LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, BUREAU OF EDUCATION,
Washington, November 10, 1908.

SIR: I have the honor to transmit herewith a manuscript entitled "State School Systems: Legislation and Judicial Decisions relating to Public Education, October 1, 1906, to October 1, 1908," which has been prepared by Prof. Edward C. Elliott, of the University of Wisconsin, and to recommend its publication in the Bulletin of the Bureau of Education.

Two years ago Professor Elliott prepared a similar digest, covering the two-year period from October 1, 1904, to October 1, 1906. This was intended particularly for the use of state education offices and the education committees of the state legislatures then about to convene. Abundant evidence has been received of the usefulness of that publication to the officials for whose use it was primarily intended, and also to many other persons engaged in the comparative study of educational legislation and administration. The digest herewith presented has been prepared in a more leisurely and thorough manner than was possible in the case of the earlier publication, and will, it is believed, be found still more serviceable in many directions. The object chiefly in view in offering it for publication is the same as that set forth above in the case of the legislative number of the Bulletin of 1906. It is believed that it will answer numerous inquiries which are likely to arise in the course of legislative procedure affecting education in the several States, and that in this way it will contribute in no small measure to the end proposed for the Bureau of Education in the act of March 2, 1867, establishing this office, that of "diffusing such information respecting the organization and management of schools and school systems as shall aid the people of the United States in the establishment and maintenance of efficient school systems, and otherwise promote the cause of education throughout the country."

Very respectfully,

ELMER ELLSWORTH BROWN, Commissioner.

The Secretary of the Interior.
PREFATORY NOTE.

The following work, relating to current educational legislation and judicial decisions in the United States as generally affecting the organization and administration of the state school systems, was undertaken at the instance of the Commissioner of Education of the United States, Dr. Elmer Ellsworth Brown. It is in continuation of the plan inaugurated two years ago, which resulted in a similar publication covering the period 1904-1906 (Bulletin, 1906: No. 3). The very evident wide usefulness of that publication, together with its cordial reception by those for whom it was intended, seem to justify its successor at this time.

The work of preparation of the present number has been carried forward principally in the Wisconsin state library and the law library of the University of Wisconsin, at Madison. To the members of the staff of each of these libraries I am indebted in the largest measure for their continued and courteous assistance in placing the necessary facilities at my disposal. In this connection I desire especially to mention Mr. Gibson G. Glazier, librarian, and Mr. William H. Orvis, assistant librarian, of the state library. Dr. Charles McCarthy, librarian of the Wisconsin legislative reference library, has by his advice and continued helpfulness furthered in numerous ways the progress of my work. Mr. W. L. Bailey and Miss Elizabeth McKee, of the University of Wisconsin, have rendered much timely and valuable aid in the correction of the manuscript and proof.

The conditions under which this work was undertaken would have made impossible the incorporation of those portions dealing with judicial decisions relating to education had not Mr. H. E. Randall, editor-in-chief of the West Publishing Company, generously granted permission to make use of invaluable copyrighted material.

With but one or two exceptions the various state superintendents of public instruction, or the corresponding state educational officers, have responded to a request for information regarding the character and importance of the legislation enacted in their several States during the period under consideration. The assistance of these officers has added much to the value and quality of the results I have attempted to set forth, and I take this opportunity of expressing my appreciation of such assistance.
Throughout, the spirit of hearty cooperation, characteristic of the attitude of all those upon whom I have had to depend, and especially so of the various members of the staff of the Bureau of Education, has contributed to make my work far less arduous and far more profitable than it otherwise would have been.

In spite of the care in preparation, a piece of work of this kind contains possibly some minor errors. For these, and perhaps larger ones, I alone am responsible.

The University of Wisconsin,

Edward C. Elliott

STATE SCHOOL SYSTEMS: LEGISLATION AND JUDICIAL DECISIONS RELATING TO PUBLIC EDUCATION, OCTOBER 1, 1906, TO OCTOBER 1, 1908.

GENERAL EXPLANATIONS.

Scope and plan.—In the following pages an attempt has been made to classify and to analyze the changes brought in the public school systems of the various States and Territories by the legislative measures enacted during the past two years, October 1, 1906, to October 1, 1908. Supplementary to this legislative material, there are also included digests of or citations to those decisions of the state supreme courts containing important interpretations of statutes relating to public education, or defining in a significant way the status of the public schools.

Legislative sessions are biennial in all the States and Territories except in Georgia, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, Rhode Island, and South Carolina, where they are annual, and in Alabama, where they are quadrennial. Consequently, the period selected includes the enactments of one session of the legislature in most of the States and all of the Territories, and of two sessions in the case of the States holding annual sessions.* In addition, the acts of extra legislative sessions held in several of the States have been examined for measures relative to the public school system.

The following table displays the time of meeting of those legislatures the enactments of which have been presented:

To accomplish the purposes for which the bulletin is immediately intended in as direct and brief a manner as possible, legislative enactments of the following specific character pertaining to state school systems have been included:

1. All general permanent laws, whether new enactments or amendments to general permanent laws already in force.

2. Constitutional amendments, adopted or proposed, whether general or local in their effect.

3. Laws resulting in significant changes in the organization and administration of public education in the larger and more important cities of each State, even when general in form and special in application; provisions of new municipal charters, and amendments to existing charters.

4. Laws authorizing special appropriation for the establishment of a new educational institution or class of institutions, and extraordinary appropriations of wide general interest.

5. Laws relating to the general administration, control, and management of particular state educational institutions.

The following classes of legislation have been excluded from consideration:

1. Laws providing for general appropriations.

2. Special acts relating to particular individuals or minor localities.

3. Special and temporary acts, unless of more than local or transitory concern.

Such laws are, however, with few exceptions, merely classified and digested in the briefest possible manner. They have been reserved for complete analysis and treatment in a separate bulletin dealing with city school systems, which is in preparation and to be issued later.

Legislative measures relating to certain classes of reformatory, charitable, and quasi educational institutions have generally been omitted; for complete explanation see footnote under section T, "Education of defectives."

For instance, the appointment of the commission on industrial education in New Jersey (see enactment No. 1294) or the appointment of the Collinwood School fire relief commission in Ohio (see enactment No. 37); or the joint resolution of the Wisconsin legislature (enactment No. 55) concerning a national system of education are included.

In addition to the legislation above noted, digests of and citations to recent decisions of the highest state courts of the following general character have been likewise included:

(1) Those relative to the constitutionality of important statutes concerning public education.
(2) Those presenting special interpretations of measures enacted during the biennium 1906-1908.
(3) Those touching upon interests and principles of direct and vital importance to our social policy in public education.

Method of presentation.—With respect to the legislative material, the aim has been to present in a concise and serviceable manner the meaning and contents of each particular enactment, classified in accordance with the writer's best judgment. As a general thing but one entry has been made for each of those laws treating of but one particular topic or title. Frequently, where an enactment possesses a relation to two subjects, according to the scheme of classification, a method of cross reference has been resorted to. Thus, for example, enactment No. 133 (Kentucky) contains several important items. In order to classify properly, several cross references are given. (See enactments Nos. 19 and 1239.)

In a number of cases wherein a single law treats of a number of diverse subjects or titles, or wherein the amendments to the educational code are grouped together in a single act or chapter, an effort has been made to distribute the particular portions of such measures so that the alterations produced in different directions would be evident. Such distribution has been indicated in an appropriate manner, either by indicating a particular section of an individual chapter or act, or otherwise.

Each law or separate title has been treated in one of three ways:

(1) Unimportant new laws and amendments have been indicated as briefly as possible by title or otherwise. Where the title of the law presents its import in a clear and concise manner it has been used, sometimes by quotation and sometimes by such modifications of the wording as would convey its significance in the best possible manner.

(2) Frequently, and especially in the case of amendments to existing statutes, besides reference to the particular subject, more or less explanatory matter has been added to bring out the exact change produced.

(3) With important and far-reaching measures, in addition to the title and digest of the subject-matter of the enactment, either the whole or the most significant portion has been printed.

* As, for example, the decision of the United States Supreme Court upholding the constitutionality of the Massachusetts act requiring street-railway companies to carry school children for half fare. The text of this decision is given at the end of this bulletin.
With respect to the judicial decisions, the method of simple citation has been employed in the case of those of minor importance. Generally, however, a brief digest of pertinent points has been included. In a few instances a complete syllabus of the decision has been presented. Appended to the main body of classified legislative and judicial material, there has been included the complete text of a number of recent court decisions, which are thought to be of more than passing interest to those engaged in the work of administration of public education.

Still further, by way of evaluation of the importance of laws and decisions in the respective States, use has been made of the information furnished by the various state superintendents and educational officers. Laws and decisions which they have regarded as of the first importance in the development and progress of the state's educational activities and system have been indicated by an asterisk (*). Method of classification and arrangement.—In order to facilitate presentation and to render this bulletin of ready service for reference, the whole mass of the special class of educational legislation, together with the digests of and citations to related judicial decisions, has been carefully classified according to what seems to be a logical and consistent scheme. At the same time, throughout, the effort has been to avoid such complexity of classification as would tend to defeat its purpose. Under each of the headings indicated has been placed all of the matter properly belonging thereto, arranged alphabetically by States. In addition, the enactments and decisions have been numbered consecutively, thereby contributing to ease and readiness in discovering matter of a particular type. Citations to and digests of judicial decisions have been distinguished from legislative enactments by prefixing a capital "D" before the reference number. The index at the close of the bulletin further insures the discovery of legislation bearing upon any single topic.

Typography.—In the case of each legislative item, the title of the measure, whether given verbatim or in modified form, is printed in the smaller type (8 point), leaded. Comments following the title of the measure, or a brief summary of its provisions are printed in the same type without leads. Direct quotations from the text of the measure are printed in 8-point type without leads, and are inclosed within quotation points.

The material taken from judicial decisions has been treated in the same general way.

The reviews found in connection with each classified group of legislation and decisions have been printed in the larger (10-point) type, leaded.

Method of citation.—At the end of each legislative entry will be found the proper citation to the section: chapter, number of act, or page (in the case of those States whose session laws are not numbered consecutively); year, day, and month of approval or passage. In a number of instances where enactments became operative at some date after passage or approval, the date of operation follows in parentheses the date of passage or approval.

In the case of digests of and citations to judicial decisions the usual method of reference to reports has been employed.

An especial effort has been made to avoid arbitrary and technical abbreviations in making citations. Consequently, but few have been used and these only the most common and easily recognized ones. It is thought that the resulting absence of ambiguity and confusion for the lay and nontechnical reader more than compensates for the slight increase in the volume of matter presented.

Reviews of legislation.—An effort has been made to characterize briefly and to indicate the significant features of the legislation included under each of the principal and important subjects as indicated by the plan of classification. These reviews and decisions (printed in large type) will be found immediately preceding the classified list of enactments of each section.

A. ADMINISTRATIVE CONTROL AND SUPERVISION OF ELEMENTARY AND SECONDARY EDUCATION.

(a) General.

Of the legislation relating to the general administrative control and supervision of public education, the several enactments creating special commissions: Illinois (12), Iowa (14), Kentucky (20), North Dakota (35), Pennsylvania (47), Tennessee (50), Virginia (52), and Washington (53), for the purpose of revising the laws pertaining to the public-school systems, or proposing plans of organization to succeeding legislatures, are especially worthy of note. The spirit of this movement for a better adaptation of the educational organization to modern needs is well indicated by the duties assigned to the Illinois commission—"to make a thorough investigation of the common-school system of Illinois, and the laws under which it is organized and operated; to make a comparative study of such other school systems as may seem advisable and to submit to the forty-sixth general assembly a report, including such suggestions, recommendations, revisions, additions, corrections, and amendments as the commission shall deem necessary." In this connection, also, the general revision of the educational code effected in Nevada (79), New Mexico (32), West Virginia (54), and South Dakota (100), may be mentioned.

The recently adopted constitution of Oklahoma (42), and the proposed new constitution for Michigan (27), contain evidence of the modern progressive educational sentiment. The resolution in Wisconsin (55), requesting Congress to bring about an amendment to the Federal Constitution providing for an harmonious system of education throughout the country, is concrete evidence of what seems to be a growing popular feeling that the scope of the educational activity of the Federal Government should be greatly extended. The proposal in Wisconsin (57) to raise the lower limit of school age from four years to six years, has provoked considerable discussion by reason of a possible interference with the conduct of kindergartens as a part of the public-school system. The somewhat comprehensive Oklahoma (43) measure, providing against nepotism in educational affairs, is not without significance. The creation of the "Collinwood fire commission" in Ohio (37) is a reminder of the extraordinary responsibility that public-school officials must assume, in order properly to discharge their duties and fully to safeguard the lives of public-school children.

Of the supreme court decisions classified in this section those of Arkansas (3), New York (34), and Ohio (41), relative to the vaccination of school children; those of Kansas (7), (18), Kentucky (21), and Oklahoma (45), relative to separate schools for white and colored children, and that of Montana (28), relative to county high schools, seem to possess more than passing interest.

2. Alabama (1906): Laws, 1903, p. 290, relating to the redistricting of public schools, is a restatement of the entire law on the subject, and in regard to the management and control of the same, and was intended to set up a new system, so that whatever power any school officer may have on these subjects must be derived from the act. Gibson v. Mahrey, 40 So. 297.

3. Arkansas (1907): A rule of a school board of a city, providing that pupils before admission to the schools shall be vaccinated, adopted to prevent the spread of smallpox, and pursuant to the orders of the board of health of the city and advice of physicians is not an unreasonable regulation, and will not be set aside by the courts. Anten v. Board of Directors of Special School Dist. of Little Rock, 104 S. W., 130.

4. California: Proposing amendment to sec. 6, art. 9, constitution; 1870, as amended Nov. 4, 1902, relative to the public-school system. Joint Res., chap. 21, p. 1275, Mar. 6, 1907.

The charter of a city and the general law should be construed together by the court, and made to harmonize, so as to give effect to each, if possible. McKenzie v. Board of Education of City and County of San Francisco, 82 P., 302.

6. Colorado (1904): The decisions of the state board of education which Mills' Ann. 8t, sec. 308, conferring on it power to decide questions of law and fact, provides shall be final, are not final in the sense that they are not reviewable by the courts; otherwise the statute would violate constitution, art. 6, sec. 2, vesting the judicial power in the courts there enumerated. People v. Vahnorn, 77 P., 973.
7. Connecticut: Authorizing secretary of state board of education to compile and cause to be printed for distribution 2,500 copies of the laws relating to education.
   Special acts No. 20, Mar. 14, 1907.

8. Connecticut: Continuing the joint standing committee on education with instructions to inquire into the conditions and progress of common-school education.

9. Delaware: Authorizing the secretary of state to have printed for distribution, 1,000 copies of the school laws.
   Jt. Res. chap. 270, Mar. 9, 1907.

D 10. Florida (1905): Laws 1905, chap. 5384, establishing the state board of control, is not in conflict with constitution, art. 12, sec. 3, providing that the state board of education shall have supervision of schools of higher grades. State v. Bryan, 30 So., 929.

D 11. Georgia (1907): An act approved Aug. 23, 1905 (acts, 1906, p. 425), as amended by act Aug. 21, 1906 (acts, 1906, p. 91), known as the "Mc-Michael School Law," is not subject to the objection that it violates the constitution or civil code 1895, sec. 5779, declaring that no law or section of the code shall be repealed or amended unless the act making such amendment or affecting such repeal distinctly describes the act to be amended or repealed; this provision of the constitution having no application to repeals by implication.—Edalga v. Southern Ry. Co., 58 S. E., 846.

D 12. Illinois: Creating an educational commission, defining its powers and duties, and making an appropriation therefor.
   Authorizing governor to nominate, and by and with advice of senate, appoint six persons representing the various phases of educational work within the state, who, together with the superintendent of public instruction, shall constitute a commission to investigate the common-school system of the state and compare it with other systems. Defining powers and duties and making appropriation. H. B. 742, p. 24, May 25, 1907.

D 13. Indiana (1907): The establishment and regulation of public schools rests primarily with the legislative department.—Stone v. Prifta, 82 N. E., 792.

D 14. Iowa: Creating a commission to examine, review, and codify the laws relating to public schools.
   — Providing for the organization, expenses, powers, and compensation of commission. Report to be made on or before Nov. 1: 1908.
   Chap. 222, Apr. 13, 1907.

D 15. Iowa (1905): Acts twenty-seventh general assembly, p. 48, chap. 94, is entitled "An act to amend secs. 2728, 2720, 2721, and 2722, and repeal sec. 2713 of the code, and enact a substitute therefor in relation to county schools," and sec. 4 of the statute provides that, should there be more applicants for admission to a county high school from any school corporation than the corporation's proportionate number of pupils the school corporation from which they attended shall pay their tuition out of its contingent fund. Held, that the statute is not invalid on the ground that the legislature had no power to compel a school corporation to pay for the education of pupils attending the high school without the corporation's consent.—Boggs v. School Tp. of Com. Guthrie Co., 102 N. W., 766.
D 10. Iowa (1906): Under code, secs. 2743, 2745, 2772, conferring on school boards discretion to adopt and promulgate rules for the proper government of schools, a rule so adopted will not be interfered with by the courts, unless it is so far unreasonable as to amount to an abuse of discretion—Kinzer v. Directors of Independent School Dist. at Marion, 105 N. W., 686.

Whether a rule adopted by a school board for the violation of which a pupil was expelled, was reasonably within the jurisdiction of the board conferred by code, secs. 2772, 2782, authorizing the board to make rules and regulations for the government of schools and to expel students for a violation of regulations, etc., was a question which was reviewable by the courts and, as to which the party aggrieved was not limited to an appeal to the county superintendent—bid.

The remedy for review of proceedings of a school board, either as to law or fact, with reference to a subject within the board's jurisdiction and as to which it is vested with discretion, is by appeal to the county superintendent of schools, provided for by code, sec. 2818.

D 17. Kansas (1906): In the absence of a statute granting such power, a board of education of a city of the second class has no right to establish separate schools for white and colored children, and has no right to exclude a colored pupil from any public school on the ground alone that such pupil is colored—Cartwright v. Board of Education of City of Coffeyville, 84 P., 382.

D 18. Kansas (1907): Laws, 1889, p. 220, chap. 227, is a special act providing for the government of the public schools of the city of Wichita, a city of the first class. Held to render all other provisions of the statute relating to the public schools inapplicable, to the public schools of Wichita, and, as it has not been amended or repealed, does not authorize the maintenance of separate schools for the education of white and colored children—Howles v. Board of Education of City of Wichita, 81 P., 88.

In the absence of statutory authority the board of education of the city of Wichita has no right to exclude a child by reason of its color from any public school of the city—bid.

19. Kentucky: See enactment No. 133.

20. Kentucky: Creating an educational commission, defining its powers and duties, and providing for its expenses.

"Sec. 2. Said commission shall consist of the governor, the superintendent of public instruction, one member of the senate to be chosen by the senate, upon the passage and approval of this act, one member of the house of representatives to be chosen by the house of representatives upon the passage and approval of this act, one woman to be chosen by the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, the president of the State University, the president of the Eastern State Normal School, the president of the Western State Normal School, one representative of the colleges of Kentucky, one superintendent of city schools and one superintendent of county schools. The three members last named shall be appointed by the governor upon the passage and approval of this act. The superintendent of public instruction shall ex officio be chairman of the commission. All vacancies that may occur by resignation or otherwise shall be filled by the governor."

"Sec. 4. It shall be the duty of the educational commission to make a thorough investigation of the whole school system and all the educational interests of Kentucky and the laws under which the same are organized and operated; to make a comparative study of such other school systems as may seem advisable and to submit to the next general assembly a report embracing such suggestions, recommendations, revisions, additions, corrections, and amendments as the commission shall deem necessary."

Chap. 63, Mar. 17, 1906.
ADMINISTRATIVE CONTROL AND SUPERVISION.

Act March 22, 1904, p. 181, chap. 85, prohibiting branches of institution of learning within 25 miles of each other for white and colored persons, held not within police power.—Ibid.

Act March 22, 1904, p. 181, chap. 85, prohibiting maintenance of institutions of learning for both white and colored persons, held not a deprivation of equal protection of law, or of due process of law.—Ibid.

The right to teach white and negro children in a private school at the same time and place is not a property right.—Ibid.

The Supreme Court of the United States, in the case of Berea College v. The Commonwealth of Kentucky, gave judgment as follows (1908): "The act of 1904 forbids 'any person, corporation, or association of persons to maintain or operate any college,' etc. Such a statute may conflict with the Federal Constitution in denying to individuals powers which they may rightfully exercise, and yet, at the same time, be valid as to a corporation created by the State.

It may be said that the court of appeals sustained the validity of this section of the statute, both against individuals and corporations. It ruled that the legislation was within the power of the State, and that the State might rightfully thus restrain all individuals, corporations, and associations.

The statute is clearly separable and may be valid as to one class while invalid as to another. Even if it were conceded that the assertion of power over individuals cannot be sustained, still it must be upheld so far as it restrains corporations.

We need concern ourselves only with the question of whether the first section can be upheld as coming within the power of the State over its own corporate creators. We are of opinion that it does come within that power, and on this ground the judgment of the court of appeals of Kentucky is affirmed."—89 U. S., Ct. Rep., 33.

22. Kentucky (1907): The determination of the cases of extreme emergency within Ky. St. 1903, sec. 4428, providing that no school district established shall include less than 45 pupil children, except in cases of extreme emergency, is conferred in the first instance to the county superintendent, who acts judicially, and, in case he err, an appeal may be prosecuted to the superintendent of public instruction, and, when these officials have determined that an extreme emergency exists, the courts cannot interfere unless the power to act did not exist for want of notice required. Trustees of Common School Dist. No. 54, 102 S. W., 1191; 81 Ky. Law Rep., 633.

23. Louisiana: Preventing school officials and public school teachers from acting as agents for or receiving gifts, rebates, commissions, or fees from individuals or companies that manufacture, handle, or sell any kind of school books, school supplies, school furniture, or school building material, and providing penalties for same.

Act No. 287, July 9, 1906.

24. Massachusetts: Providing for the printing of 1,200 additional copies of the report of the commission on industrial education.

Resolves, chap. 75, May 3, 1907.

25. Massachusetts: Amending sec. 178, chap. 102, Revised Laws, 1902, as amended by sec. 9, chap. 85, acts, 1904, relative to licenses and municipal regulations of exhibitions, shows, and amusements.

Adding clause exempting entertainments given in public school buildings by and for the benefit of the pupils and under the supervision of the school authorities from the requirement for license.

Chap. 806, Apr. 12, 1907.
D 26. Massachusetts (1908): Where a school committee determined to close a school because of lack of pupils, it would be presumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, that the committee acted in good faith, and that their judgment was correct. Morse v. Ashley (79 N. E.), 481.

ARTICLE XI.

EDUCATION.

"Section 1. Religion, morality and knowledge being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged."

"The above preamble is a quotation from the Ordinance of 1787. It is deemed a fitting introduction to this article."

"Sec. 2. A superintendent of public instruction shall be elected at the regular election to be held on the first Monday in April, nineteen hundred nine, and every second year thereafter. He shall hold office for a period of two years from the first day of July following his election and until his successor is elected and qualified. He shall have general supervision of public instruction in the state. He shall be a member and secretary of the state board of education. He shall be ex-officio a member of all other boards having control of public instruction in any state institution, with the right to speak but not to vote. His duties and compensation shall be prescribed by law."

"Sec. 3. There shall be a board of regents of the university, consisting of eight members, who shall hold the office for eight years. There shall be elected at each regular biennial spring election two members of such board. When a vacancy shall occur in the office of regent it shall be filled by appointment of the governor."

"No change is made from sec. 6, art. XIII of the present constitution, except to improve the phraseology and to eliminate obsolete matter."

"Sec. 4. The regents of the university and their successors in office shall continue to constitute the body corporate known as 'The Regents of the University of Michigan.'"

"No changes from sec. 7, art. XIII of the present constitution, except to improve the phraseology."

"Sec. 5. The regents of the university shall, as often as necessary, elect a president of the university. The president of the university and the superintendent of public instruction shall be ex-officio members of the board of regents, with the privilege of speaking but not of voting. The president shall preside at the meetings of the board and be the principal executive officer of the university. The board of regents shall have the general supervision of the university and the direction and control of all expenditures from the university funds."

"No changes from sec. 8, art. XIII of the present constitution except to improve the phraseology and make the superintendent of public instruction an ex-officio member of the board of regents with the power of speaking but not of voting. It was deemed desirable that the superintendent be given the same relation to the board of regents as he now occupies to the other educational boards of the state."

"Sec. 6. The state board of education shall consist of four members. On the first Monday in April, nineteen hundred nine, and at each succeeding biennial spring election, there shall be elected one member of such board who shall hold his office for six years from the first day of July following his election. The state board of education shall have general supervision of the state normal college and the state normal schools, and the duties of said board shall be prescribed by law."

"No change from sec. 9, Art. XIII of the present constitution, except to provide for the election of members of said board at the spring election, and to improve the phraseology. Reference to the superintendent of public instruction is omitted, but by the provisions of section 2 of this article he is to be one of the members of said board."

"Sec. 7. There shall be elected on the first Monday in April, nineteen hundred nine, a state board of agriculture to consist of six members, two of whom shall hold the office for two years, two for four years and two for six years. At every regular biennial spring election thereafter, there shall be elected two members whose term of office shall be six years.
The members thus elected and their successors in office shall be a body
'corporate to be known as ' The State Board of Agriculture."

"This is a new section making the state board of agriculture a constitutional board, elected by the people, instead of a statutory board appointed by the governor as it has existed since 1883. The object of the change is to make it a non-partisan board as near as may be and secure its permanence."

"Sec. 8. The state board of agriculture shall, as often as necessary, elect a president of the agricultural college, who shall be ex-officio a member of the board with the privilege of speaking but not of voting.
He shall preside at the meetings of the board and be the principal executive officer of the college. The board shall have the general supervision of the college and the direction and control of all agricultural college funds; and shall perform such other duties as may be prescribed by law."

"This is also a new section, supplementary to the preceding one. Its purpose is to define the organization, power and duties of the state board of agriculture."

"Sec. 9. The legislature shall continue a system of primary schools whereby every school district in the state shall provide for the education of its pupils without charge for tuition; and all instruction in such schools shall be conducted in the English language. If any school disttrict shall neglect to maintain a school within its borders as prescribed by law for at least five months in each year, or to provide for the education of its pupils in another district or districts for an equal period, it shall be deprived for the ensuing year of its proportion of the primary school interest fund."

"This section covers secs. 4 and 5, Art. XIII of the present constitution.
The change made is to the effect that if any school district does not maintain a school for five months in each year, instead of three months as now provided, such district shall forfeit its proportion of the primary school interest fund instead of the income of the primary school interest fund and of all funds arising from taxes for the support of schools, as now provided. The purpose of the change from three to five months is to prevent the education of the young, and the provision as to forfeiture is changed so as to exclude everything except the primary school interest fund. The provision for the education of pupils in another district than that of their residence is to accommodate sparsely populated school districts."

"Sec. 10. The legislature shall maintain the university, the college of mines, the state agricultural college, the state normal college, and such state normal schools and other educational institutions as may be established by law."

"This is a new section and renders it mandatory upon the legislature to maintain the educational institutions therein specified."

"Sec. 11. The proceeds from the sales of all lands that have been or hereafter may be granted by the United States to the state for educational purposes and the proceeds of all lands or other property given by individuals or appropriated by the state for like purposes shall be and remain a perpetual fund, the interest and income of which, together with the rents of all such lands as may remain unsold, shall be inviolably appropriated and annually applied to the specific objects of the original gift, grant or appropriation."

"No change from sec. 2, Art. XIII of the present constitution."

"Sec. 12. All lands, the titles to which shall fall from a defect of heirs, shall escheat to the state, and the interest on the clear proceeds from the sales thereof shall be appropriated exclusively to the support of the primary schools."

"No change from sec. 3, Art. XIII of the present constitution."
"Sec. 18. The legislature shall appropriate all salt spring lands now unappropriated, or the money arising from the sale of the same, where such lands have already been sold, and any funds or lands which may hereafter be granted or appropriated for such purpose, for the support and maintenance of the agricultural college."

"Certain obsolete provisions relative to the establishment of an agricultural college, which appear in sec. 11, Art. XIII of the present constitution, are omitted in the revision of said section. The italized words "funds" are inserted to secure appropriated funds as well as lands to the purpose named."

"Sec. 14. The legislature shall provide by law for the establishment of at least one library in each township and city; and all fines assessed and collected in the several counties, cities and townships for any breach of the penal laws shall be exclusively applied to the support of such libraries."

"This section takes the place of sec. 12, Art. XIII of the present constitution, the only change being the insertion of the word "cities" and the elimination of the following: "unless otherwise ordered by the township board of any township or the board of education of any city: Provided, That in no case shall such fines be used for other than library or school purposes."

SEC. 15. Institutions for the benefit of those inhabitants who are deaf, dumb, blind, feeble-minded or insane shall always be fostered and supported."

"No change from sec. 10, Art. XIII of the present constitution, except to insert the word "feeble-minded" for the purpose of making a Constitutional provision for the care of this class of unfortunate as well as the others named."

D 28. Montana (1907) : Session Laws, 1907, p. 50, authorizing the establishment of county free high schools, held not objectionable on delegation of legislative power to the voters of the counties. — Evers v. Hudson, 92 P. 492.

Constitution, art. 11, secs. 1, 11, held a mandate to the legislature to establish free common schools, etc. not a limitation on legislative power to provide for county free high schools. — Ibid.

D 29. Nevada: Providing for the reorganization of the system of school supervision and maintenance and repealing all conflicting acts.

Numerous amendments to existing statutes. Among important ones may be noted the following: Abolishing office of county superintendent and establishing office of deputy superintendent of public instruction, one for each of the supervision districts into which the State is divided; reorganizing the plan of examination and certification of teachers, such to be under the direction of state board of education and the board of educational examiners, created; creating office of city superintendent of schools for certain districts; increasing state school tax from 5 cents to 8 cents; modifying method of apportionment of state school moneys, using number of teachers as partial basis.

Chap. 182, Mar. 29, 1907. (Aug. 1, 1907.)

Defining suitable school facilities and accommodations to mean "proper school buildings, together with furniture and equipment, convenience of access thereto, and courses of study suited to the ages and attainments of all pupils between the ages of 5 and 20 years." Provision for within school district or by transportation of pupils.

Chap. 123, May 7, 1907.

D 31. New Jersey (1905): On a controversy between a citizen and a local board of education respecting the public school to which the children of the citizen should be assigned, the remedies provided by school law, 1903 (P. L. 21), by application to the state superintendent of public instruction, must be exhausted before mandamus will issue. — Stockton v. Board of Education of City of Burlington, 59 A. 1901.

Sec. 337 (p. 211) provides that the examiners shall hold stated examinations at such of their regular meetings as they may designate, and at least as often as once every three months, of all applicants, etc. Held that, there being no statute prohibiting the holding of such examinations on Saturday, or requiring the board to refrain from examining on that day persons who observe it as a day of worship, or to grant such persons a special examination on some other day, a Jewish applicant is not deprived of the equal protection of the law and discriminated against because of her race by being denied such examination on some day other than Saturday.––Cohn v. White, 72 N. E., 97.

Laws, 1893, p. 1495, chap. 661, as amended by laws, 1900, p. 1484, chap. 667, sec. 2, being sec. 210 of the public health law, excluding children not vaccinated from the public schools, is not in violation of the constitution, art. 9, sec. 1, providing for free common schools wherein all children of the State may be educated.––Ibid.

D 38. Ohio (1904) ; New code, sec. 217 (96 Ohio Laws, p. 91). In so far as it provides for the mode or system of government of the Toledo University, who the directors shall be, and how they shall be appointed, necessarily abrogates so much of Rev. Stat., sec. 4105, as contains the provi-don that the matter shall be committed to the control of the board of education of the city school district, but it does not abrogate that portion of such section providing for the levy of taxes by the board of education. —

D 39. Ohio (1904) ; Act Apr. 25, 1904, attempting to recreate and legalize special school districts theretofore existing, was violative of constitution, art. 2, sec. 25, providing that all laws of a general nature shall have a uniform operation throughout the State.—State v. Hickman, 27 Ohio Cir.

D 40. Ohio (1905) ; Rev. Stat. 1892, sec. 3891, and Rev. Stat., 1892, sec. 3891-3928, as amended by act April 25, 1904 (97 Ohio Laws, p. 334), being an act to provide for the organization of the common schools and to amend, repeal, and supplement certain sections of the Revised Statutes, are unconstitutional, in so far as they declare to be legal and valid special school districts: special districts which have been created under the provisions of invalid special acts of the general assembly.—Hartnett v.

the pupils attending, or eligible to attend, the schools of the district, as in its opinion the safety and interests of the public require, is a reasonable rule or regulation, is to be determined in the first instance by the board of education, and the courts will not interfere unless it be clearly shown that there has been an abuse of its discretion.—(1907) State v. Board of

EDUCATION.

"Section 1. The legislature shall establish and maintain a system of free public schools wherein all the children of the State may be educated."

"Sec. 2. The legislature shall provide for the establishment and support of institutions for the care and education of the deaf, dumb, and blind of the State.

"Sec. 3. Separate schools for white and colored children with like accommodations shall be provided by the legislature and impartially maintained. The term 'colored children,' as used in this section, shall be construed to mean children of African descent. The term 'white children' shall include all other children.

"Sec. 4. The legislature shall provide for the compulsory attendance at some public or other school, unless other means of education are provided, of all the children in the State who are sound in mind and body,

*This measure revise the entire school law of the State. It contains 270 separate sections, and owing to its great length it has been found to be inexpedient to analyze and present in classified manner the numerous and, in many instances, important changes brought about. Miller, the following items represent the most important modifications: (a) District supervision; (b) consolidation of schools; (c) increased salaries for teachers; (d) a state board of education; (e) state aid to weak school districts; (f) more rigid compulsory education.

(b) State Boards and Officers.

The legislation of the biennium concerning state boards and officers continues to display a continued endeavor to increase their efficiency and expand their influence, especially so in the case of the state superintendent of public instruction. In evidence of this may be pointed out the enactments in Arizona (59), Louisiana (72), Maine (74), Mississippi (79), Montana (81), Pennsylvania (96), Utah (105), Virginia (107), Washington (109), providing for considerably increased salaries for this officer, as well as the enactments in Arizona (60), Connecticut (65), North Dakota (89), Rhode Island (98), Utah (104), Vermont (106), Washington (110), and Wisconsin (114), (115), providing for increased sums for clerical expenses and increased compensation for assistants, deputies, and inspectors.

The new code of West Virginia (54) provided for a state board of education. California proposed a constitutional amendment relative to the constitution of the state board of education, so as to permit of the wider representation of the several educational interests of the State. Massachusetts (76) amended the act creating the commission on industrial education, passed in 1906, so as to admit the appointment of one woman.

Even a brief review of the legislation of this group would include specific mention of the organization of state textbook commissions in Idaho (68), Montana (80), Nevada (82), and Oklahoma (95).

The interpretations placed by the highest courts of Maryland (D 75) and New York (D 87), (D 88), upon the statutes regulating the powers of state boards and state superintendents will have a tendency to dignify as well as increase the responsibility of these officers. The decision in the case of the State of Florida v. Bryan (D 67) was of much importance to the higher educational interests of that State.

(c) County Boards and Officers.

The legislative enactments relating to county boards and officers may be roughly divided into three groups. First, are those relative to the qualifications: Minnesota (129), New Mexico (145), North Dakota (150), (151), and Virginia (173), and those relative to the increased compensation: Florida (125), Missouri (141), South Carolina (158), Virginia (168), and West Virginia (180), of county superintendents of schools. Within this subdivision might properly come those relating to increased traveling expenses and clerical assistance for that officer: Minnesota (136), Montana (149), New Jersey (144), and North Dakota (152).
Second, are those enactments relative to the organization and supervision of education on the basis of the county as a unit. Arkansas (120) and Texas (166) adopted a permissive plan of county supervision. Kentucky reorganized the system of common schools, making the county the basal unit. North Carolina (148) and Tennessee (169) provided for the organization of county boards of education.

Third, are those providing for the organization of so-called county school-board conventions: Oregon (155) and Washington (179). The enactments of these two States increase to seven the number of States that have established these annual meetings of the officers and the members of the boards of the various school districts in every county, with the significant provisions of obligatory attendance and nominal compensation. No movement in public-school organization and administration seems to promise so much for the future development of the efficiency of the rural school as does this one relative to the school-board conventions.

118. Alabama (1906) : Under Laws, 1903, p. 292, sec. 11, relating to the redistricting of public schools, providing that the county boards of education shall have the entire control of the public schools within their respective counties unless otherwise provided by law, and shall make rules and regulations for the government of the schools; see that the teachers perform their duties, and exercise such powers consistent with the law, as, in their judgment, will best subserve the cause of education, the matter of the location of schools in the several districts does not come within the powers conferred on the district trustees, but such power belongs to the county board. Gibson v. Mahrey, 40 So., 297.

119. Arizona: Amending subdiv. 13, par. 2149 (sec. 20), chap. 4, tit. 19, Revised Statutes, 1901, relative to duties of county superintendent of schools. Providing that county superintendent must visit and examine each school in the county at least twice each year (formerly twice each year for counties of the first class and once each term for others). Ten dollars deduction from salary for failure to visit any school. Providing for visitation by deputy in certain cases. Increasing maximum allowance for traveling expenses from $150 to $250. Sec. 7, chap. 67, Mar. 21, 1907. (July 1, 1907.)

(d) District, Township, and Municipal Boards and Officers.

Aside from the few enactments relative to the qualifications, tenure, and powers of superintendents of schools, Louisiana (203), (204), Missouri (223), Rhode Island (249), and Vermont (265), this group contains but little of general interest. By the creation of a "service fund," Ohio (236) made a definite and important provision for the expenses of members of boards of education actually incurred in the performance of their duties; this service fund may equal 5 cents... for each child enrolled in the public schools. Of equal importance are the somewhat similar measures, Ohio (239), providing compensation at the rate of "two dollars for each meeting actually attended for not more than ten meetings in any one year," for members of township boards of education, and West Virginia (277).

While local and particular in their application, the several special acts relative to the reorganization of the educational systems of some of the medium-sized cities are of concern to those interested in the solution of the problems of the political control of public schools as presented by our modern municipalities. The charter revisions or the special educational acts for Alameda (185), Bridgeport (189), Augusta, Me. (208), Cambridge (210), Syracuse (229), Knoxville (238), Nashville (259), San Antonio (261), Dallas (262), and Milwaukee (283), may be selected for special mention. The school-board act for Milwaukee was made necessary by the declared unconstitutionality of the act of 1905, Wisconsin (D 287), (D 288).

The decisions of the Arkansas (D 184) and Ohio (D 241) supreme courts, as to the right of local boards of education to demand that children be vaccinated as a condition for entrance to the public schools, and the decision of the Illinois (D 195) supreme court as to the right of the board of education of the city of Chicago to make rules and regulations prohibiting high-school fraternities, call also for special mention.

183. Arizona: Amending subdiv. 8, par. 2179 (sec. 50, chap. 6, tit. 19), Revised Statutes, 1901, relative to the powers and duties of boards of school trustees. Sec. 19, chap. 67, Mar. 1907. (July 11, 1907.)

184. Arkansas (1907). The part of the rule of a school board requiring the vaccination of pupils before admission to the schools, which provides that the pupils shall present a certificate of a reputable physician showing that they have been successfully vaccinated, is not unreasonable. And will not be set aside by the courts.—Auten v. Board of Directors of Special School Dist. of Little Rock, 104 S. W., 190.

185. California: Approving charter of the city of Alameda, voted on and ratified by the qualified electors of said city at a special election held July 18, 1906. Reorganizing board of education. 191. Georgia (1867): Where a school district was legally laid out and an election of trustees was held there, under act of Aug. 23, 1805 (now 1883, p. 465), the fact that the portion of that act relating to local taxation by districts for school purposes was unconstitutional, did not cause the trustees from office, nor did it, by amendment of the act of 1865, being a curative act, have such effect.—Griffin v. Brooks, 59 S. E., 592.

Held, that the act was unconstitutional as being in contravention of constitution, art. 13, sec. 9, in that it not only undertook to take from the electors of the city the right to elect members of their school board, but also took from the authorities of the city the right to appoint the members of such board.—State v. Held, that the term "electors" referred to all persons legally entitled to vote on the proposition submitted, and therefore did not exclude women from voting on a proposition to issue bonds for the construction of a schoolhouse; such election being an election at which women are authorized to vote. Under Rev. Stat., 1898, sec. 428a.—Hall v. City of Madison, 107 N. W., 31.

(f) Administrative Units; Districts, Townships, Municipalities, etc.; Formation, Division, Consolidation.

(See Section H, enactments 584-1026.)

The legislative activity relating to the consolidation of school districts was at its height several years ago. Most of the enactments in this direction during the past biennium are amendatory to previous measures, and seek to improve the details of the methods already prescribed so as to remove obstacles, administrative and judicial, that have developed, and to provide for the more complete protection of the interests of the consolidated districts. It has been found more convenient to discuss the more important of these consolidation acts under the head of transportation. (Section H, subdivision r.) Arizona (317) passed a new act relative to the consolidation of school districts. Ohio (348), (349), gave evidence of confidence in her plans for the centralization of rural schools by passing several important amendments to the existing laws upon this subject. The revision of the educational code of West Virginia incorporated a number of very important sections calculated to further the development of consolidation and transportation. The redefinition of depopulated school districts (331), and of partially depopulated school districts (332), in Kansas, is indicative of the tendency to eliminate that class of rural schools containing too small a number of pupils for efficient operation.

The Georgia decision (D 324) as to the operation of the acts of 1905 and 1906 concerning the creation of local tax district schools is of interest to those who are watching the development of the sentiment in the Southern States for increased local support for the common schools.

Modifying, in minor manner, method of changing district lines and boundaries. Minor provisions concerning application of act to certain counties and municipalities.

Secs. 4, 6, 7, act. No. 363, p. 478, July 17, 1907. (See L. 1901-1903, 1701, Code, 1907.)

Kansas (1907): Chap. 244, p. 384, Laws, 1907, purporting to legalize and validate the steps taken in the matter of the disorganization and consolidation of certain school districts, is not a curative or confirmatory act. It is creatory in its nature, and attempts to originate a union district from separate districts which it attempts to disorganize.
The statute last referred to is a special act relating to the voluntary disorganization and consolidation of school districts. Under the power conferred upon it by sec. 17 of art. 2 of the constitution, this court decides that a general law can be made applicable to that subject, and therefore that the special act is void.—Gardner et al. v. State ex rel. Burrell, County Atty., 85 Kan., 588.

