This book is a guide to teaching English vocabulary to second-language learners. The book is divided into 30 chapters that teach 240 critical words. This vocabulary includes what English-as-a-Second-Language (ESL), adult literacy, and pre-general equivalency diploma students need to get ahead in today's competitive world. The guide's distinctive features include these: (1) an intensive words-in-context approach; (2) abundant and varied practice; (3) a focus on essential words; (4) sensitivity to students' needs, appealing content; (5) a clear format; and (6) helpful supplements. The guide is one in a series that includes "Building Vocabulary Skills," "Improving Vocabulary Skills," "Advancing Vocabulary Skills," and "Instructors Manual." (JL)
Many of the words in this book will be new to you. To help you say (or pronounce) the words, the book gives information after each word. For example, the information for the word labor is (lay-bur). Here is how to use that information with the guide in the box below.

1. To pronounce the l in lay-bur, look for the letter l in the guide. It tells you that the l in labor is pronounced like the l in the simple word let. To pronounce the ay, look under “A sounds” in the guide. You will see that ay is sounded like the ay in the simple word say. The guide also tells you that b sounds like the b in the simple word big, and ur sounds like the ur in fur.

2. You learn that labor is a word made up of two syllables. A syllable (sil-uh-buhl) is a part of a word that can be said by itself. The word hat has one syllable. The word labor has two syllables: la and bor.

3. When a word has two or more syllables, one syllable is said a bit more strongly than the others. In this book, the strong, or stressed, syllable is shown in boldfaced letters: lay-bur.

4. Some words of three or more syllables have one syllable that gets a lighter stress. This syllable will be shown in italic letters. For example, the word volunteer is pronounced vol-uhn-teer. The last syllable, teer, is said most strongly, and a bit of stress is put on the first syllable, vol, as well.

A sounds
- a (short a) - hat
- ay (long a) - say, made, paid
- ah - calm
- air - bear, care
- ar - card
- aw - all, law

E sounds
- e (short e) - ten
- ee (long e) - she, feet, these, teacher

I sounds
- i (short i) - sit
- ii (long i) - hi, ice, pie
- ihr - here, near

O sounds
- o (short o) - lot
- oh (long o) - go, rope, row, toe
- oi - oil, boy
- or - for
- ou - out, now

OO sounds
- u (short oo) - put, book
- oo (long oo) - cool, lose, new, juice

U sounds
- uh (short u) - up; about, item, easily, reason, circus
- yoo (long u) - use, cure
- ur - fur, teacher

Other sounds
- b - big, crib
- ch - cheese, catch
- d - do, head
- f - fall, stuff, laugh
- g - give, dog
- h - he
- j - jump, edge
- k - kiss, cat, back
- l - let, call
- m - meet, comb
- n - new, fun, sign, know
- ng - song
- p - put, trip
- r - red, dear
- s - sell
- ss - kiss, face, yes
- sh - shine, dish, sure
- t - top, hat
- th - thin, bath
- TH - the, bathe
- v - very, have
- w - way, when
- y - yes
- z - zero, has, lose
- zh - usual
A Preview for Instructors

Thank you for your interest in the Townsend Press vocabulary series—perhaps the most widely-used vocabulary books on the educational market today. Our goal in this series has been to produce nothing less than excellent books at nothing more than reasonable prices.

About the Book

You might look first at the introduction to students (page 1), which immediately makes clear just why vocabulary study is important. Students are presented with a series of reasons for developing a strong vocabulary. The back cover as well convinces students that “a good vocabulary matters”—in school, at work, and in life.

Next, you might turn to the preface, starting on page vii, which describes in detail the nine distinctive features of the book.

Paging then through the text, you’ll see that a second color is used throughout to make material as inviting as possible. You’ll note, too, that while each chapter takes up only six pages, those pages contain a great deal of hands-on practice to help ensure that students master each word. And you’ll find that the practice materials themselves are far more carefully done, and more appealing, than the run-of-the-mill items you typically find in a skills text. The quality and interest level of the content will help students truly learn the words, without either boring them or insulting their intelligence.

Supplements to the Book

Adding to the value of Vocabulary Basics, which has a net price of only $7.90, is the quality of the supplements:

- An Instructor’s Edition, which you hold in your hand. The Instructor’s Edition is identical to the student text except that it includes (in italic type) the answers to all of the practices and tests.

- A combined Instructor’s Manual and Test Bank, free with adoptions of 20 or more copies. This booklet contains a general vocabulary placement test as well as a pretest and a posttest for the book and for each of the five units in the text. It also includes teaching guidelines, an answer key, and an additional mastery test for each chapter.

- Computer disks, which provide additional testing materials for the words in the book. Free with adoptions of 200 or more copies, the disks contain a number of user- and instructor-friendly features: 1) actual pronunciations of each word; 2) brief explanations of answers; 3) frequent mention of the user’s first name; 4) a running score at the bottom of the screen; and 5) a record-keeping file.

Adopters of the book can obtain any of these supplements by calling our toll-free number, 1-800-772-6410, or by writing or faxing Townsend Press at the numbers shown on page iv.

Key Features of the Book

- An intensive words-in-context approach. Each new word is presented in ten different settings. Practices include sentence-completion activities and high-interest passages. And to develop “ownership” of the new words, students are also asked to use the words in speaking and writing situations. No comparable book gives such sustained attention to the words-in-context approach.

- Sensitivity to the needs of basic students. Words and pronunciations are presented in easy-to-understand ways, sentence structure is kept simple, and paragraphs are kept brief. The book’s numerous writing and speaking activities give basic students the extra practice they need to master the new words. And the book uses a friendly, accessible tone that never condescends.

- Focus on essential words. A good deal of time went into selecting the 240 words featured in the book. Word frequency lists were consulted, along with lists in a wide range of vocabulary books. A long process of research and discussion resulted in a list of words that students working at a basic level would find most helpful.

- Varied practice and appealing content. The wide variety of activities keeps students motivated. The lively, realistic, and even humorous practice materials grab students’ attention and enhance learning. A special effort has been made to provide positive and humanistic materials—ones that recognize and even celebrate the goodness in people and in everyday life.

A Comprehensive Vocabulary Program

There are eight books in the Townsend Press vocabulary series:

- Vocabulary Basics (reading level 4–6)
- Groundwork for a Better Vocabulary, 2/e (reading level 5–8)
- Building Vocabulary Skills, 2/e (reading level 7–9)
- Improving Vocabulary Skills, 2/e (reading level 9–11)
- Advancing Vocabulary Skills, 2/e (reading level 11–13)
- Building Vocabulary Skills, Short Version, 2/e (reading level 7–9)
- Improving Vocabulary Skills, Short Version, 2/e (reading level 9–11)
- Advancing Vocabulary Skills, Short Version, 2/e (reading level 11–13)

Note that the short versions of the Building, Improving, and Advancing books are limited to 200 words, as opposed to the 260 words and 40 word parts in each of the long versions. For some students and classes, the short versions of these books will provide an easier, more manageable approach to vocabulary development.

In all likelihood, the students you teach have severely limited vocabularies. Some have come to this country as adults, and their day-to-day struggles in an unfamiliar culture have left them little time to acquire more than the most basic vocabulary. Others, although born in this country, have been short-changed by the educational system. Often with undiagnosed or poorly understood learning problems, they were pushed from grade to grade and missed consistent instruction in vocabulary development. Still others received a solid enough education but never developed strong vocabularies because they were raised in homes where television—not reading or conversation—was the favored pastime.

In the long run, it makes no difference why your students have limited vocabularies. The results are the same: Self-conscious about their limited vocabularies, students hesitate to take steps on their own behalf—like continuing in school or applying for a better job. Not knowing enough words, they are unable to meet the demands of school and the workplace.

Vocabulary Basics provides a practical answer to your students’ vocabulary problem. In the course of 30 chapters, Vocabulary Basics teaches 240 critical words—the words that ESL, adult-literacy, and pre-GED students need to get ahead in today’s competitive world. Here are the book’s distinctive features:

1. An intensive words-in-context approach. Studies show that students learn words best by encountering them repeatedly in different contexts, not through rote memorization. The book gives students a concentrated in-context experience by presenting each new word in seven different settings. Each of the thirty chapters takes students through the following series of steps:

   - Students start by inferring the meaning of each word as it appears in two sentences. On the basis of their inferences, they choose the closest meaning from three multiple-choice options.
   - Then, armed with a basic understanding of the new words, students are ready to match each word to its meaning.
   - Next, they strengthen their understanding of the word by applying it in four different words-in-context practices, including sentence-completion activities and high-interest fill-in-the-blank passages.
   - Last, to lock in their mastery of the new words, students are asked to come up with their own endings for eight practice sentences, each of which includes one of the new words. At this point, students will be so comfortable with the words that they will have little trouble using them in this challenging writing-speaking activity.

Each encounter with a word brings it closer to becoming part of the student’s permanent word bank. No comparable vocabulary book gives such sustained attention to the words-in-context approach.
Abundant and varied practice. Along with extensive practice in each chapter, unit tests at the end of every six chapters provide students with three additional chances to work with the words in a unit. By the end of the book, then, students will have worked with each new word ten times. Moreover, Chapters 2 through 30 repeat words from earlier chapters (such repeated words are marked with small circles like this°), allowing for even more reinforcement. Many unit activities—for example, synonym and antonym practices and crossword puzzles—are completely different from those found in the chapters. This variety keeps students motivated and ensures their mastery of the words. All this practice makes it possible for students to learn in the best possible way: by working closely and repeatedly with the new words. No comparable book provides so much and such varied reinforcement.

Focus on essential words. A good deal of time went into selecting the 240 words featured in the book. We started by consulting word frequency lists, along with lists in a wide range of vocabulary books. In addition, each of us—as well as our editors—prepared a list of words. A computer was used to consolidate these many word lists. Then a long process of group discussion led to final decisions about the words that would be most helpful for students working at a basic level.

Sensitivity to students’ needs. The book gives careful attention to the special needs of basic students.

- The simplified pronunciation guide at the front of the book and in each chapter is free of the strange-looking pronunciation symbols that many people, particularly basic students, find so confusing. Instead, easily understood letters and letter combinations are used to show students how to sound out each new word.

- Throughout, we have aimed for a tone that is friendly and accessible, but never condescending.

- Recognizing that basic students often have difficulty processing long sentences and paragraphs, we have kept sentence structure uncomplicated and paragraphs brief.

- Whenever a word has multiple meanings (for example, delicate, meaning “easily broken” or “requiring care and skill”), we use the meaning that basic students are most likely to encounter and thus find helpful. (In this case, the meaning “easily broken” is the one we use.)

- Many basic students have difficulty with verbs: they have trouble remembering the correct form of the third-person singular in the present tense and the correct endings of the past and progressive tenses. Their tendency is to omit, respectively, the -s, -ed, and -ing endings. For example, when adding a new verb, such as insist, to their vocabulary, they will often write (and sometimes say), “My friend always insist I drive when we go out,” “Last night, I insist that we buy a new radio,” and “I got tired of insist that my kids clean their rooms.” So in the “Learning Eight New Words” section, whenever a new word is a verb, we usually provide the verb’s base form (insist) in the first sentence and the third-person singular present tense, past tense, or progressive form in subsequent sentences. Through repeated exposure, students become familiar with the correct way to form verbs. To help them even further, we include at the end of the book (see pages 249–251) a chart summarizing the more troublesome verb forms.

- To dispel students’ belief that the words in Vocabulary Basics are removed from their everyday lives, we deliberately use the second-person point of view in many of the book’s activities and passages. Seeing unfamiliar words in material that refers to “you” helps students see the relevance of the words to their own lives.
Finally, the last activity in each chapter and in each unit review encourages students’ ownership of the words even further. These activities ask students to use the new words when writing and speaking. Indeed, what better way is there for students to “own” a new word than to use it on paper or in conversation? However, basic students are often at a loss when asked to write or say a sentence using a new word. Throughout the book, then, we provide considerable help when it’s time for students to generate their own material. For example, the last activity in each chapter has students devise only endings for partial sentences already containing the new words. Such a structured approach gives students the help they need to get moving in the right direction. Similarly, the final activity in each unit review provides students with help as they get ready to create their own sentences—this time, from scratch. In this instance, we provide suggested topics that students can draw upon when writing or saying their sentences.

Consider, for example, our item for the word comfortable: “Using the word comfortable, write or talk about a time you made someone feel relaxed and at ease. Perhaps you invited a new neighbor to dinner, took the time to show a coworker around on the first day on the job, or helped a relative feel less nervous about going into the hospital.” If students were simply told “Make up a sentence using the word comfortable,” they might come up with something like this: “I feel comfortable in my English class.” Of course, such a sentence doesn’t demonstrate students’ understanding of the word. Comfortable could mean “upset” or “angry” or “bored.” Our suggestions encourage students to generate sentences that show they truly understand the new words. Some students may follow our suggestions closely; others may use our suggestions to spark topics of their own. In either case, our “prompts” help students write or say sentences that demonstrate their genuine understanding of the new words.

5 Appealing content. Dull practice exercises work against learning, while relevant, lively, even humorous materials grab students’ attention and enhance learning. For this reason, we put considerable effort into creating activities and passages with widespread appeal. Throughout, we have tried to make the material enjoyable for teachers and students alike. Look for a moment at the sentences on pages 10 and 28, and at the reading passages on pages 12, 30–31, and 42. When field-testing the material, we found that students especially enjoyed the often playful quality of the “Showing You Understand the Words” activity (see pages 11 and 17, for example).

6 Clear format. Vocabulary Basics has been designed so that its very format contributes to the learning process. Each chapter consists of three two-page spreads. In the first two-page spread (see pages 8–9), students can easily refer to all eight new words when completing the matching activity. In the second two-page spread (see pages 10–11), students can refer to a box that shows all eight words while working on the “Adding One Word” and “Adding Two Words” activities. In the third two-page spread (see pages 12–13), they can cross out the words in the box when filling in the blanks in the reading passages. The book’s format is equally attentive to the needs of the instructor. For instance, to facilitate grading, including use of the Scantron, students can mark answer spaces with the letter of the word or with the word itself.

7 Helpful supplements. An Instructor’s Edition containing answers to all the activities and tests in the student book as well as teaching guidelines is available at no charge to instructors adopting the text. Also available is a computer disk containing additional tests for each vocabulary chapter; these tests feature actual pronunciations of the words.
Realistic pricing. While Vocabulary Basics is comprehensive enough to serve as a primary text, its modest price ($7.90 net) also makes it an inexpensive supplement in basic reading, writing, pre-GED, and ESL classes.

One in a sequence of books. Vocabulary Basics is the most fundamental book in the Townsend Press vocabulary series. It is followed by Groundwork for a Better Vocabulary (a slightly more advanced basic text), Building Vocabulary Skills (an even more advanced basic text), Improving Vocabulary Skills (an intermediate text), and Advancing Vocabulary Skills (an advanced text). There are also short versions of the last three books. Suggested reading levels for the books are included in the Instructor's Manual. Together, the books create a comprehensive vocabulary program that will make any student a better reader, writer, and thinker.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

A number of people provided valuable assistance as the three of us worked on Vocabulary Basics. Our thanks go to Susan G. Hamson, whose word-processing abilities eased the demands of the project. Eliza Comodromos assisted at the very end by fine-tuning some of the questions and activities. Susan Gamer helped by drafting several sets of lively practice materials and by proofreading the completed manuscript. We appreciate as well the extraordinary design, editing, and proofreading skills of the multi-talented Janet M. Goldstein. Final thanks go to Carole Mohr, co-author of the other books in the Townsend Press vocabulary series. Her rigorous and insightful editing identified the changes that were needed to make the book as helpful as possible to ESL, adult-literacy, and pre-GED students.

WHY A GOOD VOCABULARY MATTERS

At one time or another, you have probably heard someone say, “It’s important to have a good vocabulary.” Wanting to be polite, you may have agreed. But perhaps you really wanted to ask, “Why is having a good vocabulary important?” Here are five reasons why.

1 Knowing a lot of words makes it easier for you to understand others and for others to understand you. Have you ever had trouble following what someone else was saying? Maybe you found it hard to understand a television news report. Perhaps you could not understand a doctor’s instructions for completing a medical form. Maybe you could not figure out what family members meant when they talked about an election. If you are like most people, you probably got upset when you didn’t understand what was being said.

   It can also be difficult to tell others what you are thinking and feeling when you don’t know enough words. Maybe the words will not come when you are writing a letter to a sick neighbor. Perhaps you have a hard time explaining to relatives why you were hurt by something they did. Maybe you have trouble telling friends why you are so excited about your new apartment.

   As your vocabulary gets larger, you will not have to work so hard to understand others—or to make others understand you. That, in turn, will make your life much easier.

2 A good vocabulary is the key to understanding what you read. If you don’t know enough words, you are going to have trouble figuring out the meaning of what you read. One or two words whose meanings you don’t know may not stop you. However, if there are many words you don’t know, it will be hard for you to understand what you read. With a strong vocabulary, you will get more out of newspapers, magazines, books—or anything else you want to read.

3 A large vocabulary can help you score higher on tests. Vocabulary is an important part of many tests—for example, the GED exam, college entrance exams, armed forces tests, and job placement tests. Why is that? It’s because the people who make up these exams know that vocabulary helps measure what you already know and how easily you can learn new information in the future. The more words you know, the better you will do on these exams.
4 A solid vocabulary will help you do better in school and at work. Knowing many words makes you a better reader, writer, speaker, listener, and thinker. These are the skills you need to do well in the classroom and on the job. In school, having a good vocabulary helps you understand your textbooks, classmates, and teachers. And in the world of work, a good vocabulary counts as never before. More and more, workers are being asked to change jobs and learn new skills. Knowing how to learn quickly is the key to doing well in this fast-changing world. A good vocabulary makes it easier for you to understand new ideas so you can get ahead on the job—and stay there.

5 A strong vocabulary helps you believe in yourself. Sometimes people who don’t have large vocabularies feel they don’t have what it takes to do well in today’s world. They may sit quietly in the back of the classroom, nervous about joining in. They may hear about an interesting job opening but be afraid to apply. Having a strong vocabulary helps you feel you have what it takes to make your life better. In other words, having a strong vocabulary helps you build confidence. What is confidence? It is the belief that you can do things you used to think you would never be able to do.

Now you know why it is so important to have a good vocabulary. The next few pages tell how this book will help you build a strong vocabulary—one that can unlock doors that used to be tightly closed.

HOW VOCABULARY BASICS IS DIFFERENT FROM OTHER BOOKS

The way most books try to build vocabulary is by asking students to memorize lists of words. But people usually forget memorized lists quickly. To learn a word really well, you must see and use it a number of times. Vocabulary Basics gives you the chance to use the new words in each chapter seven different ways. By the end of each chapter, you will easily remember what the new words mean because you will have used them so many times.

UNDERSTANDING THE BOOK AS A WHOLE

Inside Front Cover and Contents

By filling in the blanks below, you will understand how the book is organized. First, turn to the inside front cover. As you can see, the inside front cover provides a chart called Pronunciation Guide. This chart will help you figure out how to say the vocabulary words in the book. Next, turn to the Table of Contents on pages v–vi. There are thirty chapters in the book and a unit review after every six chapters. At the end of the last unit review, there are four short sections. The first section shows how to form verb tenses. The second gives information on making nouns plural. The third section is a Limited Answer Key. The fourth section is a list of the words in the book.
UNDERSTANDING EACH CHAPTER

Now it's time to turn to the first chapter in the book, on pages 8–13. This chapter, like all the others (except for the unit reviews), has seven parts. Each part is described below.

1. Learning Eight New Words

The first part of the chapter (see pages 8–9) is called “Learning Eight New Words.” The left-hand column lists eight boldfaced words. Underneath, you are shown how to say, or pronounce, each boldfaced word. For example, here is how to say agreement, the first word on page 8: uh-gree-muhnt. (Remember: for help on how to say the new words, see the guide on the inside front cover.)

After showing how to say the boldfaced word, the chapter gives the word’s part of speech. What part of speech is agreement? It is a noun. The vocabulary words in this book are mostly nouns, adjectives, and verbs. Nouns are words used to name something—a person, place, thing, or idea. The words boyfriend, city, hat, and truth are all nouns. Adjectives are words that describe nouns, as in the following word pairs: old boyfriend, large city, red hat, whole truth. Many of the words in this book are verbs, words that show action. They tell what someone or something is doing. The words ask, buy, drive, learn, and sing are all verbs.

To the right of each boldfaced word are two sentences that will help you understand its meaning. And below the sentences are three possible meanings for the boldfaced word. From among the three choices, you select the answer that has the closest meaning to that of the boldfaced word. In each sentence, the other words near the boldfaced word—the context—will give clues that help you figure out the meaning of the boldfaced word. There are four kinds of context clues: examples, words with similar meanings, words with opposite meanings, and the meaning of the sentence as a whole. Each kind of context clue is described below.

- Examples

  A sentence may have examples that help explain the meaning of the boldfaced word. For instance, take a look at the following sentence (from Chapter 1) and note how the examples (in italics) help explain the meaning of the word agreement:

  After fighting for hours, the little girls made an agreement to share their toys.

  The sentence gives an example of an agreement—sharing toys. To figure out what agreement means, think about the example. What would it mean if two children said they would share their toys? Now look at the three answer choices below. On the answer line to the left, write the letter of the answer you think is right.

  Agreement means

  a. fight  b. question  c. promise

  The examples make it clear that the two girls have made a promise to each other, so c is the correct answer.

- Words with Similar Meanings

  Words with the same or almost the same meaning are called synonyms (sin-uh-nimz). For example, the words joyful, happy, and pleased are synonyms because they all mean about the same thing. Synonyms often give clues about the meaning of a nearby unknown word. Look at the following sentence (from Chapter 1) and note how the synonym (in italics) helps explain the meaning of the word prepare:

Last year, I prepared all kinds of interesting dishes for our holiday dinner. But this year, I’m going to relax and let someone else make the meal.

Instead of using prepare again in the second sentence, the writer uses the synonym make. Now choose the letter of the right answer.

___ Prepare means

a. get ready
b. watch
c. leave

Since both prepare the meal and make the meal mean “get the meal ready,” answer a is correct.

