance the constructive energies of the others to provide us with a balanced presentation of reality and of ourselves.

This workshop will focus on the ways in which people make and should make decisions. Special attention will be given to decisions made under uncertainty, risk taking, the status quo trap, and the psychology of decision making.

The workshop will consist of exercises, meditations, discussions, and some theory sessions. In addition, games and questionnaires will be used in a humorous and safe setting.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

$795

Managing to Have Fun: The Power of Humor in Business
Matt Weinstein, Fran Solomon, Ritch Davidson & Terry Sand

Recent research clearly establishes that workers who are having fun on the job outproduce and feel better about themselves and their company than workers who are “satisfied” with their job but who are not having fun. In this experiential workshop, the senior staff members of Playfair Inc., an international management consulting organization, take a look at ways to restructure the corporate culture so that it supports laughter, play, and the "human" values in the workplace—and at the same time increases productivity, teamwork, and physical well-being.

Through games, exercises, and assorted activities, participants in this workshop will learn how to find more joy in their work lives and more playtime in their personal lives. Come prepared for some serious fun.

$425

The Awakened Mind: Brainwave Training
Anna Wise

Inside each person lives a wealth of knowledge, capacities, and power rarely transmitted to the conscious mind. Brainwave training, combined with meditation and biofeedback monitoring, can help develop these deeper resources, allowing access to greater creativity, reduced stress, and a deeper awareness and understanding of the inner self.

After assessing the brainwave patterns of hundreds of unusually highly-functioning people, with Maxwell Cade of London’s Institute for Psychobiological Research began to see similarities in the patterns of optimal states of mind. Drawing upon Cade’s work, Anna Wise has developed a training program to help access these optimal states.

Different methods of meditation, visualization, and psychophysiological relaxation affect our brainwaves in particular ways. So do specific acts such as tongue, eye, and body positions. In this workshop you will learn techniques for brainwave development of beta, alpha, theta, and delta, and begin to determine which methods of practice are best for your particular brainwave pattern. You will also address how you can use these optimum states for your own creativity, mental flexibility, self-healing, problem solving, and spiritual development.

The Mind Mirror EEG will be used to demonstrate brainwave patterns, and each participant will be able to use an Electrical Skin Resistance Meter to measure the depth of arousal or relaxation of the nervous system.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

$425

The Healing Power of the Dream
Joyce Frazee

Each night we dream
Each dream a work of art
Each work of art a healing

This seminar will reveal how simple approaches to the art and artfulness of dreams can reveal the healing power of the dream.

Joyce Frazee writes: "Most of us forget our dreams and so are unable to receive the gift of healing the dream has to offer. When we do remember we wonder, Who are these strangers and acquaintances, friends and lovers who come to visit us at night—often bizarrely different from their daytime roles? Who are these monsters and attackers?"

This weekend workshop will focus on techniques for remembering and working with dreams, including how to use dreamwork for therapeutic intervention and how to use dreams to uncover body memories. Storytelling, role-playing, drawing, dancing, meditation, and gestalt will also be used to learn how the dream itself—and the understanding of the dream—can be the healer.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

$425

Mindbody Rhythms
Angelina Spector

Mindbody Rhythms integrates the mind, body, and the spirit through guided movement. More than just physical fitness, this workshop offers a workout that combines dance, martial arts, and fitness with emotional expression and meditative awareness.
Mindbody Rhythms offers beginners and experienced movers alike a synthesis of joyful movement that allows the body to move with efficiency and ease. Drawing on the work of Debbie and Carlos Rosas's NIA Technique, the Pilates-based Physicalmind Method, and European stretch therapies, participants will learn principles of alignment, movement, and muscle use that develop core body strength.

This workshop is comprised of a three-stage process. Each stage will include a ninety-minute Mindbody Rhythms workout and focus intensively on a specific aspect of movement. Participants will begin by finding the level of fitness that enables them to move at their optimum capacity. Then they will work through the feet for balance and grounding. The final section will focus on developing fluidity and strength with the head, chest, and pelvis.

Anyone, regardless of fitness level or movement experience, can benefit from this comprehensive movement practice.

Mothers and Daughters: An Exploration in Communication, Identity, and Self-Esteem
Bonnie Mark & Loren Judaken

All women become like their mothers. That is their tragedy. No man does. That's his.

—Oscar Wilde

"The lives of mothers and daughters are inextricably interwoven," writes Bonnie Mark. "This relationship has a profound influence on us both throughout the tapestry of our lives. The choices we make and the paths we take are deeply affected by the insight we have about ourselves, our childhood, and our parents. Becoming aware of the roots of these choices can be a lifelong process."

This workshop offers mothers and daughters opportunities for self-exploration and opening modes of creativity through a variety of experiential interactions. Group process will focus on resolving conflict and power struggles, negotiating interpersonal boundary difficulties, and improving communication between parents and children, leading toward development of identity and enhancement of self-esteem. Self-reflection, assessment of objectives, and creative journalizing will be used to facilitate insight-oriented self-growth. Reflection on family expectations, obligations, and our unique styles of accepting, challenging, and rebelling will also be addressed in the context of the women's roles—past, present, and future.

The workshop is open to all women who want insight into their roles as daughters and/or mothers. Women coming alone to work on these issues are welcome and will be able to participate fully.

Believe I'll Sing: Singing in the African-American Tradition
Ysaye Barnwell & George Brandon

Everyone can sing. Each and every voice has a contribution to make in building a vocal community. This workshop is an introduction to the harmonies, melodies, rhythms, countermelodies, and vocal styles of the African-American tradition. Using the rich musical forms of this tradition—calls and chants, spirituals, ring shout, hymns, gospels, songs of the civil rights movement, and songs of contemporary struggle—participants will build a community of voices and spirit during a week of heartfelt music-making.

Week of May 4–9

Apprenticeship to the Earth—Return to Sacred Ground
David Schiffman & Little Bear Nason

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 72.
As an introduction to the songs, the leaders will provide the historical, social, and political context for each of these musical forms. By participating in the songs and discussing their context, the group will explore from an African-American worldview the values embedded in the music, the role of cultural and spiritual traditions and rituals, how leadership emerges and can be shared among community members, and the significance of shared communal experience in one's personal life.

Ysaye Barnwell is a member of the a cappella group, Sweet Honey In The Rock. George Brandon is a musician and composer. No experience is necessary. All that is required is a willingness to participate as fully possible.

$L795

Lomi Somatic Intensive: An Active Exploration of Presence
Robert Sanoff & Johanna Putnoi

You have slept for millions and millions of years. Why not wake up this morning? — Kabir

“The awareness we bring to each moment is the key to our deep freedom,” write the leaders. “Most of us get stuck in habits of body, heart, and mind. These habits are unconsciously formed in our family of origin and become etched onto our essential infrastructure. This matrix imprints on our body language, our emotional climate, and our state of mind, ultimately creating our worldview. Unexamined belief clouds the reality of each moment, and we become prisoners in a body/mind cell.

“In this workshop, awareness, presence, and practice will be our lanterns. We will use meditation, conscious movement, breath awareness, informed touch, and principles from aikido and gestalt as ways to experience ourselves richly and to participate with integrity, courage, and gentleness.

“The Esalen environment is a beautiful laboratory in which to practice interrupting our habits and expanding our capacity to tolerate deep feeling. The greater our commitment to the process, the more intrinsic the change. The real challenge of our time together, however, will be to discover how to bring our embodied insights home.”

$L795
Exquisite Landscape/Exquisite Corpse: Expanding Perception through Collaborative Drawing

Holly Sumner & Hanno Ahrens

In the 1920s the Surrealists played a parlor game of images, words, and chance. The game is played with three or more people, each adding an image, or word(s), without knowing—the paper is folded to hide the image—what the other has drawn. In the end the paper is unfolded to reveal the complete image. “The exquisite corpse will drink the new wine” was the result of one of the first games played.

More than just a parlor game, this process can open up new possibilities for drawing, creativity, and perceiving art. Participants will create their own “exquisite corpse” to explore the irrational creativity of a group and the energy given and received by each individual in the process. There will be a focus on the individual’s ability to expand his/her perception in terms of what is seen and learned from these unconscious collaborations. The human body will be examined and drawn as a metaphor for landscape—Esalen’s landscape, imaginary landscape, internal and psychological landscape. The work created can cultivate a sense of oneness with the environment and stimulate a redefinition of one’s relationship to the landscape.

The workshop will consist of sessions of collaborative drawing, individual drawing based on the collaborations, discussion, and a final large-scale collaborative drawing. $795

The High-Performance Mind: Awakened Mind Brainwave Training

Anna Wise

The high-performance mind is clearer, sharper, and more flexible. Emotions are more available and easier to transform, and information flows more easily between the conscious, subconscious, and unconscious levels, increasing intuition, insight, and empathy.

Having a high-performance mind means being able to enter at will the state of consciousness most beneficial for any given circumstance—then understanding how to use that state. Through brainwave training for beta, alpha, theta, and delta, this workshop will teach you how to produce the components for an awakened mind, the brainwave pattern of peak experience, optimum creativity, and high spiritual awareness. Working with both the state and the content of consciousness, you can learn to use these brainwaves to develop a high-performance mind for self-healing, dealing with emotional issues, increasing creativity, improving relationships, and developing greater self-knowledge and awareness.

Biofeedback monitoring combined with meditation, visualization, and deep psychophysiological relaxation will help you learn how to master your own states of consciousness. The Mind Mirror EEG will be used to demonstrate brainwave patterns, and Electrical Skin Resistance Meters will be used to measure the depth of arousal and relaxation of your autonomic nervous system, illuminating the inter-relationship between your body and your mind.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. $795

Courage

Joyce Frazee

“In the mouth of the dragon there are many jewels.” —Buddhist Proverb

For some of us it takes courage just to live our daily lives. Every day we awaken to face the demons in our lives—demons that come in many forms: perfectionism, guilt, avoidance, shame, despair, failure. Time passes and we become skilled at living despite the constant awareness that these demons are preventing us from experiencing the fullness of life. Their existence drains our energy and limits our joy and freedom. But getting close to them, allowing ourselves to confront them, is very difficult to do.

This week will give us an opportunity to find the courage to face our demons. Participants will be encouraged to look at the things in their lives that are difficult to face and will be given support to help recognize and confront them. This will be done through gestalt practice, dreamwork, and bioenergetics. Drawing, dance, and meditation may also be used to recover the jewels from the dragon. $795

Rowing Toward God: Angels, Powers, and the Ecstatic Journey to Our Souls

Sophy Burnham

From time immemorial people have recorded their mystical experiences: raptures, ecstasies, angels, miracles, visions, dreams, and the curious coincidences that allow us to glimpse past the curtains that hide the Secret Realms. The spiritual has inspired the prophets, created new religions, and led ordinary people to extraordinary, sometimes miraculous achievements. The mystical can also carry us into a gradual and profoundly joyful self-realization, giving birth to clarity, creativity, and bliss.

Today more and more people are having mystical encounters that once seemed the privilege of saints alone. Are they real? What is happening?

Sophy Burnham writes: “This workshop provides space for moving individually and collectively toward the higher planes to heal ancient wounds and discover the source of our being, our missions, and the spiritual guides who lead us. The sessions will introduce specific exercises, meditation, dance, music, and private journeying intended to open us to the angels that surround us, the secrets of our hidden selves, ecstasies, and the highest levels of wisdom, freedom, creativity, and love.”

As time permits, a number of private “readings” may be arranged. These are energy readings, made through contact with your angels and spirit guides.

Recommended reading: Burnham, A Book of Angels, Angel Letters, and The President’s Angel; William James, Varieties of Religious Experience. $795

Weekend of May 9-11

Practical Herbology: An Esalen Garden Workshop

Jeanine Pollak

This workshop is an in-depth presentation of thirty useful plants growing fresh in the Esalen garden. It includes how to identify, prepare, and formulate these plants according to the medicinal, nutritional, and cosmetic aspects of each.

Using the garden as a classroom, participants will learn to make fresh tinctures, sun teas, herbal oils, and liniments. The workshop will cover herbal formulas for common colds, flus, sore throats, headaches, digestion, and respiration. It will draw from modern scientific research and herbal pharmacology, as well as from tradition and folklore, to explore the uses and energetics of each plant. Handouts, recipe sheets, and species lists will be included, plus a variety of homemade herbal products for sampling.
This workshop is designed to broaden herbal perspectives, to contact plants in many forms, and to provide a wide diversity of approaches to working with herbs.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

$425

The Sources of Growth

Seymour Carter

Many potential sources of our growth reside in our unfinished issues, the developmental processes that we have failed to recognize and assimilate because of distressing life experiences or the inability to learn about them. “Unfinished issues” refers to normal phases of development which have been bypassed or ignored. It is unfortunate but true that most families emphasize some of our attributes and ignore or discourage others. These unclaimed potential talents, tendencies, and traits are a powerful reservoir within us waiting to be tapped.

Using a primarily gestalt-oriented process, supported by the tools of family systems theory, practices of introspection, and body-oriented intervention strategies, participants can begin to discover and utilize capacities in themselves for new possibilities in their lives. Each participant’s process of development will be honored, encouraged, and treated as unique.

$425

Intuition and Perception: Extending the Boundaries

Keith Harary & Darlene Moore

Most of us have had experiences in which we appeared to be aware of information that was not immediately available to our five familiar senses. Such experiences usually emerge spontaneously and can range from simple hunches to feeling in touch with a loved one at a distance to premonitions in which we seem to be inexplicably aware of impending events. Labeling these experiences “psychic” does not explain them, but makes this fundamentally normal aspect of human awareness appear to be some sort of occult or supernatural process. Yet such experiences most likely emerge from an interconnectedness between consciousness and the physical world that is entirely natural.

This workshop will present techniques of extended perception to allow this capacity to become a consciously available resource in your everyday life, rather than a strictly spontaneous phenomenon. Starting with the basics of learning how to manage mental impressions, participants will practice separating their most relevant feelings and images from various forms of “mental noise” in a variety of extended perception scenarios. A more advanced technique that involves using your own “mental noise” to help guide your intuition will also be taught so you can develop your own inner language for processing intuitive information. Additional exercises will focus on exploring techniques for inducing lucid dreams and out-of-body experiences and for consciously connecting with the broader perceptual continuum that lies just beyond the threshold of ordinary awareness.

$425

Feng Shui, Chi, and Successful Living: In Search of Harmony and Balance

Steven Post

The Wind is mild, the Sun shines. The Water is clear, the vegetation lush.

From this ancient Chinese poem (which describes desirable living conditions) arises the image of perfect harmony between heaven, human being, and earth embodied in a place. In such a place, the Chi, the vital energy of nature and being, gathers and collects, bringing peace, joy, and blessings.

Feng Shui, the Chinese art of placement, seeks to establish such a harmony in our living and working environments. It is the art of balancing the yang of people with the yin of place.

Our environment is a reflection of our psychological and spiritual state. As such, it is a wonderful tool to understand ourselves, and a powerful place to intervene to create harmony and balance.
This workshop is an introduction to this ancient tradition that can teach you to express your spiritual practice through your surroundings. The topics covered will include site assessment, placement, meditation practices, empowerment techniques, and holistic healing methods. Feng Shui can help you to enhance your home or workplace to the benefit of your career, health, relationships, and wealth. It is a practice for transforming your inner life and outer circumstances. $425

Week of May 11-16

Yoga: The Art of Living
Ganga White & Tracey Rich

Yoga is far more than a set of physical exercises, although that alone would make it an extraordinary practice. It is an art of living, a process of reintegration and movement into wholeness. The beauty of Yoga is that it addresses all areas of our lives. These five days will be spent cultivating physical, mental, and spiritual rejuvenation. The goal will be to assist beginners as well as experienced Yoga students in finding the tools and the inspiration for learning a lifelong practice.

Days will begin with a flowing Hatha Yoga sequence combining asana (posture), pranayama (breath control), and meditation to condition the whole person and develop strength, flexibility, and vitality. Participants will be shown how to integrate this practice into their daily lives, making it practical and accessible as well as joyful and creative. There will be discussion and inquiry into such topics as: the latest principles of natural diet and nutrition, aligning and restructuring the body, awakening the body's intelligence, working with the breath and subtle energies, and freeing the mind from authoritarian gurus and sacred cows. The workshop will also look at the areas of meditation, love, freedom, and death.

All levels welcome, no previous experience needed. $795

Meeting the Challenge of the New Business Paradigm
Bill Sechrest, Linda Crompton & Ron Loeb

We and our planet are threatened by forces whose magnitude and complexity have never before been experienced. Simultaneously, we have the promise of a new consciousness using our human and natural resources and burgeoning technology for our betterment. There is no doubt that business is an essential participant in the transformative work which will successfully cope with these forces and realize this promise. The challenge of this new business paradigm is to assume a sense of responsibility for the whole, while continuing to operate effectively and produce a fair return to investors.

This workshop will gather entrepreneurs, executives, managers, and consultants to pursue all of the frustrations, fears, and feelings of helplessness they encounter in their attempts to bring soul and spirit into business. It is designed as a forum to delve deeply into the most challenging issues in starting, growing, or preserving an enterprise; functioning in a highly competitive, and, at times, unkind business environment; and achieving the double bottom line of profitability and social responsibility. It will draw upon whole systems theory, case histories of best business practices, personal experience, and "success stories," together with poetry, music, meditation, and deep dialogue in addressing the personal issues which participants are willing to share with the group. The only prerequisites are honesty and a willingness to "go deeper" in a safe and nurturing environment. $795

Living with a Life-Threatening Illness: The Spiritual Journey
Phyllis Shankman

This is a spiritually-based workshop for people living with a life-threatening illness (such as HIV/AIDS or cancer) who are committed to living a quality existence each day, deepening their spiritual practice, and honoring themselves. At the time of diagnosis or the onset of symptoms, many people begin a deep inner spiritual inquiry and journey. This journey often becomes the focal point of their life as they heroically face the unknown and address the daily challenges as well as the "unfinished business" of their life.

The program includes meditation, body awareness practices, movement, art, poetry, music, ritual, and group process sessions. It is designed to offer participants an opportunity to creatively explore their feelings—about themselves, their illness, and their relationships—with others who can offer support, inspiration, hope, and encouragement.

This program is offered by the staff of the Mountains AIDS Foundation in Santa Monica, Calif., who have developed a retreat program for people living with the challenge of a life-threatening illness. The workshop is only open to participants with a diagnosed illness and their significant partners or family members. Partners or family members may attend only with the person living with the illness.

Enrollment in this workshop is limited. To become eligible, a written medical evaluation from your primary physician along with a completed application will be required. For complete information and to receive an application, please contact Phyllis Shankman at 310-355-2491.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $795

Being Single
Seymour Carter & Constance Jones

A positive self-image does not necessarily depend upon being in a partnership. However, being single in a partnership-oriented world can create low self-esteem. Is being single a conscious or subconscious choice, a trick of fate, a lack of opportunity, or a valuable state of being? Changing our belief systems about the meaning of being single offers new understanding and opportunity for living a more fulfilled single life, in either openness for future relationships or contentment in being single.

In this workshop, participants will explore blocks to personal growth and opportunities for new relationships, using gestalt methods and interactive processes including role-playing, massage, and communication skills. Whether you wish to remain single or are searching for a partner, this workshop will assist you with your choices and ease you on down the road. $795

Weekend of May 16-18

Joy is the Journey: Hatha Yoga and More
Lilias Folan

Join Lilias Folan, host of the PBS series "Lilias, Yoga & You," for a weekend of yoga and relaxation. In her compassionate teaching style, Lilias will guide participants in learning fresh ways to move, meditate, and breathe—with special focus on the art of relaxation. There will be time for stillness and time for high play. Sunday morning (weather permitting), as the sun rises, participants will gather to "Greet the Day in a Sacred Way."
Open your heart, mind, and spirit with a journey through your closest natural environment—your own body! Li lia will share her spiritual journey and practical ways to weave yoga practice into your daily life.

All levels of expertise are welcome. Please wear comfortable clothes and bare feet, and bring your own mat. Registration will be limited to 35 participants. $425

In Search of the Secret of Joy
Andrew Feldmar
Andrew Feldmar writes: "Alice Walker says, 'Resistance is the secret of joy!' Resistance to what? To tyranny external or internal; to coercion blatant or subtle; to domination/submission, however disguised. We will look for the courage needed to be truthful, to be generous, to be a friend, to enjoy sex, to engage in congenial conversation. We will attempt to move from coercion through freedom to love, i.e., from oppression/depression through autonomy to communion.

"The group will have one rule only: If anyone feels uncomfortable with what is going on, (s)he can say Stop, and we'll stop. Otherwise, anything goes. Whatever is not prohibited is allowed. Prohibitions will be arrived at as part of group process.

"The workshop is based on the premise that what we may call our 'problems' do not originate within us, but are the result of living, from conception until death, in a field of power and relationship. The work will be an exploration through group process to find comfort, clarification, and the use of all of our available powers and resources." $425

Big Sur Wilderness Experience
Steven Harper
Located on a narrow stretch of land between the Pacific Ocean and the coastal ridge of the Santa Lucia Mountains, Esalen is the trailhead to one of the world's most spectacular wilderness areas. Using this natural reserve as the primary teacher, participants will walk into the Los Padres National Forest. Drawing on various traditions, this wilderness experience will help participants develop the quality of their awareness and open to the natural world.

Weeklong workshops will venture out on five hikes (4-10 miles long). Weekend workshops will take two hikes (3-6 miles long). Using Esalen as a base camp, the group will explore different trails through the natural beauty of the Big Sur backcountry. Days will begin and end at Esalen with short stretching and sharing sessions. Each hike will begin after breakfast and conclude in time to enjoy the hot springs and dinner each evening at Esalen. Basic outdoor skills such as map reading and minimum impact concepts will be practiced. Participants will be taught enough skills to begin exploring the wilderness on their own after these outings. More information will be sent upon registration. $425

The Profound Stillness of Being: Advaita Meditation
Olga Luchakova & Igor Kungurtsev
Olga Luchakova writes: "The teaching of Advaita Vedanta became known to wider circles of Western seekers largely through the grace of Sri Ramana Maharshi, Sri Nisargadatta Maharaj, and their modern successors. These sages reveal that in reality you are formless Consciousness/Energy, not a person as you thought yourself to be. One Infinite Consciousness exists eternally and the world is a dream-like appearance in it.

"Of course, intellectual knowledge of this truth is not enough. True freedom is realized only through direct experience. While informed seekers are familiar with direct silent transmission, it is less well known that Advaita also has special meditative approaches to Realization. This workshop will present these meditations that approach the different aspects of the One Supreme Self:

- Focusing on the sense of beingness: realizing you are pure Existence itself
- Differentiating the pure seer: realizing you are pure limitless Awareness
- Hunting the 'I': realizing you are not an individual entity
- Diving into pure longing: realizing you are Bliss itself
- Total surrender and relaxation: realizing you are not the doer

"All your questions and doubts are welcome so that they may become clear in the light of Consciousness." $425
Completions and Transitions
Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

Often in our lives we feel incomplete with the past. Unresolved issues inhibit our moving into the present with an open and generous heart. Though we experience them as “finished,” old memories continue to haunt us. When we exist more in the past than in the present, it is time to make the distinction between “finished” and “complete.” Transitions without completions foster unsuccessful marriages, friendships, and careers—producing the causes of illness and sorrow. The inability to forgive keeps us closed to new opportunities entering into our lives.

Transitions are crossroads in our lives that give us the opportunity to finish and complete the past, reconnect with our present truth, and renew our passion, courage, and commitment for the future. The focus of this workshop is an in-depth review of our lives, relationships, and circumstances to discover what needs to be transformed from “finished” to “complete.”

The workshop will provide a safe, supportive environment that includes risk-taking, intense bodywork, gestalt, imagery, movement, and meditation to keep us committed to the process of discovering ourselves.

C.E. credit is available for psychologists; see page 68. $795

Golf in the Kingdom: An Exploration of the Deeper Game
Stephen Cohen, Brian Bergstrom & Andy Nusbaum

Ye’ll come away from the links with a new hold on life, that is certain if ye play the game with all your heart.
—Michael Murphy (as Shivas Irons), Golf in the Kingdom

The game of golf provides many opportunities to enhance the journey of self-discovery. It can be experienced not only as an athletic endeavor, but also as a metaphor for the way one lives. Just as in life, issues of self-confidence, fear, trust, discipline, and awareness emerge in the conflict between the ego’s desire for success and the inner self’s ability to achieve.

During these five days, teaching methods gleaned from a study of the deeper game will be utilized, as well as principles from psychosynthesis and gestalt, to explore the inner self and how one interferes with its emergence. Two days will be spent on field trips to the Monterey Peninsula where participants will practice and play in some of the most beautiful golf country in the world. On other days there will be time to relax and enjoy the natural pleasures of Esalen and Big Sur.

Recommended reading: Murphy, Golf in the Kingdom; Callaway, The Inner Game of Golf; Shoemaker, Extraordinary Golf: The Art of the Possible.

$795

From Conflict to Partnership
Jim Tammi & Ron Luyet

This workshop is for people who want to be more effective at creating climates of trust and dealing with conflict—at home, at work, and within oneself. Many personal and business relationships become adversarial simply through a lack of conflict-resolution skills and self-awareness. This course will provide useful skills as well as a model explaining the fundamental emotional undercurrents that go on between oneself and others during conflict.

This work offers a combination of two powerful approaches to transform conflict into collaborative problem-solving. The first, interest-based nonadversarial negotiations, is well documented for dramatically reducing conflict in business, governmental, and interpersonal relationships. The second focuses on behaviors and feelings that can block resolution of conflicted situations. Participants will be shown how their often unconscious emotional needs in the areas of inclusion, control, and openness impact their effectiveness when dealing with conflict.

This course is not a series of techniques that promise “how to get yours and most of theirs, too.” It is skill-building to develop relationships for long-term mutual gains. The material will be of immediate use to individuals as well as those in interpersonal and work relationships, such as couples, families, team leaders and members, and employers and employees.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. Approved for MCLE credit by the State Bar of California in the amount of 18 hours. This activity conforms to the standards for approved education activities prescribed by the rules and regulations of the State Bar of California governing minimum continuing legal education. Approved by the California State Board of Accountancy for 18 hours of C.E. credit.

$795

“Look Mom, No Self!”—The Narcissistic Process in Spiritual Development
Alia Johnson

In spiritual practice and teaching, we commonly see the intensification of defensive ego structures. We might experience these intensified structures as barriers to openness and realization. We might, on the other hand, actually mistake the intensified ego structures as evidence of progress on one’s path. For example:

• A posture of superiority, even grandiosity, as certain openings enhance the sense of self—the phenomenon we call “Look Mom, no self!”
• A newly harsh self-judgment related to spiritual ideals, along with a sense of failure or deficiency
• An intensification of the need to idealize a guru or teacher
• Increased alienation from the “conventional” world
• Increasing splitting off of negativity in practices which emphasize love and positivity, increasing the likelihood of acting out suppressed negativity

These issues are related to how the narcissism of the ego-self is affected by spiritual work. This seminar will use the work of A.H. Almaas, creator of the Diamond Approach and author of the major work on narcissism on which this seminar is based, The Point of Existence.

The work will be half didactic, illuminating the relationships between various spiritual dimensions and the ego structures which are challenged by them. The experiential part will consist of interpersonal exercises, meditation, group discussion, and some process work with the teacher.

This is an advanced seminar for serious practitioners with some years of experience, or for teachers in any tradition who have interest in psychodynamic understanding. $795

Moving Through Idealization and Shame to Love: A Workshop for Gay Men
David Hawkins

David Hawkins writes: “Men who are homosexual (or bisexual) live in a bicultural world. Our personalities are shaped by the expectations and values of the culture into which we were born and those of the culture we may choose to join. In each culture certain aspects of our humanity are idealized while other aspects are shamed. Our lives and our options are limited or supported by the strategies we have developed to respond to idealization and shame.

"Each of us achieves a unique balance of adaptation/individuation, confrontation/capitulation, hiddenness/openness, coming out/passing. Since no lifestyle is inherently more honorable than another, each must be evaluated as to its costs and benefits to each individual's current developmental needs.

"Because loving relationships depend on knowing and being known, understanding and being understood, strategies for achieving the ideal and avoiding the experience of shame may actually be preventing us from reaching the love and intimacy we desire. This workshop is for men who are willing to risk and work together to create an environment in which the true self can be seen and heard."

Weekend of May 23-25

OpenMind Training: Innovations in Meditation and Mind/Body Healing

Ron Alexander

Learning to observe experience from a place of stillness enables one to relate to life without fear and clinging. One begins to accept pleasure and pain, fear and joy, and all aspects of life with increasing equanimity and balance. Life is seen as a constantly changing process.

— JACK KORNFIELD, Seeking the Heart of Wisdom

OpenMind Training provides instruction in meditation and mind/body healing from both a psychological and spiritual perspective. The focus is the practice, experience, and benefits of meditation and self-healing in daily life.

Meditation helps to cultivate self-regulation through relaxation and the development of attentional skills. Training in mind/body healing facilitates awareness of inner resources of the Core Self—trust, comfort, time, and curiosity—for the activation of the healthy and creative aspects of the unconscious mind. This promotes insight, wellness, and individuation.

Meditative techniques of the various Buddhist schools, particularly Tibetan and Zen, will be explored. Tibetan meditation uses mindfulness, insight, and visualization to activate physiological and psychological energies whose merger can produce powerful states of mind to penetrate into the reality of our being and experience.

Participants will also be taught various forms of breathing, chanting, trance states, and mind/body healing exercises. This workshop can help participants acquire skills to calm the mind, regulate affect states, develop trust with the unconscious, and explore inner healing resources. The workshop is designed for anyone from beginner to advanced.

Recommended reading: Goldstein & Kornfield, Seeking the Heart of Wisdom; Rossi, The Psychobiology of Mind-Body Healing.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $425

Green Buildings with Magical Spaces

Greg Franta

As our society pushes toward global environmental havoc, can we make a significant difference in the quality of our future? Can our communities become "green" enough to enable future generations to enjoy our planet in healthy, sustainable ways? This workshop will explore design strategies leading toward sustainable communities. Participants—whether homeowners, architects, educators, facility planners, executives, or concerned citizens of Earth—will have opportunities to discover a deeper awareness of the intrinsic relationship between people, nature, and technology.

The workshop will address our built environment and its growing impact on energy, health, pollution, natural resources, and social economics. Energy efficiency, natural lighting, and environmental quality in architecture will be extensively explored in regard to building design, form, envelope, interiors, materials, and lighting. The format will include slide presentations, a design studio individualized for participants with diverse interests, and time for personal adaptation and process.

Night Poetry: A Workshop on Dreaming

Kathleen Riorian Speeth

"Every night we dive deep into a vague and mysterious realm," writes Kathleen Speeth. "While our eyes move beneath their closed lids, we somehow compose works of art expressing our innermost mysteries. Dreams are poems full of elements saturated with..."
meaning, if only we knew how to wring the truth from them. There are big dreams that must be heeded and little dreams that recite stray memories. Some dreams are solemn announcements, some are masked desires, some are merely psychological litter that needs to be discarded, some are Rosetta stones, and—oh yes!—there are dreams like drowned cathedrals whose complex chambers and details could yield deep insights to be gained in no other way.

"Much has been said about the interpretation of dreams yet few actually have sufficient practice in understanding how to divine the meanings they at once reveal and conceal. This weekend will be devoted to intensive training in personal dream analysis to be used throughout life for the enhancement of self-awareness. Everyone will have a chance to explore their dreams in several ways. Even seasoned psychotherapists familiar with psychoanalytic methods proposed by Freud or the Gestalt enactments of Perls will be surprised by other approaches and strengthened by the long-neglected, far-reaching methods of Wilhelm Stekel. Everyone will go home with dreamwork practices that will support the still, small voice of the poet within."

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.

May 25–June 1

Cortical Reeducation® and the Feldenkrais Method®

Harriet Goslins

How a person sits, stands, or moves reflects patterns that are "wired in" to the nervous system. This information can be erased or changed. By reeducating the brain-muscle connection, restrictions in movement can be freed, freeing lifetime habits that have organized around that movement.

This work is a relearning of the ease and fluidity taken for granted as a child and lost somewhere along the way. Physical injury, emotional trauma, or ongoing stress all evoke a protective response from the body. These patterns remain when no longer needed, outside of awareness, and continue to cause discomfort and limitations. Freeing them results in relief of chronic pain or tightness and a higher energy level. By changing muscular holding patterns, the entire protective posture is altered, deeply affecting the body's habitual defense system. Thus, new movement possibilities mean new self-image possibilities.

Fears and anxieties have corresponding muscular habits. Verbal information or spiritual practice that fails to extinguish these habits may fail to eliminate the toxic behavior.

This workshop is for the sedentary or those dealing with after-effects of injuries; for chronically tired and stressed individuals who want to learn how to take better care of their neck, shoulders, and back; for those who are physically active and fit and want to increase their skills while learning to reduce risk or injury; and for those who want to improve their posture and breathing and live with more flexibility and comfort.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

$1220

Week of May 25-30

Healing Body Image and Sexuality

Carolyn Braddock & Guests

"Awakening from trauma," writes Carolyn Braddock, "is a statement of breathing life into the body through breath, sound, and movement." This workshop is for those who want to move beyond bodily and emotional trauma (sexual, physical, or spiritual trauma, surgeries, loss, illnesses, or accidents) to a positive image of self and sexuality.

The focus will be on participants establishing a new relationship with themselves, their bodies, and their sexuality, both internally and externally—releasing old messages and creating new patterns. Participants will explore the connection between sexuality and spirituality, allowing them to be more present in life while creating space for new life energies, passion, love, and movement.

Each body will be honored as sacred. Participants will be taught to listen to the wisdom of their bodies and develop positive approaches toward body awareness, change, health, and relationships. In a safe and supportive environment, the workshop will use breath, sound, movement, group process, humor, gestalt, imagery, journal work, creative expression, and body dialogue. Video analysis will also be employed. The goal will be empowerment and the integration of body, mind, and spirit into a healing self.

C.E. credit is available for psychologists; see page 68.

$795

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see January 17-19.

$425

Core Holoenergetics: The Art and Science of Conscious Healing

Leonard Laskow

Leonard Laskow is a Stanford-trained OB-GYN who coined the term holoenergetic healing, "healing with the energy of the whole." In this experiential workshop Dr. Laskow will introduce the art and science of "energy healing," present current research, and integrate the advances of medical science with the uniting power of a loving consciousness to heal and transform oneself.

Holoenergetics uses coherent heart-focused energy, consciously directed through attention, intention, imagery, breath, and hands to facilitate the inherent healing response of body and mind. Participants can learn to:

- Establish a healing presence in alignment with their spiritual essence
- Activate and direct the body's immune system to help transform illness into wellness
- Recognize, understand, release, and reform energy patterns that are sources of illness
- Employ healing practices based on resonant energy transfer, intention, insight, imagery, forgiveness, and love

In this Core Holoenergetics® Introductory workshop, theory will be integrated with practice so that participants can immediately begin using their inherent healing ability and new skills for personal transformation and to help others.
The Cosmic Game: Explorations of the Frontiers of Human Consciousness

Stanislav Grof with Cary & Tav Sparks

In nonordinary states of consciousness, people often encounter transpersonal experiences that bring profound philosophical and spiritual insights. These revolve around such fundamental problems of existence as the nature of reality, the mystery of the creative principle or God, the dynamics of the process of creation, the function of the archetypal realm, the dilemma of good and evil, the taboo against knowing who we are, the role of consciousness in the universe, the relationship between consciousness and matter, and the purpose and meaning of human life.

This workshop will explore the understanding of existence emerging from the study of nonordinary states theoretically and experimentally with the use of holotropic breathwork. The resulting insights will be compared with various spiritual and esoteric systems and with the revolutionary developments in Western science, usually referred to as the new paradigm. This seminar is based on the ideas explored in detail in Stan Grof’s forthcoming book of the same title.

Note: Participation in the experiential part of the workshop requires previous experience with holotropic breathwork in the workshops of any of the certified practitioners. Holotropic breathwork is an accelerated practice which may not be appropriate for everyone at a given time. Participation is inadvisable for those with cardiovascular diseases, generally debilitating physical conditions, recent injuries or operations, epilepsy, glaucoma, pregnancy, and a history of serious psychiatric problems.

$795

Holoenergetics® Level One Training

Leonard Lashow

Dr. Lashow writes: “This training, the first of a six-level Holoenergetic® practitioner program, is designed to empower you to transform and heal yourself and others through expanded awareness, love, and conscious choice.

“In this training (for which the Core Holoenergetics® Introductory weekend is a prerequisite), you will be shown a system of healing which can allow you to go beyond belief of symptoms to trace and unfold the fundamental sources of separation. As we bring ourselves into wholeness through love, the enormous energy we expend to maintain the illusion of separation is liberated. This energy can then be consciously directed to encourage our body’s natural healing response.

“Recent research reveals that deep compassion and love can produce distinctive electrophysiologic changes as measured by the electrocardiogram. This state of cardiac coherence characterizes the loving, healing presence, which, in conjunction with conscious choice and release of past conditioning, can profoundly facilitate enduring transformational change.”

In this workshop the focus will be on:
- The Holoenergetic® Tracing Process to unfold the sources of illness, suffering, and stress and energetically replace the dysfunctional patterns
- The Forgiveness Process—a powerful method of forgiving and releasing
- Expanding awareness of and alignment with your Transpersonal Self
- Aligning transpersonally with others to facilitate their healing
- Deepening and expanding your ability to detect and direct subtle energy
- Incorporating the principles of Holoenergetic® healing into your daily life so as to catalyze the integration of body, mind, and spirit.
Weekend of June 6-8

Introduction to Mindfulness Meditation
James Baraz
For workshop description see January 31-February 2.
C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

From the Congo to Dreamtime
Titos Sompa & Ione
Titos Sompa, master dancer, choreographer, and percussionist from the Congo and psychotherapist/author/director Ione collaborated on Ione's internationally acclaimed play Njinga the Queen King, which premiered at the Brooklyn Academy of Music's Next Wave Festival, and was most recently performed at New York's Lincoln Center.
Together they have created a workshop that teaches Congolese movement and rhythms while simultaneously accessing participants' deepest dream themes. A vocabulary of ancient Congolese movement will be created to assist participants in expressing the most important aspects of their inner journeys, discovered through overnight dream incubations and shamanistic journeying.
The workshop is open to all levels of experience.

Gestalt Practice
Dorothy Charles
The Way, when declared
Seems so thin and flavorless.
Nothing to look at, nothing to hear—
And when used—is inexhaustible.
—LAO Tzu
Gestalt practice is a form—nonanalytic, noncoercive, nonjudgmental—evolving out of the work of Fritz Perls. The work integrates ways of personal clearing and development that are both ancient and modern. To the extent that awareness is made primary relative to action, gestalt practice has a strong relationship to some forms of meditation and visualization. This form is similar to some Reichian work as well, in that emotional and energetic release and rebalancing are allowed and encouraged.
The emphasis is intrapersonal rather than interpersonal. It is explicitly understood that participants are not patients but persons actively consenting to work (or play) in awareness. The leader functions to reflect, clarify, and respect whatever emerges in this process. The aim is unfoldment, wholeness, and growth, rather than adjustment, cure, or accomplishment. Through group exercises, meditations, and open seat work, this workshop will introduce participants to the gestalt practice approach.
Recommended reading: Perls, Gestalt Therapy Verbatim; Chodron, The Wisdom of No Escape.
When a Mentor Fails You

George Lough

Many people seek a relationship with a mentor because they failed to get healthy support when growing up in their families. Thus they need the leadership and trusted help of an outside person, a wise counselor and guide who can aid them in dealing with life's difficulties. Unfortunately, some mentors, be they therapists, supervisors, professors, priests, or employers, violate boundaries, seeking to meet their own needs rather than those of the mentee. Such experiences can be abusive, leaving the recipient feeling confused and betrayed, with their functioning in life crippled rather than enhanced.

This workshop will help participants understand the nature of mentor relationships and what often goes wrong with them. It will also offer guidance for those who are mentors, alerting them to the pitfalls inherent in the role. Using writing exercises, dyads, and group discussion, participants will work on feelings of disillusionment, pain, and anger with the aim of finding ways to separate from abusive mentors and to move forward toward a greater connection with one's own inner mentor.

$425

Living with Breast Surgery: A Workshop for Women

Elaine Hughes & Ellen Watson

This workshop provides a safe, supportive environment for women who have had any kind of breast surgery—reductions, enlargements, lumpectomies, mastectomies, reconstructions. It is also appropriate for women who feel they have deep issues about their breasts.

Elaine and Ellen have spent years making peace with their own breast surgeries. They will share all that they have found helpful in their own search for wholeness. Through guided meditations, intensive writing, breath awareness, expressive movement, informal drawing, and improvisation, the workshop is designed to transform fears, inhibitions, and self-criticisms into empowering self-acceptance and self-expression. Participants will also spend time at the baths exploring the foundations of Esalen massage and learning specific touch for softening scar tissue which has formed on the body and the psyche.

If you're ready to confront and integrate your memories, feelings, and issues about your breasts, this workshop is designed for you. Come share your story in the presence of women who can listen with the compassionate understanding that only comes through shared experience.

Please bring a favorite journal and six assorted pens.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

$425

$795

Between Earth and Sky: Celestial Mathematics and Terrestrial Forces

Ralph Abraham & Ray Gwyn Smith

The leaders write: "Passing through the portals of pre-Celtic sacred geometry and the way of the bards, we will explore the vibrational resonance between Earth and Sky. Celestial mathematics and terrestrial forces will be our lodestars.

"Since the emergence of consciousness by starlight, mathematics has evolved in the intuitive space of spiritual harmony between the earth and sky. This seminar stands at the crossing of the celestial rays from the stars and the telluric forces of our earth, the path of the mathematician and that of the bard. In this crossing, a mysterious resonance has provided guidance since time immemorial."

"Join us in this resonant space between earth and sky. With poetry, story, personal mythology, and guided meditation, we will dive through the relatively opaque waters of the intellect to reenter the clear depths of primordial knowing."

$425

A Workshop for Women

Elaine Hughes & Ellen Watson

This workshop provides a safe, supportive environment for women who have had any kind of breast surgery—reductions, enlargements, lumpectomies, mastectomies, reconstructions. It is also appropriate for women who feel they have deep issues about their breasts.

Elaine and Ellen have spent years making peace with their own breast surgeries. They will share all that they have found helpful in their own search for wholeness. Through guided meditations, intensive writing, breath awareness, expressive movement, informal drawing, and improvisation, the workshop is designed to transform fears, inhibitions, and self-criticisms into empowering self-acceptance and self-expression. Participants will also spend time at the baths exploring the foundations of Esalen massage and learning specific touch for softening scar tissue which has formed on the body and the psyche.

If you're ready to confront and integrate your memories, feelings, and issues about your breasts, this workshop is designed for you. Come share your story in the presence of women who can listen with the compassionate understanding that only comes through shared experience.

Please bring a favorite journal and six assorted pens.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

$425

$795

Dreaming: The Magic Mirror that Never Lies

Jeremy Taylor

The basic language of dreams is symbol and metaphor. Dreams address everyone in essentially the same way, regardless of the uniqueness of our individual lives and circumstances.

Participants will share and work with their dreams, drawing on the mythological/archetypal images that shape our contemporary individual and collective lives. Although the focus will be dream interpretation in a collective context, the methods are designed to give participants the ability to engage in their own dreamwork upon returning home.

Everyone is welcome—those who are just beginning to explore the world of their dreams, as well as professionals who work with dreams. As Jeremy Taylor adds: "Only the dreamer can say with any certainty what meanings his or her dreams may hold: Dreamwork is one of the few activities that puts beginners and experts on an equal emotional footing from the outset."

$795
Feeding the Demons: The Chöd Teachings of Tibetan Buddhism

Tsultrim Allione

The model of the hero's journey is one of slaying the monster and protecting ourselves from demons. The Chöd teachings of Tibetan Buddhism present an alternative model: to feed and pay attention to what the demons need. These demons are often parts of ourselves we don't even see, but which have an undermining, "sickening" effect on our lives. Chöd is used for healing physical and mental disturbances, ending epidemics, and as a practice for realization.

Hearing about demons we might think, "This is a primitive belief which has nothing to do with me." But we all have our demons. Our world is riddled with disease, depression, abuse, addictions, and epidemic violence. Certain things "eat at us" or we are "plagued" by someone or something. Certain foods are "dangerous," as if they had a life of their own. These are our demons. Our hopes and fears create demons. They drain our lives of vitality, wreak havoc, and cause illness.

Usually we try to still the demons by ignoring them or trying to destroy them. This retreat offers an alternative: to look at the demons as forms of ego attachment and work with them as a path to liberation and an understanding of the nature of mind.

Please note: This retreat is taught in a traditional way with a Tibetan text, drum, and bell. It is not recommended for the simply curious; one should have some basis in meditation and be committed to learning the practice of Chöd.

$795

Hunting Power—Gathering Knowledge: A Workshop in Applied Shamanism

Hank Wesselman

Anthropologist Hank Wesselman has worked for twenty-five years with an international group of scientists investigating the mystery of human origins in East Africa's Great Rift Valley. In the 1970s, while doing fieldwork in southern Ethiopia, he began to experience spontaneous expanded states of awareness, similar to those of traditional shamans. In an attempt to understand this, he went beyond scholarly research into direct, personal contact with ancient methods practiced by tribal people for achieving mystical states. Years later, this search brought him face-to-face with a series of visionary encounters that form the core of the teachings in this workshop.

This workshop is an opportunity to gather in a focused group to experience shamanic journeys. It will be a time of hunting for power and gathering knowledge to increase spiritual, mental, and physical well-being, to establish expanded connections—with past and future, ancestors and descendants—and to build community. The workshop will also explore the evolution of shamanism with a slide presentation offering evidence of the prehistoric beginnings of this ancient spiritual tradition.

Although best suited for those with previous experience in shamanism who wish to deepen their search, this workshop is also a powerful introduction to those less familiar with the work. The most important requirement is to be open to challenge your perceptions of our world and reality.

Please note: Bring drums and rattles if you have them; a notebook and sketchpad; a bandanna or eyeshade; a small set of chalk or oil pastels; and a blanket.

Recommended reading: Wesselman, Spiritwalker: Messages from the Future. $795

Awakening Vision through Conscious Photography

Jeff Berner

Turn looking into really seeing—and snapshotting into fine photography. Whether you are starting out in photography or are an advanced beginner, you can explore nature, people, and wildlife through the "mirror with a memory." This workshop will show you how to follow the path of photography as a meditation, a hobby, and an art.

Jeff Berner's teaching style can help each individual discover his or her talent. Without technical jargon, he explains how to make your camera serve your personal vision.

Easy-going projects will include: The Psychology of Lenses, The Selective Eye (Composition), Depth of Field, A Still Life is Still Life, The Click that "Kills," Creative Accidents, Visual Meditation, and Expressions of Color. There will be creative group critiques of each participant's work. The class will shoot and talk by day, and show-and-tell by night. The group will go on nonstrenuous photo safaris, including a morning at Pfeiffer Beach. The workshop will emphasize the use of color slide film so participants can see their day's work projected with music on an eight-foot-wide screen each evening. What is taught can be fully applied to your future print and slide photography.

$795

Weekend of June 13-15

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see January 17-19. $425

Weekend Massage Intensive

Ellen Watson & David Streeter

For workshop description see March 28-30. C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $425
Facing Death: Meeting Ourselves in the Care of the Dying

Frank Ostaseski

In facing death directly, we have the opportunity to come fully into life. Whether making the bed or confined to it, we contact the same precarious nature of this life, and so come to appreciate its preciousness. It is a time of aliveness.

This workshop explores a mindful and compassionate approach to caring for those with life-threatening illness. Drawn on the experience of the Zen Hospice Project, an innovative model of conscious care, the aim is to demystify the care-giving process, investigate our own response to suffering, and clarify our intention in service.

The workshop will introduce traditional meditation practices of awareness, impermanence, and forgiveness; provide exercises designed to explore loss and accumulated grief; and discuss the importance of "mutual benefit" in care giving. Through silence, storytelling, and the collective wisdom of the group, participants will discover ways of encouraging innate generosity and developing the skillful means necessary to stay present in difficult or impersonal care-giving situations.

The workshop offers renewal and a fresh perspective on service to professionals or individuals caring for friends or family. All are invited—those caring for people with AIDS and cancer are particularly encouraged to attend.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $425

The Visionary Life

Robert Maurer

In the past, psychology's usefulness has traditionally been limited by its focus on people with problems. Recent studies, however, have centered on those who have succeeded in the major challenges of life, from vocation to relationships. How did they achieve and sustain success? Current research has provided surprising insights into the pursuit of success.

This weekend program explores one of the key attributes common to all successful people: vision—the clear sense of purpose that guides and sustains actions and emotions, particularly during times of crisis. During these challenging times, people of vision and commitment are extraordinary and essential. What are the skills of the visionary and how are these skills developed and maintained? This program will not only provide the remarkable research findings but will demonstrate these qualities in filmed and live interviews.

The quest for a visionary life is a journey that each of us is capable of. The focus of this workshop will be on creating vivid dreams, discovering the path to get there, and finding the courage to travel the road.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $425
Powerfully Presenting Yourself
Paula Shaw

Why are some people so cogent and inspiring when they speak? What holds you back from delivering your message? This workshop will explore the inhibitions to self-expression and communication and help you to move beyond them, creating more freedom in both your personal and professional life. It is designed for people who want to develop a more powerful personal and public presentation as well as better professional and business communication skills (e.g., lawyers, doctors, teachers, managers, and consultants).

In an environment of safety and support, you will have the opportunity to experiment with presenting yourself in front of various-sized groups, using your voice, body, and emotional power. There will be in-depth individual and group exercises designed to free you from past blocks to presenting yourself publicly.

Up-front courage, passion, and clarity need not be restricted to rare moments in life. This process can help bring to life the eloquent speaker of your fantasies. You can learn to express yourself more fully and experience the satisfaction of being more authentic, effective, and self-assured.

$425

Week of June 15–20

The Good Life: Simple Secrets, Seasoned Wisdom, Sacred Vows
David Schifflman & Susan Kuttner

The leaders write: “This workshop is intended for people who appreciate and are seeking the wisdom, courage, and patience necessary to live a heartfelt life. Our aim will be to develop further what makes us adept and masterful at maintaining the soulful, romantic, and creative aspects of our lives. Our studies will focus on how to survive and thrive amidst the everyday practicalities and demands, how to face the fires of change in our work and relationships with potency, resourcefulness, and originality.

“We will gather together to create an emotional climate that encourages honest, thorough self-reflection, a simple mood of plain talk from the heart, and the right to live freely and naturally in our own skins and with each other.”

“A rich variety of attunement practices will be used to heal, reveal, and restore ourselves. Sources ranging from ancient to modern, involving those of touch, movement, breath, emotional release, meditation, music, and ceremony will be employed to break new ground for our hopes and dreams. Our intention will be to make manageable promises to ourselves—promises we can keep—based on clear personal vision and a balanced appreciation for passion and reason.”

$795

Mountains and Waves: Wilderness and Continuum
Steven Harper & Susan Harper

Nature is a primary teacher of movement, creativity, and awareness. Being outdoors in the richness and beauty of the natural world awakens our senses to the world around us. Continuum movement takes us inward, heightening the awareness of our inner experience. These five days will combine both practices, integrating the subtle inner explorations that Continuum movement inspires with the activity of day-hiking in the magnificent Big Sur backcountry.

The day-hikes will introduce participants to basic and increasingly refined awareness practices to enhance their sensitivity to all that wilderness and being out-of-doors offers. In so doing, not only will there be contact with the natural world but there will be opportunity to reawaken those elements of wilderness within.

In the indoor sessions, participants will explore movements which express and embody what they have taken in during their walks, enlivening their ability to feel what they see in nature as well as their own inner nature. Engaging with this sensual environment, the group will play with movement, breath, sound, dreams, and ritual.

This will be a time for contact with nature and wilderness, inside and out. Participants need not have previous experience in hiking or dance.

$795
A Potter's View of the Universe: Big Sur Clay
Noel Mapstead & Keiko Suga
This unique pottery workshop is an alchemical blend of four basic elements: Earth, Water, Fire, and Fun. Imagine yourself engrossed in:
- Primordial Big Sur clay oozing between your fingers
- Pottery making on a Pacific beach
- Nights around fires of glowing cow dung, seaweed, and clay
- Making beads in the dark of a Native American sweat lodge
- Slathering your body in wet clay and bathing in Esalen's hot springs

Starting with ostensibly valueless natural materials, participants will learn to fashion valued objects within a group setting designed to cultivate creative experimentation, human transformation, and environmental awareness. The group will be taught to identify, gather, and prepare naturally occurring clays; to use hand-building pottery methods; and to work with traditional firing techniques, skills which can all be used anywhere on earth.

No previous experience is required. This workshop is a total immersion into the potter's world—and a chance to make beautiful objects for those you love. $795

Weekend of June 20–22
Vision Painting
Helen Jerene Malcolm
Vision painting is a nonverbal gestalt experienced via color, light, and form. It is a subtle process exposing the conditioned mind and its limitations. In an atmosphere of exploration and acceptance you are encouraged to suspend judgment, enabling the creative impulse to play, take risks, and face fears. The resulting paintings become a visual journal of your stream of consciousness.

Prompted by visualization, meditation, music, and movement, expression is evoked from the feeling centers, through the hand, and onto paper. Your intuitive voice is encouraged to uncover a source of wisdom reflected in the impulse desiring expression. Beyond the rational mind, from deeper levels of motivation, the painting seemingly paints itself and reveals its message.

Embarking consciousness through your work permits a look at the life you create for yourself physically, spiritually, and professionally. Your vision paintings become a treasure map of your life where change and healing are affirmed. This is a transformative adventure in personal creativity. It is also fun and profoundly educational.

Those who are sure they can't paint, beginners, and artists are all welcome. $425

Yoga Works: Tools for Well-Being
Maty Ezraty & Chuck Miller
Yoga is an ancient system that uses the body, breath, and mind to energize and transform all aspects of living. It is not only an excellent source of physical exercise, but a unique and powerful tool for self-realization. The practice of yoga can help release blocks that cause mental and physical pain and prevent us from knowing our divine nature. It is also a great way of dealing with the stress of daily living.

The invigorating effects of yoga become readily apparent as the body opens and stretches. Breath is the link between mind and body, and various breathing methods will be taught to help reduce tension and cleanse the system. The serenity and clarity that is the goal of yoga will be sought through meditation exercises that calm and focus the mind. Yoga philosophy and theory will be discussed, as well as nutrition and its role in overall physical health.

All levels are welcome and no prior experience is required, only an adventurous spirit. For further information contact the leaders at 310-393-5150. $425

Close Yet Free: Keeping a Good Relationship Alive
Gerald Smith
How can we be open and vulnerable in order to love another person, yet at the same time free in order to continue to grow as an individual? The balance of merging and still maintaining a strong sense of self is never completely worked out, because each partner is continually changing. But this dilemma of competing needs can be dealt with in ways that will add to the aliveness in the relationship.

Much of the participants' time during this weekend will be spent with their partners, separate from other couples. The workshop will use verbal, nonverbal, and written exercises to enhance openness, support, and affection, as well as skills to resolve differences in ways that do not produce "scar tissue." Also, since play is an essential part of keeping a relationship alive, there will be experiences to spark the imagination and willingness to play together.

Enrollment is limited to 12 couples. $425 per participant

Models of the Ineffable: Kabbalah, Practical Alchemy, and Western Science
Mira Zussman & Christina Carmines
At the crossroads of magic, science, and religion, equivalent principles operate. Practical alchemy, kabbalah, and Western science are rooted in the same fundamental concepts despite our thinking of them as distinctly different cosmologies.

This workshop will explore the origins, theory, and practice of these traditions as well as the intersections between them. Participants will enter into the four alchemical elements (fire, water, air, and earth), the tetragrammaton (the four Hebrew letters that form the name of God), the four fundamental physical forces (electromagnetic, gravitational, strong, and weak), and more—thereby returning to the building blocks of Creation itself. The workshop will provide not only an introduction to these multiple ways of knowing, but also a way to integrate them in our understanding and experience of nature.

The weekend will include an animated mixture of discussion and experiential exercises. $425

Change Your Handwriting, Change Your Life
Vimala Rodgers
Handwriting is much more than a style of penmanship. It is a road map to the psyche, a clear path through the winding labyrinth of our personality. It acts as a witness, indicating quite impartially where we are hiding our inborn talents, abilities, and dreams. Says Vimala Rodgers, "In the hundreds of thousands of handwriting samples I have studied, I have not seen a single one that reflected 'fear of failure.' Not one. I have, however, seen hundreds of thousands that were embedded with 'fear of success.' My goal in working with people is to give them permission to uncover and embrace their unique abilities, discover their purpose, and to enter into life as a courageous adventurer rather than a mystified bystander. By banishing fear-based writing patterns and introducing self-affirming ones, this process is set in motion."

This workshop is gentle in its approach, and alive with compassion, fun, and respect for the human condition. It focuses on establishing an unquestioned sense of self-worth and on giving participants access to their hidden dreams, life purpose, and personal inner vision.

Recommended reading: Rodgers, Change Your Handwriting, Change Your Life.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

---

June 22-29

Gestalt Practicum

Christine Stewart Price & Guest Leaders

This workshop is designed for people who would like to further explore the gestalt practice form in theory as well as through personal experience. It is especially appropriate for those in the helping professions, such as counselors, bodyworkers, and teachers, who are interested in integrating this approach into their current practice. The format will include open seat sessions with the leaders, structured exercises where participants work with each other, didactic presentation, and discussion.

The prerequisite for admission into the workshop is previous participation in a workshop specifically in gestalt practice led by one of the Esalen gestalt staff (Eric Erickson, Christine Price, or Joyce Lyke). Otherwise you may send a letter of application to Christine Price, 31 Onyx Street, Larkspur, CA 94939, and will be considered if there is space available.

Recommended reading: Perls, The Gestalt Approach and Eyewitness to Therapy; Heider, The Tao of Leadership; Ram Dass & Gorman, How Can I Help?

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

$425

---

Week of June 22-27

ISHTA: The Yoga of Empowerment

Rod Stryker

For workshop description see January 24-26.

$795

Forgiveness: The Key to Intimacy

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

All life is about relationships. Creating an alive and honest connection with an intimate partner requires us to go deeply into our hearts and allow the courageous self to emerge. This journey to intimacy begins with the path of forgiveness. How does forgiveness lead to intimacy? How does forgiveness lead to healing?

- It allows us to let go of anger, resentment, and grief.
- It allows the agitated mind to move more deeply into the healing heart.

$1220
• It resolves separation from ourselves and from others
• It allows us to give up inflicting punishment on ourselves and others
• It allows us to complete unfinished business

The workshop will present ways to help complete the past, be open to the present, and create the future. It will offer a safe, supportive environment that will include taking risks, intense bodywork, gestalt imagery, dance, and meditation to support the commitment to the process of discovering ourselves.

This workshop can be especially helpful for those dealing with boundary issues, the effects of a dysfunctional family life, or addictions that have been used as a defense against intimacy. It is appropriate for everyone, whether in a good relationship or troubled, as a couple or alone, mother, father, daughter, or son, or in the healing professions.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. $795

Nada Brahma: The World is Sound
Bhagavan Das
This workshop introduces Nada Brahma, the Path of Ecstatic Devotion, an exploration into devotional music and the landscape of consciousness. It will present ancient sacred Sanskrit mantras that have been used for thousands of years for healing through sound, intuition, and chanting.

“We will explore and discover the special natural voice that is within each of us,” writes Bhagavan Das. “As we sing and chant the divine mantras repeatedly, the rhythm and melody fan the emotions, which creates a heightened ecstasy that leaves the mind behind and brings pure stillness of heart. In this stillness, you will discover other ways of meditating on breath.”

Workshop participants will be instructed in the Indian musical scale and how each note stimulates a different chakra, using ancient “seed” syllables to experience different ways of entering divine sound.

“We will chant,” adds Bhagavan Das, “to experience the White Goddess, Saraswati, the Mother of Sound and the teacher of musical form.” $795

Turning On the Light: A Choice to Live Consciously
Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita) & Guests
In the sunlight of awareness, each thought and action becomes sacred.

—THICH NHAT HANH

Laura DeNuccio writes: “To live fully in the present moment, deeply in touch with life, is a choice each individual can make—one breath at a time. This week we will honor, empower, and celebrate each person as we explore what it means to live fully moment to moment. Choices can emerge as we ask: What would you love to see in your life? What matters most to your heart? What is truly of value?”

“Through the creative use of breath, sound, movement, and visioning, we can awaken and remember what our spirit longs to express. Guided meditations will be introduced to increase body awareness and aliveness, to dissolve and balance energetic blockages, and to quiet, still, and expand the mind. Personal growth, self-care, and integral practices for daily living will be offered for increasing mindfulness, self-knowledge, and responsibility.

“Emphasis will be on cultivating compassion, honesty, and kindness as we align with our own truths in relation to others and the preciousness of our true nature by developing the masks of our personality and body armor. Eventually, we identify with these masks, thereby forgetting our essence.

In this workshop, powerful yet simple art processes are used as a means of unmasking the radius of who we truly are. This journey begins with the creating and painting of our mask; its inside represents our true nature, the outside represents the persona we formed to protect it. Through the incorporation of movement, drawings, interactive exercises, as well as meditation and practices of presence, we can then see and feel the constraining character of our shadow and its reflection in our body armor. The theories of Jung, Reich, and Almaas will further illuminate how our masks function and will point to the means of becoming liberated from them. The week culminates in a sacred mask ritual in which each participant enacts what is needed for his or her journey of return from personality to essence.

This workshop is recommended for those who are ready to shake loose their encumbering masks/identities in a supportive and creative setting which encourages the unfolding of their true being. $795

Unmasking the True Self
Charles Miedzinski

In order to survive we learn to protect the 870

Earth. Through attunement with the natural world—gentle nature walks and light hikes in Big Sur—we can deepen our capacity to listen to our innate wisdom. The group will experiment with co-creating community, an environment of trust and acceptance, as we reclaim our wholeness/holiness as human beings making choices to live fully.”

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $795

Weekend of June 27-29

The Ultimate Yes
George Leonard

Life has one ultimate message, “Yes!”, repeated in infinite number and variety. Human life, channeled for millennia by Civilization, is only just beginning to express the diversity and range of which it is easily capable.

—GEORGE LEONARD, Education and Ecstasy

The ultimate “Yes” is to life itself in its every moment, whatever that moment might bring. The ultimate gift to any friend or loved one is to be totally present for him or her. This gentle June weekend will be dedicated to saying “Yes” to life and the present moment. Through breathing, chanting, meditation, imaging, and movement, this seminar will seek to affirm our oneness with nature, the cosmos, and one another, to remind ourselves of the brevity and vividness of the miracle of existence. Bring a friend or a loved one or come alone. All that is needed is a generous spirit and a willingness to participate wholeheartedly.

Sexuality, Relationships, and Consensus Reality
Max Schuepbach

Process Work, developed by Arnold Mindell, brings to relationship work the Taoist belief that our sensual impulses and tendencies are not to be seen as something dangerous. Rather, they are the beginning seeds of a dreaming process—a journey deep into our very nature and our sources of emotional and spiritual fulfillment. And consensus reality, with its often stifling ideas and assumptions... about human relationships, is as important in this experience as are our radical impulses and unconventional needs and longings.

The key to unfolding this dreaming process is awareness and a loving attitude for all our parts and experiences. Using the attitudes and skills of Process Work, we can learn to gain inner freedom, an acceptance of who we are, through the practice of opening ourselves to our inhibitions and reservations, our furies and pains, and celebrating them together with our zest for happiness and ecstasy.

The workshop will introduce precise skills for working on these issues in a pressure-free environment. It will include working on past traumas, on the experience of being marginalized for one's nature, and on power differentials. These experiences, together with others like jealousy and possessiveness, can be used as gateways to increased intimacy.

Individuals and couples of all sexual orientations are welcome, as are people living in celibacy.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.

$425

Chaos and Complexity in Photography, Life, and Work

Lawrence Hudetz & Irene Sanders

This high-participation workshop explores new ways to think about and see the world. Photography is used to illuminate the concepts of chaos theory and complexity with special emphasis on fractals and strange attractors. Context—not technique—is the focus. Insights gained from photographic sessions will be applied to explore a new model for understanding and responding to chaos and the complexity in our lives, our work, and our rapidly changing world.

The workshop will begin with a brief introduction to the new science, followed by a photographic session in which participants venture outside and shoot several rolls of film. The film will be processed and the resulting collection of natural images will be used to demonstrate the concepts of fractals, self-organization, and the interactions of linear and nonlinear formation. Weaving together the images and concepts, participants will then be taught how to explore and influence their personal and professional futures by anticipating and responding to change in new ways.

Activities and discussions are designed to help illuminate subtle connections, patterns, emerging opportunities in our lives and work. Each session will be a rich integration of art, science, and world events.

Please bring a 35mm camera and 3-4 rolls of 24 exposure film.

$425

The Group 2000

Esalen Staff

The Group 2000 consists of people who wish to help Esalen fulfill its mission and have contributed $2,000 or more in one year. This is a special weekend to inform the Group of the latest developments at the Institute and discuss the plans and possibilities for the future. There will be time with the staff, the opportunity to interact as a group, a possible special guest or two, as well as time just to enjoy being at Esalen.

For more information, please contact the Group 2000 at 408-667-3032.

$425

June 29-July 6

Language of the Drums: African Percussion, Chanting, and Dance

Babatunde Olatunji & Friends

Olatunji and the Fourth of July—a jubilant Esalen tradition! Nigerian musician Babatunde Olatunji has been bridging the gap between American and African culture for more than thirty-five years. In this workshop he will show how drum sounds and rhythms communicate, stimulate, and pace the activities of traditional African life. He will teach the consonants of the Yoruba language, reproducing its sounds on drums and through chants, body percussion, and dance.

This workshop is for dancers, percussionists, musicians, and anyone who wants to speak the language of the drums. Drummers can experience the dance and dancers can experience the drums. Participants will prepare for a performance at Esalen's annual Fourth of July celebration. Bring a drum if you have one.

Please note: This has always been a popular workshop with lots of people drumming and dancing in a small area. The energy runs high—be prepared for a crowded, exuberant atmosphere.

$1220

Intermediate/Advanced Massage Intensive

Oliver Bailey & Kathleen O'Shaughnessy

This workshop is designed for individuals who have already had basic massage training and who have experience in practice for a while. It is for those who wish to develop into new territory and add to what they are doing with specific complex areas such as the neck and low back.

Part of the format will include the traditional Esalen style of long, integrative strokes and methods for deep contact with the recipient, which will then be focused down to detail. Another segment will have the flavor of a musician's open jam session with two lead players, eliciting a cross-pollination of ideas and approaches from all of the participants.

Exploration of the practitioner's state of being through Zen practice, breathing methods, yoga postures, and dynamic movement will be interwoven with the hands-on work.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

$1220

Basic Trust and the Spiritual Path

Joyce Lyke & Jessica Moore Britt

The Diamond Approach is a spiritual teaching for those on the path of being in the world while engaged in spiritual practice. Utilizing elements from depth psychology and spiritual practice, the Diamond Approach has created a method oriented by the love of truth for an inquiry into the nature of reality and the essence of our existence.

This method will be used to inquire into the question of why it is easy for some to relax into integrated spiritual unfoldment while for most it is difficult. The foundation of the Diamond Approach's understanding of this question rests on the recognition of the intrinsic benevolence underlying reality and the effect of our upbringing on our capacity to recognize and relate from this benevolence.

How our immediate environment held us in early childhood—whether with support, confidence, and love or with anxiety, fear, and negativity—determines whether a sense of benevolence remains as a part of our everyday experience as adults. Our early experiences will deeply affect how we come to view reality and our relationship to it, whether life feels like an opportunity or a trial. This exploration can challenge deeply held beliefs regarding the nature of reality, God, and the world.

Inquiring into these questions, we can gain a better understanding of ourselves and our barriers to experiencing confidence and trust in our daily lives and in our spiritual growth. Our capacity to allow our experience to unfold without control, judgment, or preference can expand, allowing us to relax and move into the deeper mysteries of the soul.

Please note: Registration requires completion of a questionnaire. For more information see Special Programs, page 64.

Recommended reading: Almaas, Diamond Heart—Book One and Essence. $1220

Dancing with the Shadow
Jeremiah Abrams

One does not become enlightened by imagining figures of light, but by making the darkness conscious. — C.G. Jung

The shadow is the person one has no wish to be. Yet shadow-work can lead us back to our buried potential, to the treasure-house wherein lies what we have rejected out of shame, fear, ignorance, or lack of love. Facing the shadow does not mean eliminating it, but rather undertaking the process of balancing and depolarizing, healing the split between our conscious self-concept and all else we are or might be. This enables us to live more fully in the existential present and to embody expanded awareness.

The workshop approaches the shadow from, as Jeremiah Abrams describes it, "the soul-centered view of Jungian archetypal psychology, concerned with the unique transformative path which each soul must follow."

Participants will undertake a journey inward to the shadow, allowing the images to come forward and integrating them through dreamwork, trance, bodywork, active imagination, and the evolving group dialogue.

There will be a ceremonial purification (sweat) lodge to initiate the work and a ritual celebration—a Shadow Dance—to end, so come prepared with costume and full shadow-regalia. If you are feeling stuck or feel like it's time to take the next step in your spiritual journey, this workshop is for you.

Recommended reading: Abrams, The Shadow in America; Abrams & Zweig, Meeting the Shadow. $1220
The programs listed below are either longer than the standard Esalen workshop or part of an ongoing series. Prices quoted below for these programs are for standard accommodations as described in Reservation Information, page 4. Sometimes bunk bed space is available at a reduced rate. Scholarships are also available; please see Scholarship Information on page 4.

The Upledger Institute Series

The Upledger Institute was founded by John E. Upledger, who pioneered the field of CranioSacral Therapy nearly twenty-five years ago. Dr. Upledger is a Doctor of Science, an Academic Fellow of the British Society of Osteopathy, and a member of the Alternative Medicine Program Advisory Council of the National Institutes of Health.

From 1975 to 1983, Dr. Upledger served as clinical researcher and professor of biomechanics at Michigan State University. During those years he supervised a team of anatomists, physiologists, biophysicists, and bioengineers in experiments testing the existence and influence of the craniosacral system. The results of those studies explained the function of the craniosacral system and its use in treating malfunctions of the brain and spinal cord.

The Upledger Institute teaches noninvasive modalities such as CranioSacral Therapy to doctors and health care practitioners of all disciplines. Curricula range from the structural/functional anatomical perspective to approaches that explore the physical, emotional, mental, and spiritual origins of pain and dysfunction.

During this catalog period, Esalen will be offering CranioSacral I (February 2-7) and Visceral Manipulation I-A (April 20-25). This work is sequential and each workshop requires completion of the previous Upledger course, either at Esalen or elsewhere.

Working With the Enneagram Types—A Three-Part Series

Esalen is offering a special three-part series on the Enneagram, led by Helen Palmer. The Enneagram is an ancient model of human development that links the unique and private world of personality type with the specific aspects of human essence. Essence is a permanent, as contrasted to accidental, element of being. Awareness of essence has been called higher consciousness, or spiritual attainment.

Using the Enneagram model as the solder between the psychological and spiritual aspects of being, the three workshops focus on the practices of body, heart, and mind that best support different types of people toward spiritual liberation. These workshops may be taken individually or as an entire series (see Working with the Enneagram Types: The Head Center, March 16-21).

The Diamond Approach: A Spiritual Teaching for Our Times

An Introductory Series of Classes

Teachers of the Ridhwan School are offering a series of introductory workshops in the Diamond Approach (see The Flame: An Introduction to the Diamond Approach, January 24-26; Inquiry: The Path and Practice of the Diamond Approach, February 2-7; and Basic Trust and The Spiritual Path, June 29-July 6). The teaching bridges the traditional divisions between what is considered sacred and what is considered mundane.

The methodology of the Diamond Approach is open-ended inquiry into one’s personal experience leading to an experiential understanding of it. The format includes meditation, awareness and movement practices, talks, exercises in self-inquiry, and personal processing within the group. As we inquire into and travel through our inner terrain, our identifications and beliefs shaped by our conditioning—the obscuring veils within—become more and more transparent, and we are able to contact dimensions of reality and the human potential traditionally accessible to only a few. As we gradually contact the depths of who we are, our lives progressively become embodiments and expressions of our true nature.

As in many schools of spiritual work, spiritual development in the Diamond Approach, while noninvasive and nonconfrontational, does lead to addressing the defenses of the ego and the dissolution of its structures, and so is not appropriate for everyone. It is especially suited to those who have done a lot of spiritual and/or psychological work, and who still feel that something within has not been touched. Reading one or both of the books below is recommended to see if you resonate with this approach. Prospective participants will be sent a questionnaire to ascertain whether the work may be of personal benefit (no questionnaire is required for the January 24-26 introductory weekend).

While one Diamond Heart workshop may provide a foundation for the next, each is complete on its own and may be taken individually or as part of the series. For more information and to obtain a questionnaire contact Joyce Lyke at 408-375-9845. For general information about other programs offered in the Diamond Approach call the Ridhwan Foundation at 510-287-8900.

Recommended reading: Almaas, Essence and Diamond Heart—Book One.

February 9-21

Advanced Training in Shamanism and Shamanic Healing
Michael Harner & Sandra Ingerman

Shamanism is the most ancient system known for using the mind, heart, and spirit to heal oneself and others and for solving the problems of daily living. This twelve-day intensive course emphasizes the universal methods of classic core shamanism, such as shamanic journeying, and their practical application to contemporary life.

Course prerequisite: A previous workshop with Michael Harner or other authorized faculty member of the Foundation for Shamanic Studies, either at Esalen or elsewhere (see The Way of the Shaman, February 7-9).

For information, cost, and application, please contact the Foundation for Shamanic Studies, P.O. Box 1939, Mill Valley, CA 94942, 415-380-8282. Early application is recommended.

February 26-March 8

28-Day Massage Practitioner Certification Program
Robert Helm & Brita Ostrom

The Esalen monthlong massage program provides comprehensive instruction in basic massage skills. This training includes anatomy, movement, yoga, meditation, gestalt awareness, ethics, business practices, and self-care. The daily lessons consist of lecture, demonstration, and supervised hands-on practice. Bodywork is studied as a pathway to well-being and transpersonal growth.

After the monthlong program, students wishing to fulfill certification requirements have six months to complete and document thirty massage sessions. Upon payment of a $50 processing fee, a California state-approved Certificate of Completion will be issued.

This is a professional training group with limited admission. Please request an application form when making reservations.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see pages 67.

Standard accommodations: $3590

Bunk bed room, if available: $2540

March 23-April 4

Emotional Healing: From Codependence to Aliveness
Terry Hunt & Janet Green Garrison

Children who grow up in alcoholic, abusive, or otherwise unhealthy homes often develop disabilities that last a lifetime unless these disabilities are deliberately addressed. These difficulties can include: an inordinate need to control, an overdeveloped sense of responsibility, fear of authority figures, the inability to trust, difficulty having fun, compulsive behavior, fear of abandonment, and a chronic lack of self-esteem.

All addictions and codependency are diseases of denial. Sufferers of addictions and their offspring tell themselves that it really wasn’t so bad, and they learn not to feel what they cannot tolerate. As they deny pain, they screen out joy, and their adult lives can be filled with depression and loneliness. These same individuals are also survivors, however, and most have emerged as successful-appearing adults. Yet they often spend so much energy managing and controlling work and relationships that they have little left for themselves and their own fulfillment.

A necessary part of healing is moving from codependence toward a state of emotional sobriety. Through self-exploration, participants will have the opportunity to access, express, and release blocked emotions that they still carry from childhood, and to tap the aliveness that was sacrificed when they buried their anger, fear, and grief. Points of focus for this workshop will include:

- Emotional sobriety—having a sense of balance and physical boundaries from which to find peace and a capacity for genuine sharing and pleasure
- Pleasure/addictions—learning that true pleasure is a life-affirming, non-addictive experience
- Sexuality—separating the unmet needs of the wounded child from adult intimate relationships; learning tools for nurturing and sustaining healthy relationships
- Boundaries—looking at the tendency to alternate between fusing with another and completely isolating oneself
- Spirituality—learning to have faith despite the horror experienced in childhood

Recommended reading: Hunt & Paine-Gernée, Emotional Healing; and Secrets to Tell, Secrets to Keep.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see pages 67.

Standard accommodations: $1940

Bunk bed room, if available: $1345

Healthspring Outreach and Education

The Healthspring Project extends Esalen’s work in the healing arts and sciences to the outside world. It is an independent service-oriented program of Esalen teachers and their associates. Healthspring offers a global information network linking visitors to Esalen with centers, teachers, and health professionals in somatics and psychology located in their home area. (These listings are public information and are not meant to be an endorsement of any individual or institution.) Some of our practitioners and teachers travel in the United States and internationally and are available for private sessions and classes. If you are interested in being contacted, let us know.

The Healthspring library offers books on health and healing, somatic studies, psychology, bodywork, nutrition, and related studies, which may be borrowed by students while at Esalen. Donations of appropriate books are greatly appreciated.

For access to this program, write to Laurie Lioness Parizek at Esalen, c/o Healthspring.
In its continuing commitment to the fields of education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences, Esalen regularly sponsors invitation-al conferences that bring together experts who share their research and points of inquiry. As host, Esalen covers room and board expenses for participants as a way of advancing these particular studies. These are invitational conferences only and are not open to the public. Recently held programs and their conveners are listed here.

Dream Seekers: Empowering African-American Youth
June 17-19, 1996
Dream Seekers is a San Francisco-based program to assist at-risk African-American youth to move beyond the habitual, reactive "poverty consciousness" that inhibits them from achieving their full potential. Toward this end, Esalen hosted eight Dream Seekers inner-city teenagers, many of whom had never been outside of San Francisco, for three days of meditation, T'ai Chi, exercises, and games designed to help them release fears, resolve conflicts, work collaboratively, and find a still place within. The participants also spent time at the Esalen Art Barn making masks to illustrate their "true nature." After the conference, Esalen cofounder Michael Murphy met with the participants in San Francisco for a day of discussion and sports. Efforts are being undertaken to make this program a regular event at Esalen.

Conference on Compassion
September 22-27, 1996
The Invitational Conference on Compassion was a gathering of spiritual teachers, psychologists, social activists, and others to explore the nature and application of compassion. This conference initiated a new structure in which the Esalen community was invited to attend the presentations. Participants investigated compassion as a concept, as an experience, and as an integral part of spiritual practice. The role of compassion in community life (both monastic and secular) was discussed at length. The centerpiece of the conference was a Wednesday night presentation, open to everyone at Esalen, by Brother David Steindl-Rast, Benedictine monk, author, and former Esalen spiritual teacher in residence; Ajahn Amaro, a monk in the Thai forest tradition and founder of the Abhayagiri Monastery in Northern California; and Alan Jones, Dean of Grace Cathedral in San Francisco. The conference incorporated music and poetry throughout.
CONTINUING EDUCATION PROGRAMS

FOR NURSES

The Board of Registered Nursing has approved Esalen as a provider of continuing education for registered nurses, provider number 01152. Only those programs listed below offer continuing education credit. Workshop leaders have final responsibility in applying for C.E.U. eligibility; therefore a workshop accredited in the past may not necessarily be accredited today. There is a $10 processing fee for C.E.U. certificates, payable at the end of the workshop when you turn in your evaluation form to the office. If you wish to receive a certificate, please notify the office at the time of registration.

Please note: Two-day workshops offer 10 hours of C.E. credit and five-day or longer workshops offer 30 hours.

If you need additional information on C.E. courses for nurses or future C.E. outreach programs, please contact Sherry Sanders Galloway, RN., Continuing Education Coordinator, 408-667-3000.

December 29-January 3
• SIKE: Healing and Health through Ki Energy
• Feeling and Creativity: Reinvigorating (Ad)ventures in Life

January 3-5
• Taking Better Care of Yourself: An Eclectic Physician's Guide for a Healthy New Year

January 5-10
• Five-Day Massage Intensive

January 12-17
• Gestalt Practice
• Chakra Integration: A Complete Approach to Health and Healing

January 17-19
• Intimate Connections
• Hanna Somatics: Mastery of Muscles and Emotions

January 19-24
• Creating Exact Moments of Healing

January 24-26
• Why Men Are the Way They Are
• When Success is Not Enough

January 26-31
• The Art of Trigger Point Massage
• Qigong and Psychoneuroimmunology: An East/West Healing System
• The Medicine Wheel Way

January 31-February 2
• Introduction to Mindfulness Meditation
• Reinhabiting Your Body: An Experience in Authentic Movement
• Secrets Kept From the Mind But Not From the Body

February 2-7
• The Upledger Institute's CranioSacral I

February 16-21
• Five-Day Massage Intensive

February 23-28
• You Don't Have to Be Good

February 28-March 28
• 28-Day Massage Practitioner Certification Program

February 28-March 2
• Beyond Individualism: A Gestalt Model for Building Your Personal Support System
• Vipassana Meditation and the Teachings of Thich Nhat Hanh

March 7-9
• The "Penniston Protocol" Deep Process Technique: A Workshop for Clinicians

March 9-14
• Spiritual Healing: Laying-on-of-Hands
• The Heart of the Shaman

March 14-16
• Sensory Awareness
• Religious and Spiritual Problems: A Paradigm Shift in Mental Health
• Advanced Zero Balancing: The Alchemy of Touch

March 16-21
• Explorations in Mindful Living
• Working with the Enneagram Types: The Head Center

March 21-23
• Care of the Self: Enhancing Wellness

March 23-28
• Emotional Healing: From Codependence to Aliveness

March 28-March 2
• Weekend Massage Intensive
• A Celebration of the Body: A Self-Empowerment Weekend

March 30-April 4
• Sports Massage: Keeping the Players Playing

April 4-6
• Re-Solving Your Past, Remembering Who You Are: A Gestalt Process Workshop
• Energy Kinesiology: Awakening to Abundant Energy

April 6-11
• Making Crucial Life Choices and Major Life Changes
• What to Do When the World Ends: A Workshop on A Course in Miracles

April 13-18
• The Path of Transformation through Meditation
• Healing Our Hearts

April 18-20
• Movement for Life—The Feldenkrais Method
• The Art of Leadership: Communication, Creativity, Vision

April 20-25
• The Upledger Institute's Visceral Manipulation I-A
April 27-May 2
- Continuum
- Gestalt Practice
- Rational, Emotional, and Intuitive Decision Making
- Face Reading: The Language of the Face

May 2-4
- The Awakened Mind: Brainwave Training
- The Healing Power of the Dream

May 4-9
- The High-Performance Mind: Awakened Mind Brainwave Training

May 9-11
- Practical Herbology: An Esalen Garden Workshop
- Intuition and Perception: Extending the Boundaries

May 11-16
- Living with a Life-Threatening Illness: The Spiritual Journey

May 18-23
- From Conflict to Partnership

May 23-25
- OpenMind Training: Innovations in Meditation and Mind/Body Healing

May 25-June 1
- Cortical Reeducation® and the Feldenkrais Method®

May 25-30
- Healing Body Image and Sexuality
- The Core Self: Return to Innocence and Choice

May 30-June 1
- Core Holoenergetics®: The Art and Science of Conscious Healing

June 1-6
- Holoenergetics® Level One Training

June 6-8
- Introduction to Mindfulness Meditation
- Living with Breast Surgery: A Workshop for Women

June 13-15
- Weekend Massage Intensive
- Facing Death: Meeting Ourselves in the Care of the Dying
- The Visionary Life

June 15-20
- Soul Dramas: Past-Life Regression and Spiritual Healing for (Helping) Professionals

June 20-22
- Change Your Handwriting, Change Your Life

June 22-29
- Gestalt Practicum

June 22-27
- Turning On the Light: A Choice to Live Consciously

June 29-July 6
- Intermediate/Advanced Massage Intensive

FOR PSYCHOLOGISTS

Esalen has been approved as a provider of continuing education for psychologists in the State of California, accredited by the California Psychological Association, provider number ESA001. Workshops for which C.E.U. credit has been approved are listed here. Those workshops for which C.E.U. applications have been filed and approval is pending are noted in the Seminars section. For current status information, contact Brita Ostrom at 408-667-3040.

Please note: Two-day workshops offer 10 hours of C.E. credit and five-day workshops offer 26 hours.

January 12-17
- Completions and Transitions (ESA001-37-01)

January 24-26
- Why Men Are the Way They Are (ESA001-28-01)

January 26-31
- Hypnosis and Creativity (ESA001-56)
The Work Study Program is for those interested in an intense and complete involvement with the Esalen environment. It is a work-oriented program, emotionally and physically, and only rarely is it restful. Participants work thirty-two hours per week in one of Esalen's departments (kitchen, garden, farm, housekeeping, maintenance, or grounds) and participate, along with staff and long-term students, in that department's program.

During most evenings and one weekend intensive, work students are together in one of two groups (see below) exploring different practices and approaches available at Esalen, with specifically assigned leaders who are with the group throughout the month, coordinating the study schedule and facilitating many of the evening sessions.

The selection of work students is done by Bette Dingman, the Work Study Coordinator, in consultation with department supervisors. Since this is a work program, preference is given to applicants who are open and willing to learn about themselves within the work context as well as within the evening and weekend study/process groups. Applicants with particular skills or physically limiting conditions are urged to mention them on the application. It is necessary for applicants to be fluent in English.

First-month work students, in particular, are assigned to departments largely on the basis of community need. No work students will be assigned to the office until they have fulfilled a minimum of one month in one of the aforementioned departments, either during a current or a previous stay.

The study portion of the program is divided into two groups each month: each emphasizes one type of growth practice, such as gestalt, meditation, creative arts, massage or somatics work, and so forth. Applicants must select one group and be prepared to stay at Esalen for the full duration designated for that particular program, assuming that they meet the standards of the Work Study Program.

Please note: This program is designed to explore and apply human values and potentials in both the evening groups and the workplace. It is not intended as a substitute for therapy or as a "cure."

It is sometimes possible to receive college unit credit for participating in the Work Study Program. Please check with your college or university for eligibility requirements.

Work Study Programs scheduled for this catalog period are:

January 5–February 2
Carolyn Braddock will focus on healing from bodily trauma, including sexual and emotional trauma, physical illnesses and surgeries, body image issues, and loss from accidents. The program will use a body-centered approach, incorporating breath, sound, and movement into a healing journey. Participants will work toward identifying and releasing old patterns and developing new ones. Video analysis, group process, gestalt, bodywork, experiential exercises, and gentle martial arts exercises will all be incorporated.

The monthlong program with Deborah Anne Medow is based on learning how to pay attention to yourself both as an individual and in relationship to another. It is a program of turning inward, developing a stronger sense of self, and then bringing that self out to play and interact with others. The monthlong will integrate yoga, breathing exercises, massage, meditation, creative movement, and dance.

February 2–March 2
Helen Jerene Malcolm will guide a month of Vision Painting, the creation of a visual journal through color, light, and form. Painting will be used in a subtle process designed to expose the limitations of the conditioned mind. In an atmosphere of exploration and acceptance, participants can learn to suspend judgment and enable the creative impulse to play, take risks, and face fears. Emotional awareness, visualization, meditation, music, and dream images will be used to evoke expression from an inner source of wisdom and intuition.

The focus of a month with David Schiffman will be on the theme of transition. It is geared for people facing major changes who would like an opportunity to create a time for sanctuary and a mood of mutual support. The intention will be to cultivate an individual style of approaching change that is heartfelt, open-minded, and resourceful in spirit.

March 2-March 30

With an emphasis on the practice of massage, David Streeter will explore the inner power of the human being. He will combine the essence of Zen meditation with movement from the martial arts and yoga. These principles will be applied to the art of massage and the art of being in the world.

Mel Kimura-Bucholtz will lead a monthlong intensive combining Ericksonian hypnosis, gestalt relational work, Breakthrough Excellence Training™, and Core Matrix Work™. The program is designed to help participants recontact with their natural core personality; craft their sensitivity into deeply felt, connecting behaviors; and join intention, focus, and action into daily activities and life direction. Emphasis will be on living beyond fear, developing the courage of imagination, and living from one’s own personal aesthetic center while crafting one’s abilities into the finest expressions we are capable of creating.

May 25-June 22

Lenore & Mel Lefer will lead this program. Lenore will offer an exploration of the inner journey within the framework of psychosynthesis, using guided imagery, journal writing, dreams, ritual, storytelling, and nature to create a supportive environment in which healing and transformation can occur. Mel will teach all levels of Integral Yoga, including postures, progressive relaxation, breathing practices, meditation, and visualization.

The basis of a month with Seymour Carter will be the gestalt method, supported by studies in various body disciplines, including sensory awareness, bienergetics, and aikido. Each participant’s process of development will be honored, encouraged, and treated as unique.

June 22-July 20

Peter James Meyers will lead a month of exploration in theater arts designed to awaken the playful nature of creativity. Using movement, language, sound, improvisation, theater games, and music, the group will work together to reinvigorate the whole body as an instrument for communicating the poetic language of the spirit for the stage. All levels and abilities are welcome.

Eduardo Eizner & Guests will lead a month concentrating on emotional release work and self-awareness, incorporating gestalt practice, group and individual process, rituals, movement, and bodywork.

Inasmuch as the Work Study Program is a complete program in itself, please do not plan to take regularly scheduled catalog workshops during your stay. Professional services, such as massage, are available at staff rates.

Fees: A deposit of $400 in U.S. currency is required with your application. The work scholar fee is $750 for the first month, $700 for the second month, and $650 for the third month. Work students may be invited to remain for a second or third month depending on space available and community needs. Occasionally it is possible to stay for a longer period as an Extended Student. There are no scholarships available for the Work Study Program.

Housing: Accommodations are shared (occasionally co-ed), with up to four people to a room, usually at South Coast Center; a staff complex located 1.5 miles north of Esalen.

For more information contact Bette Dingman: 408-667-3010.

Please note: Application is not registration in the program. Registration is made only after approval of application and upon receipt of deposit. The balance of the fee is due on arrival. Of the original deposit, $100 is nonrefundable and may be transferred to other programs within one year of receipt. Please return the application form (see next page) with your deposit to:

Work Study Program
Esalen Institute
Big Sur, CA 93920

Institute of Transpersonal Psychology Offers External Master's Degrees

Work students have the opportunity to integrate their work study experience at Esalen with the external degree program of the Institute of Transpersonal Psychology. The external degree format enables students to study at any location. Work students will be able to continue the dynamics of personal growth fostered at Esalen while earning master’s degrees in transpersonal studies or in transpersonal psychology.