335. Massachusetts (1908): Rev. Laws, chap. 44, sec. 1, requires children of a certain age to attend school. Petitioner lives on an island, which is a part of defendant town, lying some 4 miles from a larger island upon which the main part of the town is situated, there being no regular means of communication between the two islands, and communication being often difficult or impossible; and the town maintains no school upon petitioner's island, but has upon the main island a sufficient number of schools. Petitioner has five children, of the ages of 24, 19, 17, 12, and 4; owns the greater part of the island on which he resides, and pays taxes thereon; his family being the only one residing thereon, and his children the only ones who would attend the school there, and only one of them being within the compulsory school age. Held, that petitioner could not insist, under the circumstances, that the town maintain a school on his island for his sole benefit: he having chosen to establish himself on the island, and only two of his children being under fourteen years of age, and none of those of school age.—Davis v. Inhabitants of Chilmark, 85 N. E. 107.

STATE FINANCE AND SUPPORT.

B. STATE FINANCE AND SUPPORT.

(a) General.

The comparatively large number of enactments relating to finance and support exhibits clearly the continued and increasing importance of the financial aspects of public education. Of the fiscal legislation of a general character, that pertaining to the use of the "Forest Reserve Fund" is most prominent. California (362), Idaho (364), Montana (366), Nebraska (367), Nevada (369), Oregon (374), Pennsylvania (375), Utah (376), Washington (378), and Wyoming (382) provide that a certain proportion of this fund shall go into the public-school fund.

The two decisions, Kentucky (D 365) and Texas (D 377), upon the question of sectarian instruction, and the consequent right of schools to participate in the distribution of public-school funds, are noteworthy additions to the decisions already rendered in a number of States upon this point.

362. California: Creating the "United States Forest Reserve Fund" and regulating the manner of apportionment.

Fund to be composed of 10 per cent of moneys received from forest reserves in pursuance of act of Congress June 30, 1906. Fifty per cent of the apportionment received by any county to be placed to the credit of the unapportioned county school fund.

Chap. 277, Mar. 18, 1907.

D 363. Florida (1905): The legislature has the power to prescribe what college or colleges shall be the recipient or recipients of the interest on the fund derived from the sale of lands donated by act of Congress July 2, 1882, chap. 130, 22 Stat. 5413, for the maintenance of one college at least for instruction in agricultural and mechanic arts.—State v. Bryan, 30 St., 929.

364. Idaho: Providing for the disposition of the forest reserve funds received and that "may be received from the United States, for the benefit of the public schools, and public roads of the counties in which forest reserves are situated.

State treasurer to apportion the distributive share of such funds among the several counties in which such reserves are situated in proportion to the area of such reserve in such county. Twenty-five per cent thereof to be paid to the general school fund of the county for use in the construction, support, and maintenance of public-school houses and schools.

S. B. No. 33, p. 102, Mar. 5, 1907.

D 365. Kentucky (1905): A prayer offered at the opening of a public school, imploiring the aid and presence of the heavenly Father during the day's work, asking for wisdom, patience, mutual love, and respect, looking forward to a heavenly reunion after death, and concluding in Christ's name, is not sectarian, and does not make the school a "sectarian school," within const., sec. 180, prohibiting the appropriation of educational funds in aid of sectarian schools.—Hackett v. Brookville Graded School Dist., 87 S. W., 702; 27 Ky. Law Rep., 1021; 90 L. R. A., 592.

Held, that such tuition is payable to the high school district in which instruction is afforded, and not to the city containing such district, so that an action to recover the same must be brought by the district, which is a quasi corporation, and not by the city.—City of Columbus v. Town of Fountain Prairie, 115 N. W., 111.

382. Wyoming: Regulating distribution of funds received out of United States forest reserve fund.

Appointing fund to counties in proportion to reserve acreage contained, one-half to school districts and one-half for betterment of public roads.

(b) State School Lands.

The legislation relative to state school lands is characterized by providing for additional safeguards of this endowment of public education so as to prevent as far as possible the dissipation of these lands through the various forms of unwise disposal. North Dakota (397) proposed a constitutional amendment relative to the sale of school lands; Oregon (403), South Dakota (406-408), and Washington (414-417) enacted protective measures.

See "Recent decisions," at the close of this bulletin, for complete text of decision.
The constitutional provisions in Oklahoma (400), and the several enactments with reference to the care of the school lands of that State, have a considerable contemporary interest. In lieu of sections 16 and 36, and other lands in Indian Territory, Congress appropriated to Oklahoma (432) $5,000,000, which sum is diverted to the use and benefit of the public schools of the State.

(c) Permanent State School Funds: Composition and Investment.

The most important item of legislation under this heading is that of Vermont (1904), providing for the management, investment, and distribution of the permanent school fund created in 1904. This legislation was the direct result of the plan formulated by the special commission appointed in 1904. It is thought to be of sufficient general interest to warrant the presentation of the measure in full. The use of the federal payment of $5,000,000 to the State of Oklahoma (432) for the benefit of the common schools of that State has already been noted, Nebraska (425) and North Dakota (430) each proposed amendments to their constitutions relative to the extension of the investment of educational funds.

417. California: Providing for the loan from the school-land fund to the State of $250,000, and providing for the transfer, repayment with interest, etc.

Exempting money so loaned and transferred from the provisions of sec. 430, Political Code, 1905, relative to the conversion of school funds into bonds.

Chap. 409, Mar. 20, 1907.

418. Delaware: Authorizing and directing the state treasurer to transfer the sum of $5,000 from the general fund to the school fund.

Made in order to observe provisions of sec. 4, art. X, of state constitution, concerning the application of the school fund.

419. Indiana: Directing the distribution of certain special funds, as a part of the common school fund, and providing for the adjudication of unclaimed estates funds for payment into common school fund.

Special funds known as "common school fund balance," "old sinking fund," "surplus revenue fund," "excess bid sinking fund," "sales common school lands," and "sales swamp land," totaling $890,029.25, to become part of common school fund. Also, unclaimed estates funds remaining in state treasury for five years.

(c) General Apportionment of State School Funds: Special State Aid for Elementary Education.

Of the means for the extension and development of public education none possesses more widespread influence than that of the general financial support by the State as a unit. To this end systems of general state taxation have been inaugurated, and permanent state school funds have been established. By the income derived from these two sources the States have aimed to reduce the burden of the support of public schools by local taxation alone, to stimulate the growth of local endeavor for the provision of adequate educational opportunities, and to equalize the frequently varying advantages for education among the different communities in the same State.

The most important problem in this connection is that of an equitable and just form of distribution or apportionment of the state educational revenues in order that the ends above mentioned may be accomplished in the best manner possible, and in order that the support provided through the State may become a real and positive force in the provision of adequate school facilities for all the children in the State. Distributions to the various school communities of the State on the basis of taxes paid, property valuation, number of children of school age, total school enrollment for a certain definite period, average daily membership, average daily attendance, or aggregate days of attendance may be indicated among the methods that have been devised and utilized, singly or in combination, at various times by different States. In general, it may be said that distribution on the basis of the school population or census has been, and is, the prevailing method at the present time.

The very evident aim of this latter method of distribution is to diminish the burdens of local support and to equalize the educational opportunities within the State upon the presumption that the school population is the best index of the local educational needs. However, in certain States, during recent years, the weakness of this conclusion has been recognized, and attempts have been made to formulate some single or combination method of distribution which would not merely preserve an equality in the amount of assistance given by the State to the different school communities, but which would in reality give help where help was most needed. The methods of distribution on the basis of school enrollment or attendance belong to this class of efforts. More recently, it has come to be recognized that the number of teachers employed gives a far better basis for distribution than either the school census or school attendance, and that a combination basis of the number of teachers and the amount of school attendance represents perhaps the most equitable method for the utilization of the state school fund.

Any reasonable estimate of comparative importance would place a number of the items of this group in the front rank of progressive legislation. More and more each year the different States are endeavoring to extend financial assistance to the least wealthy school communities by making direct appropriations for the expansion and improvement of the various grades of elementary schools. Connecticut (459, 460), Florida (461, 462), Maine (466), Maryland (467), Minnesota (468), Nebraska (469), Ohio (476), Utah (481), Virginia (486), West Virginia (489), and Wisconsin (491, 492) may be selected as typical of what is being accomplished to raise educational standards by wisely directed financial assistance. Indiana (481) amended her noteworthy enactment of 1905 establishing a reserve fund to be distributed to those communities which had made the maximum local effort permitted by law for the support of public schools and yet were unable to meet the minimum educational demands and standards established by the State.

The decision of the California supreme court (D 457) as to the status of kindergartens as a part of the public-school system is included under this head because of the present day widespread interest in the establishment of kindergartens as an integral part of the public-school system.

453. Alabama: See enactment No. 736.

454. Arizona. Amending subdivisions 1, 2, and 3, par. 2258 (see. 128, chap. 18, tit. 19), Revised Statutes, 1901, relative to apportionment of school funds. Fixing more definitely classification of districts; increasing amount of apportionment to districts of each class. No district to share in apportionment unless teachers employed hold legal certificates or diplomas in force, and unless school has been maintained at least six months during the next preceding school year.

457. California 1907: "Constitution, art. 9, sec. 5", requires the legislature to provide for a system of "common schools" by which a free school shall be kept up and supported in each district. Sec. 6 provides that the "public-school system" shall include "primary and grammar schools" and high schools, evening schools, etc., as may be established by legislative or local authority, and further provides that the entire revenue derived from the state school fund shall be applied exclusively to the support of "primary and grammar schools." Pol. Code, secs. 1022, 1041, reiterate the requirement that the revenue of the state school fund shall be applied solely to primary and grammar schools. Sec. 1332 requires the superintendent of public instruction to apportion the balance of the state school fund which remains after providing for teachers to the several counties according to their "average daily attendance," as shown by reports of the county superintendents for the preceding year. Secs. 1017, 1022, and 1033 recognize and make certain provisions in relation to the adoption of kindergartens as part of the "public primary schools" in cities and towns. Held, that, notwithstanding the legislative designation of kindergartens as "primary" schools, such institutions are not primary and grammar schools within the meaning of the constitutional and statutory provisions for the distribution of the state school fund, and the kindergarten attendance is not to be computed in ascertaining the proportion of the school fund to which a county is entitled. 482. Acts, 1875 (ex. sess.), p. 48, chap. 8, entitled "An act to reduce the acts incorporating the city of Knoxville and amendments to one act," recognized the existence of the Knoxville schools by secs. 33, 34 (p. 81), wherein it was provided that the mayor and aldermen should elect five citizens, who should constitute a board of education. Under authority of such sections and ordinances passed pursuant thereto the board of education was put in charge of the Knoxville schools and the board appointed enumerators from time to time to take a census of the scholastic population. Held that, such enumerators having made false reports as to the scholastic population whereby the city of Knoxville and its schools received monies in excess of the amount to which they were entitled, the State was entitled to recover the monies so received and expended by the city, the board of education and the enumerators having been the agents of the city. (f) Special State Aid for Secondary Education.

Adequate provision for elementary schools is rightly accounted of first importance in the educational economy of the state and city or school districts. More and more, however, secondary or high schools are coming to be regarded as essential parts of a unified state system. The encouragement and assistance for the growth of these schools afforded directly by the State have been among the interesting educational phenomena of the last decade or two. In practically all the States in which notable progress in public education has been made, some form of special state aid for high schools has been established. The enactments classified under this head are indicative of no new tendency; on the contrary, they bear evidence of the continued special interest evinced by the States for the care of this particular portion of their educational systems. With but one or two evident exceptions, each one of the enactments of the following group is worthy of special mention. Any comparative estimate, however, would give special attention to the legislative activities in the Southern States for the extension and betterment of the opportunities for secondary education:

493. Alabama: See enactment No. 1215.

494. Maine: Amending sec. 4, chap. 148, acts. 1901 (sec. 73, chap. 15, Revised Statutes, 1903), relative to time of incorporation of academies receiving state aid.

No school to receive aid unless approved by state board of education.

498. Mississippi: See enactment No. 1397.

C. LOCAL (COUNTY, DISTRICT, MUNICIPAL) FINANCE AND SUPPORT.

(a) General.

The enactments relating generally to local school finance are mostly concerned with the minor details and management of educational funds. LOCAL FINANCE AND SUPPORT.

this element of support and of the increasing pressure developed by reason of the constantly growing demands, both qualitative and quantitative, made upon the public schools. Exclusive of the large number of special and local acts dealing with this subject, the following list contains over 70 legislative measures and judicial decisions of greater or less importance. Aside from these legislative enactments which undoubtedly arose from conditions of administrative expendancy, the following seem worthy of special attention: Massachusetts (568); Minnesota (571); New York (581); South Carolina (591); Tennessee (594); Texas (596); and West Virginia (596).

I, sect. 33, 34, because the classification is arbitrary, in that all bonds are not included therein, and the acts are limited to cities whereat at the election a two-thirds majority of the votes of the bonds which were not included therein are those votes in favor of the bonds. - State v. (c) Local (County, District, Municipal) Taxation for School Purposes.

As noted in the review of the legislation concerning local taxation for school purposes during 1904-1906, there is a decided tendency on the part of the States to give to local school jurisdictions a considerably wider authority in the provision of adequate support for public schools. This tendency is, in fact, but a part of the larger and more inclusive one which is slowly, but certainly, becoming characteristic of the attitude of the American people toward their public schools; that is, to utilize, in as large manner as is consistent with wise public economy, all of the available means which may properly be directed toward the increase of the material resources available for meeting the educational necessity. The enactments in Arkansas (439); (613), Georgia (618), Indiana (631), Louisiana (636), and Washington (670), are typical of the larger movement represented by this legislation to increase the limit of local taxation for school purposes.

101. Arizona: Amending par. 2256, sec. 150, Revised Statutes, 1901, relative to special school district tax.

Adding provisions regarding tax levy for construction, repairing, equipment, etc., of school buildings; for additional school lands; and for water for irrigation.

618. Arkansas: Amending sec. 7590, Kirby's Digest, 1904, relative to powers of annual school meetings.

615. Delaware: Amending sec. 11, chap. 92, Laws, 1905-6, relative to determination and appropriation of school taxes in the city of Wilmington.

Appropriation for general expenses for 1907-8 to be not less than $181,400 (not to exceed $182,000) in 1906-7, with annual increase for any succeeding year not to be less than 2 per cent (formerly not to be greater than 1/4 per cent). Adding provision that council shall have power to designate what proportion of any appropriation above the minimum shall be used to adjust, equalize, and increase teachers' salaries.

Chap. 125, Mar. 1, 1907.

616. Delaware: Directing county treasurer of New Castle County to pay to "The Board of Public Instruction in Wilmington" all sums received or to be received from colored school taxes assessed against real estate in the city of Wilmington for the years 1902, 1903, 1904, and 1905, and providing for the distribution of the same.

Chap. 127, Mar. 4, 1907.

D617. Florida: (1906) Under Laws, 1907, p. 3, chap. 5606, the general power is conferred on county commissioners to determine the amount to be raised for all county purposes, and by chap. 5606, p. 84, Laws, 1907, they are required to ascertain and determine the amount to be raised for county purposes, including current expenses, etc., and are authorized to levy a tax of not more than 5 mills on the dollar on the property in the county, and it is further provided that the county commissioners shall levy a tax not to exceed 7 mills nor less than 3 mills on the property in the county for county school purposes. Held not to authorize county commissioners to revise the decision of the county board of public instruction under Gen. Stat., 1906, sec. 347, as to the millage required for the maintenance of the county schools, when it is within the constitutional limits, and the estimates include no illegal items.—Tonnello v. Board of Public Instruction for Santa Rosa County, 45 So., 386.

618. Georgia: Amending act No. 50, p. 425, acts, 1905, relative to creation and operation of local tax district schools, for levyng and collection of local tax by the counties for educational purposes, for laying off of counties in school districts, and for other purposes.

Amending caption of the act so as to provide for its proper enforcement for laying off of counties into districts of reasonable size, for election of district trustees, whether a local tax is levied and collected or not. Providing also a correct method of assessing and collecting taxes for school purposes in local districts; making corporate property subject to local taxation.

D619. Georgia: (1906): The third and fourth sections of the act approved August 25, 1906 (acts, 1906, p. 427, 428), providing for the levying and collection of a local tax by school district laid off in the manner prescribed, are inoperative, inasmuch as the method provided for the assessment of the tax is antagonistic to art. 7, sec. 2, par. 1 of the constitution, because an ad valorem tax is imposed upon the property of those taxpayers required by law to make return of their property to the county tax receiver, and not upon the property of another class of taxpayers, such as railroad companies, who are required to make returns to the comptroller-general.—Brown v. Southern Ry. Co., 54 S. E., 723.
LOCAL FINANCE AND SUPPORT.

620. Georgia (1906): The act approved August 23, 1905 (acts, 1905, p. 725), entitled “An act to provide for the creation and operation of local tax district schools, for the laying off of counties in school districts, and for other purposes,” is not unconstitutional because of the proviso in the second section of the body of the act, whereby incorporated towns operating a public school system are not without the consent of the municipal authorities, included in the election held in the county for the purpose of determining whether a school tax shall be levied. The subject matter of the proviso is germane, and is not at variance with the title of the act.—Georgia R. & Banking Co. v. Hutchinson, 54 S. E., 725.

621. Georgia (1907): Act of Aug. 23, 1905 (acts, 1905, p. 425), as amended by act of Aug. 21, 1906 (acts, 1906, p. 61), providing for the creation of local tax district schools, is not a violation of the uniformity rule of the constitution as to taxation for the reason that the scheme of taxation as to amount and method of collection is different when taxes are levied and collected for district schools from what it is when collected for county schools.—Elko v. Southern Ry. Co., 58 S. E., 836.

622. Idaho: Amending sec. 5-1, 21, S. B. No. 42, Laws, 1903, as amended by sec. 2, S. B. No. 96, Laws, 1905, relative to the powers and duties of boards of school trustees, increasing maximum levy of special taxes from 5 to 20 mills.

H. B. No. 201, p. 284, Mar. 13, 1907.

627. Illinois: Amending sec. 1, art. 8, acts, 1889, as amended by acts, 1893, p. 569, sec. 292, chap. 122, Hard's Revised Statutes, relative to taxation for the establishment and maintenance of a system of free schools. Adding proviso that in cities of less than 100,000 inhabitants the expense of improvement, repair, or benefit of school buildings or property shall be paid from that portion of tax levied and collected for district schools from what it is when collected for county schools.

H. B. 186, p. 519, May 20, 1907.

624. Illinois: Repealing acts, 1893, p. 176, relative to boards of school inspectors elected under special acts, as amended by p. 292, acts, 1897, and p. 139, acts, 1895, relative to increasing the number of school inspectors elected under special acts from six to seven members; and repealing and recreating a substitute, p. 381, acts, 1905, relative to election of boards of inspectors in certain cases.

H. B. 301, p. 525, May 25, 1907.

625. Illinois (1904): Where taxes have been paid for school purposes without objection or protest, their use for the purposes for which they were levied and designed will not be prevented by any mere technical objections as to the manner in which the levy was made.—Trustees of Schools v. Board of School Inspectors of City of Peoria, 115 Ill. App., 470.

626. Illinois (1906): Priv. Laws, 1897, p. 219, chap. 11, divides the city of Joliet into school districts, provides for the election of school inspectors, and gives the city council power to levy taxes for school purposes. Hard's Rev. Stat., 1893, p. 1714, chap. 122, increases the powers of the school inspectors, giving them authority to employ teachers and to fix the amount of their compensation, and to build or purchase buildings, etc., but provides that all moneys necessary for school purposes shall be raised as "now provided by law," and that they shall be held by the treasurer of the school district as trustee. The taxing power should not be held to exist in a body seeking to exercise such power unless the power is conferred upon such body in clear, and unequivocal terms.—People v. Mattinger, 215 Ill., 256. (Refers to city of Joliet; see School Laws of 1907, special edition of 1907, p. 8.) subject to the order of the school inspectors on warrants to be counter signed by the mayor and city clerk. Held, that the latter statute did not give the board of school inspectors authority to levy taxes by repealing the former statute by implication.—People v. Mottinger, 74 N. E., 190; 215 Ill., 270.

The provisions of Priv. Laws, 1857, p. 219, chap. 11, giving the city council of Joliet the right to levy taxes for school purposes, are not repealed by implication by the incorporation act of 1872 (Laws, 1871-72, p. 218), under which the city was incorporated, the subject of taxes not being mentioned in the statute, and art. 1, sec. 6, providing in express terms that all laws not inconsistent with the provisions of the statute should continue in force.—ibid.

The provisions of Priv. Laws, 1857, p. 219, chap. 11, giving the city council of Joliet authority to levy taxes for school purposes, were not repealed by the general school law.—ibid.

I 627. Illinois (1906) : A taxpayer is entitled to enjoin a contr-act between the public school board and the state board of education providing for the employment of critic teachers to be paid in part by the school district.—Lincoln v. Board of Education of Normal School District, 77 N. E., 150; 221 Ill., 261; reversing judgment (1905). 122 Ill. App., 617.

I 628. Illinois (1906) : A levy by a school board for building purposes is illegal unless the building has first been authorized by a vote of the per-

Boards of education have authority to levy taxes only for educational and building purposes.—St. Louis A. & T. R. Co. v. People, ibid.

A board of education held authorized to levy a tax to pay for a heating plant to be installed in a school building the board had been authorized to construct by a vote of the people.—St. Louis A. & T. R. Co. v. People, ibid.

I 629. Illinois (1906) : A certificate signed by all the members of the board of education of a city, to the effect that they require a certain sum to be levied as a special tax for school purposes, and $8,500 for building purposes on the taxable property of our district for a certain year, is sufficient to authorize the levy and extension of such building tax by the proper officers.—People v. Chicago and T. R. Co., 79 N. E., 151; 223 Ill.,

I 630. Illinois (1907) : Peoria city charter (Priv. Laws, 1898, pp. 148, 170) declares that the board of school inspectors shall appoint trustees who shall raise all money under control of the school board, and keep a true and accurate account of money paid out on the board's order. The board is also required to determine the amount to be raised by taxation for the support of the schools, and to notify the city council of such amount, and the rate to be levied; the city council then being required to levy and collect the amount with other city taxes. Held that, no discretion being given to the city council as to the amount to be levied, such board was a "school authority," authorized to issue warrants in anticipation of taxes

D. BUILDINGS AND SITES.

(a) General.

A very large proportion of the general legislation having to do with school buildings and sites has already been included under the heading of Local Bonds and Indebtedness. The special enactments in Massachusetts (685), Minnesota (688), and New York (581) are here again referred to as evidences of the pressure felt by the public schools of our larger American cities to supply proper school accommodations. The amendment in Wisconsin (506) relative to the equipment of free high schools as a condition for state aid, the Indiana decision (D 681), and the Wisconsin measure (705) as to the use of school buildings for other than strictly school purposes, are not without significance and interest.

St. 1901, secs. 5920n-5951, relative to the duration of school terms in school townships; and sec. 5999 grants the right to use a public school building for other than school purposes when “unoccupied for common school purposes.” Held, that the term “unoccupied for common school purposes” had reference only to the time intervening between terms of school, and did not authorize a religious organization to use a schoolhouse on Sundays and evenings during a school term, when the school was not actually in session.—Raggers v. Lee, 73 N. E., 921.

Sec. 2815 provides for condemnation of a site if the owner refuses or neglects to convey, etc. Sec. 2773 authorizes “boards of directors to fix schoolhouse sites.” Held, that the term “owner,” used in sec. 2814, refers to the owner of a residence within 30 rods of a schoolhouse site, and not to the owner of the site, and that the prohibition against locating a site within 30 rods of a residence applies to schoolhouse sites whether acquired by purchase, devise, gift, or condemnation.—Mendenhall v. Held, that since sec. 4728 and 4729, prescribing the method referred to in sec. 4855, subd. 4, for designating school sites, contain no authority for purchase or condemnation by a board of education of a city without prior action by the voters of the district, proceedings by such officers to condemn a school site without such vote were unsustainable.—Board of Education of City of Detroit v. Moross, 314 N. W., 75; 14 Detroit Leg. N., 988.

(b) Buildings and sites: State aid; approval of plans.

The legislation of each biennium clearly demonstrates that the State is concerning itself more and more in the matter of properly erected and planned school buildings. As the extent of this state supervision increases there is certain to be a decrease in the present waste of funds through the erection of ill-adapted buildings, and an increase in the number of those buildings in which have been incorporated the features demanded by a proper regard for the health of children and the requirements for efficient teaching. The tendency to require that the plans of school buildings be approved by some competent authority, and the tendency to place in the hands of local school authorities plans of properly constructed and hygienically arranged schoolhouses, are illustrated in the principal enactments brought together under this head: North Dakota (707), Tennessee (708), Virginia (709), Washington (711), and Wisconsin (712). The presence of these measures in the legislation of the period is decidedly encouraging.

(c) Buildings and sites: Decoration, care, sanitation, inspection.

The following enactments are in their evident purpose supplementary to those noted in the previous section. Each of them bears characteristic evidence of progress in a needed direction. That of Indiana (713) relative to the employment and payment of janitors will undoubtedly result in an improvement in the schools of rural
The decision in Indiana (D 714) as to the authority of the state board of health over public-school buildings is noted in connection with the present-day movement to place the sanitary supervision of school buildings in the hands of competent persons. The enactment of Massachusetts (719) relative to the inspection of school buildings is of particular interest in this connection.

The three most important items of this group are that of Ohio (721), providing for the inspection of school buildings; that of Virginia (727), regulating the construction of school buildings; and those of Wisconsin (729), (730), (731), relative to the conditions for state aid to rural schools.

713. Indiana: Amending sec. 3, chap. 192, Laws, 1899, relative to duties of school trustees.

Adding provision that "said trustees shall provide such janitor help as may be deemed necessary to properly care for the schools and premises under their control, and such janitors shall be paid from the educational school funds of the township." Chap. 218, Mar. 3, 1900.

D 714. Indiana (1908): The state board of health may only require that the public school buildings be made sanitary, the means of securing proper sanitation being left to the local authorities.—Advisory Board of Coal Creek Tp., Montgomery County, v. Levandowski, 84 N. E., 346.

D 715. Kentucky (1906): Under Ky. Stat. 1903, sec. 2954, providing that the school board of a city shall apply the funds annually coming into its hands for educational purposes to certain objects, including salaries, and sec. 2966, providing that it shall elect teachers and regulate and fix their salaries, and the term of office of teachers and employees of the board, it may employ a janitor; and, having done so, it is its duty to pay his salary from the fund for educational purposes.—Oberdorfer v. Louisville School Board, 85 S. W., 696; 27 Ky. Law Rep., 608.

D 716. Kentucky (1906): A city is not liable for injury to a pupil from a defect in a building furnished by it for a public school, it being owned by it not for private or municipal purposes, but for a public purpose.—Clark v. City of Nicholasville, 87 S. W., 300; 27 Ky. Law Rep., 974.

D 717. Louisiana: Prescribing the way in which doors to public buildings and factories shall be hung; determining to what buildings act shall apply; and fixing a penalty for the violation thereof, or failure to comply with the provisions thereof.

718. Maine: Requiring steam plants in school buildings, churches, and other public buildings to be in charge of competent persons.

Requiring persons in charge of steam-heating plants to hold a certificate of competency to be issued by municipal authorities. Providing for the form, content, and revocation of certificate.

Chap. 671, Mar. 6, 1907.

721. Ohio: Enlarging the powers of the chief inspector of workshops and factories in the matter of public schools and other buildings, and increasing the number of district inspectors.
"Sec. 1. In addition to the powers now vested in the chief inspector of workshops and factories it shall be his further duty to cause his district inspectors to inspect all schoolhouses, colleges, opera houses, halls, theaters, churches, infirmaries, children's homes, hospitals, medical institutes, asylums, and other buildings used for the assembling or betterment of people in any municipal corporation, township or county in the State of Ohio, with special regard to the precautions taken for the prevention of fire, and the provision of fire escapes, exits, emergency exits, hallways, air space, and all other matters which relate to the health and safety of those occupying or assembling in such structures.
"Sec. 2. The district inspectors shall file with the chief inspector of workshops and factories a written report of every inspection made of any of the aforesaid structures, stating the condition in which such building was found, and if it is found that necessary precautions for the prevention of fire or other disaster have not been taken, or means provided for the safe and speedy egress of the persons who might be assembled therein, said report shall specify such appliances, additions or alterations as are necessary to provide such precautions and protection, and it shall then be the duty of the chief inspector of workshops and factories to notify in writing the owner or person having control of such structure of the appliances, additions or alterations necessary to be added to or made in such structure.
"Sec. 3. A copy of said notice shall be mailed to the mayor of the municipality, if such structure is located therein, and if not, then to the prosecuting attorney of the county wherein it is located, and it shall be the duty of the mayor of the municipality, with the aid of the police, or the prosecuting attorney, with the aid of the sheriff, upon receiving such notification, to prohibit the use of such structure for the assembling of people until the appliances, additions or alterations required by such notice have been added to or made in such structure.
"Sec. 4. Upon receiving said notice it shall be the duty of the owner or person in control of such structure to comply with each and every detail embodied therein, and it shall be his further duty, upon the completion of every such detail, to report the fact in writing to the chief inspector of workshops and factories and the mayor of the municipality or the prosecuting attorney of the county as the case may be.
"Sec. 5. The plans for every such structure aforesaid which may be hereafter erected in the State of Ohio, and the plans for any alterations in or additions to any such structure aforesaid that is now erected shall be approved by the chief inspector of workshops and factories, except that in municipalities having regularly organized building inspection departments the plans shall be approved by said municipal departments.
"Sec. 6. Any architect, builder or other person who shall alter the approved plans, or fail to construct or alter the building in accordance with said approved plans without the consent of the department that approved them shall be deemed guilty of a criminal offense, and, upon conviction, shall be fined in any sum not less than five hundred dollars ($500) nor more than one thousand dollars ($1,000), or imprisoned in the county jail no less than thirty days nor more than one year, or both such fine and imprisonment at the discretion of the court.
"Sec. 7. For the purpose of carrying out this provision of this act the chief inspector of workshops and factories shall, with the approval of the governor appoint one assistant chief inspector who shall be a competent and practical architect, and whose duty it shall be to examine carefully the plans and specifications of such buildings, alterations, and additions, and perform such other duties as the chief inspector may direct. The salary of said assistant chief inspector shall be two thousand five hundred dollars a year, which salary and all necessary traveling expenses incurred by said inspector in the discharge of his official duties shall be paid out of the treasury of the state on the warrant of the auditor from any fund therein not otherwise appropriated.

or

"Sec. 8. For the purpose of carrying out this act the chief Inspector of workshops and factories is authorized to appoint, with the approval of the governor, ten additional district inspectors who shall be competent and practical mechanics, with a knowledge of building construction, and who shall receive the same compensation, be clothed with the same powers, and whose terms of office shall be the same as is now provided by law for the district inspectors of workshops and factories.

"Sec. 9. Any person, firm, board or corporation, being the owner or in control of any building mentioned in this act, who shall use or permit the use of such building, in violation of any order prohibiting its use, issued in accordance with this act or who shall fail to comply with the requirements of any order so issued relating to the change, improvement "repair of such building shall be fined not less than ten, nor more than shall constitute a separate offense."

723. Pennsylvania: Providing for better sanitation of school rooms, relative to heating and ventilation.

Act No. 240, May 29, 1907. (Dec. 1, 1907.)

724. Pennsylvania (1905): The city of Philadelphia, which is coterminous with the first school district of Pennsylvania, and has legal title to the public school buildings therein, is not liable in damages for injuries to a pupil in a public school by a fall of a part of the plastering from the ceiling of a schoolroom, although the board of education and its architect had several weeks' notice of the defect in the ceiling before the accident occurred. The ground for the city's exemption in such a case is that the school buildings are in the actual possession and control of the sectional school board and board of public education, and that the city has no voice in the selection of the officers, agents, or architects of the school district, and no power to remove them. Rosenthal v. City of Philadel-

725. Rhode Island: Authorizing the city of Providence to borrow money to provide sanitary furnishings and equipment for schoolhouses.

that the health, sight, and comfort of all pupils may be properly proected.

"Whereas, it is of great importance to the people of this Commonwealth that public school buildings hereafter erected by any school board shall be properly heated, lighted, and ventilated; therefore,
1. Be it enacted by the general assembly of Virginia, That the State board of inspectors for public school buildings shall not approve any plans for the erection of any school building or room in addition thereto unless the same shall provide at least fifteen square feet of floor space and two hundred cubic feet of air space for each pupil to be accommodated in each study or recitation room therein, and no such plans shall be approved by said board unless provision is made therein for securing at least thirty cubic feet of pure air every minute per pupil, and the facilities for exhausting the fume and vitiated air therein shall be positive and independent of atmospheric changes. All ceilings shall be at least twelve feet in height.

2. All schoolhouses for which plans and detailed statements shall be filed and approved by said board, as required by law, shall have all halls, doors, stairways, seats, passageways, and aisles, and all lighting and heating appliances and apparatus, arranged to facilitate egress in cases of fire or accidents, and to afford the requisite and proper accommodations for public protection in such cases. All exit doors in any schoolhouse of two or more stories in height shall open outwardly. No staircases shall be constructed except with straight runs, changes in direction being made by platforms. No doors shall open immediately upon a flight of stairs, but a landing at least the width of the doors shall be provided between such stairs and such doorway.

3. All schoolhouses, as aforesaid, shall provide for the admission of light from the left, or from the left and rear of the pupils, and the total light area must be at least twenty-five per centum of the floor space.

4. Every school board shall provide at least two suitable and convenient outhouses or water-closets for each of the schoolhouses under its control; unless the said schoolhouses have suitable, convenient and sanitary water-closets erected within same, said outhouses or water-closets shall be entirely separated, each from the other, and shall have separate means of access. School boards shall see that said outhouses or water-closets are kept in a clean and wholesome condition.

Codes and Stat., secs. 3673, 3674, providing that an action may be maintained against a school district for an injury to plaintiff's rights, arising from its act or omission, such a district is liable for the scolding of a child rightfully in attendance at school, through the overturning of a large metal bucket of boiling water, which was negligently kept upon a register in the middle of the schoolroom, wholly unguarded and unprotected; and it was error to sustain a demurrer to her complaint showing such negligence and her freedom from contributory negligence.—Redfield v. School Dist. No. 3, Kittitas County, 92 P., 770.

729. Wisconsin: See enactment No. 492.

730. Wisconsin: Amending sec. 430, Statutes, 1898, authorizing school boards to provide maps, charts, globes, books, supplementary readers, and other equipment for schools. Adding supplementary readers, dictionaries, library catalog cards and card cases, heating and ventilating apparatus, to the list of apparatus board has authority to buy. Maximum annual limit of expenditure increased from $75 to $100. Chap. 30, Apr. 10, 1907.

731. Wisconsin: Creating sec. 435a, chap. 27, Statutes, 1898, relative to the duties of school boards in providing and maintaining suitable outbuildings. Requiring separate outhouses for boys and girls. Making provisions as to sanitation, distance, and screening. Providing for tax levy to carry out provisions. Chap. 232, June 18, 1907.
The enactments presented under this heading do not, strictly speaking, belong to the special class of educational legislation. They do, however, present some conclusive evidence of a movement, already a part of the established policy of many States, for the protection of the educational as well as the broader social interests.

732. Arizona: Providing for the refusal and revocation of any license for the sale of intoxicating liquors.

Proof that holder of license has sold, bartered, furnished, or given away intoxicating liquors to any minor person, pupil, or student in any public school, academy, seminary, normal school, university, or other institution of learning among the several causes enumerated for the revocation or refusal of license.

Chap. 200, July 11, 1907.

735. Georgia (1907): The fact that a school formerly taught in a building designated as the center of a 3-mile area in which a local prohibition act became effective is no longer taught in the original building, but in a new building, a short distance away, does not invalidate a conviction under that act of one guilty of selling intoxicating liquor within 3 miles of both the original and the subsequent location of the school—Maxon v. State, 58 S. E., 139; 1 Ga. App., 534.

Prohibiting sale of intoxicating liquors within 4 miles of any public or private schoolhouse. Excepting certain described territory, and sales of liquors in wholesale package or quantities. Chap. 34, Feb. 6, 1907. (July 1, 1907.)
6705. prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors within 4 miles of a schoolhouse; and Acts, 1899, p. 300, chap. 161, sec. 1, prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors without a license; the ignorance of accused of the intoxicating properties of liquors sold is no defense, and if he sells he must know at his peril whether it is intoxicating or not, and his belief that it was not resulting from a guaranty under which he bought the liquor is no excuse.—Haynes v. State, 106 S. W., 251.

Wisconsin: Creating sec. 566m, prohibiting the building of a lockup or temporary place of confinement in villages or cities of the third or fourth class within 300 feet of a public, private, or parochial school.
Chap. 339, June 22, 1907.

(c) United States Flag in Schools.
The seven enactments in this group are indicative of the spirit of patriotism and Americanism with which it is sought to surround the public school. Even a casual observer of the legislative activity with reference to schools cannot fail to detect this as a species of the general variety of efforts to give to the public school as an institution a character of abiding loyalty.

California: Adding sec. 1017a to Political Code, 1907, requiring that the United States flag shall be hoisted on all public schoolhouses and displayed in each schoolroom.

E. TEACHERS IN ELEMENTARY AND SECONDARY SCHOOLS.

  Chap. 374, June 24, 1907.

(b) Teachers' examinations and certificates: General.

By reason of their volume, and of their many evidences of educational progress, the enactments concerning the standards of qualification for teachers in the public schools represent one of the most interesting phases of the legislative activity of the biennium, especially when considered together with those dealing with normal schools and other institutions set up for the purpose of the professional education and training of teachers. (See Section G, enactments 898-946.)

In general it may be said that the legislation of the current biennium does not present such notable illustrations of progress as did that of the biennium 1904-1906. The tendency to continue the process of centralizing the right of examination and the powers of certification of teachers in state boards and officers is continued, although not in such a marked manner as in the previous biennium. The revised school codes of Nevada (774) and South Dakota (780) contain evidences of the tendencies of the present day progress. The establishment of the state board of examiners in North Carolina (777), the amended act in Ohio (779) relative to the granting and revocation of teachers' certificates, the Washington act (786) creating city boards of examiners, and the amended Wyoming act (788), relative to the state board of examiners, may be regarded as the more important enactments of this group.

- Removing prohibition that teachers shall not be granted second-grade certificates more than twice.
  Act No. 845, p. 403, Mar. 13, 1907.

Held, that a conviction for offering to sell examination questions under such sections could not be sustained where the proof did not show that the questions offered for sale were prepared by the state superintendent of education and sealed and sent to the county superintendent of education, as provided. — Bryant v. State, 45 So. 247.

D773. Nebraska: See enactment No. 322.

D774. Nevada: See enactment No. 9.

Under Laws, 1901, p. 1774, chap. 718 (revised amended Greater New York charter, sec. 1901), providing that at the close of the third year of continuous successful service of a teacher the city superintendent may make a temporary license permanent, the issuance of a special license to a teacher who has served three years under a temporary license is not a determination by the superintendent that the teacher be entitled to a permanent license. — Ibid.

D776. New York (1905): Laws, 1902, p. 1485, chap. 677, sec. 24 (statutory construction law), as amended by Laws, 1907, p. 719, chap. 614, sec. 1, declaring that Saturday afternoon shall be deemed a public half holiday "for all purposes whatsoever as regards the transaction of business in the public offices of the State or counties of this State," does not, as construed by the court of appeals, prohibit an officer from voluntarily performing an official act on public holidays, or render such act void or invalid, unless it is such as to create an unlawful preference under the recording act, or is prohibited by some other statute. Ordinances City of Buffalo, chap. 3, sec. 20, provides that all offices in all departments and bureaus of the city government shall be open for the transaction of business on every day, excepting Sundays and holidays, from 8:30 o'clock a. m. until 4:30 o'clock p. m., and excepting on Saturdays, when the same shall be open from 8:30 o'clock a. m. until 12 o'clock m. Held, that in view of such construction of the statute the city board of school examiners were not prohibited under the ordinance from continuing beyond noon on Saturday an examination of applications for positions as public school teachers. — Cohn v. Townsend, 94 N. Y. S. 8, 317.

The courts have no power to control the exercise of the judgment and discretion reposed by law in an executive officer as part of his official functions, and hence can not control the action of the board of school examiners of a city as to fixing the day for holding teachers' examinations, or as to granting special examinations to persons observing Saturday as a Sabbath. — Ibid.

Providing also for temporary certificates.

781. Texas (1908): In prosecution for fraudulently using questions prepared by the state superintendent of public instruction for the examination of teachers for certificates, evidence examined, and held insufficient to sustain a conviction.—Felder v. State, 97 S. W., 701; Fulkerson v. Same, 98 S. W., 823.

Evidence held insufficient to sustain a conviction for fraudulently procuring and using questions prepared by the superintendent of public instruction for teachers' examinations.—Felder v. State, 97 S. W., 701.

An instruction authorizing a conviction of defendant if he unlawfully procured and used the questions prepared by the superintendent of public instruction for teachers' examinations was erroneous for failure to charge that the questions must have been fraudulently used.—Ibid.

Acts, twenty-ninth legislature, p. 290, chap. 124, sec. 124a, making it a penal offense for an applicant for a teacher's certificate, prior to examination, to procure or fraudulently use the questions previously prepared by the state superintendent to be used in the examinations, is not invalid because it does not eliminate in terms county superintendents of public instruction and boards of examiners from having to use the questions prepared by the superintendent of public instruction.—Felder v. State, 97 S. W., 701.

782. Texas (1908): Acts, twenty-ninth legislature, p. 290, chap. 124, sec. 124a, making it a penal offense for an applicant for a teacher's certificate, prior to an examination, to procure or use the questions previously prepared by the state superintendent and forwarded to the board of examiners, to be used by them in examination, is included in the title to the act, which is, "Schools—providing for a complete system of public free schools in Texas," and in the phrase in the caption, "providing for board of examiners and the issuance of teachers' certificates," and is in compliance with constitution, art. 3, sec. 35, relating to the title and caption of acts.—Felder v. State, 97 S. W., 701.

(d) Teachers' certificates: Validity; indorsement; registration; revocation.

The enactment in Iowa (798) relative to the validation of teachers' certificates issued in other States is of interest in connection with the developing movement for increased reciprocity and a juster comity between States in the matter of the certification of teachers. The step taken by North Dakota (802), for the very evident protection of school boards from teachers willfully violating contracts, reflects in a striking way both ethical and economic circumstances. This enactment is similar in intent to those of Oklahoma and Oregon in 1905. The decision in the case of Stone v. Fritts, in Indiana (D797), may be regarded as one of the most interesting of the recent interpretations of the legal aspects of the issuance and revocation of teachers' certificates.
The statute authorizing the granting of a license to teach in a public school may provide for its revocation under designated contingencies.—Stone v. Fritts, 82 N. E., 792.

Burns's Ann. Stat., 1901, sec. 5905f, authorizing the county superintendent of schools to revoke teachers' licenses, held to justify the superintendent to revoke only for the statutory causes, and if he acts on other grounds, equity may intervene.—Ibid. Where the holder of a teacher's license may ask, as to proceedings to revoke the license, is that they shall conform to the law authorizing revocation.—Ibid.

The utmost the holder of a teacher's license may ask, to preserve to him the right to revoke the license, is that they shall conform to the authorizing statutes. Ibid.

Where a county superintendent has jurisdiction of a proceeding to revoke a teacher's license, his bias and want of judicial capacity are not grounds for interference by the courts.—Ibid.