- Words with Opposite Meanings

Words with opposite or almost opposite meanings are called antonyms (an-toh-nimz). For example, help and hurt are antonyms, as are work and rest. Antonyms can help you figure out the meanings of new words. How? By giving the opposite meaning of an unknown word, an antonym makes it easier to figure out what a new word means. Look at the following sentence from Chapter 1 and note how the antonym (in italics) helps explain the meaning of the word cancel. Then look at the three answer choices below and select the best answer.

____ I had planned to see the doctor today, but I feel so much better that I think I will cancel my visit there.

___ Cancel means

a. remember
b. not do as planned
c. get ready for

The sentence says that the writer had planned to see the doctor but now will cancel the visit. You can guess, then, that cancel has the opposite meaning of plan to. So b is the correct answer.

- The Meaning of the Sentence as a Whole

Sometimes there is no example, synonym, or antonym in a sentence. But even without these clues, you can figure out what a boldfaced word means by studying the meaning of the sentence as a whole. For example, look at the following sentence (from Chapter 1) and see if you can decide on the meaning of the word flexible simply by studying the rest of the sentence:

The new lamp next to my bed has a long neck that is so flexible it can be moved any way I want.

___ Flexible means

a. able to bend
b. real
c. heavy

It’s clear that the neck of the new lamp must be able to bend in different ways. So a is the correct answer.

As you go through the “Learning Eight New Words” sections, look closely at the two sentences given for each word and at the answer choices. As you figure out the meaning of each word, you are doing what’s needed to understand and remember the word. Working with the word in this way and seeing how it is used in a sentence are the keys to completing the rest of the chapter.
2. Matching Words with Meanings

The second part of the chapter (see page 9) is called “Matching Words with Meanings.” Often it is not enough to see how a word is used in a sentence. To understand a word fully, most people need to see the meaning, or definition, of the word. The matching activity gives the meaning of each new word, but it also makes you look for and think about each meaning. This is the best way to learn and remember a word. Now look at the Be Careful note that follows the matching activity. This note reminds you that you should not move on to the rest of the chapter until you are sure that you know the correct meaning of each word.

3. Adding One Word to an Item

The third part of the chapter (see page 10) is called “Adding One Word to a Sentence.” This section, with eight sentences, gives you a chance to show how well you understand the new words. After placing one word in each sentence, be sure to check your answers in the Limited Answer Key at the back of the book. Checking your answers will help you see if you really know the words. If you do, you are ready to complete the rest of the activities, for which answers are not given.

4. Adding Two Words to an Item

The fourth part (see page 10) is called “Adding Two Words to a Sentence.” This activity is a bit more difficult because you have to see which two words fit best in a sentence. The extra work you do to find the right answers will help you learn the words.

5. Showing You Understand the Words

The fifth part (see page 11), called “Showing You Understand the Words,” is made up of two sets of four items. Each item uses one of the chapter’s new words. By completing an item or by answering the question asked by an item, you show that you truly understand what the word means. You will, we think, have a lot of fun doing this activity.

6. Adding Words to a Reading

The sixth part (see page 12), called “Adding Words to a Reading,” has two interesting readings. By choosing the right word to fill in each blank, you get a good idea of the way the new words can be used in a paragraph.

7. Using the Words When Writing and Talking

The seventh part (see page 13) is called “Using the Words When Writing and Talking.” By coming up with your own ending for each item, you will be well on the way to making the words part of your everyday vocabulary.

At the end of the seventh part, you will find a box where you can enter your scores for “Adding One Word to an Item” through “Adding Words to a Reading.” To get your score for each part, count how many you got right. Then look at the “Number right” explanation below the box to see what your score is for that part. You should also enter your scores on the Vocabulary Performance Chart found on the inside back cover of the book.
Now you know how the chapters in Vocabulary Basics are organized. As you have seen, every chapter gives you the chance to work with the new words seven times. Each time you complete an activity, you get closer to making the new words part of your everyday vocabulary. And to give you even more practice, almost every chapter repeats some words from earlier chapters. (These repeated words are marked with small circles—like this°. If you are not sure of the meaning of a repeated word, turn to the Word List on pages 257–258. There you will find the page on which the word was first used.) In short, you will have plenty of chances to learn—and relearn—the words.

UNDERSTANDING THE UNIT REVIEWS

As you saw earlier, there is a unit review at the end of every six chapters. Each unit review offers six different kinds of activities—everything from crossword puzzles to sentence writing. All in all, you will have the chance to practice each word in the unit three more times. When you finish the unit reviews, you will have worked at least ten times with each word in the book. By then, you should know the words so well that you will be ready to use them whenever you want.

Take a moment to look at the instructions for the final activity in the unit reviews (see page 53, for example). Note that when doing this final activity, you should “feel free to use any tense of a boldfaced verb and to make a boldfaced noun plural.” For example, for the verb assist, you might use a number of different tenses: “My family assists me when I have trouble with my schoolwork,” “Last summer, I assisted my uncle with the opening of his new store,” or “For two weeks, my friends have been assisting me with plans for the party.” For the noun volunteer, you might use the plural form and write or say, “Two volunteers came to the school to talk about fire safety.”

Like many people, you may have trouble remembering the correct form of some verb tenses and the correct plural form of some nouns. So, when doing this final activity, you will probably find it helpful to look at the charts on pages 249–251 and 252. They will give you the help you need.

A FINAL THOUGHT

The facts are in. It is important to have a strong vocabulary. Having a good vocabulary makes you a better reader, writer, speaker, thinker, and learner. Having a good vocabulary can make things smoother for you at home, in school, and on the job. But learning new words will not happen easily or by itself. You must decide that you want to build your vocabulary and then work hard with the chapters in this book. If you do, you will not only add to your vocabulary—you will add to your life as well. Good luck.

Adding Words to a Reading

A. The Nose Knows

Read the following paragraphs carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box. Use each word once.

<th>a. curious</th>
<th>b. fact</th>
<th>c. odors</th>
<th>d. suggest</th>
</tr>

Have you ever been (1)______ curious _______ about what life would be like if you couldn’t smell anything? Maybe you think, “That wouldn’t be so bad.” After all, you wouldn’t miss some (2)________ odors ________, like the smell coming from the guy sitting next to you who hasn’t taken a bath in several weeks. But think about it again. All day, every day, our noses pass along information to us. We walk by the kitchen, pick up the smell of apple pie in the oven, and know that we will enjoy a tasty slice later on. Or we go outside on a warm spring day and pick up the clean smell of freshly cut grass. Other smells that aren’t so nice, like those of spilled gasoline or burning wood, may protect us by warning of danger.

It is a (3)________ fact _________ that smells make us remember the past. For instance, the smell of the outdoors after a rainstorm may remind us of an early-morning hike in the woods we took years ago. Scientists are not sure why smells remind us of the past, but they know it is so. Indeed, scientists (4)______ suggest _______ that smell may be the most powerful of all our senses.

B. Barbie: A Bad Example?

Read the following paragraph carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box. Use each word once.

“I want a Barbie. I want a Barbie.” Most parents have heard that cry. Lots of little girls love Barbie. Barbie has been around for many years, and she will probably be around for many more. But some parents worry about Barbie. They worry that as their daughters (5)______ prepare _______ to grow up, they will look at Barbie and think, “She’s so pretty. I want to be like her.” The problem is that no healthy, normal woman looks like Barbie. If Barbie were full-sized, she would be more than six feet tall and weigh about one hundred pounds. Little girls may get the idea that in order to be pretty, they must have a very thin body. Parents need to tell their daughters that it is more important to have a strong, (6) flexible body—one that can run and jump, twist and turn. Of course, it's hard to tell a little girl that she can't have a Barbie if all her friends do. So some parents get together and, among themselves, make an (7) agreement not to buy Barbie dolls. The parents (8) cancel their plans to buy Barbie and buy dolls that have more healthy-looking bodies.

Adding Words to a Reading

A. Feeling Blue

| a. entertain | b. experience | c. produce | d. tension |

At some point or another, every one of us has gotten up in the morning feeling a lot of (1)_______ tension _______. Problems at work, difficulties at home, and too many bills to pay can make us feel down. Studies show that these bad moods can make a real difference in how we feel about ourselves and our lives. For example, bad moods often lead to or (2)_______ produce _______ sad, gloomy thoughts. We may get down on ourselves and think we’re not worth much. Thinking that life will always be this way, we may decide that nothing in the world can possibly (3)_______ entertain _______ us or make us feel better. These beliefs are false, but they seem true at the time. Also, when we are in a bad mood, even a good (4)_______ experience _______ —like an excellent meal or a wonderful evening with friends—usually isn’t enough to raise our spirits. The only bright spot about bad moods is this fact—they always pass. When they do, the bad thoughts and feelings pass too.

B. A Late Love Letter

Years ago, a man working in Hawaii wrote a love letter to his wife in Seattle. He put the letter in a bottle and threw the bottle into the Pacific Ocean. He hoped the bottle would end up on a beach near Seattle. However, the bottle washed up on a beach thousands of miles away, where it was picked up by Chris Willie. Willie, of course, was curious about the letter. He took it out of the bottle and read what the man had written. Smiling, Willie thought to himself, “There are so many sad, (5)_______ negative _______ things in the world. It’s wonderful that the writer has found such a surprising and (6)_______ original _______ way to show his love.” Then Willie put the letter and the bottle in a package, which he mailed to Seattle. Soon, though, the package was returned, with the message “No longer at this address.”
Next, Willie mailed the package to a Seattle daily newspaper. The paper printed the letter, but no one called to say she was the woman to whom the letter was addressed. Six years later, a newspaper reporter finally identified the woman and read her the letter over the phone. The letter began, “If by the time this letter reaches you I am old and gray, I know that our love will be as great as it is today.” When the reporter finished reading, he heard the woman laughing. “Well,” she said, “I hate to tell you, but we got divorced.” Then she hung up.

Adding Words to a Reading

A. Ads That Lie

| a. conclusion | b. events | c. protect | d. talent |

Every day of our lives, ads send messages about drinking and smoking that just are not true. It's time we learned how to protect ourselves and our kids from these dangerous lies. At the conclusion of a long day at work or school, many of us come home and flip on the television. What do we see? We will probably see a TV ad showing healthy young people drinking beer and enjoying life. Maybe they are at the beach, on the ski slopes, or at a party. By the time we are old enough to vote, we will have seen this kind of TV commercial more than 75,000 times. These ads suggest that drinking is part of a fun-filled life. Is that really true? Not at all. Studies show that drinking leads to car accidents, fighting, loss of memory, birth defects, and more.

Ads for smoking are no better. In magazines and on signs, beautiful young people puff on cigarettes as they enjoy fun-filled events like games of volleyball or tennis. But by now, we know that smoking is not part of a healthy life. In real life, top athletes—those who have real talent—don't reach for a cigarette at game time. They know that smoking will harm their bodies and can lead to cancer, heart disease, and lung problems.

If you are an adult and you drink and smoke, that's your choice. But to young children who don't know the truth, these ads are dangerous. Cigarettes and beer won't give them strength, good looks, or lots of friends. They will just make them sick. And that's the truth.

B. Horrible Hiccups!

| a. attacked | b. humble | c. minor | d. volunteer |

Everyone gets the hiccups. To most people, they are just a minor problem. But for some people, hiccups can cause real trouble. Between 1948 and 1956, one man hiccupped 160 million times! He tried everything to stop them—drinking a cold glass of water, getting scared by one of his friends, holding his breath. They still came back. Then one day, the hiccups simply stopped. Heinz Isecke, a plumber from England, had an even worse experience.° Starting in 1973, Isecke was (6) attacked by a fit of hiccups that lasted eight years. Isecke hiccuped so many times that he was unable to sleep. He even had an operation to get rid of the hiccups, but it didn’t work. Isecke was a quiet, (7) humble man who hated to trouble others. But he was so bothered by his hiccups that he asked for help from all over the world. After a few weeks, an unknown (8) volunteer sent Isecke, free of charge, a “secret” herbal drink. The day after he tried it, Isecke’s hiccups were gone. What was in the drink? No one is sure. So the next time you have the hiccups, just be glad you are not Isecke.

When I was in high school, I had an upsetting dream. It was about a science teacher that I really liked. Her name was Mrs. Kahn. She was kind and friendly and (1) inspired me to work hard. Mrs. Kahn had a ring that I liked a lot. It was made of gold bands that were braided together. One day after school, she told me that her husband had given the ring to her on their first anniversary and that it meant a great deal to her.

In my dream, I was inside Mrs. Kahn’s house. She had gone into the kitchen to get us cold drinks. While she was gone, I saw she had left her ring on the table. Before I thought about it, I did something strange and (2) unusual. I picked up the ring and started putting it in my pocket. Just at that moment, I looked up and saw Mrs. Kahn standing at the door watching me. Although we both knew I was lying, I (3) claimed that I was only looking at the ring closely because I liked it so much. Mrs. Kahn didn’t say anything, but at the conclusion of the dream, her face showed that she knew what had really happened. Then I woke up. Even though it was just a dream, I felt (4) embarrassed about stealing the ring. I didn’t get over that feeling until I saw Mrs. Kahn the next day and made sure the ring was safe on her finger.

For centuries, people have said that the dog is man’s best friend. The following story, for example, is more than a thousand years old. A king had a strong, beautiful dog that he loved greatly. When the king went to war, the dog went with him. When the weather was warm and sunny, the dog joined the king on nice, (5) pleasant walks in the countryside. Whenever the king went to the (6) public hall, where anyone could talk to him, the dog lay at his feet. If the king felt sad or troubled, he talked to the dog. The dog always listened.

After the king had his first son, he often let the dog watch the baby. He trusted the dog to take care of and protect this special, (7) precious child. One day, after being away for an hour or so, the king returned to the baby’s room. He saw something terrible. The baby was nowhere in sight. His bed was turned over, and there was blood all over the dog’s mouth. (8) Accusing the dog, the king shouted, “You killed my son!” He grabbed his knife and stabbed the dog in the heart several times. Then he heard a soft cry. Looking under the baby’s bed, he found his baby son, safe and sound. Looking further, he saw the body of a large wolf. Its body was bloody and covered with deep bites. At that moment, the king understood that he had killed the dog that had saved his son’s life.

Adding Words to a Reading

A. Be Proud of Your Age!

Read the following paragraph carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box. Use each word once.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>a. benefit</th>
<th>b. delay</th>
<th>c. emphasize</th>
<th>d. logical</th>
</tr>

"Young, wrinkle-free skin in two weeks!" "Cover up that gray hair!" "Keep your body fit and young!" Everywhere we look, ads claim that it is best to do everything we can to stay young. Loudly, the ads emphasize one idea over and over: Young is good and old is bad. The message is that we must delay getting older as long as possible. Sadly, what happens is that as people age, they become unhappy because they don't look twenty anymore. But does this make sense? Wouldn't it be more logical if we liked ourselves, no matter what our age? Wouldn't we all benefit if we could accept our wrinkles, gray hair, and middle-age bodies? After all, life is meant to be enjoyed, no matter how old we are. Why should we feel bad about looking the age we really are? If we keep seeing life as a race against time, we will end up feeling like losers.

B. Making Anger Work for You

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>a. rival</th>
<th>b. satisfy</th>
<th>c. tempted</th>
<th>d. vacant</th>
</tr>

Everyone has felt angry at one time or another. Maybe you felt angry when a rival at school teased you, when a boss treated you unfairly, or when a family member said something mean. If you are like most people, your anger may have tempted you to get back at those who made you feel bad. Maybe you wanted to shout at them or even hit them. But this is not a good way to satisfy the need to let people know how you feel.

Anger is powerful and can be helpful. However, it must be used in a healthy way. If someone makes you angry, you shouldn't yell and accuse the person of hurting you, nor should you give the person the silent treatment. Instead, tell the person exactly what it is that upsets you. Once you do that, you and the person can work together to change things so you both feel better.

Here is a real-life example showing how people used their anger in a good way to make their lives better. People living in a city neighborhood were angry. Why? For over a year, they had been promised that a (8) vacant building on their street would be torn down. However, the building was still there and had become home to drug dealers. Instead of sitting around, complaining, and doing nothing but getting even angrier, a group from the neighborhood went to see their mayor. They explained to the mayor how upset they were and how they feared for their children’s safety. The mayor listened. And guess what happened! The building was torn down. The neighbors had made good use of their anger and put it to work in the best way possible.

So the next time someone makes you angry, don’t strike out against or stop talking to the person. Instead, stay calm and explain why you are angry. You may be surprised by how well things turn out.

Adding Words to a Reading

A. How Not to Treat Customers

Read the following paragraphs carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box. Use each word once.

There are two department stores in my town. I will call them Store “A” and Store “B.” They carry many of the same items. They are about the same size. They look very much the same. But oh, how different they are to shop in. At Store “A,” employees are (1)_________motivated_________ to keep customers happy. They help customers find things; they carry packages; they hand out lollipops to children. They will even guide a customer away from a (2)_________specific_________ brand item to something that costs less but is just as good. Customers find that shopping in Store “A” is a very pleasant° experience. The rule in this store seems to be “The customer is always right.”

I don’t know this for sure, but I (3)_________suspect_________ that the rule in Store “B” is “The customer is a big bother.” Clerks just stare at customers who ask for help. They talk with fellow employees while customers wait in long lines at the checkout counters. When a customer asks a clerk for information, the clerk often answers, “I don’t know,” and walks away. Several months ago, I heard that Store “B” might go out of business. Now it is (4)_________definite_________. The store will close by the end of the month. Are you surprised? I’m not!

B. Stuck in the Middle

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>a. fortunate</th>
<th>b. leisure</th>
<th>c. oppose</th>
<th>d. referring</th>

Have you ever heard anyone use the term “sandwich generation”? It doesn’t have anything to do with eating sandwiches. Instead, when people talk about the “sandwich generation,” they are (5)_________referring_________ to adults who are caring for their own children and their aging parents at the same time. People in the sandwich generation are “caught in the middle,” like the filling of a sandwich. As people live longer, more and more adults end up taking care of their elderly parents. They may feel torn between giving time to their kids and their parents, all of whom need daily° help. The sandwich generation is so busy that it has very little (6)_________leisure_________. If they are lucky, members of the sandwich generation will have relatives who help them with their heavy load. If they are not so (7) fortunate, they will have nobody to help them out. They may even have relatives who (8) oppose everything they try to do. For example, sometimes several members of a family feel strongly that Mom or Dad should never be placed in a nursing home. However, they don’t do anything to help the family member who is trying to care for an elderly parent at home. Members of the sandwich generation can easily get overworked and overtired because of everything that is expected of them.

Using the Words When Writing and Talking

The items below will help you use many of the words in this unit on paper and in conversation. Feel free to use any tense of a boldfaced verb and to make a boldfaced noun plural. (See pages 249–251 and 252.)

1. Using the word agreement, write or talk about a time that you and someone you know solved a problem by making a promise to one another. For example, you and your roommate might have promised to split up household jobs, or you and a neighbor might have promised not to play your radios late at night.

2. Using the word attack, write or talk about a time when someone or something tried to harm you. It could be that a neighbor’s dog tried to bite you, a schoolyard bully wanted to beat you up, or some angry bees tried to sting you.

3. Using the word claim, write or talk about a time you heard someone say something was true but you know the person could not prove it. Perhaps you heard someone making big promises on a TV commercial or during an election.

4. Using the word curious, write or talk about someone who wants to learn more about things. It might be a child who asks lots of questions or an adult who has returned to school to get more education.

5. Using the word daily, write or talk about something you do every day that makes you feel good. It might be drinking a cold glass of orange juice every morning or taking a warm shower before going to bed.

6. Using the word delay, write or talk about something you will do—but not right away. Tell why you are waiting until later to do it. It might be cleaning your closet, taking a course, changing your job, or ending a relationship.

7. Using the word embarrassed, write or talk about a time when you or someone you know felt silly because of something that happened in front of other people. Maybe you tripped when you walked into a fancy restaurant or your closest friend forgot to invite you to your own surprise birthday party.

8. Using the word emphasize, write or talk about one thing that parents should tell their children is important. Perhaps you think parents should tell kids it is important to have good manners, stay away from drugs, do well in school, or be kind to others.

9. Using the word entertain, write or talk about a movie, play, concert, or TV show that you have enjoyed.

10. Using the word event, write or talk about a special happening that you look forward to. It might be a company picnic, a trip to an amusement park, or a visit from a favorite relative.

11. Using the word experience, write or talk about a time in your life that you will always remember. Maybe it was your first day of school, a stay in the hospital, a wonderful vacation, or a scary plane ride.

12. Using the word fortunate, describe something in your life that makes you feel thankful. You might feel lucky to have a special friend, a job you like, or a home that brings you happiness.
13. Using the word humble, write or talk about one person you know who doesn’t brag and doesn’t think highly of himself or herself, even though that person has good reason to be proud. The person could be a relative, friend, neighbor, classmate, or teacher.

14. Using the word inspire, write or talk about a time that someone got you interested in doing something you had never tried before. Maybe a relative got you excited about camping, or a person on a TV show gave you the idea to try oil painting.

15. Using the word leisure, write or talk about how you like to relax during your free time. Perhaps you like to walk, read, or take naps.

16. Using the word odor, write or talk about a place you try to stay away from because it smells bad. You might describe a garbage dump or a kitchen where food you do not like is being cooked.

17. Using the word oppose, write or talk about a time you were against what someone was doing. You might have been against your best friend’s leaving a job or against a relative’s speaking unkindly of a neighbor.

18. Using the word original, write or talk about a time you came up with an idea that no one else had thought of before. Maybe you came up with a new recipe for chili or a new way of getting a job done at work.

19. Using the word prepare, write or talk about something you do to get ready for class. Perhaps you sharpen your pencil, read your notes, or study your homework.

20. Using the word rival, describe two people who feel they have to beat each other in some sort of contest. You might have two friends who always try to get better grades than each other, or maybe you have two relatives who always try to beat each other in games.

21. Using the word specific, write or talk about a certain kind of music, TV show, or movie that you dislike a great deal.

22. Using the word talent, write or talk about someone who has a special skill. The person might dance beautifully, play a sport well, or tell good jokes.

23. Using the word tempt, think of a magazine advertisement or TV commercial that makes you want to do something you know you should not do. Maybe an ad makes you want to buy a car that costs too much or eat something that isn’t good for you.

24. Using the word unusual, write or talk about something that would be strange if it happened in the middle of the summer—for example, the temperature dropping below zero or snow falling heavily.

