Noting that Connecticut has an extensive network of resources that can support families and the early childhood community, this guide is designed to assist early care and education providers in their efforts to enhance the services to families in their programs and link families with the Connecticut network of resources. The booklet contains information on associations, programs, initiatives, and agencies across Connecticut which offer, on a regional or statewide basis, some type of support, service, or information to families and professionals involved with preschool age children; it does not list child care, preschool, or preschool special education programs. The booklet contains three alphabetized sections. Section 1 is organized by topic or type of service offered. Section 2, the bulk of the guide, lists all programs, agencies, and initiatives, describes their involvement in the early childhood community, and includes telephone numbers. Section 3 provides an index. (KB)

Connecticut has an extensive network of resources that can support families and the early childhood community. Providers of early care and education have the opportunity and responsibility to connect families with the available resources in their community. This guide is designed to assist early care and education providers in their efforts to enhance the services for families in their programs and link families with the Connecticut network of resources.

This guide should be reviewed and discussed by all staff in early care and education programs so that they are knowledgeable about the services available throughout Connecticut. It should be added to the program's collection of resource information that is readily available to both staff and families so that they may access it as needed.

Every effort has been made to provide complete and accurate information in this document. However, given the large number of initiatives that involve the early childhood community and the fact that the details of a particular program can change over time, there may be some errors and/or omissions. If you are aware of any changes or additions that should be made to future printings of this booklet please notify the Bureau of Early Childhood Education and Social Services, 25 Industrial Park Road, Middletown, CT 06457 or call: 860-807-2056.

Connecticut’s Early Childhood Community Resources:
Programs/Initiatives which Support Families, Early Care and Education Providers and Young Children

This booklet contains information on associations, programs, initiatives and agencies across Connecticut which offer, on a regional or statewide basis, some type of support, service, or information to families and professionals involved with preschool age children.

Please note that this is not a listing of programs, which provide child-care, preschool programs or preschool special education services. All of those direct service programs are extremely important resources for families and professionals, but are too numerous to list here. Detailed information about those programs can be obtained through Child Care Infoline: 1-800-505-1000, local Boards of Education and local School Readiness Councils.

The mission of many of the organizations listed goes beyond early childhood; but for the purposes of this booklet information is provided only as it relates to the early childhood community. Information on a wide range of health and human services is available through Infoline 2-1-1 or through Infoline’s Directory of Community Services, which can be found in public libraries or is available for purchase. The Connecticut Association for Human Services distributes Programs that Help People in Connecticut, which is updated annually and can be obtained by calling 860-665-2761.

This booklet contains three alphabetized sections. The first is organized by topics under which you will find a list of the initiatives or programs which are involved with this particular service. There is then an alphabetical listing of all the programs, agencies and initiatives with a short description of their involvement in the early childhood community and a telephone number. And finally there is an Index, which lists all the entries alphabetically with corresponding page numbers.

Inclusion in this directory does not indicate approval or endorsement by the Bureau of Early Childhood Education and Social Services. The listings are provided only as a source of general information.

Please note: The name of many organizations and associations officially begins with "Connecticut" so remember to look in that section if you are having trouble locating something.

Accreditation Facilitation Project (AFP)
The AFP was created through a partnership between the Hartford Association for the Education of Young Children and the Hartford Area Child Care Collaborative. The School Readiness and Child Care Act replicated this project throughout Connecticut, resulting in five regional programs. This statewide initiative now operates under the umbrella of the Connecticut Charts-a-Course, the state's coordinated training and professional development system. Acceptance into the AFP project offers programs seeking NAEYC accreditation intensive support, which includes:

- Reimbursement for the NAEYC fees
- On site technical assistance
- Enhancement grants for improvements necessary to meet accreditation standards
- Customized training for staff and directors
- Funds to cover release time for staff
- Facilitated support groups for directors

All providers may participate in
- Free workshops
- Technical assistance sessions on the self-study process
- Information dissemination on NSACCA and NAFCC accreditation

The AFP offers two support systems to help programs prepare for accreditation:
- Early Accreditation Supports (EAS) in the north central region, offers the opportunity for directors to network, for staff to gain inside feedback and professional development to increase programs use of available resources.
- Pre-Accreditation Support, is delivered by the RESCs to programs nominated by their School Readiness Council.

The AFP supports family child care accreditation by the NAFCC in a pilot effort in the eastern region of CT. This assistance is similar to the AFP supports for NAEYC accreditation. 860-257-1104

American Red Cross
The Connecticut Chapter of the American Red Cross has numerous local chapters which offer health and safety services as part of the organization's mission of emergency prevention and preparedness. Offerings include first aid, CPR, HIV/AIDS education, babysitting training, and training for child care providers. 1-877-287-3327

Board of Education and Services for the Blind (BESB)
Education consultants, specializing in the education of children who are blind or visually impaired, work with infants and young children in the home and community based locations. They offer a wide range of services including:

- Functional vision assessments
- Evaluations of a child's progress and development
- Development and implementation of a child's Individual Family Service Plan or Individual Education Plan
- Teach parents and care givers how to work with visually impaired children
- Provide specialized early intervention and school services for infants and pre-school children with limited vision and hearing

Center for Children's Advocacy
This non-profit organization is located at the UCONN School of Law and services the legal needs of poor children. The Center's primary focus is to promote the rights and interests of poor children dependent upon the judicial, child welfare, health, and mental health, education and juvenile justice systems for their care. The Center employs a number of methods to achieve its purposes including class action and individual representation, training, administrative and legislative advocacy and consultation. Because of its recognition that interdisciplinary approaches contribute immensely to the understanding of children's issues, the center is committed to working in partnership with experts and policy analysts to develop appropriate solutions to meet the complex challenges of these interlocking systems. 860-570-5327

Child Abuse Hotline
See CT Department of Children and Families
Child Advocate
The Office of the Child Advocate is an independent state agency established and empowered by law to protect the civil, legal and special rights of all children in Connecticut. By law, the state's Child Advocate, appointed by the Governor, has access to records of state agencies, schools, police, and the courts. Responsibilities include evaluating the delivery of services by and complaints about state agencies and state funded agencies and recommending changes in policies and procedures in the systems of child care and foster care.

