Introduction

Part C Updates is a compilation of information on various aspects of the Early Intervention Program for Infants and Toddlers with Disabilities (Part C) of The Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA). It is the third volume in a series of compilations, following the second edition of Part H Updates. Several items have been reprinted in their entirety from the original sources. The intent of Part C Updates is to collect, in a convenient format, a variety of resources that meet the information needs of state and jurisdictional Part C program staff, the Office of Special Education Programs of the U.S. Department of Education, and policy makers at all levels.

The changes affected by the IDEA Amendments of 1997 — including a change from Part H to Part C of the section of IDEA that contains provisions for the early intervention program for infants and toddlers with disabilities — are reflected in the 1998 edition of Part C Updates.

We welcome your feedback on the usefulness of the Part C Updates. States and jurisdictions are particularly invited to provide updated information to the editors or to the authors of individual documents.

1 Number and percentage of infants and toddlers receiving early intervention services under Part C, Chapter 1 (for FY 1987 through FY 1994 only), and other programs as of December 1 of the Federal fiscal year. For example, for fiscal year 1991, 194,000 children were reported to be receiving services as of December 1, 1990.

2 A combination of factors appears to account for the apparent decline in these child counts:
   * early inaccuracies, including duplicated counts in state data collection systems;
   * inclusion in earlier years of children who only received some services and who did not necessarily have IFSPs; and
   * in the count for 1993, the decline in the reported number of children served in several large states masked the reports from 39 other jurisdictions of increases in the number of children served.

3 Includes $34 million to offset the elimination of funding for the Chapter 1 Handicapped Program.

Central Directory Providers in the States and Jurisdictions

Information is current as of September 1998.

The following is a list of the central directory providers as required under Part C of IDEA for each participating state and jurisdiction. These providers can direct families and professionals to resources in their state that serve children from birth to age 3 years, and in some cases can provide information on services for older children as well. People seeking information on resources within a state should call the Intake number provided. Please note that the toll-free numbers for information intake in some states are not accessible when dialing from outside the state. Alternate phone contacts are offered for administrative purposes or for callers from outside of the state (when the toll-free number is not accessible), and for communicating using a telecommunications devices for the deaf (TDDs). E-mail addresses and URLs for World Wide Web sites are provided when available. This information also is maintained on the NECTAS site on the World Wide Web at http://www.nectas.unc.edu/part_c/cendir.html.

Readers are encouraged to visit the site for the most up-to-date information.

SECTION II:
Part C
Program Implementation
Service Coordination Caseloads in State Early Intervention Systems

by

Joicey Hurth

Under the Early Intervention Program for Infants and Toddlers with Disabilities (Part C) of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), service coordination is defined as:

... the activities carried out by a service coordinator to assist and enable a child eligible under this part and the child's family to receive the rights, procedural safeguards, and services that are authorized to be provided under the State's early intervention program.

(34 CFR Sec. 303.22(a)(1))

However, neither the federal IDEA statute nor regulations offer guidance on what constitutes a maximum, minimum, or typical caseload for a service coordinator.

In practice, service coordination models and caseloads vary greatly according to the model of service coordination used. The ongoing, supportive, family-centered service coordination described in Part C of IDEA (see Table 1) requires lower caseloads than do administrative models in which case managers are mainly determining eligibility and monitoring service provision.

This paper summarizes and provides examples of the models of service coordination in early intervention that the author has identified (see Table 2). The information presented has been provided or reviewed by coordinators of the reporting states' Part C programs. The examples illustrate the variation in policies and practices and are neither inclusive nor exhaustive of all state approaches to service coordination. Implications for best practice are not intended. Indeed, each identified model of service coordination has inherent strengths and weaknesses. Each model's effectiveness depends upon its implementation, its fit with local needs and resources, and its integration with the larger early intervention system.

Continued...
Sec. 303.22 Service coordination (case management).
(a) General. (1) As used in this part, except in Sec. 303.12(d)(11), service coordination means the activities carried out by a service coordinator to assist and enable a child eligible under this part and the child’s family to receive the rights, procedural safeguards, and services that are authorized to be provided under the State’s early intervention program.
(2) Each child eligible under this part and the child’s family must be provided with one service coordinator who is responsible for—
   (i) Coordinating all services across agency lines; and
   (ii) Serving as the single point of contact in helping parents to obtain the services and assistance they need.
(3) Service coordination is an active, ongoing process that involves—
   (i) Assisting parents of eligible children in gaining access to the early intervention services and other services identified in the individualized family service plan;
   (ii) Coordinating the provision of early intervention services and other services (such as medical services for other than diagnostic and evaluation purposes) that the child needs or is being provided;
   (iii) Facilitating the timely delivery of available services; and
   (iv) Continuously seeking the appropriate services and situations necessary to benefit the development of each child being served for the duration of the child’s eligibility.
(b) Specific service coordination activities. Service coordination activities include—
(1) Coordinating the performance of evaluations and assessments;
(2) Facilitating and participating in the development, review, and evaluation of individualized family service plans;
(3) Assisting families in identifying available service providers;
(4) Coordinating and monitoring the delivery of available services;
(5) Informing families of the availability of advocacy services;
(6) Coordinating with medical and health providers; and
(7) Facilitating the development of a transition plan to preschool services, if appropriate.
(c) Employment and assignment of service coordinators.
(1) Service coordinators may be employed or assigned in any way that is permitted under State law, so long as it is consistent with the requirements of this part.
(2) A State’s policies and procedures for implementing the statewide system of early intervention services must be designed and implemented to ensure that service coordinators are able to effectively carry out on an interagency basis the functions and services listed under paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section.
(d) Qualifications of service coordinators. Service coordinators must be persons who, consistent with Sec. 303.344(g), have demonstrated knowledge and understanding about—
   (1) Infants and toddlers who are eligible under this part;
   (2) Part H of the Act and the regulations in this part; and
   (3) The nature and scope of services available under the State’s early intervention program, the system of payments for services in the State, and other pertinent information.

Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1472(2)

Note 1: If States have existing service coordination systems, the States may use or adapt those systems, so long as they are consistent with the requirements of this part.
Note 2: The legislative history of the 1991 amendments to the Act indicates that the use of the term "service coordination" was not intended to affect the authority to seek reimbursement for services provided under Medicaid or any other legislation that makes reference to "case management" services. See H.R. Rep. No. 198, 102d Cong., 1st Sess. 12 (1991); S. Rep. No. 84, 102d Cong., 1st Sess. 20 (1991).
Dedicated Service Coordination

In this model, "service coordinator" is a personnel category, having only or primarily service coordination responsibilities. Service coordinators can be either employed by or affiliated with early intervention programs, or they can be independent of early intervention programs.

North Dakota has a history of providing case management under Developmental Disabilities (DD), the state's lead agency for Part C. Case management ratios are a maximum of 1:60, but in early intervention the average runs 1:40 or 1:45. The DD case manager coordinates family support services and monitors all service delivery. It is important to note that North Dakota families also receive ongoing support from their early intervention home visitor, whose caseloads are a maximum ratio of 1:15, with an average of 1:11 used for budgetary purposes.

More states are adopting a dedicated service coordinator model. Indiana recently developed a dedicated system under Part C, with recommended caseloads of 1:50. In any given month, a service coordinator can bill for 35 children (with a range of number of contacts, 2 to 4/month). The data system used in Indiana allows the state Part C program to monitor caseloads.

Hawaii has a model with several personnel levels, ranging from supervisory to paraprofessional, and a wide range in caseloads of 1:3 to 1:95, with a median of 1:20.

South Carolina caseloads average 1:45 to 1:50 billable cases. Mississippi has a ratio of 1:50, Georgia reports 1:32, and Alabama maintains a ratio of 1:20 or 1:30. Tennessee reports a caseload ratio of 1:40, and Nebraska's ratio is 1:30.

Delaware has both dedicated service coordinators and coordinators who have additional evaluation responsibilities. The service coordinators are hired by the state's Part C lead agency, the Department of Health and Social Services, and, therefore, are independent of the early intervention programs, most of which are private providers. Caseloads range between 1:20 and 1:35. Service coordinators with evaluation responsibilities have the lower caseload ratios, and the range indicates flexibility to accommodate families' greater and lesser service coordination needs.

Early Interventionist and Service Coordination

In this model the primary provider of early intervention services also provides service coordination services. The home visitor/case manager, with roots in health and mental health services, has provided services to infant and toddlers with (or at risk for) developmental delays since the early 1960s.

Montana's Developmental Disabilities Program has used a home visitor model for early intervention and service coordination for many years. Based on prior experience, in 1988, Montana set 1:16 as a typical ratio for the early intervention, home visitor caseload. Providers negotiate a caseload contract every 2 years, in order to accommodate individual family needs and other variables, such as needing lower caseloads to reach rural remote families. Montana families with children who are medically fragile and families with other complex care needs are served by the state's Intensive Family Education and Support Program (IFESP). (Although there may be overlap in eligibility between the IFESP and the state's Part C program, families usually are served in one program or the other, not both.) The IFESP caseload ratio has been set at 1:8, reflecting the demands of coordinating services for families with intense needs.

Massachusetts and Maine both report a typical caseload ratio of 1:15 for their home visitors.

Probably the most common model in early intervention programs is the multidisciplinary or transdisciplinary team model, in which each team member has early intervention responsibilities as well as a caseload of families for whom they provide service coordination. Typically, the team member whose discipline most closely matches the child's primary service need is selected as the service coordinator for that family. Texas service providers are assigned cases at ratios ranging from 1:14 to 1:18; in West Virginia the caseload ratio ranges from 1:15 to a maximum of 1:18.

Project Continuity, an early childhood demonstration and outreach project at the University of Nebraska Medical Center in Omaha, and Child Development Resources (CDR), in Norge, Virginia, have studied the amount of time devoted to service coordination in early intervention and estimate caseload demands in employee full-time equivalents (FTEs). They both cite five to six families as representing a typical load for 0.20 to 0.25 FTE, although this does vary with family needs. These projects also reported similar data for the average time spent in service coordination activities for a family.
each month (Jackson et al., n.d.; C. Alport, personal communication, September 30, 1998). The range is great—from 30 minutes to 9 hours, with an average of approximately 6 hours—both among families and for any one family over time. Cathy Alport, from CDR, reported that family factors related to higher service coordination usage are income-related needs, medical involvement of the child, protective service involvement, and parents with disabilities.

Interagency Service Coordination

Because Part C-eligible families also may be served by other agencies that have service coordination or case management responsibilities, several states have adopted an interagency approach to selecting the person to be designated on the Individualized Family Service Plan (IFSP) as the coordinator of Part C services for a family. Typically, state and/or local interagency agreements assure that eligible infants and toddlers and their families receive service coordination that is in compliance with Part C, regardless of which agency’s service coordinator is designated on the IFSP. Involving multiple agencies in service coordination provides for local flexibility and, usually, family choice, but it does present challenges for training and quality assurance.

North Carolina has a state-level interagency agreement for service coordination that involves multiple agency personnel at the local level. Early intervention providers serve as service coordinators for the majority of Part C-eligible children, with a typical caseload ratio of 1:18. It is interesting that early intervention support to children in child care has a lower ratio, 1:10 or 1:12, to allow for more intensive involvement. The Child Service Coordination Program provides dedicated service coordination (with caseloads of 25) for some Part C-eligible children who are also in the state’s Smart Start Program. In addition, Department of Health case managers, who typically carry 50 children and families, may serve as the Part C service coordinator for any of their caseload who are Part C eligible.