For hundreds of years, people have enjoyed ice cream. No one is sure when people first started to (1) devour the frozen treat. But paintings show an icy dessert being enjoyed as far back as the twelfth century. Ice cream as we know it became (2) popular among the rich and powerful in Europe during the 1500s. King Charles I of England liked ice cream so much he made a law which said that it could be served only at his table. He even said that he would have his chef’s head cut off if the chef gave his secret ice-cream recipe to anyone. To Charles, the food was much too precious° to share. In the United States, too, ice cream was eaten on special (3) occasions by the country’s richest people. George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, and James Madison were all big fans of the frozen dessert. However, ice cream did not reach the rest of the nation until 1845. At that time, a New Jersey woman made a hand-held ice-cream maker. Thanks to that machine, ice cream in the (4) modern world is not just for kings and presidents. Now it’s for all of us!

B. A Noisy Apartment

Read the following paragraph carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box. Use each word once.

When Carla decided to move out of her parents’ house, she thought it might be hard to find a nice apartment for a low rent. So she felt fortunate° to (5) discover a clean and pretty little apartment that was not too expensive. Within a week of moving in, though, she was not so happy. When she had rented the place, she had not seen how close it was to the train tracks. Soon she became very (6) aware of the noise from the trains. In fact, the noise was almost (7) constant because trains went roaring past several times every hour, day and night. At first, Carla was really (8) distressed. She even thought about moving. But she decided to stay six weeks to see if she could get used to the noise. Little by little, she did. Now the noise... does not bother her at all. When friends ask, “How can you bear that noise?” she answers, “What noise?”

On a cold winter day in 1921, an interesting event took place. A man spoke to the United States Senate about something he thought was very important: peanuts. The man's name was George Washington Carver. When the senators found out what he came to talk about, at first they laughed. But that did not stop Carver or make him feel like a failure. Carver, an African-American scientist, believed so much in peanuts that he wanted the Senate to pass laws to help farmers who grew them. After someone introduced him to the senators, Carver showed them many interesting things. He began with several items that he had created out of peanuts—dye, soap, wood stain, and gravy. Next, he handed out paper made from peanut shells, shaving cream made from peanut oil, and rubber made from the nut itself. But he saved the best for last. Just as Carver's time was almost up, one of the senators asked, "What is the brown stuff in the jar you are holding?" Carver glanced at the man and smiled. Opening the jar, he let the senators smell and then taste what was inside. Much to their surprise, the "brown stuff" smelled good and tasted even better. By the end of the day, the Senate had passed the law Carver wanted, and the nation had begun its love affair with—you guessed it—peanut butter!

When the ear of seven-year-old Jimmy Taylor was nearly torn off by a dog, the doctors didn't know if they could help. They spent hours trying to repair the damage. But after all their labor, Jimmy's ear was not getting better. Instead, the blood in his ear began to dry up, and the ear puffed up and turned blue. The doctors knew that Jimmy would lose his ear unless they acted quickly. So they decided on an unusual treatment that is not often followed today but was widely used hundreds of years ago. They decided to use leeches, bloodsucking worms that live in ponds and lakes. In the mouth of a leech are juices that have the ability to break up dried-up blood, letting the blood... flow freely again. The blood then helps the problem area get better. Six leeches were rushed to the hospital to feed on the dried-up blood in Jimmy’s ear. The doctors made small holes in the skin of Jimmy’s ear and placed the hungry leeches at the holes. After just a few hours, the ear turned a pink, healthy color. It was clear that Jimmy’s ear would be saved. Did Jimmy show any (8) _______ gratitude _______ to his wormy helpers? Not really. When he found out that it was leeches that had saved his ear, all he could do was make a face and say, “Yuck!”

Adding Words to a Reading

A. TV and Violence

Read the following paragraph carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box. Use each word once.

<tr>
<th>a. avoid</th>
<th>b. excuse</th>
<th>c. includes</th>
<th>d. normal</th>
</tr>
</thead>

Would you want someone teaching your kids how to be mean and hurtful? That is often what happens when kids watch television. Today's most-watched TV shows are filled with violence and crime. And no one watches more of these shows than America's kids. In a (1) normal week, many children sit in front of the TV set for more than twenty-seven hours. By the time kids finish grade school, they have seen over 100,000 acts of people using force to cause harm. This number (2) includes more than 8,000 killings. By the time kids graduate from high school, they will have spent more time watching TV than sitting in the classroom or talking with their families. The effects of watching this much TV are scary. Studies show that when kids watch people fighting and shooting each other, they are more likely to be violent themselves. True, in the modern world, it is hard for kids to (3) avoid watching TV. But that is no (4) excuse for parents to let their kids watch whatever they want. If parents find that their kids are watching one violent show after another, the adults must act. What should they do? They should get up, turn off the TV, and help the kids find better ways to spend their time.

B. Are You Ready for a Pet?

Read the following paragraph carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box. Use each word once.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>a. helpless</th>
<th>b. intend</th>
<th>c. sociable</th>
<th>d. struggle</th>

If you (5) intend to get a pet, make sure you know what you are doing. A new pet may be cute, but it also means lots of work. Puppies, for example, are friendly, (6) sociable animals. They like to be around people, but they also like to chew things. And to them, it does not matter whether they are chewing your kitchen table or your leather jacket. Teaching puppies not to destroy things and be housetrained can be a long, hard (7) struggle that lasts for months. Kittens also can make life difficult. Those sweet little animals scratch everything in sight.
In no time, a kitten’s sharp claws can rip a new sofa apart, causing damage that cannot be fixed. What about smaller pets such as goldfish? They may not take as much everyday work as dogs and cats. However, fish often get sick, and they are completely helpless if they jump out of their tank. The time and money you spend at the vet’s office can really add up. For all the fun and friendship pets give, they are also a lot of work and expense. Keep that in mind before you bring one home.

Adding Words to a Reading

A. Help for Shy People

Read the following paragraphs carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box. Use each word once.

Many people are a little shy. In fact, probably everyone feels shy once in a while. But some people are so (1) timid that it makes their lives difficult. For them, making everyday conversation—even with people they know—can be a struggle. And the thought of speaking to a stranger makes their hands (2) damp with sweat. Being so shy gets in the way of having friends or doing well at school or on the job.

Many adult-education schools offer courses to help shy people. Shy people (3) require practice in talking to strangers. So the teacher of such a course may ask students to speak to class members they don’t know. Students are also given (4) numerous tricks for getting over their shyness. For example, they might be told to think about a friend who is outgoing and friendly; then they make believe they are that person and try to act as he or she would. Students also are given interesting assignments to do at home. One assignment might be for students to start a conversation with someone they don’t know but have always wanted to meet. After a while, the students in these classes learn to relax, make friends, and enjoy life more.

B. Not a Laughing Matter

The other day, I had lunch with a group of friends from work. My friend Patty, who recently remarried and has two children, was in the group. While we were eating, one of the men said something mean about his ex-wife. Some people laughed, but Patty (5) ignored what he said. A little later, he made another mean joke about his ex-wife. Then he (6) approached Patty and said, “What about you? Tell us about your (7) previous husband. What kind of jerk was he?” Patty replied, “My ex-husband and I had our problems. But I am not going to make fun of him just so you can have a laugh. I married him because he’s a good guy in many ways. We had a couple of wonderful kids together. Our marriage is over, but I still feel 8) loyal to him. I don’t want him laughing about me with his friends. And I do not intend° to laugh at him either.” Everybody at the table was quiet. We quickly started talking about something else. There were no more dumb jokes that day about an ex-husband or an ex-wife.

Adding Words to a Reading

A. Taking Risks

Tasting risks in life can make us feel good about ourselves. All of us should try something new—even something scary—every once in a while. Each of us is (1) capable of taking chances, but we often don’t. Instead, we sometimes let good (2) opportunities pass us by because they seem a bit too risky. Maybe we don’t apply for an exciting new job because we are not sure we can handle it. Perhaps we delay returning to school because we are afraid that the work will be too hard. Maybe we walk away from a relationship because it is becoming more important than we had planned.

If you (3) observe yourself getting frightened by something new and different, that is all the more reason to face it head-on and not run away. Finding that you have the strength inside to overcome your fears will make you feel proud of yourself. You will begin to feel that you have what it takes to get through even the difficult times. So if you want to move ahead in life, with your head held high, don’t (4) resist making a change or taking a chance. Go for it.

B. Bad Manners Hurt Everyone

Read the following paragraph carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box. Use each word once.

Many people these days don’t have good manners. Acting as though they are the only people in the world, they are (5) careless about the feelings of others. These selfish people ignore other people’s feelings—they pay attention only to their own wishes. They push their way into lines, blast their horns at other drivers, and play loud music late at night when their neighbors are trying to sleep. Such rude behavior makes most of us (6) furious. Sadly, though, it has gotten to the point where nicely asking people to act more politely can be dangerous. You never know if someone will turn against you violently. It is time to turn things around. It is time to reverse all this bad behavior. We need to go back to the tradition of caring about our fellow human beings. Paying attention to our manners is a good place to start.

Adding Words to a Reading

A. Two Different Sisters

| a. comfortable | b. distract | c. insulting | d. sensitive |

Carla and Luisa are sisters. They are both smart young women who work at the same company. But Carla gets along better with others than Luisa. One difference is that Carla is a (1) __________ sensitive __________ person who cares about people and how they feel. If someone looks unhappy, she will always stop and ask if she can help in any way. Luisa, though, never takes the time to see what’s bothering a coworker. Because she thinks only of her job, she will not let anything (2) __________ distract __________ her from doing her work. However, Carla is sociable and enjoys joking and having fun with the other workers. If people say to her, “Carla, you are as slow as molasses in January!” she knows they are not serious. But if a coworker makes a gentle joke about Luisa, Luisa gets upset and finds the joke (3) __________ insulting __________. It’s not surprising that many people at work do not feel relaxed or (4) __________ comfortable __________ around Luisa.

B. How “Honest Abe” Earned His Name

| a. allow | b. persisted | c. respect | d. wonder |

When Abraham Lincoln was a young man, he worked as a clerk in a general store. One day a woman came in and bought some things. She paid and went away. But after she left the store, Lincoln began to (5) __________ wonder __________ if he had added up the bill correctly. Had he been careless? He looked at the bill again and saw that he had charged the woman six cents too much. It was only a few cents. But Lincoln would not (6) __________ allow __________ himself to keep the woman’s money. That night, he closed up the store and began walking toward the woman’s house, which was several miles away. Although it grew dark, Lincoln (7) __________ persisted __________ until he reached the woman’s home and returned her six cents. After Lincoln became President, even those who disliked him had to give him (8) __________ respect __________ for his honesty.

Using the Words When Writing and Talking

The items below will help you use many of the words in this unit on paper and in conversation. Feel free to use any tense of a boldfaced verb and to make a boldfaced noun plural. (See pages 249–251 and 252.)

1. Using the word ability, write or talk about a special skill of someone you know well. The person might be able to fix anything, cook well, or get along with anybody.

2. Using the word allow, write or talk about one thing you believe parents should not let their children do. Maybe you feel parents should not let their kids smoke, go out on school nights, date before they are 16, or wear certain clothing styles.

3. Using the word approach, write or tell about a time that a stranger came up to you and began to talk. It could have been the time your car broke down and a passerby offered to help, or it might have been when you moved into a new home and a neighbor came over to say hello.

4. Using the word aware, write or talk about a time when you first came to understand something. It could be the first time you understood that your parents were less than perfect, or the first time you learned of a problem in your school, in your neighborhood, or in the country.

5. Using the word comfortable, write or tell about a time you made someone feel relaxed and at ease. Perhaps you invited a new neighbor to dinner, took time to show a coworker around on the first day on the job, or helped a relative feel less nervous about going into the hospital.

6. Using the word devour, write or talk about a time when you (or someone else) ate a lot of something really quickly. You might describe the way you ate a hot-fudge sundae or the way friends ate a pizza.

7. Using the word discover, write or talk about a time when you found out about or learned something new. Perhaps you came across a shortcut to work or an easy way to do something that used to be difficult.

8. Using the word distract, write or talk about something that got your attention when you needed to take care of another matter. Maybe a classmate kept talking while you were trying to listen to a teacher or the beautiful weather made it difficult for you to stay indoors and study.

9. Using the word distressed, write or talk about something that upset you and made you unhappy. Perhaps it was doing poorly on a test, learning that a friend was sick, or having a fight with someone you cared for.

10. Using the word excuse, write or talk about a time you made up a reason not to do something—for example, go to a party, visit an elderly relative, or work hard in school or on the job.

11. Using the word gratitude, write or talk about a time when you felt thankful to someone. The person might have done you a favor, helped you with something you didn’t know how to do, or simply been good to you when you needed a friend.

12. Using the word introduce, write or talk about a time you went up to someone you wanted to meet and told the person your name and a little bit about yourself. You might describe the first time you met a neighbor, a coworker, or your closest friend.
13. Using the word loyal, write or talk about a person who stood by someone he or she believed in. The person might be a sports fan who kept rooting for a team that always lost, or a friend who said good things about someone whom everyone else hated.

14. Using the word normal, write or talk about what your usual weekday is like. You might talk about what you do on a regular morning or what happens in a usual evening at your home.

15. Using the word occasion, write or tell about a time in your life that you will never forget—perhaps a vacation, wedding, birth, or holiday.

16. Using the word opportunity, write or talk about a time when you had a chance to do something special. Maybe you had the chance to take a wonderful trip, see a famous person, or take a great job.

17. Using the word popular, write or talk about someone you know who has many friends and always seems to be at the center of a crowd of people.

18. Using the word previous, write or talk about the job you had before this one, the school you attended before the one you go to now, or something new you learned from an earlier chapter of this book.

19. Using the word require, write or talk about what you need to do in order to feel wide-awake in the morning. You might need to drink several cups of coffee, take a long shower, or eat a good breakfast.

20. Using the word respect, write or talk about a person you think highly of. It could be a relative, teacher, or classmate you look up to.

21. Using the word sensitive, write or talk about someone you know (perhaps a grandparent, coworker, or classmate) who always seems to understand how others feel.

22. Using the word struggle, write or talk about something that you or someone else did that took a lot of hard work to do. It might be learning how to speak a new language, getting used to being single after being divorced, or living through a hard time such as the loss of a friend or a loved one.

23. Using the word tradition, write or talk about something special that you and your family always do, year after year. It might be having a cookout to start the summer season, watching a favorite movie on a certain holiday, or celebrating birthdays in a special way that everyone enjoys.

24. Using the word wonder, write or talk about something that you have questions about and would like to learn more about. Perhaps you would like to know more about a certain career, person, or part of the country.

Chapter 13

Adding Words to a Reading

A. Ready to Do Well

Read the following paragraphs carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box. Use each word once.

Feeling very nervous, Michelle walked into her English class on the morning of the final exam. She hated tests, and she was (1) ______ uncertain ______ that she would pass this one. Just as she sat down, she saw her friend Teresa come into the classroom. Michelle waved to Teresa and was (2) ______ amazed ______ to see that she looked happy and calm. There was even a smile on Teresa’s face, and she was humming a song. When Teresa took her seat, Michelle said to her, “You don’t look a bit worried! Aren’t you scared about the test?”

“No,” said Teresa. “I put a lot of (3) ______ effort ______ into studying for it.”

“Are you sure you will pass?” asked Michelle.

“I think I will,” said Teresa. “But even if I don’t, I know that I did my best to get ready for it. And that is all I can do.”

Michelle had also worked hard to prepare for the test, so Teresa’s words made her feel a bit more comfortable. As she relaxed, and her worries went away, she began to feel more (4) ______ confident ______ that she too would do well on the test.

B. Advertising for a Date

Read the following paragraphs carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box. Use each word once.

Kevin had broken up with his girlfriend, and he was lonely. All the women he knew were married or had boyfriends, so he had no opportunity to meet someone new to date. He didn’t want to go to bars with the (5) ______ purpose ______ of trying to meet women. So how, he asked himself, could he (6) ______ locate ______ an interesting person to go out with? Finally, he had an idea. He put an ad in the local newspaper. This is how the ad read: “I would like to meet a woman who can be a good friend. Maybe later we will decide we like each other enough to be more than friends. I am a (7) ______ sincere ______ guy. I don’t tell lies or play games. Because I like to help others, I (8) donate a couple of hours each week to a local soup kitchen, for the homeless and poor. I would like to meet someone who enjoys laughing. She should also be kind, honest, and caring. If that sounds like you, I would like to meet you.”

Kevin’s ad worked. In a short time, he met several nice women. One of them, Hana, has become his steady girlfriend. Now he likes to tell people, “Hana and I found each other in the want ads.”

Most people think malls are great. But why do so many people share this (1)_______ opinion_______? First of all, malls are easy to use. Before malls, people had to go to many small stores to locate° what they needed. Today’s shoppers have to go to only one place to find what they want. Another reason people like malls is cost. A department store in a mall is large enough to be able to offer low prices. Malls can also offer the best (2)_______ guarantees_______ in town. For example, if a TV bought in a mall department store breaks down, the store will often fix the TV free of charge, no questions asked.

But not everything about malls is good. Here’s why. As malls spread across the country, they put hundreds of small family-owned shops and restaurants out of business. How? When you buy clothes at a mall, you are not spending your money at stores which have been in the area since before the malls were built. The same is true for restaurants. When you buy a taco in the mall food court, that takes business away from the taco restaurant on Main Street in town. Over time, it becomes harder and harder for small businesses to stay open. Their owners may (3)_______ resolve_______ to fight to stay open. But often they are forced to (4)_______ dismiss_______ all their workers and close their doors forever. Towns that used to have streets filled with shoppers now have empty stores and lost jobs. That’s why malls are not as wonderful as they seem.

B. As Good As It Looks?

<th>a. disgust</th>
<th>b. ideal</th>
<th>c. inspected</th>
<th>d. prevents</th>

Did you ever want to know why the food in TV ads always looks (5)_______ ideal_______? Did you ever wonder° why it looks so much better on TV than it does in real life? The answer may surprise you. Often the tasty-looking food you see on TV is fake—or at least partly fake. There is no rule that says TV ads must show real food. Advertisers are free to add whatever they want to make what they sell... look good. Nothing (6) prevents an advertiser from adding something strange that would (7) disgust people if they knew about it.

To make milk seem creamy and white, advertisers add sticky white glue to each glass! The dark steamy coffee in TV ads is no better. In a few ads, it has soap added to it to make it look bubbly and fresh. One company even made its chicken look good and crispy by spraying it with brown paint. The nice roasted color made it look great. But if you (8) inspected the chicken closely, you would have seen a coat of oily paint all over it. So it's not surprising that the food you make at home never looks as good as the food on TV. Maybe you need to add some paint or glue to your recipes!

What do you think life would be like without the telephone? Without the radio, TV, cars, or airplanes? If the people who came up with these wonderful inventions had listened to the (1) advice given, they would have given up. Instead, they were able to remain motivated to reach their goals. For instance, many people told the Wright brothers, who invented the airplane, that flying was (2) impossible. “We would have been born with wings if we were meant to fly!” people said. Sometimes the Wright brothers thought these people were right. After all, there were many times that their “flying machines” crashed to the ground. But these setbacks never (3) defeated the Wright brothers. They would not (4) permit themselves to give up. Finally, in 1903, they invented a flying machine that really worked. Every airplane in the sky today is there because the Wright brothers believed in what they were doing.

Mr. Henderson works in the vegetable section of the Quick-Mart store. The other day, he saw a customer pick up a tomato and take a big bite of it.

“Wait a minute!” Mr. Henderson said. “What do you think you’re doing? You can’t eat something you haven’t paid for.”

The woman looked at him in surprise. “I’m just a (5) cautious shopper,” she explained. “I don’t buy anything until I inspect it to be sure that it’s really good. And these tomatoes aren’t very good.”

“What’s wrong with them?” asked Mr. Henderson.

“Well, they look good on the outside,” said the woman. “But they have a (6) defect inside. They are hard and sour, not juicy and sweet. Biting into that one was like eating a red tennis ball.”
"I'm sorry you don't like the tomatoes," said Mr. Henderson. "But it is still necessary for you to pay for the tomato you ate."

"Oh, all right," said the woman. "Here's fifty cents. But you really should provide customers with a chance to taste before we buy. Otherwise, how do we know what we are getting?"

Words to a Reading

A. Play Now, Pay Later

Read the following paragraph carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box. Use each word once.

Did you ever hear the story of the ants and the grasshopper? It goes like this. During the summer, the ants worked hard to prepare° for the winter. From sunup to sundown, they hid pieces of food in (1) ______ hollow spaces off a main underground tunnel. For weeks, the ants (2) ______ continued to work hard. And what did the grasshopper do during this time? He played. He sang and danced and had a fine time. When the ants warned him that winter was coming, he just laughed and said, “I (3) ______ suppose it will, but no one knows for sure. Anyway, there will always be plenty of food to eat. You’ll see.” But, of course, winter did come. The ants went into their tunnels and lived off the food that they had carefully (4) ______ arranged there in neat piles. Soon the grasshopper knocked at their door. “I’m hungry!” he said. “Will you share your food with me?” The ants shook their heads. “Now maybe you are sorry about the way you spent the summer,” they said. They shut the door on the grasshopper and left him alone and hungry in the snow.

B. A Man of Many Faces

Read the following paragraph carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box. Use each word once.

If you ever have the chance, see the movie The Great Imposter. The movie tells the story of Ferdinand Demara, Jr., a very interesting man. Demara did not have much education. But he was very smart. When he wanted to learn about something, he read everything that he could find on the subject. In that way, he became an (5) ______ expert on many subjects. Many of the people who met Demara believed that he was a college teacher because he knew so much. In fact, Demara started acting as if he were a college professor and more. During his life, Demara held jobs as a doctor, prison warden, chef, priest, and lawyer. He was so good at all these jobs that nobody suspected° he was not the real thing. Sometimes someone would ask Demara a question like “How does it feel to be a doctor?” or “What made you become a prison warden?” Such personal questions made Demara feel nervous that someone might learn his secret. Many times, when he thought he might be caught, he felt so much fear and panic that he packed his belongings and moved somewhere else. Finally, he was caught and served time in jail. But even then, he did not regret that he had told all those lies in the past.

8. Someone who gave away a portion of his dinner did which of the following?
   a. Gave away all of his dinner
   b. Gave away most of his dinner
   c. Gave away some of his dinner
A. Soaps Are for Me!