Inquiries and applications should be made directly to ITP. Contact:

Nancy Fagen
External Program
Institute of Transpersonal Psychology
744 San Antonio Road
Palo Alto, CA 94303
415-493-4430
WORK STUDY PROGRAM APPLICATION

Name ________________________________  □ Male  □ Female

Date of Birth __________________________  Occupation __________________________

Place of Employment ____________________

Daytime Phone (____) ____________________  Home Address __________________________

Evening Phone (____) ____________________  City/State/Zip code ______________________

Date of Application ______________________  Country ______________________________

Do you have any physically limiting conditions which might affect your full participation in this program?  □ Yes  □ No

If yes, please be specific. _________________________________________________________

Are you currently taking any medications?  □ Yes  □ No  If yes, please specify: __________________________

Which program(s) are you interested in? Please list the leader's name. __________________________

Please note: When focused programs continue with the same leader for more than one month, participants must be prepared to stay at Esalen for the full duration of that particular program.

The Work Study Program is for 28 days, beginning and ending on Sunday. Please list the dates of your choice, listing two alternative dates as well.

1st: __________________ to __________________  2nd: __________________ to __________________  3rd: __________________ to __________________

Work students may be invited to remain for a second or third month, depending on space available and the needs of the Esalen community. Please indicate your availability for such an invitation.

□ No extension  □ One-month extension  □ Two-month extension

Assignments to departments are made according to community labor needs. However, if you have particular skills that you're willing to use, especially in food preparation, gardening, maintenance, mechanics, construction, or housecare, please mention them here.

□ Please check here if you have emergency medical skills (M.D., R.N., or E.M.T.) and are willing to use them during your stay.

Attach a personal statement about your interest in the Work Study Program and why you'd like to participate.

All applicants are required to sign a standard release from liability and assumption of risk form as a condition of participation in the Work Study Program.

Please Note: No pets allowed.
Week of May 4–9

Apprenticeship to the Earth—Return to Sacred Ground

David Schiffman & Little Bear Nason

David Schiffman writes: "This wilderness adventure is for people who value the restorative and inspirational power of the natural world. We will journey on foot and/or horseback toward a simpler mode of being. Our destination: Pine Valley, deep in the woods of Big Sur's most pristine backcountry, a convergence of earth, sky, and mountains, filled with centuries-old towering pines, sparkling streams and waterfalls, surrounded by high granite cliffs and secret caves inscribed with petroglyphs. It is an ancient, sacred gathering-place for the Esselen Indians, used for countless generations as a tribal sanctuary for new visions, purification, celebration, and community.

"It will be a time to share the elemental realities of outdoor living and travel: sleeping under starry skies in the fragrance of the forest, immersed in the music of creek and wind, cooking meals around blazing fires in an unhurried mood of common support.

"Our time together will also be used for self-realization and personal mastery. We will employ a variety of shamanic practices for uncluttering our minds and hearts and freeing our spirits. Our tools will combine the ancient and the modern, including:

- Music and ceremony as spirit medicine
- Native American prayer and purification practices
- Opportunities for individual initiation into dreamtime
- Healing and kinship through the sensitive use of touch
- Free-form adventures in the heart of the forest

This trip is suitable for newcomers as well as old hands."

Participants can elect to hike or ride. All gear and food will be packed in on mules. Be prepared for some physical exertion. Further details sent upon registration.

$795

*(S$890 if you choose to ride)
Audio Recordings

The Dolphin Tape Series

Each new tape list has a somewhat different emphasis in its selection of titles and speakers. In addition to the many well-known titles from familiar speakers included for the special attention of new customers, there are several additional tapes from some old favorites, the most recent recordings from others, and a few entirely new speakers, events, and subjects.

Dolphin Tapes has no complete catalog, just overlapping tape lists. When you place an order, let us know your field of interest or your favorite speakers. We may have more information on some of them. Many tapes are in stereo. Tape length is normally 1 to 1½ hours.

Single-tape titles are $10:

- Abraham/McKenna/Sheldrake: TRIALOGUES: Preview and Sampler, 1988-90
- Abraham/Thompson: Eccentric Sunday Morning: Chaos and Order, 1993
- Anne Armstrong: On Being a Psychic, 1971
- Gregory Bateson: The Limits of Science, 1978
- David Brower: Breaking the Species Barrier, 1971
- Barry Commoner: Human Meaning of Environmental Crisis, 1971
- David Darling & Al Huang: Dancing Cello, Dancing Tao, 1989
- Ram Dass: Yoga of Daily Life, 1970
- James Fadiman: Guided Fantasy and Fairy Tales, 1972
- David Finkelstein: A New Quantum Logic, 1976
- Stanislav Grof: A New Paradigm for Psychotherapy, 1980
- Willis Harman: Origin of the Psychodelic 1960s, 1977
- Arthur Hastings: Transpersonal Realities, 1979
- Gerald Heard: The Power of Wonder, 1954
- John Heider: Living in the Tao, 1987
- Albert Hofmann: LSD and the Nature of Reality, 1978
- Aldous Huxley: Human Potentialities (MIT Cambridge), 1961
- Laura Huxley: Recipes for Living and Loving (Guided Imagery), 1963
- Stanley Keman: Biological Roots of Consciousness, 1970
- Jack Kornfield: The Simplicity of Spiritual Practice, 1982
- Jack Kornfield: On Buddhism: A Personal Story, 1983
- Timothy Leary: American Culture: 1945-1985 (College of Marin), 1977
- Janet Lederman: Early Childhood Experience (Gazebo), 1987
- John C. Lilly: The Dolphin Experience, 1969
- John & Toni Lilly: Integrating Science and Mysticism, 1981
- Abraham Maslow: Self-Actualization, 1966
- Terence McKenna: Surfing on Fingernail Waves, 1993
- Terence McKenna: Hot Concepts and Melting Edges, 1994
- Terence McKenna: Laws and Freedom, Habits and Novelty, 1994
- Terence McKenna: Personal Update, Complexity and Meaning, 1996
- Humphrey Osmond: Early Psychodelic History, 1967
- Joseph Chilton Pearce: Intelligence of the Heart, 1992
- Fritz Perls: Gestalt Therapy and How It Works, 1966
- Carl Rogers: My Philosophy and How I Grew, 1972
- Rogers/Bateson: Dialogue on Thinking, Feeling, Learning, 1975
- Will Schutz: Principles and Philosophy of Encounter, 1970
- Daniel Sheehan: Philosophy of Dorsite Institute, 1991
- Rupert Sheldrake: Morphic Resonance and Memory, 1985
- Sheldrake/Pease: Resonant Fields of Heart and Brain, 1993
- Julian Silverman: A Lighthearted Course in Miracles
- Huston Smith: The Nature of Reality (Boston), 1970
- Richard Tarnas: The Passion of the Western Mind, 1993
- Charles Tart: On the Paranormal, 1971
- Wilson Van Dusen: The Nature of Humanness, 1969
- Alan Watts: Divine Madness, 1968
- Carl Whitaker: On Becoming a Professional Therapist, 1989
- Arthur M. Young: The Reflective Universe, 1973

Two-tape titles are $16:

- Walt Anderson & Ted Roszak: (2) The Upstart Spring (Esalen), 1984
- Angeles Arrien: (2) Cross-Cultural Shamanic Practice, 1992
- Gregory Bateson: (2) Ballinese Culture and Shamanism, 1976
- "Dynasty" (2) One Man Journey to the East, 1969

Four-tape titles are $34:

- Ralph Abraham: (4) The Chaos Revolution, 1994
- James Fadiman: (4) A Weekend of Stories, 1984
- David Finkelstein: (4) Indeterminacy and Undecidability, 1978
- Roland Fischer: (4) Creative, Psychotic, and Esoteric States, 1969
- Buckminster Fuller: (4) Integrity Day (Marin), 1983
- Abraham Maslow: (4) An Informal Weekend in Big Sur, 1966
- Terence McKenna: (4) Conversation at the Edge of Magic, 1994
- Terence McKenna: (4) Eros, Chaos, and Meaning! Edge, 1994
- Terence McKenna: (4) Deeper and Broader Questions, 1994
- David Steindl-Rast: (4) Mysticism as a Frontier Experience, 1985
- David Steindl-Rast: (4) Living in the Now, 1988
- David Steindl-Rast: (4) Enjoying Poetry, 1992
- Andrew Wel: (4) New Insights into Addiction, 1987
- Arthur M. Young: (4) The Reflective Universe Interviews, 1983

The Dolphin Vinyl Album Tape Sets:

- Angeles Arrien & Robert Bly: (6) Love in the Western World, 1984
- Gregory Bateson: (6) Steps to an Ecology of Mind, 1980
- John C. Lilly: (6) Ego, Self, and Essence, 1971
- John C. Lilly: (6) The East Coast Workshop, 1973
- Abraham Maslow: (6) The Eupyschian Ethic, 1969
- Joseph Chilton Pearce: (6) Journey to the Heart, 1990
- Rupert Sheldrake: (6) Resonance and Presence of the Past, 1985
- Andrew Wel: (6) All You Wanted to Know About Drugs, 1993
- Robert Anson Wilson: (6) The "Coincidence" of Joyce, 1985
- Ruthy Alon: (6) Lessons in the Feldenkrais Method (Series I or II)
- Terence McKenna: (8) Collected Talks: Series 1 (1982-83) or II (1983-86)
- Terence McKenna: (8) The Esalen Scholar-In-Residence Series, 1989
- Julian Silverman: (8) Comments on A Course in Miracles, 1980
- Buckminster Fuller: (8) The Pajaro Dunes Tapes, 1977
- Moste Feldenkrais: (6) Awareness Through Movement Lessons (Series 1)
- Terence McKenna: (8) True Hallucinations: A Talking Book, 1984
- Abraham/McKenna/Sheldrake: (10) TRIALOGUES at the Edge, 1989-90
- Virginia Satir: (10) Conjoint Family Therapy, 1968
- ESSalen Symposium: (12) Wilhelm Reich: His Life and Work, 1974

Please add $3.00 to your complete order for handling and mailing (add $3.00 more if you wish priority mail). Overseas orders add $1.00 per tape for mailing. California residents include 6 1/2% tax. Institutional purchase orders please add 10% to tape cost for invoicing and deferred payment. Allow 4 to 6 weeks for delivery (most orders are mailed within two weeks).

Please mail your order and your check payable to:

DOLPHIN TAPES, P.O. Box 71, Big Sur, CA 93920

Advertisements: Dolphin Tapes is a private company independent of Esalen.
Anat Baniel began studying the Feldenkrais Method® in early childhood in her native Tel Aviv and later became the student and apprentice of Moshe Feldenkrais. She works extensively with infants and children, health care professionals, and musicians. p. 39

James Baraz has taught vipassana insight meditation retreats since 1977 and is co-founder of Spirit Rock Meditation Center in Marin County, Calif. A licensed psychologist, he has a counseling practice in Berkeley. p. 22, 54

Edmund Barbosa is a body-oriented psychologist from Sao Paulo, Brazil, and the founder of Revista, a center for work with cancer patients. He is a senior researcher for the Institute for the Study of the Afterlife. p. 15

Yseay Barnwell has performed, composed, and recorded with the internationally renowned a cappella quintet Sweet Honey In The Rock. She leads workshops throughout the U.S., in Great Britain, and Australia. p. 43

Sondra Barrett, a biomedical scientist and educator, is associate professor at California Institute of Integral Studies, project director of California Pacific Medical Center, and coauthor of Making Waves. p. 24

Ellen Bass has supported, encouraged, and inspired women's writing for over twenty years. She has published a dozen books, including poetry, nonfiction, and children's stories. p. 38

Therese Baxter is a classically trained actress and certified instructor of Physio-synthesis with twenty years' experience in the Alexander Technique. She has trained in Ki healing since 1984, and has a private practice in Los Angeles. p. 13

Peter Beckmann learned bread baking in his hometown of Heidelberg, Germany, and has twenty years of professional experience. He runs a successful wholesale bakery in the San Francisco Bay Area, combining tradition and innovation. p. 27

Brian Bergstrom is a structural bodywork practitioner and yoga instructor with over fifteen years' experience. He has a private practice in Palm Springs, Calif. p. 49

Jeff Berner has photographed internationally, received two awards from Life magazine, and photo-illustrated Uncarved Block, Unbleached Silk: The Mystery of Life, by Alan Watts. He has written twelve books, including The Photographic Experience. p. 56

Judith Blackstone is a meditation teacher, author, dancer and founder of The Subtle Self Workshop, a method of realizing the integration of the body, authentic self, and spiritual consciousness. She is co-director of Realization Center in Woodstock, N.Y. p. 38

Julie Bowden, pioneer in the children of alcoholics (COA) field, is cofounder of the National Association of COAs. She coauthored Recovery: A Guide for Adult COAs and Genetics of Spiritualty in Recovery. p. 39, 53

Carolyn Braddock is a body-centered therapist and consultant in private practice in Lakewood, Colo. She authored Body Voices and trains professionals in post-traumatic stress disorder. p. 33, 34, 52, 69

Judith Bradley is a physical therapist, acupuncturist, and teacher who has been an Upledger CranioSacral instructor since 1986. She is in private practice in British Columbia, specializing in children and Visceral Manipulation. p. 33

George Brandon has been playing music professionally for much of his life and has performed with Jimmy McGriff, Big Band, San Ra and his Arkestra, and The Mighty Sparrow. He is an NEA grant recipient to study theory and composition. p. 43

Jessica Moore Britt is a teacher of the Rilwanu School. A Gestaltist at Esalen for seven years, she presently teaches the Diamond Approach in the Bay Area, Santa Fe, Seattle, and Europe. p. 30, 62

Michael Broder is a psychologist involved with the human potential movement for over twenty-five years. He's the author of The Art of Living Single and The Art of Staying Together, as well as Positive Attitude Training on cassette. p. 37

Daniel Brown is director of a group private practice in Cambridge, Mass., and assistant professor at Harvard Medical School. He has spent nearly two decades investigating states of consciousness, and is a coauthor of States of Consciousness. p. 39, 40

Lee Brown is a classically trained artist, maker and jeweler who now applies his creativity to the medium of polymer clay. His focus is exploring healing through teaching. p. 56

Sophy Bumham is the author of ten books on angels, creativity, and the spiritual awakening. Her latest work, Rowing Toward God, is on mystical experiences and she is currently working on a book about mystical experiences. p. 45

Robin Bumsise is co-manager of the Esalen kitchen and former chef/owner of two successful restaurants. She has over twenty-five years of professional cooking experience. p. 37

Christina Carmines has published articles on Western alchemy, astrology, and practical babalabala. Her book, The Celluloid Warrior, considers the application and misapplication of magic in film. She is president of Raven’s Wolf Films. p. 59

Seymour Carter, longtime gestalt teacher at Esalen and in Europe, combines studies in family systems theory with Zen Buddhism, sanskrit awareness, aikido, and other body-oriented practices. p. 29, 46, 70

Michell Cassou is the founder of an original approach to painting as a tool for self-discovery. Co-founder of the Painting Experience Studio in San Francisco, she is recognized for her work exploring the spirituality of the creative process. p. 24

Dorothy Charles is a gestalt practitioner and the assistant director of Esalen's Gateazo School. p. 54

Carl Chase (C.C.) is a bodyworker who specializes in cross-fiber friction and deep tissue methods. He has also studied sports massage and soft-tissue manipulation. p. 34

Stephen Cohen, gestalt practitioner and longtime golf teacher, is founder and president of The Shivas Irons Society, a nonprofit organization dedicated to enhancing golf's beauty and virtues. p. 49

Emilie Conrad-Deoud is the founder of Continuum. Her innovative approach to movement has enhanced the creativity of artists in many fields and has led to new insights in the healing process. p. 47

Linda Crompton is president and chief executive officer of Citizens Trust Company in Vancouver, Canada. Her focus is on corporate social responsibility, ethical investment, and the development of an ecologically and socially relevant global economy. p. 47

Stewart Cubley, originally trained as a scientist and engineer, painted for the first time in 1974 and soon thereafter began a second career as a painter. He is co-founder of the Painting Experience Studio in San Francisco. p. 23

Dale Cummings, certified Radix® teacher and marriage and family counselor in West Los Angeles, Santa Cruz, and San Francisco, is director of training for the Radix Institute. p. 13

David Darling is a cellist, composer, and teacher. He is co-founder of Music for People, an organization that humanizes the learning process of creating music. His latest recordings are Celio, Dark Wood, and 8-String Religion. p. 46, 47

Bhagavan Das is the master of the sound current known as Nada Brahma. He wandered India for six years as a student of yoga and Indian music, acquired fame when Ram Das wrote about him in Be Here Now, and toured extensively on the American "guru circuit." p. 61

Lama Surya Das is a Buddhist scholar, poet, and translator of Tibetan texts. He is the founder of the Dagchen Foundation of America and author of The Snow Lion's Turquoise Mane: 150 Wisdom Tales from Tibet. p. 55
Andrew Feldman is a registered psychologist, practicing psychotherapy for the past thirty years in Vancouver, Canada. He was a friend and associate of R.D. Laing, the controversial Scottish psychiatrist, and works internationally as a consultant and teacher. p. 48

Patricia Fields is a psychologist and psychoenergetic practitioner working at the interface of psychology and spirituality. She utilizes brainwave biofeedback in her private practice in San Rafael, Calif., and regularly conducts professional trainings. p. 39

Lilas Folan continues to share yoga through her PBS series "Lilas!", her books, and award-winning videos and audio tapes. She conducts seminars internationally and has taught yoga and meditation in Russia. p. 47

Thomas Michael Foltz, long-time yoga practitioner and teacher, has been a frequent guest teacher of the Esalen Movement Program. He teaches in the San Francisco Bay Area and leads retreats and workshops nationally. p. 19

Gregory Franta is principal architect of ENSAR Group, an international design firm specializing in environmentally sustainable architecture. He has helped building owners and designers produce green buildings throughout the world. p. 50

Joyce Frazer, a gestalt practitioner in private practice, is the senior supervisor of the Gestalt Training Institute of Vancouver, Canada. She leads workshops in the U.S., Canada, and Europe. p. 42, 45

Mallory Fromm has trained in Ki healing since 1983 and has led workshops in the U.S. and Japan. A licensed, practicing attorney in California, he cofounded the Spiritual Integrity Ki Energy (SIKE) Institute in Los Angeles. p. 13

Sherry Sanders Galloway is an Esalen massage staff practitioner and teacher whose focus is sports massage, balanced with Esalen bodywork. A practicing RN, she specializes in emergency medicine and psychiatric intervention. p. 35

Lillian Lesekof Garner is a professor of Oriental medicine and conducted an analysis with her Chinese grandmother. She has researched Chinese texts and Western studies that correlate this ancient science with psychology and medicine. p. 42

Janet Green Garrison is a certified substance abuse therapist and health educator. Also a certified yoga instructor, she has been teaching an eclectic blend of hatha yoga for the past twenty-six years. p. 33, 65

Glenna Gerad is co-founder of The Dialogue Group, specializing in interpersonal communication, leadership, and group facilitation. Her passion is integrating spiritual practice and conscious learning in personal and professional life. p. 27

Mark Gerzon authored several books, including Coming Into Our Own: Understanding the Adult Metamorphosis and A Choice of Heroes: The Changing Faces of American Manhood. He has led workshops on gender and on wildlife throughout the U.S. p. 32

Mariah Fenton Gladis, longtime gestalt practitioner and trainer, founded and has for fourteen years directed the Bucks County Institute. She is director of the Pennsylvania Gestalt Center for Psychotherapy and Training. p. 18, 19

Masukha Glissen is a clinical social worker on the staff of Mt. Auburn Hospital in Cambridge, Mass. She specializes in psychotherapy, hypnotherapy, and couples treatment. p. 60

Herbert Gold has published over 20 books, including Bohemia; Best Nightmares on Earth; A Life in Haiti, Fathers; and a new novel, She Took My Arm As If She Loved Me. p. 29

Mary Goldenson (Devarani) is a clinical psychologist, chiropractor, and certified Rads® teacher in Los Angeles. She has a private practice specializing in relationship therapy and transitions. p. 17, 19, 25, 49, 50, 60

Joe D. Goldrich is board-certified in cardiology and internal medicine. He has lived at Esalen and has given workshops here for fifteen years. p. 14

Harriet Gonski is the originator of Cortical Reeducation®. She is a Feldenkrais® practitioner with a background in hypnotherapy, applied kinesiology, craniosacral work, and social anthropology. p. 51

Spalding Gray, writer and actor, has created a series of 13 autobiographical monologues which he has performed in the U.S., Europe, and Australia. He has taught storytelling at Columbia, NYU, and Omega Institute. p. 33

Stanislav Grof is a psychiatrist, author, and researcher of psychotherapy and non-ordinary states of consciousness. He is co-developer of Holotropic Breathwork, and conducts workshops and trainings worldwide. p. 53

Joan Halifax is a Buddhist teacher, anthropologist, and author of several books on shamanism. She is founder and director of Upaya, a Buddhist study center in Santa Fe, N.M., and The Project on Being with Dying. p. 37, 39

Eleanor Criswell Hanna, professor of psychology at Sonoma State University, is editor of Somatics, director of the Novato Institute for Somatic Research and Training, and author of How Yoga Works and Biofeedback and Somatics. p. 18

Keith Harary is research director of the Institute for Advanced Psychology in San Francisco and coauthor of eight books. He has over twenty-five years’ experience in advanced perceptual research. p. 46

Michael Harner has practiced shamanism and shamanic healing for more than thirty-five years and pioneered their return to contemporary life. His books include The Way of the Shaman; The Jivaro; and Hallucinogens and Shamanism. p. 25, 65

Steven Harper coordinates Esalen’s Wilderness Programs. He has led both traditional and experimental expeditions internationally for nearly twenty years. His work focuses on wild nature as a vehicle for awakening. p. 38, 48, 53, 58

Susan Harper teaches Continuum Dance Meditation workshops in Los Angeles and San Francisco, leads Dance the River trips on wild rivers, and has presented at the Joy-Spangler Ani-Morcan Conference. p. 58

John Harris is a bodyworker and somatic therapist with fifteen years’ experience treating physical and emotional pain. He specializes in sports massage and has worked extensively with post-traumatic stress disorder. p. 35

David Hawkins, a psychiatrist in private practice, has trained group therapists at Duke University and throughout the U.S. He is past president of the American Academy of Psychotherapists. p. 49

Jeanne Hay is a teacher of the Ridwan School, the home of the Diamond Approach, a method of spiritual realization and actualization. She has been involved in spiritual and psychological work since 1974. p. 23

Beth Hedva is the author of Journey From Betrayal to Trust. Her work blends ancient wisdom and spirituality with modern psychotherapy. p. 19

Robert Helm is a senior member of the Esalen massage/bodywork staff. p. 28, 65

Christian Hendricks is an Aston Patterson®, a holistic trainer and licensed massage therapist. He is in private practice in Seattle, specializing in increasing performance, rehabilitating injuries, ergonomics consultation, and movement education. p. 33, 34

Maria Lucía Sauer Holloman has practiced spiritual healing in Brazil and the U.S. since 1982. She has been a resident student and teacher at Esalen and conducts trainings and seminars internationally. p. 30

Peggy Horan has been practicing and teaching massage at Esalen for twenty-five years. She is a student of childhood, dance, and movement. p. 41

Chungliang Al Huang teaches Tai Ji philosophy, East/West synthesis, and the art of movement meditation. He is the founder-president of the Living Tao Foundation and director of Lan Ting Institute in the Sacred Mountains of China. p. 15, 16, 17, 33

Lawrence Hudetz is both artist and scientist. From electrical engineering he moved into photography emphasizing science and art in synergy. His work is exhibited at the International Center of Photography and the Art Institute of Chicago. p. 62

Ritch Davidson, Senior Vice-Emperor of Playfair, is an innovator of programs that focus on the value of humor in team building, stress management, and living a healthier worklife. His clients have included Nike, the U.S. Air Force, and DuPont. p. 42

Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita), longtime Esalen group leader, has twenty years’ experience guiding people internationally in breathwork, gestalt, vision improvement, movement, and meditation. Her current interest is swimming with wild dolphins in Hawaii. p. 61

Embree De Persiiis has worked and taught at her Big Sur studio for more than twenty years. Her work has been exhibited in galleries and private collections throughout the U.S. and Canada. p. 35

Shirley Dockstader, a teacher in body-mind practices for twenty-five years, integrates hatha yoga and qigong into high-performance sports and immune system strengthening. Founder of Mind and Movement, she is coauthor of Making Waves. p. 21

Donna Eden is the developer of Energy Kinesiology, based on an ability to see and work with the body’s energies in a systematic manner. She has been practicing energy balancing for nearly two decades and teaches worldwide. p. 36

Eduardo Ezner, a licensed psychologist from Belgrano University in Argentina, is an Esalen staff member and director of Gazebo School Park. p. 70

Renée Emunah is the founder/director of the Drama Therapy Program at CIIS. She is a past president of the National Association for Drama Therapy and was among the first four drama therapists officially registered in the U.S. p. 46

Jack Engler is a supervising psychologist at Harvard Medical School. He has taught mindfulness meditation for many years in affiliation with the Insight Meditation Society in Barre, Mass., and is on the Board of the Barre Center for Buddhist studies. p. 32

Eric Erickson is a long-term student of gestalt and Eastern philosophical traditions. p. 15

Maty Erzat is a founder and director of Yoga Works in Santa Monica, Calif. She has been teaching and promoting yoga for the past ten years. p. 59

Warren Farrell, author of Why Men Are The Way They Are and The Liberated Man, has been a pioneer in both the women’s and men’s movement, and has appeared on over 1,000 television and radio shows. p. 20

David Feinstein, a clinical psychologist, is coauthor of Mortal Acts, Rituals for Healing, and the forthcoming Weaving the Energies, Firing the Field. He has taught at the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine. p. 25

BEST COPY AVAILABLE
Elaine Hughes, author of Writing from the Inner Self and several other books on writing, has been combining meditation with writing exercises in her teaching for over twenty years. p. 53

Terry Hunt is a licensed psychologist and a certified bioenergetic therapist specializing in addiction disorders and adults from dysfunctional families. He is coauthor of Emotional Healing and Secrets to Tell, Secrets to Keep. p. 33, 65

Leigh Hyams is a painter/teaching-artist at UC Berkeley Extension, adjunct professor at JFK University, and teacher at Aitsita in Greece. A Fulbright Scholar whose work has been exhibited internationally, she leads art tours for museums and universities. p. 40

Sandra Ingerman is an international faculty member of Michael Harner's Foundation for Shamanic Studies. She is the author of Soul Retrieval: Mending the Fragmented Self. p. 25, 65

Ione is a writer, director, playwright, and author of the memoir Pride of Family: Secrets to Keep. p. 25, 65

Julian Isaacs is a faculty member of two Bay Area graduate schools and is clinical director of the EEG Spectrum brainwave biofeedback training facility in Corte Madera, Calif. He regularly conducts professional seminars in the use of alpha/theta brainwave training. p. 29

Linda Jacobson is a professional artist who teaches transformational art at UCLA and internationally. Her teaching reflects her involvement with Tibetan Buddhism, Jungian concepts, and shamanism. p. 39

Jaichima is a Hucul Indian shaman who, with her brother Vicente, maintains a family of shamanistic healers, and a devotional center, in Mexico. p. 40

Susan Kuttner is a marketing and communications consultant, both in business and the healing arts. She assists clients in transforming more effective, more powerful, more heartfelt, and more successful in their efforts. p. 58

Carol LaDue is a focusing teacher, speaking coach, bodyworker, and director of the Body of Listening Fordham. She facilitates people in the embodiment of a meaningful life with compassion, respect, and humor. p. 27

Sarah La Salle is a psychotherapist and teacher who specializes in healing blocks to self-love and creativity. She is in private practice in Santa Monica, Calif. p. 22

Leonard Laskow is a fellow of the American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology and former chief of OB-GYN at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula. He teaches internationally at medical centers, universities, and holistic institutes. p. 17, 53

Barbara Lee is a circlemaker who has worked with groups for the past fifteen years. She focuses on "heart-centered" remembrance of the Divine. p. 52

Lonore Lefer facilitates retreats for women of all ages, people with heart disease, and people with cancer. A former psychotherapist, she works in Northern California and conducts professional psychosynthesis training groups in the U.S. and Russia. p. 36, 70

Mel Lefer has been a research participant and teacher at Dr. Dean Ornish's Preventive Medicine Research Institute for ten years, and has shown reversal of his own heart disease without surgery. He has practiced and taught Integral Yoga for ten years. p. 70

George Leonard is the author of Mastery; The Silent Pulse; and The Transformation. He is a fourth-degree black belt in aikido and founder of Leonard Energy Training (LET). p. 26, 36, 61

Karuna Licht is a psychotherapist in Monterey, Calif, and an artist living in Big Sur. She integrates meditation and creativity in her work with individuals, couples, and groups. She has led Esalen work shop groups for six years. p. 70

Elisa Lodge is an expressive arts therapist with thirty years' experience teaching body/mind practices. She is a professional actress and performing artist. p. 19

Ron Loeb is a corporate lawyer who focuses on corporate governance and responsibility. He is a member of The Jefferson Circle, a learning group for senior corporate executives drawn to the issues of individual and corporate renewal. p. 47

George Lough is a licensed psychologist who has taught psychology and counseling at universities for the past twenty years. He is the coauthor of What Men Are Like and is in private practice in Sherman Oaks, Calif. p. 55

Paul Lounsberry, a founding member of the New York Forum for Psychotherapy Cybernetics, studied hypnosis and psychotherapy with Milton Erickson. He is in private practice in New York and specializes in the innovative use of hypnosis. p. 34, 36

Frank Lowen is a certified instructor and the Viceral Manipulation curriculum director of The Upledger Institute, Inc. He maintains a private practice in New Mexico. p. 40

Francis Lu is a clinical professor of psychiatry at University of California, San Francisco and deputy chief for inpatient psychiatry at San Francisco General Hospital. He has conducted seminars at Esalen on film and transpersonal psychology. p. 31

Olga Luchakova is a spiritual teacher in the tradition of Kaula yoga, Vedanta, and Hesychasm. A former medical doctor, she is an adjunct professor at the California Institute of Integral Studies, Institute of Transpersonal Psychology, and JFK University. p. 17, 48

David Lukoff is a professor of psychology at Saybrook Institute and a psychologist at the San Francisco VA Day Treatment Center. He has published articles on the spiritual and religious dimensions of clinical practice. p. 31

Nancy Kaye Lunney, formerly a vocal coach and accompanist, is the originator of Singing Gestalt, which utilizes lyrics and songs as a means of self-expression. She is director of programming at Esalen. p. 25

Ron Luety is a psychotherapist, group facilitator, and organizational development consultant. His work is based on openness, responsibility, and compassion, as detailed in his recent book, Where Freedom Begins (coauthored with Marion Pastor). p. 49

Joyce Lyke is a teacher in the Ridgewan Work School, which is dedicated to understanding the relationship between personality and being. She has been part of the Esalen Gestalt staff for many years. p. 23, 62

Helen Jerene Malcolm, artist, consultant, and teacher, works with a visionary consulting team designing long-range vision paintings for individual clients and Fortune 500 corporations. p. 15, 59, 69

Noel Mapstead is a local fine artist and potter. He has studied and exhibited extensively in New York and is now at home with Big Sur clay using traditional firing techniques. p. 41, 59

Jena Marcovici is a former touring professional tennis player (1972-1976) who competed against Borg and Vilas. He has a doctorate in counseling and psychology, and a private sports psychology practice in Richmond, Mass. p. 28

Peller Marion is a psychologist, writer, and organizational management consultant. She is president of Peller Marion Associates, Inc., an outplacement and executive development coaching corporation in San Francisco. p. 20

Bonnie Mark is a psychotherapist specializing in child, adolescent, and family therapy. Author of The Handbook of Infant, Child, and Adolescent Therapy (Volumes 1 and 11), she consults and supervises at the Reiss-Donald Child Study Center and teaches at UCLA extension. p. 43

Dean Marson is a practitioner and instructor of Esalen massage who uses self-care techniques as a means of introducing people to the pleasure and potential of human touch. p. 41

Robert Maurer teaches writing classes in creativity, storytelling, and character development at UCLA and USC. He is Director of Behavioral Sciences for the Family Practice Residency Program at Santa Monica-UCLA Medical Center. p. 57

Kim McCourt is a licensed marriage and family counselor and a senior associate at the Esalen Institute. Her bodywork practice incorporates craniosacral, intuitive hands-on energy work, orthodox massage, and shatsu. p. 17
Terence McKenna has spent twenty-five years studying ontological foundations of shamanism and the ethnopharmacology of spiritual transformation. He is the author of Food of the Gods, True Hallucinations, and, with his brother Dennis, The Invisible Landscape. He is a painter who lives in NYC. Her work is informed by spiritual practices, at numerous universities and, with his brother Dennis, The Invisible Landscape. p. 36

Margot McLean is a painter who lives in NYC. Her work is informed by spiritual practices, at numerous universities and, with his brother Dennis, The Invisible Landscape. p. 36

Deborah Anne Medow, Esalen workshop leader and bodywork practitioner since 1969, teaches ashtanga yoga, massage, creative movement, gestalt awareness, and related healing disciplines throughout the U.S. and Europe. p. 34, 37, 69

Peter James Meyers, an actor and director, has performed Off-Broadway in New York and in San Francisco's A.C.T., where he is currently on the directing staff. He is the artistic director of the Vector Theater Company, where also teaches acting and movement. p. 70

Charles Miedzinski is a cofounder of the Arts and Consciousness program at JFL University. He has taught transformative arts, integrating sacred arts, psychology, and spiritual practices, at numerous universities for twenty-five years. p. 61

Chuck Miller has been practicing yoga for twenty-one years and is an advanced Ashtanga student and teacher. His teaching reflects his deep commitment to yoga as a way of life. p. 59

Sukie Miller, former director of education at Esalen, founded the Institute for the Study of the Afterdeath. She has worked extensively with dying patients and has visited and studied over thirty afterdeath systems worldwide. p. 15

Darlene Moore is a research associate at the Institute for Advanced Psychology in San Francisco. She has conducted special projects and taught extended perception workshops for the Institute throughout the U.S., Canada, and Europe. p. 46

Beverly Kitaen Morse is a marriage and family counselor in private practice in Santa Monica and a senior instructor at the Rosenberg-Rand Institute for Integrative Body Psychotherapy. p. 29

Marissa Moss is an award-winning author and illustrator of children's books. She teaches at the University of California at Berkeley extension program. p. 23

Arthur Munyer is a Trigger Point specialist who has been a student and practitioner of various bodywork and emotional release disciplines for over twenty-five years, most of them at Esalen. He has a private practice in Carmel, Calif. p. 21

Claudio Naranjo, a former Esalen resident, introduced meditation as an adjunct to therapy and was first to teach the enneagram as personality map in the U.S. He has given the opening address at all the International Gestalt Conferences. p. 26

Little Bear Nason is the seventh generation spiritual leader of the Esselen Indian Tribe of Big Sur. His life is an apprenticeship to the Earth. p. 43, 72

Maria Nemeth, a clinical psychologist, has been leading seminars for twenty-four years emphasizing successful communication and the development of excellence with race. p. 53

Andy Nusbaum is a twenty-five year member of the P.G.A. a longtime teacher, and a founding board member of The Shivas Irons Society. He is committed to the mysteries, beauties, and transformative capabilities of the game of golf. p. 49

John O'Donohue is a Catholic priest, philosopher, poet, and storyteller. Born in Ireland and steeped in Celtic mysticism, he is the author of Echoes of Memory, a poetry collection, and Stone as the Tabernacle of Memory. p. 15

Heather Maycock Ogilvy, a psychologist in Mendocino, Calif, has been in private practice for twenty years, working with adults and children. She is a longtime Esalen group leader. p. 14

Babatunde Olatunji, master percussionist from Nigeria, has performed and recorded internationally for over thirty-five years and is known for his album Drums of Passion. He is an authority on African religion. p. 28, 19, 61

Kathleen O'Shaughnessy has an extensive background in Soto Zen, the major psychotherapies, movement therapy, nutritional healing, shamanic states, bodywork, and the practicalities of transpersonal crisis. p. 15, 62

Frank Ostaseski is founding director of the Zen Hospice Project and Spiritual Teacher in Residence at Esalen. His work is inspired by years at the bedside of people with AIDS and cancer, a counseling practice focusing on grief and loss, and fifteen years of Buddhist practice. p. 57
Brita Ostrom, a licensed MFCC, has led massage and other workshops at Esalen for twenty-one years. She is trained in gestalt awareness work and participated in Esalen’s two-year somatics education program. p. 15, 28, 65

Helen Palmer has for the past twenty-two years directed CITT, a training center that unites psychological work with the agendas of sacred tradition. She has authored The Enneagram and The Enneagram in Love and Work. p. 32

Laurie Lioness Parizek blends traditional and innovative ways of healing, and works with the chakras and the energy body. She piloted the Healthspring Project, extending Esalen’s work in the healing arts and sciences to the rest of the world. p. 17, 16

Dona Dreyer Perez-Venero studied the shamanic tradition of the Hmong hill tribes in Thailand. She is a transpersonal psychiatrist and serves on the faculty of the University of Maryland Medical School. p. 30

Richard Yensen Perez-Venero studied the shamanic tradition with Carlos Castaneda and Maria Sabina. A psychologist, he has served on the faculties of Harvard Medical School and Johns Hopkins University. p. 30

Maggie Phillips is a psychologist and director of the California Institute of Clinical Hypnosis. She leads workshops on hypnotic and personal growth and is coauthor of Healing the Divided Self. p. 22

Jeanne Pollak is the founder of Botanic Adventures, a wilderness adventure-travel company. She has eighteen years’ experience lecturing, consulting, and formulating herbal products, and teaches at UC Santa Cruz and throughout Northern California. p. 45

Noelle Poncelet is a psychologist and trainer in hypnotherapy in the U.S. and Europe. She is also on the international faculty of the Foundation for Shamanic Studies. p. 22

Steven Post, a Feng Shui practitioner for twenty-five years, is a business and residential consultant who works internationally with architects and developers. He is on the boards of Sacred Sites International Foundation and the Institute of Integrated Sciences. p. 46

Christine Stewart Price is a teacher and ongoing student of gestalt practice and other approaches to developing awareness. p. 16, 17, 44, 60

Carol Proudfoot-Edgar leads workshops on integrating shamanic methods and Native American teachings, with a special interest in Bear Medicine. She is a certified shamanic counselor and teaches for Michael Harner’s Foundation for Shamanic Studies. p. 21

Bill Puka researches ethics—nonjudgmental, inspirational, visionary ethics—evolved at Harvard’s Center for Moral Development. His Be Your Own Hero program promotes community service and worklife ability in the schools. p. 38

Cheryl Purdue is a licensed counselor specializing in personal life journeys. She has a doctorate in psychology and is in private practice in Sherman Oaks, Calif. p. 53

Johanna Putnoi, a somatic educator and communications consultant, teaches the Enneagram to bodyworkers, screenwriters, women inmates, and in corporations throughout the U.S. and Europe. She is a senior associate of the Lomi School. p. 44

Gustavo Rabin is a clinical psychologist who focuses on relationships, life’s transitions, and spiritual creativity. He has a private practice in Los Angeles. p. 27

Paul Rebillot, a group leader at Esalen for more than twenty years, combines gestalt methodology with theater and ritual. He teaches in Europe and throughout the U.S. p. 13

Christopher Reed has been practicing meditation since 1970, teaching since 1981, and has received Dharmacarya transmission as a teacher from Thich Nhat Hanh. He is cofounder and resident teacher at Ordinary Dharma and Mansanita Village Meditation Centers. p. 28

Regina Reilly is a teacher in the Diamond Approach of the Ridhwan Foundation for Spiritual Development and a psychotherapist in private practice in Northern California. p. 20

Tracey Rich has earned the title of “Yoga Acharya” and is the associate director of the White Lotus Foundation in Santa Barbara, Calif. She trains teachers and students and leads seminars nationally. p. 47

Vimala Rodgers, master graphotherapist and author, trains health professionals, psychotherapists, and persons committed to personal transformation. She is director of The Institute of Integral Handwriting Studies. p. 59

Jack Rosenberg, a psychologist and director of the Rosenberg-Rend Institute of Integrative Body Psychotherapy in Venice, California, is the author of Body, Self, and Soul. p. 29

Stephano Sabetti, founder of the Life Energy Process®, has a doctorate in clinical psychology and is an affiliating psychotherapist internationally. He is also an organizational consultant. p. 18

Barbara Sachs trained as a psychotherapist and Ridhwan teacher and was clinical director of counseling at JFK University. She raised her two children as a single parent, integrating her passions: parenting, spiritual life, and psychology. p. 36

Karel Samson is an entrepreneur and teaches creativity, innovation, and environmental entrepreneurship at the University of Vermont and at Nijmynede University in his native Netherlands. p. 13

Terry Sand, Vice-Empress of Playfair, is a motivational speaker presenting programs on humor in the workplace, team building, and humor and healing. She has taught improvisational comedy for over fifteen years. p. 42

Irene Sanders is author of Chaos, Complexity, and Change: A Context for Strategic Thinking, which explains the dynamics of change and how one’s interactions with one’s intuitive understanding by learning to think in pictures. p. 61

Robert Sanoff is a Lomi somatic therapist, twenty years in private practice, and a teacher leading personal growth groups and workshops since 1980, most recently at Esalen Institute. p. 44

Audrey Savage, gestalt practitioner and body therapist, works with women’s issues, sexuality and spirituality, and the tarot. She is the author of The Fourth Woman and Twice Rapped. p. 13

Howard Schechter focuses his work on spiritual and emotional growth. His teaching integrates the insights and practices of a variety of Eastern and Western psychological and spiritual traditions. He is the author of Rekindling the Spirit in Work. p. 52

David Schiffman is a longtime group leader at Esalen. His primary interest is in facilitating people who are in transition toward a more heartfelt, unstrained existence. p. 14, 20, 31, 40, 41, 43, 58, 69, 72

Max Schuepbach has studied and worked with Arnold Mindel for over twenty-five years. He works worldwide with a variety of groups including the Findhorn community, multinational corporations, and indigenous groups in Australia and Canada. p. 61

Laurie Schutz, senior Esalen massage practitioner and teacher, integrates her degree in body awareness psychology with a noninvasive massage approach to maximize the release of both mind and body tension. p. 15

Bruce Scotton is a psychiatrist and editor of Textbook of Transpersonal Psychiatry and Psychology. Associate clinical professor of psychiatry at the UCSF School of Medicine, he has been immersed in cross-cultural studies for over twenty years. p. 29

Bill Sechrest, a past board member of Esalen, is Vice Chairman (U.S.) of the World Business Academy and president of CDAC, a Dallas-based charitable corporation that focuses on neighborhoods, communities, and cities as organic systems. p. 47

Joanne Segel has been a registered movement and transformational therapist for over twenty-five years. She is an affiliate of the Gestalt Institute and integrates Jungian concepts into her work. p. 39

Charlotte Seiver, student of Elsa Gindler, introduced sensory awareness in the U.S., and has been closely connected with Esalen and the San Francisco Zen Center since their beginnings. p. 30

Phyllis Shankman is a licensed counselor in Santa Monica and a longtime Esalen group leader. She is founder and director of The Mountains AIDS Foundation, which offers retreats and grupos for people living with HIV/AIDS. p. 47

Paula Shaw, a professional actress and acting teacher for over twenty years, conducts workshops in expanding self-expression, well-being, and creativity for non-actors across the United States and Canada. p. 55, 58

Cynthia Silverman has been an Advanced Rolfner and teacher of bodywork for sixteen years. A longtime student of A Course in Miracles, she also teaches meditation and body awareness. p. 37

Julian Silverman is a psychologist and educator. He harmonizes a spiritual vision with the theory and methods of both Gestalt psychotherapy and community psychology. p. 36, 37

Tobin Simon is cofounder of Propreceptive Writing and codirector of the Propreceptive Writing Center in Portland, Maine. He is a former professor of English and humanities. p. 24

Ann Skinner is a specialist in mask work, a teacher of voice, and a professional theatre coach. She has recently completed her eighth session as head voice coach at the Stratford Shakespearean Festival in Canada. p. 31

Fritz Smith is a physician, cranial osteopath, certified acupuncturist, and founder of Zero Balancing. He is the author of Inner Bridges: A Guide to Energy Movement and Body Structure. p. 31

Gerald Smith is a licensed psychologist in private practice in San Mateo, Calif. He has authored two books on relationships, Couple Therapy and Hidden Meanings, and has led workshops at Esalen for twenty-nine years. p. 59

Ray Gwyn Smith is a poet and painter from the mountains of North Wales. She unites her bardic heritage with insights from her ongoing solo experience with the wild. p. 55

Fran Solomon, Senior Vice-Empress of Playfair, is an educational speaker who focuses on the use of humor, teamwork, and play to promote innovation, cooperation, and maximum profits. She is also an RN and a professional singer and songwriter. p. 42

Robert Solomon is a professor at the University of Texas and has been giving seminars at Esalen for thirteen years. He is the author of many books, including The Passions and About Love. p. 14

Titos Sompa is a dancer, choreographer, and percussionist who specializes in the cultural arts of the Congo and Zaire. He is the Artistic Director of Mbingo Dance Theatre Project in Santa Cruz, and teaches and performs worldwide. p. 54

John Soper is a gestalt practitioner with a background in international business. He is deeply aware of the need to improve the environment. p. 70
Sara Szpektor has a doctorate in clinical psychology and has been in private practice for twenty years. Working with couples, families, and groups, she combines gestalt practices, strategic counseling, and spiritual development. p. 17

Yao Tamakloe studied African dance, music, and literature at the University of Ghana and at UCLA. He dances with the Drums of Passion Dancers. p. 50

Jim Tamm is an administrative law judge dealing with labor-management disputes. Over the past twenty-five years he has conducted over 1000 settlement conferences, many involving highly emotional strike situations. p. 49

Jeremy Taylor has taught dream work for over twenty-five years. He is president of the American Institute for the Study of Dreams and author of Dream Work and Where People Fly and Water Runs Uphill. p. 55

Linda Teurfs is an organizational consultant and co-founder of The Dialogue Group. She specializes in leadership, self-organizing/management teams, interpersonal communications, and integration of dialogue into a wide variety of settings. p. 27

Vicki Topp has been part of the Esalen massage staff and community since 1968. She currently teaches workshops and training groups internationally and is a student of Body-Mind-Centering®. p. 30, 70

Linda Trichter-Metcalf, formerly a professor of English and humanities, co-founded the practice of Proproceptive Writing and has been teaching it since 1976. She is codirector of the Proproceptive Writing Center in Portland, Maine. p. 24

Stuart Twemlow, physician, psychologist, and author, has practiced and taught internationally for thirty years. He is the author of Coming Home and Where Many Rivers Meet. He teaches throughout the U.S. and Britain. p. 15

Ian Wickramasekera is a psycho-physiologist and professor of psychology at Saybrook Institute. He has made important contributions to mind/body science for over thirty years, for which he has received the Salvador Dali and the Morton Prince Awards. p. 32

Heinz Von Foerster was founder and director of the Biological Computer Laboratory at the University of Illinois, an interdisciplinary international center of the study of empathy, theory, and epistemology of cognitive processes and of the magic of language. p. 40

Robert Walter, Joseph Campbell's collaborator for a decade, is director of the Joseph Campbell Foundation and a poet/playwright with over twenty years of eclectic experience as a teacher, publisher, and theatrical producer/designer/director. p. 33

Ellen Watson practices and teaches massage and movement at Esalen where she has studied since 1984. She coordinates the Esalen Movement Arts Program. She loves her work. p. 55, 56, 70

Matt Weinstein is the founder and Emperor of Playfair, Inc., an international management consulting and team-building organization based in Berkeley, Calif. He is the author of Managing to Have Fun. p. 44

Hank Wesselman teaches anthropology at American River College and Sierra College in northern California. His book, Spiritwalker: Messages from the Future, describes both his scientific and his very personal investigations into shamanic practices. p. 56

Gordon Wheeler is a Gestalt teacher and trainer, and author of numerous works in the field of self theory, personal development, relationship, and intimacy. He has a private practice in Cambridge, Mass. p. 28

Ganga White, yogi, author, and teacher, has practiced and taught internationally for thirty years. Founder of the White Lotus Foundation in Santa Barbara, Calif, he trains teachers and holds the titles of "Yoga Asharya" and "Yogini." p. 47

David Whyte, poet, storyteller, and world traveler, is the author of two books, Songs for Coming Home and Where Many Rivers Meet. He teaches throughout the U.S. and Britain. p. 15

Anita Wise has been training brainwaves for high performance and meditational states for over twenty years. A member of the Academy of Certified Neurotherapists, she is the author of High-Performance Mind: Mastering Brainwaves for Insight, Healing, and Creativity. p. 45

Nina Wise is a performative artist whose provocative and original works have been honored with seven Bay Area Critics' Circle awards and three National Endowment for the Arts fellowships. Her written pieces have appeared in numerous magazines. p. 32

Jonathan Wolken is co-founder of Proliblos Dance Theatre. p. 34

Marion Woodman is a Jungian analyst, author, and international lecturer and workshop leader. Her most recent book is Dancing in the Flames (coauthored with Ellen Dickson). p. 32

Roger Woolger is a Jungian analyst who brings Buddhist meditation and body release work to his regression process and spiritual healing. Author of Other Lives, Other Selves, and The Goddess Within, he trains therapists in Europe and America. p. 58

Américo Yábar is a shaman, mystic, poet, and president of the Andes Association, an organization dedicated to the preservation and expansion of ancestral wisdom throughout the world. p. 58

Yossi Yassour earned a doctorate in decision analysis at Harvard and is the author of Decision to Kill, a book about murderers and their decision-making process. He teaches, consults, and conducts workshops in Israel and the U.S. p. 42

Mira Zussman is associate professor of comparative religion and coordinator of Middle East studies at San Jose State University. She is currently working on her second book, The Feminine Roots of Kabbalah. p. 59
This form is for your convenience in reserving a space in Esalen workshops. If you wish to make reservations for more than one person, please photocopy this form so that each registrant has his/her own form, unless you are registering as a couple with the same address and phone number. A nonrefundable deposit for each person registering and each workshop applied for must accompany this form. (Please see Reservation Information, page 4, under Fees and Reservations, Making Contact with Us, and Cancellation and Refund Policy.)

Name of Registrant:

Address:

City: State: Zip:

Home Phone: Work Phone:

Sex: M F Couple:

Check if you have previously been to Esalen and this is a new address.

Occasionally there are unexpected situations that require us to contact you immediately before your stay here. If you will not be at the above numbers during the two weeks prior to the workshop, where may we reach you?

Please mark your first and second choices for housing after referring to page 4 for accommodation descriptions and rates. Total cost includes workshop fees, lodging, and meals.

Check for standard accommodations, if available.

Check for bunk bed room, if available.

Check for sleeping bag space, if available.

Check if you wish to room as a couple.

Write here the name(s) of any person(s) with whom you wish to room.

All workshop reservations require a nonrefundable deposit. Balance is due at time of check-in. (See page 4.)

Workshop Date Leader’s Name Fee

Workshop Deposits Enclosed:

Tax-deductible contribution to Esalen (Optional):

$5 Catalog Contribution (Optional):

Subtotal:

Total Amount Enclosed:

Check here if you have prepay discount (see page 5).

Check here if this is your first visit to Esalen.

Check here if you need directions to Esalen.

Check here if you are a senior.

FOR OFFICE USE ONLY

DATE REC. RES INITIALS CIRCLE DEPOSIT CC CK CA SUS

DEPOSIT AMT. RES. BK CC AUTH. #

E TYPED TYPED INITIALS PP SCHOL LIMO SENIOR

Thank you for your reservation. As soon as it is processed you will receive by return mail a receipt for your deposit and a notice of confirmation. Please review your confirmation for accuracy.
Esalen Institute is a center to encourage work in the humanities and sciences that promotes human values and potentials. Its activities consist of public seminars, residential work-study programs, invitational conferences, research, and semi-autonomous projects.
Esalen Institute is a center to explore work in the humanities and sciences that promotes human values and potentials. The Institute exists to sponsor, encourage, and attempt evaluation of work in these areas, both inside and outside our own organizational framework. Esalen's activities consist of public seminars, residential work-study programs, invitational conferences, research, and semi-autonomous projects.

Since Esalen is a center for experimental education, we ask that persons come to our programs out of an educational interest. We do not offer "cures" or assurances of change. As a center designed to foster personal and social transformation, Esalen offers those who join us the chance to explore more deeply the world and themselves.

Welcome to Esalen.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>CONTENTS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Volume xxxvi, Number 2</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Audio Recordings ........................................... 73
Biographical Information .................................. 74
Catalog Subscription Information ......................... 2
Continuing Education ........................................ 67
Esalen Notes .................................................... 7
Esalen Seminars ............................................... 13
Friends of Esalen ............................................. 7
Future Programs ............................................... 65
Gazebo School Park Early Childhood Program ............ 5
General Information .......................................... 3
Guide to Workshops .......................................... 9
Invitational Conferences .................................... 66
Reservation Form .............................................. 80
Reservation Information ..................................... 4
Scholarship Information ...................................... 5
Special Programs ............................................. 64
Wilderness Programs ........................................ 72
Work Study Program and Application ...................... 69-71

Esalen Institute
Highway 1
Big Sur, California 93920-9616

Catalog Requests: 408-644-8476

Esalen Board of Trustees:
Mary Ellen Klee
Bokara Legendre
George Leonard
Nancy Kaye Lunney
Michael Murphy
Andy Nusbaum
Jeremy Tarcher

President and CEO:
Sharon Thom

Director of Programming:
Nancy Kaye Lunney

Operations Manager:
David Price

Personnel Manager:
Pat Lewine

Esalen Catalog Staff:
Editors:
Margaret Livingston
Peter Friedberg

Administrative Liaison:
Kasia Zajac

Design & Production:
Terry McGrath

The Esalen Catalog is published triannually by the Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920-9616. Printed on recycled paper. ©1997 Esalen Institute. All rights reserved. ISSN 1088-2782

Subscription Information:
Subscription cost for one year is $15 for the United States, $17 for Canada and Mexico, $22 for Europe and South America, and $25 for all other countries.

Although we're delighted to provide you with this issue of the catalog, if you are not currently a subscriber we would appreciate a $5 contribution to defray postage and production costs.

COVER ART BY TOM KILLION
Esalen was founded in 1962 as an educational center devoted to the exploration of unrealized human capacities. It became known for its blend of East/West philosophies, its experiential/didactic workshops, the steady influx of philosophers, psychologists, artists, and religious thinkers, and its breathtaking grounds blessed with natural hot springs. Once home to a Native American tribe known as the Esselen, Esalen is situated on 27 acres of spectacular Big Sur coastline with the Santa Lucia Mountains rising sharply behind.

There are various ways to experience Esalen, ranging from an overnight visit to a long-term stay as a seminarian. The weekend and five-day workshops described throughout the catalog are the standard route for coming to Esalen. The “Experiencing Esalen” workshops, scheduled periodically, offer an introduction to practices such as gestalt, massage, sensory awareness, and meditation. From such a sampling, participants can then choose those approaches they are most attracted to and pursue them in subsequent seminars.

Another way of being at Esalen which allows a greater involvement at a lower expense is the Work Study Program, an intensive twenty-eight day work-oriented program for individuals who want to make a directed, personal commitment to self-exploration and growth, and a contribution to the Esalen community. For a full description of the Work Study Program, please turn to page 69.

For those who wish an extended stay, there are periodic long-term programs which involve didactic seminars or professional trainings as well as experiential workshops. Please see Special Programs.

Finally, there are other events that enrich life at Esalen. There are occasional forums in which writers and thinkers, both visiting and resident, share their ideas with the community. On Wednesday nights there may be lectures, films, dance performances, or other events. Bodywork of various kinds is available by appointment with individual practitioners. There is also a community event schedule offered. Please check the bulletin board when you arrive.

Esalen is a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on Coast Route 1. From the south, we are 50 miles north of San Simeon. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen—Reservation Only.

Catalog Subscriptions
If you would like to receive the Esalen Catalog, please refer to page 2 for subscription rates and send your check or money order (U.S. currency) in the enclosed subscription envelope, or mail it to: Subscriptions, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920 (see Income Tax Regulation 1.162-5).

The Hot Springs at Esalen
We would like those people who are planning their first visit to Esalen to know that swimsuits are optional, and nudity common, in the hot springs, massage area, and swimming pool. We encourage each individual to choose what is most comfortable, either wearing a swimsuit or not, and emphasize that the environment we strive for at Esalen is one of personal sanctity and respect for the human body.

In addition to around-the-clock availability for Esalen guests, the hot springs are open to the general public, by reservation only, from 1 AM to 3 AM. There is a $10 fee. To make a reservation, please call 408-667-3047.

Accreditation
Many formal educational institutions recognize the time spent at Esalen as being worthy of credit in their own curricula; check with your university or college for further information. We would be glad to supply information to your school regarding any of our programs or series of programs. Please submit a written request to the office supervisor.

Continuing Education at Esalen
Esalen is a provider of continuing education credits for both nurses and psychologists.

Approved workshops for nurses are noted in the Seminars section of this catalog as well as listed separately in the Continuing Education section, page 67. There is a $10 fee for each certificate of completion.

Workshops approved for psychologists are noted in the Seminars section and listed in the Continuing Education section. Those workshops for which C.E.U. applications have been filed and approval is pending are noted in the Seminars section only. For current status information, please phone Brita Ostrom at 408-667-3040.

Esalen has recently applied to become a provider of C.E.U.s for MFCCs and LCSWs, accredited by the California Board of Behavioral Sciences. Those workshops submitted for accreditation are noted in the Seminars section. For current status information, please phone Brita Ostrom at 408-667-3040.

Disabled Access
Esalen now provides a means of transportation to the baths for those with physical limitations which prevent them from walking. A vehicle was purchased, in part, through the generosity of Dr. John W. Harris, who believes, as we do, that those among us who are aged, infirm, or handicapped should also be able to enjoy the hot springs.

If you are disabled and would like to plan a visit to Esalen or participate in a workshop, please give the office as much advance notice as possible. While disabled access to some parts of the property is difficult, with enough planning, arrangements can be made for access to most of our facilities.

Recommended Reading and Mail Order Merchandise
Most books listed as recommended reading for workshops are available through Esalen’s bookstore. All other bookstore items are also available via mail order. For ordering information please call 408-667-3049.

Ongoing Residence Program
Offered beginning mid-September and ending mid-June, the Ongoing Residence Program is designed for those who would like to have time and space in the Esalen environment for an intensive workshop program over a long term. A Residence Program stay is 26 days (four “weeks” and three weekends). Participants may select any of the five-day workshops offered during their stay with weekends free to enjoy room and board. Occasionally workshops are cancelled, so second choices are advised.

The specially discounted cost is $3435 per 26-day period for standard accommodations and $2710 for bunk bed rooms.
RESERVATION INFORMATION

Making Contact with Us

Mail or Fax: The most efficient way to register for a workshop at Esalen is to fax or mail your reservation. If you fax your reservation, be sure to include accurate credit card information.

Esalen's Fax: 408-667-2724
(Our fax line is exclusively for reservations—no personal correspondence, please.)

Phone: If you prefer to make your reservation by phone, please be prepared with your completed reservation form, workshop dates and leaders, and your credit card. We know that all calls to Esalen are long-distance and will try to be as efficient as possible.

General Information: 408-667-3000

Express Reservations: 408-644-8477
(This is only for those who have previously taken a workshop at Esalen and know the workshop, date, and leader of the workshop for which they are registering.)

All Other Reservations: 408-667-3005

Catalog Requests: 408-644-8476

Phone Reservation Hours:
Mon., Tues., Thur.: 10 AM to 7 PM
Wednesday: 10 AM to 12 NOON
Friday: 10 AM to 5 PM
Saturday: 10 AM to 3 PM
Sunday: 12 NOON to 5 PM

*The reservation office is closed on Christmas and New Year's Day.

World Wide Web: http://www.esalen.org

Fees

Fees and Reservations: Preregistration, by fax, mail, or phone, is required prior to arrival. A registration form is provided on page 80. Since workshops fill quickly, it is advisable to sign up as early as possible. In order to reserve a space in any workshop, we require full payment of the following deposits:

Weekend: $150 19 to 21 days: $450
5 to 7 days: $300 More than 21 days: $125
12 to 14 days: $400 600

Deposits are payable in U.S. currency only. Overseas residents must pay by checks drawn on U.S. banks or use a credit card. Balance of payment is due on arrival. (Please see page 5 for information on discounts and reduced rate options.)

Please indicate your second choice for a workshop in case your first choice is cancelled and we are unable to reach you.

Esalen Institute reserves the right to cancel any program at any time.

Workshop Accommodations

Please Note: Workshop fees cover tuition, food, and lodging. Fees are subject to change without notice.

All accommodations are shared. We cannot guarantee requests for singles.

Standard Accommodations: This is shared housing with two or three persons per room. In some cases, bathrooms are shared. Couples will always be housed together. The rates listed with the workshop descriptions throughout the catalog refer to these shared standard accommodations.

7-Day Rate, 5-Day Rate, Weekend Rate, per person per person per person
$1220 $795 $425

Bunk Bed Rooms: Bunk beds are available for seminar participants who are willing to share a room with three or more persons. There are a limited number of these spaces, which are reserved on a first-come, first-served basis.

$920 $595 $325

Sleeping Bags: Meeting rooms are sometimes used as shared sleeping bag space and may be available for workshop participants with limited financial means. Sleeping bag spaces are for sleeping only, as meeting rooms are frequently in use and therefore inaccessible between 10 AM and 10 PM.

$625 $415 $220

Own Accommodations: If you are staying off the property the following rates apply:

$715 $460 $255

Camping on the grounds, either in tents or cars, is prohibited. We do not have parking space to accommodate RVs.

We would like to remind you that scholarship assistance is available; refer to Scholarship Information as well as Reduced Rate Options and Discounts for other economical ways of staying at Esalen.

Room and Board

Occasionally, when beds aren't needed for seminars, room and board is available. This gives visitors the opportunity to enjoy the grounds, the baths, and massage without participating in a workshop. Accommodations are standard (2 or 3 per room) or bunk bed (4 or more per room). Not all rooms have private baths. Room and board rates include dinner on the day of arrival and breakfast and lunch on the following day. We require full payment at the time of reservation. This payment is nonrefundable and nontransferable.

Note: Room and Board reservations must be made with a reservation specialist by phone, not by fax machine.

For a room and board stay between Sunday and Thursday, please call us no earlier than the Thursday before for room availability. For a Friday or Saturday night stay, please call no earlier than the Sunday before. The following rates are per person, per day.*

Weekend (Friday and Saturday nights) Weekday (Sunday through Thursday nights)

Standard Accommodations (2 or 3 per room):
$125 $105

Bunk Bed (4 or more per room):
$85 $80

*Off-season rates are in effect from October 1 through March 31, holidays excepted.

Cancellation Policy

Cancellation and Refund Policy:
Cancellations must be made by phone with one of our reservation staff. If you cancel or change any part of your reservation at least five full days before the start of your workshop(s), your nonrefundable deposit, less a $30-per-workshop processing fee, will be transferred to a credit account to be used within one year. (Five full days means by Tuesday before a Sunday workshop and by Sunday before a Friday workshop.) If you cancel with less than five days’ notice, you forfeit your entire deposit. If you have prepaid your entire reservation fee, we will retain the deposit, as above, less the $30 processing fee, and return the balance to you. (Please note: Wilderness Programs has a different cancellation and refund policy.)
Scholarship Information

Standard and Bunk Bed Accommodations: Esalen is able to provide some scholarship assistance to workshop participants in exchange for a work commitment (usually in the kitchen). Approved scholarship recipients will receive their work schedules upon arrival at Esalen.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Assistance</th>
<th>Work</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Weekend</td>
<td>$50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5-9 days</td>
<td>$100</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12-14 days</td>
<td>$200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>14+ days</td>
<td>$300</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

If additional scholarship assistance is required, please send a letter of explanation to: Scholarships at Esalen. Due to the number of requests we receive, we can only provide one scholarship per person per year.

Reduced Rate Options and Discounts

If you pay in full at the time you make your reservation, you will receive a $10 prepayment discount per workshop and be eligible for express check-in upon arrival. This discount does not apply to scholarship recipients, sleeping bag accommodations, or the Ongoing Residence Program.

Senior Citizen Discount: Esalen offers a special discount to individuals over 65 years of age. The discount for a weekend workshop is $2.50; for a five-day or longer program, it’s $5. Please request this discount at the time of registration. When you complete the reservation form on page 80, please indicate the discounts for which you qualify. If you qualify, and you make your reservation by phone, be sure to ask for this discount. (Please note: Senior discounts are not available for the Work Study Program.)

Accommodations for Families: Two full-paying adults housed in standard accommodations may have their children in the room for a meal charge of $20 per child per day ($10 for children under six). Note: If children are enrolled in Gazebo School Park or an Esalen workshop, additional fees are required. Contact the Gazebo, 408-667-3026, for information regarding their fees.

Workshops for Families: Participating families will pay full workshop rates for the first two participants (adult or child). Each additional participant will pay the following rate:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Workshop</th>
<th>Rate</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>2-day</td>
<td>$115</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3-day</td>
<td>$165</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4-day</td>
<td>$210</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5-day</td>
<td>$245</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Additional sleeping mats and bedding will be provided for each room.

The Gazebo School Park Early Childhood Program

The Gazebo School Park is a unique educational experience for children one to six years. It is open year-round and has an average of 15 to 20 children in attendance each day.

The Early Childhood Program is available to seminarians who would like to care for children at Esalen. Child care is provided during workshop hours only. Daytime activities for the children include gardening, pony rides, learning about animal care, exploring nature, a real boat, the magic castle, and an Indian tepee.

Evenings are spent with a teacher in the Gazebo Farmhouse, engaged in activities that are age appropriate, such as reading, learning and playing with the computer, baking, arts and crafts, or building-block play.

Reservations should be made at least one month in advance. Call the Gazebo Farmhouse, 408-667-3026, for more information and reservations.

Internship Program: This is a three-month program for those who wish to have intense exposure to life at the Gazebo School Park and its unique educational resources. The Internship Program offers experience with children, the Gazebo environment, and its teaching philosophy. Applicants must have completed at least three work scholar months at Esalen before being considered for this program.

Call the Gazebo Farmhouse, 408-667-3026, for more information or reservations.

Seminarians as Volunteers

Seminarians in residence at Esalen are invited to contribute one or two hours per week to work with the staff, usually in the kitchen. Your help enables us to meet the pressures of peak working times and enables you to experience Esalen from the inside out.

Transportation to Esalen

Van Service: On Fridays and Sundays we have van service from the Monterey Airport at approximately 4 PM and from the Monterey Transit Plaza (corner of Pearl and Alvarado, next to Ordway Drug) at approximately 4:20 PM. If you plan to use this service, please inform the Esalen office at least 24 hours prior to your arrival. The $30 one-way fee (subject to change) is payable to the Esalen office when you check in. Return reservations may be made at that time. The only departing van service from Esalen is on Fridays and Sundays at approximately 6:30 PM. If you plan to use this departure service, please make sure that your plane reservations are after 8 PM.

Checking In

Check-in and Meals: Rooms become available at 4 PM; however, guests are welcome to arrive anytime after 2 PM. Weekend programs begin with dinner on Friday and end with brunch on Sunday. Five-day and longer programs begin with dinner on Friday or Sunday and end with lunch on Friday or Sunday.

Checking-out time is noon on departure day.

F. Y. I.

Health Services: There are no medical services or pharmaceutical supplies available at Esalen. If you require medical attention or supplies during your stay, please come prepared to administer to your own needs. Esalen is 45 miles from the nearest medical facility or pharmacy.

Snoring: All of our accommodations are shared. You or your roommate may snore. Please come prepared (nose guards, ear plugs, etc.) for this possibility.

For Your Safety: Please bring a flashlight for use at night while walking on the grounds.

Illegal Drugs: In accordance with state and federal laws, the possession or use of illegal drugs on Esalen grounds is strictly prohibited.

Lost and Found: To inquire about items left behind from your Esalen visit, call 408-667-3019.

Guests: Seminarians are not allowed guests on the property during their stay.

Pets: No pets are allowed on the property.

Smoking: Smoking is not permitted in any of our accommodations or meeting rooms.
The Esalen® Massage Video

is now available for sale.
Learn step-by-step to give an Esalen® Massage following this newly released instructional video.
$29.95 plus shipping.
To order or request information, please fax: 415-389-8450.

Coming to Bookstores in September...

MICHAEL MURPHY'S
The Kingdom of Shivas Irons

The successor to the best-selling novel Golf in the Kingdom.
This new book explores what Michael Murphy calls "metanormal embodiment," and describes Murphy's search for Shivas Irons, the remarkable golf pro he met in Scotland in 1956.

The Esalen Institute Massage Crew has organized a professional association known as the Esalen® Massage and Bodywork Association, or EMBA. The purpose of the association is to ensure the continuing quality of Esalen Massage by establishing and maintaining education and certification standards for practitioners and teachers of Esalen Massage. The EMBA will also publish and distribute newsletters and practitioner directories. This organization will support our community of students, practitioners, and teachers.

The EMBA upholds one of the original visions of Esalen Institute: People come and study, then go out into the world to practice and share that they have learned. This vision was developed and encouraged by co-founders Dick Price and Michael Murphy.

Our intention is to support research and continuing evolution in the fields of massage, bodywork, and somatics. We plan to network with other professional associations. We hope to continue the worldwide teaching of Esalen Massage.

We invite you to contact us at the above number for more information.
Bette Dingman, Work Study Coordinator

Bette Dingman has lived, worked, and taught at Esalen since 1974. A onetime aspiring nun and former casino chip-girl, Bette took over the Work Study Program in 1977 and shepherded it from a loosely structured handful of temporary and permanent volunteers to a transformative program that has been filled to capacity since its inception. True to Bette's vision and commitment, the Work Study Program has provided a safe environment and tools for living to people in transition or whose lives simply weren't working. It is a program considered by many to be the heart and soul of Esalen.

Plain-speaking and straightforward, loyal and compassionate, Bette will be retiring in June of this year. She plans to follow her passion and breed shih tzus. Says Bette, with characteristic simplicity, "I love Esalen. I'll always be a part of it."

The Esalen Catalog via Internet

The Esalen Catalog is available on-line. In addition to updated workshop availability and information on ways of being at Esalen, the new World Wide Web site also includes announcements of upcoming special events as well as history and feature stories from Esalen.

To access the site, set your web browser to:
http://www.esalen.org

For more information or comments on the Esalen site, send e-mail to:
catguy@esalen.org

Scheduling Private Conferences at Esalen

It is possible to arrange for your group or organization to hold its conferences at Esalen. We can accommodate large groups (up to 100) on a space-available basis.

Smaller groups may schedule private conferences in our renovated Big House. This facility is available for individuals who work together and would like to design their own Esalen program, drawing on our leaders and other resources. Ten bedrooms, nine bathrooms, a kitchen, dining room, and meeting room make it possible to house group members together, thereby enhancing the retreat environment.

We schedule all conferences a year in advance. To schedule or discuss possible formats, please contact conference coordinator Kasia Zajac at 408-667-3038.

The Esalen Catalog (1962-1992) Available via the Educational Resources Information Center (ERIC)

Anyone interested in The Esalen Catalog as human potential movement historical source material for research purposes can now obtain the complete thirty-one-year set from ERIC's document delivery arm, the ERIC Document Reproduction Service (EDRS, 7420 Fullerton Road, Suite 110, Springfield, Virginia 22153-2852; phone 1-800-443-3742). When ordering either microfiche or reproduced paper copy, please refer to the catalog's ERIC accession number ED 347 118.
Guide to Workshops

This is a guide to the workshops offered in this catalog. Although many of them could be cross-referenced—and some resist easy categorization—most are listed only in their main subject area. If you have never been to Esalen or taken an Esalen workshop, you might want to consider the "Experiencing Esalen" workshop scheduled throughout the catalog and listed in the Integral Practices section of this directory. Please call the Esalen office if you have questions concerning a workshop.

The Arts / Creativity

May 4-9 • Believe I'll Sing: Singing in the African-American Tradition
May 4-9 • Exquisite Landscape/Exquisite Corpse: Expanding Perception through Collaborative Drawing
May 9-11 • Exploring our Multidimensionality through Drama Therapy
May 23-25 • African Dance: Expressions of Spiritual Energy
May 30-June 1 • Writing From Your Life
June 6-8 • From the Congo to Dreamtime
June 8-13 • The MAX: Stretching the Limits of Your Self-Expression
June 8-13 • Awakening Vision through Conscious Photography
June 8-13 • Wearable Art: A Polymer Clay Workshop
June 15-20 • A Potter's View of the Universe: Big Sur Clay
June 20-22 • Vision Painting
June 22-27 • Unmasking the True Self
June 27-29 • Chaos and Complexity in Photography, Life, and Work
June 29-July 6 • Language of the Drums: African Percussion, Chanting, and Dance

July 6-11 • Massage Mbunde
July 11-13 • Wearable Art: A Fimo Clay Workshop for Families
July 13-18 • Improvisational Being
July 18-20 • Release Your Genie: Eleven Keys to Awaken Your Creative Power
July 20-25 • Film and Healing: Courage and Compassion
July 20-25 • The Story of Your Life: Becoming the Author of Your Experience
July 27-August 1 • Music and Miracles: Tone, Sound, and Chant
July 27-August 1 • The Power of the Creative Process for Self-Transformation

August 3-8 • Living Dance: A Moving Way
August 10-15 • The Writer's Way: Freeing the Authentic Voice
August 10-15 • Improvisation in Music, Movement, and Life
August 15-17 • Self-Transformation: The Art of the Actor for Everyday Life
August 17-22 • Drawing on the Right Side of the Brain
August 22-24 • Writing About Our Lives
August 24-29 • Poetic Medicines, Intuitive Remedies
August 31-September 5 • Waves

September 5-7 • Daughters of Saturn: From Father's Daughter to Creative Woman
September 7-12 • Traditional Raku
September 14-19 • Creative Arts Center at Esalen
September 19-21 • Singing Gestalt
September 21-26 • Writing the Natural Way
September 28-October 3 • The Space of Creation

October 3-5 • Imagination, Presence, and Joy
October 12-17 • The Painting Experience
October 12-17 • Poems of Sacred Place: Writing and Telling
October 17-24 • The Painting Experience
October 17-19 • Story is the Entire World: A Writing Workshop
October 19-24 • Vocal Awareness: Empowerment Through Voice
October 24-26 • Rhythms of the World: Enhancing Your Rhythmic Vocabulary
October 26-31 • The Vein of Gold: A Journey to Your Creative Heart

Biofeedback / Hypnosis / Intuitive Development

May 2-4 • The Awakened Mind: Brainwave Training
May 4-9 • The High-Performance Mind: Awakened Mind Brainwave Training
May 9-11 • Intuition and Perception: Extending the Boundaries
July 11-13 • Intuition, Healing, and Change
July 13-18 • Facilitating Deep Process Using the Penniston Protocol Alpha/Theta Brainwave Training Technique
August 15-17 • Innovative Hypnotherapeutic Approaches to Mind-Body Healing
August 17-24 • Hypnotic Conversations: Psychotherapy in the Tradition of Milton Erickson
September 21-26 • The High-Performance Mind: Awakened Mind Brainwave Training

October 3-5 • The Awakened Mind: Brainwave Training
October 5-10 • Intuition and the Dance of Attention

Business / Workplace / Social Responsibility

May 2-4 • Managing to Have Fun: The Power of Humor in Business
May 11-16 • Meeting the Challenge of the New Business Paradigm
May 18-23 • From Conflict to Partnership
May 23-25 • Green Buildings with Magical Spaces
June 13-15 • The Visionary Life
July 18-25 • The Organization as a Living System: Managing and Coaching Human Resources
August 8-10 • The Art of Leadership: Communication, Creativity, Vision
August 17-22 • Managing With Heart: Changing the Leadership Paradigm
October 3-5 • Maps of the Jungle: Negotiating the Primitive Dimensions of the Workplace

Children / Families / Education

June 29-July 6 • Children's "Indepen-Dance": Celebrating Kids, Celebrating Community
July 6-11 • Art, Acting, Music, and Fun: A Children's Festival
July 11-13 • Healing Learning Disabilities
July 11-13 • Wearable Art: A Fimo Clay Workshop for Families
July 13-18 • The Parenting Process
July 13-18 • Creativity and Community: A Workshop for Children
July 25-27 • Lessons from Children with Cancer: A Healthier Way of Being Ill
July 27-August 1 • Lego® Mania and Explorer Camp: For Children

C CONTEMPLATIVE / SPIRITUAL & RELIGIOUS STUDIES

May 4-9 • Rowing Toward God: Angels, Powers, and the Ecstatic Journey to Our Souls
May 9-11 • Feng Shui, Chi, and Successful Living: In Search of Harmony and Balance
May 16-18 • The Profound Stillness of Being: Advaita Meditation
May 18-23 • "Look Mom, No Self"—The Narcissistic Process in Spiritual Development
May 23-25 • OpenMind Training: Innovations in Meditation and Mind/Body Healing
June 6-8 • Introduction to Mindfulness Meditation
June 8-13 • Feeding the Demons: The Chod Teachings of Tibetan Buddhism
June 22-27 • Nada Brahma: The World is Sound
June 29-July 6 • Basic Trust and the Spiritual Path
July 13-18 • Time of the Soul
July 27-August 1 • To Hell and Back: Dante's Journey for Today's Pilgrims
August 8-10 • The Subtle Art of Meditation
August 24-29 • A Course in Miracles

September 5-7 • The Subtle Self
September 7-12 • Recycled Catholics: Soul Journeys Toward Authentic Relationship with God
September 21-26 • Dzogchen—Awakening the Buddha Within: A Silent Meditation and Self-Inquiry Retreat
September 26-28 • The Sound of the Self
October 5-10 • Zen and the Art of Anything
October 17-19 • A Weekend with Lama Tharchin Rinpoche
October 19-24 • Sufism: Human Completion and the Divine Names

C DREAMS

May 2-4 • The Healing Power of the Dream
May 23-25 • Night Poetry: A Workshop on Dreaming
June 6-8 • From the Congo to Dreamtime
June 8-13 • Dreaming: The Magic Mirror that Never Lies
July 6-11 • The Dream Master: Dreams and Fantasies
August 8-10 • Dreams: A Guiding Force
September 14-19 • Conscious Dreaming: The Path of the Shaman in Everyday Life

C HEALTH / HEALING

May 9-11 • Practical Herbology: An Esalen Garden Workshop
May 11-16 • Living with a Life-Threatening Illness: The Spiritual Journey
May 30-June 1 • Core Holoenergetics®: The Art and Science of Conscious Healing
June 1-6 • Holoenergetics® Level One Training
June 13-15 • Facing Death: Meeting Ourselves in the Care of the Dying
July 11-13 • A Society of Souls: The Uses of Non-Ordinary Reality in Healing
July 25-27 • Lessons from Children with Cancer: A Healthier Way of Being Ill
August 24-29 • Spiritual Healing: Laying on of Hands
September 12-14 • Therapeutic Touch: Healing for Everyone—Everyone a Healer
September 28-October 3 • Taoist Chi Kung: Enhancing Vitality
October 5-10 • Managing Your Stress, Your Heart, and Your Life

C INTEGRAL PRACTICES

May 30-June 1 • Experiencing Esalen
June 13-15 • Experiencing Esalen
June 22-27 • Turning On the Light: A Choice to Live Consciously
June 27-29 • The Ultimate Yes
July 25-27 • Experiencing Esalen
August 1-3 • The Life We Are Given
August 1-3 • The Healing Power of Humor, Compassion, and Gentle Touch: The Rubenfeld Synergy® Method
August 3-8 • Healing the Emotional/Spiritual Body: The Rubenfeld Synergy® Method
August 15-17 • Experiencing Esalen
August 24-29 • Life Energy Process®
September 26-28 • Experiencing Esalen
September 28-October 3 • Turning On the Light: A Choice to Live Consciously
October 12-17 • Finding Life Balance
October 24-26 • Experiencing Esalen
October 24-26 • The Tao of Practice

MARTIAL ARTS / YOGA / SPORT

May 11-16 • Yoga: The Art of Living
May 16-18 • Joy is the Journey: Hatha Yoga and More
May 18-23 • Golf in the Kingdom: An Exploration of the Deeper Game
June 20-22 • Yoga Works: Tools for Well-Being
June 22-27 • ISHTA: The Yoga of Empowerment
July 13-18 • Golf in the Kingdom: An Exploration of the Deeper Game
July 20-25 • Chi Kung/Nei Gung

MYTH / RITUAL / SHAMANISM / ANTHROPOLOGY

June 8-13 • Hunting Power—Gathering Knowledge: A Workshop in Applied Shamanism
June 15-20 • Soul Dramas: Past-Life Regression and Spiritual Healing for (Helping) Professionals
July 25-27 • Experiencing the Energy of the Orixas: The Afro-Brazilian Tradition of Umbanda
August 3-8 • To Be Ripe to Die, To Be Ready to Live

August 29-31 • Yoga and Healing
September 7-12 • Golf in the Kingdom: An Exploration of the Deeper Game
September 12-14 • Releasing the Warrior: Assault Prevention for Women
September 28-October 3 • Taoist Chi Kung: Enhancing Vitality
September 5-7 • The Home Within the Heart: Ojibwe Tribal Healings
September 7-12 • Peruvian Shamanism: Heart of the Healer
September 12-14 • Journey on the Shining Path: African Shamanic Thought and Practice
September 14-19 • Conscious Dreaming: The Path of the Shaman in Everyday Life

PHILOSOPHICAL INQUIRY / INTELLECTUAL PLAY

June 6-8 • Between Earth and Sky: Celestial Mathematics and Terrestrial Forces
June 20-22 • Models of the Ineffable: Kabbalah, Practical Alchemy, and Western Science
June 27-29 • Chaos and Complexity in Photography, Life, and Work
August 1-3 • The Life We Are Given
August 3-8 • To Be Ripe to Die, To Be Ready to Live
August 8-10 • A Weekend with Terence McKenna
August 22-24 • The Second Coming of Science
October 12-17 • Life Beyond Death

PROFESSIONAL GROWTH / TRAINING

May 25-30 • Group Process Training
June 1-6 • Holoenergetics' Level One Training
June 22-29 • Gestalt Practicum
July 11-13 • Healing Learning Disabilities
July 13-18 • Facilitating Deep Process Using the Penniston Protocol Alpha/Theta Brainwave Training Technique
July 18-20 • The Personal Growth and Development of the Clinician
August 10-15 • The Art of Listening: A Mind/Body Clinical Practicum
August 15-17 • Innovative Hypnotherapeutic Approaches to Mind-Body Healing
August 17-24 • Hypnotic Conversations: Psychotherapy in the Tradition of Milton Erickson
October 3-5 • Pandora’s Gifts: On Secrets, Health, and Healing
October 24-26 • Taking Care of Yourself While Helping Others: Survival Tools for Service Professionals

PSYCHOLOGICAL / TRANSPERSONAL PROCESS

May 2-4 • Mothers and Daughters: An Exploration in Communication, Identity, and Self-Esteem
May 4-9 • Courage
May 9-11 • The Sources of Growth
May 9-11 • Exploring our Multidimensionality through Drama Therapy
May 11-16 • Being Single
May 16-18 • In Search of the Secret of Joy
May 18-23 • Completions and Transitions
May 25-30 • Healing Body Image and Sexuality
May 25-30 • Group Process Training
May 25-30 • The Core Self: Return to Innocence and Choice
May 30-June 1 • Forgiveness

June 1-6 • The Cosmic Game: Explorations of the Frontiers of Human Consciousness
June 1-6 • Parent and Child Reunion
June 6-8 • Gestalt Practice
June 6-8 • When a Mentor Fails You
June 8-13 • The MAX: Stretching the Limits of Your Self-Expression
June 13-15 • The Visionary Life
June 15-20 • The Good Life: Simple Secrets, Seasoned Wisdom, Sacred Vows
June 20-22 • Change Your Handwriting, Change Your Life
June 22-29 • Gestalt Practicum
June 22-27 • Forgiveness: The Key to Intimacy
June 22-27 • Unmasking the True Self
June 27-29 • Sexuality, Relationships, and Consensus Reality
June 29-July 6 • Dancing with the Shadow
July 6-11 • The Power of Growth
July 6-11 • Cultivating Resilience
July 11-13 • Psychosynthesis: Personal and Transpersonal Growth
July 13-18 • Time of the Soul
July 25-August 1 • Bonding: The Heart of Dialogue
July 25-27 • A New Beginning: Courage and Heart
July 27-August 1 • Playing the Edge
August 3-8 • Creating Exact Moments of Healing
August 8-10 • The Art of Leadership: Communication, Creativity, Vision
August 15-17 • Roots and Wings
August 17-22 • Choosing Aliveness
August 22-24 • The Sources of Growth
August 29-31 • Re-Solving Your Past, Remembering Who You Are: A Gestalt Process Workshop
September 5-7 • 'Tis a Gift to Be Simple
September 7-12 • The Transformative Power of Grief
September 12-14 • Time Shifting: Creating Time for Your Life
September 14-19 • Healing Our Hearts
September 14-19 • El Lenguaje de la Libertad (The Language of Freedom)
September 21-26 • Experiencing the Celestine Prophecy: Connecting to Your Life Purpose
September 26-28 • The Art of Living Consciously
September 26-28 • Healing of Heart and Mind: Choosing to Change
October 3-5 • Pandora’s Gifts: On Secrets, Health, and Healing
October 5-10 • Letting Go—Moving On
October 12-17 • The Practical Art of Creative Risk-Taking
October 19-24 • Gestalt Practice

RELATIONSHIP / COMMUNICATION

May 18-23 • From Conflict to Partnership
May 23-25 • A Return to Intimacy and Passion
June 13-15 • Powerfully Presenting Yourself
June 20-22 • Close Yet Free: Keeping a Good Relationship Alive
June 27-29 • Sexuality, Relationships, and Consensus Reality
July 6-11 • A Longing for Wholeness: Embracing the Shadow in Relationship
July 18-20 • Intimate Relationships: Keeping the Spark Alive
July 20-25 • Relationship Intensive

Best Copy Available
August 1-3 • Intimate Connections
August 29-31 • The Art of Conversation/The Art of the Interview
August 29-31 • Relationships: The Courage to Begin
September 26-28 • Communication and Partnership
October 10-12 • Relationship as a Spiritual Path

C SOMATICS

May 2-4 • Mindbody Rhythms
May 4-9 • Lomi Somatic Intensive: An Active Exploration of Presence
May 25-June 1 • Cortical Reeducation and the Feldenkrais Method
June 13-15 • Weekend Massage Intensive
June 15-20 • Mountains and Waves: Wilderness and Continuum
June 29-July 6 • Intermediate/Advanced Massage Intensive
July 6-11 • Massage Mbunde
July 18-20 • Moving into Health: Feldenkrais and Energetic Movement
August 10-15 • Core Zero Balancing: Basic I and II
August 10-15 • Advanced Cortical Reeducation and the Feldenkrais Method
August 15-17 • Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais Approach
August 17-22 • Five-Day Massage Intensive
August 22-24 • Breema Bodywork: The Nonjudgmental Treatment
September 5-7 • Weekend Massage Intensive
September 7-12 • In Search of the Healing Self: Movement, Touch, and the Healing Process
September 14-19 • Continuum
September 19-21 • Massage Intensive for Couples
September 21-26 • Five-Day Massage Intensive
September 28-October 3 • The Upledger Institute's CranioSacral II
October 5-10 • Intuition and the Dance of Attention
October 5-10 • Reflexology—Then and Now
October 19-24 • Trigger Point Massage: A Sensitive Approach

C WILDERNESS / ECOPSYCHOLOGY

May 4-9 • Apprenticeship to the Earth—Return to Sacred Ground
May 16-18 • Big Sur Wilderness Experience
June 1-6 • Big Sur Wilderness Experience
June 15-20 • Mountains and Waves: Wilderness and Continuum
August 3-8 • Spirit Dance: A Shamanic Wilderness Journey
August 8-10 • Big Sur Wilderness Experience
August 24-29 • Big Sur Wilderness Experience
September 12-14 • Council of All Beings
September 28-October 3 • The Way of Wilderness
October 3-5 • Big Sur Wilderness Experience
October 12-17 • Heart of Big Sur: Journey into the Santa Lucia Mountains

C WOMEN'S / MEN'S STUDIES

May 2-4 • Mothers and Daughters: An Exploration in Communication, Identity, and Self-Esteem
May 18-23 • Moving Through Idealization and Shame to Love: A Workshop for Gay Men
June 6-8 • Living with Breast Surgery: A Workshop for Women
September 5-7 • Daughters of Saturn: From Father's Daughter to Creative Woman
September 19-21 • Why Men Are the Way They Are
October 17-19 • A Retreat for Women of Experience: Midlife and Beyond
October 24-26 • Joy, Inspiration, and Hope: A Retreat for Gay Men
Weekend of May 2-4

The Awakened Mind: Brainwave Training
Anna Wise

Inside each person lives a wealth of knowledge, capacities, and power rarely transmitted to the conscious mind. Brainwave training, combined with meditation and biofeedback monitoring, can help develop these deeper resources, allowing access to greater creativity, reduced stress, and a deeper awareness and understanding of the inner self.

After assessing the brainwave patterns of hundreds of unusually highly-functioning people, C. Maxwell Cade of London's Institute for Psychobiological Research began to see similarities in the patterns of optimal states of mind. Drawing upon Cade's work, Anna Wise has developed a training program to help access these optimal states.

Different methods of meditation, visualization, and psychophysiological relaxation affect our brainwaves in particular ways. So do specific acts such as tongue, eye, and body positions. In this workshop you can learn techniques for brainwave development of beta, alpha, theta, and delta, and begin to determine which methods of practice are best for your particular brainwave pattern. You will also address how you can use these optimum states for your own creativity, mental flexibility, self-healing, problem solving, and spiritual development.

The Mind Mirror EEG will be used to demonstrate brainwave patterns, and each participant will be able to use an Electrical Skin Resistance Meter to measure the depth of arousal or relaxation of the nervous system.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

Managing to Have Fun: The Power of Humor in Business
Matt Weinstein, Fran Solomon, Rich Davidson & Terry Sand

Recent research clearly establishes that workers who are having fun on the job outproduce and feel better about themselves and their company than workers who are "satisfied" with their job but who are not having fun. In this experiential workshop, the senior staff members of Playfair Inc., an international management consulting organization, take a look at ways to restructure the corporate culture so that it supports laughter, play, and the "human" values in the workplace—and at the same time increases productivity, teamwork, and physical well-being.

Through games, exercises, and assorted activities, participants can learn how to find more joy in their work lives and more playtime in their personal lives. Come prepared for some serious fun.

The Healing Power of the Dream
Joyce Frazee

Each night we dream
Each dream a work of art
Each work of art a healing

This seminar will reveal how simple approaches to the art and artfulness of dreams can reveal the healing power of the dream.

