The standards in this document are intended to provide every student in North Dakota's public schools with a set of skills that will enable him or her to participate in lifelong leisure, avocational, or professional music pursuits. To help all students achieve the standards outlined in the booklet, North Dakota educators must continue to ensure that all students have music instruction throughout their K-12 education; ensure that the focus of each and every public performance is an outgrowth of the district's curriculum, the standards, and classroom instruction which produces a quality product; improve and increase professional development; improve teacher education programs; increase and reallocate funding to support the arts; and involve school boards, administrators, teachers, parents, and community members. Following an introduction, the document lists the following music content standards: (1) Singing; (2) Instrumental Performance; (3) Improvisation; (4) Composition; (5) Reading Music; (6) Listening; (7) Evaluating Music; (8) Music and Other Disciplines; and (9) Music, History, and Culture. Includes benchmarks, specific knowledge, and sample activities for grades K-4, 5-8, and 9-12. (BT)

COMPONENTS OF THE DOCUMENT

Content Standards – general statements that describe what students should know and the skills they should have in a specific content area.

Benchmarks – statements of knowledge and skill that define a standard at a given developmental level (e.g., 4th grade, 8th grade, 12th grade).

Examples of Specific Knowledge – facts, vocabulary, principles, generalizations, relationships, concepts, step-by-step procedures, strategies, or processes that describe the specific information or skills that students should acquire to meet a standard.

Examples of Activities – instructional activities that students could do to acquire the knowledge and skills described in the standard and benchmarks.
INTRODUCTION

As North Dakota music teachers, we believe that music is part of the core curriculum and is essential to the comprehensive education of every child. Further, we believe that lifelong participation in music is an integral part of a life well-lived. Therefore, all students deserve access to a rich music education regardless of their talents, background, and challenges. This belief guides us to an understanding that music education must go beyond mere exposure to musical activities to a well-crafted music curriculum based upon a set of established standards and benchmarks.

These standards are meant to focus our efforts toward common goals of excellence for every child. These goals can enrich and broaden our current curricula while lending consistent structure to North Dakota music programs. The standards in this document are intended to provide every student with a set of skills that will enable him or her to participate in lifelong leisure, avocational, or professional music pursuits.

These standards can stimulate more creative approaches to teaching by encouraging critical and higher-order thinking skills and imaginative interaction with music. In addition, these standards ensure that students make connections between concepts and across subjects by developing an integrated curriculum, mutually reinforcing and demonstrating an underlying unity.

Standards lend instructional integrity and provide a foundation for the assessment that is necessary for legitimate inclusion within the core curriculum. While local factors such as time, scheduling, and student population may affect the specifics of the music program in a district, these standards can be used by any district to develop its own curriculum for a quality music program.

Use of the Standards Document

A group of North Dakota educators has spent considerable time and effort, drawing from their experiences and a wide range of resources, particularly the national standards document from the Music Educators National Conference (MENC), to develop this document and make music standards a reality in North Dakota. This document is a tool that should be used to evaluate, enrich and enliven music education and ensure its role in the core curriculum. In addition, this document can, and should, develop consistency in music education within districts and across the state.

These standards will need support from a broad range of allies to improve the organization and delivery of arts education. To help all students achieve these standards, we must continue to:

- Ensure that all students have music instruction throughout their K-12 education
- Ensure that the focus of each and every public performance is an outgrowth of the district’s curriculum, the standards, and classroom instruction which produces a quality product
• Improve and increase professional development
• Improve teacher education programs

Introduction

• Increase and reallocate funding to support the arts
• Involve school boards, administrators, teachers, parents, and community members

If we join efforts across the state of North Dakota with the clear vision of common standards, our schools will be able to make consistent growth to reach these attainable and sustainable goals for our children and our society.

4.2.1 Students echo a series of four rhythmic patterns, each consisting of two measures in 4/4 meter* on a rhythmic or melodic instrument. The patterns contain combinations of half, quarter, eighth and dotted rhythms. Students play immediately, following the pattern played by the teacher, with no interruption of the beat.

4.2.2 Students choose an appropriate classroom instrument to perform a familiar song including expressive elements such as dynamics, phrasing and interpretation.

4.2.3 The teacher chooses familiar pieces written in at least two parts. (The pieces should contrast in tempo and style*.) The scores contain few or no indication of dynamics, tempo, or style*. Students play the pieces on the recorder or other melodic instruments as the teacher conducts. 4.3.1 Given a variety of classroom instruments and electronic instruments from which to choose, students improvise a short piece in ABA form in which the B section is as different as possible from the A section with respect to timbre. Vocal sounds, body sounds, and nontraditional sounds available in the classroom may be used.

4.3.1 Students play a simple accompaniment or simple song on an autoharp, guitar or ukulele given the key of the song. They find the chords through experimentation and then accompany students singing the song.