In Vermont, service coordination is community based and any of the various agencies that serve Part C-eligible families may provide service coordination. Community resource parents (the point of entry to the early intervention system) serve the majority of families, and early intervention providers from various regional agencies and school personnel also frequently serve this role. Caseloads and family preference are considered when deciding whether the child and family will remain with an interim coordinator, or will be assigned to another early interventionist or agency provider. A caseload ratio of 1:20 is typical.

Interim or Intake Service Coordination

Several states have an interim service coordination model, in which a single point of entry provides intake services, organizes evaluations, and serves as the service coordinator until the IFSP meeting. Essentially, the interim or intake coordinator facilitates the first 45 days of the family's entry to the early intervention system. Responsibilities may include explaining the early intervention system and Part C procedural safeguards, gathering information from families, coordinating evaluations, arranging financing for services, and connecting to services and supports such as parent networks. Some interim service coordinators may accompany the family to the first IFSP meeting, while others may only arrange to have the appropriate participants present. At the first IFSP meeting, the permanent service coordinator is selected.

Assignment of this permanent or ongoing service coordinator may follow any of the various models or combination of models described above. In Vermont, community resource parents and regional interventionists do the intake and may continue with a family or turn them over to an ongoing service coordinator from any one of a number of agencies (see interagency approaches above). Because Medicaid funds much of Georgia's system, its "freedom of choice" requirement is satisfied by allowing families that are Medicaid eligible to choose from a list of all Medicaid-qualified and -enrolled providers of service coordination to select their ongoing service coordinator. Families that are not Medicaid eligible may choose from a list of state-funded and qualified service coordinators.

Caseloads for interim coordinators also vary, in part due to different intake responsibilities. For example, Indiana estimates that one interim service coordinator could manage up to 180 families annually. In a state with sliding fee scales or other significant administrative tasks, annual caseloads may be lower. For example, Georgia estimates each interim coordinator has responsibilities for 150-160 families annually.

Summary

Each approach to service coordination has inherent strengths and weaknesses. Each has proponents in the early intervention literature; however, there is not an adequate empirical basis for judging which is better or best. This paper does not intend to imply any quality judgments about the models or states listed or not listed above. Rather, it presents examples of various approaches that states have undertaken in developing statewide service coordination in early intervention. As states, service providers, families, and researchers accumulate and share experiences, some quality assurance indicators can be considered across models:

1. Caseloads must be low enough to allow a service coordinator to build a relationship with families and to understand their concerns, priorities, and resources. The service coordinator should be able to configure the IFSP process and to assist in the selection of providers and supports that meet the individual preferences and needs of each family.

2. Flexibility in caseloads is necessary to allow a range of support from intensive contacts to very few, depending on families' needs, desires, and location. Family needs for service coordination vary both among families and with any given family over time. Service coordination needs are likely to be greater at entry to the system, during transitions, (especially transitions at age 3 years), and at times of such acute or critical need as major changes in the health of a family member.

3. Family choice in selecting a service coordinator who can accommodate their needs and preferences is desirable. One family concerned mainly about their child's development may not want to deal with two people, preferring that the primary interventionist serve as the service coordinator. Another family, with health concerns or needing services from a variety of providers, may need a dedicated coordinator who knows the system and the community well. Interim service coordination models provide flexibility and choice. However, interim models can present other problems such as artificially dividing the IFSP process into disjointed steps involving many different people in evaluation, assessment, the IFSP meeting, and ongoing service and support.

4. Experienced family members are working in the service coordinator's role in various models. States... are recruiting parents as dedicated, independent, full-time or part-time service coordinators. Parents sometimes share responsibilities with another designated service coordinator, for example, assuming responsibility for making early contact with a family and serving as their guide through the early intervention process. Contracting on a consultant or fee-for-service basis with individuals allows some systems to better include representatives of different cultures and communities.

5. Training is essential. The greater the number of people, agencies, and programs involved in providing services to a family, the greater the flexibility and choice provided — but the training and administrative challenges also are greater. States must ensure that, no matter who acts as their service coordinator, a family experiences the type of family-centered services, rights, and safeguards that are in compliance with Part C of IDEA. As service coordinators work across agencies and in communities, supervision and other ongoing support strategies, such as mentoring, are extremely important. Adequate supervision is essential in those systems that employ para-professional-level coordinators, or recruit coordinators from diverse disciplines who may have widely varied experience, competence, and qualifications.

6. System evaluation, monitoring, and oversight are essential to maximize the system’s strengths and correct for problems or inequities. Data is needed about the relationship of caseloads to family experience and outcomes, as well as provider satisfaction, within various system models. At this point there is insufficient empirical information to set an optimal or even a satisfactory caseload standard, although comparing averages and typical loads across states is valuable. We should continue to track and compare information and evaluations across states.

Enhancing Family Roles in EI Programs

Over the years, states have addressed the problem of how to involve a diversity of parents in the activities of their state interagency coordinating councils (ICCs). One strategy has been to provide reimbursement to parents for expenses they incur when participating in meetings and activities related to serving on a state or local ICC. In 1990, a few states were beginning to pay parents’ expenses for serving as members of their councils. While these were not salaries, they did represent recognition that parents should not be burdened by the extra costs of their volunteer work because that would limit the ability of interested parents to participate. A report on this practice, “State Support for Parents on Interagency Coordinating Councils,” by Martha Gentili, appeared in an issue of the NEC*TAS Early Childhood Bulletin (Spring/Summer 1990). Ms. Gentili cited the background for funding parents along with examples and a rationale for paying parents for their time in addition to covering their out of pocket costs. In the past seven years, more states have established policies to do so. This article reflects discussions held at the ICC parent meetings of NEC*TAS meetings in 1995 and 1996 and on subsequent conference calls. It will focus on issues to consider with possible solutions.

Financial support for council work

As parent involvement at the program and policy level for their children becomes more accepted and appreciated, parents have begun to talk about ways in which they are supported in their participation. At NEC*TAS meetings and other informal meetings, parents discuss the difficulties they often face when trying to balance their volunteer commitment with the reality of their lives, including job responsibilities, travel costs and child care expenses. While it is flattering to be invited to participate on task forces and committees such as local and state Interagency Coordinating Councils (ICCs), there are other considerations that confront families. Many employers are now more willing to allow parents to take time off for involvement in their children’s schools and early intervention programs. In the spirit of volunteerism, parents can request of employers that they permit them time off to serve as members of committees for their children’s programs to help ensure effective services for all children.

Whether parents are using their own time or donated work time, they may incur expenses that would be out of pocket costs of participation. Parking in a downtown area can cost $10-15 for only a few hours. A long drive to a meeting site can mean gas, toll charges and a meal need to be covered. Babysitter charges can bring the cost of the meeting up high enough for parents to think about their family’s budget. Asking about reimbursement for expenses, and even for a salary or consultant fee, if not on their employer’s time, for time spent at meetings, can be an uncomfortable conversation, especially when parents themselves feel that these activities are volunteer work. Several parents have articulated that while they willingly contribute their time and energy to their tasks, they are not always in a position to absorb the costs of participation. Even when parents begin to think about requesting funds, they aren’t always clear about whom to ask. They may also worry that if they do bring up the issue, the invitation to participate might be withdrawn and offered to someone who might not request reimbursement. When expenses are covered for all parents who participate, parent leaders can freely offer to become involved and invite other parents to do so without having to worry about the ability of those parents to pay for expenses. Professionals can also feel free to invite all parents to consider participation with costs reimbursed.

Input from a variety of viewpoints is essential in complex policy discussions. The families serving on LICC or SICC committees should reflect the diversity of families served within the early intervention or preschool service system with respect to income level, ethnicity, gender and age of parents, and diagnosis of child. Realistic reimbursement policies and simple procedures for requesting cost reimbursement help create a level playing field for all families. "Strategies for Recruiting Family Members from Diverse Backgrounds for Roles in Policy and Program Development," by Kim Brame, appeared in Early Childhood Bulletin (Summer 1995) and includes very specific suggestions for inviting a wider group of parents to participate.

More and more states are setting policies that will help parents attend meetings and be actively involved in trainings, workshops, and conferences. Costs of gas, tolls, parking, child care, and meals are well recognized as new policies are put into place. Policies vary from state to state, reflecting the particular needs of the region or state. For instance, in Alaska, air fare and hotel costs are covered because parents must travel great distances to meetings. In another state, arrangements are made to cover specialized child care, including nursing care. Often, stipends are offered to cover the cost of child care instead of reimbursement for actual cost. Several states reported that stipends were simpler than paying for actual costs since some children are left with family members who do not charge while others are in day care or nursing care.

Information from parents indicates that there is a wide range in the amount of reimbursement given. Stipends may range from $25/meeting to $150/meeting. These may be in addition to travel and child care costs to show recognition that the time parents spend is valued. Usually stipends are available for formal council meetings and committee meetings, but may not be available for training and conference opportunities. There is no way of knowing whether parents are discouraged from participating if the stipend rates are too low or not available. Currently, the amount of money involved is not enough of an incentive for participation by persons who would not otherwise choose to be involved.

In addition to setting policies about the amount of reimbursement, states must also consider how to provide reimbursement in a timely manner. State governments are seldom able to pay parents quickly and almost never able to advance money to cover expenses incurred that day. Michigan and many other states have used an existing nonprofit agency which promised to pay the parents within the week. New York exempts the reimbursement from being counted as family income so it will not jeopardize the family's eligibility for services. The complexities of parent reimbursement are further discussed in a recent publication by Elizabeth Jeppson and Josie Thomas, Words of Advice, from the Institute for Family Centered Care in Bethesda (1997).

Some parents have raised the question of accountability for their involvement. They want to know in advance if they are expected to report back to other parents or file a written report about their meetings. When might one parent be replaced by another who is interested in being supported to attend a conference or statewide meeting? Parents hope that policies will encourage involvement of more parents so that the load can be shared broadly instead of only one or two parents being asked repeatedly to participate or to be speakers. An issue of Early Childhood Bulletin (Spring/Summer 1994) addressed this aspect of parent involvement in the article, "Who You Gonna Call?" by Barbara Popper.
Employment as parent staff member

Another facet of the discussion relates to parents who begin to move from the volunteer level with or without limited stipends for their time to one of being paid a salary as a parent consultant or parent advisor for either part- or full-time work. State programs with a focus on children's health are beginning to hire parents as liaisons or consultants to help weave a family perspective into the work of the agency. The person hired may be expected to participate in all facets of work done by the program to assure a parent viewpoint or the employed parent may provide outreach to other parents and develop a parent network. A few other programs hire parents for jobs which do not specify parental expertise, but are often the first contact a parent has with a service program. Clerical staff or van drivers are frequently the first telephone or direct contact for a new family and having someone with the experience of having a child with special needs in that position can be extremely supportive for new families.

A survey of parents employed by Title V Maternal and Child Health funded state programs conducted in 1992 with a follow up in 1994 by the CAPP National Parent Resource Center project indicated that 22 states have already hired parents in part-time positions. For instance, Massachusetts has hired seven parents for their Part H program to provide parent leadership and five regional parents in their statewide Children with Special Health Care Needs (C SHCN) division to provide resource and referral regionally. These parents work as part-time employees, but meet together monthly to exchange information about program changes, upcoming events, ongoing training needs, and their own work experiences. Other states began hiring parents in the mid 1980s. Usually these were parents who had been serving as volunteers on committees and were known to the health departments. Other states advertised the positions and attracted parents not previously known to their professional staff, but often linked to some parent organizations. In most cases these early parent consultants were pioneers and developed their own job description modifying it as their jobs developed.

