This curriculum unit for Grade 9 combines the classic Shakespeare play "Romeo and Juliet" with three young adult novels: "The Outsiders" (S.E. Hinton), "Summer of My German Soldier" (Bette Greene), and "The Witch of Blackbird Pond" (Elizabeth George Speare). To complete the unit, all students will be required to read the Shakespeare play; however, they will each choose which novel they would like to read. The unit states that students will read the novels before reading the play--this will allow them time to understand the major themes of the novels before tackling "Romeo and Juliet." In the unit, the novels serve two purposes: to introduce students to various narrative elements; and to act as a thematic bridge. Each YAL (Young Adolescent Literature) novel that is included in the unit contains themes that cross over into the play. By using these YAL novels to gradually introduce the themes of "Romeo and Juliet" to the class before they begin the play, the unit can increase both comprehension and enjoyment of William Shakespeare's drama. The unit is divided into the following parts: Rationale; Objectives; Motivations; Student Activities; General Discussion Questions for the Teacher; Study Guide Questions for the Students; Vocabulary; Follow-Up Activities; and Evaluation/Assessment. (Contains 39 references.) (NKA)

Rationale

This unit combines the classic Shakespearean play Romeo and Juliet with three young adult books: The Outsiders by S.E. Hinton, Summer of My German Soldier by Bette Greene, and The Witch of Blackbird Pond by Elizabeth George Speare. All students will be required to read the Shakespeare play; however, they will each choose which novel they would like to read. Students will read the novels before reading the play—this will allow them time to understand the major themes of the novels before tackling Romeo and Juliet.

In this unit, the novels serve two purposes: 1) to introduce students to various narrative elements and 2) to act as a thematic bridge. Each YAL novel that is included in the unit contains themes that cross over into the play. The Outsiders deals with feuding, revenge and violence; Summer of My German Soldier explores forbidden young love and friendship; and The Witch of Blackbird Pond focuses on hate without understanding, friendship, and young love. Not only do these selections vary in theme, they also vary in reading level and audience. By allowing students to select which novel they would like to read, there is a greater chance that they will not only read, but also enjoy the novel. For example, The Witch of Blackbird Pond has a slightly lower reading level, while male students might prefer The Outsiders to Summer of My German Soldier. By using these YAL books to gradually introduce the themes of Romeo and Juliet to the class before they begin the play, this unit can increase both comprehension and enjoyment of Shakespeare and Romeo and Juliet.
General Objectives

At the conclusion of this unit, the students will be able to:

1. Name and recognize narrative elements within their novels and Romeo and Juliet.
2. Make predictions about future events in the novels based on information provided in the text.
3. Discuss how actions of characters affected the outcomes in the novels/play.
4. Examine the importance of historical context and/or setting within the novels.
5. Recognize themes that are important in the novels.
6. Create and find other (modern) examples of the themes in the novels.
7. Recognize and use new vocabulary words.
8. Recall important dates and events in Shakespeare's life and work.
9. Identify main characters and plot events in Romeo and Juliet.
10. Comprehend and interpret Shakespearean language within Romeo and Juliet.
11. Understand and point out poetic structure and literary devices used in Romeo and Juliet.
12. Compare and contrast themes between the young adult novels and Romeo and Juliet.
13. Write or create original works that reflect their interpretations of Romeo and Juliet.
14. Evaluate the relevancy of Shakespeare to them today.
15. Develop an appreciation of Shakespeare and literature in general.

*These objectives were adapted from: Carroll, P. “Adolescent Literature as a Complement to the Classics.” Voices of African-American Southern Women, 1993. 167-168.*
Some Motivations

1. Give the students the pre-tests for the various novels (see end of this section) before they have read the book.

2. Read the Shel Silverstein poem "Where the Sidewalk Ends" and begin to talk about theme (see end of this section for a copy of the poem).

3. Play a game to review narrative elements.

4. Journal prompts:
   a. What is your first reaction this book? Do you like the main character? Why or why not?
   b. What do you think will happen next in the novel? Why?
   c. What is the main theme(s) of the novel? Support with proof from the text.
   d. If you could be friends with anyone in the book, who would it be?
   e. What would you in Romeo and Juliet's situation?

5. Present a startling fact: "Did you know that Shakespeare really wrote in Modern English—the same English we speak today (not Old English)?"

6. Pose a challenging question:
   a. What would you (alone) do if you had to move away from your home and family to a completely new and strange place?
   b. Were all Germans' Nazis during WWII? Were all Jews victims?
   c. What would you do if your best friend killed someone?

