This publication provides the General Requirements and Minimum Standards developed by the National Court Reporters Association's Council on Approved Student Education (CASE). They are the same for all court reporter education programs, whether an institution is applying for approval for the first time or for a new grant of approval. The first section outlines requirements that an institution's court reporter education program shall satisfy: eligibility; initial application procedures; reevaluation procedures; annual report procedures; major changes; fee schedule; CASE actions; appeals procedures; and complaint procedures. The second section contains minimum standards for these areas: educational program, with the institutional standards and outcomes outlined for these courses: machine shorthand, keyboarding, English, law and legal terminology, court reporting procedures, technology, current events, and internship; academic staff; library resource; business and professional standards; graduation and awards; and catalog requirements. Appendixes include a description of evening program and courses and their relationship to the approval process; sample lesson plans; elements of a syllabus and a syllabus model; timetable for reevaluations; and fee schedule. General Requirements

I. Objectives

The National Court Reporters Association, a national professional organization with a membership of over 27,000, was founded in 1899. The mission statement as adopted by the NCRA Board of Directors in November 1991 states:

NCRA is committed to being the leader in advancing the profession of those who capture and integrate the spoken word into a comprehensive and accurate information base for the benefit of the public and private sectors.

NCRA accomplishes this through ethical standards, testing and certification, educational opportunities, communications, government relations, research and analysis, and fiscal responsibility.

The approval process is intended to assist institutions by setting minimum standards for the realtime education programs, offered day and/or night. Greater excellence is encouraged. The minimum standards established by NCRA's Council on Approved Student Education (CASE) shall be incorporated in every program's curriculum and shall be adhered to.

CASE is composed of at least five (5) members, including at least two (2) Registered Professional Reporters and at least three (3) reporting educators from NCRA-approved programs representing both public and private institutions. CASE shall be responsible for the approval of realtime reporter student training and education programs. CASE members are appointed by NCRA's President with the advice and consent of the Board of Directors.

The General Requirements and Minimum Standards developed by CASE are the same for all realtime education programs, whether an institution is applying for the first time or applying for a new grant of approval.

CASE publishes in the Journal of Court Reporting and elsewhere, and makes available to the public, a list of institutions whose realtime reporter education programs have met the General Requirements and Minimum Standards. CASE's advice, services, and cooperation are available to all who offer such an education program.

CASE does not guarantee that students will graduate within specific time frames, that students will be able to obtain employment as real-time reporters, or that the educational institution is financially stable.

An institution's real-time reporter education program shall satisfy the following requirements:

II. Eligibility

A. An institution shall be licensed, or approved by the state in which it operates, or accredited by a body recognized by the U.S. Department of Education and shall be legally organized and authorized to conduct its program under the laws of its own state and community.

C. Education shall be the principal activity of the institution.

D. The minimum real-time reporting program length shall be two (2) years.

Determination of the composition of the Evaluation Team members shall be consistent with the NCRA conflict of interest policy. Team members are subject to challenge by the institution prior to visitation. The institution is permitted up to two (2) challenges. Objections to any Evaluation Team member shall be submitted by the institution in writing to NCRA within seven (7) calendar days of the institution’s receipt of notice of the identity of the Evaluation Team members. By mutual agreement among the team members and the institution as to the date and time of the on-site evaluation visit, the NCRA staff will schedule the visit.

I. Changes to the self-study information made by the institution after submitting the self-study form shall be submitted as an “Update Report” to the Evaluation Team at least ten (10) calendar days prior to the scheduled visit.

B. CASE self-study forms will be furnished to each institution being reevaluated. The institution must complete and return the self-study documents and materials, in typewritten form, together with the nonrefundable self-study fee (See General Requirements VII.) to NCRA headquarters according to the time schedule outlined in Appendix 4.

1. With submission of the self-study and any subsequent materials, the applicant affirms that all of the statements contained therein are true and acknowledges that the applicant is aware that NCRA will rely upon submitted data.

