Dear Colleagues:

This is an exciting time for writing education. Educators are paying increased attention to the subject, and for good reason. Nationally recognized research has identified a strong writing program as one of five characteristics common to schools that achieve superior academic performance, regardless of student demographics. In addition, state writing standards and proficiency testing are driving interest in improved writing education. Writing is now recognized as a powerful tool for learning and for authentic assessment throughout the content areas.

By embarking on the CraftPlus program, you are joining educators across the country who are responding to these developments and in the process revolutionizing writing instruction. CraftPlus represents a fundamental change in how we look at writing and how we teach it. It leaves behind the “assign and assess” paradigm and goes well beyond creative writing journals.

In CraftPlus, we teach writing craft—the wonderful set of skills and techniques that good writers know and use to make their writing effective and enjoyable. Through its enhanced writing-process mechanisms, CraftPlus instruction promotes revision, the key to good writing.

I am confident you will find the CraftPlus approach logical, effective, and satisfying. I know this from the many teachers who have told me:

“You changed my life.”

“This is stuff I never learned in school myself.”

“This is the piece that was missing in my attempts to teach writing.”

“I couldn’t get my students to write, now I can hardly get them to stop.”

“Two years ago 27% of my students scored above the state average on the writing assessment; this year 100% of them, and it’s all because of your writing-craft approach to teaching writing.”

You will be amazed when you see what your students can do when you teach writing craft. And you will be even more so when you see what your students can do when they have learned these skills progressively from kindergarten.

As I said, this is an exciting time for writing education, and it is a rewarding time to be a writing educator.

Quick CraftPlus Overview

“Our range, our capabilities go no further than craft. Even in creative writing courses, craft is all that can be taught.”

—Robert Scholes, The Rise and Fall of English (1998)

CraftPlus is a K–8 writing program that unifies writing instruction across an entire school or district. The integrated learning package consists of a K–8 core writing curriculum based on Target Skills-instruction, professional books, grade-level Curriculum Guides, sixteen workshop and classroom demonstration videos or DVDs, and a CD with student samples and other classroom support materials. You will learn how to teach writing by working with the materials in study groups, reading the books, and by practicing in your own classrooms the skills and techniques you learn.

What you will do first. Most teachers like to start small when they make changes in the way they teach. That’s fine. CraftPlus is not an all-or-nothing program. As you work with the CraftPlus components over the next year or two, your approach to writing instruction will change, too. Teaching to Target Skills makes it easy to begin teaching writing craft almost immediately as part of your normal writing schedule and during content-area instruction.

First off, you’ll watch a video or two, read a few pages of the professional books, and get started with your study group. You’ll learn the basic instructional techniques you need to get started. In your classroom, you’ll start by teaching basic, descriptive Target Skills from a list that CraftPlus provides. These skills build a foundation for later work with genres.

The CraftPlus Components

CraftPlus is an integrated learning package with a curriculum, professional books, grade-level Curriculum Guides, and sixteen videos.

The Videos. Videos 1-10 are about 40 minutes long, contain one to four segments and are appropriate for all K–8 teachers. Video 11, “The Emergent Writer’s Workshop,” demonstrates how kindergarten and first-grade teachers can move young students from each emergent-writer stage to the next. This video is 34 minutes long. Videos 12-16 demonstrate specific writing-craft lessons in a classroom. They cover editing by ear, elaboration, ending techniques, supporting details, and sentence variation. Each of these videos connects to a workshop video topic.

CraftPlus Curriculum Guide. This desk-level guide supports a year of instruction. Section 1 gives you an overview and includes templates for instruction and assessment, planning forms, lesson plan template, and three rubrics. Section 2 contains study group discussion points and program visuals. Section 3 contains the grade-level curriculum, quarterly Target Skills-instruction records, records of student application of Target Skills, end-of-year expectations, Target Skills by genre, and lesson plan scaffolds. A separate CD contains student writing samples in all genres, the program visuals prepared for use as overheads and handouts, and various classroom supports.

Professional Resource. Each teacher receives one of the professional resources cited in the study guide discussion. The resources are full of useful tips and lessons. The resources extend the information you will find in the videos. They are designed to be used with the videos.

Your CraftPlus facilitator, who supports CraftPlus implementation for your school or district, has received copies of the professional resources and the Curriculum Guides for the grades purchased.

Some Key Terms

The K–8 Curriculum. The progressive and spiraling K–8 curriculum is organized by genre around composing, organization, and convention skills. CraftPlus introduces the craft-directed curriculum from the first day of school in kindergarten, even for students who cannot read. Instruction incorporates writing process and emphasizes practice writing in writing workshop or content-area writing.

The CraftPlus curriculum covers the major craft elements pertinent to descriptive writing and narrative and expository genres. The K–8 Genre Map in Section 3 shows you the genres that CraftPlus supports and the genres that you will be teaching in your grade.

Target Skills. Target Skills are single writing-craft skills that you teach and which your students then practice and apply either in writing workshop or in response to content-area instruction. Target Skills transform writing instruction into an objective-based activity in which specific writing-craft skills are modeled, explained, and practiced. Target Skills help students learn the skills and techniques that all writers use. Writing to Target Skills is the primary focus of practice-writing for students as they journal or write self-selected, assigned, or prompted pieces. Target Skills facilitate revision, and they establish an objective assessment criterion for student writing.

A Target Skill may be general (how to embed definitions in text or use alliteration), or specific to a genre (the chronological ordering of events in a personal narrative). You will learn which Target Skills you are responsible for teaching and how to model these explicit techniques using literature models and examples that you and your students develop.

Descriptive Writing Target Skills. All CraftPlus teachers in your school begin each instructional year by teaching and reviewing descriptive writing Target Skills. These skills are used across all genres and in all grades. You will review and teach these organizational and composing Target Skills again as part of your genre-block instruction. You can find Target Skills for your grade in Section 3.

Genre Blocks. A genre block is a period of instructional time set aside to teach Target Skills that apply to a specific writing genre. Genre blocks can be as short as one to two weeks for elementary grades and as long as a month or nine-weeks for intermediate and middle grades. K–1 students begin learning about different genres. However, most K–1 students do not sustain genre pieces over time in genre blocks. A genre block for grades 2–8 ends with an assessed piece of student writing.

During your first year working with CraftPlus, K–5 teachers spend more time with core descriptive Target Skills and may only teach a few genre blocks. Middle-school teachers will begin teaching a specific genre after they teach descriptive Target Skills for six to nine weeks.

CraftPlus Writing Levels. This guide organizes Target Skills by genre and within each genre by the developmental stages of writers (Initial, Developing, Fluent, and Fluent Plus, abbreviated as IDFFP). The levels define writers by how well they know and apply appropriate Target Skills, not by age or grade. This continuum helps you differentiate writing instruction based on the ability of your students. They appear on the genre tier charts in Section 3. They are explained more fully later in this section.

Instructional Levels. Each grade level teacher has an instructional role to play in the CraftPlus curriculum. Sometimes you will make students aware of a Target Skill, sometimes students will attempt a skill, and sometimes they will be able to carry that skill to mastery. Since students require several years to master most writing skills, CraftPlus revisits, repeats, and develops many concepts from year to year. The Awareness Level, Instructional Level, or Mastery Level (AIM) lays out the progression for you in the Target Skills Instruction Record Skills-Instruction form in Section 3. They are explained more fully later in this section.

Study Group Learning. Research by the Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development (ASCD) and others have shown that study groups are an excellent way to help teachers grow professionally. CraftPlus integrates professional development. You will meet regularly with a small group of colleagues to view a segment of a video and to discuss writing instruction. You will develop and share lesson plans based on the videos and the professional resources and try them out in your classroom.

“Writing craft skills and principles do not change with a writer’s age—for example, a six-year-old writer and a sixty-year-old writer must both write with strong verbs. What does change, as the writer’s vocabulary and general knowledge increase with reading growth and life experience, is the sophistication with which the writer is able to apply those skills or principles. The strong verb choice of the sixty-year-old will certainly be more advanced than that of the six-year-old. In each grade, the sophistication of our lessons and models must match the experience level of our students.”

—Marcia S. Freeman

Writing Notebooks for Teachers and Students

Teacher Writing Notebooks. Many teachers find it beneficial to develop a professional writing instruction notebook. Your teacher writing notebook is the place to store mini-lessons with student samples, literature model sources, and completed genre block plans, forms and templates. Customize it to reflect your classroom style and lesson repertoires. You may begin assembling these a few weeks after you begin teaching with CraftPlus. Suggested contents:

- ✦ Mini-lessons associated with writing for craft, conventions, and writing-process skills.
- ✦ Bibliographies of literature models for each writing-craft lesson.
- ✦ Assessments: Genre-block rubrics, state-test rubrics, school/grade rubrics, prompts, and portfolio procedures. See the Target Skills-based rubrics in this section in “Supporting Templates and Forms.”
- ✦ Grade-specific Target Skills information.
- ✦ Student samples.
- ✦ State, district, or school language arts standards and benchmarks.

Student Writing Notebooks. Student writing notebooks hold writing pieces, writing ideas, and reference sheets. They manage student work effectively. Customize them to reflect your classroom instruction style and students’ needs. New resources for student reference should be added throughout the year as they are needed. When you add something new, demonstrate its use with a mini-lesson.

K–1 writers often do most of their writing in journal-like composition notebooks. In addition to a journal, a three-prong, two-pocket folder works well for holding practice- and content-area pieces done on single sheets as well as the student reference resources you provide. Suggested contents:

- ✦ Class name list with color photographs
- ✦ High frequency word list
- ✦ ABC Sound Chart
- ✦ Color words, number words
- ✦ I can write about... for writing ideas
- ✦ Individualized editing check-list (mid-year for kindergarten)

Optional:

- ✦ Personal word bank
- ✦ Target Skills list (first grade)
- ✦ Class-created strong verb lists, descriptive attribute lists

Grade 2–8 writers use a three-ring binder divided into tabbed sections. Suggested contents:

- ✦ Writing Record of genre pieces
- ✦ Practice sections that reflect Target Skill lessons
- ✦ Finished pieces
- ✦ Printed reference pages – HELPS
- ✦ Self-evaluation methods
- ✦ Resources section
- ✦ Target Skills and examples
- ✦ High frequency words
- ✦ Editing Checklists
- ✦ Peer Conferencing

Additional Possible Tabbed Sections:

- ✦ Lists of writing ideas
- ✦ Lists of craft found in reading
- ✦ Description
- ✦ Narrative
- ✦ Expository
- ✦ Literature response

Understanding CraftPlus Writing Levels and Instructional Levels

Writing Levels. At the beginning of each year you'll determine the level of your students' writing with a CraftPlus assessment tool. This information will help you differentiate instruction to meet the needs of individual students. The CraftPlus genre tiers in Section 3 provide Target Skills-application across the Initial, Developing, Fluent, and Fluent Plus writing levels. See CD for leveled student samples.