Joyce Frazee writes: "Most of us forget our dreams and so are unable to receive the gift of healing the dream has to offer. When we do remember we wonder, Who are these strangers and acquaintances, friends and lovers who come to visit us at night—often bizarrely different from their daytime roles? Who are these monsters and attackers?"
This weekend workshop will focus on techniques for remembering and working with dreams, including how to use dreamwork for therapeutic intervention and how to use dreams to uncover body memories. Storytelling, role-playing, drawing, dancing, meditation, and Gestalt will also be used to learn how the dream itself—and the understanding of the dream—can be the healer.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

Mindbody Rhythms
Angelina Spector

Mindbody Rhythms integrates the mind, the body, and the spirit through guided movement. More than just a physical fitness program, this workshop introduces a workout that combines dance, martial arts, and fitness with emotional expression and meditative awareness. Mindbody Rhythms offers beginners and experienced movers alike a synthesis of joyful movement that allows the body to move with efficiency and ease. Drawing on the work of Debbie and Carlos Rosas's NIA Technique, the Pilates-based PhysicalMind Method, and European stretch therapies, this workshop provides participants with principles of alignment, movement, and muscle use that develop core body strength.

The workshop is comprised of a three-stage process. Each stage includes a ninety-minute Mindbody Rhythms workout and focuses intensively on a specific aspect of movement. Participants will begin by finding the level of fitness that enables them to move at their optimum capacity. They will then work through the feet for balance and grounding. The final section will focus on developing fluidity and strength with the head, chest, and pelvis.

Anyone, regardless of fitness level or movement experience, can benefit from this comprehensive movement practice.

Mothers and Daughters: An Exploration in Communication, Identity, and Self-Esteem
Bonnie Mark & Loren Judaken

All women become like their mothers. That is their tragedy. No man does. That's his.

"The lives of mothers and daughters are inextricably interwoven," writes Bonnie Mark. "This relationship has a profound influence on us both throughout the tapestry of our lives. The choices we make and the paths we deeply affected by the insight we have about ourselves, our childhood, and our parents. Becoming aware of the roots of these choices can be a lifelong process."

This workshop offers mothers and daughters opportunities for self-exploration and opening modes of creativity through a variety of experiential interactions. Group process will focus on resolving conflict and power struggles, negotiating interpersonal boundary difficulties, and improving communication between parents and children, leading toward development of identity and enhancement of self-esteem. Self-reflection, assessment of objectives, and creative journal writing will be used to facilitate insight-oriented self-growth. Reflection on family expectations, obligations, and our unique styles of accepting, challenging, and rebelling will also be addressed in the context of the women's roles—past, present, and future.

The workshop is open to all women who want insight into their roles as daughters and/or mothers. Women coming alone to work on these issues are welcome and will be able to participate fully.

Week of May 4-9

Apprenticeship to the Earth—Return to Sacred Ground
David Schiffman & Tom Little Bear Nason

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 72.

Believe I'll Sing: Singing in the African-American Tradition
Ysaye Barnwell & George Brandon

Everyone can sing. Each and every voice has a contribution to make in building a vocal community. This workshop is an introduction to the harmonies, melodies, rhythms, counter-melodies, and vocal styles of the African-American tradition. Using the rich musical forms of this tradition—calls and chants, spirituals, ring shouters, hymns, gospels, songs of the civil rights movement, and songs of contemporary struggle—participants will build a community of voices and spirit during a week of heartfelt music-making.

As an introduction to the songs, the leaders will provide the historical, social, and political context for each of these musical forms. By participating in the songs and discussing their context, the group will explore from an African-American worldview the values embedded in the music, the role of cultural and spiritual traditions and rituals, how leadership emerges and can be shared among community members, and the significance of shared communal experience in one's personal life.

Ysaye Barnwell is a member of the a cappella group, Sweet Honey In The Rock. George Brandon is a musician and composer.

No experience is necessary. All that is required is a willingness to participate as fully as possible.

Exquisite Landscape/Exquisite Corpse: Expanding Perception through Collaborative Drawing
Holly Sumner & Hanno Ahrens

In the 1920s the Surrealists played a parlor game of images, words, and chance. The game is played with three or more people, each adding an image, or word(s), without knowing—the paper is folded to hide the image—
Mind Mirror EEG will be used to demonstrate your own states of consciousness. The combination of meditation, visualization, and deep psychophysiological relaxation can help you learn how to master your own states of consciousness. The Mind Mirror EEG will be used to demonstrate brainwave patterns, and Electrical Skin Resistance Meters will be used to measure the depth of arousal and relaxation of your autonomic nervous system, illuminating the interrelationship between your body and your mind.

More than just a parlor game, this process can open up new possibilities for drawing, creativity, and perceiving art. Participants will create their own "exquisite corpse" to explore the irrational creativity of a group and the energy given and received by each individual in the process. There will be a focus on the individual's ability to expand his/her perception in terms of what is seen and learned from these unconscious collaborations. The human body will be examined and drawn as a metaphor for landscape—Esalen's landscape, imaginary landscape, internal and psychological landscape. The work created can cultivate a sense of oneness with the environment and stimulate a redefinition of one's relationship to the landscape.

The workshop will consist of sessions of collaborative drawing, individual drawing based on the collaborations, discussion, and a final large-scale collaborative drawing.

The High-Performance Mind: Awakened Mind Brainwave Training

Anna Wise

The high-performance mind is clearer, sharper, and more flexible. Emotions are more available and easier to transform, and information flows more easily between the conscious, subconscious, and unconscious levels, increasing intuition, insight, and empathy.

Having a high-performance mind means being able to enter at will the state of consciousness most beneficial for any given circumstance—then understanding how to use that state. Through brainwave training for beta, alpha, theta, and delta, this workshop can teach you to produce the components for an awakened mind, the brainwave pattern of peak experience, optimum creativity, and high spiritual awareness. Working with both the state and the content of consciousness, you can learn to use these brainwaves to develop a high-performance mind for self-healing, dealing with emotional issues, increasing creativity, improving relationships, and developing greater self-knowledge and awareness.

Biofeedback monitoring combined with meditation, visualization, and deep psychophysiological relaxation can help you learn how to master your own states of consciousness. The Mind Mirror EEG will be used to demonstrate brainwave patterns, and Electrical Skin Resistance Meters will be used to measure the depth of arousal and relaxation of your autonomic nervous system, illuminating the interrelationship between your body and your mind.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

C.E. credit is available for psychologists; see page 68.

Courage

Joyce Frazer

In the mouth of the dragon there are many jewels. —BUDDHIST PROVERB

For some of us it takes courage just to live our daily lives. Every day we awaken to face the demons in our lives—demons that come in many forms: perfectionism, guilt, avoidance, shame, despair, failure. Time passes and we become skillful at living despite the constant awareness that these demons are preventing us from experiencing the fullness of life. Their existence drains our energy and limits our joy and freedom. But getting close to them, allowing ourselves to confront them, is very difficult to do.

This week will give us an opportunity to find the courage to face our demons. Participants will be encouraged to look at the things in their lives that are difficult to face and will be given support to help recognize and confront them. This will be done through Gestalt practice, dreamwork, and bioenergetics. Drawing, dance, and meditation may also be used to recover the jewels from the dragon.

Rowing Toward God: Angels, Powers, and the Ecstatic Journey to Our Souls

Sophy Burnham

From time immemorial people have recorded their mystical experiences: raptures, ecstasies, angels, miracles, visions, dreams, and the curious coincidences that allow us to glimpse past the curtains that hide the Secret Realms. The spiritual has inspired the prophets, created new religions, and led ordinary people to extraordinary, sometimes miraculous achievements. The mystical can also carry us into a gradual and profoundly joyful self-realization, giving birth to clarity, creativity, and bliss.

Today more and more people are having mystical encounters that once seemed the privilege of saints alone. Are they real? What is happening?

Sophy Burnham writes: "This workshop provides space for moving individually and collectively toward the higher planes to heal ancient wounds and discover the source of our being, our missions, and the spiritual guides who lead us. The sessions will introduce specific exercises, meditation, dance, music, and private journeying intended to open us to the angels that surround us, the secrets of our hidden selves, ecstasies, and the highest levels of wisdom, freedom, creativity, and love."

As time permits, a number of private "readings" may be arranged. These are energy readings, made through contact with your angels and spirit guides.

Weekend of May 9-11

Practical Herbology: An Esalen Garden Workshop

Jeanine Pollak

This workshop is an in-depth presentation of thirty useful plants growing fresh in the Esalen garden. It includes how to identify, prepare, and formulate these plants according to the medicinal, nutritional, and cosmetic aspects of each.

Using the garden as a classroom, participants will learn to make fresh tinctures, sun teas, herbal oils, and liniments. The workshop will cover herbal formulas for common colds, flus, sores, headaches, digestion, and respiration. It will draw from modern scientific research and herbal pharmacology, as well as from tradition and folklore, to explore the uses and energetics of each plant. Handouts, recipe sheets, and species lists will be included, plus a variety of homemade herbal products for sampling.

This workshop is designed to broaden herbal perspectives, to contact plants in many forms, and to provide a wide diversity of approaches to working with herbs.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

The Sources of Growth

Seymour Carter

Many potential sources of our growth reside in our unfinished issues, the developmental processes that we have failed to recognize and assimilate because of distressing life experiences or the inability to learn about them. "Unfinished issues" refers to normal phases of development which have been bypassed or ignored. It is unfortunate but true that most families emphasize some of our attributes and ignore or discourage others. These unclaimed potential talents, tendencies, and traits are a powerful reservoir within us waiting to be tapped.

Using a primarily Gestalt-oriented process, supported by the tools of family systems theory, practices of introspection, and body-orientated intervention strategies, participants can begin to discover and utilize capacities in themselves for new possibilities in their lives. Each participant's process of development will be honored, encouraged, and treated as unique.

Exploring our Multidimensionality through Drama Therapy

Renate Emunah

By nature we are multifaceted creatures. Some aspects of ourselves are predominant, others are latent. Some facets of ourselves are very visible to the outside world, others remain hidden. Dramatic processes, improvisation, and role play can help us to access, identify, express, and embody the many roles and facets that make up who we are—and who we are becoming. In acknowledging and embracing the many selves within us, we can also begin to empathize more fully with others.

This experiential workshop will begin with playful, interactive, nonthreatening theatre games and drama therapy techniques—designed to unleash creativity, facilitate expression, and develop trust and interrelationships within the group. Drama therapy processes (some of which are closely aligned with Gestalt and psychodrama) will then be incorporated to explore our many selves, their interconnectedness, and the internal director that brings about a sense of unity within.

Dormant or newly emergent aspects will be ushered in and strengthened via dramatic ritual as well as the enactment of hypothetical situations in which these parts can be experienced and practiced.

Recommended reading: Emunah, Acting for Real; Landy, Persona and Performance.

Intuition and Perception: Extending the Boundaries

Keith Harary & Darlene Moore

Most of us have had experiences in which we needed to be aware of information that was not immediately available to our five familiar senses. Such experiences usually emerge spontaneously and can range from simple hunches to feeling in touch with a loved one at a distance to premonitions in which we seem to be inexplicably aware of impending events. Labeling these experiences "psychic" does not explain them, but makes this fundamentally normal aspect of human awareness appear to be some sort of occult or supernatural process. Yet such experiences most likely emerge from an interconnectedness between consciousness and the physical world that is entirely natural.

This workshop will present techniques of extended perception to allow this capacity to become a consciously available resource in your everyday life, rather than a strictly spontaneous phenomenon. Starting with the basics of learning how to manage mental impressions, participants will practice separating their most relevant feelings and images from various forms of "mental noise" in a variety of extended perception scenarios. A more advanced technique that involves using your own "mental noise" to help guide your intuition will also be taught so you can develop your own inner language for processing intuitive information. Additional exercises will focus on exploring techniques for inducing lucid dreams and out-of-body experiences and for consciously connecting with the broader perceptual continuum that lies just beyond the threshold of ordinary awareness.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

Feng Shui, Chi, and Successful Living: In Search of Harmony and Balance

Steven Post

The Wind is mild, the Sun shines.
The Water is clear; the vegetation lush.

From this ancient Chinese poem (which describes desirable living conditions) arises the image of perfect harmony between heaven, human being, and earth embodied in a place. In such a place, the Chi, the vital energy of nature and being, gathers and collects, bringing peace, joy, and blessings.

Feng Shui, the Chinese art of placement, seeks to establish such a harmony in our living and working environments. It is the art of balancing the yang of people with the yin of place.

Our environment is a reflection of our psychological and spiritual state. As such, it is a wonderful tool to understand ourselves, and a powerful place to intervene to create harmony and balance.

This workshop is an introduction to this ancient tradition that can teach you to express your spiritual practice through your surroundings. The topics covered will include site assessment, placement, meditation practices, empowerment techniques, and holistic healing methods. Feng Shui can help you to enhance your home or workplace to the benefit of your career, health, relationships, and wealth. It is a practice for transforming your inner life and outer circumstances.

Week of May 11-16

Yoga: The Art of Living

Ganga White & Tracey Rich

Yoga is far more than a set of physical exercises, although that alone would make it an extraordinary practice. It is an art of living, a process of reintegration and movement into wholeness. The beauty of Yoga is that it addresses all areas of our lives. These five days will be spent cultivating physical, mental, and spiritual rejuvenation. The goal will be to assist beginners as well as experienced Yoga students in finding the tools and the inspiration for learning a lifelong practice.

Days will begin with a flowing Hatha Yoga sequence combining asana (posture), pranayama (breath control), and meditation to condition the whole person and develop strength, flexibility, and vitality. Participants will be shown how to integrate this practice into their daily lives, making it practical and accessible as well as joyful and creative. There will be discussion and inquiry into such topics as: the latest principles of natural diet and nutrition, aligning and restructuring the body, awakening the body's intelligence, working with the breath and subtle energies, and freeing the mind from authoritarian gurus and sacred cows. The workshop will also look at the areas of meditation, love, freedom, and death.

All levels welcome, no previous experience needed.

Meeting the Challenge of the New Business Paradigm

Bill Sechrest, Linda Crompton & Ron Loeb

We and our planet are threatened by forces whose magnitude and complexity have never before been experienced. Simultaneously, we have the promise of a new consciousness using our human and natural resources and burgeoning technology for our betterment. There is no doubt that business is an essential participant in the transformative work which will successfully cope with these forces and realize this promise. The challenge of this new business paradigm is to assume a sense of responsibility for the whole, while continuing to operate effectively and produce a fair return to investors.

This workshop will gather entrepreneurs, executives, managers, and consultants to pursue all of the frustrations, fears, and feelings of helplessness they encounter in their attempts to bring soul and spirit into business. It is designed as a forum to delve into the most challenging issues in starting, growing, or preserving an enterprise; functioning in a highly competitive, and, at times, unkind business environment; and achieving the double bottom line of profitability and social responsibility. It will draw upon whole systems theory, case histories of best business practices, personal experience, and "success stories," together with poetry, music, meditation, and dialogue in addressing the personal issues which participants are willing to share with the group. The only prerequisites are honesty and a willingness to "go deeper" in a safe and nurturing environment.

Living with a Life-Threatening Illness: The Spiritual Journey
Phyllis Shankman

This is a spiritually-based workshop for people living with a life-threatening illness (such as HIV/AIDS or cancer) who are committed to living a quality existence each day, deepening their spiritual practice, and honoring themselves. At the time of diagnosis or the onset of symptoms, many people begin a deep inner spiritual inquiry and journey. This journey often becomes the focal point of their life as they heroically face the unknown and address the daily challenges as well as the "unfinished business" of their life.

The program includes meditation, body awareness practices, movement, art, poetry, music, ritual, and group process sessions. It is designed to offer participants an opportunity to creatively explore their feelings-about themselves, their illness, and their relationships-with others who can offer support, inspiration, hope, and encouragement.

This program is offered by the staff of the Mountains AIDS Foundation in Santa Barbara, who have developed a retreat program for people living with the challenge of a life-threatening illness. The workshop is only open to participants with a diagnosed illness and their significant partners or family members. Partners or family members may attend only with the person living with the illness.

Enrollment in this workshop is limited. To become eligible, a written medical evaluation from your primary physician along with a completed application will be required. For complete information and to receive an application, please contact Phyllis Shankman at 310-455-2491.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

Being Single
Seymour Carter & Constance Jones

A positive self-image does not necessarily depend upon being in a partnership. However, being single in a partnership-oriented world can create low self-esteem. Is being single a conscious or subconscious choice, a trick of fate, a lack of opportunity, a way of avoiding intimacy, or a valuable state of being? Changing our belief systems about the meaning of being single offers new understanding and opportunity for living a more fulfilled single life, in either openness for future relationships or contentment in being single.

In this workshop, participants will explore blocks to personal growth and opportunities for new relationships, using Gestalt methods and interactive processes including role playing, massage, and communication skills. Whether you wish to remain single or are searching for a partner, this workshop can assist you with your choices and ease you on down the road.

Big Sur Wilderness Experience
Steven Harper

Located on a narrow stretch of land between the Pacific Ocean and the coastal ridge of the Santa Lucia Mountains, Esalen is the trailhead to one of the world's most spectacular wilderness areas. Using this natural reserve as the primary teacher, participants will walk into the Los Padres National Forest. Drawing on various traditions, this wilderness experience will help participants develop the quality of their awareness and open to the natural world.

Weekend workshops will venture out on five hikes (4-10 miles long). Weekend workshops will take two hikes (3-6 miles long). Using Esalen as a base camp, the group will explore the different trails through the natural beauty of the Big Sur Wilderness.
of the Big Sur backcountry. Days will begin and end at Esalen with short stretching and sharing sessions. Each hike will begin after breakfast and conclude in time to enjoy the hot springs and dinner each evening at Esalen. Basic outdoor skills such as map readpracticed. Participants will be taught enough of the Big Sur backcountry. Days will begin

The Profound Stillness of Being:
Advaita Meditation
Olga Luchakova & Igor Kungurtsev
Olga Luchakova writes: "The teaching of Advaita Vedanta became known to wider circles of Western seekers largely through the grace of Sri Ramana Maharshi, Sri Nisargadatta Maharaj, and their modern successors. These sages reveal that in reality you are formless Consciousness/Energy, not a person as you thought yourself to be. One Infinite Consciousness exists eternally and the world is a dream-like appearance in it.
"Of course, intellectual knowledge of this truth is not enough. True freedom is realized only through direct experience. While informed seekers are familiar with direct silent transmission, it is less well known that Advaita also has special meditative approaches to Realization. This workshop will present those meditations that approach the different aspects of the One Supreme Self:

- Differentiating the pure seer: realizing you are pure limitless Awareness
- Hunting the "I": realizing you are not an individual entity
- Diving into pure longing: realizing you are Bliss itself
- Total surrender and relaxation: realizing you are not the doer

"All your questions and doubts are welcome so that they may become clear in the light of Consciousness." $425

Week of May 18-23
Completions and Transitions
Mary Goldenson (Devarani)
Often in our lives we feel incomplete with the past. Unresolved issues inhibit our moving into the present with an open and generous heart. Though we experience them as "finished," old memories continue to haunt us.
When we exist more in the past than in the present, it is time to make the distinction between "finished" and "complete." Transitions without completions foster unsuccessful marriages, friendships, and careers—producing the causes of illness and sorrow. The inability to forgive keeps us closed to new opportunities entering into our lives.

Transitions are crossroads in our lives that give us the opportunity to finish and complete the past, reconnect with our present truth, and renew our passion, courage, and commitment for the future. The focus of this workshop is an in-depth review of our lives, relationships, and circumstances to discover what needs to be transformed from "finished" to "complete."

The workshop will provide a safe, supportive environment that includes risk taking, intense bodywork, Gestalt, imagery, movement, and meditation to keep us committed to the process of discovering ourselves.
C.E. credit is available for psychologists; see page 68.
C.E. credit for MFCCs and LCSWs is pending.

$795

Golf in the Kingdom:
An Exploration of the Deeper Game
Stephen Cohen, Brian Bergstrom &
Andy Nusbaum
Ye’ll come away from the links with a new hold on life, that is certain if ye play the game with all your heart.
— Michael Murphy (as Shivas Irons),
Golf in the Kingdom

The game of golf provides many opportunities to enhance the journey of self-discovery.
It can be experienced not only as an athletic endeavor, but also as a metaphor for the way one lives. Just as in life, issues of self-confidence, fear, trust, discipline, and awareness emerge in the conflict between the ego’s desire for success and the inner self’s ability to achieve.

During these five days, teaching methods gleaned from a study of the deeper game will be utilized, as well as principles from psy-cosynthesis and Gestalt, to explore the inner self and how one interferes with its emergence. Two days will be spent on field trips to the Monterey Peninsula where participants will practice and play in some of the most beautiful golf country in the world. On other days there will be time to relax and enjoy the natural pleasures of Esalen and Big Sur.

Recommended reading: Murphy, Golf in the
Kingdom; Gallwey, The Inner Game of Golf,
 Shoemaker, Extraordinary Golf: The Art of the Possible.

(+plus greens fees paid directly to the leader)

From Conflict to Partnership
Jim Tamm & Ron Luyet
Many personal and business relationships become adversarial simply through a lack of conflict-resolution skills and self-awareness.
This course will provide useful skills as well as a model explaining the fundamental emotional undercurrents that go on between oneself and others during conflict. It is a workshop for people who want to be more effective at creating climates of trust and dealing with conflict—at home, at work, and within oneself.

This work offers a combination of two powerful approaches to transform conflict into collaborative problem-solving. The first, interest-based nonadversarial negotiations, is well documented for dramatically reducing conflict in business, governmental, and interpersonal relationships. The second focuses on behaviors and feelings that can block resolution of conflicted situations. Participants will be shown how their often unconscious emotional needs in the areas of inclusion, control, and openness impact their effectiveness when dealing with conflict.

This course is not a series of techniques that promise "how to get yours and most of theirs, too." It is skill-building to develop relationships for long-term mutual gains. The material will be of immediate use to individuals as well as those in interpersonal and work relationships, such as couples, families, team leaders and members, and employers and employees.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. Approved for MCLE credit by the State Bar of California in the amount of 18 hours. This activity conforms to the standards for approved education activities prescribed by the rules and regulations of the State Bar of California governing minimum continuing legal education. Approved by the California State Board of Accountancy for 18 hours of C.E. credit.

$795

“Look Mom, No Self!”—The Narcissistic Process in Spiritual Development

Alia Johnson

In spiritual practice and teaching, we commonly see the intensification of defensive ego structures. We might experience these intensified structures as barriers to openness and realization. We might, on the other hand, actually mistake the intensified ego structures as evidence of progress on one’s path. For example:

- A posture of superiority, even grandiosity, as certain openings enhance the sense of self—the phenomenon we call "Look Mom, no self!"
- A newly harsh self-judgments related to spiritual ideals, along with a sense of failure or deficiency
- An intensification of the need to idealize a guru or teacher
- Increased alienation from the "conventional" world

- Splitting off of negativity in practices which emphasize love and positivity, increasing the likelihood of acting out suppressed negativity

These issues are related to how the narcissism of the ego-self is affected by spiritual work. This seminar will use the work of A.H. Almas, creator of the Diamond Approach and author of the major work on narcissism on which this seminar is based, The Point of Existence.

The work will be half didactic, illuminating the relationship between various spiritual dimensions and the ego structures which are challenged by them. The experiential part will consist of interpersonal exercises, meditation, group discussion, and some process work with the teacher.

This is an advanced seminar for serious practitioners with some years of experience, or for teachers in any tradition who have interest in psychodynamic understanding. $795

Moving Through Idealization and Shame to Love:

A Workshop for Gay Men

David Hawkins

David Hawkins writes: “Men who are homosexual (or bisexual) live in a bicultural world. Our personalities are shaped by the expectations and values of the culture into which we were born and those of the culture we may choose to join. In each culture certain aspects of our humanity are idealized while other aspects are shamed. Our lives and our options are limited or supported by the strategies we have developed to respond to idealization and shame.

“Each of us achieves a unique balance of adaptation/individuation, confrontation/capitulation, hiddenness/openness, coming out/passing. Since no lifestyle is inherently more honorable than another, each must be evaluated as to its costs and benefits to each individual’s current developmental needs.

“Because loving relationships depend on knowing and being known, understanding and being understood, strategies for achieving the ideal and avoiding the experience of shame may actually be preventing us from reaching the love and intimacy we desire. This workshop is for men who are willing to risk and work together to create an environment in which the true self can be seen and heard.”

$795

Weekend of May 23-25

OpenMind Training: Innovations in Meditation and Mind/Body Healing

Ron Alexander

Learning to observe experience from a place of stillness enables one to relate to life without fear and clinging. One begins to accept pleasure and pain, fear and joy, and all aspects of life with increasing equanimity and balance. Life is seen as a constantly changing process.

— Jack Kornfield, Seeking the Heart of Wisdom

OpenMind Training provides instruction in meditation and mind/body healing from both a psychological and spiritual perspective. The focus is the practice, experience, and benefits of meditation and self-healing in daily life.

Meditative techniques of the various Buddhist schools, particularly Tibetan and Zen, will be explored. Tibetan meditation uses mindfulness, insight, and visualization to activate physiological and psychological energies whose merger can produce powerful states of mind to penetrate into the reality of our being and experience.

Participants will also be taught various forms of breathing, chanting, trance states, and mind/body healing exercises. This workshop can help participants acquire skills to calm the mind, regulate affect states, develop trust with the unconscious, and explore inner healing resources. The workshop is designed for anyone from beginner to advanced.

Recommended reading: Goldstein & Kornfield, Seeking the Heart of Wisdom; Rossi, The Psychobiology of Mind-Body Healing.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $425

African Dance: Expressions of Spiritual Energy

Yao Tamakloe & Sarah Abukutsa

Yao Tamakloe is a teacher of dance, drumming, and ethnoology. He is a third-generation jazz performance artist and has danced and taught with Babatunde Olatunji and Katherine Durham for over ten years. Sarah Abukutsa, his wife, is one of Kenya’s most celebrated singers, and has also studied West African dance. Together they will teach the exciting forms of African dances and the symbolic stories they tell.

Participants will experience the dynamics of war, harvest, and initiation dances, as well as the subtle, healing funeral and recreational dances. The different movements that relate to various roles in society will be presented. Live drumming will accompany this joyful marriage of power and fluidity inherent in dance. Drumming to accompany dances will be taught using Babatunde Olatunji’s Gun Go Do PaTa method. Bring a drum if you can.

$425

A Return to Intimacy and Passion
Mary Goldenson (Devarani)
Where in life did we stray from our path as lover? How do we return to that path and connect to our intimate and passionate self?

Many of us suffer from failed relationships, often giving up in despair and anger. We are all, in some form, battle-scarred veterans, wounded by failed romances and marriages, alienated sons and daughters, and lost friends.

The major focus of this workshop is moving out of the “blame game” which destroys intimacy and passion. The workshop will explore the self-defeating male and female roles we play, our fears of one another, our anger, our control issues—all of which become barriers to loving and fulfilling relationships.

Participants will be shown new ways to communicate needs and desires, to deepen the ability to accept love, and to transform personal, social, and work relationships. Group work will include imagery, movement, Gestalt, Reichian work, meditation, and writing. This workshop is appropriate for individuals, couples, relatives, and friends who desire a higher level of intimacy and passion in their lives.

$425

Night Poetry: A Workshop on Dreaming
Kathleen Riordan Speeth
“Every night we dive deep into a vague and mysterious realm,” writes Kathleen Speeth. “While our eyes move beneath their closed lids, we somehow compose works of art expressing our innermost mysteries. Dreams are poems full of elements saturated with meaning, if only we knew how to wring the truth from them. There are big dreams that must be heeded and little dreams that recite stray memories. Some dreams are solemn announcements, some are masked desires, some are merely psychological litter that needs to be discarded, some are Rosetta stones, and—oh yes!—there are dreams like drowned cathedrals whose complex chambers and details could yield deep insights to be gained in no other way.

“Much has been said about the interpretation of dreams yet few actually have sufficient practice in understanding how to divine the meanings they at once reveal and conceal. This weekend will be devoted to intensive training in personal dream analysis to be used throughout life for the enhancement of self-awareness. Everyone will have a chance to explore their dreams in several ways. Even seasoned psychotherapists familiar with psychoanalytic methods proposed by Freud or the Gestalt enactments of Perls will be surprised by other approaches and strengthened by the long-neglected, far-reaching methods of Wilhelm Stekel. Everyone will go home with dreamwork practices that will support the still, small voice of the poet within.”

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

$1220

Green Buildings with Magical Spaces
Greg Franta
As our society pushes toward global environmental havoc, can we make a significant difference in the quality of our future? Can our communities become “green” enough to enable future generations to enjoy our planet in healthy, sustainable ways? This workshop will explore design strategies leading toward sustainable communities. Participants—whether homeowners, architects, educators, facility planners, executives, or concerned citizens of Earth—will have opportunities to discover a deeper awareness of the intrinsic relationship between people, nature, and technology.

The workshop will address our built environment and its growing impact on energy, health, pollution, natural resources, and social economics. Energy efficiency, natural lighting, and environmental quality in architecture will be extensively explored in regard to building design, form, envelope, interiors, materials, and lighting. The format will include slide presentations, a design studio individualized for participants with diverse interests, and time for personal adaptation and process.

$425

May 25-June 1

Cortical Reeducation* and the Feldenkrais Method*
Harrielt Goslins
How a person sits, stands, or moves reflects patterns that are “wired in” to the nervous system. This information can be erased or changed. By reeducating the brain-muscle connection, restrictions in movement can be freed, freeing lifetime habits that have originated around that movement.

This work is a relearning of the ease and fluidity taken for granted as a child and lost somewhere along the way. Physical injury, emotional trauma, or ongoing stress all evoke a protective response from the body. These patterns remain when no longer needed, outside of awareness, and continue to cause discomfort and limitations. Freeing them results in relief of chronic pain or tightness and a higher energy level. By changing muscular holding patterns, the entire protective posture is altered, deeply affecting the body’s habitual defense system. Thus, new movement possibilities mean new self-image possibilities.

A Workshop on Dreaming
Kathleen Riordan Speeth
“Every night we dive deep into a vague and mysterious realm,” writes Kathleen Speeth. “While our eyes move beneath their closed lids, we somehow compose works of art expressing our innermost mysteries. Dreams are poems full of elements saturated with meaning, if only we knew how to wring the truth from them. There are big dreams that must be heeded and little dreams that recite stray memories. Some dreams are solemn announcements, some are masked desires, some are merely psychological litter that needs to be discarded, some are Rosetta stones, and—oh yes!—there are dreams like drowned cathedrals whose complex chambers and details could yield deep insights to be gained in no other way.

“Much has been said about the interpretation of dreams yet few actually have sufficient practice in understanding how to divine the meanings they at once reveal and conceal. This weekend will be devoted to intensive training in personal dream analysis to be used throughout life for the enhancement of self-awareness. Everyone will have a chance to explore their dreams in several ways. Even seasoned psychotherapists familiar with psychoanalytic methods proposed by Freud or the Gestalt enactments of Perls will be surprised by other approaches and strengthened by the long-neglected, far-reaching methods of Wilhelm Stekel. Everyone will go home with dreamwork practices that will support the still, small voice of the poet within.”

C.E. credit is available for psychologists; see page 68. C.E. credit for MFTs and LCSWs is pending.

$425

Week of May 25-30

Healing Body Image and Sexuality
Carolyn Braddock & Guests
“Awakening from trauma,” writes Carolyn Braddock, “is a statement of breathing life into the body through breath, sound, and movement.” This workshop is for those who want to move beyond bodily and emotional trauma (sexual, physical, or spiritual trauma, surgeries, loss, illnesses, or accidents) to a positive image of self and sexuality.
The focus will be on participants establishing a new relationship with themselves, their bodies, and their sexuality, both internally and externally—releasing old messages and creating new patterns. Participants will explore the connection between sexuality and spirituality, allowing them to be more present in life while creating space for new life energies, passion, love, and movement.

Each body will be honored as sacred. Participants will be taught to listen to the wisdom of their bodies and develop positive approaches toward body awareness, change, health, and relationships. In a safe and supportive environment, the workshop will use breath, sound, movement, group process, humor, Gestalt, imagery, journal work, creative expression, and body dialogue. Video analysis will also be employed. The goal will be empowerment and the integration of body, mind, and spirit into a healing self.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

Group Process Training
Howard Schechter & Barbara Lee

Learn your techniques well and be prepared to let them go when you touch the human soul.
—Carl Jung

This is a workshop for people fascinated with the power of skillfully guided groups. It offers participants the personal value of deep group process along with the skills necessary to become an effective group leader. Participants will learn how to use the unfolding moment-to-moment material in the group as the primary tool to foster individual awareness, facilitate healing and growth, and help the group become a rich environment for individual development.

Three levels of facilitation techniques will be presented: personal, interpersonal, and systemic. Participants will be taught how to cultivate individual growth within the group context, use interpersonal conflict and cooperation to deepen relationships, and read group signals and promote whole-system health. The methodologies will be an integration of Gestalt practice, psychosynthesis, Focusing, Process Oriented Psychology, Authentic Movement, art therapy, the Diamond Approach, and the circle techniques of native peoples.

The key to being an effective leader is to discover, identify with, and honor the sacred essence in the other members of the group—beyond the issues arising out of more superficial personality dynamics. Practicing this, while processing whatever phenomena emerge in the moment, allows a leader to guide groups toward a powerfully moving, positive, and growthful experience.

C.E. credit is available for psychologists; see page 68. C.E. credit for MFCCs and LCSWs is pending.

The Core Self:
Return to Innocence and Choice
Ron Alexander

Resources for healing, such as spontaneity, curiosity, trust, creativity, innocence, and joy, are found in the Core Self. This workshop will assist participants—including health professionals—in accessing the resources of the Core Self to facilitate personal healing and to acquire new skills in the mind/body healing process. Participants will work toward cultivating a friendly relationship with the unconscious to heal dysfunctional patterns and resolve incompletions from the past in order to become more conscious in the present moment. This process can bring about the healing of pain, fear, grief, and loss, and there-
The goals of this work are to enhance self-esteem, to become free of trauma and self-images of the past, to communicate more effectively, to become empowered as a leader, and to develop a cohesive personal vision. The tools will include Gestalt open seat, self-psychology, insight meditation, breathing practices, dreamwork, deep music, group process, and immersion into nature.

Recommended reading: Heider, The Tao of Leadership; Chopra, Ageless Body, Timeless Mind; Polster, Every Person's Life is Worth a Novel; Moore, The Care of the Soul.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

Weekend of May 30-June 1

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

Contact is the appreciation of differences. — Fritz Perls

...and the recognition of similarities. — Richard Price

This workshop is designed to introduce the various practices of Esalen to first-time participants or to those renewing their acquaintance with Esalen. Emphasis will be on finding those approaches to self-awareness that work most effectively for each participant. Sessions may include: meditation, sensory awareness, Gestalt practice, group process, art, movement, and massage. There will also be time to explore the magnificence of the Big Sur coast.

Core Holoenergetics*: The Art and Science of Conscious Healing

Leonard Laskow

Leonard Laskow is a Stanford-trained OB-GYN who coined the term holoenergetic healing, "healing with the energy of the whole." In this experiential workshop Dr. Laskow will introduce the art and science of "energy healing" present current research, and integrate the advances of medical science with the unifying power of a loving consciousness to heal and transform oneself. Holoenergetics uses coherent heart-focused energy, consciously directed through attention, intention, imagery, breath, and hands to evoke the inherent healing response of body and mind. Participants can learn to:

- Establish a healing presence in alignment with their spiritual essence
- Activate and direct the body's immune system to help transform illness into wellness
- Recognize, understand, release, and reform energy patterns that are sources of illness
- Employ healing practices based on resonant energy transfer; intention, insight, imagery, forgiveness, and love

In this Core Holoenergetics Introductory workshop, theory will be integrated with practice so that participants can immediately begin using their inherent healing ability and new skills for personal transformation and to help others.

Recommended reading: Laskow, Healing with Love.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.
C.E. credit is available for psychologists; see page 68.
C.E. credit for MFCCs and LCSWs is pending.

$795

Week of June 1-6

Big Sur Wilderness Experience

Steven Harper

For workshop description see May 16-18.

The Cosmic Game: Explorations of the Frontiers of Human Consciousness

Stanislav Grof, Cary Sparks & Tai Spaks

In nonordinary states of consciousness, people often encounter transpersonal experiences that bring profound philosophical and spiritual insights. These revolve around such fundamental problems of existence as the nature of reality, the mystery of the creative principle or God, the dynamics of the process of creation, the function of the archetypal realm, the dilemma of good and evil, the "taboo against knowing who we are," the role of consciousness in the universe, the relationship between consciousness and matter, and the purpose and meaning of human life.

This workshop will explore the understanding of existence emerging from the study of nonordinary states, theoretically as well as experientially with holotropic breathwork. The resulting insights will be compared with various spiritual and esoteric systems and with the revolutionary developments in Western science, usually referred to as the new paradigm. This seminar is based on the ideas explored in detail in Stan Grof's forthcoming book of the same title.

Note: Participation in the experiential part of the workshop requires previous experience with holotropic breathwork in the workshops of any of the certified practitioners. Holotropic breathwork is an accelerated practice which may not be appropriate for everyone. Participation is inadvisable for those with cardiovascular diseases, generally debilitating physical conditions, recent injuries or operations, epilepsy, glaucoma, pregnancy, or a history of serious psychiatric problems.

$795
Parent and Child Reunion
Cheryl Purdue

There are many reasons why we become disconnected from our mothers or fathers when we are growing up—physical or psychological illness, death, divorce, or adoption, among others. Similarly, as adults we may find ourselves experiencing the loss of a child. Losing such key personal relationships inhibits our ability to receive or give nurturing. The result of such physical and/or emotional severance is that the bond to life itself seems broken. We are left feeling numb, robotic, and depressed. We are disconnected and bereft, floating adrift in life, separated not only from the important missing person but from ourselves as well.

This workshop will use group sharing, writing, and art to deal with grief and begin the process of reconnection. Whether we aim for a literal reunion with significant others or an inner reconciliation, the goal is to find a way to parent ourselves and make peace with our situation.

Please bring a stuffed animal, doll, or other similar article for hugging.

Holoenergetics Level One Training
Leonard Laskow

Dr. Laskow writes: "This training, the first of a six-level Holoenergetic practitioner program, is designed to empower you to transform and heal yourself and others through expanded awareness, love, and conscious choice.

“This training (for which the Core Holoenergetic Introductory weekend is a prerequisite), will present a system of healing which can allow you to go beyond relief of symptoms to trace and unfold the fundamental sources of separation. As we bring ourselves into wholeness through love, the enormous energy we expend to maintain the illusion of separation is liberated. This energy can then be consciously directed to encourage our body's natural healing response.

“Recent research reveals that deep compassion and love can produce distinctive electrophysiologic changes as measured by the electrocardiogram. This state of cardiac coherence characterizes the loving, healing presence, which, in conjunction with conscious choice and release of past conditioning, can profoundly facilitate enduring transformational change.”

In this workshop the focus will be on:

- The Holoenergetic Tracing Process to unfold the sources of illness, suffering, and stress and energetically replace the dysfunctional patterns
- The Forgiveness Process—a powerful method of forgiving and releasing
- Expanding awareness of and alignment with your Transpersonal Self
- Aligning transpersonally with others to facilitate their healing
- Deepening and expanding your ability to detect and direct subtle energy
- Incorporating the principles of Holoenergetic healing into your daily life so as to catalyze the integration of body, mind, and spirit.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.
C.E. credit is available for psychologists; see page 68.
C.E. credit for MFCCs and LCSWs is pending.

Weekend of June 6-8

Introduction to Mindfulness Meditation
James Baraz

Mindfulness—or vipassana—meditation is the practice described by the Buddha for developing wisdom, compassion, and peace. Vipassana, 'to see things clearly,' means being mindful of what is actually happening in the present moment. Using the breath, body sensations, thought, and emotions as objects of attention, we can learn to be fully awake and bring a balanced awareness to all aspects of our lives.

Through vipassana meditation we can experience the nature of reality as continuous change. When we see that all phenomena are impermanent, we can begin to let go of clinging to the pleasant or avoiding the unpleasant. We are then more capable of meeting each situation with spontaneity, fearlessness, and love. Meditation also teaches us to see in each moment the interconnectedness of all things. Our hearts open to a natural expression of compassion and kindness.

Participants will be introduced to this method of meditation practice and the principles on which it is based. There will be periods of silent sitting and walking meditation, as well as discussion. As attention is brought to all activities at Esalen, individuals will continue to develop mindfulness through the week end. This will provide a foundation for applying mindfulness practice to everyday life.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

From the Congo to Dreamtime
Titos Sompa & Ione

Titos Sompa, master dancer, choreographer, and percussionist from the Congo and psychotherapist/author/director Ione collaborated on Ione's internationally acclaimed play Njinga the Queen King, which premiered at the Brooklyn Academy of Music's Next Wave Festival, and was most recently performed at New York's Lincoln Center.

Together they have created a workshop that teaches Congolese movement and rhythms while simultaneously accessing participants' deepest dream themes. A vocabulary of ancient Congolese movement will be created to assist participants in expressing the most important aspects of their inner journeys, discovered through overnight dream incubations and shamanistic journeying.

The workshop is open to all levels of experience.

Gestalt Practice
Dorothy Charles

Gestalt practice is a form—nonanalytic, noncoercive, nonjudgmental—evolving out of the work of Fritz Perls. The work integrates ways of personal clearing and development that are both ancient and modern. To the extent that awareness is made primary relative to action, Gestalt practice has a strong relationship to some forms of meditation and visualization. This form is similar to some Reichian work as well, in that emotional and energetic release and rebalancing are allowed and encouraged.

The emphasis is intrapersonal rather than interpersonal. It is explicitly understood that participants are not patients but persons actively consenting to work (or play) in awareness. The leader functions to reflect, clarify, and respect whatever emerges in this process. The aim is unfoldment, wholeness, and growth, rather than adjustment, cure, or accomplishment. Through group exercises, meditations, and open seat work, this workshop will introduce participants to the Gestalt practice approach.

Recommended reading: Perls, Gestalt Therapy Verbatim; Chodron, The Wisdom of No Escape.

$425

When a Mentor Fails You

George Lough

Many people seek a relationship with a mentor because they failed to get healthy support when growing up in their families. Thus they need the leadership and trusted help of an outside person, a wise counselor and guide who can aid them in dealing with life’s difficulties. Unfortunately, some mentors, be they therapists, supervisors, professors, priests, or employers, violate boundaries, seeking to meet their own needs rather than those of the mentee. Such experiences can be abusive, leaving the recipient feeling confused and betrayed, with their functioning in life crippled rather than enhanced.

This workshop will help participants understand the nature of mentor relationships and what often goes wrong with them. It will also offer guidance for those who are mentors, alerting them to the pitfalls inherent in the role. Using writing exercises, dyads, and group discussion, participants will work on feelings of disillusionment, pain, and anger with the aim of finding ways to separate from abusive mentors and to move forward toward a greater connection with one’s own inner mentor.

$425

Between Earth and Sky: Celestial Mathematics and Terrestrial Forces

Ralph Abraham & Ray Gwyn Smith

The leaders write: “Passing through the portals of pre-Celtic sacred geometry and the way of the bards, we will explore the vibrational resonance between Earth and Sky. Celestial mathematics and terrestrial forces will be our lodestars.

“Since the emergence of consciousness by starlight, mathematics has evolved in the intuitive space of spiritual harmony between the earth and sky. This seminar stands at the crossing of the celestial rays from the stars and the telluric forces of our earth, the path of the mathematician and that of the bard. In this crossing, a mysterious resonance has provided guidance since time immemorial.

“Join us in this resonant space between earth and sky. With poetry, story, personal mythologies, and guided meditation, we will dive through the relatively opaque waters of the intellect to reenter the clears depths of primordial knowing.”

$425

Living with Breast Surgery: A Workshop for Women

Elaine Hughes & Ellen Watson

This workshop provides a safe, supportive environment for women who have had any kind of breast surgery—reductions, enlargements, lumpectomies, mastectomies, reconstructions. It is also appropriate for women who feel they have deep issues about their breasts.

Elaine and Ellen have spent years making peace with their own breast surgeries. They will share all that they have found helpful in their own search for wholeness. Through guided meditations, intensive writing, breath awareness, expressive movement, informal drawing, and improvisation, the workshop is designed to transform fears, inhibitions, and self-criticisms into empowering self-acceptance and self-expression. Participants will also spend time at the baths exploring the foundations of Esalen massage and learning specific touch for softening scar tissue which has formed on the body and the psyche.

If you’re ready to confront and integrate your memories, feelings, and issues about your breasts, this workshop is designed for you. Come share your story in the presence of women who can listen with the compassionate understanding that only comes through shared experience.

Please bring a favorite journal and six assorted pens.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

$425

Dreaming: The Magic Mirror that Never Lies

Jeremy Taylor

The basic language of dreams is symbol and metaphor. Dreams address everyone in essentially the same way, regardless of the uniqueness of our individual lives and circumstances.

Participants will share and work with their dreams, drawing on the mythological/archetypal images that shape our contemporary individual and collective lives. Although the focus will be dream interpretation in a collective context, the methods are designed to give participants the ability to engage in their own dreamwork upon returning home.

Everyone is welcome—those who are just beginning to explore the world of their dreams, as well as professionals who work with dreams. As Jeremy Taylor adds: “Only the dreamer can say with any certainty what meanings his or her dreams may hold: Dreamwork is one of the few activities that purs beginners and experts on an equal emotional footing from the outset.”

$795

Week of June 8-13

The MAX: Stretching the Limits of Your Self-Expression

Paula Shaw

“The MAX” is an outrageous voyage through your own humanity—a journey to turn yourself inside out and explore the extent of your self-expressive power. It employs a variety of acting, observation, and communication methods designed to expand your limits “to the max” and move you into a new arena of personal creativity and self-expression.

“The MAX” is extremely challenging.
Feeding the Demons: The Chöd Teachings of Tibetan Buddhism

Tsultrim Allione

The model of the hero’s journey is one of slaying the monster and protecting ourselves from demons. The Chöd teachings of Tibetan Buddhism present an alternative model: to feed and pay attention to what the demons need. These demons are often parts of ourselves we don’t even see, but which have an undermining, “sickening” effect on our lives. Chöd is used for healing physical and mental disturbances, ending epidemics, and as a practice for realization.

Hearing about demons we might think, “This is a primitive belief which has nothing to do with me.” But we all have our demons. Our world is riddled with disease, depression, abuse, addictions, and epidemic violence. Certain things “eat at us” or we are “plagued” by someone or something. Certain foods are “dangerous,” as if they had a life of their own. These are our demons. Our hopes and fears create demons. They drain our lives of vitality, wreak havoc, and cause illness.

Usually we try to still the demons by ignoring them or trying to destroy them. This retreat offers an alternative: to look at the demons as forms of ego attachment and work with them as a path to liberation and an understanding of the nature of mind.

Please note: This retreat is taught in a tradition-also with a Tibetan text, drum, and bell. It is not recommended for the simply curious; one should have some basis in meditation and be committed to learning the practice of Chöd.

$795

Hunting Power—Gathering Knowledge:
A Workshop in Applied Shamanism

Hank Wesselman

Anthropologist Hank Wesselman has worked for twenty-five years with an international group of scientists investigating the mystery of human origins in East Africa’s Great Rift Valley. In the 1970s, while doing fieldwork in southern Ethiopia, he began to experience spontaneous expanded states of awareness, similar to those of traditional shamans. In an attempt to understand this, he went beyond scholarly research into direct, personal contact with ancient methods practiced by tribal people for achieving mystical states. Years later, this search brought him face-to-face with a series of visionary encounters that form the core of the teachings in this workshop.

This workshop is an opportunity to gather in a focused group to experience shamanic journeys. It will be a time of hunting for power and gathering knowledge to increase spiritual, mental, and physical well-being, to establish expanded connections—with past and future, ancestors and descendants—and to build community. The workshop will also explore the evolution of shamanism with a slide presentation offering evidence of the prehistoric beginnings of this ancient spiritual tradition.

Although best suited for those with previous experience in shamanism who wish to deepen their search, this workshop is also a powerful introduction to those less familiar with the work. The most important requirement is to be open to challenge your perceptions of our world and reality.

$795

Awakening Vision through Conscious Photography

Jeff Berner

Turn looking into really seeing—and snap-shooting into fine photography. Whether you are starting out in photography or are an advanced beginner, you can explore nature, people, and wildlife through the “mirror with a memory.” This workshop will show you how to follow the path of photography as a meditation, a hobby, and an art.

Jeff Berner’s teaching style can help each individual discover his or her talent. Without technical jargon, he explains how to make your camera serve your personal vision.

Easy-going projects will include: The Psychology of Lenses, The Selective Eye (Composition), Depth of Field, A Still Life is Still Life, The Click that “Kills,” Creative Accidents, Visual Meditation, and Expressions of Color. There will be creative group critiques of each participant’s work. The class will shoot and talk by day, and show-and-tell by night. The group will go on nonstrenuous photo safaris, including a morning at Pfeiffer Beach.

The workshop will emphasize the use of color slide film so participants can see their day’s work projected with music on an eight-foot-wide screen each evening. What is taught can be fully applied to your future print and slide photography.

Bring 5-to-10 rolls of 36-exposure Fujichrome and/or Ektachrome slide film, rated ISO 100 and 200, plus $8 per roll for overnight processing. Bring a working, full-size 35mm SLR camera and lenses. A recent compact 35mm point-and-shoot camera with a zoom lens range of at least 38-70mm will be adequate.

You can call Jeff Berner to discuss the workshop at 707-878-2000, weekdays, 9AM to 3PM Pacific Time.

$795

Wearable Art:
A Polymer Clay Workshop

Lee Brown

Although polymer clay has been commonly used in Europe for the past fifty years, it has only recently become a popular art medium in the United States. This man-made material—also known as Fimo, Sculpy, Cernit, and Promat—comes in a wide range of vibrant colors. It can be used as it comes directly from the package or blended to create pastel shades. Its easy-to-use formula lends itself to a variety of projects, including votive candle holders, small boxes or bowls, and even refrigerator magnets or two.

BEST COPY AVAILABLE

This workshop offers everyone—men, women, and children—the opportunity to explore the endless potential of their creativity. No previous experience is necessary. (plus $30 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

Weekend of June 13-15

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see May 30-June 1.

$425

Weekend Massage Intensive

Ellen Watson & David Streeter

Participants will be instructed in basic methods for giving a pleasurable and beneficial full-body massage. Fundamental elements of bodywork, such as breath awareness, grounding, movement, quality of touch, and stress reduction, will be introduced. The workshop is open to beginners as well as those who wish to brush up on their massage skills.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

$425

Facing Death: Meeting Ourselves in the Care of the Dying

Frank Ostaseski

In facing death directly, we have the opportunity to come fully into life. Whether making the bed or confined to it, we contact the same precarious nature of this life, and so come to appreciate its preciousness. It is a time of aliveness.

This workshop explores a mindful and compassionate approach to caring for those with life-threatening illness. Drawn on the experience of the Zen Hospice Project, an innovative model of conscious care, the aim is to demystify the care-giving process, investigate our own response to suffering, and clarify our intention in service.

The workshop will introduce traditional meditation practices of awareness, impermanence, and forgiveness; provide exercises designed to explore loss and accumulated grief; and discuss the importance of “mutual benefit” in care giving. Through silence, storytelling, and the collective wisdom of the group, participants will discover ways of encouraging innate generosity and developing the skillful means necessary to stay present in difficult or impersonal care-giving situations.

The workshop offers renewal and a fresh perspective on service to professionals or individuals caring for friends or family. All are invited—those caring for people with AIDS and cancer are particularly encouraged to attend.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

Weekend Massage Intensive

$425

The Visionary Life

Robert Maurer

In the past, psychology's usefulness has traditionally been limited by its focus on people with problems. Recent studies, however, have centered on those who have succeeded in the major challenges of life, from vocation to relationships. How did they achieve and sustain success? Current research has provided surprising insights into the pursuit of success.

This weekend program explores one of the key attributes common to all successful people: vision—the clear sense of purpose that guides and sustains actions and emotions, particularly during times of crisis. During these challenging times, people of vision and commitment are extraordinary and essential. What are the skills of the visionary and how are these skills developed and maintained? This program will not only provide the remarkable research findings but will demonstrate these qualities in filmed and live interviews.

The quest for a visionary life is a journey that each of us is capable of. The focus of this workshop will be on creating vivid dreams, discovering the path to get there, and finding the courage to travel the road.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

$425

Powerfully Presenting Yourself

Paula Shaw

Why are some people so cogent and inspiring when they speak? What holds you back from delivering your message? This workshop will explore the inhibitions to self-expression and communication and help you to move beyond them, creating more freedom in both your personal and professional life. It is designed for people who want to develop a more powerful personal and public presentation as well as better professional and business communication skills (e.g., lawyers, doctors, teachers, managers, and consultants).

In an environment of safety and support, you will have the opportunity to experiment with presenting yourself in front of various-sized groups, using your voice, body, and emotional power. There will be in-depth individual and group exercises designed to free you from past blocks to presenting yourself publicly.

Up-front courage, passion, and clarity need not be restricted to rare moments in life. This process can help bring to life the eloquent speaker of your fantasies. You can learn to express yourself more fully and experience the satisfaction of being more authentic, effective, and self-assured.

$425

Week of June 15-20

The Good Life: Simple Secrets, Seasoned Wisdom, Sacred Vows

David Schiffman & Susan Kuttner

The leaders write: "This workshop is intended for people who appreciate and are seeking the wisdom, courage, and patience necessary to live a heartfelt life. Our aim will be to develop further what makes us adept and masterful at maintaining the soulful, romantic, and creative aspects of our lives. Our studies will focus on how to survive and thrive amidst the everyday practicalities and demands, how to face the fires of changes in our work and relationships with potency, resourcefulness, and originality."

"We will gather together to create an emo-
Soul Dramas: Past-Life Regression and Spiritual Healing for (Helping) Professionals
Roger Woolger

"Soul dramas are the daily emotional patterns, roles, and scripts we get stuck in habitually act out," writes Roger Woolger. "Some believe that although the soul first staged its dramas around childhood trauma, it had already rehearsed them in utero and had written them long ago from the ancient store of past-life melodramas we all carry."

Soul dramas can be tragic, pathetic, humorous, or banal, and when left unrecognized can cause anxiety, depression, and rage, or a deep sense of dissatisfaction or alienation. Roger Woolger's unique method of releasing and transforming these compulsive dramas involves regression to buried memories and past lives, as well as profound after-death encounters in the spirit realms called "bardos" by Tibetan Buddhists. Participants will be taught simple methods for body release, healing catharsis, and the reintegration of lost parts of the soul.

Experienced in psychotherapy and bodywork (Jung, Reich, and Gestalt), Woolger helps bring people through deep, transformative experiences, creating an atmosphere that is safe and contained. He also illuminates the broader spiritual picture, from Sufism to Western mysticism to Shakespeare—teaching with humor through poetry, music, story, and meditation.

Recommended reading: Woolger, Other Lives, Other Selves.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

Mountains and Waves: Wilderness and Continuum
Steven Harper & Susan Harper

Nature is a primary teacher of movement, creativity, and awareness. Being outdoors in the richness and beauty of the natural world awakens our senses to the world around us. Continuum movement takes us inward, heightening the awareness of our inner experience. These five days will combine both practices, integrating the subtle inner explorations that Continuum movement inspires with the activity of day-hiking in the magnificent Big Sur backcountry.

The day-hikes will introduce participants to basic and increasingly refined awareness practices to enhance their sensitivity to all that wilderness and being out-of-doors offers. In so doing, not only will there be contact with the natural world but there will be opportunity to reawaken those elements of wilderness within.

In the indoor sessions, participants will explore movements which express and embody what they have taken in during their walks, enlivening their ability to feel what they see in nature as well as their own inner nature. Engaging with this sensual environment, the group will play with movement, breath, sound, dreams, and ritual.

This will be a time for contact with nature and wilderness, inside and out. Participants need not have previous experience in hiking or dance.

A Potter's View of the Universe: Big Sur Clay
Noel Mapstead & Keiko Suga

This pottery workshop is an alchemical blend of four basic elements: Earth, Water, Fire, and Fun. Imagine yourself engrossed in:

• Primordial Big Sur clay oozing between your fingers
• Pottery making on a Pacific beach
• Nights around fires of glowing cow dung, seaweed, and clay
• Making beads in the dark of a Native American sweat lodge
• Slathering your body in wet clay and bathing in Esalen's hot springs

Starting with ostensibly valueless natural materials, participants will learn to fashion valued objects within a group setting designed to cultivate creative experimenta-

Weekend of June 20-22

Vision Painting
Helen Jerene Malcolm

Vision painting is a nonverbal Gestalt experienced via color, light, and form, a subtle process exposing the conditioned mind and its limitations. In an atmosphere of exploration and acceptance you are encouraged to suspend judgment, enabling the creative impulse to play, take risks, and face fears. The resulting paintings become a visual journal of your stream of consciousness.

Prompted by visualization, meditation, music, and movement, expression is evoked from the feeling centers, through the hand, and onto paper. Your intuitive voice is encouraged to uncover a source of wisdom reflected in the impulse desiring expression. Beyond the rational mind, from deeper levels of motivation, the painting seemingly paints itself and reveals its message.

Expanding consciousness through your work permits a look at the life you create for yourself physically, spiritually, and professionally. Your vision paintings become a treasure map of your life where change and healing are affirmed. This is a transformative adventure in personal creativity. It is also fun and profoundly educational.

Those who are sure they can't paint, beginners, and artists are all welcome.

Yoga Works: Tools for Well-Being
Maty Ezraty & Chuck Miller

Yoga is an ancient system that uses the body, breath, and mind to energize and transform all aspects of living. It is not only an excellent source of physical exercise, but a unique and powerful tool for self-realization. The practice of yoga can help release blocks that cause mental and physical pain and prevent us from knowing our divine nature. It is also a great way of dealing with the stress of daily living.

The invigorating effects of yoga become readily apparent as the body opens and stretches. Breath is the link between mind and body, and various breathing methods will be taught to help reduce tension and cleanse the system. The serenity and clarity that is the goal of yoga will be sought through meditation exercises that calm and focus the mind. Yoga philosophy and theory will be discussed, as well as nutrition and its role in overall physical health.

All levels are welcome and no prior experience is required, only an adventurous spirit. For further information contact the leaders at 310-393-5150.

Close Yet Free: Keeping a Good Relationship Alive
Gerald Smith

How can we be open and vulnerable in order to love another person, yet at the same time free in order to continue to grow as an individual? The balance of merging and still maintaining a strong sense of self is never completely worked out, because each partner is continually changing. But this dilemma of competing needs can be dealt with in ways that will add to the aliveness in the relationship.

Much of the participants' time during this weekend will be spent with their partners, separate from other couples. The workshop will use verbal, nonverbal, and written exercises to enhance openness, support, and affection, as well as skills to resolve differences in ways that do not produce "scar tissue." Also, since play is an essential part of keeping a relationship alive, there will be experiences to spark the imagination and willingness to play together.

Enrollment is limited to 12 couples. $425

Models of the Ineffable: Kabbalah, Practical Alchemy, and Western Science
Mira Zussman & Christina Carmines

At the crossroads of magic, science, and religion, equivalent principles operate. Practical alchemy, kabbalah, and Western science are rooted in the same fundamental concepts despite our thinking of them as distinctly different cosmologies.

This workshop will explore the origins, theory, and practice of these traditions as well as the intersections between them. Participants will enter into the four alchemical elements (fire, water, air, and earth), the tetragrammaton (the four Hebrew letters that form the name of God), the four fundamental physical forces (electromagnetic, gravitational, strong, and weak), and more—thereby returning to the building blocks of Creation itself. The workshop will provide not only an introduction to these multiple ways of knowing, but also a way to integrate them in our understanding and experience of nature.

The weekend will include an animated mixture of discussion and experiential exercises.

$425

Change Your Handwriting, Change Your Life
Vimala Rodgers

Handwriting is much more than a style of penmanship. It is a road map to the psyche, a clear path through the winding labyrinth of our personality. It acts as a witness, indicating quite impartially where we are hiding our inborn talents, abilities, and dreams. Says Vimala Rodgers, "In the hundreds of thousands of handwriting samples I have studied, I have not seen a single one that reflected 'fear of failure. Not one. I have, however, seen hundreds of thousands that were embedded with "fear of success: My goal in working with people is to give them permission to uncover and embrace their unique abilities, discover their purpose, and to enter into life as a courageous adventurer rather than a mystified bystander. By banishing fear-based writing patterns and introducing self-affirming ones, this process is set in motion.

This workshop is gentle in its approach, and alive with compassion, fun, and respect for the human condition. It focuses on establishing an unquestioned sense of self-worth and on giving participants access to their hidden dreams, life purpose, and personal inner vision.

Recommended reading: Rodgers, Change Your Handwriting, Change Your Life.
C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

$1220

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Week of June 22-27</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Forgiveness: The Key to Intimacy</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mary Goldenson (Devanari)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>All life is about relationships. Creating an alive and honest connection with an intimate partner requires us to go deeply into our hearts and allow the courageous self to emerge. This journey to intimacy begins with the path of forgiveness. How does forgiveness lead to intimacy?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• It allows us to let go of anger, resentment, and grief</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• It allows the agitated mind to move more deeply into the healing heart</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• It resolves separation from ourselves and from others</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• It allows us to give up inflicting punishment on ourselves and others</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>• It allows us to complete unfinished business</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The workshop will present ways to help complete the past, be open to the present, and create the future. It will offer a safe, supportive environment that will include taking risks, intense bodywork, Gestalt imagery, dance, and meditation to support the commitment to the process of discovering ourselves.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>This workshop can be especially helpful for those dealing with boundary issues, the effects of a dysfunctional family life, or addictions that have been used as a defense against intimacy. It is appropriate for everyone, whether in a good relationship or troubled, as a couple or alone, mother, father, daughter, or son, or in the healing professions.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nada Brahma: The World is Sound</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bhagavan Das</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>This workshop introduces Nada Brahma, the Path of Ecstatic Devotion, an exploration into devotional music and the landscape of consciousness. It will present ancient sacred Sanskrit mantras that have been used for thousands of years for healing through sound, intoning, and chanting.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;We will explore and discover the special natural voice that is within each of us,&quot; writes Bhagavan Das. &quot;As we sing and chant the divine mantras repeatedly, the rhythm and melody fan the emotions, which creates a heightened ecstasy that leaves the mind behind and brings pure stillness of heart. In this stillness, you will discover other ways of meditating on breath.&quot;</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Workshop participants will be instructed in the Indian musical scale and how each note stimulates a different chakra, using ancient "seed" syllables to experience different ways of entering divine sound.

"We will chant," adds Bhagavan Das, "to experience the White Goddess, Saraswati, the Mother of Sound and the teacher of musical form." $795

$425

June 22-29

Gestalt Practicum

Christine Stewart Price & Guest Leaders

This workshop is designed for people who would like to further explore the Gestalt practice form in theory as well as through personal experience. It is especially appropriate for those in the helping professions, such as counselors, bodyworkers, and teachers, who are interested in integrating this approach into their current practice. The format will include open seat sessions with the leaders, structured exercises where participants work with each other, didactic presentation, and discussion.

The prerequisite for admission into the workshop is previous participation in a workshop specifically in Gestalt practice led by one of the Esalen Gestalt staff (Eric Erickson, Dorothy Charles, Christine Price, or Joyce Lyke). Otherwise you may send a letter of application to Christine Price, 31 Onyx Street, Larkspur, CA 94939, and will be considered if there is space available.

Recommended reading: Perls, The Gestalt Approach and Eyewitness to Therapy; Heider, The Tao of Leadership; Ram Dass & Gorman, How Can I Help?.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

$1220

Unmasking the True Self

Charles Miedzinski

In order to survive we learn to protect the preciousness of our true nature by developing the masks of our personality and body armor. Eventually, we identify with these masks, thereby forgetting our essence.

In this workshop, powerful yet simple art processes are used as a means of unmasking the radiance of who we truly are. This deep journey begins with the creating and painting of our mask; its inside represents our true nature, the outside represents the persona we formed to protect it. Through the incorporation of movement, drawings, interactive exercises, as well as meditation and practices of presence, we can then see and feel the constraining character of our shadow and its reflection in our body armor. The theories of Jung, Reich, and Almaas will further illuminate how our masks function and will point to the means of becoming liberated from them. The week culminates in a sacred mask ritual in which each participant enact's what is needed for his or her journey of return from personality to essence.

This workshop is recommended for those who are ready to shake loose their encumbering masks/identities in a supportive and creative setting which encourages the unfolding of their true being.

$795

(plus $30 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

Turning On the Light: A Choice to Live Consciously

Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita) & Guests

In the sunlight of awareness, each thought and action becomes sacred.

—Thich Nhat Hanh

Laura DeNuccio writes: "To live fully in the present moment, deeply in touch with life, is a choice each individual can make—one breath at a time. This week we will honor, empower, and celebrate each person as we examine what it means to live fully moment to moment. Choices can emerge as we explore deeply: What would you love to see in your life? What matters most to your heart? What is truly of value?

"Through the creative use of breath, sound, movement, and visioning, we can awaken and remember what our spirit longs to express. Guided meditations will be introduced to increase body awareness and aliveness, to dissolve and balance energetic blockages, and to quiet, still, and expand the mind. Personal growth, self-care, and integral practices for daily living will be offered for increasing mindfulness, self-knowledge, and responsibility.

"Emphasis will be on cultivating compassion, honesty, and kindness as we align with our own truths in relation to others and the Earth. Through attunement with the natural world—gentle nature walks and light hikes in Big Sur—we can deepen our capacity to listen to our innate wisdom. The group will experiment with co-creating community, an environment of trust and acceptance, as we reclaim our wholeness/holiness as human beings making choices to live fully."

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

ISHTA: The Yoga of Empowerment

Rod Stryker

"Every human being already has all that is required to realize deep and meaningful fulfillment," writes Rod Stryker. "Our deepest desires, often hidden or misunderstood, are the guideposts to our ultimate destiny. By leading us to the direct experience of who we are, the practices of ISHTA (Integrated Science of Hatha and Tantric Arts) Yoga can make us aware of and sensitize us to our innate physical, intellectual, energetic, and spiritual gifts."

The course will include daily yoga routines to strengthen and purify the body, breathing practices for rejuvenation and healing, and meditation (including yogic visualization practices) to still the mind and deepen the experience of Self. It will also include open discussion and some theory, and will employ the majesty of the Esalen surroundings to nourish the journey toward wholeness and integration.

Previous yoga experience is recommended but not necessary. For further information, please contact Rod Stryker at 310-364-4698.

$795

Weekend of June 27-29

The Ultimate Yes

George Leonard

Life has one ultimate message, "Yes!", repeated in infinite number and variety. Human life, channeled for millennia by Civilization, is only just beginning to express the diversity and range of which it is easily capable.

—George Leonard, Education and Ecstasy

The ultimate "Yes" is to life itself in its every moment, whatever that moment might bring. The ultimate gift to any friend or loved one is to be totally present for him or her. This gentle June weekend will be dedicated to saying "Yes" to life and the present moment.

Through breathing, chanting, meditation, imaging, and movement, this seminar will seek to affirm our oneness with nature, the cosmos, and one another, to remind ourselves of the brevity and vividness of the miracle of existence. Bring a friend or a loved one or come alone. All that is needed is a generous spirit and a willingness to participate wholeheartedly.

$425

Sexuality, Relationships, and Consensus Reality

Max Schuepbach

Process Work, developed by Arnold Mindell, brings to relationship work the Taoistic belief that our sensual impulses and tendencies are not to be seen as something dangerous. Rather, they are the beginning seeds of a dreaming process—a journey deep into our very nature and our sources of emotional and spiritual fulfillment. And consensus reality, with its often stifling ideas and assumptions about human relationships, is as important in this experience as are our radical impulses and unconventional needs and longings.

The key to unfolding this dreaming process is awareness and a loving attitude for all our parts and experiences. Using the attitudes and skills of Process Work, we can learn to gain inner freedom, an acceptance of who we are, through the practice of opening ourselves to our inhibitions and reservations, our furies and pains, and celebrating them together with our zest for happiness and ecstasy.

The workshop will introduce precise skills for working on these issues in a pressure-free environment. It will include working on past traumas, on the experience of being marginalized for one's nature, and on power differentials. These experiences, together with others like jealousy and possessiveness, can be used as gateways to increased intimacy.

Individuals and couples of all sexual orientations are welcome, as are people living in celibacy.

$425

Chaos and Complexity in Photography, Life, and Work

Lawrence Hudetz & Irene Sanders

This high-participation workshop explores new ways to think about and see the world. Photography is used to illuminate the concepts of chaos theory and complexity with special emphasis on fractals and strange attractors. Context—not technique—is the focus. Insights gained from photographic sessions will be applied to explore a new model for understanding and responding to chaos and the complexity in our lives, our work, and our rapidly changing world.

The workshop will begin with a brief introduction to the new science, followed by a photographic session in which participants venture outside and shoot several rolls of film. The film will be processed and the resulting collection of natural images will be used to demonstrate the concepts of fractals, self-organization, and the interactions of linear and nonlinear formation. Weaving together the images and concepts, participants will then be taught how to explore and influence their personal and professional futures by anticipating and responding to change in new ways.

Activities and discussions are designed to help illuminate subtle connections, patterns, and emerging opportunities in our lives and work. Each session will be a rich integration of art, science, and world events.

Please bring a 35mm camera and 3-4 rolls of 24 exposure film.

(plus $15 per roll for film processing)

The Group 2000

Esalen Staff

The Group 2000 consists of people who wish to help Esalen fulfill its mission and have contributed $2,000 or more in one year. This is a
Language of the Drums: African Percussion, Chanting, and Dance
Babatunde Olatunji & Friends

Olatunji and the Fourth of July—a jubilant Esalen tradition! Nigerian musician Babatunde Olatunji has been bridging the gap between American and African culture for more than thirty-five years. In this workshop he will show how drum sounds and rhythms communicate, stimulate, and pace the activities of traditional African life. He will teach the consonants of the Yoruba language, reproducing its sounds on drums and through chants, body percussion, and dance.

This workshop is for dancers, percussionists, musicians, and anyone who wants to speak the language of the drums. Drummers can experience the dance and dancers can experience the drums. Participants will prepare for a performance at Esalen's annual Fourth of July celebration. Bring a drum if you have one.

Please note: This has always been a popular workshop with lots of people drumming and dancing in a small area. The energy runs high—be prepared for a crowded, exuberant atmosphere.

Intermediate/Advanced Massage Intensive
Oliver Bailey & Kathleen O'Shaughnessy

This workshop is designed for individuals who have already had basic massage training and have been in practice for a while. It is for those who want to expand into new territory and add to what they are doing with specific complex areas such as the neck and low back.

Part of the format will include the traditional Esalen style of long, integrative strokes and methods for deep contact with the recipient, which will then be focused down to detail. Another segment will have the flavor of a musician's open jam session with two lead players, eliciting a cross-pollination of ideas and approaches from all of the participants.

Exploration of the practitioner's state of being through Zen practice, breathing methods, yoga postures, and dynamic movement will be interwoven with the hands-on work.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

Basic Trust and the Spiritual Path
Joyce Lyke & Jessica Moore Britt

The Diamond Approach is a spiritual teaching for those on the path of being in the world while engaged in spiritual practice. Utilizing elements from depth psychology and spiritual practice, the Diamond Approach has created a method oriented by the love of truth for an inquiry into the nature of reality and the essence of our existence.

This method will be used to inquire into the question of why it is easy for some to relax into integrated spiritual unfoldment while for most it is difficult. The foundation of the Diamond Approach's understanding of this question rests on the recognition of the intrinsic benevolence underlying reality and the effect of our upbringing on our capacity to recognize and relate from this benevolence.

Inquiring into these questions, we can gain a better understanding of ourselves and the barriers to experiencing confidence and trust in our daily lives and in our spiritual growth. Our early experiences will deeply affect how we come to view reality and our relationship to it, whether life feels like an opportunity or a trial. This exploration can challenge deeply held beliefs regarding the nature of reality, God, and the world.

Inquiring into these questions, we can gain a better understanding of ourselves and the barriers to experiencing confidence and trust in our daily lives and in our spiritual growth. Our capacity to allow our experience to unfold without control, judgment, or preference can expand, allowing us to relax and move into the deeper mysteries of the soul.

Please note: Registration requires completion of a questionnaire. For more information see Special Programs, page 64.

Recommended reading: Almaas, Diamond Heart—Book One and Essence.

Dancing with the Shadow
Jeremiah Abrams

One does not become enlightened by imagining figures of light, but by making the darkness conscious.

—C.G. Jung

The shadow is the person one has no wish to be. Yet shadow-work can lead us back to our buried potential, to the treasure-house wherein lies what we have rejected out of shame, fear, ignorance, or lack of love. Facing the shadow does not mean eliminating it, but rather undertaking the process of balancing and depolarizing, healing the split between our conscious self-concept and all else we are or might be. This enables us to live more fully in the existential present and to embody expanded awareness.

The workshop approaches the shadow from, as Jeremiah Abrams describes it, "the soul-centered view of Jungian archetypal psychology, concerned with the unique transformative path which each soul must follow. Participants will undertake a journey inward to the shadow, allowing the images to come forward and integrating them through dreamwork, trance, bodywork, active imagination, and the evolving group dialogue.

There will be a ceremonial purification (sweat) lodge to initiate the work and a ritual celebration—a Shadow Dance—to end, so come prepared with costume and full shadow-regalia. If you are feeling stuck or feel like it's time to take the next step in your spiritual journey, this workshop is for you.

Recommended reading: Abrams, The Shadow in America; Abrams & Zweig, Meeting the Shadow.

$1220

Children's "Indepen-Dance": Celebrating Kids, Celebrating Community
Lia Thompson-Clark & Ivy Mayer

Esalen's Fourth of July extravaganza would not be complete without the annual participation of children. This year, kids will be part of the community-wide celebration through this workshop, which introduces games, sports, music, theater, and laughter to engage the whole child. The curriculum will focus on offering children a variety of ways to help and support a community as it prepares to celebrate Independence Day. Participating children will be invited to make a special presentation on the Fourth. This workshop is for kids, ages 7-14, whose parents are attending a concurrent Esalen seminar.

$660

Week of July 6-11

Massage Mbunde
Brita Ostrom, Peggy Honan & Gordy Ryan

This workshop combines the fundamentals of Esalen massage with African drum rhythms and expressive movement. Days will be spent at the Esalen baths, learning to give and receive soothing touch, with an emphasis on contact with awareness, sensitivity, and presence. A basic understanding of specific tension patterns and their relief will also be presented.

In the evenings the group will meet for movement and rhythm in order to stimulate the replacement of old postural habits with newfound spontaneity. For this, drum meditations—echoing the heartbeat and the pulsation of energy through the body—will provide the focus.

This workshop is designed for anyone seeking stress-reducing tools, for bodyworkers and therapists, and for those in the creative arts interested in learning new skills with sound, rhythm, and expression. It's also a good introductory course in Esalen massage.

Please bring a hand drum.

$795

The Dream Master: Dreams and Fantasies
Pierre Grimes

This workshop explores how dreamwork, contemplation, recollection, and examination of idle fantasies weave themselves together into something we can ponder. Focusing thus on the intuitive brings an awareness that our everyday existence can be the doorway to the profound. To discover this level of existence is to awaken to what is often ignored and can be key to our inner development.

The self is always seeking completion: hence, the simple fantasies that occur to us are fragments of our unresolved conflicts. These conflicts manifest themselves in our dreams. As we become aware of the ignored and forgotten elements of our existence, a growing realization of their importance becomes part of our lives.

When reflecting on each day's events becomes a practice, the ancient art of recollecting becomes a natural part of one's life. When this is complemented by dreamwork and self-reflection we bequeath to our waking days a new kind of significance. As we become our own object of study, our work gains a luster since we are presenting ourselves with a way to discover a personal meaning to our existence in all its particular richness. To ponder and reflect on this existence unfolds an unexpected depth and majesty to our lives.

Please bring writing material and a small tape recorder to record your dreams.

$795

A Longing for Wholeness: Embracing the Shadow in Relationship
Charlie & Linda Bloom

Although most of us are aware of what it takes to cultivate intimacy, trust, and deep connectedness in relationships, it is another thing altogether to put our knowledge into practice. Often the challenge of creating loving relationships is far more difficult than we expected. In many cases the pain engendered by unsuccessful efforts can become so intolerable that separation may appear to be the only acceptable option. Yet this need not be so.

Linda and Charlie Bloom have been in a committed relationship for twenty-eight years and have raised three children. Theirs has not been an easy path. They have dealt with many painful challenges, including abuse, betrayal, neglect, addiction, and life-threatening illness, and in the process have learned about the darker aspects of relationships and how to consciously work with them.

In this workshop, participants will be encouraged to open more fully to those aspects of themselves that are relegated to the dark. Experiential processes, role playing, and group exercises will be used to clarify the means through which we can learn to listen and speak from the truth of each moment, even at those times when we find our hearts closed in pain. In coming to terms with these darker aspects we can bring greater authenticity, playfulness, intimacy, and co-creativity into our relationships.

C.E. credit for MFCCs and LCSWs is pending.

$795

The Power of Growth
Seymour Carter

Everyone has unused capacities for further personal development. When these capacities are recognized and given attention, a natural force is released which, like a tide, can carry the individual to a higher level of ability and action. Fritz Perls taught how to recognize the force of avoided issues in dealing with blocked energies. When unfinished issues are confronted and assimilated, it is possible to feel potent and in charge of one's life.

In this workshop, participants will deal with these issues by examining the influence of the inner dialogue on thoughts and the nature of impasse, as well as tendencies within themselves toward psychological completion and well-being. The basis of this work is the Gestalt method, supported by studies in various body disciplines, including sensory awareness, bioenergetics, and aikido. Each participant's process of development will be honored, encouraged, and treated as unique.

$795

Cultivating Resilience
Gina O'Connell Higgins & Dan Boynton

"This course focuses on the hope and psychological strengths that guide the most challenged lives, emphasizing those self-righting capacities that characterize all of us in some important measure," writes Gina O'Connell Higgins, author of Resilient Adults: Overcoming a Cruel Past. "We will explore themes which emerged during intensive interviews with forty resilient adults who endured highly abusive or neglectful lives as children and adolescents, yet who now love well and work well as adults. These themes include: early relationships which become loci of hope for maltreated children; the unofficial adoptive relationships which help the resilient sustain themselves during adolescence; the importance of faith, vision, and social activism as healing pathways; and the adult struggles which characterize and enrich their challenged but hardy lives.

"Equal emphasis will be placed on helping participants identify their own resilient capacities, past and present, with an eye toward expanding these in the future. While we will certainly acknowledge the sorry disruptions (abuse, neglect) that spur the search for a better life, this is an opportunity to locate and cultivate your own strength, hope, and determination. Our course especially invites those who have encountered challenges to their own growth and are now influencing the lives of others. This includes parents, clinicians, educators, health professionals, human service providers, students in any of these areas, or change agents of any stripe."

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.

C.E. credit for MFCCs and LCSWs is pending.

$795

Art, Acting, Music, and Fun: A Children's Festival
Lia Thompson-Clark & Ivy Mayer

This year Esalen's annual summer festival for children will expand its offerings to present theatre and improvisation, painting (on both paper and silk), and clay sculpture and firing. Local artists and musicians will be guest teachers for a celebration of African and American rhythms and rituals. Thirteen-year-old Camille Clark, an experienced old-timer in this festival, writes in: "Kids, come and enjoy art, acting, music, and fun. You will have fun playing games, making music, and making a play. You will also enjoy working with clay and painting pictures and silk scarves."

There will also be time for group explorations of the Esalen baths, beaches, and hills. As Camille says: "Going down to the ocean is like meeting an old friend."

Come meet old friends and new as you learn and develop new skills. This workshop is for children, ages 7-14, whose parents are attending a concurrent Esalen seminar.

$475

Psychosynthesis: Personal and Transpersonal Growth
John Firman & Ann Gila

Psychosynthesis was born in 1910 when the Italian psychiatrist Roberto Assagioli became dissatisfied with psychoanalysis. Although Assagioli was a colleague of Freud and Jung and an early pioneer of psychoanalysis in Italy, he saw that psychoanalysis neglected the healthier and "higher" aspects of human nature.

A student of philosophical and spiritual traditions of both East and West, Assagioli sought instead an approach which would address not only psychological wounding and personal development, but, in addition, the "transpersonal" dimension—the dimension of inspired creativity, altruistic ideals, and peak experiences. Since that time, psychosynthesis has grown to become a compassionate and comprehensive psychology of the whole person, providing the practical means for examining one's life and for dis-

$475
This workshop will be an experiential overview of the theory and practice of psychosynthesis. It is an invitation to explore the heights and depths of being human, including subpersonality or "ego-state" work, object relations and family-of-origin issues, the superconscious and transpersonal self, and the experience of "vocation" or "call" in life. The intention is to gain a deeper feel for our unique psychological and spiritual journey, to get a sense for what our next steps on this journey might be, and, most essentially, to find a greater compassion for ourselves and others.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $425

Intuition, Healing, and Change
Laura Day

"Intuition, Healing, and Change" is an experience in focusing all of your resources to identify and create the life that you want.

Most of us have heard stories of miraculous healings or lifesaving flashes of intuitive insight. Within in each of us are abilities—sometimes spectacularly dubbed "powers"—which lie dormant. These abilities have no scientific explanation and therefore our explanation-loving society buries them. Often we learn about these abilities during crisis when, with nothing else available to us, we have no choice but to use them. This workshop can help you enhance your daily life by creating a pathway for these abilities—without the crisis. You can learn to develop three gifts inherent in each of us:

- Intuition—the ability to perceive what we normally think of as unreachable
- Healing—the ability to affect ourselves, matter, and the environment by focusing our "energy"
- Integrity—the ability to work from our most essential values

Prerequisite: Come prepared with the answer to the following: If only ________ were different about me or my life, life would be great; or, if only I had ________, life would be great.

Please bring a loose-leaf notebook with lined paper, folders with pockets, colored pencils, and a favorite writing instrument. $425

Healing Learning Disabilities
Jacqueline Lapa Sussman

True learning is pleasurable. All learning, all effective behavior, comes out of nourishing social interaction.

— Akhter Ahsen, psychologist and theoretician

Learning disabilities are inhibited learning potentials frozen in children, caused by negative social interactions in early critical learning. Kids with learning disabilities are often highly intelligent children who absorb life's stresses at a deep level and, because of their acute sensitivity, are easily traumatized.

Learning disabilities can be treated and cured—completely reversed—without using drugs (Ritalin) or any medication, but by using the creative imagination.

Eidetic Image Therapy is a school of psychology that treats mental and emotional problems using a special kind of mental image called an Eidetic. Using Eidetics, the exact root cause of the disability can be systematically identified and, through imagery methods, the part of the brain where the disability is neurologically located can release—allowing one's unique learning potentials to flow again. Eidetics was founded by Dr. Akhter Ahsen, Ph.D., whose work Joseph Campbell described as "indelible" and "life-structuring."

This highly experimental workshop—for parents, educators, people with learning disabilities, therapists—will show you how to find the root causes of learning disabilities and how to overcome them.

Recommended reading: Ahsen, Learning Abilities and Disabilities and Psycheye; Sussman (articles), "Drugs or Imagination? Your Choice in Healing Learning Disabilities" and "The Flight of the Parent with a Learning-Disabled Child."

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. C.E. credit for MFCCs and LCSWs is pending. $425

Wearable Art:
A Fimo Clay Workshop for Families
Lee Brown

Although Fimo clay has been commonly used in Europe for the past fifty years, it is just now becoming a popular art medium in the United States. This man-made material, also known as polymer clay, comes in a wide range of colors. Its easy-to-use formula lends itself to art projects that are guaranteed to give you instant gratification as well as a special sense of accomplishment.

During this weekend in the Esalen Art Barn, you will work side by side with your children or grandchildren, making beads, buttons, and small objects that will be incorporated into a necklace, a pin, a bracelet—something to wear home. A variety of techniques will be taught and there will be ample time to complete projects.

No previous experience is necessary. $425

Week of July 13-18

Golf in the Kingdom:
An Exploration of the Deeper Game
Stephen Cohen, Brian Bergstrom & Andy Nusbaum

For workshop description, see May 18-23. $795

Improvisational Being
Nina Wise

This workshop is designed to give you the physical and spiritual tools to translate your inner life into theater. Everyone has a story to tell, and stories reside as much in the body as in the mind. So you'll begin by moving from your center, giving voice and physicality to your private characters and realities. The environment will be safe and supportive. The result can be the remarkable satisfaction of unbounded self-expression.

The sessions will include relaxation, meditation, movement, singing, storytelling, and theater games. Expect to surprise yourself, to become more playful and at ease before an audience, and to leave with an enhanced sense of well-being in both your personal and creative life. $795

Facilitating Deep Process Using the Penniston Protocol Alpha/Theta Brainwave Training Technique
Julian Isaacs & Patricia Fields

In 1989 Dr. Eugene Penniston published the results of a study using a revolutionary new technique for alcoholism based on alpha/theta brainwave biofeedback. The new technique's effectiveness in preventing relapse has now been established by independent researchers at 70% over a five-year follow-up—a success rate previously unknown in addiction treatment. Since this landmark study, a growing band of psychologists has used the same technique to successfully treat a wide range of psychological conditions, including depression, anxiety, character disorders, and even multiple personality. The technique is now being adapted to treat mind/body disorders and is also increasingly used to facilitate personal psychological growth and for peak performance training.

This workshop will focus on the use of the technique for psychospiritual development. (The workshop will be primarily a learning experience. It is not intended to provide treatment for addicted individuals or treatment of serious psychopathology.) Using sophisticated computer-based multi-user brainwave biofeedback systems and other devices, participants will be given ample opportunities to experience the alpha/theta state and will be shown how to use this unique state of consciousness for psychospiritual development. Adjunctive psychological and psychoenergetic techniques which complement the alpha/theta process will be demonstrated and taught. Professionals already using brainwave biofeedback techniques in their practices will be taught how to run alpha/theta brainwave training sessions.

To ensure adequate access to equipment, the workshop will be limited to sixteen participants.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.
C.E. credit is available for psychologists; see page 68.
C.E. credit for MFCCs and LCSWs is pending.

$795

Time of the Soul
Eli Jaxon-Bear

"There comes a time in most people's lives when there is an earthshaking crisis," writes Eli Jaxon-Bear. "The world of relationship, money, career, or health explodes unexpectedly and disastrously. There is a sense of loss of control of the situation. It is a time of dread, humiliation, rage, fear, and despair."

"Having faced this abyss of annihilation and having assisted many others with similar circumstances, I have very good news to report from the other side. The crash is a wounding that lays bare the killing field of ego and is a mystic gateway to the soul. It is a call to approach the threshold of the unknown, an awakening to that which is timeless."

"The rarely taken opportunity is to actually turn and face the demons, the crisis, the failure that all impulses move to avoid. The willingness to directly experience whatever is waiting there—humiliation, rage, fear, death—in the search for Truth, Love, or true Freedom, the willingness to die to all ideas of yourself is the willingness required to turn your back on the hell-realm and surrender to the divine embrace—as soul awakens to its true nature.

"In our time together, we will explore the possibilities and learn the practices for going deeper. Through silence, meditation, one-on-one work, exercises, and group work, we will learn how to guide ourselves and others through the dark night and into the possibility of true happiness."

$795

The Parenting Process
Eileen Paris

What we call dysfunction today has an obvious evolutionary trail. In spite of the best intentions, parents tend to repeat injuries they vow they will never pass on. Therefore, in order to bring a psychological and spiritual change to our global society, one place to begin is with a radical and substantive change in the way we parent.

This interactive workshop teaches communication skills based on the developmental themes of bonding, mirroring, and separating. Because these themes attend to what constitutes a healthy parent/child relationship, they are applicable to relationships with children of any age—from conception on.

The workshop will employ experiential exercises that heighten awareness of negative family myths and relationship patterns, and will teach how to interrupt them. By addressing modern-day parenting concerns with a developmental focus, parents can raise kids with a "healthy sense of self," which is a body experience that enables children to live their lives from the inside.

The Parenting Process is designed for all parents, whether new, experienced, or expectant, living together, single, divorced, or living in alternatively structured families.

$795

Creativity and Community: A Workshop for Children
Lia Thompson-Clark & Ivy Mayer

Creativity is most likely to be fostered by a transformative atmosphere during the early years of life.

— Howard Gardner

Children who have grown up at Esalen have flourished, thanks in large part to the opportunities to explore both freedom and discipline in the teachings of the many artists, thinkers, and doers who come to Big Sur. This workshop provides an opportunity for children to participate in many of the activities Esalen has to offer. Explorations of art forms such as dance, theatre, painting, and ceramics will be presented. To learn how a community functions, children will participate in various Esalen work departments, providing further opportunities to engage in individual and collective responsibility.

This workshop is for children, ages 7-14, whose parents are attending a concurrent Esalen seminar.

$475

July 18-25

The Organization as a Living System: Managing and Coaching Human Resources
George Kohlrieser & Fritz Mauthsch

In essence, every organization is a product of how its members think and interact.

— Peter Senge

The heart of a healthy organization lies in the intensity of bonding of people and goals. When organization members are attached to each other and to common goals, a sense of well-being, high energy, and pleasure in work exists. This attachment allows people to express ideas, feel safe, and resolve conflicts even when there are profound differences.

When these bonds and commitments are disrupted, tension, demotivation, passivity, fear and anger, even aggression can arise, which creates significant barriers to success.

Leadership requires special skills to create bonding, resolve conflicts, motivate team members, and respond to the emotional demands of human contact and change in very complex systems. Changing the way members interact means redesigning not just the formal structures but the patterns of relating between people and processes.

Organizational leaders and consultants must guide, model, and encourage this process to make organizations more authentic, human, and alive.

Just as in the human body, a living system relies on a fundamental unity where each element of the system supports the others. This experiential workshop is designed for managers, team leaders, and consultants to organizations who want to understand the organization as a living system built around its human resources. Special focus will be on the questions: How can people remain heartful in an organization? What is an authentic organization in a time of great change? How do we balance our private, professional, and organizational roles in the face of increasing demands and continuous change?

The basis of this workshop will be research from attachment theory, systems theory, social network theory, conflict resolution, and transactional analysis. The workshop will include short presentations, role play, group process, problem solving, and opportunities for personal work.

Weekend of July 18-20

Moving into Health: Feldenkrais® and Energetic Movement

Patrick Douce

Most people know what it is like to wake up stiff in the morning. Many start the day in pain. Hundreds of millions of people in this world suffer from chronic, acute conditions. There are basic ways we have been taught to hold ourselves and to move that unconsciously lead to these conditions. Some of these misconceptions are so ingrained that we think of them as part of ourselves, without any choice in the matter.