2. NCRA reserves the right to revoke any approval granted upon determination that an institution has submitted false information on its self-study.

C. The instructional staff of the realtime reporter education program shall be involved in the preparation of the self-study. The self-study is designed to assist the institution in evaluating the quality of its program, staff, and activities and to assist CASE in its assessment of the total program.

D. Failure to submit self-study forms according to the time schedule outlined in Appendix 4 may result in suspension or revocation of approval. (See General Requirements VIII. C.)

E. The completed self-study will be examined by the Advisory Committee. Results will be shared with the institution and the Evaluation Team. The institution will be contacted by the NCRA staff to schedule the Evaluation Team on-site visit. The institution may make any suggested changes noted by the Advisory Committee before the Evaluation Team’s visit.

F. The Advisory Committee is composed of three (3) members. At least two (2) members must be Certified Reporting Instructors from NCRA-approved programs. The third member shall be a Registered Professional Reporter. The members shall be appointed by the Chairperson of CASE.

J. The Evaluation Team will submit its written report to NCRA headquarters. The NCRA staff will send an exact copy of the report to the institution, which then has thirty (30) calendar days to submit any comments on the entire report to CASE.

B. NCRA will bill each program for its Annual Fee based on the number of students enrolled in the realtime reporting programs as of November 1 of the year in which the Annual Report form is filed. Fees shall be payable on or before March 15 of the following year. (See General Requirements VII.)

C. Failure to submit the Annual Report by November 30 and the Annual Fee by March 15 may result in revocation of approval. (See General Requirements VIII. C.)

D. The Annual Fee for newly approved programs is computed on a pro rata basis. (See Appendix #5.)

E. CASE may require a reevaluation visit for good cause or request additional written data concerning the institution and its program at any time at the institution's expense.

VI. Major Changes

A. Change in Majority Ownership or Control
   1. Any change in ownership resulting in a change of control of an institution shall be reported to NCRA in writing within thirty (30) calendar days of such change. The institution is required to file a Change of Ownership document. Failure to comply may result in revocation of approval. (See General Requirements VIII. C.)
   2. When such withdrawal of approval occurs, the institution may request reinstatement, with approval of the new management, ownership or majority control. Reinstatement may be considered by CASE at such time and on such terms and conditions as CASE deems appropriate.

B. Change in Program
   1. Any substantial or significant change in the content of the program shall be reported to NCRA in writing within thirty (30) calendar days of such change. Failure to comply may result in suspension or revocation of approval. (See General Requirements VIII. C.)
   2. Addition of a night program or courses shall be reported to NCRA within thirty (30) calendar days. Failure to comply may result in suspension or revocation of approval. (See General Requirements VIII. C.)

C. Change in Administration
   Any change in program director or realtime reporting department head shall be reported to NCRA in writing within thirty (30) calendar days of such change. Failure to report this information may result in suspension or revocation of approval. (See General Requirements VIII. C.)

D. Change of Name or Address
   Any change in the name or address of the institution shall be reported to NCRA in writing within thirty (30) calendar days of such change. Failure to report this information may result in suspension or revocation of approval. (See General Requirements VIII. C.)

E. Change in Accreditation, Licensing/Approval, or Title IV Eligibility
   Any change in national accreditation, state licensing or approval, or participation in Title IV funding shall be reported to NCRA in writing within ten (10) calendar days of such change. Failure to comply shall result in suspension or revocation of approval. (See General Requirements VIII. C.)

F. Reinstatement
   An institution may request reinstatement within ninety (90) calendar days of receiving notice of suspension or revocation by providing proof of reaccreditation, reinstatement of approval or licensing by state agency, or reinstatement of eligibility for Title IV funding.