- ✦ Initial writers are making, or have made, the oral-to-written connection. They understand that what they say can be written for an audience or themselves to read. They eventually write a few related sentences, but they often start a sentence in the same way over and over. These writers learn to write a beginning and ending and use basic composing skills in their pieces. Initial writers are approximately grade K–1 students.
- ✦ Developing writers are more comfortable writing several ideas based on a topic. They can include beginnings and endings in their pieces and make an attempt to vary sentence structure. These writers begin to use composing and literary skills to engage the reader. Developing writers are approximately grade 2-3 students.
- ✦ Fluent writers are capable of writing developed multi-paragraphed pieces with beginnings and endings. They use many composing skills and strive for varied sentence structure. They are capable of writing more genres, including persuasion and comparison. Fluent writers are approximately grade 4-5 students.

- ♦ Fluent Plus writers write developed multi-paragraphed genre pieces that have logic and flow. They use composing skills and literary devices to convey meaning and style as well as to set the tone of the piece. This most sophisticated writer engages the reader fully. Fluent Plus writers are approximately middle-school students.

The level at which a child can write is affected by cognitive development, prior exposure to writing-craft instruction, and natural aptitude. After the initial implementation year of CraftPlus, you will very likely find that the next class you teach will come to your grade writing at a higher level because students will have had more exposure to explicit writing craft instruction.

Instructional Levels. The CraftPlus instructional levels are specific to each grade. The levels of Awareness, Instructional and Mastery (AIM) represent the year-end expectations for teaching those Target Skills in your grade. You can find them on the Quarterly Target Skills-Instruction Record in Section 3 for grades K–5. Middle-school teachers determine the instructional level for Target Skills based on the year or years in which a genre is taught by circling the appropriate letter (AIM) on the Target Skills-Instruction Record by Genre in Section 3.

CraftPlus Target Skills spiral in difficulty over the K–8 years. Many skills repeat from year to year. The curriculum sets out your instructional level responsibilities so that the teacher at the following level can develop it further. For example, the techniques of beginning a piece with a question, exclamation, and onomatopoeia are Initial writing level Target Skills for both kindergarten and first grade. Kindergarten teachers make the kindergarteners aware of these techniques. First-grade teachers instruct the Target Skill because the students are expected to use the beginning techniques in their writing. The Target Skill is the same: the level of instruction and student expectations differ.

Instructional Level

A—Awareness	Students know what the Target Skill is and can identify examples in literature models. They may use it orally, with support during shared or interactive writing experiences, or through revision via teacher conference.
I—Instructional	Students practice using the Target Skill orally and in writing. They tend to over-generalize, using the Target Skill all the time instead of just when it is most effective.
M—Mastery	Students consistently use the Target Skill in their writing independently. They move away from over-generalizing the Target Skill to applying it effectively in the piece they are writing.

How to Teach a Target Skill

Teaching writing explicitly with Target Skills is the core of CraftPlus writing instruction. In busy classrooms, however, it can be difficult to find the time for extended explicit writing instruction every day. The 10- to 15-minute mini-lesson sequence breaks up explicit Target Skill instruction into a manageable instructional chunk that can be taught at the beginning of the 45-minute writing workshop block or during any small amount of time you have.

Note that the suggestions for After Mini-Lesson may be done immediately following the mini-lesson during the independent writing portion of writing workshop. Or, if you do not have a writing workshop time, After Mini-Lesson can happen any time during the day when students are writing in the content areas or working independently. As long as students are applying Target Skills in writing three to five days a week, you will see growth.

You always begin with an Initial Mini-Lesson and end with an Assessment Mini-Lesson. The number and type of Follow-up Mini-Lessons you do in between will depend on your students' needs. Expect a sequence of mini-lessons on one Target Skill to take from three days to three weeks. The number of mini-lessons needed to teach a single Target Skill is affected by:

- ✦ Familiarity with Target Skill instruction: the more familiar students are with the process, especially using pictures, the quicker the lessons will go.
- ✦ Writing Level of Students: Initial and Developing writers generally spend more time on individual Target Skills.
- ✦ Degree of difficulty of Target Skill: For example, strong verbs are less complex than embedded definitions.

The CraftPlus Mini-Lesson

Initial Mini-Lesson

Introduce the Concept (Awareness)

- ✦ Introduce the Target Skill and share the writing strategy that the Target Skill supports. For example: the Target Skill Use Strong Verbs supports the writing strategy to Create Imagery. (See The Reading/Writing Connection later in this section).
- ✦ Use examples from familiar fiction and non-fiction literature models.
- ✦ Begin a chart of examples of the Target Skill.

Try It Out Orally

- ✦ Model the skill out loud for students with a photo as your topic source.
- ✦ Have the students try out the skill orally using a single, self-selected photo as their topic choice.

AFTER Mini-Lesson—Practice and Application

- ✦ Challenge students to try out the Target Skill in current independent writing pieces, content area writing journals or assignments, learning logs, literacy centers, or homework writing journals. Hold mini-conferences based on Target Skills with students during independent writing.

Follow-Up Mini-Lesson—Written Demonstration

Begin with quick review of previous mini-lesson. Add literature model or student writing examples to chart.

Try It Out In Writing

Demonstrate the Target Skill with picture-prompted writing using one of the techniques listed below:

- ✦ Modeled writing—Teacher writes, students observe (K–8)
- ✦ Shared writing—Teacher and students compose together; teacher scribes (K–5)
- ✦ Interactive writing—Teacher and students compose together; teacher and students scribe (K–5)
- ✦ Parallel writing—Teacher composes a piece on overhead while students compose their versions at their desks (3–8)
- ✦ Guided writing—Teacher writes with a small group or one-on-one (K–2 and ELL K–8)

AFTER Mini-Lesson–Practice and Application

- ✦ Provide opportunities for students to practice the Target Skill with picture-prompted writing while you circulate and help individual students.

Follow-Up Mini-Lesson—Literature Models and Student Examples

Begin with quick review of previous mini-lessons. Review purpose for the reader to build reading/writing connection.

More Models–Share more examples illustrating the Target Skill, adding each new example to the chart.

- ✦ Non-fiction and fiction Big Books, picture books, guided reading books, content area books...
- ✦ Students’ writing samples that show use of current Target Skill.

AFTER Mini-Lesson – Practice and Application

- ✦ Again, challenge students to use the Target Skill in current independent writing pieces, content-area writing journals or assignments, learning logs, literacy centers, or homework writing journals. Hold mini-conferences based on Target Skills during writing.

Assessment Mini-Lesson

Apply Target Skill in Writing

- ✦ Teacher model-writes using the Target Skill in the same type of piece (picture-prompted writing, self-selected topic, thematic, or prompted) that students will be writing for assessment. The teacher’s writing should mirror the writing level (Initial, Developing, Fluent, and Fluent Plus) of students.

AFTER Mini-Lesson—Assessment

- ✦ Students demonstrate Target Skill use in assigned piece (picture-prompted writing, self-selected topic, thematic, prompted, or genre block). Use CraftPlus rubric for single or multiple Target Skills to assess writing. Rubrics are in “Supporting Templates and Materials” later in this section.
- ✦ Record individual student’s Target Skill use with the appropriate forms found in Section 3.
  - ✦ Grades K–5: Quarterly Target Skills-Instruction Record
  - ✦ Grades 4–5: choose: Quarterly Target Skills-Instruction Record or Application of Target Skills by Genre Block: Class Roster
  - ✦ Middle-School: Application of Target Skills by Genre Block: Class Roster

Self-Reflection on Instruction Questions

Reflect on the following questions as a guide for planning future writing mini-lessons:

- ✦ What worked well for my students as they learned this Target Skill? (literature models, demonstration lessons (which type), oral practice, student samples, conferencing...)
- ✦ What was difficult for my students, how can I change my instruction? (more examples, more oral practice, different demonstration lessons, more written practice...)
- ✦ Did most of the students “get it” at the expected level of instruction (AIM)? Do I need to spend more time on the Target Skill now or revisit it later?

Subsequent Days – Reinforce Target Skill Use

- ✦ When conferencing with students compliment them for use of Target Skills in their pieces and suggest specific Target Skills for them to use when revising a piece.
- ✦ Add the current Target Skill to the student’s writing folder skills list and on lists for conferencing and Author’s Chair.
- ✦ Continue to add examples of Target Skill use to class chart from a variety of resources. Make students responsible for finding examples from independent reading, peer conferencing, content area reading, or literacy center activities.
- ✦ Do periodic Target Skill review lessons.
- ✦ When you assess writing in genres, include general, non-genre specific Target Skills such as descriptive writing composing skills as review skills.
- ✦ Assign different, general Target Skills as review skills in content area-writing assignments. For example, you can ask students to use a Target Skill in daily reading or science journal entries.

The Reading/Writing Connection

Students need to understand that the way they write has an effect on their readers. As you teach Target Skills, point out the reading/writing connection so that students understand the purpose of writing well. Below are four major writing objectives with writing strategies and examples of Target Skills that support those objectives.

As students begin to understand writing craft, you will note the reciprocal benefit writing has on their ability to read. They will begin to view reading from the “inside out.” They see that the craft that a writer uses in a book they read helps them visualize, organize the material, connect to the material, make inferences, and summarize.

1. Writing Objective: Reader needs to visualize.

Writing Strategy to Apply:

Create Imagery

Writing Target Skills that Accomplish Objective: Strong verbs: readers love action

Sensory attributes: a few choice adjectives

Specificity: Fawn instead of baby deer

Comparisons: Like; simile (as... as...), It reminds me of..., It is so... that ...; and metaphor It is a...

2. Writing Objective: Reader needs to understand material.

Organize the Material

Writing Target Skills that Accomplish Objective: Organize informational text by clumping related information or sequencing in step order

Use hooks, introductory paragraphs, and ending techniques

Use varied supporting details

Give the reader transitions

Link sentences using content words

3. Writing Objective: Reader needs to connect text to self.

Engage the Reader

Writing Target Skills that Accomplish Objective:

Use literary devices

Use specificity: Make your reader smile

Make comparisons

Use varied sentence length and form

Use the pronouns you, we, I

Use varied hooks and ending techniques.

4. Writing Objective: Reader needs to make inferences and summarize.

Writing Strategy to Apply:

Give the Reader a Job to Do

Writing Target Skills that Accomplish Objective:

Give your readers clues so they can make inferences.

Give a variety of supporting details so readers will agree with thesis statement or the main idea.

Teaching with Picture-Prompted Writing: Sample Mini-Lesson

Picture-Prompted writing is a core CraftPlus strategy. Any K–8 teacher can use pictures to prompt any type of writing demonstration (modeled, shared, interactive, parallel, or guided writing). Students use picture prompts for practice-writing and assessed pieces.

