This document presents guidelines for what every K-12 Louisiana student should know and be able to do as a result of studying the four strands of fine arts: dance, theater arts, visual arts, and music. Following introductory and explanatory information, the contents are organized by strand. Each section begins with a focus paragraph explaining the strand or discipline's importance to the overall education of students. A standard statement gives a general description of the knowledge acquisition expectations. Designated content areas within each strand coincide with the four fundamental components of discipline-based art education (DBAE): creative expression, aesthetic perception, historical and cultural perception, and critical analysis. Specific benchmarks in each content area of the strand are listed for grades K-4, 5-8, and 9-12. Charts, a glossary, references, and acknowledgements are included. (MM)

Schools That Work: Setting Higher Standards for Our Students

Rapid changes are occurring in our world and economy. The increasing complexity of work that spans the entire workforce of today’s society demands that education for all students be made more relevant and useful to future careers. In response to these demands, Louisiana educators and citizens collaborated to develop an action plan to establish content standards that would raise the academic expectations of students. Their mission was “to develop rigorous and challenging standards that will enable all Louisiana students to become lifelong learners and productive citizens for the 21st century.” These higher academic standards and their accompanying benchmarks, which further define the standards, require students to extend the learning they have acquired by applying knowledge and skills to real life and work situations.

To prepare Louisiana students to meet the demands of society in the 21st century, the higher standards were designed to address content knowledge and application of skills. The standards focus on what students should know and be able to do. They promote and develop thinking processes which students will use in both classroom and real world situations and address the diversity of educational needs of all Louisiana students.

These content standards have been developed for all Louisiana students, including students with disabilities, gifted and talented students, as well as linguistically and culturally diverse students. Modifications for addressing their specific needs regarding curricula and instruction will be addressed through the local education agencies (LEAs).

Louisiana has made significant strides toward improving the education of our children. Our goal is to build on our strengths as we continue to improve education in our state. By developing rigorous standards and challenging assessments that align with the standards and by holding schools accountable for results, we are ensuring a better future for all our children.

Your partner for better education,

INTRODUCTION

The arts, dance, theatre arts, visual arts, and music are fundamental to the intellectual, social, emotional, and physical development of Louisiana students for the 21st century. The arts draw on a range of intelligence and learning styles not addressed in most educational environments.

Students of the arts are encouraged to use their imaginations, to develop personal discipline, and to find multiple solutions to problems. They learn to respond to events and experiences with confidence and to communicate their feelings and viewpoints through appropriate creative outlets.

Business demands workers who possess an ability to communicate, to be flexible, and to diagnose problems and find creative solutions. The arts preceded speech as man's first language; they assist in the development of the skills of communication and the integration of basic skills of reading, writing, science, and mathematics. These skills help students shape their lives, their communities, and their nation. The arts make all subjects come alive.

The Louisiana Content Standards bring together the basic content of the four disciplines of dance, theatre arts, visual arts, and music into one common set of standards essential for a comprehensive arts education. The 21st century, the age of information, will require more from the next generation of students. The relevance of education in a rapidly changing society will depend on converging the aims of education and the workforce for well-rounded, educated students who will be productive members of society. The arts will assist in the achievement of these aims with the implementation of these rigorous and challenging content standards.
COMPONENTS OF ARTS EDUCATION

The Content Standards writing team, consisting of arts educators from across the state and representing the four disciplines, has written standards based on the four fundamental components of Discipline-Based Art Education (DBAE).

CREATIVE EXPRESSION
The ability to develop, organize, and interpret ideas for expression in the production of art forms which involve inspiration, analysis, and problem solving.

AESTHETIC PERCEPTION
The ability to understand and respond to ideas and experiences; to be aware of beauty and the unique characteristics of the natural and built environments; and to make informed judgments about the meaning in works of art.

HISTORICAL AND CULTURAL PERCEPTION
The ability to recognize and appreciate the visual arts as a form of individual and cultural expression and to appreciate the basic aspects of past history and human experience.

CRITICAL ANALYSIS
The ability to interpret and analyze works of art and to arrive at reasoned judgments based on sufficient and appropriate criteria, such as quality, impact, purpose, and value.
LOUISIANA CONTENT STANDARDS
FOUNDATION SKILLS

The Louisiana Content Standards Task Force has developed the following foundation skills which should apply to all students in all disciplines.

1. Communication: A process by which information is exchanged and a concept of “meaning” is created and shared between individuals through a common system of symbols, signs, or behavior. Students should be able to communicate clearly, fluently, strategically, technologically, critically, and creatively in society and in a variety of workplaces. This process can best be accomplished through use of the following skills: reading, writing, speaking, listening, viewing, and visually representing.

2. Problem Solving: The identification of an obstacle or challenge and the subsequent application of knowledge and thinking processes, which include reasoning, decision making, and inquiry in order to reach a solution using multiple pathways, even when no routine path is apparent.

3. Resource Access and Utilization: The process of identifying, locating, selecting, and using resource tools to help in analyzing, synthesizing, and communicating information. The identification and employment of appropriate tools, techniques, and technologies are essential to all learning processes. These resource tools include pen, pencil, and paper; audio/video materials, word processors, computers, interactive devices, telecommunication, and other emerging technologies.