VII. Fee Schedule

A. Initial Application Fee: Is nonrefundable and valid for one year. (See Appendix #5.)

B. Initial Evaluation or Reevaluation Fee: Is nonrefundable and valid for one year only. (See Appendix #5.)

C. Annual Fee: Becomes delinquent on March 15. The Annual Fee for newly approved programs is computed on a pro-rata basis. (See Appendix #5.)

D. Evaluation Team Expenses: The institution is responsible for the expenses of the Evaluation Team members and will be billed by NCRA. Evaluation expenses include travel, food, lodging, and honoraria for team members. Documentation will be provided to the institution at the time of billing.

E. Failure to Remit Fees: Failure to pay any fees due within forty-five (45) calendar days of the date of billing may result in suspension or revocation of approval. (See General Requirements VIII. C.)

VIII. CASE Actions

A. Initial Application:
Upon initial application by a program, CASE may take any of the following actions:

1. Approve the program
   a. When CASE determines that the realtime reporter education program has demonstrated compliance with the General Requirements and Minimum Standards, CASE will grant approval of the program for not more than five (5) years, subject to continued compliance with the General Requirements and Minimum Standards.
   b. The institution will receive written notice of CASE's action and a statement of findings forming the basis of such action within thirty (30) days. Approval is effective upon written notification of such CASE action.

2. Conditional Approval
   When CASE determines in its discretion that, but for minor, readily correctable deficiencies in a program's documentation, the program had sufficiently demonstrated compliance with the General Requirements and Minimum Standards, CASE may grant conditional approval to the program, subject to the requirement that the program supply any requested documentation of compliance within such period (not more than thirty (30) calendar days) as CASE shall specify. If, upon receipt of the documentation supplied by the program, CASE determines that the program has corrected the deficiencies that CASE had previously found, CASE shall grant full approval to the program. If CASE determines that the program has failed to correct these deficiencies, CASE shall notify the program in writing and withdraw its conditional approval. In no event shall a grant of conditional approval continue beyond CASE's next regularly scheduled meeting.

3. Deny Approval of the Program
   CASE may decide to deny action on a program if CASE determines that it doesn't have sufficient information to either approve or deny. A decision by CASE to deny action on a realtime reporter program is neither a final decision nor a negative action. CASE, after requesting and receiving further information from the institution, will reconsider the application at its next regularly scheduled meeting.

4. Failure to Remit Fees: Failure to pay any fees due within forty-five (45) calendar days of the date of billing may result in suspension or revocation of approval. (See General Requirements VIII. C.)

B. Application for a Renewed Grant of Approval:
Upon receipt of an application for a renewed grant of approval, CASE can take any of the following actions:

1. Approve the program
   a. When CASE determines that the realtime reporter education program has met the General Requirements and Minimum Standards, approval will be issued, normally for five (5) years, subject to continued compliance with the General Requirements and Minimum Standards.
   b. The institution will receive written notice of CASE's action and a statement of findings forming the basis of such action within thirty (30) days of CASE's decision. Approval is effective upon the mailing of written notification of CASE's decision or compliance with the stipulation.

2. Conditional Approval
   When CASE determines in its discretion that, but for minor, readily correctable deficiencies in a program's documentation, it would otherwise determine that the program had sufficiently demonstrated compliance with the General Requirements and Minimum Standards, CASE may grant conditional approval to the program, subject to the requirement that the program supply any required documentation of compliance within such period (not more than thirty (30) calendar days) as CASE shall specify. If, upon receipt of the documentation supplied by the program, CASE determines that the program has corrected the deficiencies that CASE had previously found, CASE shall grant full approval to the program. If CASE determines that the program has failed to correct these deficiencies, CASE shall notify the program in writing and withdraw its conditional approval. In no event shall a grant of conditional approval continue beyond CASE’s next regularly scheduled meeting.

