This document, which lists the middle school content competencies for the Work and Family Studies curriculum within Family and Consumer Sciences in Ohio, is intended to help middle school students develop self-responsibility and competence dealing with the practical problems of early adolescence. (Career awareness and career choice options are important for early adolescents who are in the beginning stages of career planning, and Work and Family Life classes at the middle school level help students make decisions about career choices by exploring career options in the context of personal interests, personal skills, and family life goals.) Each of the 7 units include expectations, competencies and key indicators, sample scenarios, sample guiding questions, National Standards for Family and Consumer Sciences Education Competency connections, and Core Integrated Academic and Technical Competency (ITAC) connections. The Core ITAC competencies are the critical connection between Work and Family Life programs and all other programs in Career-Technical and Adult Education in Ohio. The 7 units are as follows: (1) process; (2) career, community, and family connections; (3) consumer and family resources; (4) family; (5) interpersonal relationships; (6) nutrition and wellness; and (7) parenting.

Work & Family Life
Middle School Content Competencies

Overview

Introduction

Work and Family Studies is a set of Family and Consumer Sciences courses designed to help individuals and families across the life span to manage the challenges of living and working in a diverse, global society. Middle school Work and Family Life focuses on helping middle school students develop self-responsibility and competence dealing with the practical problems of early adolescence.

In middle school, students become aware of the links between education, work, money and their own values, expectations and abilities. Implementation of comprehensive career exploration programming is one way to connect schools to the world of work. Career awareness and career choice options are important for early adolescents who are in the beginning stages of career planning. Work and Family Life classes at the middle school level help students make decisions about career choices by exploring career options in the context of personal interests, personal skills and family life goals.

Definitions

- Expectation – a statement of desired behaviors and their importance in the world of workplace, family and community.

- Competencies – observable and measurable knowledge and skills essential to achievement of the expectation.

- Key indicators – describe significant elements of competency performance.

- Sample Scenario – a real-life situation requiring learners to apply knowledge and skills reflected in the competencies.

- Sample Guiding Questions – targeted questions to use in focusing learners’ attention on knowledge and skills covered in the scenario.

- Core ITAC - consists of 51 competencies organized into six strands essential for all careers. Core ITAC represents what individuals need to know and be able to do to be successful in further education, in a career and in life. The Core ITAC competencies are the critical connection between Work & Family Life programs and all other programs in Career-Technical & Adult Education in Ohio. The Core ITAC for Career-Focused Education can be purchased or downloaded free at www.cete.org/publications.asp
National Standards for Family and Consumer Sciences Education - designed as a set of curriculum standards that organize the subject matter and processes of Family and Consumer Sciences Education, provide a strong and clear conceptualization of the field and establish a common direction for program development and revision at the national, state and local levels. The Work & Family Life Middle School Content Competencies are designed to directly reflect the National Standards for Family and Consumer Sciences Education. The National Standards for Family and Consumer Sciences Education can be purchased at: www.v-tecs.org

Academic Content Standards

A crosswalk of the Work and Family Life Middle School Content Competencies and the Academic Content Standards for grades 7-9 will be developed as an addendum to this document. Local districts should, however, develop such a crosswalk based on local academic initiatives and individual classroom strategies. A locally developed crosswalk of the Work and Family Life Middle School Competencies and the Academic Content Standards for grades 7 to 9 will be more inclusive based on “how” the competencies are taught. The Ohio Academic Content Standards can be downloaded free at www.ode.state.oh.us/academic_content_standards

Unit 0 – Process

Expectation

The processes of managing responsibilities, solving problems, making choices, relating to others and assuming leadership roles are found in daily life. Strong skills in these processes lead to quality work and family life. These processes are learned and strengthened over time and can be used in a variety of settings. To build successful careers, mold stable families, create lasting friendships and shape strong communities, skills in these processes are essential and must be practiced.

Competencies & Key Indicators

0.1 Manage work and family responsibilities for the well-being of self and others.

0.1.1 Explore the value and meaning of work and the value and meaning of family.
0.1.2 Compare how work life is affected by families and how families are affected by work life.
0.1.3 Identify management strategies for balancing work and multiple family roles throughout the lifespan.

0.2 Apply problem-solving process to personal and family problems for well-being of self and others.

0.2.1 Clarify personal and family issues.
0.2.2 Identify adequate, reliable information and resources for personal and family problem solving.
0.2.3 Create alternative choices for solving problems.
0.2.4 Evaluate potential consequences of alternative choices.
0.2.5 Use criteria and standards to make ethical decisions.
0.2.6 Evaluate outcomes.

0.3 Relate to others in positive, caring ways.

0.3.1 Identify significance of caring, respectful relationships.
0.3.2 Create strategies for relating to people of different ages, abilities, genders and cultures.
0.3.3 Communicate effectively.
0.3.4 Express personal feelings, needs and ideas constructively.
0.3.5 Manage conflict.
0.3.6 Seek help when needed.

0.4 Assume leadership role as a responsible family member and citizen.

0.4.1 Identify ways to be a responsible citizen at home, at school, at work and in community settings.
0.4.2 Evaluate societal conditions affecting personal, family and community well-being
0.4.3 Describe visions and goals for families, student organizations and work groups.
0.4.4 Evaluate consequences of cooperative and uncooperative actions.
0.4.5 Cooperate with others to achieve group goals
0.4.6 Use planning processes to establish and achieve individual and group goals.
0.4.7 Identify ways to influence public policy that impacts the well-being of individuals, families, communities and societies.