Once a parent is hired as a consultant, three specific challenges are funding and job security, training and support for the consultant, and adapting to the change in roles once employed. Several parents have been funded by particular grants that then ran out leaving the parent searching for new grants or other support. In some cases the state incorporated the parent position into other ongoing funding as a budget line item. Other parents have found that as states reorganize and downsize, their jobs were cut along with others. There is little job security relying on either grant money or line item jobs these days. Parents interviewed for the CAPP report described a variety of orientation and ongoing training and support available to them. Often a department person served as mentor and a source of support. Other parents received no formal training or orientation. In addition, because the parent is employed because of their parenting and volunteer experience in the system and not necessarily for their previous education or job experiences, evaluation of their work has been a challenge for both the parent consultant and the supervisor. Because the job description is frequently new and evolving, some mentorship from a supportive supervisor is essential.

As parents move from a position of volunteer or family advocate to that of paid employment, other issues need to be considered. Is there any involvement the parent would have to give up to be part of the program? Being the officer of a parent advocacy organization would not be a good idea when working for the state. Other officers could continue to speak freely for the organization, but the parent employed by the program would have to give up the leadership role in the organization. Parents would also need information about other limitations that might be placed on state workers.

There are other considerations to being part of an official state program. The employed parent may feel separated from other parents. Keeping in touch with a constituency is essential. Some of the constituents might keep their distance while others expect more than the usual amount of support since the parent consultant is paid to be available. There are parallels in relationships to the professionals employed by state agencies. Some will accept the parent consultant as a fellow worker, and inspiration, while others might consider the parent an outsider without real credentials. All these reactions were among those reported in the CAPP survey of parents employed by state health departments and the state officials supervising them.

Conclusion

The amount of interest in this topic continues to be impressive. Evidence includes the CAPP report, the publications Essential Allies: Families as Advisors and the follow-up Words of Advice from the Institute for Family-Centered Care, as well as meetings of parents at NEC*TAS and the recent meeting of employed parents at the Association of Maternal and Child Health (AMCHP) Programs annual conference. Families now have growing evidence and experience to help them determine the range of roles they can play from volunteer with support from their employer for time spent; volunteer receiving a stipend or consultant fee; or staff member of the program as a paid part- or full-time parent consultant. There are now many parents with experience to seek out for advice and support. At some point, a new association devoted to the needs of employed parents may be created so that parents across the country, even one serving as a program’s lone parent consultant, would have a peer group with whom to share experiences.

USE OF ASSISTIVE TECHNOLOGY INCREASES AMONG INFANTS AND TODDLERS

Currently, over 177,000 infants and toddlers receive services under Part C (formerly Part H) of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA). Of these, 9,274 children, 0 to 2 years old, receive assistive technology (AT) devices and services. The number of very young children using assistive technology has increased dramatically over the past four years.

The federal government tracks AT services through its annual state data collection activities. In 1992, 5,861 infants and toddlers received AT devices and services. In 1993, the number of children increased to 6,678, and by 1994, the number had risen to 7,352. In 1995, there were 9,274 children receiving AT devices and services. This is a 58% increase in children receiving services and devices over the four year period. The increase is not due to a rise in the total Part C population, which increased only 24% during the same time period. (See Table 1.)

The increase may be due in part to the activities of State Tech Act Projects, as they have been active in promoting the use of assistive technology for the very young and they have also worked to build the capacity of the states to provide assistive technology services under Part C.

Services to infants and toddlers with disabilities were mandated under IDEA in 1986. However states could phase in these services over a number of years, with full implementation by 1994. Besides assistive technology devices and services, states provide a variety of other services to children birth to 2 years old, such as special education; physical therapy; nutrition services; audiology; nursing services; speech-language pathology; family training, counseling and home visits; and vision services.

Increase in AT Services to Very Young

Data from 38 states show an increase in the number of infants and toddlers who received services and devices from 1992 to 1995. Ten states show a decrease in the number of children provided devices and services and 8 states show no change in the number of children receiving AT. Table 2 provides data for each state.

Some states show consistent steady growth in the number of very young children receiving services, such as Kansas, Ohio, Texas and West Virginia. Other states show a tremendous gain in numbers of children over the last two years, due primarily to phased in implementation of Part C. Up until 1994, some states were still phasing in implementation of services and were not necessarily providing all services delineated under Part C.

However, there are several cautions that need to be noted when reviewing these data. Early data collection efforts, particularly in 1992 and 1993 were incomplete, because some states had not elected to implement Part C provisions fully. Data have also been subject to changes in reporting procedures by several states. Some states were not able to gather unduplicated counts of infants and toddlers, particularly in 1992 and 1993. Thus some states have wide fluctuations in their yearly totals, such as in Oregon and New Jersey.

Some states changed what assistive technology devices were actually counted. For example, Arkansas added developmental toys to the list of devices that were counted under the assistive technology category. Other states were not able to report data on assistive technology devices and services and are only now making changes to their data systems, such as New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

Variety of Assistive Technology Devices Used

Infants and toddlers use a variety of assistive technology devices. Battery operated toys are often adapted with easy-to-access switches that allow a very young child to control the actions of the toy. These adapted toys help the child learn the basic concept of cause and effect. Seating and positioning systems provide support and guide the growth of a child’s body. They also allow the child to move about in his or her environment. Computers and alternate access aids, such as large key pads and touch screens, can help children use software that develops communication, perceptual, and fine motor skills and many other skills.

There are several sources for acquiring assistive technology devices for infants and toddlers. Devices may be purchased through Medicaid’s early periodic screening, diagnostic, and treatment (EPSDT) program; through the child’s individualized family service plan (IFSP) under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA); and through private insurance. Parents may purchase devices directly or use monetary donations from various nonprofit sources. Parents may borrow money from financial loan programs being established around the country to buy assistive technology devices.

Devices may also be borrowed from local and state equipment loan programs. Devices are loaned for a period of time and then returned as the child grows out of the device or the device is no longer needed.

Tech Act Projects Encourage Use of AT

Tech Act projects have actively encouraged the use of assistive technology by very young children. They have increased awareness among parents and professionals about assistive technology and they have opened up access to devices and services.

For example, the Assistive Technology for Kansans Project, in collaboration with the Kansas Infant-Toddler Service, established an equipment loan program that serves very young children. Parents can borrow devices for a six month trial used. At the end of that time, families are assisted in finding funding for the equipment they want to continue to use. Or, if no other child is waiting for the equipment, the family may keep it for a longer loan period.

Clinicians are also allowed to borrow devices to conduct child assessments and allow the family to try out a device prior to purchase. This has been such a popular program that the catalog of equipment to loan is now on a web page so borrowers may request devices electronically. The Tech Act project offers regional training on assistive technology subjects. Topics are determined by requests from families and local infant toddler providers.

The Kansas Tech Act project collaborated with the state’s Infant-Toddler Services to establish clear policies and procedures to ensure that very young children in the state receive proper assistive technology evaluations. Approximately 100 infants and toddlers receive evaluations, training, and equipment annually.

The West Virginia Assistive Technology System (WVATS) has concentrated on a number of initiatives that have promoted a greater use of assistive technology in the state for infants and toddlers. The project fostered the development of a pilot equipment loan program, similar to the one in Kansas but on a smaller scale, so that devices can be borrowed for use and returned when the child no longer needs them or grows out of them. WVATS has worked with the state early intervention services to develop a state certification for early interventionists that includes competencies in assistive technology as a requirement. This will ensure that early interventionists in the state have the knowledge and skills needed to use assistive technology with the very young in their programs.

With other state agencies, WVATS co-sponsors a yearly hands-on summer camp that features assistive technology. Camp Gizmo, as it is called, is for young children, ages birth to 5, and the team of family members, educators, and clinicians who work with each child. Approximately 50 parents and professionals attend each year. At the Camp, team members develop knowledge and strategies that they will be able to use in their home communities. Workshops are conducted on augmentative communication, positioning and mobility, computer adaptations, funding and advocacy issues. Workshop participants have the opportunity to making low cost adaptations tailored to their children's needs and take them home with them.

Summary

The total number of children receiving assistive technology devices and services nationwide is perhaps the most significant number to study when looking at Part C provision of assistive technology devices and services and the impact it is having on very young children.

Data collection is being refined. It has been a challenge for states to design an interagency data collection system that captures accurate counts of infants and toddlers receiving services. As states refine and standardize their systems, individual state data will become more useful for comparative studies. Also since there is a three year interval between data collection at the state level and reporting efforts at the federal level, outcomes of efforts by Tech Act projects and other state agencies may not be seen in data tables for several years.

Thus these data provide only a starting point to examine state response to the need for assistive technology devices and services of infants and toddlers.

APPENDIX A:
Part C of the IDEA Amendments of 1997
Early Intervention Program for Infants and Toddlers With Disabilities
Part C of The Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA)
20 U.S.C Chapter 33, Sections 1431–1445, As amended by P.L. 105-17

SEC. 1431. FINDINGS AND POLICY.
(a) FINDINGS- The Congress finds that there is an urgent and substantial need —
(1) to enhance the development of infants and toddlers with disabilities and to minimize their potential for developmental delay;
(2) to reduce the educational costs to our society, including our Nation's schools, by minimizing the need for special education and related services after infants and toddlers with disabilities reach school age;
(3) to minimize the likelihood of institutionalization of individuals with disabilities and maximize the potential for their independently living in society;
(4) to enhance the capacity of families to meet the special needs of their infants and toddlers with disabilities; and
(5) to enhance the capacity of State and local agencies and service providers to identify, evaluate, and meet the needs of historically underrepresented populations, particularly minority, low-income, inner-city, and rural populations.

(b) POLICY- It is therefore the policy of the United States to provide financial assistance to States —
(1) to develop and implement a statewide, comprehensive, coordinated, multidisciplinary, interagency system that provides early intervention services for infants and toddlers with disabilities and their families;
(2) to facilitate the coordination of payment for early intervention services from Federal, State, local, and private sources (including public and private insurance coverage);
(3) to enhance their capacity to provide quality early intervention services and expand and improve existing early intervention services being provided to infants and toddlers with disabilities and their families; and
(4) to encourage States to expand opportunities for children under 3 years of age who would be at risk of having substantial developmental delay if they did not receive early intervention services.

SEC. 1432. DEFINITIONS.
As used in this part:
(1) AT-RISK INFANT OR TODDLER- The term 'at-risk infant or toddler' means an individual under 3 years of age who would be at risk of experiencing a substantial developmental delay if early intervention services were not provided to the individual.
(2) COUNCIL- The term 'council' means a State interagency coordinating council established under section 1441.
(3) DEVELOPMENTAL DELAY- The term 'developmental delay', when used with respect to an individual residing in a State, has the meaning given such term by the State under section 1435(a)(1).
(4) EARLY INTERVENTION SERVICES- The term 'early intervention services' means developmental services that —
(A) are provided under public supervision;
(B) are provided at no cost except where Federal or State law provides for a system of payments by families, including a schedule of sliding fees;
(C) are designed to meet the developmental needs of an infant or toddler with a disability in any one or more of the following areas —
(i) physical development;
(ii) cognitive development;
(iii) communication development;
(iv) social or emotional development; or
(v) adaptive development;
(D) meet the standards of the State in which they are provided, including the requirements of this part;
(E) include —
(i) family training, counseling, and home visits;
(ii) special instruction;
(iii) speech-language pathology and audiology services;
(iv) occupational therapy;
(v) physical therapy;
(vi) psychological services;
(vii) service coordination services;
(viii) medical services only for diagnostic or evaluation purposes;
(ix) early identification, screening, and assessment services;
(x) health services necessary to enable the infant or toddler to benefit from the other early intervention services;
(xi) social work services;
(xii) vision services;
(xiii) assistive technology devices and assistive technology services; and
(xiv) transportation and related costs that are necessary to enable an infant or toddler and the infant's or toddler's family to receive another service described in this paragraph;
(F) are provided by qualified personnel, including —
(i) special educators;
(ii) speech-language pathologists and audiologists;
(iii) occupational therapists;
(iv) physical therapists;
(v) psychologists;
(vi) social workers;
(vii) nurses;
(viii) nutritionists;
(ix) orientation and mobility specialists; and
(x) pediatricians and other physicians; to the maximum extent appropriate, are provided in natural environments, including the home, and community settings in which children without disabilities participate; and

(H) are provided in conformity with an individualized family service plan adopted in accordance with section 1436.