People often laugh at me for watching TV soap operas. Let them laugh. I like the “soaps” for three reasons. First, sometimes my own life seems (1) dull, with the same boring jobs to do every day at home and at work. But the soaps are always exciting. People hop from one romance to the next, get into all kinds of difficulty, and come down with strange illnesses. Second, the soaps let me be nosy without getting into trouble. I (2) admit it. To be truthful, I like hearing about the private lives and inner thoughts of people on the soaps. But I would never want my own friends or family to tell me such (3) intimate things. How could I look them in the face again? The soaps are a safe way to get all the interesting “inside dirt” on people. Third, the soaps (4) encourage me to deal with my own problems. Compared with what goes on in a soap opera, my own troubles seem minor. What if I did have a little fight with my husband? At least I don’t have two lovers and their jealous wives to worry about, my brother hasn’t been missing for ten years (he lives downstairs), and I haven’t got some terrible disease.

B. Keeping the Customer Happy

I’m a waiter in a restaurant. It’s not a fancy place, but it’s nice. Every so often, we run out of desserts that are on the menu. A customer orders apple pie, and I have to say, “Sorry, we’re out of it.” The customers don’t like that, and sometimes they even get mad at me. So I went to the boss and (5) contributed an idea. Here’s what I said: “If we’re out of a dessert, why not offer the customer something that is (6) available—but serve it at half price?”

The boss started to laugh. “We would lose too much money!”

“No, we won’t,” I said. “Getting paid half for a few (7) portions of apple pie or chocolate pudding a couple of times a week won’t cost us much. And with each serving, we make a customer happy, and a happy customer is a loyal customer who will come back over and over again.”
“All right,” my boss said. “Let’s (8) ______ experiment ______. Let’s try your idea for a month and see how it works.”

So that’s what we’re doing. Now, instead of just saying, “Sorry, we’re all out,” I tell the customer, “We’re all out of strawberry ice cream today, but we do have vanilla fudge. And to show you how sorry we are, we’re serving that at half price.”

Have you ever heard anybody say, “That’s just snake oil”? The term “snake oil” means “fake medicine.” People claim° that it can cure an illness, but it doesn’t really do anything. The term comes from the 1800s, when “medicine shows” would travel from town to town, selling homemade “cures.” People believed in the medicine because the seller would often (1) involve several sick people in the show. They would be called out of the audience and “cured” after taking a big drink of the medicine. Of course, the “sick” people weren’t really sick. They were in good health and worked for the medicine show.

These so-called medicines were said to be (2) effective for everything from baldness to cancer. However, the “medicine” bottles really (3) contained useless liquids, anything from cactus juice to vinegar to, yes, snake oil. Because most people lived too far from town to see a real doctor, they bought many bottles of this fake medicine. They (4) depended on it to keep their families healthy. By the time they found out that the medicine didn’t work, the people running the medicine show would be many miles away—cheating the next group of townspeople.

B. The Jobs Everyone Hates

Read the following paragraph carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box. Use each word once.

<table>

<tr>
<th>a. compete</th>
<th>b. envy</th>
<th>c. gradual</th>
<th>d. intense</th>

Most people don’t like to do housework very much. They (5) envy those who have the money to hire someone else to do the work. Which housework jobs do people hate most? Nearly 1,400 people were asked that question. Many said they did not like dusting or doing the laundry. But the largest number of people said their most (6) intense dislike was for washing the dishes and cleaning the bathroom. These two kinds of housework easily won the “prizes” for the worst jobs. Nothing else could (7) compete with them. Many people also said that they used to like to cook. But as the years went by, a (8) gradual change took place. People got more and more tired of preparing° meals. For them, the kitchen became a place to stay out of. Maybe that’s the reason fast-food restaurants do such good business.

Using the Words When Writing and Talking

The items below will help you use many of the words in this unit on paper and in conversation. Feel free to use any tense of a boldfaced verb and to make a boldfaced noun plural. (See pages 249–251 and 252.)

1. Using the word admit, write or talk about something that most people do not like to tell about themselves. For instance, you may feel that many people don’t like to say that they eat too much, lose their temper easily, or have trouble saving money.

2. Using the word advice, write or talk about a time you gave someone an idea to help solve a problem. For example, you may have given a friend a way to work out a difficulty at home, on the job, or in a relationship.

3. Using the word arrange, write or talk about the order in which you have put (or plan to put) the furniture in one room where you live. You might describe how you have set up your bedroom or how you want your living room to look.

4. Using the word available, write or talk about some nonfood items that you can find easily in most large supermarkets—for example, soap, light bulbs, and movies to rent.

5. Using the word compete, write or talk about a time that you tried to beat someone at a game. Maybe you bowled with a family member, shot pool with a friend, or played cards with a roommate.

6. Using the word contain, write or talk about several items that are inside your refrigerator.

7. Using the word contribute, write or talk about someone who has given something that has made other people happier or better off. You might describe a famous person, like Martin Luther King, Jr., or someone you know firsthand—for example, a friend, neighbor, relative, or teacher.

8. Using the word defect, write or talk about a time when something was wrong with an item you bought. Maybe the zipper on a new jacket broke or the controls on your new air conditioner didn’t work.

9. Using the word depend, tell about someone you can trust to be there for you. The person might baby-sit for your child, give you a ride to work, or listen to you when you need to talk.

10. Using the word dismiss, write or talk about a time when one person sent several other people away. Maybe a teacher let a class out early, a boss told employees they could leave work before the end of the day, or a doctor let a patient go home from the hospital.

11. Using the word donate, write or talk about a time that you gave something that helped another person. You might have given time, money, clothing, books, or a typewriter.

12. Using the word dull, write or talk about someone or something that you do not find at all interesting. It might be a book, a movie, a TV show, or your weekend plans.

13. Using the word encourage, write or talk about what parents and teachers can do to help kids feel they can do well in school. You might explain what you think adults can say or do to help kids try their best.
14. Using the word envy, write or talk about a time you wanted something that someone else had. Perhaps you wanted a toy that belonged to another child or the happy family life enjoyed by a close friend.

15. Using the word experiment, write or talk about a time when you tried doing something you had never done before. Maybe you tried a new way of studying, exercising, dressing, or cooking a meal.

16. Using the word expert, write or talk about one subject that you know a good deal about. It could be a subject you studied in school, learned at work, or picked up as a hobby.

17. Using the word guarantee, write or talk about something that will be fixed or replaced for free if it ever breaks down. It might be a computer, car, radio, TV, or washing machine.

18. Using the word ideal, write or talk about something that seems perfect to you. It could be your favorite ice cream, a beautiful spot on a beach, or a perfect way to relax after a hard day.

19. Using the word inspect, write or talk about a time you looked closely at something. Maybe it was your car after it had been washed, some secondhand furniture you were thinking of buying, or your living room before guests arrived for a party.

20. Using the word intense, write or talk about a time when you had deep feelings. You might describe a time that was frightening, happy, sad, or thankful.

21. Using the word involve, write or talk about an activity that you were part of when it was being planned. Perhaps you helped plan a party, family vacation, or special meal.

22. Using the word opinion, write or talk about the way you feel about something. It could be your favorite (or least favorite) movie, TV show, or restaurant. Or you might tell what you think is the biggest problem these days with schools, parents, children, bosses, or companies.

23. Using the word personal, write or talk about what you do when you have a private problem you would like to solve. Maybe you talk to a close friend, speak to a relative, or write down your thoughts in a journal.

24. Using the word prevent, write or talk about something that you have tried to stop from happening. Maybe you tried to keep someone from getting hurt, from borrowing your clothes, or from finding out about a surprise you had planned.

Adding Words to a Reading

A. A Young Librarian

Read the following paragraphs carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box. Use each word once.

Aja Henderson is a young girl who lives in Louisiana. Ever since Aja was little, she has loved to read. For her birthday and at holiday time, Aja always asked for books. And she always used any money she saved to buy more books. Because of all her books, Aja never felt alone. Her books kept her company. When she read a funny story, she laughed. When she read a really sad one, she felt (1) grief.

After collecting for a few years, Aja had so many books that her family teased her, saying that their house might (2) collapse from all the heavy books she owned. Then one day Aja found out something that bothered her. The other kids in her neighborhood could not enjoy books as much as she did. They did not read much, and there was no public library nearby. So Aja came up with an idea. She would begin her own library! And that is exactly what Aja did.

At first, Aja was nervous that the neighborhood kids would not come to her library. But when several kids began stopping by her house to look through her books, she relaxed. After a while, all the neighborhood kids started to borrow books from her. In fact, today so many kids come to borrow her books that Aja gives the kids library cards (3) similar to the ones that real libraries use. Aja even helps some of the children learn to read. Everyone thinks Aja’s library is wonderful. But she is (4) modest about what she has done. “Just seeing other kids learn to love reading is thanks enough for me,” she says.

B. No More Harm

Read the following paragraph carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box. Use each word once.

Pam Lynchner is an example of someone who fought against something she thought was wrong. In 1990, Lynchner was hurt badly when a man mugged her. The man was caught. Because he had been arrested twice before for mugging, he was sentenced to twenty years in jail. Lynchner was (5) relieved to know that she was no longer in danger. But the feeling did not last. Just two years later she was (6) alarmed by the news that the man who had mugged her had been set free. To make it even worse, the man tried to sue Lynchner. He said that being in jail had been difficult and painful for him. Lynchner was distressed° that the man was out of jail and making problems for her. She began to talk to other (7) _______ victims _______ of crime. She heard many other stories about criminals who got out of jail early and kept bothering the people they had hurt. Lynchner wanted to do something about this, so she started a group to (8) _______ defend _______ the rights of those who had been harmed. She called her group “Justice for All.” The group works to keep criminals from getting out of jail early. “Justice for All” now has more than five thousand members.

My friend Bob loves computers. His whole life centers around them. If Bob wants to buy something, he clicks a couple of keys and finds what he wants. When he wants to meet new people, he types messages to distant computer lovers, many of whom live hundreds, even thousands, of miles away. They “talk” for hours on the computer but never meet each other in person. Sitting at the computer, Bob hardly ever emerges from his room to go outside. I’m nervous about what’s happening to Bob. He feels cozy and relaxed with his computer but not around real people. I try to tell him that this isn’t good. I tell him that spending so much time with his computer will prevent [refuses] him from having a full life. But he disagrees and refuses to listen to what I am saying. One day, the electricity will go out or his computer will break down. Maybe at this point, when he feels great confusion, Bob will be forced to connect with human beings rather than with a machine.

Who said lightning does not strike the same place twice? Roy Sullivan knows that isn’t true. Sullivan, a forest ranger in Virginia, has been a victim of lightning seven times. Over the years, Sullivan’s shoulder, stomach, eyebrows, and ankles were burned. Once he was hit while sitting in his truck. The bolt pushed him out the door and threw him to the ground. During another incident, lightning struck his head, burned a hole in the hat he was wearing, set his hair on fire, moved down his body, and left through the toes of his boots. Somehow, Sullivan survived all these strikes. Once he realized that lightning had a way of finding him, Sullivan made a special plan to decrease his family’s... chances of being struck. Whenever a storm came near, he would go—all alone—into the kitchen and would make his wife and kids go into the basement, far from him. Sullivan died in 1983 at the age of 71. His death had nothing to do with lightning.

A. Whose Fault Is It?

Read the following paragraph carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box. Use each word once.

Mrs. Harris looked very upset. When I asked her what was wrong, she answered “Nothing.” But soon she (1) revealed what was happening. “My daughters, Maya and Tracy, have had a big fight,” she said. “The (2) quarrel started over a skirt. Maya had a new skirt that Tracy wanted to wear on a date. Since Maya wasn’t home, Tracy took the skirt without asking. When Maya discovered what Tracy had done, she took Tracy’s favorite sweater and wore it to school. There, by accident, some ketchup got spilled on the sweater. Now both girls are really angry at each other. Tracy is too (3) stubborn to say she should not have taken the skirt without asking. But Maya is just as bad. She says it is Tracy’s fault that the sweater got dirty. I’m trying to (4) persuade both girls to say they are sorry, but neither of them will. If they don’t make up pretty soon, they’re going to drive me crazy!”

B. Forests Full of Life

Forests are beautiful. Trees stretch high in the air, making a leafy green roof. Below, small young trees dot the forest floor. One of the most interesting things about a forest is the way new trees get planted. Small animals, like squirrels and chipmunks, pick up seeds that have fallen from the trees to the ground. These animals gather more seeds than they can eat. They take the (5) excess seeds and bury them to eat later. That is how seeds get (6) separated from the trees they grew on, sometimes by hundreds of miles. Often the animals forget about the seeds they buried and never go back to eat them. As the months go by, the rain, sunlight, and rich soil act upon the seeds. The (7) reaction of the seeds is to grow upward until they emerge° above the ground. Over the years, some of the tiny plants grow into (8) tremendous trees. Their branches of the big trees become home for the same kinds of animals that planted them long ago.

For thousands of years, tigers have \(1\) \textit{fascinated} human beings. Carvings made in Russia six thousand years ago show that people there thought of the tiger as a god. Children across the world have grown up hearing stories, songs, and poems about tigers. Such stories tell of the animal’s strength, beauty, and danger. But today this beautiful cat faces a problem that is alarming\(^{b}\) to scientists. The tiger is becoming \(2\) \textit{scarce} . It is dying out so fast that many scientists say there will soon be no tigers in the wild. The only ones left will be in zoos. This would be a real \(3\) \textit{disaster} for animal lovers around the world.

Why are the tigers dying out? They are being killed for their skins, bones, and other body parts. People throughout the world believe that tiger parts make strong medicine. The whiskers, the eyes, the claws, and the bones are used to treat different sicknesses. A hundred years ago, there were about 150,000 tigers in the world. Today there may be as few as 5,000. Many countries no longer \(4\) \textit{tolerate} the killing of the tiger. But it may be too late to save this beautiful animal.

The Amish are members of a church that was formed in the late 1600s. They live in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, and other states. Their traditions\(^{b}\) have not changed much over the years. They believe that human beings should live simply. They dress the same way the Amish did three hundred years ago. Living mostly on farms, they use horses instead of tractors to do the work. They do not have electricity or drive cars.

The Amish want their children to go to school. They want to see them do well and make \(5\) \textit{progress} in reading, writing, and arithmetic. But they believe that higher education is not needed. So Amish children leave school after the eighth grade. Most Amish marry at a young age, live on farms, and have large families.
Many outsiders have trouble understanding how the Amish can live without cars, electricity, VCRs, and phones. Some people predict that in the future, the Amish will have trouble holding onto their young people. And it is true that some young people leave the Amish church, wanting to increase their freedom. But many Amish are very happy. They are generous people who share what they have with one another. To them, non-Amish people rush around too much and miss the simple joys of life.

During World War II, Adolf Hitler, the leader of Germany, had a horrible idea. In his mind, he (1) imagined a world with a “perfect race.” Who would be in this perfect race? People like the Germans—blond, blue-eyed people. Many Germans liked Hitler’s ideas and (2) united with him in his Nazi party. The Nazis thought that most other people were not good enough to live. For example, they hated people who were Jewish, or physically ill, or retarded, or homosexuals. The Nazis took all these people from their homes. Many were killed right away. Others were (3) isolated in terrible prison camps. In the camps, many more were killed, and others were forced to work. Many of those workers did not survive. By the end of the war, the Nazis had killed millions of people. It is scary to think that even today there are “hate groups” like the Nazis in countries around the world. It is up to people of all backgrounds and beliefs to (4) condemn the hateful thinking of such groups.

B. Taking Time for Thanks

Last week, I got a letter that had (5) familiar handwriting on it. Though I knew I had seen the writing before, I wasn’t sure whose it was. When I opened the letter, I was surprised to see it was from a friend I had not heard from in a while. I was even more surprised to read what she wrote. In her letter, my friend (6) expressed her thanks for a small favor I did a year ago. At that time, she and her brothers and sisters flew into town to be with their dying mother. I had cooked them some meals and done some shopping to (7) support the family during that hard time. “I was so upset when Mother died that I don’t know if I ever really thanked you,” my friend wrote. “I want you to know how much your help meant to me at that time of grief.” Her letter made me feel great. It also made me think about all the people I am thankful for in my life. Do I take the time to let them know that I am grateful? I decided to start right at home. When my daughter came home from school that day, I (8) embraced her and said, “Thank you for being a wonderful kid.”
I am going to try to remember to say “thank you” more often.

Using the Words When Writing and Talking

The items below will help you use many of the words in this unit on paper and in conversation. Feel free to use any tense of a boldfaced verb and to make a boldfaced noun plural. (See pages 249–251 and 252.)

1. Using the word alarm, write or talk about a time that something scared you. Maybe you heard that a pill you take causes medical problems, or perhaps you saw a crowd get out of control at a rock concert.

2. Using the word collapse, write or talk about a time when you saw something fall apart. Perhaps a tent blew over, an old building came crashing down, or a pile of oranges in the supermarket tumbled to the floor.

3. Using the word condemn, write or talk about something that you feel very strongly is wrong and should be spoken out against. Maybe you think it is wrong that drunk driving isn't taken more seriously or that poor children go hungry.

4. Using the word confusion, write or talk about a time when things were unclear and mixed up. You might describe a busy store sale that had customers pushing each other to get the best items. Or you might describe how hard it was to get someone to fix a mistake in a bill that you had received.

5. Using the word defend, write or talk about a time that you (or someone else) protected a person or animal from harm. Maybe a friend came to your rescue when you were picked on as a child or you chased away children who were teasing a neighborhood dog.

6. Using the word detail, write or talk about a time that you paid careful attention to all the little things that need to be done when planning something important—for example, a wedding, a retirement party, or a special birthday.

7. Using the word disaster, write or talk about something that caused a lot of suffering. For example, you might describe a movie or a news story that showed a lot of people getting hurt, or you could tell what happened when a building near your home caught on fire.

8. Using the word embrace, write or talk about how friends or people in your family feel about hugging. Do some people always hug when they meet? Do others never hug?

9. Using the word fascinate, write or talk about something or someone that interests you and that you would like to know more about. It might be a subject in school, a place, or a person—for example, a teacher, movie or TV star, or world leader.

10. Using the word generous, write or talk about a person who has a big heart and always cares for and helps others.

11. Using the word glare, write or talk about a time when you looked at someone in an angry way. Perhaps the person didn't keep a secret or forgot to do something important.

12. Using the word humor, write or talk about something that makes you laugh, such as the silly things a friend does or the jokes that a family member tells.

13. Using the word imagine, write or talk about what you picture in your mind as the perfect vacation.

14. Using the word isolate, write or talk about a time when a teacher, parent, or doctor might not let a child get together with other kids.

15. Using the word modest, write or talk about a time when you or another person did something well but did not brag about it. Maybe you got the highest grade on a test but did not tell anyone, or perhaps a friend won an award but let only a few people know.

16. Using the word notice, write or talk about a time when you saw something that no one else did. Maybe you saw someone stealing, or perhaps you found a mistake in something that everyone else thought was perfect.

17. Using the word occupy, write or talk about someone who lives in a house, apartment, or room near you.

18. Using the word persuade, write or talk about a time when you got a person to do what you wanted. Perhaps you got your parents to take you someplace special when you were a child, or maybe you got friends to try a restaurant you liked.

19. Using the word progress, write or talk about a goal that you are moving toward in your life. Your goal might be to become better at something, to learn to do something new, or to finish something you have begun.

20. Using the word refuse, write or talk about something you have decided you will never do. Perhaps you will not go on a roller coaster, eat a certain food, or see one kind of movie.

21. Using the word relieved, write or talk about a time that you were worried and then had that worry taken away. Perhaps you were afraid you were sick and then found out you were not. Or maybe you thought something was going to cost a lot of money and then learned it would not cost much at all.

22. Using the word select, write or talk about a time when you wanted many things but could not have everything you wanted. Maybe you were very hungry and wanted everything on a restaurant menu, or perhaps you liked every outfit you tried on in a store.

23. Using the word tolerate, write or talk about an action that you do not like and will not let happen. Maybe you don’t let friends smoke in your house, copy your homework, or say mean things about other people.

24. Using the word victim, write or talk about a time that you (or someone else) was hurt by life or by another person. Perhaps relatives lost everything in a hurricane, your apartment was robbed, or a friend’s car was stolen.

When I was a little girl, I had a neighbor named Nina, who was a very shy child. She used to hide behind her mother when she met someone new. In school, she never raised her hand to give answers. She would not even answer when the math teacher called on her for the (1)______ solution ______ to a problem. If Nina had to speak in front of the class, she (2)______ pretended ______ to be sick and went to the nurse’s office instead. When we were in fifth grade, Nina’s family moved to another town. I didn’t see her for many years. But when I met her again not long ago, I was surprised. Nina had (3)______ developed ______ from a shy little girl into a completely different adult. She has a good job selling beauty supplies to hair salons. She goes from salon to salon, showing shop owners the latest shampoos and hair colors. She is not a bit timid anymore. Today, I would call Nina a (4)______ bold ______, outgoing woman. Isn’t it surprising how much a person can change?

Roberto and Maria went to look at new cars last Saturday. They asked their friend Anita to go along. “I didn’t know you were getting a new car!” she said.

“We aren’t,” said Maria. “We don’t (5)______ expect ______ to buy anything.”

“Then why are you going?” Anita asked.

Roberto tried to explain. “It’s fun to look at new cars, even when you can’t buy one,” he said. “We like to (6)______ admire ______ the new models and the new colors.”

“Well, that sounds silly to me. It can’t be any fun to look at things you can’t buy,” Anita said.

“Oh, but it is fun!” Maria (7)______ insisted ______. “You should come with us and see.”
But Maria could not persuade Anita to go, so Maria and Roberto went alone. Later in the day, Roberto made a comment to Maria. He said, “I’m glad that you and I don’t take life as seriously as Anita. Who cares if we can’t buy a new car today? Spending the day together and daydreaming about the cars we would like to own is a great way to have fun.”