Moshe Feldenkrais developed movement lessons based on finding the ease of movement we had as children. This workshop uses those movements to enable participants to experience their unconscious everyday actions. Feldenkrais Movements will be presented which improve flexibility, awareness of breath, and posture. The lessons teach how to find soft, effortless movements, rather than emphasize doing more with more effort. They will be combined with lessons inspired by Indonesian Silat martial-arts-for-health movements, which stimulate the energy body, effecting internal health and increasing energy.

The idea of a flexible, fluid, intelligent body will be introduced to educate each group member to improve the use of his or her spinal column. Rather than focusing on muscular awareness, the lessons emphasize spinal awareness.

In this workshop, difficulties in the body will be approached as problems in learning rather than as conditions needing therapy. Problems that were "incurable" become "reeducable." Participants will be offered tools that they can immediately use to improve.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $425

The Personal Growth and Development of the Clinician

Jeffrey Zeig

How does one master the practice of psychotherapy? Should training emphasize theory, technique, or research? And what about the personal growth of the clinician?

After more than twenty years of training health and mental health workers, Jeffrey Zeig has crafted an experiential training system, Psychoaerobics™, to help practitioners evolve essential personal resources. The system uses as a model Milton Erickson, considered the father of modern medical hypnosis, whose practical methods are effectively employed by practitioners from all disciplines.

This workshop will identify seven essential characteristics or "postures" that distinguished Erickson from other master practitioners. Participants will realize those postures through a series of graduated Psychoaerobic exercises, and will participate in growth games and group hypnosis to explore the merging of discipline and spontaneity that occurs in the most artful and effective clinical work. The program focuses on refining the therapist's lenses (perception), muscles (therapeutic power), heart (compassion), and hat (social role).

Zeig has devised the Psychoaerobic system in an effort to replicate some of Erickson's unique teaching methods. This program features a blend of didactic and experiential training that can help practitioners quickly master skills that will improve effectiveness, no matter what form of treatment they employ. This seminar is open to practitioners from all schools of psychotherapy and all health fields. Previous training in Ericksonian methods is helpful but not required.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. C.E. credit for MFCCs and LCSWs is pending. $425

Release Your Genie: Eleven Keys to Awaken Your Creative Power

Judith Cornell

Do you find yourself kicking your creative blocks around the room without getting any results or, worse yet, simply gathering dust? If so, this workshop might be exactly what you need to open the floodgates. Judith Cornell will present little-known secrets of inspired creativity from great geniuses like Johannes Brahms and distant sources like the Chi Kung literally translates to "energy skill or discipline." Throughout human history numerous forms of this discipline have existed. Robert Blaisdell draws upon the ancient Taoist practices of martial and medical Chi Kung to create a basic and functional framework, which is then elaborated upon to facilitate specific needs of students in exploring their potential. The goal of the work is to initiate and sustain the integration of mind, body, and emotions, to deepen awareness, and to promote overall health, longevity, and well-being.

The discipline of Chi Kung is a highly specialized and comprehensive curriculum of exercises and practices aimed at utilizing awareness and consciousness in order to develop and optimize an individual's intrinsic energetic potential. Through Chi Kung a practitioner may circulate and increase internal energy, strengthen internal organs and functions, and enhance and deepen sensitivity and awareness.

Chi Kung/Nei Gung
Robert Blaisdell

Intimate Relationships: Keeping the Spark Alive
Ayala Pines

When two people are in love, it seems like the magical spark between them is going to last forever. More often than not, however, with the effects of everyday pressures and stresses, the love is eroded and eventually burns out. Burnout is not caused by individual pathology or inadequacy nor by major dramatic events. It is caused by a buildup of petty annoyances, minor dissatisfaction and a gradual increase in boredom. How can this insidious process of love's erosion be prevented? How can a couple in love keep the romantic spark alive?

Participants will be encouraged to find the romantic images they shared at the beginning of their own relationships. This workshop is recommended especially for couples committed to keeping the spark alive in their relationships, and for marriage and family counselors. It may also be helpful for individuals who are trying to figure out what went wrong in a relationship that burned out.

Recommended reading: Pines, Keeping the Spark Alive.

Film and Healing:
Courage and Compassion
Francis Lu & Dorothy Hunt

Healing, like grace, always takes us toward our true nature. — Stephen Levine

"Being human," write the leaders, "inevitably means encountering suffering, separateness, injustice, and fear—in ourselves and in our world. It requires courage to bring these experiences into the compassion of our own hearts and to allow each moment in which suffering is touched with loving awareness to be a moment of healing, a moment of grace. Healing occurs when we have faith in the unfolding of our own lives, courage to speak our truth, commitment to our deepest knowing, and compassion for ourselves and others. Healing occurs when we know, truly, that there is no separation: life is one."

In this seminar, participants will view six to eight inspiring feature films dealing with different aspects of healing—physical, emotional, relational, societal, spiritual—and the ways in which courage and compassion bring about healing in the lives of doctors, teachers, lawyers, and poets, among others. The workshop will use the film experience, supportive group discussion, and quiet reflection to explore and find in our own lives courage, compassion, and healing.

This seminar is the ninth in a series that originated in 1991 co-led by Francis Lu.

The Story of Your Life: Becoming the Author of Your Experience
Mandy Aftel

Is your life a page turner? A yawner? A hackneyed story you’ve gotten tired of repeating?

"Every life is a story," says Mandy Aftel. "We tell the stories of our lives to friends and neighbors, on job interviews and blind dates, at slumber parties and in therapy. Too often, though, the stories we tell are cliches, simplistic tales of blame, guilt, hopelessness, and anger that limit our understanding of the past and close off possibilities for the future. That’s the story of my life, we say when things go wrong—again. But the story of your life doesn’t have to read like bad fiction.

Regardless of our writing talent, in our daily lives we are all ad hoc novelists. Consciously or unconsciously, we organize our experiences into stories that present a certain view of ourselves. By examining the way you narrate your life to yourself and others, you can change the story of your life.”

Through writing exercises, lecture, and interpersonal process, you can learn how to:

• Find the core belief that governs the way you narrate your life
• Find your three major plots—love, mastery, and loss

Week of July 20-25

Chi Kung/Nei Gung
Robert Blaisdell

The discipline of Chi Kung is a highly specialized and comprehensive curriculum of exercises and practices aimed at utilizing awareness and consciousness in order to develop and optimize an individual’s intrinsic energetic potential. Through Chi Kung a practitioner may circulate and increase internal energy, strengthen internal organs and functions, and enhance and deepen sensitivity and awareness.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

• Understand the three major motives—self-esteem, control, and separation
• Harness the four major plot complications—sex, money, escape, and children
• Craft a new narrative of courage, fulfillment, imagination, and unfolding potential

Recommended reading: Aftel, The Story of Your Life: Becoming the Author of Your Experience.

---

July 25-August 1

Bonding: The Heart of Dialogue
George Kohlrieser

When in dialogue, a sense of well-being with a changing script of "affectional bonds." From cradle to grave, life involves a dialogue. It is a myth that bonding occurs only with people we like. In truth, it means being attached in a way that allows a relationship to exist even where profound differences are present. If an individual has difficulty in creating attachment and bonding, then there will be difficulties in dialogue. Models of "in-your-face" communication, manipulation, domination, detachment, and even violence are increasingly replacing the natural beauty of true dialogue. This experiential workshop focuses on the theory, practice, and problems of dialogue. It draws on the latest research from attachment theory, transactional analysis, psychophysiological stress management, social network theory, and developmental psychology. Attachment theory is a way to conceptualize the tendency of humans to make affectional bonds, to connect, to be in dialogue with life. Ultimately, this is the path out of loneliness and isolation. To be out of dialogue leads to many forms of physical, emotional, and spiritual distress including psychosomatic illness, aggression, addiction, depression, emotional detachment, and burnout. Life energy itself is connected to the quality and depth of dialogue in one's life. This workshop has both personal and organizational applications. It is designed for individuals or couples wishing to increase their understanding of dialogue and negotiation, as well as for those experiencing difficulties in these areas. Methods will include short presentations, guided imagery, emotional release, group process, and bonding work to understand, create, and be in dialogue.

Recommended reading: Berne, Games People Play, Bowlby, A Secure Base: Clinical Applications of Attachment Theory; Steindl-Rast, Gratefulness—The Heart of Prayer.

C.E. credit for nurses; see page 67.
C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.
C.E. credit for MFCCs and LCSWs is pending.

---

Weekend of July 25-27

Experiencing Esalen
Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see May 30-June 1.

A New Beginning: Courage and Heart
Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

One day you finally knew what you had to do, and began...

Courage is resistance to fear, mastery of fear, not absence of fear.

"In this workshop," Mary Goldenson writes, "we will courageously peer into the depths of our hearts and minds and ask the questions:
• Does my life reflect my heart's desires?
• If fear did not stop me, what might I be doing differently?
• What truths do I need to tell to live?
• To whom or what have I given power over my life? What must I do to reclaim it?
• How shall I live, knowing I shall die?

"More than the answers, our questions define where the real meaning of our life resides. Firmly grounded in the moment, we will explore ways to reconnect with our source of creativity and spirituality."

This workshop provides ways to help complete the past, be open to the present, and create the future. A safe, supportive environment will be provided. Didactic and experiential exercises will draw from Gestalt, Reichian work, imagery, dance, and meditation.

C.E. credit is available for psychologists; see page 68.
C.E. credit for MFCCs and LCSWs is pending.

---

Experiencing the Energy of the Orixas: The Afro-Brazilian Tradition of Umbanda
Ialorixa Baby de Iansa

In Yoruba tradition it is said that there are 401 gods, or Orixas. This is not meant as an exact count but more to provide a sense of how vast is the world of these gods who represent themselves to us as the energies of nature and, in turn, of the lived life. Umbanda is an Afro-Brazilian spiritual tradition in which trained mediums work with these forces of nature, their vibrations, and anthropomorphized qualities of these gods to produce in themselves and in others a spiritual equilibrium.

This workshop will include a traditional Umbanda ceremony, the Gira, a robust, exuberant, powerful healing ritual. This ceremony, open to the entire Esalen community, works with the structure of man, balancing elemental energies to gain peace and harmony in our lives. By participating in this event, led by Ialorixa Baby de Iansa, Shaman and Mother in The Saints, group members can gain an appreciation of the complexity of the Umbanda tradition.

In the course of this work, participants will explore the movement, song, drumming, and dialogue of the energies of the Orixas. Through this work, one can create an equilibrium within oneself as well as a relationship with the sacred and divine.

Lessons from Children with Cancer: A Healthier Way of Being Ill
David Bearison

Growing up we are socialized to abide by the insidious images that are associated with cancer. However, listening to children with cancer, you hear a different voice. Our metaphors, clichés, and taboos have not been so firmly enshrined in them, so that children are able to speak in a voice that exposes the culture of cancer and provides us with a healthier way of being ill. The issues that children talk about are not limited to their concerns about having cancer. They are the concerns of anyone who has a life-threatening illness, child or adult. Children speak in a voice that is remarkably free of the social conventions, distortions, and defenses that adults use to hide their questions and anxieties. Children, therefore, are our best narrators of the experience of having cancer and our fears of death and dying.

The workshop will use narratives from children and adolescents talking about their experiences of illness and case studies of children who are dying. From these, the course will explore the sociocultural and familial conditions of adults facing life-threatening medical conditions and those who are dying. Participants can also examine their own fears around these issues, fears not only of suffering with life-threatening illness but also of talking truthfully with those who undergo this experience, all of which leads us to enact a conspiracy of silence to replace open and honest communication.

This workshop is appropriate for helping professionals from all fields as well as interested nonprofessionals.

Recommended reading: Bearison, They Never Want to Tell You: Children Talk About Cancer.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.
C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.
C.E. credit for MFCCs and LCSWs is pending.

$425

Week of July 27-August 1

Playing the Edge
David Schiffman

In the early stages of growth, success seems to be its own reward. Excitement, vitality, and the willingness to face life boldly are characteristics of those who are involved in new and successful ventures. To keep this spirit alive is not easy. Enormous pressures, grinding routines, and demands of involvement can dispirit even the healthiest people. To listen to one's heart requires the courage to pause. In this willingness to stop and listen to the deeper self live the true resources that guide and protect us.

The purpose of this week is to create a mood of sanctuary for people in transition considering major changes in career, relationship, or matters of the spirit; those in need of a break from stressful responsibilities; and individuals interested in breaking new ground in the areas of self-nurturance, intuitive functioning, and problem solving.

The process will be gently restorative, illuminating, and enlivening. The intention will be to create a community based on trust and goodwill with emphasis on individual freedom. Traditional methods of self-inquiry (Gestalt practice, bioenergetics, psychosynthesis) will be combined with innovative methods using music, meditation, poetry, ritual, and prayer to foster this spirit of living fully.

Music and Miracles: Tone, Sound, and Chant
Don Campbell

Ancient peoples knew that music and sound profoundly affect body, mind, and spirit. All health is sustained by rhythmic patterns that occur throughout the body. Everything in the body is vibration and pattern—the blinking of the eyes, the heartbeat, the breath. Every molecule is in a dance.

Based on research linking the creative arts with memory and brain development, Western scientists are now determining the effects of vibration, sound, and music on body and mind. The ear is the basic instrument for motion, movement, and balance in the body. Music and movement have been shown to directly affect reading and writing in children by creating dynamic changes in brain waves. Getting the brain unstuck from habitual patterns is the key to enhancing creative power and inspiring lifelong learning.

The workshop will include the visionary uses of music as described in Don Campbell's new book, The Mozart Effect. Participants will experiment with toning and listening exercises to help cultivate healing. Movement, meditation, and creative sound will blend with lectures in a workshop designed to offer practical and joyous learning.

The workshop is helpful for massage practitioners, musicians, and all those who want to integrate music into their daily work and life.

$795

To Hell and Back: Dante's Journey for Today's Pilgrims
Alan Jones

The idea of the year 2000 captures the imagination with the vision of apocalyptic. Something enormous is dying and something is being born. We are called upon to reimagine the world by paying attention to our own inner processes and reinterpreting our lives as a journey or pilgrimage.

The poet, Dante, helped to heal the wounded imaginations of his contemporaries by placing their terrors into a narrative of hope. Hell, Purgatory, and Heaven are present states of human experience. They speak to the places where we are stuck in a cycle of deadening repetition, of places in the heart where there is movement from despair to hope by means of facing into the consequences of our actions, and places where we feel at home with ourselves and with others. The Dantean principle is that the way down is the way up—the way to heaven is by engaging in the shadow work of our particular hell.

The workshop will provide opportunities for meditative and liturgical practice as well as group and individual spiritual direction with a visit to the Immaculate Heart Benedictine Monastery just south of Esalen.

No previous knowledge of Dante is required but a reading of a modern translation would be helpful, as would reading Helen Luke's From Dark Wood to White Rose and Alan Jones's The Journey of the Soul: The Three Passages of the Spiritual Life with Dante as Guide.

$25

The Power of the Creative Process for Self-Transformation
Linda Ringer

The artistic creation we all work on is ourselves. As artists, we create our personality, relationships, career, and the direction our lives take.

This workshop presents a program for working with your creative process, which can empower you to be an active participant in the re-creation and transformation of your self. It draws upon the latest research and theories in creativity, psychology, business, and career development. The exercises are designed to guide you to create what you desire in both your professional and personal life, be it a more fulfilling career, a nurturing relationship, enhanced creativity, happiness, or success.

In a supportive environment, the workshop will present creative and stimulating exercises such as guided imagery, mandala drawing, journal writing, symbol work, and group process designed to open you up to your creative powers for self-actualization and transformation. You may emerge with renewed inspiration, hope, and an overall sense of well-being.

This seminar is for everyone, from those just beginning to explore their creative self to professional artists. As an added benefit, the seminar provides a way of working with this self-transformative creative process at home. Each person receives a creativity workbook, a meditation tape for creativity, and a creative self box.

(plus $15 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

$795

Lego® Mania and Explorer Camp: For Children
Steve Napolitano

Children have a natural drive to know how the world works. In this workshop, using the engaging Lego™ Technic systems and computer, children will explore basic principles of mechanical engineering, architecture, physics, chemistry, robotics, design, and invention. Their imaginations will be ignited making motorized vehicles, robots, bridges, amusement park rides, houses, catapults, cranes, and more. Children will explore a variety of computer programs in science and technology, art, and language arts.

As children design and build their projects and explore computer programs, they will be strengthening problem-solving and critical-thinking skills and developing a love for questioning after knowledge. They will also be learning effective teamwork and communication skills as well as enhancing self-esteem. The instruction is geared toward guiding children into formulating meaningful questions and thinking in a variety of ways. Children can discover how to make good decisions, become less impulsive, and be creative in looking for solutions for problems.

The workshop is designed for children ages 5-12 whose parents are attending a concurrent seminar.

$475

Weekend of August 1-3

Intimate Connections

Mariah Fenton Gladis

Creating stable and fulfilling relationships is a challenge that everyone faces. To be successful, human relating must be understood and accepted as an activity, an ability that requires movement, purpose, emotional capacity, and contact skills. People often believe that good relating evolves naturally, but they discover in the routine of living with families, friends, and lovers that, in truth, they have not been adequately prepared to meet the demands of loving relationships.

This workshop will focus on the nature and basic requirements of healthy relationships. It will offer participants opportunities to assess their abilities and disabilities, to develop awareness, and to practice risking positive action with others. It is for anyone who has "hit the wall" in a relationship or who has experienced being stuck at some seemingly impenetrable contact boundary and wants to break through. Particularly helpful for adult children of dysfunctional families, ACAs, and human relations professionals, this experiential and didactic workshop will blend individual and group Gestalt work, spiritual healing, bodywork, and personal metaphor.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

$425

The Healing Power of Humor, Compassion, and Gentle Touch: The Rubenfeld Synergy® Method

Ilana Rubenfeld

"Humor lightened the dark, painful places in my life and helped me onto a path of healing," writes Ilana Rubenfeld. This workshop is for people who want to include humor, movement, body language, and compassionate touch as a way of taking care of themselves personally, professionally, and spiritually. Using the Rubenfeld Synergy Method, a healing system for the dynamic integration of body, mind, emotions, and spirit, participants will have the opportunity to listen, recognize, and work through feelings and memories locked in their bodies.

The workshop will use body/mind exercises, individual demonstrations, hands-on practice, dreamwork, Gestalt practice, and music, all designed to support contacting, releasing, transforming, and balancing the energy of inner body language.

The workshop atmosphere will be one of caring, healing, laughter, tears, and inspiration—encouraging participants to experience empowerment, integration, and new possibilities.

Recommended reading: Rubenfeld, Twenty-Five Years of Simple (available through The Rubenfeld Center, 115 Waverly Place, New York, NY 10011).

Participation in this workshop fulfills one of the requirements for acceptance into the Rubenfeld Synergy Training Program. $425

$475

The Life We Are Given

George Leonard & Michael Murphy

"Like the human heart, the world points beyond itself to something greater and more beautiful. That something attracts us all, in different ways, and leads many of us to seek transformation."

—George Leonard & Michael Murphy, The Life We Are Given

Never before in history have so many people been offered so many possibilities for personal growth. And never before has the need for personal and social transformation been more urgent. Informed by their lifework in the field of human potential, George Leonard and Michael Murphy will lead participants in wide-ranging discussions on such topics as:

• The relations between this evolving universe and world-transcending realities
• Human capacities for extraordinary life
• The elements of transformative practice

This workshop will include simple movement exercises, meditation, storytelling, and unbridled metaphysical speculation. Murphy and Leonard will report on their two-year experiment in Integral Transformative Practice and help participants plan their own paths of transformation.

Recommended readings: Murphy, The Future of the Body; Leonard, Mastery; Leonard & Murphy, The Life We Are Given.

$425

Week of August 3-8

Spirit Dance: A Shamanic Wilderness Journey

David Schiffman & Tom Little Bear Nason

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 72.

$795

Living Dance: A Moving Way

Anna Halprin & Billy Cauley

"I envision a future where more of us will call ourselves dancers and work together to make art concerned with the primary issues of life. I envision a future where dance is once again honored for its power to inspire, teach, transform, and heal. I envision a future where all people dance together, where the circle is open to people of any color, culture, or spiritual practice. We will ask to join the four-legged and the winged creatures instead of asking them to join us. We will dance with the mountains, the oceans, the sun, and the moon. In this workshop we will experience this future as it is unfolding right now. I invite you to join me in this quest. Themes will include the power of dance, healing, myth and ritual, dance in the environment, and the evolution of the human being in relation to the natural world."

So writes Anna Halprin. Through an approach called the Life/Art Process, participants will create dances from their own lives, deepening their life experience through expanded art expression. The workshop will range from structured practice to spontaneous dramatic and zany group interactions. Visualizations, music, and outdoor environments will be incorporated. The workshop is open to everyone. Potential students for the Tamalpa Trainings may find this a valuable orientation.

Recommended reading and viewing: For information, contact Anna Halprin at 15 Ravine Way, Kentfield, CA 94904.

$795

To Be Ripe to Die, To Be Ready to Live
Sukie Miller & Edmundo Barbosa

Many cultures, including traditional Judeo-Christian ones, believe that we must prepare as meticulously and with as much discipline, passion, and imagination for our afterdeaths as we do for our lives. These cultures hold that by understanding what may well come next the lived life can be enhanced. The mini- and micro-“deaths” within our normally lived lives—the death of a marriage, of a dream, of a loved one—become doorways to major change and to the unknown: perhaps the true potential, the place of hope, compassion, delight, and mystery.

The workshop will be both a report on the findings of the Institute for the Study of the Afterdeath and an experiential adventure into the systems of several different cultures. As a community, the group will explore belief systems where the line between the living and the dead is thin. As individuals, participants will explore together the images each of us consciously and unconsciously holds of what lies beyond, and will seek to expand these images to magnify the possibilities of our lived lives.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

$795

Creating Exact Moments of Healing
Mariah Fenton Gladis

Adult children of alcoholic, dysfunctional, or abusive families (ACAs) must walk a road of recovery that requires determination, lifelong commitment, and the creation of specific moments of healing. This workshop offers participants an opportunity to take a major step toward health, helping them to define a plan for necessary moments they must create so they can move forward and to transform their personal history from one of liability to one of strength and wisdom. Focus will be on the promotion of healing:

- With oneself—developing awareness, freedom from addictions, and healing of the body and soul from the residual effects of trauma
- With others—improving one’s capacity for moving out of isolation and into direct, open communication and trust; expanding intimacy skills while securing healthy boundaries
- In the world—moving away from chaos and deprivation toward stability and abundance
- Spiritually—searching for the meaning of one’s history and accessing that part of the self that can utilize universal blessings

This workshop will be experiential and didactic, blending individual and group Gestalt work, music, spiritual practices, and bodywork. A step-by-step recovery process developed by the leader will be incorporated throughout the workshop. The atmosphere will be one of trust and mutual support. This workshop is also appropriate for professionals who work with ACAs.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

$795
Healing the Emotional/Spiritual Body: The Rubenfeld Synergy® Method
Ilana Rubenfeld
This workshop is for people who want to learn how to listen to the messages, memories, and feelings locked in their bodies. Ilana Rubenfeld will introduce and demonstrate the Rubenfeld Synergy Method, a holistic system that integrates Alexander Technique, Feldenkrais Method®, Ericksonian hypnosis, and Gestalt practice.
Each day will include: body/mind exercises to relax, stretch, and to heighten awareness; hands-on teaching to develop intuitive, gentle touch; discussions and demonstrations; and music and humor. The workshop community will become an active culture for learning and growth focused on:
- The interdependence of emotions and posture
- Healing the wounds of dysfunctional families
- Moving beyond therapeutic techniques toward intuitive wisdom
- Dreams and metaphors that reveal life patterns
- Developing a sense of humor
- Honoring the sacred within

“The body is the sacred sanctuary of the soul,” says Ilana. “Care for it like a flower garden.” In this workshop she will demonstrate the possibility of achieving emotional, physical, and spiritual integration.

Recommended reading: Rubenfeld, Twenty-Five Years of Simple (available through The Rubenfeld Center, 115 Waverly Place, New York, NY 10011). $795

Weekend of August 8-10
Big Sur Wilderness Experience
Steven Harper
For workshop description see May 16-18. $425

A Weekend with Terence McKenna
Terence’s most recent transmission: “Join the celebrated, cryptic altered statesman in anticipation of the psychedelic hyperfuture, its perils and promise. We will review the past thousand years with an eye to trends and opportunities that the future may bring.

Western Civilization is caught in a phase transition to the first planet-wide, species-wide civilization. Does the emergence of a shared set of universal values, democracy, and free markets have to mean the end of diversity and pluralism? What does human self-imaging through technology portend for each of us? Is the human race down for the count, or on the brink of its greatest adventure? Psychedelics, virtual reality, rave culture, the WWW, and the transformative power of magic and language will be topics for discussion. Join the unfolding drama of the human family’s long-postponed entry into hyperspace. This is a unique chance to experience consciousness as an informational creature loose in an environment of meaning. Our global culture is preparing to depart for the stars; learn what you should pack for the trip. We will discuss what a long, strange trip it has been, and is bound to be. Come tour a growing zoo of strange futures, chaotic attractors, and the fractal language of the phase-space of happenstance. Discussion of Timewave Zero is certain to be part of the fun.” $425

The Subtle Art of Meditation
David Streeter
The experience of insight, tranquility, inner strength, and aliveness can be found within our everyday life through the ancient art of meditation.
This workshop will approach traditional meditation practice in an unusual way. In a retreat atmosphere, participants will prepare the body/mind for silent listening with fluid movement from the internal martial arts. The workshop will also focus on Chi Kung energy work with zazen (sitting meditation). Other activities will include zazen at Esalen’s meditation center nestled close to a waterfall.
This approach to the subtle practice of meditation through the body can inspire the student to discover his or her rich interior life and that crystal-clear still point described so well in every spiritual tradition.
C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $425

Dreams: A Guiding Force
Mariah Fenton Gladis
Dreams are magnificent evidence of the wisdom of the organism. This workshop will provide a creative opportunity for those who wish to explore the primal, elusive world of dreams using the power of Gestalt therapy. Music, movement, role play, and the spontaneous creation of Gestalt interventions will further enhance the setting. Using dreamwork, you can experience insight, guidance, and deeper awareness in the present and, from there, create healthier options for the future. $425

Week of August 10-15
Advanced Cortical Reeducation® and the Feldenkrais Method®
Harriet Goslins
True healing is learning. And true learning is “outcome-not-predicted.” This workshop will be an exploration of advanced floorwork that moves us toward letting go of those movement patterns and accompanying strategies that still block our physical, emotional, and spiritual healing.
Come with an intention to let go of at least one behavior pattern that no longer serves you, a curiosity about its connection to physical symptoms and movement habits, and a willingness to replace it with new choices, greater body occupancy, and more joy of movement.

Please note: This workshop is open only to those who have completed Harriet Goslin’s introductory seven-day workshop. C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

The Art of Listening: A Mind/Body Clinical Practicum
Ron Alexander & Seymour Carter
How one listens and understands is an art. Psychotherapy can be an art form just as music, literature, and the graphic arts are art forms.

Esalen, with its blend of East and West approaches, has nourished its own form and style of working with psychological issues. The marriage of Buddhist meditation practices with Gestalt therapy, developed by Fritz Perls, has produced a form of personal exploration called Gestalt practice—a blend of mindfulness, insight, and compassion, for dealing with a client’s existential themes.

As psychotherapy training and practice have become more diverse with new theories and techniques, there is a need for an equally flexible psychotherapy model. Gestalt therapy, with its holistic views and dialogic approach, has allowed us to assimilate interpersonal and intersubjective methodologies which enliven and enrich our ever-changing approach to psychotherapy.

This workshop will introduce a comprehensive training program for psychotherapists combining intensive group work with didactic discussions, supervision of therapist-client dyads, and clinical demonstrations. Emphasis will be on the mind-set of the therapist—developing skills of attention, perception, and self-observation—and the role of the body as an instrument of therapeutic perception.

The workshop will apply methods derived from contemporary perspectives including Gestalt therapy, psychodynamic theory, family systems theory, Ericksonian hypnosis, and Buddhism. The sessions will include process work, sensory awareness, and meditation.

Recommended reading: Stolorow, Contexts of Being; Erickson & Rossi, Hypnotic Realities; Polster & Polster, Gestalt Therapy Integrated; Suzuki, Zen Mind, Beginner’s Mind.

C.E. credit for MFCCs and LCSWs is pending. $795

Core Zero Balancing: Basic I and II
Fritz Smith
Zero Balancing is a simple yet powerful method for aligning body structure with body energy. Science has shown that energy and matter are fundamentally coupled; advances in psychology have shown that the body and mind are interconnected. Zero Balancing is born of these perceptions, with roots in both Eastern and Western concepts. It is based on the experience that the balance of energy and structure within the body has a direct effect on our physical, mental, emotional, and spiritual health.

The structural/energetic interface of the body is beneath conscious awareness. When imbalances occur at this level, the body tends to compensate for them rather than resolve them directly. These imbalances often lead to loss of vitality, chronic body pain, and decreased potential for vibrant health.

Through touch, Zero Balancing can assist in overcoming these imbalanced patterns.

The workshop will review anatomy, physiology, and skills of touch. It will present Zero Balancing methods for evaluating and balancing the structural/energetic interface of the body. Eastern concepts of chi energy and the chakra system will be discussed.

The program will be both didactic and experimental, emphasizing new bodywork skills, and is open to all health-care professionals. It is approved for C.E. credit for acupuncturists, and as Z.B. I or II in the Zero Balancing certification program.

Recommended reading: Smith, Inner Bridges: A Guide to Energy Movement and Body Structure. C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $795

The Writer’s Way: Freeing the Authentic Voice
Nancy Bacal
Imagine five days of writing where you substitute kindness for self-criticism, liberate the writer’s voice, and put it to use! Writing personal story is an invitation to claim everything you know and are material. The task is simple. You place a breath of air between yourself and the event/the feelings/the madness/the grace, wide enough for a trail of ink to transform it into story. As the details emerge, they can release you from self-judgment, bringing vitality back to your writing, into your life. When you claim your experience for the page you cease to be a victim of circumstance, for, in that moment, you substitute curiosity for expectation and are free.

Whether you are a nonwriter, occasional writer, or professional, the goal is the same: to challenge old habits and attitudes, to coax the mind out of its cycle of expectation and disappointment into a useful relationship with your work. The schedule will include laughter, tears, moments of resistance, and awesome discovery. With the assistance of movement and meditation, you’ll write, in and out of the group, and read and discuss pertinent material.

Recommended reading: Needleman, Work of Craft; Chodron, The Wisdom of No Escape. $795

Improvisation in Music, Movement, and Life
Henry Kaiser & Haruyoshi Fugaku Ito
Practicing improvisation can help us expand our personal expression, our range of choices in life, and our communication with others. This workshop blends Shintaido body movement and free musical expression in a course designed to enhance openness and flexibility—physically, creatively, and psychologically.

Shintaido (literally “new body way”) is a movement practice developed in Japan in the mid-60s by martial artists. Rather than self-defense, however, Shintaido emphasizes personal growth, artistic expression, cooperation with others, and the development of community.

At about the same time, musicians from many genres in the U.S., Europe, and Japan began to develop new forms of free improvisation. By practicing these musical approaches and exploring the importance of improvisation in the traditional and “roots” music of our planet, we can gain a new appreciation and enjoyment of music—and many aspects of life.

Shintaido has a history of working together with musicians of all schools, as the two disciplines share common goals. In this workshop, participants will explore what musical free expression has been and can be. There will be musical games of improvisation, as well as recordings and videos. Participants will also learn Shintaido body movement, which can... be practiced by everyone—young and old, athletic and nonathletic. Likewise, both musicians (who are encouraged to bring their instruments) and nonmusicians can enjoy the musical games and exercises. $795

Weekend of August 15-17
Experiencing Esalen
Experiencing Esalen Staff
For workshop description see May 30-June 1. $425

Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach
Patrick Douce
The work of Moshe Feldenkrais is based on the natural process by which we learned to move as children. During this workshop, soft, easy, gentle movements will be used to increase awareness of the body and to improve the ease and ability of movement. Special emphasis will be placed on the difficulties in movement that arise from chronic conditions such as lower back and neck pain, tension in the neck and shoulders, and knee injuries. These conditions can be improved by approaching the difficulties as problems in learning rather than as therapeutic troubles. Situations which were “incurable” become “reeducable.” Workshop participants will also be introduced to methods for improving their ability to sense each other’s bodies through touch and massage.

This workshop is valuable for anyone interested in learning more about his/her body through direct experience. It may be of special interest to dancers, physical therapists, psychologists, health care professionals, and elderly citizens who may discover new ways of moving with ease and increased flexibility—painlessly and immediately.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $425

Roots and Wings
David Schiffman
David Schiffman writes: “This workshop is for people who value a heartfelt, original approach to life, the suitably seasoned who want to trust and master their own rhythms and who appreciate the value of imaginative self-inquiry. Its pacing and format are designed to provide a safe, restorative mood for inner reflection and honest self-appraisal. It will also be a time to catch one’s breath and hang out in the elemental beauty of Big Sur in a mood of peace and inspiration, an opportunity to tune into the inner resources that allow us to see the world with fresh eyes and renewed enthusiasm. It is a chance as well to connect with kindred spirits and explore the mysteries, gifts, and dilemmas of who we are.

“Using a blend of physical, emotional, and spiritual attunement practices, we will weave a spell aimed at restoring the magic and faith we need to live soulful, wholehearted lives. We will spend the weekend doing this inner work using ceremony, ritual, music, poetry, movement, and visualization.” $425

Innovative Hypnotherapeutic Approaches to Mind-Body Healing
Ernest Rossi
In this workshop, intended for helping professionals, Ernest Rossi will present a variety of innovative approaches to hypnotherapeutic experience in order to facilitate mind-body communication and healing. These new approaches focus on how we can better utilize our natural states of arousal, rejuvenation, and creativity in everyday life. New developments in the use of simple, nonverbal methods of facilitating private creative experience and healing will be explored. These approaches are all designed to reduce stress, maximize performance, and improve health and emotional well-being. Dr. Rossi has evolved these new approaches—which integrate the accumulated wisdom of the ancients, Jung’s synthetic method, and the new sciences of Chaos and Complexity—over twenty years of experience in facilitating individuals and groups internationally.

The workshop will consist of lectures and demonstrations, and an opportunity to work one-on-one with Dr. Rossi within the supportive setting of the group. It is especially designed for psychologists, psychiatrists, and anyone with a professional license to practice therapy.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $425

Self-Transformation: The Art of the Actor for Everyday Life
Jane Marla Robbins
Transforming feelings of anxiety and insecurity into feelings of self-confidence and joy is a miracle that can happen in all areas of one’s life—physical, emotional, spiritual. This transformation can help us fulfill our potential for the roles we have chosen to play—child, parent, artist, public speaker, shaman, sensualist, or spouse.

The workshop will explore and discuss a wealth of acting techniques, including: physical, mental, emotional, vocal; and spiritual preparations, relaxation, sense memory, the magic “as if” animal exercises, overcoming self-consciousness, speaking the truth, perfect props, and psychophysical action.

Participants can learn how to replace old fears and paranoid projections with self-generated pleasures and positive projections. Many “real-life” situations ordinarily fraught with worry can easily be transformed using the Actor’s Imagination. The power and pleasure of being able to create a sense of well-being can be experienced by everyone, and, once discovered, it cannot be easily shaken.

No previous acting experience is necessary. $425

August 17-24
Hypnotic Conversations: Psychotherapy in the Tradition of Milton Erickson
Paul Lounsbury & Nancy Winston
If you are a psychotherapist—or a professional in a helping field with an M.A. or above—with an intact sense of humor, a desire for personal growth, a sincere interest in sharpening your skills, and can enjoy participating in a supportive collegial group, this workshop is for you.

Whether your focus is on the strategic, solution-oriented aspects of Erickson’s work or in creatively utilizing hypnosis, this workshop will make accessible the salient features and underlying dynamics of Erickson’s approaches to psychotherapy. If you are not yet oriented to hypnosis, this experience will serve as an excellent introduction. If you already use hypnosis confidently, you can expect to increase your effectiveness, fluidity, and the range of dimensions in which you now practice it.

The goals are to: 1) orient psychotherapists to a way of formulating experience that facilitates the natural co-creation of therapeutic trances; 2) facilitate a fuller appreciation for and reliance on the brilliance of the unconscious mind; 3) expand participants' frames of reference; and 4) generate skills for tailoring psychotherapy to the uniqueness of the individual(s) at hand.

The training will entail instruction, exploration, and utilization of: formal and informal trance induction, the hypnotic/therapeutic relationship, unconscious communication, problem and solution formation, influence language (suggestion), trance phenomena, resistance, identification of individual frames of reference, systemically significant "organizing" patterns, dissociative structures, pain control, and reframing.

The workshop will be conducted in a group format. It will explore and address the professional and/or personal interests each individual brings to the group, while simultaneously attending to, giving instruction in, and genering distinctions for constructing psychotherapy in the tradition of Milton Erickson.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.
C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.
C.E. credit for MFCCs and LCSWs is pending. $1220

Managing With Heart: Changing the Leadership Paradigm
Maggie Seeley & Paul Temple

"Managing With Heart" is about bringing the wisdom of the heart into the business world.
It is about rediscovering your passion. It is a time to re-vision your life and your work.

Our inherited business paradigm is hard, heartless, competitive. Its sole objective is to make money and/or sustain bureaucracy. To be successful, one must fight to survive, protect one's turf, and hide one's feelings.

The essence of the new leadership is building an intentional culture of mutual trust where people can bring forth their creativity and sensitivity. Tapping into one's essential self, integrating the heart, the head, and the body, can stimulate a new level of personal excitement and organizational motivation.

This seminar emphasizes personal change while providing in-depth training in organizational dynamics and paradigm shifting. It offers coaching, experiential learning, and concrete material in such areas as: leadership practices, outdoor teamwork, organizational culture, acknowledgment of ancestors, and conflict, change, and wounding. Movement, music, meditation, massage, art, time in nature, and intuitive practices will be interwoven throughout. Participants will spend a day writing a Personal Vision Statement, with specific steps to bring the learning back to work and home. "Managing With Heart" can be transformational, inspiring, and joyous.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $795

Choosing Aliveness
Mary Goldenson (Devarani) &
Peter Finkelstein

Life is a precious gift. We have all experienced moments of feeling totally alive, yet much of our life is spent in a half-asleep, half-committed state of being. While there are many life-situations beyond our control, we choose how we respond to these events. The choice to be passionately alive is an act of courage. To choose life is to:

• Open ourselves to all of life—suffering, joy, success, failure, love, and grief

• Fully acknowledge the truth of who we are

• Commit to living our deepest values and

• Define what we must change in our relationships

• Learn new ways to heal, forgive, and communicate

The challenge is to honestly address the ways in which we have compromised, given up, or lied to ourselves and others. This workshop is designed to bring to awareness our unconscious choices of how we deaden ourselves and to create the possibility for new aliveness and passionate involvement.

Come alone or with a partner. A safe, supportive atmosphere will be provided, using communication skills, movement, Gestalt, and Reichian work.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.
C.E. credit for MFCCs and LCSWs is pending. $795

Five-Day Massage Intensive
Sherry Galloway & Robert Helm

This massage workshop explores the fundamental elements of bodywork: grounding,
centering, breath awareness, touch sensitivity, and intention. A hands-on approach will combine a balance of long, integrative strokes with detailed attention to specific areas of the body. There will be emphasis on discussion and modeling of boundaries and trust with respect to the client's physical and emotion well-being. Meditation and movement will be included to enhance the connection between client and practitioner.

This workshop is for beginning bodyworkers
and those interested in learning some new approaches to massage.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $795

Drawing on the Right Side of the Brain
Lynda Greenberg

In order to draw, neither previous art training nor manual dexterity is required. All that is necessary to draw is to learn to see. This workshop teaches basic strategies of seeing through a combination of lectures and studio exercises that packs a semester-long art course into five days.

Following the lesson plan of Drawing on the Right Side of the Brain by Dr. Betty Edwards, the lectures explain the principles of visual perception and creativity that allow the student to successfully master the studio exercises. The studio exercises in turn lead to the integration of perceptual skills and the ability to produce high-quality finished drawings. Since it is the right side of the brain that processes spatial information, exercises are presented to "trick" the left side—domain of linear data like language, naming, and categorizing—into surrendering control.

In a carefully sequenced process, participants are taught ways of seeing that enable them to skillfully draw their perceptions. More importantly, these new strategies of thinking are useful in general problem solving. Consequently, the workshop does not teach "techniques of drawing" in a narrow sense; it teaches how to see in the broader sense, and how to record one's perceptions in drawings.

Weekend of August 22-24

The Sources of Growth
Seymour Carter

For workshop description see May 9-11. $425

Breema Bodywork: The Nonjudgmental Treatment
Jon Schreiber

Breema Bodywork originated in a remote Kurdish village, where it still serves as the primary health-care method. Developed by people whose insight into the nature of the human body affords them longer and more active lives, this ancient system has a health-enhancing and deeply harmonizing effect on those who practice and receive it. Rather than analyzing and focusing on the recipient's pathology, Breema emphasizes the experience of the practitioner. Thus, both the giver and receiver of a Breema treatment receive benefits, which commonly include increased mental clarity, emotional balance, physical vitality, and instinctive movement reeducation. Breema treatments are hands-on, safe, and gentle. They encompass an array of unique movement sequences and affect the body through the musculoskeletal and physical systems, as well as via the chakras and meridians. At its core, Breema is vibrational or energetic medicine.

A full series of treatment sequences will be presented. Participants will be taught the flow of the bodywork and the underlying health principles. The group will also learn self-Breema specific exercises done on one's own body. Designed for both health professionals and lay people, this workshop can help students of Breema to enhance their professional work, and can be a nurturing and balancing addition to their personal lives.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $795

The Second Coming of Science
Brian O'Leary

Science is undergoing a major revolution. Concepts such as free energy and the interaction of our consciousness with the environment are becoming increasingly accepted, likely to become the cornerstones of a new science.

Dr. Brian O'Leary has devoted his last ten years to exploring, teaching, and writing about new paradigms of science. Participants in this course will not only become apprised of new theories and experiments, but will also have hands-on experience demonstrating the incredible power of consciousness. The workshop will focus on four modules, based on O'Leary's New Science trilogy:

1) The Science of the Intellect embraces experiments and theories that are "outside the box" yet still based on rigorous scientific methods, including the latest findings in psychokinesis, healing, remote viewing, near-death experience, precognition, biocommunications, etc.

2) The Science of the Imagination focuses on unraveling the mysteries of our lives. Dr. O'Leary will present exploratory techniques he devised with artist Meredith Miller to tap into our creativity. The work will be a lot of time for writing, as well as time for sharing and feedback. From beginners to experienced, all writers are welcomed.

"This workshop will help keep the channels open. It will be a supportive place to share our lives and work, our voice, our creativity. There will be a lot of time for writing, as well as time for sharing and feedback. From beginners to experienced, all writers are welcomed. Whether you are interested in poetry, fiction, nonfiction, or journal writing, this workshop will provide an opportunity to explore and expand your world."

Note: Although Ellen Bass is known for her work with survivors of childhood sexual abuse, the focus of this workshop will not be on healing from trauma. Rather, it is a creative writing workshop in which participants are free to write on any subject they choose.

A Course in Miracles
Julian Silverman

A Course in Miracles is a curriculum for changing the mind so that you can enjoy life. Its basic premise is that the mind can learn to empower itself by learning to extend itself. According to the Course, "All confusion comes from not extending life."
In this workshop the vision of A Course in Miracles is set within a framework of three of its critical ideas. Each one is introduced with a quote spotlighting a basic human learning need:

1. "Instruction in perception is your greatest need."
2. "You do not know the meaning of love and that is your handicap."
3. "Your task is not to seek for love, but merely to seek and find all the barriers within yourself that you have built against it."

Julian Silverman elaborates, "The first principle dovetails with my years of scientific research in the area of perception, in both normal and altered states of consciousness. The second fits with my lifelong search for a conception of love which integrates the spiritual and the physical. The third enables me to draw on my more than twenty years of experience as a psychotherapist and supervisor of psychotherapists, and my abiding interest in spiritually-based self-examination."

The workshop uses a combination of conceptual and experiential learning methods.

Prerequisites: Own a copy of A Course in Miracles. Be interested in learning what's in it. C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $795

Poetic Medicines, Intuitive Remedies
John Fox

"Poem-making is a creative act that helps you reclaim your feelings, your voice, your truth, and the miracles of your world," says John Fox. "This workshop will provide a place to gather these treasures and bring them home."

"Drawing from a splendid range of sources, we will experiment in solitude and as a group with poem-making as healing catalyst. You will learn to use poetic elements of metaphor, sound, rhythm, imagery, and symbol as remedies to become more whole and live with greater heart."

"This workshop will give you permission to write about your life. Nurtured in the beauty of Esalen, poem-making will give voice to your soul, to your sorrows and joys. We will explore the roots of deep feeling, the playfulness of language, the blessing of common things. We will experience how breathing, stillness, and empathic listening deepen the act of writing."

This course is valuable for anyone with a desire to express their truth and creativity.

Recommended reading: Fox, Finding What You Didn't Lose: Expressing Your Truth and Creativity Through Poem-Making $795

Life Energy Process*
Stephano Sabetti

The Life Energy Process (L.E.P.) is a spiritually-oriented body approach to self-development, lifestyle enhancement, and professional growth based on Eastern and Western energy dynamics. Specifically designed micro-movements activate energy vibrations which lead to the release of held emotions, while opening to love and healthy sexuality.

Practice of the Life Energy Process leads naturally to body harmony and emotional balance as well as new possibilities in relationships and professional skills based on the consequences of energy attunement.

Life Energy Process includes: martial arts, dance, theater, massage, yoga, and pool work, among others, depending on group process. The workshop is of particular interest to professionals and mature laypersons who are excited by the integration of theory, pleasure, and hands-on application of energy concepts.

Recommended reading: Sabetti, Wholeness Principle and Waves of Change. C.E. credit is available for psychologists; see page 68. C.E. credit for MFCCs and LCSWs is pending. $795

Weekend of August 29-31

Relationships: The Courage to Begin
Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

"For one human being to love another: that is perhaps the most difficult of all our tasks, the ultimate test and proof, the work for which all the other work is but preparation."

RILKE

Life is a precious gift. We have all experienced moments of feeling totally alive, especially within our relationships. When beliefs, defenses, fears, and emotions from the past enter into our present-day relationships, we lose our ability to feel love, trust, and joy.

The goal of this workshop is to experience these restrictive patterns and to create new ways to relate to ourselves, others, and our work, thus enabling us to create new beginnings. This workshop can help you:

- Find out how your relationships mirror you
- Clarify what you want and how to get it
- Examine ways you sabotage yourself
- Learn more about how others see you
- Learn practical tools and knowledge that will help create empowered relationships

In a supportive and safe environment, experiential exercises will help you become more adept at listening, empathizing, truth telling, creative problem-solving, and taking responsibility to create the relationships you want. Come alone or with a partner. The workshop will draw from Gestalt, Reichian work, dance, imagery, and meditation. $425

Yoga and Healing
Thomas Michael Forte

The word "yoga" comes from ancient Sanskrit and translates into "to yoke together," to create union, harmony, and balance: union of mas-
The practice of physical yoga postures (asanas), conscious breathing, and active meditation is a tangible and practical way of change. In a fundamental way, yoga is a practice of self-healing. The yoga postures stimulate and purify the internal organs and glands of the body, flexibility is improved, and muscles and joints are strengthened. The focus on the breath is calming for the mind and nervous system and helps to develop a sense of ease, focus, and concentration. This is a practice of mind-body connection.

Early morning sessions will begin with pranayama (breathing exercises) and meditation. Weather permitting, the active late morning practice will be outdoors on the Esalen dance platform. There will be an emphasis on the breath, body alignment, and the healing qualities of the postures. The Saturday afternoon session will focus on restorative postures, forward bends, and twists.

All yoga props will be provided. Beginners and intermediates welcome. Please have a minimum of six months' recent yoga experience.

Week of August 31–September 5

Waves
Gabrielle Roth & Jonathan Horan

Writes Gabrielle Roth: "In 'Waves' we explore the dynamic practice of the Roth 5 Rhythms'. This cathartic form of ecstatic dance is a workout for body and soul—a moving meditation—a spiritual practice where we 'sweat our prayers.' Waves' gives us a rhythmic map, a way to understand the cadence of our culture and the tempo of our relationships. 'Waves' is at once the most basic and the most advanced work, the place we always begin and the place we always return.

"In our hearts, we know that at our deepest level we are divine, spirit in flesh—unlimited, joyful, loving, ecstatic and free. But all too often, what's real day-to-day is not our freedom but our limitations. Not our joy, but our pain. For many of us what's real is what holds us back, not what sets us free.

"When you enter into the Roth 5 Rhythms, you embark on a pilgrimage of self-revelation rooted in action and movement. This happens because the 5 Rhythms are not a theory, but a practice. This work builds on its own momentum, leaping from the fertile landscape of the body through waves of emotional content toward our realization of spirit. This dynamic encounter with your own psyche has the power to transform, revealing your passion, power and presence."

Weekend Massage Intensive
Deborah Anne Medow & Vicki Topp

Participants will be instructed in basic methods for giving a pleasurable and beneficial full-body massage. Fundamental elements of bodywork, such as breath awareness, grounding, movement, quality of touch, and stress reduction, will be introduced. Yoga will be incorporated to enhance body awareness and to help develop strength. The workshop is open to beginners as well as those who wish to brush up on their massage skills.

Weekend of September 5-7

'Tis a Gift to Be Simple
David Schiffman

This weekend is intended as an offering for people who would like to return to the simplicity of the values we treasure most. Its aim is to create a climate of mutual support and encouragement for exploring how to best cultivate the spirit of real generosity and faith in dealing with ourselves and others. This will embrace the following elements:

• Sanctuary—the opportunity to step away and pause, to create a mood of peace and personal clearing without haste or interruption

• The company of kindred spirits—a chance to be met with honesty, empathy, and wisdom in an atmosphere of soulful, clear-eyed support

• The emotional freedom to be—the right to let down and be sad, glad, or mad in order to clear the air and move on, making room in our hearts for new possibilities

• The right to feel free and alive in our bodies—the use of innovative ways of moving and touching in order to restore the vitality of feeling truly alive and physically at ease

The methods will be drawn from a wide variety of practices, both traditional and nontraditional, all aimed at restoring our gratitude and appreciation for being alive.

The Subtle Self
Judy Blackstone

All spiritual traditions refer to an essential dimension of existence, calling it unity con-
Consciousness, emptiness, universal consciousness, and many other names. This dimension is not an abstract concept. It is the core of our own true nature and can be experienced by anyone who is willing to approach it with patience and openness. Unity consciousness is experienced as clear, mirror-like space, pervading our body and our environment, transcending the duality of self and object. It is deeper than the physical and energetic levels of our being and beyond our psychological defenses, projections, images, and archetypes. Subtle Self Work is a precise method of attuning to the clear space of unity consciousness.

In this workshop participants will explore how to relate to others in this clear space, commune with nature, experience and live in the inner depths of the body, and integrate the body, authentic self, and unity consciousness. Participants will use the Subtle Self Work attunement exercises, daily sitting meditation, and sound, breath, and movement exercises to stimulate the channels in the vertical core of the body and expand the sense of unity consciousness. In this essential dimension of ourselves, we can find the source of our love, clarity, vitality, and peace.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

---

The Home Within the Heart: Ojibwe Tribal Healings

Robert Palmer & Blackwolf Jones

The ancient healing ways of the Ojibwe tribe can profoundly change life patterns. This workshop offers these traditional ways to improve physical, emotional, mental, and spiritual well-being.

There will be presentations on healing, purification, and the energies of the natural elements and of the eagle, wolf, bison, and bear. The mishomis (grandfather stone), medicine wheel, medicine bundle, and prayer stick will be used to help resolve anger, shame, conflict, and pain. The preparation and burning of fear bundles will allow flames to devour fears. As Blackwolf says, “We master fear or fear masters us, but there will be a master.”

As traditional Native American dancers, Blackwolf and Robert will teach tribal dances. Both men and women will experience the way of the Ojibwe warrior. Women will be honored as central to survival on Earth Mother. Throughout the workshop, the life principles of pride, dignity, honor, and respect (namaji) will help all come to "the home within the heart."

Blackwolf spent his formative years raised with traditional ways on an Ojibwe reservation and now combines these teachings with his experiences of teaching, counseling, and living in contemporary society. Robert Palmer is an Ojibwe descendant and traditional dancer.

C.E. credit is available for psychologists: see page 68. C.E. credit for MFCCs and LCSWs is pending.

---

Daughters of Saturn: From Father’s Daughter to Creative Woman

Patricia Reis

In this workshop, based on her recent book Daughters of Saturn: From Father’s Daughter to Creative Woman, Patricia Reis will explore the unmapped terrain of daughter-father relationships with a particular look at the influence of the daughter-father relationship on women's creative expression.

Participants will travel together through the sometimes difficult and culturally undefined territory of daughter-father relationships. Through myths, dreams, and women’s experiences, the group will create a map marking the journey from father’s daughter to creative woman, seeking to answer the questions: What role does the personal, cultural, and spiritual father play in women’s experience of creativity? How does a woman gain access to her creative life? What conditions drive her creative process? What kind of struggles does she undergo?

Using the structure from her book, Patricia Reis will act as guide for the journey from life in the Belly of the Father through the first Gate of Awakening. Participants will document their rebellions and resistances against the dominant culture of patriarchy, the treacherous Battlezone of Culture, and will learn how to locate the trails into the Women’s Wildzone, a place that has existence outside the law of the fathers: a woman-centered ground of being and knowing and creating.

Please note: This workshop is for women only. Please bring a photo or memento of your father. $425

Week of September 7-12

Golf in the Kingdom: An Exploration of the Deeper Game

Stephen Cohen, Brian Bergstrom & Andy Nusbaum

For workshop description see May 18-23. $795 (plus greens fees paid directly to leader)

The Transformative Power of Grief

Bruce Gregory

The experience of loss is often very painful, sometimes even devastating. The voyage across the vast ocean of grief contains storms of rage, depression, despair, and helplessness. The voyage, however, contains many opportunities for transformation in the midst of tragedy and pain. These opportunities can provide healing for disowned parts of the self, underdeveloped spirituality, and needs that have been forgotten, overlooked, or devalued.

The texture of grief has many underdeveloped layers. Within the grief are doorways to grace, compassion, forgiveness, comfort, and a new, expanded perspective of life. To cross these thresholds one must navigate the dark waters of the shadows of the ego, which rages at the loss of control in life, loss that we all must come to terms with.

By engaging the ego in the eye of the storm, disguised needs and dormant healing resources reveal themselves and can be activated to facilitate the transformation of the grief into healing.

This workshop will utilize Gestalt, role playing, and mind body processes to help participants explore and move through unresolved aspects of the grief process.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.
C.E. credit is available for psychologists; see page 68.
C.E. credit for MFCCs and LCSWs is pending.

Peruvian Shamanism: Heart of the Healer

Oscar Miro-Quesada

This workshop provides an in-depth initiation into the archetypal shamanic heritage of Peru and offers a practical hands-on approach to blend millennial native wisdom-teachings into our daily lives.

The workshop begins with a slide-illustrated interactive gathering tracing the evolution of South American indigenous healing practices. The use of sacred psychoactive plants and ceremonial healing rituals will be vividly depicted.

The focal point of the workshop lies in the reverent creation of a Peruvian curandero’s Mesa, or “medicine wheel,” which is an altar-like arrangement of sacred items and power objects ceremonially used to awaken deep states of individual and collective healing. Through the ritual of the Mesa—in combination with the use of sound in the form of primal rhythms and ancestral chants, hampticamaq breathwork and movement, spirit journeys to shamanic realms, and despachos (consecrated Earth offerings)—the workshop will weave a tapestry that bridges our human and divine natures.

Participants will also be introduced to culture-specific diagnostic procedures and healing practices based on the development of visionary consciousness and the disciplined use of our imaginative faculties, including divination, soul retrieval, shape-shifting, and animal ally embodiment.

The workshop is beneficial and appropriate for people from all walks of life, including lay persons, students, educators, and truth seekers. $795

In Search of the Healing Self: Movement, Touch, and the Healing Process

Patrick Douce

Inside each of us, there is a part of the self that knows how to grow, to learn, to heal. For most of us this part operates without any conscious control. In this program participants will learn how to connect with this growing, learning, healing part of themselves.

Moshe Feldenkrais developed a method of moving and touching to connect to the healing potential of our bodies. The movements are based on the ways we learned to move as children and extend to the most complex movements possible. Many of the ways we have been taught to conceptualize and move our bodies are incorrect and contribute to physical difficulties. The workshop will enable participants to experience these misconceptions and learn alternative ways which help us to improve. The emphasis is on doing less with more awareness—learning to improve, rather than forcing ourselves to improve.

The Feldenkrais work will be combined with movements influenced by Indonesian Silat martial-arts-for-health movements. These movements stimulate the energy body, further enhancing our healing possibilities.

The workshop will introduce participants to the complexity and simplicity of the spinal column. The movement work will increase sensitivity for safe, noninvasive, hands-on explorations, used to stimulate this deeper part of the self to change. They will be of benefit to those beginning this type of work as well as professionals seeking new tools.

Recycled Catholics: Soul Journeys Toward Authentic Relationship with God

Janet Quinn

A “Recycled Catholic” is someone who was baptized as an infant and raised Catholic, who at some point departed from the church (often in search of a more authentically spiritual life), and who now finds herself or himself drawn to the church through a variety of paths but with a radically different lived experience of what it means to be a follower of Jesus Christ, quite independent from the church as hierarchy and ultimate authority,
You can e-mail Noel Mapstead at mapstead@ix.netcom.com

Come make Raku “pleasure” and drink as with the help of assistant Dave Francis. will be a sweat lodge and hot clay mud baths environmental awareness. And, as always, there over the past five years have proven to be a part of the Catholic tradition, including Lectio Divina and Centering Prayer, and will rediscoble elements of the mystical tradition which have been hidden in Catholic rituals and beliefs. $795

Traditional Raku
Noel Mapstead & Keiko Suga

Raku in its simplest form is the getting together of friends for the purpose of drinking warm beverages and discussing the merits of the cups—how they feel in our hands, on our lips, and how they appear visually. To arrive at this gathering of friends, Raku involves aspects different from other forms of ceramics. This includes making objects purely to be functional; a direct encounter with the firing of the pottery; and a constant involvement in creating that results in unexpected and stimulating results.

Participants will learn to gather and work with local Big Sur clay, fashion objects, and construct, load, and fire a wood-burning kiln. Once the kiln is fired up, the work will culminate with simple glaze techniques achieved by placing the pottery in the kiln and pulling them out—red-hot—with tongs to cool and instantly use and admire.

Noel and Keiko’s many pottery workshops over the past five years have proven to be a time to have fun and cultivate creative experimentation, human transformation, and environmental awareness. And, as always, there will be a sweat lodge and hot clay mud baths with the help of assistant Dave Francis.

Come make Raku “pleasure” and drink as friends. There is no other secret.

You can e-mail Noel Mapstead at mapstead@ix.netcom.com $795

Weekend of September 12-14

Releasing the Warrior: Assault Prevention for Women
André Salvage

Ancient warriors of old had it. Many great seers had it. Once in a while you’ll see it in the eyes of a stranger, a woman in the market, or even in a child: There is no fear, no resentment, no paranoia. There is only a peaceful awareness that allows these people to walk anywhere with the confidence that they can defend themselves.

This type of power is accessible to all. In this workshop André Salvage, a Master in the art of Kung Fu San Soo, will help you to overcome your fears by developing reliance on your intuition to know when something feels wrong; assert yourself in a way that stops inappropriate behavior that may lead to harm; and learn the skills to physically stop an attacker.

This program was developed in response to Salvage’s own experience of trauma and tragedy in the crime-ridden neighborhoods of South Central Los Angeles. He combines the practical knowledge and survival savvy of someone who grew up in the streets with the compassion and understanding of a teacher who can translate that knowledge into a holistic set of workable tools.

Note: This is a workshop for women only. $425

Time Shifting: Creating Time for Your Life
Stephan Rechtschaffen

Time is a mysterious flow of which we are a natural part. Yet in our fast-paced, overscheduled lives, we have lost touch with living “in the flow of time.” Caught up in the stress of running from work to home to recreation, no one seems to have the time to do important things. Anxious about the future, regretful of the past, we miss the hidden fullness of each moment.

This workshop helps participants understand their own attitudes toward time and the effect those attitudes have on lifestyle, health, and longevity. Stephan Rechtschaffen, a medical doctor and co-founder of Omega Institute, will introduce practices to move perception away from societal time pressures into the unexplored territory and emotions of “freedom-within-time.” Using meditation, visualization, and time evaluation and planning (not scheduling), participants can begin to experience their own natural rhythm in time and the simple power and pleasure of being “present” in each moment.

Participants will explore the effect of dysrhythmic, hurried schedules—on health, relationships, work, and creativity—and, using their expanded sense of time, explore what they really want and how to bring the freedom of “timelessness-within-time” into their everyday lives.

Recommended reading: Rechtschaffen, Time Shifting: Creating More Time to Enjoy Your Life. C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. C.E. credit for MFTs and LCSWs is pending. $425

Journey on the Shining Path: African Shamanic Thought and Practice
Kykosa Kajangu

Rimba is the sacred name of the goddess of enlightenment of many African communities. Rimba is also the name for the creative blending of various meditative activities which can help truth-seekers searching to reclaim their godhood. Rimba uses sound, movement, and light as the basic fuel to generate the energy truth-seekers need to open up their inner channels and to empower their outer channels. Rimba is to African spiritual thought and practice what Yoga is to Indian spiritual thought and practice. This workshop will use the following “technologies of the sacred” to set the wheels of Rimba in motion:

- Deep talk—inspiring stories to help in training the “symbolic ear” to hear the music of the universe
- Divination system—the Dagara model of the African medicine wheel to help to find the “charm of life”
- Rituals—meditative activities to help achieve personal balance and harmony with all living things

“In this workshop,” writes Kykosa, “you can learn practices to stop psychic toxins from robbing you of your health, rituals to enhance the quality of your life, step-by-step guidance to check the flow of energy within, and down-to-earth insights to make great strides on the Shining Path.” $425

Council of All Beings
John Seed

The Council of All Beings is a series of rituals created to help individuals feel their connection with nature in their hearts and bodies. By rediscovering our interconnectedness with all beings, we see that the pain of the earth is our own pain and the fate of the earth is our own fate. The Council of All Beings empowers people to act on behalf of the earth and gives clarity and direction for the work ahead.

Participants will have the opportunity to review the human evolutionary journey and to shed their solely human identification in order to feel greater empathy for the myriad species and habitats of the Earth. Through personal sharing, meditation, and ritual, participants will explore the depths of their concern and love for the planet in this time of crisis. As many individuals have discovered, alignment with a larger identity clarifies, dignifies, and heals one's personal conflicts. In the same fashion, it clarifies and orders patterns of consumption, needs for intimacy and support, and priorities for action. This gathering provides tools for putting this into practice in daily life.

This work draws upon current scientific findings to expand our understanding of the ecological crisis that threatens the planet. The leader will discuss systems theory and the Gaia hypothesis to provide a solid, rational-conceptual foundation for the deep ecology movement, and will relate them to spiritual traditions thousands of years old that attune individuals to the Earth.

Therapeutic Touch: Healing for Everyone—Everyone a Healer
Janet Quinn

Therapeutic Touch (TT) is an approach to healing which derives from the ancient practice of laying on of hands but which need not take place within a religious framework. First developed by nursing professor Dr. Dolores Krieger and Dora Kunz, TT is a gentle but powerful tool for actualizing the natural capacity within each one of us for healing and wholeness. Increasing numbers of health-care professionals as well as family caregivers are learning that using TT is as helpful to the practitioner as it is to the recipient.

This workshop is designed to introduce TT as a complementary healing modality which might be used within the context of existing health-care practices and/or personal lives. The historical, philosophical, and theoretical foundations of TT will be reviewed. The course will explore basic assumptions related to human energy fields and there will be demonstration and actual practice of the method. The research on TT will be reviewed and issues related to the use of TT within existing and future health-care systems will be explored.

Anyone who wants to learn how to help or to heal through the use of focused intention and the human energy field is welcome.
C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

Week of September 14-19

Continuum
Emilie Conrad-Da'oud

This workshop explores the idea that movement is something we are rather than something we do, that what we call a "body" is actually a nonlinear creative event.

"Awareness of ourselves as movement begins with developing our sensitivity to our intrinsic world," writes Emilie Conrad Da'oud. "We do this by exploring the mobile diversity of our breath, by discovering how our sound permeates connective tissue, and most of all by experiencing fluidity as our biological origin—the undulating waves of life that brought us here in the first place.

"As we enliven ourselves from the inside, our dynamic expressions in the world increase. This oscillation from intrinsic to extrinsic, from cell to action, urges itself into new creative channels. Released from convention, our movement vocabulary can include textures and dynamics that are the expression of what is current and alive."

As a movement specialist at UCLA, Conrad-Da'oud has contributed to a study demonstrating that enhancing fluid movement is essential to mediating disease and aging. Her work is incorporated into the fields of alternative medicine, physical therapy, and physical fitness.

This workshop can give participants a deeper awareness of the body as a process where change, growth, and innovation are possible. No dance or movement experience is necessary.
C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

Healing Our Hearts
Julie Bowden & Richard Balaban

This workshop will be a journey into the tender part of the self that carries childhood trauma. Feeling and integrating the pain and gifts of our past allows us to live more fully in relationship with ourselves and others, and helps us to acknowledge and nurture our inner voice. Using guided imagery, music, metaphor, and dialogue with the historical child, this work is about melting the frozen tears and befriending the child within. Gaining compassion for the self and experiencing a supportive community are also a part of this work.
To help create an atmosphere of safety, care, and respect for core issues to emerge, participants are asked to forgo alcohol and other mood-altering, nonprescription drugs for these five days.

If you long to live beyond your past, discover your untapped strengths, and enhance your relationships, this workshop is designed for you.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

Conscious Dreaming: The Path of the Shaman in Everyday Life
Robert Moss

"As we approach the new millennium," writes Robert Moss, "we have the chance to participate in the emergence of a more gifted and generous version of our species, the Multidimensional Human. To accomplish this, we need to marry the best of contemporary science and scholarship to the techniques of "paleolithic psychology": conscious dreaming, hypersensory perception, soul recovery, and shamanic soul-flight to sources of insight and healing.

"In this adventure together, we will journey through inner and outer space with the aid of breathwork, sonic, visualization, shared dreaming, sacred story, and shamanic techniques for shifting consciousness. We will learn the anatomy and dynamics of soul, working with the energy body and the dreambody. We will experiment in 'folding time' in order to scout out challenges that lie in the now. We will embark on a visionary journey to Sirius B to gain experiential insight into the belief of the Dogon, the Maoris, and other indigenous peoples that human life on Earth was seeded from the white dwarf in the Sirius star system. We will investigate the paths of the spirit after physical death, and develop a personal geography of the afterlife."

What to bring to this workshop: your passion, personal geography of the afterlife: the spirit after physical death, and develop a star system. We will investigate the paths of the spirit after physical death, and develop a personal geography of the afterlife.

Recommended reading: Moss, Conscious Dreaming; Murphy, The Future of the Body.

$795

Creative Arts Center at Esalen
Arts Center Staff

Everyone has a drive to create—to be original, inventive, whimsical, resourceful. Located in The Barn at Esalen, the Creative Arts Center is a place for individuals to explore their imagination and their playfulness. It is a growing resource that is constantly evolving—a place that invites you to express your own creative instincts and become the artist that you've always imagined was hiding somewhere inside you.

This workshop invites you on a journey of reawakening. The Arts Center staff will provide a safe, supportive environment for you to rediscover the creator within. There will be a variety of art media available, which may include painting, pottery, silk dyeing, dance and movement, mask making, ritual, and group work. The leaders will offer exercises, as needed, to stimulate and liberate your creative expression, as they guide you deeper into the world of your own imagination and playfulness.

This will also be a wonderful opportunity to get messy. No previous art training is necessary.

$795

El Lenguaje de la Libertad (The Language of Freedom)
Gustavo Rabin & Sara Szpektor

This Spanish-speaking workshop is about obtaining the freedom of being who we really are. In a safe and nurturing environment, participants will learn this old/new language: The language of freedom.

Para evitar todo aquello que nos hiere, solo-mos levantar defensas. Este mecanismo, al mismo tiempo que nos protege, puede reducir nuestra libertad. Es triste, pero no podemos, como hombres, estar expuestos a una libertad empobrecida. Para recuperarla en plenitud, debemos re-aprender su valor y su precio. Y, en esa búsqueda de-cubriremos no sólo que la tarea depende de nosotros, sino que también somos el principal obstáculo para lograrlo.

Este workshop presentará los mapas que nos guiarán desde nuestro propio encierro hacia la expresión más libre de nuestro ser. A través de ejercicios gestálticos, trabajo grupal y proceso personal, crearemos un ambiente prote-gido en el cual se podrá recordar y hablar este nuevo-antiguo lenguaje: El lenguaje de la libertad.

Las actividades tendrán lugar totalmente en español.

$795

Weekend of September 19-21

Massage Intensive for Couples
Brita Ostrom & David Streeter

This workshop is for partners who want to learn to massage each other. Emphasis will be on "hearing" with the hands, de-stressing the home, asking for what we need, and giving to those we love. Sessions will include demonstrations and hands-on guidance. Individual concerns will be addressed so participants can continue their practice at home.

$425 per participant

Why Men Are the Way They Are
Warren Farrell

I've never had a couple come to me and say, "Warren I want a divorce; my partner understands me."

This workshop is designed to help both sexes understand each other via role playing in which participants can experience the pressures that mold the other sex's psyche. Men can experience, for example, women's view of sexual harassment; women can experience men's fear of sexual rejection and the powerlessness it engenders.

In a safe yet boundary-pushing environment, Warren Farrell will introduce innovative perspectives—initially challenging, perhaps, because not only are they female-positive but also more male-positive than is currently in vogue. Group interactions will be allowed to become emotional enough to reflect how we communicate when we're defensive. Farrell will then facilitate work to demonstrate how both sexes can listen to criticism—including personal criticism—without becoming defensive, thus creating a model for expressing those "tough-to-har" feelings, even to loved ones.

The goal: to create more compassionate ways to relate to the other sex and to view ourselves.

This workshop offers insights on everything from male power and powerlessness to date rape and sexual harassment; from why men fear commitment to why they commit more suicide; from a new view of equality in the home to myths about equality in the workplace.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.
C.E. credit for psychologists is pending.
C.E. credit for MFCCs and LCSWs is pending.

$425

944
53
Singing Gestalt

Nancy Kaye Lunney

Singing can be an experience of great joy, poignant tenderness, or overwhelming fear. It can provide illuminating moments of pure expression or a persona to hide behind.

"Singing Gestalt" is singing about yourself, who you are, what you feel. It is about being yourself in front of other people without judging how well you sing. It is not about performance—it is about making contact, feeling, expressing, and being there, with and for yourself and others.

If the idea of getting up and singing in front of other people terrifies you more than anything you can think of, this workshop is for you. If you love to sing in front of other people and want to stretch yourself further, this workshop is for you. It is a chance to take your singing self out of the shower, out of the car—out of the closet.

Some guided imagery and Gestalt may be used. Bring lyrics to songs that express thoughts and feelings you'd like to explore. Accompaniment and lots of music are provided.

$425

Week of September 21-26

The High-Performance Mind: Awakened Mind Brainwave Training

Anna Wise

For workshop description see May 4-9.

$795

Dzogchen—Awakening the Buddha Within: A Silent Meditation and Self-Inquiry Retreat

Surya Das

Buddhism teaches awareness techniques for awakening to inner freedom. Dzogchen introduces the inherent freedom, purity, and perfection of innate Buddha-Mind. Dzogchen—Tibetan for "the Natural Great Perfection"—is considered the summit of all Buddhist teachings: swift, easy, joyful, and direct.

This retreat will introduce the quintessential Vajrayana path, practiced according to the nonsectarian way of the Practice Lineage of Tibetan Buddhism, relying on authentic Tibetan texts, meditation manuals, oral tradition, and personal experience. Much of the day will be devoted to sitting practice, interspersed with both guided and walking meditations, chanting, self-inquiry, question-and-answer periods, and breath/energy relaxation exercises. Constant themes of this nondual awareness practice will include appreciating the true joy of meditation, the incredible lightness of being, and opening to effortlessness.

This retreat, conducted in silence, offers a unique opportunity for experienced meditation practitioners as well as beginners to better know themselves through the timeless wisdom of this ancient Tibetan teaching.

$795

Writing the Natural Way

Gabriele Rico

Writing well can be as natural as telling a story to a friend, as fluid as daydreaming. Using the new science of Chaos as a metaphor for the workings of the mind, the creative process, and ways of accessing it, Gabriele Rico can teach you to write freely and richly. Presenting a series of writing activities, she can help you to become receptive to your creative intuition—to express ideas, images, and feelings more authentically in a fresh, personal voice.

Once we understand something about the creative process, we can begin to glimpse answers to such questions as: Where do ideas come from? How can we best hold them? What is the role of the emotions in the creative process? In what way is all writing creative?

A few of the many writing activities include:

- Clustering—a nonlinear process that accesses seemingly random thoughts and feelings
- Improvisation and play with language
- Images—"strange attractors" which evoke visual, tactile, auditory, and gustatory memory patterns
- Metaphoric thought—moving beyond literal thinking

This workshop is appropriate for writers of all levels, from beginners to experts. Please bring colored felt-tip pens and a bound notebook. Recommended reading: Rico, Writing the Natural Way and Pain and Possibility: Writing Through Personal Crisis.

$795

Experiencing the Celestine Prophecy: Connecting to Your Life Purpose

Carol Adrienne & Sigrid Emerson

"You have a purpose," write the leaders, "and the universe is waiting to help you find and fulfill it. The purpose of this workshop is to take the ageless wisdom described in the Insights of The Celestine Prophecy and apply it to everyday life. Our goal is to work with these Insights to help you gain more satisfaction in work, be more open to adventure, understand more clearly your life purpose, as well as tap into the messages of synchronicity. We will use ancient intuitive tools, meditation, physical activity, journal writing, interactive exercises, and humor."

Carol Adrienne will take you inside the nine Insights and help you explore the positive qualities you were born to express. The sessions are designed to be a progressive, in-depth look at who you are and where you are going in life. You will also learn how to deal with specific obstacles in relationships and move beyond limitations. Sigrid Emerson will work with you to release stress and increase energy through gentle stretching and walking meditations. Personal evaluations of lifestyle and stress factors will integrate the four dimensions of health.

While it is helpful to have read either The Celestine Prophecy by James Redfield or The Celestine Prophecy: An Experiential Guide by Redfield and Adrienne, it is not mandatory.

$795

Five-Day Massage Intensive

Dean Marson & Laurie Lioness Parizek

Esalen massage is a nurturing practice that can feel almost as pleasurable to give as to receive. During this week of learning and relaxation, Esalen bodywork in its various forms will be demonstrated, practiced, and discussed.

The workshop will incorporate grounding, specific and integrative massage techniques, gentle manipulations, and energy work. The instructors will present a bodywork style that addresses individual needs, integrates the whole person, and honors the sacred and healing quality of touch. Special attention will be given to self-care, quality of contact, breath awareness, and stress release.

The workshop will also incorporate movement, dance, and rhythm to integrate the bodywork. Stretching and meditation will be used to encourage focus and serenity.
Participants will make full use of Esalen’s beautiful grounds and facilities. Please bring warm, comfortable clothing and your favorite music or instrument. The workshop is open to all levels of experience.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $795

Weekend of September 26-28

Experiencing Esalen

For workshop description see May 30-June 1. $425

The Art of Living Consciously

Nathaniel Branden & Devers Branden

"Living consciously," write the Brandens, "involves maintaining respect for the facts, being present to what we are doing while we are doing it, and seeking and being eagerly open to any information, knowledge, or feedback that bears on our interest, values, and projects. This experiential/participatory workshop is designed to deepen our understanding of what it means to live consciously, to appreciate the many advantages of this practice (both in the personal sphere and in the workplace), and to explore obstacles within ourselves that obstruct consciousness. Specifically, we will explore what living consciously means in regard to (a) our beliefs and desires, (b) child-rearing practices, (c) romantic love, and (d) our behaviors and goals in the workplace. Finally, we will address the question of the relationship between living consciously and pursing ‘a spiritual life.’

"If you think the meaning of living consciously is obvious or if you think there is nothing about the practice that could be controversial—think again. Be prepared for some surprises.”

Recommended reading: Branden, The Art of Living Consciously. $425

Communication and Partnership

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

Underlying all our relationships—husband, wife, lover, friend, daughter, son, mother and father—is the need to communicate. Often we learn to express our needs through control, power struggles, addictions, dependency, guilt, denial, and unreasonableness.

This workshop is about healing the soul-wounds sustained in our attempts at partnership. The focus will be on:

- Exploring the possibilities of equal soul partnership
- Learning new ways to express our fear, sadness, grief, and love for each other
- Defining what we need to change in our relationships
- Learning the different language styles we can use to better connect with our partners
- Learning ways to heal, forgive, and move on to a mutually beneficial relationship

Come alone or with a partner. The workshop will provide a safe, supportive environment to learn new practices of breathwork, dyadic communication skills, movement, and Gestalt, making it easier to express your truth and take responsibility for your feelings and issues.

C.E. credit for psychologists is pending. C.E. credit for MFCCs and LCSWs is pending. $425

The Sound of the Self

David Gordon & Marcia Shantipriya Goldberg

Sound and music wisely applied can purify, heal, and awaken at every level, from the deepest physiological to the most sublime spiritual planes.

This experiential workshop is a fusion of meditation, sound vibration, and yoga. During the sessions, toning, auditory stimulation, guided listening, and movement to open and balance the body will be interwoven between intervals of quiet meditation. These alternating periods of sound and silence help to synchronize body and mind and form a bridge between internal communication and external self-expression. In this journey we can move toward the source of our own inner balance, creativity, well-being, and freedom.

This is an opportunity for novice meditators and newcomers to yoga to begin the inner journey, and also a chance for old friends of meditation to deepen their experience. The workshop offers diverse skills to enable participants to develop their own personal practice. No musical or vocal training or experience is needed; the only prerequisites are ears, heart, and a sense of adventure.

Please wear loose, comfortable clothing. $425

Healing of Heart and Mind: Choosing to Change

Fred Luskin

Every human being has suffered rejection, mistreatment, and betrayal. Yet some people can maneuver through these painful experiences while others remain stuck. This workshop will examine why and how this happens. Through the sharing and processing of experience, participants will work toward understanding how the emotions of sadness, frustration, and anger arise—and how to change those feelings.

By demystifying the process of healing, we can accelerate this mysterious process. We can learn to begin to let go of old hurts and, in the process, become less likely to create new ones. Using cognitive approaches—lecture as well as guided practice in reframing, disputation, and existential understanding—the workshop will present forgiveness as a choice. The cognitive practices will be complemented by guided practice in mindfulness, imagery, and heart-centered practices designed to help us get in touch with our heart’s restorative potential.

Journal writing, dyadic exercises, and group discussion will also be used.

Uniting the mind and heart and letting go of old hurts is an expression of the soul’s desire for connection and harmony. With insight and practice, it is possible to successfully work with the emotions that prevent us from moving forward in our lives. $425

Week of September 28-October 3

Turning On the Light: A Choice to Live Consciously

Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prila) & Guests

For workshop description see June 22-27. $795

The Upledger Institute’s CranioSacral II

Judith Bradley

This workshop further explores the CranioSacral System and its function in relationship to other patho-physiological body systems. The course will begin with the study of cranial base dysfunctions as perceived, diagnosed, and treated by Dr. William Sutherland, the father of cranial osteopathy. In this course students will learn how to inte-
The SomatoEmotional Release process will facilitate Sutherland's techniques for identifying and evaluating lesions into a ten-step protocol and how to apply individual correction treatments when needed.

Evaluation and treatment processes of the hard palate, the mandible, and temporomandibular joint will be presented and practiced to complete the exploration of the masticatory system. Emphasis will then be directed to whole body evaluation, as discussions will center on various "physiological phenomena" that occur within the body.

The SomatoEmotional Release process will also be introduced with discussion and demonstration of an "energy cyst." Participants must have completed the Upledger Institute's CranioSacral Therapy I, either at Esalen or elsewhere.

Please note: Registration for this workshop is done only through the Upledger Institute. Please call the Upledger Institute at 1-800-233-5880.

For further information see Special Programs, page 64.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $795

The Way of Wilderness
Steven Harper

You didn't come into this world. You came out of it, like a wave from the ocean. You are not a stranger here.

- ALAN WATTS

Ever since the supposed "primordial soup," nature has been our teacher. We were born of this earth and throughout recorded time people have turned to wilderness to awaken and become whole again.

With wild nature as the primary teacher, participants will explore the ways of wilderness, discovering as "civilized" twentieth-century humans what it means to walk this ancient path that uncovers our relationship to nature and to ourselves. Charles Darwin wrote, "From so simple a beginning endless forms most beautiful and most wonderful have been and are being evolved." Perhaps through direct experience of nature we can continue this "most beautiful and most wonderful" evolution consciously—as nature aware of itself.

This workshop will include movement awareness exercises, meditation, and extended day-hikes (3-10 miles long) into the Big Sur backcountry. Most sessions will be outdoors, with a return to Esalen each evening. Special attention will be given to incorporating into everyday life what is learned from the wilds.

Previous wilderness experience is not necessary, although participants should be prepared for some vigorous physical activity.

The Space of Creation
Charles Miedzinski

In numerous sacred traditions, Space is considered to be the ultimate and most subtle medium of creation. Taoism and Zen view it as the Void out of which all phenomena emerge. Sufism regards it as the active emptiness which generates all forms. These views challenge our typical belief that form is reality and, therefore, the ground of all creation.

"In this workshop," writes Charles Miedzinski, "we will shift our perspective of the ground of reality from that of form to that of Space. From this vantage point we will encounter the ways in which the emptiness of Space serves as the true support for our being and our creativity. Since our minds cannot rationally grasp that Space is the ultimate ground, fear as well as trusting of this invisible support will arise. By engaging our creative process and its expressions in color, music, poetry, movement, and performance, we will circumvent our rational minds and directly experience how Space, as the primary medium of creation, functions within ourselves. These media, along with meditation and the openness to the simplicity of just being, will guide us on our journey to the creative source. The poetry of Rilke and Rumi, the teachings and sacred arts of Taoism, Zen, Tibetan Buddhism, and Sufism, as well as the writings of A.H. Almaas will further support us."

Taoist Chi Kung: Enhancing Vitality
Master Share K. Lew

Traditional Taoist concepts of health, longevity, and harmony with nature will be introduced by Master Lew, a monastery-trained Taoist priest from southern China. The core of the workshop will be instruction in the Shen, a set of twelve Chi Kung exercises (six standing, six sitting) whose primary purpose is self-healing. These rare exercises can also help develop better concentration, increase visual and auditory acuity, and enhance sensitivity to oneself and others. Master Lew will also discuss the use of everyday foods and Chinese herbs in healing, and tell stories from his life in the monastery.

Master Lew, now seventy-nine, was among the first to openly teach Chi Kung (Taoist internal energy cultivation) to non-Chinese. His monastery style, Tao Ahn Pai, dates back 1300 years to Lui Dong Bin of the Tang Dynasty, who is one of the Eight Immortals of Taoism.

Recommended Reading: Porter, Road to Heaven: Encounters with Chinese Hermits; Deng Ming-Dao, The Wandering Taoist. C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67. $795
This workshop is recommended for those whose souls long for more Space, relaxation, and creativity in all aspects of their lives.

(plus $10 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

Weekend of October 3-5

Big Sur Wilderness Experience
Steven Harper
For workshop description see May 16-18.

$425

The Awakened Mind: Brainwave Training
Anna Wise
For workshop description see May 2-4.

$425

Imagination, Presence, and Joy
Tandy Beal
Presence is the gift that the performing arts can give us, whether we’re bankers, teachers, naturalists, or just plain humans. Being present—in the body, in the moment, in the action—is the foundation of this workshop.

Here’s what you’ll do:
Solo, duet, and group exercises about awareness and problem solving. The springboard is movement, the pool you’ll dive into is the imagination.

Here are the skills you’ll use or develop:
Focus, trust, intuition, spontaneity, alertness, and some mischief.

Here’s what you may discover:
The imagination (and the body) as a friend and ally. A new level of awareness. A light heart.

Here’s my background:
Thirty years in dance, theatre, circus, and film, as a performer, director, writer, choreographer, and dreamer.

$425

Pandora’s Gifts: On Secrets, Health, and Healing
Dale Larson
We all have uncomfortable feelings, thoughts, and information about ourselves that we avoid telling others, perhaps self-doubts, feelings of pain, an illness, an inheritance, an affair, a childhood trauma. Although telling these secrets to the wrong people can be disastrous, recent research confirms that “what we don’t say can hurt us,” and that confiding in others can indeed be good for our health. Yet, how do we usually relate to the Pandora’s Box of our personal secrets? Too often we keep the lid closed, or close it too soon. We forget that in the original myth of Pandora’s Box, after the Furies escape, one entity remains: Hope. The lesson then and now is that if it is sustained by caring and empathy, hope can triumph, replacing denial and avoidance, and its gifts can heal the wounds of the Furies.

Through discussion, personal reflection, and a series of safe yet powerful experiential exercises, this workshop will explore secrets and secrecy, and how they affect our health. How can we access the healing power these secrets hold for us and achieve greater intimacy and wholeness in our lives? If we are professional counselors, how can we facilitate this healing process in the individuals and families we care for?

This workshop is designed for both professional caregivers and all those interested in the healing power of secrets.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

Week of October 5-10

Intuition and the Dance of Attention
Anne Armstrong & Randy Cherniner

At the still point of the turning world,
Neither flesh nor fleshless;
Neither from nor towards; at the still point,
There the dance is,
But neither arrest nor movement. And do not call it fixity.

Where past and future are gathered.
Neither movement from nor towards,
Neither ascent nor decline. Except for the point, the still point.

There would be no dance, and there is only the dance.

— T.S. Eliot, The Four Quartets

Intuition is a gift that everyone possesses. It takes many forms. The foundation for intuitive practice is the process of shifting one’s attention in very precise ways to lead to enhanced awareness. Anne Armstrong's intuitive opening came through the psychic intuitive process, Randy Cherniner's through movement and touch.

The aim of this workshop is for participants to reclaim their intuitive powers in all areas of their lives—personal, professional, and spiritual. Group members will learn to develop their intuitive styles through meditations, sensing practices, refined touch, aikido, and Feldenkrais exercises. This workshop is unique in its attention to intuitive style in both its psychic and somatic dimensions.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

$795
Zen and the Art of Anything
Hal French & Melody Schaper

There is a reservoir of creativity in each of us that often lies unexplored. For the curious, it holds a compelling, intriguing appeal. How do we find this place? How do we tap into its power?

Zen, both in its traditional expressions and through other meditative practices, may offer promising access routes to this realm and link these depths to a variety of creative pursuits. Meditation, then, may turn these pursuits into art forms. To prepare for this workshop, you are asked to consider one or two activities which you would like to refine through this process: "Zen and the Art of __________." Fill in the blank, and seek in the workshop to apply lessons learned.

Sessions will involve zazen (sitting meditation) and other seated exercises, but a strong emphasis will be on moving zen, or zen choreographed. Movement improvisation, visualization, and other sensitizing exercises will be employed, using the total Esalen setting, to enhance our capacity to become alert, alive, aware, awake.

Zen is not merely an esoteric pursuit for cloistered Asians, but may be adopted by Western laypersons and adapted to various pursuits, rendering us more skillful in our practice of them.

Reflexology—Then and Now
Deborah Ardell Hill

Reflexology is a method of applying pressure to areas or points on the feet and hands to stimulate the glands, organs, and other areas of the body in order to increase circulation, relax the nerves and body, and help to normalize body functions.

For thousands of years the relationship between reflex points and the organs has been understood by the Chinese, the Egyptians, East Indians, and North American Indians. Reflexology was introduced scientifically in the U.S. in 1913 by Dr. William Fitzgerald, who engaged other doctors and health care practitioners to keep records of their findings on their patients.

The first part of the workshop will focus on learning the corresponding organ points on your feet using the Zone Therapy technique subscribed to by Dr. Fitzgerald and Eunice Ingram. The workshop will further explore how each reflex feels using the concepts of intention, vibration, and depths. The latter part of the week will focus on the eleven systems of the body, how each organ reflex functions as a unit, and the concerns (symptoms) that arise when the organs are not functioning properly. There will also be discussion of traditional Chinese medicine (meridian therapy).

The workshop is designed for bodyworkers, medical practitioners, and nonprofessionals alike.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

Recommended reading: Ornish, Everyday Cooking with Dean Ornish, Eat More, Weigh Less: Stress, Diet, and Your Heart; and Dr. Dean Ornish's Program for Reversing Heart Disease.

Weekend of October 10-12

Relationship as a Spiritual Path
Harville Hendrix & Helen Hunt

Managing Your Stress, Your Heart, and Your Life
Mel Lefer

Dr. Dean Ornish produced the first major study showing conclusive evidence that reversal of heart disease and other disorders, such as high blood pressure, diabetes, obesity, and high cholesterol, was possible without the use of drugs or surgical intervention. This workshop will apply the tools developed by Dr. Ornish to provide the direct experience of how powerful, comprehensive lifestyle changes can affect one's heart and overall sense of well-being.

The workshop will incorporate many approaches, including diet (special nonfat dishes will be available for participants), exercise, stretching, progressive relaxation, breathing practices, meditation, visualization, and group discussion. The goal will be for participants to transfer these good habits into every aspect of daily life, and to pave the way to the peace of mind that physical well-being can provide.

Recommended reading: Ornish, Everyday Cooking with Dean Ornish, Eat More, Weigh Less: Stress, Diet, and Your Heart; and Dr. Dean Ornish's Program for Reversing Heart Disease.

Until the 18th century, generally, marriage was an economic and social contract arranged by parents. Although it existed under moral constraints, it had no psychological or spiritual value to the married partners. With the establishment of democracy and the attendant freedom to choose one's destiny, including one's marital partner, marriage became a means of psychological wholeness and spiritual evolution, joining religion and psychotherapy as a transformational modality. Freed from the constraints of authority but hampered by the absolutizing of individualism, the transcendent potential in marriage is just becoming conscious in our culture.

This workshop will interpret the romantic impulse that leads to marriage-by-choice as a unique creation of Nature in the service of its self-repair and self-completion. Conscious cooperation with the unique unconscious forces that create the marital dyad leads to an altered state of awareness, personal and social transformation, and restoration to an experience of essential oneness. The workshop will include lectures, experiential processes, writing exercises, and guided imagery to help participants understand and participate in the process of personal and spiritual evolution through committed love.