For both practice pieces and assessed pieces primary grade-children prefer photos cut from magazines and glued to their papers. Students in grades 3-8 can use pictures cut from magazines or numbered, reusable photocard collections for practice and assessment.

This sample picture-prompted writing mini-lesson sequence for Strong Verbs walks you through a lesson. It follows the CraftPlus Mini-Lesson sequence explained earlier in this section. It is a guide, not a script.

Materials

- ✦ Examples of the Target Skill taken from literature read earlier during class.
- ✦ CraftPlus Photocard Library or teacher-made photocards.
- ✦ Chart paper or overhead transparency and markers
- ✦ Pencils and student writing paper. (See the CD for computer-generated greenbar paper master.)

Strong Verbs

Initial Mini-Lesson

(Some suggested questions and asides to students are in italics.)

Introduce the Concept (Awareness)

Introduce students to the selected Target Skill by pointing out how various authors have used it.

- ✦ Take a few minutes to review examples of Target Skills-writing craft in books read earlier to the students. Listen for strong verbs as I reread passages from some familiar books. Show me a ‘thumbs up’ when you hear a strong verb.
- ✦ Discuss with students how the Target Skill enhances writing. Encourage students to share how an author helped them visualize. Good writers help their readers to visualize. Strong verbs are one of a writer’s most powerful imagery tools. They help your reader see what you are writing about.

Try It Out Orally

- ✦ Use the pre-selected pictures to practice the Target Skill out loud. Invite the students to signal a ‘thumbs up’ when they hear the Target Skill and a ‘thumbs down’ when it is not demonstrated.
- ✦ After a few examples, distribute the pictures and have the students practice using the focus Target Skill out loud with a partner or in small groups. (In K–1, it’s usually most effective to keep the students in a single group that tries out the Target Skill on a few teacher-selected pictures. Make sure students voice complete thoughts when they respond to a picture prompt.)
- ✦ Encourage the students to use the Target Skill with several different pictures. Ask students to select a favorite example and bring the picture back to the whole group. As students share examples, you can make a class chart listing what the students share.

AFTER Mini-Lesson—Practice and Application

While students at their seats during independent writing, suggest that they try out using strong verbs in pieces they are working on. Why not try using some strong verbs in the piece you are working on today?

Follow-Up Mini-Lesson—Written Demonstration—Picture-Prompted Writing

Review the Target Skill from the previous day’s lesson. Why is it important for you as a writer to write with strong verbs? How does it help your reader?

Try It Out In Writing

Use modeled writing the first time you introduce picture-prompted writing. After students are familiar with picture-prompted writing for Target Skills-practice you can use other forms of writing demonstrations such as shared writing or parallel writing.

- ✦ Begin modeled writing. Think aloud as you select a picture to write about in your modeled writing. Let’s see. I’m going to use strong verbs in my writing today. I need to select a picture that I know something about and that shows action. Then show a couple of pictures and think aloud to model how they reason out whether they will work or not.
- ✦ At the top of your paper, draw a target and identify the Target Skill on which you are focusing. Write down the picture’s number if you are using purchased photocards. Write your Target Skill sentences while your students watch. Think aloud as you write. Model-write to match the ability of your students. When you have finished, reread your piece to the class, asking them to signal ‘thumbs-up’ each time they hear the Target Skill used.

- ✦ Review how you selected the picture you used for your model. Model that you asked two questions as you searched for a picture: :
  1. Do I know enough about what’s happening in the picture to write about it?
  2. Is it a good picture for the Target Skill?

After students have selected a photo provide time for oral practice with self-selected pictures. Students who are having difficulty applying the Target Skill may work with you in a small group for further instruction and practice during independent writing time.

AFTER Mini-Lesson—Practice and Application

- ✦ Students take the pictures to their seats and begin writing. Circulate around the room, conferring as needed. Observe how many students seem to be using the Target Skill successfully.
- ✦ Meet with a small group of students for additional instruction and practice.
- ✦ Wrap up today’s writing workshop by pointing out a few of the good things you noticed students doing. Remind students that they will all have a chance to share their pieces during the next writing workshop.

Follow-Up Mini-Lesson—Student Examples from Picture-Prompted Writing

Review the Target Skill if you noticed several students were having difficulty applying it in their independent writing. Provide an opportunity for students to check their pieces for the writing craft and revise for the Target Skill before continuing. Peer conferences can be very effective for older students.

More Models—Share more examples illustrating the Target Skill, adding each new example to the chart.

- ✦ Giving a writer time to share his piece and get a response from the audience is a very important part of practice with Target Skills. You can structure sharing and response in whole groups, in teacher-directed small groups, in student-led small groups, or in pairs. For the youngest writers in kindergarten and first grade, sharing and response is generally most effective when it is teacher-led.
- ✦ Add student’s examples of Target Skills use to class chart.

Assessment Mini-Lesson

Apply Target Skill in Writing

- ✦ Teacher selects a picture and model-writes for Target Skill at her students’ writing level (Initial, Developing, Fluent, and Fluent Plus). Think aloud as you write and revise for Target Skill use.

AFTER Mini-Lesson—Assessment

- ✦ Students demonstrate use of the Target Skill in assigned picture-prompted writing. (See the CraftPlus rubric for single or multiple Target Skills to assess writing at the end of this section)
- ✦ Record Target Skill use for individual students in Section 3.

How to Plan for and Teach with Genre Blocks in Grades 2–8

CraftPlus supports instruction in genres by organizing and helping you teach explicit, genre-specific Target Skills. You teach these skills in a genre block, which can be as short as one to two weeks for elementary grades and as long as a month or quarter for intermediate and middle grades. During your first year with CraftPlus, K–5 teachers spend the most time teaching general descriptive writing skills that help teach genres later. Middle-school teachers begin to teach genre after an initial period of teaching descriptive writing Target Skills. Note that the same descriptive Target Skills will also be applied during genre-block instruction.

Your grade-level Marking Period Pacing Chart in Section 3 works in combination with your district and states writing requirements to help plan a well-balanced writing curriculum. The specific Expository, Narrative, and Descriptive Writing Genre Tiers in Section 3 give you the Target Skills appropriate to the genres taught at your grade level. They will help you select Target Skills for each genre and plan specific lessons to teach them.

Teaching with Genre Blocks. During the genre block, teach the selected Target Skills in whole-class and small-group lessons. Have students write a practice piece to apply the skill in response to each lesson. A practice piece is great for peer conferencing and revision. It is not formally assessed. Students can also try out the Target Skill again in homework journals or in other daily writing opportunities.

When possible, match the blocks with content, literature, or the themes you are studying. For example, an expository/informational genre block during a science or social studies theme. Or, a personal-narrative genre block when the class reads and studies a biography together.

Once students have experienced the genre through literature models, teacher models, other student samples, etc., and have practiced the Target Skills in writing workshop or content-area pieces, they are ready to have a genre piece assessed. This piece must include the Target Skills taught during the block. Grade the pieces for the quality of Target Skills-use and for understanding of the genre itself. See the Student Self-Assessment Rubric, and the rubrics for single and multiple Target Skills in “Supporting Templates and Forms,” at the end of this section.

Using the Genre Block Planning Tool. The Genre Block Planning Tool in “Supporting Templates and Forms” at the end of this section includes organizational, composing, convention Target Skills; literature models, graphic organizers, and genre piece assessment plans for easy planning.

Keys to planning and implementing a genre block:

1. Select the genre and genre piece to be taught, practiced and assessed.
2. Record the quarter, date, and grade level.
3. Estimate the time you need to teach and complete the genre piece.
4. Choose grade-level Target Skills for instruction and assessment. At least one skill should review a Target Skill from previous lessons. See the grade-level Target Skills in the Genre Tiers, and in the Quarterly Target Skills-Instruction Record in Section 3.

Include:

- ♦ One or two organization Target Skills
  - ♦ Two or three composing Target Skills
  - ♦ One convention Target Skill
5. Plan explicit Target Skill mini-lessons.
    - ♦ Use genre-specific literature models that illustrate the Target Skill.
    - ♦ Use graphic organizers if appropriate.
    - ♦ Model the genre characteristics and use of Target Skill out loud and in writing.

- ✦ Allow students time to practice individual Target Skills that you have taught in practice pieces, in picture-prompted writing, shared and interactive writing sessions, in homework journals, and during content-area instruction.
  - ✦ Peer and teacher/student conferences take place over practice pieces.
6. Plan a genre piece for assessment.
- ✦ The genre piece could be a picture prompt, a teacher-written prompt, a self-selected topic or a content-area supported piece.
  - ✦ The genre piece should only assess the Target Skills that were chosen and taught for this genre block.
  - ✦ Students take the genre piece through the entire writing process.
  - ✦ Peer and teacher/student conferences take place over genre pieces.
  - ✦ A piece is graded with the Target Skills-Assessment Rubric: Multiple Target Skills in “Supporting Templates and Forms” at the end of this section.
7. After the genre block is completed save two or three student examples. Store them and the genre-block planning tool in your Teacher Writing Notebook for future use.
- ✦ Record the literature models you used on the Literature Models for Mini-Lessons Template in the “Supporting Templates and Forms,” at the end of this section. Store in your Teacher Writing Notebook.

Suggested Classroom Instruction Timeline

Here’s a basic timeline plan for to help you begin CraftPlus. Entries for each week assume that you are watching videos and referencing the professional books.

Get Ready to Start CraftPlus:

Meet with your study group and watch Video 1.

Schedule writing instruction: Plan time for 10- to 15-minute Target Skill mini-lessons three to five days a week, with additional time allotted sometime during the day for students to practice writing. Scheduling options:

- ✦ Traditional 45- to 50-minute writing workshop (10- to 15-minute Target Skill mini-lesson, 25 to 30 minutes for independent writing and conferencing, 10 minutes for response)
- ✦ Writing across the curriculum: 10- to 15-minute mini-lesson anytime during day or during the language arts block followed by students writing in literacy centers or content areas. (Note: with this model you will need to plan an occasional longer writing workshop-type writing lesson into your schedule.)

Gather materials:

- ✦ Decide what type of notebooks you will use and what contents to start with. (See Student Writing Notebooks in this section)
- ✦ Picture collections for picture-prompted writing. Choose some to set aside to use yourself during lessons, and prepare others for students to glue on paper. Photographs on calendar, and in parenting and nature magazines make good choices. Students love to write about action, people, and animals.
- ✦ Greenbar paper for Target Skills-writing.
- ✦ Stickers for “Did-it-dots.”