Child Care Assistance Program (CCAP)
See CT Department of Social Services

Child Care Associations of Connecticut
A network of local and regional childcare associations exists across the state which provide support, training, and resources for its members in an effort to support quality family child care.
For a list of associations contact the CT Family Day Care Associations Network 860-643-0880

Child Guidance Clinics
Across the state, these clinics, funded in part by the Department of Children and Families, provide diagnostic and crisis counseling services and other psychiatric oriented treatment services to children (usually up to age 18) and their parents.
For information on local clinics, call Infoline 2-1-1; or CT State Dept of Mental Health and Addiction Services 1-800-446-7348; or CT State Department of Children and Families Mental Health Services 860-550-6530

Child Health and Development Institute of Connecticut
This organization, which was created by and received its initial funding from the Children's Fund of Connecticut, began operations in March of 1999. Promoting the development of comprehensive and integrated service and support systems for young children and their families in Connecticut will be the central focus of the work of CHDI. Because it is free of the daily operational and management demands of direct service programs, CHDI will be able to address long range issues and serve as a catalyst to help public and private agencies initiate systemic changes that will benefit children. During the first year the Institute will focus activities on:
> Strengthening the training on the emotional and social development of infants and toddlers for child care and health care professionals
> Increasing child care providers access to mental health consultation
> Strengthening a statewide support network for families of young children with mental health concerns
> Supporting a comprehensive strategic plan regarding mental health services for young children and their families
> Convening a Policy Academy on early childhood behavioral health

CHDI also includes the Early Childhood Training and Resource Academy which, while not directly operating training programs, is designed to serve as a catalyst for training delivered by others. The Academy oversees the Training Program in Child Development. Initially funded by the Department of Social Services and the Children's Fund, the Connecticut General Assembly has provided direct funding for this training program for fiscal years 2000 and 2001. Coordinated through the Wheeler Clinic, this CT Charts-A-Course (See separate listing for more information) approved training is offered by 23 providers in 47 locations.

Children First Initiative
This comprehensive community based initiative is the largest grant making program of the Graustein Memorial Fund. Eight urban communities have participated in the Initiative; its primary goal is to improve education and life outcomes for children birth to eight years old. Children First is about more than program implementation, it is about local capacity building. The cities are supported in their work by both technical assistance and evaluation. Now entering a two-year Legacy phase, the cities are working to solidify the gains they have made and incorporate a focus on young children into local decision-making processes and community life.
203-498-4030
Children with Special Health Care Needs (CSHCN)
This program is funded by the State Department of Public Health and administered by Connecticut Children’s Medical Center and Yale-New Haven Hospital. It offers diagnostic and therapeutic services to Connecticut resident children under age 18 who have or are at elevated risk for biological or acquired chronic physical, developmental, behavioral, or emotional conditions and who also require health and related non-educational and non-recreational services of a type or amount not usually required by children.
860-509-8074

Children’s Fund of Connecticut
This grant-making foundation, established in 1992, concentrates on one major issue at a time, with its first focus on early childhood development. An innovative grant process is designed to promote the general health of children, primarily under-served, in communities throughout the State and for activities that promote health, prevent illness, and have a direct impact on the physical and mental health of children ages 0-21. Accomplishments include:
- The establishment of the Child Health and Development Institute of CT (see separate listing more information)
- Training Program in Child Development
- GREATKIDS CONNECTICUT: This information system about a broad range of children’s health, education and development issues is being developed with the CT State Librarian, and will be housed within the Connecticut State Library system’s Web site.

Children’s Health Project
See CT Children’s Health Council

Children’s Law Center
This nonprofit organization provides legal representation for children in northeastern Connecticut, using a lawyer/mental health team approach. The Center also provides legal information about situations involving children through the Children’s Lawline (1-888-lawdoor)
860-872-7220

Children’s Rights Council of Connecticut
This organization, affiliated with the National Children’s Rights Council, is designed to advocate divorce and custody reform in order to minimize hostilities between spouses and children including alienation of children’s affection that often accompanies the divorce process.
203-281-1425

Children’s Trust Fund
The Children’s Trust Fund is an independent state agency; its purpose is to encourage and support the development of child abuse prevention programs and activities, help strengthen the network of community resources to support families, and expand statewide educational and informational activities. The Children’s Trust Fund Council oversees the program. Their programs teach personal safety to children and adolescents, enhance social services to families and work to prevent professionals and others in the community from abusing or neglecting children in their care.
860-550-6315

Comer/Zigler Initiative (CoZi)
CoZi offers year round child care and family support services in a school governed by a decision making process that includes representatives of all the adult stakeholders in the school community. The model is a combination of the School Development Program (SDP) developed by James P. Comer at the Yale Child Study Center and Dr. Edward Zigler’s School of the 21 Century at the Yale Bush Center in Child Development & Social Policy.
Yale Bush Center 203-432-9943

Commission On Children
Created by the state legislature in 1985, it brings representatives from the legislative, executive and judicial branches of government together with the private sector to promote public policies on children's best interest. The Commission is mandated to:
Provide information and conduct research regarding CT's children and children’s programs;
Enlist the support of leaders of business, health, and education communities, state and local governments and the media to improve services and policies for children;
Review coordination and assess programs and practices in all state agencies as they affect children; Serve as a liaison between government and private groups concerned with children. Make recommendations for children annually to the Legislature and to the Governor.

