This filmography lists information on 41 films or videotapes related to Shakespeare in cinema to help teachers integrate cinematic texts, or series of texts, into the teaching of Shakespeare's plays. It lists titles, length, and the name of the producer or distributor and includes brief descriptions of the content of the film or videotape. The filmography includes biographical programs, material on Shakespeare's world, condensed versions, critical approaches, avant-garde adaptations, and companion films to 11 of Shakespeare's plays. It also lists contact information for 4 video distributors, and 2 journals and 4 books dealing with teaching Shakespeare. It concludes with sample study guide questions for the film "Forbidden Planet," a companion film to "The Tempest." (RS)
Choosing A Film
Most teachers of Shakespeare aren't always aware of the options they have to integrate a cinematic texts or a series of texts into their teaching of a Shakespeare play. With the availability of affordable videotapes and DVDs English departments can easily build a library of Shakespeare on film. Here are some suggestions!

Biographical Programs

William Shakespeare: A Life in Drama 50 min. A&E Biography series
William Shakespeare: A Concise Biography 30 min. Famous Author series Kultur Video

Both of these videos provide useful information about Shakespeare's life and times. Your choice would be based on the length of your class period.

Shakespeare's World

Teaching Shakespeare: New Approaches 5 min. Vineyard Video from the Folger Shakespeare Library (excerpt)

This video is a great inservice resource for teachers, but it also provides a great excerpt that summarizes the role of theater in Elizabethan England.

Shakespeare in the Classroom 45 min. Miramax

Miramax distributed this tape in the fall to schools across the nation, so you should have a copy lurking back at your school. It features the stars of Shakespeare in Love presents material on the times, Shakespeare life, the language of the sonnets and plays as well as liberal (and well chosen clips) from the film. It is best used as an introduction to R & J.

Shakespeare's Globe Theatre Restored 30 min. TMW Media Group

This documentary follows a group of college students from California as they mount a performance of Much Ado About Nothing at London's Globe Theater. The packaging includes a useful study guide complete with suggestions for essay topics, class demonstrations, and discussion questions.

Condensed Versions

Shakespeare: The Animated Tales 30 min. Random House Video
Macbeth
Romeo and Juliet
Hamlet

BEST COPY AVAILABLE
These adaptations were originally produced for HBO by a team of Russian animators and BBC actors. The quality of the animation varies, but the most artistic efforts are on display in Macbeth, Hamlet, and The Tempest. Great to use as a preview for less able readers or a review at the end of a unit. I used the Hamlet tape to get my AP students ready to see a production of the play.

Critical Approaches

Discovering Hamlet
53 min.
PBS Video

A review of the tape from the NY Times is included later in packet. Useful in its entirety and in excerpt.

Looking for Richard
112 min.
20th Century Fox

In the last few years I have used this documentary before my AP students read the text with great success. It features Al Pacino, Kevin Spacey, Winona Ryder, Alec Baldwin, among others.

Understanding Shakespeare: The Tragedies
90 min.
Goldhill Video

- Romeo and Juliet
- Macbeth
- Othello
- Hamlet

This series features actors performing key scenes with scholars discussing those scenes.

Avant-Garde Adaptations/Curious Finds

Macbeth: The Witches Scenes
17 min.
Facets Video

The Piven Theater, along with video artist Miroslaw Rogala, have created a post-apocalyptic interpretation of the witches’ scenes. A great catalyst for discussion and comparison to more traditional film adaptations of those scenes.

Silent Shakespeare
88 min.
Milestone Video

This recent release (see review) features the first cinematic adaptations of King John, King Lear, The Tempest, Richard III among others. Screening one of these versions could prove to be a springboard to having students create condensed, pantomimed versions of the plays that they are reading.

Companion Films

Romeo and Juliet

- West Side Story
probably we have all used this musical adaptation with R&J at one time or another Shakespeare in Love (R)

excerpts of the “rehearsal” process for R & J would prove entertaining and informative to help students understand the theater in Shakespeare’s time

Zebradude (R)

contemporary adaptation set in an interracial high school

Hamlet

Royal Deceit

a curious adaptation starring Christian Bale that attempts to tell the story of Hamlet from its Danish origin, brief nudity

Rosencrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead

Tom Stoppard’s film adaptation of his own play that moves Hamlet into the realm of theater of the absurd

Last Action Hero

Arnold Schwarzenegger quotes the Bard and the relationship between the “last action hero” and his young fan echo elements and situations in Hamlet

Green Eggs and Hamlet

the melancholy Dane fused with Dr. Seuss with obviously comic results

Hamlet (2000)

this adaptation by Michael Almereyda retains Shakespeare’s language and translates story into a modern corporate setting

Macbeth

Throne of Blood

Japanese director Akira Kurosawa’s classic adaptation that moves the story to the samurai culture

Men of Respect (R)

modern adaptation that transfers the story to the world of NYC mafia, treatment of the “witches” is particularly effective and worth excerpting

Fury Is A Woman

aka. The Siberian Lady Macbeth, foreign language adaptation that foregrounds the character of Lady M

King Lear

The Dresser

follows a troupe in England during WWII as they try to mount a touring production of Lear as the actor/manager suffers a nervous breakdown

Ran

Kurosawa’s blending of Lear and Macbeth in a truly epic adaptation
Broken Lance
an American western adaptation

THE TEMPEST: Companion Film
Sample Study Guide Questions

FORBIDDEN PLANET (1956 - 99 min.)
Directed by Fred McLeod Wilcox
Starring: Walter Pigeon, Leslie Nielsen, Anne Francis
Screenplay by Warren Stevens (based on story by Irving Block & Allen Adler)

As you watch the film, consider the following questions which will guide our discussion.

How did Morbius come to the star of Altair-IV?

How does the world of the "Forbidden Planet" resemble Prospero's island? In what ways is it different? What makes this place a "forbidden" world?

Who or what are the Krells? What role have they played in the development of the planet and in Morbius' life on the planet?

Morbius is a philologist? What does he study? Why would this kind of person be involved in space exploration?

How is Morbius similar to Prospero? How are they different?

What replaces the magic and illusion of the play? What does this add to the development of plot and characterization?

What are the qualities of Robby the Robot? How does it compare to Caliban and Ariel?

How does the film incorporate the comic subplot of the play?

How does the film develop the lovers' subplot? How do the characters of Alteira and Adams compare to Miranda and Ferdinand?

Explain how these elements of the film have parallels in the play:
brain boosters
"the monsters of the id"

What themes do the film and play share?

Explain the appropriateness of the ending of the film. How does the ending reflect the way the plot, characters, and themes have been developed up to that point?