Become familiar with Target Skills: During your first school year with CraftPlus most of your mini-lessons will be building students knowledge of:

- ✦ Writing-process Target Skills (See Grade Level Marking Period Pacing Charts in Section 3)
- ✦ Descriptive Writing Genre Tiers are the core writing Target Skills. The number of Descriptive Writing genre tiers that you will cover during your first year with CraftPlus depends on when you begin to implement it. If you begin in the:
  - ✦ First or second quarter—Descriptive Writing Tiers 1, 2 and 3
  - ✦ Third quarter—Descriptive Writing Tiers 1 and 2
  - ✦ Fourth quarter—Descriptive Writing Tier 1

Think about integrating writing resources and lessons you have used in the past with CraftPlus techniques and Target Skill language.

CraftPlus Week 1:

Assess students: Use the appropriate CraftPlus assessment form found in “Supporting Templates and Forms” in this section.

Review assessment: Determine writing development level.

K Teachers—emergent writing stages; or generally Initial.

1–8 Teachers—writing level of Initial, Developing, Fluent, or FluentPlus (IDFFP)

Plan and teach first Target Skill mini-lesson sequence:

- ✦ Select a Target Skill from Descriptive Writing Genre Tier 1 in Section 3.
- ✦ Look for a sample lesson scaffold in Section 3.
- ✦ Write mini-lessons using the CraftPlus Lesson Plan Template in “Supporting Templates and Forms” in this section.
- ✦ Choose a literature model and decide how to present it based on what you learned from the pre-assessment of student writing level (IDFFP).
- ✦ Plan your lesson using ideas and techniques from the videos, professional resources and this guide. Or, apply CraftPlus techniques and Target Skills-language to a writing lesson you have taught in the past.

Start Class Target Skills Chart

- ✦ On a wall chart, list Target Skills as you introduce them so all students can see what they are responsible for in their writing.

CraftPlus Weeks 2 through 4

Continue Target Skills-Instruction from Descriptive Writing Genre Tier 1 and integrate writing-process Target Skills into lessons.

Introduce CraftPlus instructional techniques and tools

- ✦ Picture-prompted writing
- ✦ “Did-it-dots”
- ✦ Knee-to-knee sharing

Begin modeling how to respond to another writer’s piece through Author’s Chair (K–5) or peer conferencing (grades 2–8) (Video 2, Segment 3).

Introduce Student Writing Notebooks and start building contents with students. (See Section 1 and professional books)

Circulate in classroom, holding mini-conferences with students as needed to support students and build confidence and independence. (See professional books for specific techniques.)

Weeks 5 through 9

Continue Target Skills-Instruction from Descriptive Writing Genre Tiers and integrate writing-process Target Skills into lessons.

Introduce CraftPlus instructional techniques and tools

- ♦ Editing-by-ear (K–2)

Collect writing samples to include with mini-lessons in your Teacher’s Writing Notebook.

Establish a conferencing system or cycle to confer regularly with students about Target Skills-use on practice pieces, content-area writing pieces, or genre pieces. Suggested schedule for conferencing with every student:

- ♦ K–2 teachers: once a week
- ♦ 3–5 teachers: five to ten days.
- ♦ 6–8 teachers: five to ten days—conference and/or give written response.

Establish weekly writing homework journals by assigning a Target Skill for each notebook entry. Send information home about that skill. Occasionally, you can ask parents to try to apply the assigned Target Skill with, or in response to, their child’s work. Students often select a picture from home to use as a prompt.

Integrate writing into content areas

- ♦ Journals and logs. In the content-areas of reading, science, math, or social studies, journals and logs give students a way to practice writing with Target Skills. Prompting for specific Target Skill-use is effective.
- ♦ Poetry Notebooks. These contain a copy of poems read in class through read-aloud or shared reading on charts or overheads. Students sketch (K–1) or write a response to the poem, applying Target Skills and identifying examples of their use by the author.
- ♦ Literature Response Notebooks. Readers respond in writing to a section of text they read. You can prompt the students for comprehension or writing craft found in the reading. Students write in response and apply Target Skills to the piece.
- ♦ Picture-prompted quick quizzes for students in grades 3–8. Students write a response to a picture related to any idea or theme in a content-area as they apply a practice or review Target Skill. You assess student’s use of the Target Skill and comprehension of content.
- ♦ Mini-Reports. Travel brochures from AAA and other organizations, or two-page spreads from Ranger Rick and other nature magazines provide a good format for students to emulate for content-area mini-reports that integrate short pieces of text with text features like photographs and maps.
- ♦ ABC books. Used during or following a unit of study, these created books integrate Target Skills with writing about a topic. Each student can make his or her own ABC book, or the class can make one as a whole. Often, it is effective to have older students (4–8th grade) write books to share with younger students.

Week 10 and Beyond

Continue Target Skills-Instruction from the Descriptive Writing Genre Tiers and other genre tiers as appropriate. Continue to integrate writing-process Target Skills into lessons.

Save a writing sample from each student each quarter in a permanent portfolio to document growth over time. (You can give use the CraftPlus Assessment Forms or simply save a representative sample of the student's writing.)

Give Post-Assessment

Using Assessment Form A or Form B during the final weeks of school during your implementation year. (See "Supporting Templates and Forms" at the end of Section 1)

Suggested Study Group Schedule

Here's a basic plan to help your study groups during the first few months they use CraftPlus. Remember that everyone will watch Videos 1 and 2 first and read parts of the Curriculum Guide and the professional books. After that your study group can follow the suggested sequence or make adjustments as needed.

This format assumes a twice-a-month study group meeting that lasts 45 to 60 minutes. This schedule gives you time to read and try out mini-lessons before the next meeting. It is usually best to watch only one or two video segments at a time. Allow time to discuss the contents, share successes and challenges, and plan your next lessons. If your study group meets for less than 45 minutes, alternate so that you watch and discuss a video segment at one meeting and share successes and challenges and plan lessons in another. Your facilitator will help you schedule and maintain your study groups.

Section 2 of the Curriculum Guide contains study group discussion points cross-referenced with your professional books. Content for the program visuals is included, too. Visuals you see on the videos are on the CD as presented, ready for use as overheads, student handouts, or references for your Teacher Writing Notebook. Most teachers find it beneficial to read the professional book references before viewing the video.

Kick-off Meeting

Attend the Kick-off to receive materials, discuss the curriculum and program implementation, and form study groups. Note: Some schools use fall pre-planning to watch the first two videos.

On your own...

Become familiar with your professional book and the Curriculum Guide, focusing on Section 1.

- ✦ K–8 Teachers: Referenced pages from your professional book(s) for the video segments you will view in your next study group meeting.

In the study group...

- ✦ K–2 Teachers: Watch Video 11, “Emergent Writers: Stages and Modeling”
- ✦ 2, 3 Teachers:* Select and watch a classroom demonstration video:
  - Video 12: Editing by Ear
  - Video 13: Sentence Variation
  - Video 14: Ending Techniques
- ✦ 4–8 Teachers—Select and watch a classroom demonstration video:
  - Video 14: Ending Techniques
  - Video 15: Elaboration: Clues and Inference
  - Video 16: Supporting Details

- ✦ Use Discussion Points from Section 2 to guide discussion.
- ✦ Share student writing samples.
- ✦ Share successes and challenges with writing instruction.
- ✦ Plan next Target Skills and/or mini-lessons.

* Second-grade teachers are listed twice deliberately. During the first year with CraftPlus most teachers find they need to instruct one or two grade levels down. Second grade is also a critical transitional year for writing. Work with your facilitator to determine which study group sequence to follow.

- ✦ K–8 Teachers: Referenced pages from your professional book(s) for the video segments you will view in your next study group meeting.

In the study group...

- ✦ K–2 Teachers: Watch Video 12, “Editing by Ear,” classroom demonstration video
  - ✦ 2–5 Teachers: Watch Video 7, Segment 2, “Beginning Techniques” and Segment 4, “Ending Techniques”
  - ✦ 6–8 Teachers: Watch Video 7, Segment 2, “Beginning Techniques”; Segment 3, “Function of First Paragraph;” and Segment 4, “Ending Techniques”
  - ✦ Use Discussion Points from Section 2 to guide discussion.
  - ✦ Share student writing samples.
  - ✦ Share successes and challenges with writing instruction.
  - ✦ Plan next Target Skills and/or mini-lessons.

Fifth
Study Group
Meeting*On your own, read...

- ✦ K–8 Teachers: Read all of Sections 1 and 3, and your district and/or state writing standards; required genres, etc. (Bring them with you to your next study group meeting)

In the study group...

At this time you should be comfortable enough with CraftPlus to plan out your curriculum.

- ✦ K–8 Teachers: Use Grade-Level Marking Periods Pacing Charts, Genre Tiers, and district or state writing standards to plan writing instruction. The amount of time to plan for varies by student writing level (IDFFP).

Initial—plan 2 to 6 weeks in advance

Developing—plan 4 to 9 weeks in advance

Fluent—plan 6 to 9 weeks in advance

Fluent Plus—plan 9 to 18 weeks in advance

- ✦ Correlate sequence to watch videos with your writing plan. Remember to watch only one or two segments at a time so you have time to discuss the video, share, and plan lessons.
- ✦ Discuss CraftPlus implementation so far. What's working well? What do you need additional support with?
- ✦ Begin Teacher Writing Notebooks. Begin bringing in copies of lessons and student samples to share with colleagues to develop mini-lesson collections. Records models for future use with the Literature Models for Mini-Lessons Template found in this section.

Sixth
Study Group Meeting

Continue following model established in Study Groups 1–5.

Supporting Templates and Forms

The templates and forms that follow are used over multiple grades. Additional templates and forms in Section 3 are grade-level specific. Duplicate and use as needed. See CD for leveled student samples.

Primary Writing Stage Assessment. Used to assess emergent writers with the emergent writing stages found in Section 3 of the Kindergarten Curriculum Guide and in Teaching the Youngest Writers. Move to Form A when students are writing at Stages 6 or 7.

Assessment—Form A. For grades K–3, used to assess student writing levels of Initial, Developing, and Fluent. Students draw their own pictures and then write.

Assessment—Form B. For grades 3–8, used to assess student writing levels of Initial, Developing, Fluent, and Fluent Plus. Students write to a picture-prompt provided by the teacher.

Genre Block Planning Tool. For grades 2–8. Fill in the blanks.

Lesson Plan Template. Supports teachers as they plan for mini-lessons, conferencing, independent writing, and student assessment. After each lesson, copy and save representative student-writing samples with the lesson in your teacher's writing notebook. See Section 3 for completed lesson plan scaffolds.

Literature Models for Mini-Lessons Template. Records lesson literature models for future reference.

Rubrics.

- ✦ Single Skill. Grades K–8. Assess use of a single Target Skill
- ✦ Multiple Skills. Grades 2–8. Assess use of multiple Target Skills
- ✦ Self-Assessment Rubric. Grades 2–8. Students self-assess a genre-block piece

The Writing Process

Pre-writing:

- thinking
- rehearsal
- plan

Drafting

Response

Revising:

- clarity and interest

Editing:

- conventions

Publishing

Science and Writing Commonalities

Observation and description

Making comparisons and creating analogies

Sorting and classifying

Definition—general class to specific

Logic of implication—If X, then Y.