(5) INFANT OR TODDLER WITH A DISABILITY- The term ‘infant or toddler with a disability’ —

(A) means an individual under 3 years of age who needs early intervention services because the individual —

(i) is experiencing developmental delays, as measured by appropriate diagnostic instruments and procedures in one or more of the areas of cognitive development, physical development, communication development, social or emotional development, and adaptive development; or

(ii) has a diagnosed physical or mental condition which has a high probability of resulting in developmental delay; and

(B) may also include, at a State’s discretion, at-risk infants and toddlers.

SEC. 1433. GENERAL AUTHORITY.

The Secretary shall, in accordance with this part, make grants to States (from their allotments under section 1443) to assist each State to maintain and implement a statewide, comprehensive, coordinated, multidisciplinary, interagency system to provide early intervention services for infants and toddlers with disabilities and their families.

SEC. 1434. ELIGIBILITY.

In order to be eligible for a grant under section 1433, a State shall demonstrate to the Secretary that the State —

(1) has adopted a policy that appropriate early intervention services are available to all infants and toddlers with disabilities in the State and their families, including Indian infants and toddlers with disabilities and their families residing on a reservation geographically located in the State; and

(2) has in effect a statewide system that meets the requirements of section 1435.

SEC. 1435. REQUIREMENTS FOR STATEWIDE SYSTEM.

(a) IN GENERAL- A statewide system described in section 1433 shall include, at a minimum, the following components:

(1) A definition of the term ‘developmental delay’ that will be used by the State in carrying out programs under this part.

(2) A State policy that is in effect and that ensures that appropriate early intervention services are available to all infants and toddlers with disabilities and their families, including Indian infants and toddlers and their families residing on a reservation geographically located in the State.

(3) A timely, comprehensive, multidisciplinary evaluation of the functioning of each infant or toddler with a disability in the State, and a family-directed identification of the needs of each family of such an infant or toddler, to appropriately assist in the development of the infant or toddler.

(4) For each infant or toddler with a disability in the State, an individualized family service plan in accordance with section 1436, including service coordination services in accordance with such service plan.

(5) A comprehensive child find system, consistent with part B, including a system for making referrals to service providers that includes timelines and provides for participation by primary referral sources.

(6) A public awareness program focusing on early identification of infants and toddlers with disabilities, including the preparation and dissemination by the lead agency designated or established under paragraph (10) to all primary referral sources, especially hospitals and physicians, of information for parents on the availability of early intervention services, and procedures for determining the extent to which such sources disseminate such information to parents of infants and toddlers.

(7) A central directory which includes information on early intervention services, resources, and experts available in the State and research and demonstration projects being conducted in the State.

(8) A comprehensive system of personnel development, including the training of paraprofessionals and the training of primary referral sources respecting the basic components of early intervention services available in the State, that is consistent with the comprehensive system of personnel development described in section 1412(a)(14) and may include —

(A) implementing innovative strategies and activities for the recruitment and retention of early education service providers;

(B) promoting the preparation of early intervention providers who are fully and appropriately qualified to provide early intervention services under this part;

(C) training personnel to work in rural and inner-city areas; and

(D) training personnel to coordinate transition services for infants and toddlers served under this part from an early intervention program under this part to preschool or other appropriate services.

(2) Devices necessary to control or treat a medical condition.

(3) Medical-health services (such as immunizations and regular "well-baby" care) that are routinely recommended for all children.

(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1472(2))

Note: The definition in this section distinguishes between the health services that are required under this part and the medical-health services that are not required. The IFSP requirements in subpart D of this part provide that, to the extent appropriate, these other medical-health services are to be included in the IFSP, along with the funding sources to be used in paying for the services or the steps that will be taken to secure the services through public or private sources. Identifying these services in the IFSP does not impose an obligation to provide the services if they are otherwise not required to be provided under this part. (See Sec. 303.344(e) and the note 3 following that section.)

Sec. 303.16 Infants and toddlers with disabilities.

(a) As used in this part, infants and toddlers with disabilities means individuals from birth through age two who need early intervention services because they—

(1) Are experiencing developmental delays, as measured by appropriate diagnostic instruments and procedures, in one or more of the following areas:

(i) Cognitive development.

(ii) Physical development, including vision and hearing.

(iii) Communication development.

(iv) Social or emotional development.

(v) Adaptive development; or

(2) Have a diagnosed physical or mental condition that has a high probability of resulting in developmental delay.

(b) The term may also include, at a State's discretion, children from birth through age two who are at risk of having substantial developmental delays if early intervention services are not provided.

(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1472(1))

Note 1: The phrase "a diagnosed physical or mental condition that has a high probability of resulting in developmental delay," as used in paragraph (a)(2) of this section, applies to a condition if it typically results in developmental delay. Examples of these conditions include chromosomal abnormalities; genetic or congenital disorders; severe sensory impairments, including hearing and vision; inborn errors of metabolism; disorders reflecting disturbance of the development of the nervous system; congenital infections; disorders secondary to exposure to toxic substances, including fetal alcohol syndrome; and severe attachment disorders.

Note 2: With respect to paragraph (b) of this section, children who are at risk may be eligible under this part if a State elects to extend services to that population, even though they have not been identified as disabled.

Under this provision, States have the authority to define who would be "at risk" for developmental delay. Commonly cited factors include low birth weight, respiratory distress as a newborn, lack of oxygen, brain hemorrhage, infection, nutritional deprivation, and a history of abuse or neglect. It should be noted that "at risk" factors do not predict the presence of a barrier to development, but they may indicate children who are at higher risk of developmental delay than children without these problems.

Sec. 303.17 Multidisciplinary.

As used in this part, multidisciplinary means the involvement of two or more disciplines or professions in the provision of integrated and coordinated services, including evaluation and assessment activities in Sec. 303.322 and development of the IFSP in Sec. 303.342.

(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1476(b)(3), 1477(a))

Sec. 303.18 Parent.

As used in this part, parent means a parent, a guardian, a person acting as a parent of a child, or a surrogate parent who has been appointed in accordance with Sec. 303.406. The term does not include the State if the child is a ward of the State.

(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1477)

Note: The term parent has been defined to include persons acting in the place of a parent, such as a grandparent or stepparent with whom a child lives, as well as persons who are legally responsible for the child's welfare. The definition in this section is identical to the definition used in the regulations under part B of the Act (34 CFR 300.13).

Sec. 303.19 Policies.

(a) As used in this part, policies means State statutes, regulations, Governor's orders, directives by the lead agency, or other written documents that represent the State's position concerning any matter covered under this part.

(b) State policies include—

(1) A State's commitment to develop and implement the statewide system (see Sec. 303.150);
Regulations for Part C of IDEA Prior to April 14, 1998

(2) A State’s eligibility criteria and procedures (see Sec. 303.300);

(3) A statement that, consistent with Sec. 303.520(b), provides that services under this part will be provided at no cost to parents, except where a system of payments is provided for under Federal or State law.

(4) A State’s standards for personnel who provide services to children eligible under this part (see Sec. 303.361);

(5) A State’s position and procedures related to contracting or making other arrangements with service providers under subpart F of this part; and

(6) Other positions that the State has adopted related to implementing any of the other requirements under this part.

(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1471-1485)

Sec. 303.20 Public agency.

As used in this part, public agency includes the lead agency and any other political subdivision of the State that is responsible for providing early intervention services to children eligible under this part and their families.

(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1471-1485)

Sec. 303.21 Qualified.

As used in this part, qualified means that a person has met State approved or recognized certification, licensing, registration, or other comparable requirements that apply to the area in which the person is providing early intervention services.

(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1472(2))

Note: These regulations contain the following provisions relating to a State’s responsibility to ensure that personnel are qualified to provide early intervention services:

1. Section 303.12(a)(4) provides that early intervention services must meet State standards. This provision implements a requirement that is similar to a longstanding provision under part B of the Act (i.e., that the State educational agency establish standards and ensure that those standards are currently met for all programs providing special education and related services).

2. Section 303.12(a)(3)(ii) provides that early intervention services must be provided by qualified personnel.

3. Section 303.361(b) requires statewide systems to have policies and procedures relating to personnel standards.

Sec. 303.22 Service coordination (case management).

(a) General. (1) As used in this part, except in Sec. 303.12(d)(11), service coordination means the activities carried out by a service coordinator to assist and enable a child eligible under this part and the child’s family to receive the rights, procedural safeguards, and services that are authorized to be provided under the State’s early intervention program.

(2) Each child eligible under this part and the child’s family must be provided with one service coordinator who is responsible for—

(i) Coordinating all services across agency lines; and

(ii) Serving as the single point of contact in helping parents to obtain the services and assistance they need.

(3) Service coordination is an active, ongoing process that involves—

(i) Assisting parents of eligible children in gaining access to the early intervention services and other services identified in the individualized family service plan;

(ii) Coordinating the provision of early intervention services and other services (such as medical services for other than diagnostic and evaluation purposes) that the child needs or is being provided;

(iii) Facilitating the timely delivery of available services; and

(iv) Continuously seeking the appropriate services and situations necessary to benefit the development of each child being served for the duration of the child’s eligibility.

(b) Specific service coordination activities. Service coordination activities include—

(1) Coordinating the performance of evaluations and assessments;

(2) Facilitating and participating in the development, review, and evaluation of individualized family service plans;

(3) Assisting families in identifying available service providers;

(4) Coordinating and monitoring the delivery of available services;

(5) Informing families of the availability of advocacy services;

(6) Coordinating with medical and health providers; and

(7) Facilitating the development of a transition plan to preschool services, if appropriate.

(c) Employment and assignment of service coordinators. (1) Service coordinators may be employed or assigned in any way that is permitted under State law, so long as it is consistent with the requirements of this part.

(2) A State’s policies and procedures for implementing the statewide system of early intervention services must be designed and implemented to ensure that service coordinators are able to effectively carry out on an interagency basis the functions and services listed under paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section.

(d) Qualifications of service coordinators. Service coordinators must be persons who, consistent with Sec. 303.344(g), have demonstrated knowledge and understanding about—

(1) Infants and toddlers who are eligible under this part;

(2) Part H of the Act and the regulations in this part; and

(3) The nature and scope of services available under the State’s early intervention program, the system of payments for services in the State, and other pertinent information.

(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1472(2))

Note 1: If States have existing service coordination systems, the States may use or adapt those systems, so long as they are consistent with the requirements of this part.

Note 2: The legislative history of the 1991 amendments to the Act indicates that the use of the term "service coordinated" was not intended to affect the authority to seek reimbursement for services provided under Medicaid or any other legislation that makes reference to "case management" services. See H.R. Rep. No. 198, 102d Cong., 1st Sess. 12 (1991); S. Rep. No. 84, 102d Cong., 1st Sess. 20 (1991).

Sec. 303.23 State.
Except as provided in Sec. 303.200(b)(3), State means each of the 50 States, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the District of Columbia, and the jurisdictions of Guam, American Samoa, the Virgin Islands, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, and Palau (until the Compact of Free Association with Palau takes effect pursuant to section 101(a) of Pub. L. 99-658).