3. Defer Action on the Program
CASE may decide to defer action on a realtime reporter education program if CASE determines it doesn’t have sufficient information to either approve or deny. A decision by CASE to defer action on a realtime reporter education program is neither a final decision nor a negative action. CASE shall notify the institution of its decision to defer action within thirty (30) days and may request additional information from the institution before making a final determination. CASE, after requesting and receiving further information from the institution, will reconsider the application at its next regularly scheduled meeting. A program’s approval that would otherwise expire during the period of deferral shall not expire but shall continue in effect until CASE has decided at its next regularly scheduled meeting whether to approve or deny the institution’s application.

4. Deny Approval of the Program
CASE’s decision to deny an application for a renewed grant of approval is a final decision by CASE. This action will be taken when CASE determines that:

a. The institution or program no longer meet the General Requirements and Minimum Standards.
b. The institution has failed to file an Annual Report or pay fees as required by CASE.
c. Any substantial or significant change has not been reported to CASE in matters such as change of program or any other major changes. (See General Requirements VI.)
d. The institution has failed to respond or to aid in completing arrangements for a scheduled evaluation.
e. CASE may consider the historical NCRA approval record of the institution. Repeated citations may result in denial of new approval.

If CASE denies an application for a renewed grant of approval, the institution may appeal the decision as provided in General Requirements IX of these General Requirements and Minimum Standards and in no event may an institution reapply for approval earlier than one (1) year after the date of CASE’s decision. (See General Requirements IX.)

5. Special Meetings
Under extraordinary circumstances or upon due cause involving the appearance of substantial violations of these General Requirements and Minimum Standards and a compelling need for prompt action in order to protect against likely substantial injury to the interests of the various publics that rely on CASE’s approval decisions, CASE may direct in writing that an institution appear at the institution’s expense at a special or regularly scheduled meeting not less than forty-five (45) calendar days from the date of the institution’s receipt of the written direction to appear. The directive to appear may be preceded or followed by a directive requiring that the institution respond to CASE’s requests for specific information or by a fact-finding Evaluation Team visit. CASE’s directive to appear shall identify the specific provisions of the Standards with which the institution must demonstrate compliance. CASE shall give the institution a reasonable opportunity to demonstrate through oral and written information compliance with the provisions of the Standards referred to in CASE’s directive to appear. After considering such information, CASE may (1) revoke its approval of the institution’s program, (2) defer its decision pending its receipt of the report of a special visiting team or the institution’s submission of further information in the form of one or more special reports, or otherwise, or (3) determine that there is no need for further action.

6. Special Reports and Site Visits
At any time in its discretion, CASE may require an institution to submit a report responding to CASE’s inquiries about the institution’s compliance with specific provisions of the Standards. The institution shall file its report within the time specified by CASE (which shall be not less than twenty (20) calendar days after its receipt of CASE’s request for such report). The institution’s report shall fully and completely respond to CASE’s request. CASE may also at any time in its discretion appoint an Evaluation Team to conduct a fact-finding, on-site visit to any institution at the institution’s expense. CASE shall give the institution not less than twenty (20) calendar days’ advance notice of the planned visit (and the persons appointed to serve on the team). Any objections to any member of the fact-finding Evaluation Team must be made by the institution in writing, identifying the team member(s) objected to, and setting out in detail the nature and basis of the institution’s objection to each member. The objections shall be waived unless received by NCRA’s Executive Director within seven (7) calendar days after the institution’s receipt of the written notice of the identity of proposed team members. Within such time period as CASE shall specify, the fact-finding Evaluation Team shall prepare and submit to CASE and to the institution a written report of its findings. The institution may submit any comments or response to the Evaluation Team’s report within such time period as CASE shall specify.
C. Revocation of Approval:

1. CASE may also revoke approval at any time upon determination after giving the institution reasonable notice of not less than thirty (30) calendar days and an opportunity to be heard by means of a special or regular meeting, special report, special team visit, or otherwise that the program is not in compliance with any of the provisions of the General Requirements and Minimum Standards.

2. If CASE revokes approval, the institution may appeal the decision as provided in General Requirements IX of these General Requirements and Minimum Standards.