Process–step sequence

Seeing patterns

Posing questions

Writing Craft (Expanded)

Genre Characteristics:

- organization
- beginning and ending techniques
- beginning and ending paragraph functions
- transitions

Composing Skills (examples):

- describing with strong verbs
- using a variety of attributes
- using comparisons, allusions, and analogies
- using literary devices such as:
  - alliteration
  - onomatopoeia
  - personification
  - simile
  - metaphor
  - hyperbole and understatement
  - anadiplosis
  - antithesis
- varying sentence form and length
- using a variety of supporting details
- choosing words for sound, impact, connotative value, and audience
- using dialogue tags
- using specificity
- providing clues for reader to make inferences
- . . . and more.

A K–5 School-Wide Writing Instruction Plan

A. Organization:

Expository:

- Natural or logical divisions
- Sequential order
- Comparison

Narrative:

- Chronological sequence

B. Description:

- Strong verb writing
- Comparisons
- Variety of attributes

C. Beginning Techniques

D. Endings Techniques

E. Supporting Details

F. Sentence Variation: form and length

G. Composing Skills, such as:

- Specificity
- Engaging the reader
- Dialogue tags
- Literary devices

H. Revision:

- Addition
- Substitution
- Deletion
- Reorganization

I. Editing

Some Typical Genres or Styles Required by School Districts

- Description
- Personal informational expository (“I know this.”)
- Thematic informational expository (a report)
- Personal narrative (written in first person)
- Opinion paper–essay
- Comparison paper
- Process description
- Observational narrative (written in third person)
- Business and friendly letters (thank-you notes, invitations, e-mail protocol)
- Fiction
- Imaginative story in first person
- Evaluation, review, or analysis of books, art, theater
- Persuasion: ask for something or take a stand on an issue
- Problem analysis with proposed solution
- Problem analysis, identifying its causes
- Autobiographical essay

A Genre Block

Teacher:

- Select 2, 3, or 5 Target Skills appropriate for the genre and students' grade.
  - one organization skill associated with the genre
  - two composing (just one in second grade)
  - one convention
- Teach the Target Skills-lessons to the whole class and in groups for reinforcement.

Students try out the crafts in a paragraph or so:

- during Target Skills-lessons
- in their homework journals

Students write a genre piece:

- Students work on piece during days not taken by lessons.
- Students take the piece through the entire process, and apply the Target Skills.
- Conduct peer and teacher/student conferences over both genre piece and practice pieces.

Teacher:

- Assess genre piece for the use of the writing craft Target Skills.
- Additionally, assess any practice writing that students edit and submit for evaluation.

Sample Genre Blocks

Second Grade: Personal Narrative

Target Skills:

- Genre: End a narrative with a sentence telling how you felt about the focal event, using a universal word technique.
- Composing/Literary Skill: Use a simile or a comparison using the word like.
- Convention Skill: Use end punctuation of periods, question and exclamation marks.

Fourth Grade: Personal Narrative

Target Skills:

- Genre: End a personal narrative with a paragraph telling what you learned from the focal event or what was accomplished.
- Composing/Literary Skill: Use transitions for changes of time and place. Use at least two kinds of comparisons (like, simile, it reminds me, metaphor)
- Convention Skill: In editing, mark all paragraph starts: time, place, action, and change of speaker.

Genre Block Paper, Grade 2

Target Skills:

Three ideas

Universal word ending

Comparison: simile or like question marks

Sand Castles

by Jody

It is fun to build sand castles. Some are BIG and some are small. If you build a sand castle you have to have a lot of wet sand. You don't want to build a sand castle too close to the water or else the water will knock it down. I love to go to the beach and build sand castles. A sand castle reminds me of when my family and I go to the beach. Some people are great at building sand castles. Some are not so great! I am pretty good at building sand castles only with some one else. Do you like building sand castles? I think sand castles are great. I think everyone can build a sand castle.

(Grade 3: personal narrative genre block. Replicated exactly as presented.)

TOWER of TERROR

by Nicole, Illustrated by Nicole

Dedicated to: Mom and Dad

When I was in Disney World, I went on a ride called Tower of Terror with my father, cousin, and my two uncles. It's an elevator that falls 13 stories free fall. I was so scared, that whenever we went up, my face turned white. And whenever we went down, my face turned green. I was clinging to my dad's arm like a water slug clinging to a fish tank. But what I didn't know, is that the people who run the ride take pictures of the inside of the elevator. Then my dad, cousin, and my 2 uncles saw my picture, they started laughing like a hyena. I was so embarrassed.

Do we use both narrative and expository literature models?	Whole class lessons vs. group lessons. If group, what are the other students doing?
What benefits are there to using pictures when we teach a Target Skill?	ESOL, background experience, visual literacy, and shared vocabulary.
How does the concept of attributes connect to other content areas?	Attributes and their use in writing a comparison paper.
Oral models and practice.	Say, then write—what if children do not use correct English?
How long should writing be in response to a Target Skill lesson?	What about overuse of a Target Skill? Is graceful writing a goal during the instruction period?
What we do when we conference: compliments and tutorials.	Benefits of using the term “your reader.” Who is my reader? asks a literal student. Could each student select x number of classmates as “readers” per genre paper?
Daily Writing Workshop: Time, schedule, and the fit with literacy blocks.	What other mechanisms of our daily writing workshops do students have to learn?
How do we maintain records and notes of our conferences with students?	Authentic assessment of science, math, and social studies concepts through writing.

How to Teach a Writing-Craft Skill

An important principle in teaching students the writing craft is to show them how accomplished writers use a particular skill and then encourage them to emulate those writers.

Introduce the Concept (Awareness)

1. Introduce a skill by pointing out an example in a Big Book, trade book, or magazine article.
2. Talk about the skill.
  - Does it make the writing clear, interesting, or pleasant sounding?
  - Why do you think author does this?
  - How do you like it as a reader?
  - Can you construct something like this?

Try It Out Orally

3. Model the skill orally for students. (Use photographs or art prints as prompts.)
4. Have the students try the skill orally.

Try It Out In Writing

5. Help students try the skill out in a small practice piece (guided writing).
6. Demonstrate the technique through shared writing. Or,
7. Demonstrate the technique through modeled writing, thinking aloud as you compose in front of your students. (Prepare your models beforehand.)

Practice and Application

8. Have students practice the skill in their independent writing.

More Models

9. Share other texts (Big Books, non-fiction, and fiction) that illustrate the skill.

Assessment

10. Call for and assess the student's use of the skill in a piece of writing (self-selected topic, thematic, or prompted).

Descriptive Attributes

- movement or action: gliding, slithering, flapping; comparative—faster, more frenzied
- number: four, one half; non-specific—many, some, several; comparative—more than, fewer
- color: purple, green, pale yellow; comparative—sea green
- shape: round, oval, cubic, square, columnar,
- size: nine feet tall, ten yards; comparative—larger, as big as
- location: place or in time
- direction: left, right, up, down, backward, forward
- texture: smooth, bumpy, slippery; comparative—stickier
- composition: wooden, metal, plastic, glass, cardboard, paper
- smell: smoky, putrid, sweet; comparative—like smoke
- taste: sweet, salty, acidic; comparative—like licorice, fruitier
- function: use
- state: liquid, solid, gaseous
- temperature: forty-six degrees; non-specific—broiling, freezing; comparative—hotter than, coldest
- weight: ten pounds, seven grams; non-specific—heavy, light; comparative—as heavy as, the lightest
- age: five years old, eighteen months old; non-specific—old, new, ancient, antique, comparative—older than Methuselah
- symmetry: horizontal, vertical, radial
- special features: striped, buttons, ribbed

Scientific Attributes of Matter (Properties)

- State: liquid, solid, gaseous
- Appearance: descriptive attributes
- Plasticity: brittle, stretchy, bends, rigid, pliable, flexible, . . .
- Hardness: scratched by diamond, slate, metal, wood, . . .
- Density (weight per volume): comparative—denser than balsa wood, aluminum, . . ., denser than oil, glycerin, water
- Buoyancy: floats in . . ., or sinks in . . .
- Magnetic: attracted to magnet, or not; degree of attraction
- Conductivity: conducts electricity, or not; relative resistance
- Viscosity (liquids): compared to a standard—flows faster than molasses, oil, water, glycerin, honey
- Miscibility: dissolves in oil, water, glycerin, alcohol, or does not and forms layers.
- Reactivity: oxidizes, forms soluble salts, reacts to acid, . . .

Peer Conference

1. Connect to the Content

Writer reads whole piece. Peer makes a text-to-self-connection.

2. Compliment the Craft

Writer reads piece, sentence by sentence.

Peer compliments the use of the Target Skill with a sticker on the manuscript.

3. Comment and Questions

Free discussion about the writing.

Writer/Teacher Conference (3-6 minutes)

1. Connect to content.

2. Compliment craft.

3. Direct your comments and questions to the one aspect of the writing that most needs work.

4. Conduct a short tutorial about that aspect.

Conferencing with Young Writers

Use the phrase, “Your Reader,” when you conference with young writers, instead of the pronoun “I.” Young writers must learn that they are responsible, first and foremost, to their readers. The teacher is the instructor, coach, mentor, and editor.

- Do you think your readers will understand this part?
- Do you think your readers might notice that you start every sentence with “HE”?
- Your readers might not be able to picture this. Could you use a simile or an analogy here?
- When you leave out end punctuation, your readers don’t know where to stop.
- Do you think your readers might be counting all these “And thens” instead of enjoying your story?
- Your readers want action. Is there a way you can describe the reptile doing something, using a strong verb, instead of There is a snake on the rock?
- Do you think your readers will be convinced of this idea without any concrete proof, statistics, or quotes from an authority on the topic?
- Your readers will appreciate your ending technique of telling where to get further information about the topic.
- Your readers will love your beginning technique of using a startling fact.
- Do you think your reader will wonder what this sentence has to do with the rest of the paragraph? What is the paragraph really about?

Different Ways to Organize Writing

- Narrative: Chronological order

Personal Narrative
Imaginative Story (fiction)
Friendly Letter

Graphic planners are linear.

- Expository: Clumping of related facts or ideas together

Information
Explanation
Comparison Persuasion
Analysis
Description of a process: Linear step order, but not chronological

Graphic planners are genre specific.

Personal Narrative (story)

Sample prompt:

People feel good when they've helped someone. Think about a time when you helped someone. Now write and tell who you helped, what you did, and how you felt.

The weather can affect our activities. Think about a time when the weather affected an activity you planned or were doing. Now write the story of the day that the weather affected you.

- Prompt verbs are usually in the past tense.

Tell about the time you lost your tooth.