Public Participation

Sec. 303.110 General requirements and timelines for public participation.
(a) Before submitting to the Secretary its application under this part, and before adopting a new or revised policy that is not in its current application, a State shall—

1. Publish the application or policy in a manner that will ensure circulation throughout the State for at least a 60-day period, with an opportunity for comment on the application or policy for at least 30 days during that period;

2. Hold public hearings on the application or policy during the 60-day period required in paragraph (a)(1) of this section; and

(b) A State may request the Secretary to waive compliance with the timelines in paragraph (a) of this section. The Secretary grants the request if the State demonstrates that—

1. There are circumstances that would warrant such an exception; and

2. The timelines that will be followed provide an adequate opportunity for public participation and comment.

(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1478(a)(4))

Sec. 303.111 Notice of public hearings and opportunity to comment.
The notice required in Sec. 303.110(a)(3) must—

(a) Be published in newspapers or announced in other media, or both, with coverage adequate to notify the general public throughout the State about the hearings and opportunity to comment on the application or policy; and

(b) Be in sufficient detail to inform the public about—

1. The purpose and scope of the State application or policy, and its relationship to part H of the Act;

2. The length of the comment period and the date, time, and location of each hearing; and

3. The procedures for providing oral comments or submitting written comments.

(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1478(a)(4)(A))

Sec. 303.112 Public hearings.
Each State shall hold public hearings in a sufficient number and at times and places that afford interested parties throughout the State a reasonable opportunity to participate.

(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1478(a)(4))

Sec. 303.113 Reviewing and reporting on public comments received.
(a) Review of comments. Before adopting its application, and before the adoption of a new or revised policy not in the application, the lead agency shall—

1. Review and consider all public comments; and

2. Make any modifications it deems necessary in the application or policy.

(b) Reporting on comments to the Secretary. In submitting the State's application or policy to the Secretary, the lead agency shall include—

1. A summary of the public comments received as a result of the activities required in Secs. 303.110 through 303.112;
(2) The State's responses to those comments; and
(3) Copies of news releases, advertisements, and announcements used to provide notice.
(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1478(a))

Statement of Assurances
Sec. 303.120 General.
(a) A State's statement of assurances must contain the information required in Secs. 303.121 through 303.128.
(b) Unless otherwise required by the Secretary, the statement is submitted only once, and remains in effect throughout the term of a State's participation under this part.
(c) A State may submit a revised statement of assurances if the statement is consistent with the requirements in Secs. 303.121 through 303.128.
(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1478(b))

Sec. 303.121 Reports and records.
The statement must provide for—
(a) Making reports in such form and containing such information as the Secretary may require; and
(b) Keeping such records and affording such access to those records as the Secretary may find necessary to assure compliance with the requirements of this part, the correctness and verification of reports, and the proper disbursement of funds provided under this part.
(Authorised by the Office of Management and Budget under control number 1820-0550)
(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1478(b)(4))

Sec. 303.122 Control of funds and property.
The statement must provide assurance satisfactory to the Secretary that—
(a) The control of funds provided under this part, and title to property acquired with those funds, will be in a public agency for the uses and purposes provided in this part; and

(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1478(b)(3))

Sec. 303.123 Prohibition against commingling.
The statement must include an assurance satisfactory to the Secretary that funds made available under this part will not be commingled with State funds.
(Authorised by the Office of Management and Budget under control number 1820-0550)
(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1478(b)(5)(A))

Note: As used in this part, commingle means depositing or recording funds in a general account without the ability to identify each specific source of funds for any expenditure. Under that general definition, it is clear that commingling is prohibited. However, to the extent that the funds from each of a series of Federal, State, local, and private funding sources can be identified—with a clear audit trail for each source—it is appropriate for those funds to be consolidated for carrying out a common purpose. In fact, a State may find it essential to set out a funding plan that incorporates, and accounts for, all sources of funds that can be targeted on a given activity or function related to the State's early intervention program. Thus, the assurance in this section is satisfied by the use of an accounting system that includes an "audit trail" of the expenditure of funds awarded under this part. Separate bank accounts are not required.

Sec. 303.124 Prohibition against supplanting.
(a) The statement must include an assurance satisfactory to the Secretary that Federal funds made available under this part will be used to supplement and increase the level of State and local funds expended for children eligible under this part and their families and in no case to supplant those State and local funds.
(b) To meet the requirement in paragraph (a) of this section, the total amount of State and local funds budgeted for expenditures in the current fiscal year for early intervention services for children eligible under this part and their families must be at least equal to the total amount of State and local funds actually expended for early intervention services for these children and their families in the most recent preceding fiscal year for which the information is available. Allowance may be made for—
(1) Decreases in the number of children who are eligible to receive early intervention services under this part; and
(2) Unusually large amounts of funds expended for such long-term purposes as the acquisition of equipment and the construction of facilities.
(Authorised by the Office of Management and Budget under control number 1820-0550)
(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1478(b)(5)(B))

Sec. 303.125 Fiscal control.
The statement must provide assurance satisfactory to the Secretary that such fiscal control and fund accounting procedures will be adopted as may be necessary to assure proper disbursement of, and accounting for, Federal funds paid under this part.
(Authorised by the Office of Management and Budget under control number 1820-0550)
(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1478(b)(6))

Sec. 303.126 Payor of last resort.
The statement must include an assurance satisfactory to the Secretary that the State will comply with the provisions in Sec. 303.527, including the requirements on—
(a) Nonsubsitution of funds; and
(b) Non-reduction of other benefits.
(Authorised by the Office of Management and Budget under control number 1820-0550)
(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1478(b)(2))
Sec. 303.127 Assurance regarding expenditure of funds.
The statement must include an assurance satisfactory to the Secretary that the funds paid to the State under this part will be expended in accordance with the provisions of this part, including the requirements in Sec. 303.3.
(Approved by the Office of Management and Budget under control number 1820-0550)
(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1478(b)(1))

Sec. 303.128 Traditionally underserved groups.
The statement must include an assurance satisfactory to the Secretary that policies and practices have been adopted to ensure—
(a) That traditionally underserved groups, including minority, low-income, and rural families, are meaningfully involved in the planning and implementation of all the requirements of this part; and
(b) That these families have access to culturally competent services within their local geographical areas.
(Approved by the Office of Management and Budget under control number 1820-0550)

- The responsibility for performing evaluations of children (see Secs. 303.322 and 300.531).

   (3) Provide for the training of a variety of personnel needed to meet the requirements of this part, including public and private providers, primary referral sources, paraprofessionals, and persons who will serve as service coordinators; and
   (4) Ensure that the training provided relates specifically to—
      (i) Understanding the basic components of early intervention services available in the State;
      (ii) Meeting the interrelated social or emotional, health, developmental, and educational needs of eligible children under this part; and
      (iii) Assisting families in enhancing the development of their children, and in participating fully in

Sec. 303.361 Personnel standards.

(a) As used in this part—
   (1) Appropriate professional requirements in the State means entry level requirements that—
      (i) Are based on the highest requirements in the State applicable to the profession or discipline in which a person is providing early intervention services; and
      (ii) Establish suitable qualifications for personnel providing early intervention services under this part to eligible children and their families who are served by State, local, and private agencies.
   (2) Highest requirements in the State applicable to a specific profession or discipline means the highest entry-level academic degree needed for any State approved or recognized certification, licensing, registration, or other comparable requirements that apply to that profession or discipline.
   (3) Profession or discipline means a specific occupational category that—
(i) Provides early intervention services to children eligible under this part and their families;

(ii) Has been established or designated by the State; and

(iii) Has a required scope of responsibility and degree of supervision.

(4) State approved or recognized certification, licensing, registration, or other comparable requirements means the requirements that a State legislature either has enacted or has authorized a State agency to promulgate through rules to establish the entry-level standards for employment in a specific profession or discipline in that State.

(b)(1) Each statewide system must have policies and procedures relating to the establishment and maintenance of standards to ensure that personnel necessary to carry out the purposes of this part are appropriately and adequately prepared and trained.

(2) The policies and procedures required in paragraph (b)(1) of this section must provide for the establishment and maintenance of standards that are consistent with any State-approved or State-recognized certification, licensing, registration, or other comparable requirements that apply to the profession or discipline in which a person is providing early intervention services.

(e) To the extent that a State's standards for a profession or discipline, including standards for temporary or emergency certification, are not based on the highest requirements in the State applicable to a specific profession or discipline, the State's application for assistance under this part must include the steps the State is taking, the procedures for notifying public agencies and personnel of those steps, and the timelines it has established for the retraining or hiring of personnel that meet appropriate professional requirements in the State.

(d)(1) In meeting the requirements in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, a determination must be made about the status of personnel standards in the State. That determination must be based on current information that accurately describes, for each profession or discipline in which personnel are providing early intervention services, whether the applicable standards are consistent with the highest requirements in the State for that profession or discipline.

(2) The information required in paragraph (d)(1) of this section must be on file in the lead agency, and available to the public.

(e) In identifying the “highest requirements in the State” for purposes of this section, the requirements of all State statutes and the rules of all State agencies applicable to serving children eligible under this part and their families must be considered.

(Approved by the Office of Management and Budget under control number 1820-0550)

(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1476(b)(13))

Note: This section requires that a State use its own existing highest requirements to determine the standards appropriate to personnel who provide early intervention services under this part. The regulations do not require States to set any specified training standard, such as a master's degree, for employment of personnel who provide services under this part.

The regulations permit each State to determine the specific occupational categories required to provide early intervention services to children eligible under this part and their families, and to revise or expand these categories as needed. The professions or disciplines need not be limited to traditional occupational categories.

SUBPART E—PROCEDURAL SAFEGUARDS

General

Sec. 303.401 Definitions of consent, native language, and personally identifiable information.

As used in this subpart—

(a) Consent means that—

(1) The parent has been fully informed of all information relevant to the activity for which consent is sought, in the parent’s native language or other mode of communication;

(2) The parent understands and agrees in writing to the carrying out of the activity for which consent is sought, and the consent describes that activity and lists the records (if any) that will be released and to whom; and

(3) The parent understands that the granting of consent is voluntary on the part of the parent, and may be revoked at any time;

(b) Native language, where used with reference to persons of limited English proficiency, means the language or mode of communication normally used by the parent of a child eligible under this part;

(c) Personally identifiable means that information includes—

(1) The name of the child, the child’s parent, or other family member;

(2) The address of the child;

(3) A personal identifier, such as the child’s or parent’s social security number; or

(4) A list of personal characteristics or other information that would make it possible to identify the child with reasonable certainty.

(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1480)
Sec. 303.402 Opportunity to examine records.

In accordance with the confidentiality procedures in the regulations under part B of the Act (34 CFR 300.560 through 300.576), the parents of a child eligible under this part must be afforded the opportunity to inspect and review records relating to evaluations and assessments, eligibility determinations, development and implementation of IFSPs, individual complaints dealing with the child, and any other area under this part involving records about the child and the child’s family.

(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1480(4))

Sec. 303.403 Prior notice; native language.

(a) General. Written prior notice must be given to the parents of a child eligible under this part a reasonable time before a public agency or service provider proposes, or refuses, to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, or placement of the child, or the provision of appropriate early intervention services to the child and the child’s family.

(b) Content of notice. The notice must be in sufficient detail to inform the parents about—

(1) The action that is being proposed or refused;

(2) The reasons for taking the action; and

(3) All procedural safeguards that are available under this part.

(c) Native language. (1) The notice must be—

(i) Written in language understandable to the general public; and

(ii) Provided in the native language of the parents, unless it is clearly not feasible to do so.

(2) If the native language or other mode of communication of the parent is not a written language, the public agency, or designated service provider, shall take steps to ensure that—

(i) The notice is translated orally or by other means to the parent in the parent’s native language or other mode of communication;

(ii) The parent understands the notice; and

(iii) There is written evidence that the requirements of this paragraph have been met.

(3) If a parent is deaf or blind, or has no written language, the mode of communication must be that normally used by the parent (such as sign language, braille, or oral communication).