Activities include:

- 1,2,3,4,5 Kids Count: a school readiness campaign that serves as a model for comprehensive education, outreach, community mobilization, parent involvement and model policy agenda to attain school readiness.
- Parent Leadership Training Institute (PLTI): this 20 week course seeks to enable parents to become advocates for children. Offered in partnership with other organizations in 11 locations across the state.
- Publication of numerous free materials and newsletters for parents and providers concerning school readiness, literacy, health and safety. 860-240-0290

Commission on the Deaf and Hearing Impaired (CDHI)

The Commission serves deaf and hard of hearing persons with hearing losses ranging from slight to profound as well as the hearing community who live and work with persons with hearing disabilities. They provide interpreting services, job counseling and placement, personal and family counseling, information and referral services, as well as advocacy. 1-800-708-6796

Community Technical Colleges

Connecticut has a system of 12 community technical colleges which are two-year public institutions of higher education; 11 of these schools offer courses of interest to the early childhood community. Their mission is to make educational excellence and the opportunity for lifelong learning affordable and accessible to all Connecticut citizens. Their offerings related to early childhood include, CDA credential programs, the Charts-A-Course approved Training Program in Child Development, one-year certificate programs and 2-year associate programs in early childhood education and related fields. An Agreement between the CT Community Technical Colleges and the CT State University System means that all graduates of an associates degree program within the system with a G.P.A of 2.0 or higher are guaranteed admission to the University of their choice within the CT State University System. Specifics vary depending on the major.

CT Alliance for Arts Education

The purpose of the Alliance is to create a public information campaign on the role of the arts in early childhood learning and development and to develop training for early child care providers.

CT Area Health Education Center Program

The federal Area Health Education Center (AHEC) program was established as a way to encourage medical schools to increase the number of students and residents trained in under served communities. The Connecticut AHEC program is based at the University of CT School of Medicine and complemented through four regional AHEC offices. This program is designed to address problems related to primary and preventive care within under served communities. They engage in health promotion and increased disease prevention activities in a way that responds to community needs. AHEC also helps communities identify and address current and projected needs. Activities include collaboration on the Training Program in Child Development. 860-679-7969
CT Association for Human Services
This not-for-profit organization promotes public policy solutions and brings resources to bear to strengthen needy children, families, and communities through education outreach, advocacy, research, and evaluation. Since 1910 the Connecticut Association for Human Services has been in the forefront of informing the public about pressing human service needs and working with policy makers to develop and implement initiatives to address them. CAHS works in collaboration with local community partners in Hartford, New Haven, and throughout the state to ensure the provision of human services that are of the highest quality, responsive to people's needs and cost-effective. Its membership includes concerned citizens, religious leaders, corporations, labor leaders, human service professionals and organizations, educators, and policy makers. The Child Care and Early Education Director at CAHS works statewide to increase access to affordable, quality child care, with special emphasis on the needs of low- and moderate-income families. She also staffs and co-chairs the Connecticut Child Care Collaborative, a group of twenty organizations concerned about child care policy in the state. Emails and fax alerts are used to communicate with more than 200 individuals and organizations about breaking news concerning child care in Connecticut.
860-951-2212

CT Association for the Education of Young Children (CAEYC)
The National Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC) is the largest organization of early childhood professionals and others dedicated to improving the quality of early childhood education programs for children birth through age eight. Affiliate groups, which depend on voluntary leadership, work towards NAEYC's goals at the local, state and regional level. Connecticut is divided into 9 regional groups which offer its members training, resources and support as well as an annual statewide conference.
CAEYC 860-257-0676

CT Association of Foster and Adoptive Parents
This non-profit organization is committed to strengthening Foster and Adoptive Families through support, training, and advocacy with the aim of nurturing child safety, well being and stability in partnership with child welfare professionals and the entire community.
1-800-861-8838

CT Association of Non-Profits
This private non-profit trade association provides services to its members which include advocacy, informative meetings and publications, professional training, insurance and group purchasing programs, an unemployment trust, a retirement program and much more. Membership consists of human service, arts, health, education, recreational and cultural organizations, as well as philanthropic foundations. Through their Center for Personnel Development they hold workshops across the state or arrangements can be made for on-site trainings.
860-525-5080

CT Birth to Three System
This state and federally funded entitlement program is for families whose children are under the age of three and have significant developmental disabilities or delays. A program of the State Department of Mental Retardation, the mission of the system is to strengthen the capacity of families to meet the developmental and health-related needs of their infants and toddlers who have delays or disabilities. The system will ensure that all families have equal access to a coordinated program of comprehensive services and supports which include, but are not limited to service coordination, special instruction, O.T., P.T., nutrition services, family training, counseling and home visits.
Birth to Three Infoline 1-800-505-7000

CT Charts-A-Course (CCAC)
This initiative is a comprehensive and coordinated system of career development and recognition for early care and education professionals. The Board of Trustees for State and Community-Technical Colleges has been designated by the State Department of Social Services to coordinate CCAC. The project is located at Norwalk Community-Technical College for administrative and fiduciary purposes. This system has 5 components:
> Professional Recognition: CCAC maintains a voluntary, confidential and free computerized personal career development database for early childhood and school age care providers.
> Approved Training: The Training Approval Board (TAB) establishes and monitors standards for CCAC approved training activities, standards for trainers and provides oversight of the 180 hours of CCAC approved training in the Core Areas of Knowledge.