Tell the story of a trip you took to someplace new.

- Cue words prompting you to write about your own experience: tell about the time, tell about when, story, when, once, remember, occasion, what happened, the time, event, . .

Imaginative Story (Fiction)

Sample prompt:

It is fun to pretend that animals act like people. Imagine that a cat or dog had to go to school. Tell a story about what happened to a cat or dog that spent a day in a school like yours.

Imagine your grandmother or a neighbor asked you to mind her pet bird (cat, lizard, dog, mouse, giraffe, ...) while she went on vacation. Imagine some of the things that happened. Now tell the story of when your neighbor was away and you minded her pet.

- Prompt verbs are in the past tense.

Tell what happened to the dog that spent the day in school.

Tell about the time you minded someone's pet.

- Cue words prompting you to write a fictitious story: imagine, suppose, pretend, what if, what happened, tell the story,...

Expository

Sample Prompts

Weather affects our lives. Think about the good and bad effects of weather. Now write to explain how weather can affect your life.

Sometimes we have a favorite class in school. Think about your favorite class. Think about the things that make it your favorite. Now write to tell about your favorite class and why it is your favorite.

- Prompt verbs usually in the present tense.***

Explain how weather affects your life.

Choose a pet for your class and tell why it is the best choice.

- Cue words prompting you to write an expository piece: select, choose, tell why, directions, plan, explain, describe how, tell how, why,...

*Exception: In a history writing assessment a prompt may call for the analysis of reasons for a past event. The prompt will then be in the past tense.

Tell why the Pilgrims came to America.

The Two Narratives

Personal Narrative (Non-fiction)

- Main character is the writer
- The story is written in the first person, using I
- Setting is where and when the events take place.
- No plot.
- Some setbacks or small problems may be involved in the events.
- The ending drives the story; it is the point of the story—why you remember it and tell it.
- The ending reveals the writer's strong feelings about the event, what he learned or accomplished.

Personal narratives may also be Observational Narratives: the writer observes an event, but does not take part in the event. He writes the story in the third person using he, she, they.

Imaginative Story (fiction)

- Main characters may be the writer, people, animals, and other creatures (real or imagined).
- Story may be written in the first person, I or in the third person: he, she, it, they.
- Setting is when and where the events take place.
- There is a plot or at least a problem, also known as a setback.
- The plot or problem drives the story.
- The character solves the problem by the end of the story.

Setbacks in Fictional Narrative

Setbacks are events and circumstances that prevent a character from reaching his goal, getting what he wants, or solving the plot problem.

Kinds of setbacks:

- injury
- getting lost
- loss through death
- loss of an important object
- deadline not met
- natural calamities: rain, flood, blizzard, locust, earthquake
- natural events: tide coming in, sundown (loss of light)
- man-made calamities: war, theft, fire, boat sinking
- added responsibility
- villain activity
- _____
- _____
- _____

In fiction of chapter book or novel length, the character faces several setbacks and solves the last, biggest one in a grand way for a satisfying conclusion.

In a short narrative, such as a 45-minute prompted one, there is time only to focus a story around the main character overcoming one interesting setback.

Assisted Listing Technique

For Chronological Order

Technique is for any children planning a story or young writers who have the story in mind but write so slowly that they lose it as they write.

Procedure

1. Ask the child to tell you the story. Tell him you will write some of the key events as he tells you the story. (Model for the class so that peers can do the same for each other.)
2. Write events in list form as he tells you his story. Write them in an abbreviated style. Write in large, bold, block printing.
3. Ask: Where are you or the character? What are you or he doing? Who is with you or him? What happened next? What do you think your readers will want to know? What is the most important thing you want to tell your reader? What is not important? Cross those items off your list.
4. Leave the list on his desk or in his folder, as a guide.

Example:

1. Aunt Trina's on Saturday
2. To llama farm
3. Llama ate a dog biscuit
4. Llamas are brown and white
5. One baby llama all white
6. Took pictures of baby llamas
7. Llamas wouldn't come to fence
8. Picnic at Aunt Trina's
9. Swimming
10. Home and forgot my llama picture

Narrative Planner

Example of time line

Zoo Field Trip

Focus of narrative: What is highlight of the trip for each student?

Personal or Observational Narrative

Organization: chronological

Focus: The Snake That Ate a Mouse shape. Write the most about the main event.

Elaboration techniques: specificity, comparisons, dialogue, description, strong verbs, numbers, feelings, . . .

Beginning: Who, What, When, Where

Ending: Tell how you felt, what you learned, or what was accomplished. (In middle and high school—what significance the event had to your life.)

What is your point?

Beginning

Middle

Ending

(what happened)

who _____ felt, learned, or what _____ accomplished when _____ where _____

When to Paragraph in Narratives*

- Start of the piece
- Change in time
- Change in place
- A major change in the action
- Change of speaker
- Every 6-7 lines if none of the above.

Give your reader a break.

Remember:

P. A. T. S. For Paragraphs (Place Action Time Speaker)

Narrative and Expository Defined

Narrative is story (fiction or non-fiction).

- It's about people or animals in events.
- It is organized chronologically: time passes.
- Graphic planners are linear.
  - list with ordering by time
  - storyboards
  - time lines
  - Snake That Ate the Mouse planner

Expository is everything else.

- It's about information, opinions, and ideas.
- Expository writing is organized in clumps of related information and ideas.
- Graphic planners include:
  - list
  - list (sorting or clustering items)
  - flip book
  - Venn diagram
  - Comparison Analysis Organizer
  - web
  - fish bone
  - umbrella
  - outline

The Expository Genre

The genre as it develops from kindergarten through high school. Moving from concrete to abstract:

- Observation and description
- Informational text
- Process description and directions
- Comparison paper
- Opinion paper: personal essay
- Analysis and evaluation: book, art, movie, music, drama, dance. . . review

An Informational Expository Paper

Organizing your information

Topic:

Write the reason you clumped the words in each group in each box below:

Main Idea	Main Idea	Main Idea	Main Idea
-----------	-----------	-----------	-----------

Cohesive Paragraphs after List/Linking or Physical Sorting

1. Select one group of words.

Wendy's
 McDonald's
 Taco Bell
 Oriental Garden
 Burger King

2. Think about how the words relate to each other besides the grouping rationale: all restaurants. Compare the items. Think about how they relate to you.

Samples from 3rd through 5th graders:

- Wendy's, McDonald, and Burger King all have fries and hamburgers, while the other two have different food. (3rd)
- Only Burger King and McDonald's give away toys. (3rd)
- My family likes the Oriental Garden best, but I like McDonald's. (4th)
- They all have about the same prices but it seems like you get more to eat at Oriental Garden. (5th)
- They are all line up or drive up and get served except Oriental Garden, which is a buffet. (5th)

3. Think about what you want to tell your readers about the five places and make that the focus of your paragraph.

Third-Grade sample: typical list-like approach

My family and I eat out. At Taco Bell we have nachos and tortillas. At McDonald's we eat hamburger and fries and I play in their maze. At Burger King I eat hamburger and fries and trade my trading cards. At Wendy's they have hamburgers and fries too.

Fourth-Grade sample: loose focus (two ideas—food, preference)

My family and I eat out. We usually go to Taco Bell, McDonald's, Wendy's, and Burger King. All of them have hamburgers and fries except Taco Bell. I like Burger King best because they give. . . cards. Everyone else in my family likes Wendy's better.

Fifth-Grade sample: tighter focus: amount of food and its relation to preference

We have a choice of five pretty good eating places (writer can't spell 'restaurant') in our town. There's Wendy's, Burger King, McDonald's, Taco Bell, and The Oriental Garden. My family eats out about once a week and we go to the Oriental Garden the most. I think they are all about the same price but you get more food at The Oriental Garden. It has a buffet and it's all you can eat. That's why it's probably my family's favorite.

Writing Across the Curriculum or, Writing in the Content Areas

What does that mean?

You can write about math, art, music, spelling, history, geography, science, drafting, computers, physical education, health, sports, books, plays, movies, people, ...

How do you do that?

To write on any topic, you need to learn how to organize and compose:

- Informational writing (magazine article, report)
- Process description
- A comparison paper
- An opinion paper
- A persuasive essay

Book Reports

Scanning for Proof:

- Use fiction leveled one to two grades below reading level.
- Read the book or story to class.
- Provide copies of text to all partnerships or individual students.
- Start with finding proof for setting, then character trait or goal. Cite pages and supporting text.
- Do a class model together.
- Have students do one in partnership.
- Finally, assign a solo, scan-for-proof book report.

Opinion

A declarative statement of opinion, supported by sentences to:

prove with concrete examples clarify the statement

define the statement

supply details

use numbers/statistics

use a narrative vignette

make comparisons

offer authoritative opinion

set forth self-evident truths

use graphics

In Kid Talk:

Prove it.

What do you mean?

Use descriptive details.

Use a number.

Who else says so?

Make a comparison.

Give a real life example (narrative vignette).

How did that come about?

Give reasons why.

Persuasion

Persuasion is one useful skill; oral or written. We all should be able to argue successfully for the things we need or want.

- Why should I give you a bigger allowance?
- Why should we let you stay up later?
- Why should we allow cell phones in class?
- Why should I make you quarterback?
- Why should we accept you to our school?
- Why should I use tile instead of wall-to-wall carpeting?
- Why should I buy this car?
- Why should we change the way things are run around here?
- Why should I hire you?
- Why should I vote for you?
- Why should I marry you?
- ... and more.

Word Choice Considerations

Audience:

authorities, grownups, peers, voters, potential donors, . . .

Impact of words:

*People are getting hurt at that corner. Or,
We have carnage at that corner.*

*The car goes fast. Or,
The car reaches speeds in excess of 100 mph in 7 seconds.*

Connotative value:

old geezer or senior citizen computer nerd or computer genius cook or chef

Historic value:

*Jedidiah or Brad
Abigail or Lisa*

Persuasive Writing: Three-Part Paper

Introduction

State the thesis and acknowledge the opposition view or position. The introductory paragraph can use the same hooks as any expository writing.

Arguments:

- scientific facts
- appeal to shared values and common goals: liberty, pursuit of happiness, independence, responsibility, involvement, ethical behavior, industry, health, respect, preserving the environment, safety, . . .
- benefits to audience: financial, health, status
- emotions and vanity

Arguments are supported by the same details as any expository writing:

- scientific facts
- statistics and numerical facts
- empirical evidence
- self-evident truths: All people are created equal, we learn best by doing, boys are different than girls, freedom is preferable to slavery, you catch more bees with honey than vinegar (a compliment is better than criticism).
- direct quotes
- narrative vignettes
- charts and tables
- analogies and comparisons

Conclusion: the clincher is saved for the end and is the best argument or the best counter-argument to opposition. The ending can use any of the techniques of expository writing.