4. Linking and Generating Knowledge: The effective use of cognitive processes to generate and link knowledge across the disciplines and in a variety of contexts. In order to engage in the principles of continual improvement, students must be able to transfer and elaborate on these processes. “Transfer” refers to the ability to apply a strategy or content knowledge effectively in a setting or context other than that in which it was originally learned. “Elaboration” refers to monitoring, adjusting, and expanding strategies into other contexts.

5. Citizenship: The application of the understanding of the ideals, rights, and responsibilities of active participation in a democratic republic that includes working respectfully and productively together for the benefit of the individual and the community; being accountable for one’s choices and actions and understanding their impact on oneself and others; knowing one’s civil, constitutional, and statutory rights; and mentoring others to become productive citizens and lifelong learners.
Note: These foundation skills are listed numerically in parentheses after each benchmark.
INFORMATION LITERACY MODEL FOR LIFELONG LEARNING

Students must become competent and independent users of information to be productive citizens of the 21st century. They must be prepared to live in an information-rich and changing global society. Due to the rapid growth of technology, the amount of information available is accelerating so quickly that teachers are no longer able to impart a complete knowledge base in a subject area. In addition, students entering the workforce must know how to access information, solve problems, make decisions, and work as part of a team. Therefore, information literacy -- the ability to recognize an information need and then locate, evaluate, and effectively use the needed information -- is a basic skill essential to the 21st century workplace and home. Information literate students are self-directed learners who, individually or collaboratively, use information responsibly to create quality products and to be productive citizens. Information literacy skills must not be taught in isolation; they must be integrated across all content areas, utilizing fully the resources of the classroom, the school library media center, and the community. The Information Literacy Model for Lifelong Learners is a framework that teachers at all levels can apply to help students become independent lifelong learners.

1. Defining/Focusing: The first task is to recognize that an information need exists. Students make preliminary decisions about the type of information needed based on prior knowledge.

2. Selecting Tools and Resources: After students decide what information is needed, they then develop search strategies for locating and accessing appropriate, relevant sources in the school library media center, community libraries and agencies, resource people, and others as appropriate.

3. Extracting and Recording: Students examine the resources for readability, currency, usefulness, and bias. This task involves skimming or listening for key words, "chunking" reading, finding main ideas, and taking notes.

4. Processing Information: After recording information, students must examine and evaluate the data in order to utilize the information retrieved. Students must interact with the information by categorizing, analyzing, evaluating, and comparing for bias, inadequacies, omissions, errors, and value judgments. Based on their findings, they either move on to the next step or do additional research.
5. Organizing Information: Students effectively sort, manipulate, and organize the information that was retrieved. They make decisions on how to use and communicate their findings.

6. Presenting Findings: Students apply and communicate what they have learned (e.g., research report, project, illustration, dramatization, portfolio, book, book report, map, oral/audio/visual presentation, game, bibliography, hyperstack).

7. Evaluating Efforts: Throughout the information problem solving process, students evaluate their efforts. This assists students in determining the effectiveness of the research process. The final product may be evaluated by the teacher and also other qualified or interested resource persons.

The individual questions concepts, weighs evidence and information, examines intuitive reactions, and develops personal conclusions about the values in works of art.

STANDARD

Students will develop aesthetic perception through the knowledge of art forms and respect for commonalities and differences.

FOCUS

Historical and cultural perception is the vehicle for understanding works of art in time and place. The arts survive through times of interruption and neglect; they outlive governments, creeds, and societies and even the civilizations that spawned them. The artist is a harbinger of change, a translator of social thought, an analyst of cultures, a poetic scientist, and a recorder of history. To understand creative output in the history of the arts is to understand history itself.

CRITICAL ANALYSIS

FOCUS

Critical analysis is the process of inquiry associated with an individual's knowledge of the arts. Communication about the arts in a structured way provides the individual with means to observe, describe, analyze, interpret, and make critical, reasoned judgments about the form and content of the arts.

STANDARD

Students will make informed judgments about the arts by developing critical analysis skills through study of and exposure to the arts.

CREATIVE EXPRESSION

FOCUS

Creative expression opens an avenue for the application of individual ideas, feelings, and expressions. The use of a variety of media and techniques provides an opportunity for the individual to develop, organize, and interpret knowledge for communication. The skills of analysis, problem solving, cooperative involvement, and disciplined behavior contribute to a successful school environment and prepare the individual to become a productive member of society.

STANDARD

Students develop creative expression through the application of knowledge, ideas, skills, and organizational abilities.

The individual questions concepts, weighs evidence and information, examines intuitive reactions, and develops personal conclusions about the values in works of art.

STANDARD

Students will develop aesthetic perception through the knowledge of art forms and respect for commonalities and differences.

FOCUS

Historical and cultural perception is the vehicle for understanding works of art in time and place. The arts survive through times of interruption and neglect; they outlive governments, creeds, and societies and even the civilizations that spawned them. The artist is a harbinger of change, a translator of social thought, an analyst of cultures, a poetic scientist, and a recorder of history. To understand creative output in the history of the arts is to understand history itself.

STANDARD

Students will develop historical and cultural perception by recognizing and understanding that the arts throughout history are a record of human experience with a past, present, and future.