(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1480(6) and (7))

Sec. 303.404 Parent consent.

(a) Written parental consent must be obtained before—

(1) Conducting the initial evaluation and assessment of a child under Sec. 303.322; and

(2) Initiating the provision of early intervention services (see Sec. 303.342(e)).

(b) If consent is not given, the public agency shall make reasonable efforts to ensure that the parent—

(1) Is fully aware of the nature of the evaluation and assessment or the services that would be available; and

(2) Understands that the child will not be able to receive the evaluation and assessment or services unless consent is given.

(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1480)

Note 1: In addition to the consent requirements in this section, other consent requirements are included in (1) Sec. 303.460(a), regarding the exchange of personally identifiable information among agencies, and (2) the confidentiality provisions in the regulations under part B of the Act (34 CFR 300.571) and 34 CFR part 99 (Family Educational Rights and Privacy), both of which apply to this part.

Note 2: Under Sec. 300.504(b) of the part B regulations, a public agency may initiate procedures to challenge a parent’s refusal to consent to the initial evaluation of the parent’s child and, if successful, obtain the evaluation. This provision applies to eligible children under this part, since the part B evaluation requirement applies to all children with disabilities in a State, including infants and toddlers.

Sec. 303.405 Parent right to decline service.

The parents of a child eligible under this part may determine whether they, their child, or other family members will accept or decline any early intervention service under this part in accordance with State law, and may decline such a service after first accepting it, without jeopardizing other early intervention services under this part.

(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1480(3))

Sec. 303.406 Surrogate parents.

(a) General. Each lead agency shall ensure that the rights of children eligible under this part are protected if—

(1) No parent (as defined in Sec. 303.18) can be identified;

(2) The public agency, after reasonable efforts, cannot discover the whereabouts of a parent; or

(3) The child is a ward of the State under the laws of that State.

(b) Duty of lead agency and other public agencies. The duty of the lead agency, or other public agency under paragraph (a) of this section, includes the assignment of an individual to act as a surrogate for the parent. This must include a method for—

(1) Determining whether a child needs a surrogate parent; and

(2) Assigning a surrogate parent to the child.

(c) Criteria for selecting surrogates. (1) The lead agency or other public agency may select a surrogate parent in any way permitted under State law.

(2) Public agencies shall ensure that a person selected as a surrogate parent—

(i) Has no interest that conflicts with the interests of the child he or she represents; and

(ii) Has knowledge and skills that ensure adequate representation of the child.

(d) Non-employee requirement; compensation. (1) A person assigned as a surrogate parent may not be an employee of any agency involved in the provision of early intervention or other services to the child.

(2) A person who otherwise qualifies to be a surrogate parent under paragraph (d)(1) of this section is not an employee solely because he or she is paid by a public agency to serve as a surrogate parent.

(e) Responsibilities. A surrogate parent may represent a child in all matters related to—

(1) The evaluation and assessment of the child;

(2) Development and implementation of the child's IFSPs, including annual evaluations and periodic reviews;

(3) The ongoing provision of early intervention services to the child; and

(4) Any other rights established under this part.

(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1480(5))

Impartial Procedures for Resolving Individual Child Complaints

Sec. 303.420 Administrative resolution of individual child complaints

by an impartial decision-maker.

Each system must include written procedures for the timely administrative resolution of individual child complaints by parents concerning any of the matters in Sec. 303.403(a).

A State may meet this requirement by—

(a) Adopting the due process procedures in 34 CFR 300.506 through 300.512 and developing procedures that meet the requirements of Sec. 303.425; or

(b) Developing procedures that—

(1) Meet the requirements in Secs. 303.421 through 303.425; and

[[Page 124]]

(2) Provide parents a means of filing a complaint.

(Approved by the Office of Management and Budget under control number 1820-0550)

(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1480(1))

Note 1: Sections 303.420 through 303.425 are concerned with the adoption of impartial procedures for resolving individual child complaints (i.e., complaints that generally affect only a single child or the child's family). These procedures require the appointment of a decision-maker who is impartial, as defined in Sec. 303.421(b), to resolve a dispute concerning any of the matters in Sec. 303.403(a). The decision of the impartial decision-maker is binding unless it is reversed on appeal.

A different type of administrative procedure is included in Secs. 303.510 through 303.512 of subpart F of this part. Under those procedures, the lead agency is responsible for (1) investigating any complaint that it receives (including individual child complaints and those that are systemic in nature), and (2) resolving the complaint if the agency determines that a violation has occurred.

Note 2: It is important that the administrative procedures developed by a State be designed to result in speedy resolution of complaints. An infant's or toddler's development is so rapid that undue delay could be potentially harmful.

In an effort to facilitate resolution, States may wish, with parental concurrence, to offer mediation as an intervening step prior to implementing the procedures in this section. Although mediation is not required under either part B or part H of the Act, some States have reported that mediations conducted under part B have led to speedy resolution of differences between parents and agencies, without the development of an adversarial relationship and with minimal emotional stress to parents.

While a State may elect to adopt a mediation process, the State cannot require that parents use that process. Mediation may not be used to deny or delay a parent's rights under this part.

The complaint must be resolved, and a written decision made, within the 30-day timeline in Sec. 303.423.

Sec. 303.421 Appointment of an impartial person.

(a) Qualifications and duties. An impartial person must be appointed to implement the complaint resolution process in this subpart. The person must—

(1) Have knowledge about the provisions of this part and the needs of, and services available for, eligible children and their families; and

(2) Perform the following duties:

(i) Listen to the presentation of relevant viewpoints about the complaint, examine all information relevant to the issues, and seek to reach a timely resolution of the complaint.

(ii) Provide a record of the proceedings, including a written decision.

(b) Definition of impartial. (1) As used in this section, impartial means that the person appointed to implement the complaint resolution process—

(i) Is not an employee of any agency or other entity involved in the provision of early intervention services or care of the child; and

(ii) Does not have a personal or professional interest that would conflict with his or her objectivity in implementing the process.

(2) A person who otherwise qualifies under paragraph (b)(1) of this section is not an employee of an agency solely because the person is paid by the agency to implement the complaint resolution process.

(Approved by the Office of Management and Budget under control number 1820-0550)

(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1480(1))

Sec. 303.422 Parent rights in administrative proceedings.

(a) General. Each lead agency shall ensure that the parents of children eligible under this part are afforded the rights in paragraph (b) of this section in any administrative proceedings carried out under Sec. 303.420.

(b) Rights. Any parent involved in an administrative proceeding has the right to—

(1) Be accompanied and advised by counsel and by individuals with special knowledge or training with respect to early intervention services for children eligible under this part;

(2) Present evidence and confront, cross-examine, and compel the attendance of witnesses; and

(3) Prohibit the introduction of any evidence at the proceeding that has not been disclosed to the parent at least five days before the proceeding;

(4) Obtain a written or electronic verbatim transcription of the proceeding; and

(5) Obtain written findings of fact and decisions. (Approved by the Office of Management and Budget under control number 1820-0550)

(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1480)

Sec. 303.423 Convenience of proceedings; timelines.

(a) Any proceeding for implementing the complaint resolution process in this subpart must be carried out at a time and place that is reasonably convenient to the parents.

(b) Each lead agency shall ensure that, not later than 30 days after the receipt of a parent’s complaint, the impartial proceeding required under this subpart is completed and a written decision mailed to each of the parties.

(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1480(1))

Confidentiality

Sec. 303.460 Confidentiality of information.

(a) Each State shall adopt or develop policies and procedures that the State will follow in order to ensure the protection of any personally identifiable information collected, used, or maintained under this part, including the right of parents to written notice of and written consent to the exchange of this information among agencies consistent with Federal and State law.

(b) These policies and procedures must meet the requirements in 34 CFR 300.560 through 300.576, with the modifications specified in Sec. 303.5(b).

(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1480(2), 1483)

Sec. 303.501 Supervision and monitoring of programs.

(a) General. Each lead agency is responsible for—

(1) The general administration and supervision of programs and activities receiving assistance under this part; and

(2) The monitoring of programs and activities used by the State to carry out this part, whether or not these programs or activities are receiving assistance under this part, to ensure that the State complies with this part.

(b) Methods of administering programs. In meeting the requirement in paragraph (a) of this section, the lead agency shall adopt and use proper methods of administering each program, including—

(1) Monitoring agencies, institutions, and organizations used by the State to carry out this part;

(2) Enforcing any obligations imposed on those agencies under part H of the Act and this section (Sec. 303.460).
(3) Providing technical assistance, if necessary, to those agencies, institutions, and organizations; and
(4) Correcting deficiencies that are identified through monitoring.

(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1476(b)(9)(A))

Lead Agency Procedures for Resolving Complaints

Sec. 303.510 Adopting complaint procedures.
Each lead agency shall adopt written procedures for—
(a) Resolving any complaint that any public agency is violating a requirement of part H of the Act or this part by—
(1) Providing for the filing of a complaint with the lead agency; and
(2) At the lead agency’s discretion, providing for the filing of a complaint with a public agency and the right to have the lead agency review the public agency’s decision on the complaint; and
(b) Informing parents and other interested individuals about the procedures in Secs. 303.510 through 303.512.

(Approved by the Office of Management and Budget under control number 1820-0550)
(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1476(b)(9))

Note: Because of the interagency nature of part H of the Act, complaints received under these regulations could concern violations by (1) any public agency in the State that receives funds under this part (e.g., the lead agency and the Council), (2) other public agencies that are involved in the State’s early intervention program, or (3) private service providers that receive part H funds on a contract basis from a public agency to carry out a given function or provide a given service required under this part. These complaint procedures are in addition to any other rights under State or Federal law. The lead agency must provide for the filing of a complaint with the lead agency and, at the lead agency’s discretion, with a public agency subject to a right of appeal to the lead agency.

Sec. 303.511 An organization or individual may file a complaint.
An individual or organization may file a written signed complaint under Sec. 303.510. The complaint must include—

From the Federal Register of April 14, 1998 (Vol. 63, No. 71)

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:
Background

These regulations conform existing regulations to the amendments to the Early Intervention Program for Infants and Toddlers with Disabilities made by the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) Amendments of 1997, Public Law 105-17, enacted on June 4, 1997. The statutory amendments governing Part H take effect on July 1, 1998. One of those amendments transfers the Early Intervention Program from Part H of the IDEA to Part C. Because these regulations also take effect on July 1, 1998, we refer to the Early Intervention Program in these regulations as “Part C” of the IDEA.

The Secretary is publishing in this issue of the Federal Register a Notice of request for advice and recommendations on regulatory issues regarding Part C of IDEA.

These final regulations incorporate statutory amendments and remove obsolete regulatory provisions. However, on October 22, 1997, the Secretary published a notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM) in the Federal Register (62 FR 55025) for Parts 300, 301, and 303, that contains proposed regulations of IDEA that were not affected by the IDEA Amendments of 1997. (See 62 FR 55053-55054, 55122-55123).

Significant Changes

Although many of the statutory amendments reflected in these regulations make minor changes,
Amendments to Regulations for Part C of IDEA (34 CFR Section 303)

several will have a significant impact on States. The following is a summary of the major statutory provisions incorporated in 34 CFR Part 303, the Department’s regulations for the Early Intervention Program for Infants and Toddlers with Disabilities.