Example of a Persuasive Piece: (Fifth Grader)

Dear Mom,

Mom, you should let me have a horse. I know you will say no at first because we have no place to keep it. But Kristin told me I can keep it at her grand-father's farm with her two horses.

If I had a horse I would take care of it. Grandma is always saying taking care of a pet develops responsibility. You could buy me the horse for my birthday. I'll spend my own money to buy stuff for the horse. I know I can get a saddle secondhand from a kid in my class. And you were the one who wanted me to take riding lessons anyway.

Having a horse will give me a lot to write about in writing workshop and I will get better grades. Don't you think it would be worth a try?

Your daughter,

Jody

Dear Mom and Dad,

I need another rabbit. I know you don't want me to get another rabbit, but listen to my facts. I'm sure at the end of my letter I will have convinced you.

I could breed a new rabbit with the one I already have. I know you are saying, "NO" in your head but I could sell the bunnies and make money. Wouldn't it also be fun to hold those cute little balls of fur?

I would also take care of her. As you know, I take care of the rabbit I have. I would spend time with them and I would let them out. You always say taking care of the rabbit is making me more responsible.

Now, I know you are both saying, "Absolutely not," it costs too much money. But I would pay for her and the food, the supplies, and the whole nine yards. Of course, you might have to raise my allowance.

I could enter her in the Fair. Isn't that brilliant? She could win awards and I would get even more involved with 4-H. And that's good, isn't it?

My last thing to say, especially to you, Dad, is it would save us money if we were ever starving. Think of all the possibilities there would be: Rabbit stew, roasted rabbit, rabbit a la mode, boiled rabbit, baked rabbit, stuffed rabbit, and even rabbit pot pie. I'm just kidding, but it crossed my mind.

Now that I've told you everything, I would just like to say that if I didn't really want another rabbit, I wouldn't have taken time out of my busy schedule to write to you.

Yours truly,
Krista

Personal Narrative and Expository Beginnings

The beginning must engage or hook the reader. It should be easy to read, attract attention, and introduce or reveal the topic. (It rarely includes the main ideas.)

- Question
- Exclamation
- Noise (onomatopoeia)
- Setting
- Amazing or startling fact
- General-to-specific statement
- Words in capitals, bold, italics, unusual fonts
- Superlative
- Contrast
- Homily
- Alliterative phrases
- Talk directly to the reader
- Definition
- Sentence fragments
- Poem or ditty
- Riddle
- Anecdote (narrative vignette)
- Idiom
- Quotation
- Pun
- Play of words
- Exaggeration (hyperbole)
- Name of famous person or place
- ... and more.

Introductory Paragraphs (Mid-Third Grade and Above)

Build an introductory paragraph (two or more sentences) incorporating the hook.

Construct the introduction after writing the body of the piece, when you know where you want to lead your readers.

The content of a piece determines the function of the first paragraph.

- Give background information.
- Tell how you got interested in the subject.
- Tell how you feel about the subject.
- Set a tone or atmosphere.
- Tell why the topic is important to the reader.
- Define the topic.
- State a problem.
- Tell what you want.
- State your position on an issue.
- Explain the organization (in pieces over 4-5 pages in length).
- ... and more.

Fiction First-Line Categories

- The author introduces the main character by name.
- The author describes the main character.
- The main character, named, is thinking or doing something.
- The character is talking.
- The author describes the setting (time or place or both).
- The author sets up the conflict in the first sentence.
- An event is in progress.
- Combinations of the above.
- A letter or a note.
- A prologue telling of a past event that sets up the story.
- ... and more.

Samples of Fiction First Lines

On Saturday, July 15th, Aqueduct Racecourse's great stands bulged and overflowed, spilling thousands of spectators onto the track's bright green infield.

(The Black Stallion Mystery, Walter Farley)

Mrs. May lived in two rooms in Kate's parents' home in London: she was, I think, some kind of relation. (The Borrowers, Mary Norton)

Henry Huggins stood by the front window of his square white house on Klickitat Street and wondered why Sunday afternoon seemed so much longer than any other part of the week.

(Henry and Beezus, Beverly Cleary)

I won Dribble at Jimmy Fargo's birthday party. (Tales of a Fourth Grade Nothing, Judy Blume)

It was a dark and stormy night. (A Wrinkle in Time, Madeleine L'Engle)

Dominic was a lively one, always up to something. (Dominic, William Steig)

Maurice's room measured six long steps in one direction and five in the other.

(Maurice's Room, Paula Fox)

Expository Ending Techniques

Grades K through 3—a technique, of one to two sentences

Grades 4 and up—technique starts a final paragraph of two or more sentences.

- Tell or reiterate how you feel about the subject.
- Ask the reader a question.
- Use a universal word: all, everyone, every day, each of us, everything, every time, everybody, always . . .
- Make a comparison.
- Give the last step or last directions in process.
- Invite reader to learn more: reference where.
- Offer the reader advice.
- Make a prediction.
- Circle back to the hook, using the same device or style.
- Quote the key person in the piece.
- Draw an analogy or a conclusion from the ideas or examples.
- Present the clincher in a persuasive argument.
- Remind reader of the main points (in a paper of 4-5 pages in length).
- . . . and more.

Cobwebs to Crosshairs!

by Carol Ann Moorhead

Cobwebs in your telescope? Could be—no matter how often you dust!

Imbedded in the lenses of many telescopes are two strands of spider silk. Don't think you can see them? Think again. If you can see the crosshairs in your telescopes, you can see the "cobwebs."

Crosshairs haven't always been made of spider silk. Early astronomers peered past platinum wires and through heavily ruled glass to view and chart the night skies. But by the 1900s, telescope manufacturers were using spider silk for crosshairs.

It's easy to see why. Spider silk is less expensive, easier to stretch into a straight line, and more resistant to extreme temperatures than platinum. It is also much finer. The average strand of spider silk is  $1/1,970$  of a centimeter wide—about 20 times finer than a human hair!

Now, spider-silk crosshairs are spinning out of existence. According to Alan Hale, president of Celestron International (a telescope maker) spider silk is being phased out in favor of less costly but thicker copper wire. At  $1/276$  of a centimeter wide, the new copper strands are only 3 times finer than a human hair.

Cobwebs in your next telescope? Not likely—unless you leave the cap off the lens!

Don’t Hit Your Reader over the Head

Readers like to figure things out for themselves. Give them the clues and let them have fun and infer.

Example:

We went to the beach. It was interesting.

(Boing! You hit your reader over the head. Readers have no fun figuring out (inferring) for themselves if the beach outing was interesting.)

Give clues:

We went to the beach. We saw two dolphins and they came so close you could see their eyes. I could even feel the vibration from their swimming by when I was in the water. We saw pelicans, hermit crabs, and a stingray, too.

Look for sentences in your writing that “hit your reader over the head”:

It was fun, He is mean, It is cold, We got hot, It is boring, . . .

Specificity*

Authors use specificity to make their reader smile. Readers say, “Oh, that’s just like me.”

Example: from Catfish and Spaghetti by Marcia S. Freeman

On a Saturday, Kerry went to Kmart with her mother to check out the price of a good pole and reel. One was $39.95.

Example: from The Train to Lulu’s by Elizabeth Fitzgerald Howard

We opened our lunch boxes. Surprise! a Hershey bar for each of us. And chicken sandwiches. Good lunch!

Example: from a third-grade writer

When we went to the county fair we rode on The Twister. You got in a small car and the ride threw you in all directions.

Metaphor: calling one thing another to show a strong shared characteristic

He is an Adonis.

Anadiplosis: repeating an ending word, phrase, or sentence at the start of the next

I'll tell you I am hungry, hungry enough to eat a horse.

Synecdoche (syn eck' do key): using a part to stand for the whole

The kids have wheels so it's hard to keep them around.

Spoonerism: reversing the starting consonant on a pair of words, a misspeaking;

He had a thoolish fought.

Redundant pairs: forming a couplet of two synonyms

hale and hearty, cease and desist, kith and kin, null and void, assault and battery, trials and tribulations, ...

Revisions Young Writers Make

Addition

More labels, letters or coloring in picture writing

More words per sentence: expanding with where, when, how, why, how many, and which one phrases

Add any new Target Skill to an existing piece.

Substitution

Replace and thens

Replace some *said*s

Specific names for he, she, or it, or a pronoun for repetitive use of name.

Deletions

Repeated words

Extra words

Reorganization

Moving words or sentences

Organization is a high-level thinking skill. It requires us to put events in sequence, arrange objects or symbols in order, sort information, make comparisons, group like things together, and manage space.

Cutting and pasting is one way to reorganize. Circling text and arrowing it to another place in a piece is another.

Circling and labeling text with letters and numbers to insert in another place is useful. Model all these techniques for your students.

Sample Paragraphs

My mom took my brother and me swimming. We went to the Arlington Park Pool. I rode in the front seat. The park has a pool that has black lines painted on the bottom. That helps you swim in a straight line. But only if you can open your eyes under the water.

Everyone in my family is tall. My Uncle Tom is the tallest. He can touch the ceiling in our house. My Dad is the next tallest. He can touch the ceiling if he stands on tiptoe. The ceiling is made of that popcorn stuff. When my brother gets a little older he might be able to touch the ceiling, too. Now he can if he stands on a milk crate.

Baby lions are called kittens. They follow their mother everywhere. They learn to hunt by watching her. They are mammals. They practice pouncing on insects and lizards.

The team was ready to play. The pitcher yelled in to the catcher to watch out for the next hitter. The catcher threw the ball to the first baseman. He threw it to the shortstop. Then the pitcher got it. He pitched the ball. Strike one! The hitter got ready. The left fielder was chewing gum. The pitcher threw another strike.

Difference between editing and revising.	The "just do it" principle of editing (in pencil). When might we introduce proofreader marks?
Teaching editing vs. asking students to edit their own papers.	Have editing checklists proved effective in getting students to edit their papers?
Editing on THE TESTS.	Internalization of editing skills.
Connecting writing conventions to editing. Setting editing standards per marking period.	What conventions are appropriate at our grade level?
Distribution of capitalization across the grades.	Divide all the proper noun categories into grade-appropriate or grade distribution.
Choral reading as syntactical practice.	Connection between expressive reading and text comprehension.
Punctuation, capitalization, and spelling as Target Skills.	Homework journaling (assigned Target Skills) as a public relations mechanism.
Why use concrete tools such as stickers, lip stamps, and clickers for editing?	What would Jean Piaget tell us about students in the elementary grades and the use of concrete tools?
Parents and their concerns with conventions.	Educating parents on how to receive their child's written work.
School policy on public display of student written work.	Using disclaimers for display work.

Editing Principles

- Edit someone else’s paper
- Edit for one convention at a time
- Edit several days after the piece was written
- Edit by ear for
  - end punctuation
  - capitalization of start of sentence
  - series of commas
  - paragraphs, in narrative

When to Paragraph in Narratives

- Start of the piece
- Change in time
- Change in place
- A major change in the action
- Change of speaker
- Every 6-7 lines if none of the above.