Iowa: Empowering the board of educational examiners to validate teachers' certificates issued in other States. Requirements for such certificates must be equal to requirements imposed within the State.

Providing also for appeal to probate court.

Montana: Amending sec. 1520, Political Code, 1895, relative to the revocation of state and life diplomas by the state superintendent of public instruction. Authorizing issuance by examiner of teachers of special third instead of special second grade certificates to holders of certificates from other States. (e) Teachers' certificates: recognition of normal school and college or university diplomas.

The enactments giving certification values to normal school and college or university diplomas are in accord with well-established educational practice. The enactments in Iowa (812), Kansas (816), Louisiana (818), Maryland (819), Nebraska (820), Ohio (822), Texas (823), and West Virginia (826-828) are representative.

The action taken by the State of Illinois, (810-813), granting to the normal schools of the State the right to confer degrees, is not without great significance to all those who discern possible grounds of controversy between normal schools and universities in the matter of the training of teachers, especially for secondary schools.

808. Arkansas: See enactment No. 903.

Stat., 1905, sec. 59024), provides that no person shall be eligible to be a school principal within the meaning of this act unless he shall hold a thirty-six months' license, a forty-eight months' license, or a life or professional license to teach in the common schools of the State. The act concerning common schools, approved March 8, 1899 (Acts, 1899, p. 488, chap. 214, sec. 1; Burns' Ann. Stat., 1901, sec. 59006), provides for the issuance of a professional license on such examination held by the county superintendent as may be prescribed by the state board of education, and that such license shall be issued only on the approval of the state board. The school law of 1895 (Acts, 1895, p. 744, chap. 1, sec. 155; Burns' Ann. Stat., 1901, sec. 5951) provides for the issuance of state certificates of qualification by the state board of education, which shall enable the holders to teach in any of the schools of the State without further examination and, be valid during the lifetime of the holder. The act approved March 5, 1898 (Acts, 1898, p. 243, chap. 143, sec. 7; Burns' Ann. Stat., 1901, sec. 5905a) provides for the issuance of a professional license on such examination as may be prescribed by the state board of education, and that such license shall issue only on the approval of the state board. The law of 1885 (Acts, 1885, chap. 145, sec. 1; Burns' Ann. Stat., 1901, sec. 5905a) provides for the issuance of a professional certificate to teachers completing the prescribed courses of study, and provides that two years after graduation, satisfactory evidence of professional ability to instruct having been received, such teachers shall be entitled to diplomas appropriate to such professional degrees as the trustees shall confer on them, which diploma shall be considered sufficient evidence of qualification to teach in any of the schools of the State. Held, that such post-graduate diploma, granted pursuant to the act approved March 5, 1873 (Acts, 1873, p. 199, chap. 86; Burns' Ann. Stat., 1901, sec. 6049), in amendment of and supplemental to the original act creating the State Normal School, authorizes the board of trustees to grant certificates of proficiency to teachers completing the prescribed courses of study, and provides that such certificate shall be issued only on the approval of the state board of education, and that such certificate shall issue only on the approval of the state board. The act approved March 5, 1873 (Acts, 1873, p. 199, chap. 86; Burns' Ann. F. TEACHERS: EMPLOYMENT, ETC.

(a) Employment; contract; appointment; dismissal.

The enactments grouped under this heading vary apparently in wide degree as to their aim, yet all possess the common characteristic which justifies their classification in this manner. The amendment in Alabama (830) as to the contracts of teachers is typical of a movement wherever the county has become the unit of school organization and a county board of education organized. The legislative sanction for the extension of the tenure of office of principals and superintendents in Missouri (843) is one that will admit of imitation throughout the country. The provision of the Louisiana (838) amended statute providing that the marriage of a woman teacher at any time shall ipso facto vacate her position, will be read with interest in connection with the former decision of the New York court of appeals, to which reference is made in New York (847). Michigan (841) followed the example of Massachusetts by enacting a measure establishing a bureau of information and employment for school officers and teachers. Massachusetts (840) amended her original act upon this topic so as to remove the requirement for the payment of a registration fee.

The North Carolina (850) provision relative to the dismissal of teachers without hearing, and the Maryland decision (D839), will have a wholesome result in establishing more reasonable relations between employing boards and employed teachers. The decisions in California (D884), Indiana (D836, D837), and Illinois (D835), offer interesting commentaries upon some current practices.

Providing that teachers' contracts shall be made by county board of education upon nomination of district trustees. County board of education to perform duties of district trustees whenever latter fail to act.

D831. Alabama (1906): As sec. 10 of the act (Laws, 1903, p. 292) makes it the duty of the district trustees to employ teachers subject to the approval of the county board, sec. 11 does not deprive the trustees of the right to employ a teacher subject to such approval, nor authorize the board to employ one.—Gibson v. Mabrey, 40 So., 297.

D832. California (1904): Under Stat., 11107, p. 621, chap. 15, art. 9, sec. 5, authorizing the board of education of a city to employ, pay, and dismiss teachers, and sec. 14, p. 624, of said article, providing that teachers elected to permanent positions, who are reported upon favorably by a majority of the committee on classification, shall retain their positions for the ensuing year without re-election, and shall be removed only for cause; the board of education has the right to remove any teachers, including those elected to permanent positions, at will, except such teachers holding permanent positions as have been favorably reported upon by the committee on classification.—Stockton v. Board of Education of City of San Jose, 78 P., 730; 145 Cal., 240.

Nor does the further provision of sec. 5 of said article and art to the effect that no election of a teacher shall be construed as a contract, either as to the duration of time or amount of wages, give the teacher any great right or security from removal, but the object of such provision is to protect the city against a claim that a teacher is entitled to serve for any particular time or at any particular compensation.—Ibid.

Under Stat., 1897, pp. 621, 624; chap. 15, art 9, sec. 5 and 14, empowering the board of education of a city to dismiss teachers, but providing that teachers elected to permanent positions and reported upon favorably by a majority of the committee on classification shall be removed only for cause, any irregularity in the proceedings of the classification committee can not avail a teacher who has not been favorably reported by that committee, in proceedings to regain her position.—Ibid.

D833. California (1906): Under Pol. Code, secs. 1791, 1793, and the charter of San Francisco, the board of education may investigate charges and remove a teacher thereon, although such charges are not preferred by the superintendent.—McKenzie v. Board of Education of City and County of San Francisco, 92 P., 592.

D834. California (1907): Where school trustees in their individual capacity agree with one to employ him as a teacher and afterwards in regular session as a board repudiate or disregard the agreement, such person is without redress since the agreement was void, as against public policy.—McGill v. Willey, 91 P., 428.

D835. Illinois (1906): A contract between the board of education of a school district, authorized by 3 Priv. Laws, 1867, p. 521, to manage and control the common schools and employ and discharge teachers, and fix their salaries, and the state board of education, whereby the State Normal University is permitted to furnish teachers not having the usual legal qualifications for certain classes, and critic teachers are to be employed by the state board and public school board acting concurrently, who are paid in part by the school district, in said.—In re Board of Education of Normal School Dist., 77 N. E., 450; 221 Ill., 291, reversing judgment (1906). 122 Ill. App. 617.

D 838. Indiana (1901): Burns' Ann. Stat., 1901, sec. 5989a, provides that all contracts with school-teachers shall be in writing, and that no action shall be brought on any contract not made in conformity with the act. Held that, where services were rendered by a school-teacher under an oral employment, he could not recover therefor on a quantum meruit, notwithstanding the services were necessary, acceptable, and beneficial to the school corporation.—Lee v. York School Tr. of Elkhart County, 71 N. E., 133.

D 838. Louisiana: Amending and reenacting sec. 74, act No. 81, Acts, 1888, relative to free public schools in the city of New Orleans.

Teachers and principals now or hereafter employed to be considered permanent employees and removable only for cause: "Provided, That the marriage of a female teacher at any time shall ipso facto vacate her position."

Act No. 100, July 2, 1908.

D 839. Maryland (1906) : Code Pub. Gen. Laws, 1904, art. 17, sec. 53, authorizes the board of school trustees to remove teachers at their election after notice in writing, giving, when required by the teacher so notified, the reasons for dismissal. Held, that letters notifying a teacher that the trustees believed it for the best interests of the school that her services be dispensed with did disclose the reasons for her dismissal and were insufficient.—Underwood v. Board of County School Commissioners of Prince George County, 63 A., 221; 103 Md., 181.

D845. New York (1906): The board of education of the city of New York may dispense with the services of a teacher or any of its clerical force, if they are unnecessary, without the preferment of charges against the incumbent and without passing a resolution formally abolishing the position. -People v. Board of Education of City of New York, 90 N. Y. S., 737; 114 App. Div. 1.

D846. New York (1906): Under Greater New York charter, Laws 1901, p. 483, chap. 466, sec. 1101, providing that all school officers or other employees appointed by the board of education before the act took effect should continue to hold their respective positions, etc., subject to change of title, etc., and subject to the right of the board of education to abolish unnecessary positions, the board has power, if a position becomes unnecessary, either to abolish it or to transfer the incumbent to some other position in the department; and hence the board had power, after creating the position of additional auditor, to remove an appointee thereto and transfer him to another department at a reduced salary, as fixed by the board of estimate and appropriation. -People v. Board of Education of City of New York, 90 N. Y. S., 737; 114 App. Div. 1.

D847. New York (1906): The by-laws of the board of education of the city of New York provided that the marriage of a female teacher vacated her position, and that she could be removed therefor. The attention of a teacher who had recently been married was called to this regulation by the principal of the school in which she was teaching, and also by the district superintendent. Upon their assurance that it would be necessary for her to do so, she resigned. Held, that such resignation was not obtained by fraud or duress, though the regulation in question was subsequently held by the court of appeals illegal and void. -Readon v. Board of Education of City of New York, 100 N. Y. S., 253; 114 App. Div. 759.

D848. New York (1907): The board of education of the city of New York may dispense with the services of a teacher or any of its clerical force, if they are unnecessary, without the preferment of charges against the incumbent and without passing a resolution formally abolishing the position. Order (1906) 99 N. Y. S., 737; 114 App. Div. 1, affirmed. -People v. Board of Education of City of New York, 100 N. Y. S., 1116; 197 N. Y., 515.

D849. New York (1907): The board of education of the city of New York appointed a teacher to the position of teacher in an evening school. The notice of appointment merely fixed the time of service. The teacher accepted the appointment. Held, that both parties entered into the contract with knowledge of the powers of the board, and the teacher could not complain of the board retracting her compensation in the manner prescribed by its by-laws. -Morris v. Board of Education of City of New York, 104 N. Y. S., 848; 11 Misc. Rep., 495.

A teacher in an evening school is not a public officer. If he be within Laws, 1900, p. 1005, chap. 751, fixing the minimum salary of a day school-teacher; but he is employed to perform services for such compensation as is fixed in the contract, and in the absence of any agreement as to compensation, he can only recover what his services are reasonably worth. -Ibid.

(b) Teachers' Salaries.

The movement for better salaries through the provision of more adequate supporting funds, and through the establishment of minimum salary schedules, gains headway each biennium. The provision in California (855) fixing a minimum proportion of school funds to be applied exclusively for the payment of teachers' salaries, the revised minimum salary laws of Indiana (847), of Pennsylvania (869), and of West Virginia (54), and the new minimum salary schedules of Maryland (858) and North Carolina (777), will be noted as positive evidences of the current trend of this matter. It has been thought advisable to present in full the several minimum salary measures of Indiana in order to display the development of the idea in that State.

The provision of the revised school code of New Mexico (859) fixing a maximum salary for teachers presents a new aspect of the matter of compensation as it seems to have developed in some quarters. Undoubtedly this provision was rendered necessary by some peculiar local situation.

854. Arizona: Amending par. 2240 (sec. 110, chap. 12, tit. 19), Revised Statutes, 1901, relative to payment of teachers' salaries.
Providing that only holders of legal certificates or diplomas in force for the full term for which payment is demanded shall be entitled to the same. County superintendent made liable for illegal warrants.
Sec. 4, chap. 67, Mar. 21, 1907. (July 1, 1907.)

"Sec. 4. It shall be the duty of the state board of education, from time to time, to provide regulations which shall define the words 'high school' and 'equivalent' in this act. It being the intent hereof that only such schools be recognized as high schools as maintain a standard of scholarship and efficiency and course of study to the approval of the state board of education, and that the word 'equivalent' as used in this act shall mean such a course of study or training or the ability to pass such an examination as in the judgment of the state board of education would as fully qualify the applicant for teaching as the qualification of high school or normal school work and the license respectively named above requires."

(c) Teachers' pensions

No phase of the practical as well as the professional side of education seems to have received more widespread attention during the biennium than that of teachers' pensions. It has been thought desirable and advantageous to present in full a number of these new pension measures; both those relating primarily to certain cities, and those contemplating a state-wide application. For purposes of general information, the incorporation of the existing retirement-fund law of New York City has been thought justified. The enactments in Louisiana (877) and Massachusetts (878) relative to the benefits of the retiring fund of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching are in all likelihood the forerunners of similar enactments in other States during the coming biennium.

Special acts, No. 373, July 11, 1907.

873. Illinois: Providing for the contribution from interest on public school funds to the public school-teachers' and public school employees' pension and retirement funds in cities having a population exceeding one hundred thousand inhabitants.
Providing that interest contributed shall not exceed in any year, one per cent of sums so levied for such purposes.
H. B. 842, p. 523, May 24, 1907.

874. Illinois: Providing for the formation and disbursement of a public school-teachers' pension and retirement fund in cities having a population exceeding one hundred thousand inhabitants.

"Section 1. Be it enacted, etc., That hereafter in cities having a population exceeding 100,000 inhabitants, there shall be created, established, and maintained, in the manner provided by this act, a public school-teachers' pension and retirement fund, under the management and control of a board of trustees, to be elected as hereinafter provided.

"Sec. 2. There shall, in every city in this State having a population exceeding 100,000 inhabitants, be elected a board of trustees to have the administration and control of a public school-teachers' pension and retirement fund, to be created and maintained in the manner provided by this act. Such board of trustees shall consist of nine members, with each hold office until his successor is elected as hereinbefore provided. The secretary of the board of education of such city shall be ex officio a member of said board of trustees; in addition thereto there shall be elected annually at the first meeting of the board of education in the month of October of each year from said board two of its members to said board of trustees; and on the date of the first meeting of the said board of education held in October, A. D., 1907, there shall be elected six members to said board of trustees from the teachers' force employed in said city; two for the term of one year, two for the term of two years and two for the term of three years, and on the date of the first meeting of said board of education in the month of October of each year thereafter there shall in like manner be elected two members to said board of trustees, who shall hold their office for a term of three years. The election of the members of said board of trustees by the board of education shall be by a majority vote in such manner as they, the board of education, shall provide. The election of the members to said board of trustees by the teaching force of such city shall be by ballot at an election held by the board of education, which shall conform as nearly as may be to the provisions of the law in relation to school elections, and each person being a member of the teaching force of such city, and a contributor to said pension and retirement fund shall be entitled to be voted at such election, one vote for each trustee to be elected. Elections to fill vacancies may be held and called by the board of education at the annual election: Provided, that the board of education may fill vacancies occurring in the membership of said board of trustees elected from said board of education at any regular meeting of the board of education.

Sec. 3. Said board of trustees shall have charge of and (sic) administration of the public school-teachers' pension and retirement fund of such city, and shall have power to invest the same in such manner as it shall deem most beneficial to said fund, but in the same manner and subject to the same terms and conditions as township trustees are permitted to invest school funds under the laws now in force or shall hereafter be enacted and shall have power to make payments from said fund of pensions or annuities granted in pursuance of this act; and shall, from time to time make and establish such by-laws, rules and regulations for the administration of said fund, as they shall deem advisable and need to perform the proper enforcement of the provisions of this act and carrying into effect valid by-laws, rules and regulations enacted by them; and they shall have power to fill any vacancies occurring in said board of trustees elected from the teaching force of said city, until the next annual election, when said vacancies shall be filled as provided by this act.

Sec. 4. The public school-teachers' pension and retirement fund of each city shall consist of moneys paid into said fund by persons desiring the benefits thereof, under the provisions of this act; of moneys received from donations, legacies, gifts, bequests or otherwise on account of said fund and of moneys paid into said fund in pursuance of any law now in force or hereafter to be enacted.

Sec. 5. Any person who shall be employed to teach in the public school of any such city, after this act shall take effect, shall be entitled to the benefits of said fund upon complying with the provisions of this act, and for the purposes of this act such persons shall be divided into the following classes:

1. Those who have taught five years or less.
2. Those who have taught more than five years and not more than ten years.
3. Those who have taught more than ten years and not more than fifteen years.
4. Those who have taught more than fifteen years.
And after this act shall take effect, there shall be set apart from the salaries of all persons hereafter entering for the first time the employ of the board of education of such cities $5 per annum while they remain in the first class; $10 per annum while they remain in the second class; $15 per annum while they remain in the third class, and $30 per annum while they remain in the fourth class, which amounts shall be deducted by the board of education in equal installments from their respective salaries at the regular times for the payment thereof, and be paid into and constitute a part of the public school-teachers' pension and retirement fund of such city.

Sec. 6. All persons who have heretofore been contributors to a public school-teachers' pension and retirement fund of cities having a population exceeding 100,000 inhabitants, under any law now in force, but who have withdrawn from such participation, may, if the (they) shall exercise the option within six months from the time this act shall become effective, hereafter enter into said fund and the right to participate in a fund to be created in said city under the provisions of this act, by paying into said fund the full amount of any moneys they may have withdrawn from such previous fund, and the full amount they would have contributed had they not withdrawn therefrom together with interest thereon at the rate of 4 per cent per annum from the time such moneys were withdrawn and from the time such payments would have become due to the date of their acceptance of the provisions of this section; and thereafter such persons shall contribute to said fund upon the same terms as teachers who shall hereafter be employed and become contributors to said beneficaries of said fund.
SEC. 7. All teachers who are now in the service of the board of education in any such city, other than those described in the previous section, may, if they shall exercise the option within six months from the time this act becomes effective, become contributors to and beneficiaries of the public school-teachers' pension and retirement fund created under the provisions of this act, upon the same terms as teachers who shall hereafter be employed and become contributors to and beneficiaries of said fund under section 6 of this act.

SEC. 8. Those teachers in the employ or hereafter to be employed by the board of education of any such city, who shall become contributors to and beneficiaries of a public school-teachers' pension and retirement fund, under any provision of this act, may count past service as a part of the period of twenty-five years hereinafter specified, by paying into said fund a sum equal to that which he or she would have contributed under the provisions of this act, had he or she been a regular contributor to said fund, during said period of past service, together with interest thereon at the rate of 4 per centum per annum from the time such payments would have been made to the time such persons shall by making such payment become entitled to the benefits of such past service.

SEC. 9. Such board of trustees shall have the power and it shall be its duty to pass a resolution declaring the maturity of service and right to the immediate benefits of said fund in favor of persons entitled to the benefits thereof in the following cases:
1. When any such persons shall have taught in the public schools or rendered service therein for a period of twenty-five years within the meaning of this act.
2. When any contributor to the said fund shall have taught fifteen years in the public schools within the meaning of this act and shall by three competent physicians, who have made a physical examination of the teacher, at the request of a majority of such board of trustees, have been declared to be suffering from a permanent disability: Provided, that neither said board of trustees nor said board of education shall declare any contributor entitled to the immediate benefits of said fund until he or she shall have taught in the public schools of such city three-fifths of the term of service of twenty-five or fifteen years as the case may be; and no person shall be entitled to the benefits of said fund until he or she shall have retired from service as a teacher in said city.

SEC. 10. Each teacher so retired or retiring after twenty-five years of service shall thereafter be entitled to receive an annuity of $400 and such teacher so retired because of permanent disability after fifteen years of service shall receive as an annual pension such proportion of the full annuity of $400 as the sum contributed by such teacher, as retired bears to the total contribution required for a full annuity. Said pensions and annuities shall be paid monthly during the school year by said board of trustees out of the fund created in accordance with the provisions of this act in the manner provided by law for the payment of teachers' salaries.

SEC. 11. The board of trustees in any such city, created by the provisions of this act, shall succeed to the administration of any like fund established under any law now in force in this State and such board is hereby given the power to use both the principal and income of all funds for the payment of the pensions or annuities in this act provided for, and shall have the power to reduce from time to time all pensions and annuities provided such reduction shall be at the same rate on all classes and be rendered necessary by the condition of said fund. Any public school teacher who has heretofore retired from service and is entitled to a pension or annuity from like fund created under any law now in force to the administration of which such board of trustees has succeeded, or as a recipient of a pension or annuity thereunder, shall henceforth be entitled to participate in right of the present law on the same basis as members of the teaching force contributing to said pension and retirement fund, and to receive a graduating pension ranging from four-fifths to five-fifths of pensions paid under the provisions of this act, dependent upon time of service, and $30 per annum shall be withheld from such pensioner or annuitant as his or her additional contribution to said pension and retirement fund until he or she shall have paid the aggregate contribution of $450, provided this clause shall not be operative until pensions shall be payable under the provisions of this act.

"Sec. 12. The president and the secretary of said board of education shall certify monthly to the city treasurer all amounts deducted from the salaries of teachers, special teachers, principals, and superintendents of the board of education in accordance with the provisions of this act, which amounts, as well as all other moneys contributed to said fund shall be set apart and held by said treasurer as a special fund for the purposes hereinbefore specified, subject to the order of said board of trustees herein created, and shall be paid out upon warrants signed by the president and secretary of said board of education, and countersigned by the president of the said board of trustees.

"Sec. 13. The city treasurer ex officio shall be the custodian of said pension fund, and shall secure and safely keep the same, subject to the control and direction of said board of trustees and shall keep his books and accounts concerning such fund in such manner as may be prescribed by said board, and said books and accounts shall always be subject to the inspection of said board or any member thereof. Said city treasurer shall be liable on his official bond for the proper performance of his duties and the conservation of the fund created by this act. Any legal proceedings which may be necessary for the enforcement of the provisions of this act, shall be brought by and in the name of the board of education for the use of the board of trustees of the public school teachers' pension fund.

"Sec. 14. No teacher who has been, or who shall have been, elected by said board of education, shall be removed or discharged, except for cause, upon written charges, which shall upon said teacher's written request be investigated and determined by said board of education, whose action and decision in the matter shall be final. If at any time a teacher who is willing to continue is not reemployed or is discharged before the time when he or she would, under the provisions of this act, be entitled to a pension, such teacher shall be paid back at once the money he or she may have contributed under this law. Any teacher who shall retire voluntarily from the service, prior to entering the aforementioned classes, shall receive a refund of one-half of the money he or she shall have contributed under this law.

"Sec. 15. All persons who shall hereafter be employed for the first time as teachers by the board of education of any such city shall by such employment accept the provisions of this act and thereupon become contributors to said pension fund in accordance with the terms hereof. The provisions of this act shall become a part of and enter into any such contract of employment.

"Sec. 16. The money and property now in any such pension fund in any such city shall be subject to the control of a board of trustees to be elected under the provisions of this act.

"Sec. 17. All pensions or annuities granted under the provisions of this act and every portion thereof shall be exempt from attachment or garnishment process and shall not be seized, taken, subject to, detained or levied upon by virtue of any execution, or any process or proceedings whatsoever issued out of or by any court of this State for the payment of any debt, claim, damage, demand or judgment against any pensioner hereunder, and no annuitant or pensioner shall have the right to transfer or assign his or her pension or annuity or any part thereof either by way of mortgage or otherwise.

"Sec. 18. This act is intended to succeed and take the place of all previous acts on the subject of public school teachers' pension and retirement fund in cities having a population exceeding 100,000 inhabitants. And all acts and parts of acts in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

D 875. Elizaola (1907) : Hurd's Rev. Stat., 1903, p. 581, chap. 24, sec. 12, provides that no employee in the civil service of any city who shall have been appointed under the rules of the commission shall be discharged except for cause, etc., after investigation by the commission or a board appointed by the commission. Hurd's Rev. Stat., 1903, p. 1725, chap. 122, sec. 8, making provisions for a pension fund for the public school em-employees in certain cities, provides that no employee elected by the board of education shall be discharged except for cause upon written charges, which shall be investigated by said board of education, whose decision shall be final. In 1903 the public school employees' pension act was amended (Hurd's Rev. Stat. 1903, p. 1728, chap. 122, sec. 19), providing that all appointments of employees by the board of education shall be made pursuant to the civil service act, and that no employee who has contributed to such fund shall be discharged except for cause, upon written charges, determined by the board of education, etc. Held, that the amendment does not limit the power of the board of education to discharge those who have contributed to the pension fund, but it is given full authority to discharge any employees upon a proper hearing, but in all other respects the civil service laws are applicable to such employees.—People v. City of Chicago, 81 N. E., 370, 227 Ill., 445.

Indiana: Concerning pensions for infirm, disabled, diseased, or retired teachers in cities having a population of 100,000 or more, according to the last preceding United States census; providing for a fund out of which said pensions shall be paid; providing for a board of trustees for the management and distribution of such fund, and prescribing regulations relative to the mode of obtaining, preserving, using, and disbursing such fund.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Indiana, That in every city in the State of Indiana having a population of 100,000 or more, according to the last preceding United States census, there shall be, and, in hereby, created a teachers' pension fund, which shall be governed and managed by a board of trustees, to be composed of seven members, as follows: Three members of the board of school commissioners of such city, to be selected or appointed annually by such board, the superintendent of public schools, one principal and two teachers regularly employed in the public schools of such city. Said principal and teachers shall be selected at a meeting of the public school teachers of such city on the third Saturday of March, 1907, in such manner and at such place or places as shall be determined and designated by the board of school commissioners of such city; and thereafter shall be selected on the third Saturday of March of each year one principal and two teachers as members of such board of trustees. The trustees shall hold their offices until their successors shall be selected or elected as above set forth. In the event of a vacancy upon said board occasioned by the death, resignation or disability of either of said principal or teachers, then the public school teachers of said city shall, within a reasonable time, upon the call of the president of said board of trustees, hold a special meeting and elect a successor or successors. A majority of said trustees shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business pertaining to said pension fund. Said trustees shall receive no pay for their services as such, except the secretary and assistant treasurer, each of whom may be paid such sum for services as may be fixed by the board of trustees: Provided, however, that if anyone shall act as such secretary or assistant treasurer who shall receive any of the benefits of said pension fund, as hereinafter provided, the amount of the salary so received by such secretary or assistant treasurer shall be deducted from the amount to which he or she would otherwise be entitled as a beneficiary under said fund.

SEC. 2. Said board of trustees shall elect from among its number a president, vice-president and secretary. The president shall reside at the meetings of the board and perform all other duties usual to such office. The vice-president shall perform the duties of the president in his absence. It shall be the duty of the secretary to keep a true and accurate account of the proceedings of such board of trustees and of the teachers of such city, when acting upon matters with relation to said fund, and to turn over to his or her successor all books and papers pertaining to such office. The secretary of the board of school commissioners of such city shall act as assistant treasurer, and it shall be his duty to keep a true and correct statement of the account of each member with said pension fund, to collect and turn over to the treasurer of said board all moneys belonging to said fund, and to render to the board a monthly account of his doings. He shall furnish bond in such amount as shall be determined and required by said board of trustees, and the board of school commissioners of such city shall allow him such compensation for his services as it may deem proper. The treasurer of such city shall be ex officio the treasurer of said board of trustees, and he shall receive and hold all moneys belonging to such teachers’ pension fund; he shall have the custody of all notes, bonds and other securities belonging to said fund, and shall collect the principal and interest of the same and shall be liable on his bond as such city treasurer for the performance of all the duties imposed upon him by this act and for the faithful accounting of all moneys and securities, including both principal and interest, which may come into his hands and which shall belong to such pension fund. And he shall keep a separate account which shall show at all times the true condition of such fund. Said treasurer shall upon the expiration of his term of office, account to said board for all moneys, notes, bonds and other securities coming into his hands, and for the interest, income, profits, rentals and proceeds of and from the same, and he shall turn over to his successor all moneys, notes, bonds and other securities belonging to said fund. The secretary, treasurer and assistant treasurer shall make a full, true and accurate report of their offices and trusts at each annual meeting of such teachers in March of each year. Their books shall at all times be open to inspection or examination by any member of said board of trustees.

Sec. 3. Such board of trustees shall have full charge and control of the teachers’ pension fund of such city with power to adopt and enforce all needful regulations governing the same, not inconsistent with this act. Said fund shall be derived from the following sources:

1. All moneys that may be given to said board of trustees or to said fund or to the board of school commissioners of such city, for the use of said board of trustees of teachers’ pension fund, by any person or persons. Such board of trustees may take by gift, grant, devise or bequest, any money, choses in action, personal property, real estate, or any interest therein, and any such gift, grant, devise or bequest may be absolute, or upon the condition that only the rent, profits and income arising from the same shall be applied to the uses and purposes of said fund. Such board of trustees shall be authorized to take such gift, grant, devise or bequest under and by such name. Such board of trustees shall be authorized to take such gift, grant, devise or bequest under and by the style of the board of trustees of the teachers’ pension fund of such city, and to hold the same, or assign, transfer or sell the same, whenever proper and necessary, under and by such name.

2. Every teacher shall be assessed upon his or her salary as follows: One per centum per annum (but not more than $10) upon the salary of every teacher who shall not have taught in excess of fifteen (15) years; and two per centum per annum (but not to exceed $20) upon the salary of every teacher who shall have taught longer than fifteen (15) years. Provided, however, that such assessment shall not be made prior to the first day of September, 1907. And the assistant treasurer of such board of trustees shall prepare a roll of each of said assessments and place opposite the name of every teacher the amount of assessment against him or her, and shall furnish a copy of such roll to the treasurer, and the treasurer of said board shall, in November and April of each school year, deduct and retain out of the salary going to such teacher the amount of such assessment, and shall give him or her credit for the same and place the same to the credit of said teachers’ pension fund. Every teacher of such city receiving a salary of four hundred fifty dollars ($450) a year or more shall pay such assessment, and in becoming a teacher he or she shall be conclusively deemed to undertake and agree to pay the same, and to have such assessment deducted from his or her salary notes, before provided.

Third. The board of school commissioners of such city shall levy each year, in addition to all other taxes authorized by law, a special tax of one cent upon each one hundred dollars of taxable property in the city, which sum shall be collected as other taxes are collected by law, and which shall be credited by the treasurer of such city to the said teachers’ pension fund, and shall not be used or devoted toward other than the purposes of said fund. And nothing in this act shall be deemed to take from said board of school commissioners the powers now given to said board in relation to the levy of taxes under existing statutes.

Sec. 4. The board of trustees of such teachers' pension fund shall determine what part of said fund may be safely invested and how much shall be retained for the immediate needs, demands and exigencies of said fund. Such investment shall be made: (1) in interest bearing bonds of the United States, or of the State of Indiana, or in any bond lawfully issued by any state or by any county, township, city or other municipal corporation, either within or without the State of Indiana; (2) loans secured by mortgage upon real estate within the county wherein such city is located, which loans shall not be in excess of fifty per cent of the appraised value of such real estate. All bonds, mortgages and other securities shall be deposited with and remain in the custody of the treasurer of said board, who shall collect all interest due thereon and all the income therefrom, as the same shall become due and payable.

Sec. 5. The board of trustees of such teachers' pension fund shall establish a sinking fund, to the credit of which shall be put and deposited all gifts, grants, devises and bequests, and the unexpended balance remaining at the expiration of each fiscal year. Such sinking fund shall be and remain a permanent fund, and no part thereof shall be expended except the interest and income thereof and therefrom; provided, however, that one-half of the amount added to such sinking fund during any year may be used, if necessary, during the year immediately following.

Sec. 6. Said teachers' pension fund shall be used and devoted in the manner and for the purposes following:

First. The maximum pension to be paid any teacher shall be six hundred dollars ($600) per annum, which amount shall be based upon a service of forty (40) years as such teacher, and every pensioner and beneficiary of said fund shall be entitled to and shall receive such percentage of said sum of $600 as the number of years of teaching of said pensioner and beneficiary shall bear to the term of forty years, subject, however, to all the provisions of this act.

Second. Any aged, infirm, diseased or disabled teacher, who is now or hereafter may be teaching in the public schools of such city, having served as such teacher for not less than fifteen (15) years, shall be entitled to receive a disability pension; provided, however, that such board of trustees shall find that he or she is entitled to the same by reason of such age, disease, infirmity or disability, and after such applicant for a pension shall have been examined by a physician selected for such purpose by the board of trustees, the examination fee or charge of such physician to be paid by the applicant; and provided further, that no such pension shall be paid until any sick pay allowed or provided for by the board of school commissioners of such city shall have ceased.

Third. Any teacher who is now or hereafter may be teaching in the public schools of such city, and shall have taught for not less than twenty-five (25) years, may be pensioned upon application to said board of trustees, or may be pensioned by such board without such application and shall thereafter receive a pension during the remainder of his or her life, subject, however, to all the conditions contained in this act, provided, that such pensioner shall have paid into said fund, by way of assessment or otherwise, not less than one-third (1/3) of the amount to which he or she shall be entitled per annum as a pensioner. And in order to make up such one-third, the board of trustees may order the treasurer to deduct one-half thereof each of the first two years from the amount of such pension.

Sec. 7. In computing the years of service as provided in this act, the board of trustees may include services as a public school teacher rendered outside of such city, not, however, in excess of five (5) years, as a portion of such services necessary before any teacher shall be entitled to any of the benefits of this act; provided, however, that such board of trustees shall pay assessments based upon the first annual salary received by him or her in the schools of such city for the said years of service elsewhere, in addition to the assessments paid by such teacher while in the services of such schools before receiving any retirement pension; and provided, further, that nothing in this section shall affect the amount or amounts to be paid into such pension fund by school teachers before being entitled to become a pensioner. And any teacher may be given a leave of absence for study, professional improvement or temporary disability, not exceeding one year at any one time, and shall be regarded as a teacher and entitled to the benefits of this act; provided that during such absence he or she continues to pay into such fund the amount of assessment payable by such teacher the last year preceding such leave of absence.

"Sec. 8. After any teacher shall have been pensioned by reason of injury, disability or disease, the board of trustees shall have the right at any time to cause such teacher again to be brought before such board and examined by its physician, and also to examine other witnesses, for the purpose of ascertaining whether such injury, disability or disease shall still continue and whether such teacher shall remain on the pension roll. Such teacher shall be entitled to notice and to be present at the hearing of any such evidence; shall be permitted to present any question pertinent or relevant to such matter, and shall also have the right to introduce evidence upon his or her own behalf. Such teacher and all witnesses shall be examined under oath, and any member of such board of trustees is hereby authorized and empowered to administer such oath. The decision of such board of trustees shall be final and conclusive, and no appeal shall be allowed therefrom, nor shall the same be reviewable by any court or other authority; provided, however, that every pensioned teacher shall report to the superintendent of public schools of such city whenever required so to do. And said superintendent may assign such teacher to such service or employment as may be within his or her power to perform, in the judgment of such superintendent of public schools and of the examining physician employed by the said board of trustees. And during the time of such employment such teacher shall receive the regular salary therefor, which shall be credited to and deducted from the amount payable to such teacher from said pension fund. And should any pensioned teacher recover from his or her injury, disease or disability, and again be fit for regular duty, then such teacher may again be regularly employed, and during the time of such employment, he or she shall cease to be entitled to any payment out of said pension fund because of the injury, disease or disability on account of which such teacher was originally retired.

"Sec. 9. Any teacher applying to be pensioned by reason of length of time of service as in this act provided, shall be pensioned and retired without any medical examination, nor need he or she be under any physical disability, and from the time of such pension and retirement such teacher shall not be required to render further services as such teacher, nor shall he or she be deprived of the benefits hereof provided, except for any cause contained in section 10 of this act.

"Sec. 10. In computing time under the provisions of this act, such time shall include services rendered before, as well as after, the taking effect of this act.

"Sec. 11. The board of trustees shall have power and authority to make all necessary by-laws providing for the manner of the election of such trustees, to be elected as in this act provided, the counting and canvassing of the votes for the same, their meetings, for the collection of all monies and other property coming or belonging to said fund, and all other matters connected with the care, preservation and disbursement of the same, and the proper execution of the purposes and provisions of this act. And any pension authorized by the board under this law shall be subject to reduction by said board of trustees whenever in its judgment the condition of the pension fund, the financial or other conditions of the pensioner or any other circumstances render such reduction advisable, proper or necessary, and any pension so reduced may thereafter be restored or increased, as such board may deem best.

"Sec. 12. Any teacher who shall cease to teach in the public schools of such city before receiving any benefit from the fund, shall be entitled to the return of one-half of the amount, without interest, which shall have been paid into said pension fund by such teacher; provided, however, should such teacher thereafter again teach in the public schools of such city, he or she shall refund to said pension fund the amount so returned to such teacher within one year from the date of his or her return to service in the schools. And should any teacher die before receiving any of the benefits or pensions by this act provided, the board of trustees shall pay to such teacher's heirs or estate, or either or any of them, as it shall see fit, one-half the amount, without interest, which shall have been paid into said pension fund by said teacher.

"Sec. 13. If at any time there should not be sufficient money in or to the credit of said teachers' pension fund to pay all claims against it in full, then and in such event, an equal percentage shall be paid upon all of such claims to the full extent of the funds on hand, until such pension fund shall be sufficient to pay all claims against it in full.

"Sec. 14. All pensions herein provided for shall be paid by the treasurer of the board of school commissioners at his office at the same time and in such instalments as the teachers of such city shall be paid; provided, however, that no pension of any kind whatsoever provided for in this act shall be paid prior to October 1, 1908.

"Sec. 15. All pensions granted and payable out of said teachers' pension fund shall be and are exempt from seizure or levy upon attachment, execution, supplemental process, and all other process, whether personal or final; and such pensions or any payment thereof shall not be subject to sale, assignment or transfer by any beneficiary, and such transfer shall be absolutely void.

"Sec. 16. Whenever any person who shall have received any benefit from said fund shall be convicted of any felony, or of any misdemeanor, for which he or she shall be adjudged to be imprisoned, or shall fail to report for examination for duty as required herein, unless excused by the board of trustees of such city, or shall disobey the requirements of said board of trustees in respect to said examination for duty, or shall fail to perform such duty as may be required of him or her if found able to perform such duty, then such board shall order that the pension allowed and paid to him or her shall cease, until the further order of such board.

"Sec. 17. The term teacher as used in this act shall mean and include any principal, assistant principal, assistant superintendent, supervisor, assistant supervisor, person in charge of any special department of instruction, and any teacher or instructor regularly employed as such by the board of school commissioners of such city.

city council of a city or by direct appropriation by a town. The treasurer of the city or town shall be the custodian of the fund and shall make annual or semi-annual payments therefrom to such persons and of such amounts as shall be certified to him by the school committee.

Sec. 2. The school committee of any city or town which shall accept the provisions of this act may retire from active service and place upon the pension roll, any teacher of such city or town who is sixty years old or over, or is, in the judgment of said committee, incapacitated for useful service, and who has faithfully served such city or town for twenty-five years. The amount of the annual pension allowed to any person under the provisions of this act shall not exceed one-half of the annual compensation received by such person at the time of such retirement and in no case shall exceed five hundred dollars.

Sec. 3. Upon the petition of not less than five percent of the legal voters of any city or town, this act shall be submitted, in case of a city, to the voters of such city at the next city election, and, in case of a town, to the voters of such town at the next annual town meeting, and the vote shall be in answer to the question to be placed upon the ballot: Shall an act passed by the general court in the year nineteen hundred and eight, entitled "An Act to authorize cities and towns to establish pension funds for teachers in the public schools," be accepted? And if a majority of the voters voting thereon at such election or meeting shall vote in the affirmative this act shall take effect in such city or town.

Sec. 4. So much of this act as authorizes its submission to the voters of a city or town shall take effect upon its passage, but it shall not take further effect in any city or town until accepted by the voters thereof as herein provided.

Chap. 498. Apr. 30, 1908.

580. Massachusetts: An act to provide for the payment of pensions to teachers in the public day schools of the city of Boston.

"Be it enacted, etc., as follows:

"SECTION 1. The school committee of the city of Boston shall forthwith establish a permanent school pension fund for the payment of pensions as hereinafter set forth to the members of the teaching or supervising staff of the public day schools of the said city at a rate not exceeding one hundred and eighty dollars a year.

"Sec. 2. The care and investment of said fund and of any gifts or legacies thereto are hereby vested in a board of three trustees, of whom one shall be the chairman of the board of commissioners of sinking funds of the city of Boston, ex officio, and another shall be chosen by said school committee, and the third shall be chosen by the board of trustees of the Teachers' Retirement Fund in the city of Boston, established under the provisions of chapter two hundred and thirty-seven of the acts of the year nineteen hundred and eight, entitled "An Act to authorize cities and towns to establish pension funds for teachers in the public schools," and shall have charge and control of said fund.

and shall invest and reinvest the same in securities in which the funds of savings banks in the commonwealth of Massachusetts may by law be invested, excepting personal securities, and said trustees may, from time to time, sell such securities and shall invest and reinvest the proceeds thereof, and any and all unappropriated income of said pension fund.

The city treasurer of said city shall be the custodian of all securities and money belonging to the said permanent school pension fund and shall be responsible for the safe custody thereof; and, whenever any of such securities are sold by the said trustees for the purpose of reinvestment, deliver the securities so sold upon receiving the proceeds thereof; and shall, on such conditions and at such rates of interest as the trustees may approve, deposit temporarily in national banks doing business in Boston, or in trust companies organized under the laws of this commonwealth and doing a banking business in Boston, any money belonging to said fund which, in the opinion of the said trustees, it is inexpedient for the time being to invest in securities authorized by this act; and shall forthwith invest any money belonging to said pension fund in such securities authorized by this act as the said trustees may direct, and upon such terms as they may specify. The said trustees shall keep a record of their proceedings, and shall annually on the first day of February, or as soon thereafter as may be, make a written report to the school committee of the amount and condition of said fund and of the income thereof for the preceding municipal financial year, as established from time to time by said city. Their records and the securities belonging to said fund shall at all times be subject to the inspection of the school committee. The secretary of the school committee shall be the secretary of the said board of trustees and shall have the custody of all records, documents and papers belonging to them. The expense of such additional clerical assistance as may be needed in the office of said secretary for the purposes of this act shall be paid from the annual appropriations for the expenses hereinafter provided for.

Sec. 4. In addition to the amount which the school committee is now authorized by law to appropriate for the support of the public schools of the city, and for other purposes, it shall annually appropriate for the purposes contemplated by this act, and in the same manner in which it makes appropriations for other school purposes, the sum of five cents upon each one thousand dollars of the valuation on which the appropriations of the city council of the city are based, and shall from time to time pay to the treasurer of the permanent pension fund such portions of the proceeds of such five cents upon every one thousand dollars of the valuation aforesaid as, in the opinion of the school committee, will not be needed for the purpose of paying pensions to teachers during that year.