1. Policies and Procedures on Natural Environments

The IDEA Amendments of 1997 added two provisions relating to the provision of early intervention services in natural environments. The first requires, as a component of each statewide system, policies and procedures to ensure that, to the maximum extent appropriate, early intervention services are provided in natural environments, and occur elsewhere only if early intervention cannot be achieved in a natural environment. This provision is reflected in Sec. 303.167(c) of these regulations. Because the components of the statewide system must be addressed in each State’s application for funds under Part C, States must develop written policies and procedures for submission to the Department as part of each State’s application for funds, and must implement those policies beginning on July 1, 1998. The second provision, found in Sec. 303.344(d)(1)(ii) of these regulations, requires that each individualized family service plan (IFSP) contain a statement of the natural environments in which services are to be provided and a justification of the extent, if any, to which the services will not be provided in a natural environment. In addition, the Secretary moves the definition of “natural environments” from Sec. 303.12(b) to a new Sec. 303.18 to make it easier to find.

2. Personnel Standards

Section 303.361 is amended to implement two new statutory provisions that mirror changes regarding personnel made to the Part B program (Assistance to States for the Education of Children with Disabilities). The first provision, in section 635(a)(9) of the IDEA and added to these regulations as Sec. 303.361(f), allows paraprofessionals and assistants who are appropriately trained and supervised, under State law, regulations or policy, to be used to assist in the provision of early intervention services under this part. Also added, as Sec. 303.361(g), is the new provision from section 635(b) of the IDEA that a State may adopt a policy that includes making ongoing good-faith efforts to recruit and hire appropriately and adequately trained personnel to provide early intervention services, including, in a geographic area where there is a shortage of those personnel, the most qualified individuals available who are making satisfactory progress toward completing applicable course work necessary to meeting State standards within three years.

A State may exercise the option in Sec. 303.361(g) even though the State has reached its established date, under Sec. 303.361(c), for training or hiring all personnel in a specific profession or discipline to meet appropriate professional requirements in the State. As a practical matter, it is essential that a State have a mechanism for serving eligible children if service needs exceed available personnel who meet appropriate professional requirements in the State for a specific profession or discipline. A State that continues to have shortages of personnel meeting appropriate professional requirements in the State must address those shortages in its comprehensive system of personnel development under Sec. 303.360.

If a State has established only one entry-level academic degree for employment of personnel in a specific profession, modification of that standard as necessary to ensure the provision of early intervention services to all eligible infants and toddlers in the State would not violate the provisions of Sec. 303.361(b) and (c).

3. Mediation

Section 303.419 is added to these regulations to reflect the new statutory provisions of section 615(c) of the Act concerning mediation, made applicable to Part C by section 639(a)(8) of the Act. These provisions include the general responsibility to establish and implement mediation procedures, specific requirements regarding the mediation process, and the statutory provision that requires parents who elect to use mediation to meet with a disinterested party who would explain the benefits of mediation and encourage its use.

With respect to Sec. 303.419(b)(2), regarding the list of qualified mediators, the House Committee Report on Public Law 105-17 includes the following statement:

 the bill provides that the State shall maintain a list of individuals who are qualified mediators. The Committee intends that whenever such a mediator is not selected on a random basis from that list, both the parents and the agency are involved in selecting the mediator, and are in agreement with the individual who is selected . Individuals who serve as mediators under part C of this bill are expected to be selected in the same manner described in this paragraph and to meet the same criteria of impartiality with respect to employment in the lead agency [which is prohibited] and not having a personal and professional conflict of interest. (H. Rep. No. 105-95, pp. 106-107 (1997)).

High standards of impartiality will encourage the use of mediation by ensuring parties to a dispute the availability of an objective third party to mediate disputes.

Section 615(e)(2)(A)(ii) of the Act provides that the mediation process shall not be used to deny or delay a parent’s right to due process. In accordance with that provision, a public agency should not deny or delay a parent’s right to a due process hearing based on a parent’s failure to participate in the meeting described in Sec. 303.419(c)(1) of these regulations.

With regard to the provision in Sec. 303.419(b)(6) that mediation discussions must be confidential and may not be used in any subsequent due process hearings or civil proceedings, the House Committee Report on Public Law 105-17 notes that “nothing in this bill shall supersede any parental access rights under the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 or foreclose access to information otherwise available to the parties.” (H. Rep. No. 105-95, p. 107 (1997)). The Report also includes an example of a confidentiality pledge, which makes clear that the intent of this provision is to protect discussions that occur in the mediation process from use in subsequent due process hearings and civil proceedings under the Act, and not to exempt from discovery, because it was disclosed during mediation, information that otherwise would be subject to discovery.

4. Payor of Last Resort

Language is added to Sec. 303.527 to reflect the amendment to section 640 of the Act regarding the prohibition against using Part C funds to pay for services that would have been paid for from another source in the absence of Part C. The amendment specifically includes the CHAMPUS program as such a source of funds. As stated by the House Report accompanying the bill, “[t]he bill clarifies that part C is truly the payor of last resort even for military families who are eligible for medical programs administered by the Department of Defense.” (H. Rep. No.105-95, p.116 (1997)).

5. SICCs

Section 641 of the Act made several changes regarding State Interagency Coordination Councils (SICCs). First, as reflected in Sec. 303.600, State discretion as to the number of members on SICCs has been increased, as Congress deleted the previous membership range. Second, Sec. 303.601 is amended to include additional required members of SICCs: At least one representative from a State Head Start agency or program, and at least one from a State agency responsible for child care. Third, two new provisions reflect statutory changes that expand the scope of SICCs’ functions. New Sec. 303.650(c) authorizes SICCs to advise agencies regarding the integration of services for infants and toddlers with disabilities and at-risk infants and toddlers and their families, regardless of whether at-risk infants and toddlers are eligible for services in that State. Finally, in Sec. 303.653, regarding the transition of toddlers with disabilities, SICCs are now required to give advice and assistance regarding transition not just of toddlers with disabilities who are eligible for Part B preschool services, but also transitions of all other toddlers, to any appropriate services.

Goals 2000: Educate America Act

The Goals 2000: Educate America Act (Goals 2000) focuses the Nation’s education reform efforts on the eight National Education Goals and provides a framework for meeting them. Goals 2000 promotes new partnerships to strengthen schools and expands the Department’s capacities for helping communities to exchange ideas and obtain information needed to achieve the goals.

These regulations address the National Education Goal that all children in America will start school ready to learn. The regulations further the objective of this goal by implementing a program that gives infants and toddlers with disabilities the services and support needed to prepare them to participate in school with their peers.

Waiver of Proposed Rulemaking

In accordance with section 437 of the General Education Provisions Act (20 U.S.C. 1232) and the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. 553), it is the practice of the Secretary to offer interested parties the opportunity to comment on proposed regulations. However, these regulations merely reflect statutory changes and remove obsolete regulatory provisions. Removal of the regulations does not establish or affect substantive policy. Therefore, the Secretary has determined, under 5 U.S.C. 553(b)(B), that public comment is unnecessary and contrary to the public interest.

Regulatory Flexibility Act Certification

The Secretary certifies that these regulations would not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Because these regulations would affect only States and State agencies, the regulations would not have an impact on small entities. States and State agencies are not defined as “small entities” in the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

Intergovernmental Review

This program is subject to the requirements of Executive Order 12372 and the regulations in 34 CFR Part 79. The objective of the Executive order is to foster an intergovernmental partnership and a strengthened federalism by relying on processes developed by State and local governments for coordination and review of proposed Federal financial assistance.

In accordance with the order, this document is intended to provide early notification of the Department's specific plans and actions for this program.

Part C Updates — 1998
PART 303 — EARLY INTERVENTION PROGRAM FOR INFANTS AND TODDLERS WITH DISABILITIES

3. The authority citation for part 303 is revised to read as follows:

Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1431-1445, unless otherwise noted.

4. Section 303.18 is revised to read as follows:

Sec. 303.18 Parent.

(a) As used in this part, “parent” means a parent, a guardian, a person acting as a parent of a child, or a surrogate parent who has been appointed in accordance with Sec. 303.406. The term does not include the State if the child is a ward of the State.

(b) State law may provide that a foster parent qualifies as a parent under this part if:

1. The natural parents’ authority to make early intervention or educational decisions on the child’s behalf has been relinquished under State law;
2. The foster parent has an ongoing, long-term parental relationship with the child;
3. The foster parent is willing to participate in making early intervention or educational decisions on the child’s behalf; and
4. The foster parent has no interest that would conflict with the interests of the child.

Note: The term “parent” has been defined to include persons acting in the place of a parent, such as a grandparent or stepparent with whom a child lives, as well as persons who are legally responsible for the child’s welfare, and, at the discretion of the State, a foster parent meeting the requirements of paragraph (b) of this section. The definition in this section is identical to the definition used in the regulations under Part B of the Act (34 CFR 300.19).

5. Section 303.403 is amended by removing the word “and” at the end of paragraph (b)(2); removing the period at the end of paragraph (b)(3) and adding, in its place, “; and”; by adding a new paragraph (b)(4); and by revising the citation of authority to read as follows:

Sec. 303.403 Prior notice; native language.

(b) Content of notice. The notice must be in sufficient detail to inform the parents about—

(1) The natural parents’ authority to make early intervention or educational decisions on the child’s behalf has been relinquished under State law;

(2) The foster parent has an ongoing, long-term parental relationship with the child;

(3) The foster parent is willing to participate in making early intervention or educational decisions on the child’s behalf; and

(4) The State complaint procedures under Secs. 303.510-303.512, including a description of how to file a complaint and the timelines under those procedures.

Note 1: Because of the interagency nature of Part C of the Act, complaints received under these regulations could concern violations by (1) any public agency in the State that receives funds under this part (e.g., the lead agency and the Council), (2) other public agencies that are involved in the State’s early intervention program, or (3) private service providers that receive Part C funds on a contract basis from a public agency to carry out a given function or provide a given service required under this part. These complaint procedures are in addition to any other rights under State or Federal law. The lead agency must provide for the filing of a complaint with the lead agency and, at the lead agency’s discretion, with a public agency subject to a right of appeal to the lead agency.

Note 2: In resolving a complaint alleging failure to provide services in the IFSP, a lead agency, pursuant to its general supervisory authority under this part, may award compensatory services as a remedy.

7. Section 303.511 is amended by adding a new paragraph (c) and a note; and revising the citation of authority to read as follows:

Sec. 303.511 An organization or individual may file a complaint.

(c) The alleged violation must have occurred not more than one year prior to the date that the complaint is received by the public agency unless a longer period is reasonable because the violation is continuing, or the complainant is requesting compensatory services for a violation that occurred not more than three years prior to the date the complaint is received by the public agency.

(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1435(a)(10))

Note: The lead agency must resolve any complaint that meets the requirements of this section, even if the complaint is filed by an organization or individual from another State.

8. Section 303.512 is revised by removing paragraph (d), revising the citation of authority, and adding two notes following the revised citation of authority to read as follows:

Sec. 303.512 Minimum State complaint procedures.

Note 1: If a written complaint is received that is also the subject of a due process hearing under Sec. 303.420, or contains multiple issues, of which one or more may be part of that hearing, the State must set aside any part of the complaint that is being addressed in the due process hearing until the conclusion of the hearing. However, any issue in the complaint that is not a part of the due process action must be resolved within the 60-calendar-day timeline using the complaint procedures described in this section.

Note 2: If an issue is raised in a complaint filed under this section that has previously been decided in a due process hearing involving the same parties, then the hearing decision is binding, and the lead agency would inform the complainant to that effect. A complaint alleging a public agency's failure to implement a due process decision, however, would have to be resolved by the lead agency.

9. Section 303.520 is amended by adding new paragraphs (d) and (e) and three notes; and revising the citation of authority to read as follows:

Sec. 303.520 Policies related to payment for services.

(d) Infants and toddlers with disabilities who are covered by private insurance.

(1) A lead agency may not require parents of infants and toddlers with disabilities, if they would incur a financial cost, to use private insurance proceeds to pay for the services that must be provided to an eligible infant or toddler under this part.