Give your reader a break.

Remember: P. A. T. S. for Paragraphs (Place Action Time Speaker)

Disclaimers for Displaying Work

1. Display work that young writers have edited independently. Advise the viewing audience:

The rest remains unedited.

2. Display work that young writers have edited independently for as much as they can, and that you completed.

Discussion Points	Additional Issues
If you can talk you can write vs. If you can read you can write. Oral language development and writing.	Students should articulate full sentences when you take their dictation and when they write.
Earlier reading as a result of writing concurrent with phonics training.	The validity of empirical evidence from us, the ultimate classroom researchers.
Models and practices that reinforce the message principle and the print principle.	Making the reading and writing connections.
When is it appropriate to model writing with “adult writing?”	Morning message in wrapped text.
Choosing letters to model for symbol-to-sound connection, based on order of formation in mouth: frontal, medial, and glottal.	Teaching letters from A to Z.
What about syllabication? When does that come into play?	Note: Dashes are used to represent words and are drawn as you model for students. Articulate the sentence, then draw a dash for each word as you say it again. Stress the finger spaces as you place letters on the dashes.
Danger of referring to word walls during writing time: the loss of fluency if young writers spend writing time searching for a word.	How much help should we give during guided writing? Should we freely supply spelling of any word a child asks for? What other sources of help are in my room for young writers who need a word?
Model of three (or more) related sentences.	Developing ideas and elaboration.
Descriptive and personal writing focus in early grades.	Vocabulary of attributes parallels science work.
How do you evaluate an emergent writer’s work?	State rubric vs. documenting an emergent writer’s progress from stage to stage.

Teaching the Youngest Writers: Principles and Axioms

1. Children who use their new sound-to-symbol knowledge to write learn to read earlier than those who do not.
2. Emergent writers need to learn (through demonstration/modeling):
  - message principle: what they say can be recorded through writing
  - print principles: spaces between words, directionality, text wrapping
  - letter formation
  - the letter symbols that match their speech sounds.

Model for Stages 1 and 2 Writers: any letters

Drawing of dog.

I m m m. M r r
a a a r. I m m.
 (I have a dog. My dog is very small and black. I love him.)

Model for Stage 3 Writers: beginning sound

Drawing of a kid in a tub.

I k t a b. I k p in the t. I g k.
 (I can take a bath. I can play in the tub. I get clean.)

Model for Stages 3 and 4 Writers: beginning and end sound

Drawing of getting dressed.

I cn pt on mi sk. I cn pt on.
mi ht. I cn gt dt.
 (I can put on my sock. I can put on my hat. I can get dressed.)

Model for Stage 5 Writers: beginning, end, and middle long vowel sounds (letters that say their names).

I have a gren bot. I kep it on a lak. You.
cn rid in it.
 (I have a green boat. I keep it on a lake. You can ride in it.)

Writing Craft in K-1

Description:

- Parallels science observation and description skill development
- Use of strong verbs
- Use of adjectives for specific attributes
- Use comparisons

Lists:

- Precursor to organizing multi-paragraphed expository writing
- Sorting and classification of objects, pictures of objects, and words for objects

Personal Writing: (Do not call it story unless it is.)

- Writer knows content, therefore, high engagement.
- Informational before narrative which requires sequencing in time order
- "I think..."
- Literature, science, art, music, math, gym responses

Ending techniques: K and first grade

A Year of Writing in Kindergarten

Developing and promoting writing fluency is the chief instructional goal for primary teachers. We want young writers to write freely and use words they know and can say, in spite of not being able to spell them. We need to assure them that they can approximate answers and take risks without penalty. Fluency must take precedence over precision.

Children come to kindergarten with a wide range of skills and experience. Some have limited oral language skills and experiences. Some cannot hold or use a writing tool, while others may not know that what they say can be transferred to paper with symbols. On the other hand, some children can talk fluently, use writing tools to draw or even write, and some recognize print text in context.

Even with the wide range of student ability, you can still begin writing-craft instruction. You will find that all emergent writers can address a Target Skill such as using color or number words. However, some children may only say their composition while others may be able to write them in some emergent style. The important thing is that no matter what form their expression takes, all emergent writers can share that expression with others and be complimented on the craft they use. They can all listen for the craft Target Skills™ in read-aloud and shared-reading experiences. They can all contribute to shared-writing and interactive-writing demonstration lessons. Kindergarteners can begin learning the vocabulary of the writing craft.

Pre-Assessment

During the first week of your initial CraftPlus® implementation, and during the first week or two of each school year after that, it is imperative that you assess kindergarten students with the CraftPlus®Primary Writing Stages Assessment.

This assessment provides baseline information. It shows student growth over time, helps you assess what each child knows about the oral-to-written code, and provides information to plan and differentiate your initial Target Skills mini-lessons.

Teaching Tip: For a list of suggested mini-lessons based on the Primary Writing Assessment refer to "Appropriate Models for Successive Emergent-writing Stages" in Teaching the Youngest Writers, pgs. 34-36.

Ongoing Assessment and Post-Assessment

The CraftPlus® Primary Writing Stages Assessment tool is used for ongoing assessments and also at the end of the year for a post-assessment. Depending on your students' needs you may also choose to move to CraftPlus®Assessment Form A for ongoing and post-assessments. (See Section I, Supporting Templates and Forms)

Primary Writing Stages

Young writers can be described in terms of the writing behavior they exhibit. Number stages with descriptive labels create a helpful reference system for assessing students, planning instruction, and reporting progress. Children often simultaneously exhibit characteristics of two or more stages, reflecting different levels of print concepts, sound-to-symbol understanding, and fine motor development.

Stage 1: Picture Writer >communicates by drawing or making random marks >may not be able to tell about picture or marks >none-to-minimal understanding that symbols convey a message
Stage 2: Verbal Informer >chooses own topic
	>tells about picture
	>drawing contains few details >may make random symbols
	>some letters and numbers show great variation of form >no sound-to-symbol relationship

Stage 3: Letter Copier

- >chooses own topic
- >tells about picture
- >drawing contains some details
- >labels drawings with symbols or letters
- >may write letter strings (often letters from name) with no sound-to-symbol relationship
- >copies environmental print and text from books

Stage 4: Labeler

- >chooses own topic
- >tells about drawing with details integrated
- >drawing is more detailed
- >labels the important parts of the drawing with starting letter of word
- >writes letter strings of consonants with some sound-to-symbol relationship
- >shows left-to-right movement of writing

Stage 5: Inventory Taker/Sound Maker

- >chooses own topic
- >tells about drawing with details integrated
- >writes with a letter-to-word correspondence (b is boy, d is dog)
- >some consistent use of first and last consonants
- >Begins to write inventories of known letters, words or phrases, MLMMLLLL., or I love my d., I love my K., I love my mom.
- >shows left-to-right movement of writing

Stage 6: Sentence Maker

- >chooses own topic
- >more emphasis on writing than drawing, sketches to plan
- >begins to use finger spaces
- >generates strings of words using first and last consonant, some medial vowels, high frequency words
- >writes left to right, may wrap text
- >begins to put period at end of writing

Stage 7: Information Communicator/Story Maker
	>chooses own topic
	>emphasis mainly on writing, sketches to plan >drawing to illustrate follows writing >more consistency in letter formation and use of capital and lower case letters >begins to use finger spaces
	>uses blends, digraphs, medial vowels, high frequency words
	>puts a period at end of writing >writes more than one sentence about an idea or topic

End-of-Year Expectations

Students leaving kindergarten should be able to:

- ✦ Write a few related descriptive sentences about self-selected pictures and personal topics.
- ✦ Build and use a vocabulary of descriptive attributes.
- ✦ Write responses to literature.
- ✦ Construct lists fluently.
- ✦ Sort and classify items or words in a list
- ✦ Write a few related descriptive sentences in response to a picture prompt.

CraftPlus® K-8 Writing Curriculum Genre Map

This chart represents the writing forms and genres that kindergarten students should be writing independently. During shared writing and reading experiences you will introduce your students to additional writing forms and genres and the related writing craft. While some children may begin writing to these additional genres do not expect it from most students. For example, most kindergarten teachers write letters in the form of thank-you notes with their students during the year.

If your district or state requires you to teach a genre that is not listed in Kindergarten CraftPlus® curriculum, see your facilitator to get a copy of that Genres Tier document.

CraftPlus Expository Writing: Kindergarten

Literature Response

Literature response can take on any form of expository writing as long as the student is writing with a literature selection in mind. Literature response pieces can contain the supporting details of an opinion or literature response as well as many of the descriptive writing Target Skills.

	Initial Writer	Developing Writer	Fluent Writer
Organizational Most descriptive writing organizational Target Skills apply to expository writing and can be used as review Target Skills during genre pieces. Organizational Target Skills that are especially effective with a literature response piece are:
Pre-write for literature response	generate lists, charts or graphs; sketch; brainstorm; research; and talk about material or literature	same as initial	same as initial
Plan a literature response	tell what you know about your drawing, picture or writing; clump words or ideas that go together	sort words or ideas to form paragraphs; name the rationale for each clump; order paragraphs for presentation; write topic sentences from sorting rationale	organize and order paragraphs; write topic sentences; determine paper focus (what do you want to tell your reader about the information or ideas).
Write a literature response	tell then write several related sentences on one topic	write multi-paragraphed pieces with a beginning hook and ending	write multi-paragraphed pieces with introductory and ending paragraphs
Use beginning techniques	hooks—questions, exclamations, onomatopoeia	hooks—startling fact, talk directly to the reader, definition, general to specific statement, words in capitals, bold, italics, unusual fonts	hooks—sentence fragments, contrast, riddle, homily, alliterative phrase, quotations, exaggeration (hyperbole), play on words (pun), anecdote (narrative vignette)
Write introductory paragraph	n/a	tell how you feel about the literature or subject, tell what interests you about the subject or in the literature	give background information
Use ending techniques	(one sentence) feeling, universal word ( all, every, world, etc. ); or question	(may be one or two sentences) exclamation, give the reader advice; make a comparison; and remind reader of an important idea or fact in the paper	(paragraph) prediction, where to find out more, circle back to the hook

Composing Skills All descriptive writing composing skills apply to expository writing and can be used as review Target Skills during genre pieces. Composing skills that are especially effective for literature response pieces are:
Sentence variation	extend sentences with when and where phrases, ask a question	combine or extend sentences with when , where , why , and how phrases; revise for repetitive sentence starts	use compound sentences; combine or extend sentences with which one phrases; use contrast (antonyms in one sentence)
Make comparisons	et, est , simile using like or as	just like , it reminds me of , the same as... but... ,	so...that ; analogy; metaphor; personification