Sec. 5. Section fifty-four of chapter twelve of the Revised Laws is hereby amended by striking out the words "ten and one half dollars", in the twentieth line, and inserting in place thereof the words: "ten dollars and fifty-five cents", so as to read as follows: "Section 54. The taxes assessed on property exclusive of the state tax, county tax and sums required by law to be raised on account of the city debt shall not in any year exceed twelve dollars in any city on every one thousand dollars of the assessors' valuation of the taxable property therein for the preceding year, said valuation being first reduced by the amount of all abatements allowed thereon previous to the thirty-first day of December in the year preceding said assessment, subject to the following provisions: If the city council of a city which contains less than one hundred thousand inhabitants according to the last preceding national or state census so determines, the average of the assessors' valuation of the taxable property therein for the preceding three years, said valuation for each year being first reduced by the amount of all abatements allowed thereon previous to the thirty-first day of December in the year preceding said assessment, shall be used to determine said limit of taxation instead of said assessors' valuation of the taxable property of the preceding year. In the city of Boston, and in all cities which contain five hundred thousand inhabitants or more, according to the census aforesaid, said average shall be so used. In the city of Boston, said taxes shall not exceed ten dollars and fifty-five cents instead of twelve dollars aforesaid. Any order or appropriation re-

D 890. Schafer, 25 Ohio Cir. Ct. R., 262.

D 891. Ohio (1906): In construing a statute a word should not be given a limited or specialized meaning unless such meaning is made by legislative enactment; hence, in the act of 1900 (94 Ohio Laws, p. 305), relative to the teachers' pension fund, the word "teacher," not being specifically restricted in its meaning, will comprehend within its purview such instructors as shall have spent a part of the time required in teaching in schools not supported in whole or in part by public taxation.—Venable v. Schafer, 25 Ohio Cir. Ct. R., 262.

The board of school directors of cities of the first class shall, at their regular meeting in October, 1907, elect two of their number to be members of the board of trustees for a term of one year, and two of their number to be members of the board of trustees for a term of two years; and annually thereafter, at their regular October meetings, the boards of school directors shall elect one of their number to be a member of the board of trustees for a term of two years. In case of vacancy, the board of trustees shall, within ten days after its occurrence, fill the same for the unexpired term.

2. A teachers' retirement fund is hereby created in cities of the first class, and the fund shall consist of: A permanent and a general fund.

The permanent fund shall be made up of gifts and legacies specifically given to said permanent fund, and the same set apart by the board of trustees. The general fund shall be made up of:

The board shall receive and consider all applications for annuities under this act, and when in their opinion the best interests of the school are served by the retirement of the applicants, shall determine and direct payment of the annuities. The board shall keep full and complete records of the receipts and disbursements of this fund and a complete list of all annuitants, and shall make a report of the same at each annual meeting of the teachers in October. All necessary expenses incurred by the board in carrying out the provisions of this act shall be paid out of the retirement fund, in accordance with the votes of the board. The members of the board shall serve without compensation. Whenever any member of the board shall cease to hold a position as member of the

The city treasurer, upon the order of the board of trustees, shall pay out of said retirement fund, in monthly payments, such an annuity to any teacher who shall retire from the service of the city, as the fund will allow, and said board of trustees shall determine, but in no case shall a teacher receive such annuity unless such teacher has taught for twenty-five years, and for at least fifteen years in the public schools of the city or cities to which this act applies, except as herein after provided.

7. All annuities granted by the board of trustees under the provisions of section six shall be uniform in amount except as provided in section eight of this act.

8. No annuity shall be paid to any teacher until such teacher shall have contributed to the general fund a sum equal to all the assessments for twenty-five years, to-wit: live hundred dollars. TEACHERS: PROFESSIONAL TRAINING.

G. TEACHERS: PROFESSIONAL TRAINING AND EDUCATION.

(a) University Departments and Schools of Education.

For the biennium 1904-1906 legislation indicated a growing interest in those institutions and activities established for the higher educational instruction and training of teachers. The record for the present biennium displays little of a positive or constructive character. Kentucky (898) and North Dakota (898a) each organized the department of education of the state university upon a collegiate basis. Tennessee (898b) passed a necessary amendment to the act of 1905, providing for the establishment of the George Peabody College for Teachers.

This appropriation one of the conditions of the endowment of $1,000,000 to be provided by the trustees of the Peabody Educational Fund. Chap. 19, Jan. 29, 1907.

(b) State Normal Schools.

The legislation with reference to the establishment of state normal schools in the Southern States comprises the most important part of such legislation during the two years covered. The enactments in Alabama (899-902), Kentucky (909), North Carolina (912, 913), and Virginia (919) are the chief ones of these. The establishment of a state normal school in Arkansas (903) marks a new epoch in the educational history of that State. The organization of a single board of regents for the normal schools of Oregon (917) and the institution of an investigation of the normal schools of Vermont (918) are worthy of special note. Wisconsin (921) continued her legislation of 1905 with reference to the new normal school at La Crosse by making a large appropriation for the erection of a building.

   (C) County and Local Normal and Training Schools.

   In all grades of public schools the greatest demand of the present is for more and better trained teachers. The demand for qualified teachers in villages and cities has in the great majority of States greatly exceeded the supply of graduates from the state normal schools and other schools for the professional training of teachers. But nowhere is the need more pressing than in the case of the schools of rural districts. Even without this excess of demand, the difficulty of maintaining the teachers' position in the rural school, under the existing conditions of meager compensation and social isolation, desirable to those completing the longer and more complete training courses of the state normal schools, has long been recognized. Certain States have attempted to meet directly the need for better rural schoolteachers through the establishment of "county normal schools" or "county normal-school training classes," where the students, who otherwise would go directly into the work of teaching, are given one year, more or less, of special training calculated to fit them for more effective service in the rural schools. Wisconsin has been one of the leaders in this movement, and the success of the plan in that State is borne out by the recent enactment (927) increasing the number of these schools from twelve to twenty. Nebraska (922b) has a somewhat different plan for supplying a minimum amount of professional training. The amended measure in that State is testimony of the effectiveness of the so-called "junior normal schools."

The several acts relative to professional training of teachers in high schools—Nebraska (923), Vermont (925), and Virginia (926)—are clearly indicative of the character of the demands in those States for more skillful teachers, especially for the rural schools.

The Indiana measure (922) is easily the most important one of this group. Its presentation in full seems to be warranted.

922. Indiana: Concerning normal schools and the training and licensing of teachers.

"Sec. 1. Be it enacted ... that the state board of education, in addition to its present powers and duties, shall be and is hereby constituted a state teachers' training board, that, as such, is authorized and directed to arrange for a regular system of normal school instruction throughout the State; to designate what schools and what professional departments in schools shall be accredited in the state system of normal school instruction; to fix conditions upon compliance with which present and future schools and departments may become accredited as a part of such system; to establish, inspect, pass upon and approve, reject, alter, expand, or enlarge courses of study and teaching in the several accredited normal schools and the accredited professional departments in schools of the State; and to determine upon credits to be allowed for the work of accredited schools and departments, and equivalents, if any, to be accepted for such work or any part thereof. Said board shall make no rule, regulation or requirement applying to any accredited school or department which shall not under like circumstances apply to each and every accredited school and department in the State, nor shall any requirement be in excess of the requirements of the Indiana state normal school; it being the purpose and intent of this act that all schools and departments for normal instruction and the training of teachers shall maintain as nearly as possible like standards of excellence and efficiency.

"Sec. 2. The state teachers' training board shall have power and authority to prescribe courses of study upon completion of which graded certificates of work done may be granted by any such accredited school, which certificate shall be recognized by the Indiana state normal school so far as such certificates meet the requirements of said school's course.

"Sec. 3. In order to encourage trained teachers to teach in the district schools and in the grades in the small towns of the State, each accredited school and the state normal school may, subject to the rules and regulations of the state teachers' training board, establish a two-year course open to high school graduates, the completion of which will be accepted in lieu of a license and will entitle one to teach in the district schools and the grades in the small towns for three years without examination.

"Sec. 4. After two years from graduation, upon satisfactory evidence of professional experience and ability to instruct and manage a school, under rules and regulations hereafter to be established by said state teachers' training board, graduates of any accredited school or department shall be entitled to diplomas to be issued by said accredited school, stating the character and amount of work completed.

"Sec. 5. Said state teachers' training board shall grant to each school and department accepting the provisions of this act and agreeing to be bound by the rules and regulations of said board the right to use the word 'accredited' as a part of the title or name of such school or department, which right shall be revoked by said board at any time upon the refusal of any such school or department to abide by any rule or regulation of said board.
"Sec. 6. It shall be unlawful for any school or department for normal instruction and the training of teachers which has not accepted the provisions of this act or whose authority under this act has been revoked to use the word 'accredited' as a part of its name or title or to state that such school or department has been accredited. If any officer, employee, agent, owner, or part owner, or instructor or teacher in any school or department for normal instruction and the training of teachers which has not been accredited as provided herein or whose authority hereunder has been revoked as herein provided, shall use the word 'accredited' as a part of the name or title of such school or department, or shall publish, advertise, announce or say that such school or department is accredited, upon conviction of the same, he shall be fined in any sum of not more than five hundred dollars." §

Appropriating $1,000 for each of the years 1907 and 1908 for the payment of instruction, provided that special and systematic instruction in the science and art of teaching is given. State superintendent of public schools to be ex-officio a member of board of directors. Additional appropriation for repairs.

Resolves, chap. 56, Feb. 20, 1907.

922b. Nebraska: Repealing, and reenacting with amendments, secs. 20, 21, 22, 23, and 24, subdiv. 13, chap. 79, Compiled Statutes 1905 (secs. 11193 to 11196, 'Cobbey's Annotated Statutes, 1903'), relative to junior normal schools.

1. A high school in order to be approved for normal training must be a school accredited to the University of Nebraska.

2. At least two teachers exclusive of the city superintendent shall give their entire time to instruction in high school branches.

3. Normal training as provided in this act shall be given in the eleventh and twelfth grades. Credit for such training shall be given upon the completion of the prescribed course in normal training and the regular high school course of study.

4. The course in normal training shall be elective, and shall consist of the three following lines of study:

(a) A review for at least nine weeks in each of the following subjects—reading, grammar, arithmetic, and geography—to be given not earlier than the tenth grade. It shall be given by well-trained, experienced teachers.

"(c) At least seventy-two periods of professional training to include a study of methods, school management, observation work, etc., to be given in the senior year by the city superintendent of schools or by a member of the high school faculty recommended by him and approved by the state superintendent of public instruction.

"6. In case elementary agriculture is not in the regular course of study it shall be required in the course in normal training.

"7. Every high school approved for normal training shall instruct a class of not less than ten, and every scholar admitted to such class shall continue under instruction not less than eighteen weeks in order to be counted in such class."

Chap. 129, Apr. 26, 1907.
(d) Teachers' Institutes and Summer Schools.

The number and character of the enactments on this subject clearly show that the teachers' institute and the summer school are to be developed in a larger way by no small number of States. The enactments in Florida (931), (932), relative to teachers' summer training schools, in Idaho (933) providing for summer normal schools, in Indiana (935) providing for annual teachers' institutes in each county, in Minnesota (936) providing for summer sessions at the state normal school, in New Jersey (939) establishing summer courses in elementary agriculture, manual training, and home economics for teachers, and in Utah (944) providing for the better organization and control of teachers' institutes, seem to offer abundant evidence of the trend of educational practice in this one particular.

Adding provision that 5 per cent of the apportionment of the territorial school fund to the several counties shall be placed to the credit of the institute fund by the county treasurer.

(b) School Census.

Two factors—the apportionment of school funds on the census basis and the enforcement of compulsory education laws—continue to contribute to the increasing importance of an accurate and complete school census as a basis for many features of effective educational administration. Of the enactments here grouped together, that of New York (959), establishing a permanent census board in the city of New York, will perhaps be of the widest interest. To the students of the compulsory education problem in cities the plan proposed by this measure seems to afford an effective means for the enforcement of the compulsory education law. The enactments in Alabama (949), in Connecticut (951), in Louisiana (953), in Montana (957), in North Dakota (961), in Ohio (962), and in Washington-provisions of this act. Such board shall have power to appoint a secretary and such clerks and other employees as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this act and to fix the salaries of the same. Such board shall ascertain through the police force, the residences and employments of all persons between the ages of 4 and 18 years residing within such cities and shall report thereon from time to time to the school authorities of such cities. Under the regulations of such board during the month of October, 1886, it shall be the duty of the police commissioners in the cities of the first class to cause a census of the children of their respective cities to be taken. Thereafter such census shall be amended from day to day by the police, precinct by precinct, as changes of residence occur among the children of such cities within the ages prescribed in this act and as other persons come within the ages prescribed herein and other persons within such ages shall become residents of such cities, so that said board shall always have on file a complete census of the names and residences of the children between such ages and of the persons in parental relation thereto. If in the taking of the first census in any city of the first class during the month of October, 1886, additional policemen shall be required, such additional policemen shall be appointed by the police commissioner of said city from the civil service list of persons eligible for appointment as such policemen, and said additional policemen shall be allowed in addition to the number now allowed by law.

It shall be the duty of persons in parental relation to any child residing within the limits of such cities of the first class to report at the police station house of the precinct within which they severally reside, the following information:

1. Two weeks before any child becomes of the compulsory school age, the name of such child, its residence, the name of the person or persons in parental relation thereto, and the name and location of the school to which such child is sent as a pupil.

2. In case a child of compulsory school age is for any cause removed from one school and sent to another school, or sent one week in accordance with the child labor law, all the facts in relation thereto.

3. In case the residence of a child is removed from one police precinct to another police precinct, the new residence and the other facts required in the two preceding paragraphs.

4. In case a child between the ages of 4 and 18 becomes a resident of one of said cities of the first class for the first time for the residence and such other facts as the census board shall require. Such census shall include all persons between the ages of 4 and 18 years, the day of the month and the year of the birth of each of such persons, their respective residences by street and number, the names of their parents or guardians, such information relating to illiteracy and to the enforcement of the child labor and the compulsory education law as the school authorities of the State and of such cities shall require.

Sec. 2 A permanent census board may be established in any city not of the first class in accordance with the provisions of this act. If a census board shall not be established in such cities, then, during the month of October, 1886, and in the month of October every fourth year thereafter, the school authorities of every city, not a city of the first class, shall take a census of the children of their respective cities. Such census shall include the information required from the cities of the first class as provided in section 1 of this act.

Sec. 3 The board of trustees of every school district shall annually on the 30th day of August cause a census of all children between the ages of 5 and 18 years to be taken in their respective school districts. Such census shall include the information required from cities as provided in this act.

Sec. 4 A parent, guardian or other person having under his control or charge a child between the ages of 4 and 18 years who withholds or refuses to give information in his possession relating to such child and required under this act, or any such parent, guardian or other person who gives false information in relation thereto, shall be liable to and punished by fine not exceeding $20 or by imprisonment not exceeding 30 days.
"Sec. 5 The money required for the purpose of carrying this act into effect shall be paid by the cities and school districts respectively, included in the provisions of this act, but, in cities in which a permanent census board as provided under section 4 of this act is not established and maintained, and in school districts, such money shall be paid for the services rendered in the taking of the school census on the certificate of the State Commissioner of Education that such census has been satisfactorily taken.

"Sec. 6 It shall be the duty of the State Commissioner of Education to enforce the provisions of this act.

"Sec. 7 Chapter 520 of the laws of 1895 is hereby repealed.

"Sec. 8 This act shall take effect immediately."

(e) Place of Attendance; Transportation of Pupils; Consolidation of Schools.

Supplementary to the legislation for the furthering of the consolidation of school districts (Section A, enactments 314-361) is that providing for the transportation of pupils to and from school. Indiana (988) passed a most noteworthy act in this connection. Other measures of seeming great importance may be enumerated: Kansas (992), Maine (993), Missouri (1002), New Jersey (1008), Ohio (1010, 1012), Vermont (1015), Washington (1018), and Wisconsin (1019, 1020). The majority of these acts are of self-evident importance to the educational interests of either isolated or unprovided communities of the several States concerned.

The revised act of Massachusetts (995) relative to the transportation at half rate, by street and elevated railway companies, of pupils of public and private schools, in connection with the decision of the Massachusetts supreme court (D 905) and the decision of the United States Supreme Court (D 998), is of more than passing interest and significance.

984. Arizona: amending par. 2211 (sec. 82, chap. 9, tit. 19), Revised Statutes, 1901, relative to the admission of children to public schools.

Providing for the admission of children of nonresidents upon payment of reasonable tuition fee.

188. Indiana: Concerning the discontinuance of public schools and providing for the transportation of pupils.

"SECTION 1. Be it enacted, That the township trustees shall discontinue and abandon all schools under their charge at which the average daily attendance during the last preceding school year has been twelve (12) pupils or fewer; and said trustees may discontinue and abandon all schools at which the average daily attendance during the last preceding school year has been fifteen (15) pupils or fewer: Provided, The conditions as to roads, streams and bridges pertinental such discontinuance.

"SEC. 2. It shall the duty of the township trustees to provide for the education of such pupils as are affected by such or any former discontinuance in other schools, and they shall provide and maintain means of transportation for all such pupils as live at a greater distance than two miles, and for all pupils between the ages of six (6) and twelve (12) that live less than two miles and more than one mile from the schools to which they may be transferred as a result of such discontinuance. Such transportation shall be in comfortable and safe conveyances. The drivers of such conveyances shall furnish the teams therefor, and shall use every care for the safety of the children under their charge, and shall maintain discipline in such conveyances. Restrictions as to the use of public highways shall not apply to such conveyances. The expenses necessitated by the carrying into effect the provisions of this act shall be paid from the special school fund."

189. Indiana (1907): Acts, 1873, p. 58, chap. 24 (Burns' Ann. Stut., 1901, sec. 5663), provides that the trustees of the several townships, towns, and cities shall have the power to levy a special tax in their respective townships, towns, and cities for the construction, renting, or repairing of schoolhouses, for providing furniture, school apparatus, and fuel thereof, and for the payment of other necessary expenses of the school, etc.

" Held, that the clause "for the payment of other necessary expenses of the school" did not authorize the levying of a tax to provide free transportation for the pupils of a consolidated school district to and from the school. State v. Jackson, 51 N. E. 62."

190. Iowa (1907): Code, sec. 2774, authorizes a school board to arrange for the transportation of children to school in certain cases, "when there will be a saving of expense, and children will thereby secure increased advantages." Held, that though, if a board which refused to provide transportation for petitioner's child found that a saving of expense would be effected and increased advantages secured by the transportation, it might have been its duty to provide it, where a petition to compel the board to furnish transportation fails to show that the board made such finding or that such saving and advantage would be effected, petitioner fails to show himself entitled to the benefit of the statute. Queen v. Higgins, 114 N. W. 62.
161. Kansas: repealing and enacting with amendments, sec. 2, chap. 306, Laws, 1905, concerning the attendance of children upon schools of other districts.

Chap. 90, Public Laws, Mar. 20, 1907.

164. Massachusetts: Providing that the town of Dighton shall not be required to maintain a high school.

Providing that the town shall pay the tuition of every child attending the high school of another town or city, and also the railway transportation to and from such high school.

Chap. 181, Feb. 27, 1907.

165. Massachusetts: repealing sec. 99, pt. III, chap. 403, and chap. 470, Acts of 1906, relative to the transportation, by street and elevated railway companies, of pupils of the public day and public evening schools and private schools, and creating a substitute.

Chap. 530, May 19, 1908.

D 166. Massachusetts (1886): Rev. Laws, chap. 112, sec. 72, requiring street railway companies to carry pupils of the public schools when going to and returning from school at rates not exceeding one-half of the regular fare and leaving unchanged the previous laws exempting the Boston Elevated Company from the operation of chap. 112, is not objectionable as class legislation, the promotion of education being a sufficient reason for the discrimination in favor of pupils.—Commonwealth v. Interstate Consol. St. Ry. Co., 73 N. E., 550; 187 Mass., 436.

D 167. Massachusetts (1905): Rev. Laws, chap. 112, sec. 72, requiring street railway companies to carry pupils of the public schools when going to and returning from school at rates not exceeding one-half of the regular fare, is not a taking of property without due process of law, as there was reason for the legislature to believe that the enforcement of the statute would not result in a loss to the street railway company.—Commonwealth v. Interstate Consol. St. Ry. Co., 73 N. E., 550; 187 Mass., 436.
1008. Massachusetts (1907) : United States Supreme Court. A street railway company whose charter subjects it to "all the duties, liabilities, and restrictions set forth in all general laws now, or hereafter in force, relating to street railway companies," is bound by the requirement of a statute previously enacted, that street railway companies shall transport school children at a reduced rate, although such statute may be unconstitutional as to already existing corporations.—Judgment, Commonwealth v. Interstate Consol. St. Ry. Co. (1905), 73 N. E., 530; 187 Mass., 439, affirmed. Interstate Consol. St. Ry. Co. v. Commonwealth, 28 S. Ct. 26; 207 U. S., 79; Adv. S. U. S., 26; 52 L. Ed.

(i) Compulsory Attendance; Child Labor; Truancy.

No portion of the entire mass of legislation affecting public education points more definitely to progress than the body of enactments relating to compulsory attendance and child labor. The mere number of these enactments is full of meaning and clearly indicative of the determination of the States to protect themselves by safeguarding the educational and social rights of children. A review and comparison of the principal features of the enactments bring to light unmistakable tendencies to widen the age limitations, to increase the length of the annual school attendance, to require certain degrees of educational advancement as an essential condition of exemption from attendance, to give to school officials far greater authority in the determination of what constitutes satisfactory compliance with the law, and to bring defective children (deaf, dumb, blind, and feebleminded) within the scope of operation of the compulsory attendance requirements.

Along with the laws regulating compulsory attendance is also presented in generally briefer form those regulating child labor. These latter have come to be regarded as a necessary complement of the former. Not only has there been during the past biennium a very noticeable activity throughout the country in providing for more effective laws than those now existing, both as regards the labor and the education of children, especially in cities, but certain new enactments are representative of a wider recognition of the positive social values inherent in these protective measures for children. The child-labor laws of Arkansas (1022), of Florida (1027), of Georgia (1029), of Kentucky (1034), of Louisiana (1036), of Mississippi (1047), of Missouri (1049), of Montana (1050), of Nebraska (1051), and of Virginia (1078) are representative of the effort of the Southern States to protect their children from the deteriorating influences of early labor. These measures, in spite of evident weaknesses, are hopeful forerunners of more comprehensive ones.

Of the compulsory education laws, those of Delaware (1026), Illinois (1031), Michigan (1041), Missouri (1049), New Jersey (1084), New York (1056-1058), North Carolina (1060), North Dakota (1064), Oklahoma (1068), Virginia (1079), Washington (1072), and Wisconsin (1085) may be selected as illustrating the several phases of the modern movement of guaranteeing that every child shall have at least a minimum of education.

I. SCHOOL DISCIPLINE.

The most significant legislative event of the biennium has been the decisive manner in which a number of States have acted against the so-called high school fraternity. The extent of this legislative activity is indicative of the importance that these organizations have assumed in the life of the secondary schools of certain States. Owing to the widespread interest in this legislation, it has been thought desirable to present in full several of these enactments.

(a) General.

California: Adding section 367b to the Penal Code, providing against the offense of hazing.

"Whoever being a student, or being in attendance at any public, private, parochial, or military school, college or other educational institution, conspires to haze or engages in hazing or commits any act that injures, degrades or disgraces, or tends to injure, degrade, or disgrace any fellow student or person attending such institution shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than fifty nor more than five hundred dollars, or imprisoned in the county jail not more than six months, or both."

Chap. 483, Mar. 22, 1907.

Colorado: Providing for the prevention of "hazing" and other vicious practices in state institutions, and for the punishment thereof.

Requiring officers of state institutions to punish, dismiss, or expel teachers, employees, or students found guilty of hazing.

Chap. 154, Apr. 4, 1907.

Illinois (1908) Per curiam. This was a bill in chancery filed by the plaintiffs in error in the circuit court of Cook County to enjoin the defendant in error from enforcing a rule adopted by the defendant in error known as the "antifraternity rule." A demurrer was interposed to the bill and sustained and the bill dismissed for want of equity. The decree of the circuit court was affirmed by the appellate court for the first district, and this writ of error has been sued out from this court to the appellate court to review the judgment of that court in affirming the decree of the circuit court.

The questions raised upon this record are identical with those raised in the case of Wilson v. Board of Education of Chicago, 233 Ill. 464; 84 N. E. 667, and the decision in that case is decisive of this case. In accordance, therefore, with the holding of this court in that case, the judgment of the appellate court affirming the decree of the circuit court will be affirmed.

Indiana: Enlarging the powers of boards of school commissioners, boards of trustees, township trustees, superintendents of schools, and others having the government of such schools, prohibiting secret societies and fraternities, and declaring an emergency.

"Section 1. Be it enacted... That the common schools of the State of Indiana, both elementary and high schools, shall be open to all children until they complete the courses of study in said common schools, subject to the authority of the teachers therein and to all the rules and regulations provided by the proper authorities for the government of such schools. It shall be unlawful for the pupils in any of the elementary or high schools of this State to form secret societies, fraternities, or other similar organizations in such schools; and the board of school commissioners or board of trustees of any school town or city, and the trustee of any school township, and the superintendent of any school, are hereby required to enforce the provisions of this act by suspending, or, if necessary, expelling a pupil in any elementary or high school who refuses or neglects to obey such rules or regulations or any of them.

"Sec. 2. An emergency exists for the immediate taking effect of this act, and it shall be in force from and after its passage."

Chap. 278, Mar. 12, 1907.

Iowa (1906) Under Code, sec. 2772, authorizing school directors to make rules and regulations for the government of pupils, the board of directors of a high school had authority to prohibit pupils of such school from playing football in a game purporting to be played under the auspices of the school by a team purporting to represent the school, though the game was not played in school hours nor on or near the school grounds.—Kinzer v. Directors of Independent School District, 103 N. W., 693.

Kansas: Making it unlawful for high school pupils to belong to any secret organization in any way connected with public schools.

"Sec. 1. It shall be unlawful for the pupils of any high school to participate in or be members of any secret society or secret organization whatever that is in any degree a school organization.

"Sec. 2. Any boards of education or board of trustees of county high schools are hereby authorized and empowered to deny to any student regularly enrolled in such high school, who shall violate section 1 of this act, any or all of the privileges of such high school or to expel such student for failure or refusal to comply with the requirements of this act.

"Sec. 3. This act shall take effect from and after its publication in the statute-book."

Chap. 320, Mar. 9, 1907.

See p. 329 for complete text of decision.
1907. Minnesota: Prohibiting secret fraternities and societies being formed in the public schools of the State, empowering and making it the duty of school directors to adopt rules and regulations relating thereto and to enforce the same, and making it an offense to solicit pupils to join them, and prescribing the penalty therefor.

Prohibits secret fraternities in the public schools.—Section 1. That from and after the passage of this act it shall be unlawful for any pupil, registered as such, and attending any public high school, district, primary, or graded school, which is partly or wholly maintained by public funds, to join, become a member of, or to solicit any other pupil of any such school to join, or become a member of any secret fraternity or society wholly or partially formed from the membership of pupils attending any such schools or to take part in the organization or formation of any such fraternity or society, except such societies or associations as are sanctioned by the directors of such schools.

Directors to establish rules and regulations.—Sec. 2. The directors of all such schools shall enforce the provisions of section 1 of this act, and shall have full power and authority to make, adopt and modify all rules and regulations which in their judgment and discretion may be necessary for the proper governing of such schools and enforcing all the provisions of sec. 1 of this act.

Directors shall have power to suspend or dismiss. Sec. 3. The directors of such schools shall have full power and authority, pursuant to the adoption of such rules and regulations made and adopted by them, to suspend or dismiss any pupil or pupils of such schools therefrom or to prevent them, or any of them, from graduating or participating in the organization or formation of any secret society or fraternity, or association organized or conducted outside of said schools.

Directors shall have power to suspend or dismiss. Sec. 4. It is hereby made a misdemeanor for any person, not a pupil, to be upon the school grounds or to enter any school building for the purpose of rushing or soliciting, while there, any pupil or pupils of such schools to join any fraternity, society, or association organized outside of said schools. All municipal courts and justice courts in this State shall have jurisdiction of all offenses committed under this section, and all persons found guilty of such offenses shall be fined not less than two dollars nor more than ten dollars, to be paid to the city or village treasurer, when such schools are situated inside of the corporate limits of any city or village, and to the county treasurer, when situated outside of the corporate limits of any such city or village, or upon failure to pay such fine, to be imprisoned for not more than ten days.

Sec. 5. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

Chap. 149, Apr. 11, 1907.

1907. Minnesota: Prohibiting the manufacture, sale, or use of adulterated cigarettes, and prohibiting the use of tobacco by persons under 18 and by all minor pupils of the public schools.

Defining age limits, penalties, etc. Chap. 320, Apr. 24, 1907.

1907. Ohio: Abolishing fraternities, sororities, and other like societies among pupils of the public schools.

Section 1. It shall be unlawful for any pupil of the public schools of the state of Ohio in any manner to organize, join or belong to any fraternity or sorority or any other like society composed or made up of pupils of the public schools.

Sec. 2. It shall be the duty of every teacher, principal, or superintendent having knowledge or reason to believe that such fraternity, sorority, or like society is being organized or maintained in any of the schools of the state, or that any of the pupils attending such schools are organizing or belonging to such fraternity, sorority or like society, to advise immediately the president or secretary of the board of education in charge of such schools of such facts. Upon receipt of such notice, it shall be the duty of such board of education, within thirty days after the receipt thereof, and after not less than ten days' written notice to the persons charged with violating this act, or to their parents or guardians, to investigate the charges therein contained, and if such board of education find the same to be correct and true, it shall be the duty of the secretary of such board to notify immediately, in writing, all pupils organizing, joining or belonging to such fraternity, sorority or like society, to disband and discontinue the same and to withdraw therefrom within five days from the receipt of such notice.

"And if within such time any pupil guilty of organizing, joining or belonging to any such fraternity, sorority or like society shall fail to obey said notice, said pupil shall have violated the rules of the school and be immediately suspended from the public schools of this state by the superintendent or principal in charge of the same in cities or districts having such superintendent or principal, or by the clerk of the board of education in villages, special and township districts not having such superintendent or principal, until such pupil shall comply with the order of the board.

"Sec. 3. Any officer, teacher, principal, superintendent or other persons mentioned in this act neglecting to perform any duty imposed upon him by this act, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not less than ten dollars ($10) nor more than twenty-five dollars ($25) for each offense.

"Sec. 4. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after the first day of July, 1908."

H. R. 1110, p. 253, Apr. 30, 1908. (July 1, 1908.)

D 108. Washington (1905): Laws, 1903, p. 328, chap. 126, sec. 12, prohibiting "any person" from disturbing a public school, is sufficiently broad to include an enrolled pupil of the school disturbed. --State v. Backlund, 82 P. 357; 40 Wash., 416.

D 108a. Washington (1904): Ballinger's Ann. Codes and Stat., sec. 2331, provides that every common school shall be open to all children between the specified school ages. Sec. 2339 provides that all pupils shall comply with the regulations established for the government of the schools and subject to the authority of teachers, and sec. 2362, subd. 5, authorizes school directors to adopt and enforce such regulations as may be deemed essential to the well-being of the school, and subd. 6 authorizes them to suspend or expel the pupils who refuse to obey the rules. Held, that the directors of a school district had authority to deny to those pupils belonging to a secret fraternity contrary to the rules of the school participation in athletic, literary, military, and similar school organizations, constituting no part of the school work, though the meetings of the fraternity were held at the homes of the members after school hours, and with parental consent. --Wayland v. Board of School Directors of Dist. No. 1, Seattle, 50 Pac., 442.

Providing fine of not more than $10 or imprisonment for not more than thirty days for any person under sixteen found using tobacco in any public place when not accompanied by parent or guardian. Providing same punishment with increase to $25 for second offense, or for anyone allowing such a person to use tobacco in or upon premises occupied by him.

Chap. 463, July 1, 1907.
(b) Corporal Punishment.

1101. North Carolina (1904): Where a school-teacher exercises his judgment in whipping a pupil, the presumption is that he exercised it correctly.—State v. Thornton, 48 S. E., 602; 136 N. C., 610.

Within the sphere of his authority, the school-teacher is the judge as to when the correction of a pupil is required, and of the degree of correction necessary.—Ibid.

When the correction administered by a school-teacher is not in itself inordinate, and therefore beyond the authority of the teacher, its legality or illegality must depend entirely on the quo animo with which it is administered.—Ibid.

Where a school has not been well managed prior to defendant's employment as teacher, and he was specially requested to be more strict in compelling obedience to the rules, he has no more authority by reason thereof than he would otherwise have possessed.—Ibid.

1102. Texas (1907): The jury, in determining whether a teacher, who punished a scholar, was guilty of assault, must consider his acts and the acts of the scholar, and the teacher's guilt must not be measured alone by the severity of the punishment, but by his intention in inflicting it; and if the punishment was inflicted in good faith, without intention to injure the scholar, but only to enforce the rules of the school, the teacher was not guilty, though he used more force than was necessary.—Greer v. State, 100 S. W., 359.

Where a teacher corrects a scholar and inflicts corporal punishment, the presumption is that the same is done in the exercise of lawful authority, and it does not devolve on the teacher to show his innocent intention; and, if the punishment is inflicted without any intent to injure the scholar, the teacher is not guilty of assault, though the punishment is more severe than necessary.—Ibid.

(c) Suspension and Expulsion.

1103. Kansas: Repealing, and reenacting with amendment, sec. 14, chap. 147, Laws, 1885, relating to county high schools in counties having a population of 50,000 or over.

Defining authority of principal over pupils and granting power to suspend such. Providing for committee to examine teachers. Prescribing qualifications of teachers.

Chap. 335, Mar. 9, 1907.

1104. Wisconsin (1908): A school board has no power to require the payment of money as a condition of reinstatement of pupils under suspension.—State v. District Board of School Dist. No. 1 (Wis.), 232.

A school board may, under the express provisions of Stat., 1893, sec. 129, make all rules needful for the government of the school, and may suspend any pupil for noncompliance with rules made by it or by the teacher with its consent.—Ibid.

A pupil may be punished for misconduct, although no rule has been promulgated in regard to such conduct.—Ibid.

Power of school authorities to suspend pupils stated.—Ibid.

See p. 31 for complete text of decision.
(d) Fire Drills.

The single enactment indicated under this heading is a reminder of the greatest disaster to school children which has ever happened in this country. The compulsory fire drill will, perhaps, serve a valuable purpose, yet it will not take the place of safely and honestly constructed school buildings. The example set by Ohio in respect to these fire drills is one that will probably be followed by other States in which there is a full appreciation of the danger to which thousands of American school children are exposed each day.

Ohio: Providing for the protection of the lives of school children by an adequate compulsory fire drill.

Section 1. It shall be the duty of the principal or other person in charge of every public or private school or educational institution within the state, having an average daily attendance of fifty or more pupils, to instruct and train the pupils by means of drills, so that by sudden emergency they may be able to leave the school building in the shortest possible time without confusion or panic. Such drills or rapid dismissals shall be held at least once for each month when said schools are in session, and all doors of exit shall be kept unlocked during school hours.

That every teacher or instructor in every public, private or parochial school shall devote not less than thirty minutes in each month during which the school is in session, to instruction of pupils between the ages of six and fourteen years, in fire dangers. For the purpose of such instruction it shall be the duty of the state fire marshal to prepare a book conveniently arranged in chapters or lessons, such chapters or lessons to be in number sufficient to provide a different chapter or lesson for each week of the maximum school year, one of such lessons to be read by the teachers in such schools each week. The books shall be published at the expense of the state under the direction of the state school commissioner and shall be distributed in quantities sufficient to provide a copy for each teacher required by the provisions of this act to give the instruction herein provided for; the distribution to be made by the state school commissioner.

Sec. 2. Willful neglect by any principal or other person in charge of any public or private school or educational institution to comply with the provisions of this act, shall be a misdemeanor, punishable, each offense, by a fine of not more than twenty nor less than five dollars.

Sec. 3. It shall be the duty of the members of school boards, school directors, trustees, or other body of persons having control of the schools of any township, town or city, to cause a copy of this act to be printed in the manual or handbook prepared for the guidance of teachers, where such manual is in use or may hereafter come in use.

Sec. 4. The provisions of this act shall not apply to colleges and universities.

J. HEALTH REGULATIONS.

Among the comparatively few enactments in this section are to be found several which, when taken in connection with the judicial interpretations cited, may easily be regarded as of eminently progressive rank. That of Connecticut (1120) concerning the appointment of school physicians, that of Louisiana (1121) relative to physical examination of children, that of Massachusetts (1123) relative to the appointment of school nurses in Boston, and that of
HEALTH REGULATIONS.

Virginia (1125) providing for the testing of the sight and hearing of pupils of public schools represent a new and growing movement to increase the effectiveness of the efforts of the public school.

The several judicial decisions cited—Arkansas (1106), Illinois (1108), Massachusetts (1111), New York (1112), North Carolina (1113), Ohio (1115), and Pennsylvania (1117, 1118), while not perhaps of wide general interest, are clearly indicative that the practice of vaccination has become firmly fixed as a part of our general American protective social policy.

The Massachusetts act (1110), adding instruction as to tuberculosis and its prevention to the prescribed list of subjects to be taught in the public schools, is classified here in spite of its very obvious misplacement.

(a) General.

1106. Arkansas (1107): A child of school age, seeking to compel the school board to admit him to a school without first complying with a rule of the board requiring a pupil before admission to the school to be vaccinated, can not complain that the rule makes a certificate of a reputable physician showing that the pupil has been successfully vaccinated conclusive evidence in favor of the pupil that he has complied with the rule.—Auten v. Board of Directors of Special School Dist. of Little Rock, 104 S. W. 130.

1107. California: Providing for the preservation of the public health, and empowering state board of health to enforce provisions, and providing penalties for violation.

Providing for the protection of schools by the exclusion of those affected with any contagious, infectious, or communicable disease.

Sec. 17, chap. 492, Mar. 24, 1907.

1108. Illinois (1108): The general police powers of a city authorizing ordinances for the promotion of health or the suppression of disease do not include the passage of an ordinance making vaccination a condition precedent to the right of education.—People v. Board of Education of City of Chicago (Ill.), 84 N. E. 1916.

A city ordinance prohibiting any child not vaccinated within seven years from attending school held unreasonable and void.—Ibid.

Providing that physician's certificate contain statement of cause for which granted.

Chap. 215, Mar. 16, 1907.

Adding instruction "as to tuberculosis and its prevention" to the prescribed list.

D 1111. Massachusetts (1907): Rev. Laws, chap. 42, sec. 27, gives the school committee of a town general charge and superintendence of all public schools. Chap. 44, sec. 3, gives children the right to attend the public schools, subject to such reasonable regulations as to qualifications of pupils and other school matters as the school committee shall from time to time prescribe. Sec. 6 provides that a child who has not been vaccinated shall not be admitted to a public school except on presentation of a certificate signed by a regular physician that he is not a fit subject for vaccination. During an epidemic of smallpox a school committee enacted a regulation excluding from attendance all unvaccinated children. Held, that the town was not liable for excluding a pupil under such a regulation, though she presented the certificate that she was not a fit subject for vaccination; as the exception contained in sec. 6 has no application when there is particular reason to apprehend danger from an epidemic of smallpox. — Hammond v. Town of Hyde Park, 80 N. E. 494.

D 1113. North Carolina (1904): Rule of school board of city making a scholar's vaccination prerequisite to attendance held authorized, and applicable to a child though his health would not admit vaccination. — Hutchins v. School Committee of Town of Durham, 49 S. E., 16.

D 1114. North Dakota: Providing for the creation of a public health laboratory, for the control of such laboratory, and for the appointment and duties of a director. Laboratory to be established at the state university. Professor of bacteriology in the medical college to be director and ex officio state bacteriologist. — Chap. 238, Mar. 7, 1907.

Board of Education of Village of Highbertown, 81 N. E., 568; 76 Ohio St., 297, affirming judgment 29 Ohio Civ. Ct. R., 375.

HEALTH REGULATIONS.

Act June 18, 1895, secs. 11, 12 (P. L. 290, 297), considered and held that the fact that there has been no smallpox in a certain locality for forty years does not prevent application of sec. 12, excluding unvaccinated children.—Ibid.

Act June 18, 1895, sec. 12 (P. L. 297), excluding unvaccinated children from the public schools, held not a trespass on the reserved rights of an individual beyond the police power.—Ibid.

1119. Pennsylvania (1907): Act June 18, 1895 (P. L. 2939), provides that persons in charge of schools shall refuse admission to children except on certificate of a physician that they have been successfully vaccinated or had smallpox. "Sec. 5. Notice of the disease or defects, if any, from which any child is found by such school physician to be suffering shall be given to the parent or guardian of such child with such advice or order relating thereto as said physician may deem advisable, and whenever any child shows symptoms of any contagious or infectious disease notice shall also be given to the health officer or board of health and such child may be excluded from attendance at such school in accordance with the provisions of the general statutes or the sanitary regulations in force in the town or district.

"SEC. 2. No person shall be appointed as one of the said nurses unless she has taken a course of instruction in, and has graduated from, some hospital or similar institution giving a course of instruction in nursing at least two years in length, and has presented to the school committee satisfactory evidence that she possesses good character and health, nor unless, in addition, she shall have passed an examination given under the direction of the school committee and designed to test the applicant's training, knowledge, character, experience, and aptness for the work.

K. TEXT-BOOKS AND SUPPLIES.

Of the legislation grouped under the general heading of text-books and supplies, those enactments having to do with the creation and organization of special text-book commissions for the purpose of securing uniform text-books occupy the more important position. Several of the States amended in a more or less important manner existing laws with reference to these text-book commissions. Idaho (1146), Montana (1148), Nevada (1149), Oklahoma (1151), and Texas (1153) each created state text-book commissions; Missouri (1147) provided for county uniformity and the creation of a county text-book commission; Wisconsin (1154) attempted to secure county uniformity in a manner which precluded success.

The four enactments having to do with free text-books are of undoubted importance to the communities to which they apply.

The two enactments in Indiana (1128, 1129) relating to the sale of schoolbooks and the enactment in Louisiana (1132) giving preference to Louisiana text-books may be noted in passing.

Stat., 1906, p. 4478), to select books, failed to do so.—State ex rel. Moore v. Millsap, 108 S. W., 1133.

"Section 1. There is hereby created a county school text-book commission, which shall be the county board of education, in all counties in which such a board exists. In counties where there is no county board of education, the school text-book commission shall consist of the county superintendent of schools and two teachers, who shall be selected in the same manner and at the same time as the two members of the county board of education that are appointed in those counties that have a county commissioner of schools. Provided, that no person shall be appointed to serve on the said commission who has been in the employ of a traveling salesman or otherwise, in this state, of any publisher of school text-books within the period of two years prior to this act. Vacancies on the commission resulting from death, resignation, removal from the county, disqualification, or otherwise, shall be filled as prescribed by law. A majority of the commission shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of all business of the commission.