- Early Childhood Education Articulation Plan: Transfers associate level credits to baccalaureate institutions which have agreed to participate and which offer teacher preparation programs with an endorsement in early childhood.
- Scholarships: CCAC provides financial assistance to working, income eligible CT residents. Funds are available for the costs involved in earning a CDA and up to 6 college credits per semester for individuals working towards an associate’s degree or higher in early childhood education.
- Accreditation Facilitation Project (AFP)
  See separate listing for more information.
- Career Counseling: Members can access information and resources and speak one-on-one with a career development counselor.
  1-800-832-7784

CT Child Day Care Council
This legislatively mandated body serves as a forum for Connecticut citizens interested in child care and as an advisory committee to DSS on child care issues and the development of the Child Care and Development Fund Plan. The State Department of Social Services provides administrative support to the Council.

CT Children’s Health Council
The Council’s mission is to ensure that all eligible children are enrolled in the HUSKY (Connecticut’s Healthcare for Uninsured Kids and Youth; CT’s Medicaid program providing free or low cost insurance for uninsured children under 19 years of age.) and that all children enrolled in HUSKY receive regular well child and all other necessary health care services. The Children’s Health Project, a project of the Hartford Foundation for Public Giving, is the operational arm of the Council and is a statewide resource providing training, information, advocacy and monitoring of data related to children’s participation in the HUSKY program. The Project is also the lead agency for Covering Connecticut’s Kids. This National Health Access Initiative for low-income uninsured children, funded through the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, is supported by the State Department of Social Services and has a broad based statewide coalition of organizations concerned with children’s access to health care. Statewide project interventions have several objections including no newborn will leave the hospital uninsured and all children enrolled in licensed and subsidized childcare setting will be insured.

Children’s Health Council 860-548-1561
Children’s Health Project 860-550-6744

CT Council of Child Care Coordinators in Community Technical Colleges
This Council is an action oriented coalition of early childhood education coordinators and campus child care directors whose main purpose is to provide a network within the community college system. Monthly meetings provide a forum for:
- The exchange ideas and information as it relates to academic programs, campus child care and early childhood education
- Reviewing state and national legislation concerning young children and their families and to provide testimony on those issues
- Advocating on behalf of young children and their families
See listing for Community Technical Colleges for phone numbers for each college.

CT Division for Early Childhood (DEC)
This division of the Council for Exceptional Children is for individuals who work with or on behalf of children with special needs birth through age 8 and their families. This non-profit organization provides members quarterly issues of the Journal of Early Intervention and Young Exceptional Children. The Connecticut affiliate is a source of resources, information and networking, holding monthly meetings and an annual conference.
860-679-7352

CT Early Childhood Education Council (CECEC)
The Council is an action oriented coalition of representatives from various statewide organizations concerned with early childhood education and of members at large. The council serves as a forum for discussion of public policy issues, advocates on behalf of young children and their families, and disseminates information regarding issues that relate to young children and their families. Activities include:
- Annual conference bringing together over 4,000 participants at 13 sites
CT Family Day Care Associations Network (CFDCAN)

This statewide non-profit organization is comprised of family childcare associations. CFDCAN offers resources, education and technical assistance to encourage the effective management of its membership. It operates on the belief that successful programs offered by local associations improve the quality of child care in Connecticut. They coordinate an annual 2 day conference and publish a newsletter, Network Newsline.

CT Health and Educational Facilities Authority (CHEFA)

This state agency coordinates the Child Care Facilities Loan Fund in partnership with the State Department of Social Services and 7 private banks, providing financing for non-profit child care providers. The financing is low cost because it is tax exempt and long term and the state repays almost 80% of the loan. CHEFA administers 3 loan programs for child care providers:

1. Tax-exempt bonding program for non-profit child care facilities for construction, renovation or expansion costs
2. Loan guarantee program for capital and non-capital loans
3. Small revolving loan program for non-capital loans

CT Parent Advocacy Center (CPAC)

This statewide non-profit organization offers information and support to families of children with any disability or chronic illness, age birth through 21. In addition to personal assistance to families, CPAC conducts workshops for schools, teachers in training and service providers throughout the state so that they may better understand and serve the parents with whom they work. Staff and board members also represent issues that are of concern to parents and families on statewide committees and organizations. They have a collection of books and videos available through the mail for loan.

CT Parents Plus

See United Way for information

CT Pediatric Aids Program

An initiative of the CT Primary Care Association, this program provides family support/case management to HIV infected/exposed and affected children and their families in the cities of Bridgeport, Hartford, New Haven and Stamford. They also provide these services to children and their families who receive their pediatric HIV medical care at the CT Children's Medical Center but live outside of Hartford.