Please note: This workshop has regularly drawn a very large enrollment. $425

William Cutter

Esalen is once again offering a workshop/service for the Jewish High Holidays. Yom Kippur will begin on Friday evening with special preparation and reflection, and continue through Saturday as the sun sets in the Pacific where we can almost touch it. A festive meal will conclude the day of praying and thinking.

Sunday morning's closing session will be devoted to the group's responses and reactions to Esalen's setting and fellowship on the prayers and thoughts of participants.

This year a special amount of time will be dedicated to reading spiritual treasures and poems—about forgiving and being forgiven. Participants are invited to observe the day in a manner consistent with their individual practice, and will also be encouraged both during the day itself and afterward to share stories of their own repentance experiences. $425

October 12-24

The Painting Experience
(Stewart Cubley)
(plus $25 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

$795

Finding Life Balance
(Phillip Moffit)

Even for those who have achieved what our culture calls success, there is all too often a feeling that life is out of balance. We live outside of our own bodies. We are strangers to our own minds. Is it any wonder that restlessness, a subtle sense of dissatisfaction, and a nagging feeling of being less than our authentic selves is so prevalent despite our accomplishments?

This workshop offers you the opportunity to better experience the joys of your own body and to better know the subtle workings of your own mind. Best of all, it offers practical guidance toward achieving a healing balance in mind, body, heart, and soul. "Life Balance" is a newly developed program which integrates the idealism and insight of Eastern spiritual practices and the self-understanding of Jungian psychology into a practical application for achieving harmony in daily life.

In this journey toward balance and harmony, you will work with vipassana meditation, hatha yoga, subtle body movements, and the Integral Transformative Practice developed by George Leonard and Michael Murphy. You will also be exposed to methods which enhance self-understanding and help clarify personal and career challenges. The workshop will culminate in the creation of a life balance plan that can serve as a source for your ongoing practice. $795

The Practical Art of Creative Risk-Taking
David Schiffman

$795

Life Beyond Death
William Roll

William Roll's exploration of psychic phenomena is a personal odyssey that began with out-of-body experiences (OBEs) when he was a teenager. Unable to tell whether his OBEs were stirrings of an immortal soul or minor hallucinations, he went to Oxford University for an answer and then to the Parapsychology Laboratory of Duke University. At Duke he explored the multifaceted phenomena attributed to survival, including communications...
Weekend of October 17-19

A Weekend with Lama Tharchin Rinpoche

Tibetan Buddhism is unique in that, through historical and geographical circumstances, Tibetans have isolated themselves on the roof of the world, consciously disarming themselves and devoting their country's material and spiritual resources to the investigation of the mind.

In this weekend retreat, the Venerable Lama Tharchin Rinpoche will introduce the Tibetan Buddhist understanding of the ultimate true nature of our being, how we can walk the path toward revealing this quality through meditation, and finally, how we can carry this understanding into daily life through awareness. As both a recognized lineage holder of this tradition and a household mate true nature of our being, how we can carry this understanding into daily life through awareness. As both a recognized lineage holder of this tradition and a household, Rinpoche has a wise and practical approach to integrating ancient wisdom into daily life.

In this workshop he will discuss:

• Healing and transforming the emotions
• Stabilizing happiness in daily life
• Meditation in action

Rinpoche embodies the living compassion and wisdom of the Buddhist teachings and exemplifies how each one of us can awaken to our true potential.

Story is the Entire World: A Writing Workshop

Deena Metzger

A story is a universe, a world of diverse and complex meanings. Each of our stories is as unique and diverse as the universe itself and each is ruled by the gods of beauty and necessity, of the particular and the universal. To know our stories is to know and live the complexity and particularities of our own astonishing lives, to bring the different parts of ourselves into dynamic and fluid harmony. Each one of us is living a story, a story that is rich and complex and has psychological, political, ecological, spiritual, and mythic implications. To discover its shape and essence is to live in balance, to find the common thread, to walk the one road that coexists in all dimensions.

As in the moment of creation of the cosmos, we begin with a small point and watch with awe and delight as it expands far beyond our hopes and expectations. Then we can come to know this story, its origins and its future, its terrors and possibilities. In the beginning is the word: Everything comes from that.

In this workshop, participants will be carefully guided through a series of writing exercises into the heart of the creative process, toward the discovery of the meaning and beauty of their own tale.

Nothing is required but paper and pen and the desire to enter the inner world for its treasures and revelations. Designed for writers and nonwriters alike, poets, dreamers, explorers, journal writers, therapists—all those interested in language, awareness, authenticity, and rigorous interchange with the true self.

A Retreat for Women of Experience: Midlife and Beyond

Lenore Lefer & Anne Yeomans

“The gifts of woman are many,” write the leaders. “They have been undervalued and made invisible until we cannot see them ourselves. Today, more than ever, the earth needs these gifts.

“This is an opportunity for women in midlife and beyond to come together to explore the issues that are on our minds and in our hearts. What are the challenges we each face? How can we support each other in reclaiming and honoring our passion, our tears, our outrage, our laughter, and our beauty? How can we express our deepest values at this time in our lives?

“The workshop will include time to speak and tell our stories, and time for silence, hatha yoga, walking meditation, and group process. Some themes to be explored include:

• The wisdom of the body
• Sexuality and intimacy
• Menopause
• Power and self-expression
• Self-care in the midst of responsibilities
• Spiritual questions of midlife

“It is our hope that these days together will strengthen our trust and renew our spirit, so that we can return to our lives with more joy, more tenderness toward ourselves and others, and more boldness in living all that is important to us.”

October 17-24

The Painting Experience

Michell Cassou

For workshop description see October 12-24.

$1220

(plus $35 materials fee paid directly to the leader)
Week of October 19–24

Gestalt Practice

Christine Stewart Price

"The Way, when declared
Seems so thin and flavorless.
Nothing to look at, nothing to hear—
And when used—is inexhaustible.

— LAO TZU

Gestalt practice is a form—nonanalytic, non-coercive, nonjudgmental—evolving out of the work of Fritz Perls. The work integrates ways of personal clearing and development that are both ancient and modern. To the extent that awareness is made primary relative to action, Gestalt practice has a strong relationship to some forms of meditation and visualization. This form is similar to some Reichian work as well, in that emotional and energetic release and rebalancing are allowed and encouraged.

The emphasis is intrapersonal rather than interpersonal. It is explicitly understood that participants are not patients but persons actively consenting to work (or play) in awareness. The leader functions to reflect, clarify, and respect whatever emerges in this process. The aim is unfoldment, wholeness, and growth, rather than adjustment, cure, or accomplishment. Through group exercises, meditations, and discussion, this workshop will introduce participants to the Gestalt practice approach. The format will combine introductory group work with the open seat form in which each participant will have the opportunity to work with the leader in a group context.

---

Trigger Point Massage: A Sensitive Approach

Arthur Munyer

Trigger Point massage is the movement of myofascial tissue by means of soft, deep contact with pressure points. These points are actually an interrelated network which form a focus of pain and emotional discomfort in our bodies. Through awareness and skilled touch these points may be stimulated by applying pressure which releases the muscle tension.

At the same time, the emotions stored in those tissues may be brought to awareness and given expression. As Arthur writes:

"Some of these feelings are painful and some very loving. Learning to be present and sensitive to them all is the most important aspect of my work."

This workshop will combine Trigger Point release with the long, gentle strokes of Esalen massage to provide a nurturing context for this exploration. Where appropriate, craniosacral work, joint release, and deep tissue techniques may be employed, as well as grounding, sound, movement, meditation, and stretching to bring awareness and presence. The journey begins on the surface, then continues inward toward the core of the tensions that create the holding patterns which keep us closed.

This workshop is designed for bodyworkers, medical professionals, health-care practitioners, and individuals with massage experience who would like to be more comfortable working with touch and explore the connection between the spiritual, physical, and emotional. Some massage experience is especially helpful.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

---

Sufism: Human Completion and the Divine Names

Kabir Helminski

Sufism, the mystical school of Islam, is a spiritual path in which love is the means of progress. Through the power of love one can learn to attain a state of reliance on God and activate the qualities of a true and complete human being. The great Sufis, like Rumi, lived exemplary and creative lives within, not separate from, the human community. Sufism is a metaphorical awareness that manifests in relationship, in culture, and in a practical life.

At the heart of this teaching are the Divine Names, the qualities which lie behind visible reality and which are available for adoption by the human being. These names can be studied, chanted, and lived. They can manifest as poetry, as music, as movement. During this time together, participants will seek to enter a sacred reality deep within themselves, studying and experiencing such divine names as: The Enlightener, The Holy, The Generous, The All-Aware, the Shaper of Beauty, The Gatherer, The Subtle.

---

Vocal Awareness: Empowerment Through Voice

Arthur Samuel Joseph

In many traditions, the throat is the center of creative power. The voice represents this power, and thereby has the capacity to help access our full creative expression. This course combines the powerful techniques of Vocal Awareness with principles of creativity theory to help participants realize their creative potential.

Vocal Awareness introduces techniques which are integral to this development process. This approach—which views voice as a metaphor, representing an individual to the world—includes vocalizing, sound meditation, movement, song study, and development of the speaking voice as a means for deepening contact with the self. Participants will work... individually and in groups exploring breathing, toning, and vocalizing.

Singing and speaking offer an immediate outlet for creative expression. In addition, the voice can become a springboard for other forms of creative expression, such as writing, drawing, movement, and problem solving. In this way, the voice becomes a symbol for the whole person as an integrated creative being. Consequently, this workshop can be not only a vocal training class but a step toward empowerment along life’s path.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

---

Weekend of October 24-26

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see May 30-June 1.

$795

---

The Tao of Practice

George Leonard

We've tried them all—the ten easy steps to power and prosperity, the programs offering instant enlightenment or total fitness in fifteen minutes a week—and we’ve discovered they simply don’t work. More and more people are beginning to say no to the false and often destructive promises of the quick fix. Moreover, new research is showing the efficacy of patient, long-term practice, which, it turns out, is far more important than talent in achieving mastery.

In this workshop, human potential pioneer George Leonard introduces a path (tao) of practice that can bring pleasure and fulfillment, not just during this weekend but for months and years to come. Drawing on the Integral Transformative Practice (ITP) he cofounded with Michael Murphy, Leonard will offer the fundamentals of a long-term program for realizing the potential of mind, body, heart, and soul.

You will have a chance to learn a forty-minute series that includes physical movement, breathing practice, relaxation, transformative imaging, and meditation. You will practice balancing and centering, the use of chi, focused surrender, and the creation of effective affirmations. There will be discussions of the principles of human transformation as revealed in a two-year experiment Leonard and Murphy conducted.

This workshop involves physical movement but is not strenuous. All that's needed is a generous heart and a willingness to participate.

Recommended reading: Leonard & Murphy, The Life We Are Given; Leonard, Mastery; Murphy, The Future of the Body.

$425

---

Taking Care of Yourself While Helping Others: Survival Tools for Service Professionals

Dennis Portnoy

Service professionals—nurses, counselors, educators, administrators, those in helping roles—are at great risk for burnout and decreased effectiveness. In addition to facing increased pressures in the workplace, they frequently perpetuate familiar self-defeating habits of relating such as overidentifying with their helper role, taking on too much responsibility for both work and the feelings of others, making everyone else's needs more important than their own, and deriving self-worth from being needed by others. This behavior limits effectiveness personally and professionally and leads to burnout. In this seminar, participants will be shown ways to:

- Deliver service excellence without becoming overextended
- Distinguish between healthy and unhealthy giving
• Minimize the negative effects of stress in a demanding work environment
• Learn how to protect themselves and recover from continual exposure to other people's suffering
• Identify and counteract dysfunctional helping styles

Nonprofessionals who are in a helping role or people involved in taking care of loved ones are also welcome to attend.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

$425

Rhythms of the World: Enhancing Your Rhythmic Vocabulary
Brian Melvin

This is a rhythm clinic—for all instruments—designed to make you more aware of the wide-ranging rhythmic vocabulary that can be used in any style of music. You will explore the rhythms of Africa, India, Brazil, as well as all the rhythms used in jazz improvisation. You will study how master drummers play on top of rhythmic collages and how the separate parts interact to form a whole sound. There will be extensive explorations into cross patterns.

Learning to relax and breathe is a key element for getting to the core of your own inner rhythm. Drawing from Tai Chi and martial arts, the workshop will incorporate the aspect of chi with drums, blending knowledge and energy.

There will be rhythm section sessions exploring the harmonic and melodic aspects of rhythm. As an added treat, after Sunday morning's class, Brian Melvin's group, 'The Zoo,' will present an electronic percussion concert.

Please bring hand drums, shakers, bells, claves, and all other rhythm instruments. Also bring notebook and pencil. The workshop is appropriate for all levels from beginner to advanced.

$425

Joy, Inspiration, and Hope: A Retreat for Gay Men
Scott Wirth

"As gay men," writes Scott Wirth, "our psychological lives are too often defined in terms of deficit and injury: we are not 'real' men; we are 'sick and sinful'; our lives are being robbed from us by AIDS—the long, dark list goes on. Our gay male psyches are invariably overburdened with the images and emotional residue of victimization, oppression, and tragedy.

"Without denying these dark aspects, we will emphasize the joyful, inspiring, and hopeful aspects of our lives—past, present, and future. We will visit five phases of life: infancy, boyhood, adolescence, young manhood, and midlife, and blend together memory, fantasy, and stories we have heard.

"In a series of guided experiential sessions, we will construct and journey through what Jungian analyst Verena Kast has called our 'biography of joy,' this time as gay males. We will discover ways in which our soul remained inwardly steadfast throughout the different phases of our lives, nurturing and protecting us in ways that no parent or caregiver ever did. We will also recall and honor those who supported us—usually unknowingly—in the formation of our gay identity."

If you wish, bring a cassette of music which you find joyous, inspiring, or hopeful (each piece five minutes or less).

Recommended reading: Kast, Joy, Inspiration, and Hope.

$425

In celebration of Arts Week at Esalen, the following workshop has been scheduled.

Week of October 26-31

The Vein of Gold: A Journey to Your Creative Heart
Julia Cameron & Tim Wheater

In Julia Cameron's new book, The Vein of Gold, she again draws from her extensive artistic and teaching experience to lead anyone, at any stage of the creative process, toward everwidening creative horizons. In this workshop she is joined by composer and flautist Tim Wheater. Together they will lead participants on a journey diving deep into our innermost creative source—our own "vein of gold."

"When I speak of a 'vein of gold,'" says Cameron, "many people think in terms of productivity: 'Once I find my vein of gold, I'll strike it rich.' It is more accurate to think of the vein of gold as a heart vessel, carrying the precious cargo of the flow of our true nature. Viewed this way, we don't need to get rich. We already are rich. This workshop is about coming to that recognition."

Whether you are already actively engaged in a creative enterprise or are just beginning to nurture your creativity, this workshop provides innovative and practical tools for mining your vein of gold. The techniques and teaching extend to writers, actors, artists, musicians, dancers, and anyone longing to set free the creative spirit. Through movement, writing, sight, sound, silence, and play, the workshop will be a pilgrimage into "kingdoms of creativity.

$795
SPECIAL PROGRAMS

The programs listed below are either longer than the standard Esalen workshop or part of an ongoing series. Prices quoted below for these programs are for standard accommodations as described in Reservation Information, page 4. Sometimes bunk bed space is available at a reduced rate. Scholarships are also available; please see Scholarship Information on page 5.

The Diamond Approach: A Spiritual Teaching for Our Times
An Introductory Series of Classes

Teachers of the Ridhwan School are offering an ongoing series of introductory workshops in the Diamond Approach (see Basic Trust and The Spiritual Path, June 29-July 6). The teaching bridges the traditional divisions between what is considered sacred and what is considered mundane.

The methodology of the Diamond Approach is open-ended inquiry into one's personal experience leading to an experiential understanding of it. The format includes meditation, awareness and movement practices, talks, exercises in self-inquiry, and personal processing within the group. As we inquire into and travel through our inner terrain, our identifications and beliefs shaped by our conditioning—the obscuring veils within—become more and more transparent, and we are able to contact dimensions of reality and the human potential traditionally accessible to only a few. As we gradually contact the depths of who we are, our lives progressively become embodiments and expressions of our true nature.

As in many schools of spiritual work, spiritual development in the Diamond Approach, while noninvasive and nonconfrontational, does lead to addressing the defenses of the ego and the dissolution of its structures, and so is not appropriate for everyone. It is especially suited to those who have done a lot of spiritual and/or psychological work, and who still feel that something within has not been touched. Reading one or both of the books below is recommended to see if you resonate with this approach. Prospective participants will be sent a questionnaire to ascertain whether the work may be of personal benefit.

While one Diamond Heart workshop may provide a foundation for the next, each is complete on its own and may be taken individually or as part of the series. For more information and to obtain a questionnaire contact Joyce Lyke at 408-375-9845.

Recommended reading: Almaas, Essence and Diamond Heart—Book One.

The Upledger Institute Series

The Upledger Institute was founded by John E. Upledger, who pioneered the field of CranioSacral Therapy nearly twenty-five years ago. Dr. Upledger is a Doctor of Science, an Academic Fellow of the British Society of Osteopathy, and a member of the Alternative Medicine Program Advisory Council of the National Institutes of Health.

From 1975 to 1983, Dr. Upledger served as clinical researcher and professor of biomechanics at Michigan State University. During those years he supervised a team of anatomists, physiologists, biophysicists, and bioengineers in experiments testing the existence and influence of the craniosacral system. The results of those studies explained the function of the craniosacral system and its use in treating malfunctions of the brain and spinal cord.

The Upledger Institute teaches noninvasive modalities such as CranioSacral Therapy to doctors and health care practitioners of all disciplines. Curricula range from the structural/functional anatomical perspective to approaches that explore the physical, emotional, mental, and spiritual origins of pain and dysfunction.

During this catalog period, Esalen will be offering CranioSacral II (September 28-October 3). This work is sequential and each workshop requires completion of the previous Upledger course, either at Esalen or elsewhere.

Healthspring Outreach and Education

The Healthspring Project extends Esalen’s work in the healing arts and sciences to the outside world. It is an independent service-oriented program of Esalen teachers and their associates. Healthspring offers a global information network linking visitors to Esalen with centers, teachers, and health professionals in somatics and psychology located in their home area. (These listings are public information and are not meant to be an endorsement of any individual or institution.) Some of our practitioners and teachers travel in the United States and internationally and are available for private sessions and classes. If you are interested in being contacted, let us know.

The Healthspring library offers books on health and healing, somatic studies, psychology, bodywork, nutrition, and related studies, which may be borrowed by students while at Esalen. Donations of appropriate books are greatly appreciated.

For access to this program, write to Laurie Lioness Parizek at Esalen, c/o Healthspring.

FUTURE PROGRAMS

November 1997

28-Day Massage Practitioner Certification Program

Ellen Watson & David Streeter
In its continuing commitment to the fields of education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences, Esalen regularly sponsors invitational conferences that bring together experts who share their research and points of inquiry. As host, Esalen covers room and board expenses for participants as a way of advancing these particular studies. These are invitational conferences only and are not open to the public. Recently held programs and their conveners are listed here.

Pattern Perception and Pattern Thinking

November 10-12

This symposium was co-sponsored by The Ecological Design Institute (EDI), founded by writer, architect, and professor emeritus Sim Van der Ryn, and the Center for Ecoliteracy (CEL), founded by physicist and systems theorist Fritjof Capra.

The purpose of the retreat was to explore diverse perspectives on teaching pattern perception and pattern thinking in K-12 education, based on the realization that the ability to think and perceive systemically is at the heart of ecological understanding and practice.

The symposium was facilitated using an adaptation of a Native American council tradition, the Four Societies Process, which introduced a “pattern for interaction” among participants. The pattern of interaction ensured active contribution without confrontation and debate.

Participants included Sim Van der Ryn and Rebecca Coffman, EDI; chaos theorist Ralph Abraham, founder of the Visual Math Institute; writer, photographer, and organic farmer Michael Ableman, founder of Fairview Farm; organic farmer Steve Beck, Esalen; Zenobia Barlow and Deirdre Holmes, CEL; and a number of teachers and environmental educators experienced in teaching pattern perception and thinking in K-12 education.

Direct Mental and Healing Interactions with Living Systems

December 1-6

This meeting brought together for the fifth and final year a small group of scientists and colleagues who are exploring the effects of direct mental interactions with distant living systems. Researchers at the five-day meeting presented experimental work in progress, discussed issues affecting the interpretation of experimental data, considered ways to enhance the effect size, prepared a research agenda for coming years, and discussed ways to foster ongoing collaboration and support for this frontier science.

The work itself focused on such topics as distant effects of mental healing intention, presentiment (the unconscious awareness of an event before it enters consciousness), and the occurrence of mass-mind field effects as detected with appropriate electronic equipment. The group also held an open meeting for Esalen residents and guests where the research could be discussed and questions regarding it answered.
CONTINUING EDUCATION PROGRAMS

FOR NURSES

The Board of Registered Nursing has approved Esalen as a provider of continuing education for registered nurses, provider number 01152. Only those programs listed below offer continuing education credit. Workshop leaders have final responsibility in applying for C.E.U. eligibility; therefore a workshop accredited in the past may not necessarily be accredited today. There is a $10 processing fee for C.E.U. certificates, payable at the end of the workshop when you turn in your evaluation form to the office. If you wish to receive a certificate, please notify the office at the time of registration.

Please note: Two-day workshops offer 10 hours of C.E. credit and five-day or longer workshops offer 30 hours.

If you need additional information on C.E. courses for nurses or future C.E. outreach programs, please contact Sherry Sanders Galloway, RN., Continuing Education Coordinator, 408-667-3000.

May 2-4
• The Awakened Mind: Brainwave Training
• The Healing Power of the Dream

May 4-9
• The High-Performance Mind: Awakened Mind Brainwave Training

May 9-11
• Practical Herbology: An Esalen Garden Workshop
• Intuition and Perception: Extending the Boundaries

May 11-16
• Living with a Life-Threatening Illness: The Spiritual Journey

May 18-23
• From Conflict to Partnership

May 23-25
• OpenMind Training: Innovations in Meditation and Mind/Body Healing

May 25-June 1
• Cortical Reeducation® and the Feldenkrais Method®

May 25-30
• Healing Body Image and Sexuality
• The Core Self: Return to Innocence and Choice

May 30-June 1
• Core Holoeenergetics®, The Art and Science of Conscious Healing

June 1-6
• Holoeenergetics® Level One Training

June 6-8
• Introduction to Mindfulness Meditation
• Living with Breast Surgery: A Workshop for Women

June 13-15
• Weekend Massage Intensive
• Facing Death: Meeting Ourselves in the Care of the Dying
• The Visionary Life

June 15-20
• Soul Dramas: Past-Life Regression and Spiritual Healing for (Helping) Professionals

June 20-22
• Change Your Handwriting, Change Your Life

June 22-29
• Gestalt Practicum

June 22-27
• Turning On the Light: A Choice to LiveConsciously

June 29-July 6
• Intermediate/Advanced Massage Intensive

July 11-13
• A Society of Souls: The Uses of Non-Ordinary Reality in Healing
• Psychosynthesis: Personal and Transpersonal Growth

July 13-18
• Facilitating Deep Process Using the Penninston Protocol Alpha/Theta Brainwave Training Technique

July 18-20
• Moving into Health: Feldenkrais® and Energetic Movement

July 20-25
• Chi Kung/Nei Gung
• Relationship Intensive

July 25-August 1
• Bonding: The Heart of Dialogue

July 25-27
• Lessons from Children with Cancer: A Healthier Way of Being Ill

August 1-3
• Intimate Connections

August 3-8
• To Be Ripe to Die, To Be Ready to Live
• Creating Exact Moments of Healing

August 8-10
• The Art of Leadership: Communication, Creativity, Vision
• The Subtle Art of Meditation

August 10-15
• Core Zero Balancing: Basic I and II
• Advanced Cortical Reeducation® and the Feldenkrais Method®

August 15-17
• Innovative Hypnotherapeutic Approaches to Mind-Body Healing
• Freeing Our Bodies/Our Selves Through Movement: A Feldenkrais® Approach

August 17-24
• Hypnotic Conversations: Psychotherapy in the Tradition of Milton Erickson

August 17-22
• Managing With Heart: Changing the Leadership Paradigm
• Five-Day Massage Intensive

August 22-24
• Breema Bodywork: The Nonjudgmental Treatment
August 24-29
- Spiritual Healing: Laying on of Hands
- A Course in Miracles

August 29-31
- Re-Solving Your Past, Remembering Who You Are: A Gestalt Process Workshop

September 5-7
- Weekend Massage Intensive
- The Subtle Self

September 7-12
- In Search of the Healing Self: Movement, Touch, and the Healing Process
- The Transformative Power of Grief

September 12-14
- Therapeutic Touch: Healing for Everyone—Everyone a Healer
- Time Shifting: Creating Time for Your Life

September 14-19
- Continuum
- Healing Our Hearts

September 19-21
- Why Men Are the Way They Are

September 21-26
- Five-Day Massage Intensive
- The High-Performance Mind: Awakened Mind Brainwave Training

September 28-October 3
- Taoist Chi Kung: Enhancing Vitality
- Turning On the Light: A Choice to Live Consciously
- The Upledger Institute's CranioSacral II

October 3-5
- Maps of the Jungle: Negotiating the Primitive Dimensions of the Workplace
- The Awakened Mind: Brainwave Training
- Pandora's Gifts: On Secrets, Health, and Healing

October 5-10
- Intuition and the Dance of Attention
- Reflexology—Then and Now

October 19-24
- Gestalt Practice
- Vocal Awareness: Empowerment Through Voice
- Trigger Point Massage: A Sensitive Approach

October 24-26
- Taking Care of Yourself While Helping Others: Survival Tools for Service Professionals

FOR PSYCHOLOGISTS

Esalen has been approved as a provider of continuing education for psychologists in the State of California, accredited by the California Psychological Association, provider number ESA001. Workshops for which C.E.U. credit has been approved are listed here. Those workshops for which C.E.U. applications have been filed and approval is pending are noted in the Seminars section. For current status information, contact Brita Ostrom at 408-667-3040.

Please note: Two-day workshops offer 10 hours of C.E. credit and five-day workshops offer 26 hours.

May 4-9
- The High-Performance Mind: Awakened Mind Brainwave Training

May 18-23
- Completions and Transitions

May 23-25
- Night Poetry: A Workshop on Dreaming

May 25-30
- Group Process Training

FOR MFCCs & LCSWs

Esalen has applied to become a provider of C.E.U. credit for MFCCs and LCSWs, accredited by the California Board of Behavioral Sciences. Those workshops submitted for accreditation and for which approval is pending are noted in the Seminars section. For any questions or current status information, contact Brita Ostrom at 408-667-3040.
WORK STUDY PROGRAM

The Work Study Program is for those interested in an intense and complete involvement with the Esalen environment. It is a work- and service-oriented program, emotionally and physically, and only rarely is it restful. Participants work thirty-two hours per week in one of Esalen’s departments (kitchen, garden, farm, housekeeping, maintenance, or grounds) and participate, along with staff and long-term students, in that department’s program.

During most evenings and one weekend intensive, work students are together in one of two groups (see below) exploring different practices and approaches available at Esalen, with specifically assigned leaders who are with the group throughout the month, coordinating the study schedule and facilitating many of the evening sessions.

The selection of work students is done by Bette Dingman and Dorothy Thomas, the Work Study Coordinators, in consultation with department supervisors. Since this is a work and service program, preference is given to applicants who are open and willing to learn about themselves within the work context as well as within the evening and weekend study/process groups. Applicants with particular skills or physically limiting conditions are urged to mention them on the application. It is necessary for applicants to be fluent in English.

First-month work students, in particular, are assigned to departments largely on the basis of community need. No work students will be assigned to the office until they have fulfilled a minimum of one month in one of the aforementioned departments, either during a current or a previous stay.

The study portion of the program is divided into two groups each month: each emphasizes one type of growth practice, such as Gestalt, meditation, creative arts, massage or somatics work, and so forth. Applicants must select one group and be prepared to stay at Esalen for the full duration designated for that particular program, assuming that they meet the standards of the Work Study Program.

Please note: This program is designed to explore and apply human values and potentials in both the evening groups and the workplace. It is not intended as a substitute for therapy or as a "cure."

It is sometimes possible to receive college unit credit for participating in the Work Study Program. Please check with your college or university for eligibility requirements.

Work Study Programs scheduled for this catalog period are:

May 25–June 22
Lenore & Mel Lefer will lead this program. Lenore will offer an exploration of the inner journey within the framework of psychosynthesis, using guided imagery, journal writing, dreams, ritual, storytelling, and nature to create a supportive environment in which healing and transformation can occur. Mel will teach all levels of Integral Yoga, including postures, progressive relaxation, breathing practices, meditation, and visualization.

The basis of a month with Seymour Carter will be the Gestalt method, supported by studies in various body disciplines, including sensory awareness, bioenergetics, and aikido. Each participant’s process of development will be honored, encouraged, and treated as unique.

June 22–July 20
Peter James Meyers will lead a month of exploration in theater arts designed to awaken the playful nature of creativity. Using movement, language, sound, improvisation, theater games, and music, the group will work together to reinvigorate the whole body as an instrument for communicating the poetic language of the spirit for the stage. All levels and abilities are welcome.

Eduardo Eizner & Guests will lead a month concentrating on emotional release work and self-awareness, incorporating Gestalt practice, group and individual process, rituals, movement, and bodywork.

July 20–August 17
In the tradition of Milton Erickson, Nancy Winston & Paul Lounsbury will use cybernetic principles and hypnotic techniques to help participants bring about new forms of spontaneous interaction, novel experience, and more satisfying outcomes in everyday life. The focus will be on mobilizing and utilizing unconscious capacities to increase variety and choice in the patterns that organize our ways of bringing forth our world. This will include formal and informal trance inductions, group interaction, and exploration of individual styles of organizing and communicating experience.

In a month with Judith Cornell, participants will learn how the mandala, used for thousands of years in Hindu and Tibetan Buddhist rituals, facilitates transformation in body, mind, and spirit. The program merges sacred art, transpersonal psychology, the psychology of subtle energy medicine, and science with perennial wisdom illuminating our wholeness and connectedness. Using an approach which synthesizes light, sound, and consciousness, participants will draw, meditate, and learn simple yoga movements and sound techniques for harmonizing the body/mind, releasing fear, and opening to higher states of creativity.

Please note: There will be a $35 materials fee paid directly to the leader.

August 17-September 14

Elaine Hughes will lead a program which uses writing as a process to deeply explore the nature of your own experience and to discover your own authentic voice. This is a program to cultivate freedom of expression and personal truth, not writing technique. The program offers evocative exercises which incorporate meditation, visualization, body awareness, sense perception, and movement. Expect to write intensely, to challenge and surprise yourself, and to open your imagination to new possibilities. Please bring a special writing journal and some favorite pens. Weekly Gestalt open seats will be scheduled.

Eric Erickson will lead a group devoted to the development of integral practices. Gestalt practice, meditation, movement exercises, and the experience of nature will be explored as complementary awareness practices which, when combined, integrate mind-body-spirit into a greater whole and enhance personal development and transformation.

September 14-October 12

Patrick Douce will share the essence of his work with Moshe Feldenkrais, Balinese healers, and Indonesian Silat martial-arts-for-health systems. This program will focus on movement and touch to increase the sensitivity, flexibility, coordination, relaxation, and freedom of the body. Individual problem areas will be approached in order to improve chronic stiffness and pain. Group experience and interaction will help facilitate balance in the overall growth of each participant.

The focus of a month with David Schiffman will be on the theme of transition. It is geared for people facing major changes who would like an opportunity to create a time for sanctuary and a mood of mutual support. The intention will be to cultivate an individual style of approaching change that is heartfelt, open-minded, and resourceful in spirit.

October 12-November 9

Maria Lucia Sauer Holloman will lead a monthlong program teaching spiritual massage and healing, the laying on of hands. This practice incorporates both hands-on and energetic work. Yoga, meditation, artwork, and Tibetan and bioenergetic exercises will be incorporated to complement this energy work and to help bring participants in tune with their bodies.

A month with John Soper will center on ways to improve the quality of one's life. Gestalt practice will be the vehicle for personal growth in a group setting. The work will create a safe environment from which to experiment and take risks. As new and unfamiliar ways of behavior and expression emerge, group members can begin to see themselves and others with more acceptance, empathy, and compassion for the suffering which has caused so much distortion of human behavior. Each individual's personal journey will be respected.

Inasmuch as the Work Study Program is a complete program in itself, please do not plan to take regularly scheduled catalog workshops during your stay. Professional services, such as massage, are available at staff rates.

Fees: A deposit of $400 in U.S. currency is required with your application. The work scholar fee is $750 for the first month, $700 for the second month, and $650 for the third month. Work students may be invited to remain for a second or third month depending on space available and community needs. Occasionally it is possible to stay for a longer period as an Extended Student. There are no scholarships available for the Work Study Program.

Housing: Accommodations are shared (occasionally co-ed), with up to four people to a room, usually at South Coast Center, a staff complex located 1.5 miles north of Esalen.

For more information contact Bette Dingman or Dorothy Thomas: 408-667-3010.

Please note: Application is not registration in the program. Registration is made only after approval of application and upon receipt of deposit. The balance of the fee is due on arrival and is nonrefundable thereafter. Of the original deposit, you will be refunded the following amount if you choose to cancel: 14+ days prior to start, $300; 8-13 days, $200; 2-7 days, $100; 0-2 days, $50. Please return the application form (see next page) with your deposit to:

Work Study Program
Esalen Institute
Big Sur, CA 93920

Institute of Transpersonal Psychology Offers External Master's Degrees

Work students have the opportunity to integrate their work study experience at Esalen with the external degree program of the Institute of Transpersonal Psychology. The external degree format enables students to study at any location. Work students will be able to continue the dynamics of personal growth fostered at Esalen while earning master's degrees in either transpersonal studies or transpersonal psychology or a one-year certificate in transpersonal studies.

Inquiries and applications should be made directly to ITP. Contact:

Dianne Jenett
Global Program
Institute of Transpersonal Psychology
744 San Antonio Road
Palo Alto, CA 94303
415-493-4430
WORK STUDY PROGRAM APPLICATION

Name ____________________________ □ Male □ Female

Date of Birth ____________________________ Occupation ____________________________

Place of Employment ____________________________

Daytime Phone (______) ____________________________ Home Address ____________________________

Evening Phone (______) ____________________________ City/State/Zip code ____________________________

Date of Application ____________________________ Country ____________________________

Do you have any physically limiting conditions which might affect your full participation in this program? □ Yes □ No

If yes, please be specific. ________________________________________________________________

Are you currently taking any medications? □ Yes □ No □ No extension □ One-month extension □ Two-month extension

If yes, please specify: ________________________________________________________________

Which program(s) are you interested in? Please list the leader's name. ________________________________________________________________

Please note: When focused programs continue with the same leader for more than one month, participants must be prepared to stay at Esalen for the full duration of that particular program.

The Work Study Program is for 28 days, beginning and ending on Sunday. Please list the dates of your choice, listing two alternative dates as well.

1st: __________ to __________ 2nd: __________ to __________ 3rd: __________ to __________

Work students may be invited to remain for a second or third month, depending on space available and the needs of the Esalen community. Please indicate your availability for such an invitation.

Assignments to departments are made according to community labor needs. However, if you have particular skills that you're willing to use, especially in food preparation, gardening, maintenance, mechanics, construction, or housecare, please mention them here. ________________________________________________________________

Please check here if you have emergency medical skills (M.D., R.N., or E.M.T.) and are willing to use them during your stay.

Attach a personal statement about your interest in the Work Study Program and why you'd like to participate.

All applicants are required to sign a standard release from liability and assumption of risk form as a condition of participation in the Work Study Program.

Please Note: No pets allowed.
Apprenticeship to the Earth—
Return to Sacred Ground

David Schiffman & Tom Little Bear Nason

“This wilderness adventure is for people who value the restorative and inspirational power of the natural world,” writes David Schiffman. “We will journey on foot and/or horseback toward a simpler mode of being. Our destination: Pine Valley, deep in the woods of Big Sur’s most pristine backcountry, a convergence of earth, sky, and mountains, filled with centuries-old towering pines, sparkling streams and waterfalls, surrounded by high granite cliffs and secret caves inscribed with petroglyphs. It is an ancient, sacred gathering-place for the Esselen Indians, used for countless generations as a tribal sanctuary for new visions, purification, celebration, and community.

“It will be a time to share the elemental realities of outdoor living and travel: sleeping under starry skies in the fragrance of the forest, immersed in the music of creek and wind, sharing meals around blazing fires in an unhurried mood of common support.

“Our time together will also be used for self-realization and personal mastery. We will employ a variety of practices for uncluttering our minds and hearts and freeing our spirits. Our tools will combine the ancient and the modern, including:

- Music and ceremony as spirit medicine
- Native American prayer and purification practices
- Opportunities for individual initiation into dreamtime
- Healing and kinship through the sensitive use of touch
- Free-form adventures in the heart of the forest

This trip is suitable for newcomers as well as old hands.”

Participants can either hike or ride.* All gear and food will be packed in on mules. Be prepared for some physical exertion. Further details will be sent upon registration.

Week of August 3-8

Spirit Dance:
A Shamanic Wilderness Journey

David Schiffman & Tom Little Bear Nason

“In nature,” writes David Schiffman, “there exist simple elemental realities. Timeless and perennial, they are the ancient sources from which all life can be discerned and understood. Our aims for this week are simple: to be rooted deeply in the shamanic realities of the natural world, to feel the powerful rhythms of Big Sur’s sky and mountains in our every breath, to rediscover the inner resources of our own soulful connection to the world.

“Traveling together on foot and/or horseback, we will journey to Pine Valley, a sacred gathering-place in the heart of the Ventana Wilderness used by generations of Native Esselen people for seasonal gatherings and shamanic celebrations and healing rituals.

“Living simply and communally under the stars, we will return to a timeless mood of tribal gathering. Our home for the week: a magnificent confluence of sky and mountains, tall pines, flowing streams, and waterfalls surrounded by high granite cliffs concealing secret caves and petroglyphs.

“Earth-based rituals of initiation and purification will be used to clear our minds and hearts and free our spirits. It will be a time to be met by kindred spirits who share a single interest in mastering further the basic tools and practices which are the true foundation for a shamanic apprenticeship to the earth.”

Participants can elect to ride* or hike. All gear and food will be packed in on mules. Further details will be sent upon registration.

October 12-17

Heart of Big Sur: Journey into the Santa Lucia Mountains

Grandfather Fred Nason, Tom Little Bear Nason & Steve Kestrel Chambers

This wilderness journey seeks to reawaken the spirit of the wild, to expand and deepen your connection to yourself, to the earth, and to nature. With wilderness as the primary teacher, you will work with local Native California Indian traditions and contemporary awareness practices to enhance your contact with nature.

You will journey directly into the heart of Big Sur’s Santa Lucia Mountains to Pine Valley, the ancestral summer home of the Esselen Indians, whose village sites, stone tools, and sacred rock paintings are still found among the sandstone caves and boulders.

Guide Grandfather Fred Nason will provide mules and horses to carry in food and equipment, allowing you to hike the six miles from the trailhead to base camp with only a light day-pack. From base camp, there will be optional day-hikes and trail rides (6-10 miles) that lead to caves with Indian petroglyphs, along mountain streams to inspiring waterfalls, through valleys and canyons of oak and pine, and to sacred mountaintops for breathtaking views.

Little Bear will share his love of the land and the teachings passed down from his ancestors who have danced, prayed, and sung among these mountains for countless generations. You will be guided to sacred healing sites to join in ceremonies that can help you come into balance with yourself and all of the web of life on Mother Earth. Steve Chambers will offer hikes to introduce local areas of natural history, including the geology, plants, and animals of the Ventana Wilderness.

All meals are vegetarian and of exceptional quality. No previous wilderness or horseback riding experience is necessary, although you should be ready for vigorous physical activities.

A complete information packet will be sent upon registration.

*($890 if you choose to ride)

Esalen Wilderness Programs
Refund Policy

Most expenses in wilderness programs are incurred preparing for your arrival. The Esalen Wilderness Program refund policy reflects the fact that few of these expenses can be recovered.

To reserve a space in a wilderness workshop, a nonrefundable deposit of $200 is required. The balance of the fee is due 14 days before the program begins. If you cancel prior to 30 days before the program begins, your nonrefundable deposit may be applied to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year. If you cancel from 30 days up to the starting date of the trip, your deposit is forfeited.
The Dolphin Tape Series

Each new tape list has a somewhat different emphasis in its selection of titles and speakers. In addition to the many well-known titles from familiar speakers included for the special attention of new customers, there are several additional tapes from some favorites, the most recent recordings from others, and a few entirely new speakers, events, and subjects.

Dolphin Tapes has no complete catalog, just overlapping tape lists. When you place an order, let us know your field of interest or your favorite speakers. We may have more information on some of them. Many tapes are in stereo. Tape length is normally 1 to 1 1/2 hours.

Single-tape titles are $10:
Abraham/McKenna/Sheldrake: TRIALOGUES: Preview and Sampler, 1980-90
Abraham/Thompson: Ecentric Sunday Morning: Chaos and Order, 1993
Anne Armstrong: On Being a Psych, 1971
Gregory Bateson: The Limits of Science, 1978
David Brower: Breeding the Species Barrier, 1971
Barry Commoner: Human Meaning of Environmental Crisis, 1971
David Darling & Al Huang: Dancing Cello, Dancing Tao, 1989
Ram Dass: Vows of Daily Life, 1970
James Fadiman: Guided Fantasy and Fairy Tales, 1972
David Finkelstein: A New Quantum Logic, 1976
Stanislav Grof: A New Paradigm for Psychotherapy, 1980
Willis Harman: Origin of the Psychedelic 1960's, 1970
Arthur Hastings: Transpersonal Realities, 1979
Gerald Heard: The Power of Wonder, 1974
John Heider: Living in the Tao, 1978
Albert Hofmann: LSD and the Nature of Reality, 1978
Aldous Huxley: Human Potentialities (MIT Cambridge), 1961
Laura Huxley: Recipes for Living and Loving (Guided Imagery), 1963
Stanley Kelemen: Biological Roots of Consciousness, 1970
Jack Kornfield: The Simplicity of Spiritual Practice, 1982
Jack Kornfield: On Buddhism: A Personal Story, 1983
Timothy Leary: American Culture: 1945-1965 (College of Marin), 1977
Janet Lederman: Early Childhood Experience (Gazebo), 1987
John C. Lilly: The Dolphin Experience, 1969
John & Toni Lilly: Integrating Science and Mysticism, 1981
Abraham Maslow: Self-Actualization, 1966
Terence McKenna: Surfing on Finnegans Wake, 1993
Terence McKenna: Hot Concepts and Melting Edges, 1994
Terence McKenna: Laws and Freedom, Habits and Novelty, 1994
Terence McKenna: Personal Update, Complexity and Meaning, 1996
Humphrey Osmond: Early Psychedelic History, 1967
Joseph Chilton Pearce: Intelligence of the Heart, 1992
Joseph Chilton Pearce: Unconflicted Behavior, 1994
Fritz Perls: Gestalt Therapy and How It Works, 1966
Carl Rogers: My Philosophy and How It Grew, 1972
Rogers/Bateson: Dialogue on Thinking, Feeling, Learning, 1975
Will Schurz: Principles and Philosophy of Encounter, 1970
Daniel Sheehan: Philosophy of Christic Institute, 1991
Rupert Sheldrake: Morphic Resonance and Memory, 1985
Sheldrake/Pearce: Resonant Fields of Heart and Brain, 1993
Julian Silverman: A Lighthearted Course in Miracles
Huston Smith: The Nature of Reality (Boston), 1979
Richard Tarnas: The Passion of the Western Mind, 1993
Charles Tart: On the Unnormal, 1971
Wilson Van Dusen: The Nature of Humanness, 1969
Alan Watts: Divine Madness, 1968
Carl Whitaker: On Becoming a Professional Therapist, 1989
Arthur M. Young: The Reflexive Universe, 1973

Two-tape titles are $16:
Walt Anderson & Ted Roszk: (2) The Upstart Spring (Esalen), 1984
Angeles Arrien: (2) Cross-Cultural Shamanic Practice, 1992
Gregory Bateson: (2) Balance Culture and Shamanism, 1976
Ram Dass: (2) One Man's Journey to the East, 1969

David Finkelstein: (2) Anient, Medieval, and Classical Physics, 1984
Bruce Kramer Frantzis: (2) Taoist Philosophy and Practice, 1994
Buckminster Fuller: (2) The Critical Path (Maui), 1982
Stanislav Grof: (2) The Birth Trauma, 1981
Stanislav Grof: (2) The Cosmic Game, 1987
Jean Houston: (2) The Possible Human (Boston), 1979
Robinson Jeffers's Poetry: (2) A Dramatic Celebration (Carmel), 1972
Timothy Leary: (2) The Power of Imprinting, 1982
Terence McKenna: (2) The Magical Mystery Tour, 1989
Sogyal Rinpoche: (2) Training for the Moment of Death, 1982
Daniel Sheehan: (2) Christic Institute Update and JKF, 1992
Daniel Sheehan & Sara Nelson: (2) Politics and Natural Law, 1995
Frederic Spiegelberg: (2) India and the Saints, 1964
Alan Watts: (2) Eastern Religion and Western Therapy, 1971
Watts/Grof/Silverman: (2) The Science of Madness, 1968
Janet Zuckerman: (2) The Feeling Process, 1987

Four-tape titles are $34:
Ralph Abraham: (4) The Chaos Revelation, 1994
James Fadiman: (4) A Week on the Rocks, 1984
David Finkelstein: (4) Inconclusiveness and Unpredictability, 1990
Roland Fisher: (4) Creative, Psychotic, and Ecstatic States, 1969
Buckminster Fuller: (4) Integrity Day (Marin), 1983
Abraham Maslow: (4) An Informal Weekend in Big Sur, 1966
Terence McKenna: (4) Conversation at the Edge of Magic, 1994
Terence McKenna: (4) Eros, Chaos, and Meaning!, 1994
Terence McKenna: (4) Deeper and Broader Questions, 1994
Rupert Sheldrake: (4) Rebirth of Nature: Revival of Animism, 1990
David Steindl-Rast: (4) Mysticism as a Frontier Experience, 1985
David Steindl-Rast: (4) Living in the Now, 1988
David Steindl-Rast: (4) Enjoying Poetry, 1991
Andrew Weil: (4) New Insights into Addiction, 1987
Arthur M. Young: (4) The Reflexive Universe Interviews, 1983

The Dolphin Vinyl Album Tape Sets:
Angelo Arrien & Robert Bly: (6) Love in the Western World, 1984
John C. Lilly: (6) Ego, Self, and Essence, 1980
John C. Lilly: (6) The East Coast Workshop, 1973
Abraham Maslow: (6) The Eupychian Ethic, 1969
Joseph Chilton Pearce: (6) Journey to the Heart, 1990
Rupert Sheldrake: (6) Resonance and Presence of the Past, 1985
Andrew Weil: (6) All You Wanted to Know About Drugs, 1993
Robert Anton Wilson: (6) The "Coincidence" of Joyce, 1985
Ruthy Alon: (6) Lessons in the Feldenkrais Method (Series 1 or II), 1980
Terence McKenna: (8) Collected Talks: Series 1 (1982-83) or II (1983-86)
Terence McKenna: (8) The Esalen Scholar-In-Residence Series, 1989
Julian Silverman: (8) Commentaries on A Course in Miracles, 1980
Buckminster Fuller: (8) The Pajaro Dance Tapes, 1977
Mothe Feldenkrais: (6) Awareness Through Movement Lessons (Series 1)
Terence McKenna: (8) True Hallucinations (A Talking Book), 1984
Abraham/McKenna/Sheldrake: (10) TRIALOGUES at the Edge, 1989-90
Victoria Satin: (10) Conjoint Family Therapy, 1968
Easlen Symposium: (12) Wilhelm Reich: His Life and Work, 1974
Gregory Bateson: (12) Informal Esalen Lectures, 1975-1980 (Archives)

Please add $3.00 to your complete order for handling and mailing (add $3.00 more if you wish priority mail). Overseas orders add $5.00 per tape for mailing. California residents include 7.25% tax. Institutional purchase orders please add 10% to tape cost for invoicing and deferred payment. Allow 4 to 6 weeks for delivery (most orders are mailed within two weeks).

Please mail your order and your check payable to:
DOLPHIN TAPES, P.O. Box 71, Big Sur, CA 93920

Advertisement: Dolphin Tapes is a private company independent of Esalen.
A

Ralph Abraham has been a professor of mathematics, chaos pioneer, and author since 1966. His most recent books are: Dynamics—the Geometry of Behavior; Triologues at the Edge of the West; Chaos, Gaia, Eros; and The Web of Empowerment Book. P. 24

Jeremiah Abrams is a Jungian therapist and writer. His books include The Shadow in America and Meeting the Shadow. As director of the Mt. Vision Institute in Sausalito, Calif., he conducts a certification program in soul-centered psychology and psycho-spiritual integration. P. 31

Sarah Akutsu is a professional singer and dancer who trained in her native Kenya before working in Europe and the U.S. She has worked with Babatunde Olatunji and Quincy Jones. P. 19

Carol Adrianne is the coauthor (with James Redfield) of The Celestine Prophecy: An Experiential Guide, and author of The Numerology Kit and Your Child's Destiny. She has been an intuitive counselor, teacher, and lecturer since 1976. P. 54

Mandy Aftel is a Berkeley psychotherapist who has specialized in working with artists and writers for twenty years. She is the author of The Story of Your Life: Becoming the Author of Your Experience and Death of a Rolling Stone: The Brian Jones Story. P. 37

Hanno Ahrens is a sculptor living in New York whose work, built from discarded materials found locally, is concerned with myth and nature. He has exhibited nationally and has received a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts. P. 14

Ronald Alexander, a mind/body psychotherapist in Santa Monica and core faculty member at Ryoken College, has explored Buddhist meditation and healing disciplines for twenty-six years. Consultant to the entertainment industry, he specializes in leadership skills and creativity. P. 19, 21, 42, 43

Tsunlim Allione, formerly a Tibetan Buddhist nun, is a thirty-year student of Buddhism and the author of Women of Wisdom. P. 15

Anne Armstrong has been doing transpersonal counseling for over thirty years and has trained professionals to use their intuitive abilities. P. 57

B

Nancy Bacal is a lyricist, screenwriter, and aikido black-belt. She edited Leonard Cohen's Stranger Music and Raga, a film starring Raúl Shanhar. She leads ongoing writing workshops in Los Angeles and West Marin. P. 63

Olive Bailey is a practitioner and instructor of Esalen massage. His background includes training in Gestalt practice, neurolinguistic programming, intuitive work, and meditation. P. 31

Richard Balaban is a clinical psychologist in private practice in Bloomington, Ind. His focus is on joyfulness and the creation of a sense of self and community. P. 52

James Baraz has taught vipassana insight meditation retreats since 1977 and is cofounder of Spirit Rock Meditation Center in Marin County, Calif. A licensed psychologist, he has a counseling practice in Berkeley. P. 43

Edmundo Barbosa is a body-oriented psychotherapist from Sao Paulo, Brazil, and the founder and director of Aarda, a center for work with cancer patients, and Initiativa Gaia, an institute for human growth in Brazil. P. 44

Ysaye Barnwell has since 1979 performed, composed, and recorded with the internationally renowned a cappella quintet Sweet Honey In The Rock. She leads workshops throughout the U.S., in Great Britain, and Australia. P. 14

Ellen Bass has supported, encouraged, and inspired writing for over twenty years. She has published a dozen books, including poetry, nonfiction, and children's stories. P. 46

Tandy Beal, dancer, choreographer, actress, costume designer, and dreamer, has performed as a solo artist and with her own ensemble in major cities and festivals throughout the world. She was recently appointed director of the New Pickle Circus. P. 57

David Bearison is head of the Ph.D. Program in Developmental Psychology at the Graduate School and University Center of the City University of New York and adjunct professor of pediatrics at the Mount Sinai Medical Center and School of Medicine. P. 38

Brian Bergstrom is a structural woodwork practitioner and yoga instructor with over fifteen years' experience. He has a private practice in Palm Springs, Calif. P. 18, 34, 50

Jeff Berner has photographed internationally, received two awards from Life magazine, and photo-illustrated Uncarved Block, Unbleached Silk: The Mystery of Life, by Alan Watts. He has written twelve books, including The Photographic Experience. P. 55

Judith Blackstone is a meditation teacher, psychotherapist, dancer, and founder of Subtle Self Work, a method of realizing the integration of the body, authentic self, and spiritual consciousness. She is co-director of Realization Center in Woodstock, N.Y. P. 48

Robert Blaisdell is a master martial artist holding multiple black belts in Aikido, Taiji, and Pai Kua Chang. Founder of the Ching Liem school of Net Chia Gung Fu, his teaching integrates his studies of consciousness, meditation, and healing. P. 37

Charlie Bloom is a teacher, consultant, and therapist specializing in relationship issues. He has designed and facilitated experiential seminars since 1982, and co-directs The Empowerment Network with his wife Linda. P. 32

Linda Bloom is a psychologist, seminar leader, and co-director of The Empowerment Network. She has facilitated relationship workshops throughout the U.S. as well as in Japan. P. 32

Julie Bowden, pioneer in the children of alcoholics (COA) field, is cofounder of the National Association of COAs. She coauthored Recovery: A Guide for Adult COAs and Genesis: Spirituality in Recovery. P. 22, 52

Daniel Boynton is founder and president of Bay Cove Human Services, a Boston-area nonprofit agency which provides treatment for over 7000 children and adults who have problems with mental illness or substance abuse. P. 53

Carolyn Bradock is a body-centered therapist and consultant in private practice in Lakewold, Colo. She authored Body Voices and trains professionals in post-traumatic stress disorder. P. 20, 37

Judith Bradley is a physical therapist who has been an instructor with The Upledger Institute since its inception in 1985. She has broad experience in manual therapy, with a special interest in the treatment of babies and children. P. 55

Devers Branden is coauthor, with her husband Nathaniel, of What Love Asks of Us. She also works as a business consultant. P. 43, 45, 63, 66

Naithaniel Branden is a practicing psychologist in Los Angeles who does phone therapy with clients nationwide. He is a psychological theorist who has authored sixteen books, including The Art of Living Consciously, The Six Pillars of Self-Esteem, and Taking Responsibility. P. 52

George Brandt has been playing music professionally for most of his life and has performed with Jimmy McGriff's Big Band, Sun Ra and his Arkestra, and The Mighty Sparrow. He is an NEA grant recipient to study theory and composition. P. 14

Jessica Moore Britt is a teacher of the Ridgewood School. A Gestaltist at Esalen for seven years, she presently teaches the Diamond Approach in the Bay Area, Santa Fe, Seattle, and Europe. P. 31

Lee Brown is a classically trained artist maker and jeweler who now applies his creativity to the medium of polymer clay. His focus is exploring healing through teaching. P. 25, 34

Sophy Bumham is the author of ten books on angels, creativity, and the spiritual awakening. Her latest work, Rowing Toward God, is on mystical experiences and she is currently working on a book about mystical ecstatics. P. 15

C

Julia Cameron, author of the bestseller The Artist's Way, is a published songwriter, poet, and award-winning playwright. She has also had an extensive journalism career writing for such diverse publications as The New York Times and Rolling Stone. P. 65

Don Campbell is a musician, composer, and writer who for fifteen years has researched psychomastics, the science of how sound and rhythm affect the brain and consciousness. He is founder/director of the Institute for Music, Health, and Education. P. 39

Christina Carmine has published articles on Western alchemy, astrology, and practical Kabbalah. Her book, The Celluloid Warrior, considers the application and misapplication of magic in film. She is president of Raven's Wolf Films. P. 28

Seymour Carter, longtime Gestalt teacher at Esalen and in Europe, combines studies in family systems theory with Zen Buddhism, sensory awareness, aikido, and other body-oriented practices. P. 15, 17, 33, 43, 45, 69

Michell Cassou is the founder of an original approach to painting as a tool for self-discovery. Co-founder of the Painting Experience Studio in San Francisco, she is recognized for her work exploring the spirituality of the creative process. P. 60

Billy Cauley is a musician and percussionist committed to opening new horizons through music. Over the past twenty-five years he has collaborated with such artists as Al Jarreau, Grover Washington, Airta, and Elora Purkin. P. 40

Steve Kestrel Chambers is an expert wilderness guide with a deep respect and love for the Big Sur Mountains which he feels privileged to share with those who hike with him. P. 59, 72

Dorothy Charles is a Gestalt practitioner and the assistant director of Esalen's Gazebo School. P. 23

Randy Chermer conducts a three-year apprenticeship training program for practitioners in the field of somatic education. He is founder of a somatics center in Corte Madera, Calif. P. 57

Stephen Cohen, Gestalt practitioner and longtime gofer hacker, is founder and president of The Shivas Irons Society, a nonprofit organization dedicated to enhancing golf's beauties and virtues. P. 18, 34, 50
Emilie Conrad-Da’oud is the founder of Continuum. Her innovative approach to movement has enhanced the creativity of artists in many fields and has led to new insights in the healing process. p. 52

Judith Cornell is an award-winning author and a pioneer in the synthesis of sacred art with psychology, science, holistic health, and ancient wisdom. She is an international seminar leader in transpersonal psychology. p. 36, 69

Linda Crompton is president and chief executive officer of Citizens Trust Company in Vancouver, Canada. Her focus is on corporate social responsibility, ethical investment, and the development of an ecologically and socially relevant global economy. p. 16

Stewart Cubley, originally trained as a scientist and engineer, painted for the first time in 1974 and soon thereafter began a second career as a painter. He is co-founder of the Painting Experience Studio in San Francisco. p. 59

Rabbi William Cutter was trained in the Ford-Esalen project in confluent education. He is a professor of modern literature and education at Hebrew Union College in Los Angeles. p. 59

Bhagavan Das is a master of the sound current known as Nada Brahma. He wandered India for six years as a student of yoga and meditation, acquired fame when Ram Das wrote about him in Be Here Now, and toured extensively on the American "guru circuit." p. 29

Lama Surya Das is a Buddhist scholar, poet, and translator of Tibetan texts. He is founder of the Dzogchen Foundation of America and author of The Snow Lion’s Turquoise Mane: 150 Wisdom Tales from Tibet. p. 54

Ritch Davidson, Senior Vice-Emperor of Playfair, is an innovator of programs that focus on the value of humor in team building, stress management, and living a healthier workplace. His clients have included Nike, the U.S. Air Force, and DuPont. p. 13

Laura Day has been a practical intestine for over a decade in the U.S. and Europe. She teaches intuitive skills for use in business and daily life and is the author of the New York Times best-selling Practical Intuition. p. 34

Ialorixia Baby de Iansa, Shaman of Temple Guatary in Sao Paulo, Brazil, is a world-renowned Umbanda priestess. p. 38

Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita), longtime Esalen staff member, has been a pioneer in both the women’s and men’s movement, and has appeared on over 1,000 television and radio shows. p. 23

Andrew Feldman is a registered psychologist, practicing psychotherapy for the past thirty years in Vancouver, Canada. He was a friend and associate of R.D. Laing, the controversial Scottish psychiatrist, and works internationally as a consultant and teacher. p. 17

Patricia Fields is a psychologist and psychodynamic practitioner working at the interface of psychology and spirituality. She utilizes brainwave biofeedback in her private practice in San Rafael, Calif., and regularly conducts professional trainings. p. 39

Peter Finkelstein is a psychotherapist in Woodside, Calif. He has taught Stanford psychiatric residents and writers and lectures about psychological aspects of medical training. He currently studies human development under Jonath and Tory Peterschild, ages 6 and 8. p. 45

John Fox is a poet and poetry therapist who teaches in the Graduate School of Psychology at John F. Kennedy University in Orinda, Calif. He is the author of the forthcoming Poetic Medicine: The Healing Art of Poem-Making. p. 47

Bruce Gregory is a psychologist in private practice who specializes in mind-body healing and health psychology. He works with corporate executives who are experiencing difficulties with leadership skills. p. 50, 57

Pierre Grimes is a philosopher who founded the Neotric Society for the Study and Exploration of Platonic and Neo-Platonic Works. Author of The Art of Delivering False Beliefs, he has developed the art of philosophical midriff. p. 32

Stanislav Grof is a psychiatrist, author, and researcher of psychotherapy and non-ordinary states of consciousness. He is co-developer of Holotropic Breathwork, and conducts workshops and trainings worldwide. p. 22

Anna Halprin, cofounder of Tamalpa Institute, is a seminal figure in the world of dance, a pioneer and innovator of the "new theatre." She is one of the first people in the Western world to use dance as a healing and a performing art. p. 40

Keith Harary is research director of the Institute for Advanced Psychology in San Francisco and coauthor of eight books. He has over twenty-five years’ experience in advanced perceptual research. p. 16

Steven Harper coordinates Esalen’s Wilderness Programs. He has led both traditional and experimental expeditions internationally for over twenty years. His work focuses on wild nature as a vehicle for awakening. p. 17, 25, 44, 45, 56, 57

Susan Harper teaches Continuum Dance Meditations workshops in Los Angeles and San Francisco, leads Danse the River trips on wild rivers, and has presented at the Joy-Spangler Asilomar Conference. p. 27

David Hawkins, a psychiatrist in private practice, has trained group therapists at Duke University and throughout the U.S. He is past president of the American Academy of Psychotherapists. p. 19

Robert Helm is a senior member of the Esalen massage/bodywork staff. p. 45

Kabir Helmsinski is a Shabik of the Mevlevi Order, which traces back to Rumi. He has been teaching within the Sufi tradition for more than twenty years and is the author of Living Presence: A Sufi Way to Mindfulness and the Essential Self. p. 61

Gina O’Connell Higgins is a licensed psychologist in private practice in Salem, Mass, and a clinical instructor at Harvard Medical School. She has worked with disturbed children and their families as well as traumatized adults and couples since 1980. p. 33
Deborah Ardell Hill is a licensed massage therapist and reflexologist experienced in a variety of modalities, including shiatsu and craniosacral. She also incorporates the chakras and meridians as a framework for looking at the body. p. 58

Maria Lucia Sauer Hollman has practiced spiritual healing in Brazil and the U.S. since 1983. She has been a resident student and teacher at Esalen and conducts trainings and seminars internationally. p. 47, 70

Jonathan Horan is a professional actor, trained in the use of biofeedback training facility in Corte Bay Area graduate schools and is clinical professor of voice and is the creator of Vocal
Awareness, a method that integrates mind/body/spirit through the vocal arts. p. 49

L

Dale Larson, associate professor and director of the Graduate Health Psychology Program at Santa Clara University, is a director of programming at Esalen. p. 54

Fred Luxkin is a fellow at the Complementary and Alternative Medicine Program at Stanford where he researches the spiritual aspects of care for heart disease. He was coordinator of Stanford's Health Psychology Masters program and is a licensed therapist. p. 55

Ron Luyet is a psychotherapist, group facilitator, and organizational development consultant. His work is based on openness, responsibility, and compassion, as detailed in his recent book, Where Freedom Begins (coauthored with Marion Pastor). p. 18

Joyce Lyke is a teacher in the Ridgewood Work School, which is dedicated to understanding the relationship between personality and being. She has been part of the Esalen Gestalt staff for many years. p. 31

Francis Lu is a clinical professor of psychiatry at the University of California, San Francisco. Since 1991 he has led annual seminars at Esalen on film and transpersonal psychology. p. 37

Olga Luchakova is a spiritual teacher in the tradition of Kundalini Yoga, Vedanta, and Huayna Capac. A former medical doctor, she is an adjunct professor at the California Institute of Integral Studies, Institute of Transpersonal Psychology, and JKF
University. p. 18

N

Nancy Kaye Lunney, formerly a vocal coach and accompanist, is the originator of Singing Gestalt, which utilizes lyrics and songs as a means of self-expression. She is director of programming at Esalen. p. 54

M

Helen Jerene Malcolm, artist, consultant, and teacher, works with a visionary consulting team designing long-range vision paintings for individual clients and Fortune 500 corporations. p. 27

Noel Mapstead is a local fine artist and potter. He has studied and exhibited extensively in New York and is now at home with Big Sur clays using traditional firing techniques. p. 27, 51

Bonnie Mark is a psychotherapist specializing in childhood, adolescence, and family therapy.
Author of The Handbook of Infant,
Child, and Adolescent Therapy (Volumes 1 and II), she consults and supervises at the Reiss-Davis Child Study Center and teaches at UCLA extension. p. 14

Dean Marson is a practitioner and instructor of Esselen massage who uses self-care techniques as a means of introducing people to the pleasure and potential of human touch. p. 54

Robert Maurer teaches writing classes in creativity, storytelling, and character development at UCLA and USC. He is Director of Behavioral Health for the Family Practice Residency Program at Santa
Monica-UCLA Medical Center. p. 26

Fritz Mauthus is a German organizational consultant who specializes in organizational development, management consulting, and consultant training. His research interests are organizational cultures and changes of complex systems. p. 35
Ivy Mayer is a dancer born and raised in Big Sur. Her work has included facilitating internationally for Youth for Environmental Sanity (YES!), dance tours for Gabrielle Roth, and ongoing production of her own choreography.  p. 32, 33, 35

Terence McKenna has spent twenty-five years studying ontological foundations of shamanism and the ethnopharmacology of spiritual transformation. He is the author of Food of the Gods, True Hallucinations, and, with his brother Dennis, The Invisible Landscape.  p. 42

Erica Helm Meade has used myth and poetry to invoke the sacred in ritual and healing for over twenty years. She is a psychotherapist in private practice in Seattle and the author of Tell it by Heart: Women and the Healing Power of Story.  p. 60

Deborah Anne Medow, Esalen workshop leader and bodywork practitioner since 1969, teaches ashtanga yoga, massage, creative movement, Gestalt awareness, and related healing disciplines throughout the U.S. and Europe.  p. 48

Brian Melvin is a drummer and percussionist who has recorded seven albums and appeared with musical giants such as Herbie Hancock, Jaco Pastorius, Wayne Shorter, Bob Weir, Joe Henderson, and Roy Hargrove. His most recent recording is Live in Vegas.  p. 63

Deena Metzger is a novelist, poet, playwright, and essayist. Her most recent books are Writing For Your Life, the novel Looking For the Faces of God, and a book of poetry, A Sabbath Among the Ruins.  p. 60

Peter James Meyers, an actor and director, has performed Off-Broadway in New York and in San Francisco's A.C.T., where he is currently on the directing staff. He is the artistic director of the Vector Theater Company, where also teaches acting and movement.  p. 69

Charles Miedzinski is a cofounder of the Arts and Consciousness program at JFK University. He has taught his transformative arts approaches integrating sacred arts, psychology, and spiritual practices, at numerous universities for twenty-five years.  p. 59, 56

Chuck Miller has been practicing yoga for twenty-one years and is an advanced Ashtanga student and teacher. His teaching reflects his deep commitment to yoga as a way of life.  p. 27

Sukie Miller, former director of education at Esalen, founded the Institute for the Study of the Afterdeath. She is the author of After Death: Mapping the Journey.  p. 41

Oscar Miro-Quesada is a Peruvian-born transpersonal psychologist and teacher of cross-cultural shamanism who apprenticed with two renowned Peruvian curanderos. He is a Fellow in Ethnopsychology with the OAS and leads sacred tours to Peru and Bolivia.  p. 50

Phillip Moffitt, an aikido black belt, somatic educator, and twenty-year practitioner and teacher of yoga, is coauthor of The Power to Heal. As editor-in-chief and co-owner of Esquire, he was named one of the fifty top entrepreneurs of the 1980s.  p. 59

Darlene Moore is a research associate at the Institute for Advanced Psychology in San Francisco. She has conducted special projects and taught extended perception workshops for the Institute throughout the U.S., Canada, and Europe.  p. 16

Robert Moss is a shamanic counselor, former professor of ancient history and philosophy, and student of the Western mystery traditions. Australian-born, he first encountered the ways of a dreaming people through his friendship with Aborigines.  p. 53

Arthur Munyer is a Trigger Point specialist who has been a student and practitioner of various bodywork and emotional release disciplines for over twenty-five years, most of them at Esalen. He has a private practice in Carmel, Calif.  p. 61

Steve Napolitano is the lead instructor at PCS Learning Center in Corte Madera, Calif. He has taught tropical marine biology in Florida and led environmental trips throughout the western U.S. and the Virgin Islands.  p. 39

Grandfather Fred Nason is an elder of the Esselen Tribe who has spent his whole life guiding people into the Santa Lucia Mountains of Big Sur. His forte is his love, knowledge, and stories of life in the Wilderness.  p. 59, 72

Tom Little Bear Nason is a seventh generation spiritual leader of the Esselen Tribe of Big Sur and a wilderness guide who is dedicated to helping others to mend the sacred hoop of life.  p. 14, 40, 59, 72

Maria Nemeth, a clinical psychologist, has been leading seminars for twenty-four years emphasizing successful communication and the development of excellence with ease.  p. 22
Andy Nusbaum is a twenty-five-year member of the P.G.A., a longtime teacher, and a founding board member of the Shivas Irons Society. He is committed to the mysteries, beauties, and transformative capabilities of the game of golf. p. 18, 30

Babatunde Olatunji, master percussionist from Nigeria, has performed and recorded internationally for over thirty-five years and is known for his album Drums of Passion. He is an authority on African religion. p. 31

Brian O’Leary was a NASA scientist during the Apollo program, has served on the faculties of Cornell and Princeton, and cofounded the International Association for New Science. He has written ten books and 100 peer-reviewed scientific papers. p. 46

Kathleen O’Shaughnessy has an extensive background in Solo Zen, the major psychotherapies, movement therapy, nutritional healing, shamanic states, bodywork, and the practicalities of transpersonal crisis. p. 31

Frank Ostaseski is founding director of the Zen Hospice Project and Spiritual Teacher in Residence at Esalen. His work is inspired by the bedside of people with AIDS and cancer, a counseling practice focusing on grief and loss, and fifteen years of Buddhist practice. p. 26

Brita Ostrom, a licensed MFCC, has led massage and other workshops at Esalen for twenty-two years. She is trained in Gestalt awareness work and participated in Esalen’s two-year somatics education project. p. 34, 53

Robert Palmer is an Ojibwe descendant, steeped in tribal traditions, who is certified in child psychiatry, Gestalt, and Radiz. He is clinical faculty at the Stanford Department of Psychiatry and leads workshops nationally. p. 69

Eileen Paris, counsellor of “I’ll Never Do To My Kids What My Parents Did to Me!”, grew up on Neill, Reich, and Jung. Her focus is giving parents new self-abilities to My Kids What My Parents Did to Childhood. p. 35

Laurie Lioness Parizek blends traditional and innovative ways of healing, and works with the chakras and the energy body. She pilots the HealtheKprorg Project, extending Esalen’s work in the healing arts and sciences to the rest of the world. p. 59

Ayala Pines is a couples therapist and the author of Romantic Jealousy: The Shadow of Love and Keeping the Spark Alive: Preventing Burnout in Love and Marriage. She has coauthored Career Burnout and Experiencing Social Psychology. p. 37

Jeanine Pollak is the founder of Botanic Adventures, a wilderness adventure-travel company. She has eighteen years’ experience lecturing, consulting, and formulating herbal products, and teaches at UC Santa Cruz and throughout Northern California. p. 15

Dennis Portnoy is a licensed counselor specializing in burnout prevention and codependency in the workplace. He conducts trainings for organizations, medical groups, and schools, and is the author of Overextended and Undernourished: A Self-Care Guide for People in Helping Roles. p. 62

Steven Post, a Feng Shui practitioner for twenty-five years, is a business and residential consultant who works internationally with architects and developers. He is on the boards of Sacred Sites International Foundation and the Institute of Integrated Sciences. p. 16

Christine Stewart Price is a teacher and ongoing student of Gestalt practice and other approaches to developing awareness. p. 29, 61

Cheryl Purdue is a licensed counselor specializing in personal life journeys. She has a doctorate in psychology and is in private practice in Sherman Oaks, Calif. p. 23

Johanna Putnoli, a somatic educator and communications consultant, teaches the Enneagram to bodyworkers, screenwriters, women inmates, and in corporations throughout the U.S. and Europe. She is a senior associate of the Lomi School. p. 14

Janet Quinn is a contemplative, a writer, a professor of nursing, a teacher, researcher, and practitioner of Therapeutic Touch, an international lecturer on healing, and a Recycled Catholic. p. 59, 52

Gustavo Rabin is a clinical psychologist who focuses on relationships, life transitions, and spiritual creativity. He has a private practice in Los Angeles. p. 53

Stephan Rechtschaffen, founder/president of Omega Institute, is a physician concerned with holistic approaches to wellness and longevity. He uses concepts of time as the focus for developing optimal health. p. 51

Patricia Reis has an MFA from UCLA and a degree in depth psychology from Pacifica Graduate Institute. Author of Through the Goddess: A Woman’s Way of Healing, she has a private psychotherapy practice for women in Yarmouth, Maine. p. 49

Tracey Rich has earned the title of Yoga Anomaly and is the associate director of the Whole Lotus Foundation in Santa Barbara, Calif. She trains teachers and students and leads seminars nationally. p. 16

Gabriele Rico, professor of English, creative arts, and humanities at San Jose State University, lectures widely on the application of brain research to the creative process. She is the developer of the ground-breaking clustering process. p. 54

Linda Ringer is a psychologist and instructor who specializes in working with creatives, professionals. She founded the Self Institute and teaches creative development courses at UCLA Extension. p. 39

Lama Tharchin Rinpoche is a high-lama fully trained in Tibet. He has accomplished long-term solitary retreat (eight years) and is the tenth lineage holder of the Khepong tantric yogis of Tibet. p. 60

Jane Marie Robbins, a professional actress, teacher, and writer for twenty-five years, has acted in movies, in television, and on Broadway. Her plays have been produced in New York, London, Copenhagen, and Spoleto. p. 44

Vimala Rodgers, master graphothorapist and author, trains health professionals, psychotherapists, and persons committed to personal transformation. She is director of The Institute of Integral Handwriting Studies. p. 28

William Roll is a professor of psychology and psychical research at the State University of West Georgia and a lay zen monk. He is the author of the classic The Poltergeist and more than 100 research articles. p. 59

Ernest Rossi is a hypnotherapist, teacher, and author who has pioneered innovative approaches to mind-body healing and the optimization of human consciousness. p. 44

Gabrielle Roth is an artist, healer, and philosopher. She is the author of Maps to Ecstasy: Teachings of an Urban Shaman and is musical director of The Mirrors. p. 48

Ilana Rubenfeld, thirty-year pioneer in the integration of body-mind-spirit and originator of the Rubenfeld Synergy® Method, is a certified teacher of Alexander Technique, Feldenkreis Method®, and trained with Fritz and Laura Perls in Gestalt practice. p. 40, 42

Gordy Ryan has written and recorded music for film, theater, TV, and record albums with artists such as David Sanborn, Carlotta Santana, Mickey Hart, Airtel, and Spike Lee. He is a founding member of Arica Institute. p. 32

Stephano Sabetti, founder of the Life Energy Process®, has a doctorate in psychology and trains therapists internationally. He is also an organizational consultant. p. 47

André Salvage has been teaching self-defense for over eighteen years. A consultant to Park Grove Hospital and the L.A. Commission on Assaults Against Women, he has developed nationwide assault prevention seminars. p. 51

Terry Sand, Vice-Empress of Playfair, is a motivational speaker presenting programs on humor in the workplace, team building, and humor and healing. She has taught improvisational comedy for over fifteen years. p. 13

Irene Sanders is author of Chaos, Complexity, and Change: A Context for Strategic Thinking, which explains the dynamics of change and how to link one’s intuitive sense with one’s intellectual understanding by learning to think in pictures. p. 30

Robert Sanoff is a Lomi somatic therapist, twenty years in private practice, and a teacher leading personal growth groups and workshops since 1980, most recently at Esalen Institute. p. 14

Melody Schaper is a movement artist and teacher. A Laban Movement Analyst and teacher of the Alexander Technique, she focuses on awakening, clarifying, and enhancing expression through the body. p. 58

Howard Schechter focuses his work on spiritual and emotional growth. His teaching integrates the insights and practices of a variety of Eastern and Western psychological and spiritual traditions. He is the author of Rekindling the Spirit in Work. p. 21

David Schiffman is a longtime group leader at Esalen. His primary interest is in facilitating people who are in transition toward a more heartfelt, understood existence. p. 14, 45, 59, 60, 44, 48, 59, 70, 72

Jon Schreiber has been teaching and practicing Breema Bodywork worldwide since 1980. He directs the Institute for Health Improvement, the center for teaching Breema, and has a private chiropractic practice in Oakland, Calif. p. 46

Max Schuepbach has studied and worked with Arnold Mindell for twenty-five years. He works worldwide with a variety of groups including the Eindhovem community, multinational corporations, and indigenous groups in Australia and Canada. p. 30

Bill Sechrist, a past board member of Esalen, is Vice Chairman (U.S.) of the World Business Academy and president of CDAC, a Dallas-based charitable corporation that focuses on neighborhoods, communities, and cities as organic systems. p. 16

John Seed is founder and director of the Rainforest Information Center in Australia. He has worked to protect the Australian rainforests since 1979. p. 51

Maggie Seeley is an organizational consultant to business (UNICEF and GE) as well as state and local governments. She teaches organizational change and ethics at the University of New Mexico. p. 45

Phyllis Shankman is a licensed counselor in Santa Monica and a longtime Esalen group leader. She is founder and director of The Mountains AIDS Foundation, which offers retreats and groups for people living with HIV/AIDS. p. 17

Paula Shaw, a professional actress and acting teacher for over twenty years, conducts workshops in expanding self-expression, well-being, and creativity for non-actors across the United States and Canada. p. 24, 26
ESALEN INSTITUTE RESERVATION FORM

This form is for your convenience in reserving a space in Esalen workshops. If you wish to make reservations for more than one person, please photocopy this form so that each registrant has his/her own form, unless you are registering as a couple with the same address and phone number. A nonrefundable deposit for each person registering and each workshop applied for must accompany this form. (Please see Reservation Information, page 4, under Fees and Reservations, Making Contact with Us, and Cancellation and Refund Policy.)

Name of Registrant

Address

City

State

Home Phone: (_______)

Work Phone: (_______)

Sex: M F Couple

Check if you have previously been to Esalen and this is a new address.

Occasionally there are unexpected situations that require us to contact you immediately before your stay here. If you will not be at the above numbers during the two weeks prior to the workshop, where may we reach you?

Please mark your first and second choices for housing after referring to page 4 for accommodation descriptions and rates. Total cost includes workshop fees, lodging, and meals.

Check for standard accommodations, if available.

Check for bunk bed room, if available.

Check for sleeping bag space, if available.

Check if you wish to room as a couple.

Write here the name(s) of any person(s) with whom you wish to room.

All workshop reservations require a nonrefundable deposit. Balance is due at time of check-in. (See page 4.)

Workshop Date

Leader's Name

Fee

Workshop Deposits Enclosed:

Tax-deductible contribution to Esalen (Optional):

$5 Catalog Contribution (Optional):

Subtotal:

Total Amount Enclosed:

Check here for $10 prepay discount (see page 5).

Check here if this is your first visit to Esalen.

Check here if you need directions to Esalen.

Check here if you are a senior.

FOR OFFICE USE ONLY

DATE REC.

RES INITIALS

CIRCLE DEPOSIT CC CK CA SUS

DEPOSIT AMT.

RES. BK

CC AUTH. #

DATE TYPED

TYPED INITIALS

PP SCHOL LIMO SENIOR

Passenger Van Service:
I want transportation from (check one):

- Monterey Airport at approximately 4:00 PM on (date of arrival, Fridays and Sundays only).
- Monterey Transit Plaza at approximately 4:00 PM (corner of Pearl and Alvarado, next to Ordway Drug)

The $30-per-person charge (subject to change) is payable on arrival at Esalen. Please prepare to arrive at the airport well before 4:00 PM so you do not miss our van. Esalen cannot be responsible for taxi fare or other transportation costs. If your plans for use of the passenger van service change after you have made your reservation, please notify us. The only departing van service from Esalen is on Fridays and Sundays at approximately 6:30 PM. If you plan on taking this limo please make sure that your plane reservations are after 8:00 PM. Passenger van service is not available at any other time.

Other Notes:
All of our rooms are non-smoking. If you smoke, please plan to do so outside.

No pets allowed.

We are unable to act as a banking service for our guests. Please bring adequate funds for your stay.

- We occasionally make our mailing list available to other organizations who have services, information, or events that might be of interest to our subscribers. Please check here if you prefer that your name be used for Esalen mailings only.

- Check here if you do not want your phone number given out for ridesharing.

Please make checks payable to Esalen Institute, in U.S. currency only. (There will be a $15 fee for returned checks.) Overseas residents must pay by checks drawn on U.S. banks or with one of the charge cards below. Checks or credit card information must accompany the reservations form. Or, you may fax this form to us at 408-667-2724. If you do so, you must include payment via one of the credit cards below.

Your reservation can be charged to:

- MasterCard
- Visa
- American Express

Card No.

Expiration Date

Authorizing Signature

Thank you for your reservation. As soon as it is processed you will receive by return mail a receipt for your deposit and a notice of confirmation. Please review your confirmation for accuracy.
Esalen Institute is a center to encourage work in the humanities and sciences that promotes human values and potentials. Its activities consist of public seminars, residential work-study programs, invitational conferences, research, and semi-autonomous projects.

Esalen Institute
Highway 1
Big Sur, California 93920-9616

Address Correction Requested
Esalen Institute is a center to explore work in the humanities and sciences that promotes human values and potentials. The Institute exists to sponsor, encourage, and attempt evaluation of work in these areas, both inside and outside our own organizational framework. Esalen's activities consist of public seminars, residential work-study programs, invitational conferences, research, and semi-autonomous projects.

Since Esalen is a center for experimental education, we ask that persons come to our programs out of an educational interest. We do not offer "cures" or assurances of change. As a center designed to foster personal and social transformation, Esalen offers those who join us the chance to explore more deeply the world and themselves.

Welcome to Esalen.
CONTENTS

Volume xxxvi, Number 3

Audio Recordings ................................. 73
Biographical Information ....................... 74
Catalog Subscription Information ............ 2
Continuing Education ............................ 67
Esalen Notes ........................................ 8
Esalen Seminars ..................................... 13
Friends of Esalen .................................... 8
Future Programs .................................... 65
Gazebo School Park Early Childhood Program ..... 5
General Information ............................... 3
Guide to Workshops ............................... 9
Invitational Conferences ......................... 66
"The Kingdom of Shivas Irons" ............... 6
Reservation Form .................................. 80
Reservation Information ......................... 4
Scholarship Information .......................... 5
Special Programs .................................. 64
Wilderness Programs ............................. 72
Work Study Program and Application .......... 69-71

Esalen Institute
Highway 1
Big Sur, California 93920-9616

Catalog Requests: 408-644-8476

Esalen Board of Trustees:
Mary Ellen Klee
Bokara Legendre
George Leonard
Nancy Kaye Lunney
Michael Murphy
Andy Nusbaum
Jeremy Tarcher

Director of Programming:
Nancy Kaye Lunney

Operations Manager:
David Price

Personnel Manager:
Pat Lewine

Esalen Catalog Staff:
Editors:
Margaret Livingston
Peter Friedberg

Administrative Liaison:
Kasia Zajac

Design & Production:
Terry McGrath

The Esalen Catalog is published triannually by the Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920-9616. Printed on recycled paper.

©1997 Esalen Institute.
All rights reserved.
ISSN 1088-2782

Subscription Information:
Subscription cost for one year is $25 for the United States, $17 for Canada and Mexico, $22 for Europe and South America, and $25 for all other countries.

Although we're delighted to provide you with this issue of the catalog, if you are not currently a subscriber we would appreciate a $5 contribution to defray postage and production costs.

Cover photographs by Maciek Bury
Esalen was founded in 1962 as an educational center devoted to the exploration of unrealized human capacities. It became known for its blend of East/West philosophies, its experiential/didactic workshops, the steady influx of philosophers, psychologists, artists, and religious thinkers, and its breathtaking grounds blessed with natural hot springs. Once home to a Native American tribe known as the Esselen, Esalen is situated on 27 acres of spectacular Big Sur coastline with the Santa Lucia Mountains rising sharply behind.

There are various ways to experience Esalen, ranging from an overnight visit to a long-term stay as a seminarian. The weekend and five-day workshops described throughout the catalog are the standard route for coming to Esalen. The "Experiencing Esalen" workshops, scheduled periodically, offer an introduction to practices such as Gestalt, massage, sensory awareness, and meditation. From such a sampling, participants can then choose those approaches they are most attracted to and pursue them in subsequent seminars.

Another way of being at Esalen which allows a greater involvement at a lower expense is the Work Study Program, an intensive twenty-eight day work-oriented program for individuals who want to make a directed, personal commitment to self-exploration and growth, and a contribution to the Esalen community. For a full description of the Work Study Program, please turn to page 69.

For those who wish an extended stay, there are periodic long-term programs which involve didactic seminars or professional trainings as well as experiential workshops. Please see Special Programs.

Finally, there are other events that enrich life at Esalen. There are occasional forums in which writers and thinkers, both visiting and resident, share their ideas with the community. On Wednesday nights there may be lectures, films, dance performances, or other events. Bodywork of various kinds is available by appointment with individual practitioners. There is also a community event schedule offered. Please check the bulletin board when you arrive.

Esalen is a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on Coast Route 1. From the south, we are 50 miles north of San Simeon. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute, By Reservation Only.

---

Catalog Subscriptions

If you would like to receive the Esalen Catalog, please refer to page 2 for subscription rates and send your check or money order (U.S. currency) in the enclosed subscription envelope, or mail it to: Subscriptions, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920.

---

The Hot Springs at Esalen

We would like those people who are planning their first visit to Esalen to know that swimsuits are optional, and nudity common, in the hot springs, massage area, and swimming pool. We encourage each individual to choose what is most comfortable, either wearing a swimsuit or not, and emphasize that the environment we strive for at Esalen is one of personal sanctuary and respect for the human body.

In addition to around-the-clock availability for Esalen guests, the hot springs are open to the general public, by reservation only, from 1 AM to 3 AM. There is a $10 fee. To make a reservation, please call 408-667-3047.

---

Accreditation

Many formal educational institutions recognize the time spent at Esalen as being worthy of credit in their own curricula; check with your university or college for further information. We would be glad to supply information to your school regarding any of our programs or series of programs. Please submit a written request to the office supervisor.

---

Continuing Education at Esalen

Esalen is a provider of continuing education credits for nurses, psychologists, MFCCs, and LCSWs.

Approved workshops are noted in the Seminars section of this catalog as well as listed separately in the Continuing Education section, page 67. Those workshops for which approval is still pending are noted in the Seminars section only.

---

Disabled Access

Esalen provides a means of transportation to the baths for those with physical limitations which prevent them from walking. A vehicle was purchased, in part, through the generosity of Dr. John W. Harris, who believes, as we do, that those among us who are aged, infirm, or handicapped should also be able to enjoy the hot springs.

If you are disabled and would like to plan a visit to Esalen or participate in a workshop, please give the office as much advance notice as possible. While disabled access to some parts of the property is difficult, with enough planning, arrangements can be made for access to most of our facilities.

---

Recommended Reading and Mail Order Merchandise

Most books listed as recommended reading for workshops are available through Esalen's bookstore. All other bookstore items are also available via mail order. For ordering information please call 408-667-3049.

---

Ongoing Residence Program

Offered beginning mid-September and ending mid-June, the Ongoing Residence Program is designed for those who would like to have time and space in the Esalen environment for an intensive workshop program over a long term. A Residence Program stay is 26 days (four "weeks" and three weekends). Participants may select any of the five-day workshops offered during their stay with weekends free to enjoy room and board. Occasionally workshops are cancelled, so second choices are advised.

The specially discounted cost is $3435 per 26-day period for standard accommodations and $2710 for bunk bed rooms.
Making Contact with Us

Mail or Fax: The most efficient way to register for a workshop at Esalen is to fax or mail your reservation. If you fax your reservation, be sure to include accurate credit card information.

Esalen’s Fax: 408-667-2724
(Our fax line is exclusively for reservations—no personal correspondence, please.)

Phone: If you prefer to make your reservation by phone, please be prepared with your completed registration form, workshop dates and leaders, and your credit card. We know that all calls to Esalen are long-distance and will try to be as efficient as possible.

General Information: 408-667-3000

Express Reservations: 408-644-8477
(This is only for those who have previously taken a workshop at Esalen and know the workshop, date, and leader of the workshop for which they are registering.)

All Other Reservations: 408-667-3005

Catalog Requests: 408-644-8476

Phone Reservation Hours:
Mon., Tues., Thur.: 10 AM to 7 PM
Wednesday: 10 AM to 12 NOON
Friday: 10 AM to 5 PM
Saturday: 10 AM to 3 PM
Sunday: 12 NOON to 5 PM

*The reservation office is closed on Christmas and New Year’s Day.

World Wide Web: http://www.esalen.org

Fees

Fees and Reservations: Preregistration, by fax, mail, or phone, is required prior to arrival. A registration form is provided on page 80. Since workshops fill quickly, it is advisable to sign up as early as possible. In order to reserve a space in any workshop, we require full payment or the following deposits:

- Weekend: $150
- 19 to 21 days: $450
- 5 to 7 days: $300
- More than 21 days: $400
- 12 to 14 days: $600

Deposits are payable in U.S. currency only. Overseas residents must pay by checks drawn on U.S. banks or use a credit card. Balance of payment is due on arrival. (Please see page 5 for information on discounts and reduced rate options.)

Please indicate your second choice for a workshop in case your first choice is cancelled and we are unable to reach you.

Esalen Institute reserves the right to cancel any program at any time.

Workshop Accommodations

Please Note: Workshop fees cover tuition, food, and lodging. Fees are subject to change without notice.

All accommodations are shared. We cannot guarantee requests for singles.

Standard Accommodations: This is shared housing with two or three persons per room. In some cases, bathrooms are shared. Couples will always be housed together. The rates listed with the workshop descriptions throughout the catalog refer to these shared standard accommodations.

- 7-Day Rate, $1220
- 5-Day Rate, $795
- Weekend Rate, $425

Bunk Bed Rooms: Bunk beds are available for seminar participants who are willing to share a room with three or more persons. There are a limited number of these spaces, which are reserved on a first-come, first-served basis.
- $920
- $595
- $325

Sleeping Bags: Meeting rooms are sometimes used as shared sleeping bag space and may be available for workshop participants with limited financial means. Sleeping bag spaces are for sleeping only, as meeting rooms are frequently in use and therefore inaccessible between 10 AM and 10 PM.
- $625
- $415
- $220

Own Accommodations: If you are staying off the property the following rates apply:
- $715
- $460
- $255

Camping on the grounds, either in tents or campers, is prohibited. We do not have parking space to accommodate RVs.