(2) For the purposes of this section, the term "financial costs" includes—

(i) An out-of-pocket expense such as the payment of a deductible or co-pay amount incurred in filing a claim, but not including incidental costs such as the time needed to file an insurance claim or the postage needed to mail the claim;

(ii) A decrease in available lifetime coverage or any other benefit under an insurance policy; and

(iii) An increase in premiums or the discontinuation of the policy.

(e) Proceeds from public or private insurance. Proceeds from public or private insurance may not be treated as program income for purposes of 34 CFR 80.25.

(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1435(a)(10); 1432(4)(B))

Note 1: Under paragraph (d), States are prohibited from requiring that families use private insurance as a condition of receiving services under this part, if that use results in financial cost to the family. The use of parents' insurance proceeds to pay for services in these circumstances must be voluntary. For example, a family could not be required to access private insurance that is required to enable a child to receive Medicaid services, if that insurance use results in financial costs to the family.

Note 2: If the State cannot get parental consent to use private insurance, the State may use funds under this part to pay for the service. In addition, in order to avoid financial cost to parents who would otherwise consent to use of private insurance, the lead agency may use funds under this part to pay the costs of accessing the insurance; e.g., deductible or co-pay amounts.

Note 3: Paragraph (e) clarifies that, if a State receives funds from public or private insurance for services under this part, the State is not required to return those funds to the Department or to dedicate those funds for use in this program, although a State retains the option of using those funds in this program. If a State spends reimbursements from Federal funds (e.g., Medicaid) for services under this part, those funds will not be considered "State or local" funds for purposes of the nonsupplanting provision in Sec. 303.124. This is because the expenditure that is reimbursed is considered to be an expenditure of funds from the source that provides the reimbursement.

State & Jurisdictional Eligibility Definitions Under IDEA

State and Jurisdictional Eligibility Definitions for Infants and Toddlers With Disabilities Under IDEA

by

Jo Shackelford

A major challenge to state and jurisdictional policy makers in implementing the Early Intervention Program for Infants and Toddlers with Disabilities (Part H, to be renamed Part C on July 1, 1998) under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) is determining definitions of developmental delay and criteria of eligibility for services to young children, birth through 2 years of age, and their families. Under Part H, participating states and jurisdictions must provide services to two groups of children: those who are experiencing developmental delays, and those who have a diagnosed mental or physical condition that has a high probability of resulting in developmental delay. In addition, states may choose to serve children who are at risk of having substantial developmental delays if early intervention services are not provided. (See Figure 1 on page 2 for the statutory language relating to eligibility that will take effect on July 1, 1998, under Part C of the IDEA Amendments of 1997.)

The task of defining the eligible population has been a challenge for states. Eligibility criteria influence the numbers and types of children needing or receiving services, the types of services provided, and ultimately the cost of the early intervention system. A few states have revised their definitions in an attempt to reduce the number of children eligible for services, especially if the state has experienced financial difficulties. Soon after the creation of the Part H program under IDEA, many states indicated that they would serve children at risk, but this number decreased as concerns increased about costs. Several states that are not serving children at risk under their definition indicate that they will monitor the development of these children and refer them for early intervention services as delays are manifested.

This paper discusses how the 50 states and 7 jurisdictions that participate in the Part H program define developmental delay and, as applicable, at risk in

---continued---

1 The information in this paper reflects the provisions of federal statute and regulations that had been adopted at the time of publication. These are the IDEA Amendments of 1997, which, for the Program for Infants and Toddlers With Disabilities, become effective on July 1, 1998; and the 1993 regulations from the U.S. Department of Education, which were developed under the preceding IDEA statute and which are effective through June 30, 1998.
their definition of eligibility for services. Table 1 displays a summary of states’ and jurisdictions’ definitions of developmental delay and, as applicable, their approaches to serving children who are at risk of having substantial developmental delay.

Criteria for Definitions of Developmental Delay

Although the regulations under Part H specify the developmental areas that are to be included in states’ definitions of developmental delay (U.S. Department of Education (USDE), 1993; see 34 CFR §303.16(a)(1)), states must identify appropriate diagnostic instruments, procedures (including the use of informed clinical opinion), and levels of functioning or other criteria that will be used to determine eligibility. A review of state eligibility definitions under Part H reveals that states are expressing criteria for delay quantitatively — such as (a) the difference between chronological age and actual performance level expressed as a percentage of chronological age, (b) delay expressed as performance at a certain number of months below chronological age, or (c) delay as indicated by standard deviation below the mean on a norm referenced instrument — and qualitatively — such as delay indicated by atypical development or observed atypical behaviors. A few states have developed a matrix of criteria for delay, differentiating the amount of delay according to the age of the child in months. The rationale for this is that a 25% delay in a 1-year-old’s development, for example, is quite different from a 25% delay in a 3-year-old’s development (Harbin, Gallagher, & Terry, 1991; Shonkoff & Meisels, 1991).

There is wide variability in the type of quantitative criteria states use to describe developmental delay, and there also is a wide range in the level of delay states require for eligibility. Common measurements of level of delay are 25% delay or 2 standard deviations (SD) below the mean in one or more developmental areas, or 20% delay or 1.5 SD in two or more areas. Traditional assessment instruments, yielding scores in standard deviations or developmental age in months, may not adequately address some developmental domains, or may not be comparable across developmental domains or across age levels (Benn, 1994; Meisels, 1991). For this reason, some states have included qualitative criteria for determining developmental delay. This type of criterion includes findings of atypical behavior.

Because there are an insufficient number of reliable and valid instruments for the birth-through-2 age group and questionable predictive validity for available instruments, determining delay by traditional assessment can be problematic (Benn, 1994; Shonkoff & Meisels, 1991). For that reason, the Part H regulations require that informed clinical opinion be included for eligibility determination (USDE, 1993; see 34 CFR §303.322(c)(2)). Informed clinical opinion relies on qualitative and quantitative information to determine the need for early intervention services, and typically is derived from the consensus of a multidisciplinary team that includes parents and information from multiple sources (Benn, 1994; Biro, Daulton, & Szanton, 1991; Harbin et al., 1991). Several states determine eligibility only through informed clinical opinion.

Inclusion of Risk Factors

Three categories of risk for adverse developmental outcomes that are frequently described by states are established risk, biological/medical risk, and environmental risk. Children with an established physical or mental condition with a high probability of resulting in developmental delay are, under IDEA, eligible for... services. If a state decides to include in its eligibility definition children with other risk factors, it must delineate the criteria and procedures (including the use of informed clinical opinion) that will be used to identify those children. The IDEA Amendments of 1997 encourage states "to expand opportunities for children under 3 years of age who would be at risk of having substantial developmental delay if they did not receive early intervention services" (20 U.S.C. §1431(b)(4)). The Amendments also allow states that do not serve infants and toddlers who are at risk to use IDEA funds to identify, evaluate, refer, and conduct periodic follow-up on each referral to determine any changes in eligibility status (see 20 U.S.C. §1438(4)).

Established Risk. IDEA requires states to provide services to children who have conditions of established risk. A condition of established risk is defined as a "diagnosed physical or mental condition which has a high probability of resulting in developmental delay" (20 U.S.C. §1432(5)(A)(i)). These conditions include, but are not limited to, "chromosomal abnormalities; genetic or congenital disorders; severe sensory impairments, including hearing and vision; inborn errors of metabolism; disorders reflecting disturbance of the development of the nervous system; congenital infections; disorders secondary to exposure to toxic substances, including fetal alcohol syndrome; and severe attachment disorders" (USDE, 1993; see 34 CFR §303.16, Note 1). Children in this category are eligible for services under Part H of IDEA by virtue of their diagnosis, regardless of whether a measurable delay is present.

Although many states have mirrored the Part H regulatory language in listing diagnosed conditions in their eligibility definitions, several states have included many other conditions in their eligibility definitions. This may be because there is less agreement among professionals about what other conditions might be included in this category versus the biological/medical risk category. Accompanying their list of diagnosed conditions, many states use the phrase "but is not limited to the following" to allow flexibility for other conditions to be accepted for eligibility.

Biological/medical risk. Children with a history of significant biological or medical conditions or events have a greater chance of developing a delay or a disability than children in the general population. Examples of biological/medical risk conditions that states have listed include low birthweight, intraventricular hemorrhage at birth, chronic lung disease, and failure to thrive.

Biological/medical risk conditions do not invariably lead to developmental delay, and many children who have a history of biological events will do well developmentally with or without services (Shonkoff & Meisels, 1991). Therefore, a comprehensive child and family evaluation by a multidisciplinary team (MDT) is necessary to determine (a) eligibility and (b) the appropriate intervention services (Shonkoff & Meisels, 1991).

Environmental Risk. Children at environmental risk include those whose caregiving circumstances and current family situation place them at greater risk for delay than the general population. Examples of environmental risk factors which states have listed include parental substance abuse, family social disorganization, poverty, parental developmental disability, parental age, parental educational attainment, and child abuse or neglect.

As with children at biological/medical risk, environmental risk factors do not invariably result in delay or disability. Therefore, an MDT's comprehensive evaluation is essential to determining eligibility and appropriate services.

Single vs. Multiple Risk Factors. No single event or risk factor reliably predicts developmental outcome. The greater the number of both biological/medical and/or environmental risk factors, the greater the developmental risk. Research shows, however, that there can be factors in a child's caregiving environment that may mediate the impact of risk factors. These may include temperament of the child, high self-esteem, good emotional relationship with at least one parent, and successful learning experiences (Benn, 1991; Knudtson et al., 1990). Assessments should address multiple and cumulative risk criteria, both biological and environmental, and consider the resilience or protective factors, within a context of change over time (Kochanek, Kabacoff & Lipsitt, 1990; Shonkoff & Meisels, 1991).

Some states that serve at-risk children under Part H use a multiple risk model with a range of three to five risk factors required for eligibility for services. A few states require less delay for eligibility when envienvironmenal and/or biological/medical risk factors also are present.

Summary of Part H Definitions

Table 1, at the end of this paper, summarizes the policies of states and other governing jurisdictions regarding the definition of developmental delay for Part H eligibility and the provision of services for at-risk children. The author gathered this information from the most recent copy of states' Part H applications provided to NEC*TAS by the Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP) or by the state Part H program coordinators, and from personal communication with Part H coordinators. The Table is divided into four categories: Source, Level of Developmental Delay Required for Eligibility, Serving At-Risk, and Comments.

Source. Source indicates the fiscal year of the state's Part H application from which the eligibility data has been obtained. Some states have submitted a 3-year application for participation; for these states, the 3-year period is noted along with the corresponding fiscal year period. Some other states submitted a mid-cycle report as part of their 3-year application.

Level of Developmental Delay Required for Eligibility. State criteria for delay are indicated in different ways. Those measured by assessment instruments are expressed in standard deviation (SD), percent delay, delay in months, or developmental quotient (DQ). Other determinants include informed clinical opinion or the judgment of an MDT. Areas refer to the five developmental areas cited in the law: "cognitive development, physical development, communication development, social or emotional development, and adaptive development" (20 U.S.C. §1432(5)(A)(i)).

Serving At-Risk. Whether or not a state has elected to serve at-risk children under its Part H program is indicated. If a state is serving only particular categories of at-risk (e.g., biological/medical risk), the eligible category as identified by the state is indicated.

Comments. This column provides several kinds of information. For those states that have elected not to serve at-risk under Part H, the intent to track, screen, or monitor this population or to study the feasibility of serving at-risk is described if the state has so indicated. Other relevant observations about a state's eligibility criteria also are included, such as state-developed lists of risk factors or established conditions.

State definitions are current as of publication date, but may change as states redefine their eligible population. NEC*TAS maintains files on states' Part H eligibility criteria and can provide updated information on request.