CT Public Television

First Steps: This initiative of CT Public Television (CPTV) is designed to train day care providers, caregivers and parents in the educational and social development of their children. Using CPTV/s children 's series as its foundation, the initiative offers a program of interactive viewing, innovative activities, storybook reading and outreach.

Ready To Learn: This CPTV service is designed to educate preschoolers in a safe entertaining environment of television programs and activities. As part of that program CPTV broadcasts over 7 hours of unduplicated children's programs every weekday with fun, education messages broadcast in between the program.

CT School Age Child Care Alliance

The mission of this affiliate of the National School Age Child Care Alliance (NSACCA) is to provide leadership, education and advocacy for excellence in school age child care. They provide information and professional development on a variety of school age child care issues as well as support regarding NSACCA accreditation.

CT State Department of Education (SDE)
Division of Educational Programs and Services
Bureau of Career and Adult Education
Provides a range of services to the early childhood and kindergarten community that includes general information on early childhood, curriculum, and best practices.

Initiatives include:

Even Start: Even Start is a federally funded program to give low income families access to the training and support they need to create a literate home environment and enhance the academic achievements of their children. It is designed to integrate early childhood education, adult education, parenting education and parent and child together time into a comprehensive program that builds on existing community resources. There are 6 Even Start Programs across the state.

Family Literacy Project: With funding from the federal Adult Education and Family Literacy Act, the State Department of Education awards grant, through a competitive process, to 11 family literacy programs across the state. These programs must integrate the components as listed in the Even Start program.

Bureau of Early Childhood Education and Social Services:
Provides a range of services to the early childhood and kindergarten community that includes general information on early childhood development, curriculum and best practices. Initiatives include:

- Preschool Special Education is focused on eligible 3-, 4-, and 5-year-old children with disabilities. Special education and related services are mandated by federal and state law. In Connecticut special education services are provided by local or regional schools districts, the Board of Education and Service for the Blind (BESB), Unified School District #2 (DCF) and the American School for the Deaf (ASD). Preschool special education programs and services are determined through an individual educational program (IEP) team at each school district and are based on an individual child's needs. Towns receive funding to support these services through the state education cost sharing grant and federal funds through the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA). The Bureau also provides training, technical assistance and resources to the districts.

- Family Resource Centers: Based on the "schools of the 21st Century" concept, these 60 centers across Connecticut promote comprehensive, integrated, community-based systems of family support and child development services located in public school buildings. FRCs are expected to prevent an array of childhood and adolescent problems by strengthening effective family management practices and establishing a continuum of child care and support services that children and parents need. They collaborate with many resources in their communities to offer parent education and training; family support; preschool and school age child care; positive youth development services; and family day-care provider training. All families who reside in the designated service area, regardless of income, are eligible for services offered by the center; some services may require a family contribution based on a sliding fee scale.

- School Readiness Initiative: This legislated initiative established a grant program designed to provide access to high quality school readiness programs; to significantly increase the number of spaces in these programs for young children; and to increase the number of spaces for young children to receive full-day, full-year programs to meet family needs and enable parents to become employed. Communities participating in this initiative must establish a School Readiness Council. Through the Councils, early care and education programs are selected and receive funding to provide quality programs. Priority school districts participate in a non-competitive grant while severe needs communities can apply through a competitive grant process. Quality Enhancement grants are also available to the priority communities. SDE is the lead agency, collaborating with the State Department of Social Services (DSS). See CT State Department of Social Services for more information.

- Head Start is a federal program with direct oversight and funding by the federal government. In addition, SDE provides 5.1 million dollars in funding directly to Head Start grantees. (See separate Head Start listing for more information.)

- Young Parents Program: These programs are designed to keep parenting students in school by providing school-based child-care services. This program is also used in some school districts to teach pregnancy prevention. Funds are provided through a competitive grant process, and each participating school district is required to provide a 100% match to the state grant.

Bureau of Early Childhood 860-566-2051

Bureau of Nutrition
Several programs are available to early care and education programs including:

- Child and Adult Care Food Program: child care centers and family child care homes can receive federal funds for meals and snacks. The level of funding is based on the household income of the enrolled families.

- Nutrition Education and Training Program: This program provides students, parents, teachers and food service personnel with a comprehensive approach to nutritional education and training.

- Special Milk Program: Non-profit child care centers can receive reimbursement for milk served to children, provided the center does not also participate in other federal meal service programs.

Division of School Improvement
Bureau of School-Family Community Partnerships

- Connecticut State Family Literacy Initiative is designed to strengthen and expand existing family literacy programs and acknowledges the importance of a collaborative approach to serving both adults and children in Connecticut. Through a Statewide Family Literacy Consortium of experts, committed professionals, local program operators and families themselves, a coordinated effort will exist to address the gaps in the current service delivery model.

- Family Development Training and Credentialing Program of Connecticut See separate listing

- School-Family-Community-Partnership Project helps educators, parents and community members develop partnerships by providing training and resources designed to promote policies and programs at the local level to increase public awareness of the positive impact of school-family-community partnerships on student learning.