We would like to remind you that scholarship assistance is available; refer to Scholarship Information as well as Reduced Rate Options and Discounts for other economical ways of staying at Esalen.

Room and Board

 Occasionally, when beds aren’t needed for seminarists, room and board is available. This gives visitors the opportunity to enjoy the grounds, the baths, and massage without participating in a workshop. Accommodations are standard (2 or 3 per room) or bunk bed (4 or more per room). Not all rooms have private baths. Room and board rates include dinner on the day of arrival and breakfast and lunch on the following day. We require full payment at the time of reservation. This payment is nonrefundable and nontransferable.

Note: Room and Board reservations must be made with a reservation specialist by phone, not by fax machine.

For a room and board stay between Sunday and Thursday, please call us no earlier than the Thursday before for room availability. For a Friday or Saturday night stay, please call no earlier than the Sunday before. The following rates are per person, per day:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Rate</th>
<th>Weekday (Sunday through Thursday)</th>
<th>Weekend (Friday and Saturday nights)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Standard</td>
<td>$125</td>
<td>$105</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bunk Bed</td>
<td>$85</td>
<td>$80</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

*Off-season rates are in effect from October 1 through March 31, holidays excepted.

Cancellation Policy

Cancellation and Refund Policy: Cancellations must be made by phone with one of our reservation staff. If you cancel or change any part of your reservation at least five full days before the start of your workshop(s) your nonrefundable deposit, less a $30-per-workshop processing fee, will be transferred to a credit account to be used within one year. ("Five full days" means by Tuesday before a Sunday workshop and by Sunday before a Friday workshop.) If you cancel with less than five days’ notice, you forfeit your entire deposit. If you have prepaid your entire reservation fee, we will retain the deposit, as above, less the $30 processing fee, and return the balance to you. (Please note: Wilderness Programs has a different cancellation and refund policy.)
Scholarship Information

Standard and Bunk Bed Accommodations: Esalen is able to provide some scholarship assistance to workshop participants in exchange for a work commitment (usually in the kitchen). Approved scholarship recipients will receive their work schedules upon arrival at Esalen.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Assistance</th>
<th>Work</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Weekend</td>
<td>$50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5-9 days</td>
<td>$100</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12-14 days</td>
<td>$200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>14+ days</td>
<td>$300</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

If additional scholarship assistance is required, please send a letter of explanation to: Scholarships at Esalen. Due to the number of requests we receive, we can only provide one scholarship per person per year.

Reduced Rate Options and Discounts

If you pay in full at the time you make your reservation, you will receive a $10 prepayment discount per workshop and be eligible for express check-in upon arrival. This discount does not apply to scholarship recipients, sleeping bag accommodations, or the Ongoing Residence Program.

Senior Citizen Discount: Esalen offers a special discount to individuals over 65 years of age. The discount for a weekend workshop is $25; for a five-day or longer program, it's $50. Please request this discount at the time of registration. When you complete the reservation form on page 80, please indicate the discounts for which you qualify. If you qualify, and you make your reservation by phone, be sure to ask for this discount. (Please note: Senior discounts are not available for the Work Study Program.)

Accommodations for Families: Two full-paying adults housed in standard accommodations may have their children in the room for a meal charge of $20 per child per day ($10 for children under six). Notes: If children are enrolled in Gazebo School Park or an Esalen workshop, additional fees are required. Contact the Gazebo Farmhouse, 408-667-3026, for information regarding their fees.

The Gazebo School Park

Early Childhood Program

The Gazebo School Park is a unique educational experience for children one to six years. It is open year-round and has an average of 15 to 20 children in attendance each day.

The Early Childhood Program is available to children who are interested in this program. The program includes activities such as reading, writing, arts and crafts, and building-block play. Morning programs begin with dinner on Friday or Sunday, and end with lunch on Friday or Sunday. Check-out time is noon on departure day.

Transportation to Esalen

Van Service: On Fridays and Sundays we have van service from the Monterey Airport at approximately 4 PM and from the Monterey Transit Plaza (corner of Pearl and Alvarado, next to Ordway Drug) at approximately 4:20 PM. If you plan to use this service, please inform the Esalen office at least 4 hours prior to your arrival. The $30 one-way fee (subject to change) is payable to the Esalen office when you check in. Return reservations may be made at that time. The only departing van service from Esalen is on Fridays and Sundays at approximately 6:30 PM. If you plan to use this departure service, please make sure that your plane reservations are after 8 PM.

Checking In

Check-in and Meals: Rooms become available at 4 PM; however, guests are welcome to arrive anytime after 2 PM. Weekend programs begin with dinner on Friday and end with brunch on Sunday. Five-day and longer programs begin with dinner on Friday or Sunday and end with lunch on Friday or Sunday.

F. Y. I.

Health Services: There are no medical services or pharmaceutical supplies available at Esalen. If you require medical attention or supplies during your stay, please come prepared to administer to your own needs. Esalen is 45 miles from the nearest medical facility or pharmacy.

Smoking: Smoking is not permitted in any of our accommodations or meeting rooms.

Illegal Drugs: In accordance with state and federal laws, the possession or use of illegal drugs on Esalen grounds is strictly prohibited.

Lost and Found: To inquire about items left behind from your Esalen visit, call 408-667-3019.

Guests: Seminarians are not allowed guests on the property during their stay.

Pets: No pets are allowed on the property.

Smoking: Smoking is not permitted in any of our accommodations or meeting rooms.
The Kingdom of Shivas Irons

I was almost ten o'clock, and the rolling hills glistened in the morning light. Stepping out from under the overhang, I was surprised how warm it was. Plumes of steam rose from MacDuff's old house, giving it a golden halo. In the breeze that followed the storm, there was a fragrance of sycamore, wet grass, and oak, and a faint whistling in the roof above me. The entire property seemed reborn.

With my clubs and practice balls, I found the stretch of ground from which I'd hit drives during my previous visit. After removing my windbreaker and slipping a golf glove on my left hand, I smoothed a patch of stubble and grass, and surveyed the field between me and the abandoned first green. It didn't matter that the rain-soaked ground wouldn't afford much roll. I would not begin by hitting for distance. My intention instead was to make as complete a surrender as possible to the presence I'd felt here before. Everything else, such as hitting balls four hundred yards, would have to give way to the comprehensive intelligence that seemed to inhabit this place.

When I'd hit about thirty balls, I realized that they were clustered in three rings around the target. Had a subconscious guidance done this? Three rings, three orbits, maybe they signified that my practice was aimed toward the Earth, the third planet from the sun. Or that this? Three rings, three orbits; maybe they signified that my practice in three rings around the target. Had a subconscious guidance done this? It bobbed and circled a few seconds more, then dropped beneath the rim of the hill. It was almost ten o'clock, and the rolling hills glistened in the morning light. Stepping out from under the overhang, I was surprised how warm it was. Plumes of steam rose from MacDuff's old house, giving it a golden halo. In the breeze that followed the storm, there was a fragrance of sycamore, wet grass, and oak, and a faint whistling in the roof above me. The entire property seemed reborn.

The Kingdom of Shivas Irons is Michael Murphy's long-awaited sequel to Golf in the Kingdom, the classic tale of sport and mysticism published twenty-five years ago.

Golf in the Kingdom introduced Shivas Irons, a golf pro/philosopher with whom Murphy played a mystical round of golf in Scotland that profoundly altered his game -- and his vision. The Kingdom of Shivas Irons is the story of Murphy's journey back to Scotland to investigate reports of further visitations by Shivas. This quest is both a physical and a metaphysical journey, and an investigation of human potential.

Here is an excerpt from The Kingdom of Shivas Irons, now available in bookstores.

For the next six hours, with just a pause to eat a sandwich, I played shots on six of the seven holes. Here are some highlights of my experience:

- Nearly every hole presented illusions that caused me to make frequent readjustments of my alignment and swing. Recognizing them one by one caused the entire place to have a provisional, shifting, ever transparent quality that has carried over into my perception of other golf courses.

- Each hole had peculiar frustrations that forced me back to that choiceless awareness, emptiness, or "mindfulness," I'd practiced while hitting chip shots. Again and again I remembered the words of Shivas Irons. "It's always waitin'," he'd said. "Aye one field afore ye e'er swung, it's our best center because it's everywhere." In letting go of feelings and thoughts, of images and particular sensations, I discovered new freedom and energy, as well as a self-renewing pleasure. The practice reminded me of Gregorian chants and similar religious music. There was a regenerative power in its plain repetitions, a movement toward something timeless. "Perfect music contains the maximum amount of monotonity that is bearable," wrote Simone Weil. Her sentence made more and more sense to me as the day unfolded.

- Every hole provided opportunities for shots that were specially shaped, including fades and draws, slices and punch hooks, and airplane shots that fly low before rising to clear an obstacle. Practicing these hour by hour, my connection with the ball in flight grew steadier, closer, and stronger, stretching the mysterious envelope that passes beyond our flesh. My round with Shivas Irons had shown me the power of this extrasomatic reach, and letters from readers had confirmed it. Drawing on Native American lore, the parapsychologist William Roll had called it an aspect of the "long body."

- With each curving journey of the ball, this "inner body," "long body," or "subtle flesh" came into higher definition. Toward the end of the day, as it became more dense and elastic at once, I remembered Shivas Irons saying that when it "locked in" one could hit ball after ball not twenty feet from the pin as ordinary short-mastery would dictate but "three feet, one foot, two inches away on hole after hole beyond all probabilities, beyond the ordinary powers of the brain and the ordinary laws of physics. Someday, ye'll see it on television, and the whole world'll go "Aha!" On this day I vividly saw what he meant. More than ever before, I learned that golf is an exercise of "imagination with hands."

- And with this stretching of the "inner" or "long body" there was a subtler process still. At first it resembled a bubble bath in something like ginger ale; later, it felt like actual nourishment from my body's secret reserves; but by the time the round was done, it seemed more than anything else as if some invisible substance was forming inside me. In certain schools of Taoism, Sufism, and other sacred traditions, it is said that humans can give birth to a body of "spirit-matter." At certain moments, especially when my focus held for every part of my swing, it seemed that the process was starting in me.

With my bag on my shoulder I started down the hill toward the fifth tee. It was liberating to leave my ball there. Perhaps like a seed it was buried in the canyon's little spring, and would be found one day by another pilgrim to Irons and MacDuff. Then I stopped. It wasn't a woman on the rise. The person standing there was a man, and the thing I'd taken to be a cape was a kite that was trailing behind him. Golden and mandorla-shaped, it rose slowly in the gusting wind, swooping playfully every few seconds. When I reached the fifth tee, it was still visible though its owner had vanished. It bobbed and circled a few seconds more, then dropped beneath the rim of the hill.
Looking down the fifth fairway, I felt a streaming effervescence. It had occasionally come to awareness since I'd started hitting shots, but my shot on the previous hole had increased it. Shielding my eyes against the sun, I studied the field that confronted me. It was covered with high yellow grass, all the way to what remained of the green nearly four hundred yards away. To my right, the hill on which MacDuff's house and the abandoned distillery stood rose steeply for some thirty or forty feet.

The effervescence was stronger now, streaming as if from invisible springs. I'd collected reports of such experience. Distance runners had talked about it. Several readers had described it to me. One golfer had said it felt as if she were sitting in a tub of champagne. I decided not to hit a drive into the overgrown fairway. It was better to sit here for a while, and let the state develop. What seemed to be tiny points of light were rising to pervade my entire body.

I thought about Nadia's "spirit-matter. Was this the thing she'd tried to picture in her drawings the day before? She and I had talked about such a phenomenon reported in the sacred traditions. The Roman Catholics' "glorified body," the Sufis' "man of light," the Tibetan Buddhists' "diamond body," the Taoists' "spirit child," each in its own way represents a set of experiences that suggests we can radically alter our flesh, and prominent among these is the perception of particles, "sparks," or scintillae that revitalize mind and body. Everything now seemed charged with the radiance that rose in my cells. The clouds, the grass, the rolling fields were filled with the same aliveness. This effervescence, in which the whole world sat, was available to everyone. For a few moments I sat on the tee to enjoy it.

Then, on a sudden impulse, I picked up my clubs and carried them along the edge of the field to a mound constructed with human hands which must have been MacDuff's sixth tee.

The hole had been a dogleg right, with an undulating fairway from which one could hit all sorts of shots. For perhaps an hour I hit long and shorts irons to the abandoned green. Standing back from each shot to note the particular mental events and strengths or flaws in my swing that produced it, then clearing my mind to extend my attention span and imagine my next shot, comprised a discipline that was its own reward. Though my legs were sore and my hands were blistering, something in me knew that the pleasure and embracing awareness I experienced now had existed before I'd ever hit a golf shot. Their rediscovery was the greatest reward of practice.

It occurred to me that this was the game's greatest secret, and the reason so many people continued to play though their score did not improve. In its journey around the course, golf is a place to let go of misfortune, to start again, to return to this ever-present awareness and delight. Perhaps the worldwide embrace of the "inner game," which some commentators criticize because it threatens to interfere with the sport's simple enjoyments, was like the shift of the martial arts from killing to ways of enlightenment. I thought of my friend Glen Albaugh teaching his University of the Pacific golfers to clear their mind before each shot, to learn from each failure and success, to bring kinesthetic imagination to their swing, and to constantly reclaim the purity of the moment. He and other sport psychologists are agents of an approach to the game not unlike the one I learned from Shivas Irons.

At about four o'clock I walked along the seventh hole, absorbing its contours for future reference, then climbed the hill where the buildings stood. I surveyed the course as a whole, imagining various shot-making experiments Shivas Irons might have tried. Conceivably he'd hit MacDuff's house more than once. Did he ever break a window? Did his formidable mentor ever reprimand him?

Shadows were lengthening now on the easterly side of the abandoned distillery. In spite of the afterglow produced by this day of contemplative golf, I felt a tinge of sadness. What a privilege to have seen Shivas Irons hit shots here. What amazement to hear his conversations with Seamus MacDuff. For a while I walked around the house and pictured the two men talking. More of the property's physical and spiritual contours than I could estimate were imprinted in my muscles and subliminal mind. It would take weeks and months, perhaps years, to assimilate what the place could teach me.

But part of that teaching crystallized sooner than I expected. As I put my clubs into the car, experiences from different parts of the day cohered into a pattern. However tenuous some of these had been, all had arisen from a common ground of latent capacity. For periods ranging from a few minutes to several hours, vision, hearing, taste, and smell, as well as extrasensory perception, had grown more acute; kinesthetic awareness, balance, and dexterity had improved; volition had grown more efficient; new powers of mind over matter had appeared; and my vitality had increased. Through most of the day these separate powers and epiphanies had been supported by the unitive awareness Shivas Irons had celebrated, that sense of "one field before ye e'er swung," and by a self-renewing pleasure that seemed to rise from something primordial. Again and again, both my body's structures and sense of self had shifted to accommodate these enhancements of functioning. Perhaps the best way to say it is that I seemed more body and soul at once.

The pattern was evident now. Every one of our parts could be transformed. Every human capacity is rooted in a greater life waiting to be born in us. This day of golf, this mysterious place, had briefly evoked that simultaneity of extraordinary attributes Shivas Irons was cultivating, providing a massive premonition of what he and his mentor called "the life to come."

Michael Murphy is the co-founder of Esalen Institute.
Scheduling Private Conferences at Esalen

It is possible to arrange for your group or organization to hold its conferences at Esalen. We can accommodate large groups (up to 100) on a space-available basis. Smaller groups may schedule private conferences in our renovated Big House. This facility is available for individuals who work together and would like to design their own Esalen program, drawing on our leaders and other resources. Ten bedrooms, nine bathrooms, a kitchen, dining room, and meeting room make it possible to house group members together, thereby enhancing the retreat environment.

We schedule all conferences a year in advance. To schedule or discuss possible formats, please contact conference coordinator Kasia Zajac at 408-667-3038.

The Esalen Massage and Bodywork Association

The Esalen Massage Crew has organized a professional association known as the Esalen Massage and Bodywork Association (EMBA). Its purpose is to ensure the continuing quality of Esalen massage by establishing and maintaining education and certification standards for practitioners and teachers of Esalen massage. The EMBA will also publish and distribute newsletters and practitioner directories. The organization will support Esalen's community of students, practitioners, and teachers.

The EMBA's intention is to support research and continuing evolution in the fields of massage, bodywork, and somatics, to network with other professional associations, and to foster the worldwide teaching of Esalen massage.

You can contact the EMBA by phone, 408-667-3018; fax, 408-667-3048; e-mail, emba@esalen.org, or write to EMBA at Esalen.

The Esalen Catalog via Internet

The Esalen Catalog is available on-line. In addition to updated workshop availability and information on ways of being at Esalen, the new World Wide Web site also includes announcements of upcoming special events as well as history and feature stories from Esalen. To access the site, set your Web browser to:

http://www.esalen.org

For more information or comments on the Esalen site, send e-mail to:

catguy@esalen.org

The Esalen Catalog (1962-1992) Available via the Educational Resources Information Center (ERIC)

Anyone interested in The Esalen Catalog as human potential movement historical source material for research purposes can now obtain the complete thirty-one-year set from ERIC's document delivery arm, the ERIC Document Reproduction Service (EDRS, 7420 Fullerton Road, Suite 110, Springfield, Virginia 22153-2852; phone 1-800-443-3742). When ordering either microfiche or reproduced paper copy, please refer to the catalog's ERIC accession number ED 347 118.

Donations to the Friends of Esalen

Donations to the Friends of Esalen support the scholarship fund and provide financial aid for those who wish to attend our workshops but cannot otherwise afford them. Donations also provide additional funding for our pioneering projects in health, education, the environment, and the humanities. With their annual donation, Friends of Esalen receive the Esalen Catalog as well as a special newsletter.

Donors at the Supporting level or above receive an autographed copy of Michael Murphy's book The Future of the Body. At the Sustaining Donor level, gifts are also acknowledged in the newsletter (unless the donor wishes to remain anonymous). Benefactors receive all of the aforementioned along with an individual gift from Esalen.

The Group 2000 is composed of individuals committed to helping Esalen fulfill its mission by building its long-term financial base into the year 2000 and beyond. The Group 2000 meets together with staff members at Esalen every year.

We deeply appreciate the generosity and interest of the Friends of Esalen. You are invited to join us in extending the experience of Esalen into the lives of more people. For more information, or if you would like us to call you to discuss your gift, please contact us at 408-667-3032.
GUIDE TO WORKSHOPS

This is a guide to the workshops offered in this catalog. Although many of them could be cross-referenced—and some resist easy categorization—most are listed only in their main subject area. If you have never been to Esalen or taken an Esalen workshop, you might want to consider the "Experiencing Esalen" workshop scheduled throughout the catalog and listed in the Integral Practices section of this directory. Please call the Esalen office if you have questions concerning a workshop.

THE ARTS / CREATIVITY

August 31–September 5 • Waves
September 5–7 • Daughters of Saturn: From Father’s Daughter to Creative Woman
September 7–12 • The Simple Pleasure of Traditional Raku
September 14–19 • Creative Arts Center at Esalen
September 19–21 • Singing Gestalt
September 21–26 • Writing the Natural Way
September 28–October 3 • The Space of Creation
October 3–5 • Imagination, Presence, and Joy
October 12–17 • The Painting Experience
October 12–17 • Poems of Sacred Place: Writing and Telling
October 17–24 • The Painting Experience
October 17–19 • Story is the Entire World: A Writing Workshop
October 19–24 • Vocal Awareness: Empowerment Through Voice
October 24–26 • Rhythms of the World: Enhancing Your Rhythmic Vocabulary
October 26–31 • The Vein of Gold: A Journey to Your Creative Heart
November 2–7 • When the Drummers Were Women: Invoking the Sacred Feminine through Ritual and Rhythm
November 14–16 • A Workshop for Poets
November 21–23 • The 21 Praises of Tara: A Sacred Dance Practice
November 23–30 • Drawing and Painting Intensive November 30–December 5 • Circle of Song—Body and Soul
December 5–7 • Writing about Self and Family: A Personal Investigation
December 7–12 • Big Sur Ceramic Alchemy
December 12–14 • Living from the Soma: Awakening the Joy of Embodied Being through the Arts
December 19–21 • Spontaneous Fiber Design
December 21–28 • Painting the Soma
December 21–26 • Play, Spontaneity, and Performance Art
December 26–28 • Baking at the Big House
December 28–January 2 • Blow on the Coal of the Heart: A Writing Workshop
January 2–4 • Creative Arts Center at Esalen
January 2–4 • Music for Everyone: Finding Your Long-Lost Musician
January 4–9 • Tao Mentoring in Music and Tai Ji Dance
January 4–9 • Feeling and Creativity: Reinvigorating (Ad)ventures in Life
January 4–9 • Touched by Beauty: Photography in Big Sur
January 9–11 • New Poems: By Ear
January 11–16 • Big Sur Clay Miniatures
January 23–25 • Writing About Our Lives
January 25–30 • The MAX: Stretching the Limits of Your Self-Expression

January 30–February 1 • Improvisational Wisdom: Finding the Robin Williams Within February 1–8 • The Painting Experience
February 1–6 • The Writer’s Way: Opening to Change
February 8–13 • Freeing the Artist: Intuitive Watercolors
February 8–13 • Proprioceptive Writing*: Clearing the Mind
February 22–27 • Creative Arts Center at Esalen
February 22–27 • Hypnosis and Creativity
February 27–March 1 • Cooking as Spiritual Practice: Finding Your Way in the Kitchen
February 27–March 1 • Ageless Vitality: The Body is Living Music

BIOFEEDBACK / HYPNOSIS / INTUITIVE DEVELOPMENT

September 21–26 • The High-Performance Mind: Awakened Mind Brainwave Training
October 3–5 • The Awakened Mind: Brainwave Training
October 5–10 • Intuition and the Dance of Attention
January 9–13 • Discovering Your Psychic Gifts
January 11–16 • The High-Performance Mind: Awakened Mind Brainwave Training
January 16–18 • Intuition and the Dance of Attention
February 22–27 • Hypnosis and Creativity

BUSINESS / WORKPLACE / SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY

October 3–5 • Maps of the Jungle: Negotiating the Primitive Dimensions of the Workplace
December 5–7 • The Art of Leadership: Communication, Creativity, Vision
January 4–9 • Feeling and Creativity: Reinvigorating (Ad)ventures in Life
January 30–February 1 • Rekindling the Spirit in Work

CHILDREN / FAMILIES / EDUCATION

November 23–28 • Spanish: A Whole-Brain Accelerated Learning Approach
December 12–14 • On Being with Children and Adolescents
February 13–15 • The Path of Parenting: A Spiritual Approach

CONTEMPLATIVE / SPIRITUAL & RELIGIOUS STUDIES

September 5–7 • The Subtle Self
September 7–12 • Recycled Catholics: Soul Journeys Toward Authentic Relationship with God
September 21–26 • Dzogchen—Awakening the Buddha Within: A Silent Meditation and Self-Inquiry Retreat
September 26–28 • The Sound of the Self
October 5–10 • Zen and the Art of Anything
October 17–19 • A Weekend with Lama Tharchin Rinpoche

ERI
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Date Range</th>
<th>Event Title</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>October 19-24</td>
<td>Sufism: Human Completion and the Divine Names</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>November 9-14</td>
<td>Finding Your Spiritual Compass: Rediscovering the Labyrinth as a Spiritual Tool</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>November 28-30</td>
<td>The Continuum of Awareness—Gestalt Practice, Meditation Practice</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>December 7-12</td>
<td>Living a Spiritual Life in a Practical World</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>December 12-14</td>
<td>Mindfulness Meditation: An Introductory Weekend</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>December 21-26</td>
<td>Kabbalah, Consciousness, and Life Process</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>December 28-January 2</td>
<td>Fire and Soul: Living Your Purpose and Passion</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>January 2-4</td>
<td>Applied Wisdom: Universal Truths of the World’s Religions</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>January 23-25</td>
<td>Kundalini Yoga</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>January 25-30</td>
<td>The Subtle Art of Meditation</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>February 8-13</td>
<td>Gestalt Process and A Course in Miracles: A Synthesis</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>February 15-20</td>
<td>Integrating Spiritually Transforming Experiences</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>February 22-27</td>
<td>The Subtle Self</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>February 27-March 1</td>
<td>Celtic Mysticism: Awakening the Soul to Friendship</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>September 14-19</td>
<td>Conscious Dreaming: The Path of the Shaman in Everyday Life</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>December 19-21</td>
<td>Exploring the World of Lucid Dreaming</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>January 4-9</td>
<td>Entering the Dreamtime, Body and Soul</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>February 1-6</td>
<td>Life As A Waking Dream</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>September 12-14</td>
<td>Therapeutic Touch: Healing for Everyone—Everyone a Healer</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>September 28-October 3</td>
<td>Taoist Chi Kung: Enhancing Vitality</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>October 5-10</td>
<td>Managing Your Stress, Your Heart, and Your Life</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>October 31-November 2</td>
<td>Healthy Back, Healthy Mind: User-Friendly Yoga for Backs and Stress</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>November 9-14</td>
<td>Healing Without Medicines/Healing With Medicines: Qigong and the Medical Knowledge of Yin-Style Bagua</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>November 28-30</td>
<td>Working Out, Working Within: TaoSports for the Game of Life</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>November 30-December 5</td>
<td>Intermediate Yoga: Deepening Practice</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>January 4-9</td>
<td>Tao Mentoring in Music and Tai Ji Dance</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>January 9-11</td>
<td>The Tao of Saging</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>January 11-16</td>
<td>The Monkey in the Mirror: Skill, Poise, and the Use of the Self</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>January 23-25</td>
<td>Kundalini Yoga</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>February 15-20</td>
<td>Qigong and PNI: An East/West Healing System, A Daily Practice</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>February 20-27</td>
<td>Yoga... and a Little Bit More</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>September 5-7</td>
<td>The Home Within the Heart: Ojibwe Tribal Healings</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>September 7-12</td>
<td>Peruvian Shamanism: Heart of the Healer</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>September 12-14</td>
<td>Journey on the Shining Path: African Shamanic Thought and Practice</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>September 14-19</td>
<td>Conscious Dreaming: The Path of the Shaman in Everyday Life</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>November 30-December 5</td>
<td>Soul Dramas: Past-Life Regression and Spiritual Healing for (Helping) Professionals</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>December 28-January 2</td>
<td>Clearing Our Vision for the New Year</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>January 4-9</td>
<td>Entering the Dreamtime, Body and Soul</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>January 4-9</td>
<td>To Be Ripe to Die, To Be Ready to Live</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>January 16-18</td>
<td>Gender, Relationship, and Ritual Transformation: The Dance of the Sun and Moon</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>January 18-23</td>
<td>Cross-Cultural Shamanic Practices</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>January 25-30</td>
<td>The Spirits of Esalen: Shamanism and the Powers Within the Land</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>February 20-22</td>
<td>Waking to the Power of a New Myth</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
PHILOSOPHICAL INQUIRY / INTELLECTUAL PLAY

October 12-17 • Life Beyond Death
December 19-21 • The Sly Winks of Fate
December 21-26 • Kabbalah, Consciousness, and Life Process
January 4-9 • To Be Ripe to Die, To Be Ready to Live
February 6-8 • The Life We Are Given
February 15-20 • Lexis: Principles and Education for Life
February 27-March 1 • A Weekend with Claudio Naranjo

PROFESSIONAL GROWTH / TRAINING

October 3-5 • Pandora's Gifts: On Secrets, Health, and Healing
October 24-26 • Taking Care of Yourself While Helping Others:
Survival Tools for Service Professionals
November 2-30 • 28-Day Massage Practitioner Certification Program
November 14-16 • Narcissism and Intimacy: Love That Wounds—
Love That Heals
January 16-18 • Mixed Matches: Working with Cross-Cultural Couples, Families, and Organizations
January 18-23 • Nourishing Ourselves as Caregivers—
Rediscovering Intention in Service
January 25-30 • Why Is Psychotherapy So Damn Slow and What in the World Can We Do About It

PSYCHOLOGICAL / TRANSPERSONAL PROCESS

September 5-7 • Tis a Gift to Be Simple
September 7-12 • The Transformative Power of Grief

September 12-14 • Time Shifting: Creating Time for Your Life
September 14-19 • Healing Our Hearts
September 14-19 • El Lenguaje de la Libertad (The Language of Freedom)
September 21-26 • Experiencing the Celestine Prophecy:
Connecting to Your Life Purpose
September 26-28 • The Art of Living Consciously
September 26-28 • Healing of Heart and Mind: Choosing to Change
October 3-5 • Pandora's Gifts: On Secrets, Health, and Healing
October 5-10 • Letting Go—Moving On
October 12-17 • The Practical Art of Creative Risk-Taking
October 19-24 • Gestalt Practice
October 31-November 2 • The Core Self: Return to Innocence and Choice
October 31-November 2 • Roots and Wings
November 2-7 • Opening to Ourselves and Others
November 7-9 • Grace Under Pressure
November 16-21 • The Courage to Be You
November 23-30 • Healing from Trauma: A Seven-Day Intensive November 23-28 • Giving Thanks: A Time for Simple Gratitude
November 28-30 • The Continuum of Awareness—Gestalt Practice, Meditation Practice
November 30-December 5 • Courage
December 5-7 • Introduction to Gestalt Practice
December 5-7 • The Art of Leadership: Communication,
Creativity, Vision
December 7-12 • Gestalt Practice
December 7-12 • Dropping the Facade: Cultivating Love in Action
December 7-12 • Playing the Edge
December 21-26 • The Road Best Traveled: Reinspiring Life Purpose and Direction
December 26-28 • The Sources of Growth
January 4-9 • Feeling and Creativity: Reinvigorating (Ad)ventures in Life
January 11-16 • Completions and Transitions
January 16-18 • ’Tis a Gift to Be Simple
January 16-18 • Gender, Relationship, and Ritual Transformation: The Dance of the Sun and Moon
January 23-25 • Creating a Balanced Life: Finding Your Personal Path
January 25-30 • The Practical Art of Creative Risk-Taking
January 25-30 • The MAX: Stretching the Limits of Your Self-Expression
January 30-February 1 • The Body: Doorway to Self-Discovery—The Gestalt Practice Approach
January 31-February 2 • The Journey from Hopelessness to Faith
February 1-6 • Gestalt Practice
February 6-8 • Life As A Waking Dream
February 6-8 • Remembering Who You Are: A Gestalt Process Workshop
February 8-13 • The Power of Growth
February 8-13 • Gestalt Process and A Course in Miracles: A Synthesis
February 13-15 • A New Beginning: Courage and Heart
February 13-15 • Forgiveness
February 15-20 • Integrating Spiritually Transforming Experiences
February 15-20 • Mi Lugar en el Mundo (My Place in the World)
February 20-22 • Reinventing Love
February 22-27 • Creating Exact Moments of Healing

SOMATICS
September 5-7 • Weekend Massage Intensive
September 7-12 • In Search of the Healing Self: Movement, Touch, and the Healing Process
September 14-19 • Continuum
September 19-21 • Massage Intensive for Couples
September 22-26 • Five-Day Massage Intensive
September 28-October 3 • The Upledger Institute’s CranioSacral II
October 5-10 • Intuition and the Dance of Attention
October 5-10 • Reflexology—Then and Now
October 19-24 • Trigger Point Massage: A Sensitive Approach
November 2-30 • 28-Day Massage Practitioner Certification Program
November 7-9 • Moving into Health: Feldenkrais® and Energetic Movement
November 14-16 • The Delight of Immediacy: Sensory Awareness
November 30-December 5 • Intermediate/Advanced Massage Intensive December 12-14 • Living from the Soma: Awakening the Joy of Embodied Being December 26-28 • Weekend Massage Intensive
December 28-January 2 • Five-Day Massage Intensive January 9-11 • The Heart of Sports Massage
January 15-16 • The Monkey in the Mirror: Skill, Poise, and the Use of the Self
January 16-18 • Intuition and the Dance of Attention
January 18-23 • You Don’t Have to Be Good
January 30-February 1 • Hanna Somatics: Mastery of Muscles and Emotions
February 1-6 • The Incredible Lightness of Being: A Transformational Movement Workshop
February 8-13 • The Upledger Institute’s CranioSacral I
February 13-15 • Massage Intensive for Couples
February 15-20 • Five-Day Massage Intensive

WILDERNESS / ECOPSYCHOLOGY
September 12-14 • Council of All Beings
September 28-October 3 • The Way of Wilderness
October 3-5 • Big Sur Wilderness Experience
October 12-17 • Heart of Big Sur: Journey into the Santa Lucia Mountains

WOMEN’S / MEN’S STUDIES
September 5-7 • Daughters of Saturn: From Father’s Daughter to Creative Woman
September 19-21 • Why Men Are the Way They Are
October 17-19 • A Retreat for Women of Experience: Midlife and Beyond
October 24-26 • Joy, Inspiration, and Hope: A Retreat for Gay Men
October 31-November 2 • For Women Only: Toward a Sacred Sexuality
November 2-7 • When the Drummers Were Women: Invoking the Sacred Feminine through Ritual and Rhythm
November 21-23 • Men Helping Men
Week of August 31–September 5

Waves

Gabrielle Roth & Jonathan Horan

Waves Gabrielle Roth: “In 'Waves' we explore the dynamic practice of the Roth 5 Rhythms". This cathartic form of ecstatic dance is a workout for body and soul—a moving meditation—a spiritual practice where we 'sweat our prayers.' Waves gives us a rhythmic map, a way to understand the cadence of our culture and the tempo of our relationships. Waves is at once the most basic and the most advanced work, the place we always begin and the place we always return to.

"In our hearts, we know that at our deepest level we are divine, spirit in flesh—unlimited, joyful, loving, ecstatic, and free. But all too often, what's real day-to-day is not our freedom but our limitations. Not our joy, but our pain. For many of us what's real is what holds us back, not what sets us free.

"When you enter into the Roth 5 Rhythms, you embark on a pilgrimage of self-revelation rooted in action and movement. This happens because the 5 Rhythms are not a theory, but a practice. This work builds on its own momentum, leaping from the fertile landscape of the body through waves of emotional content toward our realization of spirit. This dynamic encounter with your own psyche has the power to transform, revealing your passion, power, and presence."

Weekend of September 5–7

Weekend Massage Intensive

Deborah Anne Medow & Vicki Topp

Participants will be instructed in basic methods for giving a pleasurable and beneficial full-body massage. Fundamental elements of bodywork, such as breath awareness, grounding, movement, quality of touch, and stress reduction, will be introduced. Yoga will be incorporated to enhance body awareness and to help develop strength. The workshop is open to beginners as well as those who wish to brush up on their massage skills.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

‘Tis a Gift To Be Simple

David Schiffman

This weekend is intended as an offering for people who would like to return to the simplicity of the values we treasure most. Its aim is to create a climate of mutual support and encouragement for exploring how to best cultivate the spirit of generosity and faith in dealing with ourselves and others. This process will embrace the following elements:
The Home Within the Heart:
Ojibwe Tribal Healings
Robert Palmer & Blackwolf Jones

The ancient healing ways of the Ojibwe tribe can profoundly change life patterns. This workshop offers these traditional ways to improve physical, emotional, mental, and spiritual well-being.

There will be presentations on healing, purification, and the energies of the natural elements as well as the eagle, wolf, bison, and bear. The mishomis (grandfather stone), medicine wheel, medicine bundle, and prayer stick will be used to help resolve anger, shame, conflict, and pain. The preparation and burning of fear bundles will allow flames to devour fears. (As Blackwolf says, “We master fear or fear masters us, but there will be a master.”)

Traditional Native American dancers, Blackwolf and Robert will teach tribal dances. Both men and women will experience the way of the Ojibwe warrior. Women will be honored as central to survival on Earth Mother. Throughout the workshop, the life principles of pride, dignity, honor, and respect (namaji) will help all come to "the home within the heart.”

Blackwolf spent his formative years raised with traditional ways on an Ojibwe reservation and now combines these teachings with his experiences of teaching, counseling, and living in contemporary society. Robert Palmer is an Ojibwe descendant and traditional dancer.

C.E. credit available for psychologists; see page 68.
C.E. credit available for MFCCs and LCSWs; see page 68.

$425

Daughters of Saturn: From Father's Daughter to Creative Woman
Patricia Reis

In this workshop, based on her book Daughters of Saturn: From Father's Daughter to Creative Woman, Patricia Reis will explore the unmapped terrain of the daughter-father relationship, with a particular look at the influence of this relationship on women's creative expression.

Participants will travel together through this sometimes difficult, culturally undefined territory. Using myths, dreams, and women's experiences, the group will create a map marking the journey from father's daughter to creative woman, seeking to answer: What role does the personal, cultural, and spiritual father play in women's experience of creativity? How does a woman gain access to her creative life? What conditions drive her creative process? What kind of struggles does she undergo?

Using the structure from her book, Patricia Reis will act as guide for the journey from life in the Belly of the Father through the first Gate of Awakening. Participants will document their rebellions and resistances against the dominant culture of patriarchy, the treacherous Battlezone of Culture, and will learn how to locate the trails into the Women's Wildzone, a place that exists outside the law of the fathers: a woman-centered ground of being, knowing, and creating.

Please note: This workshop is for women only. Please bring a photo or memento of your father.

$425

Week of September 7-12

Golf in the Kingdom:
An Exploration of the Deeper Game
Stephen Cohen, Brian Bergstrom & Andy Nusbaum

Ye'll come away from the links with a new hold on life, that is certain if ye play the game with all your heart.

—Michael Murphy (as Shivas Irons), Golf in the Kingdom

The game of golf provides many opportunities to enhance the journey of self-discovery. It can be experienced not only as an athletic endeavor, but also as a metaphor for the way one lives. Just as in life, issues of self-confidence, fear, trust, discipline, and awareness emerge in the conflict between the ego's desire for success and the inner self's ability to achieve.

During these five days, teaching methods gleaned from a study of the deeper game will be utilized, as well as principles from psychosynthesis and Gestalt, to explore the inner self and how one interferes with its emergence. Two days will be spent on field trips to the Monterey Peninsula where participants will practice and play in some of the most beautiful golf country in the world. On other days there will be time to relax and enjoy the natural pleasures of Esalen and Big Sur.

Recommended reading: Murphy, Golf in the Kingdom; Gallwey, The Inner Game of Golf; Shoemaker, Extraordinary Golf: The Art of the Possible.

$795

(plus greens fees paid directly to the leader)
The Transformative Power of Grief

Bruce Gregory

The experience of loss is often very painful, sometimes even devastating. The voyage across the vast ocean of grief contains storms of rage, depression, despair, and helplessness. The voyage contains, however, many opportunities for transformation in the midst of tragedy and pain. These opportunities can provide healing for disowned parts of the self, underdeveloped spirituality, and needs that have been forgotten, overlooked, or devalued.

The texture of grief has many underdeveloped layers. Within the grief are doorways to grace, compassion, forgiveness, comfort, and a new, expanded perspective of life. To cross these thresholds one must navigate the dark waters of the shadows of the ego, which rages at the loss of control in life—loss that we all must come to terms with.

By engaging the ego in the eye of the storm, disguised needs and dormant healing resources reveal themselves and can be activated to facilitate the transformation of the grief into healing.

This workshop will utilize Gestalt, role playing, and mind-body processes to help participants explore and move through unresolved aspects of the grief process.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.
C.E. credit available for psychologists; see page 68.
C.E. credit available for MFCCs and LCSWs; see page 68.

$795

Peruvian Shamanism: Heart of the Healer

Oscar Miro-Quesada

This workshop provides an in-depth initiation into the archetypal shamanic heritage of Peru. It offers a practical hands-on approach to blend millennial native wisdom-teachings into daily life.

The workshop begins with a slide-illustrated discussion tracing the evolution of South American indigenous healing practices. The use of sacred psychoactive plants and ceremonial healing rituals will be vividly depicted.

The focal point of the workshop lies in the reverent creation of a Peruvian curandero’s Mesa, or “medicine wheel,” an altar-like arrangement of sacred items and power objects ceremonially used to awaken deep states of individual and collective healing.

Through the ritual of the Mesa—combined with the use of sound in the form of primal rhythm and ancestral chants, hampicamayoq breathwork and movement, spirit journeys to shamanic realms, and despachos (consecrated Earth offerings)—the workshop will weave a tapestry that bridges our human and divine natures.

Participants will also be introduced to culture-specific diagnostic procedures and healing practices based on the development of visionary consciousness and the disciplined use of our imaginative faculties, including divination, soul retrieval, shape-shifting, and animal ally embodiment.

The workshop is for people from all walks of life, including truth-seekers, students, educators, and lay persons.

$795

The Simple Pleasure of Traditional Raku

Noel Mapstead & Keiko Suga

Raku in its simplest form is the gathering of friends for the purpose of drinking warm beverages and discussing the merits of the cups—how they feel in our hands, on our lips, how they appear visually.

To arrive at this gathering of friends, Raku involves aspects different from other forms of ceramics. This includes making objects purely for functional; direct encounter with the firing of the pottery; and constant involvement in creating which results in unexpected and stimulating results.

Participants will learn to gather and work with local Big Sur clay, fashion objects, and construct, load, and fire a wood-burning kiln. Once the kiln is fired up, the work culminates with simple glaze techniques achieved by placing the pottery in the kiln and pulling them out—red-hot—with tongs to cool and to instantly use and admire.

Recycled Catholics: Soul Journeys Toward Authentic Relationship with God

Janet Quinn

A “Recycled Catholic” is someone who was baptized as an infant and raised Catholic, who at some point departed from the church (often in search of a more authentically spiritual life), and who now finds her or himself drawn to the church through a variety of paths but with a radically different lived experience of what it means to be a follower of Jesus Christ, quite independent from the church as hierarchy and ultimate authority, yet within the church as sacred vessel and holy community.

Everyone who is interested in exploring these ideas is welcome, including those from non-Roman Catholic denominations or Catholics not yet recycled but open to the possibility. This workshop will provide a safe, sacred space in which to share about the paths which led away from the church as spiritual home, paths taken after leaving home, paths which led back home, and life after recycling.

Participants will explore and experience some of the contemplative practices which have always been a part of the Catholic tradition, including Lectio Divina and Centering Prayer, and can rediscover elements of the mystical tradition which lay hidden in Catholic rituals and beliefs.

$795
Noel and Keiko's many pottery workshops over the past five years have been a time to have fun and cultivate creative experimentation, human transformation, and environmental awareness. As always, there will be a sweat lodge and hot clay mud baths with the help of assistant Dave Francis.

Come make "Raku pleasure" and drink as friends. There is no other secret.

You can e-mail Noel Mapstead at mapstead@ix.netcom.com

$795

Weekend of September 12–14

Releasing the Warrior: Assault Prevention for Women

André Salvage

Ancient warriors of old had it. Many great seers had it. Once in a while you'll see it in the eyes of a stranger, a woman in the market, or even in a child: There is no fear, no resentment, no paranoia. There is only a peaceful awareness that allows these people to walk anywhere with the confidence that they can defend themselves.

This type of power is accessible to us all. In this workshop André Salvage, a Master in the art of Kung Fu San Soo, will help you to: overcome your fears by developing reliance on your intuition to know when something feels wrong; assert yourself in a way that stops inappropriate behavior that may lead to harm; and learn the skills to physically stop an attacker.

This program was developed in response to Salvage's own experience of trauma and tragedy in the crime-ridden neighborhoods of South Central Los Angeles. He combines the practical knowledge and survival savvy of someone who grew up in the streets with the compassion and understanding of a teacher who can translate that knowledge into a holistic set of workable tools.

Note: This is a workshop for women only.

$425

Time Shifting: Creating Time for Your Life

Stephan Rechtschaffen

Time is a mysterious flow of which we are a natural part. Yet in our fast-paced, overscheduled lives, we have lost touch with living "in the flow of time." Caught up in the stress of running from work to home to recreation, no one seems to have the time to do the important things. Anxious about the future, regretful of the past, we miss the hidden fullness of each moment.

This workshop helps participants understand their own attitudes toward time and the effect those attitudes have on lifestyle, health, and longevity. Stephan Rechtschaffen, a medical doctor and cofounder of Omega Institute, will introduce practices to move perception away from societal time pressures into the unexplored territory and emotions of "freedom-within-time." Using meditation, visualization, and time evaluation and planning (not scheduling), participants can begin to experience their own natural rhythm in time and the simple power and pleasure of being "present" in each moment.

Participants will explore the effect of dysrhythmic, hurried schedules—on health, relationships, work, and creativity—and, using their expanded sense of time, explore what they really want and how to bring the freedom of "timelessness-within-time" into their everyday lives.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

C.E. credit available for psychologists; see page 68.

C.E. credit available for MFCCs and LCSWs; see page 68.

$425

Journey on the Shining Path: African Shamanic Thought and Practice

Kykosa Kajangu

Rimba is the sacred name of the goddess of enlightenment of many African communities. Rimba is also the name for the creative blending of various meditative activities which can help truth-seekers searching to reclaim their godhood. Rimba uses sound, movement, and light as the basic fuel to generate the energy truth-seekers need to open up their inner channels and to empower their outer channels. Rimba is to African spiritual thought and practice what Yoga is to Indian spiritual thought and practice. This workshop will use the following "technologies of the sacred" to set the wheels of Rimba in motion:

- Deep talk—inspiring stories to help in training the "symbolic ear" to hear the music of the universe
- Divination system—the Dagara model of the African medicine wheel to help to find the "charm of life"
- Rituals—meditative activities to help achieve personal balance and harmony with all living things

"In this workshop," writes Kykosa, "you can learn practices to stop psychic toxins from robbing you of your health, rituals to enhance the quality of your life, step-by-step guidance to check the flow of energy within, and down-to-earth insights to make great strides on the Shining Path."

$425

Council of All Beings

John Seed

The Council of All Beings is a series of rituals created to help individuals feel their connection with nature in their hearts and bodies. By rediscovering our interconnectedness with all beings, we see that the fate of the earth is our own fate, the pain of the earth is our own pain. The Council of All Beings empowers people to act on behalf of the earth, giving clarity and direction for the work ahead.

Participants will have the opportunity to shed their solely human identification in order to feel greater empathy for the myriad species and habitats of the Earth. Through personal sharing, meditation, and ritual, participants will explore the depths of their concern and love for the planet in this time of crisis. As many have discovered, aligning thus with a larger identity can clarify, dignify, and heal one's personal conflicts. Similarly, it can clarify patterns of consumption, needs for intimacy and support, and priorities for action. This gathering provides tools for putting this into practice in daily life.

This workshop draws upon current scientific findings to expand understanding of the ecological crisis that threatens the planet. John Seed will discuss systems theory and the Gaia hypothesis to provide a solid, rational-conceptual foundation for the deep ecology movement, and relate them to spiritual traditions thousands of years old that attune individuals to the Earth.

$425

Therapeutic Touch: Healing for Everyone—Everyone a Healer

Janet Quinn

Therapeutic Touch (TT) is an approach to healing which derives from the ancient practice of laying on of hands but which need not take place within a religious framework. First developed by nursing professor Dr. Dolores Krieger and Dora Kunz, TT is a gentle yet powerful tool for actualizing the natural capacity within each one of us for healing and wholeness. Increasing numbers of health-care professionals as well as family caregivers are learning that using TT is as helpful to the practitioner as it is to the recipient.

This workshop introduces TT as a complementary healing modality which might be used within the context of existing health-care practices and/or personal lives. The historical, philosophical, and theoretical foundations of TT will be reviewed. The course will explore basic assumptions related to human energy fields and there will be demonstration and practice of the method. The research on TT will be reviewed and issues related to the use of TT within existing and future health-care systems will be explored.

Anyone who wants to learn how to help or to heal through the use of focused intention and the human energy field is welcome.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

$425

---

Week of September 14-19

Continuum

Emilie Conrad-Da'oud

Continuum explores the idea that movement is something we are rather than something we do, that what we call a "body" is actually a nonlinear creative event.

"Awareness of ourselves as movement begins with developing our sensitivity to our intrinsic world," writes Emilie Conrad Da'oud. "We do this by exploring the mobile diversity of our breath, by discovering how our sound permeates connective tissue, and most of all by experiencing fluidity as our biological origin—the undulating waves of life that brought us here in the first place.

"As we enliven ourselves from the inside, our dynamic expressions in the world increase. This oscillation from intrinsic to extrinsic, from cell to action, urges itself into new creative channels. Released from convention, our movement vocabulary can include textures and dynamics that are the expression of what is current and alive."

As a movement specialist at UCLA, Conrad-Da'oud has contributed to a study demonstrating that enhancing fluid movement is essential to mediating disease and aging. Her work is incorporated into the fields of alternative medicine, physical therapy, and physical fitness.

This workshop can give participants a deeper awareness of the body as a process where change, growth, and innovation are possible. No dance or movement experience is necessary.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

$795

---

Healing Our Hearts

Julie Bawden & Richard Balaban

This workshop will be a journey into the tender part of the self that carries childhood trauma. Feeling and integrating the pain and gifts of our past allows us to live more fully in relationship with ourselves and others, and helps us to acknowledge and nurture our inner voice. Using guided imagery, music, metaphor, and dialogue with the historical child, this work is about melting the frozen tears and befriending the child within. Gaining compassion for the self and experiencing a supportive community are also a part of this work.

To help create an atmosphere of safety, care, and respect for core issues to emerge, participants are asked to forgo alcohol and other mood-altering, nonprescription drugs for these five days.

If you long to live beyond your past, discover your untapped strengths, and enhance your relationships, this workshop is designed for you.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

$795

Conscious Dreaming: The Path of the Shaman in Everyday Life
Robert Moss

"As we approach the new millennium," writes Robert Moss, "we have the chance to participate in the emergence of a more gifted and generous version of our species, the Multidimensional Human. To accomplish this, we need to marry the best of contemporary science and scholarship to the techniques of 'paleolithic psychology': conscious dreaming, hypersensory perception, soul recovery, and shamanic soul-flight to sources of insight and healing.

"In this adventure together, we will journey through inner and outer space with the aid of breathwork, sonics, visualization, shared dreaming, sacred story, and shamanic techniques for shifting consciousness. We will learn the anatomy and dynamics of soul, working with the energy body and the dreambody. We will experiment in 'folding time' in order to scout out challenges that lie in the now. We will embark on a visionary journey to Sirius B to gain experiential insight into the belief of the Dogon, the Maoris, and other indigenous peoples that human life on Earth was seeded from the white dwarf in the Sirius star system. We will investigate the paths of indigenous peoples toward a new view of masculinity, from male power and powerlessness to date rape and sexual harassment, from a new view of equality in the workplace to myths about equality in the workplace."

What to bring: your passion, your sense of adventure, your dream journal, and a drum or rattle (if you have one)

Recommended reading: Moss, Conscious Dreaming, Murphy, The Future of the Body.

$795

Creative Arts Center at Esalen
Arts Center Staff

Everyone has a drive to create—to be original, inventive, whimsical, resourceful. Located in The Barn at Esalen, the Creative Arts Center is a place for individuals to explore their imagination and their playfulness. It is a growing resource that is constantly evolving—a place that invites you to express your own creative instincts and become the artist that you've always imagined was hiding somewhere inside you.

This workshop invites you on a journey of reawakening. The Arts Center staff will provide a safe, supportive environment for you to rediscover the creator within. There will be a variety of art media available, which may include painting, pottery, silk dyeing, dance and movement, mask making, ritual, and group work. The leaders will offer exercises, as needed, to stimulate and liberate your creative expression, as they guide you deeper into the world of your own imagination and playfulness.

This will also be a wonderful opportunity to get messy. No previous art training is necessary.

$795

El Lenguaje de la Libertad (The Language of Freedom)
Gustavo Rabin & Sara Szpektor

This Spanish-speaking workshop is about attaining the freedom of being who we really are. In a safe and nurturing environment, participants will learn this old/new language: The language of freedom.

Para evitar todo aquello que nos hiere, solémonos levantar defensas. Este mecanismo, al mismo tiempo que nos protege, puede reducir nuestra libertad. Es triste, pero nos acostumbramos a una libertad empequeñecida. Para recuperarla en plenitud, debemos re-aprender tal valor y su precio. Y en esa búsqueda descubriremos no sólo que la tarea depende de nosotros, sino que también somos el principal obstáculo para lograrlo.

Este workshop presentará los mapas que nos guiarán desde nuestro propio encierro hacia la expresión más libre de nuestro ser. A través de ejercicios gestálticos, trabajo grupal y procesos personales, crearemos un ambiente protegido en el cual se podrá recordar y hablar este nuevo-antiguo lenguaje: El lenguaje de la libertad.

Las actividades tendrán lugar totalmente en español.

$795

Weekend of September 19–21

Massage Intensive for Couples
Brita Ostrom & David Streeter

This workshop is for partners who want to learn to massage each other. Emphasis will be on "hearing" with the hands, de-stressing the home, asking for what we need, and giving to those we love. Sessions will include demonstrations and hands-on guidance. Individual concerns will be addressed so participants can continue their practice at home.

$425 per participant

Why Men Are the Way They Are
Warren Farrell

I've never had a couple come to me and say, "Warren I want a divorce; my partner understands me."

This workshop is designed to help both sexes understand each other via role playing in which participants experience the pressures that mold the other sex's psyche. Men can experience, for example, women's view of sexual harassment; women can experience men's fear of sexual rejection and the powerlessness it engenders.

In an environment simultaneously safe and boundary-pushing, Warren Farrell will introduce some innovative perspectives—initially challenging, perhaps, because not only are they female-positive but also more male-positive than is currently in vogue. Group interactions will be allowed to become emotional enough to reflect how we communicate when we're defensive. Farrell will then facilitate work to demonstrate how both sexes can listen to criticism—even personal criticism—without becoming defensive, thus creating a model for expressing those "tough-to-hear" feelings, even to loved ones. The goal: to create more compassionate ways to relate to the other sex and to view ourselves.

This workshop offers insights on everything from male power and powerlessness to date rape and sexual harassment, from why men fear commitment to why they commit more suicide, from a new view of equality in the home to myths about equality in the workplace.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

C.E. credit available for psychologists; see page 68.

C.E. credit available for MFCCs and LCSWs; see page 68.

$425
Singing Gestalt

Nancy Kaye Lunney

Singing can be an experience of great joy, poignant tenderness, or overwhelming fear. It can provide illuminating moments of pure expression or a persona to hide behind. "Singing Gestalt" is singing about yourself, who you are, what you feel. It is about being yourself in front of other people without judging how well you sing. It is not about performance—it is about making contact, feeling, expressing, and being there, with and for yourself and others.

If the idea of getting up and singing in front of other people terrifies you more than anything you can think of, this workshop is for you. If you love to sing in front of other people and want to stretch yourself further, this workshop is for you. It is a chance to take your singing self out of the shower, out of the car—out of the closet.

Some guided imagery and Gestalt may be used. Bring lyrics to songs that express thoughts and feelings you'd like to explore. Accompaniment and lots of music are provided. $425

---

Week of September 21–26

The High-Performance Mind: Awakened Mind Brainwave Training

Anna Wise

The high-performance mind is clearer, sharper, and more flexible. Emotions are more available and easier to transform. Information flows more easily between the conscious, subconscious, and unconscious levels, increasing intuition, insight, and empathy.

Having a high-performance mind means being able to enter at will the state of consciousness most beneficial for any given circumstance—then understanding how to use that state. Through brainwave training for beta, alpha, theta, and delta, this workshop can teach you how to produce the components for an awakened mind, the brainwave pattern of peak experience, optimum creativity, and high spiritual awareness. Working with both the state and the content of consciousness, you can learn to use these brainwaves to develop a high-performance mind for self-healing, dealing with emotional issues, increasing creativity, improving relationships, and developing greater self-knowledge and awareness.

Biofeedback monitoring combined with meditation, visualization, and deep psychophysiological relaxation can help you learn how to master your own states of consciousness. The Mind Mirror EEG will be used to demonstrate brainwave patterns, and Electrical Skin Resistance Meters will be used to measure the depth of arousal and relaxation of your autonomic nervous system, illuminating the interrelationship between your body and your mind.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.
C.E. credit available for psychologists; see page 68.
C.E. credit available for MFCCs and LCSWs; see page 68.

---

Dzogchen—Awakening the Buddha Within: A Silent Meditation and Self-Inquiry Retreat

Surya Das

Buddhism teaches awareness techniques for awakening to inner freedom. Dzogchen introduces the inherent freedom, purity, and perfection of innate Buddha-Mind. Dzogchen Tibetan for "the Natural Great Perfection"—is considered the summit of all Buddhist teachings: swift, easy, joyful, and direct.

This retreat will introduce the quintessential Vajrayana path, practiced according to the nonsectarian way of the Practice Lineage of Tibetan Buddhism, relying on authentic Tibetan texts, meditation manuals, oral tradition, and personal experience. Much of the day will be devoted to sitting practice, interspersed with both guided and walking meditations, chanting, self-inquiry, question-and-answer periods, and breath/energy relaxation exercises. Constant themes of this nondual awareness practice will include appreciating the true joy of meditation, the incredible lightness of being, and opening to effortlessly.

This retreat, conducted in silence, offers a unique opportunity for experienced meditation practitioners as well as beginners to better know themselves through the timeless wisdom of this ancient Tibetan teaching.

---

Writing the Natural Way

Gabriele Rico

Writing well can be as natural as telling a story to a friend, as fluid as daydreaming. Using the new science of Chaos as a metaphor for the workings of the mind, the creative process, and ways of accessing it, Gabriele Rico can teach you to write freely and richly. Presenting a series of writing activities to free you from the restrictions imposed by a linear, judgmental, left-brain approach, she can help you to become receptive to your creative intuition—to express ideas, images, and feelings more authentically in a fresh, personal voice.

Once we understand something about the creative process, we can begin to glimpse answers to such questions as: Where do ideas come from? How can we best hold them? What is the role of the emotions in the creative process? In what way is all writing creative?

A few of the many writing activities include:

- Clustering—a nonlinear process that accesses seemingly random thoughts and feelings
- Improvisation and play with language
- Images—"strange attractors" which evoke visual, tactile, auditory, and gustatory memory patterns
- Metaphoric thought—moving beyond literal thinking

This workshop is appropriate for writers of all levels, from beginners to experts. Please bring colored felt-tip pens and a bound notebook.

Recommended reading: Rico, Writing the Natural Way and Pain and Possibility: Writing Through Personal Crisis. $795

---

Experiencing the Celestine Prophecy: Connecting to Your Life Purpose

Carol Adrienne & Sigrid Emerson

"You have a purpose," write the leaders, "and the universe is waiting to help you find and fulfill it. The purpose of this workshop is to take the ageless wisdom described in the Insights of The Celestine Prophecy and apply it to everyday life. Our goal is to work with these Insights to help you gain more satisfaction in work, be more open to adventure, understand more clearly your life purpose, as well as tap into the messages of synchronicity. We will use ancient intuitive tools, meditation, physical activity, journal writing, interactive exercises, and humor."

Carol Adrienne will take you inside the nine Insights and help you explore the positive qualities you were born to express. The sessions are designed to be a progressive, in-depth look at who you are and where you are going in life. You will also learn how to deal with specific obstacles in relationships and move beyond limitations. Sigrid Emerson will work with you to release stress and increase energy through gentle stretching and walking meditations. Personal evaluations of lifestyle and stress factors will integrate the four dimensions of health.

While it is helpful to have read either The Celestine Prophecy by James Redfield or The Celestine Prophecy: An Experiential Guide by Redfield and Adrienne, it is not mandatory.

Five-Day Massage Intensive

Dean Marson & Laurie Lioness Parizek

Esalen massage is a nurturing practice that can be as pleasurable to give as to receive. During this week of learning and relaxation, Esalen bodywork in its various forms will be demonstrated, practiced, and discussed.

The workshop will incorporate specific massage techniques, gentle manipulations, grounding, and energy work. The instructors will present a bodywork style that addresses individual needs, integrates the whole person, and honors the sacred and healing quality of touch. Special attention will be given to self-care, quality of contact, breath awareness, and stress release.

The workshop will also introduce movement, dance, and rhythm to integrate the bodywork. Stretching and meditation will be used to encourage focus and serenity.

Participants will make full use of Esalen’s beautiful grounds and facilities. Please bring warm, comfortable clothing and your favorite music or instrument. The workshop is open to all levels of experience.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67. $795

Weekend of September 26-28

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

Contact is the appreciation of differences.

— Fritz Perls

...and the recognition of similarities.

— Richard Price

This workshop is designed to introduce the various practices of Esalen to first-time participants or to those renewing their acquaintance with Esalen. Emphasis will be on finding those approaches to self-awareness that work most effectively for each participant. Sessions may include: meditation, sensory awareness, Gestalt practice, group process, art, movement, and massage. There will also be time to explore the magnificence of the Big Sur coast.

The Art of Living Consciously

Nathaniel Branden & Devers Branden

“Living consciously,” write the Brandens, “involves maintaining respect for the facts, being present to what we are doing while we are doing it, and seeking and being eagerly open to any information, knowledge, or feedback that bears on our interest, values, and projects. This experiential/participatory workshop is designed to deepen our understanding of what it means to live consciously, to appreciate the many advantages of this practice (both in the personal sphere and in the workplace), and to explore obstacles within ourselves that obstruct consciousness. Specifically, we will explore what living consciously means in regard to (a) our beliefs and desires, (b) child-rearing practices, (c) romantic love, and (d) our behaviors and goals in the workplace. Finally, we will address the question of the relationship between living consciously and pursuing a spiritual life."

“If you think the meaning of living consciously is obvious or if you think there is nothing about the practice that could be controversial—think again. Be prepared for some surprises."

Recommended reading: Branden, The Art of Living Consciously. $425

Communication and Partnership

Mary Goldenson (Devanami)

Underlying all our relationships—husband, wife, lover, friend, daughter, son, mother, and father—is the need to communicate. Often we learn to express our needs through control, power struggles, addictions, dependency, guilt, denial, and unreasonableness.

This workshop is about healing the soulwounds sustained in our attempts at partnership. The focus will be on:

- Exploring the possibilities of equal soul partnership
- Learning new ways to express our fear, sadness, grief, and love for each other
- Defining what we need to change in our relationships
- Learning the different language styles we can use to better connect with our partners

Recommended reading: Branden, The Art of Living Consciously. $425

Experiencing Esalen Staff

Dean Marson 6- Laurie Lioness Parizek

Esalen massage is a nurturing practice that can be as pleasurable to give as to receive. During this week of learning and relaxation, Esalen bodywork in its various forms will be demonstrated, practiced, and discussed.

The workshop will incorporate specific massage techniques, gentle manipulations, grounding, and energy work. The instructors will present a bodywork style that addresses individual needs, integrates the whole person, and honors the sacred and healing quality of touch. Special attention will be given to self-care, quality of contact, breath awareness, and stress release.

The workshop will also introduce movement, dance, and rhythm to integrate the bodywork. Stretching and meditation will be used to encourage focus and serenity.

Participants will make full use of Esalen’s beautiful grounds and facilities. Please bring warm, comfortable clothing and your favorite music or instrument. The workshop is open to all levels of experience.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67. $795

Weekend of September 26-28

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

Contact is the appreciation of differences.

— Fritz Perls

...and the recognition of similarities.

— Richard Price

This workshop is designed to introduce the various practices of Esalen to first-time participants or to those renewing their acquaintance with Esalen. Emphasis will be on finding those approaches to self-awareness that work most effectively for each participant. Sessions may include: meditation, sensory awareness, Gestalt practice, group process, art, movement, and massage. There will also be time to explore the magnificence of the Big Sur coast.

The Art of Living Consciously

Nathaniel Branden & Devers Branden

“Living consciously,” write the Brandens, “involves maintaining respect for the facts, being present to what we are doing while we are doing it, and seeking and being eagerly open to any information, knowledge, or feedback that bears on our interest, values, and projects. This experiential/participatory workshop is designed to deepen our understanding of what it means to live consciously, to appreciate the many advantages of this practice (both in the personal sphere and in the workplace), and to explore obstacles within ourselves that obstruct consciousness. Specifically, we will explore what living consciously means in regard to (a) our beliefs and desires, (b) child-rearing practices, (c) romantic love, and (d) our behaviors and goals in the workplace. Finally, we will address the question of the relationship between living consciously and pursuing a spiritual life."

“If you think the meaning of living consciously is obvious or if you think there is nothing about the practice that could be controversial—think again. Be prepared for some surprises."

Recommended reading: Branden, The Art of Living Consciously. $425

Communication and Partnership

Mary Goldenson (Devanami)

Underlying all our relationships—husband, wife, lover, friend, daughter, son, mother, and father—is the need to communicate. Often we learn to express our needs through control, power struggles, addictions, dependency, guilt, denial, and unreasonableness.

This workshop is about healing the soulwounds sustained in our attempts at partnership. The focus will be on:

- Exploring the possibilities of equal soul partnership
- Learning new ways to express our fear, sadness, grief, and love for each other
- Defining what we need to change in our relationships
- Learning the different language styles we can use to better connect with our partners

Recommended reading: Branden, The Art of Living Consciously. $425

Healing of Heart and Mind: Choosing to Change

Fred Luskin

Every human being has suffered rejection, mistreatment, and betrayal. Yet some people can maneuver through these painful experiences while others remain stuck. This workshop will examine why and how this happens. Through the sharing and processing of experience, participants will work toward understanding how the emotions of sadness, frustration, and anger arise—and how to change those feelings.
By demystifying the process of healing, we accelerate this mysterious process. We can learn to let go of old hurts and, in the process, become less likely to create new ones. Using cognitive approaches—lecture as well as guided practice in reframing, disputation, and existential understanding—this workshop presents forgiveness as a choice. The cognitive practices will be complemented by guided practice in mindfulness, imagery, and heart-centered practices designed to help get in touch with the heart’s restorative potential. Journal writing, dyadic exercises, and group discussion will also be used.

Uniting the mind and heart and letting go of old hurts is an expression of the soul’s desire for connection and harmony. With insight and practice, it is possible to successfully work with the emotions that prevent us from moving forward in our lives.

Week of September 28–October 3

Turning On the Light: A Choice to Live Consciously
Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita) & Guests

In the sunlight of awareness, each thought and action becomes sacred.

— THICH NHAT HANH

Laura DeNuccio writes: “To live fully in the present moment, deeply in touch with life, is a choice each individual can make—one breath at a time. This week we will honor, empower, and celebrate each person as we examine what it means to live fully moment to moment. Choices can emerge as we explore deeply: What would you love to see in your life? What matters most to your heart? What is truly of value?

“Through the creative use of breath, sound, movement, and visioning, we can awaken and remember what our spirit longs to express. Guided meditations will be introduced to increase body awareness and aliveness, to dissolve and balance energetic blockages, and to quiet, still, and expand the mind. Personal growth, self-care, and integral practices for daily living will be offered for increasing mindfulness, self-knowledge, and responsibility.

“Emphasis will be on cultivating compassion, honesty, and kindness as we align with our own truths in relation to others and the Earth. Through attunement with the natural world—gentle nature walks and light hikes in Big Sur—we can deepen our capacity to listen to our innate wisdom. The group will experiment with co-creating community, an environment of trust and acceptance, as we reclaim our wholeness/holiness as human beings making choices to live fully.”

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.
The Upledger Institute's CranioSacral II
Judith Bradley

This workshop further explores the CranioSacral System and its function in relationship to other patho-physiological body systems. The course will begin with the study of cranial base dysfunctions as perceived, diagnosed, and treated by Dr. William Sutherland, the father of cranial osteopathy. Students will learn how to integrate Sutherland's techniques for identifying and evaluating lesions into a ten-step protocol and how to apply individual correction treatments when needed.

Evaluation and treatment processes of the hard palate, the mandible, and temporomandibular joint will be presented and practiced to complete the exploration of the masticatory system. Emphasis will then be directed to whole body evaluation, as discussions will center on various 'physiological phenomena' that occur within the body.

The SomatoEmotional Release process will also be introduced with discussion and demonstration of an "energy cyst." Participants must have completed the Upledger Institute's CranioSacral Therapy I, either at Esalen or elsewhere.

Please note: Registration for this workshop is done only through the Upledger Institute. Please call the Upledger Institute at 1-800-233-5880.

For further information see Special Programs, page 64. C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67. $795

The Way of Wilderness
Steven Harper

You didn't come into this world. You came out of it, like a wave from the ocean. You are not a stranger here. — ALAN WATTS

Ever since the supposed "primordial soup," nature has been our teacher. We were born of this earth and throughout recorded time people have turned to wilderness to awaken and become whole again.

With wild nature as the primary teacher, participants will explore the ways of wilderness, discovering as "civilized" twentieth-century humans what it means to walk this ancient path that uncovers our relationship to nature and to ourselves. Charles Darwin wrote, "From so simple a beginning endless forms most beautiful and most wonderful have been and are being evolved." Perhaps through direct experience of nature we can continue this "most beautiful and most wonderful" evolution consciously—as nature aware of itself.

This workshop will include movement awareness exercises, meditation, and extended day-hikes (3-10 miles long) into the Big Sur backcountry. Most sessions will be outdoors, with a return to Esalen each evening. Special attention will be given to incorporating into everyday life what is learned from the wilds.

Previous wilderness experience is not necessary, although participants should be prepared for some vigorous physical activity.

Taoist Chi Kung: Enhancing Vitality
Master Share K. Lew

Traditional Taoist concepts of health, longevity, and harmony with nature will be introduced by Master Lew, a monastery-trained Taoist priest from southern China. The core of the workshop will be instruction in the Shen, a set of twelve Chi Kung exercises (six standing, six sitting) whose primary purpose is self-healing. These rare exercises can also help develop better concentration, increase visual and auditory acuity, and enhance sensitivity to oneself and others. Master Lew will also discuss the use of everyday foods and Chinese herbs in healing, and tell stories from his life in the monastery.

Master Lew, now seventy-nine, was among the first to openly teach Chi Kung (Taoist internal energy cultivation) to non-Chinese. His monastery style, Tao Ahn Pai, dates back 1300 years to Lui Dong Bin of the Tang Dynasty, who is one of the Eight Immortals of Taoism.

Recommended reading: Porter, Road to Heaven: Encounters with Chinese Hermits; Deng Ming-Dao, The Wandering Taoist.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67. $795 (plus $10 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

The Space of Creation
Charles Miedzinski

In numerous sacred traditions, Space is considered to be the ultimate and subtlest medium of creation. Taoism and Zen view Space as the Void out of which all phenomena emerge. Sufism regards it as the active emptiness which generates all forms. These views challenge our typical belief that form is reality and, therefore, the ground of all creation.

Wrote Charles Miedzinski: "In this workshop we will shift our perspective of the ground of reality from that of form to that of Space. From this vantage point we will encounter the ways in which the emptiness of Space serves as the true support for our being and our creativity. Since our minds cannot rationally grasp that Space is the ultimate ground, fear as well as trusting of this invisible support will arise. By engaging our creative process—in color, music, poetry, movement, and performance—we can circumvent our rational minds and directly experience how Space, as the primary medium of creation, functions within ourselves. These media, along with meditation practices and the openness to the simplicity of just being, will guide us on our journey to the creative source. The poetry of Rilke and Rumi, the teachings and sacred arts of Taoism, Zen, Tibetan Buddhism, and Sufism, as well as the writings of A.H. Almaas will further support us."

This workshop is for those whose souls long for more Space, relaxation, and creativity in all aspects of their lives. $795

Weekend of October 3–5

The Awakened Mind: Brainwave Training

Anna Wise

Inside each person lives a wealth of knowledge, capacities, and power rarely transmitted to the conscious mind. Brainwave training, combined with meditation and biofeedback monitoring, can help develop these deeper resources, allowing access to greater creativity, reduced stress, and a deeper awareness and understanding of the inner self.

After assessing the brainwave patterns of hundreds of unusually highly-functioning people, C. Maxwell Cade of London's Institute for Psychobiological Research began to see similarities in the patterns of optimal states of mind. Drawing upon Cade's work, Anna Wise has developed a training program to help access these optimal states.

Different methods of meditation, visualization, and psychophysiological relaxation affect our brainwaves in particular ways. So do specific acts such as tongue, eye, and body positions. In this workshop you will learn... techniques for brainwave development of beta, alpha, theta, and delta, and begin to determine which methods of practice are best for your particular brainwave pattern. You will also address how you can use these optimum states for your own creativity, mental flexibility, self-healing, problem solving, and spiritual development.
The Mind Mirror EEG will be used to demonstrate brainwave patterns, and each participant will be able to use an Electrical Skin Resistance Meter to measure the depth of arousal or relaxation of the nervous system.
C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

Big Sur Wilderness Experience
Steven Harper
Located on a narrow stretch of land between the Pacific Ocean and the coastal ridge of the Santa Lucia Mountains, Esalen is the trailhead to one of the world's most spectacular wilderness areas. Using this natural reserve as the primary teacher, participants will walk into the Los Padres National Forest. Drawing on various traditions, this wilderness experience will help participants develop the quality of their awareness and open to the natural world.
Weeklong workshops will venture out on five hikes (4-10 miles long). Weekend workshops will take two hikes (3-6 miles long). Using Esalen as a base camp, the group will explore the different trails through the natural beauty of the Big Sur backcountry. Days will begin and end at Esalen with short stretching and sharing sessions. Each hike will begin after breakfast and conclude in time to enjoy the hot springs and dinner each evening at Esalen. Basic outdoor skills such as map reading and minimum impact concepts will be practiced. Participants will be taught enough skills to begin exploring the wilderness on their own after these outings. More information will be sent upon registration. $425

Imagination, Presence, and Joy
Tandy Beal
Presence is the gift that the performing arts can give us, whether we're bankers, teachers, naturalists, or just plain humans. Being precent—in the body, in the moment, in the action—is the foundation of this workshop.

Tandy Beal submits:
Here's what you'll do—
Solo, duet, and group exercises about awareness and problem solving. The springboard is movement, the pool you'll dive into is the imagination.
Here are the skills you'll use or develop—
Here's what you may discover—
The imagination (and the body) as a friend and ally. A new level of awareness. A light heart.
Here's my background—
Thirty years in dance, theatre, circus, and film, as a performer, director, writer, choreographer,
and dreamer. $425

Pandora's Gifts:
On Secrets, Health, and Healing
Dale Larson
We all have uncomfortable feelings, thoughts, and information about ourselves that we avoid telling others—self-doubts, feeling unloved, an illness, an inheritance, an affair, a childhood trauma. Although telling these secrets to the wrong people can be disastrous, recent research confirms that "what we don't say can hurt us," that confiding in others can indeed be good for our health. Yet, how do we usually relate to the Pandora's Box of our personal secrets? Too often we keep the lid closed, or close it too soon. We forget that in the original myth of Pandora's Box, after the Furies escape, one entity remains: Hope. The lesson then and now is that hope, if sustained by caring and empathy, can triumph. Hope can replace denial and avoidance and its gifts can heal the wounds of the Furies.
Through discussion, personal reflection, and a series of safe yet powerful experiential exercises, this workshop will explore secrets and secrecy, and how they affect our health. How can we access the healing power these secrets hold for us and achieve greater intimacy and wholeness in our lives? If we are professional counselors, how can we facilitate this healing process in the individuals and families we care for?
This workshop is designed for both professional caregivers and all those interested in the healing power of secrets.
Recommended reading: Larson, The Helper's Journey (especially Chapter 4, "Secrets: Concealment and Confiding in Helping").
C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.
C.E. credit available for psychologists; see page 68.
C.E. credit available for MFCCs and LCSWs; see page 68.

Maps of the Jungle:
Negotiating the Primitive Dimensions of the Workplace
Bruce Gregory
For many people, the workplace, the corporate world, is experienced as a dangerous and unsafe place, a jungle filled with, as Dorothy in The Wizard of Oz put it, "lions, and tigers, and bears, oh my!"
This workshop will provide participants with some useful maps for the journey through this jungle of mistrust, exploitation, intimidation, and lack of accountability. The workshop will provide participants with feedback on personal blind spots, unfinished business, and identification of different forms of support-needs through the use of role playing,
Gestalt, and mind-body processes.
Participants will also receive direction for building skills to develop accountability, resolve conflicts, and deal with abuse and manipulation.
C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.
C.E. credit available for psychologists; see page 68.
C.E. credit available for MFCCs and LCSWs; see page 68.

Letting Go—Moving On
Mary Goldenson (Devanani)
Beliefs, fears, and emotions from the past can continue into present relationships and inter-

cere with spontaneous feelings of trust, love, and joy. The goal of this workshop is to experience and let go of these defenses and create new ways to relate—in the moment—to others, our work, and those we love.
The workshop includes periods of intense
bodywork for those who want to let go of past anger, fear, and pain, which are reflected in the body as armor and tension. As armor soften, feelings held in since childhood can be released, and positive feelings can be experienced more fully. By also using dreamwork, massage, dance, and group process, a new capacity for loving can emerge.

$795
Intuition and the Dance of Attention
Anne Armstrong & Randy Cherner

At the still point of the turning world,
Neither flesh nor fleshless;
Neither from nor towards; at the still point,
there the dance is,
But neither arrest nor movement. And do not call it fixity.
Where past and future are gathered.
Neither movement from nor towards,
Neither ascent nor decline. Except for the point, the still point,
There would be no dance, and there is only the dance.

— T.S. Eliot, The Four Quartets

Intuition is a gift that everyone possesses. It takes many forms. The foundation for intuitive practice is the process of shifting one's attention in very precise ways to lead to enhanced awareness. Anne Armstrong's intuitive opening came through the psychic intuitive process, Randy Cherner's through movement and touch.

The aim of this workshop is for participants to reclaim their intuitive powers in all areas of their lives—personal, professional, and spiritual. Group members will learn to develop their intuitive styles through meditations, sensing practices, refined touch, aikido, and Feldenkrais exercises. This workshop is unique in its attention to intuitive style in both its psychic and somatic dimensions.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

Reflexology—Then and Now
Deborah Ardell Hill

Reflexology is a method of applying pressure to areas or points on the feet and hands to stimulate the glands, organs, and other areas of the body in order to increase circulation, relax the nerves and body, and help to normalize body functions.

For thousands of years the relationship between reflex points and the organs has been understood by the Chinese, the Egyptians, East Indians, and North American Indians. Reflexology was introduced scientifically in the U.S. in 1913 by Dr. William Fitzgerald, who engaged other doctors and health-care practitioners to keep records of their findings on their patients.

The first part of the workshop will focus on learning the corresponding organ points on your feet using the Zone Therapy technique subscribed to by Dr. Fitzgerald and Eunice Ingram. The workshop will explore how each reflex feels using the concepts of intention, vibration, and depths. The latter part of the week will focus on the eleven systems of the body, how each organ reflex functions as a unit, and the concerns (symptoms) that arise when the organs are not functioning properly. There will also be discussion of traditional Chinese medicine (meridian therapy).

The workshop is designed for bodyworkers, medical practitioners, and nonprofessionals alike.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

Managing Your Stress, Your Heart, and Your Life
Mel Lefer

Dr. Dean Ornish produced the first major study showing conclusive evidence that reversal of heart disease and other disorders, such as high blood pressure, diabetes, obesity, and high cholesterol, was possible without the use of drugs or surgical intervention. This workshop will apply the tools developed by Dr. Ornish to provide the direct experience of how powerful, comprehensive lifestyle changes can affect one's heart and overall sense of well-being.

The workshop will incorporate many approaches, including diet (special nonfat dishes will be available for participants), exercise, stretching, progressive relaxation, breathing practices, meditation, visualization, and group discussion. The goal will be for participants to transfer these good habits into every aspect of daily life, and to pave the way to the peace of mind that physical well-being can provide.

Recommended reading: Ornish, Everyday Cooking with Dean Ornish; Eat More, Weigh Less: Stress, Diet, and Your Heart; and Dr. Dean Ornish's Program for Reversing Heart Disease.

Weekend of October 10-12

Relationship as a Spiritual Path
Harville Hendrix & Helen Hunt

Until the 18th century, marriage was an economic and social contract arranged by parents. Although it existed under moral constraints, it had no psychological or spiritual value to the married partners. With the establishment of democracy and the attendant freedom to choose one's destiny, including one's marital partner, marriage became a means of psychological wholeness and spiritual evolution, joining religion and psychotherapy as a transformational modality. Freed from the constraints of authority but hampered by the absolutizing of individualism, the transcendent potential in marriage is just becoming conscious in our culture.

This workshop will interpret the romantic impulse that leads to marriage-by-choice as a unique creation of Nature in the service of Its self-repair and self-completion. Conscious cooperation with the unique unconscious forces that create the marital dyad leads to an altered state of awareness, personal and social transformation, and restoration to an experience of essential oneness. The workshop will include lectures, experiential processes, writing exercises, and guided imagery to help participants understand and participate in the
The workshop may be of interest to persons with a rich spectrum of colors and brushes. It is rare for most people to use painting for its qualities of inner adventure and self-discovery, to paint purely for the process of exploration, not for the result.

The purpose of this workshop is to provide a setting to explore the self through painting—to discover in form and color a powerful tool for uncovering and dissolving blocks to emotional and spiritual expression. Participants will be given the support and stimulation to develop a natural way of painting based directly upon feeling. The work takes place in an authentic studio setting with large white surfaces to confront the creative void, along with a rich spectrum of colors and brushes.

The workshop may be of interest to persons involved in a wide variety of disciplines, including art, education, counseling, and meditative practices. No prior experience in painting is necessary. Please bring a smock.

For further information about this workshop, contact: The Painting Experience Studio, 2101 20th Avenue, San Francisco, CA 94116; 415-564-8515.

Recommended reading: Cassou & Cubley. Life, Paint & Passion.

Week of October 12-17

The Painting Experience

Stewart Cubley

For workshop description see October 12-24.

$795

(plus $35 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

Heart of Big Sur: Journey into the Santa Lucia Mountains

Grandfather Fred Nason, Tom Little Bear Nason & Steve Kestrel Chambers

For workshop description see Wilderness Programs, page 72.

$795

October 12-24

Finding Life Balance

Phillip Moffitt

Even for those who have achieved what our culture calls success, there is all too often a feeling that life is out of balance. We live outside of our own bodies. We are strangers to our own minds. Is it any wonder that restlessness, a subtle sense of dissatisfaction, and a nagging feeling of being less than our authentic selves is so prevalent despite our accomplishments?

This workshop offers you the opportunity to better experience the joys of your own body and to better know the subtle workings of your own mind. Best of all, it offers practical guidance toward achieving a healing balance in mind, body, heart, and soul. "Life Balance" is a newly developed program which integrates the idealism and insight of Eastern spiritual practices and the self-understanding of Jungian psychology into a practical application for achieving harmony in daily life.

In this journey toward balance and harmony, you will work with vipassana meditation, hatha yoga, subtle body movements, and the Integral Transformative Practice developed by George Leonard and Michael Murphy. You will also be exposed to methods which enhance self-understanding and help clarify personal and career challenges. The workshop will culminate in the creation of a life-balance plan that can serve as a source for your ongoing practice.

$795

The Practical Art of Creative Risk-Taking

David Schiffman

To make effective, creative choices, you need courage, imagination, and the willingness to know your heart and be true to the dreams that live inside you. Choosing this deeper wisdom can often involve the risk of breaking set—the choice to move against the powerful grain of old fears, habits, and the constant pressure of other people's expectations. Fostering this spirit means contacting the elemental-instinctual parts of our natures, befriending rather than suppressing or denying the sexuality and power out of which initiative and enthusiasm spring.

This workshop will focus on how to develop a more adventurous, resourceful, and buoyant way of living. In an atmosphere based on warmth and humor, group members will explore their capacity for mutual tenderness, respect, and honesty. Traditional psychological practices such as Gestalt, bioenergetics, and psychosynthesis will be used for intensive individual work, as well as nontraditional innovative approaches in bodywork, kinesthetic retraining, music, and guided imagery.

$795

Life Beyond Death

William Roll

William Roll's exploration of psychic phenomena is a personal odyssey that began with out-of-body experiences (OBEs) when he was a teenager. Unable to tell whether his OBEs were stirrings of an immortal soul or minor hallucinations, he went to Oxford University for an answer and then to the Parapsychology Laboratory of Duke University. At Duke he explored the multifaceted phenomena attributed to survival, including communications with the departed by mediums, reincarnation experiences, and poltergeists. The workshop will consider whether the findings can be reconciled, whether they are suggestive of life after death, and what form this life may take. The discussion will be illustrated with video segments.

$795
In addition, Dr. Roll will guide participants in mediumistic readings, psi sessions, recall of previous lives, and the evocation of apparitions. The practices invite participants to discover their own psychic roots to better understand their circumstances and possibilities in this world.

Dr. Roll writes: "We will use the near-death experience as a map to full living. The journey starts when the tunnel vision of the ego gives way to a joyous merging with loved ones and with previous adversaries. From this confluence, other borders may fall so that we may recognize our self in the lights and shadows of the world, in its joys and pains, and in its livings and dyings."

Recommended reading: Duncan & Roll, Psychic Connections: A Journey into the Mysterious World of Psi.

Poems of Sacred Place:
Writing and Telling

Erica Helm Meade

Poetry of sacred place is born from sites where myth and landscape meet, such as The Bones of Pele, the rock hill on West Maui where Pele was slain by her sister in a frenzied rivalry over love. This writing/telling workshop will celebrate early myths of place as well as W.B. Yeats, Mary Oliver, and other modern poets who listen to the spirit of place. The workshop will focus on listening to landscapes, including Esalen's, to invoke, write, and tell the essence of place. Drawing from ancestral traditions, it will incorporate rhythm, movement, invocation, and ritual to explore the living source of poetry and activate our link to the sacred.

---

October 17–24

The Painting Experience

Mitchell Cassou

For workshop description see October 12–24. $1220 (plus $35 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

---

Weekend of October 17–19

A Weekend with Lama Tharchin Rinpoche

Tibetan Buddhism is unique in that, through historical and geographical circumstances, Tibetans have isolated themselves on the roof of the world, consciously disarming themselves and devoting their country's material and spiritual resources to the investigation of the mind.

In this weekend retreat, the Venerable Lama Tharchin Rinpoche will introduce the Tibetan Buddhist understanding of the ultimate true nature of our being, how we can walk the path toward revealing this quality through meditation, and finally, how we can carry this understanding into daily life through awareness. As both a recognized lineage holder of this tradition and a householder with two sons, Rinpoche has a wise and practical approach to integrating ancient wisdom into daily life.

In this workshop he will discuss:
- Healing and transforming the emotions
- Stabilizing happiness in daily life
- Meditation in action

Rinpoche embodies the living compassion and wisdom of the Buddhist teachings and exemplifies how each one of us can awaken to our true potential.

$425
Story is the Entire World: A Writing Workshop
Deena Metzger

A story is a universe, a world of diverse and complex meanings. Each of our stories is as unique and diverse as the universe itself and each is ruled by the gods of beauty and necessity, of the particular and the universal. To know our stories is to know and live the complexity and particularities of our own astonishing lives, to bring the different parts of ourselves into dynamic and fluid harmony. Each one of us is living a story, a story that is rich and complex and has psychological, political, ecological, spiritual, and mythic implications. To discover its shape and essence is to live in balance, to find the common thread, to walk the one road that coexists in all dimensions.

As in the moment of creation of the cosmos, we begin with a small point and watch with awe and delight as it expands far beyond our hopes and expectations. Then we can come to know this story, its origins and its future, its terrors and possibilities. In the beginning is the word: Everything comes from that.

In this workshop, participants will be carefully guided through a series of writing exercises into the heart of the creative process, toward the discovery of the meaning and beauty of their own tale.

Nothing is required but paper and pen and the desire to enter the inner world for its treasures and revelations. Designed for writers and nonwriters alike, poets, dreamers, explorers, journal writers, therapists—all those interested in language, awareness, authenticity, and rigorous interchange with the true self.

$425

A Retreat for Women of Experience: Midlife and Beyond
Lenore Lefer & Anne Yeomans

"The gifts of woman are many," write the leaders.

"They have been undervalued and made invisible. They are an interrelated network which form a focus of pain and emotional discomfort in our bodies. Through awareness and skilled touch these points may be stimulated by applying pressure which releases the muscle tension. At the same time, the emotions stored in these tissues may be brought to awareness and given expression. As Arthur writes: "Some of these feelings are painful and some loving. Learning to be present and sensitive to them all is the most important aspect of my work."

This workshop will combine Trigger Point release with the long, gentle strokes of Esalen massage to provide a nurturing context for this exploration. Where appropriate, craniosacral work, joint release, and deep tissue techniques may be employed, as well as grounding, sound, movement, meditation, and stretching to bring awareness and presence. The journey begins on the surface, then continues inward toward the core of the tensions that create the holding patterns which keep us closed.

This workshop is designed for bodyworkers, medical professionals, health-care practitioners, and individuals with massage experience who would like to explore the connection between the spiritual, physical, and emotional. Some massage experience is especially helpful.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

$795

(plus $15 for the Trigger Point work manual)

Sufism: Human Completion and the Divine Names
Kabir Helminski

Sufism, the mystical school of Islam, is a spiritual path in which love is the means of progress. Through the power of love one can learn to attain a state of reliance on God and activate the qualities of a true and complete human being. The great Sufis, like Rumi, lived exemplary and creative lives within, not separate from, the human community. Sufism is a metaphysical awareness that manifests in relationship, in culture, and in a practical life.

At the heart of this teaching are the Divine Names, the qualities which lie behind visible realism and which are available for adoption by the human being. These names can be studied, chanted, and lived. They can manifest as poetry, as music, as movement. During this time together, participants will seek to enter a sacred reality deep within, studying and experiencing such divine names as: The Enlightener, The Holy, The Generous, The All-Aware, the Shaper of Beauty, The Gatherer, The Subtle.

$795

Vocal Awareness: Empowerment Through Voice

Arthur Samuel Joseph

In many traditions, the throat is the center of creative power. The voice represents this power, and thereby has the capacity to help access our full creative expression. This course combines the powerful techniques of Vocal Awareness with principles of creativity theory to help participants realize their creative potential.

Vocal Awareness introduces techniques which are integral to this development process. This approach—which views voice as a metaphor, representing an individual to the world—includes vocalizing, sound meditation, movement, song study, and development of the speaking voice as a means for deepening contact with the self. Participants will work individually and in groups exploring breathing, toning, and vocalizing.

Singing and speaking offer an immediate outlet for creative expression. In addition, the voice can become a springboard for other forms of creative expression, such as writing, drawing, movement, and problem solving. In this way, the voice becomes a symbol for the whole person as an integrated creative being. Consequently, this workshop can be not only a vocal training class but a step toward empowerment along life’s path.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

$795

Weekend of October 24–26

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see September 26–28.

$425

The Tao of Practice

George Leonard

We’ve tried them all—the ten easy steps to power and prosperity, the programs offering instant enlightenment or total fitness in fifteen minutes a week—and we’ve discovered they simply don’t work. More and more people are beginning to say no to the false and often deceptive promises of the quick fix. Moreover, new research is showing the efficacy of patient, long-term practice, which, it turns out, is far more important than talent in achieving mastery.

In this workshop, human potential pioneer George Leonard introduces a path (tao) of practice that can bring pleasure and fulfillment, not just during this weekend but for months and years to come. Drawing on the Integral Transformative Practice (ITP) he cofounded with Michael Murphy, Leonard will offer the fundamentals of a long-term program for realizing the potential of mind, body, heart, and soul.