"Sec. 2. The county text-book commission shall meet at the county seat to organize within thirty days from the date of the taking effect of this act. The county superintendent or county commissioner(s) shall be ex-officio president of the commission, and a secretary shall be elected from its own membership. Said commission shall meet annually thereafter, and special meetings may be called by the president, or on the written request of the other two members. The president shall preside at all meetings of the commission, and the secretary shall keep the records of the meetings, and all contracts shall be signed by both the president and secretary. Members of said commission that do not receive an annual salary from the county shall receive five dollars per day for their services, with such additional amount as shall be necessary to cover their actual traveling expenses: Provided, that they shall receive pay for not to exceed six days in any one year, the same to be audited and paid by the county court.

"Sec. 3. Said commission shall adopt from the authorized state list, as hereinafter provided, a uniform series of text-books for use in the schools of all the districts of the county, except that in cities having more than one thousand children of school age, as shown by the last enumeration, and in towns having high schools affiliated with the state university, the board of directors of said cities and said towns may select from the aforesaid list such books as in their opinion are best suited to the local conditions, and may contract for the same.

"Sec. 4. Before the publisher of any school text-book shall offer the same for sale to any county text-book commission or board of school directors in the state of Missouri, said publisher shall file a copy of said text-books and supplies.

Text-books in the office of the state superintendent of public schools with a sworn statement of the list price and the lowest net price at which said book is sold anywhere in the United States under like conditions of distribution. Said publisher shall file with the state superintendent a written agreement to furnish said book or books to the county text-book commissions or boards of directors of Missouri at the price so filed. Said publisher must further agree to reduce such prices in Missouri if reductions are made elsewhere in the country, so that at no time may any book be sold in Missouri at a higher price than is received for the same book elsewhere in the country where like methods of distribution prevail. Said publisher shall further agree that all books offered for sale in Missouri shall be equal in quality to those deposited in the office of the state superintendent as regards paper, binding, print, illustration and all points that may affect the value of said books.

Sec. 4a. Before the publisher of any school text-book shall offer the same for sale to any county text-book commission or board of school directors in the state of Missouri, and at the time of the filing of such text-book in the office of state superintendent of public schools, said publisher shall pay into the treasury of the state of Missouri a filing fee of two dollars for each book offered by said publisher. A series of books by the same author and upon the same subject shall constitute one book for this purpose. The fees thus received shall constitute a fund out of which upon requisition made by the state superintendent of public schools shall be paid the expenses of publishing lists and other information for the use of the county school text-book commissions, clerk hire and other necessary expenses in connection with the filing of all text-books submitted for adoption in the state of Missouri. Any balance remaining in such fund shall be, upon the first of January of each year, placed to the credit of the general revenue fund of the state.

Sec. 5. To assure compliance with the foregoing conditions under which school text-books may be sold in the state of Missouri, said publisher shall file with the state superintendent a bond of not less than two thousand dollars nor more than ten thousand dollars, said bond to be approved by the state superintendent and the amount to be fixed by him; upon compliance with this and the preceding section, said publisher shall thereupon be licensed to sell school books in this state.

Sec. 6. If in any case said publisher shall furnish books inferior in any particular to the samples on file with the state superintendent, or shall require higher prices than those listed with the state superintendent, then it shall become the duty of the county text-book commission, or board of directors, to inform the state superintendent of the failure of said publisher to comply with the terms of his contract. The state superintendent shall thereupon notify the publisher of said complaint, and if said publisher shall disregard the notification and fail to immediately comply with the terms of his contract, then the state superintendent shall institute legal proceedings for the forfeiture of the bond of said publisher.

Sec. 7. During the month of April, 1897, and thereafter annually, during the month of January, it shall be the duty of the state superintendent to furnish each county superintendent or county commission with a list of publishers who shall have conformed to the requirements herebefore set forth relating to sample books, prices and bond.

Sec. 8. Before seeking to enter into contract with any county text-book commission, or board of directors, for the schools covered by this act, the publisher shall furnish the county superintendent or county commissioner or secretary of the board of directors with a duplicate printed list of the books and prices filed with the state superintendent. When any book or series of books in such list shall have been adopted by the county commission or by the board of directors in said county, it shall be the duty of said publisher of said book or books to furnish each county superintendent or county commissioner with a sample of the same, to remain in the office of said county superintendent or county commissioner, and to be the property of said county.

Sec. 9. The county text-book commissions are hereby empowered to adopt text-books for all subjects that may be taught in the public schools of their respective counties, and to enter into contract for the same for a period of five years in the manner hereinafter provided. All books adopted by the county commission shall be used exclusively in the schools.
of the county, except in such towns and cities as are exempt in section 3 of this act; and further, except that all books introduced into the public schools since May 1, 1905, either through the action of boards of directors or on the recommendation of county superintendents or county boards of education, may be continued in use for a period of five years from the date of the introduction of said books: Provided, that publishers of said books shall comply with all the requirements of sections 4 and 5 of this act prior to August 1, 1907.

"Sec. 10. Said commissions shall make no changes until they shall have advertised for bids for at least two successive weeks in one or more county papers, and the adoption of such books shall not be made until the expiration of at least fourteen days from the date at which such advertisement first appeared. Such advertisement shall specify subjects in which changes will be considered and the probable number of books of each kind required.

"Sec. 11. In selecting books the textbook commission shall carefully consider the price, character of the subject matter, binding, illustrations, print and paper, the adaptability to local conditions, and all points that affect the value of the book.

"Sec. 11a. In all counties where the county court does not elect to purchare and sell the same to pupils at cost, as heretofore provided, the publisher making contracts under this act shall sell and furnish to all dealers or merchants of said county, or to dealers or merchants in contiguous territory, all adopted textbooks at the net contract price.
No dealer shall sell said books at more than fifteen per cent advance on said net contract price.

"Sec. 12. When any county textbook commission or board of directors shall adopt books and enter into contracts with the publishers thereof such contracts shall provide a reasonable exchange price for the books displaced by adoption.

"Sec. 13. Any teacher or school director who, within eight months after the county board of education shall have adopted a list of textbooks for such county, shall sanction or permit the use of any book not in accordance with the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction, shall be fined not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars. If any county textbook commission or board of directors shall attempt to change any textbook before the expiration of a contract for the same, made under this act any member of such commission or board, who votes for such unlawful change, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction, shall be fined not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars.
Any publisher, or agent of said publisher, who shall connive at or seek to procure such unlawful change, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and subject to a like penalty.

"Sec. 14. Nothing in this act shall be construed to prevent the use of supplementary books as shall be furnished at the expense of the school district, provided such supplementary books shall not displace books regularly adopted under the provisions of this act.

"Sec. 15. The boards of directors of each school district shall have authority to purchase all necessary books for indigent pupils and pay for the same out of the incidental funds of the district.

"Sec. 16. Boards of directors of cities and towns exempt from county uniformity under section 3 of this act, who may not accept county uniformity, may adopt and contract for books from the state list under the same restrictions and in the same general manner as herein provided for the adoption of books by the county textbook commission.

"Sec. 17. When any publisher of school textbooks shall file with the state superintendent the samples and lists provided for in section 4 of this act, said publisher at the same time shall be required to file a sworn statement that he has no understanding or agreement of any kind with any other publisher, or interest in the business of any other publisher, with the effect, design, or intent to control the prices on such books or to restrict competition in the adoption or sale thereof.

"Sec. 18. Before being licensed to sell school textbooks in this state, the publisher thereof shall file with the state superintendent of public schools a sworn statement, showing the ownership of such publishing houses with interest, names and addresses of such owners, and specific-
sec. 19. If at any time any publisher shall enter into any understanding, agreement or combination to control the prices or to restrict competition in the adoption or sale of school books, or if the statements required of said publisher by the two preceding sections shall be untrue in any respect then the attorney general shall institute and prosecute legal proceedings for the forfeiture of the bond of said publisher and for the revocation of his authority to sell school books in this state, and all contracts made by said publisher under this act shall thereupon become null and void at the option of the other parties thereto.

sec. 20. Any publisher who shall sell, or offer for sale or adoption in this state, school text-books of any kind without first obtaining license therefor under this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction shall be fined not less than five hundred dollars, and not more than five thousand dollars.

sec. 21. Any member of any county board of education who shall accept or receive any money, gift, or any property, or favor whatsoever, from any person, firm or corporation selling or offering for sale any text-books, or any agent thereof, or from any person or any way interested in the sale of text-books, shall, upon conviction, be punished by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars or by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

sec. 22. All acts or parts of acts in conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

sec. 23. There being no law, now providing for the sale, adoption of text-books creates no emergency within the meaning of the Constitution; therefore this act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Provided, that none of said textbooks shall contain anything of a partisan or sectarian character. Each bidder presenting books for adoption shall state at what price the books are offered, as basic books, and as supplementary books.

Provided, that the commission may adopt supplementary readers, but such readers shall not be used to the exclusion of basic readers. The duly constituted authorities in charge of any private school, or other educational institution, desiring to use any of the books selected by said commission in said school shall have the privilege of buying said books at the same price and on the same terms at which they are furnished to the common schools.

Sec. 3. As soon as practicable, at the time fixed in the notice and in such manner as the commission may deem best, the commission shall advertise for at least thirty days, for sealed bids on proposals from publishers of said textbooks for furnishing books, registers, records, and apparatus to the common schools of this State as heretofore provided. The bids or proposals shall be for furnishing the books, registers, records, and apparatus for a period of five years, commencing August first, nineteen hundred eighty. Each bid shall state specifically and clearly the retail price at which each book, register, record, and apparatus shall be furnished. Any contract entered into under the provisions of this act with any publisher who may hereafter become a party to any combination or trust for the purpose of raising the price of school text books, registers, records, or school apparatus used in the State, at the wish of the commission, shall become null and void.

Section 5. The bidder or bidders to whom any contract may have been awarded shall make and execute a good and sufficient bond payable to the treasurer of the State, reciting such fact, and therein the treasurer shall return the deposit of such bidder, but if any successful bidder shall fail to make the contract and bond as hereinafore provided, the treasurer shall place the deposit of such bidder in the state treasury to the credit of the available school fund, and the commission shall re-advertise for other bids to supply such books or school apparatus which said bidders may have failed to supply. proposals shall be permitted to file a written statement as to the merits of any book or books, register, record, or school apparatus offered by such bidder, or they may be permitted to appear in person, or by a duly authorized agent, before said commission, and the party so appearing or his proper credentials or authority to represent such bidder. Every per-whether he is representing as agents or otherwise, any bidder or whether he has received or has a contract to receive pay for his services in appear-

Provided, that no state official of this State shall be allowed to appear as the agent or representative of any text-book company, firm or corporation.

"Sec. 7. The literary merits and historical accuracy of all books shall be the main point to be considered in their adoption, and the books shall be selected after a careful examination and consideration of all the books presented, and books selected shall be those which, in the opinion of the commission, are most acceptable for use in the various schools of the State, quality, mechanical construction, paper, print, price, authorship, and any other relevant matter being given such weight in making its decision as the commission may deem advisable:

Provided, the books by Oklahoma authors shall have preference, merit and price being equal. The commission shall proceed without delay to adopt, for use in the common schools of this State, text-books in the schools herebefore mentioned, and shall notify publishers to whom contracts are awarded. Each contract shall be duly signed by the publishing house or its authorized officers or agents, and if it is found to be in accordance with the award and all of the provisions of this act, and if the bond heretofore required is presented and duly approved, the commission shall approve said contract and order it to be signed on behalf of the State by the governor. All contracts shall be made in duplicate and one copy shall remain in the custody of the secretary of state and be copied in full in the minutes of the meeting of the commission in a well bound book, and the other copy to be delivered to the publisher or agent thereof. All the books, registers and records furnished under such contract shall be equal in all respects to the specimen or sample copies furnished with the bids: and it shall be the duty of the state superintendent of public instruction to preserve in his office, as the standard of quality and excellence to be maintained in such books, registers and records, the specimens and samples of all books, registers and records which have been the basis of any contract, together with the bids and the original proposal. The contract and exchange price of each book shall be plainly printed on the back of each book, together with the following notice:

"The price marked hereon is fixed by the State, and any deviation therefrom should be reported to the state superintendent of public instruction."

"Sec. 8. The commission shall not, in any case, contract with any publisher of any book or books, register or record, or any person, firm or corporation, submitting bids for furnishing charts, maps, globes or other apparatus to be used in the common schools in this State, at a price in excess of the lowest price at which such publisher or bidders furnishes and distributes the same book or books, registers, records or school apparatus under contract with any other state, county or school district in the United States, under like conditions of distribution.

"Sec. 9. The publishers or bidders shall file with each proposal a sworn statement of the lowest price at which each book, chart, map, globe or other apparatus offered is sold anywhere in the United States, under like conditions of distribution. Said publishers or bidders must further agree to reduce the price of any book or apparatus adopted by the commission, if reductions are made below such contract price anywhere in the United States, so that at no time may any book or apparatus be sold in Oklahoma at a higher price than is received for the same book, register, record or apparatus elsewhere in the United States where like conditions of distribution prevail.

"Sec. 10. Any publisher, person, firm or corporation submitting bids, or agent of such publisher, person, firm or corporation, who shall conspire at or seek to procure a change of the series of textbooks, registers, records or any school apparatus by the commission before the expiration of the period in which a uniform system of textbooks is established in this State, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction, shall be fined not less than twenty-five dollars and not more than one hundred dollars for each offense.

"Sec. 11. It shall be unlawful for any teacher, trustee or school board of any common school in this State to purchase or contract for any chart, map, globe or other school apparatus, unless the same shall have been submitted to the textbook commission of this State at a regular or special session, and by them approved and a maximum price thereof fixed by said commission.

"Sec. 12. Any person who shall sell to any teacher, trustee or school board of any common school of this State, any chart, map, globe or other school apparatus, which have not been approved by the textbook commission of this State, and any person who shall request or endeavor to persuade any such teacher, trustee or school board, or any member thereof, to purchase any chart, map, globe or other school apparatus, the sale of which is hereby prohibited, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and liable to a fine of not less than fifty nor more than two hundred dollars.

"Sec. 13. It shall be a part of the terms and conditions of every contract made in pursuance of this act that the State of Oklahoma shall not be liable to any contractor thereunder for any sum whatever, but all such contracts shall receive compensation solely and exclusively from the proceeds of the sales of school books as provided in this act, and it is hereby provided that the State shall have the right to terminate said contract whenever the law is repealed or amended, altered or qualified as to make necessary or expedient that such contract should be revoked, or as to such book or books, registers and records as may be published by or at the cost of the State:

"Provided, further, that the commission shall have the power, by a majority vote, to discontinue the use of unsatisfactory books, registers and records at the end of any school year during the continuance of this contract, and to make another adoption, and all contracts shall contain a stipulation to that effect. The State may, at its election, cancel any contract entered into by virtue of the provisions of this act for fraud or collusion upon the part of either party to the contract or any member of the commission, or any person, firm, corporation or their agents making said bond or contract; and for the cancellation of any such contract, the attorney-general is hereby authorized to bring suit in any court of competent jurisdiction in the State, and in case of the cancellation of any contract as provided in this act, the damages are fixed at not less than the amount of said bond to be recovered as liquidated damages in the same suit cancelling such said contract. And on account of the difficulty in determining the damage that might accrue by reason of such fraud and cancellation of such contract, the full amount of the bond given by any contractor shall be considered as liquidated damages to be recovered out of said bond by the State at the suit of the attorney-general, and every contract shall contain a clause to this effect.

"Sec. 14. The textbook commission shall have and reserve the right to reject any and all bids or proposals if said commission be of the opinion that any or all bids should, for any reason, be rejected; and in case they fail, from among the bids or proposals submitted, to select any book or books, registers, records and apparatus upon any of the branches of study provided for in this act, they may advertise for sealed bids or proposals under the same terms and conditions as before, and proceed in their investigation in all respects as they did in the first instance and as required by the terms and provisions of this act.
"Sec. 15. The party or parties with whom the contract shall be made shall place their books, registers, records and school apparatus on sale at as many places in each county of the State as the commission may direct for the distribution of the books to the patrons; and the contractor shall be permitted to make arrangements with the merchants or other persons for the handling and distribution of the books. All books shall be sold to the consumer at the retail price fixed by the commission. Upon the failure of any contractor, under the provisions of this act, to furnish the books, registers, records or apparatus as provided in this contract, the county superintendent of public instruction of the county shall immediately report the fact to the attorney-general, and he shall bring suit on account of such failure. In the name of the State of Oklahoma, in any court of competent jurisdiction in the State, and shall recover on the bond given by such contractor for the full value of the books, registers, records and apparatus not furnished as required, and in addition thereto the sum of one hundred dollars, and the amounts so recovered shall be placed to the credit of the available school fund of the State.

"Sec. 16. As soon as the State shall have entered into the contract for furnishing the books and apparatus for use in the common schools of this State under the provisions of this act, it shall be the duty of the governor to issue his proclamation of such fact to the people of the State, and immediately thereafter the state superintendent of public instruction shall address a circular letter to the county superintendents, trustees and school boards of the various schools of the State, which circular letter shall contain a list of the books, registers, records and apparatus adopted, with their respective prices, together with such other information as he may deem advisable.

"Sec. 17. If any local agent, dealer, clerk or other person handling or selling the books, registers, records, maps, charts, globes or other apparatus adopted under this act, shall demand or receive for a copy of any of the books, registers, records, or for any chart, map, globe or other apparatus adopted under this act, more than the contract price, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall, for each offense, be punished by a fine of not less than fifty dollars nor more than five hundred dollars.

"Sec. 18. The trustees and school boards of the various schools of the State using books, registers, records and apparatus adopted by the commission shall hold annual meetings and make an estimate of the number of school text books, registers, records and apparatus needed in said school for the term next commencing thereafter, and a report thereof shall be made to the county superintendent of public instruction in said county immediately, and no later than the first day of August next thereafter, and the county superintendent shall, as soon as possible, and not later than the tenth day of August of each year, and in the event that the State shall not furnish such books or apparatus as required, or in the event that the contractor or contractors fail or refuse to furnish the books, registers, records or apparatus provided for in this act, at the time that said books or apparatus are required for use in the schools.

"Sec. 19. The books and apparatus adopted by the commission under the provisions of this act, shall be introduced and used as textbooks, registers, records and apparatus to the exclusion of all others in the common schools of this State as hereinafter provided, but nothing in this act shall be construed to prevent or prohibit the patrons of the common schools in the State from procuring books, registers, records and apparatus in the usual way in the event that the State does not publish such books, registers, records, or manufacture such apparatus, in the event that no contracts are made, or in the event that the contractor or contractors fail or refuse to furnish the books, registers, records or apparatus provided for in this act, at the time that said books or apparatus are required for use in the schools.

"Sec. 20. Any school trustee who shall prevent or aid in preventing the use in any common school in this State of the books, registers, records and apparatus, or any of them, as adopted under the provisions of this act, or any teacher in this State who shall wilfully fail or refuse to use

"Sec. 21. The commission may, from time to time, make any necessary regulations, not contrary to the provisions of this act, to secure the prompt distribution of the books, registers, records and apparatus herein provided for and for the prompt and faithful execution of all contracts; and it is now expressly provided for that said commission shall maintain its organization during the continuance of the contracts to be entered into during the year nineteen hundred and eight, and after the expiration of same, to reorganize the commission for a period of five years as in the first instance, and enter into such other contracts in pursuance of this act as they may deem for the best interests of the patrons of the common schools of the state: Provided, That said commission shall be discontinued at such time when the efficiency for the publication of such books, registers and records provided for in this act, by the state, makes the continuance of said commission unnecessary.

"Sec. 22. If, when the proposals to furnish text-books are submitted to the text-book board, it shall appear that publishers have combined upon prices and that the proposals are unreasonable, said board is hereby empowered, with the approval of the state board of education, to do any and all acts that may be necessary for the purpose of procuring a uniform system of text-books, registers and records for use in the common schools of Oklahoma. They may, with the approval of the state board of education, offer prizes for manuscripts of books or employ suitable persons to prepare or compile the same, and contract with printing concerns for the purpose of printing, purchase or hire plates, maps and engravings of copyright matter for the purpose of being used in compiling and printing such books, provide for the payment of royalties or for the leasing of plates for printing of the whole or any part of said books. Provided, that the entire cost of any book or books so furnished shall not exceed the price of any standard book or books of like character which was proposed to be furnished by publishers.

"Sec. 23. An itemized statement of all necessary expenses of the commission, together with a sworn itemized statement of the necessary expenses of the individual members of the commission, shall be filed with the secretary of state, and the members thereof shall be allowed to receive as their only compensation for their services, the sum of six dollars per day while on duty, and their actual traveling expenses going to and returning from the place of meeting, to be paid by the state treasurer, under the direction and approval of the governor: Provided, that no per diem shall be allowed to any member of the commission who shall, at the time of service thereof, be receiving a stated salary from the state; provided further, that the members of said commission shall not draw pay during the year nineteen hundred and eight for more than thirty days, nor more than ten days for any following year.

"Sec. 24. It shall be unlawful for any member of the text-book commission to accept as a gift, or at a reduced price, any books, registers, records or school apparatus or anything of value from any person, firm or corporation interested, directly or indirectly, in any bid filed with said commission or in the adoption of any book, register, record or apparatus by said commission, and any person violating this section of this act shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars, nor more than five hundred dollars, and by imprisonment in the county jail not less than thirty days.

M. SPECIAL TYPES OF SCHOOL.

The legislation relating to special types of school reveals a continued tendency to extend greatly the activities of public education. While some of the enactments here included are not applicable strictly to schools, they are brought forward in evidence of this widening tendency of public education. This is particularly true of those of New Jersey (1186), Ohio (1187), Massachusetts (1197a, 1197b), Oregon (1199), and Wisconsin (1200).

The special schools for adults established in Pennsylvania (1188), and the special evening schools established in New Jersey (1196), are of peculiarly large contemporary interest.

The establishment of kindergartens by Kansas (1191) and by Texas (1192) are features of the widening scope of the public-school system. In connection with these two enactments, the decision of the California supreme court (D 1190) is pertinent.

The Massachusetts act (1197) enlarging the powers of the school committee of the city of Boston with reference to physical education stands out as a prominent example of the progressive and far-reaching legislation affecting the schools of the large cities.

The several enactments in Wisconsin (1201-1204) are deserving of special mention in connection with this general topic of the extension of the activities of the school as a social institution.

N. SECONDARY EDUCATION: HIGH SCHOOLS AND ACADEMIES.

The volume of legislation and judicial decisions upon the question of high schools would seem to indicate that this school was occupying a larger and larger place within the scheme of public education. Aside from the question of direct state aid, the attitude of the various States toward the development of secondary education is well illustrated by the following: Alabama (1215), providing for the establishment of county high schools; California (1220), permitting the establishment of postgraduate courses of study in high schools; California (D1224), relative to the status of evening high schools; Illinois (1227), providing for high-school privileges for all graduates of the eighth grade; Indiana (1230), relative to the classification of high schools; Kansas (1233-1235), relative to county high schools; Montana (1245), relative to the status of the county high school; Nebraska (1246), providing free public high school education for all the youth of the State; Nebraska (1247), providing for the establishment of county high schools; North Carolina (1255), providing for the establishment of county high schools; South Carolina (1261), providing for the establishment of county high schools. Throughout this group of legislation and judicial interpretation it is easy to detect the growing importance in popular favor of the county, township, and joint high schools.

Code, sec. 1670, subdiv. 12, and Stat., 1905, p. 58, chap. 65, sec. 5, a high school maintaining two courses of study, only one of which complied with university admission requirements, was entitled to state high-school funds only in case it maintained in such course not less than two high-school teachers, and had a daily average attendance of twenty or more pupils.—Ibid.

Under Pol. Code, sec. 1670, subdv. 12, the fact that an evening high school course intended to comply with university requirements extended for five years did not affect school's right to participate in distribution of state high school fund, as prescribed by Stat., 1905, p. 58, chap. 65, sec. 5.—Ibid.

SECONDARY EDUCATION.

1232. Iowa (1905): Acts, twenty-seventh general assembly, p. 48, chap. 84, is entitled “An act to amend sections 2728, 2730, 2731, and 2732 and repeal section 2733 of the code, and enact a substitute therefor, in relation to county schools, and sec. 4 of the statute provides that, should there be more applications for admission to a county high school from any school corporation than the corporation’s proportionate number of pupils, the school corporation from which they attend shall pay their tuition out of its contingent fund. Held, that the statute is not violative of constitution, art. 3, sec. 20, as embracing more than one subject, but one of which is expressed in its title, on the ground that sec. 4 is an attempt to amend code, sec. 2843, the latter relating to ordinary school corporations, and not being intended to regulate, nor in effect regulating, high schools.—Boggs v. School Tp. of Cass, Guthrie County, 102 N. W. 756.

1233. Kansas: Repealing, and enacting with amendments, secs. 4 and 10, chap. 397, Laws, 1905, providing for the maintenance and regulation of county high schools in districts or cities under 10,000 population.

1235. Kansas: Repealing, and enacting with amendments, sec. 955, General Statutes, 1901 (sec. 22, chap. 250, Laws, 1899), authorizing and enabling school districts in certain counties to levy a tax and pay the high-school tuition of all scholars actually residing in said districts.

Relating to school districts located in counties not maintaining a county high school. Provisions concerning tax levy for the payment of tuition of pupils in other high schools not to apply to any county adopting provisions of chap. 397, Laws, 1905.

1236. Kansas (1904): Laws, 1899, p. 326, chap. 224, sec. 1 (Gen. Stat., 1901, sec. 595), authorizing cities of second class to maintain high schools in whole or in part by collection of tuition fee from such pupil, is a violation of constitution, art. 8, sec. 2, providing for the establishment of a uniform system of common schools and schools of higher grade.—Board of Education of the City of Lawrence v. Dick, 78 P., 812.

The term “common schools,” as used in constitution, art. 8, sec. 2, providing for their establishment, means “free common schools.”—Ibid.

Stat., 1901, relating to the regulation and support of public schools, and is not in violation of any provision of the constitution.—Richardson v. Board of Education of Kansas City, 84 P., 538, 72 Kan. 629.
D 1228. Kansas (1908): Per Curiam. This case involves the constitutionality of chap. 388, p. 534, Laws, 1907, entitled "An act providing for a special tax levy for the construction and equipment of a county high school building for Scott County, Kansas." The act is special, and under the authority of the case of Anderson v. Board of County Commissioners of Cloud County (just decided), 95 Pac., 583, is held to be repugnant to the provisions of sec. 17, art. 2, of the constitution, and therefore void for the reason that a general law could plainly be made applicable. The judgment will be reversed, and the cause remanded for further proceedings. Deng et al. v. Lamb et al., 95 P., 592.

O. TECHNICAL AND INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION—ELEMENTARY AND SECONDARY.

The vocational and industrial trend of public education finds no better evidence than in the enactments of this group, which group it was found desirable to create in order that due prominence might be given to the latest legislative efforts to further the development of elementary and secondary technical training. Practically all of these enactments are worthy of special mention; that of Connecticut, (1274), that of Georgia (1277), that of Michigan (1281), that of Mississippi (1282), that of New York (1287), that of Oklahoma (1291), and that of Wisconsin (1295), however, may be selected as representing efforts of various sorts.

The establishment of a commission on industrial education in New Jersey (1284) and also in Maryland (1277) following the example of Massachusetts several years ago, is an event in the future development of industrial and technical education in that State.

1273. Alabama: Amending sec. 12, act No. 988, p. 182, Laws, 1001, granting a new charter to the Alabama Girls' Industrial School and conferring additional powers upon the board of trustees.

Modifying appointment of free students. Providing for condemnation proceedings to secure land. Making trustees ineligible for election to any office by board of trustees.

1274. Connecticut: Concerning the establishment of free public schools for instruction in the principles and practice of trades.

"Section 1. Any town or school district may, by vote of such town or district, establish and maintain a free public school for instruction in the principles and practice of such distinct trades as may, with the approval of the state board of education, be designated by the board of school visitors, town school committee, or board of education of such town, or the district committee of such district. Such school shall be open, under such rules as may be prescribed by said school officers, to all residents of this state: but no child under sixteen years of age shall be admitted to any such school who has not completed the studies of the eighth grade in the public schools of the town in which said school is located, or an equivalent course of study approved by said school officers. Said school officers shall make rules and regulations with reference to the management of said school not inconsistent with the provisions of this act. The instructors in any such schools shall be experts in the trades respectively taught by them."

"Sec. 2. Two or more towns may, by vote of each of said towns, unite for the purpose of forming a trade school district and establishing schools under the provisions of this act, and the school officers of the towns so united may make all arrangements, agreements, and regulations necessary to the organization and maintenance of such trade school district. The said school officers of each of the towns constituting such district shall appoint one of their number to be a member of the trade school committee of such district, and the committee so appointed shall be a joint committee on behalf of the several towns constituting the district. Each town shall be entitled to one vote in said committee. Every district organized under the provisions of this section shall continue for at least five years. But at the end of said period of five years any town may dissolve said district by withdrawal therefrom; by vote of such town; provided, that notice of the intention to so withdraw shall be given in writing to each of the other towns comprising said district at least three months before the termination of said period."

"Sec. 3. The buildings, equipment, and courses of study, and the qualifications of the teachers of every trade school established as hereinbefore provided shall be subject to the approval of the state board of education, and the attendance at each such school, together with special reports upon the specific work done and the actual results of instruction therein shall be annually certified under oath on or before the first Monday in July by the secretary of the board of school visitors, town school committee, board of education, district committee, or trade school district."
committee, as the case may be, to said state board of education, and no payments shall be made by the state on account of such school, as hereinafter provided, unless said certificate has been filed with and approved by said state board of education, and unless application for state aid for said school has been made to the board of control by said secretary and approved by said board of control.

Sec. 4. The board of education or board of school visitors of any town, or the committee of any town, school district, or trade school district wherein a trade school has been established under the provisions of this act shall, annually, on the first Monday in July, certify to the comptroller the amount expended within said school year for the maintenance and support of said school and the comptroller shall, upon application of the state board of education, draw his orders on the treasurer in favor of said board of education, board of school visitors, or committee for a sum equivalent to one-half the amount so certified as having been expended for such support and maintenance; provided, that the amount so paid by the state under the provisions of this section shall not in any one year exceed, in the aggregate, five thousand dollars; and provided, further, that said sum shall be expended toward the support and maintenance of not more than two such schools and, if application is made in behalf of more than two such schools, the board of control shall designate the two such schools for the support and maintenance of which such payments shall be made.

1275. Florida: See enactment No. 461.

1276. Georgia: Recommending appropriations by Congress for industrial instruction.

"Whereas, Several bills have been introduced in Congress which purpose to furnish means of enlarging existing high schools devoted to instruction in agriculture and other industrial subjects, it is hereby:

"Resolved by the Senate, the House of Representatives concurring, that we respectfully urge upon Congress the wisdom of thus extending to the many the course of industrial instruction so well supplied to the few in our State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, as founded by Congress through the land grant act of 1862.

"Resolved, further, that such legislation be passed that will establish such schools of secondary grade in agriculture, the mechanical trades and industries and home making suited to all country and city youth, and that there be provided for agricultural high schools farms such as these in Georgia, means with which to carry on such agricultural investigations as the local conditions may require.

"Resolved further, that a copy of these resolutions be transmitted by the secretary of state of Georgia to the President of the United States, and to our Senators and Representatives in Congress, to the end that they may encourage the passage of this measure, known as the Davis bill (H. R. 4075) introduced at the close of the Fifty-ninth Congress, entitled: "A bill to provide an annual appropriation for industrial education in agricultural high schools and in city high schools and for branch agricultural experiment stations, and regulating the expenditure thereof."

1277. Georgia: Providing for the establishment and maintenance of schools of agriculture and mechanic arts in the respective congressional districts of the State.

"Section 1. Be it enacted, That the governor is hereby authorized to establish and cause to be maintained in each congressional district of the State an industrial and agricultural school in accordance with further provisions of this act. Said schools shall be branches of the State College of Agriculture, a department of the University of Georgia. The general board of trustees of the University shall exercise such supervision as in their judgment may be necessary to secure unity of plan and efficiency in said schools.
"Sec. 2. Be it further enacted, That all fees received from inspection of fertilizers, oils, and all other inspection fees received by the Department of Agriculture in this State, after the present year, over the expenses of such inspection, and after any portion of said fund otherwise appropriated, shall be used as a fund for the purpose of establishing and maintaining such schools, and, as far as practicable, be equally divided between such schools, and the said governor is authorized to pay to the trustees of said schools, from time to time, their respective portions of said fund.

"Sec. 3. Be it further enacted, That the governor is authorized and directed to appoint from each county in the respective congressional districts one trustee for the school to be established in such district; such trustee to hold office for the term of six years from his appointment and until his successor is appointed, and that the trustees so selected in each district shall constitute a board of trustees for the school in said district, with power to control the management of said school, and make rules and regulations for the same, subject to the provisions of this act.

"Sec. 4. Be it further enacted, That the governor shall be authorized to receive from any county, or any of the citizens thereof, a donation of a tract of land in such county, not less than two hundred acres, on which to locate a school for the district in which such county is situated, together with any additional donation in the way of buildings or money; and if there are two or more offers of such donations, the governor, with the aid of the trustees of such school, shall select which to accept, taking into consideration the title, value, the centrality of location, accessibility and suitableness in any respect for the purpose intended, and upon the acceptance of any such donation, and the execution of proper deeds vesting title in the trustees, within a reasonable time, the school for said district shall be established on the tract selected, with the right to select another locality should such deeds not be made to the satisfaction of the governor. And if no such donation is made or perfected in any district within one year from passage of this act the pro rata share of the fund going to said district shall go into and be prorated in the regular common school fund in said district.

"Sec. 5. Be it further enacted, That the principal of said school shall, under the direction of the trustees, keep an account of all receipts from the sale of the products of the farm or shops which are not consumed in said school, and one-half of said receipts for each year shall be set aside as a fund to pay the students. That each pupil, having performed to the satisfaction of the principal his duties for an entire school year, shall receive his pro rata of said fund, the amount going to each pupil not to exceed one hundred dollars, and the balance, if any, to be replaced in the general fund of the school.

"Sec. 6. Be it further enacted, That the course of studies in said schools shall be confined to the elementary branches of an English education, the practical treatises or lectures on agriculture in all its branches, and the mechanic arts, and such other studies as will enable students completing the course to enter the freshman class of the State College of Agriculture on certificate of the principal.

"Sec. 7. Be it further enacted, That the faculty of such schools shall consist of the principal, who shall be an intelligent farmer; one superintendent and instructor in farm work, one intelligent mechanic, who shall direct and instruct in all mechanical work in and out of the shops; one practical instructor in care of stock and dairying, one instructor in English, and such other instructors and assistants as the funds of the college may permit. That the trustees may dispense with and combine the duties of any of the above, as necessity may require, and it shall be the duty of said instructors in said schools to cooperate in conducting farmers' institutes and farm and stock demonstrations in the several counties of their respective districts.

"Sec. 8. Be it further enacted, That after the first buildings are erected, before the opening of such schools, which shall be only such as are absolutely necessary for temporary use, all work on, in and about said schools, or on the farm, or on or in the barns and shops connected with said schools, whether it be farming, building, care of stock, or work of whatever kind, shall be performed exclusively by the students of said schools, under such regulations for the proper division and alterations in such work as may be provided by the trustees.

"Sec. 9. Such committee shall have authority, subject to the approval and ratification of the school board, to prepare courses of study, employ or dismiss instructors, purchase machinery, tools and supplies, and purchase or rent suitable grounds or buildings for the use of such trade schools. When any such committee on trade schools is appointed two of its original members shall be appointed for the term of one year, another two for the term of two years, and the fifth member for a term of three years, and thereafter, each member of said committee shall be appointed for the term of two years. In case of any vacancy during the term of any member of said committee, said school board shall fill such vacancy by appointment for such unexpired term.

926-27. Students attending any such trade school may be required to pay for all material consumed by them in their work in said school at cost prices or in lieu thereof the school board may establish a fixed sum to be paid by each student in each course which sum shall be sufficient to cover, as nearly as may be, the cost of the material to be consumed in such course; any manufactured articles made in such school may be disposed of by the discretion of the school board, and the proceeds shall be paid into the trade school fund.

926-29. Any school board desiring to avail itself of the provisions of this act, may, before the trade school fund herein provided for becomes available, establish, take over, equip and maintain a trade school or schools out of the regular school funds which may be at the disposal of such school board, provided, however, that all moneys used for these purposes out of the regular school funds shall be refunded within three years from the trade school fund.

The common council shall thereupon at its next regular meeting by resolution or ordinance direct the city clerk to call a special election for the purpose of submitting such question to the electors of such city and school district.

3. Such election shall be noticed and conducted and canvassed in accordance with the provisions of section 3943, statutes of 1898. All electors within the territory constituting such school district, qualified to vote at any election pertaining to school district matters shall be entitled to vote.

If any school districts shall be beyond the limits of such city, the city clerk shall immediately upon the passage of the resolution or ordinance by the city council ordering such election, transmit a copy thereof to the clerk of the town or towns of which such territory is constituted. The clerk or clerks of said towns shall thereupon cause a notice of such election to be given and such election to be held and canvassed as provided in section 3943.

5. If a majority of the ballots cast in such school district shall be in favor of the establishment, taking over, conduct and maintenance of such trade school, then such board shall proceed as heretofore provided to establish, take over, conduct and maintain such trade school. But if a majority shall vote against such proposition to establish, take over, conduct and maintain a trade school, the board shall take no further steps towards such end.

6. If no petition to submit such proposition to establish, take over or maintain a trade school to the vote of the electors shall be filed with the city clerk within thirty days after the first publication of the notice of the determination of the school board to take such action, then such school board may proceed as heretofore provided without submitting such proposition to the electors of the district.

U. EDUCATION OF DEPENDENTS AND DELINQUENTS.

Properly speaking, the enactments of this group do not belong within a classification of strictly educational legislation. They are included here, however, as evidences of the widespread legislative endeavors to meet the social and educational needs of those classes of children who, under other circumstances, not only have the meagerest educational opportunity, but who are most likely to become, without control and education, members of a nonsocial class. Particular attention and emphasis should be placed upon the several enactments creating or modifying the juvenile court, which is generally recognized as having become a most valuable educational instrumentality.

RECENT DECISIONS OF FEDERAL AND STATE SUPREME COURTS UPON TOPICS OF CURRENT INTEREST IN PUBLIC EDUCATION.

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT.

The following decisions of the highest courts of the States concerned, including one of the Supreme Court of the United States, have been selected for presentation here primarily by reason of their evident far-reaching influence upon the schools of the States in which the decisions have been rendered, in addition to the fact that they deal with topics possessing more than ordinary interest to those engaged in the work of public education. No effort has been made to discuss either the educational or the judicial implications of the decisions. The first would necessitate a fairly accurate knowledge of the local educational circumstances involved, while to attempt the second would not only carry the discussion beyond the present purpose, but would perhaps evidence presumption on the part of a layman. It has been deemed sufficient to present the facts and opinion rendered, either in full or by digest, in each case.

JURISDICTION OF STATE DEPARTMENTS OF EDUCATION.

I. New York.

COCHRANE, J.—The purpose of this proceeding is to review the action of the respondents comprising the board of education of the city of Troy in removing the relator from his position as principal of the high school in said city, which position he held from about March 1, 1907, until the time of his removal by the respondents as aforesaid, which occurred in December, 1907.

By chapter 500 of the laws of 1907, which applies only to some of the cities of the second class, including the city of Troy, it is provided among other things that "all principals shall hold their positions during good behavior and shall be removable only for cause, after a hearing, by the affirmative votes of at least a majority of the board" of education.

For digests of and citations to other decisions relating to public education, see Index, under "Decisions."
The petition of the relator herein shows that charges were preferred against him to the board of education; that a hearing on such charges was accorded to him by said board; and that after such hearing he was removed as aforesaid. Such hearing constituted a trial, and the action of the board in removing the relator from his position was a decision that such charges were properly made and that they constituted just cause for his removal. The relator, feeling himself aggrieved by such decision, seeks by this proceeding to have it reviewed by the court.

Title 14 of the consolidated school law (chapter 550 of the laws of 1894) provides that "any person conceiving himself aggrieved in consequence of any official act or decision concerning any matter under this act or any other act pertaining to common schools may appeal to the superintendent of public instruction, who is hereby authorized and required to examine and decide the same, and his decision shall be final and conclusive and not subject to review in any place or court whatever." By the same title the superintendent of public instruction is given power in reference to such appeals to make all orders which may in his judgment be proper or necessary to give effect to his decisions. Chapter 40 of the laws of 1904 abolishes the office of superintendent of public instruction, but provides that the powers and duties of his office shall be exercised and performed by the commissioner of education in the same cases where before the enactment of the last-mentioned statute such appeals might have been taken to the superintendent of public instruction.

The relator herein concedes that the public schools of Troy, including the Troy High School, are common schools and that chapter 541 of the laws of 1902, above referred to, relating to cities of the second class, including the city of Troy, is an act pertaining to common schools. It thus appears that the relator, if aggrieved, may have complete and ample redress by an appeal to the commissioner of education, and no statute to which we are referred authorizes a writ of certiorari in a case like this section 2122 of the Code of Civil Procedure applies, which, so far as pertinent to this case, is as follows: "Except as otherwise expressly prescribed by a statute, a writ of certiorari can not be issued where the determination can be adequately reviewed by an appeal to a court or to some other body or officer." The determination of the board of education which the relator complains of can be adequately reviewed by the state commissioner of education, and hence the relator is not at liberty to avail himself of a writ of certiorari, and the order, quashing such writ, which had previously been allowed, was properly granted. The order must be affirmed, with $10 costs and disbursements.

Note.—The following decision of the commissioner of education of New York (April 9, 1905) in the foregoing case is also presented in order to display the complete circumstances relating to the above case:

[NY State Education Department. In the matter of the appeal of Martin H. Wairath v. The Board of Education of the City of Troy]

By the Commissioner. This is an appeal from the action of the board of education of the city of Troy in removing appellant from the position of principal of the high school. The action of the board was based upon charges made by the superintendent of schools. The charges were served upon the appellant November 23, 1895, when he was notified that his trial would be held before the board November 27, 1895. At that time the investigation proceeded; the corporation counsel attended and prosecuted the charges and the appellant was attended by counsel; adjournments were had from day to day and the testimony was taken at much length. On December 4, 1895, the board voted that the appellant had been found guilty, without specifying the particular offenses of which he was found guilty, and that he should be dismissed from his position forthwith.

Section 245 of the charter of cities of the second class, of which Troy is one, provides, among other things, as follows: "All principals shall hold their positions during good behavior and shall be removable only for cause, after a hearing, by the affirmative votes of at least a majority of the board." The appellant is a graduate of Syracuse University in the class of 1889, and had been principal of the Troy High School since March 1, 1897.
RECENT SUPREME COURT DECISIONS.

The charges were made by Mr. Edwin S. Harris, the superintendent of the Troy schools since September, 1904. They were made at the instance of the board, although the proceedings clearly show that the superintendent himself was an active agent in preparing and proving them. They were drawn by the corporation upon information supplied by the superintendent, and they were signed and verified by the superintendent. They alleged incompetency; neglect of duty; disobedience of the rules, requirements, and directions of the board of education and of the superintendent of schools; misconduct in office; conduct unbecoming a teacher and principal of a high school; and asserted that the things complained of were done of omission, willfully, and maliciously.

