This paper underscores the significance of personal dignity, decency, and integrity as the core values and symbionic concepts to promote human rights education. It proposes a proactive model with philosophical ramifications and practical applications proposed for educators, researchers, and mental health practitioners interested in human rights issues and global peace. The model assumes that matters relating to ethics and values rather than economic and political structures play a prominent role in causing and resolving problems at all levels: local, social, and international. The goal of the model is to inculcate moral sensitivities that are necessary for people to become responsible, genuine, and caring global citizens. The paper states that human rights actions have to become a priority, and educators have to develop new attitudes of empathy, genuineness, and respect. Major emphasis is placed on developing and enhancing critical thinking. The paper also lists some of these strategies as: intellectual curiosity, open-mindedness, flexibility, intellectual honesty, and respect for others' viewpoints. (JDM)
Human Dignity, Decency, and Integrity as the Sine Qua Non of Human Rights Education: A Proactive Conceptual and Practical Framework for Promotion of World Peace

Human Dignity, Decency, and Integrity as the Sine Qua Non of Human Rights Education: A Proactive Conceptual and Practical Framework for Promotion of World Peace

This presentation will underscore the significance of personal dignity, decency and integrity as the core values and symbiotic concepts to promote human rights education. A proactive model with philosophical ramifications and practical applications will be proposed for educators, researchers, and mental health practitioners interested in human rights issues and global peace. Suggestions will be made how to implement and assess the efficacy of this newly postulate model.

Introduction

This proactive model is proposed to enhance global peace through human rights education. This model assumes that matters relating to ethics and values rather than economic and political structures play a prominent role in causing and resolving problems at all levels: local, social, and international (Reardon, 1995). The global system issues are human rights issues. The disparity in ethics as applied to one’s own group and outer groups seem to be the underlying reasons of ethno-conflicts, historical hate and ethno-violence.

In order to promote intercultural and international harmony and peace, it is imperative that human rights education place major emphasis upon cultivating the abilities of individuals to make their daily decisions on principles that value human decency and human dignity. Thus, the ultimate goal of this model is to proactively inculcate moral sensitivities that are necessary for people to become responsible, genuine, and caring global citizens. For this reason, it is important that educators, researchers, and mental health practitioners have some well thought and preplanned strategies and action plans.

To implement new action plans, it is crucial that there are some shifts in social, political, and economic paradigms. Naturally emphasis from elitism would change to egalitarianism. Not only political democracy shall remain important, but also “cultural democracy” and eventually “economic democracy” would become essential. Glorification of the individual and human rights concern would gain prominence. Diversity would be celebrated and differences would be acknowledged, accepted, accommodated, and appreciated.

The new paradigms will require new approaches for implementation. Intrapsychic models will also have to be re-examined from inter-psychic perspectives. The focus from autoplastic concerns should also review alloplastic possibilities. These approaches have to be proactive in nature. Human rights actions have to become a priority which would require commitment through sacrifices of time, efforts, and willingness to tolerate criticisms. The educators themselves have to develop new attitudes of empathy, genuineness, and respect. Major emphasis will be placed on developing and enhancing critical thinking through various strategies and techniques. Some of these strategies will include intellectual curiosity, open-mindedness, flexibility, intellectual honesty and respect for others’ viewpoints.

II. Reproduction Release:

In order to disseminate as widely as possible timely and significant materials of interest to the educational community, documents announced in the monthly abstract journal of the ERIC system, Resources in Education (RIE), are usually made available to users in microfiche, reproduced paper copy, and electronic media, and sold through the ERIC Document Reproduction Service (EDRS). Credit is given to the source of each document, and, if reproduction release is granted, one of the following notices is affixed to the document.

If permission is granted to reproduce and disseminate the identified document, please CHECK ONE of the following three options and sign at the bottom of the page.

- Level 1: Check here for Level 1 release, permitting reproduction and dissemination in microfiche or other ERIC archival media (e.g., electronic) and paper copy.
- Level 2A: Check here for Level 2A release, permitting reproduction and dissemination in microfiche and in electronic media for ERIC archival collection subscribers only.
- Level 2B: Check here for Level 2B release, permitting reproduction and dissemination in microfiche only.

Documents will be processed as indicated provided reproduction quality permits. If permission to reproduce is granted, but no box is checked, documents will be processed at Level 1.

I hereby grant to the Educational Resources Information Center (ERIC) nonexclusive permission to reproduce and disseminate this document as indicated above. Reproduction from the ERIC microfiche or electronic media by persons other than ERIC employees and its system contractors requires permission from the copyright holder. Exception is made for non-profit reproduction by libraries and other service agencies to satisfy information needs of educators in response to discrete inquiries.