A. Little Lies

Read the following paragraph carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box. Use each word once.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>a. appear</th>
<th>b. common</th>
<th>c. conceal</th>
<th>d. mention</th>
</tr>

If telling lies is wrong, why is it so (1) __________ common _________? One reason is that lying just a little bit makes it easier for people to talk to each other. When people meet for the first time, they often ask, “How are you?” even if they don’t care. Such a question makes them (2) __________ appear _________ interested and friendly. And no matter how angry or sad we feel, most of us answer, “I’m fine, thanks.” Such social lies (3) __________ conceal _________ things we would rather not talk about and help keep conversations moving along. Another reason people lie is to be kind to others. Let’s say someone you know gets a new haircut that you think looks terrible. You might act as though you did not see the haircut and not (4) __________ mention _________ it at all. Or just to be nice, you might make a comment° such as, “I like your new haircut.” In other words, even though we are taught as children that lying is wrong, sometimes it can be easier—and kinder—not to tell the whole truth.

B. Rudeness at the Movies

Read the following paragraph carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box. Use each word once.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>a. attract</th>
<th>b. enormous</th>
<th>c. irritate</th>
<th>d. surround</th>
</tr>
</thead>

Most people like being scared, at least a little. After all, that is why movies with monsters or creepy ghosts (5) __________ attract _________ millions of people into theaters each year. But sometimes the strangest things in the theater are not on screen. Instead, they are the people sitting next to you or behind you. For example, whenever I see a movie, there are always several rude people nearby who (6) __________ irritate _________ me by talking throughout the entire film. And do they speak about the movie? Never. They talk about an argument they had with a friend, a great party they went to, or their plans for later, when the movie is over. And if that isn’t bad enough, the tallest person in the theater always chooses to sit right in front of me, blocking my view. I move this way and that, trying to see around the (7) __________ enormous _________ person in front of me. Then the people behind me get mad, start kicking the back of my seat, and yell at me to stop moving around so much. At this point, I begin to think that the reason these people come to the movies is not to see the movies. No, their real purpose is to bother me. So when I go to a scary movie, I become afraid—not of monsters or of ghosts—but of the strange human beings that surround me in the theater.

“This one’s for you!” “I love you, man.” “It’s a light beer for a heavy world.” These are some of the lines used in beer ads on TV. Ads like these make drinking seem fun and good. They make young people begin to think that drinking is a way for them to (1) achieve happiness and success. These ads are not honest about the problems that drinking can cause. They never show the sickness, sadness, and loss of a job that are the real (2) conditions of many people who drink heavily. The ads never show someone dealing with a serious (3) injury caused by a drunk driver. The ads never mention the families broken up because of the violence of a person who drinks too much alcohol. In short, these flashy ads do not tell the truth about the (4) major difficulties that alcohol causes for people all over the world.

Being lazy is not a good thing. However, constant work is not good either. Jerome is an example of someone who never stops working. He works so hard at his job that he (5) exhausts himself. When he is at home, he is always fixing something in the house or working in the yard. Jerome loves his wife and children. He takes his (6) duty to be a good husband and father very seriously. The problem is that Jerome (7) seldom spends any time with his family. He is always too busy working. Jerome knows the (8) value of hard work. Sadly, he does not understand that spending time with his family is worth a lot, too.

Many animals walked the Earth long before humans. The best-known of these animals were the dinosaurs. Some dinosaurs were enormous and scary. When these big animals hunted, they would (1) _advance_ slowly, (2) _grasp_ the hunted animal in their sharp claws, and tear it to pieces. But not all dinosaurs were this big. Some were the size of today's chickens. These small animals hunted for the eggs of other dinosaurs. With their pointy teeth, they would crack the (3) _delicate_ shells they found and eat the tasty juices inside them. And their size made it easy for them to run away quickly from larger animals. Dinosaurs of all sizes died out millions of years ago. Scientists have come up with different reasons why dinosaurs stopped walking the Earth. But no one knows for sure what happened. However, some animals from several million years ago (4) _succeeded_ in living from those times until now. For example, the snakes, turtles, and crocodiles of today are almost exactly like the ones that lived in the time of the dinosaurs.

B. Call Waiting—Oh, No!

Read the following paragraph carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box. Use each word once.

Have you ever (5) _considered_ buying an answering machine or getting "call waiting"? Let me tell you what I think about these inventions. I used to hate telephone answering machines. I felt nervous talking to a machine. When I heard the (6) _request_ "Please start talking after you hear the beep," I forgot what I wanted to say. But I have gotten over my fears and do not hate answering machines anymore. I can even (7) _praise_ them as being useful. After all, they do permit people to pass along information even when nobody is able to answer the phone. However, I will never stop hating call waiting. Talking to people who have call waiting drives me crazy. When they hear the little beep that tells them someone else is calling, they (8) interrupt our conversation and say, “Just a minute, please. I’ll see who’s calling and come right back.” I am left holding onto the phone, thinking, “Why is the other person who called more important than I am?” To me, “call waiting” really means “I am left waiting.”

As soon as James drove his taxi up to the curb, he (1) _recognized_ the man in the expensive suit. It was the guy who never gave him a good tip. Even so, James was (2) _courteous_—he asked, “May I take your bags?” and opened the cab door for the man. During the ride, James (3) _attempted_ to have a friendly talk, but the man said nothing in return. “Oh well,” James said to himself. “That’s OK.” In his heart, James knew that driving a cab was not going to be (4) _permanent_. From the time he was little, James had loved getting up in front of people. He had starred in every play his schools had put on—from grade school through high school. Being the center of attention made him happy. Deep down, James felt that he had the talent needed to become a movie and TV star. And when he became rich and famous, James promised himself, he would always be friendly to cab drivers—and leave them a big tip!

B. Thoughts at the Mall

Read the following paragraph carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box. Use each word once.

On Sunday afternoons, I often (5) _explore_ one of the nearby shopping malls. I enjoy eating in the food court and looking at all the people. It always makes me laugh to see the middle-school kids pretending they are all grown-up. They dress the same as older kids and even (6) _imitate_ the ways that high school kids talk. Most of all, though, when I am at the mall, I love to shop. But no matter how much money I bring, it is never (7) _sufficient_ for all the things I’d like to buy. In fact, I know that I will _never_ have enough money to own everything I would like. That could make me feel sad, even (8) _hopeless_. But I don’t let it. I know that no amount of money will buy what is really important: family and friends, health, and happiness. So I buy only those things I really need and forget the rest. Life is too short to worry about what you don’t have.

Clara Barton was a nurse who lived during the American Civil War (1861–1865). She knew what happened to soldiers during war. When they received an injury from a bullet or knife, they had to lie on the battlefield until the battle was over. By then, many of them had bled to death. Because Clara wanted to (1) assist the soldiers, she asked to go to the battlefield while the fighting was still going on. The officer in charge said no. But Clara did not take “no” for an answer. Instead of thinking nothing could be done for the soldiers, Clara was (2) positive. She said that many of them could be saved if she could just get to them. After listening to her, the officer decided to let her go. She and her nurses then worked day and night to help the hurt soldiers. They (3) examined their wounds, gave them medicine, and used a cart pulled by horses to take them to a hospital. The nurses did not care which side the men fought for. To them, no man was an (4) enemy. They were all just human beings who needed help. After the war was over, Clara started the American Red Cross. The Red Cross helps people during wartime. But it does much more. When there is an earthquake, a flood, or a fire, the Red Cross is there to help. And it is all because of Clara Barton.

B. To Spank or Not to Spank?

Do you think children should be spanked? Whenever a (5) sample of adults is asked that question, there are many different answers. Some people say that children need to be spanked in order to learn to be good. Others say there is a (6) flaw in that idea. They say that all spanking does is teach kids to hit those who are smaller and weaker. They also say that spanked children don’t really learn to be good—they simply learn to be afraid of spanking.

People who believe in spanking say that children who are not spanked always expect to get what they want. Others say that (7) competent parents find better ways to teach kids how to behave. For example, when such parents feel the
(8) __________ urge __________ to spank a child who is behaving badly, they take a few minutes to cool down. Then they do one or more of the following: talk to the child about why the behavior was wrong, take away the child's favorite toy, keep the child from watching TV, or make the child take "time out" in his or her room. What do you think? Do you think these ideas work as well as spanking?

Using the Words When Writing and Talking

The items below will help you use many of the words in this unit on paper and in conversation. Feel free to use any tense of a boldfaced verb and to make a boldfaced noun plural. (See pages 249–251 and 252.)

1. Using the word achieve, write or talk about a goal that you hope to reach some day. You might want to get a better job, learn a new language, or have a nicer apartment.

2. Using the word assist, write or talk about a time that you helped someone. Perhaps you baby-sat for neighbors so they could go job hunting, shoveled the snow on an elderly neighbor’s sidewalk, or listened to a friend who needed to talk.

3. Using the word attempt, write or talk about the first time you tried to do something you knew would be difficult. Maybe you tried to ski, fix a broken bicycle, or speak in front of a large group.

4. Using the word comment, write or talk about a time when you said something that showed how you felt about someone or something. You may have said something like “You are so friendly. It’s not surprising everyone likes you” or “I dislike the new restaurant in my neighborhood.”

5. Using the word common, write or talk about something that young people often do nowadays. It might be going to the mall, listening to loud music, or saving money to buy good-looking clothes.

6. Using the word competent, write or talk about something that you do well. Maybe you are good at playing cards, cooking quick but good meals, or doing household repairs.

7. Using the word condition, write or talk about an elderly person that you know, and describe the shape the person is in. Is the person strong and active or fairly weak? Does he or she hear and see well or have difficulty hearing and seeing?

8. Using the word consider, write or talk about a decision you made after a lot of careful thought. It might have been a decision to leave a job, move to another town, or buy a new car.

9. Using the word courteous, write or talk about a time you were surprised by someone’s good manners. Maybe a store clerk was helpful when you returned a shirt that had faded in the wash, or perhaps a driver slowed down so you could get onto a busy highway.

10. Using the word develop, write or talk about something that has grown and changed over the years. It could be a street, city, or school. It could even be a person.

11. Using the word duty, write or talk about something that everyone knows is your job at work or at home. Perhaps it is your job to do laundry at home or to repair machines at work.

12. Using the word expect, write or talk about a time when you thought something would happen a certain way, but it turned out very differently. You might describe a date you went on, a meeting you attended, or a movie you watched.

13. Using the word explore, write or talk about visiting someplace new. You might describe a vacation you took, a new neighborhood that you walked around in, or a shopping mall you visited.

14. Using the word flaw, write or talk about someone you like, even though there is something about the person you don’t like. Perhaps the person has a bad temper, is always late, or spends money wildly.
15. Using the word imitate, write or talk about the time that you saw children trying to act older than they really were. Maybe the children copied their parents or an older brother or sister.

16. Using the word insist, write or talk about a time you said something in a strong, firm way. Maybe you told your boss you had to have a raise, or perhaps you told your children they had to clean their rooms.

17. Using the word major, write or talk about a big change in your life. You might describe getting married, losing someone close to you, or returning to school.

18. Using the word mention, write or talk about a time a person told you something you didn’t know. You might have learned that a neighbor was moving, a relative was getting divorced, or a friend was taking a new job.

19. Using the word praise, write or talk about how you felt when someone said nice things to you about the way you did something. Perhaps a teacher liked a paper you wrote, a boss said you had done a difficult job well, or friends told you how much they enjoyed your home-cooked meal.

20. Using the word pretend, write or talk about a time when you acted one way but really felt another way. Maybe you acted as though you liked an ugly present that someone gave you. Or perhaps you acted as though you were not upset when you really were.

21. Using the word request, write or talk about something that you plan to ask someone to do for you. You might want to ask a friend to baby-sit, ask a teacher for help with a problem, or ask neighbors to keep their cat out of your yard.

22. Using the word surround, write or talk about a place that has a fence around it. You might describe a back yard, a playing field, or a city park.

23. Using the word urge, write or talk about a time that you had a sudden wish to do something. Maybe it was something small (like eating a candy bar) or something big (like moving across the country).

24. Using the word value, write or talk about something of yours that means a lot to you, even though it is not worth a lot of money. It might be a photograph, a home-made birthday card from someone special, or a toy from your childhood.

Note: When a verb ends with a consonant (for example, the verb plan), you often double the final consonant when forming the past (planned) and progressive (planning) tenses. In both cases, the final n has been doubled before adding the tense ending. But this rule doesn’t hold true for all verbs ending with a consonant. If you are not sure when to double the final consonant, check with your teacher or a dictionary.
Making Nouns Plural

Singular (sing-gyuh-lur) nouns name one person, place, or thing. Plural (ploor-uhl) nouns name two or more persons, places, or things. Most nouns can be made plural by adding -s.

Most Plurals: Add -s

<th>Plural</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>

Some nouns form their plurals in other ways. A few of these are shown below. If you are not sure how to make a certain noun plural, check in a dictionary or ask your teacher.

Limited Answer Key

Important Note: This answer key has the answers for the “Adding One Word to an Item” activity that is in each chapter. You should not look at these answers until you have tried your best to pick the word that should go in each sentence of this activity.

If you use the answer key correctly, it will help you learn and remember the words in the chapter. It will also help you get ready for the other activities and tests, for which the answers are not given. To make this key easier to use, the titles of each chapter’s readings are written after the chapter number.

Vocabulary Basics will help you learn 240 important words. Here are five reasons why a good vocabulary matters:

1. Knowing a lot of words makes it easier for you to understand others and for others to understand you.
2. A good vocabulary is the key to understanding what you read.
3. A large vocabulary can help you score higher on tests.
4. A solid vocabulary will help you do better in school and at work.
5. A strong vocabulary will help you believe in yourself.

The facts are clear. It is important to have a strong vocabulary. Words can make you a better reader, speaker, thinker, and learner. By working with the chapters in this book, you will greatly add to your vocabulary—and to your life as well.
PRONUNCIATION GUIDE

Many of the words in this book will be new to you. To help you say (or pronounce) the words, the book gives information after each word. For example, the information for the word labor is (lay-bur). Here is how to use that information with the guide in the box below.

1. To pronounce the l in lay-bur, look for the letter l in the guide. It tells you that the l in labor is pronounced like the l in the simple word let. To pronounce the ay, look under "A sounds" in the guide. You will see that ay is sounded like the ay in the simple word say. The guide also tells you that b sounds like the b in the simple word big, and ur sounds like the ur in fur.

2. You learn that labor is a word made up of two syllables. A syllable (sil-uh-buhl) is a part of a word that can be said by itself. The word hat has one syllable. The word labor has two syllables: la and bor.

3. When a word has two or more syllables, one syllable is said a bit more strongly than the others. In this book, the strong, or stressed, syllable is shown in boldfaced letters: lay-bur.

4. Some words of three or more syllables have one syllable that gets a lighter stress. This syllable will be shown in italic letters. For example, the word volunteer is pronounced vol-uhn-teer. The last syllable, teer, is said most strongly, and a bit of stress is put on the first syllable, vol, as well.

The guide is a pronunciation guide. It helps you say the words by breaking them down into smaller parts, or syllables. Each syllable is assigned a sound that is similar to a word you already know. The guide is divided into sections, each covering a different type of sound. For example, the section on "A sounds" includes words like "ay" (as in "say") and "ah" (as in "calm"). By looking up these sounds in the guide, you can learn how to say new words correctly.

5. Some words of three or more syllables have one syllable that gets a lighter stress. This syllable will be shown in italic letters. For example, the word volunteer is pronounced vol-uhn-teer. The last syllable, teer, is said most strongly, and a bit of stress is put on the first syllable, vol, as well.

FOR EXTRA HELP

- Forming Verb Tenses 249
- Making Nouns Plural 252
- Limited Answer Key 253
- Word List 257
In all likelihood, the students you teach have severely limited vocabularies. Some have come to this country as adults, and their day-to-day struggles in an unfamiliar culture have left them little time to acquire more than the most basic vocabulary. Others, although born in this country, have been shortchanged by the educational system. Often with undiagnosed or poorly understood learning problems, they were pushed from grade to grade and missed consistent instruction in vocabulary development. Still others received a solid enough education but never developed strong vocabularies because they were raised in homes where television—not reading or conversation—was the favored pastime.

In the long run, it makes no difference why your students have limited vocabularies. The results are the same: Self-conscious about their limited vocabularies, students hesitate to take steps on their own behalf—like continuing in school or applying for a better job. Not knowing enough words, they are unable to meet the demands of school and the workplace.

Vocabulary Basics provides a practical answer to your students’ vocabulary problem. In the course of 30 chapters, Vocabulary Basics teaches 240 critical words—the words that ESL, adult-literacy, and pre-GED students need to get ahead in today’s competitive world. Here are the book’s distinctive features:

1. An intensive words-in-context approach. Studies show that students learn words best by encountering them repeatedly in different contexts, not through rote memorization. The book gives students a concentrated in-context experience by presenting each new word in seven different settings. Each of the thirty chapters takes students through the following series of steps:
   - Students start by inferring the meaning of each word as it appears in two sentences. On the basis of their inferences, they choose the closest meaning from three multiple-choice options.
   - Then, armed with a basic understanding of the new words, students are ready to match each word to its meaning.
   - Next, they strengthen their understanding of the word by applying it in four different words-in-context practices, including sentence-completion activities and high-interest fill-in-the-blank passages.
   - Last, to lock in their mastery of the new words, students are asked to come up with their own endings for eight practice sentences, each of which includes one of the new words. At this point, students will be so comfortable with the words that they will have little trouble using them in this challenging writing-speaking activity.

Each encounter with a word brings it closer to becoming part of the student’s permanent word bank. No comparable vocabulary book gives such sustained attention to the words-in-context approach.
2 Abundant and varied practice. Along with extensive practice in each chapter, unit tests at the end of every six chapters provide students with three additional chances to work with the words in a unit. By the end of the book, then, students will have worked with each new word ten times. Moreover, Chapters 2 through 30 repeat words from earlier chapters (such repeated words are marked with small circles like this°), allowing for even more reinforcement. Many unit activities—for example, synonym and antonym practices and crossword puzzles—are completely different from those found in the chapters. This variety keeps students motivated and ensures their mastery of the words. All this practice makes it possible for students to learn in the best possible way: by working closely and repeatedly with the new words. No comparable book provides so much and such varied reinforcement.

3 Focus on essential words. A good deal of time went into selecting the 240 words featured in the book. We started by consulting word frequency lists, along with lists in a wide range of vocabulary books. In addition, each of us—as well as our editors—prepared a list of words. A computer was used to consolidate these many word lists. Then a long process of group discussion led to final decisions about the words that would be most helpful for students working at a basic level.

4 Sensitivity to students’ needs. The book gives careful attention to the special needs of basic students.

   - The simplified pronunciation guide at the front of the book and in each chapter is free of the strange-looking pronunciation symbols that many people, particularly basic students, find so confusing. Instead, easily understood letters and letter combinations are used to show students how to sound out each new word.
   - Throughout, we have aimed for a tone that is friendly and accessible, but never condescending.
   - Recognizing that basic students often have difficulty processing long sentences and paragraphs, we have kept sentence structure uncomplicated and paragraphs brief.
   - Whenever a word has multiple meanings (for example, delicate, meaning “easily broken” or “requiring care and skill”), we use the meaning that basic students are most likely to encounter and thus find helpful. (In this case, the meaning “easily broken” is the one we use.)
   - Many basic students have difficulty with verbs: they have trouble remembering the correct form of the third-person singular in the present tense and the correct endings of the past and progressive tenses. Their tendency is to omit, respectively, the -s, -ed, and -ing endings. For example, when adding a new verb, such as insist, to their vocabulary, they will often write (and sometimes say), “My friend always insist I drive when we go out,” “Last night, I insist that we buy a new radio,” and “I got tired of insist that my kids clean their rooms.” So in the “Learning Eight New Words” section, whenever a new word is a verb, we usually provide the verb’s base form (insist) in the first sentence and the third-person singular present tense, past tense, or progressive form in subsequent sentences. Through repeated exposure, students become familiar with the correct way to form verbs. To help them even further, we include at the end of the book (see pages 249–251) a chart summarizing the more troublesome verb forms.
   - To dispel students’ belief that the words in Vocabulary Basics are removed from their everyday lives, we deliberately use the second-person point of view in many of the book’s activities and passages. Seeing unfamiliar words in material that refers to “you” helps students see the relevance of the words to their own lives.
Finally, the last activity in each chapter and in each unit review encourages students’ ownership of the words even further. These activities ask students to use the new words when writing and speaking. Indeed, what better way is there for students to “own” a new word than to use it on paper or in conversation? However, basic students are often at a loss when asked to write or say a sentence using a new word. Throughout the book, then, we provide considerable help when it’s time for students to generate their own material. For example, the last activity in each chapter has students devise only endings for partial sentences already containing the new words. Such a structured approach gives students the help they need to get moving in the right direction. Similarly, the final activity in each unit review provides students with help as they get ready to create their own sentences—this time, from scratch. In this instance, we provide suggested topics that students can draw upon when writing or saying their sentences.

Consider, for example, our item for the word comfortable: “Using the word comfortable, write or talk about a time you made someone feel relaxed and at ease. Perhaps you invited a new neighbor to dinner, took the time to show a coworker around on the first day on the job, or helped a relative feel less nervous about going into the hospital.” If students were simply told “Make up a sentence using the word comfortable,” they might come up with something like this: “I feel comfortable in my English class.” Of course, such a sentence doesn’t demonstrate students’ understanding of the word. Comfortable could mean “upset” or “angry” or “bored.” Our suggestions encourage students to generate sentences that show they truly understand the new words. Some students may follow our suggestions closely; others may use our suggestions to spark topics of their own. In either case, our “prompts” help students write or say sentences that demonstrate their genuine understanding of the new words.

5 Appealing content. Dull practice exercises work against learning, while relevant, lively, even humorous materials grab students’ attention and enhance learning. For this reason, we put considerable effort into creating activities and passages with widespread appeal. Throughout, we have tried to make the material enjoyable for teachers and students alike. Look for a moment at the sentences on pages 10 and 28, and at the reading passages on pages 12, 30–31, and 42. When field-testing the material, we found that students especially enjoyed the often playful quality of the “Showing You Understand the Words” activity (see pages 11 and 17, for example).

6 Clear format. Vocabulary Basics has been designed so that its very format contributes to the learning process. Each chapter consists of three two-page spreads. In the first two-page spread (see pages 8–9), students can easily refer to all eight new words when completing the matching activity. In the second two-page spread (see pages 10–11), students can refer to a box that shows all eight words while working on the “Adding One Word” and “Adding Two Words” activities. In the third two-page spread (see pages 12–13), they can cross out the words in the box when filling in the blanks in the reading passages. The book’s format is equally attentive to the needs of the instructor. For instance, to facilitate grading, including use of the Scantron, students can mark answer spaces with the letter of the word or with the word itself.