All are in major keys and in treble clef. They consist largely of stepwise motion. Most leaps are thirds, there are no accidentals, and the rhythms are simple. The tempo is approximately MM=60.
4.5.3  Given a series of (1) music terms relating to dynamics*, tempo, and articulation* and (2) symbols or abbreviations for those terms, students name or define each term, symbol, or abbreviation and, when appropriate, illustrate it in a performance of a phrase from a familiar song.
4.5.4  Students write on a staff, using standard notation, a series of four simple melodic patterns of four measures each, played by the teacher on a keyboard instrument. Students indicate the dynamic* level and the meter*, which will be either 3/4 or 4/4, and insert bar lines as needed. The starting pitch and beat note are given for each pattern. The patterns contain half, quarter, and eighth notes moving stepwise.

4.6.2 Students compare and contrast the elements of two pieces of music from different cultures.

4.6.3 Students listen to music and describe it in everyday terminology and then in music terminology (e.g., smooth/legato).

4.6.4 Students listen to Western and non-Western instruments and vocal styles* and compare how the instrumental and vocal timbres* are used.

4.6.5 Students devise and demonstrate original movements that reflect the mood and character of a brief, unfamiliar recorded music example and change their movements to respond to changes in the style of the music. The example is selected to provide clear changes in style. In a series of subsequent examples, students respond by movement to new sections (e.g., each section in a rondo), to specific events (e.g., oboe solo, cymbal crash, recapitulation), or to changes in tempo, meter*, instrumentation, or register (e.g., high versus low instruments). Props such as streamers, balls, hoops, or wands may be provided if desired.
Standard 7: EVALUATING MUSIC

4.7.2 music terminology, describe and support personal preferences

Examples of Activities that Support the Standard and Benchmarks

4.7.1 Students suggest three important criteria for evaluating music performances and compositions. Students write down the criteria, which may be either in the form of questions or descriptive phrases. The teacher then plays a tape of a performance or composition by a student or by a group of which the student is a member, and the student applies his or her criteria in evaluating the performance or composition.

4.7.2 Students name three favorite works of music and explain, using appropriate music terminology, why they like those works. The teacher asks questions to help the students articulate the musical basis for their preferences. Students should be prompted to use appropriate music terminology.

8.2.2 Students prepare a demonstration project using various means to show their understanding of proper care and use of their band, orchestra, or classroom instruments*. The presentation of the projects may include live demonstrations, multimedia, or posters.

8.2.3 Students perform three pieces: (1) a folk or traditional melody in a slow, lyrical style; (2) a march in staccato style; and (3) an example of non-Western music. Any suitable instruments may be used (e.g., dulcimer, Celtic harp, banjo, violin, mbira, tabla). The students' task is to perform in a manner that reflects the musical style* of each work.
Examples of Activities that Support the Standard and Benchmarks

8.2.4 Students sing a simple, familiar melody and then play it by ear on the recorder or another melodic instrument. The starting pitch is given, and the student may sound the pitch on the instrument. The melodies should feature both stepwise motion and skips.

| 8.3.2 | chord and chord progressions, variety of sound sources, meter*, tonality* |
| 8.3.3 | major, minor, and pentatonic keys and scale structure, consistent style*, meter* |

Examples of Activities that Support the Standard and Benchmarks

| 8.3.1 | Students improvise an accompaniment using traditional chords on a fretted instrument, a keyboard instrument, a mallet percussion instrument, or an autoharp while the class sings a familiar song containing simple chords (e.g., I, IV, V). |
| 8.3.2 | On a recorder or another melodic instrument, or with the voice, students improvise on a familiar melody or a melody in a major key. The variation should be based primarily on melodic embellishments or rhythmic variation. The melody should be eight to sixteen measures long. |
| 8.3.3 | As the class or teacher provides an eight-measure rhythmic background, students improvise a vocal pattern over the background using a neutral syllable. This activity can be done on a melodic or harmonic instrument. |
Grades 5 – 8

Standard 4: COMPOSITION

Students compose and arrange music with specified guidelines.

Benchmarks

8.4.1 Compose short pieces containing the appropriate elements of music*.
8.4.2 Arrange simple pieces for voices or instruments other than those for which the pieces were written.
8.4.3 Use a variety of sound sources when composing and arranging.

8.4.2 vocal and instrumental ranges, transposition, clefs, notation
8.4.3 traditional and nontraditional sound sources, electronic media

Examples of Activities that Support the Standard and Benchmarks

8.4.1 Students compose a work in ABA, AABA, ABACA, or theme-and-variations form; perform it as a solo or with a group of students; and explain to the class how the work has achieved unity and variety, tension and release, and a balance. Any melodic, harmonic, rhythmic, or electronic instruments, or voice, may be used. The piece is to be written out by the student, using notation sufficiently precise to allow the same group to reproduce the piece accurately in subsequent performances.