The specifications set forth twelve instances of alleged misdeeds or failure to perform the duties of appellant's position. Stripped of legal verbiage, these were as follows:

1. Failure to assign a teacher to the head of the modern-language department after she had been appointed thereto by the board.
2. Failure for some days to assign another teacher to work in mathematics after her appointment thereto by the board.
3. Criticism of the board for the foregoing appointments.
4. Hindering the employees of the department of public works from making certain changes at the high school, directed by the board of education.
5. Failure to report a list of the students of the high school and the number of school credits granted to each, as well as the number claimed by each, notwithstanding the directions of the board.
6. Failure to maintain discipline of pupils on several named occasions and to report thereupon, although directed to do so.
7. Failure to keep accurate records of work and credits of students.
8. Failure to make true and accurate reports of the attendance of nonresident students.
9. Failure, improper, and malicious criticism of the board and the superintendent.

At the hearing before the board the main witnesses were the superintendent and the principal. Of the 429 pages of the record, their testimony fills 299 pages. The proof of the charges rests almost exclusively upon the testimony of Mr. Harris, the superintendent; one other witness was called to sustain the allegations and he upon but one unimportant matter. The contentions of the principal are corroborated here and there by the testimony of several teachers in the high school and by others.

The commissioner of education has read, and heard, and counselled, and reflected upon this testimony. Though probably not bound to be limited by the record, he has been. There has been no desire to take over the functions of the board of education or to substitute the discretion of the commissioner for that of the board. If the weight of evidence seemed nearly balanced, and the judges appeared free from bias, and the judgment inflicted a penalty fairly adjusted to a real offense reasonably established, the commissioner would sustain the board; even though it might seem to him that they had fallen into some incidental errors and his conclusions upon the facts were not fully in accord with theirs. But he can come to no other conclusion than that the board was of one mind in prejudging the case and intent upon coming to but one end; was biased against the applicant; magnified the small incidents of administration beyond reason; denied him the fair opportunities of defense; inflicted a penalty wholly out of proportion to any apparent delinquency, and so violated the law which they were bound to regard.

No immoral act is charged against the applicant; no hasty or uncontrollable temper is intimated; nothing to show that he brought discomfit upon his position is established; no doubt about his scholarship is brought forward. It nowhere appears that he did not enjoy the common respect of the community, of his teachers, and of his pupils. He certainly carried himself with much steadiness under trying circumstances. The most that is alleged and attempted to be proved is that he failed to do something that he should have done, or talked too freely, and, under the light of all that was brought out before the board, even so much fades pretty nearly to the vanishing point.
The superintendent had a professional as well as a legal and moral obligation to the principal, and whatever difficulties there were should have been settled between the superintendent and principal, and would have been if the members of the board and the superintendent had been moved by nothing but the good of the schools and regard for a teacher in a responsible place. Indeed, the proceedings unmistakably declare the fact that the difficulties which have set the schools and the people of a city in most regrettable turmoil have arisen out of the solicitude of this principal for the character and the quality of the faculty over which he was to preside and out of the integrity that could not always lead to even official authority which had some other aims than the exclusive good of the schools.

The teachers who were appointed to the high school faculty without conference with the principal were assigned to work by him with little delay and no more than was inevitably incident to his surprise and to their lack of adaptation to new and responsible duties. The criticisms against the members of the board soundly and fairly when repeated by a side from what they do when explained by the other, and, in any event, were not to the public and not beyond what any public officer must expect, without exercising his official power to turn people out of permanent positions. The allegation about interfering with changes in the building grew out of an insignificant and passing episode. Those concerning reports upon the standings of pupils and the number of failures are clearly the result of measuring things by different standards and of differing estimates of personal and official prejudices. That in relation to the discipline of pupils is not serious in school administration, and is no graver than may be frequently made against principals who have live boys to manage. The one about not reporting nonresident pupils, which looks bad upon its face, because it would seem to indicate that the principal permitted the city to be defrauded, is shown to refer to a student whose father was a resident and a taxpayer at the time referred to, and who was therefore in the school of right. No wrongful intent or malicious purpose appears anywhere.

But this is not all: The trial was not judicially fair. If any inquiry is unfair it is one in which the tribunal pretends to be governed by legal rules and yet has no real knowledge of them, and so exercises the power to use them, either willfully or ignorantly, in favor of one side and against another. It can not be expected that a board of education will be familiar with the legal rules governing the taking of evidence, but it is not too much to insist that a board of education shall either show such disposition, even anxiety, to protect the rights of the accused as will lead it to receive and exclude the testimony offered by both sides according to true rules of evidence, or else make no such pretense and yet at the facts through whatever both sides can offer. There need be no hesitation in saying that the record plainly discloses that testimony material to the accused was excluded repeatedly when it tended to show that members had prejudged the case or when it would weigh against the preconceived plans of the board. An able young lawyer, favorable to the attitude of the superintendent and the board, was allowed to determine what evidence should be taken, and to badger the principal to counsel's content, while another was kept from the board to the prejudice of the accused beyond what seemed to the board to be safely consistent with its point of view. It is not said, as the superintendent and board allege of the principal, that the board was intentionally, willfully, and maliciously wrong about this. It was wrong, but it may have been infatuated with theories which impelled it on course, and it may have been under political pressure which really forced it to think that the exigencies of the situation demanded it. The matter is given place here for the enlightenment and guidance of other boards in similar or analogous situations, and in eager anticipation of the time when partisanship shall not dare to obstruct upon the management of the schools.

It must be understood that a teacher is entitled to a fair chance for his life, and that a teacher's place is not to be the football of politics, or partisanship in other forms. If a teacher to whom the law gives a permanent tenure through good behavior, and declares that he can only be removed for cause, is to be removed, the cause must be a reasonable one and the proceedings leading up to the determination must be so conducted as to establish the cause and yet protect the teacher's rights.

The commissioner of education takes no flabby or indifferent view of the need of organization, of respect for official actions, of obedience to constituted authority. But the organization must rest upon sound fundamental principles, the directions must square with reason and right, and the authority must be exclusively actuated by the high aims of the educational system and be safely within the law which regulates the schools. When it is so, authority is entitled to honor for any aggressiveness it may show; and when it is not, he who resists it is also entitled to honor.

It is hard for anyone to lose employment. It is still harder for one to lose employment as a teacher at a time which practically makes reemployment impossible for nine or ten months. II. New York.

Application of Edwin S. Harris for a writ of prohibition against Andrew S. Draper, as commissioner of education of the State of New York, and Elias P. Mann, individually and as mayor of the city of Troy, to restrain a further prosecution and hearing of an appeal taken by the respondent Mann from a decision of the board of education of the city of Troy dismissing charges preferred against relator as superintendent of schools of such city. Writ dismissed.

W. J. An alternative writ of prohibition has heretofore been granted in this matter restraining the defendant, Andrew S. Draper, as commissioner of education of the State of New York, from hearing a certain appeal taken by Elias P. Mann, individually and as mayor of the city of Troy, from a decision of the board of education of the city of Troy on charges preferred against Edwin S. Harris, the relator, superintendent of schools of said city of Troy, by said Mann, the defendant, which charges were dismissed by the said board of education after a trial thereof. An appeal was taken by said Elias P. Mann from the decision of said board of education to the defendant, Andrew S. Draper, commissioner of education. The question was argued before said commissioner as to whether he had jurisdiction to hear said appeal, and as a result of said argument the said Draper decided that he had jurisdiction to hear and determine the appeal from said board of education and to review its decision. An application is now made to make this alternative writ of prohibition absolute on the ground that the commissioner of education has no jurisdiction to hear this appeal. Elias P. Mann, individually and as mayor, makes a return objecting to the legal sufficiency of the papers upon which the writ of prohibition herein was granted, and alleging that the said Draper has jurisdiction of the appeal referred to in the petition herein.

Practically all the questions submitted here were decided in People, of the State of New York ex rel. Martin H. Walworth, appellant, v. Frank E. O'Brien and Others, Acting as Commissioners of Education of and for the City of Troy, respondents (112 App. Div., 97), 97 N. Y. Stip., 1115), except in that case the relator therein conceded (1) that the public schools of Troy were common schools, and (2) that chapter 500, page 1314, of the Laws of 1902, including the city of Troy, is an act pertaining to common schools, which matters, are not conceded here by this relator, but are denied. We shall address ourselves then to those two questions.

We find by chapter 6 of the Laws of 1805 an act passed to raise a fund for the encouragement of common schools. Chapter 32 of the Laws of 1807 is an act further to increase the common school fund. In chapter 246 of the Laws of 1811, entitled "An act for the payment of certain officers of government and for other purposes," we find section 54 to be as follows:

"It shall and may be lawful for the person administering the government to appoint five commissioners to report, at the next meeting of the legislature, a system for the organization and establishment of common schools, and the distribution of the interest of the school fund among the common schools in this state."

In the following year (June 19, 1812) chapter 256 of the Laws of that year, "An act for the establishment of common schools," was passed, which provided for an officer within this State, to be known as the "superintendent of common schools," and in which act provision was made for the distribution of the school fund to be later acquired. By chapter 192, page 229, of the Laws of 1814, "An act for the better establishment of common schools," which repealed the prior act of 1812, a more elaborate scheme was provided for the establishment of common schools in this State, and provision was made for the general apportionment of moneys for the said common schools. Somewhat similar provision for the organization and support of the common schools has continued under statutory authority ever since, and there has been an officer designated as the "superintendent of public instruction," until the act (chap. 40, p. 94, of the Laws of 1904) was passed which repealed the last act on that subject, and designated an officer with substantially the same and additional duties as the "commissioner of education," which position is now held by the defendant Draper.

Chapter 131, page 128, of the Laws of 1818 is entitled "An act to incorporate the city of Troy." Commencing with the preamble of section 40 of that act and including sections 40 to 47, inclusive, provision is made for school and educational matters in said city. Section 42 thereof provides that the school trustees, whose election is provided for in that statute, shall be required to perform the duties of inspectors and trustees under the "act for the better establishment of common schools," subject to such regulations as the common council of said city shall make. Section 43 provided that the moneys which shall arise from the distribution of the school fund shall be appropriated to the support of the city's schools by the commissioners of schools. By chapter 196, page 290, of the Laws of 1846, the legislature amended the charter of the city of Troy and provided for the establishment of free schools in said city. Section 3 thereof provided that the said city in its corporate capacity should be able to hold and dispose of any real or personal estate transferred to it by request or devise for the use of the common schools of said city. Section 8 provided that the common counsel of said city might appoint commissioners of the common schools. Section 5 provided that any commissioner of common schools might be removed, and section 10 provided that the commissioners of common schools in said city shall constitute a board, to be styled the "Board of Education of the City of Troy." By subdivision 1 of section 11 it was provided that said board shall have power, and it shall be their duty to establish and organize the several wards of said city such and so many schools (including the common schools now existing therein) as they shall deem requisite and expedient; and by subdivision 5, "to have in all respects the superintendence, supervision, and management of the common schools" in said city; and by section 22, all moneys received by said city for or on account of the common schools shall be deposited with the chamberlain of the said city to the credit of the board of education, to be used by said board of education in accordance with the provisions of that act. By chapter 152, page 359, of the Laws of 1851 (section 6), provision was made for election of further commissioners of common schools in said city of Troy. By chapter 129, page 284, of the Laws of 1872, which was an act to amend the charter of the city of Troy, it was provided, among other things, that the officers of said city should consist of two commissioners of common schools for each ward, and various other officers therein. Chapter 50, page 120, of the Laws of 1892, was "An act to organize a board of school commissioners in and for the city of Troy and to provide for the government and support of the public schools of said city." It provided for a board of seven school commissioners, to be appointed by the mayor of said city, to take the place of the existing board of school commissioners. Said board was given authority to appoint a superintendent of schools for the city of Troy, and was given the control and management of the several public schools in said city. It was provided that said board shall have power, and it shall be their duty, to establish and organize such and so many schools, including the common schools now existing therein, as they shall deem requisite or expedient, and to alter and discontinue the same, by section 7 thereof to pay the wages of school teachers out of moneys appropriated and provided by law for the support of schools in said city as far as the same shall be sufficient, and by section 12 to make and transmit to the state superintendent of public instruction a report in writing annually.

Article 2, section 1, of the constitution of the State of New York, adopted in 1884, provided as follows:

"Common Schools—Section 1. The legislature shall provide for the maintenance and support of a system of free common schools, wherein all the children of this State may be educated."

Chapter 182, page 371, of the Laws of 1888, was "An act for the government of the second class cities, commonly known as the "white charter." Troy is a city of the second class, and section 249 of that act, and subsequent sections, were amended by chapter 560, page 1341, of the Laws of 1902, which is entitled "An act to amend chapter 152 of the Laws of 1898 relative to the department of public instruction in cities of the second class." Section 240 thereof provides for a board of education, composed of three members, to be called "commissioners of education," which is the board of education now had in the city of Troy, and provides said board shall be the head of the department of public instruction in said city. Section 242 thereof is as follows:

"The board has all the powers and is charged with all the duties of commissioners of common schools, and of trustees of the several school districts in this State, under the general statutes relating to common schools, so far as such powers and duties can be made applicable to the schools herein provided for, and are not inconsistent with the provisions of this act."

Section 245, which is the section under which the board acts, is as follows:

"The superintendent of schools shall hold office during the pleasure of the board. Any person may prefer charges of incompetency, maladministration, or misconduct against the superintendent, and thereupon the board shall proceed to hear the charges, and in case the same shall be sustained by the affirmative vote of a majority thereof the superintendent shall be dismissed from his office.

I think, from this brief examination of the legislation relating to the schools of this State and the city of Troy, it must be fairly apparent that the schools of said city are common schools, part of the common school system of this State. It must also follow, from an examination of said legislation, that chapter 500, page 1341, of the Laws of 1902, is an act pertaining to common schools.
The title indicates it, and all the sections refer to matters pertaining to the common schools of the cities of the second class in this State. This supplies what was not determined by the appellate division in People ex rel. Walsh v.
O'Brien, heretofore referred to. It seems to me clear that the legislature intended the jurisdiction of the commissioner of education to apply to the common schools of the cities of the second class, including Troy. Hence the appeal herein is governed by subdivision 7, section 1, title 14, chapter 526, page 1181, of the Laws of 1894, as amended by chapter 49, page 94, of the Laws of 1904, which authorizes the commissioner of education the powers and duties of superintendent of public instruction heretofore exercised by the said superintendent, including the power to determine appeals of this kind.

The point is made by the relator that the defendant, Munn, is not a person aggrieved within the statute. The statute is:

"Any person conceiving himself aggrieved in consequence of any decision made .... may appeal."

The commissioner being given jurisdiction of the subject-matter of the appeal, the burden is on the defendant, Munn, to show before the commissioner that he is aggrieved by the decision of the board of education.

The same reasoning applies to the further point made, that under a strict reading of the statute applied to the circumstances of this case the commissioner of education might attempt to decide this appeal without notifying the relator, Harris, that it was pending. It will be time enough to provide for a contingency of that kind if it should ever arise.

It follows, therefore, that the writ of prohibition herein should be dis-ISSUED;
and an order may be entered vacating or quashing it.

STATUS OF EVENING HIGH SCHOOLS.

III. California.

[Board of Education of the City and County of San Francisco v. Hyatt (Supreme Court of California, December 6, 1907, 83 Cal. 117.)]

In banc. Application by the board of education of the city and county of San Francisco for a writ of mandate against Edward Hyatt, superintendent of public instruction. Petition dismissed.

Ross, J. Upon an application to this court by the board of education of the city and county of San Francisco for a writ of mandate to compel the state superintendent of public instruction to include the Hillsbod evening high school in said city and county among the schools participating in the apportionment of the state high school fund, an alternative writ issued. The respondent appeared, and, after filing a demurrer and an answer, entered into a stipulation with the petitioner, agreeing upon the essential facts. By section 1 of the act entitled "An act creating a fund for the benefit and support of high schools and providing for its distribution," etc., approved March 6, 1905 (Stat. 1905,
p. 58, chap. 65), provision is made for the annual levy of a tax for the support of regularly established high schools of the State. The money so collected is to be turned into a "state high school fund," created by the act and appropriated for the use and support of regularly established state high schools. Sections 3, 4. Section 6 of the act directs the superintendent of public instruction to apportion the fund to high schools of the State upon this basis: One-third of the annual amount equally among the county, district, city, union, or joint union high schools of the State, irrespective of the number of pupils enrolled.
or in average daily attendance therein, and the remaining two-thirds pro rata according to the average daily attendance for the last preceding school year, "provided that such high schools have been organized under the law of the State, or have been recognized as existing under the high-school law of the State and have maintained the grade of instruction required by law for the high schools; and provided that no school shall be eligible to a share in said state high-school fund that has not during the last preceding school year employed at least ten regularly certified high-school teachers for a period of not less than one hundred and twenty days in average daily attendance for such length of time * * * ; and provided that before receiving state aid, each school shall furnish satisfactory evidence to the superintendent of public instruction of the possession of a reasonably good equipment of building, laboratory, and library and of having maintained, the preceding school year, proper high-school instruction for a term of at least one hundred and eighty days * * *. It appears from the stipulation above referred to that the Humboldt evening high school was established and organized by the board of education of the city and county of San Francisco in October, 1898. At a time when said city and county was governed by the provisions of the consolidation act and the amendments thereto. In the establishment and organization of said school no election as provided by sections 1670 and 1671 of the Political Code was held. The sessions of said school are held in the evening only, and continue during two hours of each of five evenings per week.

The respondent contends, in the first place, that under the constitution of this State no high school holding evening sessions only can be established. This contention is based upon section 6 of article 9 of the constitution, providing that "the public-school system shall include primary and grammar schools, and such high schools, evening schools, normal schools, and technical schools as may be established by the legislature or by municipal or district authority." The argument is that the constitution, by enumerating the various classes of schools and making evening schools a distinct class in this enumeration, distinguished such evening schools from all other classes enumerated, and that an evening school could not therefore at the same time be a high school, since high schools form a class separately provided for in the section. But this argument proves too much. It would lead equally well to the conclusion that an evening school could not be either a primary, a grammar, a normal, or a technical school, a conclusion which seems on its face to be untenable. We are satisfied that the framers of the constitution, in including in this section the words "evening schools," intended to obviate any doubt that might exist as to the power to provide for schools which should hold their sessions in the evening, and that it was not intended thereby to make a separate class of such schools in the sense that evening schools could not, as to the nature of the course of study pursued, possess the character of primary, grammar, high, normal, or technical schools.

Further, it is objected that the Humboldt evening high school was not organized pursuant to an election held under the provisions of sections 1670 and 1671 of the Political Code. By section 5 of the act of March 6, 1895, the benefits of the State high-school fund are limited to high schools that "have been organized under the laws of the State, or have been recognized as existing under the high-school law of the State." By this provision the act furnishes its own definition of the phrase "regularly established high schools of the State," used in the earlier sections, and impresses the character of regularly established high schools upon schools which comply with either of the last quoted requirements of section 5. As appears from the stipulation, the Humboldt evening high school was established by the board of education of the city and county of San Francisco in October, 1897. Section 1670 of the Political Code reads: "Boards of education are elected in cities and shall be under the provisions of the laws governing such cities, and their powers and duties are as prescribed in such laws, except as otherwise in this chapter provided." Under section 1 of an act entitled "An act to provide for the support of the common schools of the city and county of San Francisco and to define the powers and duties of the boards of education thereof," approved April 14, 1872 (Stat. 1871-72, p. 836, chap. 570), the board of education of the city and county of San Francisco is given power "to maintain public schools in said city and county, anew organized in said city and county, and to establish additional ones as required, and to consolidate and discontinue schools, as may be deemed best for the public interest." That high schools may properly be included within the term "public schools" will hardly be questioned. Indeed, article 9, section 6, of the present constitution, quoted above, expressly makes went, we think that the stipulation of facts falls to show that the Humboldt (Cal., 372, 26 Pac., 211.) It would appear clear, therefore, that the Humboldt evening high school is a school that Spring 1879, the act, having been passed before the adoption of the constitution of 1879, was not affected by the restrictions contained in that instrument prohibiting the passing of local or special laws. (Nevada School Dist. v. Shoer, 88 Cal., 372, 26 Pac., 211.)

The act, having been passed before the adoption of the constitution of 1879, was not affected by the restrictions contained in that instrument prohibiting the passing of local or special laws. (Nevada School Dist. v. Shoer, 88 Cal., 372, 26 Pac., 211.)

An act of March 15, 1901, (Stat. 1901, p. 299, chap. 140) provides that "all proceedings for the establishment of high schools heretofore established in incorporated cities are hereby declared legal," and in 1905 the legislature amended section 1671 of the Political Code, including in said section a subdivision 11, providing that "all proceedings for the formation and organization of highschool districts and the establishment of county, city and county, union, joint union, and district high schools had prior to the passage and approval of this act are hereby validated and declared legal, and said high-school districts and high schools are hereby declared to be legally formed, organized, and established." It is well settled that the legislature has power to pass curing the failure to comply with statutory requirements that might originally have been dispensed with in the proceedings of municipal corporations. (Gilman v. Eng. Ency. of Law (2d Ed.), 941.) In the recent case of Chase v. Trout, 146 Cal., 350, 90 Pac., 311, the court fully expressed its view regarding the validity of curative acts. The statute there in question undertook to validate defective proceedings for the collection of taxes, but the principle declared in no less applicable to proceedings of the kind here involved. (See also, Buhl v. Monroe (Cal. Sup.), 80 Pac., 352.)

If this school was in all other respects entitled to participate as a high school in the apportionment, these curative acts were clearly sufficient to bring it within the statutory definition of a "regularly established high school."

The further objection is made on behalf of respondent that the shortness of the daily session held in the school in question, i.e., two hours per day, takes the school out of the class of high schools contemplated by the law. While it appears that this session is considerably shorter than that regularly held in day high schools, we find no provision of law regulating the length of the daily sessions, with the exception of section 1673 of the Political Code, which provides that "no school must be continued in session more than six hours per day." No statute provides a minimum duration, and if the school complies with all the requirements of law, the fact that its sessions are of shorter duration than those of other high schools does not deprive it of the character of a regularly established high school or prevent it from participating in the benefits conferred upon regularly established high schools by the act of March 6, 1905. While the facts already set forth do not, in our opinion, tend to show that the school in question is not a "regularly established high school of the State," we do not, therefore, furnish any reason for excluding it from the apportionment, we think that the stipulation of facts fails to show that the Humboldt evening high school, considered as a high school, complied with the provisions of section 8 of the act of March 6, 1905, as to employment of teachers and average daily attendance. It might be said that the answer, tested by strict rules of pleading, does not raise a clear issue on this point. It may, however, without straining the meaning of words, be construed as raising such issue, and inasmuch as this is a controversy between public officers, each of whom is doubtless desirous of ascertaining and performing his exact duty under the law, we are not disposed to allow any technical construction of the pleadings to prevent the consideration of a question whose determination is necessary to a proper understanding of the rights and obligations arising under the statute in question. The petition alleges, and it is not denied, that during the school year 1905-6 the Humboldt school employed 26 teachers for not less than one hundred and sixty days, and that the average daily attendance was 546 pupils. It appears that graduates of grammar schools have been admitted to said school without examination. (Political Code, sec. 1670, subdivision 18.)

A course of instruction, extending over three years and leading to a high school diploma, is given, but there is no suggestion that this course is such as to prepare graduates for admission to the State University. During the school year 1905-6 the school had a course of study known as "Course B," which extended for a period of five years, and which was adopted by the petitioner to comply with the admission requirements of the University of California. As we have seen, the act of March 6, 1905, limits the distribution of its benefits to schools which have maintained the grade of instruction required by law for the high schools. That grade of instruction, as declared by subdivision 12 of section 1070 of the Political Code, is "such as will prepare graduates therein for admission into the State University." If a school offers two courses, one of which falls short of this standard, it does not, as to such course, maintain the grade of instruction required by law of high schools. Accordingly, in the case at bar, the Humboldt evening high school is not considered a high school only so far as concerns the instruction given and received in "Course B." But the stipulation does not disclose that it has the requisite number of teachers and pupils in this course.

It is true that the parties agree that the school, as a whole, has 20 teachers and 546 pupils, but it nowhere appears how many are engaged in high-school work and how many are occupied in the three-year course, which is not up to the high school standard. Unless that part of the school which can properly be regarded as a high school has two or more regularly certificated high school teachers and 20 or more pupils in attendance, no right to apportionment under the statute arises. Here those conditions are not shown to exist. That in determining the right of a school to share in the benefits of this act, only those teachers and pupils engaged in high school work can be considered, is made manifest by the manner of the apportionment. Two-thirds of the fund is to go to schools in proportion to the number of pupils in attendance. This means the number of pupils who are receiving the grade of instruction required by law. It can not have been intended to distribute a high school fund to schools maintaining a certain grade of instruction and to base this distribution on the number of pupils to whom a lower grade of instruction is being given.

For these reasons we conclude that the petitioner has on the record before us failed to show any right in the Humboldt evening high school to participate in the allotment of the high school fund. If, however, it shall furnish to the respondent satisfactory evidence of compliance with the requirements of the act of March 6, 1905, having regard solely to the teachers and pupils engaged in the equipment employed in "Course B" or any other course preparing pupils for admission to the State University, it will then be entitled to an allotment of the state fund, based, as to two-thirds of the fund, on the average daily attendance in such course or courses.

We may add that we attach no importance to the fact that "Course II" extends over five years. The only provision of law regulating the length of the course is that it "shall embrace a period of not less than three years." (Political Code, sec. 1070, subdivision 12.) That it may extend over a longer period than three years is clearly shown by subdivision 13 of section 1070, which contains a provision relating to schools "where the course of study embraces a period of four years." The proceeding is dismissed.

I agree that the mere fact that the daily sessions of the Humboldt evening high school are of but two hours' duration does not deprive it of the character as a high school organized under the law of the State, or as a high school recognized as existing under the high school laws of the State. But I suggest that, in view of the practically universal custom of holding sessions of the public schools at least five hours each school day, and the manifest impropriety and lack of uniformity in the law if it is held to give the same amount for its support to a school in session only two hours daily as is given to one in session three times as long and during each year imparting presumably three times as much training and instruction at three times the expense, it may be a serious question, if ever arises, whether the "average daily attendance" for the "term of at least one hundred and eighty days" required of high schools to entitle them to receive state aid, under the statute, does not mean a daily attendance for one hundred and eighty days of at least substantially, the same number of hours as is usual and customary. If the aid can be secured by two hours' daily instruction for one hundred and eighty days—that is, by three hundred and sixty hours each year—instead of the customary nine hundred hours each year. Why not by means of daily sessions for that period of one hour or less?

STATUS OF KINDERGARTENS.

IV. California.

[Los Angeles County v. Kirk, superintendent of public instruction (Supreme Court of California, December 27, 1905), 83 P. 254]

In bank. Application by the county of Los Angeles for a writ of mandate, prayed to be directed against Thomas J. Kirk, superintendent of public instruction. Denied.

ANGELLOTTI, J. This is an application for a writ of mandate compelling the superintendent of public instruction of the State, in making his apportionment of the state school fund to the various counties, to include and consider, as a part of the average daily attendance of the schools of plaintiff, the attendance of children between the ages of 4 and 5 years who have been regularly admitted to the kindergarten classes established by the educational authorities of certain cities of plaintiff county. It appears from the petition that defendant proposes to include the attendance of such classes of children between 5 and 6 years of age, but, in view of his conclusion as to the effect of certain provisions of our codes, has determined that children between the ages of 4 and 5 years should not be included. We do not deem it necessary to consider the argument relative to this position of the defendant, for we have concluded that the point made by the attorney-general upon the argument, to the effect that under our law the attendance upon kindergarten classes can not be considered as a part of the attendance for purposes of apportionment of the state school fund, is well made. The rule laid down by the legislature for the guidance of the superintendent of public instruction in the apportionment of the state school fund is to be found in section 15:12 of the Political Code, as amended March 18, 1905. It is there declared as follows, viz.: "It is the duty of the superintendent of public instruction "Fourth. To apportion the state school fund Fourth. To apportion the state school fund * * *; in apportioning said fund he shall apportion to every county and to every city and county two hundred fifty dollars ($250) for every teacher determined and assigned to it on school census by the county or city and county school superintendent for the next preceding school year, as required; and after thus apportioning two hundred fifty dollars on teacher or census basis, he shall apportion the balance of the state school fund to the several counties or cities and counties according to their average daily attendance as shown by the reports of the county or city and county school superintendents for the next preceding school year." The question presented, it will thus be seen, is as to the meaning of the words "average daily attendance," as used in this section. It is admitted that in view of the provision of section 6 of article 9 of our constitution, declaring that "the entire revenue derived from the state school fund and from the general state school tax shall be applied exclusively to the support of primary and grammar schools," the corresponding provisions of sections 1622 and 1861, Political Code, and the decision of this court in Stockton School District v. Wright, 134 Cal., 64; 60 Pac., 84, only the attendance upon the primary and grammar schools is included within the words "average daily attendance," as used in this section. It was clearly shown in the case cited, where a similar provision regarding apportionment of state school moneys was construed, that it could never have been intended to include attendance upon other schools, such as high schools or evening schools, for the maintenance of which no part of the state school money could, under the law, be used. Plaintiff’s case must therefore rest upon its claim that the kindergarten classes are, under the law, part and parcel of the primary schools of the State, that state school money may be appropriated to their maintenance, and that attendance thereon is attendance upon "primary schools," within the meaning of that term as used in the constitutional provisions quoted above. This is, in fact, the claim upon which plaintiff rests its case. The nature and object of kindergarten
It was there shown that the term "kindergarten" was devised to apply to a system elaborated for the instruction of children of very tender years, which, by guiding their inclination to play into organized movement and investing their games with an ethical and educational value, teaches, besides physical exercises, habits of discipline, self-control, harmonious action and purpose, together with some definite lesson of fact. It is apparent that the work contemplated by such a system is purely preliminary to, and entirely different in character from, the ordinary work of the common school, and is, in fact, designed to fit very young children, whose minds and bodies are, solely because of their tender age, not yet capable of the instruction contemplated in an ordinary school for such school work.

It may be conceded that the work contemplated is of such a character that it might, to some extent, be included by the legislature in the general primary school system of the State, just as it may be conceded that the legislature may extend the general grammar school course so as to include some subjects that have hitherto been pursued only in the more advanced schools, such as high schools. But the statutory provisions upon the subject of the kindergarten make it clear that the legislature has not made the same a part of the "system of common schools, by which a free school shall be kept up and supported in each district at least six months in every year," which, by section 5 of article 9 of the constitution, the legislature is required to provide, but, at most, has made it only a part of the "public school system" described in section 6 of the same article, in the same way that high schools, evening schools, normal schools, and technical schools established directly by the legislature or by municipal or district authority are parts of such public school system. The two constitutional provisions cited, taken together, contemplate (1) the establishment of a uniform system of "common schools," including solely the primary and grammar schools, which shall be applicable and mandatory in every school district of the State, as to which all local or special laws are expressly forbidden (constitution, subd. 27, sec. 25, art. 4); and to the support of which the entire revenue derived from the state school fund and the general state school tax shall be exclusively applied; and (2) the establishment, either by the legislature or by municipal or district authority, under statutes authorizing the same, of other schools, such as high and technical schools, which, however, can in no degree be supported from the state school fund, but must obtain their whole support from other sources. The intention of the framers of the constitution to devote the whole of the revenue of the state school fund and the general state school tax exclusively to the support of the schools included in the first class mentioned above, viz., those which are known as "common schools" and which by the constitution are required to be maintained in every district of the State, is too clear to admit of question.

Coming to a consideration of the only existing statutory provisions relative to kindergarten schools, we find the following, viz., section 1063, Political Code, provides that "the public schools of California, other than those supported exclusively by the State, shall be classed as high schools, technical schools, and grammar and primary schools (including kindergarten classes), and no teacher shall be employed to teach in any school if the certificate held by the teacher is of a grade below that of the school or class to be taught: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall be construed as prohibiting the employment of any person holding a valid special certificate for kindergarten work heretofore granted: Provided, That in cities and towns in which the kindergarten has been adopted or may hereafter be adopted as part of the public primary schools, children under 6 and 21 years of age resident in the district: Provided, That in cities and towns in which the kindergarten has been adopted or may hereafter be adopted as part of the public primary schools, children may be admitted to such kindergarten classes at the age of 4 years: Provided, That in cities and towns in which the kindergarten has been adopted or may hereafter be adopted as part of the public primary schools, children may be admitted to such kindergarten classes at the age of 4 years.

These are the only provisions relative to the kindergarten that are to be found in our statutes. They show at most an intention on the part of the
The legislature to authorize the maintenance by any district, at its option, of kindergarten classes for the doing of a special work preliminary to the beginning of what is generally designated as primary school work. The fact that it is entirely optional with any district to do or not to do this preliminary special work is alone sufficient to exclude kindergarten classes from the uniform and mandatory system of common schools called for by section 6 of article 9 of the constitution, and, consequently, from the term "primary and grammar schools," as those words are used in section 6 of the same article, in relation to the use which may be made of the general state school funds, and relegate them to that portion of the "public school system" which includes schools constituted by municipal or district authority and maintained from other sources. In view of this fact, the fact that the legislature may have declared that when the kindergarten is adopted by any district it shall be a part of the public primary schools, is unavailing, so far as the question under consideration is concerned. Such a declaration might make it a part of the public school system, maintainable from other sources than the state fund, but could not operate to bring it within the uniform and mandatory system of common schools applicable in every district, and to the support of which the general state funds must be exclusively applied, any more than could a declaration in regard to a technical or high school established by a district, to the effect that the same, if established, shall be a part of the public grammar schools, make such school a part of such system. It must be borne in mind that we are not in any way questioning the power of the legislature to add to or take from the course of study to be pursued in the "common schools" of the State, but are simply discussing the status of a system useful only for the training of children who have not attained the ordinary school age, which it is left optional with a district to adopt or not to adopt, in its relation to the "common schools" of the State, to which alone any portion of the general state fund may be devoted, and our conclusion is that it is no more a part of such common schools than is the high or technical school. Under these circumstances the case of Stockton School District v. Wright, supra, is conclusive against plaintiff's claim.

We have no disposition to question the correctness of the decision in Sinnott v. Colombet, supra. That case involved the question as to the right of a teacher holding a special certificate for kindergarten work to be paid for her services in teaching kindergarten classes from the "grammar and primary school fund" of the city of San Jose, which fund consisted of money levied and collected by said city for school purposes within its limits other than for the maintenance of high schools. The kindergarten system had been adopted by the city board of education as a special study to be taught in the public schools of said city. There was no question in that case as to whether the kindergarten so adopted had become a part of the "common school system" of the State, for the support of which general state school money could be used, and that question was in no way discussed. The decision, in effect, goes simply this far—that when a city has adopted this special system, the kindergarten becomes a part of the primary schools of such city; to the extent that it may legally be maintained at the expense of the city, just as a high or technical school may be so maintained, and does not compel a conclusion that the adoption by a district of this special system makes it a part of the "common schools" of the State, or a part of the "primary schools" of the State, within the meaning of those words as used in the constitution. To construe the decision as warranting any such conclusion would, in our judgment, make it clearly opposed to the plain intent of the constitution. We are inclined to the opinion that the language of section 6 of article 9 of the constitution is broad enough to authorize provision by the legislature for the establishment by districts, at their option, of kindergarten schools, as a part of the public school system of the State, supported from other sources than general state school money. At any rate, there is therein no express prohibition of any such provision, and the case of Sinnott v. Colombet, supra, is authority for the proposition that this may be done.

The conclusion we have reached probably avoids all constitutional objections that may be successfully made to the legislation relative to the kindergarten. Construed in this way, such legislation does not conflict with the requirements of the constitution for a uniform system of common schools to every district of the State, for which alone the general state school money shall be used. This construction, we think, also overcomes the objection that if the kindergarten law is applicable only to "cities and towns," it is violative.

of other provisions of the constitution relative to local or special laws. Regarding the kindergartens as a special mode of education, to be adopted and maintained at their own expense by such communities as desire them, there appear to be natural and intrinsic reasons which would warrant legislation making provision for their establishment in cities and towns, for we cannot conceive that there could be any demand for or any possibility of the successful practical working of such a system outside of the centers of population, such as cities and towns, where there are a sufficient number of children of kindergarten age near enough to the school to avail themselves of the privilege.

The alternative writ of mandate heretofore issued is discharged and the application for a peremptory writ is denied.

SECTARIAN INSTRUCTION—BIBLE READING.

V. New York.

Appeal from supreme court, appellate division, fourth department.

The plaintiff and Elizabeth E. Dowd, being teachers duly licensed to teach in the common schools of this State, entered into contracts with the board of trustees of school district No. 9, in the town of Lima, county of Livingston, in the autumn of 1902, to teach in the public school of said district for a term of thirty-six consecutive weeks at a specified rate of compensation. While so engaged in teaching they wore the distinctive dress or costume of a religious society connected with the Roman Catholic Church, of which they were members, which society is known as the "Order of the Sisterhood of St. Joseph." On May 28, 1902, the state superintendent of public instruction promulgated a decision by him upon an appeal under the consolidated school law (Laws 1901, p. 1278, chap. 556, title 14), in which he declared that the wearing of an unusual dress or garb, worn exclusively by members of one religious denomination for the purpose of indicating membership in that denomination, by teachers in the public schools during school hours while teaching therein, constitutes a sectarian influence and the teaching of a denominational tenet or doctrine, which ought not to be persisted in. The decision further declared it to be the duty of the school authorities to require such teachers to discontinue the wearing of such dress or garb while in the public school room and in the performance of their duties as teachers therein, and directed Patrick Hendrick, one of the defendants herein, as sole trustee of school district No. 9, in the town of Lima, Livingston County, to notify the plaintiff and Elizabeth E. Dowd forthwith to discontinue, during the school hours of each school day, the wearing of the distinctive dress of the sisterhood to which they belonged, and commanded him to dismiss them if they refused to comply with this requirement.

On May 20, 1903, the said Patrick Hendrick notified the plaintiff and Elizabeth E. Dowd of the contents of the decision. Notwithstanding this notification they continued to teach school wearing the prohibited garb up to June 19, 1903, which was the end of the school year. Mr. Hendrick, the school trustee, does not appear to have made any effort to remove or dismiss them. The present action was brought against him by the plaintiff, in her own behalf and as assignee of the claim of Elizabeth E. Dowd, to recover a balance of $79.20 alleged to be due under their contracts with the school district. Mr. Hendrick defended on the ground that the plaintiff and her assignor had lost all right to recover anything under their contracts by reason of their refusal to comply with a regulation established by the state superintendent of public instruction, which in effect prohibited teachers from wearing a distinctive religious garb while engaged in the work of teaching. The order made by the superintendent on the subject was in the decision of an appeal.

The consolidated school law as then in force provided for certain appeals to the state superintendent of public instruction by any person conceiving himself aggrieved in consequence of any decision made by various officers, including a decision by the trustees of any district in paying any teacher. (Laws, 1894, p. 1278, chap. 556, title 14, sec. 1.) One Alfred K. Bates prosecuted an appeal under the statute to review the action of Ertrick Hendrick as school trustee of school district No. 9, in the town of Lima, in employing the plaintiff and Elizabeth E. Dowd as teachers, and allowing them to teach while wearing the distinctive dress of the Roman Catholic religious order known as the "Sisterhood of St. Joseph," and it was upon this appeal that the superintendent promulgated the order prohibiting teachers from wearing the costume in question while engaged in the actual work of teaching. Neither the plaintiff nor Elizabeth E. Dowd was a party to the proceedings thus brought before the superintendent, nor does it appear that they had any knowledge of it while it was pending. It is plain, therefore, that it could have had no effect upon their rights considered, as a judicial decision or prior adjudication. It seems to me, however, that it may be, and should be, viewed in another light, and, if thus regarded, that it constituted a rule of conduct which the plaintiff and her fellow-teacher were bound to obey. Although a decision in form, it was in fact a regulation in regard to the management of the common schools which the superintendent had the right to establish, provided, only, that it was reasonable in its character and not in conflict with the laws of the state or public policy.

While it is true that there is no express grant of authority to the state superintendent of public instruction (now the commissioner of education under section 4, chap. 40) in the consolidated school law to establish regulations as to the management of the common schools, the existence of a general power of supervision on his part over such schools is clearly implied in many parts of the statute. Among other things he was required, as far as he could consistently with his other duties, to visit such of the common schools as he saw fit and inquire into their course of instruction, management, and discipline, and advise and encourage the pupils, teachers, and officers thereof. (Consolidated school law, Laws 1894, p. 1185, chap. 556, title 1, sec. 3.) The statute further prescribed that he should submit to the legislature an annual report containing, among other things, "a statement of the condition of the common schools of the State, and of all other schools and institutions under his supervision, and subject to his visitation as superintendent." (Laws, 1894, p. 1185, chap. 556, title 1, sec. 9, subd. 1.) It also gave him the power to remove any school commissioner or other school officer whenever it should be proved to his satisfaction that any such school com-misrtion or other officer had been guilty of any willful violation or neglect of duty under the statute or of "willfully disobeying any decision, order, or regulation" of the superintendent. (Title 1, sec. 18.)
The authority to remove an officer for the willful disobedience of a regulation of the superintendent necessarily implies a power on the part of the superintendent to make regulations; and, as has already been suggested, if the superintendent possessed the power to establish regulations in regard to the management of the common schools, the courts will not pronounce such regulations invalid unless they are unlawful or unreasonable. In arriving at a determination as to its validity a regulation in reference to the management of the common schools established by an officer under statutory authority is to be tested by rules similar to those which would apply in the case of a municipal ordinance, as to which the rule is that "ordinances passed in virtue of the implied power must be reasonable, consonant with the general powers and purposes of the corporation, and not inconsistent with the laws or policy of the State." (I Dil- lon’s Municipal Corporations (4th Ed.), section 319.) The rule which seems to be applicable here was enunciated and applied by the supreme court of Illinois in the case of Pullen v. Post (79 Ill., 567), where the state superintendent of school directors were under consideration, and it was said: "In the performance of their duty in carrying the law into effect, the directors may prescribe proper rules and regulations for the government of the schools of their district, and enforce them. They may, no doubt, classify the scholars, regulate their studies and their deportment, the hours to be taught, besides the performance of other duties necessary to promote the success and secure the well-being of such schools. But all such rules and regulations must be reasonable, and calculated to promote the objects of the law—the conferring of such an education upon all, free of charge." Another case involving a similar question is Trustees of Schools v. People (87 Ill., 303, 29 Am. Rep., 55), where it was held that a regulation by school trustees excluding a pupil from a high school because his father did not wish him to study grammar therein was arbitrary and unreasonable and could not be enforced.

It is not that holding an ecclesiastical office or position disqualifies, for it does not. It is the introduction into the schools as teachers of persons who are by their striking and distinctive ecclesiastical robes necessarily and constantly asserting their membership in a particular church, whose lives have been dedicated to religious work under the direction of that church. Now, the point of the objection is not that their religion disqualifies them. It does not. Nor is it thought that church membership disqualifies them. It does not. It is not that holding an ecclesiastical office or position disqualifies, for it does not. It is the introduction into the schools as teachers of persons who are by their striking and distinctive ecclesiastical robes necessarily and constantly asserting their membership in a particular church, and in a religious order within that church, and the subjection of their lives to the direction and control of its officers.