7 Helpful supplements. An Instructor’s Edition containing answers to all the activities and tests in the student book as well as teaching guidelines is available at no charge to instructors adopting the text. Also available is a computer disk containing additional tests for each vocabulary chapter; these tests feature actual pronunciations of the words.
8 Realistic pricing. While Vocabulary Basics is comprehensive enough to serve as a primary text, its modest price ($7.90 net) also makes it an inexpensive supplement in basic reading, writing, pre-GED, and ESL classes.

9 One in a sequence of books. Vocabulary Basics is the most fundamental book in the Townsend Press vocabulary series. It is followed by Groundwork for a Better Vocabulary (a slightly more advanced basic text), Building Vocabulary Skills (an even more advanced basic text), Improving Vocabulary Skills (an intermediate text), and Advancing Vocabulary Skills (an advanced text). There are also short versions of the last three books. Suggested reading levels for the books are included in the Instructor’s Manual. Together, the books create a comprehensive vocabulary program that will make any student a better reader, writer, and thinker.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

A number of people provided valuable assistance as the three of us worked on Vocabulary Basics. Our thanks go to Susan G. Hamson, whose word-processing abilities eased the demands of the project. Eliza Comodromos assisted at the very end by fine-tuning some of the questions and activities. Susan Gamer helped by drafting several sets of lively practice materials and by proofreading the completed manuscript. We appreciate as well the extraordinary design, editing, and proofreading skills of the multi-talented Janet M. Goldstein. Final thanks go to Carole Mohr, co-author of the other books in the Townsend Press vocabulary series. Her rigorous and insightful editing identified the changes that were needed to make the book as helpful as possible to ESL, adult-literacy, and pre-GED students.

WHY A GOOD VOCABULARY MATTERS

At one time or another, you have probably heard someone say, “It’s important to have a good vocabulary.” Wanting to be polite, you may have agreed. But perhaps you really wanted to ask, “Why is having a good vocabulary important?” Here are five reasons why.

1. Knowing a lot of words makes it easier for you to understand others and for others to understand you. Have you ever had trouble following what someone else was saying? Maybe you found it hard to understand a television news report. Perhaps you could not understand a doctor’s instructions for completing a medical form. Maybe you could not figure out what family members meant when they talked about an election. If you are like most people, you probably got upset when you didn’t understand what was being said.

   It can also be difficult to tell others what you are thinking and feeling when you don’t know enough words. Maybe the words will not come when you are writing a letter to a sick neighbor. Perhaps you have a hard time explaining to relatives why you were hurt by something they did. Maybe you have trouble telling friends why you are so excited about your new apartment.

   As your vocabulary gets larger, you will not have to work so hard to understand others—or to make others understand you. That, in turn, will make your life much easier.

2. A good vocabulary is the key to understanding what you read. If you don’t know enough words, you are going to have trouble figuring out the meaning of what you read. One or two words whose meanings you don’t know may not stop you. However, if there are many words you don’t know, it will be hard for you to understand what you read. With a strong vocabulary, you will get more out of newspapers, magazines, books—or anything else you want to read.

3. A large vocabulary can help you score higher on tests. Vocabulary is an important part of many tests—for example, the GED exam, college entrance exams, armed forces tests, and job placement tests. Why is that? It’s because the people who make up these exams know that vocabulary helps measure what you already know and how easily you can learn new information in the future. The more words you know, the better you will do on these exams.
To the Student

4 A solid vocabulary will help you do better in school and at work. Knowing many words makes you a better reader, writer, speaker, listener, and thinker. These are the skills you need to do well in the classroom and on the job. In school, having a good vocabulary helps you understand your textbooks, classmates, and teachers. And in the world of work, a good vocabulary counts as never before. More and more, workers are being asked to change jobs and learn new skills. Knowing how to learn quickly is the key to doing well in this fast-changing world. A good vocabulary makes it easier for you to understand new ideas so you can get ahead on the job—and stay there.

5 A strong vocabulary helps you believe in yourself. Sometimes people who don’t have large vocabularies feel they don’t have what it takes to do well in today’s world. They may sit quietly in the back of the classroom, nervous about joining in. They may hear about an interesting job opening but be afraid to apply. Having a strong vocabulary helps you feel you have what it takes to make your life better. In other words, having a strong vocabulary helps you build confidence. What is confidence? It is the belief that you can do things you used to think you would never be able to do.

Now you know why it is so important to have a good vocabulary. The next few pages tell how this book will help you build a strong vocabulary—one that can unlock doors that used to be tightly closed.

HOW VOCABULARY BASICS IS DIFFERENT FROM OTHER BOOKS

The way most books try to build vocabulary is by asking students to memorize lists of words. But people usually forget memorized lists quickly. To learn a word really well, you must see and use it a number of times. Vocabulary Basics gives you the chance to use the new words in each chapter seven different ways. By the end of each chapter, you will easily remember what the new words mean because you will have used them so many times.

UNDERSTANDING THE BOOK AS A WHOLE

Inside Front Cover and Contents

By filling in the blanks below, you will understand how the book is organized. First, turn to the inside front cover. As you can see, the inside front cover provides a chart called __________________________. This chart will help you figure out how to say the vocabulary words in the book. Next, turn to the Table of Contents on pages v–vi. There are _______ chapters in the book and a unit review after every __________ chapters. At the end of the last unit review, there are four short sections. The first section shows how to form verb tenses. The second gives information on making ______________________. The third section is a __________________________. The fourth section is a list of the ___________ in the book.
To the Student

UNDERSTANDING EACH CHAPTER

Now it’s time to turn to the first chapter in the book, on pages 8–13. This chapter, like all the others (except for the unit reviews), has seven parts. Each part is described below.

1. Learning Eight New Words

The first part of the chapter (see pages 8–9) is called “Learning Eight New Words.” The left-hand column lists eight boldfaced words. Underneath, you are shown how to say, or pronounce, each boldfaced word. For example, here is how to say agreement, the first word on page 8: uh-gree-muhnt. (Remember: for help on how to say the new words, see the guide on the inside front cover.)

After showing how to say the boldfaced word, the chapter gives the word’s part of speech. What part of speech is agreement? It is a noun. The vocabulary words in this book are mostly nouns, adjectives, and verbs. Nouns are words used to name something—a person, place, thing, or idea. The words boyfriend, city, hat, and truth are all nouns. Adjectives are words that describe nouns, as in the following word pairs: old boyfriend, large city, red hat, whole truth. Many of the words in this book are verbs, words that show action. They tell what someone or something is doing. The words ask, buy, drive, learn, and sing are all verbs.

To the right of each boldfaced word are two sentences that will help you understand its meaning. And below the sentences are three possible meanings for the boldfaced word. From among the three choices, you select the answer that has the closest meaning to that of the boldfaced word. In each sentence, the other words near the boldfaced word—the context—will give clues that help you figure out the meaning of the boldfaced word. There are four kinds of context clues: examples, words with similar meanings, words with opposite meanings, and the meaning of the sentence as a whole. Each kind of context clue is described below.

Examples

A sentence may have examples that help explain the meaning of the boldfaced word. For instance, take a look at the following sentence (from Chapter 1) and note how the examples (in italics) help explain the meaning of the word agreement:

> After fighting for hours, the little girls made an agreement to share their toys.

The sentence gives an example of an agreement—sharing toys. To figure out what agreement means, think about the example. What would it mean if two children said they would share their toys? Now look at the three answer choices below. On the answer line to the left, write the letter of the answer you think is right.

___*Agreement* means         a. fight        b. question        c. promise

The examples make it clear that the two girls have made a promise to each other, so c is the correct answer.

Words with Similar Meanings

Words with the same or almost the same meaning are called synonyms (sin-uh-nimz). For example, the words joyful, happy, and pleased are synonyms because they all mean about the same thing. Synonyms often give clues about the meaning of a nearby unknown word. Look at the following sentence (from Chapter 1) and note how the synonym (in italics) helps explain the meaning of the word prepare:

Last year, I prepared all kinds of interesting dishes for our holiday dinner. But this year, I’m going to relax and let someone else make the meal.

Instead of using prepare again in the second sentence, the writer uses the synonym make. Now choose the letter of the right answer.

___ Prepare means
   a. get ready
   b. watch
   c. leave

Since both prepare the meal and make the meal mean “get the meal ready,” answer a is correct.

- Words with Opposite Meanings

Words with opposite or almost opposite meanings are called antonyms (an-toh-nimz). For example, help and hurt are antonyms, as are work and rest. Antonyms can help you figure out the meanings of new words. How? By giving the opposite meaning of an unknown word, an antonym makes it easier to figure out what a new word means. Look at the following sentence from Chapter 1 and note how the antonym (in italics) helps explain the meaning of the word cancel.

Then look at the three answer choices below and select the best answer.

I had planned to see the doctor today, but I feel so much better that I think I will cancel my visit there.

___ Cancel means
   a. remember
   b. not do as planned
   c. get ready for

The sentence says that the writer had planned to see the doctor but now will cancel the visit. You can guess, then, that cancel has the opposite meaning of plan to. So b is the correct answer.

- The Meaning of the Sentence as a Whole

Sometimes there is no example, synonym, or antonym in a sentence. But even without these clues, you can figure out what a boldfaced word means by studying the meaning of the sentence as a whole. For example, look at the following sentence (from Chapter 1) and see if you can decide on the meaning of the word flexible simply by studying the rest of the sentence:

The new lamp next to my bed has a long neck that is so flexible it can be moved any way I want.

___ Flexible means
   a. able to bend
   b. real
   c. heavy

It’s clear that the neck of the new lamp must be able to bend in different ways. So a is the correct answer.

As you go through the “Learning Eight New Words” sections, look closely at the two sentences given for each word and at the answer choices. As you figure out the meaning of each word, you are doing what’s needed to understand and remember the word. Working with the word in this way and seeing how it is used in a sentence are the keys to completing the rest of the chapter.
To the Student

2. Matching Words with Meanings

The second part of the chapter (see page 9) is called “Matching Words with Meanings.” Often it is not enough to see how a word is used in a sentence. To understand a word fully, most people need to see the meaning, or definition, of the word. The matching activity gives the meaning of each new word, but it also makes you look for and think about each meaning. This is the best way to learn and remember a word. Now look at the Be Careful note that follows the matching activity. This note reminds you that you should not move on to the rest of the chapter until you are sure that you know the correct meaning of each word.

3. Adding One Word to an Item

The third part of the chapter (see page 10) is called “Adding One Word to a Sentence.” This section, with eight sentences, gives you a chance to show how well you understand the new words. After placing one word in each sentence, be sure to check your answers in the Limited Answer Key at the back of the book. Checking your answers will help you see if you really know the words. If you do, you are ready to complete the rest of the activities, for which answers are not given.

4. Adding Two Words to an Item

The fourth part (see page 10) is called “Adding Two Words to a Sentence.” This activity is a bit more difficult because you have to see which two words fit best in a sentence. The extra work you do to find the right answers will help you learn the words.

5. Showing You Understand the Words

The fifth part (see page 11), called “Showing You Understand the Words,” is made up of two sets of four items. Each item uses one of the chapter’s new words. By completing an item or by answering the question asked by an item, you show that you truly understand what the word means. You will, we think, have a lot of fun doing this activity.

6. Adding Words to a Reading

The sixth part (see page 12), called “Adding Words to a Reading,” has two interesting readings. By choosing the right word to fill in each blank, you get a good idea of the way the new words can be used in a paragraph.

7. Using the Words When Writing and Talking

The seventh part (see page 13) is called “Using the Words When Writing and Talking.” By coming up with your own ending for each item, you will be well on the way to making the words part of your everyday vocabulary.

At the end of the seventh part, you will find a box where you can enter your scores for “Adding One Word to an Item” through “Adding Words to a Reading.” To get your score for each part, count how many you got right. Then look at the “Number right” explanation below the box to see what your score is for that part. You should also enter your scores on the Vocabulary Performance Chart found inside the back cover of the book.
To the Student

Now you know how the chapters in Vocabulary Basics are organized. As you have seen, every chapter gives you the chance to work with the new words seven times. Each time you complete an activity, you get closer to making the new words part of your everyday vocabulary. And to give you even more practice, almost every chapter repeats some words from earlier chapters. (These repeated words are marked with small circles—like this°. If you are not sure of the meaning of a repeated word, turn to the Word List on pages 257–258. There you will find the page on which the word was first used.) In short, you will have plenty of chances to learn—and relearn—the words.

UNDERSTANDING THE UNIT REVIEWS

As you saw earlier, there is a unit review at the end of every six chapters. Each unit review offers six different kinds of activities—everything from crossword puzzles to sentence writing. All in all, you will have the chance to practice each word in the unit three more times. When you finish the unit reviews, you will have worked at least ten times with each word in the book. By then, you should know the words so well that you will be ready to use them whenever you want.

Take a moment to look at the instructions for the final activity in the unit reviews (see page 53, for example). Note that when doing this final activity, you should “feel free to use any tense of a boldfaced verb and to make a boldfaced noun plural.” For example, for the verb assist, you might use a number of different tenses: “My family assists me when I have trouble with my schoolwork,” “Last summer, I assisted my uncle with the opening of his new store,” or “For two weeks, my friends have been assisting me with plans for the party.” For the noun volunteer, you might use the plural form and write or say, “Two volunteers came to the school to talk about fire safety.”

Like many people, you may have trouble remembering the correct form of some verb tenses and the correct plural form of some nouns. So, when doing this final activity, you will probably find it helpful to look at the charts on pages 249–251 and 252. They will give you the help you need.

A FINAL THOUGHT

The facts are in. It is important to have a strong vocabulary. Having a good vocabulary makes you a better reader, writer, speaker, thinker, and learner. Having a good vocabulary can make things smoother for you at home, in school, and on the job. But learning new words will not happen easily or by itself. You must decide that you want to build your vocabulary and then work hard with the chapters in this book. If you do, you will not only add to your vocabulary—you will add to your life as well. Good luck.

Learning Eight New Words

In the space at the left, write the letter of the meaning closest to that of each boldfaced word. Use the other words (the context) in each sentence to help you figure out the word’s meaning.

1. agreement
   (uh-gree-muhnt)
   - noun
   Agreement means
   a. fight
   b. question
   c. promise

2. cancel
   (kan-suhl)
   - verb
   Cancel means
   a. remember
   b. not do as planned
   c. get ready for

3. curious
   (kyoor-ee-uhss)
   - adjective
   Curious means
   a. not interested

Matching Words with Meanings

Have you ever been (1)______________ about what life would be like if you couldn’t smell anything? Maybe you think, “That wouldn’t be so bad.” After all, you wouldn’t miss some (2)______________, like the smell coming from the guy sitting next to you who hasn’t taken a bath in several weeks. But think about it again. All day, every day, our noses pass along information to us. We walk by the kitchen, pick up the smell of apple pie in the oven, and know that we will enjoy a tasty slice later on. Or we go outside on a warm spring day and pick up the clean smell of freshly cut grass. Other smells that aren’t so nice, like those of spilled gasoline or burning wood, may protect us by warning of danger.

It is a (3)______________ that smells make us remember the past. For instance, the smell of the outdoors after a rainstorm may remind us of an early-morning hike in the woods we took years ago. Scientists are not sure why smells remind us of the past, but they know it is so. Indeed, scientists (4)______________ that smell may be the most powerful of all our senses.

“I want a Barbie. I want a Barbie.” Most parents have heard that cry. Lots of little girls love Barbie. Barbie has been around for many years, and she will probably be around for many more. But some parents worry about Barbie. They worry that as their daughters (5)______________ to grow up, they will look at Barbie and think, “She’s so pretty. I want to be like her.” The problem is that no healthy, normal woman looks like Barbie. If Barbie were full-sized, she would be more than six feet tall and weigh about one hundred pounds. Little girls may get the idea that in order to be pretty, they must have a very thin body. Parents need to tell their daughters that it is more important to have a strong, (6)__________________ body—one that can run and jump, twist and turn. Of course, it's hard to tell a little girl that she can't have a Barbie if all her friends do. So some parents get together and, among themselves, make an (7)__________________ not to buy Barbie dolls. The parents (8)__________________ their plans to buy Barbie and buy dolls that have more healthy-looking bodies.

Adding Words to a Reading

A. Feeling Blue

| a. entertain | b. experience | c. produce | d. tension |

At some point or another, every one of us has gotten up in the morning feeling a lot of (1)________________________. Problems at work, difficulties at home, and too many bills to pay can make us feel down. Studies show that these bad moods can make a real difference in how we feel about ourselves and our lives. For example, bad moods often lead to or (2)________________________ sad, gloomy thoughts. We may get down on ourselves and think we’re not worth much. Thinking that life will always be this way, we may decide that nothing in the world can possibly (3)________________________ us or make us feel better. These beliefs are false, but they seem true at the time. Also, when we are in a bad mood, even a good (4)________________________—like an excellent meal or a wonderful evening with friends—usually isn’t enough to raise our spirits. The only bright spot about bad moods is this fact°—they always pass. When they do, the bad thoughts and feelings pass too.

B. A Late Love Letter

Years ago, a man working in Hawaii wrote a love letter to his wife in Seattle. He put the letter in a bottle and threw the bottle into the Pacific Ocean. He hoped the bottle would end up on a beach near Seattle. However, the bottle washed up on a beach thousands of miles away, where it was picked up by Chris Willie. Willie, of course, was curious° about the letter. He took it out of the bottle and read what the man had written. Smiling, Willie thought to himself, “There are so many sad, (5)________________________ things in the world. It’s wonderful that the writer has found such a surprising and (6)________________________ way to show his love.” Then Willie put the letter and the bottle in a package, which he mailed to Seattle. Soon, though, the package was returned, with the message “No longer at this address.”
Next, Willie mailed the package to a Seattle newspaper. The paper printed the letter, but no one called to say she was the woman to whom the letter was addressed. Six years later, a newspaper reporter finally the woman and read her the letter over the phone. The letter began, “If by the time this letter reaches you I am old and gray, I know that our love will be as great as it is today.” When the reporter finished reading, he heard the woman laughing. “Well,” she said, “I hate to tell you, but we got divorced.” Then she hung up.

Adding Words to a Reading

A. Ads That Lie
Read the following paragraphs carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box. Use each word once.

| a. conclusion | b. events | c. protect | d. talent |

Every day of our lives, ads send messages about drinking and smoking that just are not true. It's time we learned how to (1)_______________ ourselves and our kids from these dangerous lies. At the (2)_______________ of a long day at work or school, many of us come home and flip on the television. What do we see? We will probably see a TV ad showing healthy young people drinking beer and enjoying life. Maybe they are at the beach, on the ski slopes, or at a party. By the time we are old enough to vote, we will have seen this kind of TV commercial more than 75,000 times. These ads suggest° that drinking is part of a fun-filled life. Is that really true? Not at all. Studies show that drinking leads to car accidents, fighting, loss of memory, birth defects, and more.

Ads for smoking are no better. In magazines and on signs, beautiful young people puff on cigarettes as they enjoy fun-filled (3)_______________ like games of volleyball or tennis. But by now, we know that smoking is not part of a healthy life. In real life, top athletes—those who have real (4)_______________—don’t reach for a cigarette at game time. They know that smoking will harm their bodies and can lead to cancer, heart disease, and lung problems.

If you are an adult and you drink and smoke, that’s your choice. But to young children who don’t know the truth, these ads are dangerous. Cigarettes and beer won’t give them strength, good looks, or lots of friends. They will just make them sick. And that’s the truth.

B. Horrible Hiccups!
Read the following paragraph carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box. Use each word once.

| a. attacked | b. humble | c. minor | d. volunteer |

Everyone gets the hiccups. To most people, they are just a (5)_______________ problem. But for some people, hiccups can cause real trouble. Between 1948 and 1956, one man hiccupped 160 million times! He tried everything to stop them—drinking a cold glass of water, getting scared by one of his friends, holding his breath. They still came back. Then one day, the hiccups simply stopped. Heinz Isecke, a plumber from England, had an even worse experience. Starting in 1973, Isecke was by a fit of hiccups that lasted eight years. Isecke hiccuped so many times that he was unable to sleep. He even had an operation to get rid of the hiccups, but it didn’t work. Isecke was a quiet, man who hated to trouble others. But he was so bothered by his hiccups that he asked for help from all over the world. After a few weeks, an unknown sent Isecke, free of charge, a “secret” herbal drink. The day after he tried it, Isecke’s hiccups were gone. What was in the drink? No one is sure. So the next time you have the hiccups, just be glad you are not Isecke.

a. claimed  b. embarrassed  c. inspired  d. unusual

When I was in high school, I had an upsetting dream. It was about a science teacher that I really liked. Her name was Mrs. Kahn. She was kind and friendly and (1)____________________ me to work hard. Mrs. Kahn had a ring that I liked a lot. It was made of gold bands that were braided together. One day after school, she told me that her husband had given the ring to her on their first anniversary and that it meant a great deal to her.

In my dream, I was inside Mrs. Kahn’s house. She had gone into the kitchen to get us cold drinks. While she was gone, I saw she had left her ring on the table. Before I thought about it, I did something strange and (2)____________________. I picked up the ring and started putting it in my pocket. Just at that moment, I looked up and saw Mrs. Kahn standing at the door watching me. Although we both knew I was lying, I (3)____________________ that I was only looking at the ring closely because I liked it so much. Mrs. Kahn didn’t say anything, but at the conclusion of the dream, her face showed that she knew what had really happened. Then I woke up. Even though it was just a dream, I felt (4)____________________ about stealing the ring. A. Be Proud of Your Age!

| a. benefit | b. delay | c. emphasize | d. logical |

"Young, wrinkle-free skin in two weeks!" "Cover up that gray hair!" "Keep your body fit and young!" Everywhere we look, ads claim that it is best to do everything we can to stay young. Loudly, the ads (1)__________ one idea over and over: Young is good and old is bad. The message is that we must (2)__________ getting older as long as possible. Sadly, what happens is that as people age, they become unhappy because they don’t look twenty anymore. But does this make sense? Wouldn’t it be more (3)__________ if we liked ourselves, no matter what our age? Wouldn’t we all (4)__________ if we could accept our wrinkles, gray hair, and middle-age bodies? After all, life is meant to be enjoyed, no matter how old we are. Why should we feel bad about looking the age we really are? If we keep seeing life as a race against time, we will end up feeling like losers.