Sample Scenario

You are a 13-year-old who wants to have an expensive pair of name-brand athletic shoes for the first day of school. Because of the many expenses at the start of school, the family budget allows your parents to pay for half of the cost of the shoes you want. Develop a plan to earn the rest of the money needed to purchase the shoes. Present your plan to your parents or classmates.

Sample Guiding Questions

1. What are the regular monthly expenses for your family budget? What extra costs are there for your family at the start of school?
2. What choices do you have for earning the money you need?
3. How will you save money for the shoes and still have money to do other activities?

1.7 Analyze how community issues affect families.

1.7.1 Examine the impact of public policies, agencies and institutions on the family.
1.7.2 Examine community resources and systems of formal and informal support available to individuals and families.
Sample Scenario

You are the parent of two children, ages 14 & 12. You have noticed that your children are spending a large amount of time watching TV, playing video games or talking to friends on the phone. After school activities often interfere with the opportunity for your family to eat dinner or spend as much time together as you would like. There have been articles in your local newspaper about several organizations in your community that need volunteer help. Develop a plan for your family to volunteer for a community activity together that will not interfere with work or school obligations. Present your plan to an audience that may include parents, community agency representatives and/or other appropriate individuals.

Sample Guiding Questions

1. How will you determine what community activities are available that need volunteer assistance?
2. How will you decide on one community activity that all family members will be interested in doing?
3. What factors do you need to consider when adding this additional commitment to your family life?

3.4.4 Demonstrate respect for diversity with sensitivity to anti-bias, gender, equity, age, culture and ethnicity.
3.4.5 Identify ways to work cooperatively with others of diverse backgrounds.

3.5 Examine the impact of the global village on the need to appreciate diversity.

   3.5.1 Describe the interdependency of nations and peoples of the world.
   3.5.2 Examine global influences on today's families.
   3.5.3 Identify ways to deal with changing global society.
   3.5.4 Analyze the consequences of world issues.
   3.5.5 Identify international organizations that address global problems.

Sample Scenario

You have recently decided that your 85-year-old mother will move in with you and your three children. Your mother has frequent appointments with her doctor; she has some unique dietary needs and can no longer drive. You have called a “family council meeting” to make a plan for the move and to discuss the changes this will bring about in your family. Develop a plan to address the changes, taking into consideration the needs and well-being of all family members. Present this plan, using visual and written materials, to an audience that may include parents, teens, geriatric professionals, family services professionals and/or other appropriate people.

Sample Guiding Questions

1. What changes are likely to be made in the family? How might each person in the family be affected by the changes?
2. How can you identify each family member's wants and needs in order to support family and individual satisfaction and well-being?
3. How might family members adapt to the changes? How might they negotiate with others to meet their needs?
4. How are the family's resources likely to be affected by these changes? What other resources are available to help families in time of major changes?

Sample Scenario

You are the parent of a middle school student. Your child has shared with you that her best friend (also a middle school student) has started smoking. The young friend has been using her lunch money to buy cigarettes from older students at school. Your child has told you this in strict confidence, but the young friend’s mother is also a friend of yours. With current health concerns about teenage smoking you feel that the girl’s mother needs to know about the smoking problem. Develop a plan to inform the young friend’s mother about her daughter’s behavior. Present your plan to an audience of parents, teachers, social workers or other appropriate people using visual and written materials.

Sample Guiding Questions

1. How might revealing this confidential information create conflict between you and your own child? How might you avoid this conflict?

2. How might breaking this confidence create conflict between your child and her friend? How will you help mend their relationship?

3. Where will you get information on the risks of teenage smoking?

Sample Scenario

It is the first week of school and there are 3 new foreign exchange students enrolled in your school. The principal has asked your class to plan and prepare a welcoming reception for these students. The reception will be part of the next PTA meeting where 75-100 parents usually attend. Develop a nutritious menu that includes some foods from each exchange student’s home country. Develop a written plan that includes why each food was chosen, a list of the ingredients necessary to serve 100 guests and a plan to complete the food preparation and serve it at the PTA meeting. Present your plan, using written and visual materials, to an audience that may include PTA members, parents, teachers and/or other appropriate people.

Sample Guiding Questions

1. How will you decide what foods to prepare for the reception?
2. How will you determine how much of each ingredient you will need?
3. What do you need to consider in planning how to complete the food preparation?
4. What do you need to present the food in a pleasing way?

Sample Scenario

You are a parent of middle school age child. Several other parents in your neighborhood have asked your child to baby-sit for their younger children. Baby-sitting for the neighborhood children would be an opportunity for your child to learn responsibility and earn some extra spending money. Your child is the youngest in your family and experience with small children has been limited. Develop a plan to help your child learn about the care and development of young children so that everyone involved (parents, baby-sitter, and young children) can feel secure during a baby-sitting situation. Present your plan to an audience of parents, teachers of young children, nurse and/or other appropriate people.

Sample Guiding Questions

1. What should you consider when taking a baby-sitting job?
2. How can you learn more about parenting and child development skills needed by a baby-sitter?
3. How would you evaluate baby-sitting skills?
4. What advice would you give to other middle school students who would like to baby-sit?