7. Play music from the Renaissance as students walk in the room.

8. Bring in a model of the Globe theatre and allow students to examine it and ask questions.

9. Have class brainstorm a list "What I Know about Shakespeare"
10. Bring up the problem of youth violence and discuss with the class why they think it occurs.

11. Play film clips of scenes from Romeo and Juliet that the class will discuss that day as the students enter the room.

12. Divide the class in half and tell them that each half represents a "family" and that the two families are feuding. Discuss the implications of this feud in the day-to-day dealings of school and class activity.

There is a place where the sidewalk ends
And before the street begins,
And there the grass grows soft and white,
And there the sun burns crimson bright,
And there the moon-bird rests from his flight
To cool in the peppermint wind.

Let us leave this place where the smoke blows black
And the dark street winds and bends
Past the pits where the asphalt flowers grow
We shall walk with a walk that is measured and slow,
And watch where the chalk-white arrows go
To the place where the sidewalk ends.

Yes we'll walk with a walk that is measured and slow,
And we'll go where the chalk-white arrows go,
For the children, they mark, and the children, they know
The place where the sidewalk ends.
Group's Novel: __________________

Answer the following questions about the narrative elements of your group's novel.

1. What is the setting of the novel? Give where and when (approximate if no specifics are given).

2. Who is the main character of the novel? What other characters have you met so far?

3. What is the point of view of the novel?

4. What conflict do you see already in the novel?

How does the setting (place and time) seem to affect the story so far? Give specific details.
Names: ____________________________

Get in groups of two and fill out the "Character Map" and "Literary Reactions" worksheets. Exchange papers and discuss reactions to the text. Then write down 5 predictions for the rest of the novel (only one per pair!).

Predictions:

2.

3.

4.

5.
Write the character's name in the pentagon at the top. Write one character trait in each of the ovals. Write one supporting detail in each of the rectangles.

Now that you have finished the novel!

Find your partner with whom you made your five predictions. Each fill out a "Character Development Story Map" and a "Story Plot Flow Map." Discuss the changes that the main character(s) have undergone. Then answer the following questions with your partner:

1. Were any of your predictions correct? Which ones?

2. What surprised you at the end of the story (in other words, what could you never have predicted)?

3. How would you have changed the ending?

4. Do you think the main character has changed for the better or for the worse? Has he or she really changed at all? Why or why not?

The Witch of Blackbird Pond is historical fiction: it takes place in the Connecticut Colony in 1687. Most of the characters in the novel are Puritans. Working in groups of three, get on the internet and answer the following questions. A good starting place is http://www.puritansermons.com/hist.htm#about

1. How were children treated during this time period?

2. What were women's roles in society?

3. What did the Puritans believe?

4. How did Puritan belief differ from other religions, such as the Quakers and the Church of England?

List three other facts about the Puritans or life in an American colony in the 17th century:

Summer of My German Soldier takes place during World War II. Visit the website http://historyplace.com/index.html and explore the various WWII links. Then answer the following questions:

Briefly describe Hitler’s rise to power and his goals.

What were the some of the freedoms that were taken away from Jews and all Germans during and before WWII?

Look at the slide show of Pearl Harbor on the website. How do you think Americans felt towards the Japanese after the bombing? Towards Japanese-Americans?

Name three interesting WWII facts that you found on the webpage.

3.
As you read The Outsiders, you will notice that prejudice exists between "the Socs" and "the Greasers." Visit the website http://kidshelp.sympatico.ca/help/divrsity/divrsity2.htm and answer the following questions about prejudice:

1. What is prejudice? What are some of the different kinds of prejudice?

2. What is the effect of prejudice?

3. What can be done about prejudice?

4. List three other facts about how prejudice affects society:
   1.

As we discuss Shakespeare and his theatre, answer the following questions:

1. When was Shakespeare born?
2. Where did he grow up?
3. Who was his wife?
4. What was Shakespeare's first play? When did he write it?
5. Why did Shakespeare move to London?
6. What was "The Lord Chamberlain's Men?"
7. What was the group later called?
8. When did Shakespeare die?
9. Before Shakespeare's time, where did actors perform?
10. What was the first permanent theatre? Who established it?
11. What was Shakespeare's theatre?
13. When were performances held? Why? How did Shakespearean theatre compare to modern theatre?
14. What were groundlings?
15. When was Romeo and Juliet written?
16. Where did the story come from?
Figurative Language Exercise

Divide into groups of three. You will have five minutes to figure out how to act out your line from Romeo and Juliet for the class. We will write the “translations” on the board and try to piece together the entire soliloquy. Pay attention to the metaphors used.

