CITIES AND TOWNS TEACHING HOUSEHOLD ARTS.

The following list gives, by States, the names of cities and towns in which the household arts are taught in the elementary or secondary schools. There are included 3,082 towns and cities and 2,440 high schools. The list was compiled from returns to an inquiry sent to local superintendents of schools in September, 1914, supplemented by the replies to earlier schedules sent out in connection with this study and by a special inquiry to State superintendents of public instruction in October, 1914. Complete returns are lacking from certain States, and there is not entire uniformity in the data presented.

The letters following the names of places have the following significance: "c" indicates that cooking is taught in the elementary grades; "s" that sewing is similarly taught in the elementary grades; "e" that either cooking or sewing is taught in the elementary grades, definite information not being available; "h" indicates that household arts is taught in the high school; the name of a town without any index letter indicates that household arts is taught in the public schools, but that definite information was not secured as to whether in the elementary school or high school, or both; the presence of an index letter indicates that work was definitely reported of the type indicated, but the absence of either index letters does not indicate that such other work is not given (for example, in some States facts could be secured as to high-school work only, and many towns thereby entered for "h" only are doubtless also offering work in the grades; in another case exact data as to high schools may be lacking).

A list of 159 State normal schools that teach household arts is given in Part II of this report (Bulletin, 1914, No. 37, p. 127), and a list of 252 colleges teaching home economics is given in Part III (Bulletin, 1914, No. 38, p. 68).