CT State Department of Social Services (DSS)
Offering a wide range of services, those listed below specifically target young children and/or their families:

Child Care
- Child Care Assistance Program: DSS has contracted with Maximus, Inc, a private organization to administer this certificate/voucher program. The childcare certificate authorizes monthly payments for specific childcare services. The certificate can be used at any appropriate (as defined in state regulation) childcare setting as long as the parent remains eligible for assistance. Also available for foster families as the foster families’ income is not considered for eligibility. The DSS Office of Administrative Hearings and Appeals handles complaints concerning due process for the Child Care Assistance Program. A formal fair hearing is held only after the grievance/mediation process through MAXIMUS has been accessed.
- CT Charts A Course: DSS designated the Board of Trustees for State and Community Technical Colleges to coordinate Charts-A-Course. See separate for more information.
- CT Child Day Care Council: See separate listing.
- Family Child Day Care Training Program: This statewide effort, funded by DSS and coordinated by the Capital Region Education Council (see RESCs for more information) offers training, support and information to newly licensed and experienced family child care providers, as well as those considering the profession and those exempt from licensure.

School Readiness Initiative: This initiative is a joint venture between the State Departments of Education and Social Services. DSS funds the Quality Enhancement Grants which are available to priority districts to create or maintain local projects that enhance the quality of preschool early care and education programs within their community. The municipality must use the local school readiness council to review and recommend projects to be funded. While operating as a companion grant to the School Readiness Grant program, these activities may expand beyond the school readiness audience and may include family day care providers, informal and school-age child care providers. See CT State Department of Education for more information.

State Funded Child Care: DSS activities related to childcare also include:
- contracts with state supported childcare centers to provide comprehensive services similar to those provided in Head Start.
- Conduct child abuse and criminal record checks for certain providers who are not subject to licensing by the Department of Public Health.
- funding source to and a collaborative partner with the CT Health and Development Institute, Info line, and the early childhood newsletter All Children Considered
- funding a parent involvement consultant to provide assistance to various child care facilities

Child Support Enforcement
This program locates absent parents, obtains child support orders and collects child support payments on behalf of families. Child Support Services are available to all children deprived of parental support, regardless of income.

Emergency Assistance
These programs provide assistance to families or individuals when faced with an emergency or disaster and when assistance from other means is either unavailable or inadequate.

Employment and Training
These programs help individuals and families to obtain employment and become self-sufficient. Programs include:
- Food Stamps Employment and Training

Housing
Services include rental assistance program that provides for rent payment and the Section 8 Certificate and Voucher Program. Also provides grants to shelters for homeless victims of domestic violence.

HUSKY Plan: Health Care for Uninsured Kids and Youth
The HUSKY plan is designed to help all children who don't have health insurance. It provides services under the traditional Medicaid Program (known as HUSKY Part A). It also provides health services for children in higher income families (called HUSKY Part B). HUSKY Plus is a coverage option for children who have intensive physical or behavioral needs. HUSKY is funded by the state and federal governments and administered by DSS.

Medical Assistance
DSS provides medical assistance to low income persons and people who could otherwise support themselves if not for the fact that they have excessive health care costs. Programs include:
- Medicaid
- CT Insurance Assistance Program for AIDS Patients
CT AIDS Drugs Assistance Program
Healthy Start: This program is jointly administered by the State Departments of Health and Social Services. See a separate listing for more information.

Nutritional Assistance
These programs provide food and cash equivalents to the various populations DSS serves. The goal is to promote adequate nutrition among the target populations.
Programs include:

- Food Stamps: This program is available for all households and individuals of limited means who need to supplement their income to purchase adequate food.

Preventive Services to Families
Through these services families and individuals receive prevention, intervention and treatment services. Counseling, education, case management and home management are provided to help reduce conditions of impoverishment or dependency. Programs include:

- Community Based Services to Families
- Shelter Services for Victims of Household Abuse
- Families In Training: This program provides parent education and community support services to expectant parents and parents of children under three.
- Human Resource Development - DSS makes grants to non-profit agencies and municipalities for the operation of social service programs designed to have a major impact on the elimination of poverty or its causes.

Connecticut's Head Start Collaboration Office/Governor's Collaboration for Children
The purpose of the Head Start State Collaboration initiative, as outlined in federal legislation, is to integrate the lessons learned from Head Start, the nation's 35-year-old early childhood laboratory, and the services of local Head Start programs with state efforts in early care and education. State collaboration offices have eight priority areas that guide them in their work with states. These include health, child care, education, literacy, welfare reform, national service, homelessness, and children with special needs. Special efforts are made to establish collaborative Head Start - child care initiatives at the state and local level.
Located in the Department of Social Services, the activities of the HSSCO now focus more directly on areas of active agency collaboration and over the past year these activities have included working with the National Quilt Program to organize and facilitate ongoing group meetings toward a particular goal. Specific meetings include those with DSS, SDE, ACF Region I and the Connecticut Head Start Association to further integrate School Readiness, child care and Head Start services for three- and four-year-olds; with DCF and Head Start to develop a pilot collaborative initiative in northwest Connecticut; and with DMR to develop an interagency agreement between the Birth to Three System and Early Head Start programs in the state. The HSSCO continues to work closely with Healthy Child Care Connecticut around issues of health and mental health in early care settings.

Consultation Center
This center provides a wide range of prevention and consultation programs to enhance individual development, coping ability and to promote organizational effectiveness. It is a collaborative effort of the Community Consultation Board, Inc., the CT Mental Health Center and the Department of Psychiatry, Yale University School of Medicine. In addition to numerous other programs, they have an Early Childhood Training and Consultation Program which provides support and education regarding the psychosocial development of young children and early childhood programming and design.

Cooperating Library Service Units (CLSUs)
Connecticut has four CLSUs whose purpose is to improve library service through coordinated planning, sharing resources and developing programs too costly for any one library. All libraries are invited to become members including those in hospitals, churches, museums and state agencies.