8.4.2 Students arrange a familiar song or short instrumental piece for three to five instruments or voices so that it may be performed by other students. The arrangement may be for any combination of instruments. The student prepares a score that is performed by the class, if possible.

8.4.3 Students use everyday sounds they can generate and/or record (e.g., egg beaters, nature sounds, household appliances, etc.) to create an original composition which they tape and play for the class.
Grades 5 - 8

Collectively, they include whole, half, quarter, eighth, sixteenth, and dotted notes and rests in 2/4, 4/4, 6/8, 3/8, and alla breve* meters*. They may be presented in print or by means of overhead transparencies. The tempo is approximately MM=60.

8.5.2 Students sight-read four varied, unfamiliar melodies of from four to eight measures each. Two are in treble clef and two are in bass clef. The student may sing or use any appropriate instrument (with octave transpositions as necessary). Both major and minor keys are included. The melodies are folk-song like and contain few or no chromatic* tones. They are simple rhythmically and contain no notes faster than eighths, except sixteenths in conjunction with dotted eighths. The melodies may be presented either in print or by means of overhead transparencies. The tempo is approximately MM=60.

8.5.3 Students locate specific notation symbols in works and explain or demonstrate what those symbols and other music terms tell the performer to do.

8.5.3 The teacher sings or plays on a melodic instrument a simple four-measure phrase of music. Students write down the phrase in standard notation in either treble or bass clef. The phrase should be tonal and should not contain complex rhythms or chromaticism*. Students are given the meter*, the key, and the starting pitch. The phrase may be played up to six times.

8.6.2  Basic principles of meter*, rhythm, tonality*, intervals, chords, and harmonic progressions, listening

Examples of Activities that Support Standard and Benchmarks

8.6.1  Students describe or explain what is happening musically in a given listening example. For example, what instruments are playing the melody? What instruments are playing the accompaniment? How is variety achieved? How is tension achieved? In what ways is the melody altered when it reappears? What is happening harmonically at this point?

8.6.2  The teacher plays a short work of music, up to four times, selected because it contains musical features that are readily discernible. The students identify the form of the work and describe how the elements of music* are used in the work. A checklist or worksheet listing these elements may be provided. The excerpt may be, for example, a theme-and-variations movement from a classical symphony, a call-and-response work song from West Africa, or an instrumental blues piece from the late 1920s.

| 8.8.2 basic principles of each subject, comparison skills |

Examples of Activities that Support the Standard and Benchmarks

| 8.8.1 Students identify a particular event, scene, emotion, or concept and demonstrate how that event, scene, emotion, or concept might be represented in each of three arts (i.e., three from among theatre, dance, music, visual arts). Examples might include a thunderstorm, a sunrise, a tall building, sorrow, surprise, or space travel. The demonstration should consist of acting, dancing, performing music (or playing a recording), or creating a representation in a visual medium. The student should identify the event, scene, emotion, or concept and explain briefly how it is represented in the three arts. |
| 8.8.2 Students prepare a project to explain ways in which the skills and knowledge learned in music and other disciplines are related. For example, knowledge of the physiological process of hearing increases awareness of the dangers of a constantly loud environment, and music often illuminates particular historical or social events or movements. Projects may take the form of posters, demonstrations, multimedia, or performance. |

12.6.2 Understand technical vocabulary of music.

Examples of Specific Knowledge that Support the Standard and Benchmarks

12.6.1 musical elements, compositional devices and techniques (e.g., motives, imitation, retrograde, inversion, strophic form, chromaticism, non-Western scales, meter*, changes, 3-against-2 rhythmic patterns, deceptive cadence)
12.6.2 elements of music* (e.g., form*, harmony; Italian terms; tempo markings)

Examples of Activities that Support the Standard and Benchmarks

12.6.1 Students listen to and analyze two representative works in various styles*, one of which is from a non-Western culture. The students are divided into small groups, each assigned one of the following tasks: to identify the medium, describe the form* or organization, describe the rhythmic characteristics, describe the harmonic or textural characteristics, or describe the expressive devices used. The information is shared within each group. The groups are then reorganized with one member from each of the previous groups serving as the expert for their musical element. The new groups pool their knowledge into a presentation for the class.

12.6.2 Given a musical example, students can identify and discuss elements of music, including form, harmony, and tempo using proper terminology.
Standard 7: EVALUATING MUSIC

Students evaluate music and music performances.

Benchmarks

12.7.1 Develop specific criteria for making informed, critical evaluations of the quality and effectiveness of performances, compositions, arrangements, and improvisations.
12.7.2 Evaluate a given musical work in terms of its aesthetic qualities.