3. If the institution does not wish to appeal the decision of CASE, it may reapply for approval after a one (1) year period after CASE's decision. In no event may an institution reapply for approval earlier than one (1) year after the date of CASE's decision.

IX. Appeals Procedures

A. Appeals

An institution claiming to be aggrieved by CASE's denial of approval, denial of continuation of approval, or revocation of approval may appeal to the Appeals Panel as described in General Requirements IX.C. All reasonable and appropriate expenses for the appeal, including the expenses of Appeals Panel, shall be borne by the appellant unless the appeals panel determines at its discretion that the decision from CASE that was being appealed was clearly erroneous.

B. Appeals Procedures

1. Before an appeal is undertaken, an institution will have received appropriate written notice of CASE's action and a statement of findings forming the basis for such action.

2. Upon an institution's notification to NCRA of its wish to appeal CASE's decision, an Appeals Panel will be appointed to consider the appeal and render a decision as provided below. (See General Requirements IX.C.)

3. Notice of appeal must be received by NCRA within thirty (30) calendar days of the institution's receipt of CASE's action and findings.

4. The institution must file a written statement of the grounds for its appeal within thirty (30) calendar days after mailing the notice of appeal. In preparing the written grounds for appeal, the institution is expected to copy and respond to each numbered item included with CASE's statement of findings forming the basis of its actions. Notice of appeal shall be in writing and signed by the chief executive officer of the institution.

5. The notice of appeal shall be directed to:
   Executive Director
   National Court Reporters Association
   8224 Old Courthouse Road
   Vienna, VA 22182-3808

6. The institution's file will be forwarded to the Appeals Panel after it is appointed as provided below. At the earliest practicable time, the chairperson of the Appeals Panel will set a mutually agreeable date and location mutually convenient for a meeting to consider the appeal.

7. The institution, at its option and expense, shall have the right to appear and make a presentation and shall also have the right to counsel. Such oral presentation shall be limited to forty-five (45) minutes. NCRA at its own expense shall be represented by legal counsel at the appeal.

8. The Executive Director will, by letter, notify the institution of the action of the Appeals Panel within thirty (30) days of the Appeal Panel's meeting.

9. The institution, at its option and expense, shall have the right to a transcript of the appeal hearing, and it may arrange to have a qualified realtime reporter present to make a verbatim record of the appeal hearing.

10. The Appeals Panel shall sustain CASE's decision unless the institution shows that CASE's decision is clearly erroneous. The Panel shall not receive information, documents, or testimony concerning events or alleged progress made by a program after the CASE decision from which the institution has appealed.

11. The Appeals Panel will make one of the following decisions by majority vote:
   a. Sustain the decision of CASE.
   b. Reverse the decision and thereby approve or continue the approval of the program, with or without conditions or stipulations.

12. The decision of the Appeals Panel shall be final and not subject to any further appeal or review.

13. CASE will give public notice of any action from which an appeal can be taken by indicating that the institution's status is under review. Until CASE's decision has become final either by conclusion of the appeals process or the expiration of the time for appeal, NCRA will, upon inquiry, state that the institution's status is under review.

14. If a program has approval at the time that CASE makes a decision from which an appeal can be taken, its approval will continue until CASE's decision has become final either by the conclusion of the appeal process or by the expiration of the time for appeal.