WE are thus brought to the question whether in this State a regulation is to be deemed unreasonable which prohibits teachers in the common schools from wearing a distinctively religious garb while engaged in the work of teaching. In my opinion it can not justly be so regarded. "Neither the State," says the constitution, "nor any subdivision thereof, shall use its property or credit or any public money, or authorize or permit either to be used, directly or indirectly, in aid or maintenance, other than for examination or inspection, of any school or institution of learning wholly or in part under the control or direction of any religious denomination, or in which any denominational tenet or doctrine is taught." (Constitution, art. 9, sec. 4.) Here we have the plainest possible declaration of the public policy of the State as opposed to the prevalence of sectarian influence in the public schools. The regulation established by the state superintendent of public instruction through the agency of his order in the Bates' appeal is in accord with the public policy thus evidenced by the fundamental law. There can be little doubt that the effect of the costume worn by these Sisters of St. Joseph at all times in the presence of their pupils would be to inspire respect, if not sympathy, for the religious denomination to which they so manifestly belong. To this extent the influence was sectarian, even if it did not amount to the teaching of denominational doctrine. A different view was taken by the supreme court of Pennsylvania in the case of Hysong v. School District (164 Pa., 629, 654; 30 All., 482; 26 L. R. A., 203; 44 Am. St. Rep., 55), where it was held that school districts might employ as teachers sisters of a religious order of the Roman Catholic Church, and permit them while teaching to wear the garb of their order, provided it was held that a school conducted similarly to that in the case at bar was to be deemed unreasonable which prohibits teachers in the common schools from wearing a distinctively religious garb while engaged in the work of teaching.

We are thus brought to the question whether in this State a regulation is to be deemed unreasonable which prohibits teachers in the common schools from wearing a distinctively religious garb while engaged in the work of teaching. In my opinion it can not justly be so regarded. "Neither the State," says the constitution, "nor any subdivision thereof, shall use its property or credit or any public money, or authorize or permit either to be used, directly or indirectly, in aid or maintenance, other than for examination or inspection, of any school or institution of learning wholly or in part under the control or direction of any religious denomination, or in which any denominational tenet or doctrine is taught." (Constitution, art. 9, sec. 4.) Here we have the plainest possible declaration of the public policy of the State as opposed to the prevalence of sectarian influence in the public schools. The regulation established by the state superintendent of public instruction through the agency of his order in the Bates' appeal is in accord with the public policy thus evidenced by the fundamental law. There can be little doubt that the effect of the costume worn by these Sisters of St. Joseph at all times in the presence of their pupils would be to inspire respect, if not sympathy, for the religious denomination to which they so manifestly belong. To this extent the influence was sectarian, even if it did not amount to the teaching of denominational doctrine. A different view was taken by the supreme court of Pennsylvania in the case of Hysong v. School District (164 Pa., 629, 654; 30 All., 482; 26 L. R. A., 203; 44 Am. St. Rep., 55), where it was held that school districts might employ as teachers sisters of a religious order of the Roman Catholic Church, and permit them while teaching to wear the garb of their order, provided it was held that a school conducted similarly to that in the case at bar was to be deemed unreasonable which prohibits teachers in the common schools from wearing a distinctively religious garb while engaged in the work of teaching.
As to the reasonableness of the regulation prohibiting the use of a distinctive religious garb by teachers in the common schools, some other considerations may be mentioned. It must be conceded that some control over the habiliments of teachers is essential to the proper conduct of such schools. Thus grotesque vagaries in costume could not be permitted without being destructive of good order and discipline. So, also, it would be manifestly proper to prohibit the wearing of badges calculated on particular occasions to constitute cause of offense to a considerable number of pupils, as, for example, the display of orange ribbons in a public school in a Roman Catholic community on July 12. It is suggested in the brief of the learned counsel for the appellant that if the state superintendent could order these teachers to refrain from wearing their distinctive religious costumes he could just as lawfully direct them to don a dress of any other pattern, or compel a teacher to remove a gown because it was too plain or too gay, or that he might order the principal to cut off his beard or color his mustache. The obvious answer to these suggestions and others of a similar character is that no regulation would be valid which was manifestly unreasonable, because it would then be unauthorized by law.

The views which have already been expressed substantially dispose of all the points argued in behalf of the appellant, as well as those suggested in the dissenting opinion below, except the proposition that the state superintendent had no right to annul a valid contract between a teacher and the school district by which she was employed. The proposition is correct, but it has no application in the present case, because a contract between the trustees and the teacher of a common school is, by implication, subject to the power of the superintendent to make reasonable regulations as to the management of the school. This being the case, the superintendent does not annul a valid contract by insisting that such reasonable regulations shall be observed, for by entering into the contract the teacher assumes the implied obligation to obey such regulations.

In reaching this result, however, I do not wish to be understood as acquiescing in that part of the opinion below in which it is asserted that "these sisters should never be permitted to teach in our public schools." There is no reason either in morals or in law why they or any other qualified persons should not be allowed thus to teach, whatever may be their religious convictions, provided that they do not by their acts as teacher promote any denominational doctrine or tenet.

VI. Texas.

[Church v. Bullock et al. (Supreme Court of Texas. April 8, 1908). 100 S. W., 115.]

Mandamus by E. H. Church and others against W. L. Bullock and others, board of trustees of an independent school district, to command the trustees to desist from conducting certain exercises in the schools. There was a judgment of the court of civil appeals (100 S. W., 1025) affirming a judgment for defendants, and plaintiffs bring error. Affirmed.

Brown, J., we adopt the following statement of the case and the conclusions of fact made by the honorable court of civil appeals:

"This is an action for mandamus brought in the district court by appellees against the board of trustees of the public school of the city of Corsicana, appellants commanding said trustees to desist from conducting certain exercises in said school which are alleged to be religious and sectarian. Defendants answered by general denial and specially, in substance, that said exercises were neither religious nor sectarian in the sense prohibited by the constitution or laws of this State. A trial before the court without a jury resulted in favor of defendants, and the plaintiffs appeal. The evidence shows that E. H. Church does not believe in the inspiration of the Bible, that J. B. Jackson and Mrs. Lita Garrity are Roman Catholics, and that M. Cohen and Abe Levine are Jews. All of said parties have children and are patrons of said school. Mrs. Garrity and E. H. Church had protested to said trustees and teachers against the conducting of said exercises. Jackson, Cohen, and Levine had made no protest. The protest made had been disregarded by said trustees, and their action sustained by the state superintendent of public instruction. Said exercises were conducted in pursuance of the following resolution adopted by the board of school
Witness instructed the teachers that they must not read any sectarian passages wept objected to by Rabbi Stolnits as being sectarian, and I had it stopped.

In preparing for a Christmas celebration in the primary department, in the room of Miss Sallie Evans, some songs were sung which were objected to by Rabbi Stolnitz as being sectarian, and I had it stopped.
from the Bible, nor sing any objectionable songs. The children are invited to stand up or bow their heads during the repeating of the Lord's Prayer, but are not forced to do so. They are expected to be orderly and respectful during the exercises, if they do not join in them. All of the teachers do not have the same exercises. Those teachers who use the Bible do not always do so, but vary by substituting standard works of literature. The reading of the Bible and repeating of the Lord's Prayer is not compulsory.

"The ten assignments of error presented by the appellants will be embraced in three propositions, to wit: (1) The said exercises converted the schoolroom into a place of worship, within the intent and meaning of section 6, art. 1, of the constitution. (2) The said exercises rendered the public schools 'sectarian' within the intent and meaning of section 7, article 1, and of section 5, article 7, of the constitution. (3) The said exercises converted the public schools into a sect, religious society, theological or religious seminary, within the intent and meaning of section 7, article 1, of the constitution.

The sections of the constitution referred to are:

"Art. 1, sec. 6. All men have a natural and indefeasible right to worship Almighty God according to the dictates of their own consciences. No man shall be compelled to attend, erect, or support any place of worship or form of religious service, nor shall property belonging to the State be appropriated for such purposes.

"Sec. 7. No money shall be appropriated or drawn from the treasury for the benefit of any sect or religious society, theological or religious seminary, or shall property belonging to the State be appropriated for any such purposes.

"The provisions of article 7, section 5, relate to the school fund, and provide that none of said money shall ever be appropriated to or used for the support of any sectarian school.

We will consider the three propositions upon which the plaintiffs in error rest their case in the inverse order of their statement above.

First. Did the exercises complained of convert the public schools into a sect, religious society, theological or religious seminary? (1) It is scarcely necessary to discuss the proposition that the school was converted into a sect. The word "sect" is defined in the Standard Dictionary as "a body of persons distinguished by particularities of faith and practice from other bodies and adhering to the same general system." The exercises detailed in the testimony in this case did not show that these persons were associated together in any way whatever except in the character of a common public free school. (2) "A religious society is a voluntary association of individuals or families uniting for the purpose of having a common place of worship and to provide a proper teacher to instruct them in religious doctrines and duties, and to administer the various ordinances of religion." (21 Am. and Eng. Ency. Law, 2d ed., 267.) The school, under the evidence, did not come within the definition of a religious society. (3) "A seminary is a place of education specifically a school for the education of men for the priesthood or ministry." (22 Am. and Eng. Ency. Law, 280.) A seminary being "a place of education," the adjectives "theological or religious" necessarily give to it the meaning of a place specifically for the preparation of men for the ministry, or at least for the teaching of religious doctrines. The words are commonly so used. The evident intention of the convention which framed the constitution was to prevent the legislature from enacting any such religious or theological seminary. The school at Corsicana was organized under the laws of the State of Texas, and while it might be perverted in actual instruction to purposes foreign to its organization, it would not be a theological or religious seminary because some acts of worship were performed there.

Second. The word "sectarian" is defined by the Standard Dictionary as "pertaining to, peculiar to, or devoted to the interest of a sect or sects; especially, marked by attachment to a sect or denomination." However improper the exercises may have been, there is nothing in the evidence to show that they were in the interest of or forwarding the views of any one denomination of people. It was the purpose of the constitution to forbid the use of public funds for the support of any particular denomination of religious people, whether they be Christians or of other religions. The school was not rendered section within the meaning of the constitution, by the exercises shown to have been indulged in by the teachers.

Third. Did the exercises which the evidence shows the teachers engaged in convert the schoolroom into "a place of worship" within the intent and meaning of section 6, article 14, of the constitution? A brief statement of the conditions that existed in Texas under the Mexican Republic will aid us to understand the provisions of our constitution. Prior to the revolution of 1836, the Catholic was the established religion of the Republic of Mexico, and all citizens of Texas were required to conform to the teachings of that church. It was supported by the Government, and by taxation the citizens were compelled to contribute thereto. One of the charges made against the Republic of Mexico in the declaration of independence was, "It denies us the right of worshiping the Almighty according to the dictates of our own conscience by the support of a national religion unlabeled to promote the temporal interests of its human func-tionaries rather than the glory of the true and living God." The third division of the declaration of rights in the constitution of the Republic of Texas reads as follows: "No preference shall be given by law to any religious denomination or mode of worship over another, but every person shall be permitted to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience; no constitution of the State of Texas, framed in 1845, contains a single clause providing for the support of any religious body; no tax shall be levied for the support of any place of worship, or to maintain any ministry against his own consent." (Court, 1845, art. 1, sec. 4.) Thus we see that the provision in our constitution was a protest against the policy of Mexico in esblishing and maintaining a church of state and compelling conformity thereto, and was intended to guard against any such action in the future. The primary purpose of that provision of the constitution was to prevent the legislature from in any way compelling the attendance of any person upon the worship of a particular church or in any manner, by taxation or otherwise, cause any citizen to contribute to the support of "any place of worship." As used in the constitution the phrase "place of worship" specifically means "a place where a number of persons meet together for the purpose of worshipping God." (State v. Swink, 29 X. C., 492.) The Century Dictionary gives this definition: "A building or part of a building set apart for any purpose—such as a place of worship.
The worship of God is not prohibited in any place, but we are of the opinion that the spirit of the constitution would include any place at which the worship might be indulged in so continuously and in such a manner as to give it the character of "a place of worship." Buildings and institutions erected and maintained by the State can not be used for such purposes. We do not undertake to state any rule as to what will constitute "a place of worship." That must necessarily depend upon the facts of each case. We confine ourselves to the question as to what constitutes "a place of worship." That must necessarily depend upon the facts of each case. We confine ourselves to the decision of the question, Does the evidence show the teachers engaged in the schoolroom in such a manner as to give it the character of "a place of worship" within the meaning of the constitution?

To hold that the offering of prayers, either by the repetition of the Lord's prayer or otherwise, the singing of songs, whether devotional or not, and the reading of the Bible, make the place where such is done a place of worship would produce intolerable results. The house of representatives and the sen-te of the state legislature each elect a chaplain, who, during the session, offers prayers to Almighty God in behalf of the State, and in the most express manner invokes the supervision and oversight of God for the lawmakers.
In the chapel of the state university building a religious service, consisting of singing songs, reading portions of the Bible with prayers and addresses by ministers and others, is held each day. The Young Men's Christian Association hold their services in the building each Lord's day, and the Young Women's Christian Association has a like service in another public building. At the blind institute on each Lord's day prayers are offered, songs are sung. Sunday school is taught, and addresses made to the children with regard to religious matters. Devout persons visit our prisons and offer prayers for those who are confined. An annual appropriation is made for a chapel for the penitentary.
In fact, Christianity is so interwoven with the web and woof of the state government that to sustain the contention that the constitution prohibits reading the Bible, offering prayers, or singing songs of a religious character in any public building of the Government would produce a condition bordering upon moral anarchy. The absurd and hurtful consequences furnish a strong argument. against the soundness of the proposition. The right to instruct the young in the morality of the Bible might be carried to such extent in the public schools as would make it obnoxious to the constitutional inhibition, not because God is worshipped, but because by the character of the services the place would be made "a place of worship."
There is no difference in the protection given by our constitution between citizens of this State on account of religious beliefs; all are embraced in its broad language and are entitled to the protection guaranteed thereby; but it does not follow that one or more individuals have the right to have the courts deny the people the privilege of having their children instructed in the moral truths of the Bible because such objectors do not desire that their own children shall be participants therein. This would be to starve the moral and spiritual natures of the many out of deference to the few. The cases are in conflict upon the questions discussed in this opinion, but we believe the following sustain our conclusion by sound reasoning: Moore v. Monroe, 64 Iowa, 397, 20 N. W.
250; 48 L. R. A., 338. Hackett v. Brooksville School, 120 Fla., 608; 87 S. W.

HEALTH REGULATIONS—VACCINATION.

VII. Illinois.
People v. Board of Education of the City of Chicago, Supreme Court of Illinois, April 23, 1908, rehearing denied June 9, 1908. 94 N. E., 1041.
Appeal from circuit court, Cook County: J. W. Mack, Judge.
Petition for mandamus by the people, on relation of Louise Jenkins, against the board of education of the city of Chicago. From a judgment dismissing the petition relator appeals, reversed and remanded.
CARTWRIGHT, J. Louise Jenkins, by her next friend, filed her petition in the name of the people, in the circuit court of Cook County, against the board of education of the city of Chicago, and therein alleged that she was a resident of the city, 6 years of age, a daughter of D. F. Jenkins, a resident and taxpayer of said city, and that on October 20, 1907, she applied for admission as a pupil to the John Fiske School, which she was entitled to attend, and was denied admission to the said school by the board of education because she refused to be vaccinated, and she prayed for a writ of mandamus commanding the board to admit her to the public schools. The board of education answered, making no denial of the averments of fact contained in the petition, which were therefore admitted to be true, but setting up in justification of the denial of the relator an ordinance of the city of Chicago and instructions by the health department to enforce such ordinance. The relator demurred to the answer, and the court overruled the demurrer. The relator elected to stand by the demurrer, and judgment was entered against her, dismissing the petition and for costs. An appeal to this court was prayed for, and the trial judge certified that the validity of the city ordinance was involved, and in his opinion public interest required that an appeal should be taken direct to this court, in pursuance of section 118 of the practice act. (Laws 1907, p. 467.) The appeal was allowed and perfected, and the record has been filed in this court.
The constitution requires the general assembly to provide a thorough and efficient system of free schools, whereby all children in this State may receive a good common-school education, and the statute provides for establishing and keeping in operation such schools for the accommodation of all children over the age of 6 and under the age of 21 years. The right to attend the public school in the district where the relator resides is therefore given to her by the law, and the duty to admit her and to maintain the school rests upon the board of education. The legislature have never made it a condition precedent to the exercise of the legal right to attend the public schools that children shall be vaccinated, and the question whether power to do that exists is not involved in this case. The petition alleges, and the answer does not deny, that the defendants denied to the relator admission to the John Fiske School, but the answer sets up as a justification for the exclusion an ordinance of the city of Chicago. Not only has the legislature never prescribed vaccination as a condition to the enjoyment of the legal right to attend public schools, but they have never conferred upon cities the power to do so. If the city of Chicago has power to pass any ordinance on the subject, the power is derived from the authority conferred upon the city council to appoint a board of health and prescribe its powers and duties, to do all acts and make all regulations which may be necessary or expedient for the promotion of health or the suppression of disease, and to pass all ordinances and rules, and to make all regulations proper or necessary to carry into effect such authority. The ordinance set out in the answer was passed on March 20, 1895, and the only section relating to exclusion from schools is section 1255, which is as follows: "No principal or person in charge or control of any school shall admit to such school any child who shall not have been vaccinated within seven years next preceding the admission or application for admission to any such school of such child, nor shall any such principal or person retain in or permit to attend any such school any child who shall not have been vaccinated as provided in this article."

The general police powers above enumerated to pass ordinances and make regulations for the promotion of health or the suppression of disease include the presence of such an ordinance as this, which makes vaccination a condition precedent to the right to an education. An ordinance passed by reason of such authority must be reasonable in its character and rest upon the ground that it is a necessary means of preserving the public health. In the case of Potter v. Board of Health (167 Ill., 67; 47 N. E., 512, 50 Am. St. Rep., 362) it was held that the exclusion of a child from a public school because of a refusal to be vaccinated can only be justified where such a course is necessary, or reasonably appears to be necessary, in case of an existing or threatened epidemic of smallpox, and to prevent the spread of the disease. In the case of Lawbaugh v. Board of Education (177 Ill., 572; 52 N. E., 839) the court adhered to those principles, and declined to further discuss them, although expressly urged to reconsider the former decision. Section 1255 is null and void and affords no justification for denying relator admission to the John Fiske School, whether the denial of her legal right was at the instance of the health commissioner, the health department, or any other authority.

The only other section of the ordinance which has any relation to schools, or which purports to give any authority respecting them to the health commissioner or health department, is section 1254, and it does not purport to give any authority to exclude children from schools. It provides that the commissioner of health, or any officer of the health department designated and authorized to act by such commissioner, shall have power to enter any of certain governed buildings and places, among which are schoolhouses, under certain circumstances, and that such commissioner or officer shall have power to vaccinate any person found in such building or place whom he shall deem it necessary or advisable to vaccinate. It further purports to authorize the commissioner, at any time when smallpox is prevalent or an epidemic of smallpox is or appears to be imminent, to vaccinate any person in the city whom he shall deem it necessary or advisable to vaccinate, provided that such person may be vaccinated by his own physician in a manner satisfactory to the commissioner.

Although this section is set out at length in the answer, it is not alleged that the commissioner was attempting to vaccinate the relator, and no justification under its provisions is attempted.

Section 1255 of the ordinance purports to give to the commissioner of health power to make such rules and regulations in relation to the sanitary condition of the city and for the prevention and suppression of disease, not inconsistent with the municipal code, as he may deem necessary or advisable, but it provides that such rules and regulations shall not take effect and be in force until approved by the city council, except in cases of emergency. The answer does not allege that the commissioner of health made any rules or regulations or that any were approved by the city council. The answer further provides that the commissioner may make rules and regulations for the preservation of the public health in case of an emergency from contagious or epidemic disease or danger from anticipated or impending contagious or epidemic disease, but such emergency rules and regulations shall, as soon as may be after the promulgating of the same, be reported to the city council for approval. Here, again, it does not appear that the commissioner acted under any provision of that section.
made any rule or regulation, or reported any to the city council after promulgation.

These provisions of the ordinance are the only ones that could in any event have any relation to attendance upon the public schools, and the only one that was enforced against the relator was section 1255, which is null and void. The answer alleged as a matter of fact, that on October 29, 1907, the disease of smallpox was prevalent in the district in which the John Fiske School was located, within such a radius as to make it dangerous for all persons therein residing who had not been vaccinated, that the commissioner of health declared smallpox to be epidemic in said district, and instructions were given by the health department to exclude all children who had not been vaccinated in accordance with the terms of the ordinance. The terms of the ordinance are that no child shall attend the public schools who has not been vaccinated within seven years, and do not constitute a lawful exercise of power conferred upon the city. The health commissioner is a purely ministerial officer and has no legislative powers whatever. The ordinance does not purport to give him authority to exercise such powers or to make any rules or regulations, except in cases of emergency, until they can be reported to the city council for approval or rejection. He can only perform administrative duties in pursuance of some ordinance of the city, and there was no valid ordinance authorizing the exclusion of relator from the public school which she had a legal right to attend. There is nothing in the nature of an emergency in the occasional recurrence of the well-known disease of smallpox in a city like Chicago which may not be provided for by general rules and regulations prescribed by the legislative authority of the city. The board of education, which has charge of the public schools, has made no rule or regulation on the subject of such epidemics, and neither has the city council. The answer does not make known any ordinance, rule or regulation for the exclusion from the schools of children not vaccinated in the event that an epidemic of smallpox exists in the vicinity of a school or is reasonably apprehended, and in our opinion the court erred in overruling the demurrer:

The judgment is reversed. and the cause is remanded to the circuit court, with directions to sustain the demurrer.

Reversed and remanded with directions.

VIII. North Carolina.

[Hutchins v. School Committee of Town of Durham (Supreme Court of North Carolina. November 30, 1904. 49 S. E. 40.)

Appeal from superior court, Durham County; Bryan, Judge.

Mandamus by J. W. Hutchins to compel the school committee of the town of Durham to admit plaintiff's daughter to the school. From a judgment for defendant plaintiff appeals. Affirmed.

CLARK, C. J. This is an application for a mandamus to the defendant public school committee to admit the daughter of the plaintiff to the public schools. The sole question presented is whether the following resolution is a reasonable exercise of the powers of the school committee of the city of Durham:

"Whereas from the report and recommendation of Dr. N. M. Johnson, superintendant of health of Durham County, in the judgment of this committee, general vaccination of teachers and children attending the schools is desired and required for the public safety: Now, therefore, Be it resolved, That no teacher or pupil shall be allowed to attend any school of the city of Durham after April 1, 1904, who does not present to the principal of such school a certificate of a physician of the city showing that such teacher or pupil has been successfully vaccinated within three years from that time, unless such person has been vaccinated within ten days preceding the date he or she presents himself or herself for such attendance; and this resolution shall be a permanent regulation of the schools." An epidemic of smallpox prevailed in the city of Durham and its suburbs last spring, not less than 1,000 persons being attacked, and the above resolution was passed as a protection to the 2,500 children in the schools of that city, the attendance in which had fallen off 40 per cent by reason of the fear of contagion. These facts are averred in the answer and found to be true by the judge. In our judgment, the resolution was a proper and reasonable exercise of the powers of the defendant.
It is not a question of compulsory vaccination under legislative authority—that matter was before us and settled in State v. Hay, 126 N. C. 359, 35 S. E.
does not exist in the community and there is no reason-reasonable when smallpox does not exist in the community and there is no rea-that the children of the public school should be exposed to the risk of infection through her or others in like case. Therefore, the school children are vaccinated, there are always some whose vaccination is imperfect, and danger to them should not be increased by admitting those not vaccinated at all. Besides, a rule not enforced to all alike will soon cease to be a rule enforceable at all.

No error.
Appeal from supreme court, appellate division, second department.

Application of Edna B. Viemeister for writ of mandamus to Patrick J. White, president of the board of education of the borough of Queens, and others. From an order of the special term denying the writ. Relator appeals. Affirmed.

Yvan, J. The relator moved for a writ of mandamus to compel the officers having control of a public school in the county of Queens to readmit his son, a lad 10 years of age, to said school without requiring him to be vaccinated. It appeared from the moving papers that the boy had been in regular attendance at the school, and that the principal thereof, pursuant to the instructions of the board of education, had excluded him therefrom, because he refused to be vaccinated. It appeared from the papers read in opposition to the motion that when the relator's son was excluded from the school there was a regulation of the board of education in full force which provided that "no pupil shall be allowed to attend any school, nor shall any teacher be employed in the same, unless such pupil or teacher has been vaccinated." It further appeared that the lad had never been vaccinated, and that he refused to submit to vaccination; but it was not alleged that at the time of such exclusion smallpox was prevalent in the neighborhood, or that there was any special danger, from recent exposure or other causes, of an immediate spread of the disease.

The question presented is whether the legislature is prohibited by the constitution from enacting that children who have not been vaccinated shall be excluded from the public schools. The appellant claims that the public-health law places an unreasonable restriction upon the right of his child to attend the public schools, provided their parents or guardians are unable to procure vaccination for them. This is a reenactment of a statute containing the same provisions in substance, passed in 1860, which remained in force until the passage of the public health law in 1893. The police power, which belongs to every sovereign State, may be exerted by the legislature, subject to the limitations of the constitution, whenever the exercise thereof will promote the public health, welfare, or safety. The power of the legislature to decide what laws are necessary to secure these objects is subject to the power of the courts to decide whether the objects that are subject to the power of the courts to decide whether an act purporting to promote the public health, safety, or welfare has such a reasonable connection therewith as to appear upon inspection to be adapted to that end. A statute entitled a health law must be a health law in fact as well as in name, and must not attempt in the name of the police power to effect a purpose having no adequate connection with the common good. As we have recently said, it "must tend to safeguard the health or welfare of the community, or to promote some other object of public interest which cannot be collateral or a mere incident to the main object of the legislation." Health Department of New York v. Reator, et al., 140 N. Y. 82, 89; 26 N. E. 833; 45 Am. St. Rep. 579. When the police power of every sovereign State is to promote the public health, there is no invasion of the constitution, even if the enforcement of the law interferes to some extent with liberty or property. These principles are so well established as to require no discussion, and we cite but a few out of many
The right to attend the public schools of the State is necessarily subject to some restrictions and limitations in the interest of the public health. A child afflicted with leprosy, smallpox, scarlet fever, or any other disease which is both dangerous and contagious may be lawfully excluded from attendance as long as the danger of contagion continues. Public health, as well as the interest of the school, requires this, as otherwise the school might be broken up and a pestilence spread abroad in the community. So a child recently exposed to such a disease may be denied the privilege of our schools until all danger shall have passed. Smallpox is known of all to be a dangerous and contagious disease. If vaccination strongly tends to prevent the transmission or spread of this disease, it logically follows that children may be refused admission to the public schools until they have been vaccinated. The appellants claim that vaccination does not tend to prevent smallpox, but tends to bring about other diseases, and that it does much harm, with no good.

It must be conceded that some laymen, both learned and unlearned, and some physicians of great skill and repute, do not believe that vaccination is a preventive of smallpox. The common belief, however, is that it has a decided tendency to prevent the spread of this fearful disease and to render it less dangerous to those who contract it. While not accepted by all, it is accepted by the mass of the people, as well as by most members of the medical profession. It has been general in our State and in most civilized nations for generations. It is generally accepted in theory and generally applied in practice, both by the voluntary action of the people and in obedience to the command of law. Nearly every State of the Union has statutes to encourage or directly or indirectly to require vaccination, and this is true of most nations of Europe. It is required in nearly all the armies and navies of the world. Vaccination has been compulsory in England since 1854, and the last act upon the subject, passed in 1898, requires every child born in England to be vaccinated within six months of its birth. It became compulsory in Bavaria in 1807; Denmark, 1810; Sweden, 1814; Wurttemberg, Hesse, and other German States, 1818; Prussia, 1825; Roumania, 1874; Hungary, 1876; and Servia, 1881. It is compulsory in but few States and cities in this country, but it is sanctioned by statute in substantially all, and statutes requiring children to be vaccinated in order to attend the public schools have generally been sustained by the courts. (Abert v. Clark, 84 Cal., 226; 24 P. R., 563. Bissell v. Davison, 63 Conn., 183; 32 Atl., 345; 20 L. R. A., 225. Blue v. Betch, 165 Ind., 121; 56 N. E., 99; 50 Am. Stat. Rep., 195; 50 L. R. A., 94. Morse v. City of Columbus, 102 Ga., 792; 38 E., 865; 42 L. R. A., 175; 96 Am. Stat. Rep., 264. State v. Hay, 120 N. C., 906; 35 S. E., 469; 49 L. R. A., 358; 78 Am. Stat. Rep., 401. Hazen v. Strong, 2 Va., 427. In re Reabensch, 22 Id., App. 8. Duffield v. Williamsport School District, 102 Pa., 478; 20 Atl., 742; 12 L. R. A., 132. Cooley’s Cons. Lim. (7th ed.), 890. Prentice on Police Powers, 39, 123. 1 Dillon’s Mun. Corp. sec. 565. Parker & Worthington’s Public Health and Safety, sec. 123.)

The fact that the belief is not universal is not controlling, for there is scarcely any belief that is accepted by every one. The possibility that the belief may be wrong, and that science may yet show it to be wrong, is not conclusive; for the legislature has the right to pass laws which, according to the common belief of the people, are adapted to prevent the spread of contagious diseases. In a free country, where the government is by the people through their chosen representatives, practical legislation admits of no other standard of action; for what the people believe to be for the common welfare must be accepted as tending to promote the common welfare, whether it be true or not. Any other basis would conflict with the spirit of the constitution, and would sanction measures opposed to a republican form of government. While we do not decide and cannot decide that vaccination is a preventive of smallpox, we take judicial notice of the fact that this is the common belief of the people of the State, and think that this fact is a sound foundation upon which the legislature has well held that the statute is a health law, enacted in a reasonable and proper exercise of the police power. It operates impartially upon all children in the public schools, and is designed not only for their protection but for the protection of all the people of the State. The relator's son is excluded from school only until he complies with the law passed to protect the health of all, himself and his family included. No right conferred or secured by the constitution was violated by that law, or by the action of the school authorities based thereon. In view of the opinions below, we regard further discussion as unnecessary, and we affirm the order appealed from, with costs.

X. Pennsylvania.

(Stull v. Reber et al. (Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, May Term, 1908))

thereof suffering from smallpox (variola or varioloid), Charles H. Coover, principal of said Snider avenue school, and Chester A. Geeseman, teacher of said A grammar school, conducted therein, have by order and direction of said J. H. Leber, superintendent of the common and public schools of the said borough, notified your orator and the said Grace Stull, his daughter, that she, the said Grace Stull, will be dismissed and excluded from the said A grammar school, conducted in the said Snider avenue school building, in which she is enrolled and in attendance as a pupil, on the 14th day of December, 1905. And the said J. H. Leber, superintendent, Charles H. Coover, principal, and Chester A. Geesman, teacher, as aforesaid, defendants, in violation of their statutory duty and to the prejudice of the petitioner's right in the premises, threaten and intend to dismiss and exclude the said Grace Stull from the said school on the 14th day of December, 1905. Your orator avers that unless restrained by your honorable court the said defendants will carry out their said threat and dismiss and exclude the said Grace Stull from the said school, whereas both the said Grace Stull and your orator will suffer great and irreparable injury, for which there is no adequate remedy at law. The bill prayed for an injunction. The answer admitted the material averments of the bill.

The court found, inter alia, the following facts: That there is, at the time of the filing of this bill, nor has there been for a period of about forty years, any person in the said borough of Waynesboro, or within many miles thereof, suffering from smallpox (variola or varioloid). Occasionally it is beyond the power of children of school age as well as adults to be successfully vaccinated, although they may not previously have had smallpox nor previously been vaccinated; that even repeated attempts to perform the operation of vaccination upon such children or adults is without effect and vaccination is in such cases unsuccessful and the physician not certify that such child or adult has been successfully vaccinated. Sometimes a child may be suffering from a constitutional weakness or its system may be in such an unhealthy condition as to render the operation of vaccination exceedingly dangerous to said child. The court entered a decree dismissing the bill.

MITCHELL, C. J. The substantial question in this case is whether the act of June 18, 1866 (P. L. 201), requiring the exclusion from the public schools of children who have not been vaccinated, is a valid exercise of the police power of the State. It has been twice so decided by this court. In Duffield v. School District of Williamsport, 102 Pa. 410, 20 Atl. 742, 21 L. R. A., 102, a similar regulation, not even enacted by the legislature, but enforced by the school directors under an ordinance of the city of Williamsport, was held valid. And in Field v. Robinson, 108 Pa. 653, 48 Atl. 873, this very statute of 1875 was held constitutional. It appears to be thought that because the decision was given in a brief opinion per curiam the subject was not fully considered. But the proper inference is precisely the reverse, that the conclusion was so perfectly clear to the whole court that it did not require any extended argumentative support. After these two decisions the question ought to have been considered as closed. But we have it raised again, with small variations of facts and circumstances, none of which are at all material.

On the constitutional question it is said that section 12 of the act contravenes sections 7 and 8 of article 3 of the constitution of 1874, in that it is local and special legislation, regulating the affairs of school districts. The terms of the act apply expressly to the "several municipalities" of the State, and it is argued that they do not include school districts in townships and therefore make an unwarranted distinction in regard to such districts. Whether townships are municipalities within the intent of the act it is not now necessary to consider. Even if not, the separate classification of school districts in cities and boroughs with reference to public health where population is dense and the danger of contagion great would not be unconstitutional. Sugar Notch Borough, 192 Pa. 540, 48 Atl. 985. But the act is in no proper sense a regulation of school districts. It is an act entitled "For the more effectual protection of the public health in the several municipalities of the Commonwealth," and is a general statute upon that subject. What bearing it has on schools and school districts is altogether incidental to them as constituents of the communities. The constitutional restrictions on special legislation apply to direct legislation, not to the incidental operation of the statutes constitutional in themselves upon other subjects than those with which they directly deal. Sugar Notch Borough, 192 Pa. 540, 48 Atl. 985. It is further said that section 42 contravenes section 1 of article 10 of the constitution of 1874, requiring the maintenance of an efficient system of public schools wherein all children above the age of 6 years may be educated. It is sufficient to say that this article, like all others, must be construed and applied in connection with other fundamental governmental powers. The schools and school children, important as they are, are only fractions of the community, and the police power of the Commonwealth in the preservation of the public health must, if necessity arises, sacrifice the less to the greater interest. Salus publica suprema lex. If a child manifestly suffering from smallpox in its contagious stage should be excluded from school, it is hardly conceivable that the propriety of such action should be questioned. At what period before or after the outbreak of the disease the right of exclusion should arise is a legislative, not a judicial, question. As said by our late Brother Williams in Buff- field v. School District, 162 Pa. 476, 21 Atl. 742, 25 L. R. A. 152, already cited: "It is conceded that the board might rightfully exclude the plaintiff's son if he was actually sick with or just recovering from the smallpox. Though he might not be affected by it, yet if another member of the family with whom he could not be excluded, notwithstanding he might be in perfect health, would be so treated. How far shall this right to exclude one for the good of many be carried? That is a question addressed to the official discretion of the proper officers; and when that discretion is honestly and impartially exercised the courts will not interfere." These words, it should be remembered, were written with reference to authority exercised under a city ordinance, and a fortiori when the police power of the State intervenes under the authority of a statute its directions are commands that may not be disputed.

It is further argued that sections 11 and 12 of the act should be read together, and the right under section 12 to exclude unvaccinated children should be confined to the schools in the districts mentioned in section 11, namely, those in which smallpox is actually prevalent. But this is manifestly not the legislative intent. Section 11 deals with a present and immediate danger; persons, dwellings, and places where the disease actually prevails, and its prohibition includes adults as well as children, vaccinated or not. Section 12, on the contrary, is a cautionary and prospective regulation, having in view not the actual presence of the disease, but its appearance in the future. The objects of the two sections are distinctly different. In this connection the learned judge below found as a fact that there is not at the time of the filing of this bill, nor has there been for a period of about forty years, any pestilence in the case from those heretofore decided by this court. But the language of the act is general and its intent plain. The legislature may well have had in mind that the good fortune of such a community may not continue indefinitely. Immunity for forty years in the past affords no guaranty of immunity for even forty days in the future. If a chance visitor from an infected locality or a borough resident returning from a visit to such locality should bring with him the germs of infection. Section 12 is precautionary and preventive, and it is an old and sound maxim that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

There is one hardship in the twelfth section that may deserve consideration. It is conceded that the board might rightfully exclude the plaintiff's son if he was actually sick with or just recovering from the smallpox. Though he might not be affected by it, yet if another member of the family with whom he could not be excluded, notwithstanding he might be in perfect health, would be so treated. How far shall this right to exclude one for the good of many be carried? That is a question addressed to the official discretion of the proper officers; and when that discretion is honestly and impartially exercised the courts will not interfere." These words, it should be remembered, were written with reference to authority exercised under a city ordinance, and a fortiori when the police power of the State intervenes under the authority of a statute its directions are commands that may not be disputed.

Lastly, it is argued that, construing section 12 as we have done, it authorizes a trespass upon the reserved rights of the individual which are beyond the reach of even the police power. Vaccination, it is said, is the infliction of a disease—cowpox—on the subject, and if that can be done irrespective of his consent, then the next step may be to require submission to inoculation with antitoxin or serum for diphtheria, tuberculosis, cancer, etc., and we have rather a dismal picture of the possible consequences. It will be time enough to consider such matters when they arise. At present the vast preponderance of opinion among intelligent and educated people, under the guidance of the best medical authority, is that vaccination is a highly useful prophylactic, if not always a preventive, of one of the greatest scourges that have in past times afflicted humanity, and that the regulation of it by statute is not only a justifiable, but a wise and beneficent exertion of the police power over the public health. When the legislature goes beyond that into new or more debatable fields, it will be time enough to consider the limits of its power.

One expression in the opinion of the court below and in some of the cases cited in the argument requires a passing note. The Act is not a penal statute. It is a broad, general act relating to the health of the whole population of the Commonwealth. It is not, therefore, to be construed or administered by the rigid technical rules applicable to penal laws, but fairly according to its intent, neither narrowing it to the letter, to the exclusion of cases clearly within such intent of regulating it beyond its legitimate scope to cover matters not clearly meant to be included. It is an act touching very closely common rights and privileges and therefore specially requiring a common-sense administration.

HIGH SCHOOL FRATERNITIES.

(Wilson v. Board of Education of Chicago. Supreme Court of Illinois. Apr. 23, 1908. 84 N. E. 697.)

Error to appellate court, first district, on appeal from superior court, Cook County, W. J. McEwen, judge.

Bill by Eberle L. Wilson against the board of education of Chicago. From a decree dismissing the bill for want of equity, affirmed by the appellate court, complainant brings error. Affirmed.

This is a writ of error sued out of this court to review a judgment of the appellate court affirming the decree of the superior court of Cook County sustaining a demurrer to the bill and dismissing it for want of equity. The bill was filed by four minors, by their next friends, to enjoin defendant in error, the board of education of the city of Chicago, from enforcing a certain rule adopted by said board and to have said rule declared null and void. The rule reads as follows: "The committee on school management reports that it is in receipt of the following report from the superintendent of schools and recommends concurrence therein: 'The superintendent of schools respectfully reports that, in accordance with the action of the board of education, taken at its last meeting, he has considered the matter of secret societies in the high schools and respectfully recommends that the principals and teachers of the high schools be instructed to deny any secret societies which may now exist in their schools all public recognition, including the privilege of meeting in the school buildings; that such organizations be forbidden to use the school name; that no student who is known to be a member of a fraternity or sorority, or other so-called secret society, be permitted to represent the school in any literary or athletic contest or in any other public capacity; that the attention of parents of the pupils who are to attend the public high schools be called to the fact that the board of education, the superintendent and teachers of the high schools unanimously condemn all such secret societies.'" The bill alleges that complainants are all under 21 years of age and are attending the Hyde Park High School, one of the public schools of the city of Chicago, and are pursuing the course of study prescribed by the rules of the board of education, and obeying all lawful rules of said board and of the teachers employed by it; that complainants are members of an organization known as "Phi Sigma Fraternity," an organization not connected with, but distinct from, said Hyde Park High School; that the meetings of said organization are held after school hours; that said fraternity is a large association, having various branches and chapters located in various States; that the chapter in Hyde Park was organized in 1897; that the aim of the society is to stimulate loyalty and fidelity to the teachers and schools, and a desire for a high scholarship and commendable individual action; that said society is not opposed or in any manner detrimental to the welfare of the school; that complainants and other pupils belonging to it live with and are under the control of their parents and have their consent to be members of said association. The bill further alleges that there are 1,200 pupils in attendance at the Hyde Park High School, and that there are a number of associations of the pupils of said school, such as literary, musical, athletic, and class organizations, and that many of the members of said organizations are members also of various fraternities. The bill further alleges that the board of education had recently sent out notice that the rule would be rigidly enforced, and that the complainants have, by reason thereof, been prevented, under threat of expulsion, from attending any literary or athletic contest held under the auspices of said schools, and have been deprived of positions in said associations where they had been elected by other pupils, and are denied the (right to resume the said positions because of their membership in such fraternities; that participation in the exercises of the societies and associations of the said school is beneficial to pupils, and is freely granted to all except complainants and others who are members of secret societies. The bill charges that the adoption of said rule was the exercise of an arbitrary power by the board of education, violative of the natural rights of complainants and an unlawful discrimination against them, and is therefore null and void. The prayer is that the rule be declared void, and that the board of education be enjoined from enforcing or attempting to enforce it.