For the teacher: Give each group a slip of paper with one of these quotations on it:

But soft! What light through yonder window breaks?

Arise, fair sun, and kill the envious moon

My ears have not yet drunk a hundred words of thy tongue’s uttering, yet I know the sound.

With love’s light wings did I o’erperch these walls.

There lies more peril in thine eyes than twenty of their swords.

I have night’s cloak to hide me from their eyes.

It is too rash... like lighting which doth cease to be ere one can say it lightens.

This bud of love, by summer’s ripening breath, may prove a beauteous flower.

My bounty is as boundless as the sea, my love as deep.

Love goes toward love as schoolboys from their books, but love from love toward school with heavy looks.

Taken from "Discuss Romeo and Juliet!"
Green Eggs and Iambs

Explain to the students you're going to read something which has a repetitive beat to them. Tell them when you say a word loudly, they must stomp heavily; when you say a word softly, they are to pat the floor with a foot. Explain the rhythm will be "footed" while they're being read to. Then have the students stand in a circle, faces looking at shoulders in front of them. You're in the circle too. Read GREEN EGGS AND HAM in the soft/hard, soft/hard beat. After you've read a bit, drift into the prologue of R&J. Students will maintain the beat without realising you've changed script.

Now comes my adaptation. I stop reading, whiz around the circle setting up pairs looking at one another (a triad's fine if you have uneven numbers). Ask the partners to choose to be a or b. You call out, "Who's a?" The A's yell, "As", "Who's b?" The Bs respond. You say, "Will the Bs please tell the A's how walking the rhythm made them feel?" Give a minute or so for the answers. You say, "Will the A's please share their thoughts on the rhythm with the Bs." As you stroll around the circle eavesdropping you're bound to hear comments like, "Made me feel everything is pretty much the same", "Felt like nothing is different", etc. You then ask if anyone wants to share interesting comments they want to share with the group. After you've thanked the budding shuffle band, ask them to return to their chairs. Then you might want to show them a visual of the feet etc. on the blackboard, or on the overhead. Then read a couple of lines (from R&J) in which one or two of them aren't in the i.p. Tell students to turn to the person sitting next to him/her and comment on what they heard, etc. Students will flush out that a change in rhythm signals a change in meaning, or a change in mood, etc. You now have the opportunity to share with them what the Bard does with rhythm.
Go home and listen to some of your favorite music. Pick one song that reflects a theme from Romeo and Juliet. Bring in the CD or tape along with a brief (one paragraph) write-up justifying your choice. Don’t forget to mention what theme the song and play have in common!

Justification:
Consider the themes in both the novel that you read and in Romeo and Juliet. Complete a Venn Diagram and compare and contrast the two works. List themes, ideas, emotions, characters, setting, etc.

Remember your narrative elements and literary devices. Can you find overlap using these ideas?
Today we will discuss symbols and symbolism in Romeo and Juliet.

- Symbol: an object which represents or stands for an idea, quality, or person
- Symbolism: the practice of representing things using symbols

Break into pairs—each pair will be assigned a character from the play. List at least five (but not more than seven) objects that can be used to symbolize this character. Your homework for tonight is to bring in these objects.

Example: Romeo falls in love easily and often: a Valentine’s Day card could represent that idea.

Tomorrow we will share the symbols with the class and your classmates will have to guess your character from your symbols. Also, be prepared to write a short in-class essay describing the symbols you and your partner selected for your character.

Inner/Outer Circle Discussion

For homework: Prepare 5 discussion questions (questions that do NOT have a yes/no answer) concerning the novel that you have read.

In class: Novel groups will divide in half and take turns participating in both inner and outer circles.

Roles of the Inner Circle Members
- Serve as the discussion panel
- May or may not take notes during the discussion
- Should provide at least one quality response to a student question during the activity
- Should not wait for others; no hands raised; just listen and "jump in"
- Follow rules of courteous academic discussion
- May ask questions of others in inner circle
- May not interact with outer circle or instructor

Roles of the Outer Circle Members
- Responsible for guiding, motivating, extending the inner-circle discussion
- Listen, take notes, ask questions
- Should ask at least one question during the activity
- Should not wait for others; no hands raised; just listen and "jump in" with a question
- Should follow rules of courteous academic discussion
- Should not interact with inner circle or with the instructor
- May not respond to the inner-circle discussion

Possible Follow-Up Activities

1. Take students to see a live performance of Romeo and Juliet.

2. Show a film version of Romeo and Juliet to the class. Afterwards, have them discuss (either verbally or in their journals) the similarities and differences between the play and the film. Which did they like better? Why?