Examples of Specific Knowledge that Support the Standard and Benchmarks

12.7.2 music elements and terminology, critical thinking, comparison criteria, style*

Examples of Activities that Support the Standard and Benchmarks

12.7.2 The teacher plays two recordings of performances of the same work that differ sharply in their interpretation. Students describe the musical characteristics of each performance and contrast the two, identify a setting in which each interpretation might be appropriate, and explain why that interpretation is likely to be more or less appropriate in that setting than the other interpretation. (As variations on this activity, students can also compare compositions, arrangements, and improvisations.)
Standard 8: MUSIC AND OTHER DISCIPLINES

_Students understand the relationship between music, the other arts, and other disciplines._

Benchmarks

12.8.1 Know how artistic elements and processes are used in similar and distinctive ways in the various arts.
12.8.2 Understand the ways in which the principles and concepts of various disciplines outside the arts are related to those of music.

Examples of Specific Knowledge that Support the Standard and Benchmarks

12.8.1 artistic elements and processes for all art forms (e.g., unity, variety, texture, craftsmanship)
12.8.2 core principles of all subjects, comparison skills

Examples of Activities that Support the Standard and Benchmarks

12.8.1 Students prepare, individually or in small groups, a multi-media presentation based on studied works in two or more arts, inspired by the same event or phenomenon. Examples may include spring ("Spring" movement from Vivaldi’s “The Four Seasons”, Mendelssohn’s “Spring Song”, Robert Browning’s “Pippas Song”, many Chinese and Japanese screens, examples of Japanese haiku); storms (fourth movement of Beethoven’s Sixth Symphony, second section of Rossini’s “William Tell Overture”, J.W. Truner’s “Snowstorm”, Ralph Waldo Emerson’s “Snowstorm”, Ando Hiroshige’s “The Wave”); fear (Munch’s “The Scream”, Schoenberg’s “Erwartung”, Shakespeare’s “Macbeth”, films such as “Psycho” and “The Silence of the Lambs”); the story of Romeo and Juliet (Shakespeare’s play, Prokofiev’s ballet, Tchaikovsky’s overture, Berlioz’s dramatic symphony, Bernstein’s “West Side Story”). Students cite two examples of how the elements of the various arts are used to convey the same specific meanings or feelings; instances in which the imagination and the craftsmanship of the poet, playwright, author, choreographer, painter, or composer are used effectively to create an image or emotion; instances of the use of unity and variety and the use of repetition and contrast.
Examples of Activities that Support the Standard and Benchmarks

12.8.1 Students prepare a report on the state of two or more arts during a particular period (e.g., the reign of Louis XIV of France or the Harlem renaissance of the 1920s). Students compare the theory and practice of the various arts (i.e., music, dance, theatre, and visual arts) with one another during the period. When appropriate, the state of the arts in other contemporary cultures or contexts should be referred to (e.g., in the case of Louis XIV, what was happening elsewhere in Europe? In the case of the Harlem renaissance, what was happening in the concert and opera halls and the cabarets of New York and on the Broadway stage?). The students’ reports should cite and explain the styles that predominated in each art and should name the individuals who were most influential and describe the contributions of each.

12.8.2 Students prepare a brief report explaining how the principles and concepts of music are related to the principles and concepts of two disciplines outside the fine and performing arts. For example, the student may (1) compare the ability of music and literature to convey images, feelings, and meanings (relevant to language arts); or (2) describe the physical basis of tone production in string, wind, percussion, and electronic instruments and the human voice, and describe the transmission and perception of sound (relevant to physics).
Standard 9: MUSIC, HISTORY, AND CULTURE

Students understand music in relation to history and culture.

Benchmarks

12.9.1 Know representative examples of music from a variety of cultures and historical periods.
12.9.2 Know sources of American music, the evolution of these genres* and musicians associated with them.

12.9.2 American music (e.g., folk, swing, Broadway musical), composers and performers, historical and cultural contexts
12.9.3 music careers (e.g., entertainer, teacher, sound technician, music therapist, music store manager, music editor, publisher)

Examples of Activities that Support the Standard and Benchmarks

12.9.1 After studying several pieces representing a style* or culture, students listen to unfamiliar pieces selected by the teacher and describe how the piece is or is not representative of the particular style*.

12.9.2 Students research the evolution of American music. The research should include origin of each genre*, historical stages, representative musicians, and the distinctive use of the elements of music*. They use the information to create a narrated presentation or production of an American music timeline.

12.9.2 Students identify personal vocational and/or avocational musical roles that they are interested in pursuing in the future. They interview a community member in that career, asking about the person’s musical background, training, involvement, and the role of music within the person’s life. If students are unable to identify a person in the community who is in their career of interest, they may use other sources to research their personal vocational or avocational interest.