B. Making Anger Work for You

| a. rival | b. satisfy | c. tempted | d. vacant |

Everyone has felt angry at one time or another. Maybe you felt angry when a (5)__________ at school teased you, when a boss treated you unfairly, or when a family member said something mean. If you are like most people, your anger may have (6)__________ you to get back at those who made you feel bad. Maybe you wanted to shout at them or even hit them. But this is not a good way to (7)__________ the need to let people know how you feel.

Anger is powerful and can be helpful. However, it must be used in a healthy way. If someone makes you angry, you shouldn’t yell and accuse the person of hurting you, nor should you give the person the silent treatment. Instead, tell the person exactly what it is that upsets you. Once you do that, you and the person can work together to change things so you both feel better.

Here is a real-life example showing how people used their anger in a good way to make their lives better. People living in a city neighborhood were angry. Why? For over a year, they had been promised that a (8)____________________ building on their street would be torn down. However, the building was still there and had become home to drug dealers. Instead of sitting around, complaining, and doing nothing but getting even angrier, a group from the neighborhood went to see their mayor. They explained to the mayor how upset they were and how they feared for their children’s safety. The mayor listened. And guess what happened! The building was torn down. The neighbors had made good use of their anger and put it to work in the best way possible.

So the next time someone makes you angry, don’t strike out against or stop talking to the person. Instead, stay calm and explain why you are angry. You may be surprised by how well things turn out.

There are two department stores in my town. I will call them Store “A” and Store “B.” They carry many of the same items. They are about the same size. They look very much the same. But oh, how different they are to shop in. At Store “A,” employees are (1) ________________ to keep customers happy. They help customers find things; they carry packages; they hand out lollipops to children. They will even guide a customer away from a (2) ________________ brand item to something that costs less but is just as good. Customers find that shopping in Store “A” is a very pleasant experience. The rule in this store seems to be “The customer is always right.”

I don’t know this for sure, but I (3) ________________ that the rule in Store “B” is “The customer is a big bother.” Clerks just stare at customers who ask for help. They talk with fellow employees while customers wait in long lines at the checkout counters. When a customer asks a clerk for information, the clerk often answers, “I don’t know,” and walks away. Several months ago, I heard that Store “B” might go out of business. Now it is (4) _________________. The store will close by the end of the month. Are you surprised? I’m not!

Have you ever heard anyone use the term “sandwich generation”? It doesn’t have anything to do with eating sandwiches. Instead, when people talk about the “sandwich generation,” they are (5) ________________ to adults who are caring for their own children and their aging parents at the same time. People in the sandwich generation are “caught in the middle,” like the filling of a sandwich. As people live longer, more and more adults end up taking care of their elderly parents. They may feel torn between giving time to their kids and their parents, all of whom need daily help. The sandwich generation is so busy that it has very little (6) ________________. If they are lucky, members of the sandwich generation will have relatives who help them with their heavy load. If they are not so (7)________________________, they will have nobody to help them out. They may even have relatives who (8)________________________ everything they try to do. For example, sometimes several members of a family feel strongly that Mom or Dad should never be placed in a nursing home. However, they don’t do anything to help the family member who is trying to care for an elderly parent at home. Members of the sandwich generation can easily get overworked and overtired because of everything that is expected of them.

Using the Words When Writing and Talking

The items below will help you use many of the words in this unit on paper and in conversation. Feel free to use any tense of a boldfaced verb and to make a boldfaced noun plural. (See pages 249-251 and 252.)

1. Using the word agreement, write or talk about a time that you and someone you know solved a problem by making a promise to one another. For example, you and your roommate might have promised to split up household jobs, or you and a neighbor might have promised not to play your radios late at night.

2. Using the word attack, write or talk about a time when someone or something tried to harm you. It could be that a neighbor’s dog tried to bite you, a schoolyard bully wanted to beat you up, or some angry bees tried to sting you.

3. Using the word claim, write or talk about a time you heard someone say something was true but you know the person could not prove it. Perhaps you heard someone making big promises on a TV commercial or during an election.

4. Using the word curious, write or talk about someone who wants to learn more about things. It might be a child who asks lots of questions or an adult who has returned to school to get more education.

5. Using the word daily, write or talk about something you do every day that makes you feel good. It might be drinking a cold glass of orange juice every morning or taking a warm shower before going to bed.

6. Using the word delay, write or talk about something you will do—but not right away. Tell why you are waiting until later to do it. It might be cleaning your closet, taking a course, changing your job, or ending a relationship.

7. Using the word embarrassed, write or talk about a time when you or someone you know felt silly because of something that happened in front of other people. Maybe you tripped when you walked into a fancy restaurant or your closest friend forgot to invite you to your own surprise birthday party.

8. Using the word emphasize, write or talk about one thing that parents should tell their children is important. Perhaps you think parents should tell kids it is important to have good manners, stay away from drugs, do well in school, or be kind to others.

9. Using the word entertain, write or talk about a movie, play, concert, or TV show that you have enjoyed.

10. Using the word event, write or talk about a special happening that you look forward to. It might be a company picnic, a trip to an amusement park, or a visit from a favorite relative.

11. Using the word experience, write or talk about a time in your life that you will always remember. Maybe it was your first day of school, a stay in the hospital, a wonderful vacation, or a scary plane ride.

12. Using the word fortunate, describe something in your life that makes you feel thankful. You might feel lucky to have a special friend, a job you like, or a home that brings you happiness.
13. Using the word humble, write or talk about one person you know who doesn’t brag and doesn’t think highly of himself or herself, even though that person has good reason to be proud. The person could be a relative, friend, neighbor, classmate, or teacher.

14. Using the word inspire, write or talk about a time that someone got you interested in doing something you had never tried before. Maybe a relative got you excited about camping, or a person on a TV show gave you the idea to try oil painting.

15. Using the word leisure, write or talk about how you like to relax during your free time. Perhaps you like to walk, read, or take naps.

16. Using the word odor, write or talk about a place you try to stay away from because it smells bad. You might describe a garbage dump or a kitchen where food you do not like is being cooked.

17. Using the word oppose, write or talk about a time you were against what someone was doing. You might have been against your best friend’s leaving a job or against a relative’s speaking unkindly of a neighbor.

18. Using the word original, write or talk about a time you came up with an idea that no one else had thought of before. Maybe you came up with a new recipe for chili or a new way of getting a job done at work.

19. Using the word prepare, write or talk about something you do to get ready for class. Perhaps you sharpen your pencil, read your notes, or study your homework.

20. Using the word rival, describe two people who feel they have to beat each other in some sort of contest. You might have two friends who always try to get better grades than each other, or maybe you have two relatives who always try to beat each other in games.

21. Using the word specific, write or talk about a certain kind of music, TV show, or movie that you dislike a great deal.

22. Using the word talent, write or talk about someone who has a special skill. The person might dance beautifully, play a sport well, or tell good jokes.

23. Using the word tempt, think of a magazine advertisement or TV commercial that makes you want to do something you know you should not do. Maybe an ad makes you want to buy a car that costs too much or eat something that isn’t good for you.

24. Using the word unusual, write or talk about something that would be strange if it happened in the middle of the summer—for example, the temperature dropping below zero or snow falling heavily.

Adding Words to a Reading

A. The Joy of Ice Cream

Read the following paragraph carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box. Use each word once.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>a. devour</th>
<th>b. modern</th>
<th>c. occasions</th>
<th>d. popular</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

For hundreds of years, people have enjoyed ice cream. No one is sure when people first started to (1) devour the frozen treat. But paintings show an icy dessert being enjoyed as far back as the twelfth century. Ice cream as we know it became (2) popular among the rich and powerful in Europe during the 1500s. King Charles I of England liked ice cream so much he made a law which said that it could be served only at his table. He even said that he would have his chef's head cut off if the chef gave his secret ice-cream recipe to anyone. To Charles, the food was much too precious to share. In the United States, too, ice cream was eaten on special (3) occasions by the country's richest people. George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, and James Madison were all big fans of the frozen dessert. However, ice cream did not reach the rest of the nation until 1845. At that time, a New Jersey woman made a hand-held ice-cream maker. Thanks to that machine, ice cream in the (4) modern world is not just for kings and presidents. Now it's for all of us!

B. A Noisy Apartment

Read the following paragraph carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box. Use each word once.

When Carla decided to move out of her parents' house, she thought it might be hard to find a nice apartment for a low rent. So she felt fortunate to (5) discover a clean and pretty little apartment that was not too expensive. Within a week of moving in, though, she was not so happy. When she had rented the place, she had not seen how close it was to the train tracks. Soon she became very (6) aware of the noise from the trains. In fact, the noise was almost (7) constant because trains went roaring past several times every hour, day and night. At first, Carla was really (8) distressed. She even thought about moving. But she decided to stay six weeks to see if she could get used to the noise. Little by little, she did. Now the noise... does not bother her at all. When friends ask, “How can you bear that noise?” she answers, “What noise?”

Adding Words to a Reading

A. Nuts in the Senate

Read the following paragraph carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box. Use each word once.

On a cold winter day in 1921, an interesting event took place. A man spoke to the United States Senate about something he thought was very important: peanuts. The man’s name was George Washington Carver. When the senators found out what he came to talk about, at first they laughed. But that did not stop Carver or make him feel like a (1)__________. Carver, an African-American scientist, believed so much in peanuts that he wanted the Senate to pass laws to help farmers who grew them. After someone (2)__________ him to the senators, Carver showed them many interesting things. He began with several items that he had (3)__________ out of peanuts—dye, soap, wood stain, and gravy. Next, he handed out paper made from peanut shells, shaving cream made from peanut oil, and rubber made from the nut itself. But he saved the best for last. Just as Carver’s time was almost up, one of the senators asked, “What is the brown stuff in the jar you are holding?” Carver (4)__________ at the man and smiled. Opening the jar, he let the senators smell and then taste what was inside. Much to their surprise, the “brown stuff” smelled good and tasted even better. By the end of the day, the Senate had passed the law Carver wanted, and the nation had begun its love affair with—you guessed it—peanut butter!

B. Calling Dr. Leech

When the ear of seven-year-old Jimmy Taylor was nearly torn off by a dog, the doctors didn’t know if they could help. They spent hours trying to repair the (5)__________. But after all their (6)__________, Jimmy’s ear was not getting better. Instead, the blood in his ear began to dry up, and the ear puffed up and turned blue. The doctors knew that Jimmy would lose his ear unless they acted quickly. So they decided on an unusual treatment that is not often followed today but was widely used hundreds of years ago. They decided to use leeches, bloodsucking worms that live in ponds and lakes. In the mouth of a leech are juices that have the (7)__________ to break up dried-up blood, letting the blood... flow freely again. The blood then helps the problem area get better. Six leeches were rushed to the hospital to feed on the dried-up blood in Jimmy's ear. The doctors made small holes in the skin of Jimmy's ear and placed the hungry leeches at the holes. After just a few hours, the ear turned a pink, healthy color. It was clear that Jimmy's ear would be saved. Did Jimmy show any (8)_____________________ to his wormy helpers? Not really. When he found out that it was leeches that had saved his ear, all he could do was make a face and say, "Yuck!"

Would you want someone teaching your kids how to be mean and hurtful? That is often what happens when kids watch television. Today's most-watched TV shows are filled with violence and crime. And no one watches more of these shows than America's kids. In a (1)__________ week, many children sit in front of the TV set for more than twenty-seven hours. By the time kids finish grade school, they have seen over 100,000 acts of people using force to cause harm. This number (2)__________ more than 8,000 killings. By the time kids graduate from high school, they will have spent more time watching TV than sitting in the classroom or talking with their families. The effects of watching this much TV are scary. Studies show that when kids watch people fighting and shooting each other, they are more likely to be violent themselves. True, in the modern world, it is hard for kids to (3)__________ watching TV. But that is no (4)__________ for parents to let their kids watch whatever they want. If parents find that their kids are watching one violent show after another, the adults must act. What should they do? They should get up, turn off the TV, and help the kids find better ways to spend their time.

B. Are You Ready for a Pet?

If you (5)__________ to get a pet, make sure you know what you are doing. A new pet may be cute, but it also means lots of work. Puppies, for example, are friendly, (6)__________ animals. They like to be around people, but they also like to chew things. And to them, it does not matter whether they are chewing your kitchen table or your leather jacket. Teaching puppies not to destroy things and be housetrained can be a long, hard (7)__________ that lasts for months. Kittens also can make life difficult. Those sweet little animals scratch everything in sight.
In no time, a kitten’s sharp claws can rip a new sofa apart, causing damage that cannot be fixed. What about smaller pets such as goldfish? They may not take as much everyday work as dogs and cats. However, fish often get sick, and they are completely (8)______________ if they jump out of their tank. The time and money you spend at the vet’s office can really add up. For all the fun and friendship pets give, they are also a lot of work and expense. Keep that in mind before you bring one home.

Many people are a little shy. In fact, probably everyone feels shy once in a while. But some people are so timid that it makes their lives difficult. For them, making everyday conversation—even with people they know—can be a struggle. And the thought of speaking to a stranger makes their hands damp with sweat. Being so shy gets in the way of having friends or doing well at school or on the job.

Many adult-education schools offer courses to help shy people. Shy people require practice in talking to strangers. So the teacher of such a course may ask students to speak to class members they don’t know. Students are also given numerous tricks for getting over their shyness. For example, they might be told to think about a friend who is outgoing and friendly; then they make believe they are that person and try to act as he or she would. Students also are given interesting assignments to do at home. One assignment might be for students to start a conversation with someone they don’t know but have always wanted to meet. After a while, the students in these classes learn to relax, make friends, and enjoy life more.

B. Not a Laughing Matter

The other day, I had lunch with a group of friends from work. My friend Patty, who recently remarried and has two children, was in the group. While we were eating, one of the men said something mean about his ex-wife. Some people laughed, but Patty ignored what he said. A little later, he made another mean joke about his ex-wife. Then he approached Patty and said, “What about you? Tell us about your previous husband. What kind of jerk was he?” Patty replied, “My ex-husband and I had our problems. But I am not going to make fun of him just so you can have a laugh. I married him because he's a good guy in many ways. We had a couple of wonderful kids together. Our marriage is over, but I still feel (8)_________________________ to him. I don’t want him laughing about me with his friends. And I do not intend° to laugh at him either.” Everybody at the table was quiet. We quickly started talking about something else. Adding Words to a Reading

| a. capable | b. observe | c. opportunities | d. resist |

Taking risks in life can make us feel good about ourselves. All of us should try something new—even something scary—every once in a while. Each of us is capable of taking chances, but we often don’t. Instead, we resist sometimes let good opportunities pass us by because they seem a bit too risky. Maybe we don’t apply for an exciting new job because we are not sure we can handle it. Perhaps we delay returning to school because we are afraid that the work will be too hard. Maybe we walk away from a relationship because it is becoming more important than we had planned.

If you observe yourself getting frightened by something new and different, that is all the more reason to face it head-on and not run away. Finding that you have the strength inside to overcome your fears will make you feel proud of yourself. You will begin to feel that you have what it takes to get through even the difficult times. So if you want to move ahead in life, with your head held high, don’t resist making a change or taking a chance. Go for it.

B. Bad Manners Hurt Everyone

| a. careless | b. furious | c. reverse | d. tradition |

Many people these days don’t have good manners. Acting as though they are the only people in the world, they are careless about the feelings of others. These selfish people ignore other people’s feelings—they pay attention only to their own wishes. They push their way into lines, blast their horns at other drivers, and play loud music late at night when their neighbors are trying to sleep. Such rude behavior makes most of us furious. Sadly, though, it has gotten to the point where nicely asking people to act more politely can be dangerous. You never know if someone will turn against you violently. It is time to turn things around. It is time to
(7) ____________________ all this bad behavior. We need to go back to the
(8) ____________________ of caring about our fellow human beings. Paying attention to our manners is a good place to start.

Using the Words When Writing and Talking

The items below will help you use many of the words in this unit on paper and in conversation. Feel free to use any tense of a boldfaced verb and to make a boldfaced noun plural. (See pages 249–251 and 252.)

1. Using the word ability, write or talk about a special skill of someone you know well. The person might be able to fix anything, cook well, or get along with anybody.

2. Using the word allow, write or talk about one thing you believe parents should not let their children do. Maybe you feel parents should not let their kids smoke, go out on school nights, date before they are 16, or wear certain clothing styles.

3. Using the word approach, write or tell about a time that a stranger came up to you and began to talk. It could have been the time your car broke down and a passerby offered to help, or it might have been when you moved into a new home and a neighbor came over to say hello.

4. Using the word aware, write or talk about a time when you first came to understand something. It could be the first time you understood that your parents were less than perfect, or the first time you learned of a problem in your school, in your neighborhood, or in the country.

5. Using the word comfortable, write or tell about a time you made someone feel relaxed and at ease. Perhaps you invited a new neighbor to dinner, took time to show a coworker around on the first day on the job, or helped a relative feel less nervous about going into the hospital.

6. Using the word devour, write or talk about a time when you (or someone else) ate a lot of something really quickly. You might describe the way you ate a hot-fudge sundae or the way friends ate a pizza.

7. Using the word discover, write or talk about a time when you found out about or learned something new. Perhaps you came across a shortcut to work or an easy way to do something that used to be difficult.

8. Using the word distract, write or talk about something that got your attention when you needed to take care of another matter. Maybe a classmate kept talking while you were trying to listen to a teacher or the beautiful weather made it difficult for you to stay indoors and study.

9. Using the word distressed, write or talk about something that upset you and made you unhappy. Perhaps it was doing poorly on a test, learning that a friend was sick, or having a fight with someone you cared for.

10. Using the word excuse, write or talk about a time you made up a reason not to do something—for example, go to a party, visit an elderly relative, or work hard in school or on the job.

11. Using the word gratitude, write or talk about a time when you felt thankful to someone. The person might have done you a favor, helped you with something you didn’t know how to do, or simply been good to you when you needed a friend.

12. Using the word introduce, write or talk about a time you went up to someone you wanted to meet and told the person your name and a little bit about yourself. You might describe the first time you met a neighbor, a coworker, or your closest friend.
13. Using the word loyal, write or talk about a person who stood by someone he or she believed in. The person might be a sports fan who kept rooting for a team that always lost, or a friend who said good things about someone whom everyone else hated.

14. Using the word normal, write or talk about what your usual weekday is like. You might talk about what you do on a regular morning or what happens in a usual evening at your home.

15. Using the word occasion, write or tell about a time in your life that you will never forget—perhaps a vacation, wedding, birth, or holiday.

A. The Good and Bad Sides of Malls

Most people think malls are great. But why do so many people share this opinion? First of all, malls are easy to use. Before malls, people had to go to many small stores to locate what they needed. Today's shoppers have to go to only one place to find what they want. Another reason people like malls is cost. A department store in a mall is large enough to be able to offer low prices. Malls can also offer the best guarantees in town. For example, if a TV bought in a mall department store breaks down, the store will often fix the TV free of charge, no questions asked.

But not everything about malls is good. Here's why. As malls spread across the country, they put hundreds of small family-owned shops and restaurants out of business. How? When you buy clothes at a mall, you are not spending your money at stores which have been in the area since before the malls were built. The same is true for restaurants. When you buy a taco in the mall food court, that takes business away from the taco restaurant on Main Street in town. Over time, it becomes harder and harder for small businesses to stay open. Their owners may dismiss open. But often they are forced to resolve all their workers and close their doors forever. Towns that used to have streets filled with shoppers now have empty stores and lost jobs. That's why malls are not as wonderful as they seem.

B. As Good As It Looks?

Did you ever want to know why the food in TV ads always looks disgusting? Did you ever wonder why it looks so much better on TV than it does in real life? The answer may surprise you. Often the tasty-looking food you see on TV is fake—or at least partly fake. There is no rule that says TV ads must show real food. Advertisers are free to add whatever they want to make what they sell... look good. Nothing (6)________________________ an advertiser from adding something strange that would (7)________________________ people if they knew about it.

To make milk seem creamy and white, advertisers add sticky white glue to each glass! The dark steamy coffee in TV ads is no better. In a few ads, it has soap added to it to make it look bubbly and fresh. One company even made its chicken look good and crispy by spraying it with brown paint. The nice roasted color made it look great. But if you (8)________________________ the chicken closely, you would have seen a coat of oily paint all over it. So it’s not surprising that the food you make at home never looks as good as the food on TV. Maybe you need to add some paint or glue to your recipes!

People often laugh at me for watching TV soap operas. Let them laugh. I like the “soaps” for three reasons. First, sometimes my own life seems (1)__________, with the same boring jobs to do every day at home and at work. But the soaps are always exciting. People hop from one romance to the next, get into all kinds of difficulty, and come down with strange illnesses. Second, the soaps let me be nosy without getting into trouble. I (2)__________ it. To be truthful, I like hearing about the private lives and inner thoughts of people on the soaps. But I would never want my own friends or family to tell me such (3)__________ things. How could I look them in the face again? The soaps are a safe way to get all the interesting “inside dirt” on people. Third, the soaps (4)__________ me to deal with my own problems. Compared with what goes on in a soap opera, my own troubles seem minor. What if I did have a little fight with my husband? Here’s what I said: “If we’re out of a dessert, why not offer the customer something that is (6)__________—but serve it at half price?”

The boss started to laugh. “We would lose too much money!”

“No, we won’t,” I said. “Getting paid half for a few (7)__________ of apple pie or chocolate pudding a couple of times a week won’t cost us much. And with each serving, we make a customer happy, and a happy customer is a loyal customer who will come back over and over again.”
"All right," my boss said. "Let's (8)_______________. Let's try your idea for a month and see how it works."

So that's what we're doing. Now, instead of just saying, "Sorry, we're all out," I tell the customer, "We're all out of strawberry ice cream today, but we do have vanilla fudge. And to show you how sorry we are, we're serving that at half price."

Have you ever heard anybody say, “That’s just snake oil”? The term “snake oil” means “fake medicine.” People claim\(^\text{9}\) that it can cure an illness, but it doesn’t really do anything. The term comes from the 1800s, when “medicine shows” would travel from town to town, selling homemade “cures.” People believed in the medicine because the seller would often (1)________several sick people in the show. They would be called out of the audience and “cured” after taking a big drink of the medicine. Of course, the “sick” people weren’t really sick. They were in good health and worked for the medicine show.