You will have a chance to learn a forty-minute series that includes physical movement, breathing practice, relaxation, transformative imagery, and meditation. You will practice balancing and centering, the use of chi, focused surrender, and the creation of effective affirmations. There will be discussions of the principles of human transformation as revealed in a two-year experiment Leonard and Murphy conducted.

This workshop involves physical movement but is not strenuous. All that’s needed is a generous heart and a willingness to participate.

Recommended reading: Leonard & Murphy, The Life We Are Given; Leonard, Mastery; Murphy, The Future of the Body.

$425

Rhythms of the World: Enhancing Your Rhythmic Vocabulary

Brian Melvin

This is a rhythm clinic—for all instruments—designed to make you more aware of the wide-ranging rhythmic vocabulary that can be used in any style of music. You will explore the rhythms of Africa, India, and Brazil, as well as all the rhythms used in jazz improvisation. You will study how master drummers play on top of rhythmic collages and how the separate parts interact to form a whole sound. There will be extensive explorations into cross patterns.

A key element for getting to the core of your own inner rhythm is learning to relax and breathe. Drawing from Tai Chi and martial arts, the workshop will incorporate the aspect of chi (life energy) with drums, blending knowledge and energy.

There will be rhythm section sessions exploring the harmonic and melodic aspects of rhythm. As an added treat, after Sunday morning’s class Brian Melvin’s group, The Zoo, will present an electronic percussion concert.

Please bring hand drums, shakers, bells, claves, and other rhythm instruments. Also bring notebook and pencil. The workshop is appropriate for all levels from beginner to advanced.

$425
Joy, Inspiration, and Hope:
A Retreat for Gay Men
Scott Wirth

"As gay men," writes Scott Wirth, "our psychological lives are too often defined in terms of deficit and injury: we are not 'real' men; we are 'sick and sinful'; our lives are being robbed from us by AIDS—the long, dark list goes on. Our gay male psyches are invariably overburdened with the images and emotional residue of victimization, oppression, and tragedy.

"Without denying these dark aspects, we will emphasize the joyful, inspiring, and hopeful aspects of our lives—past, present, and future. We will visit five phases of life: infancy, boyhood, adolescence, young manhood, and midlife, and blend together memory, fantasy, and stories we have heard."

"In a series of guided experiential sessions, we will construct and journey through what Jungian analyst Verena Kast has called our 'biography of joy' this time as gay males. We will discover ways in which our soul remained inwardly steadfast throughout the different phases of our lives, nurturing and protecting us in ways that no parent or caregiver ever did. We will also recall and honor those who supported us—usually unknowingly—in the formation of our gay identity."

If you wish, bring a cassette of music which you find joyous, inspiring, or hopeful (each piece five minutes or less).

Recommended reading: Kast, Joy, Inspiration, and Hope.

Week of October 26–31

The Vein of Gold:
A Journey to Your Creative Heart
Julia Cameron & Tim Wheater

In Julia Cameron's new book, The Vein of Gold, she again draws from her extensive artistic and teaching experience to lead anyone, at any stage of the creative process, toward ever-widening creative horizons. In this workshop she is joined by composer and flautist Tim Wheater. Together they will lead participants on a journey diving deep into our innermost creative source—our own "vein of gold."

"When I speak of a 'vein of gold,' says Cameron, 'many people think in terms of productivity: 'Once I find my vein of gold, I'll strike it rich.' It is more accurate to think of the vein of gold as a heart vessel, carrying the precious cargo of the flow of our true nature. Viewed this way, we don't need to 'get' rich. We already are rich. This workshop is about coming to that recognition."

Whether you are already actively engaged in a creative enterprise or are just beginning to nurture your creativity, this workshop provides innovative and practical tools for mining your vein of gold. The techniques and teaching extend to writers, actors, artists, musicians, dancers, and anyone longing to set free the creative spirit. Through movement, writing, sight, sound, silence, and play, the workshop will be a pilgrimage into "kingdoms of creativity."

If you have already had your first bout with back problems, you are not alone. Ninety percent of all Americans will seek professional help for back problems at some time in their lives. Seven million people miss work daily from back-related illness, costing American business twenty-two billion dollars annually. Perhaps the saddest statistic is that eighty percent of all back problems can be prevented. This workshop is user-friendly for those who want to explore do-it-yourself tools for enjoying life, coping with stress, and preventing or healing back problems. It offers a creative synthesis and artful balance of ageless wisdom from the East and contemporary healthful methods from the West. The yoga is inspired by the work of T.K.V. Desikachar of Madras, India. The course includes:

- Safe, effective yoga programs specially designed for the 35-65 age group
- Numerous effective relaxation practices
- Do-it-yourself partner yoga routines
- Biomechanical education and lifestyle tools
- Experiential hiking and walking techniques

Please Note: This workshop is not recommended

Weekend of October 31–November 2

Healthy Back, Healthy Mind: User-Friendly Yoga for Backs and Stress
Larry Payne

If you have already had your first bout with back problems, you are not alone. Ninety percent of all Americans will seek professional help for back problems at some time in their lives. Seven million people miss work daily from back-related illness, costing American business twenty-two billion dollars annually. Perhaps the saddest statistic is that eighty percent of all back problems can be prevented. This workshop is user-friendly for those who want to explore do-it-yourself tools for enjoying life, coping with stress, and preventing or healing back problems. It offers a creative synthesis and artful balance of ageless wisdom from the East and contemporary healthful methods from the West. The yoga is inspired by the work of T.K.V. Desikachar of Madras, India. The course includes:

- Safe, effective yoga programs specially designed for the 35-65 age group
- Numerous effective relaxation practices
- Do-it-yourself partner yoga routines
- Biomechanical education and lifestyle tools
- Experiential hiking and walking techniques

Please Note: This workshop is not recommended
The goals of this work are to enhance self-esteem, to become free of trauma and past self-images, to communicate more effectively, to become empowered as a leader, and to develop a cohesive personal vision. The tools will include Gestalt open seat, self psychology, insight meditation, breathing practices, dreamwork, deep music, group process, and immersion into nature.

Recommended reading: Epstein, Thoughts Without a Thinker; Schutz, Profound Simplicity; Goldstein, The Experience of Insight; Moore, The Care of the Soul.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.
C.E. credit available for psychologists; see page 68.
C.E. credit available for MFCCs and LCSWs; see page 68.

$425

For Women Only: Toward a Sacred Sexuality

Lenore Lefer

Lenore Lefer writes: "This workshop addresses the question: How can we as women move towards integrating our sexual lives with our spiritual nature? We live in a culture that has traditionally separated these two aspects of our selves, both of which are essential to living rich and full lives. The separation of the sacred from the sexual has caused many women to feel compartmentalized and less than whole. Having consciously or unconsciously made this choice, we are left longing for our exiled half. Some of the themes to be covered in this workshop include:

- The enhancement of our relationship to our bodies
- The broad diversity of the Feminine, and the goddesses that represent this energy
- The journey from shame to divine pride
- The changing nature of our sexuality as we mature
- Recognition, development, acceptance and comfort with both our sexual and mystical aspects

"In this weekend we will also explore our beliefs and attitudes, both sexual and spiritual, that limit and enhance our creativity, power, and self-expression. We will use yoga, guided imagery, humor, group process, writing, and meditation to explore the full potency and mystery of the bawdy, sexual, wise, abundant, profound, deep Feminine wisdom." $425

Roots and Wings

David Schiffman

David Schiffman writes: "This workshop is for people who value a heartfelt, original approach to life, the suitably seasoned who want to trust and master their own rhythms and who appreciate the value of imaginative self-inquiry. Its pacing and format are designed to provide a safe, restorative mood for inner reflection and honest self-appraisal. It will also be a time to catch one's breath and hang out in the elemental beauty of Big Sur in a mood of peace and inspiration, an opportunity to tune into the inner resources that allow us to see the world with fresh eyes and renewed enthusiasm. It is a chance as well to connect with kindred spirits and explore the mysteries, gifts, and dilemmas of who we are.

"Using a blend of physical, emotional, and spiritual attunement practices, we will weave together movement, and visualization as a way to tune in to our inner rhythms, and to connect with the inner world of the mystery of the bawdy, sexual, wise, abundant, profound, deep Feminine wisdom." $425

Opening to Ourselves and Others

Rachel Harris

In order to survive and make our way in the world, we develop defense mechanisms, rigid patterns of thinking, feeling, and behaving. We deaden, dissociate, or sacrifice parts of ourselves during early childhood experiences, chronically stressful situations, or traumatic events. These brittle habits, originally designed for survival, limit our vital connec-
No prior musical experience is necessary and frame drum and how to organize them into energy formulas to heal the mind and body. Please note: This workshop is for women only.

Participants will learn the basic sounds of the drumming of the frame drum. ing rhythmic practices of the frame drum. The focus will be to deepen our sense of ourselves and enhance our capacity for relationship with others.

"We will use an integrated approach of body awareness, mindful introspection, breathing, creative expression, and dyadic exercises to gently lighten the burden of our chronic defenses. The opportunity is to stop being who we think we have to be and develop the process of being with ourselves as we are, which is all we really have and what we will take home with us."

C.E. credit for psychologists pending; see page 68.
C.E. credit available for MFTs and LCSWs; see page 68.

$795

Weekend of November 7-9

When the Drummers Were Women: Invoking the Sacred Feminine through Ritual and Rhythm

Layne Redmond

The first sound we hear is the pulse of our mother’s blood. Drumming is the musical expression of this primordial truth. Throughout the ancient Mediterranean world the Great Goddess is portrayed with her frame drum, a powerful trance-inducing instrument. It is the oldest known drum, traditionally played by priestesses in the religious rites of Inanna, Hathor, Isis, Cybele, Aphrodite, and other goddesses. In this workshop, you will find out why women were the primary percussionists in Mesopotamia, Anatolia, Egypt, Greece, and Rome—and why they are not today.

Chanting, rhythmic breathing, and drumming were elements of an archaic technology that directly synchronizes the mind/body complex, creating conditions for psychological and physical healing. This retreat is designed to introduce women to these healing rhythmic practices of the frame drum. Participants will learn the basic sounds of the frame drum and how to organize them into powerful rhythms. Sound is power, rhythm a means of organizing that power into specific energy formulas to heal the mind and body.

Please note: This workshop is for women only. No prior musical experience is necessary and appropriate frame drums will be provided.

Recommended reading: Redmond, When the Drummers Were Women.

$795

Weekend of November 7-9

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see September 26-28.

$425

Moving into Health: Feldenkrais® and Energetic Movement

Patrick Douce

Most people know what it is like to wake up stiff in the morning. Many start the day in pain. Hundreds of millions of people in this world suffer from chronic, acute conditions. There are basic ways we have been taught to hold ourselves and to move that unconsciously lead to these conditions. Some of these misconceptions are so ingrained that we think of them as part of ourselves, without any choice in the matter.

Moche Feldenkrais developed movement lessons based on finding the ease of movement we had as children. This workshop uses those movements to enable participants to consciously experience their unconscious everyday actions. Feldenkrais Movement will be presented which improve flexibility, awareness of breath, and posture. Rather than emphasize doing more with more effort, the lessons teach how to find soft, effortless movements. They will be combined with lessons inspired by Indonesian Silat martial-arts-for-health movements, which stimulate the energy body, effecting internal health and increasing energy. The idea of a flexible, fluid, intelligent body will be introduced to improve the use of the spinal column.

Difficulties in the body will be approached as problems in learning rather than as conditions needing therapy. Thus, problems that were “incurable” become “reeducable.” Participants will be offered tools that they can immediately use to improve.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

$425

Week of November 9-14

Healing Without Medicines/Healing With Medicines: Gigong and the Medical Knowledge of Yin-Style Bagua

Andrew Nugent-Head & Xie Peiqi

Dr. Xie Peiqi, 77-year-old healer and warrior, was the last person trained in the complete system of Yin-Style Bagua. This system included both healing components and martial arts. Dr. Xie has practiced medicine for sixty years. He has worked with and trained longtime China resident Andrew Nugent-Head for years in order to make his knowledge accessible to the West.

In this workshop, participants will learn about healing without medicines by stimulating the Qi (energy) within the organs of the body. For the use of medicines in healing, the instructors will provide an understanding of the energetic effects of herbs.

Two systems of Qi cultivation within Yin-Style Bagua will be covered: the “Eight
Healing Sounds: designed to directly affect the organs and flow of Qi in the body; and the "Storing Qi" exercises, designed to increase Qi and sensitivity in the body. These systems provide the foundation for energy healing within Yin-Style Bagua. Additionally, the importance of proper harvesting, preparation, and use of herbs and how they effect the healing process will be included.

Recommended reading: Xie, The Eight Healing Sounds of Yin-Style Bagua (available through the Association for Traditional Studies, 303-584-6988).

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

I-You-Us: Pleasure, Intimacy, and the Search for Connectedness

Terry Hunt & Lisa Schachter

Pleasure is essential for healthy relationships. Add the erotic element and the potential for pleasure grows exponentially. But real life all too often leaves us isolated, confused, and struggling with the men and women in our lives. We substitute control for intimacy as we play out the myriad Good Girl and Super Guy roles we developed during traumatic childhoods and nightmarish adolescences. Or we may act and react out of fear, sadness, and rage, keeping our relationships locked in habitual defensive patterns.

"This workshop will help both individuals and couples to identify myths that block the flow of joy," the leaders write. "Together we will redefine the role of pain and pleasure in our lives and create updated images of our powerful, sensual, creative selves. The workshop will include intensive breathing, cathartic family-of-origin work, psychodramatic exploration of conflicts, managing physical and emotional boundaries, and visualizations that tap our deepest longings for intimacy. We will encourage each other to approach the mysteries in our lives with intention rather than fear, with assertion rather than suspicion. We will allow time to follow our instincts for pleasure into enriching and creative moments of wholeness."

Recommended reading: Hunt & Paine-Gernée, Emotional Healing and Secrets to Tell, Secrets to Keep, Miller, The Drama of the Gifted Child.

C.E. credit available for psychologists; see page 68.
C.E. credit available for MFCCs and LCSWs; see page 68.

Finding Your Spiritual Compass: Rediscovering the Labyrinth as a Spiritual Tool

Lauren Artress & Alan Jones

"The rediscovery of the labyrinth is one of the most important developments of our times," write Lauren Artress and Alan Jones. "Walking, running, skipping, or dancing, it is a profound spiritual exercise that offers insight, self-discovery, and guidance as we walk the path of Spirit. This workshop will allow participants to immerse themselves in the labyrinth throughout the week, with discussion and reflections about the spiritual journey woven through our personal and group experiences. There will be opportunities for meditative and liturgical practice as well as group and individual spiritual direction."

The eleven-circuit labyrinth is a twelfth-century mystical tool replicated from the floor of Chartres Cathedral at Grace Cathedral, San Francisco. The labyrinth has only one path that takes you to the center and back out again. It is a walking meditation, a path of prayer, a tool of manifestation, a chalice of remembrance, and a blueprint where psyche meets Spirit.

Recommended reading: Artress, Walking a Sacred Path: Rediscovering the Labyrinth as a Spiritual Tool; Jones, Soul Making and The Soul's Sacred Path: Rediscovering the Labyrinth as a Spiritual Tool; Jones, Soul Making and The Soul's Sacred Path: Rediscovering the Labyrinth as a Spiritual Tool.

The Delight of Immediacy: Sensory Awareness

Charlotte Selver & Jill Harris

Much as we wish to live in the present, we are often preoccupied with images and ideas of how it ought to be. Instead of responding to the situation at hand with the innumerable nerves, muscles, and interweavings of consciousness which we are, much of us is immobilized by early conditioning, acute emotional problems, or habit, and much is held back until the inner board of review gives the approval.

But children and sages have a different way of functioning. For them the world flows into their consciousness as the air into their lungs. Their responses are organic and direct, bypassing the evaluation center which is the educated mind of the adult. It is our lack of immediacy which is usually felt as tedium and which necessitates ever stronger stimuli in the search for joy, or self-discipline in the search for peace. By giving up these preconceptions and gradually coming to follow our sense of reality, we begin to respond not to what should be but to what is, and the world catches fire for us.

This workshop will explore direct experience which, as it becomes clearer and stronger, tends to burn away the mist of concepts and restrictions which our conditioning has interposed between ourselves and living.

Charlotte Selver is ninety-six and has been working with sensory awareness for seventy-five years.

Recommended reading: Brooks, Sensory Awareness.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

$795

Weekend of November 14-16

Mindfulness and the Pursuit of Intimacy

James Baraz & Steven Newmark

Forming meaningful intimate relationships can be a painful and confusing process. We may meet someone who seems like a promising potential partner, have the highest intentions to act with honesty and sensitivity, and still find our hopes ending in disappointment. By becoming aware of unconscious patterns that sabotage real intimacy, there is a greater possibility of creating the kind of bond we are seeking.

Bringing a spiritual dimension to the challenge of being single allows us to shift our perspective and not take our predicament quite so seriously. Using mindfulness practice, we can see through identification with negative thoughts that block our natural expression of love and presence. As a result, we can move toward more honest, centered, spontaneous communication that puts others at ease and makes us attractive to them.

Through frank discussions and experiential exercises this workshop will explore the challenge of forming new relationships consciously so that barriers that keep us apart can be dissolved. A safe, supportive environment will help participants to be genuine, have fun, and learn to use relationship as a vehicle to become more awake in life.

$425
A Workshop for Poets
Galway Kinnell

This is a gathering for the writing of new poems in an atmosphere that is encouraging and challenging. The participants/poets will be asked to put aside old habits and inhibitions and attempt to write something that is more difficult and daring than they have done previously. They will also be asked to take a part in making the workshop supportive and inspiring for others. Much of the time during the weekend will be spent writing. Only the new poems written during these two days will be discussed in the group meeting.

To apply, please send four pages of your recent poems, typed (no dot matrix, please) with name, address, and day and evening phone numbers, postmarked by September 22, to Kinnell Workshop, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920. Participants will be notified of their acceptance by October 10. $425

Narcissism and Intimacy: Love That Wounds—Love That Heals
A Workshop For Helping Professionals
Marion Solomon

Narcissism is often seen as an overriding love of self. However, it is not self-love but defenses designed to protect against injury to a damaged self that causes modern-day narcissists to have such problematic love relationships.

This workshop will examine the main structures and underlying dynamics that have imprinted and shaped our hearts, our souls, and our self-image. Using slides, self-exploration, role playing, and videotapes of couples’ sessions, participants will explore: when wounds begin, the degree of the narcissistic injury, how it is reenacted in intimate relationships, and helpful or hurtful responses to narcissistic vulnerability.

The philosophy behind the workshop is best expressed by Heinz Kohut, who said, “A good marriage is one in which only one partner is crazy at any given time.” The focus will be on learning to open the channels to deep wounds that infect relationships between intimate partners. Participants will learn how experiencing and integrating the pain from the past allows us to live more fully in relationship to ourselves and with others.

This workshop is recommended for psychotherapists and counselors who wish to expand their capacity to work with couples and individuals in relational crises.

C.E. credit available for psychologists; see page 68.
C.E. credit available for MFCCs and LCSWs; see page 68. $425
Week of November 16–21

Tantra: The Art of Conscious Loving

Charles Muir & Senior Instructors from the Source School of Tantra

Few of us have been blessed with healthy childhood conditioning and education regarding the mysteries of sexual love and sexual energy. This can leave many individuals less aware and conscious about their sexuality than they are in other aspects of their lives. Tantra can transform sex into a loving meditation, putting more consciousness, energy, intimacy, joy, and love into sexual exchanges.

Participants will learn and discuss various ways to increase intimacy and passion in their relationship. Tantric meditation and ways to exchange sexual energy in a safe, nonsexual manner will also be taught in the workshop. These methods can then be practiced in a sexual way in the privacy of your own home.

This workshop is open to couples only. $795 per participant

The Courage to Be You

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

Much in life is beyond our control. Our choice is in how we respond to these moments. We can develop the ability to move into these moments with aliveness and passion. This choice is an act of courage.

This workshop will help you explore what you are holding in, holding onto, and holding back that keeps you from experiencing who you truly are. "The courage to be you" means the ability to appropriately express the repressed anger, fear, resentment, sadness, joy, and laughter that keep you stuck in old patterns with significant relationships.

Using emotional release work, writing, movement, Gestalt, meditation, and silence, the workshop will provide a safe environment to explore your deepest emotions. The focus will be on:

- Having adult relationships with partners, parents, and children
- Taking full responsibility for your life
- Discovering your own personal rhythm of closeness
- Distinguishing between accountability and blame
- Experiencing and appropriately expressing anger, sadness, and grief

The workshop is an in-depth review of our lives, relationships, and circumstances. If you are ready to engage wholeheartedly, this workshop can help you to accomplish the transformative change you seek.

C.E. credit available for psychologists; see page 68.
C.E. credit available for MFCCs and LCSWs; see page 68.

Weekend of November 21–23

Stress Reduction: An East/West Approach

David Levenson & Mark Abramson

Stress comes to us in many forms. Our bodies and minds are stressed by chronic pain and persistent illness. Relationships are stressful. We find stress at home and at work, in our social and financial lives, even in our recreation.

Stress often leads us to suffer. Muscles tense up, pain tolerance decreases, inflammation increase, intestines go into spasm, fatigue may become profound. Our minds are often filled with anxiety, fear, depression, anger, and helplessness.

All of this suffering is normal and understandable, but it is not required. Suffering is optional. In this workshop, you will be taught how to minimize suffering with the help of mindfulness meditation, yoga, self-hypnosis, deep relaxation, healing imagery, and cognitive approaches. Through these practices, you can develop a self-loving objectivity, an ability to respond to your pain and suffering with compassion instead of self-criticism, guilt, and shame.

The workshop is designed to be practical. The aim is to integrate your experiences and give you tools to use in your everyday life.

The workshop is open to nonmeditators and meditators alike, as well as to people with or without medical problems.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.
C.E. credit for psychologists pending; see page 68.
C.E. credit available for MFCCs and LCSWs; see page 68.

$425

The 21 Praises of Tara: A Sacred Dance Practice

Prema Dasara

Tara is the great Mother Goddess of unconditional love. Ages ago, Tara was an ordinary woman who practiced dharma and reached enlightenment. Instead of entering nirvana, she vowed, "I will stay in the body of a woman until the end of time, helping all those who call out to me to cross the ocean of sorrow and attain enlightenment." She is said to answer the cries and prayers of all lost or suffering beings, and to overcome obstacles and dissolve ignorance. The chanting of Tara's 21 Praises is an ancient healing practice through which fear and other afflictions clouding the mind are dispelled and life challenges met with clarity and compassion.

Prema Dasara combines her dance training from the temples of India with ancient Tibetan practices of self-empowerment. In this ritual of transformation, participants will be guided to embody the sublime qualities of Tara, and to embrace their own essence of feminine wisdom, compassion, and power.

They will learn the subtleties of sacred movement, mudras, offerings, and visualizations. At the end of the workshop, the dancers will adorn themselves in silk costumes (provided by the leader) and dance a ritual offering.

Please note: This workshop is for women only. No dance experience is required. $425

Men Helping Men

Gordon Wheeler & Michael Bonack

Why is caretaking between males so often fraught with difficulty in our culture? As men, we all carry some degree of scarring from cultural messages that emphasize self-reliance, coping, and mastery—at the expense of our inner lives, our hopes and fears and dreams. To the extent that we were held at a distance from, abandoned, and/or abused by our fathers and other male caretakers, these messages were introjected, inhibiting our connections with ourselves and others, especially other men and boys.

As we grow up and older, these blocks show up with special poignancy in our helping and nurturing relationships not only with our own sons, but with all males who come under our influence: students, junior colleagues, patients and clients, supervisors, as well as peers and older men who depend on us for support and caring. We feel surprised when these relationships are unexpectedly charged with difficulty, and hurt if our own best intentions are misunderstood. Worse, we are shocked to recognize in ourselves some of the same gestures of awkwardness or abandonment we knew in our own childhood.

How do we break this cycle of solitude and disappointment and establish mutually nourishing relationships with the other men and boys who need our support? This workshop will use exercises, self-narrative, and our own interaction to explore our capacity to build a new kind of male-to-male helping relationship, breaking old patterns of stress and isolation, nourishing our own inner and outer strengths, and becoming healing partners for ourselves and each other.

The Way of Council
Virginia Coyle & Jack Zimmerman
Council offers a way of communicating that encourages attentive listening and compassionate expression. The practice is finding increasing use in groups that want to move from a hierarchical power structure to a partnership model in which initiative, responsibility, and leadership are shared by everyone. In the simplest form of council, a talking piece is passed around the circle, empowering the person holding it to speak “from the heart,” while the rest of the group is challenged to listen attentively. “The Way of Council” provides an introduction to a variety of council methods and the challenges of leading council. By weaving together direct experience with reflective witnessing, participants can make intimate contact with both the techniques and spirit of the practice.

This workshop is for individuals who seek a larger context for human dialogue. In particular, it is designed for:
- Educators interested in helping students to expand communication skills and the ability to resolve conflict nonviolently
- Business leaders who want to build trust, stimulate creativity, and improve communication with co-workers
- Members of intentional communities who want to explore nonhierarchical forms of self-governance, conflict resolution, and co-visioning
- Therapists who want to deepen their work with interactive groups
- Parents interested in creating a family environment in which it is safe to communicate honestly and openly
- Couples interested in deepening intimacy and seeing relationship as a path to greater self-awareness

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

November 23–30

Healing from Trauma: A Seven-Day Intensive
Carolyn Braddock & Carol Lynch
Healing does not have to be a struggle—healing can be gentle, sensitive, and friendly. In a week of safety, exploration, and integration, this intensive will explore the belief systems of the trauma survivor’s body, mind, and spirit (whether the trauma be sexual, emotional, physical, body-image, or from accidents, illnesses, or surgeries). It will offer innovative and creative possibilities for healing.

Since the body was where the trauma occurred, the focus will be on body-oriented healing. The workshop will present ways to move through body memories, flashbacks, and dissociation, to identify and release old patterns, and to recognize addictions and make healthy new choices. Breath, sound, and selected centering and martial arts techniques will be utilized to assist participants in expressing their voice—the source of their power.

The workshop will introduce tools for wholeness: humor, energy awareness, Gestalt, role playing, meditation, and Tai Ji. Specific sessions will focus on sexuality, relationships, touch and intimacy, and creating new patterns. There will be video demonstrations. Individual work within the group will be possible.

To register, it is necessary to complete an application questionnaire. This is to provide some history and will help determine what support could be available during the week. For an application, please contact Carolyn Braddock at PO Box 260123, Lakewood, CO 80212; phone 303-985-7310, or fax 303-989-9819.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

$425

Drawing and Painting Intensive
Leigh Hyams
Imagine... Seven uninterrupted days and nights to draw and paint!

The ability to draw and paint is in everyone. Leigh Hyams has the ability to release the creativeness in any beginner curious about the creative process, and to enable those with art experience to deepen and expand their individual voices as artists.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

$425

In an informal environment, students will work with a variety of media, challenged to express in visual terms their responses to dreams, political and philosophical ideas, poetry, music, and Esalen’s natural beauty. Demonstrations, conversations, critiques, and slide presentations will be utilized to sharpen participants’ perception and openness to change. But it is the act of making the marks oneself that develops an understanding of visual language and the creative process itself. This, in turn, leads to the heart of art and a richer, fuller life.

$1220
(plus $75 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

Week of November 23–28

Giving Thanks: A Time for Simple Gratitude
Phyllis Shankman
Life experiences are the symbol of what the soul wants to know.

—EMMANUEL

Writes Phyllis Shankman: "As the year-end holiday season approaches, we pause and create special time together for stillness, appreciation, and gratitude. We acknowledge and count our blessings—for the love and friendship in our life, for health and freedom, and for simple kindness and beauty in all its forms. For many people, the ongoing pace of our lives and our myriad obligations carry us along faster than our ability to grasp the meaning and purpose of what we are doing and who we are. We forget what we value and what is truly important. In that forgetting, we may lose our personal vision, faith, and gratitude."

"This workshop will be a time to slow down, to acknowledge ourselves and each other, and to honor the ongoing blessings, lessons, and challenges of our personal journey. We will use meditation practice, group discussion, chanting, ritual, music, nondenominational prayer, Gestalt process work, art, massage, and dance. We will celebrate life. We will experience the true meaning of Thanksgiving by simply giving thanks."

$795

Spanish: A Whole-Brain Accelerated Learning Approach
Judith Serrano
You can learn to speak Spanish easier and faster than you ever thought possible. This intensive beginning-Spanish course utilizes Accelerated Learning, a whole-brain, dynamic, and stress-free teaching methodology, based on the learning systems developed by Georgi Lozanov of the Institute of Suggestology in Bulgaria and by other current researchers in the field of Second Language Acquisition. The process of Accelerated Learning engages both the analytical, linear left hemisphere of the brain and the more intuitive, spatially-responsive right hemisphere in a relaxed way which results in accelerated and highly motivated learning. Through role playing, music, art, games, imagery, and mental relaxation, participants will be introduced to the vocabulary and grammatical structures necessary to begin their adventure in the world of Spanish.

Special requirements: Please bring a one-inch three-ring binder to the first class and have access to a cassette player for the duration of the workshop. ($795 (plus $25 for text and cassette tape)

---

Weekend of November 28–30

The Continuum of Awareness—Gestalt Practice, Meditation Practice

Joyce Frazee

Awareness itself is healing. — Fritz Peals

This weekend will be an opportunity for participants to experience the continuum between Gestalt practice and meditation practice.

"Fritz was the first person who showed me I could bring curiosity to my behavior, instead of constant judgment," writes Joyce Frazee. "That awareness changed my life."

As in meditation, the practice of awareness is fundamental to Gestalt, whether it is the moment-to-moment recitation of where consciousness alights—the Gestalt awareness continuum—or the revealing awareness of discovering the disowned parts of the personality through Gestalt dreamwork.

The sessions will start with meditation. They will then move into Gestalt practice. Group exercises and the open seat format will also be used.

Working Out, Working Within: TaoSports for the Game of Life

Chungliang Al Huang & Jerry Lynch

Until now, the path toward spiritual development has been considered separate and different from its physical counterpart. This practical and dynamic program will offer concrete, specific tools and strategies to help you use your physical regimes as a way to turn inward, test your limits, and discover your personal strengths to become spiritually fit for the game of life.

The workshop combines philosophical discourse, affirmative visualization training, inspiring success stories, meditation, Tai Ji movement exercises, music, and easy-to-apply Zen and Tao guidelines for increasing vitality, energy, and spontaneity with your sport and exercise programs. You can learn how to recapture the natural balance between body, mind, and spirit by experiencing the 'Tai Ji Zone', a calm, effortfree, relaxed state of mind that will help you improve overall performance and sustain enthusiasm in all physical activity—with less strain and greater comfort. Take sport and fitness to the next level—integrate the care of the soul with the care of the body. Make your physical life an internal martial art, a Western Yoga, a Zen-Tao way of body-mind-spirit conditioning.

Week of November 30–December 5

Intermediate/Advanced Massage Intensive

Kathleen O'Shaughnessy & Robert Helm

This workshop is designed for individuals who have already had basic massage training and been in practice for a while. It is for those who want to expand into new territory and add to what they are doing with specific complex areas such as the neck and low back.

One portion of the format will include the basic Esalen style of long, integrative strokes and methods for deep contact with the recipient, which will then be trimmed down to detail. Since participants will be experienced, another part of the format will have the flavor of a musician's open jam session with two lead players, eliciting a cross-pollination of ideas and approaches from all of the participants.

Personal centering through breathing methods, yoga postures, Zen practice, and dynamic movement will be juxtaposed to the hands-on work.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

$795

Soul Dramas: Past-Life Regression and Spiritual Healing for (Helping) Professionals

Roger Woolger

"Soul dramas are the daily emotional patterns, roles, and scripts we get stuck in and habitually act out," writes Roger Woolger. "Although the soul first staged its dramas around childhood trauma, it had already rehearsed them in utero and had written them long ago from the ancient store of past-life melodramas we all carry."

Soul dramas can be tragic, pathetic, humorous, or banal. Left unrecognized, they can cause anxiety, depression and rage, or a deep sense of dissatisfaction or alienation. Roger Woolger's method of releasing and transforming these compulsive dramas involves regression to buried memories and past lives, as well as after-death encounters in the spirit realms called "bardo" by Tibetan Buddhists.

Participants will be taught simple methods for body release, healing catharsis, and the reintegration of lost parts of the soul.

Experienced in psychotherapy and bodywork (Jung, Reich, and Gestalt), Woolger guides people through deep, transformative experiences, creating an atmosphere that is safe and contained. He also illuminates the broader spiritual picture, from Sufism to Western mysticism to Shakespeare—reaching with humor through poetry, music, story, and meditation.

Recommended reading: Woolger, Other Lives, Other Selves.

C.E. credit available for nurses, see page 67.

Intermediate Yoga: Deepening Practice

Deborah Anne Medow

"Yoga is a multidimensional awareness practice," writes Deborah Medow. "By paying attention to yourself through body, mind, and breath, you can develop more physical aliveness, mental clarity, emotional openness, and a more peaceful and joyful spirit."

"This intermediate-level yoga workshop will focus on breathing exercises (purifications) and asanas (yoga postures), as well as some yogic philosophy and theory. The approach: Instead of pushing into or 'going for' the stretch, you will be encouraged to move slowly through an asana, staying at first within your comfort zone and giving yourself time to experience everything you are feeling in your muscles, tendons, and bones—not pushing, just being and breathing. By allowing yourself to fully experience where you are—right now, in the posture, in your mind, in the present moment—you will be amazed at how much further into the stretch your body can then naturally extend—playing at your edge—with no pressure from your mind or strain through your body."

This is a workshop for all those wishing to get more from their current yoga practice. $795

Courage

Joyce Frazee

"In the mouth of the dragon there are many jewels."

—Buddhist proverb

For some of us it takes courage just to live our daily lives. Every day we awaken to face the demons in our lives—demons that come in many forms: perfectionism, guilt, avoidance, shame, despair, failure. Time passes and we become skillful at living despite the constant awareness that these demons are preventing us from experiencing the fullness of life. Their existence drains our energy and limits our joy and freedom. But getting close to them, allowing ourselves to confront them, is very difficult to do.

This week will provide an opportunity to find the courage to face our demons. Participants will be encouraged to look at the things in their lives that are difficult to face and will be given support to help recognize and confront them. This will be done through Gestalt practice, dreamwork, and bioenergetics. Drawing, dance, and meditation may also be used to recover the jewels from the dragon. $795

Circle of Song—Body and Soul

Rhiannon

"If you sing fully in your body, if you really get your bones vibrating and your whole being going, you always feel better," says Rhiannon. "This workshop provides a safe and challenging environment for developing your unique and genuine voice. Starting with body energy, alignment, and centering, we will drop down into soul and sing our way back."

Rhiannon offers technical skills to develop strength, dexterity, range, and endurance, along with emotional work to free the voice. "Working alone, in pairs, and in ensemble," she continues, "we will learn to let go in the moment and sing what we believe. Learning to play with improvisational energy, we can begin to experience our voice as our partner, playmate, and soul mate, and move into new levels of joy and creativity."

This workshop is open to all levels of vocal experience and inexperience. All that is required is your commitment to singing in your body and going to your personal edge. $795

Weekend of December 5-7

Introduction to Gestalt Practice

Dorothy Charles

The Way, when declared
Seems so thin and flavorless.
Nothing to look at, nothing to hear—
And when used—is inexhaustible.

—LAO TZE

Gestalt practice is a form—nonanalytic, noncoercive, nonjudgmental—evolving out of the work of Fritz Perls. The work integrates ways of personal clearing and development that are both ancient and modern. To the extent that awareness is made primary relative to action, Gestalt practice has a strong relationship to some forms of meditation and visualization. This form is similar to some Reichian work as well, in that emotional and energetic release and rebalancing are allowed and encouraged.

The emphasis is intrapersonal rather than interpersonal. It is explicitly understood that participants are not patients but persons actively consenting to work (or play) in awareness. The leader functions to reflect, clarify, and respect whatever emerges in this process. The aim is unfoldment, wholeness, and growth, rather than adjustment, cure, or accomplishment. Although open seat work may be demonstrated, this introductory workshop will primarily consist of group exercises, meditations, and discussions that gave participants a flavor of this awareness practice.

Recommended reading: Perls, Gestalt Therapy Verbatim; Chodron, The Wisdom of No Escape.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

$425

Stronger at the Broken Places: Relationship Challenges as Initiatary Experiences

Charlie Bloom & Linda Bloom

The mind seeks an easy relationship.
The heart seeks a spiritual partner.

Many factors draw us into relationships: physical attraction, a desire for intimacy, financial concerns, to name a few. Then there are our deeper, often unconscious agendas. These matters of the heart are usually less apparent, although certainly no less compelling. A soul mate is someone with whom we can learn the lessons that require mastery in order for our deeper purposes to be fulfilled. These lessons have to do with freeing ourselves from limiting patterns of behavior and beliefs that interfere with our ability to be free, whole, and loving beings.

This process of liberation often pits us against challenges that stretch our capacities, that confront us with unhealed wounds and incompletion with which we can best come to terms in the context of relationship. This is the deeper purpose of relationships: to compel us to go beyond the edges of our familiar reality and into the terrain of the unknown. Each time we successfully move into and through these painful ordeals of the heart we grow stronger and more whole, claiming increasingly larger aspects of ourselves and bringing us to progressively higher levels of consciousness.

In this workshop, participants will be shown how to embrace and take full advantage of the teachings that relationships provide for us as we strengthen the capacity to stand more firmly and openly in the face of the fire. Singles as well as couples are welcome. $425

The Art of Leadership: Communication, Creativity, Vision

Ron Alexander

In the beginner’s mind there are many possibilities
While in the expert’s mind there are few.

—SUZUKI

This workshop is for individuals who are interested in exploring an intensive experiential process for becoming more effective leaders in both their personal and professional life settings. It is appropriate for entrepreneurs, executives, managers, and others committed to improving their communication and leadership skills, and especially intended for those open to doing deep personal work to transform the self and thereby become more effective and productive in their leadership style. The major areas of focus will be: resolving conflict, developing trust with those who feel threatened, addressing blind spots in self-esteem, healing blocks in creativity, and building support for transforming vision into reality.

The workshop is primarily experiential and will include Gestalt open seat work, sharing feedback on leadership and communication styles, improving coaching skills, developing the unconscious to creatively solve problems, and role-playing and problem-solving exercises for real-life work situations.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

$425

Self-Healing through Bodywork and Movement

Meir Schneider

We have within ourselves the power to create ever-increasing health and well-being and to overcome degenerative conditions. Many illnesses are the result of very limited, constricted movement, circulation, and breath. By changing these patterns, we can regenerate our bodies. —MEIR SCHNEIDER

Meir Schneider will introduce his practices of self-healing—subtle movement, breathing, relaxation, self-massage, and vision exercises—in order for each person to get in touch with his/her body. The effects of both correct and incorrect movement will be discussed. Imagery will be introduced to help free up physical limitations and the restricted concepts of health which accompany them.

Schneider's self-healing methods have been helpful with a variety of stress- and lifestyle-related diseases, as well as other degenerative conditions, among them:

- Arthritis, both osteo- and rheumatoid
- Spine problems, including scoliosis, sciatica, degenerated disks, and osteoporosis
- Vision problems, from near- and farsightedness to macular degeneration
- Neurovascular ailments such as multiple sclerosis and muscular dystrophy
- Digestive disorders such as colitis and Crohn's disease
- Respiratory problems such as asthma
- Circulatory problems such as heart disease and diabetes

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

$425

Writing about Self and Family: A Personal Investigation

Jane

"Many of us are feeling the call to create work springing from a deeply personal source of inspiration: our own lives and families," writes Jane. "Whether we are writing memoirs or fiction, this undertaking requires courage and patience as we touch painful as well as joyful memories and learn how to guide them to the written page."

This workshop will explore the importance of personal story, honoring events that are key moments of revelation. It can help you to claim your most powerful life themes and identify ancestral patterns. Key topics of discussion will include:

- Turning self-consciousness into consciousness of self
- Defusing secrets
- Accessing memories, dreams, and visions
- Claiming personal writing rhythms
- Listening to and identifying the many voices within

The workshop will incorporate journal exercises, guided meditations, partnering, and overnight dreaming to further your writing. Please bring a journal and writing materials.

$425

Week of December 7–12

Gestalt Practice

Christine Stewart Price

For workshop description see October 19-24.

$795
Living a Spiritual Life in a Practical World

Judyth Weaver

"Spirituality for me is not about adhering to any religion or ism," writes Judyth Weaver. "It is about bringing more awareness and sensitivity to our daily processes, restoring the natural balance of body, mind, and spirit, reclaiming the aliveness that is our birthright, and integrating and using it in the world."

Using traditional practices such as Zazen, Vipassana, Qi Gong, and Tai Chi Ch'uan, and nontraditional forms such as sensory awareness and inner movement, Judyth will guide participants in performing the normal activities of everyday life in more conscious ways. Using breath, senses, and inner rhythms as guides, participants will practice being present and living one moment at a time. Working from the inside out, group members will create community and explore boundaries to clarify what is needed for authentic, heartfelt living. These explorations can support people in discovering which practices work for them and how to find place for them in their busy lives.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

Dropping the Facade: Cultivating Love in Action

Howard Schechter & Barbara Lee

The leaders write: "Are you experiencing a lack of connection with yourself and others? What is missing in your relationships with friends and family? Would you like to drop the facade that helps you get through some of life's mundane conversations and instead find soul-sharing?"

"In this seminar, we will create an environment that satisfies our need to be fully alive, meeting ourselves and others at a deeper level. Through watching our reactions and judgments, we will learn to see, honor, and love all the ways we have used to separate from ourselves and those around us. We will identify and connect with our authentic self, that part within us which is most deeply meaningful, and confront and honor the less-than-authentic parts which have served us well but which we can now love away.

"Everyone is seeking love, compassion, and acceptance from life. Let's create an environment that nurtures the development of our souls. Let's do it all together, with the support of each other. In five days, through setting the intention to love ourselves and others, we can allow the divine to blossom, bringing us to the point of fulfillment and honoring our true identities—loving, joyful beings."

Discussions, experiential and interactive exercises, and focused guidance will be blended with specific interventions which meet the needs of the individuals and the group. $795

Big Sur Ceramic Alchemy

Noel Mapstead & Keiko Suga

Almost all elements on earth melt at a given temperature. In this workshop participants will experiment with the alchemical changes caused by the forces of heat.
Weekend of December 12–14

Experiencing Esalen
Experiencing Esalen Staff
For workshop description see September 26–28. $425

Living from the Soma: Awakening the Joy of Embodied Being Shiva Rea & Adam Rudolph
Few of us have lost our minds, but most of us have long ago lost our bodies.
— Ken Wilber
The great sea has sent me adrift moving my inward parts with joy.
— Uvanuk

Writers Shiva Rea: "This workshop is a journey dedicated to reclaiming our soma, the Greek word for 'the living body in its wholeness.' Living from the soma describes a state of being where awareness is experienced sensually through the whole body, from the outer world to the core. We often lose contact with the soma under the habit of excessive thinking and interpretation. In this workshop, we will re-member ourselves through the unifying, cross-cultural, cross-time methods of music, movement, and meditation.

"Through extended periods of drumming, rhythmic movement, song and toning, yoga, and somatic meditations, we will release the dam of 'thinking mind' and explore the inner landscape of the soma. From this experience, we will address how our perceptions and relationship to our body can limit or expand our embodied life. Alternative conceptions of the body from somatic, Yogic, and Taoist perspectives will be offered as models of integration.

The dynamic between workshop sessions and free time will be honored as a creative laboratory to explore how living from the soma can enliven our daily life as a form of body-mindfulness.

"This weekend allows us to pause before the holidays to reconnect and unwind as we enter the quiet of Winter."

Taking Better Care of Yourself: An Eclectic Physician’s Guide
Joe D. Goldstrich

There are many simple yet powerful self-help tools that can be extremely useful in preventing and treating a wide range of health-related problems. They include diet and nutrition, nutritional supplements, herbs, and homeopathy.

This workshop will explore a variety of dietary strategies for preventing and treating heart disease: low-fat semi-vegetarian diets similar to those at the Pritikin Center (where Dr. Goldstrich served as chief cardiologist and medical director); the olive oil-based Mediterranean diet for prevention of heart disease and cancer; other therapeautic diets, from raw foods to macrobiotics; and diets for weight management and relief of arthritis pain.

There have been recent breakthroughs in the use of nutritional supplements and antioxidants to prevent and treat heart disease. Participants will be shown how to use these supplements safely and effectively. Other potent healing tools with a long history of safe and beneficial utilization are herbs and homeopathy: Their use for common conditions like colds and flu, trauma symptoms, and poor sleep can be easily learned.

The workshop will cover all of the above, plus other fruits of Dr. Goldstrich's twenty-five years of eclectic explorations in medicine. The work will head in whatever way that may help empower you in your own self-healing.

Recommended reading: Goldstrich, The Best Chance Diet; The Cardiologist's Painless Prescription for a Healthy Heart and a Longer Life; and Healthy Heart—Longer Life. C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67. $425

Mindfulness Meditation: An Introductory Weekend
James Baraz

How much of the time are you present for your own life? Most of us spend more time in our own inner world—worrying about the future, replaying the past, or lost in fantasy—than actually experiencing what life is offering to us right now. The present moment is where we can most directly be intimate with our life—touched by beauty and intimacy, while learning through the difficult lessons on how to truly open our hearts.

Mindfulness—or vipassana—meditation is the practice described by the Buddha for developing wisdom, compassion, and peace by learning to be mindful of what is actually happening in the present moment. Using the breath, body sensations, thoughts, and emotions as objects of attention, we can learn to be more fully awake. When we see directly that the nature of reality is change, we can begin to let go of clinging to the pleasant or avoiding the unpleasant. We become more capable of meeting each situation with spontaneity, fearlessness, and love.

Participants will be introduced to this method of meditation practice and the principles on which it is based. There will be periods of silent sitting and walking meditation as well as discussion. As attention is brought to all activities at Esalen, individuals can continue to develop mindfulness throughout the weekend. This will provide a foundation for applying mindfulness practice to everyday life. C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67. $425

On Being with Children and Adolescents
Violet Oaklander, Felicia Carroll & Eduardo Eizner

The children we create today become the society we create tomorrow. This workshop is designed for parents, professionals, and people who would like to support the development of a healthier family and society by improving their relationship with children and adolescents.

Using Gestalt practice and interactive games, participants will have an opportunity to rediscover themselves by getting in touch with their own values, feelings, and thoughts—and by learning how to communicate them clearly and effectively.

This educational and experiential workshop will teach participants tools to improve communication, parenting skills, and awareness and acceptance of differences in their relationship with young people, thereby promoting growth and self-responsibility. $425

Week of December 14–19
Esalen will be closed to the public during these five days.

Weekend of December 19–21

Relationship: A Spiritual Journey
Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

Relationships present profound opportunities for personal development and spiritual fulfillment. Healthy relationships are the foundation of healthy families and ultimately a healthy society. If we embrace the challenges of our relationships they become great teachers, mirrors reflecting back to us unseen and often rejected parts of ourselves. Relationships provide the opportunity to experience both our greatest pain and joy. The challenge of our spiritual journey is to:

- Open ourselves to all life—suffering and joy, success and failure, gain and loss
- Fully acknowledge to ourselves the truth of who we are
- Choose to commit to living our deepest values and dreams
- Make powerful choices that actualize these values and dreams

This experiential workshop is designed for all those who wish to look deeply into themselves and their lives through their relationships: fathers and mothers, daughters and sons, lovers and partners. Come alone or together. You will have the opportunity to heal old wounds, learn new skills to help you in troubled times, and actively create the heartfelt and spiritual relationships you desire.

In a supportive and safe environment, the workshop will draw from Gestalt, Reichian work, dance, imagery, meditation, and breathwork to make it easier to express your truth and take responsibility for your feelings.

C.E. credit for psychologists pending; see page 68.
C.E. credit available for MFCCs and LCSWs; see page 68.

$425

The Sly Winks of Fate

Phil Cousineau & Valerie Andrews

Character is fate.

—HERACLITUS

What is our fate? Do we have a unique destiny? What is the relationship between soul and fate? What are the 'sly winks of fate,' and how can we recognize them?

In a world reeling with scientific changes and trembling with upheaval in our spiritual traditions, individuals can find it more difficult than ever to realize their special path in life. This workshop will explore the mysterious and often startling ways our fate is revealed at the turning points in our lives. Through storytelling, music, and discussion, the workshop will consider the immortal questions of fate and destiny, free will versus the will of the gods, and the relationship between individual fate and the fate of the community.

Special emphasis will be given to those soulful "winks from fate," as James Hillman refers to them, the hints about our "true calling" by way of dreams, creative inspiration, intuition, the influence of mentors, and especially synchronicity, the phenomenon of "meaningful coincidence" that so often acts as a guide to destiny.

The weekend will be highlighted by the use of film clips to illustrate images of soul and fate; slides from Phil Cousineau’s travels to show the ancient function of revealing fate at sacred sites; and guided journal exercises with Valerie Andrews.

Together these elements will emphasize Joseph Campbell’s advice for those asking deep questions about their personal destiny: "Follow your fascinations." $425
Exploring the World of Lucid Dreaming

Stephen LaBerge

Dreams are worlds of wonder where anything imaginable can happen. Ordinarily, however, we sleep through our nightly journeys, unaware of the opportunities available.

We are not bound to forever sleepwalk through our dreams. Lucid dreams are dreams in which we know we are dreaming while we're dreaming. While lucid, we can be fully conscious that the dreamworld is a mental creation, and that we are free to act in the dream unconstrained by laws of physics or society.

People can develop the skill of lucid dreaming and research has shown that it can profoundly affect our brains and bodies. Participants will be taught how to induce lucid dreaming and explore its many uses: self-exploration, creative problem-solving, enhancing self-confidence, healing, adventure, and self-integration.

The seminar will extend beyond dreaming to investigate our experience of the world and our perceptions of "reality". It will explore the concept that all perceptions are illusory and that waking reality is, like dreaming, a mental construction.

The workshop will combine lecture and experiential exercises. It is intended for avid dreamers and people interested in self-exploration and the enhancement of consciousness.

Recommended reading: LaBerge, Lucid Dreaming: LaBerge & Rheingold, Exploring the World of Lucid Dreaming.

A Solstice Celebration: A Christmas Gift to Yourself

Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita)

Compassion comes through loving ourselves so completely that in our fullness we naturally extend the sweet nectar of our lives to others.

— TIger WIndwalkER, Walk in Beauty

Laura DeNuccio writes: "With the embrace of Winter at hand, the solstice arrives to announce the return of the light. Simultaneously, Nature enters her resting season, moving within to replenish and regenerate."

"We, too, journey inward to experience regeneration and renewal. This is a time to shine the light of inquiry into the inner aspects of our being that have been neglected or overlooked. Faced with busy schedules and demanding needs of others, give yourself permission to take 'sacred' time—because you are deserving."

"Especially sensitive to the needs of caregivers and those in service of others, this course will provide an opportunity to reconnect with Self. Through exploring the art of self-care, a body-oriented process, we bring substance and integrity to the idea of enlightened self-interest. This process encourages deep listening through the use of meditation, Gestalt practice, exploration of breath, regenerative movement, sound, dance, and earth ritual.

"As the light increases on this solstice, let us brighten the light of healing and celebration that is our destiny as conscious human beings."

Suggested reading: Myss, Anatomy of the Spirit; Robbins, Reclaiming Our Health; Kornfield, A Path with Heart.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

$425

Spontaneous Fiber Design

Mercedes Shriver

This adventure in painting on fabric is a workshop designed to stimulate and free the creative spirit. To begin, you will be guided through a meditation and stretch to clear the mind and energize creativity. You will then be led through an exploration of the wonders of spontaneously applying color to large pieces of fabric, using natural dyes and various techniques. Self-expression will be evoked through feelings, movement, and specific exercises.

"Painting from the creative spirit is a sacred journey into self," writes Mercedes Shriver. "This workshop will be light and loving and playful. We will also have created beautiful art fabrics to frame or wear.

Fabrics will be provided by the leader. $425

(plus $40 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

Week of December 21–26

Play, Spontaneity, and Performance Art

Nina Wise

WriteS Nina Wise: "I read once that rats were put in a maze with one path leading to a small room with food, another leading to a room charged with an electrical current, and a third path leading to a room with play things. The rats learned to avoid the electric shock, but the food room and the play room were equally popular. Play, it seems, is as essential to rats as nutrition."

Play is also an integral part of human culture. In tribal societies, people sing, make music, drum, dance, and tell stories as part of their daily lives. With the advent of technology and specialization, we modernized folk have forgotten how to play together. Singers sing, dancers dance, actors act, while the rest of us sit and watch.

This workshop is about remembering how to dance, how to sing, how to tell stories about our lives, how to make it up as we go along, how to be together in a way that is lively, spontaneous, and creative. The workshop will include meditation, chanting, relaxation, movement, singing, writing, drawing, and theater games. There will also be spontaneous performance with and for each other in a safe and supportive environment.

December 21–28

Painting the Soulscape

Robert Venosa & Martina Hoffmann

This extended painting seminar explores what the leaders call Serendipitous Exploitation, "an emotional outpouring of color and seemingly abstract form, followed by studied, individualistic detailing." Using
Born into a family of healers with a generations-old tradition, Maria Lucia studied with healers in her native Brazil, where spiritism—receiving healing knowledge from the spirit world—is a practice familiar to much of the population. Having also lived and studied at Esalen for nine years, she applies both Brazilian and North American approaches to healing.

Participants can learn how to practice and refine this approach, as well as experience the personal benefits that come from receiving this work. The workshop is designed for bodyworkers, therapists, health professionals, and anyone interested in working with energy and people's bodies.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

The Road Best Traveled: Reinforcing Life Purpose and Direction
Mel Kimura-Bucholtz

"The road best traveled," writes Mel Kimura-Bucholtz, "is the one that reflects the best of us. This seminar is a way station, where we meet to look at how we have come the distance up until now, and how we've brought our natural sensibilities into life along the way. We hold these questions up to ourselves: What are my truest, simplest feelings of vitality, joy, beauty, and awe? How can I live reflecting these qualities?"

"We start by discovering our own stillness, the lens of attention used to focus on our life. From here we engage recognition, using it to grasp the vital and imaginative experiences of our lives. Then we begin to practice crafting, forging our own style of expression to take hold of our inner discoveries and carry them into life-affirming action."

"In this way we can start to fulfill the twin mandates of life: first, creativity is the ultimate act of personal responsibility; and second, authentic expression is being community, not just maintaining relationships but actually being related. This leads to the practice of feeling centered (rather than being self-centered), a feeling of meeting the aliveness of others while creating vibrant, imaginative realities from within ourselves."

"The road best traveled is grounded in recognizing, and crafting, the best of us into living expression. Rediscovering our basic way of doing this creates the way ahead."

Kabbalah, Consciousness, and Life Process
Rabbi Steven Fisdel & Gerald S. Cohen

In an in-depth examination of some of the core beliefs within the Jewish mystical tradition, Rabbi Steven Fisdel and Gerald S. Cohen combine the new directions emerging from current scientific research with the models of consciousness central to the ancient Hebrew mystical texts of the Kabbalah. The workshop explores the relationship of the physical, psycho-emotional, and spiritual processes of our lives to the nature and structure of consciousness itself. The underlying premise of this work is that the Kabbalistic Tree of Life is the universal paradigm for all of Creation.

Much of our life experience is predicated on and molded by the deep conditioning we receive on the psychological, emotional, and physical levels. Only by accessing and understanding the broader patterns of consciousness can our life processes and conscious reality be more easily recognized, analyzed, and constructively remodeled.

This workshop provides participants with a clear, concise understanding of the Kabbalistic model of human consciousness, as well as direct experience with its application to daily life. Among the areas presented are first-hand demonstration of the various diagnostic uses of the Tree of Life, the use of ancient tonal patterning, and group processing and discussion. Meditation sessions will be led daily by Rabbi Fisdel, utilizing different practices drawn from the Kabbalah.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

Weekend Massage Intensive
Vicki Topp & Dean Marson

Esalen massage is a unique form of bodywork that is continually evolving. In this workshop quality of touch, breath awareness, experiential anatomy, and developmental movement will provide participants with the fundamental elements and skills necessary to give a pleasurable and effective Esalen massage. The weekend will integrate massage and the magic of the Big Sur coast to allow the opportunity to replenish the spirit and reconnect with the healing power of nature. This workshop is for beginners as well as those more experienced with somatics and bodywork.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.
The Sources of Growth
Seymour Carter

Many potential sources of our growth reside in our unfinished issues, the developmental processes that we have failed to recognize and assimilate because of distressing life experiences or the inability to learn about them. "Unfinished issues" refers to normal phases of development which have been bypassed or ignored. It is unfortunate but true that most families emphasize some of our attributes and ignore or discourage others. These unclaimed potential talents, tendencies, and traits are a powerful reservoir within us waiting to be tapped.

Using a primarily Gestalt-oriented process, supported by the tools of family systems theory, practices of introspection, and body-oriented intervention strategies, participants can begin to discover and utilize capacities in themselves for new possibilities in their lives. Each participant's process of development will be honored, encouraged, and treated as unique.

Baking at the Big House
Robin Burnside

What is the irresistible magnetism that draws hundreds of otherwise purposeful Esalen visitors to spend long hours hanging around the Lodge breadbaskets and then find their way back to the bountiful Esalen bakery?

Find out during a flour-dusted weekend of fun and baking in Esalen's Big House kitchen. The workshop will explore various ways to combine wholesome basic ingredients using traditional methods and new ideas to create tasty treats, both sweet and savory.

Participants will learn how to bake fabulous breads, pies, tarts, and cakes with the finest and freshest ingredients available. Daily harvests from Esalen's garden and farm will provide beautiful embellishments for wonderful creations.

Recipes will be shared, along with techniques to improvise beyond them and "find your own way" with the food.

Clearing Our Vision for the New Year
Paul Rebillot & Audrey Savage

"I think one of the most disturbing ways to begin a new year is with a hangover," writes Paul Rebillot. "If, as some say, the first day sets the tone for the coming year, wouldn't it be better to meet the New Year with clear eyes—with wakeful rather than darkened consciousness? Wouldn't it be agreeable to spend a few days before the New Year dealing with, letting go of, saying good-bye ritually to the time past and then preparing the ground for the new?"

"We will take time to find the meaning of the last year, and to position that in relationship to the whole last period of our lives, working through any incomplete gestals—crying, laughing, singing, dancing through whatever.
needs to be finished before the New Year begins.

"Together we will celebrate a ritual of welcoming in 1998, not with resolutions but by planting a seed for the next year of life, perhaps even for the next phase of life. Through guided fantasy, art, and movement, we will awaken from the seed a vision for the New Year, identifying our inner resources and our outer helpers in realizing that vision. We will also explore the ways in which we might sabotage that vision, what we can do to prevent that sabotage, and so clear a path to the realization of our goals."

Five-Day Massage Intensive

Oliver Bailey & Char Pias

This massage workshop explores the fundamental elements of bodywork: grounding, centering, breath awareness, touch sensitivity, and intention. A hands-on approach will combine a balance of long, integrative strokes with detailed attention to specific areas of the body. There will be emphasis on discussion and modeling of boundaries and trust with respect to the client’s physical and emotional well-being. Meditation and movement will be included, as they enhance the connection between client and practitioner.

This workshop is for beginning bodyworkers and those interested in learning some new approaches to massage.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

$795

Healing the Emotional/Spiritual Body: The Rubenfeld Synergy* Method

Ilana Rubenfeld

This workshop is for people who want to learn how to listen to the messages, memories, and feelings locked in their bodies. Ilana Rubenfeld will introduce and demonstrate the Rubenfeld Synergy Method, a holistic system that integrates Alexander Technique, Feldenkrais Method®, Ericksonian hypnosis, and Gestalt practice.

Each day will include: body-mind exercises to relax, stretch, and to heighten awareness; hands-on teaching to develop intuitive, gentle touch; discussions and demonstrations; and music and humor. The workshop community will become an active culture for learning and growth focused on:

- The interdependence of emotions and posture
- Healing the wounds of dysfunctional families
- Moving beyond therapeutic techniques toward intuitive wisdom
- Dreams and metaphors that reveal life patterns
- Developing a sense of humor
- Honoring the sacred within

"The body is the sacred sanctuary of the soul," says Ilana. "Care for it like a flower garden." In this workshop she will demonstrate the possibility of achieving emotional, physical, and spiritual integration.

Recommended reading: Rubenfeld, Twenty-Five Years of Simple (available through The Rubenfeld Center, 115 Waverly Place, New York, NY 10011).

$795

Blow on the Coal of the Heart: A Writing Workshop

Elaine Hughes

In his play "J.B.", Archibald MacLeish tells the story of Job's miseries. Having lost everything, Job and his wife, Sarah, find their way together in the darkness. Job tells Sarah that it's too dark for them to see which way to go. Her answer ends the play: "Blow on the coal of the heart/And we'll see by and by...."

We, too, can blow on the coal of the heart and light a meaningful path for ourselves for the coming New Year. Through the power of writing, we can give ourselves compassionate attention and discover what is true and uniquely ours. These five days together will be used to write intensively, to feel the power in our own words by reading aloud what we've written, to savor the gifts of reflection, solitude, and communion. For added inspiration, the group will focus on some of MacLeish's most evocative lines from "J.B.", then respond in writing by exploring the far reaches of the heart and the imagination.

Says Elaine Hughes: "Expect to remember, to recapture, to reexperience; expect to cry and laugh, to be moved and surprised. Through guided meditations, visualizations, memory recall, sense perceptions, and body-wisdom exercises, we will seek all that is human within us to discover the heart's illuminated truths."

Please bring a favorite notebook and several types of pens.

$795

Fire and Soul: Living Your Purpose and Passion

Genny Davis

Healing is nothing more than a return to wholeness.

—DEEPAK CHOPRA

 Writes Genny Davis: "Wholeness is the desired and vibrational state of our true being. It must be embodied into our full consciousness in order to achieve good health, a satisfying career, financial comfort, and, most importantly, our purpose and passion.

"We came into this world whole. We have a cellular memory of that. When returning to our soul's memory of wholeness, a deepening of consciousness naturally occurs. The histories and experiences—both our own and our ancestors—carried within our bodies and minds are transformed into the essential integrity of our authentic nature.

"This workshop will interweave the seven universal laws, the seven chakras, the healing arts of meditation, hands-on healing, movement, sacred ceremonies, and individual and group experiences. Through this alchemical blend, you can learn to transcend limitations, awaken the path of your heart, and move into your soul's vibration and cellular intelligence to embody your full potential. I welcome all of you who are going through transitions and wish to have more meaning, depth, passion, and intimacy in your relationships, lifework, and unique path."

Recommended reading: Davis, Heart of Healing and Fire and Soul: Living Your Purpose and Passion.

$795

Weekend of January 2-4

Creative Arts Center at Esalen

Arts Center Staff

For workshop description see September 14-19.

$425

Music for Everyone: Finding Your Long-Lost Musician

David Darling

David Darling's magical work with late bloomers, nonprodigies, professional musicians, and “burned-out” teachers has been opening hearts to the mystery of sound for the past two decades. "Music for Everyone" is an adventure into music making, rhythmic grooving, song writing, laughing, and listening.
Regardless of prior experience, this workshop can take you to a deeper, more powerful music level. Bring an instrument or play on David's collection of world instruments. $425

Applied Wisdom: Universal Truths of the World’s Religions

Huston Smith

The quest for a deeper understanding of life's meaning than common sense affords seems to be built into the human makeup. Drawing on his half-century of exploring experientially the world's great wisdom traditions, Huston Smith—who was featured on Bill Moyers' five-part PBS series, “The Wisdom of Faith with Huston Smith”—will identify the conclusions they share about the final nature of things and the way life can best be lived in that context. $425

Week of January 4–9

Entering the Dreamtime, Body and Soul

Jeremiah Abrams

In the last analysis, most of our difficulties come from losing contact with our instincts, with the age-old unforgotten wisdom stored up in us. And where do we make contact with this old man or old woman in us? In our dreams. —C.G. Jung

Jeremiah Abrams says: “Consensual reality floats on a vast mythopoetic ocean, the dreamtime, which is present and available to us at all times. We are dreaming during wakefulness and during sleep.

“What we dream reflects forward and backward on everyday waking reality. The ability to move easily between these two worlds, from ego to soul—once the exclusive province of mystics and poets, madmen and shamans—has become a vital necessity in a world suffering from myoplaness. There is a call in each of us to walk the way of visions, to enter the dreamtime, and, as Jung said, to ‘dream the myth onward.’

“In this experiential workshop we will take the soul’s visionary journey, learning together to incarnate the realities of the Self. My approach is a synthesis of the soul-centered view of Jungian archetypal psychology and the psychospiritual shaman’s journey.

“First, we ground the body using methods of bioenergetics and focused bodywork. Then we enter and reenter the dreamtime through visualization, trance, breath, music, movement, artwork, dream interpretation, and a ceremonial purification (sweat) lodge, crossing the threshold back and forth, becoming walkers between two worlds. We will end with a ritual celebration, weaving the individual dreaming together into a collective dream mandala.”

$795

Feeling and Creativity: Reinvigorating (Ad)ventures in Life

Dale Cummings & Karel Samsom

When we liberate our capacity to respond emotionally, new realms of creativity and zest open up to us. Discovering new solutions in private and in work-oriented settings can transform leisure and job activities and enliven our experiences. How these two themes interconnect will be the focus of this workshop.

The workshop will use a neo-Reichian approach to emotional release as well as play, art, music, dance, and discussion to tap into feelings and creative capacities. A period of individual Radix work in a small group setting will provide a safe environment of emotional support and release. As negative feelings are worked through, active creativity can emerge.

Dale Cummings, a neo-Reichian counselor, and Karel Samsom, a teacher of creativity, innovation, and entrepreneurship, have for many years integrated these themes into their personal and professional lives. Through their focus on feelings and creativity, this workshop offers encouragement and practical ideas to reinvigorate personal and work experiences and to pursue exciting ideas and new (ad)ventures in daily life.

Recommended reading: Cameron, The Artist’s Way. $795
To Be Ripe to Die, To Be Ready to Live
Stehle Miller & Edmundo Barbosa

Many cultures, including traditional Judeo-Christian ones, believe that we must prepare as mercifully and with as much discipline, passion, and imagination for our afterdeaths as we do for our lives. These cultures hold that by understanding what may well come next, the lived life can be enhanced. The mini- and micro-“deaths” within our normally lived lives—the death of a marriage, of a dream, of a loved one—become doorways to major change and to the unknown: perhaps the true potential, the place of hope, compassion, delight, and mystery.

The workshop will be both a report on the findings of the Institute for the Study of the Afterdeath and an experiential adventure into the systems of several different cultures. As a community, the group will explore belief systems where the line between the living and the dead is thin. As individuals, participants will explore together the images each of us consciously and unconsciously holds of what lies beyond, and will seek to expand these images to magnify the possibilities of our lived lives.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

Touched by Beauty: Photography in Big Sur
Daniel Bianchetta & Cynthia Johnson-Bianchetta

Write Cynthia and Daniel: “When the morning sunlight dances across the waters of the Pacific with a jewel-like glow, when the breeze rustles the leaves of a tree, as the flowing stream swirls around rocks on its path to the sea, when the sun sets and offers yet another unfailingly abundant painting in the sky, we just might find ourselves pausing to receive the wonder of how our soul continues to be filled, renewed, and touched, if we allow it to each day.

“Beauty is all around us. When we bring the camera to our eye, our witnessing of this beauty is recorded and our soul says ‘Yes!’ When we share these images with others, we share not only the beauty of nature, but also the beauty that is within us, an act that can deeply convey to the viewer a glimpse into our soul. In that moment souls can touch. In our busy, fast-paced lives our souls hunger for beauty to touch the soul.’

What to bring: A 35mm camera with a built-in light meter, a tripod (optional), plenty of film of your choice, a journal, and any additional art supplies you might like to explore with.

Weekend of January 9-11
Experiencing Esalen
Experiencing Esalen Staff
For workshop description see September 26-28.

The Heart of Sports Massage
David Streeter

“In this week together,” writes David Streeter, "we will focus on the most powerful and effective techniques that have evolved from contemporary sports massage and explore the power within our own bodies as we practice these techniques. This essential knowledge is drawn from the internal martial arts and shiatsu where the internal power of the practitioner is fully utilized. In this way it is possible to apply deep tissue, trigger point, and cross-friction massage without strain, fatigue, or injuries to our own hands, arms, or backs. Demonstrations and lectures will be brief and to the point: We will move to the table and practice with as much personal instruction as possible.”

This workshop is designed to give each student the tools and the confidence he or she needs to work deeply and effortlessly. The techniques are uncomplicated and will be of great value to anyone with a sincere interest in the art of massage.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

Tao of Saging
Chungliang Al Huang

We begin aging at infancy. But until we reach middle age, the shock of aging is never properly addressed by most people. This seminar focuses on a new way of looking at this inevitable process with equanimity, integrity, humor, and realism. With characteristic insight and skill, Chungliang will guide participants through a saging dance of living. Using the Tai Ji yin-yang sign to illustrate this paradigm of aging, he will trace the “S” curve within the symbol as the saging path—from birth to midlife—then trace it back again to complete the “whole picture” of life.

Through saging, this living process can prove to be joyfully alive, creative, and constantly enriching. The workshop will combine thoughtful philosophical discussions with enlivening disciplines of daily practice. Come join the dance!

New Poems: By Ear
Sharon Olds

This is an intensive gathering for the writing and hearing of new poems. There will be no writing exercises or assignments, and, during each session, no xeroxed copies. (Copies will, however, be available at the end of each session.) Over the weekend, participants will strive to write three first drafts more true and alive than what they have written before.

Sharon Olds has received a San Francisco Poetry Center Award, a National Book Critics Circle Award, a Lamont Award from the Academy of American Poets, and grants from the NEA and the Guggenheim Foundation.

To apply, please send a letter with your name and address, and three to five pages of recent poems, typed (no dot-matrix, please). Do not include a SASE; poems will not be returned. Send them to Olds Poetry Workshop, c/o Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920. Your poems must be received by November 1, 1997. Participants will be notified of their acceptance by November 22, 1997.

Recommended reading: Olds, Satan Says; The Dead and the Living; The Gold Cell; The Father; and The Wellspring.

Discovering Your Psychic Gifts
Judith Orloff

We all have psychic gifts. The magic comes in awakening them and trusting their guidance in our lives. In this workshop, Dr. Judith Orloff, who is a Board-certified psychiatrist, shares her journey from being a psychic child, alone with abilities she didn't understand, to becoming a respected psychiatrist and psychic who defies medical taboos.

Dr. Orloff will teach you to develop your natural psychic abilities, including how to:
- Recognize psychic experiences in everyday life
- Increase clairvoyance
- Discover psychic empathy
- Deepen healing skills
- Tune into messages the body is sending
- Record and interpret dreams
- Listen to psychic guidance in decision making
- Clarify and strengthen spiritual beliefs

She will also describe case histories of patients who have been helped by psychic means.

$425

Week of January 11-16

The High-Performance Mind: Awakened Mind Brainwave Training

Anna Wise

For workshop description see September 21-26.

$795

Completions and Transitions

Mary Goldenson (Devarani)

Often in our lives we feel incomplete with the past. Unresolved issues inhibit our moving into the present with an open and generous heart. Though we experience them as “finished;” old memories continue to haunt us. When we exist more in the past than in the present, it is time to make the distinction between “finished” and “complete.” Transitions without completions foster unsuccessful marriages, friendships, and careers—producing the causes of illness and sorrow. The inability to forgive keeps us closed to new opportunities entering into our lives.

Transitions are crossroads in our lives that give us the opportunity to finish and complete the past, reconnect with our present truth, and renew our passion, courage, and commitment for the future. The focus of this workshop is an in-depth review of our lives, relationships, and circumstances to discover what needs to be transformed from “finished” to “complete.”

The workshop will provide a safe, supportive environment that includes risk taking, intense bodywork, gestalt, imagery, movement, and meditation to keep us committed to the process of discovering ourselves.

C.E. credit available for psychologists; see page 68.

C.E. credit available for MFCCs and LCSWs; see page 68.

$795

The Monkey in the Mirror: Skill, Poise, and the Use of the Self

Chungliang Al Huang, Joan Murray & Alexander Murray

This workshop is a special blend of the teachings of the Alexander Technique and Tai Ji, integrated with an evolutionary perspective inspired by the genius of E.M. Alexander, pioneering body researcher Raymond Dart, and Lao Tzu. It is an opportunity to experience the child within the adult—and the “monkey” within the child.

The Alexander Technique is a process of physical reeducation, a means of discovering more about the self by developing greater awareness of how the body moves and feels. Chungliang Al Huang has collaborated with Joan Murray and Alexander Murray, master teachers of the Alexander Technique, for over two decades. Together at Esalen for the first time, they will combine the most insightful and effective of East-West approaches in their practice.

Using the disciplines of meditative martial arts, hands-on one-to-one teaching and learning, and joyful, spontaneous movement and music, they will assist participants toward the goal of a breakthrough in body-mind awareness of alignment and inner balance—and toward self-transformation.

Recommended reading and viewing: Huang, Embrace Tiger, Return to Mountain and Living Tao videos (217-337-6113); E.M. Alexander, The Use of the Self; De Alcantara, Indirect Procedures.

$795

Chakra Integration: A Dynamic Approach to Health and Healing

Laurie Lioness Parizek

Chakra integration is a complete and effective way to understand and balance our physical, emotional, and spiritual energies. Chakras are vital, life-enhancing energy centers that have their roots deep in our core. Backed up by nerve plexuses and endocrine glands, they help to shape the energy field and are a three-dimensional energetic system of the body.

When integrated, they refine the mainstream current in the central nervous system and bring balance to all the major systems of the body. An understanding of the chakras is useful for addressing and healing old, restrictive behavior patterns.

This workshop will incorporate supportive hands-on exchanges, movement, awareness exercises, and work with color, light, sound, and breath. The focus will be to balance the chakras and the mainstream spinal current, and to gently and consciously open this “channel that connects heaven and earth through our bodies.” The workshop will integrate personal and interactive healing work with gentle energetic touch. Meditation will be used to encourage serenity and a deeper personal understanding of the chakras.

The workshop is open to everyone. It is useful for those in the fields of health care and education. Please bring your favorite music or instrument.

Recommended reading: Judith, Wheels of Life; Haas, Staying Healthy with the Seasons; Brennan, Hands of Light.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

$795

Big Sur Clay Miniatures

Noel Mapstead & Keiko Suga

This miniature pottery workshop is an alchemical winter blend of four basic elements: Earth, Water, Fire, and Fun. Imagine yourself engrossed in:
- Primordial Big Sur clay oozing between your fingers
- Pottery making on a Pacific beach
- Nights around fires of glowing cow dung, seaweed, and clay
- Making beads in the dark of a sweat lodge
- Slathering your body in wet clay and bathing in Esalen's hot springs

Starting with ostensibly valueless natural materials, participants will learn to fashion beautiful objects—figurines, miniature pots, tea and sake cups, perfume bottles—within an alchemical environment that includes risk taking, intense bodywork, gestalt, imagery, movement, and meditation to keep us committed to the process of discovering ourselves.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

$795
No previous experience is required. This workshop is a total immersion into the potter's world—and a chance to make beautiful objects for those you love.

You can e-mail Noel and Keiko at mapstead@ix.netcom.com

$795

Weekend of January 16-18

Intuition and the Dance of Attention
Randy Cherner & Anne Armstrong
For workshop description see October 5-10.

$425

'Tis a Gift To Be Simple
David Schiffman
For workshop description see September 5-7.

$425

Grief: A Path to Wholeness
Frank Ostaseski
Along the path of healing, we are inevitably called upon to meet our grief. Grief can be thought of as the armorung around our hearts, that which keeps us separate from ourselves and others. It is a natural response not only to what we have had and lost but also to what we never got to have. It is more than sadness. Grief manifests as numbness, anger, world-weariness, self-judgment, fear, loneliness, guilt, and shame.

Acknowledging our grief is the first stage of healing. Gently exploring the territory with mercy and awareness, opening with tenderness to our grief, we may discover that what seemed so untouchable can be cradled in the arms of compassion. The willingness to even approach our grief begins to melt the isolation we feel. Gradually we reawaken to our whole self, to the wholeness of life.

This workshop is open to all those who have experienced loss. With the nurturing beauty of Esalen, access to professional massage, and the regenerative hot baths, it is an opportunity to rest and recover. There will be periods of silence and experiential exercises to open what is closed and uncover what is hidden.

With the support of a like-minded group, participants can share stories of loss to discover common ground and the connective tissue of grief. Meditations on forgiveness and compassion will help to release the pain of old holdings, and ritual will help to honor and begin the integration of loss.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

$425

Mixed Matches: Working with Cross-Cultural Couples, Families, and Organizations
Joel Crohn
A quiet revolution is sweeping the world as millions of people defy ancient taboos to form intimate relationships with partners from other cultural, religious, and racial backgrounds. In the romantic phase of these relationships, couples often minimize the significance of their different backgrounds. But the major life cycle events—marriage, birth, and death—reveal what new love had concealed and forces couples to confront the competing demands of love and tradition.

To successfully work with the increasing numbers of cross-cultural couples and families in clinical practice, therapists must develop a framework for understanding the dynamics of intermarriage. This course will describe methods Dr. Crohn has developed for helping couples understand and resolve conflicts growing out of differences in cultural values, religious beliefs, group identity, and communication codes. Participants will develop an increased awareness of their own cultural frames of reference. They will also explore how this clinical model can be adapted for use in resolving intergroup conflict and building cooperation in organizational settings.

The course is appropriate for therapists and counselors working with mixed matches, for individuals involved in cross-cultural relationships, and for organizational consultants.

Recommended reading: Crohn, Mixed Matches: How to Create Successful Interracial, Interethnic, and Interfaith Relationships.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.
C.E. credit available for psychologists; see page 68.
C.E. credit available for MFCCs and LCSWs; see page 68.

$425

Gender, Relationship, and Ritual Transformation: The Dance of the Sun and Moon
Howard Teich & Bruce Silverman
Devoid of appropriate ritual, our "post modern" world requires that we ultimately initiate
Week of January 18-23

Cross-Cultural Shamanic Practices

Angeles Arrien

This workshop will introduce participants to shamanic tools from diverse cultures. Group members will work individually and collectively to honor ancestor spirits and release unhealthy family patterns. Angeles Arrien's work focuses on the universal human qualities of power, love, vision, and wisdom, accessed to increase personal and professional effectiveness. This workshop qualifies as foundation work for Angeles Arrien's Four-Fold Way educational program.

Recommended reading: Arrien, The Four-Fold Way: Walking the Path of the Warrior, Teacher, Healer, and Visionary. $795

Life Energy Process*

Stephano Sabetti

The Life Energy Process (L.E.P.) is a spiritually-oriented body approach to self-development, lifestyle enhancement, and professional growth based on Eastern and Western energy dynamics. Specifically designed micro-movements activate energy vibrations which lead to the release of held emotions, while opening to love and healthy sexuality.

Practice of the Life Energy Process leads naturally to body harmony and emotional balance as well as new possibilities in relationships and professional skills based on the consequences of energy attunement.

Life Energy Process includes: martial arts, dance, theater, massage, yoga, and pool work, among others, depending on group process. The workshop is of particular interest to professionals and mature laypersons who are excited by the integration of theory, pleasure, and hands-on application of energy concepts.

Recommended reading: Sabetti, Wholeness Principle and Waves of Change.

C.E. credit available for psychologists; see page 68.

C.E. credit available for MFCCs and LCSWs; see page 68.

You Don't Have to Be Good

Kim McCourt & Carol LaDue

You do not have to be good.
You do not have to walk on your knees
for a hundred miles through the desert, repenting.
You only have to let the soft animal of your body
love what it loves. — Mary Oliver

By listening to our bodies we can know what is right for us, rather than what we "should" do. We knew this as children but were encouraged to ignore our inner truths and obey the critic. Always having to be "good" restricts and censors the richness of who we are. Buried beneath all the "shoulds" and "don'ts" is a true, wise self that longs for expression.

To get there, the group will play with different doorways to somatic knowing: emotional, visual, auditory, kinesthetic, olfactory, or general sensing. The intention will be to identify which doorway opens up our personal intuitive self, and then go on in.

Using movement and meditation, play and process, art and journal writing, participants will explore the indomitable aliveness beneath the censoring critic and conditioned tendencies. The focus will be listening, accepting, and expressing what is true. The atmosphere will be nonjudgmental and light-hearted. Come explore the entrapments of having to be "good" or "bad." Discover the possibilities that lie beyond this duality.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

$795

Weekend of January 23-25

Kundalini Yoga

Olga Luchakova & Ali Akarta (Igor Kungurtsev)

Write the leaders: "Energy is a dynamic, immanent aspect of the Supreme God-Self. In Hindu tradition, She is worshipped as Shakti, the Goddess, and is considered to be female..."
Powerfully Presenting Yourself
Paula Shaw

Why are some people so cogent and inspiring when they speak? What holds you back from delivering your message? This workshop will explore the inhibitions to self-expression and communication and help you to move beyond them, creating more freedom in both your personal and professional life. It is designed for people who want to develop a more powerful personal and public presentation as well as better professional and business communication skills (e.g., lawyers, doctors, teachers, managers, and consultants).

In an environment of safety and support, you will have the opportunity to experiment with presenting yourself in front of various-sized groups, using your voice, body, and emotional power. There will be in-depth individual and group exercises designed to free you from past blocks to presenting yourself publicly.

Up-front courage, passion, and clarity need not be restricted to rare moments in life. This process can help bring to life the eloquent speaker of your fantasies. You can learn to express yourself more fully and experience the satisfaction of being more authentic, effective, and self-assured.

Expect some irreverent twists and a surprise or two.

Writing About Our Lives
Ellen Bass

Ellen Bass writes: "The philosophy behind this workshop is best expressed by Martha Graham, who said, 'There is a vitality, a life force, an energy, a quickening that is translated through you into action. And because there is only one of you in all time, this expression is unique. And if you block it, it will never exist through any other medium, and be lost. The world will not have it. It is not your business to determine how good it is, nor how valuable, nor how it compares with other expressions. It is your business to keep it yours clearly and directly, to keep the channel open.'"

"This workshop will help keep the channels open. It will be a supportive place to share our lives and work, our voice, our creativity. There will be a lot of time for writing, as well as time for sharing and feedback. From beginners to experienced, all writers are welcomed.

Whether you are interested in poetry, fiction, nonfiction, or journal writing, this workshop will provide an opportunity to explore and expand your world."

Note: Although Ellen Bass is known for her work with survivors of child sexual abuse, the focus of this workshop will not be on healing from trauma. Rather, it is a creative writing workshop in which participants are free to write on any subject they choose.

The Conscious Heart: Seven Shifts of Consciousness that Create Intimacy
Gay & Kathlyn Hendricks

Relationships are the primary arena in which our deepest selves are either concealed or revealed. This workshop is designed for couples, professionals, and singles who are interested in the ability of a close relationship to catalyze the creativity of each person. It has four major purposes: 1) to expand the experience of love past previous limits; 2) to learn to rest in the essence that underlies persons; 3) to learn the power of specific commitments to transform relationships; and 4) to learn simple shifts of consciousness that create and maintain intimacy.

Based on the Hendrickss' experience with over 3000 couples, they will present breath and movement practices that can accelerate the process by which people in close relationships can attain their goals. Participants will work on the transformation of present relationships while exploring three key principles of conscious relationship: living in integrity, claiming creativity, and living in a cycle of appreciation. The workshop will present tools designed to make it easier to tell the truth and take healthy responsibility for feelings and issues.

Among the tools to be used: videotapes, movement processes, breathwork, and dyadic communication exercises.

Recommended reading: G. & K. Hendricks, The Conscious Heart, Conscious Loving, and At the Speed of Life.

C.E. credit for psychologists pending; see page 68.
C.E. credit available for MFCs and LCSWs; see page 68.

Creating a Balanced Life: Finding Your Personal Path
Barbara Larrivee

Do you feel your life whirling out of control? Are you pulled in a thousand directions, unfulfilled, out of balance, constantly trying to juggle the often competing demands of relationships, family, and work? Do you find that the peaceful feeling of being centered comes in fleeting moments and is difficult to sustain? This workshop is for those who want to reclaim control and take charge to customize the flow of their lives.

"In this workshop," writes Barbara Larrivee, "we will take time for reflection to identify what is not working in our lives. By challenging our old storylines and myths we live by, we will work at letting down our defenses and disguises, breaking through the bonds of our assumed roles. We will create a safe space for self-disclosure, authenticity, and risk taking. Participants will be encouraged and supported in listening and speaking from the heart."

This workshop will present tools for enhancing your relationship first with yourself, and subsequently with mates, children, family, friends, and co-workers. By learning to quiet the critical evaluator and cultivate the fair witness, you can become a trusting guardian to yourself. When you align integrity, beliefs, and actions in a balanced way you evoke your own truth and resist being lured down someone else's path. This workshop is about discovering your own personal path.

Recommended reading: Larrivee, Moving into Balance: Creating Your Personal Pathway.
Week of January 25–30

The Practical Art of Creative Risk-Taking
David Schiffman
For workshop description see October 12–17.
$795

Why Is Psychotherapy So Damn Slow and What in the World Can We Do About It
Ron Kurtz & Donna Martin
"This workshop," writes Ron Kurtz, "is for people who do psychotherapy and know it can be much faster and, even more importantly, it can be much more alive. We'll show why it's so damn slow and what we can do about it.

"In the workshop, we'll emphasize experiential methods, supported by ideas from living systems theory and the spiritual practices of mindfulness and non-doing. We'll talk a little theory. We'll do some processing and a dozen or so experiential exercises. You can expect to gain a lot of insight into both psychotherapeutic method and yourself. And you can expect to learn what you'll need in order to change yourself and your way of working to make your work better, faster, and definitely more alive and fun."

The workshop is appropriate for both psychotherapists and interested nonprofessionals.
$795

The MAX: Stretching the Limits of Your Self-Expression
Paula Shaw
"The MAX" is an outrageous voyage through your own humanity—a journey to turn yourself inside out and explore the extent of your self-expressive power. It employs a variety of acting, observation, and communication methods designed to expand your limits "to the max" and move you into a new arena of personal creativity and self-expression.

"The MAX" is extremely challenging. Participants must commit to a rigorous exploration of the sources of their emotional limitations. Seminar hours will be longer than usual early in the week (and shorter later in the week). Participants will work individually in front of the room, playing to and with other group members. There will be exercises that use raw emotion, role-playing, and "dress-up" assignments.

This workshop is an opportunity to experience yourself in a way you may have dreamed about but never imagined possible. The game is risk, the premise: You're either daring or dead—the most unsafe thing you can do in life is to play it safe. This course is not for the faint of heart, but it is full of heart, humor, and irreverence and is constructed with the understanding that this kind of risk taking requires a very safe workspace.

If your heart beats faster when you think of taking this workshop, then maybe it's just the thing to do.

Please note: Due to the intense and sequential nature of this workshop, attendance at all sessions is necessary.

Prerequisite: A 1-3 minute memorized piece—monologue, poem, song, etc.
$795
The Spirits of Esalen: Shamanism and the Powers Within the Land

Carol Proudfoot-Edgar

For all indigenous peoples, the land within which they live is known to be inhabited by many powers. These powers are often called Spirits. They live in the waters, trees, stones, mountains, animals, and sky. Ancestral Spirits also dwell within the land.

People seeking to connect and learn from these Spirits often go to special places because the geographical formations there were thought to possess qualities important for spiritual experience. Especially powerful were those places which contained many margins, where one geographical configuration meets another. Land meets water, mountains touch both earth and sky, rivers run through canyons into the ocean, and wind sweeps strongly over the land.

Esalen is a special place where all these eco-spiritual margins are found. The ancestors who lived there continue to make their presence known and can teach us when we seek to engage with them.

"In this workshop," writes Carol Proudfoot-Edgar, "we will learn how to connect and work with the many Spirits of Esalen. These same methods can be used for contacting the Spirits of our own homeland and its shamanic past.

Activities will include shamanic journeying, trance dancing, mask making, drumming, and chanting. As we gather medicine from the Spirits of Esalen, we also will be honoring and blessing them in the way we work."

Please note: This workshop has a sequential structure. Each session builds on the previous one. Participants are requested to be present for all sessions. Please arrange for massages or other non-workshop activities between session breaks. Please bring a bandanna, or other non-workshop activities between sessions. Please arrange for massages or other non-workshop activities between session breaks. Please bring a bandanna, or other

You can e-mail Carol Proudfoot-Edgar at CEImag1@AOL.com

Weekend of January 30–February 1

The Body: Doorway to Self-Discovery—The Gestalt Practice Approach

Christine Stewart Price

My belief is in the blood and flesh as being wiser than the intellect. The body-conscious is where life bubbles up in us. It is how we know that we are alive, alive to the depths of our souls and in touch somewhere with the vivid reaches of the cosmos.

—D.H. Lawrence

In Gestalt Practice, "feeling" is defined as that which can actually be felt in the body. Awareness of feeling as physical sensation is one of the most effective ways to reach the goals Fritz Perls described as the goals of the gestalt process: to increase aliveness, to have a better ability to cope, and to fill in the holes of our existence. By sensing ourselves as our bodies we may access dimensions of being human that go beyond our ideas of who we think we are.

This workshop will focus on physical sensation as the entry point to knowing ourselves. Using the Gestalt Practice approach, especially in exploration of breath, movement, and sound, participants will explore this inner realm of awareness in all its grit and glory.

Please note: Open seat work will not be a primary part of the workshop.

Rekindling the Spirit in Work

Howard Schechter & Barbara Lee

"Rekindling the Spirit in Work" is about reconnecting with yourself and the work you do. Through creative exercises and sharing with the group, you can gain clarity about your goals in work, the skills required to reach those goals, and a deeper awareness of your strengths. The process can help you to confront and dissolve major blocks to rewarding work and to integrate who you are with what you do. This process is far more effective than narrow vocational perspectives. The emphasis is on the question "Who is working?" By identifying with our highest self, what we do can flow more easily and be a direct expression in the world of who we are inside.

This workshop is for people who are beginning new careers, in transition, dissatisfied, or simply bored with their work. Participants often come away with a sense of clarity and purpose, and seldom feel the need to make radical shifts in job or profession. Rather, the subtle inner adjustments of identity, attitude, and perspective create greater job satisfaction and offer direction for taking the next steps in work.

Recommended reading: Schechter, Rekindling the Spirit in Work.