Graustein Memorial Fund
The William Casper Graustein Memorial Fund works collaboratively to improve education for CT’s children by supporting school change, informing the public debate through policy research and advocacy, and strengthening the involvement of parents and the community in education. Grants awarded by the Memorial Fund in support of community engagement include:

- Children First Initiative - see separate listing
- Father-to-Father / New Haven Family Alliance, Inc. - to broaden the understanding of a father's presence, care and involvement among urban, low income fathers
- Parent Information, Advocacy and Empowerment Initiative & Special Education Reform Effort/ Bridgeport Child Advocacy Coalition. - To provide technical assistance to six pilot schools to strengthen parent engagement and to develop and implement a strategy to improve Bridgeport's special education program
- Parent Center Training/ Cheshire Board of Education – To develop a model for training early childhood, school and community personnel to work with parents and use the child's environment creatively.

Hartford Area Child Care Collaborative
HACCC brings together and supports providers, employers, agencies, community-based organizations, policy makers and funders in order to maximize resources toward effective delivery of high quality child care services. They provide information, technical assistance for program enhancement, training and skills development, cooperative planning, regional, state and national advocacy of quality child care issues and sustained support on specific multi-year projects.

Hartford Foundation for Public Giving
This community foundation serving 30 towns in the Greater Hartford area is committed to improving the quality of life for residents throughout the region. In 1990 it established the Brighter Future's Initiative to strengthen Hartford's network of early childhood services and to increase the number of Hartford children who enter school ready to learn. Accomplishments include the Accreditation Facilitation Project, Family Centers, and the Hartford Area Child Care Collaborative. The Foundation is also the managing agency for the Hartford School Readiness Council, which incorporates many of the Brighter Future's Initiative's goals and builds on the successful Hartford Area Child Care Collaborative. 860-598-1888

Head Start
These comprehensive child development programs serve children between the ages of three and five and their families. These child-focused programs have the overall goal of increasing the social competence of young children in low-income families. Social competence takes into account the interrelatedness of social, emotional, cognitive and physical development. Connecticut has a total of 16 Head Start grantees that provide funding to 8 delegate agencies resulting in a total of 24 Head Start programs. Federal funds ($40 million in 1999-2000) are provided by formula directly to the local programs with no state involvement. State funds, which flow through the State Department of Education (SDE), are provided through competition, formula and a per child distribution. State funding is also provided through the school readiness grant. The Head Start Performance Standards are mandatory federal regulations which must be implemented to operate a Head Start program. Federal on-site program reviews are conducted every three years and SDE provides both fiscal and program monitoring.

Early Head Start is a federally funded program that provides low-income pregnant women and families with children from birth to age 3 with family-centered services. As of July 1999 Connecticut had 7 Early Head Start Programs. The Head Start Association is an independent non-profit organization representing the children, families, and staff of Head Start. They provide information, resources, networking and advocacy on a wide range of issues of interest to Head Start families and staff. On the national level they offer a program of quality recognition.

Healthy Child Care Connecticut (HCCCT)
The national Healthy Child Care America Campaign is based on the principle that families, child care providers and health care providers in partnership can promote the healthy development of young children in child care and increase access to preventive health services and safe physical environments for children. Federal grants to the states provide for activities that facilitate system building and service integration. Healthy Child Care Connecticut is a project of the CT Head Start State Collaboration Office. HCCCT's activities are designed and implemented through a Core Committee and various subcommittees with more than 50 representatives of organizations involved in child care and health care for children and families. Projects include:

- Developing a data base of child care health consultants
- Developing a memorandum of understanding between Head Start and managed health care plans
- Developing a medication administration curriculum for training child care providers
- Providing technical assistance to the Departments of Education, Social Services, School Readiness Councils and their contracted providers
- Linking early care and education providers with resources that will help them support the social and emotional development and mental health of young children and their families

Healthy Families Connecticut (HFC)
This program is based on a national initiative to establish a universal, voluntary visitor system for all new parents to help their children get off to a healthy start. HF goals are to promote positive parenting, encourage child health, development and school readiness and to prevent child abuse and neglect. Through a grant process coordinated by the Children's Trust Fund, HFC program sites are selected. HFC programs are located in a variety of settings including community based agencies and hospitals. The actual program is implemented on the local level by private and public partnerships, with Prevent Child Abuse of CT of the Wheeler Clinic in Plainville providing technical assistance and support. Each program offers home visiting services to pregnant or first time parents who are over-burdened. The home visits can last up to five years. Visits focus on parenting skills, child development, child health and other aspects of family functioning. Home visiting services are combined with the First Steps and Nurturing Programs. First Steps is a program of trained volunteers who offer educational information and emotional support through telephone contact to any new parent for their child's first 6 months of life. If additional support is needed and desired by the parents, a referral is then made to Healthy Families for intensive follow-up with home visits. The Nurturing Program provides group support that teaches parents how to nurture their children and themselves. HFC programs are also in partnership with 22 Healthy Start programs, promoting best practices.

Infoline
This service of the State of Connecticut and Connecticut's United Ways is a phone based information referral and crisis intervention service. Using a three-digit toll free phone number (2-1-1) all Connecticut residents can make use of this service. Professional caseworkers assist callers with a wide range of issues. Infoline specialized services with their own phone numbers include:

- Child Care Infoline, 1-800-505-1000, provides free telephone service to parents as they search for child care and related services. The child care database, updated continuously, includes profiles on all licensed centers, group, and family day care homes in the state. Technical assistance and information on training opportunities are also available for early care providers.