These so-called medicines were said to be (2)________for everything from baldness to cancer. However, the “medicine” bottles really (3)________useless liquids, anything from cactus juice to vinegar to, yes, snake oil. Because most people lived too far from town to see a real doctor, they bought many bottles of this fake medicine. They (4)________on it to keep their families healthy. By the time they found out that the medicine didn’t work, the people running the medicine show would be many miles away—cheating the next group of townspeople.

B. The Jobs Everyone Hates

Read the following paragraph carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box. Use each word once.

Most people don’t like to do housework very much. They (5)________those who have the money to hire someone else to do the work. Which housework jobs do people hate most? Nearly 1,400 people were asked that question. Many said they did not like dusting or doing the laundry. But the largest number of people said their most (6)________dislike was for washing the dishes and cleaning the bathroom. These two kinds of housework easily won the “prizes” for the worst jobs. Nothing else could (7)________with them. Many people also said that they used to like to cook. But as the years went by, a (8)________change took place. People got more and more tired of preparing\(^\text{10}\) meals. For them, the kitchen became a place to stay out of. Maybe that’s the reason fast-food restaurants do such good business.

Using the Words When Writing and Talking

The items below will help you use many of the words in this unit on paper and in conversation. Feel free to use any tense of a boldfaced verb and to make a boldfaced noun plural. (See pages 249–251 and 252.)

1. Using the word admit, write or talk about something that most people do not like to tell about themselves. For instance, you may feel that many people don’t like to say that they eat too much, lose their temper easily, or have trouble saving money.

2. Using the word advice, write or talk about a time you gave someone an idea to help solve a problem. For example, you may have given a friend a way to work out a difficulty at home, on the job, or in a relationship.

3. Using the word arrange, write or talk about the order in which you have put (or plan to put) the furniture in one room where you live. You might describe how you have set up your bedroom or how you want your living room to look.

4. Using the word available, write or talk about some nonfood items that you can find easily in most large supermarkets—for example, soap, light bulbs, and movies to rent.

5. Using the word compete, write or talk about a time that you tried to beat someone at a game. Maybe you bowled with a family member, shot pool with a friend, or played cards with a roommate.

6. Using the word contain, write or talk about several items that are inside your refrigerator.

7. Using the word contribute, write or talk about someone who has given something that has made other people happier or better off. You might describe a famous person, like Martin Luther King, Jr., or someone you know firsthand—for example, a friend, neighbor, relative, or teacher.

8. Using the word defect, write or talk about a time when something was wrong with an item you bought. Maybe the zipper on a new jacket broke or the controls on your new air conditioner didn’t work.

9. Using the word depend, tell about someone you can trust to be there for you. The person might baby-sit for your child, give you a ride to work, or listen to you when you need to talk.

10. Using the word dismiss, write or talk about a time when one person sent several other people away. Maybe a teacher let a class out early, a boss told employees they could leave work before the end of the day, or a doctor let a patient go home from the hospital.

11. Using the word donate, write or talk about a time that you gave something that helped another person. You might have given time, money, clothing, books, or a typewriter.

12. Using the word dull, write or talk about someone or something that you do not find at all interesting. It might be a book, a movie, a TV show, or your weekend plans.

13. Using the word encourage, write or talk about what parents and teachers can do to help kids feel they can do well in school. You might explain what you think adults can say or do to help kids try their best.
14. Using the word envy, write or talk about a time you wanted something that someone else had. Perhaps you wanted a toy that belonged to another child or the happy family life enjoyed by a close friend.

15. Using the word experiment, write or talk about a time when you tried doing something you had never done before. Maybe you tried a new way of studying, exercising, dressing, or cooking a meal.

16. Using the word expert, write or talk about one subject that you know a good deal about. It could be a subject you studied in school, learned at work, or picked up as a hobby.

17. Using the word guarantee, write or talk about something that will be fixed or replaced for free if it ever breaks down. It might be a computer, car, radio, TV, or washing machine.

18. Using the word ideal, write or talk about something that seems perfect to you. It could be your favorite ice cream, a beautiful spot on a beach, or a perfect way to relax after a hard day.

19. Using the word inspect, write or talk about a time you looked closely at something. Maybe it was your car after it had been washed, some secondhand furniture you were thinking of buying, or your living room before guests arrived for a party.

20. Using the word intense, write or talk about a time when you had deep feelings. You might describe a time that was frightening, happy, sad, or thankful.

21. Using the word involve, write or talk about an activity that you were part of when it was being planned. Perhaps you helped plan a party, family vacation, or special meal.

22. Using the word opinion, write or talk about the way you feel about something. It could be your favorite (or least favorite) movie, TV show, or restaurant. Or you might tell what you think is the biggest problem these days with schools, parents, children, bosses, or companies.

23. Using the word personal, write or talk about what you do when you have a private problem you would like to solve. Maybe you talk to a close friend, speak to a relative, or write down your thoughts in a journal.

24. Using the word prevent, write or talk about something that you have tried to stop from happening. Maybe you tried to keep someone from getting hurt, from borrowing your clothes, or from finding out about a surprise you had planned.

Aja Henderson is a young girl who lives in Louisiana. Ever since Aja was little, she has loved to read. For her birthday and at holiday time, Aja always asked for books. And she always used any money she saved to buy more books. Because of all her books, Aja never felt alone. Her books kept her company. When she read a funny story, she laughed. When she read a really sad one, she felt (1)__________________.

After collecting for a few years, Aja had so many books that her family teased her, saying that their house might (2)__________________ from all the heavy books she owned. Then one day Aja found out something that bothered her. The other kids in her neighborhood could not enjoy books as much as she did. They did not read much, and there was no public° library nearby. So Aja came up with an idea. She would begin her own library! And that is exactly what Aja did.

At first, Aja was nervous that the neighborhood kids would not come to her library. But when several kids began stopping by her house to look through her books, she relaxed. After a while, all the neighborhood kids started to borrow books from her. In fact, today so many kids come to borrow her books that Aja gives the kids library cards (3)__________________ to the ones that real libraries use. Aja even helps some of the children learn to read. Everyone thinks Aja’s library is wonderful. But she is (4)__________________ about what she has done. “Just seeing other kids learn to love reading is thanks enough for me,” she says.

Adding Words to a Reading

A. Whose Fault Is It?

Read the following paragraph carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box. Use each word once.

Mrs. Harris looked very upset. When I asked her what was wrong, she answered “Nothing.” But soon she (1) revealed what was happening. “My daughters, Maya and Tracy, have had a big fight,” she said. “The (2) quarrel started over a skirt. Maya had a new skirt that Tracy wanted to wear on a date. Since Maya wasn’t home, Tracy took the skirt without asking. When Maya discovered what Tracy had done, she took Tracy’s favorite sweater and wore it to school. There, by accident, some ketchup got spilled on the sweater. Now both girls are really angry at each other. Tracy is too (3) stubborn to say she should not have taken the skirt without asking. But Maya is just as bad. She says it is Tracy’s fault that the sweater got dirty. I’m trying to (4) persuade both girls to say they are sorry, but neither of them will. If they don’t make up pretty soon, they’re going to drive me crazy!”

B. Forests Full of Life

Forests are beautiful. Trees stretch high in the air, making a leafy green roof. Below, small young trees dot the forest floor. One of the most interesting things about a forest is the way new trees get planted. Small animals, like squirrels and chipmunks, pick up seeds that have fallen from the trees to the ground. These animals gather more seeds than they can eat. They take the (5) excess seeds and bury them to eat later. That is how seeds get (6) separated from the trees they grew on, sometimes by hundreds of miles. Often the animals forget about the seeds they buried and never go back to eat them. As the months go by, the rain, sunlight, and rich soil act upon the seeds. The (7) tremendous of the seeds is to grow upward until they emerge above the ground. Over the years, some of the tiny plants grow into (8)_____ trees. Their branches of the big trees become home for the same kinds of animals that planted them long ago.

When I opened the letter, I was surprised to see it was from a friend I had not heard from in a while. I was even more surprised to read what she wrote. In her letter, my friend (6) ________ her thanks for a small favor I did a year ago. At that time, she and her brothers and sisters flew into town to be with their dying mother. I had cooked them some meals and done some shopping to (7) ________ the family during that hard time. “I was so upset when Mother died that I don’t know if I ever really thanked you,” my friend wrote. “I want you to know how much your help meant to me at that time of grief.” Her letter made me feel great. It also made me think about all the people I am thankful for in my life. Do I take the time to let them know that I am grateful? I decided to start right at home. When my daughter came home from school that day, I (8) __________________ her and said, “Thank you for being a wonderful kid.”
I am going to try to remember to say “thank you” more often.

Using the Words When Writing and Talking

The items below will help you use many of the words in this unit on paper and in conversation. Feel free to use any tense of a boldfaced verb and to make a boldfaced noun plural. (See pages 249–251 and 252.)

1. Using the word alarm, write or talk about a time that something scared you. Maybe you heard that a pill you take causes medical problems, or perhaps you saw a crowd get out of control at a rock concert.

2. Using the word collapse, write or talk about a time when you saw something fall apart. Perhaps a tent blew over, an old building came crashing down, or a pile of oranges in the supermarket tumbled to the floor.

3. Using the word condemn, write or talk about something that you feel very strongly is wrong and should be spoken out against. Maybe you think it is wrong that drunk driving isn’t taken more seriously or that poor children go hungry.

4. Using the word confusion, write or talk about a time when things were unclear and mixed up. You might describe a busy store sale that had customers pushing each other to get the best items. Or you might describe how hard it was to get someone to fix a mistake in a bill that you had received.

5. Using the word defend, write or talk about a time that you (or someone else) protected a person or animal from harm. Maybe a friend came to your rescue when you were picked on as a child or you chased away children who were teasing a neighborhood dog.

6. Using the word detail, write or talk about a time that you paid careful attention to all the little things that need to be done when planning something important—for example, a wedding, a retirement party, or a special birthday.

7. Using the word disaster, write or talk about something that caused a lot of suffering. For example, you might describe a movie or a news story that showed a lot of people getting hurt, or you could tell what happened when a building near your home caught on fire.

8. Using the word embrace, write or talk about how friends or people in your family feel about hugging. Do some people always hug when they meet? Do others never hug?

9. Using the word fascinate, write or talk about something or someone that interests you and that you would like to know more about. It might be a subject in school, a place, or a person—for example, a teacher, movie or TV star, or world leader.

10. Using the word generous, write or talk about a person who has a big heart and always cares for and helps others.

11. Using the word glare, write or talk about a time when you looked at someone in an angry way. Perhaps the person didn’t keep a secret or forgot to do something important.

12. Using the word humor, write or talk about something that makes you laugh, such as the silly things a friend does or the jokes that a family member tells.

13. Using the word imagine, write or talk about what you picture in your mind as the perfect vacation.

14. Using the word isolate, write or talk about a time when a teacher, parent, or doctor might not let a child get together with other kids.

15. Using the word modest, write or talk about a time when you or another person did something well but did not brag about it. Maybe you got the highest grade on a test but did not tell anyone, or perhaps a friend won an award but let only a few people know.

16. Using the word notice, write or talk about a time when you saw something that no one else did. Maybe you saw someone stealing, or perhaps you found a mistake in something that everyone else thought was perfect.

17. Using the word occupy, write or talk about someone who lives in a house, apartment, or room near you.

18. Using the word persuade, write or talk about a time when you got a person to do what you wanted. Perhaps you got your parents to take you someplace special when you were a child, or maybe you got friends to try a restaurant you liked.

19. Using the word progress, write or talk about a goal that you are moving toward in your life. Your goal might be to become better at something, to learn to do something new, or to finish something you have begun.

20. Using the word refuse, write or talk about something you have decided you will never do. Perhaps you will not go on a roller coaster, eat a certain food, or see one kind of movie.

21. Using the word relieved, write or talk about a time that you were worried and then had that worry taken away. Perhaps you were afraid you were sick and then found out you were not. Or maybe you thought something was going to cost a lot of money and then learned it would not cost much at all.

22. Using the word select, write or talk about a time when you wanted many things but could not have everything you wanted. Maybe you were very hungry and wanted everything on a restaurant menu, or perhaps you liked every outfit you tried on in a store.

23. Using the word tolerate, write or talk about an action that you do not like and will not let happen. Maybe you don’t let friends smoke in your house, copy your homework, or say mean things about other people.

24. Using the word victim, write or talk about a time that you (or someone else) was hurt by life or by another person. Perhaps relatives lost everything in a hurricane, your apartment was robbed, or a friend’s car was stolen.

If telling lies is wrong, why is it so (1) _______? One reason is that lying just a little bit makes it easier for people to talk to each other. When people meet for the first time, they often ask, “How are you?” even if they don’t care. Such a question makes them (2) _______ interested and friendly. And no matter how angry or sad we feel, most of us answer, “I’m fine, thanks.” Such social lies (3) _______ things we would rather not talk about and help keep conversations moving along. Another reason people lie is to be kind to others. Let’s say someone you know gets a new haircut that you think looks terrible. You might act as though you did not see the haircut and not (4) _______ it at all. Or just to be nice, you might make a comment° such as, “I like your new haircut.” In other words, even though we are taught as children that lying is wrong, sometimes it can be easier—and kinder—not to tell the whole truth.

B. Rudeness at the Movies

Read the following paragraph carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box. Use each word once.

Most people like being scared, at least a little. After all, that is why movies with monsters or creepy ghosts (5) _______ millions of people into theaters each year. But sometimes the strangest things in the theater are not on screen. Instead, they are the people sitting next to you or behind you. For example, whenever I see a movie, there are always several rude people nearby who (6) _______ me by talking throughout the entire film. And do they speak about the movie? Never. They talk about an argument they had with a friend, a great party they went to, or their plans for later, when the movie is over. And if that isn’t bad enough, the tallest person in the theater always chooses to sit right in front of me, blocking my view. I move this way and that, trying to see around the (7) _______ person in front of me. Then the people behind me get mad, start kicking the back of my seat, and yell at me to stop moving around so much. At this point, I begin to think that the reason these people come to the movies is not to see the movies. No, their real purpose is to bother me. So when I go to a scary movie, I become afraid—not of monsters or of ghosts—but of the strange human beings that (8)______________ me in the theater.

Adding Words to a Reading

A. Animals Were First

Read the following paragraph carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box. Use each word once.

Many animals walked the Earth long before humans. The best-known of these animals were the dinosaurs. Some dinosaurs were enormous and scary. When these big animals hunted, they would (1) __________ slowly, (2) __________ the hunted animal in their sharp claws, and tear it to pieces. But not all dinosaurs were this big. Some were the size of today’s chickens. These small animals hunted for the eggs of other dinosaurs. With their pointy teeth, they would crack the (3) __________ shells they found and eat the tasty juices inside them. And their size made it easy for them to run away quickly from larger animals. Dinosaurs of all sizes died out millions of years ago. Scientists have come up with different reasons why dinosaurs stopped walking the Earth. But no one knows for sure what happened. However, some animals from several million years ago (4) __________ in living from those times until now. For example, the snakes, turtles, and crocodiles of today are almost exactly like the ones that lived in the time of the dinosaurs.

B. Call Waiting—Oh, No!

Read the following paragraph carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box. Use each word once.

Have you ever (5) __________ buying an answering machine or getting “call waiting”? Let me tell you what I think about these inventions. I used to hate telephone answering machines. I felt nervous talking to a machine. When I heard the (6) __________ “Please start talking after you hear the beep,” I forgot what I wanted to say. But I have gotten over my fears and do not hate answering machines anymore. I can even (7) __________ them as being useful. After all, they do permit people to pass along information even when nobody is able to answer the phone. However, I will never stop hating call waiting. Talking to people who have call waiting drives me crazy. When they hear the little beep that tells them someone else is calling, they (8)________________ our conversation and say, “Just a minute, please. I’ll see who’s calling and come right back.” I am left holding onto the phone, thinking, “Why is the other person who called more important than I am?” To me, “call waiting” really means “I am left waiting.”

Using the Words When Writing and Talking

The items below will help you use many of the words in this unit on paper and in conversation. Feel free to use any tense of a boldfaced verb and to make a boldfaced noun plural. (See pages 249–251 and 252.)

1. Using the word achieve, write or talk about a goal that you hope to reach some day. You might want to get a better job, learn a new language, or have a nicer apartment.

2. Using the word assist, write or talk about a time that you helped someone. Perhaps you baby-sat for neighbors so they could go job hunting, shoveled the snow on an elderly neighbor’s sidewalk, or listened to a friend who needed to talk.

3. Using the word attempt, write or talk about the first time you tried to do something you knew would be difficult. Maybe you tried to ski, fix a broken bicycle, or speak in front of a large group.

4. Using the word comment, write or talk about a time when you said something that showed how you felt about someone or something. You may have said something like “You are so friendly. It’s not surprising everyone likes you” or “I dislike the new restaurant in my neighborhood.”

5. Using the word common, write or talk about something that young people often do nowadays. It might be going to the mall, listening to loud music, or saving money to buy good-looking clothes.

6. Using the word competent, write or talk about something that you do well. Maybe you are good at playing cards, cooking quick but good meals, or doing household repairs.

7. Using the word condition, write or talk about an elderly person that you know, and describe the shape the person is in. Is the person strong and active or fairly weak? Does he or she hear and see well or have difficulty hearing and seeing?

8. Using the word consider, write or talk about a decision you made after a lot of careful thought. It might have been a decision to leave a job, move to another town, or buy a new car.

9. Using the word courteous, write or talk about a time you were surprised by someone’s good manners. Maybe a store clerk was helpful when you returned a shirt that had faded in the wash, or perhaps a driver slowed down so you could get onto a busy highway.

10. Using the word develop, write or talk about something that has grown and changed over the years. It could be a street, city, or school. It could even be a person.

11. Using the word duty, write or talk about something that everyone knows is your job at work or at home. Perhaps it is your job to do laundry at home or to repair machines at work.

12. Using the word expect, write or talk about a time when you thought something would happen a certain way, but it turned out very differently. You might describe a date you went on, a meeting you attended, or a movie you watched.

13. Using the word explore, write or talk about visiting someplace new. You might describe a vacation you took, a new neighborhood that you walked around in, or a shopping mall you visited.

14. Using the word flaw, write or talk about someone you like, even though there is something about the person you don’t like. Perhaps the person has a bad temper, is always late, or spends money wildly.
15. Using the word imitate, write or talk about the time that you saw children trying to act older than they really were. Maybe the children copied their parents or an older brother or sister.

16. Using the word insist, write or talk about a time you said something in a strong, firm way. Maybe you told your boss you had to have a raise, or perhaps you told your children they had to clean their rooms.

17. Using the word major, write or talk about a big change in your life. You might describe getting married, losing someone close to you, or returning to school.

18. Using the word mention, write or talk about a time a person told you something you didn’t know. You might have learned that a neighbor was moving, a relative was getting divorced, or a friend was taking a new job.

19. Using the word praise, write or talk about how you felt when someone said nice things to you about the way you did something. Perhaps a teacher liked a paper you wrote, a boss said you had done a difficult job well, or friends told you how much they enjoyed your home-cooked meal.

20. Using the word pretend, write or talk about a time when you acted one way but really felt another way. Maybe you acted as though you liked an ugly present that someone gave you. Or perhaps you acted as though you were not upset when you really were.

21. Using the word request, write or talk about something that you plan to ask someone to do for you. You might want to ask a friend to baby-sit, ask a teacher for help with a problem, or ask neighbors to keep their cat out of your yard.

22. Using the word surround, write or talk about a place that has a fence around it. You might describe a back yard, a playing field, or a city park.

23. Using the word urge, write or talk about a time that you had a sudden wish to do something. Maybe it was something small (like eating a candy bar) or something big (like moving across the country).

24. Using the word value, write or talk about something of yours that means a lot to you, even though it is not worth a lot of money. It might be a photograph, a home-made birthday card from someone special, or a toy from your childhood.

Note: When a verb ends with a consonant (for example, the verb plan), you often double the final consonant when forming the past (planned) and progressive (planning) tenses. In both cases, the final n has been doubled before adding the tense ending. But this rule doesn’t hold true for all verbs ending with a consonant. If you are not sure when to double the final consonant, check with your teacher or a dictionary.
Making Nouns Plural

Singular (sing-gyuh-lur) nouns name one person, place, or thing. Plural (ploor-uhl) nouns name two or more persons, places, or things. Most nouns can be made plural by adding -s.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Singular</th>
<th>Plural</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>hat</td>
<td>hats</td>

Some nouns form their plurals in other ways. A few of these are shown below. If you are not sure how to make a certain noun plural, check in a dictionary or ask your teacher.

Limited Answer Key

Important Note: This answer key has the answers for the “Adding One Word to an Item” activity that is in each chapter. You should not look at these answers until you have tried your best to pick the word that should go in each sentence of this activity.

If you use the answer key correctly, it will help you learn and remember the words in the chapter. It will also help you get ready for the other activities and tests, for which the answers are not given. To make this key easier to use, the titles of each chapter’s readings are written after the chapter number.

VOCABULARY BASICS will help you learn 240 important words. Here are five reasons why a good vocabulary matters:

1. Knowing a lot of words makes it easier for you to understand others and for others to understand you.
2. A good vocabulary is the key to understanding what you read.
3. A large vocabulary can help you score higher on tests.
4. A solid vocabulary will help you do better in school and at work.
5. A strong vocabulary will help you believe in yourself.

The facts are clear. It is important to have a strong vocabulary. Words can make you a better reader, speaker, thinker, and learner. By working with the chapters in this book, you will greatly add to your vocabulary—and to your life as well.

II. REPRODUCTION RELEASE:

In order to disseminate as widely as possible timely and significant materials of interest to the educational community, documents announced in the monthly abstract journal of the ERIC system, Resources in Education (RIE), are usually made available to users in microfiche, reproduced paper copy, and electronic media, and sold through the ERIC Document Reproduction Service (EDRS). Credit is given to the source of each document, and, if reproduction release is granted, one of the following notices is affixed to the document.

If permission is granted to reproduce and disseminate the identified document, please CHECK ONE of the following three options and sign at the bottom of the page.

The sample sticker shown below will be affixed to all Level 1 documents