C. Appeals Panel
1. Candidates serving on the Appeals Panel shall have knowledge of approval processes and procedures. These candidates shall be Certified Program Evaluators, former CASE members, and/or past presidents of NCRA. Determination of the composition of the panel shall be consistent with NCRA’s conflict of interest policy.
2. Whenever a notice of appeal is received, the NCRA President shall select five (5) or more persons from among the eligible candidates and shall notify the institution that the Appeals Panel will be selected from among these persons. For reasonable cause, the institution may object to up to two (2) candidates serving on the Appeals Panel. Any such objection shall be in writing, shall clearly state the cause or causes for the objection, and must be received by NCRA within seven (7) calendar days after the list of possible Panel members is received by the institution.
3. The NCRA President shall review any objections, and then designate three (3) persons (including one person designated to chair the panel) who may reasonably serve as an Appeals Panel for a particular institution’s appeal and may designate one or more alternates to serve in case of inability of any member of the panel to serve. If the appeal of more than one institution is scheduled during the same twelve-month period, and if a Panel has been properly selected and designated as provided above, the same Panel may hear the appeal of all such institutions.
4. An institution will be notified of the final selected members of the Appeals Panel when a time and location are selected for the appeal proceeding.
5. Whenever possible, NCRA will group the scheduling of any institutions making an oral presentation, allowing sufficient time for the Appeals Panel to hear oral presentations, make proper deliberations, and forward its decisions to NCRA.

X. Complaint Procedures
Each institution with an approved program shall publish a procedure for resolving/handling student complaints including provisions for a final written decision.
A. Complaints must be handled in the following manner:
1. The student must file the complaint in compliance with the institution’s published grievance procedure.
2. If the final written decision of the institution is deemed unsatisfactory by the student, then the student must file an NCRA Complaint Form. The NCRA Complaint Form must be accompanied by the final written decision of the institution.
3. The NCRA Complaint Form will be submitted to CASE for consideration. If it appears that the General Requirements and Minimum Standards have been violated, CASE will discuss the seriousness of the alleged violation and determine whether any further action is necessary or indicated. Repeated complaints may result in a CASE visitation at the institution’s expense.

Appendix 1

Description of Evening Programs and Courses and Their Relationship to the Approval Process
A complete curriculum includes all courses, machine and academic.

Definitions
Evening Program: A complete curriculum leading to a diploma or certificate in realtime reporting.
Evening Courses: Individual courses offered in the evening to supplement the daytime program or provide introductory, advanced, or additional education for interested students. These courses, when combined, do not lead to a diploma or certificate in realtime reporting. These courses which an institution wishes to offer in the evenings must be equivalent to the courses offered during the daytime; i.e., they must meet CASE standards.

Evening Program and the Approval Process
If the institution has an approved daytime program and wishes to institute an approved evening program, it must seek separate approval as soon as it meets all of the eligibility requirements and standards as set forth in the General Requirements and Minimum Standards. CASE must be notified and provided materials which verify that the evening program is a complete program leading to a diploma or certificate. If the evening program is approved, the list of approved programs in the Journal of Court Reporting will indicate that the institution has both an approved daytime and an approved evening program.

      the intended outcome?
      (List the activities in sequential order.)
      Psychological Principle(s):
   C. Guided Practice: How will I lead the class in applying the new information or skill?
      Psychological Principle(s):
   D. Independent Practice: What similar applications will I expect students to be able to make on their own? How much practice will students need? How can I arrange more practice if students need it? How will I elicit feedback from learners?
      Psychological Principle(s):

III. Consolidation
   A. Assessment: How will I know if the students achieved the performance outcome?
      (This should relate to I.B. above.)
   B. Review: What are the main points of the lesson that I need to review?
      Psychological Principle(s):
   C. Transfer: What can I do to get students to think critically about today's lesson—how it relates to previously learned materials and how it fits into the "big picture"?
      Psychological Principle(s):
   D. Evaluation: How will I reteach if the lesson was unsuccessful? How will I motivate learners to "reattempt" the lesson?
      Psychological Principle(s):

Lesson Plan Model

Course: BIS222 Lesson: Literary Dictation-180
Date: Week 6, Day 2 Lesson Outcome: Recognizing and Writing Changing Patterns of Speech

Special Equipment/Materials Required:
Primetime Lit Book
Video of President Bush's Inaugural Address
Videotape of C-Span Coverage of Congress
Tape Player

I. Introduction
   A. Attention:
      1. Play a section of video showing speaker from Pakistan discussing peace international relations.
      Psychological Principle: Students learn best when the subject is made of interest to them. By seeing this tape, students will recognize that speakers will have different patterns of speech, and they will need to be able to recognize and write from all types.
   B. Performance Objectives:
      1. At the end of this lesson, the students will have developed some techniques for recognizing changing speech patterns.
2. At the end of this lesson, the student will be able to take dictation at 160 words per minute on literary material from speakers with accents and on specialized vocabulary and read it back with reasonable ease.