3. Read another young adult novel; have students write a short essay (1-2 pages) comparing the novel's themes to the themes of Romeo and Juliet and the novel they have previously read.

4. Play a professional audio recording of Romeo and Juliet. Collect student reactions—does the play "sound" different than they imagined? Why or why not?

5. Students can write a poem in iambic pentameter/blank verse.

6. Students can assemble a collection of quotable quotes from the play and novels, which would be used to create a bulletin board.

7. Have students write letters of recommendation for the novels they have read and exchange them with classmates who have not yet read the book.

8. Students can watch a film version of another Shakespearean play (ex. Midsummer Night's Dream) and write a short essay comparing and contrasting the two plays.

9. Take a field trip to a Renaissance Faire.

1. When and where was Shakespeare born?
2. Who were the King’s Men?
3. Describe the Globe Theatre.
4. At what time of day would a play be held in Shakespeare’s time? Why?
5. What is blank verse?

Part II – 25 points
Translate the following quotations into “modern” English:

1. Why, such is love's transgression.
   Griefs of mine own lie heavy in my breast,
   Which thou wilt propagate, to have it prest
   With more of thine: this love that thou hast shown
   Doth add more grief to too much of mine own.

2. Tut, you saw her fair, none else being by,
   Herself poised with herself in either eye:
   But in that crystal scales let there be weigh'd
   Your lady's love against some other maid

3. Patience perforce with wilful choler meeting
   Makes my flesh tremble in their different greeting.
   I will withdraw: but this intrusion shall
   Now seeming sweet convert to bitter gall

4. If I profane with my unworthiest hand
   This holy shrine, the gentle fine is this:
   My lips, two blushing pilgrims, ready stand
   To smooth that rough touch with a tender kiss.

5. Immoderately she weeps for Tybalt's death,
   And therefore have I little talk'd of love;
   For Venus smiles not in a house of tears.
   Now, sir, her father counts it dangerous
   That she doth give her sorrow so much sway,
And in his wisdom hastest our marriage,
To stop the inundation of her tears;

Romeo and Juliet Group Project

In groups of four or five, you will work together to create one of the following:

1. Live with Regis and Kelly - This group choose two anchorpersons who will interview two or three people who were close to the victims (Romeo and Juliet). The group must include commercials, theme music, backdrop, and entertainment for the fifteen-minute show. This group takes a sentimental look at what happened between the feuding families and how that feud led to the deaths of two young lovers.

2. Entertainment Tonight - This group chooses two anchorpersons who will interview two or three people who may or may not be close to the victims. This group must also include commercials, theme music, backdrop and entertainment for the fifteen-minute show. This group takes a scandalous view of what happened. They are digging for the "dirt" on these two lovers. Students may stretch the truth here a bit.

3. TIME Magazine - This is for the non-performers. This group will produce a TIME magazine with Romeo and Juliet as the cover story. They must also include other news stories and advertisements.

4. 3-D Scene or Tableau - Another non-performing group. Students will create a detailed 3-D scene from the play. Students may choose any scene. If the group opts to do a tableau, the students will build themselves into a life-sized (but still detailed) moment from the play.

Teacher Comments:

*Each person will be evaluated by his/her group members. This evaluation will rank how well and how much the group feels that you have participated in the project. So don't forget.... WORK AS A TEAM!!!
Final Project: Romeo and Juliet and the Novels

For your final project, you will work individually and in groups to find the thematic links between Romeo and Juliet and the novel that you read. In other words, what themes do the book and the play have in common?

Part I: Individual Work
For this first part, everyone must write an individual essay, no less than 3 pages, explaining what themes the novel and the play share. You must list at least two themes and back up what you say with proof from the text.

Part II: Group Work
Working in groups of three or four, you and your group will have to find a movie, another book, a TV show, etc., that has a theme in common with both Romeo and Juliet and the novel that your group has read. The group will then do a short write-up (1-2 pages) and a presentation to the class, explaining what they chose and why. Visual aids are required.