Counsel for plaintiff in error does not question the power of the board of education to prescribe all reasonable rules necessary for the conduct and management of the schools, but insists that the rule here involved was not a reasonable rule; that it was in violation of the natural rights of plaintiff in error, and an unlawful discrimination against him; and that this is a question of law to be determined by the courts. It is not claimed nor averred in the bill that plaintiff in error was deprived, by the rule in question, from attending the school, nor from taking his place in the classes to which he belonged and pursuing his studies and receiving instruction the same as all other pupils in the school in the course of studies taught therein. It appears from the averments of the bill that there were associations permitted to be organized among the pupils of said Hyde Park High School, principally for literary, musical, and athletic exercises and contests; but these were not a part of the course of study required to be pursued by pupils attending said school, and were not within the contemplation of the constitution nor of the act of the legislature in providing a system whereby all the children of the State may receive a good common school education. The power of the board of education to control and manage the schools and to adopt rules and regulations necessary for that purpose is ample and full. The rules and by-laws necessary to a proper conduct and management of the schools are, and must necessarily be, left to the discretion of the board, and its acts will not be interfered with nor set aside by the courts, unless there is a clear abuse of the power and discretion conferred. Acting reasonably within the powers conferred, it is the province of the board of education to determine what things are detrimental to the successful management, good order, and discipline of the schools and the rules required to pro-
Seattle, after an investigation of the probable effect of Greek letter societies, known as Greece-letter fraternities or sororities, was detrimental to the best interests of the schools. Whether this judgment was sound and well founded is not subject to review by the courts. The only question for determination is whether the rule adopted to prevent or remedy the supposed evil was a reasonable exercise of the power and discretion of the board. The rule required teachers to refuse to give public recognition to such secret societies, to refuse to allow their meetings to be held in the school buildings, or to allow the name of any school to be used by the organizations. The rule also required teachers to refuse to allow a member of a fraternity or sorority to represent his school in any literary or athletic contest or in any other public capacity; that parents of the pupils be informed that the board of education, the superintendent, and teachers in the high schools unanimously condemned all such secret societies. The rule denied to pupils who were members of secret societies any privileges allowed to pupils not members, except the privilege of representing the schools in literary or athletic contests or in any other public capacity. They were not denied membership in associations of pupils of the schools for literary, social, musical, or athletic exercises, and were not prohibited from receiving the same benefits from these organizations as the other pupils who did not members of secret societies receive. They were only prohibited from representing the schools as members of those associations in public contests and capacities. This was not a denial of any natural right, and neither was it an unlawful discrimination.

People v. Wheaton College, 40 Ill., 186, was a mandamus proceeding against the college to compel the reinstatement of a student who had joined the Good Templars in violation of the college rules, and had for that reason been suspended from the privileges of the college until he expressed a purpose to conform to its rules. The court said: "Wheaton College is an incorporated institution, resting upon private endowments, and deriving no aid whatever from the State or from taxation. Its charter gives to the trustees and faculty the power to adopt and enforce such rules as may be deemed expedient for the government of the institution—a power which they would have possessed without such express grant, because incident to the very object of their incorporation and indispensable to the successful management of the college. Among the rules they have deemed it expedient to adopt is one forbidding the students to become members of secret societies. We perceive nothing unreasonable in the rule itself, since all persons familiar with college life know that the tendency of secret societies is to withdraw students from the control of the faculty and impair to some extent the discipline of the institution. Such may not always be their effect, but such is their general tendency. But, whether the rule be judicious or not, it violates neither good morals nor the law of the land, and is therefore clearly within the power of the college authorities to make and enforce." Kinzer v. Directors (129 Iowa, 441; 105 N. W., 686; 3 I. R. A. (N. S.), 400) was a mandamus proceeding to compel the board of directors of Marion school district, Iowa, to reinstate in the high school a pupil who had been suspended therefrom by the board of directors until he should apologize to the superintendent, before the school, for his willful violation of a rule adopted by the board. The rule prohibited playing football under the auspices of the high school or on the school grounds. The pupil who was suspended, acting with others, caused a poster to be printed advertising a game of football to be played by the west branch of the high school on a Saturday, for which an admission fee of 25 cents was charged. The authority of the board to adopt the rule was challenged by the petitioner, and it was also contended by him that his conduct was not a violation of the rule. Both these contentions were decided in favor of the board of directors.

The court said: "It was plainly intended, therefore, that the management of school affairs should be left to the discretion of the board of directors and not to the city, and we ought not to interfere with the exercise of discretion on the part of a school board as to what is a reasonable and necessary rule. In Francis v. Bridges (25 Wash., 441; 86 Pac., 642; 7 R. A. (N. S.), 302) the validity of a rule substantially the same as the one here in question was passed upon by the supreme court of the State of Washington. The board of education of Seattle, after an investigation of the probable effect of Greek letter societies or fraternities upon pupil in the schools, in 1901 adopted a rule prohibiting pupils from becoming members of such societies. George Wayland, while a pupil in the public school, in violation of the rule, became a member of a fraternity, as did also other pupils. In May, 1905, the board of education amended its former rule so as to provide that all pupils who were then members of any high school secret society, or pledged to become such, who would promise that so long as they remained pupils of said high school they would not become members of any other secret society or give any promise or pledge to become such, or solicit any other pupil to give any promise or pledge to become a member of any high school fraternity or secret society, and in good faith keep such promise, would be restored to the privileges of such school, but that all students who thereafter should become members or in any way pledge or bind themselves to join any high school fraternity or secret society, or should initiate or pledge any other student, or in any way encourage or foster the fraternity spirit in the high school should be denied all the privileges of the high school, except those of the schoolroom. Wayland brought suit against the board of education to enjoin it from enforcing this rule. The material allegations in his petition were in substance similar to the allegations of the bill in this case. An answer was filed by the board of education and a hearing had. The trial court refused the relief prayed for, and an appeal was prosecuted to the supreme court. That court affirmed the judgment of the trial court, and in an able and exhaustive opinion passed upon every material question here involved, and we agree with the reasoning of the opinion and the conclusion reached by that court. We quote from the opinion the following:

"The board has not excluded the appellant from the Seattle high school, neither has it threatened to expel or suspend him. He can and does attend school, and under our construction of the rules adopted he is at the same time permitted to continue his membership in the Gamma Eta Kappa fraternity, although in doing so he opposes the authority of the board and thereby forfeits certain privileges which are no necessary part of the curriculum or class work, from which he is not excluded. Respondents are only seeking to prevent appellant and his associates from dictating the terms on which they shall enjoy certain privileges which are merely incidental to the regular school work, and this they have authority to do. Appellant further contends that as the fraternities meet out of school hours at the homes of members, and at no time in the school building, and as their parents consent to this action, the board is exceeding its lawful authority in entering their homes, withdrawing from parents the control of their children, and in dictating what the children shall or shall not do out of school hours. We think this contention unreasonable. The board has not invaded the homes of any pupils, nor have they sought to interfere with parental custody and control. They have not said these fraternities shall not meet at the various homes, nor have they attempted to control students out of school hours."

What was there said is applicable to this case. The rule adopted by the board of education, and which is set out in full in the bill, shows upon its face that it was not the result of hasty and ill-considered action. At a previous meeting the board had instructed the superintendent of schools to investigate the effect of secret societies upon the schools, and upon his report that he had made the investigation, and upon his recommendation, the rule was adopted. Assuming, as we must, that the adoption of the rule was not an abuse of power or discretion conferred by law upon the board, courts can not, and should not, interfere with its enforcement. Pupils attending the schools may decide for themselves whether they prefer membership in the secret societies, with the disqualification from representing their schools in literary or athletic contests or other public capacities, or whether they prefer these latter privileges to membership in said societies. It is for the board of education, within the reasonable exercise of its power and discretion, to say what is best for the successful management and conduct of the schools, and not for the courts.

In our opinion the bill was properly dismissed, and the judgment of the appellate court is affirmed.

tered therein, hearing the same date, this appeal is taken. Thereafter and at a special term of said court, and on the 31st day of January, 1907, a petition therefore died on behalf of the relator, based on the evidence taken before the referee, asking leave to amend the petition by adding the words "and pay forty cents each," in their proper place, relating to the penalty imposed at the time of the suspension, came on to be heard, and was denied by the court. There was an exception to the order, but no appeal has been taken therefrom.

Harptrop, J. (after stating the facts as above). The procedure adopted in determining the issues presented by the pleadings in this action was informal and irregular and can not be approved. The demurrer to the return raised an issue of law, which should have been disposed of, and, if overruled, leave should have been given to the relator, if he so desired, to withdraw the same and amend his petition, or to interpose an answer if an issue of fact was to be presented to the court. It appears the evidence taken before the referee was never referred to or used by the court, and the attorneys for the relator, in the court and the attorneys for the respondents, deplorably treated the demurrer as an answer to the return, as a consent order was entered referring the only controverted issue to a referee to report the testiomes. There was no material conflict in the evidence, and upon the report of the referee the court filed an opinion determining the issues of law favor of the respondents, and overruling the relator's demurrer to the return, and denying motion for writ of mandamus. Formal findings were made, and the court, in accordance with the opinion, upon which the judgment was entered.
This summary method of trial has in the opinion of the court met the substantial ends of justice, and the relator by consenting thereto is in no position to complain.

Error is assigned by the appellant upon the refusal of the court to permit an amendment to the petition setting up the requirement of the school authorities that the suspended pupils should pay a penalty of 40 cents each, as a condition to their reinstatement. Formal application to amend was not made until after judgment, and there is no appeal from the order denying the same. The appeal being from the judgment, the subsequent order is not reviewable upon this record. (Bank of Commerce v. Elliott, 109 Wis. 548, 85 N. W. 417.) As there was no conflict in the testimony on this subject, the variance between the pleading and the proof was not material, and the court might have found the fact in accordance with the evidence, or have ordered an amendment to the petition.

Section 2670, Stat. 1893. The court did consider the proof with respect to this penalty and very properly suggested in the opinion that no such condition should be attached to the reinstatement of the pupils. It has been held that a school board has no power to make or enforce a rule requiring pupils under penalty of suspension to pay damages for school property accidentally or negligently injured or destroyed. (Perkins v. School Board, 56 Iowa, 476, 9 N. W. 356; Holi-

We are not called upon to approve the practical wisdom displayed by the school authorities in dealing with the hasty conduct of thoughtless school children, prompted by an older mate, and abetted by the publisher of the paper, or to justify the strong resentment that must have prompted the relator in appealing to the courts for redress. The exercise of a little charity, forbearance, and good nature might have avoided the controversy, which must have been attended with more or less serious consequence to the suspended pupils as well as to the school, and to the litigants here represented. But the cause is before us for decision, and must be treated like any other lawsuit.

The remaining assignments of error relate to the power of the school authorities to suspend the offending pupils for the misconduct, which was established by the undisputed evidence. The authority to suspend the pupils from the privileges of the school is denied by the appellant, unless the offense was a violation of some rule prescribed by the board, or involved moral turpitude, or was committed during school hours in the schoolroom, or-in the presence of other pupils. In support of this proposition, see Board of Education v. Purse, 101 Ga. 422, 28 S. E. 896, 41 L. R. A. 593, 63 Am.
Stat. Rep. 312; Murphy v. Board of Directors, 30 Iowa, 429; and Dripp v. Snodgrass, 66 Mo. 280, 7 Am. Rep. 343. The decision of the Georgia court has no direct application. It was there held the school boards of law and order drew who had not been guilty of any violation of the rules of the school, but whose mother, undertaking to call in question the discipline of the teacher over one of the children, entered the schoolroom during school hours, and, in the presence of the pupils there assembled used offensive and insulting language to such teacher. Dripp v. Snodgrass, supra, is readily distinguishable. There the school board had made a rule that no pupil should during the school term attend a social party, and a pupil by the permission of his parents violated the rule and was expelled. The court held that in prescribing the foregoing rule the board had gone beyond its power and invaded the rights of the parents.

Murphy v. Board of Directors, 30 Iowa, 422, is directly in point, and supports the proposition stated by the appellant, but the decision is made to turn upon the extent of the power conferred by statute on boards of school directors. The statute provided that the directors should have power to dismiss pupils from school for gross immorality or for persistent violation of the regulations of the school; and it was also made their duty to aid the teacher in establishing and enforcing rules for the government of the schools. The words italicized are so written in the opinion as manifesting the power which may be exercised by the board. The plaintiff in that case was not charged with immorality or the violation of any regulation of the school. It is said in the opinion: "The statute does not authorize the board of directors to suspend pupils for acts tending to destroy the peace and harmony of the school, or to destroy the moral education in others, or for ridicule of the directors, in the absence of any regulation prohibiting such acts." Section 439, Stat. 1897, confers broader power upon such boards; it authorizes them to make all rules necessary for the government of the school, and to suspend any pupil for noncompliance with the rules made by themselves or by the teacher with their consent. But it is urged that in the present case no rule had been prescribed by the board or by the teacher relating to the misconduct complained of. But that contention is fairly met by the decision of this court in State ex rel. Burpee v. Burton, 45 Wis. 150, 30 Am. Rep. 766.

The case last cited was an action of mandamus to compel the reinstatement of a pupil in the school who had been guilty of misconduct, which was of itself not a violation of any rule prescribed by the board or by the principal. It is said in the opinion: "While the principal or teacher in charge of a public school is subordinate to the school board or board of education of his district or city, and must enforce rules and regulations adopted by the board for the government of the school, and execute all its lawful orders in that behalf, he does not derive all his power and authority in the school and over his pupils from the alternative action of the board. He stands for the time being in loco parentis to his pupils, and because of that relation he must necessarily exercise authority over them in many things concerning which the board may have remained silent. In the school, as in the family, there exist on the part of the pupils the obligations of obedience to lawful commands, subordination, civil deportment, respect for the rights of other pupils, and fidelity to duty. These obligations are inherent in any proper school system, and constitute, so to speak, the common law of the school. Every pupil is presumed to know the law, and is subject to it, whether it has or has not been reenacted by the district board in the form of written rules and regulations. Indeed, it would seem impossible to frame rules which would cover all cases of insubordination and all acts of vicious tendency which the teacher is liable to encounter daily and hourly. While the offense for which the pupil was suspended is not stated in the Burpee case, it was apparently committed in the schoolroom and in the presence of the teacher, and hence it may be urged that the two cases are distinguishable. We have been referred to no decision directly holding that the school authorities can suspend a pupil for misconduct after school hours, unless the offense is a violation of established rules, or is committed in the schoolhouse or upon the school grounds, or in the presence of the master and other pupils. There is abundant authority, however, that the school board or the teacher may make rules to govern the conduct of the pupils after school hours, and punish a violation thereof by suspension from attendance upon school. (Deskins v. Gose, 35 Mo. 485, 55 Am. Rep. 387; Hutton v. State, 23 Tex. Apb. 390, 5 R. W. 122, 59 Am. Rep. 775; Wayland v. Hughes, 43 Wash. 441, 80 Pac. 642, 7 L. R. A. (N. S.) 362; Kinsler v. Directors, 120 Iowa, 441, 166 N. W. 286; 3 L. R. A. (N. S.) 496; Jones v. Cody, 132 Mich. 13, 92 N. W. 495, 62 L. R. A. 196.)

It is clear, therefore, that a rule might have been adopted by the school authorities to meet the situation here presented. This court in the quotation already made from the opinion in the Burpee case recognizes certain obligations on the part of the pupil, which are inherent in any proper school system, and which constitute the common law of the school, and which may be enforced without the adoption in advance of any rules upon the subject. This court therefore holds that the school authorities have the power to suspend a pupil for an offense committed outside of school hours and not in the presence of the teacher which has a direct and immediate tendency to influence the conduct of other pupils while in the schoolroom, to set at naught the proper discipline of the school, to impair the authority of the teachers, and to bring them into ridicule and contempt. Such power is essential to the preservation of order, decency, decorum, and good government in the public schools.

The school authorities considered the misconduct for which the pupils were suspended as having a direct and injurious effect upon the good order and discipline of the school. The teacher's children were instrumental in causing the publication of the poem in a newspaper, which, apparently, found its way into the homes of many of the children attending the high school, and who would be as much influenced thereby as if the writing had been printed and posted in the schoolroom, or there circulated and read. The teachers are especially familiar with the disposition and temper of the children under their charge and the effect which such a publication would probably have upon the good order and discipline of the school. The school authorities must necessarily be invested with a broad discretion in the government and discipline of the pupils, and the courts should not interfere with the exercise of such authority unless it has been illegally or unreasonably exercised. The trial court has found that the act complained of does not evince an abuse of discretion on the part of the teachers, but rather an earnest desire to counsel, admonish, and discipline the pupils for their own good as well as for the good of the school. That conclusion is supported by the testimony and is here approved. This court is not called upon to decide as to the wisdom of the action of the school authorities, but only as to their jurisdiction within proper limits.

The judgment of the court below is affirmed.

TEACHERS' SALARIES.

XIII. Pennsylvania.

[H. Houston v. Central Board of Education of Pittsburgh, Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, January 8, 1906, 28 A. 3d 1079.]

Bill by James W. Houston against the Central Board of Education of Pittsburgh for an injunction.

The following is the opinion of Evans, J. In the court below:

"The plaintiff, a taxpayer of the city of Pittsburgh, filed this bill against the Central Board of Education of the City of Pittsburgh, alleging that in the appointment of a commission known as the 'teachers' salary commission' and the maintenance of said commission and the payment of salaries of certain of the teachers of the said districts of the city of Pittsburgh in accordance with the recommendation of said commission, the defendant has transcended its authority, and asking that it be restrained in the premises."

"Findings of fact."

"The facts in this case are not in dispute. There was no testimony taken at the trial of the case, and all the material allegations of the plaintiff's bill are admitted in the answer, and we have found the undisputed facts in the case by the approval of the requests of the plaintiff for findings of fact, and refer to them and to the bill for the facts in the case."

"Conclusions of law."

"In the month of December, 1904, the defendant, the Central Board of Education of the City of Pittsburgh, by resolution, divided the teachers of the subdistrict schools below the eighth grade into two classes, to be known as 'Class A' and 'Class B,' and fixed the salary of Class A at various amounts dependent upon the number of years' experience had by the teacher, making the salary for above seven years' experience $800 per annum, and fixed the salary of the teachers in Class B at $600 per annum. The requisites of enrollment in Class B..."
RECENT SUPREME COURT DECISIONS.

First, the teacher shall have taught seven annual terms of ten months each; second, she shall hold a permanent certificate issued by the State of Pennsylvania; third, she shall be recommended to the commission by the board of directors of the subdistrict in which they are employed at the time of the application, and said recommendation shall have the approval of the principal and shall be indorsed by a commission known as the 'teachers' salary commission' upon an investigation and examination made by it. The above is, in substance, the act of the defendant which the plaintiff alleges is illegal.

The defendant is a creature of the legislature, and, unless the powers assumed by it in the premises are authorized by the legislature, then it has no right to expend the public money in the furtherance of the object to be obtained by the exercise of those powers. The act of February 12, 1860, P. L. 130, creating the Central Board of Education of Pittsburgh, and determining its powers, is very specific, and goes into detail in fixing the powers of the central board, both as respects the high school and the subdistrict schools, and the only power or control which the Central Board of Education may exercise with reference to the teachers of the subdistrict schools is found in the twenty-seventh section of the act, which provides: 'That the central board shall have power and authority to determine upon the number of teachers in the subdistrict schools, schools for children of color and professors and teachers in the high school, and to fix and pay the salaries of all such professors and teachers.' Another section gives it the power to appoint and to dismiss professors and teachers to the high school, but as to the subdistrict schools this authority is given to the civil board.

It is under the power to fix and pay the salaries of the teachers of the subdistrict schools that the central board of education assumes to maintain the salary commission. The salary commission was appointed by a resolution of the central board of education in the month of December, 1864, and the paragraph which embodies the real work of that commission is as follows: 'The commission shall have the following powers and duties: (a) To conduct such investigation at such times and in such manner as may be decided by the commission and as may be deemed necessary, that a just conclusion may be reached upon the profession and progressive spirit of the applicant in her profession. It will be observed that there is no standard fixed by the school board, the attainment of which will determine the question of the salary to be paid to the teacher. There is no direction as to the manner in which the examination of the teacher, in order to determine her proficiency and progressive spirit, is to be conducted. The entire matter is left to the discretion of the commission created by the central board of education, without a rule to guide them or to bind them, and the report of the commission is final and conclusive, both upon the applicant and the central board.

Paragraph (e) of the powers of the commission is to report to the various subdistrict boards from whose corps of teachers applications have been received the names of the teachers who have been enrolled in class C; paragraph (f), to report to the secretary of the central board of education, before the first day of September in each year, the names of such teachers as have been enrolled in class D during the year. It will be observed that the commission enrolls the teachers in class D and class A without reference to the will of the board or of the central board, without consulting either, and simply reports the result of its conclusion to those boards. The fixing of the salaries of teachers on the basis of the report of this commission is certainly the fixing of those salaries by proxy, which was condemned by the supreme court of our State in Dulaney Land Company's appeal, 161 Pa., 347. Mr. Justice Trukey, in delivering the opinion of the court, said: 'We address the defendants believed it for the interest of the district to employ Nunn to perform many of their own duties and some of the duties of the county superintendent in relation to the schools widely scattered over a large township. The directors honestly arranged to superintend, and visit the schools by proxy. But their good faith does not stand an authority for employing a superintendent for the district. The provisions of the law may be inadequate to the needs of the district because the county superintendent has too much to do and the directors are indigent to do all that is required of them. If so, the power that made the law can remedy its defects.' We think the decision of that case governs this one. The power to fix the salaries is in the central board of education. It has discretion —22 which must be exercised by it and can not be delegated to a commission, and and the payment of salaries to this commission and the expenses of its maintenance and operation and the payment of salaries based upon the report made by it are without the power of the central board and contrary to law. To the board of directors of the subdistrict schools is given the power to elect the teachers, to supervise their conduct during their incumbency, and to discharge them for reasons specified in the act of assembly. Necessarily connected with these powers is the duty to pass upon their qualifications as teachers before their election, the efficiency of their work during their incumbency, and their term of service in the subdistrict schools. All these are given necessarily to the directors of the subdistrict schools. None of them are given to the central board of education. If we then give to the central board of education power to fix the salary dependent upon its judgment of the qualifications of the individual teachers, we take away from the directors of the subdistrict schools the gist of their supervision over the individual teachers and their determination of their qualifications and efficiency. What good would be the power to elect a teacher by the directors of the subdistrict schools if the central board of education might determine that that teacher was unfit for the position and fix her salary at such an inadequate amount that she could not afford to accept the position?

"It was not intended by the legislature that the power to fix the salaries of the teachers of the subdistrict schools should thus interfere with the powers and duties of the subdistrict board; but the evident intention is to fix such a schedule of salaries that the directors of the various subdistricts may know from their examination of the qualifications of the teacher, her experience, her probable efficiency in the school, the position to which they would elect her, the exact salary which she shall get upon the assumption of her duties. And this is the interpretation which the central board of education has placed upon the authority given it to fix salaries from its creation up to December, 1904, and it was in pursuance of this interpretation of the act of assembly that it fixed the salaries of the teachers of the subdistrict schools.

"(1) The plaintiff has standing to maintain this bill.

"(2) The creation and maintenance of the commission known as the 'teachers' salary commission' by the defendant is without authority of law.

"(3) The payment of salaries and expenses by said commission by the defendant was unlawful.

"(4) The fixing of the salaries by the defendant of the teachers of the sub-district schools below the eighth grade and above seven year's experience, in accordance with the resolution of December, 1904, was not an exercise of the power given to it to fix the salaries of the teachers of the subdistrict schools, and was, therefore, unlawful and void.

"Decree.

"And now, September 22, 1906, this cause came on to be further heard at this term and was argued by counsel, and upon consideration thereof it is ordered, adjudged, and decreed as follows, viz:

"(1) The teachers' salary commission referred to in the bill in this case is illegal and has no legal right to exercise the powers purporting to be conferred upon it under the resolution adopted by the defendant and referred to in said bill.

"(2) The defendant, the central board of education of the city of Pittsburg, its officers, members, and agents, are hereby enjoined and restrained from paying out any funds, by way of salary, expense, or otherwise, to the members of or on account of said teachers' salary commission.

"(3) The defendant and the members thereof are hereby ordered to resume and exercise the power and duty of fixing the salaries of teachers of the sub-district schools of the city of Pittsburg in accordance with the statute in such case made and provided.

"Argued before Fell, Brown, Mestreet, Potter, Elin, and Stewart, J. J.

"Per Curiam. The decree entered in this case is affirmed upon the findings of fact and conclusions of law by the learned judge of the common pleas.
XIV. Indiana.

Appeal from circuit court, Owen County; Joseph W. Williams, judge.

Mortonav, J., appellee, brought this action to enjoin appellant, as county superintendent, from revoking his license to teach school. It appears from the complaint: That appellee is a school-teacher of twenty years' experience, and that on October 16, 1905, while engaged in teaching in Owen County, appellant prepared and filed against him as such teacher the following charge and specifications, to wit: "(1) You have refused without good reason to board in your school community. On this account you are unable to reach your school so as to begin daily school sessions at a reasonable time. (2) You have refused without reason to attend the preliminary township institute and the monthly township institute. (3) You have refused without reason to give regular attendance at the teachers' county institute. (4) You do not make daily preparation necessary for successful teaching." That appellee appeared in response to notice, and such proceedings were had as resulted in the dismissal of such charge, and, on completion of his school term, appellant issued to him a success grade of 92 per cent as a teacher.

That afterwards appellee secured from the state superintendent a license to teach for twenty-four months from the 23rd day of April, 1906, and on July 5 following appellant notified appellee to appear at his office and make answer to the above charge, and show cause, if any, why his license to teach should not be revoked, and in response thereto appellee appeared in person and by counsel, and caused the hearing to be postponed until July 10th.

Appellee further avers that neither of said charges constitutes a cause for the revocation of such license; that appellant has no right or authority to hear and determine the same; that conceding the sufficiency of such charge appellant has no power to hear and determine the same over the objection of appellee; that section 9 of the act of March 3, 1899 (Acts, 1899, P. 245, chap. 143), is unconstitutional; that the charges are untrue and false, and appellant is not an impartial magistrate, and will upon such charge revoke appellee's license to his irreparable damage. The court below overruled appellant's demurrer to the complaint, and the assignment that this ruling was erroneous presents the disputed questions for our decision.

The statute upon which this proceeding was founded reads as follows: "That the county superintendent shall have the power to revoke licenses heretofore granted by himself or predecessors or hereafter granted by the state superintendent of public instruction, for incompetency, immorality, cruelty, or general neglect, by the holder, of the business of his school. Due notice of such revocation shall be given in writing by the county superintendent, and an appeal therefrom shall lie to the state superintendent of public instruction, if the same be taken within five days after notice is given. The revocation of the license of any teacher shall terminate his employment in the school in which he may have been employed to teach." (Burns' Ann. Stat., 1901, sec. 5905f). It is contended on behalf of appellee that this section of the law contravenes section 12 of article 1 of the state constitution, which provides "that the courts shall be open; and every man for injury done to him in person, property, or reputation, shall have remedy by due course of law;" and also violates section 21 of article 1, which provides that "no man's particular services nor his property shall be taken by law without just compensation;" and violates the provisions of article 3 of the constitution by conferring judicial power upon a ministerial officer.

rest primarily with the legislative department, and the constitutional provisions involved by appellees were not designed to trammel the State in the exercise of its general political powers, or to impose upon the courts the duty of interfering between the legislature and the citizen in matters of pure governmental concern. The legislature, in the proper exercise of its power, has provided a general system of licenses for those who desire to engage in teaching, and has authorized the revocation of any such license by county superintendents for certain prescribed causes. A license has none of the elements of a contract, and does not confer an absolute right, but only a personal privilege to be exercised under existing restrictions, and such as may thereafter be reasonably imposed. Statutes authorizing the issuance of such licenses are enacted to promote the good order and welfare of the State, and may ordinarily be repealed at the pleasure of the legislature. (Crosby v. Lakesville, 5 Gray (Miss.), 90; Freeman v. State, 5 Mo., 900; People v. New York Tax, etc., Commission, 47 N. Y., 901; State v. Burgoyne, 75 Tenn., 173, 49 Am. Rep., 63.)

In the case of Doyle v. Continental Insurance Company (34 L. 355, 540, 24 L. Ed. 48) the Supreme Court of the United States, in speaking of licenses, said: "The correlative power to revoke or recall a permission is a necessary consequence of the power. A mere license by the State is always revocable." The statute authorizing the granting of a license may provide for its revocation in certain contingencies, and, by accepting and acting under a license, the licensees consent to all conditions imposed thereon, including provisions for its revocation. (21 Am. and Eng. Ency. of Law, 520.) In the case of Commonwealth v. Reesley (135 Mass., 578) the supreme court of Massachusetts said: "A license gives his license subject to such conditions as the legislature sees fit to impose, and one of the statutory conditions of this license was that it might be revoked by the selectmen at their pleasure. Such a license is not a contract, and a revocation of it does not deprive the defendant of property, immunity, or privilege within the meaning of those words in the declaration of rights." The supreme court of Illinois, in discussing the proprietary interest of an individual in a license to retail intoxicating liquors, said: "He received the license on the condition that it might be revoked if he should sell liquor on Sunday, and he thereby consented to the terms and conditions." (Schwuchow v. City of Chicago, 68 Ill. 444, 460.)

It is our conclusion that the act in question does not assume to, and does not deny appellee access to the courts for any injury done to him in his person, property, or reputation, within the meaning of section 12, article 1, of the state constitution. The enforcement of regulations enacted in the proper exercise of the police power of the State can not be resisted as a taking of private property, or immunity, or privilege within the meaning of these words in the declaration of rights. The supreme court of Illinois, in discussing the proprietary interest of an individual in a license to retail intoxicating liquors, said: "He received the license on the condition that it might be revoked if he should sell liquor on Sunday, and he thereby consented to the terms and conditions." (Schwuchow v. City of Chicago, 68 Ill. 444, 460.)

The remaining question is whether, in his complaint, appellees has shown sufficient ground to invoke the aid of a court of equity. In a kindred case the supreme court of New Jersey denied a teacher's right to resort to a court of law, using the following language: "The plaintiff, having accepted an appointment as a teacher under the school law, is bound by all of its provisions, and has no redress from having the propriety of his dismissal by the local school board reviewed in any tribunal except those specially created by the legislature for the purpose." (Draper v. Commissioners of Public Instruction, 66 N. J. L., 52, 68 L. Ed., 148.) The rule of estoppel in this State can not be said to be as strict as the New Jersey doctrine in view of the following provisions: "Nothing in this act, however, shall be construed so as to change or abridge the jurisdiction of any court in cases arising under the laws of this State, and the right of any person to bring suit in any court in any case arising under the school laws shall not be abridged by the provision of this act." (Acts 1896, p. 262, chap. 144, sec. 4; sec. 5006, Burns' Am. Stat., 1904.)

It is generally accepted doctrine that where a statute or ordinance authorizes the revocation of a license for causes enumerated, such license can not be revoked upon any ground other than one of the causes specified. (23
Am. and Eng. Ency. of Law, 820. The court of appeals of Kentucky regards the act of a superintendent in revoking a license under the laws of that State as a judicial proceeding, and expressly holds that if in any case the superintendent is proceeding without jurisdiction, the circuit court has power to restrain the proceeding. (Rump, etc., v. Taylor, 123 Ky., 987, 990, 49 S. W., 88.) We are not in accord with the Kentucky court in closing the action of a school superintendent in revoking a license as judicial in the technical meaning of that word, but we do hold that he may revoke only for some statutory cause, and, if attempting to proceed upon grounds wholly outside of the statute, his action would be without jurisdiction, and upon a sufficient showing, a court of equity might intervene to prevent the threatened revocation. If the superintendent is proceeding to hear a charge fairly within the statute, and upon reasonable notice the accused must follow the procedure provided in the school laws, and, if aggrieved by the decision of the county superintendent, prosecute no appeal to the state superintendent. (Moreland v. Wynne (Tex. Civ. App.) 74 S. W., 106; Harkness v. Hucherson et al., 34 Tex., 383, 39 S. W., 1120; Jackson v. Ind. School Dist., 110 Iowa, 313, 81 N. W., 506; Kirkpatrick v. Independent School Dist., 23 Iowa, 585, 5 N. W., 750; St. Joseph r. Levin, 128 Mo., 568, 81 S. W., 101, 90 Am. Stat. Rep., 577; Carver v. School Dist., etc., 11th Mich., 524, 71 N. W., 879; People v. Board of Education, 17 N. Y. (X.), 291; McCrea v. Pine Top School Dist., 145 Pa., 550, 22 Atl., 1040; Roth v. Marshall, 129 Pa., 272, 21 Atl., 1001.)

Giving appellee's rights under his license the widest effect allowable, the utmost he could ask or exact of the State is that proceedings to revoke such license be made to conform to the law authorizing such revocation. Township and county institutes for teachers are required to be held, their attendance is commanded, and pay provided. (Sections 1000, 400, Burns's Ann. Stat.) The statute quoted authorizes a teacher's license to be revoked for general neglect of the business of his school. It is manifestly upon this ground that the charge under consideration was predicated. The first specification was not sufficiently or aptly phrased, and in itself might not justify the revocation; but the complaint intended, doubtless, was not, as seemingly charged, that appellee, without good reason, refused to be heard in the school community, but failed to open his school at a reasonable hour because he needlessly boarded at a place remote from the school. This feature of the general charge, so far as we are advised, might have been amended or stricken out upon motion before the county superintendent. A party to a pending proceeding is not entitled to relief by injunction for matter from which he might obtain relief by motion in that proceeding itself. (22 Cyc., 771.) The second and third specifications, as well as the fourth, if true, show a lack of interest in his work and a general neglect of his duty as a teacher and of the business to which his efforts should be directed, and bring the charge within the terms of the statute, and consequently give the appellant jurisdiction over the subject-matter. Jurisdiction over the person of appellee is admitted by the averments of the complaint. In these circumstances, the conditions under which he accepted his license compelled him to submit to the authority of the school officers, and, if aggrieved by the decision of the county superintendent, seek redress by an appeal to the state superintendent of public instruction. These officers are clothed with special powers and charged with the duty of holding these institutes, and of laboring in every practical way to elevate the standard of teaching and to improve the condition of the schools. Judicial officers, however wise, should not hastily usurp their prerogatives and functions and seek to substitute their opinions for the opinions and judgments of men held accountable for results in educational affairs. Tribunals established by law may not infringe upon the jurisdiction of each other; and, as this court said in the case of Board v. Martin, 46 Ind., 101: "In the present imperfect state of human knowledge, a power to hear and determine necessarily carries with it a power which makes the determination imperative, without reference to the question whether it was right or wrong. If this were not so, the judgment or determination of any court would be of no particular value. It might be attack or avoided at pleasure, upon the ground that the court or judge had committed an error." If questions affecting the competency and general conduct of teachers may be judiciously taken from the determination of school tribunals and submitted to courts and juries, learned or unlearned, as they may be, no discipline or honorable system can be preserved, but the fate of a teacher may be made to depend upon his pronunciation of such words as "Cuba" and "America," as exemplified in the case of Carver v. School Dist., supra.
Jurisdiction of the county superintendent being shown, the allegations with respect to his bias and want of judicial capacity are without force. He must answer to the body responsible for his election for the manner in which he discharges his duties so long as he keeps within his legitimate sphere. The complaint is insufficient to invoke equitable relief, and, appellant's demurrer thereto for want of facts should have been sustained.

The judgment is reversed, with directions to sustain appellant's demurrer to the complaint.

TRANSPORTATION OF PUPILS.

XV. Massachusetts.

[Interstate Consolidated Street Railway Company v. Commonwealth of Massachusetts (United States Supreme Court; argued October 15-16, 1907; decided November 4, 1907), 207 U. S., 79.]

In error to the superior court of the State of Massachusetts to review a conviction of a street-railway company, on appeal from the first district court of Bristol County, in that state, for refusing to transport school children at a reduced rate, except as having been heard by the supreme judicial court and overruled. Affirmed.

Mr. Justice Holmes delivered the opinion of the court.

This was a complaint against the plaintiff in error for refusing to sell tickets for the transportation of pupils to and from the public schools at one-half the regular fare charged by it, as required by Massachusetts Revised Laws, chapter 112, section 72. At the trial the railway company admitted the fact, but set up that the statute was unconstitutional, in that it denied to the company the equal protection of the laws and deprived it of its property without just compensation and without due process of law. In support of this defense it made an offer of proof which may be abridged into the propositions that the regular fare was 5 cents; that during the last fiscal year the actual and reasonable cost of transportation per passenger was 3.86 cents, or, including taxes, 4.10 cents; that pupils of the public schools formed a considerable part of the passengers carried by it, and that the one street railway expressly exempted by the law transported nearly one-half the passengers transported on street railways and received nearly one-half the revenue received for such transportation in the Commonwealth. The offer was stated to be made for the purpose of showing that the plaintiff in error could not comply with the statute without carrying passengers for less than a reasonable compensation and for less than cost. The offer of proof was rejected, and a ruling that the statute was repugnant to the fourteenth amendment was refused. The plaintiff in error excepted and, after a verdict of guilty and sentence, took the case to the supreme judicial court. (187 Mass., 436.) The court overrules the exceptions, whereupon the plaintiff in error brought the case here.

This court is of opinion that the decision below was right. A majority of the court considers that the case is disposed of by the fact that the statute in question was in force when the plaintiff in error took its charter, and confines itself to that ground. The section of the Revised Laws (chap. 112, sec. 72) was a continuation of Statutes, 1900, chapter 197. (Rev. Laws, chap. 220, sec. 2. Commonwealth v. Anselvich, 180 Mass., 376, 377, 378.) The act of incorporation went into effect March 15, 1901. (Stat., 1901, chap. 159.) By the latter act the plaintiff in error was "subject to all the duties, liabilities, and restrictions set forth in all general laws now or hereafter in force relating to street railway companies," etc., section 1. See also section 2. There is no doubt that, by the law as understood in Massachusetts, at least, the provisions of Revised Laws, chapter 112, section 72; Statutes, 1900, chapter 197, if they had been inserted in the charter in terms, would have bound the corporation, whether such requirements could be made constitutionally of an already existing corporation or not. The railroad company would have come into being and have consented to come into being subject to the liability and could not be heard to complain. (Rockport Water Co. v. Rockport, 181 Massachusetts, 279; Ashley

To prevent the infliction of some fractional and relatively small losses without protection of property are not to be pushed to a logical extreme, but must be taken as watered down to a degree, and that the great constitutional provisions for the protection of property are not to be pushed to a logical extreme, but must be taken to prevent the infliction of some fractional and relatively small losses without protection.

but because I am using the phrase would be that constitutional rights, like state court that the requirement may be justified under what common law is the local facts are not before us, and it follows that we can not say that the legislature could not have been justified in thus limiting its action. (Covington & Lexington Turnpike Road Co. v. Sanborn, 104 U. S., 578, 579, 598.) This is not to say that street railway companies are not subjected to a general law. (Atlantic Coast Line R. R. Co. v. North Carolina Corporation Commission, 206 U. S., 1, 24, 25.)

The objection that seems to me, as it seemed to the court below, most serious is that the statute unjustifiably appropriates the property of the plaintiff in error. It is hard to say that the railroad companies are not subjected to a loss. The conventional fare of 5 cents presumably is not more than a reasonable fare, and it is at least questionable whether street railway companies would be permitted to increase it on the ground of this burden. It is assumed by the statute in question that the ordinary fare may be charged for these children or some of them when not going to or from school. Whatever that fare, the statute fairly construed means that children going to or from school must be carried for half the sum that would be reasonable compensation for their carriage, if we looked only to the business aspect of the question. Moreover, while it may be true that in some cases rates or fares may be reduced to an unprofitable point in view of the business as a whole or upon special considerations (Minneapolis & St. Louis R. R. Co. v. Minnesota, 180 U. S., 250, 267), it is not enough to justify a general law like this, that the companies concerned still may be able to make a profit from other sources, for all that they may be

Notwithstanding the foregoing considerations, I hesitatingly agree with the state court that the requirement may be justified under what is called the "police power." The opposite way of stating this power in these terms is the express exception from the act of 1900 of the Boston Elevated Railway Company and the railways then owned, leased, or operated by it. But, in the first place, this was a legislative adjudication concerning a specific road, as in Wight v. Davidson (181 U. S., 371); not a general prospective classification, as in Martin v. District of Columbia (265 U. S., 135, 138). A general law must be judged by public facts, but a specific adjudication may depend upon things not judicially known. Therefore the law must be sustained on this point unless the facts offered in evidence clearly show that the exception cannot be upheld. But the local facts are not before us, and it follows that we cannot say that the legislature could not have been justified in thus limiting its action. (Covington & Lexington Turnpike Road Co. v. Sanborn, 104 U. S., 578, 579, 598.)

Speaking for myself alone, I think that there are considerations on the other side from the foregoing argument that make it unsafe not to discuss the validity of the regulation apart from the supposition that the plaintiff in error has succeeded. See W. W. Cargill Co. v. Minnesota (180 U. S., 452, 468). Therefore, I proceed to state my grounds for thinking the statute constitutional irrespective of my disabilities to object to its terms. The discrimination alleged is the express exception from the act of 1900 of the Boston Elevated Railway Company and the railways then owned, leased, or operated by it. But, in the first place, this was a legislative adjudication concerning a specific road, as in Wight v. Davidson (181 U. S., 371); not a general prospective classification, as in Martin v. District of Columbia (265 U. S., 135, 138). A general law must be judged by public facts, but a specific adjudication may depend upon things not judicially known. When, however, a general law is in question, it is not enough to justify a general law like this, that the companies concerned still may be able to make a profit from other sources, for all that they may be compensation, for some, at least, of the purposes of wholesome legislation. (Martin v. District of Columbia, 266 U. S. 156, 189; Comstock v. United States, 397 U. S. 518, 534.)

If the fourteenth amendment is not to be a greater hamper upon the established practices of the States in common with other Governments than I think was intended, they must be allowed a certain latitude in the minor adjustments of life, even though by their action the burdens of a part of the community are somewhat increased. The traditions and habits of centuries were not intended to be overthrown when the amendment was passed.

Education is one of the purposes for which what is called the "police power" may be exercised. (Barber v. Connolly, 113 U. S. 27, 31.) Massachusetts always has recognized it as one of the first objects of public care. It does not follow that it would be equally in accord with the conceptions at the base of our constitutional law to confer equal favors upon doctors or workmen or people who could afford to buy 1,000-mile tickets. Structural habits count for as much as logic in drawing the line. And, to return to the taking of property, the aspect in which I am considering the case, general taxation to maintain public schools is an appropriation of property to a use in which the taxpayer may have no private interest, and, it may be, against his will. It has been condemned by some theorists on that ground. Yet no one denies its constitutionality. People are accustomed to it and accept it without doubt.

The present requirement is not different in fundamental principle, although the tax is paid in kind and falls only on the class capable of paying that kind of tax—a class of quasi public corporations specially subject to legislative control. Thus the question narrows itself to the magnitude of the burden imposed—to whether the tax is so great as to exceed the limits of the police power. Looking at the law without regard to its special operation I should hesitate to assume that its total effect, direct and indirect, upon the roads outside of Boston amounted to a more serious burden than a change in the law of nuisance, for example, might be. See further Williams v. Parker (188 U. S. 491). Turning to the specific effect, the offer of proof was cautious. It was simply that a "considerable percentage" of the passengers carried by the company consisted of pupils of the public schools. This might be true without the burden becoming serious. I am not prepared to overrule the decision of the legislature and of the highest court of Massachusetts, that the requirement is reasonable under the conditions existing there, upon evidence that goes no higher than this. It is not enough that a statute goes to the verge of constitutionality. We must be able to see clearly that it goes beyond that power. In case of real doubt a law must be sustained.

Mr. Justice Harlan is of the opinion that the constitutionality of the act of 1800 is necessarily involved in the determination of this case. He thinks the act is not liable to the objection that it deprives the railway company of the equal protection of the laws. Nor does he think that it can be held, upon any showing made by this record, to be unconstitutional as depriving the plaintiff in error of its property without due process of law. Upon these grounds alone, and independent of any other question discussed, he joins in a judgment of affirmance. Judgment affirmed.