C. Prior Knowledge:
   1. Have you talked with friends/relatives for whom English is not a first language? What techniques do you use to assist you in understanding their conversation?

Psychological Principle: Students learn best when they have an understanding of principles or procedures underlying the initial task which will then result in greater transfer to a different activity. If students see that they, in their everyday life, have encountered individuals with different speech patterns, they will transfer those skills to recording the speech in shorthand.

II. Development of the Lesson

A. Modes of Instruction:
   1. Live Dictation
   2. Dictation from Videos
   3. Discussion/Interaction

B. Activities:
   1. Play 5 minutes of tape of President Bush’s Inaugural Address
   2. Discussion of speech patterns and phonetic sounds from videos of President Bush.
   3. Drill in shorthand on those patterns
   4. Live dictation by instructor of President Bush’s speech
   5. Readback of dictation
   6. Students take dictation from video of speech
   7. Same process with video of Congress from C-Span
   8. Dictation from Primetime Lit text: discussion of accent/speech patterns on selected words
   9. Follow same process for drill
   10. Time last readback: praise those who do well

Psychological Principles:
   1. Students learn best when the instructor provides the learner not only with opportunities to practice under the conditions designed, but also with cue and response conditions that vary from time to time. By having three different types of material with speech patterns, students have the conditions needed to learn.
   2. Students learn best when they receive positive reinforcement through rewards of praise for acceptable behavior. Give positive feedback to those who can read/write from varying speech patterns.
   3. Students learn best when some tension is placed on them by the instructor.

Here, the students were timed on each dictation and then timed on their readback.

C. Guided Practice:
   In this lesson, students were guided through each type of dictation material while speech patterns were pointed out and discussed; that is, they were guided during the lesson.

Psychological Principle: Students learn best when the instructor sets up the learning situation so that the desired responses can occur as close as possible to their cues. Students practiced the material immediately after discussion of the speech patterns.

D. Independent Practice:
   1. Students are to practice at least one hour from the C-Span tapes I have placed in the dictation lab.
   2. Hand out word sheets and phonetic pronunciation tables and discuss again.
   3. After their first attempt at the dictation, identify at least 3 speech patterns of the speaker. List in shorthand notes.
   4. As the students take additional dictation by the same speaker, “zero in” on those speech patterns identified.

Psychological Principle:
   1. Students retain material best when they overpractice a new concept or skill. This additional activity should reinforce and lead to overpractice of speech sounds.
   2. Students learn best when they are prepared for their individual practice.

III. Consolidation

A. Review:
   2. Methods to focus on speech patterns. Question students.

B. Assessment:
   1. Dictation to end the day’s lesson at about 160 words per minute for 5 minutes with examples of speech patterns/accents. Ask for student readback. Praise those who do well.

Psychological Principle: Students learn best when they receive immediate feedback on their in-class activities. I will evaluate their readback.

C. Transfer:
   1. Discuss that opportunities have grown for reporting on an international level. The need for accuracy on all reporting has grown.
Opportunities to apply their reporting skills depend on being aware of the complexities of today’s speech patterns. Psychological Principle: Students learn best when they see how their learning transfers to other situations.

D. Evaluation:
1. Were all students able to grasp the idea of phonetic sounds and speech patterns? If not, tomorrow a student can explain the concept in his/her words.
2. Did students see the importance of this lesson? If they appeared bored and uninterested, bring in a realtime reporter who does closed captioning on C-span or takes dictation from individuals with unusual speech patterns.