- Children’s Health Infoline, 1-800-434-7869, helps families and health providers access information and services within Medicaid Managed Care, especially for children. It is an integral part of the Children’s Health Project under the direction of the Children’s Health Council.

- Birth to Three Infoline, 1-800-505-7000, focuses on early intervention for infants and toddlers with developmental delays. It serves as the intake point for the state’s Birth to Three System, referring children to programs for evaluation and services. Using the Ages and Stages Questionnaire with interested families, it also monitors ongoing development of children evaluated but found not eligible for Birth to Three Services.

- Husky Health Infoline, 1-877-CT-HUSKY, offers information on HUSKY – Health Care for Uninsured Kids and Youth. Support in completing the application process is offered along with referrals for additional assistance when needed.

Infoline also provides consumer education, community seminars, and is involved in the Child Care Provider Recruitment Project to expand the number of licensed child care slots. They maintain an extensive database of social services in Connecticut which can be accessed by phone through their caseworkers. In addition, they publish a Directory of Community Services, located in public libraries, available for purchase or through internet subscription.

Mental Health Association of Connecticut

This statewide, private, non-profit agency dedicated to the promotion of mental health, the prevention of mental illness and improved care and treatment of persons with mental illnesses. Programs and services include:

- referrals to mental health clinics and private practitioners
- support groups
- children’s initiatives which provide advocacy, education and support to children with mental health needs and for their families
- family advocacy
  1-800-842-1501, ext. 15

Mental Health Centers

Across the state, these centers provide a variety of counseling and support services to children and families.

For information on local agencies, call Infoline 2-1-1 or CT State Dept of Mental Health and Addiction Services 1-800-446-7348; or CT State Department of Children and Families Mental Health Services 860-550-6530.

Office of Protection and Advocacy for Handicapped and Disabled Persons

This state agency offers assistance to parents who have problems finding services for their children with special needs. The Office advises parents of their options in finding educational services and acts as an advocate for parents who are concerned about potential discrimination.

Parents As Teachers (CONNPAT)
See United Way for information

Parents Available to Help (PATH)

This is an information and support network of families who have experienced a difficult pregnancy, premature birth, the loss of a young child, or have a child with special needs and/or medical problems. Through one-to-one telephone contact, resource publications, library and research services and speaker programs, PATH reaches out to help strengthen families in Connecticut who are coping with similar situations. Their goals are to reduce isolation, to empower families to become better advocates for their children and to reaffirm their value as parents and caregivers.

Regional Education Service Centers (RESCs)
Established by law, RESCs are designed for the purpose of cooperative action to furnish programs and services. The operation and management of the RESCs is the responsibility of a board which is made up of representatives from each of the participating Boards of Education. Each Board of Education and non-public school in the areas served by a RESC may determine particular programs and services in which it wishes to participate. The 6 RESCs offer a wide variety of services designed to meet the needs of early childhood professionals, preschoolers and their families. While some grant programs result in all 6 RESCs offering the same specific service, each RESC designs its programs and initiatives according to regional needs. In some areas, an individual RESC has responsibility for a statewide initiative. Services include:

- technical assistance, consultation and training and resource development to School Readiness Councils, sub-grantees, public school districts, preschool special education programs and early care and education programs on wide range of issues including program design, curriculum, management, strategic planning, accreditation support, staff development, early literacy
- direct service provider of child care, Head Start, preschool special education services,
- design and distribution of newsletters
- lending libraries
- parenting and job readiness programs, adult education
- fiscal management

Schools of the 21 Century (21C)
This program, conceived by Yale University Professor Edward Zigler, transforms elementary schools into a year round, multi-service centers which provide crucial support to families and promote school readiness in children. Approximately 500 schools nationwide have implemented this program. Basic components of the 21C program are:

- Preschool age child care
- School age child care
- Information and referral services for families
- Guidance and support for new parents
- Networks and training for community child care providers
- Nutrition and health care services

Yale University provides leadership and technical assistance to 21C Schools through staff training, organizational audits, technical assistance and consultation on issues related to preschool, childcare and family support and education.

II. REPRODUCTION RELEASE:

In order to disseminate as widely as possible timely and significant materials of interest to the educational community, documents announced in the monthly abstract journal of the ERIC system, Resources in Education (RIE), are usually made available to users in microfiche, reproduced paper copy, and electronic media, and sold through the ERIC Document Reproduction Service (EDRS). Credit is given to the source of each document, and, if reproduction release is granted, one of the following notices is affixed to the document.

If permission is granted to reproduce and disseminate the identified document, please CHECK ONE of the following three options and sign at the bottom of the page.

- Level 1 release, permitting reproduction and dissemination in microfiche or other ERIC archival media (e.g., electronic) and paper copy.
- Level 2A release, permitting reproduction and dissemination in microfiche and in electronic media for ERIC collection subscribers only.
- Level 2B release, permitting reproduction and dissemination in microfiche only.

Documents will be processed as indicated provided reproduction quality permits.

I hereby grant to the Educational Resources Information Center (ERIC) nonexclusive permission to reproduce and disseminate this document as indicated above. Reproduction from the ERIC microfiche or electronic media by persons other than ERIC employees and its system contractors requires permission from the copyright holder. Exception is made for non-profit reproduction by libraries and other service agencies to satisfy information needs of educators in response to discrete inquiries.