The Journey from Hopelessness to Faith

Sarah La Saulle & Sharon Kagan

In the course of everyone's life there are times of tremendous despair. People commonly suffer from at least one bout of severe depression in a lifetime. Some individuals feel that they have little to give them a sense of hope, while others seem to remain strong. Neither response is an experience of true faith. It is a mistake to believe that faith only comes as a gift. Before one can reach this state of grace, one must undergo a profound initiation. There are three stages to this rite of passage: 1) the collapse, 2) surrender, 3) the state of grace and faith.

In this workshop, the facilitators will enact a dialogue between the voices of faith and hopelessness. Through retelling the story of their lives, participants can build a body of experience on which to base their faith. Discussions will cover topics such as: a challenge to hopelessness; the core beliefs that govern one's ability to choose between faith and hopelessness; false hope; how faith differs from positive thinking; and faith as an experience.

The workshop will include group discussions, journal writing, storytelling, and art therapy exercises.
Hanna Somatics: Mastery of Muscles and Emotions
Eleanor Criswell Hanna

As we move through life, our bodies become increasingly restricted due to chronic muscle contractions. Thomas Hanna named this sensory-motor amnesia (SMA). We are all vulnerable to SMA, but we can reverse or avoid it. Hanna Somatics, developed by Thomas Hanna, enables us to overcome SMA and some of the negative effects of stress, trauma, and aging. Hanna Somatics also can enhance performance and well-being. When we are somatically free, we can authentically disclose ourselves to others and receive the feedback from our bodies more accurately. We can be free, self-managing, and continuing to develop somatically throughout our lives.

This workshop will explore the neuromuscular responses to emotional states—the somatics way to internal mastery of muscles and emotions—and the joy that comes from the body's renewed awareness and freedom. Guided somatic exercises and individual sessions with practitioners trained by Thomas Hanna will give participants the opportunity to experience this work. The workshop will present:

- How to recognize the basic postural reflex patterns that can become habitual
- How emotions affect muscular contraction patterns
- How muscle contraction patterns affect our somatic disclosures and somatic perception of experiences
- How to recover effective use of the muscles by changing levels of motor control

Recommended reading: Hanna, Somatics, The Body of Life, and Bodies in Revolt.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67. $425

Improvisational Wisdom: Finding the Robin Williams Within
Paula Shaw

The nature of creativity is elusive. Our most creative moments often seem to come from nowhere and happen when we least expect them. Einstein's theory of relativity came to him suddenly and unscientifically, and Mozart saw many of his greatest compositions complete in a single vision. At the other end of the spectrum, we marvel at the lightning-quick humor of Robin Williams, a brilliance that seems boundless. What are the conditions that put us in touch with our own creativity and brilliance, and how do we access them?

This weekend is an introduction to letting go of your programmed patterns and discovering the joy of spontaneous creation. The first premise of improvisational theater games (which Robin Williams claims unleashed him) is to "go in blank." Within the game structures, participants are coached to be receptive—stop, look, and listen; deny nothing; release control; let go of planning ahead. This process can help you to trust your own intuition, sense of humor, eloquence, and physical grace, and lets you get out of your own way to make room for exhilarating flashes of creative brilliance. The workshop is also just a lot of fun. $425
The Incredible Lightness of Being: A Transformational Movement Workshop

Patti (Lawrence) White

We all seek to heal our emotional-mental-spiritual woundings and to function with grace and ease in the world. A clear pathway to this state of grace is to find and release those issues blocking self-empowerment. This workshop offers the tools to achieve this state and to create a lightness of being.

All experience embeds itself in body tissue, which, if left unmoved, can eventually lead to a pervasive sense of heaviness, frequently unrecognized. Using a guided sequence of movements to access the brain, central nervous system, and emotional body, this work will take you on a journey of awareness of your body's connection to life experience, karma, and spirit. By altering your brain-body connection, you can not only change how you move but begin to alter your belief systems as well.

Participants will experience a synthesis of Feldenkrais and CranioSacral movement, blended with Ericksonian hypnosis and dreamwork. The workshop will encompass movement, sound, and restrictive pattern recognition. Meditation, art, dance, and play will be used with Holophonic sound to stimulate brain function. Prepare yourself for a creative journey to find your personal place of self-empowerment, inner peace, and grace.

Recommended reading: Feldenkrais, The Potent Self; Lowen, Spirituality of the Body. $795

Life As A Waking Dream

Diane Kennedy Pike & Arlene Lorraine

What stories do you find yourself telling again and again? What experiences remain most vivid in your memory? What people evoke strong feelings in you? The answers to these questions will help you identify your waking dreams.

During this seminar, you will be taught a new approach—"Life As A Waking Dream"—to uncover the deeper meaning of your life. As you examine everyday experiences as if they were dreams, you can find instruction and guidance offered by your real Self. Clarity will begin to emerge about skills you need to develop, qualities you are ready to cultivate in your self-expression, and new choices that will bring greater harmony to your life. You can find keys to more creative and powerful living, such as having a clear purpose, developing a strong sense of self, learning to recognize and cooperate with the yin and yang polarities of energy, and interpreting symbols.

"Life As A Waking Dream" is based on wisdom teachings and influenced by Jungian psychology. It is a way for those who cannot remember their dreams to tap into the wisdom and insight of dream analysis. Bring your journal.

The schedule will include movement, meditation, laughter, tears, moments of resistance and amazing discovery. With support and guidance, participants will write in and out of the group, read, and discuss pertinent material. More than skill, enthusiasm for the writing process and a heart open to surprise are the primary requirements.

Recommended reading: Chodron, The Wisdom of No Escape. $795

Weekend of February 6-8

The Life We Are Given

Michael Murphy & George Leonard

Like the human heart, the world points beyond itself to something greater and more beautiful. Tha...
This workshop will include simple movement exercises, meditation, storytelling, and unbridled metaphysical speculation. Murphy and Leonard will report on their two-year experiment in Integral Transformative Practice and discuss the ITP groups that have formed all over the country during the last three years. Participants will have a chance to learn a series of physical-spiritual ITP exercises for use in daily practice and make plans for their own paths of transformation.

Recommended readings: Murphy, The Future of the Body; Leonard, Mastery; Leonard & Murphy, The Life We Are Given. $425

Remembering Who You Are: A Gestalt Process Workshop
Julian Silverman

The essence of psychological growth is, as Fritz Perls wrote, “centering one’s existence.” It is a process of removing the blocks to one’s real strength, one’s wholeness. Centering one’s existence is a journey to self-remembrance.

To remember one’s self, one needs to learn the means whereby to center oneself in both physical space and time. To remember one’s self, one needs to free oneself from the past, from the “unfinished business” which obscures the truth of one’s self in the present.

This workshop concerns the re-view of our normal way of looking at ourselves and a re-vision based on self-remembrance. Self-remembrance makes possible the rediscovery of love within ourselves and the integration of this rediscovery into our lives in a more meaningful way.

The workshop combines individual process work with explanation. $425

Drugs, the Brain, and the Body
David Presti

Chemical substances that influence the brain the body are more popular today than ever. From Prozac to DHEA, Redux to fen/phen, melatonin to valerian, coffee to chocolate, and marijuana to yohimbe, drugs are a central part of our culture.

The essence of psychological growth is, as Fritz Perls wrote, “centering one’s existence.” It is a process of removing the blocks to one’s real strength, one’s wholeness. Centering one’s existence is a journey to self-remembrance.

To remember one’s self, one needs to learn the means whereby to center oneself in both physical space and time. To remember one’s self, one needs to free oneself from the past, from the “unfinished business” which obscures the truth of one’s self in the present.

This workshop concerns the re-view of our normal way of looking at ourselves and a re-vision based on self-remembrance. Self-remembrance makes possible the rediscovery of love within ourselves and the integration of this rediscovery into our lives in a more meaningful way.

The workshop combines individual process work with explanation. $425 lights and blends a variety of textures with vibrant and soft colors. The week is designed to free artistic expression to a state of exploration where watercolor techniques are jumping-off points to further discovery.

Please note: All are welcome, beginners as well as artists. Please bring your own supplies (a list of suggested materials will be sent upon registration).

Gestalt Process and A Course in Miracles: A Synthesis

Julian Silverman

"Your task is not to seek for love, but to seek and remove all of the blocks to love's awareness."

— A Course in Miracles

In the progression of various refinements of his Gestalt awareness process, Fritz Perls described the aim of this process in various ways: as means whereby to "become a whole person," to "center one's existence," to "be in touch with the [real] world and one's self."

This workshop synthesizes Perls's Gestalt methods with the spiritually-based teachings of A Course in Miracles. Together they make possible the introduction and cultivation of a spiritual attitude in the mind using a powerful psychological process for integrating and balancing a person. The areas of compatibility and complementarity in the two thought-forms—Gestalt and A Course in Miracles—are examined and blended into a psychological-spiritual unity. The whole person is affirmed as one who comes to terms wholeheartedly with the spiritual center of existence. The Gestalt process enlivens the spiritual teachings and the spiritual teachings give meaning to the psychological methods.

The workshop will be both conceptual and experiential. Please bring a copy of A Course in Miracles.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 62.

Proprioceptive Writing®: Clearing the Mind

Tobin Simon & Linda Trichter Metcalf

"Proprioception" is a physiological term for kinesthetic sensation—feelings that originate in the body's interior. Proprioceptive Writing is a practice that uses writing to explore the psyche by taking the emphasis off writing and focusing on the experience of inner hearing, activating the auditory imagination—the key to emotion and the path toward feeling. A meditational writing practice with the power to open the heart and clear the mind, it was developed twenty years ago by Linda Trichter Metcalf and Tobin Simon after a decade of teaching writing to college students.

This workshop is appropriate for all those seeking greater imaginative freedom in their lives and in their work.
Weekend of February 13–15

Massage Intensive for Couples
George King & Brita Ostrom
For workshop description see September 19-21.
$425 per participant

A New Beginning: Courage and Heart
Mary Goldenson (Devarani)
One day you finally knew what you had to do, and began...
— MARY OLIVER
Courage is resistance to fear, mastery of fear, not absence of fear.
— MARK TWAIN

"In this workshop," Mary Goldenson writes, "we will courageously peer into the depths of our hearts and minds and ask the questions:
• Does my life reflect my heart's desires?
• If fear did not stop me, what might I be doing differently?
• What truths do I need to tell to live?
• To whom or what have I given power over my life? What must I do to reclaim it?
• How shall I live, knowing I shall die?

"More than the answers, our questions define where the real meaning of our life resides. Firmly grounded in the moment, we will explore ways to reconnect with our source of creativity and spirituality."

This workshop provides ways to help complete the past, be open to the present, and create the future. A safe, supportive environment will be provided. Didactic and experiential exercises will draw from Gestalt, Reichian work, imagery, dance, and meditation.

C.E. credit available for psychologists; see page 68.
C.E. credit available for MFCCs and LCSWs; see page 68.

$425

The Path of Parenting: A Spiritual Approach
Barbara Sachs
Parenting is difficult. We are given no formal education to prepare us for this profound undertaking, yet we are expected to be successful on the first try. We want to raise our children to be happy, healthy, loving adults, but we often end up tired, discouraged, and distanced from them. The purpose of this workshop is to help parents understand a child's psychological and spiritual growth, and to mirror and support the child's emerging self.

From conception on, parenting is a movement of coming together and parting. This workshop addresses the specific issue of separation. Separation at any age is hard for both parent and child. The spiritual practice of separation is one of continual letting go. As we mature we realize that real loving is letting go, letting our children be who they are—not who we want them to be. The workshop explores separation through the understanding of the Diamond Approach, using a map of maturational based on both psychological and essential development.

Participants will explore their own experience to help understand our inherent nature and spiritual essence. A method of parenting will be introduced that develops spiritual understanding and essential wisdom rather than relying on unconscious conditioning.

The format will be experiential with mini-lectures. There will be time for personal work.

$425

Finding True Love
Daphne Rose Kingma
"Love is an experience of great emotional and spiritual awakening to the unbounded bliss that is the true condition of our souls," writes Daphne Rose Kingma. "Love is our one true human quest and an intimate romantic partnership is its fondest and most luminous expression."

In this workshop, you will be guided in the spiritual and emotional preparations to attract love into your life. Focusing on the four keys to true love—Faith, Intention, Trust, Surrender—you will be led on a step-by-step journey to self-knowledge that can help you liberate your heart to love. As you move through each process—resolving emotional issues from your past, healing old relationship wounds, examining your myths about relationships, identifying your life theme (and discovering its effects upon your past relationships)—you can discover your own internal barriers to intimacy and gradually release them.

"This workshop," continues Daphne, "is for people who are looking for a love in the highest and deepest form. It is for those who want to finally heal the pain of old unresolved relationships as well as those who can't seem to bring themselves into alignment with the love that is already waiting to approach them."

Activities will include meditation, exercises, and group process.

$425

Forgiveness
Julie Bowden & Maria Nemeth
Every culture has its healing rituals, ways of letting go of old attachments to make way for new possibilities. An essential component is the practice of forgiveness.

As the years go by, many of us develop a history of incomplete relationships and unfulfilled expectations. As these experiences accumulate, our trust in others and ourselves diminishes, and our commitments in life become conditional. To release these burdens is to forgive the past.

This workshop will guide participants through exercises focusing on our judgments and characterizations, with emphasis on how these distorted perceptions affect us and interfere with our relationships. This work is preparation for a powerful forgiveness exercise, designed to facilitate letting go, allowing more joy and light into our lives.

$425

Week of February 15–20

Five-Day Massage Intensive
Deborah Anne Medow & Sherry Galloway
For workshop description see December 28-January 2.

$795

Integrating Spiritually Transforming Experiences
Laura Lawrence
Have you ever had an intensely mystical experience? Surveys show that many people have, frequently with positive, life-changing consequences. These experiences often happen spontaneously, emerging in dreams, visions, meditation, spiritual practices, or in the context of grief or near-death experiences.

People who have had mystical experiences often describe positive after-effects. Many feel an increased sense of purpose, self-acceptance, concern for others, and concern for the planet. Unfortunately, many people also encounter difficulties integrating these spiritual awakenings with their everyday life. Mainstream psychology, medicine, and organized religion still view these events as pathological.

$425
This workshop will offer practical suggestions for honoring, integrating, and fostering spiritual awakenings. Topics will include:

- The cultural taboo on spiritual experiences
- The most common types of spiritual awakenings
- Spirituality and your work
- Spirituality and relationships
- Spirituality and addictions

This workshop is designed for everyone interested in understanding and cultivating spiritual awakenings and spiritual awareness. It will utilize group discussion and sharing, meditation, guided imagery, music, and other practices. The goal will be to further the understanding of that mystical, magical part of ourselves, and to learn ways to integrate our spiritual self into our everyday lives.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

---

Qigong and PNI: An East/West Healing System, A Daily Practice

Sondra Barrett & Shirley Dockstader

Never before has ancient Taoist health-enhancing Qigong been interwoven with the modern science of psychoneuroimmunology (PNI) to create a body/heart/mind medicine. These complementary disciplines integrate to form an enjoyable practice for daily life. In this workshop, through sensory awareness and stress reduction tools which dovetail with Qigong internal energy exercises, you can learn how it feels to move beyond your stress reactions into full-time well-being.

The movements incorporate breath, imagery, acupuncture self-massage, and sound, which help you experience the gates, meridians, and flow of your life force. This profoundly simple East/West practice teaches the science and art of energy balancing and cell health. Through slides and expressive arts you will see the micro-world of the cell, the molecular connections between body, heart, and mind, and enter the spiral mystery of life. The function of this work is to connect each of us to our inherent source of life force and vitality.

This workshop is designed for both beginners and those experienced with Qigong or PNI. It will also benefit individuals wanting to understand and strengthen their healing system, those looking to change lifestyle, and those experienced with Qigong or PNI. It will utilize group discussion and sharing, meditation, guided imagery, music, and other practices. The goal will be to further the understanding of that mystical, magical part of ourselves, and to learn ways to integrate our spiritual self into our everyday lives.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

---

Lexis: Principles and Education for Life

Laurie Phillips

What are Life's Key Principles? Is there a fundamental set of concepts which can act as a template for all of life's difficulties and opportunities? Laurie Phillips has combined many ideas discovered throughout an exceptionally varied life to produce Lexis, a holistic life-discovery program which offers these key principles. This model of life draws on ideas emanating from such diverse sources as Jung, Taoism, Zen, the I Ching, international business practices, communication theory, family life, astrology, art, and the many religions of the world.

The work is focused around "key word concepts" which serve to illuminate and magnify many different areas of life and gradually build into a whole picture—logical, practical, mystical, and spiritual. The program includes individual and group exercises, discussion, art, photography, writing and other forms of self-expression, psychological profiles, and astrological concepts.

The dynamic of the workshop is very much the group's own doing, and is typically serious and fun, peaceful and energetic, intimate and global. The picture that emerges of yourself and others and how we all fit into the world can give you a new fixed reference point for your life and future.

(plus $30 materials fee paid directly to the leader)

---

Mi Lugar en el Mundo (My Place in the World)

Gustavo Rabin & Sara Szpektor

Am I where I want to be? Am I with whom I want to be? Am I doing what I want to do? This Spanish-speaking workshop is designed to help participants use these questions to find their "right" place in the world.

Encontrar nuestro lugar en el mundo es una tarea que muchas veces lleva toda la vida completar. Tres preguntas nos ayudan en el camino: Estoy donde quiero estar? Estoy con quien quiero estar? Estoy haciendo lo que quiero hacer?

Si la respuesta a estas preguntas es "si," entonces estamos en el momento en el lugar en el mundo que nos corresponde. En el lugar adecuado, con la compañía que queremos y haciendo la tarea que nos acerca a nuestra expresión más completa en tanto seres creativos.

Si la respuesta a cualquiera de estas preguntas es "no," lo queremos o no, estamos embarcados en un viaje de búsqueda, del que solo sabemos donde comienza.

El intenso trabajo de esta semana en Esalen ofrecerá a los participantes la oportunidad de explorar los caminos que los acercarán a responder afirmativamente las preguntas iniciales.

Este workshop es experiencial y didáctico. Nos apoyaremos en técnicas gestálticas, mística, trabajo corporal y meditación para ahondar en el proceso particular de los asistentes y del grupo. Totalmente en español.

---

February 20-27

Yoga... and a Little Bit More

Thomas Michael Fortel

Writes Thomas Fortel: "An increasing number of us are practicing hatha yoga as a Way of Being in our lives as well as maintaining and improving health, increasing vigor and mental clarity, and making spiritual connection. The practice of yoga postures develops strength, flexibility, and focus, and provides the opportunity to find and explore the rhythm of our conscious breath. A consistent yoga practice can be an important catalyst for change in our lives. So can a yoga retreat such as this.

"Our days will begin with pranayama (breathing exercises) and meditation. Each day follows with a morning and afternoon session of yoga. The morning practice will be more vigorous, the afternoons more restorative.

"Because the yoga practice is demanding, we'll enjoy complementary activities as well: sessions in the Art Barn, hikes on local trails, and an evening sweat lodge. Add this to the healing powers of yoga practice and the Esalen baths, and this retreat offers a way for rejuvenation and transformation."

All yoga props will be provided. Beginners and intermediates are welcome. Please have a minimum of six months' recent yoga experience.

---

Spanish-speaking workshop is designed to help participants use these questions to find their "right" place in the world.

---
Weekend of February 20–22

Experiencing Esalen

Experiencing Esalen Staff

For workshop description see September 26-28.

$425

Intimate Connections

Mariah Fenton Gladis

Creating stable and fulfilling relationships is a challenge that everyone faces. To be successful, human relating must be understood and accepted as an activity, an ability that requires movement, purpose, emotional capacity, and contact skills. People often believe that good relating evolves naturally, but they discover in the routine of living with families, friends, and lovers that, in truth, they have not been adequately prepared to meet the demands of loving relationships.

This workshop will focus on the nature and basic requirements of healthy relationships. It will offer participants opportunities to assess their abilities and disabilities, to develop awareness, and to practice risking positive action with others. It is for anyone who has "hit the wall" in a relationship or who has experienced being stuck at some seemingly impenetrable contact boundary and wants to break through. Particularly helpful for adult children of dysfunctional families, ACAs, and human relations professionals, this experiential and didactic workshop will blend individual and group Gestalt work, spiritual healing, bodywork, and personal metaphor.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

$425

Waking to the Power of a New Myth

Stanley Krippner & David Feinstein

Your personal mythology is an internal guidance system that addresses the broad concerns of identity (Who am I?), direction (Where am I?), and purpose (Why am I going there?). The more effective your guiding mythology, the better equipped you are to meet the challenges your life presents.

Personal myths are always evolving. This workshop will help you midwife the birth of a new guiding myth—more fitting, more vital, more spiritually attuned. Drawing upon methods from a spectrum of systems, including Jungian psychology, Gestalt therapy, psychosynthesis, ancient spiritual disciplines, and modern clinical practice, you will be led through a sequence of experiences designed to transform dysfunctional myths while reaching into inner depths for visions that nourish and inspire.

Joseph Campbell often referred people to the leaders' workshops, and a prominent reviewer said of their book: "Neither Carl Jung nor Joseph Campbell showed us how to use myth for personal and societal growth. Feinstein and Krippner begin to answer that question." This workshop will show you how to nurture and transform your guiding mythology so it may become an ever more trustworthy and life-affirming map. Participants are invited to bring a journal and to record their dreams prior to the workshop.

$425

Reinventing Love

Robert Solomon & Heather Maycock Ogilvy

"Reinventing Love" is an interpersonal probe into the most highly valued of all passions, its... promise, and its disappointments. The workshop will emphasize the essential creativity of love and the need to express and "reinvent" an emotion that is not torn between defensive individualism and independence. The group will explore the myths of love in order to find out why love goes wrong, why we choose the wrong partners, and how to choose the right one in order for love to succeed.

Participants will examine the connection between intimacy and anger, and the fragile connection between love and dependency. Individuals will be encouraged to explore their own experience and discuss the myths and images that have contributed to our most intimate (and sometimes most dangerous) feelings. Above all, the aim will be to understand why love is so important to us and why it cannot be abandoned.

$425

Week of February 22-27

Creative Arts Center at Esalen

Arts Center Staff

For workshop description see September 14-19.

$795

The Subtle Self

Julie Blackstone

All spiritual traditions refer to an essential dimension of existence, calling it fundamental consciousness, true Self, unity consciousness, non-duality, and many other names. This dimension is not an abstract concept. It is the core of our own true nature and can be experienced by anyone willing to approach it with patience and openness. Fundamental consciousness is experienced as clear, mirror-like space, pervading our body and our environment, transcending the duality of self and object. It is deeper than the physical and energetic levels of our being and beyond our psychological defenses, projections, images, and archetypes. Subtle Self Work is a precise method of attuning to the clear space of fundamental consciousness.

In this workshop participants can learn how to: integrate fundamental consciousness with the body and breath/energy system; experience oneness with nature and people while remaining grounded in one’s body; and see, hear, and touch on a subtler level. The Subtle Self Work attunement exercises will be combined with daily sitting and movement meditations, sound and breathwork for opening the channels in the vertical core of the body, and verbal process. There will also be discussion of the metaphysics of consciousness and how attunement to fundamental consciousness can facilitate psychological and physical healing. Please come prepared for deep, concentrated work.

Recommended reading: Blackstone, The Subtle Self and The Enlightenment Process.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

$795

Hypnosis and Creativity

Maggie Phillips & Noelle Poncelet

Our fast-paced, anxious, and often violent world challenges us to seek opportunities to discover the timeless and enduring creative resources of our inner selves. This experiential workshop will introduce ways to tap into sources of inspiration and passion, identify and utilize obstacles to creative expression, and foster receptivity to the creative muse within.

The workshop will feature process-oriented hypnosis, Ericksonian hypnotic methods, imagery, shamanic journeying, and Arnie Mindell’s process work. Activities will include group and individual hypnotic explorations; art, movement, sound improvisations, and musical expression; storytelling; dreams; and medicine walks. The leaders will create a safe environment for exploring life issues, mindfulness experiences, and creative ego states in order to release barriers and addictive patterns, balance masculine and feminine energies, and celebrate creative potentials.

Participants are invited to bring drums and musical instruments, art supplies, journals, power objects, and creative symbols.

C.E. credit available for psychologists; see page 68.

C.E. credit available for MFCCs and LCSWs; see page 68.

$795

Creating Exact Moments of Healing

Mariah Fenton Gladis

Adult children of alcoholic, dysfunctional, or abusive families (ACAs) must walk a road of recovery that requires determination, lifelong commitment, and the creation of specific moments of healing. This workshop offers participants an opportunity to take a major step toward healing, helping them both to define a plan for necessary moments they must create so they can move forward and to transform their personal history from one of liability to one of strength and wisdom. Focus will be on the promotion of healing:

- With oneself—developing awareness, freedom from addictions, and healing of the body and soul from the residual effects of trauma
- With others—improving one’s capacity for moving out of isolation into direct, open communication and trust, while securing healthy boundaries
- In the world—moving away from chaos and deprivation toward stability and abundance
- Spiritually—searching for the meaning of one’s history and accessing that part of the self that can utilize universal blessings

This workshop will be experiential and didactic, blending individual and group Gestalt work, music, spiritual practices, and bodywork. A step-by-step recovery process developed by the leader will be incorporated throughout the workshop. The atmosphere will be one of trust and mutual support. This workshop is also appropriate for professionals who work with ACAs.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.

$795

Weekend of February 27-March 1

A Weekend with Claudio Naranjo

Claudio Naranjo is a medical doctor with a psychoanalytic background who worked with Fritz Perls in the mid-sixties and eventually formed part of the first Esalen Gestalt team. Naranjo has also received teachings from Buddhist, Sufi, and Indian tantric sources, has taught meditation, formulated the psychology of enneatypes, contributed to music therapy, founded SAT Institute in the early seventies, and has written many books (his recent books include Gestalt Therapy: Attitude and Practice of an A theoretical Experientialism; Character and Neurosis: An Integrative View; and The End of Patriarchy).

He is presently involved in training psychotherapists through a novel integrative and transpersonal approach that he has developed. There will be no preestablished agenda to this weekend event.

$425

BEST COPY AVAILABLE
Celtic Mysticism:
Awakening the Soul to Friendship
John O'Donohue

"'Friend' is one of the sweetest words in any language," writes John O'Donohue. "Your friend is the truest mirror of your light, beauty, and possibility. Friendship is an act of ancient recognition: your longing and belonging harmonise. During this workshop we will explore the dimensions and possibilities of friendship. Firstly, we will explore the Art of Inner Friendship, becoming a friend to yourself: letting go of negativity, fear, guilt, and self-doubt, discovering the springtime side of your soul. We will then explore Friendship with Nature. Here, Celtic wisdom is beautifully instructive: Landscape is the firstborn of Creation, the truest mirror of the Divine Imagination. We will also explore the possibilities of Friendship with Creativity. And finally we will discuss the most ancient friendship, Friendship with the Divine: the Beauty of Prayer, the Wildness of the Divine, and the Tenderness of Creation."

Many worlds meet in the human heart. To know yourself is to become aware of these inner landscapes and enjoy their mystery. Only the imagination can reveal and mirror these inner mysteries. The Celtic imagination is rich, vital, and tender, and has created a profound and wonderful spirituality. The workshop will explore the wild thresholds where the Celtic imagination brings earth and soul, time and eternity, visible and invisible together.

The workshop will have an experiential dimension, poetry, story, and fun. $425

Talking Straight and Fighting Fair
(With Those You Love and Those You Don't)
Marianne Ault-Riché

Marianne Ault-Riché is the cofounder with Harriet Lerner of the "Talking Straight—Fighting Fair" workshops upon which Ms. Lerner's best-selling book Dance of Anger was based. Building upon the work of Virginia Satir, Tom Gordon, and Murray Bowen, the workshop presents a lively and pragmatic approach to difficult communication with intimate partners, family members, friends, and coworkers.

The workshop will offer approaches to achieve congruency in communication, the uses of "I" language to own responsibility in relationship, and keys to recognizing and changing the patterned ways we move under stress. Marianne's current perspective is informed by her experiences as a fifth-generation feminist and a sometime Buddhist as well as by her becoming a mother of two after forty. The workshop includes lecture, video, and role play with a primary emphasis upon practical applications. It is designed for professionals and nonprofessionals alike.

C.E. credit available for nurses; see page 67.
C.E. credit available for MFCCs and LCSWs; see page 68.

$425
Cooking as Spiritual Practice:
Finding Your Way in the Kitchen
Ed Brown

Cooking brings us excellent opportunities to directly experience the sacred and to awaken generosity, kindness, careful effort, patience, concentration, and awareness. In the same way, we can become intimate with the ingredients of our life by learning to handle them with sincerity.

"Ingredients" may include any object of awareness, from foods to thoughts, feelings, and physical sensations. By practicing Zen Master Dogen's advice—"Let your mind go out and abide in things. Let things return and abide in the mind"—we can find out what to cook up.

On Saturday afternoon participants will cook dinner for themselves, providing the opportunity through structured castings to become acquainted with root and shoot, flower, leaf, and fruit. Activities will also include meditation, lectures, and discussions, as well as explorations into bread making, knife sharpening, and cutting techniques. The workshop is designed to enhance your capacity to cook: to build confidence in and develop your own sensibilities.

Both would-be and experienced cooks have found this workshop a useful way to cultivate fresh insights into the possibilities inherent in cooking and in oneself. Bon Appetit.

Ed Brown worked at Greens Restaurant for four and one-half years and assisted Deborah Madison in writing The Greens Cookbook. $425

Ageless Vitality:
The Body is Living Music
Elisa Lodge

The secret is to hear the music that is the body. The body becomes not a doomed machine but a glorious composition.

—LARRY DOSSEY, M.D.

Ageless vitality arises when we feel a deep sense of trust for the intuitive wisdom in our bodies. When the body, its movements, breath, and speech become more musical, fluid, and vital—rather than mechanized, controlled, and predictable—responsiveness to the body's inherent knowledge and creative resources is more available.

The workshop will include individual and group exercises, Authentic Movement, and expressive arts to evoke natural vitality and energetic aliveness.

The focus will be on regaining the ability to:
• Tune into inner rhythms to flow with the heartbeat of our essential nature
• Redirect emotional buildup into aesthetic expression
• Sit, stand, and walk with fluent, vibrant aliveness
• Exercise energy to circulate more freely to the task at hand
• Develop powers of self-affirmation, bringing renewed vitality and joy into life and work

Time will be devoted to discovering how we deplete our natural ability to be self-healing and self-renewing, and how we can become "artists of being," utilizing our natural genius to re-create our lives into melodious and harmonious expression. $425
SPECIAL PROGRAMS

The programs listed below are either longer than the standard Esalen workshop or part of an ongoing series. Prices quoted below for these programs are for standard accommodations as described in Reservation Information, page 4. Sometimes bunk bed space is available at a reduced rate. Scholarships are also available; please see Scholarship Information on page 5.

The Upledger Institute Series
The Upledger Institute was founded by John E. Upledger, who pioneered the field of CranioSacral Therapy nearly twenty-five years ago. Dr. Upledger is a Doctor of Science, an Academic Fellow of the British Society of Osteopathy, and a member of the Alternative Medicine Program Advisory Council of the National Institutes of Health.

From 1975 to 1983, Dr. Upledger served as clinical researcher and professor of biomechanics at Michigan State University. During those years he supervised a team of anatomists, physiologists, biophysicists, and bioengineers in experiments testing the existence and influence of the craniosacral system. The results of those studies explained the function of the craniosacral system and its use in treating malfunctions of the brain and spinal cord.

The Upledger Institute teaches noninvasive modalities such as CranioSacral Therapy to doctors and health care practitioners of all disciplines. Curricula range from the structural/functional anatomical perspective to approaches that explore the physical, emotional, mental, and spiritual origins of pain and dysfunction.

During this catalog period, Esalen will be offering CranioSacral II (September 28-October 3) and CranioSacral I (February 8-13). This work is sequential and each workshop requires completion of the previous Upledger course, either at Esalen or elsewhere.

November 2-30

28-Day Massage Practitioner Certification Program
Ellen Watson, David Streeter & Esalen Massage Staff

The Esalen monthlong massage program provides professional instruction in fundamental massage skills. This training includes anatomy, movement, meditation, ethics, and self-care. The daily sessions consist of lecture, demonstration, and supervised hands-on practice. Special attention will be given to developing a center from which learning can easily occur and a balance between technique, intuition, and creativity can be achieved.

Following successful completion of the program, students wishing to fulfill certification requirements have six months to complete and document thirty massage sessions. Upon payment of a $50 processing fee, a California state-approved Certificate of Completion will be issued.

This is a professional training group with limited admission. Please request an application form when making reservations.

C.E. credit is available for nurses; see page 67.

Standard accommodations: $3590
Bunk bed room, if available: $2540

Healthspring Outreach and Education
The Healthspring Project extends Esalen’s work in the healing arts and sciences to the outside world. It is an independent service-oriented program of Esalen teachers and their associates. Healthspring offers a global information network linking visitors to Esalen with centers, teachers, and health professionals in somatics and psychology located in their home area. (These listings are public information and are not meant to be an endorsement of any individual or institution.) Some of our practitioners and teachers travel in the United States and internationally and are available for private sessions and classes. If you are interested in being contacted, let us know.

The Healthspring library offers books on health and healing, somatic studies, psychology, bodywork, nutrition, and related studies, which may be borrowed by students while at Esalen. Donations of appropriate books are greatly appreciated.

For access to this program, write to Laurie Lioness Parizek at Esalen, c/o Healthspring.

FUTURE PROGRAMS

LISTED HERE are some of the special programs scheduled for the months ahead. This is not an invitation to register, but information to assist you in your long-range plans to participate in an Esalen workshop. Dates are subject to change; please call the Esalen Office or see the next catalog for more specific information.

March, 1998
28-Day Massage Practitioner Certification Program
Peggy Horan & Dean Marson

Spring, 1998
12-Day Emotional Healing Workshop
Terry Hunt
In its continuing commitment to the fields of education, religion, philosophy, and the physical and behavioral sciences, Esalen regularly sponsors invitation al conferences that bring together experts who share their research and points of inquiry. As host, Esalen covers room and board expenses for participants as a way of advancing these particular studies. These are invitational conferences only and are not open to the public. Recently held programs and their conveners are listed here.

Living Mindfully with HIV

April 27-May 2, 1997

Cosponsored by Zen Hospice Project and Esalen Institute, this was the third annual conference for individuals living with HIV. The aim of the conference was to provide participants with tools for living as fully as possible with HIV. Twenty participants in all—women, people of color, straight and gay men—met to find common ground and to "embrace all that we have kept at arm's length."

The retreat was led by Frank Ostaseski, founder of Zen Hospice Project, and Norman Fischer, Abbot of the San Francisco Zen Center. Through meditation, experiential exercises, archetypal collage work, yoga, and restorative time in nature, participants found it possible to touch "a place of rest in the midst of chaos." The Esalen massage crew offered free massages to all conference attendees and the Gazebo staff prepared a special celebratory dinner. The conference closed with a tea ceremony to offer this retreat's work to all suffering beings and to express gratitude for the preciousness of this life.

Zen Hospice Project is establishing a meditation group for people with life-threatening illness to provide ongoing support. Plans for the 1998 retreat are already underway.
CONTINUING EDUCATION FOR NURSES

The Board of Registered Nursing has approved Esalen as a provider of continuing education for registered nurses, provider number 0152. Only those programs listed below offer continuing education credit. Workshop leaders have final responsibility in applying for C.E.U. eligibility; therefore a workshop accredited in the past may not necessarily be accredited today. There is a $50 processing fee for C.E.U. certificates, payable at the end of the workshop when you turn in your evaluation form to the office. If you wish to receive a certificate, please notify the office at the time of registration.

Please note: Two-day workshops offer 10 hours of C.E. credit and five-day or longer workshops offer 30 hours.

If you need additional information on C.E. courses for nurses or future C.E. outreach programs, please contact Sherry Sanders Galloway, RN., Continuing Education Coordinator, 408-667-3000.

September 5-7
• Weekend Massage Intensive
• The Subtle Self
September 7-12
• The Transformative Power of Grief
• In Search of the Healing Self: Movement, Touch, and the Healing Process
September 12-14
• Time Shifting: Creating Time for Your Life
• Therapeutic Touch: Healing for Everyone—Everyone a Healer
September 14-19
• Continuum
• Healing Our Hearts
September 19-21
• Why Men Are the Way They Are
September 21-26
• The High-Performance Mind: Awakened Mind Brainwave Training
• Five-Day Massage Intensive
September 28-October 3
• Turning On the Light: A Choice to Live Consciously
• The Upledger Institute's CranioSacral II
• Taoist Chi Kung: Enhancing Vitality
October 3-5
• The Awakened Mind: Brainwave Training
• Pandora's Gifts: On Secrets, Health, and Healing
• Maps of the Jungle: Negotiating the Primitive Dimensions of the Workplace
October 5-10
• Intuition and the Dance of Attention
• Reflexology—Then and Now
October 19-24
• Gestalt Practice
• Trigger Point Massage: A Sensitive Approach
• Vocal Awareness: Empowerment Through Voice
October 24-26
• Taking Care of Yourself While Helping Others: Survival Tools for Service Professionals
October 31-November 2
• Healthy Back, Healthy Mind: User-Friendly Yoga for Backs and Stress
• The Core Self: Return to Innocence and Choice
November 2-30
• 28-Day Massage Practitioner Certification Program
November 7-9
• Moving into Health: Feldenkrais® and Energetic Movement
November 9-14
• Healing Without Medicines/Healing With Medicines: Qigong and the Medical Knowledge of Yin-Style Bagua
November 14-16
• The Delight of Immediacy: Sensory Awareness
November 21-23
• Stress Reduction: An East/West Approach
• The Way of Council
November 23-30
• Healing from Trauma: A Seven-Day Intensive
November 30-December 5
• Intermediate/Advanced Massage Intensive
• Soul Dramas: Past-Life Regression and Spiritual Healing for (Helping) Professionals
December 5-7
• Introduction to Gestalt Practice
• The Art of Leadership: Communication, Creativity, Vision
• Self-Healing Through Bodywork and Movement
December 7-12
• Gestalt Practice
• Living a Spiritual Life in a Practical World
• SIKE: Healing and Health through Ki Energy
December 12-14
• Taking Better Care of Yourself: An Eclectic Physician's Guide
• Mindfulness Meditation: An Introductory Weekend
December 19-21
• A Solstice Celebration: A Christmas Gift to Yourself
December 21-26
• Spiritual Healing: Laying On of Hands
December 26-28
• Weekend Massage Intensive
December 28-January 2
• Five-Day Massage Intensive
January 2-4
• Acupressure Energy Workshop
January 4-9
• Feeling and Creativity: Reinvigorating (Ad)ventures in Life
• To Be Ripe to Die, To Be Ready to Live
January 9-11
• The Heart of Sports Massage
January 11-16
• The High-Performance Mind: Awakened Mind Brainwave Training
• Chakra Integration: A Dynamic Approach to Health and Healing
January 16-18
• Intuition and the Dance of Attention
• Grief: A Path to Wholeness
• Mixed Matches: Working with Cross-Cultural Couples, Families, and Organizations
January 18-23
• You Don't Have to Be Good
• Nourishing Ourselves as Caregivers—Rediscovering Intention in Service
January 25-30
• The Subtle Art of Meditation
January 30-February 1
• Rekindling the Spirit in Work
• Hanna Somatics: Mastery of Muscles and Emotions
February 1-6
• Gestalt Practice
February 6-8
• Drugs, the Brain, and the Body
February 8-13
• The Upledger Institute's CranioSacral I
• Gestalt Process and A Course in Miracles: A Synthesis

BEST COPY AVAILABLE

1041
February 15-20
- Qigong and PNI: An East/West Healing System, A Daily Practice
- Five-Day Massage Intensive
- Integrating Spiritually Transforming Experiences

February 20-22
- Intimate Connections

February 22-27
- The Subtle Self
- Creating Exact Moments of Healing

February 27-March 1
- Talking Straight and Fighting Fair (With Those You Love and Those You Don't)

FOR PSYCHOLOGISTS

Esalen has been approved as a provider of continuing education for psychologists in the State of California, accredited by the California Psychological Association, provider number ESA001. Workshops for which C.E. credit has been approved are listed here. Those workshops for which C.E.U. applications have been filed and approval is pending are noted in the Seminars section. For current status information, contact Brita Ostrom at 408-667-3040.

Please note: Two-day workshops will offer 10 hours of C.E. credit and five-day workshops will offer 26 hours. There is a $10 fee for each certificate of completion.

September 5-7
- The Home Within the Heart: Ojibwe Tribal Healings (ESA001-74)

September 7-12
- The Transformative Power of Grief (ESA001-75)

September 12-14
- Time Shifting: Creating Time for Your Life (ESA001-81)

September 19-21
- Why Men Are the Way They Are (ESA001-101)

September 21-26
- The High-Performance Mind: Awakened Mind Brainwave Training (ESA001-58-02)

September 26-28
- Communication and Partnership (ESA001-82)

October 3-5
- Pandora's Gifts: On Secrets, Health, and Healing (ESA001-84)
- Maps of the Jungle: Negotiating the Primitive Dimensions of the Workplace (ESA001-76)

October 31-November 2
- The Core Self: Return to Innocence and Choice (ESA001-89)

November 9-14
- I-You-Us: Pleasure, Intimacy, and the Search for Connectedness (ESA001-85)

November 14-16
- Narcissism and Intimacy: Love that Wounds—Love that Heals (ESA001-96)

November 16-21
- The Courage to Be You (ESA001-87)

January 11-16
- The High-Performance Mind: Awakened Mind Brainwave Training (ESA001-88)
- Completions and Transitions (ESA001-93)

January 18-23
- Life Energy Process® (ESA002-78-01)

February 13-15
- A New Beginning: Courage and Heart (ESA001-100)

February 22-27
- Hypnosis and Creativity (ESA001-99)

FOR MFCCs & LCSWs

Esalen has been approved as a provider of continuing education credit for MFCCs and LCSWs by the California Board of Behavioral Sciences. Approved workshops are listed below and are noted in the Seminars section. For any questions, contact Brita Ostrom at 408-667-3040.

Please note: Two-day workshops will offer 10 hours of C.E. credit and five-day workshops will offer 26 hours. There is a $10 fee for each certificate of completion.

September 5-7
- The Home Within the Heart: Ojibwe Tribal Healings (ESA001-74)

September 7-12
- The Transformative Power of Grief (ESA001-75)

September 12-14
- Time Shifting: Creating Time for Your Life (ESA001-81)

September 19-21
- Why Men Are the Way They Are (ESA001-101)

September 21-26
- The High-Performance Mind: Awakened Mind Brainwave Training (ESA001-58-02)

September 26-28
- Communication and Partnership (ESA001-82)

October 3-5
- Pandora's Gifts: On Secrets, Health, and Healing (ESA001-84)
- Maps of the Jungle: Negotiating the Primitive Dimensions of the Workplace (ESA001-76)

October 31-November 2
- The Core Self: Return to Innocence and Choice (ESA001-89)

November 9-14
- I-You-Us: Pleasure, Intimacy, and the Search for Connectedness (ESA001-85)

November 14-16
- Narcissism and Intimacy: Love that Wounds—Love that Heals (ESA001-96)

November 16-21
- The Courage to Be You (ESA001-87)

January 11-16
- The High-Performance Mind: Awakened Mind Brainwave Training (ESA001-88)
- Completions and Transitions (ESA001-93)

January 18-23
- Life Energy Process® (ESA002-78-01)

February 13-15
- A New Beginning: Courage and Heart (ESA001-100)

February 22-27
- Hypnosis and Creativity (ESA001-99)
THE WORK STUDY PROGRAM is a 28-day program for those interested in an intense and complete involvement with the Esalen environment. It is a work- and service-oriented program, emotionally and physically challenging, and only rarely is it restful. Participants work thirty-two hours per week in one of Esalen’s departments (kitchen, house-keeping, garden/farm, maintenance, or grounds) and participate, along with staff and long-term students, in that department's program.

During most evenings and one weekend intensive, work students are together in one of two groups (see below) exploring different practices and approaches available at Esalen, with specifically assigned leaders who are with the group throughout the month, coordinating the study schedule and facilitating many of the evening sessions.

The selection of work students is done by Dorothy Thomas, the Work Study Coordinator, in consultation with department supervisors. Since this is a work and service program, preference is given to applicants who are open and willing to learn about themselves within the work context as well as within the evening and weekend study/process groups. Applicants with particular skills or physically limiting conditions are urged to mention them on the application. Because the work can be physically challenging (lifting, bending, etc.), it may not be suitable for all who wish to apply. It is also necessary for applicants to be fluent in English.

First-month work students, in particular, are assigned to departments largely on the basis of community need (usually the kitchen or housekeeping). No work students will be assigned to the office until they have fulfilled a minimum of one month in one of the departments, either during a current or a previous stay.

The study portion of the program is divided into two groups each month: each emphasizes one type of growth practice, such as Gestalt, meditation, creative arts, massage, or somatics work. Applicants may state their preference for the group they want and must be prepared to stay at Esalen for the entire month.

Please note: This program is designed to explore and apply human values and potentials in both the evening groups and the workplace. It is not intended as a substitute for therapy or as a “cure.”

It is sometimes possible to receive college unit credit for participating in the Work Study Program. Please check with your college or university for eligibility requirements.

Work Study Programs scheduled for this catalog period are:

September 14-October 12
Patrick Douce will share the essence of his work with Moshe Feldenkrais, Balinese healers, and Indonesian Silat martial-art-for-health systems. This program will focus on movement and touch to increase the sensitivity, flexibility, coordination, relaxation, and freedom of the body. Individual problem areas will be approached in order to improve chronic stiffness and pain. Group experience and interaction will help facilitate balance in the overall growth of each participant.

The focus of a month with David Schiffman will be on the theme of transition. It is geared for people facing major changes who would like an opportunity to create a time for sanctuary and a mood of mutual support. The intention will be to cultivate an individual style of approaching change that is heartfelt, open-minded, and resourceful in spirit.

Traditional methods of self-inquiry (Gestalt practice, bioenergetics, psychosynthesis) will be combined with innovative methods incorporating music, meditation, poetry, ritual, and prayer to foster this spirit.

October 12-November 9
Maria Lucia Sauer Holloman will lead a monthlong program teaching spiritual massage and healing, the laying on of hands. This practice integrates both hands-on and energetic work. Yoga, meditation, artwork, and Tibetan and bioenergetic exercises will be incorporated to complement this energy work and to help bring participants in tune with their bodies.

A month with John Soper will center on ways to improve the quality of one’s life. Gestalt practice will be the vehicle for personal growth in a group setting. The work will create a safe environment from which to experiment and take risks. As new and unfamiliar ways of behavior and expression emerge, group members can begin to see themselves and others with more acceptance, empathy, and compassion for the pain and suffering which has led to so much distortion of human behavior. Each individual’s personal journey will be respected.
November 9-December 7

Eduardo Eizner will lead a month concentrating on emotional release work and self-awareness, incorporating Gestalt practice, games, group and individual process, rituals, movement, and bodywork. The program will emphasize the development of self-awareness in relationship with others. Participants will focus on the willingness to both accept responsibility for and remain true to their own experience while communicating with others.

In a program of Jungian-based Gestalt psychodrama, William Pennell Rock will lead a month-long exploration into the archetypal form of stories of lovers who come together in the end. This archetypal form provides a key to wholeness which will be used to clarify and enhance the inner development and relationships of participants. The sessions will be highly structured into a ritualized process based on the love story archetype and will include meditation, movement, art, discussion, sharing, guided fantasy, psychodrama, Gestalt, and ceremony. The work requires considerable focus, but, as the sage who composed the epic Hindu love story, Ramayana, declared, whoever participates in this form will be blessed.

December 7-January 4

In addition to teaching the basics of Esalen integrative, long-stroke massage, Kathleen O'Shaughnessy will utilize ancient and contemporary meditation forms, including Zen practice, Continuum movement/sound/breath explorations into the nervous system (developed by Emilie Conrad Da'oud), hatha yoga, the Jungle Gym, and the Arica Gym as modes for centering, self-understanding, and finding doorways to the inner world.

Eric Erickson will lead a group devoted to the development of integral practices. Gestalt practice, meditation, movement exercises, and the experience of nature will be explored as complementary awareness practices which, when combined, integrate mind-body-spirit into a greater whole and enhance personal development and transformation.

January 4-February 1

Helen Jerene Malcolm will guide a month of Vision Painting, the creation of a visual journal through color, light, and form. Painting will be used in a subtle process designed to expose the limitations of the conditioned mind. In an atmosphere of exploration and acceptance, participants can learn to suspend judgment and enable the creative impulse to play, take risks, and face fears. Emotional awareness, visualization, meditation, music, and dream images will be used to evoke expression from an inner source of wisdom and intuition.

Please note: There will be a $40 materials fee paid directly to the leader.

Carolyn Braddock will focus on healing from bodily trauma, including sexual and emotional trauma, physical illnesses and surgeries, body image issues, and loss from accidents. The program will use a body-centered approach, incorporating breath, sound, and movement into a healing journey. Participants will work toward identifying and releasing old patterns and developing new ones. Video analysis, group process, Gestalt, bodywork, experiential exercises, and gentle martial arts exercises will all be incorporated.

February 1-March 1

With an emphasis on the practice of massage, David Streeter will explore the inner power of the human being. He will combine the essence of Zen meditation with movement from the martial arts and yoga. These principles will be applied to the art of massage and the art of being in the world.

David Schiffman. See September 14-October 12.

March 1-29

This monthlong program will focus on the theme of oneness and separateness. Judy Blackstone and Zoran Josipovic will provide ways to increase our capacity to love and our ability to be alone. Gestalt, movement, freeing the voice, nature-communion, Subtle Self Work, and meditation will help develop healthy boundaries, spiritual awareness, and self-expression.

Inasmuch as the Work Study Program is a complete program in itself, please do not plan to take regularly scheduled catalog workshops during your stay. Professional services, such as massage and counseling, are available at staff rates.

Fees: A deposit of $400 in U.S. currency is required with your application. The work scholar fee is $750 for the first month, $700 for the second month, and $650 for the third month. Work students may be invited to remain for a second or third month depending on space available and community need. Occasionally it is possible to stay for a longer period as an Extended Student. There are no scholarships available for the Work Study Program.

Housing: Accommodations are shared (occasionally co-ed), with up to four people to a room, usually at South Coast Center, a staff complex located 1.5 miles north of Esalen.

Please note: Application is not registration in the program. Registration is made only after approval of application and upon receipt of deposit. The balance of the fee is due on arrival and is nonrefundable thereafter. Of the original deposit, you will be refunded the following amount if you choose to cancel: 14+ days prior to start, $300; 8-13 days, $200; 2-7 days, $100; 0-2 days, $50.

Please mail the application form (see next page) with your personal statement and deposit to:

Work Study Program
Esalen Institute
Big Sur, CA 93920

or fax to:

Work Study Program
408-667-2774

For more information contact Dorothy Thomas at the above address or phone: 408-667-3010; fax 408-667-2724; E-mail: dnt@esalen.org
WORK STUDY PROGRAM APPLICATION

PLEASE PRINT LEGIBLY.

Name ____________________________  □ Male  □ Female  Today's Date ____________________________

Phone: Day (______) __________________ Evening (______) __________________ Fax (______) __________________

Home Address ____________________________  City/State/Zip ____________________________

Country ____________________________  E-mail Address ____________________________  Date of Birth ____________________________  Age ____________________________

Occupation ____________________________  Place of Employment ____________________________

Do you have any limiting physical/emotional conditions (i.e. bad back, severe depression) which might affect your full participation in this program?  □ Yes  □ No  If yes, please specify: _____________________________________________

If a former Work Scholar, list dates for the past 2 years. _____________________________________________

Are you currently taking any medication?  □ Yes  □ No  If yes, please specify: _____________________________________________

Please note: When focused programs continue with the same leader for more than one month, participants must be prepared to stay at Esalen for the full duration of that particular program.

The Work Study Program is for 28 days, beginning and ending on Sunday. Please list the dates/leaders/programs of your choice, listing two alternative dates as well. (We try to accommodate your preferred choices but cannot always do so.)

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>DATES</th>
<th>Choice 1</th>
<th>to</th>
<th>Preferred Leader/Program</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Choice 2</th>
<th>to</th>
<th>Preferred Leader/Program</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Choice 3</th>
<th>to</th>
<th>Preferred Leader/Program</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

If we cannot guarantee your preferred leader/program, do you wish to apply for that month's alternative program and be on a waiting list for your preferred choice?  □ Yes  □ No  Other ____________________________

Work students may be invited to remain for a second or third month, depending on space available and the needs of the Esalen community. Please indicate your availability for such an invitation (no obligation): □ No extension  □ One-month extension  □ Two-month extension  □ Other ____________________________

Will you be bringing a motor vehicle?  □ Yes  □ No  Unknown at this time

Assignments to departments are made according to community labor needs (usually kitchen or housekeeping). However, if you have particular skills that you're willing to use, especially in housecare, food preparation, maintenance, mechanics, construction, or gardening, please mention them here. _____________________________________________

□ Please check here if you have emergency medical skills (M.D., R.N., or E.M.T.) and are willing to use them during your stay.

Attach a personal statement about your interest in the Work Study Program and why you'd like to participate.

All applicants are required to sign a standard release from liability and assumption of risk form as a condition of participation in the Work Study Program. This form will be mailed to you upon acceptance to the program.

Payment of $1045 deposit by:

□ Check (U.S. funds only), attached and payable to Esalen Institute  Card No. ____________________________  Expiration Date ____________________________

□ MasterCard  □ VISA  □ American Express  Name (if different from name above) ____________________________

Authorizing Signature ____________________________

□ No pets, drugs, or violence allowed.
Heart of Big Sur: Journey into the Santa Lucia Mountains

Grandfather Fred Nason, Tom Little Bear Nason & Steve Kestrel Chambers

This wilderness journey seeks to reawaken the spirit of the wild, to expand and deepen your connection to yourself, to the earth, and to nature. With wilderness as the primary teacher, you will work with local Native California Indian traditions and contemporary awareness practices to enhance your contact with nature.

You will journey directly into the heart of Big Sur's Santa Lucia Mountains to Pine Valley, the ancestral summer home of the Esselen Indians, whose village sites, stone tools, and sacred rock paintings are still found among the sandstone caves and boulders.

Guide Grandfather Fred Nason will provide mules and horses to carry in food and equipment, allowing you to hike the six miles from the trailhead to base camp with only a light day-pack. From base camp, there will be optional day-hikes and trail rides (6-10 miles) that lead to caves with Indian petroglyphs, along mountain streams to inspiring waterfalls, through valleys and canyons of oak and pine, and to sacred mountaintops for breathtaking views.

Little Bear will share his love of the land and the teachings passed down from his ancestors who have danced, prayed, and sung among these mountains for countless generations. You will be guided to sacred healing sites to join in ceremonies that can help you come into balance with yourself and all of the web of life on Mother Earth. Steve Chambers will offer hikes to introduce local areas of natural history, including the geology, plants, and animals of the Ventana Wilderness.

All meals are vegetarian and of exceptional quality. No previous wilderness or horseback riding experience is necessary, although you should be ready for vigorous physical activities.

A complete information packet will be sent upon registration. $795
(or $950 to ride a gentle saddle-horse)

Esalen Wilderness Programs Refund Policy

Most expenses in wilderness programs are incurred preparing for your arrival. The Esalen Wilderness Program refund policy reflects the fact that few of these expenses can be recovered.

To reserve a space in a wilderness workshop, a nonrefundable deposit of $200 is required. The balance of the fee is due 14 days before the program begins. If you cancel prior to 30 days before the program begins, your nonrefundable deposit may be applied to other Esalen programs, to be used within one year. If you cancel from 30 days up to the starting date of the trip, your deposit is forfeited.
The Dolphin Tape Series

Each new tape list has a somewhat different emphasis in its selection of titles and speakers. In addition to the many well-known titles from familiar speakers included for the special attention of new customers, there are several additional tapes from some old favorites, the most recent recordings from others, and a few entirely new speakers, events, and subjects.

Dolphin Tapes has no complete catalog, just overlapping tape lists. When you place an order, let us know your field of interest or your favorite speakers. We may have more information on some of them. Many tapes are in stock. Tape length is normally 1 to 1 1/2 hours.

Single-tape titles are $10:
Abraham/McKenna/Sheldrake: TRIALOGUES: Preview and Sampler, 1985-90
Gregory Bateson: (2) Steps to an Ecology of Mind, 1980
Al Gore: (2) Six Powers of Poetry, 1983
David Brower: Breaking the Species Barrier, 1971
Barry Comomber: Human Meaning of Environmental Crisis, 1971
David Darling & Al Huang: Dancing Cellos, Dancing Tao, 1989
Ram Dass: Yoga of Daily Life, 1970
James Fadiman: Guided Fantasy and Fairy Tales, 1972
David Finkelstein: A New Quantum Logic, 1976
Stanislav Grof: A New Paradigm for Psychotherapy, 1980
Willis Harman: Origin of the Psychodelic 1960s, 1977
Arthur Hastings: Transpersonal Realities, 1979
Gerald Heard: The Power of Wonder, 1954
John Heider: Living in the Tao, 1987
Albert Hofmann: LSD and the Nature of Reality, 1978
Aldous Huxley: Human Potentialities (MIT Cambridge), 1963
Laura Huxley: Recipes for Living and Loving (Guided Imagery), 1963
Robert Johnson: The Roots of Modern Masculinity, 1990
Stanley Keleman: Biological Roots of Consciousness, 1970
Jack Kornfield: The Simplicity of Spiritual Practice, 1982
Jack Kornfield: On Buddhism: A Personal Story, 1983
Timothy Leary: American Culture: 1945-1985 (College of Marin), 1977
Janet Lederman: Early Childhood Experience (Gazebo), 1987
John C. Lilly: The Lilly Experience, 1969
John & Toni Lilly: Integrating Science and Mysticism, 1981
Abraham Maslow: (6) The Eupsychian Ethic, 1969
Terence McKenna: (6) Ego, Self, and Essence, 1971
Rupert Sheldrake: (6) The Cosmic Game, 1987
Jean Houston: (2) The Possible Human (Boston), 1979
Robinson Jeffers’s Poetry: A Dramatic Celebration (Carmel), 1972
Timothy Leary: (2) The Power of Imprinting, 1982
Terence McKenna: (2) The Magical Mystery Tour, 1989
Sogyal Rinpoche: (2) Training for the Moment of Death, 1982
Daniel Sheehan: (2) Christic Institute Update and JFK, 1992
Daniel Sheehan & Sara Nelson: (2) Politics and Natural Law, 1995
Frederic Spiegelberg: (2) India and the Saints, 1964
Alan Watts: (2) Eastern Religion and Western Therapy, 1971
Watts/Grof/Silverman: (2) The Science of Madness, 1968
Janet Zuckerman: (2) The Feeling Process, 1987

Four-tape titles are $34:
Ralph Abraham: (4) The Chaos Revolution, 1994
James Fadiman: (4) A Weekend of Stories, 1984
David Finkelstein: (4) Indeterminacy and Underdeterminability, 1978
Roland Fischer: (4) Creative, Psychotic, and Estatic States, 1969
Buckminster Fuller: (4) Integrity Day (Marin), 1983
Abraham Maslow: (4) An Informal Weekend in Big Sur, 1966
Terence McKenna: (4) Conversation at the Edge of Magic, 1994
Terence McKenna: (4) Eros, Chaos, and Meaning5 Edge, 1994
Terence McKenna: (4) Deeper and Broader Questions, 1994
Rupert Sheldrake: (4) Rebirth of Nature: Revival of Animism, 1990
David Steinid-Rast: (4) Mysticism as a Frontier Experience, 1985
David Steinid-Rast: (4) Living in the Now, 1988
Daniel Sheehan: (4) Enjoying Poetry, 1982
Andrew Weil: (4) New Insights into Addiction, 1987
Arthur M. Young: (4) The Reflexive Universe Interviews, 1983

The Dolphin Vinyl Album Tape Sets:
Alges Arrien & Robert Blay: (9) Love in the Western World, 1984
Gregory Bateson: (8) Steps to an Ecology of Mind, 1980
John C. Lilly: (6) Ego, Self, and Essence, 1971
John C. Lilly: (6) The East Coast Workshop, 1973
Abraham Maslow: (6) The Eupsychian Ethic, 1969
Joseph Chilton Pearce: (6) Journey to the Heart, 1990
Rupert Sheldrake: (6) Resonance and Presence of the Past, 1985
Andrew Weil: (6) All You Wanted to Know About Drugs, 1993
Robert Anton Wilson: (6) The ‘Coincidence’ of Joyce, 1985
Ruthy Alon: (6) Lessons in the Feldenkrais Method (Series I or II)
Terence McKenna: (8) Collected Talks: Series 1 (1982-83) or II (1983-86)
Terence McKenna: (8) The Esalen Scholar-In-Residence Series, 1989
Julian Silverman: (8) Commentaries on A Course in Miracles, 1980
Rupert Sheldrake: (8) The Bajare Dunes Tapes, 1977
Moshe Feldenkrais: (6) Awareness Through Movement Lessons (Series 1)
Terence McKenna: (8) True Hallucinations (A Talking Book), 1984
Virginia Satir: (10) Conjoint Family Therapy, 1968
Esalen Symposium: (12) Wilhelm Reich: His Life and Work, 1974
Gregory Bateson: (12) Informal Esalen Lectures, 1975-1980 (Archives)

Please add $3.00 to your complete order for handling and mailing (add $3.00 more if you wish priority mail). Overseas orders add $1.00 per tape for mailing. California residents include 7.25% tax. Institutional purchase orders please add 10% to tape cost for invoicing and deferred payment. Allow 4 to 6 weeks for delivery (most orders are mailed within two weeks).

Please mail your order and your check payable to:
DOLPHIN TAPES, P.O. Box 71, Big Sur, CA 93920
Phil Cousineau is an author, filmmaker, and adventure tour leader. His most recent books are Soul: An Archaeology: Readings from Socrates to Ray Charles and Design Outlaws: On the Frontier of the 21st Century.

Virginia Coyle is an organizational consultant, wilderness and rites-of-passage guide, and council trainer. Since 1985 she has been a pilgrimage leader, part-time staff member, council trainer, and board member at the Oasen Foundation.

Joel Crohn is a social-clinical psychologist with a private practice in San Rafael and Kensington, Calif. He is on the faculty of the California School of Professional Psychology and the Asian Family Institute.

Stewart Cubley, originally trained as a scientist and enlivened by the arts, for the first time in 1974 and soon thereafter began a second career as a painter. He is co-founder of the Painting Experience Studio in San Francisco.

Dale Cummings, certified Radix teacher and marriage and family counselor in West Los Angeles, Santa Cruz, and San Francisco, is director of training for the Radix Institute.

Rabbi William Cutter was trained in the Ford-Esalen project in confluent education. He is a professor of modern literature and education at Hebrew Union College in Los Angeles.

David Darling is a cellist, teacher, and composer. He is co-founder of Music for People, an organization dedicated to self-expression through music and arts for the first time in 1974 and soon thereafter began a second career as a painter. He is co-founder of the Painting Experience Studio in San Francisco.

Lama Surya Das is a Buddhist scholar, poet, and translator of Tibetan texts. He is founder of the Dzogchen Foundation of America and author of The Snow Lion's Turquoise Mane.

Premo Dasara began her dance studies in 1974 and soon thereafter began a second career as a painter. He is co-founder of the Painting Experience Studio in San Francisco.

Prema Dasara began her dance studies at age three, embarking on a career that carried her through ballet and modern dance to the sacred dances of Bali, India, and Tibet. Her work has been praised by the Dalai Lama.

Genny Davis is a spiritual healer, minister, teacher, and author with twenty years of professional experience. She is president of the Center for Spiritual Healing, Inc., which offers certified ministry programs and apprenticeships.

Laura DeNuccio (Ma Prita), longtime Esalen group leader, somatic-spiritual practitioner, dancer, and earth steward, has twenty-five years of international experience guiding people in breathwork, vision, movement, and mediation. Her current interest: swimming with wild dolphins in Hawaii.

Shirley Dockstader, a teacher in body-mind practices for twenty-five years, integrates Qigong and qijiao into high-performance athletics and immune system strengthening. Founder of Mind and Movement, she is coauthor of Making Waves.

Patrick Douce, one of Moshe Feldenkrais's first American students, has lived at Esalen since 1972. Since 1986 he has lived half of each year in Bali where he is developing programs with Indonesian Sufi martial-arts-fitness schools.

Joel Crohn is a social-clinical psychologist with a private practice in San Rafael and Kensington, Calif. He is on the faculty of the California School of Professional Psychology and the Asian Family Institute.

Eduardo Eizner is an Argentinean-licensed psychotherapist from Belgrano University in Buenos Aires. He is an Esalen staff member and director of Gazebo School Park.

Sigrid Emerson has been a certified personal trainer since 1986 and has worked internationally. Her training and experience include aeroobics, weight training, yoga, and Alexander Technique.

Eric Erickson is a long-term student of Gestalt and Eastern philosophical traditions.

Signy Erickson is a private practice in Sisters, Ore., treating patients of all ages with a wide variety of conditions, using Craniosacral Therapy and Somatomotional Release as the basis of her work. Her special interest is in pediatrics and neurodevelopmental problems.

Eleanor Criswell Hanna, professor of psychology at Sonoma State University, is editor of Somatics, director of the Novato Institute for Somatic Research and Training, and author of How Yoga Works and Biofeedback and Somatics.

Steven Harper coordinates Esalen's Wilderness Programs. He has led both traditional and experimental expeditions internationally for over twenty years. His work focuses on natural as a vehicle for awakening.

Jill Harris is a longtime student and practitioner of Sensory Awareness who has recently co-led workshops with Charlotte Silver.

Rachel Harris was in the 1968 Esalen Residential Program. She is a psychotherapist in private practice in Princeton, N.J., and a consultant for executives on leadership and interpersonal skill development.

Robert Helm is a senior member of the Esalen massage/bodywork staff.

Kabir Helminski is a Shaikh of the Mevlevi Order, which traces back to Rumi. He has been teaching within the Sufi tradition for more than twenty years and is the author of Living Presence: A Sufi Way to Mindfulness and the Essential Self.

Gay Hendricks has been a psychologist and body-centered therapist for twenty-eight years. He is the author of Learning to Love Yourself, and the coauthor of The Conscious Heart, Conscious Loving, and At the Speed of Life.

Deborah Ardell Hill is a licensed massage therapist and reflexologist experienced in a variety of techniques, including shiatsu and craniosacral. She also incorporates the chakras and meridians as a framework for looking at the body.

Martina Hoffmann is a painter, sculptor, and Reiki master whose art explores women's connection to the Goddess. Her work is featured in the book Return of the Great Goddess and One Source.

Maria Lucía Sauer Holloman has practiced spiritual healing in Brazil and the U.S. since 1982. She has been a resident student and teacher at Esalen and conducts trainings and seminars internationally.

Jonathan Horan is a professional actor, certified massage practitioner, and currently on the teaching faculty of the Moving Center.

Chungliang Al Huang teaches Tai Ji philosophy, East/West synthesis, and the art of movement mediation. He is the founder-president of the Living Tao Foundation and director of Lan Ting Institute in the Sacred Mountains of China.

Elaine Hughes, author of Writing from the Inner Self and several other books on writing, has been combining meditation with writing exercises in her teaching for over twenty years.

Helen Hunt is the founder of the New York Women's Foundation and the Dallas Women's Foundation. She is also founder and president of the Sister Fund and a board member of the MS Foundation.
Terry Hunt is a licensed psychologist and a certified bioenergetic therapist specializing in addictive disorders and adults from dysfunctional families. He is coauthor of Emotional Healing and Secrets to Keep.  p. 32

Leigh Hyams is a painter/teaching-artist at UC Berkeley Extension, JFK University, and Atitsa in Greece. A Fulbright Scholar whose work has been exhibited internationally, she leads art tours for museums and universities. p. 35

Ione is a writer, director, playwright, and author of the memoir Pride of Family: Four Generations of American Women of Color. She is also a psychotherapist who facilitates access to dreams, myths, and ancestral memories. p. 38

Blackwolf Jones is an Ojibwe elder who received the teachings of the Ojibwe traditions for forty-five years. He is a teacher, psychotherapist, and coauthor of Listen to the Drum, The Healing Drum, and Earth Dance Drum.  p. 16

Arthur Samuel Joseph is a teacher and professor of voice and is the creator of Vocal Awareness, a method that integrates mind/body/spirit through the vocal arts. p. 28

Zoran Josipovic is a counselor, meditation teacher, and co-director of Realization Center in Woodstock, N.Y. He is a longtime student of Eastern contemplative traditions and coauthor of Zen for Beginners.  p. 70

Galway Kinnell is a former MacArthur Fellow whose 1982 Selected Poems won the Pulitzer Prize and the National Book Award. He teaches at NYU, living part-time in New York and part-time in Vermont. His most recent book is Imperfect Thirst.  p. 33

Ron Kurtz developed the Hakomi method and is founder of the Hakomi Institute. He is the author of Body-Centered Psychotherapy and is currently writing a book on psychotherapy as a spiritual practice.  p. 52

Stanley Krippner is professor of psychology at Saybrook Institute and the California Institute of Integral Studies and coauthor of Dreamworking, Dream Telepathy, and Realms of Healing.  p. 60

Zoran Josipovic is a counselor, meditation teacher, and co-director of Realization Center in Woodstock, N.Y. He is a longtime student of Eastern contemplative traditions and coauthor of Zen for Beginners.  p. 70

Daphne Rose Kingma is a therapist, lecturer, and teacher of relationships as a spiritual art form. She is the best-selling author of seven books on relationships, including Coming Apart, True Love, Heart and Soul, and The Men We Never Knew.  p. 58

George King has been a teacher of "somatic poetry" for over three decades. He has worked with major ballet companies worldwide and was personal masseur for Rudolf Nureyev and Edward Villella when they toured the U.S.  p. 58

George King has been a teacher of "somatic poetry" for over three decades. He has worked with major ballet companies worldwide and was personal masseur for Rudolf Nureyev and Edward Villella when they toured the U.S.  p. 58

Daphne Rose Kingma is a therapist, lecturer, and teacher of relationships as a spiritual art form. She is the best-selling author of seven books on relationships, including Coming Apart, True Love, Heart and Soul, and The Men We Never Knew.  p. 58

Stephen LaBerge is a scientist dedicated to the transformation of human consciousness. He teaches and researches conscious or "lucid" dreaming at Stanford University. p. 42

Carol LaDue is a focusing teacher, speaking coach, bodyworker, and the director of the Pool of Listening Wisdom. She facilitates people in the embodiment of a meaningful life with compassion, respect, and humor. p. 50

Mel Kimura-Bucholtz holds degrees in psychology, philosophy, and literature, and trained with Milton Erickson. For the past twenty-five years his work has involved bringing out individual's unique skills, capacities for self-healing, and outstanding performance. p. 43

Carol LaDue is a focusing teacher, speaking coach, bodyworker, and the director of the Pool of Listening Wisdom. She facilitates people in the embodiment of a meaningful life with compassion, respect, and humor. p. 50

Daphne Rose Kingma is a therapist, lecturer, and teacher of relationships as a spiritual art form. She is the best-selling author of seven books on relationships, including Coming Apart, True Love, Heart and Soul, and The Men We Never Knew.  p. 58

Galway Kinnell is a former MacArthur Fellow whose 1982 Selected Poems won the Pulitzer Prize and the National Book Award. He teaches at NYU, living part-time in New York and part-time in Vermont. His most recent book is Imperfect Thirst.  p. 33

Pauline Kirby, a teacher and health practitioner for over twenty-five years, has a background in both traditional medicine and a variety of complementary medical practices including acupuncture, herbs, and homeopathy. p. 46
Dale Larson, associate professor and director of the Graduate Health Psychology Program at Santa Clara University, is a clinician, researcher, former Fulbright Scholar, international lecturer, and author of The Helper's Journey. p. 23

Sarah La Salle is a psychotherapist and teacher who specializes in healing blocks to self-love and creativity. She is in private practice in Santa Monica, Calif. p. 53

Laura Lawrence is a Board-certified psychiatrist in private practice in Dallas, Texas. She has presented workshops nationwide to professionals and to the public on the uses of meditation in psychotherapy and methods for integrating psychotherapy and spirituality. p. 58

Barbara Lee is a circlemaker who has worked with groups for the past seventeen years. Her primary focus is on the heart-centered remembrance of the Divine. p. 39, 53

Lenore Lefer facilitates retreats for women of all ages, people with heart disease, and people with cancer. A former psychotherapist, she works in Northern California and conducts professional psychosynthesis training groups in the U.S. and Russia. p. 27, 30

Mel Lefer has been a research participant and teacher at Dr. Dean Ornish's Preventive Medicine Research Institute for twelve years, and has shown reversal of his own heart disease without surgery. He has practiced and taught Integral Yoga for twelve years. p. 24

George Leonard is the author of Mastery; The Silent Pulse; and The Transformation. He is a fourth-degree black belt in aikido and founder of Leonard Energy Training (LET). p. 28, 55

David Levenson is an internist whose medical practice is devoted to stress reduction, pain management, counseling, and the treatment of obesity. Co-founder of the Sequoia Hospital Stress Reduction Clinic, he is also a long-term mindfulness mediator. p. 34

Master Share K. Lew, a youthful 79, is a healer and Taoist priest from Wong Lung monastery in Southern China with over half a century's experience teaching Taoist health practices such as Chi Kung. p. 22

Elisa Lodge is an expressive arts therapist with thirty years' experience teaching body/mind practices. She is a professional actress and performing artist. p. 63

Aileen Lorraine has been a conscious coach, group facilitator, and consciousness author since 1970. She originated The Love Project and The Love Principles, and is the founder and artistic director of The Theatre of Life. p. 55

Olga Luchakova is a spiritual teacher in the tradition of Kundalini Yoga, Vedanta, and Hesychasm. A former medical doctor and scientist, she is on the adjunct faculty of the Institute of Transpersonal Psychology and John F. Kennedy University. p. 50

Nancy Kaye Lunney, formerly a vocal coach and accompanist, is the originator of Singing Gestalt, which utilizes lyrics and songs as a means of self-expression. She is director of programming at Esalen. p. 19

Fred Luskin is a fellow at the Complementary and Alternative Medicine Program at Stanford where he researches the spiritual aspects of care for heart disease. He was coordinator of Stanford's Heath Psychology Masters program and is a licensed therapist. p. 20

Carol Lynch is a registered art therapist and licensed marriage and family therapist with a private practice in New Jersey. She integrates art therapy, psychodrama, and emotional release work in her practice. p. 35

Jerry Lynch is a sports psychologist working with professional, Olympic, and collegiate champions, author of five books (including Thinking Body, Dancing Mind with Al Huang), and director of the TaoSportsCenter for Excellence in Santa Cruz, Calif. p. 36

Deborah Anne Medow, Esalen workshop leader and bodywork practitioner since 1966, teaches ashtanga yoga, massage, creative movement, Gestalt awareness, and related healing disciplines throughout the U.S. and Europe. p. 13, 37, 58

Brian Melvin is a drummer and percussionist who has recorded seven albums and appeared with musical giants such as Herbie Hancock, Jaro Pastusov, Wayne Shorter, Bob Weir, Joe Henderson, and Roy Hargove. His most recent recording is Live in Vegas. p. 28

Linda Trichter Metcalf, formerly a professor of English and humanities, cofounded the practice of Prophetic Writing and has been teaching it since 1976. She is codirector of the Prophetic Writing Center in Portland, Maine. p. 57

Deena Metzger is a novelist, poet, playwright, and essayist. Her most recent books are Writing For Your Life, the novel Looking For the Faces of God, and a book of poetry, A Sabbath Among the Ruins. p. 27

Charles Miedzinski is a cofounder of the Arts and Consciousness program at JFK University. He has taught his transformative arts approaches integrating sacred arts, psychology, and spiritual practices, at numerous universities for twenty-five years. p. 22

Sukie Miller, former director of education at Esalen, founded the Institute for the Study of the Afterdeath. She is the author of After Death: Mapping the Journey. p. 47

Oscar Miro-Quesada is a Peruvian-born transpersonal psychologist and teacher of cross-cultural shamanism who apprenticed with two renowned Peruvian curanderos. He is a Fellow in Ethnopsychology with the OAS and leads sacred tours to Peru and Bolivia. p. 15

Phillip Moffitt, an aikido black belt, somatic educator, and twenty-year practitioner and teacher of yoga, is coauthor of The Power to Heal. As editor-in-chief and co-owner of Esquire, he was named one of the fifty top entrepreneurs of the 1980s. p. 25

Beverly Kitaen Morse is a marriage and family counselor in private practice in Santa Monica and a senior consultant at the Rosenberg-Rand Institute for the Arts and Consciousness program at JFK University. She has taught at Esalen. p. 28

Arthur Munyer is a trigger-point specialist who has been a student and practitioner of various bodywork and emotional release disciplines for over twenty-five years, most of them at Esalen. He has a private practice in Carmel, Calif. p. 47

Alexander Murray is professor of flute at the University of Illinois and codirector of the Urbana-Midwest Center for the Alexander Technique. He served for many years as principal flute of the London Philharmonic and the Royal Opera. p. 48

Joan Murray is codirector of the Urbana-Midwest Center for the Alexander Technique. A former dancer and ballet mistress, she is internationally acknowledged as an innovative Alexander Technique teacher. p. 48

Claudio Narango, growth disciplines theorist and former Esalen resident, introduced meditation as an adjunct to therapy and was first to teach the enneagram as personality map in the U.S. He has given the opening address at all the International Gestalt Conferences. p. 61

Grandfather Fred Nason is an elder of the Esalen Tribe who has spent his whole life guiding people into the Santa Lucia Mountains of Big Sur. His forte is his love, knowledge, and stories of life in the Wilderness. p. 35, 72

Tom Little Bear Nason is a seventh generation spiritual leader of the Esalen Tribe of Big Sur and a wilderness guide who is dedicated to helping others to mend the sacred hoop of life. p. 35, 72

Maria Nemeth, a clinical psychologist, has been leading seminars for twenty-five years emphasizing successful communication and the development of excellence with ease. p. 58

Steven Newmark is a psychotherapist, author, and lecturer on singles issues. He is the creator of the videos What Women Really Want, The Art of Meeting Men, and How to Meet Women. p. 32

Andrew Nugent-Head is the China Director of the Association for Traditional Studies. He has lived in Beijing since 1987, where he works and studies with the last generation of traditional masters born and educated pre-1949. p. 51

Andy Nusbaum is a twenty-five year member of the P.C.A., a longtime teacher, and a founding board member of The Shivas Irons Society. He is committed to the mysteries, beauties, and transformative capabilities of the game of golf. p. 14
Laurie Phillips is a psychoanalytical psychotherapist practicing in Christchurch, England, specializing in dreamwork. She has run communication training programs worldwide for organizations such as Smith, Kline Beecham, IBM, and Mobil Oil. She is also a serious astrologer and artist. P. 61

Maggie Phillips is a psychologist and director of the California Institute of Clinical Hypnosis. She leads workshops on hypnosis and personal growth and is coauthor of Healing the Divided Self. P. 59

Char Pias, Esalen Massage Staff member since 1980, is a facilitator and founding member of the Esalen Arts Center. She is a licensed graduate and minister of the Center for Spiritual Healing in Tiburon, Calif. P. 45

Diane Kennedy Pike, author of Life As A Waking Dream, has been teaching consciousness skills since 1972. She draws on Eastern and Western wisdom in her practice of integrated spirituality and conscious living. P. 55

Noelle Poncelet is a psychologist and trainer in hypnotherapy in the U.S. and Europe. She is also on the international faculty of the Foundation for Shamanic Studies. P. 61

Dennis Portnoy is a licensed counselor specializing in burnout prevention and codependency in the workplace. He conducts trainings for organizations, medical groups, and schools, and is the author of Overextended and Undernourished: A Self-Care Guide for People in Helping Roles. P. 28

David Presti is a clinical psychologist and psychopharmacologist who works in alcohol and drug abuse treatment at the San Francisco VA Medical Center and teaches in the Division of Neurobiology at the University of California in Berkeley. P. 56

Christine Stewart Price is a therapist and ongoing student of Gestalt practice and other approaches to developing awareness. P. 37, 38, 53, 55

Carol Proudfoot-Edgar leads workshops on integrating shamanic methods and Native American teachings, with a special interest in Bear Medicine. She is a certified shamanic counselor and teacher for Michael Harner’s Foundation for Shamanic Studies. P. 53

Janet Quinn is a contemplative, a writer, a professor of nursing, a teacher, researcher, and practitioner of Therapeutic Touch, an international lecturer on healing, and a Recycled Catholic. P. 15, 16

Gustavo Rabin is a clinical psychologist who focuses on relationships, life transitions, and spiritual creativity. He has a private practice in Los Angeles. P. 18, 59

Shiva Rea practices body-centered healing arts including hatha yoga, world dance, bodywork, and somatic psychology. On faculty at UCLA’s World Arts and Culture department, she also teaches yoga and movement arts from her base in Santa Monica, Calif. P. 40

Paul Reblilot, a group leader at Esalen for more than twenty years, combines Gestalt methodology with theater and ritual. He teaches in Europe and throughout the U.S. P. 44

Stephan Rechtschaffen, founder/president of Omega Institute, is a physician concerned with holistic approaches to wellness and longevity. He uses concepts of time as the focus for developing optimal health. P. 16

Layne Redmond, percussionist and recording artist, has created a form of rhythmic and drumming exercises drawn from years of studying hatha yoga, Buddhist meditation, Ericksonian hypnosis, and percussion techniques from the Middle East, Africa, and India. P. 31

Patricia Reis has an MA from UCLA and a degree in depth psychology from Pacific Graduate School. Author of Through the Goddess: A Woman’s Way of Healing, she has a private psychotherapy practice for women in Yarmouth, Maine. P. 14

Rhiannon is an acclaimed jazz singer/improvistor/storyteller as well as an inspiring vocal teacher. Her current performing and teaching collaborations include Bobby McFerrin and Robert Hall. P. 37

Gabriele Rico, professor of English, creative arts, and humanitites at San Jose State University, lectures widely on the application of brain research to the creative process. She is the developer of the groundbreaking clustering process. P. 19

Lama Tharchin Rinpoche is a high lama fully trained in Tibet. He has accomplished long-term solitary retreat (eight years) and is the tenth lineage holder of the Kepchong tantric yogis of Tibet. P. 26

William Pennell Rock was educated in behavioral sciences, philosophy, and comparative religions. The author of Performing Inside Out, he has led workshops worldwide in Jungian-based Gestalt psychodrama, which is developing into a new kind of performing art. P. 70

William Roll is professor of psychology and psychical research at the State University of West Georgia and a lay Zen monk. He is the author of the classic The Poltergeist and more than 100 research articles. P. 25

Jack Rosenberg, a psychologist and director of the Rosenberg-Band Institute of Integrative Body Psychotherapy in Venice, California, is the author of Body, Self, and Soul. P. 30

Gabrielle Roth is an artist, healer, and philosopher. She is the author of Maps to Escapary: Teachings of an Urban Shaman and is musical director of The Mirrors. P. 13

Ilana Rubenfeld, thirty-year pioneer in the integration of body-mind spirit and originator of the Rubenfeld Synergy® Method, is a certified teacher of Alexander Technique, Feldenkrais Method®, and trained with Fritz and Laura Perls in Gestalt practice. P. 43, 45

Adam Rudolph is a percussionist/composer who has collaborated with Hassan Hakmoun, Yuriy Latef, and Don Cherry. His repertoire includes West African healing music, North Indian tabla, North African trance music, and Tibetan multisonic singing. P. 40

Stephanie Sabetti, founder of the Life Energy Process®, has a doctorate in psychology and trains therapists internationally. He is also an organizational consultant. P. 50

Barbara Sachs trained as a psychotherapist and Rilwikon teacher and was clinical director of counseling at JFK University. She raised her two children as a single parent, integrating her passions: parenting, spiritual life, and psychology. P. 58

Andre Salvage has been teaching self-defense for over eighteen years. A consultant to Park Grove Hospital and the L.A. Commission on Assaults Against Women, he has developed nationwide assault prevention seminars. P. 16

Karel Samsom is an entrepreneur and teaches creativity, innovation, and environmental entrepreneurship at the University of Vermont and at Nijenrode University in his native Netherlands. P. 46

Audrey Savage, Gestalt practitioner and body therapist, works with women’s issues, sexuality and spirituality, and the tarot. She is the author of The Fourth Woman and Twice Raped. P. 44

Lisa Schachter is a therapist experienced with individuals, couples, and families in both a psychiatric hospital setting and in private practice. She is trained in psychodynamic theory and a body-oriented approach. P. 32

Melody Schaper is a movement artist and teacher. A Laban Movement Analyst and teacher of the Alexander Technique, she focuses on awakening, clarifying, and enhancing expression through the body. P. 24

Howard Schechter integrates insights and practices from a variety of Eastern and Western psychological and spiritual traditions. He is founder, professor, and former chairman of the Department of Organization Development at the California Institute of Integral Studies. P. 39, 53

David Schiffman is a longtime group leader at Esalen. His primary interest is in facilitating people in transition toward a more heartful, unstrained existence. P. 13, 35, 39, 49, 52, 69, 70

Meir Schneider healed himself of congenital blindness at age sixteen using the Bates vision exercises. He is the founder and director of the Center and School for Self-Healing in San Francisco and Tel Aviv. P. 38
ESALEN INSTITUTE RESERVATION FORM

This form is for your convenience in reserving a space in Esalen workshops. If you wish to make reservations for more than one person, please photocopy this form so that each registrant has his/her own form, unless you are registering as a couple with the same address and phone number. A nonrefundable deposit for each person registering and each workshop applied for must accompany this form. (Please see Reservation Information, page 4, under Fees and Reservations, Making Contact with Us, and Cancellation and Refund Policy.)

Name of Registrant

Address

City

State

Zip

Home Phone:

Work Phone:

- Check if you have previously been to Esalen and this is a new address.

Occasionally there are unexpected situations that require us to contact you immediately before your stay here. If you will not be at the above numbers during the two weeks prior to the workshop, where may we reach you?

Please mark your first and second choices for housing after referring to page 4 for accommodation descriptions and rates. Total cost includes workshop fees, lodging, and meals.

- Check for standard accommodations, if available.
- Check for bunk bed room, if available.
- Check for sleeping bag space, if available.
- Check if you wish to room as a couple.

Write here the name(s) of any person(s) with whom you wish to room.

All workshop reservations require a nonrefundable deposit. Balance is due at time of check-in. (See page 4.)

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Workshop Date</th>
<th>Leader's Name</th>
<th>Fee</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Workshop Deposits Enclosed:

- Tax-deductible contribution to Esalen (Optional):
- $5 Catalog Contribution (Optional):

Subtotal:

Total Amount Enclosed:

- Check here for $10 prepay discount (see page 5).
- Check here if this is your first visit to Esalen.
- Check here if you need directions to Esalen.
- Check here if you are a senior.

Passenger Van Service:

I want transportation from (check one):

- Monterey Airport at approximately 4:00 PM on (date of arrival, Fridays and Sundays only).
- Monterey Transit Plaza at approximately 4:20 PM (corner of Pearl and Alvarado, next to Ordway Drug)

The $30-per-person charge (subject to change) is payable on arrival at Esalen. Please prepare to arrive at the airport well before 4:00 PM so you do not miss our van. Esalen cannot be responsible for taxi fare or other transportation costs. If your plans for use of the passenger van service change after you have made your reservation, please notify us. The only departing van service from Esalen is on Fridays and Sundays at approximately 6:30 PM. If you plan on taking this limo please make sure that your plane reservations are after 8:00 PM. Passenger van service is not available at any other time.

Other Notes:

- All of our rooms are non-smoking. If you smoke, please plan to do so outside.
- No pets allowed.
- We are unable to act as a banking service for our guests. Please bring adequate funds for your stay.
- We occasionally make our mailing list available to other organizations who have services, information, or events that might be of interest to our subscribers. Please check here if you prefer that your name be used for Esalen mailings only.
- Check here if you do not want your phone number given out for ride-sharing.

Please make checks payable to Esalen Institute, in U.S. currency only. (There will be a $15 fee for returned checks.) Overseas residents must pay by checks drawn on U.S. banks or with one of the charge cards below. Checks or credit card information must accompany the reservations form. Or, you may fax this form to us at 408-667-2724. If you do so, you must include payment via one of the credit cards below.

Your reservation can be charged to:

- MasterCard
- Visa
- American Express

Card No.

Expiration Date

Authorizing Signature

Thank you for your reservation. As soon as it is processed you will receive by return mail a receipt for your deposit and a notice of confirmation. Please review your confirmation for accuracy.
MACIEK BURY is a photographer from Poland whose work appears on the cover of this issue of the Esalen Catalog. He studied at the National Film School in Lodz and later became a member of the faculty. He is now a freelancer who leads workshops designed to help people express themselves through the art of photography.

Maciek’s prints for this issue were made at the Profil Studio in Wroclaw, Poland.
Esalen Institute is a center to encourage work in the humanities and sciences that promotes human values and potentials. Its activities consist of public seminars, residential work-study programs, invitational conferences, research, and semi-autonomous projects.
I hereby grant to the Educational Resources Information Center (ERIC) nonexclusive permission to reproduce and disseminate this document as indicated above. Reproduction from the ERIC microfiche or electronic media by persons other than ERIC employees and its system contractors requires permission from the copyright holder. Exception is made for non-profit reproduction by libraries and other service agencies to satisfy information needs of educators in response to discrete inquiries.

Signature: Peter Friedberg

Printed Name/Position/Role: Peter Friedberg, Co-editor

Telephone: 408-667-3664

Fax: 408-667-3065

E-Mail Address: catagu@esalen.org

Date: 5/13/98
III. DOCUMENT AVAILABILITY INFORMATION (FROM NON-ERIC SOURCE):

If permission to reproduce is not granted to ERIC, or, if you wish ERIC to cite the availability of the document from another source, please provide the following information regarding the availability of the document. (ERIC will not announce a document unless it is publicly available, and a dependable source can be specified. Contributors should also be aware that ERIC selection criteria are significantly more stringent for documents that cannot be made available through EDRS.)

Publisher/Distributor:

Address:

Price:

IV. REFERRAL OF ERIC TO COPYRIGHT/REPRODUCTION RIGHTS HOLDER:

If the right to grant this reproduction release is held by someone other than the addressee, please provide the appropriate name and address:

Name:

Address:

V. WHERE TO SEND THIS FORM:

Send this form to the following ERIC Clearinghouse:

However, if solicited by the ERIC Facility, or if making an unsolicited contribution to ERIC, return this form (and the document being contributed) to:

ERIC Processing and Reference Facility
1100 West Street, 2nd Floor
Laurel, Maryland 20707-3598

Telephone: 301-497-4080
Toll Free: 800-799-3742
FAX: 301-953-0263
e-mail: ericfac@inet.ed.gov
WWW: http://ericfac.piccard.csc.com